LAND POLICE REF IS WOUNDED FIRST DAY OF TERM

Brothers Escape Following Battle With Officers Tuesday Night

SECOND OFFICER HIT

On the first day of his service as police of Wayland, Ben Whitaker's right leg was broken by a bullet said to have been fired early Tuesday night by Ern Bradley, of an attempt to arrest Bradley two of his brothers, Woodrow and Deputy Policeman Kirtley's was snatched and County Patrolman Bill Sanders, of Estill, was over the head with a revolver was said. High broken by a .44-calibre Policeman Whitaker was taken to the Paintsville hospital in the presence of G. D. Ryan. The Bradleys escaped from the scene shooting and had not been arrested Wednesday morning.

The wounded officer is quoted as saying that when he opened the door of the Wayland theater at the first show he saw Ern Bradley and another man in an argument and that Bradley had his revolver in his hand. When he told them to put away their guns, he said, he struck him over the head with the revolver and fired as the officer of the weapon was pushed by the officer. The crowd had gathered at the theater for the appearance of a group of boys from a radio station, and through sheer luck one of the bullets which went wild went into the crowd. Police Whitaker will remain at the hospital. He was said at the hospital. He was said at the hospital. He was said at the hospital.

Forcie Sturgill has returned from the hospital, where she spent the night with her parents. She was said at the hospital. He was said at the hospital.

MRS. BRANHAM DIES AT MAYTOWN JAN. 2

Mrs. Joe Branham, 33 years old, died January 1 at her home on Turkey Creek, near Maytown, after a month's illness. The daughter of the late Henry Beverly, she was born and reared in the community in which she died and was known as one of the county's best women.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Branham is survived by five children, her mother and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. M. H. Staley, Lackey; Mrs. Ted Gibson, Sog and Ballard Dudley, of Maytown.

Funeral rites were conducted Jan. 2 from the home, the Revs. M. C. Wright and Marion Chafins, of the Regular Baptist Church, of which the deceased was a devout member, officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery under the direction of G. D. Ryan.

Prestonsburg Woman's Letter Wins P. & G. Prize

Mrs. Wilbur G. Stiles, of Prestonsburg, was notified by the Blackman Advertising Company of a special award by Proctor and Gamble for a letter entered in a Crisco contest. The contest closed some time ago and all prizes advertised were awarded at that time, so this special award came as a complete surprise.

A second letter from H. Brummel, department of public relations for Proctor and Gamble, stated that the letter was scheduled for broadcast Thursday, January 9, and the prize check would be in the mail by that time.

This is the second cash prize to be won by Mrs. Stiles in national contests within the last year.

CHILDERS AND BAILEY TAKE OATH OF OFFICE

Guy E. Childers and Harold Bailey Monday took the oath of office as members of the Floyd county board of education and on the same day the first meeting of the new board of education was held.

The board as it now stands is composed of Childers and Bailey, Dr. Dewey Osborne, Harry Baisden and Townsel Combs. Mr. Combs is chairman of the board.

ACTION ON NAMING OF POLICE PASSES

Council In Meeting Monday Night Removes Exist- Differences

Threat of litigation following the appointment by the new city council at its December 27 meeting of three new policemen for Prestonsburg was removed Monday evening when the council met and ironed out existing differences.

The result was that the council's appointment of W. A. Wills as chief of police, Arthur Blackburn, Will Spradlin and Irvin Ford as deputies stood unchanged. Tuesday morning, the new police force began work. Mr. Ford is the only incumbent on the force.

License fees on mechanical music devices used in business places here was changed from the straight $20 levy on each machine to $30 on the first and $5 for each succeeding machine.

Cal Clarke was appointed city treasurer to complete the roster of city officials.

PAST MASTERS OF LODGE PAID HONOR

Zebulon Lodge Joined By Other Lodge Members In Annual Function

Living past masters of Zebulon lodge, Free and Accepted Masons, were feted, the dead masters of the lodge paid tribute, at the annual past masters' banquet held by the lodge at the Auxier hotel here Monday night.

Masons from the local lodge and from lodges of other counties composed one of the largest gatherings ever to attend this annual function. Alex H. Spradlin, one of the lodge's past masters, presided as toastmaster and presented a program ranging from delightful vocal music to interesting addresses and talks dealing with Masonry and past grand masters of Zebulon lodge.

Speakers were John M. Yost, C. P. Hudson, Ed Wells, H. P. Carney, Walter P. Walters and Newton Horn, of Thomas C. C. Cecil lodge, Pikeville; talks on departed past masters by W. M. Dingus, F. D. Short, N. M. White, Jr., M. H. Blevins, E. E. Clarke, A. H. Spradlin; biographies of living past masters by W. M. Dingus, W. H. Jones, Jr.; addresses by H. F. Patton, Richard Spurlock, Dr. A. J. Davidson and B. M. James.

Mrs. C. P. Stephens, Mrs. Fitzpatrick James and Miss Dorothy Davis formed a vocal trio which added materially to the enjoyment of the evening.

SPINAL MENINGITIS QUARANTINE LIFTED

Danger Of Further Spread Of Malady At Weeks- bury Believed Past

Quarantine established in the Caleb Fork section of Weeksbury following the recent outbreak of spinal meningitis there was lifted Monday, Dr. Marvin Ransdell, director of the Floyd county health department, announced Tuesday.

Danger of further spread of the disease has passed, it was stated. Last case to develop was that of a person who became ill December 24, and any other spread of the malady would have occurred, ere this, Dr. Ransdell said. The incubation period of meningitis, it was pointed out, is from two to 14 days, with the average being within nine or 10 days.

Though the quarantine, during which armed guards were stationed at the entrance to Caleb Fork and at the homes of victims of the disease, has been lifted, the Weeksbury schools will not re-open until next Monday.

One case of scarlet fever is reported at Drift, and two families there are under quarantine, Dr. Ransdell said.

SERMON INTERRUPTED BY PARALYTIC STROKE

Elder Hiram Hall, veteran minister of the Regular Baptist Church, suffered a paralytic stroke while preaching Sunday from the pulpit of Joppa Church on Left Beaver Creek. The left side of his body paralyzed, his condition Monday was critical.

Members of the congregation saw the minister suddenly clutch at the edge of the pulpit, then crumple to the floor. He was removed to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Hobart Gearheart, at Melvin.

Receive Appointments

Miss Maurine Mayo leaves this week for Frankfort, where she will be employed in the office of State Treasurer John E. Buckingham. G. B. Carter, of Glo, was recently appointed as an assistant in the office of State Auditor Ernest E. Shannon. J. M. Davidson, Prestonsburg, who received the same appointment, said this week he had decided not to accept.

MRS. MARY STRATTON IS CALLED BY DEATH AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. Mary Adeline Layne Stratton, widow of the late A. J. Stratton, died Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Josie Cecil, Betsy Layne, at the age of 71 years. Death came after an illness of about two years.

The daughter of the late Moses S. and Serena Clark Layne, Mrs. Stratton was born Feb. 14, 1864, and was a lifelong resident of the Betsy Layne community. She was a member of one of the county's largest and best-known families and was one of this section's best women.

Surviving Mrs. Stratton are five daughters and one son: Mrs. Nellie Crum, of Cliff; Mrs. Dora Cecil, Mrs. Anna Neeley, all of Tram; Mrs. Joda Gunnell, of Emma, and John Stratton, of Tram. Two sons preceded her in death. She also leaves five brothers and four sisters: Mrs. Alwilda Darby, Catlettsburg; Mrs. Patience Caldwell, Catlettsburg; L. D., John, James and Morgan Layne and Mrs. Ora Baisden, Mrs. Jenny Caldwell, all of Betsy Layne, and Elbert Layne, of Tram. Thirty-eight grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral rites were conducted Sunday by the Rev. Isaac Stratton, assisted by Rev. Walter Collins, from the home of Mrs. Anna Neeley, and burial was made in the family cemetery at Tram under the direction of E. P. Arnold.

SWIFT DEATH FOR SALES TAX SEEN

Governor Chandler Pre- pares To Fulfill Cam- paign Promises

Opening of the 1936 General Assembly session was marked by swiftly dramatic preparations for the passage of legislation promised by Governor A. B. Chandler during the three campaigns he waged last fall, the unexpected death of W. B. O'Connell on the day following his induction into office as Clerk of the Court of Appeals, and by a reported rift between Governor Chandler and Garth K. Ferguson, Commissioner of Agriculture.

Earlier in the week Governor Chandler announced that the first bill to be introduced by the administration would be for a compulsory primary election law. He also announced that the administration would not be content to let the Sales Tax die a natural death with the expiration of the present law June 30 but would, instead, ask for its immediate repeal, with an emergency clause making its repeal effective as soon as it is passed and signed.

The Legislature opened with Governor Chandler in full control of the situation. Senate and House caucuses Monday night resulted in quick organization of both branches of the Assembly, with J. E. Wise, Elizabethtown, named president pro-tem of the Senate; Clarence E. Nickell, Nicholasville, Senate caucus chairman; John Kirtley, speaker of the House, and B. F. Shields, floor leader.

The reported rift between the Governor and the Commissioner of Agriculture is said to have resulted from the Governor's naming of all appointive members of the state board of agriculture after the old board had met with Commissioner Ferguson and named Eugene Flowers, former Commissioner of Agriculture, as secretary of the state fair.

WHEELWRIGHT NEGRO VICTIM OF GUNFIRE

Ill-feeling arising, it is said, at a negro party at Wheelwright Saturday night culminated Sunday in the fatal shooting of J. D. Thompson, negro, by Dave "Popcorn" Miller, a member of his own race.

The bullet struck the negro in the side and emerged at the base of his neck on the other side of his body. The slayer was arrested by Policemen Con Cheek and Gus Little (and wounded J. D. Thompson Monday.

CAUDILL DROPS INTENSIVE PROB- INTO VIOLATION

Turner Named Grand Jur- Foreman; 3 Charged With Murder

INDICTMENTS LISTED

Circuit court opened here Monday morning with Judge John W. Caudill's instructions to the grand jury covering various phases of crime prevalent in the county which directed the jury to make intensive investigation into law violations.

J. M. Turner, Wayland, was named foreman of the grand jury. Other members of the jury are Henry Akers, E. B. Pratt, Mrs. Flora Prater, Green Howard, Jeff Ward, John "Cat" Calhoun, Joe Lykins, A. B. Osborne, Mrs. Cat Howard, Hawley Warrens and Mrs. Bessie Brown.

At the conclusion of the grand jury's work Tuesday afternoon the following indictments for major offenses had been returned:

Dave Miller, negro, murder of D. Thompson, negro, at Wheelwright, bond set at $3,000.

Dud Hicks, murder by stabbing, Charlie Marsillet, $5,000 bond required.

Ethel Slaughter, Wheelwright, gross, murder of Sarah Shears, negro, stabbing.

Fred Bates, malfeasance in office, charged with collecting from Carl Allen $15 in consideration of Allen's release from the Garrett jail. Bates was a deputy constable at the time, the indictment stated, and Allen was released without trial.

Bill May, malicious shooting and wounding with intent to kill Guy Hall at Wayland, bond of $2,000 asked.

Willie Clifton and Charles Compton, grand larceny, alleged theft of Ernest Reynolds' auto.

Rod Baker, malicious shooting and wounding with intent to kill Willie Cole, $3,000 bond required.

Curtis Bentley, grand larceny, alleged theft of $20 from Troy Hall.

Dick Keathley, hog stealing from Charley Clark.

Frank Spradlin, of Bonanza, Bill Goble, of Cow Creek, and Frank Kidd, of Mud Creek, were named jury commissioners for the year by Judge Caudill. They were directed by Judge Caudill to place in the jury drum and wheel case the names of at least 500 "sober, discreet citizens and housekeepers of Floyd county," for jury service during this year. The circuit clerk was directed to furnish the jury commissioners a complete list of persons who have rendered jury service within the last 12 months.

91-YEAR-OLD WOMAN SUCCUMBS FOLLOWING STROKE OF PARALYSIS

Following a paralytic stroke at 3 o'clock Monday morning, Mrs. Hettie Surger, 91 years old, died at 8 A. M. on the following day at the home on Town Branch, across the river from here, of her daughter, Mrs. Ida Woods.

Mrs. Surger had resided with her daughter here for the last seven years, and had many friends in this vicinity. She came here from Gray Ky., where she was a charter member of Calvary United Baptist Church. She was born July 14, 1844.

Surviving Mrs. Surger are sons and two daughters: John Surger, Harlan, Ky.; Sid Surger, Balkin, Ky.; Mrs. Ida Woods, Prestonsburg, and Mrs. Josh Hubbard, man, Ky.; one sister, Mrs. Spitzer, Farriston, Ky., and brother, Robert Stansbury, 1 ton. She also leaves 46 grandchildren, 50 great-grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

The body was taken to Gray Wednesday morning in the car of E. P. Arnold, and funeral were conducted from Calvary there Wednesday afternoon, burial following in the family cemetery.

Wilson for Earlier War? Prayer Plus Planes New Disease Danger Ethiopian Victory?

Arthur Brisbane leader of the house.

How deep should we have sunk in our depression if Woodrow Wilson had carried out his alleged plan and started the war one year ahead of time, in 1916?

How many millions of Americans would have been killed (they were always honored with front row places)? How many tens of billions would have been added to the public debt and the repudiated debts of Europe?

The archbishop of Canterbury, head of the official Church of England, has invited all European Christian communions to join in prayer for peace, with resolutions outlawing all war.

While the archbishop takes that desirable step the British government works rapidly on 8,000 airplanes of the fighting kind. Nothing like airplanes to back up eloquent prayer for peace.

Doctor Curran, in charge of insects for the American Museum of Natural History, warns New York it may be invaded by malaria brought into northern New Jersey by a CCC camp worker from the South.

Halle Selassie's fighting Gen. Dejazmach Hailu Kebede sends cheerful news to his royal master:

"We fought and beat the Italians from dawn to dusk; 200 Italian white soldiers, twenty Italian officers, killed. Cannon, bombs and innumerable batteries of machine guns made murderous concert against us, but God protected your humble Christian soldiers, and the Lion of Judah was victorious."

Ethiopians persist in their theory that they are the only Christians in the world. They say the Italians are Catholics, therefore not Christians, which would amuse the Italians, if they had time for amusement.

Rome calls the General Dejazmach dispatch "customary Ethiopian inaccuracy."

Former Governor Alfred E. Smith, booked for a big political talk in Washington, D. C., and invited by Mrs. Roosevelt to stop at the White House during his stay in Washington, declines the invitation, explaining that he will have too big a crowd with him.

Politicians do not think that the only reason. They expect Governor Smith to "cut loose" and say things about the administration that would not come gracefully from a White House guest.

OSTRICH university is located in one of the nation's largest cities. The name was bestowed because the seat of learning always is adorned with fine feathers while the head ducks under cover whenever danger threatens—but probably there is no sense in mentioning that here.

"What," said the most celebrated of O. U. Deans (a gentleman who, by the way, is just as dizzy even though he does not toss for the Cards). "Copy those Southern colleges by being honest about the aid we give to athletics? He glanced sternly at the other members of the faculty assembled in solemn conclave. "Why, it's preposterous, isn't it, Mr. Yessir?"

"Yessir," answered Mr. Yessir who, of course, was faculty member of the athletic committee. "Why they don't know nothing. It's just them wild-eyed radicals. Why they ain't got a thing on us. Why—"

But since there are so many institutions of higher education which continue as pure as the driven snow (beneath the railroad tracks) so far as athletics are concerned, the reporter does not wish to single out one university. He merely wishes today to offer some case history for the benefit of any eminent educator who continues to ask why—

This Lad Was Willing to Earn an Education

CASE A.—A young infielder reported to the Giants. His face seemed familiar but his name did not check. He explained to the reporter that he had used an alias while playing football for one of the best publicized of Eastern Siwashes.

"I was," he said, "a pretty fair athlete as early as my second year in high school (in a Pennsylvania mining town). I wanted an education and saw no reason why I should not earn it with my ability to play games. So I picked out the best offer from those made by eight colleges.

"They sent me to a good prep school for two years and then I entered the university. Your paper was one of those that got excited about the way I was scoring touchdowns for the Freshmen. Still I wasn't satisfied. I wanted an education and football took so much time I had little opportunity for study. I kept thinking about that.

"Since I was sure to be a regular next year, the varsity men took an interest in me. They told me not to worry, that I could skip all classes and still get 'B's' in my subjects so long as I continued to run for long gains.

"Still I wasn't satisfied. So when I heard that the Blue Ridge League baseball club I was playing with had sold me to the N. Y. P. League (an organization with a higher salary limit), I quit. I decided to make my living out of professional baseball instead of out of amateur football.

Athlete Can Sell Out to the Highest Bidder

"I'm not kicking. They treated me swell and—what's that? Sure, the coach knew that I had played professional baseball. When I was still in prep school the coach persuaded that Blue Ridge League club to hire me."

CASE B.—A now famous hockey player was a versatile schoolboy athlete in his native Canada. The representative of a big-time Eastern Siwash showed him how he could get a good education free of charge by entering a selected American prep school and preparing for the Eastern Siwash. Naturally he was to exercise due care in learning how to play the great American game of football while being educated at the prep school.

Everything was lovely until he was ready for college. Then he learned that the coach at the Eastern Siwash had accepted a higher salary at a distant university. Naturally the coach wanted company and offered some fancy inducements, but the athlete refused to go so far away from home.

"Within a week after that I had offers from 16 colleges," the athlete says. "He (the coach) had passed the word around that he had withdrawn his claim to me and that I was a free agent."

CASE C.—A small, unheralded college upset a famous Eastern team in an inter-sectional contest. Several days later I was talking with the coach of another noted Eastern team. He had been a teammate of the small college coach, called Bill.

"You know the Boss (the correct name is that of the famous coach for whom they had played) is good to us chaps breaking in," he remarked. "Take the way Smith and Jones (the names are not correct) cleaned up last Saturday. Well I could have had them two weeks ago.

"The Boss had them all lined up for the alma mater but he's got so much material this year he couldn't conveniently use them and they didn't want to wait. So he offered to let me have them cheap. Of course, it was kind of late in the term but I was just about to wire him okay when Bill came through town.

"Bill needed a couple of ready-made backs for his big Eastern shawing and you know the Boss always was kind hearted. So—" The coach laughed. "Funny, isn't it," he said. "Here Smith and Jones win a big game for Bill and probably get him a new contract and yet they've never been within 1,000 miles of Bill's campus."

Yeah, the reporter agreed, it probably was just as funny as anything Havelock Ellis or Sigmund Freud ever had written, while trying to get down to cases without using names. But since he did not wish to offend the august faculty members of Ostrich university he did not add why.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

The Lord's Shock Troops WESTWOOD, HILLS, CAL.

—In peace: I knew streets in New York where citizens went at their own risk, and policemen walked in pairs. But some were as safe as though they'd been in church—a doctor with his kit; a nurse in her uniform; a priest or a nun; a preacher or a rabbi, and always a Salvation Army worker.

In war: Ask any veteran what organization, no matter how big its personnel, or how fat its purse, outdid the Salvation Army in service to our soldiers, whatsoever the race or the creed or the color.

At Christmas: Who sent Santa down cold chimneys to gladden the hearts of children at hearthstones that otherwise would be desolate? Who brought a measure of holiday cheer to the misery-laden, putting clothes on the backs and dinners in the stomachs of the naked and the hungry?

So, for their eleventh-hour drive for their Christmas fund, thank God for the Salvation Army. Every cent went where it should have gone when you gave it to them, for verily I tell you, as one who knows, these are the shock troops of the Lord.

That Marvelous Hen

WHATEVER became of the hen which from time to time hauled off and laid an egg with mysterious titling on it? In my days on a country newspaper this gifted fowl was a regular journalistic feature. Her output might be soft-shelled and shy a yolk, but always the cryptic writing was there.

Once she produced an egg bearing letters which many translated as prophesying "war." But somebody pointed out that if you read the message the other way it spelt "raw," which also seemed to cover the case.

This barnyard phenomenon died too soon. How the New Deal boys could use a hen capable of turning out weird alphabetical combinations and then going off and forgetting them!

Afterthought—Among all the office seekers or office holders who have been or may be mentioned for a Presidential nomination next year—or even for Vice President—you will search in vain for the name of Governor Hoffman of New Jersey.

Destroying a Skunk

I'VE just been reading—until I stopped to gag—the latest novel of one of the new school of authors; you know, those so-called realists who mistake filth for fiction and lewdness for literature. I wouldn't say this person was much of a writer, but he certainly is a practical dirt-farmer.

I've never believed in censorship for creative work; and as regards this group, I've always gone on the theory, paraphrasing an old line of an old ballad, that they were more to be pitied than censored.

But for the individual offender against common decency—well, when I was a youngster down South, they told me the surest way to destroy a skunk was to pen him under a barrel and just let him smell himself to death on his own personal perfumes.

Our Younger Generation.

IN THE paper I see where, for their Sunday sermons, three ministers preached on modern youth—with particular references to the shortcomings of same.

I haven't a doubt that the first caveman, surveying the antics of his coltish brood, remarked in tones of gloomy resignation to his hairy mate: "Well, mommer, the world's done pretty well while we ran it. Look at the hole in the roof to let the smoke out, that I thought up right out of my own head, be-gee! And now when I get the trick of this new throwing-stick worked out, civilization will just about have reached her peak. But heaven help the poor old earth when that bunch of crazy kids yonder takes hold!"

Before we start blaming the oncoming generation for everything, including its own sins, which are sufficiently manifest already, let's go back to where this buck-passing habit started. Let's go back to Adam, the derved old experimentalist!

Man Must Know Creative Power to Master Himself

Man is buffeted by circumstances so long as he believes himself to the creature of outside conditions but when he realizes that he is creative power, and that he may command the hidden soil and seeds of his being out of which circumstances grow, he then becomes the rightful master of himself.—James Allen.

No Need to Suffer "Morning Sickness"

"Morning sickness"—is caused by an acid condition. To avoid it, acid must be offset by alkalis—such as magnesium.

Why Physicians Recommend Milnesia Wafers

These mint-flavored, candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia in solid form—the most pleasant way to take it. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly, then swallowed, they correct acidity in the mouth and throughout the digestive system and insure quick, complete elimination of the waste matters that cause gas, headaches, bloated feelings and a dozen other discomforts.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48, at 35c and 60c respectively, and in convenient tins for your handbag containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately one adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores sell and recommend them.

Start using these delicious, effective anti-acid, gently laxative wafers today

Gas Pressure May Cause Discomfort, Right Side Best

If you toss in bed and can't sleep on right side, try Adlerika. Just ONE dose relieves stomach GAS pressing on head so you sleep soundly all night.

Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels and brings out foul matter you would never believe was in your system. This old matter may have poisoned you for months and caused GAS, stomach, headache or nervousness.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, reports "In addition to intestinal cleansing Adlerika greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli."

Mrs. Jas. Filler: "Gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. My heart hurt. The first dose of Adlerika brought me relief. Now I eat and sleep fine and never feel better. Give your stomach and bowels cleansing with Adlerika and you'll feel good you feel. Just ONE dose of GAS and chronic constipation by all druggists and druggists."

WE NEED RELIEF

Work of the Kentucky Public Service Commission has recently been particularly beneficial to the public in various parts of the state, and the Commission has an excellent opportunity to be of further service. Of service to the people of Prestonsburg, for instance.

The gas rate in Prestonsburg is 40 cents per thousand cubic feet. At Bosco, 30 miles away, the rate is exactly half that figure. In Huntington, a hundred miles removed from this field which supplies that city gas, the rate is 28 cents.

Then by what possible line of reasoning can anybody arrive at the decision that the Prestonsburg gas rate is justifiable or just?

Can it be claimed that Prestonsburg's gas rate is higher too few to permit of a reduced rate, such as is enjoyed by Huntington—that the maintenance and other costs to the gas company per consumer are too high?

Then what of the Bosco rate? Bosco's population is only a fraction of Prestonsburg's.

Can it be claimed that Prestonsburg's gas rate is higher than that of Bosco because the gas is piped farther? Then what of Huntington, a hundred miles away?

No, there's no argument.

That's the rub—we've never raised an argument about this matter. We've just gone ahead and paid. The Times, however, contributes this as an argument-starter, and trusts officials and citizens of the town will take up the fight present our case to the Public Service Commission. It is together probable that justice might be done.

MISS CLEDO TO BE AT UNIQUE

Tuesday and Wednesday of next week Cleo, internationally known mentalist, will be seen at The Unique Theatre in connection with John Bowles and Dixie Lee in "Red Heads On Parade" on the screen.

Miss Cleo, of whom Einstein said: "Ask Cleo - she knows", will answer all questions asked by the audience, including questions relating to love marriage, divorce, investments and finance. She will tell you what you want to know.

This prophetic wonder of two continents boldly predicts that the Soldiers' Bonus is going to be paid by an act of congress within the next three weeks. She says that Franklin D. Roosevelt will be re-elected as President of the United States in November of this year, and that Ethiopia will defeat Italy in the war now raging in Africa.

Miss Cleo's mental powers have amazed audiences the world over. She was the first prognosticator to predict that the Prince of Wales would ascend to the throne of England while still a bachelor, and that he would meet a violent death without leaving an heir to the throne.

Her performances at the local theatre will enable local people to ask questions about the past, present and future, and have them answered with an assurance that can be relied upon.

This unusual attraction is to be brought to The Unique Theatre at no advance in prices, and Manager Boyd says it is one of the outstanding attractions of 1936.

HOW WOMEN CAN WIN MEN AND MEN WIN

The Favor of Other Men

Unless two pints of bile juice flow daily from your liver into your bowels, your food decays in your bowels. This poisons your whole body. Movements get hard and constipated. You get yellow tongue, red, low skin, pimples, dull eyes, bad breath, bad taste, gas, dizziness, headache. You have become an ugly-looking, foul-smelling, sour-thinking person. You have lost your personal charm. Everybody wants to run from you. But don't take salts, mineral waters, oils, laxative pills, laxative candies or chewing gums and expect them to get rid of this poison that destroys your personal charm. They can't do it, for they only move out the tail end of your bowels and that doesn't take away enough of the decayed poison. Sometimes won't help at all. Only a free flow of your bile juice will stop this decay poison in your bowels. The one mild vegetable medicine which starts a free flow of your bile juice is Carter's Little Liver Pills. ### SYNOPSIS

Alan Garth, prospector, is preparing to leave for his mining claim in the North, a plane lands at the airway emergency station. In it are Bert Ramill, millionaire mining magnate; his daughter, Lilith; and Vivian Huxby, pilot and mining engineer. Believing him to be only an ignorant prospector, the men offer to make an air trip to Garth's claim, although they refer to his samples of platinum-bearing ore as "worthless." Lilith Ramill, product of the jazz age, plainly shows contempt for Garth. Through Garth's guidance the plane soon reaches the claim site. Huxby and Ramill, after making several tests, assure Garth his claim is fairly valueless, but to "encourage" mining prospectors they are willing to give a chance in investing a small amount. Sensing treachery ahead, Garth secretly removes a part from the motor of the plane. Huxby and Lilith taunt Garth, but their tone soon changes when they try to start the plane. Turning to show they try to force Garth to give up the missing part. Garth manages to set the monoplane adrift and the current carries it over the falls. He points out that he is their only hope in guiding them out of the wilderness. Garth begins the work of preparing for the long journey. He insists that the others help. Ramill and his daughter must be hardened for the hardships ahead in their trek to the outpost on the Mackenzie.

CHAPTER IV

The Whip Hand.

The girl licked her fingers and turned to stare covetously at the pieces of moose dangling in the smudge-fire smoke. She spoke to Garth almost civilly:

"I've no need to rest like Dad. Do I have to wait for another piece?"

"Certainly not. But you'll let the cook-fire go out. Keep this one going, and you can use it. Better cut another spit. Mind the knife edge, if you don't want to lose a finger."

She showed she could be deft enough when she chose. One stroke of the knife hacked off a willow twig, two cuts sharpened the end. Grasping the bottom of the uncut second liver, she sliced up lengthwise, all the way to the rawhide thong. She poked the green wood from the near edge of the fire, piled on dry sticks, and crouched down to hold her spit over the blaze.

Garth had at once begun to make catgut. It would be needed to sew the moccasins. He was intently at work, and the girl was still more intently eyeing her meat, when Huxby came striding between the spruces.

The once elegant engineer was smeared with mud from his midbody down to where the rock-milk water of the ford had drenched the bog slime from his shoes and leather aviator trousers. Snags had scratched his flying jacket and even torn through one sleeve.

All his bare face and neck were a mass of mosquito-bite marks and the bleeding wounds of the insects. The skin had already turned red and discolored.

Noting the man's condition, Huxby slipped up his rifle. Even the engineer, calculating schemer that he was, glanced into crazed violence.

Huxby glanced up from her rifle, uttered a startled cry, and pointed to start at Huxby.

"What, Vivian, what's happened? Like something the cat ate?"

"D-d-pests," Huxby cursed, shaking her head. "Hey, you airplane pilot, get me a drink. Jump lively!"

"Put up your rifle. No, don't reach for your pistol. I'll wing you.—That's how hold them there while Mr. Ramill takes your pistol. I've had enough of your threatening."

The millionaire looked at Garth's cool gray eyes, and heaved himself upon his feet to shuffle around behind Huxby's shoulder. He pulled open the leather jacket and drew the automatic pistol from its high-slung sheath, holding the butt forward, he brought the weapon to Garth.

"Keep it yourself," Garth told him. "You can give it back to him soon as he gets over this fly madness. There's your headnet, Huxby. Better stand in the smoke till you get it on."

The tormented man first ran to lie on the rill bank. Between deep gulches, he doused his bitten face in a bucket of water and dashed the gratefully cool water over the back of his neck. The water stopped, the pests buzzed again. He ran to the smoky fire without stopping for a moment.

The first time since Garth had seen Ramill, she showed consideration for someone else than herself. A piece of liver had been cut out for her to eat. She tore a piece and gave half to her fiancé.

"Good, Vivian. Try it. You're famished."

Expected graciousness calmed Ramill's crazed mind.

"Lilith—you roasted this yourself. It will taste doubly delicious."

"A laugh. 'But I couldn't stand out of your mouth.'"

"Cook more. There's plenty."

He laid a mat of willow foliage, sliced up what was left of the second liver, and started off with Ramill.

Though at first stiff, the millionaire did not get out of breath so quickly as before. This was an encouraging sign. That easy climb to the claim and the fast return had been violent exercise for the mine investor. He could not have recovered so soon if his heart had been bad.

But when he opened his cigar case, Garth interposed.

"You have only four left, sir. Better hold them back to taper off gradually. This change of diet is going to jolt you hard enough. No wine or whiskey, either."

Mr. Ramill walked along quite a distance with the cigar case open, his face impassive inside the mosquito gauze of the headnet. When at last he looked up, he closed the cigar case and handed it to Garth. "You're the doctor."

Garth put the case in his shirt pocket.

"All right, sir. You'll get them when they'll do you the most good—and you'll get them all."

Again Mr. Ramill walked along with his gaze on the ground. They were near the muskeg swamp before he looked up. He turned his shrewd gaze upon Garth, and spoke with blunt directness: "What's your game?"

"My game?"

"Yes. We may as well settle this now as later. Don't tell me you haven't some big scheme in mind. You guessed we meant to cast off and leave you holding the sack. Otherwise you wouldn't have taken that key part from the plane motor."

Garth chuckled. "Did you ever outwit a fox, corner a pack of wolves, or trap a crafty old bear?"

The ruddy face of the millionaire purpled. "What is the connection?"

"Nothing invidious," Garth assured him. "I had in mind only the fun of the game."

"So? Well, young man, it has already been admitted that you've so far taken all the tricks. I gave you credit for more sense, however, than you showed when you cast loose the plane."

Garth Lifted His Rifle. "Put Up Your Hands."

You had no need to walk up like a dupe and permit Vivian to get the drop on you. Easy enough for you to've come out of cover with your rifle up. Don't tell me you'd rather travel afoot to the Mackenzie than fly out in a plane."

"That depends, sir. Perhaps I did not wish to part company with you so soon. Over at the river, I could of course have invited myself to fly out to Fort Smith with you. But that would hardly have given us time to get acquainted. As it is, in the weeks of close companionship to come we may even learn to be friends."

Mr. Ramill frowned. "Is that a taunt, or maudlin sob stuff?"

"Neither."

"Then what's your game? If you think, after marooning us here in these d-d wilds, you can win our friendship or gratitude by guiding us out, you're a sadly mistaken young man."

Garth agreed. "It would be a stupid mistake to expect anything decent from you or your daughter or Huxby. But think what fun I've already had, facing that pistol and telling Huxby he dared not use it."

"Fun? You must be crazy!"

"Not at all, I had him sized up. The game was to let him think he had me trapped, then give him the laugh."

The big man chewed on this. "That's clear enough. But why wreck the plane? Will your next joke be to walk off and leave us to starve?"

"Does it look that way? Two moose make a deal of eating."

squall shrieked into a shriek that nipped off into silence.

When Mr. Ramill rather hesitatingly followed Garth to the hanging legs of moose, he saw a three-foot, stub-tailed wildcat with black-tufted ears lying under a torn shoulder of moose meat. A second cat, slightly larger, had leaped several yards away before dropping.

Garth drew his knife. "Only a pair of lynx. Not much for two shots. We haven't any cartridges to throw away. But we can use the skins, and the meat will make a change from moose."

He flayed the bodies, bagged the best cuts of meat in the skins, and hung them high. The next move was to see if Mr. Ramill could pack the hide of the cow moose. He made a game attempt to walk off under it, but at once began to stagger. Garth relieved him of the load, and in place of it gave him one of the bagged lynx skins. He himself bagged one of the bull moose quarters in the cowhide and heaved it upon his back.

They came back to the camp with Mr. Ramill panting and sweating. Garth swung lightly ahead of him. He slipped off his heavy pack and stood looking at the idle couple on the rill bank. They had eaten their fill of liver, and stretched out to rest. No smoke was rising from the embers of the smudge-fire. Flies were beginning to cluster on the moose tongues and other meat.

The girl met his look with contemptuous indifference. Huxby stared with bloodshot hostility from between his swollen eyelids.

Instead of speaking to the couple, Garth addressed the girl's father as he relieved him of the lynx pack:

"As I remember, sir, I told Miss Ramill she could cook on the smudge-fire if she kept it going. I will say now that I do not intend to shoot any more meat until use is made of what we have. There are none too many rifle cartridges. If the three of you prefer rotten, maggoty meat, I'll go you to the last mouthful. I've lived for weeks at a time on spoiled fish and rotten walrus."

Huxby's face and neck were as swollen and sore as if covered with boils. His temper was no less sore. "You're the one who put us in this fix, you wood louse!"

Garth gave him a pitying look. "That's the fly venom talking. No cool, calculating schemer in his right senses would ask for trouble when his hands were tied. I might point out, however, that the venom was due to your haste in trying to—uh—appropriate my discovery claim."

"That's a lie. You cast the plane adrift. I was stung while trying to save it. Curse the luck! I came within an ace of reaching the snagged line. Almost had it, when the plane dragged it loose and went down over those hellish falls!"

"I might remind you that you ordered me to cast off the line—at the point of your pistol."

The thrust proved too much for Huxby. He sat silent. Garth went on with his quiet argument:

"All that is now past history. We're more concerned with the present and future. Mr. Ramill has shown his common sense by facing the facts of the situation. He has fallen into line. The question is, do you and Miss Ramill throw in with us, or do you go on your own? If with us, I'm to be chief. How about it?"

Huxby had cooled down enough to see the point. "You win. I join up."

Miss Ramill looked puzzled and a bit alarmed. "What's the great idea, Vivian?"

"Very simple, my dear. He has the whip hand. He is boss. We must obey his orders, or we'll never get back to civilization."

"Oh! The despicable, cowardly—" She met Garth's cool gaze and fell silent.

He nodded. "You'll begin by rebuilding that fire. After that you'll cook the other liver for your father and yourself. You will then start graining the hair off the moosehides while Huxby and your father go back for more meat."

"I will do no such thing!"

"Very well. That means you get no moccasins to replace your boots when those flimsy soles wear through on the rocks."

She flared: "Gallant Sir Galahad!"

"Leave her be, Garth," her father interposed. "I'll tend the fire and scrape the skins."

"No. Lie down. Whenever you work, it's to be on your feet. We must build up both your wind and your muscle. Huxby, I'll ask you to fetch that pot and the gold pan."

The mining engineer rose and started up towards the trough without a word of inquiry or protest. Miss Ramill's eyes widened. She gazed wonderingly from him to her father. Mr. Ramill had no less obediently lain down as ordered.

Garth ignored the girl. He chopped deep notches in the trunks of the food-cache birch trees, about seven feet high. He then cut saplings to span across from tree to tree, with wedges in the notches. The next move was to fetch a number of poles.

When he returned, smoke was billowing up to drive the flies from the moose tongues and muffs. Miss Ramill had rebuilt the smudge-fire and taken down the liver, ready for slicing. She gazed up at him, stormy-eyed, ready to flare if he had shown the slightest flicker of amusement or gloating.

Instead, he gave her a curt nod of acknowledgment, laid his knife beside the liver, and turned to space the poles across the sapling framework to make a grill above the smudge. Upon this he laid the moose leg and the pieces of lynx meat.

Huxby came back from the discovery stake with the gold pan and little aluminum pot. He stared in surprise at sight of Miss Ramill cooking the liver. She shrugged her slim shoulders, and drew back from the fire to give one spit to her father. After that she silently offered the other to Garth.

"Thank you," he said. "Let me suggest that you now fill the gold pan with water and slice into it one of the muffs. They don't look promising. But if simmered for a day or two, a single moose muzzel will give us several delicious meals of what might be called asplic jelly."

This won no sign of interest from the girl. She was no longer hungry. Garth ignored her silence.

"After starting that dish, you may cook as much more of the liver as your father can eat. He will keep on resting while Huxby and I go for another load of moose meat. The sooner we pack all to camp, the surer we will be that other mouths do not get away with it."

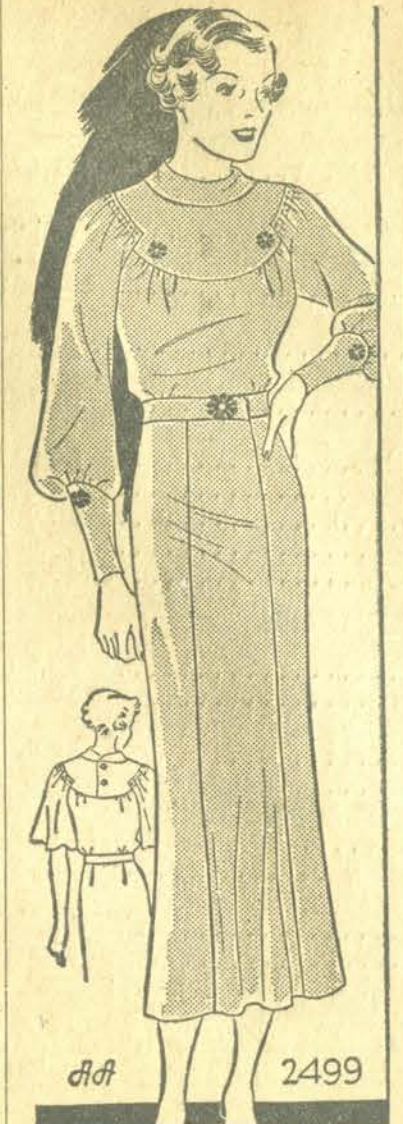

He unbuckled his pack, slipped the pack-board on his back, and picked up his rifle and belt-ax. Huxby trailed after him out of camp. They walked in Indian file all the way around to the muskeg swamp, Huxby with his gaze fixed coldly upon the back of his leader.

At the swamp Garth cut a tote-pole and passed it through the tendons of two hindquarters of moose. The remaining quarter he strapped to his pack-board. He folded the second lynx skin for Huxby to use as a shoulder pad. Upon it the mining engineer rested his end of the tote-pole.

Few Athletic Records That Have Held for Many Years

Some international athletic records hold for long periods. In America, Ewry's record for the standing broad jump has not been broken in 30 years, and Wefers' record for the 300-yard dash in 38 years.

In England, Crossland has held the record for the 20-mile run for 40 years and Griffith the record for the 20-mile walk for 64 years.—Collier's.

40 Famous "First Editions" Are Found to Be Forgeries

The European book-collecting world received a shock recently when about 40 famous "first editions," which have been accepted as genuine in all standard bibliographies for 50 years, were found to be forgeries.

In most of them, either the paper or the type or both did not exist at the time the books were supposed to have been printed. And in some cases the text was taken from revised editions.—Collier's.

FIRST SNAKE OF NEW YEAR IS FOUND HERE

When Jim Clifton chased a rabbit to a hole near the river here Wednesday and caught it, he noticed that the captive seemed more agitated than even a rabbit is entitled to be. So he investigated.

And within a few minutes Mr. Clifton had made another capture. This time he drew from the hole a snake that measured five foot six in his bare scales.

Soon a large crowd gathered to see his royal snakeship who seemed rather indifferent about the "hole" matter, who was, in fact, as cold as an icicle.

Being the cagey individual that he is, Jim has made a nice, snake-proof cage for his catch and is seeing to it that he does not suffer from under-exposure to the extent of thawing out enough to bit somebody.

MARY B. HORTON, 63, PASSES JANUARY 2

Beloved Louisa Woman Dies In Ironton Hospital Following Operation

Mrs. Mary Burns Horton, 63 years old, highly respected Louisa woman who was widely related and known here, died Thursday morning, Jan. 2, in the Marting hospital, Ironton, O., where she had been a patient since submitting to an operation for cancer last August.

A daughter of the late Attorney Roland T. Burns and Caroline Hatcher Burns, Mrs. Horton was born and reared in Louisa. Her husband, Orlando S. Horton, a native of Pennsylvania, an engineer for the N. & W. railway, and later an associate of John C. C. Mayo in coal developments in the Big Sandy valley, died several years ago.

A devout member of the Louisa M. E. Church, South, Mrs. Horton served for many years as teacher of the woman's Bible class and as president of the Woman's Missionary Society.

Surviving are two sons, Roland M. Horton, of Ashland, and Rev. John Burns Horton, of Beeve, Texas; two sisters, Mrs. Lucian Johnson, of Louisa, and Mrs. C. H. Williamson, of Memphis, Tenn., and one brother, John G. Burns, of Louisa.

CALHOUN INJURED BY BLOW FROM BEER MUG

Clayton Stratton, of Betsy Layne, was jailed here Saturday after he is alleged to have struck Robert Calhoun, of Dwale, over the head with a beer mug at Joe Fannin's place at Allen, severely injuring Calhoun.

A blood vessel in the back of Calhoun's head was severed and it was at first believed he was fatally injured. He was rushed to the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, where the flow of blood was checked, and Sunday he was able to be taken home. Stratton was released Monday under $1,000 bond.
