FUNDS AVAILABLE FOR REFORESTATION

And for Soil Erosion Work Through
AAA Substitute Measure,
May Writes

Funds for reforestation and the prevention of soil erosion are available as a result of a provision in the substitute bill for the AAA, Congressman A. J. May this week wrote Dr. O. W. Thompson, president of the Pike County Fish and Game Association. At the same time Congressman May urged immediate action on the part of the fish and game organization, civic clubs and citizens thruout the Big Sandy valley so that this section may profit from this type of governmental aid.

His letter follows:

"The recent substitute bill for the Triple A relating to agriculture, contains a provision authorizing the department to make allocations of funds for reforestation and prevention of soil erosion, which to my mind is of vital concern to the Big Sandy and Kentucky River valleys.

"As you know, our reforestation
for the last several years in the Big Sandy valley has been going backwards. In other words, a strip of about a fourth of the original river bed of the Big Sandy river on each side of the stream has been taken by timber growth until the river channel is now only about half what it was 30 years ago, thus narrowing the capacity of the channel to carry the flow of water down to about half its former capacity. At the same time, the woodman's ax has continued to ring on the mountainside and the slopes that lead the flow of water from falling rains directly into this much restricted channel. Consequently we have two problems. The major problem is flood control with its allied problems of soil erosion prevention and reforestation.

"I regard these matters as of vital importance to our state, and am writing this letter to you, as an active, interested citizen in this kind of work, to suggest that you mobilize,
not only your fish and game organization, but the chamber of commerce, Rotary, Kiwanis and Women's Clubs and other civic organizations
up and down the Big Sandy valley
for a co-operative combined movement to do this very necessary and beneficial work.

"I am sure you realize the importance of this matter, and I am counting on a hundred percent cooperation from your organization,
and devoutly hope that you will start a campaign immediately through some definite effective organization work to accomplish this purpose."

Chas. Oppenheimer is able to be out again after a recent serious illness. Mr. Oppenheimer's many friends are pleased to note his recovery.

Man Wounded By G-Men In This County Denies Charges

From his bed in the Methodist hospital, Pikeville, where he lies in a serious condition as a result of the bullet wound sustained by him when shot by a federal agent at Drift,
this county, almost a month ago,
Edgar Aldridge, alias Tom Ledford, emphatically denied the charges filed against him by the federal government but admitted that he shot three officers and escaped from the North Carolina state prison later.

Aldridge last week submitted to an operation and his condition remains critical.

The wounded man denied stealing and transporting a taxicab across the state line and also said that if any banks were robbed, somebody other than him robbed them.

Aldridge declared that the three officers he shot were to blame for his first offense which landed him

WILL ROGERS IS SERIOUSLY CUT

ROGERS JAILED HERE, CHARGED WITH STABBING OF WHEELWRIGHT MINER

Will Rogers, Wheelwright miner, is in the Methodist hospital, Pikeville, in a critical condition as the result of a knife wound said to have been inflicted in his neck and abdomen
Saturday afternoon by Ray Reed, 23.
Reed was arrested Monday and brought to jail here by Deputy Sheriff Willie Johnson.

The stabbing took place in the road
below Wheelwright Junction, Rogers, at the hospital in Pikeville, said he and some friends were walking toward his rooming-house when they met Reed. He said he was unarmed, and that Reed attacked him almost without warning. Deputy Sheriff Johnson told The Times Monday that a possible motive for the attack had been furnished by Rogers' assistance to Deputies Johnson and Frank Hatfield in capturing Reed after the latter had stolen a car.

Reed was quoted as saying he cut Rogers in self-defense. His hands were slashed in several places.

FINE INCOME FOR MARCH OVER $300

Police Department Here Breaks Local Record for Cash Collections
from Violators

The Prestonsburg police department definitely is self-supporting, a financial statement released this week shows.

During the month of March alone,
the statement discloses, in excess of $300 cash fine collections was paid into the city treasury by the police department.

Officials expressed the belief that this sum was the largest ever received from the police department in the history of Prestonsburg. These cash receipts were in addition to fines cash receipts were in addition to fines which were either reprieved or paid in work on the city streets, it was said.

MENINGITIS SCARE FAST DIMINISHING

PIKE EPIDEMIC THREAT PASS-ING, BELIEF; NO NEW CASES
IN FLOYD

With no new spinal meningitis cases developing in Pike county within the last four days, according to an official report received by The Times
from Pikeville, and with all sufferers
from the disease convalescing in Magoffin county, the scare created by the disease throughout this section was rapidly passing this week, health authorities indicated.

Though Floyd county has had no reported cases of the disease since three weeks ago when a girl on Prater Creek became ill, the Floyd county health department, with the cooperation of physicians, has maintained careful watch for every possible indication of the disease. Outbreaks in neighboring counties created a state of nervousness in this county, particularly on the part of parents of young children.

Dr. Marvin Ransdell of the health department here, who assisted the Pike county health department last week in combatting meningitis, had not been called back to Pike county this week. Though sporadic outbreaks cannot be foretold, danger of a general epidemic is not so acute at this time, especially if warm weather prevails.

In Pike county 17 persons within the last month have fallen ill
with meningitis and three have died, it was said Tuesday. The quarantine placed around homes housing sufferers from the malady is expected to be lifted within the next few days.

ALLEGED PIKE AUTO THIEVES TAKEN HERE

Eugene Michael and John Thornsbury, of Pikeville, were arrested
here Monday night by Policemen W.
A. Wills and Will Spradlin, a few hours after the theft of an automobile from Dr. A. G. Osborne, of the Pikeville Clinic staff. The two were nabbed while in possession of the auto, a 1935 Ford coupe. They were returned to Pike county Monday night.

SON OF JOHNSON COUNTY MINISTER INSTANTLY KILLED

ROY DAVIS DIES SATURDAY NIGHT IN AUTO WRECK NEAR COW CREEK

RAMSEY ACCUSED

Roy Davis, 23 years old, a son of the Rev. Adrian Davis, of Jenny's Creek, Johnson county, was instantly killed Saturday night when the auto in which he was a passenger and a Sandy Valley Grocery Company truck collided on the Mayo Trail near the home of Ed Merritt, approximately five miles from here.

His head was crushed as the result of the collision. Young Davis and four others were in the auto,
which was driven by Harry Conley,
of Hager Hill, and were driving up-
river when the tragedy occurred.
Bed of the truck is believed to have struck the rear portion of the auto.
Davis occupied the rumble seat.
Other members of the party suffered slight injuries.

A warrant charging Junior Ramsey, driver of the truck which figured in the tragedy, with involuntary manslaughter was sworn to Monday
by Alvin Conley, one of Davis' companions on the night of his death.

It was claimed by Conley that the truck was taking "too much of the road."

When Sheriff Stumbo was called to Frankfort before the warrant could be executed, friends of the truck driver came here and procured a duplicate warrant so that Ramsey could execute bond and thus be permitted to proceed with his work without unnecessary delay.
They indicated that they would swear out warrants for Harry Conley and others of the party charging them with drunkenness and possession of deadly weapons.

The victim was a member of a well-known Johnson county family,
and he had many friends and relatives in this section. Besides his parents, he is survived by several brothers and sisters.

The body was brought to the under-taking office of E. P. Arnold where preparation for burial were made. Funeral rites were conducted Monday morning at 10 o'clock by Revs. Burns Conley, F. S. Vanhose
and Millard Vanhose, with burial
being made in the family cemetery.

BUS STATION WORK BEGUN WEDNESDAY

Work was begun Wednesday by Henderson Neeley, contractor, toward the construction of a bus station on the Mayo Trail, near the courthouse,
for Sparks Brothers Bus Company.
The structure is expected to be completed within the next two months.

The building will be of frame and stucco construction, 50 feet by 35 feet in size. The waiting room will be 29 feet by 20 feet, and the remainder of the building, a room 30
by 35 feet, will be occupied by a restaurant.

Sparks Brothers have leased the lot on which the station is being erected for a period of 15 years from Mrs. Josie D. Harkins.

to Oklahoma Friday to return Shepherd to Salversville. Shepherd is well-known in this county, and is said to have passed through Pres-tonsburg a week prior to his arrest.
At that time he was being searched in county.

Several sheep, hogs, cows and a number of dogs were bitten by the same rabid animal, and have either been killed or confined where they cannot endanger anyone or anything.

Hydrophobia among the dogs of this section has been unusually bad this winter, and residents here have been warned by officials to watch for strange and strange-acting dogs.

UNIQUE LISTENING CENTER AT CANEY

An experimental portable radio listening center, the first of its kind in America, has been established by the University of Kentucky in the "mountain" area of the state, it has been announced. This Unique center will be under the immediate supervision of officials of Caney Junior College, Pippaspass, Ky., and will be taken to the more isolated mountain homes to be left for several days at a time.

Since 1933 the University of Kentucky has been steadily building up its system of radio listening centers in Eastern Kentucky. About a score of these centers are now in operation under the supervision of community directors, school principals and others.

The new type center will serve the mountain homes whose inhabitants by reason of infirmity, illness or bad climatic conditions are unable to reach the regularly established centers.

The equipment being sent to Pippaspass consists of a small box about a foot and one-half square, which contains the set, built-in aerial, tubes, loud speaker and miniature batteries. The entire outfit can be carried by one man as easily as he could transport a suitcase.

If the experiment in Knott county proves worthwhile, additional portable listening centers will be provided for other parts of Eastern Kentucky.

Midway to the stream channel he stopped where, through separate vistas, he could see both planes. The gray dawn had brightened enough to make them visible at a distance. He sat down on a log to wait. In the Eskimo suit, the cold was negligible.

A look at the constable's pistol showed it to be fully loaded. He took off the belt and buckled it on again up under the loose fullness of his parka. Holstered between the caribou skin and his rabbit-fur undersuit, the oil in the pistol mechanism would become warm. Cold oil is apt to jam a gun.

After making sure of the pistol, he had nothing to do except give his face an occasional rub to prevent frostbite. He sat restfully relaxed, as patient as an Eskimo hunter beside a seal hole. Very slowly the gray dawn brightened. It at last began to mellow into gold.

From across the lake came the crack of rifles—three shots in quick succession. Garth told himself that Huxby and his men were hunting moose. He wondered why. The engineer planned to use the shattered ends of the water plane's floats with rawhide. He glared over the jagged barbed wire into the frost-gripped mountains. Quite a while later, Garth saw his four enemies come out of the forest near the lake shore, on the side of the frozen glacier. The man carried a big folded blanket over his left shoulder. He turned the man's steps up the bank. Other shouts came from the slope above. Garth smiled. He had foreseen. In coming to the floats of the three-seater plane and his men had formed a line along the lake shore to timber-

the spruce woods. The men had found no trace of the trail, followed by the moosehide.

The engineer stopped to overtake him. They saw the stranded aircraft warily raised, ready to shoot. Huxby signed to drop the hide. As the man obeyed, the miners came running along the tracks that led to the lake shore. The man stepped into the three-seater cabin of the lake. He wanted to it, but the miner came to the trail, and they appeared and thick space. He saw the ford. The four men covered again. He stepped straight on, and there.

He amused him. The miner by the timberline. He had been a degenerate, and he was he tossed coals from the fire into the base of the stack. The wood soon blazed up in several places.

With the foursack pack and the bag of platinum alloy slung over his shoulder, he went downslope.

Garth lugged the sack across the open space and past the stunted spruce beside which Constable Dillon had been murdered. In a drift on the north side of the next tree, he dug a hole, dropped in the sack of alloy, and covered it over.

A backward look at the camp showed the bonfire flaming high. At any moment the frozen dynamite was apt to thaw enough to explode. From off to the left came angry shouts. The direction of Garth's trail had at last warned the pursuers of his raid on their camp. They were heading for it as fast as they could flounder through the drifts.

Instead of circling to double past them again, Garth slanted off down-slope towards the west side of the lake. There was no need to warn them about the dynamite. Before he had taken a dozen strides, the frosty air crashed with a thundering explosion. He bent forward and went pounding downhill through the soft snow as if breaking trail for a fast driven dog team.

When he neared the border of the muskeg he glimpsed a gray shape in the outer fringe of willows. No wolf could bulk so large. The she-grizzly had been first of the flesh eaters to find what was left of the newly killed moose.

Close looking and listening showed that the cubs of the great bear were not with her. Garth went straight towards the hoggishly feeding beast until she caught his scent. She reared up to gape her bloody jaws and roared as she had roared at him and Huxby and Mr. Ramill.

Garth very quietly turned to the left and angled off away from her. He was the two-legged creature who had several times shied respectfully around her and her cubs during the summer. She watched him go, then returned to her greedy gorging.

He skirted along the border of the muskeg to where a narrow neck of the swamp extended up a little valley to a gulch in the side of the west mountain.

At the far bank he shifted sideways and crouched down behind a clump of willows. He did not have long to wait. Enraged by the destruction of their food and camp outfit and the taking of the platinum alloy, Huxby and his men must have rushed fast down the trail of their bedeviler.

From over across the corner of the muskeg came the warning roar of the disturbed grizzly. A quick shot followed. Close upon the report dinned an outburst of terrific snarling roars and a whole fusillade of shots. The roars suddenly ceased. But the firing kept up for four or five seconds.

"Scared. Wasting cartridges," Garth told himself. "Hopping mad at me, and, atop that, hurried by her charge. Hope she didn't get any of them."

His wish was soon fulfilled. All four trailers came plodding along the border of the muskeg. Huxby was in the lead. But the bearded man next behind shoved forward beside him as he came striding out on the bog. Both opened to step two or three times biggerheads. Then the miner hit snow between tussocks.

The bearded man's curse as he fell down into the quagmire jerked his glance around. He saw the split second too late to keep his tussocks. Like the miner, he plunged through the frozen crust of deep slime and mud. The fourth followed suit. But he was where the bog was only the fourth, lagging behind, and ground. He shouted orders, the last of which poles of down timber-leaders were in almost before the dead aspen trunks could be brought and shoved out to them.

Set on niggerheads, the poles gave support for the trapped men to pull themselves up out of the treacherously sucking quagmire. Other poles made a bridge for them, back to solid ground. But the bearded miner left his rifle down in the ooze.

Garth chuckled and looked to see Huxby backtrack with his men. Instead, the engineer headed up the bog valley towards the gulch. That added to Garth's mirth. By a quick return, the hunters could have stripped off the grizzly's hide before it froze. They were walking away from a rug that would have gone far towards replacing their burnt blankets. He had so tantalized and enraged them that they could think only of revenge.

To add insult to injury, he tramped a heavy trail up into a spruce thicket and built a small fire. Beside the fire, he scattered a handful of dried apricots and prunes. After that he skirted along the edge of the muskeg to its north end.

Here he came to where in ancient times, before it started to recede, the glacier had piled a big terminal moraine. This was the immense natural dam that held the lake in its bed.

Among the rocks of the rapids, on the slope of the lower valley below the falls, Garth made out the wreckage of Mr. Ramill's custom-built monoplane.

He worked his way down alongside the rapids to look closer at the wreck. What little had been left of the costly aircraft was not worth salvaging. But the tattered cover of one broken wing thrust up out of the white water within reach from the bank.

Garth started a fire of small sticks. He quenched it with damp moss, and used the charred stick ends to write on the wing fabric:

$5,000 reward for
V. HUXBY
Thief and Murderer."

CHAPTER XI

Female of the Species.

Shortly before noon, the four trailers appeared on the moraine. The man who had not been bogged led the way down. Another miner followed, then Huxby. The man who had lost his rifle lagged behind. The two leaders reached the broken monoplane wing. Garth saw them read the writing.

Huxby jumped down beside the miners, to stare at the offer of reward that branded him for what he was. With a curse, he ripped the tattered piece of fabric from the wing frame and flung it down into the foaming rapid.

The two men glanced furtively at each other. Huxby pointed to the trail on the opposite bank and signed for them to lead the way across. Neither moved. The first man cursed, and shouted his refusal:

"Jump them boulders? I ain't no lynx. I'm through trailing that devil."

"Me too," declared the second man. "I won't break my neck for nobody."

A second look at the crossing forced Huxby to shunt his agreement: "Curse the devil! We'll chase back. He's going on around to our plane. That's where he must have left both of his disabled companions."

Along with the angry statement, the engineer signed for his miners to start back ahead of him. Garth smiled. The two who had seen that offer of reward would not forget it, and Huxby was keenly aware of the fact.

When all four disappeared up on the moraine, Garth recrossed the boulders. There was no sign of Lillith when he came down from the moraine. He called into the entrance tunnel. Back came a quavering cry of relief. A quick crawl took him in through the low narrow passage.

Lillith was breathing hard, almost gasping. "Oh! oh, thank God! I looked and looked, but I could not see you. I thought you must be—lying there—like that poor policeman—dead!"

"Hardly. Look here—and here." He showed the pistol, then dumped his foursack pack. "How about salt on our meat, and a cup of tea with sugar?"

"Alan!" she cried. "You made them give you all this!"

"In a way—yes. Set a pot of snow on the lamp stone, and slice some meat."

Lillith gazed at him in speechless wonderment, her blue eyes wide and very lustrous. He pretended not to notice. He salted and started to eat the first hot fat caribou steak that she served him on one of the looted tin plates.

But after he had told about the bear scare and the luring of the men into the bog, her surprise found utterance.

"Why didn't you kill the beasts while you had the chance?"

Garth answered with surprise: "Why? For several reasons. The main ones are because I'm a killer and because I'm Vivian Huxby shall be tried and hung for murder."

She gasped: "You—hung! But he has all those men to help him. You're alone—worse than alone. I'm only a hindrance."

He smiled banteringly. "Well, I wouldn't say that. A handy cook isn't altogether a nuisance. The pot is beginning to simmer. You might drop in a pinch of tea. How's your ankle."

"Ever so much better. I've exercised it a little every time I went outside. And I've half finished my parka. But how—" she interrupted herself—"how can you win if you don't kill them?"

"Why, for a starter, Miss Cook, we'll let them stew in their own juice for a few days. That will tend to soften their bonds of mutual aid. No bedding and a diet of saltless meat will help those three plager jacks to consider the desirability of that five thousand dollar reward I offered for their boss."

"Alan Garth, you're marvelous!" "Not at all. It just happens I know this game, and I told you before that Huxby is only a commonplace wolf. If he were a wolverine, I'd have to look sharp. As it is, we'll stay up here snug and cosy, and enjoy their tea and sugar while you're learning to use your snowshoes."

By noon the next day Lillith's Eskimo suit was finished. Her ankle, though weak, was no longer sore or swollen. Garth bandaged it firmly with a strip of skin, and had her begin practicing on her webs.

Not being hurried or excited, she soon caught the knack of the snowshoe stride. As her ankle became stronger and her feet hardened she developed into a fairly fast snowshoe runner.

Their last climb took them up around the bend in the great cleft. Before they turned back, Garth had the girl fire the pistol. She neither shut her aiming eye nor flinched as she pulled the trigger. Each time the bullet struck within a foot of the nearby mark that Garth set up.

"Not half bad," he approved. "I'll let you go down with me tomorrow morning."

Though the temperature had become milder, it remained below freezing point. As on the other occasion, Garth started downgulch two hours before dawn. This time Lillith trailed with him.

Huxby had moved his camp to the lake shore opposite the stranded cabin plane. A big fire of birch logs threw its welcome heat into the front of the three-sided lean-to. The engineer and two of his miners lay asleep, huddled in nests of spruce sprays and dry moss.

The fourth man sat on a log beside the fire, his rifle between his knees. He yawned drowsily.

The first slight tinge of dawn had begun to gray the east. But among the trees the night was still black. A sudden flicker of light in the darkness behind the lean-to brought the sleepy watcher's head up with a jerk. Beside the skin-clad man with the lighted match, he saw a second man squinting at him along the barrel of a pistol.

Mexico's Calendar Stone Carved by Aztec Indians

Among the sights of Mexico City is the famous calendar stone. It was cut from volcanic rock by Aztec Indians, and the work was done more than four centuries ago, during the reign of the Aztec ruler, Montezuma II, says a writer in the Detroit News. Aztec tribes were in control of Mexico when it was invaded by the Spaniards. The present name of the country is believed to have come from an old Aztec war-god who was called "Mexitli" or "Mexitli." It is easy to see how his name could have been changed to "Mexico."

The Calendar stone is on view in a museum in Mexico City. On it is carved a great circular figure in the shape of the sun; and the width of the figure is 12 feet.

The stone is composed of volcanic rock, and weighs 20 tons as it exists today. The rock appears to have been obtained from a quarry several miles from Mexico City; and it is estimated that before the carving was done, the rough block weighed from 40 to 50 tons.

It may be that the block was cut down before it was moved from the quarry; but, in any case, it was too heavy for people to lift. There were no oxen or other large beasts of burden in Mexico before the white men came, so it must have been moved with the help of rollers.

At the center of the Calendar stone is a picture or symbol of the sun god and with the rest of the carving, it tells the Aztec story of "the world's history."

The Aztecs declared that four suns had existed before the one they saw in the sky. The first sun was supposed to have been destroyed by a jaguar, the second by a whirlwind, the third by a rain of fire, and the fourth by a flood. It was the fifth sun world that was destroyed by an earthquake.

Let Age and Youth Agree to Differ: A Form of Agreement

Conclusion of Sage on the Problem of Life's Contrasts.

One of the most serious of life's contrasts is the continual misunderstanding which arises between old age and youth. It is trite but true that from time immemorial age has been dissatisfied with youth and youth has resented the implication. Though we ourselves had no such temptations as beset the young people of today, nevertheless our parents were just as anxious about our doings as any parent now could be. To us, their children, the problems of this perplexing day seem intricate in comparison. R. L. S. thought it out in this fashion: Let them (age and youth) agree to differ, for who knows but what agreeing to differ may not be a form of agreement, rather than a form of difference?

Lady Slane, in her attempt to live her own life after fifty years of being a satellite in the wake of a distinguished husband, is criticized by some as devoid of maternal love in wishing to live apart from her family. But is not life in most families a proof of the saying that a prophet is not without honor save in his own country? The desire to explore one's individual country becomes rather important as life recedes with all passions spent.

So much is now being written about flaming youth that it will soon believe that the whole stage of life was meant for the presentation of its own play and the footlights solely to exhibit its own charms. Well, so be it, since upon its shoulders must fall the work of the world. Sir Edmund Gosse in writing his "Father and Son," endured severe criticism because he said too much (later, because he said too little) in trying to present the influence of a strictly puritanical father upon a son whose attitude toward life had changed. Stevenson's comment upon the book helped to smooth over the harshness of such criticism when he said that it was a very delicate task, very delicately done. Published in 1907, it was, to use the author's words, a record of a struggle between two temperaments, two consciences, and almost two epochs.

It seems to me that Mr. Brownell in his "Standards" has found the keynote to the lack of harmony between the two generations when he says that youth fails to consider how much more crowded the pigeonholes of age are than its own, and how much more irksome it is to arrange their contents, and that, in conjunction with the proverbial egotism of youth, is the whole cause of the difficulties that arise.

A case in point is the talk between the aged Belarius and the two sons of Cymbeline before they learn of their princely heritage. Belarius tells at length about the charms of mountain life in Wales, adding that it is nobler than attending for a check, richer than doing nothing for a bauble, prouder than rustling in unpaid silk. They listen respectfully and reply:

Happy this life is best, sweeter to you That have a sharper known, well corresponding With your stiff age; but unto us it is A cell of ignorance, traveling ahead. What should we speak of when We are as old as you? when we shall hear The rain and wind beat dark December, how In this, our pinching cave, shall we discourse The freezing hours away? We have seen nothing.

How hard it is to hide the sparks of nature, says Belarius to himself! M. O. W., in Indianapolis News.

World Not a Spectator to Over-Sensitive One

A good deal of discomfort arises from over-sensitiveness about what people may say of you or your actions. Many unhappy persons seem to imagine that they are always in an amphitheater, with the assembled world as spectators; whereas all the while, they are playing to empty benches.—Sir A. Helps.

NEW KITCHEN STOVE MAKES ITS OWN GAS

Housewives Marvel at Coleman Range That Lights Instantly Like City Gas—Cooks a Meal with 2c Worth of Fuel

A new kitchen range that offers every cooking convenience of the finest city gas range is now available to housewives, wherever they live.

W. C. Coleman, pioneer inventor of gas-pressure appliances, brings to a lifetime of inventive genius his crowning achievement in this amazing new Coleman Safety Range. This new stove makes its own gas from ordinary, lead-free gasoline. A patented method of carburization converts liquid fuel into gas, much the same as in present day automobile engines.

The Coleman Range lights instantly, like city gas. Its fuel-saving Band-A-Blu Burners, another of Mr. Coleman's outstanding developments, produce a clean, clear-blue flame, so hot that a low flame does all ordinary cooking. Tests show an average family meal for five takes about 2c worth of fuel.

Coleman Ranges are finished in gleaming porcelain enamel. Their pleasing colors combine outstanding beauty with unequalled performance. Readers of this paper wishing full information about these wonderful new Coleman Ranges will receive beautifully illustrated literature and a valuable stove check chart by simply addressing a postcard to Mr. W. C. Coleman, Dept. WU-236, Wichita, Kansas.—Adv.

MAYTOWN

PLAY, APRIL 3

"Deestreck Skule," play is scheduled for Friday, April 3, under the auspices of the P. T. A. and Woman's Club.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The Woman's Club held its annual business meeting Friday at the school and elected the following officers: president, Mrs. Arb Hayes; vice-president, Mrs. N. C. Boughton; secretary, Mrs. Stanley Combs; treasurer, Mrs. John May. A vote of thanks was voted the outgoing officers, especially Mrs. Frank May, whose work as president has been outstanding.

The club voted to sponsor a county faculty banquet in the lunch-room Friday, May 1, at 6 p. m., invitations being sent this week to the large schools only since seating capacity cannot permit all Floyd teachers to attend. Proceeds will go to the club's independent scholarship fund recently established. The fund will be loaned to Charlie Patton this year. Following the banquet, the visitors will be privileged to attend the senior play under the direction of Mrs. Combs.

The club takes this means of thanking the Maytown people for their splendid response to the call for dishes for lunch room. Fifty-seven sets have been purchased to date. Some members of the committee have not reported. We expect to raise funds for the entire 100 sets and hope to secure glasses and silver shortly.

Friday afternoon, the club agreed to try buying everything for entertainments henceforth, not asking for donations, merely turning the profits into the treasury. It is hoped this will induce many women to join and work with us for the good of the community with membership costing them only one dollar dues annually. The club wishes to assist in sponsoring the community library and playground for the summer and will render service gratis along this line, hoping the Youth Movement can supply supervision.

Trees were planted on the school campus recently, also some dogwoods in the yards, and a nice assortment of azaleas were planted in the foundation planting of the school campus.

NEWS—HEAD UP
Health Department

and ruins laid down by Kentucky General Assembly as given the State Board of to make ruling, and regulations regarding the handling of foods and the protection of the health of the general public of the state of Kentucky. One of these ruling, is that each and every worker in any and all food handling establishments must be free of any and all contagious diseases that he or she might transmit to the general public in the handling of foods. We, as workers for, the protection of the general public of the county of Floyd, have been for the past several months been trying to see that each employe in food handling establishments, such as restaurants, hotels and soda fountains, get a health examination which will entitle them to food handling permits. We feel that this measure is of vital importance and believe that the public is behind us in seeing that this is done.

In view of the fact that only a small part of the restaurant workers and food handlers, have complied with this measure, it is coming to the point that stricter measure, are going to have to be followed. The next step will be a notice to the owner of each restaurant, hotel or soda fountain to abate the operation of such health nuisances, caused by the employing of food handlers who do not have permits. In this notice he will be given a certain length of time to get rid of all employes who do not have said permit and after this time has expired and he has failed to comply with the notice, he will be proceeded against according to the Kentucky statute, which provides that a person who operates a nuisance after he has been duly notified to abate same shall, upon conviction of said charge, be fined not less than $10 nor more than $100 for each offense and each and every day shall be considered a separate offense.

Should the proprietors of such places not be glad to co-operate with health officials on such measures? We do hope that it will not be necessary to resort to such drastic measures as above-stated and that each worker, as well as the proprietors of all food handling establishments, will realize this vital importance and give us one hundred per cent co-operation.

The city of Prestonsburg, realizing the importance of having their food handlers pass health examinations have passed an ordinance making this ruling even more strict than ever. They are requiring that all restaurant, hotel and soda fountain proprietors have a health examination once each six months and that all employed help have an examination each 30 days. In accordance with this ordinance, the third Thursday in each month is set aside as health examination day for restaurant workers. The third Thursday in April will be the beginning of this work. After this date no restaurant owner will be expected to be operating without a health certificate, nor will he or she be expected to work any person, even for one day, without they have a food handlers' permit. We speak of restaurants here more often because they are the most common of the food handling establishments, but it is understood that this ordinance applies to hotel and soda fountains as well.

Blank, for these examinations will be furnished by the health department. If you desire to have your examination made by some other doctor, you may obtain the blank from the health department and go to any doctor you wish. The only requirement is that he be a licensed physician.

These things are left to the judgment of the examiner, but we do urge that the examiner be very strict in these examinations, otherwise this may be of little value. Let have the co-operation of all restaurant owners, helpers and doctors and a real service will have been rendered to us. We feel that throat culture tests should be made if there be the slightest indication and that in most all cases blood test, should be made.

SLONE CONVICTED AT SECOND TRIAL

On trial for the second time in one court term for murder, Winstead Slone was convicted Friday in the Knott circuit court of manslaughter in the slaying of Chester Jones, at Hazard, November 5, last year, and was given a 10-year penitentiary sentence. His was the only murder trial of the term.

Slone shot and killed Jones and Kelly Adams. In the second week of the March court term at Hazard a 10-man county jury acquitted him of the Adams killing on evidence contending that the fight was between Slone and Jones and that he shot Adams unintentionally.

In Slone's last trial for the killing of Jones, a Letcher county jury was empaneled. Defense evidence showed that Slone was lying on the ground when he fired the shots which killed Jones and Adams.

The Knott grand jury failed to make an indictment for the dynamiting of Cash Triple's restaurant

NO "SOUND EFFECTS" WITH ELECTROLUX, THANK GOODNESS!

SILENCE

is more than a comfort

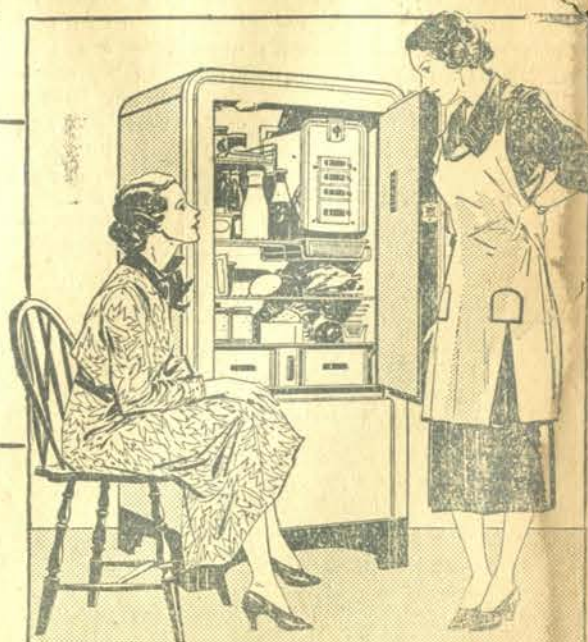

...IT'S A PROMISE OF LASTING EFFICIENCY

ELECTROLUX

EFFICIENCY

Thanks to the utterly different way it operates—without machinery, without noise—only Electrolux can bring you all these big, long-life advantages:

- NO MOVING PARTS TO WEAR
- LASTING EFFICIENCY
- FULLEST FOOD PROTECTION
- SAVINGS THAT PAY FOR IT
- CONTINUED LOW OPERATING COST

New Air-Cooled ELECTROLUX THE SERVEL Gas Refrigerator

LISTEN! But you'll hear no noise from the operation of Electrolux! A tiny gas burner takes the place of all moving parts in this permanently silent refrigerator! This simpler, more efficient way of refrigerating is the reason why more than half a million American families have already chosen Electrolux... why more and more families are choosing it every year!

For Electrolux insures an unusually low operating cost... and this cost will never be increased through the inefficiency of moving, wearing parts. What's more, you can count on a minimum of repairs with Electrolux... for parts that do not move cannot wear.

And Electrolux brings you other savings! It provides constant food-preserving temperatures 24 hours a day... plenty of ice cubes. Owners report that Electrolux actually saves enough on food bills and on running cost to pay for itself. See Electrolux on display at our showrooms. The new 1936 models are more convenient, more beautiful than ever. And they bring you all these famous operating advantages that make Electrolux the most economical refrigerator any family can own. Come in!

possible cause for war if any cause were lacking.

Sao Paulo, Brazil, worries about reports brought by health officers from the forests of the upper Sorocabana area. In that region, where mosquitoes are thick, explorers frequently saw "monkeys with high fevers" drop out of trees and die, dozens of them, victims of yellow fever.

Fortunately for Brazil cities, the jungle mosquito that bites monkeys and gives them yellow fever keeps away from cities. The fight against disease-bearing mosquitoes and rats would keep men busy, if they were not busy already killing each other in war.

Edward VIII, new king of England, visited the magnificently luxurious ocean steamer Queen Mary in Glasgow, then went from house to house, knocking on doors, visiting some of the worst slum dwellings in all his kingdom.

Later, talking to Lord Melchett, the king put the problem of England, this country and the whole world in these few words:

"How do you reconcile a world that has produced this mighty ship with the slums we have just visited?"

A marvelously illustrated ancient manuscript of the Koran, found in a shop of an antiquity dealer in Cairo, Egypt, was bought for fifty pounds. Heaven knows how many thousands of pounds it is actually worth.

The Koran is said to have been written by a highly educated Jew, who suggested ideas to Mohammed, the latter being unable to write.

It is possible, however, that angels, supposed to have revealed divine truth to Mohammed, also taught him to write.

Good news for tree growers, fruit trees or others. You may get rid of insect pests by hammering the trunks of trees with a riveting machine, such as is used in driving rivets in city skyscrapers.

A California inventor patented the process. This writer proposes to try it in a New Jersey orchard at the earliest possible moment. The riveting is said to loosen insect pests, after which it is easy to wash them off with a strong spray of water, no chemicals needed. To save the tree from injury, it is probably desirable to put several thicknesses of old automobile tires or tubes between the bark and the riveting machine.

There is plenty of money in this country, billions of it, Jesse Jones will tell you, but it is not circulating, as unhealthy for money in a country as for blood in your veins.

You know the strange, perhaps true, story of a man who unwittingly passed a counterfeit $10 bill. It went through the hands of ten individuals, paid for $100 worth of goods, and came back to the man who originally passed it. He identified and destroyed it.

One hundred dollars' worth of debts had been paid, nobody was any the worse. Money is a queer thing.

Do not give "living toys" to your children for Easter presents. Many parents and friends thoughtlessly give children helpless living creatures, easily hurt—live chicks, or newly hatched ducklings.

The helpless creatures are roughly treated, mutilated, fortunate if they happen to be promptly killed, by children that know no better.

Doctor Townsend promises $200 a month to everybody past sixty. That would cost twenty-four thousand million dollars a year. Congressmen know it can't be done, but do not dare say so individually.

Townsend clubs have organized millions of votes. The $200-a-month promise made that easy. Congressmen do not want those votes cast against them as individuals.

The hard-working, intelligent Swiss nation is said to be disturbed by the prospect of another war as by none other.

Every Swiss under fifty is armed, trained and ready. Even in the big war nobody tried to invade Switzerland—too much hard climbing, and the conqueror would not know how to run the hotels, even if he acquired them.

The immediate business of this country is to find some way of controlling food waters—probably not impossible.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

A Bride for King Edward

BEVERLY HILLS, CALIF.—According to tradition—or maybe it's law—King Edward is limited in the choice of a bride to one of five European princesses. Even so, his majesty would find nearly everybody over here giving loud cheers—and some of his loyal subjects at home doing the same thing, too, I bet you—did he just up and marry the healthy, sweet, normal-minded, clean-blooded daughter of some English country family.

Irvin S. Cobb

Indeed, he might go further and fare no worse, by taking for his queen a well-born Canadian girl. Still, this would severely shock a certain type of Britisher who always refers to a Canadian as a "colonial," with a lower case "c" or, how about a maiden from a quarter which, like Canada, produces some of the loveliest women in the world—the Antipodes? By the way, does that same breed of insular Englishman call a native of those parts an "Antipathy"? Probably so.

Hamlet and Hams

THE papers say a peasant audience in Rumania broke up a Shakespearean performance because it wasn't funny. Well, could they but watch some of the Hamlets I've watched, they'd die laughing.

Likewise, if those riotous peasants really have a sense of humor they'd get a giggle out of a certain not altogether unfamiliar pattern of classical screen production, never realizing, of course, that they were laughing at an epic.

One thing, though, we can do superlatively in these parts and that's putting on a ballyhoo. That gigantic flaming meteor which scared folks along the eastern coast wouldn't have caused a ripple out here. We'd just think somebody was opening a new lunch stand over on Hollywood boulevard.

Perkins Versus Roper

I DO so wish the Tommy Manvilles would make up their mind, one way or the other, so we could all concentrate on those plaintive tapping sounds emanating from the cabinet at Washington.

Dame Rumor hath it that it's Uncle Dan Roper signaling faintly for help because somebody in the administration is trying to snatch his playthings from him. Now Uncle Dan is a patient soul and a true southern gentleman, so not for worlds would he antagonize any good Democrat, much less a lady Democrat. But they do say he harbors a secret gnawing grievance.

As the report filters through out here he doesn't mind Mme. Perkins taking her own job so seriously, but does object to her trying, with equal seriousness, to take his.

It may be only a base Republican slander. Still, say what you will, Mme. Perkins has got a mighty determined jaw.

Reading 5,000,000 Telegrams

WHILE it may have been sort of care-free for Senator Black's committee to seize all those musty mountains of private telegraph messages, why invoke the law to enjoin 'em? Surely anybody who deliberately sits down to wade through 5,000,000 stale telegrams has been punished before he starts and will suffer from pollen in the pod before he's through. Think of the wires a fellow gets on birthdays and holidays. Some of them aren't so good even when fresh, are they?

Apparently the present investigation aims to find out whether any lobbying has actually gone on in Washington—and indeed there has been a suspicion to that effect for quite some time.

Farewell to Shaw

AFTER his recent trans-continental scolding tour he has left us—once our venerated idol and always our severest critic.

Somebody overlooked a chance as the world's most ex-distinguished vegetarian, having in advance deplored it for showing the bad taste to be a Yankee institution, stood on the rim of America's noblest scenic wonder, shaking a petulant whisker over that incredible void and munching a carrot and poison-ivy sandwich. The Grand canyon certainly would have been such a swell place for throwing your old George Bernard Shaws.

With war-clouds thickening on half of Europe's frontiers—not to mention Asia's—the League of Nations is functioning as usual. In other words, it is to menacing armies what a weather-vane is to the weather.

Following One's Ambition

Don't let people discourage or kill your ambition by telling you that the thing you propose to do is absurd, that "it can't be done." Those "practical" souls can't see the vision that you see. They don't feel that inner urge which is constantly bidding you up and on. You yourself may not realize that it is the call that runs in your blood, a divine call to do the thing that you were sent into this world to do.

Distinctive Dress With Scalloped Collar for the Charming Little Girl

1833-B

This design requires a minimum of time and effort to make. Try it in gingham, wool challis, muslin or a silk with a wee little flower design. You can also make this version in a simple crepe which is used in party frocks.

More Entertaining Than Inconsolable, We'd Say

The following inscription was lifted from a tombstone in a Paris cemetery:

Here lies Pierre Victor Fournier, inventor of the Everlasting Lamp, which consumes only one centime's worth of oil in one hour. His inconsolable widow continues his business in the Rue aux Trois. Goods sent to all parts of the city. Do not mistake the opposite shop for this.

Which proves that the bereaved sometimes give their minds over to other things than just their sorrow.

FATHER OF FLOYD RESIDENTS, DEAD

(From Paintsville News)

J. W. "Jo-h" Daniel, 75 years old, died Thursday at his home on Greasy Creek about three miles from Boons Camp postoffice, after an illness of several weeks.

He suffered an attack of influenza about a month ago and other ailments combined to cause his death.

His wife, Matilda Preston Daniel, is also confined to her bed with influenza and asthma.

Mr. Daniel was for many years a merchant on Greasy Creek and had lived at that place for about 20 years. He moved to Two Mile about 1911 and operated a store at the forks of Two Mile with his father-in-law, G. L. Preston, for about two years. He sold out in 1913 to W. R. Meade and returned to his old home on Greasy.

Mr. Daniel had been married twice. His first wife was Miss Nan Ward. To this union five children were born, four of whom are still living. They are Luan and Harry Daniel, of Betsy Layne; Mrs. Minty Dutton and Mrs. Sarah Reed, of Boon's Camp. The other, a son, Charlie Daniel, died several years ago.

Mr. Daniel's present wife was Miss Matilda Preston, daughter of the late G. L. Preston, of Williamsport. Besides his wife, their children who survive are Mrs. Callie Collins and Mrs. Maxine Dennison, of Odds; Norman, Ora, Lafe, John Orville and Bert, of Boons Camp, and Stella Mae Lackey, of Wecksby.

Mr. Daniel was a brother of James Daniel, of Tom's Creek, and was an uncle of David Daniel, of Paintsville, an employe of the Paintsville postoffice. He also was a brother-in-law of Charles Preston, of Fifth street.

Funeral rites were held Sunday by Leonard Arrowood and L. T. Preston, with burial in the family cemetery near the Daniels home.

Senator Joe P. Tackett returned Monday to Frankfort after spending the week-end here with his family.
