Childers Ond Bailey Out;

MEMBERS NAMED

Personnel of the Floyd county board of education has within the last month undergone two changes. Guy E. Childers' place on the board being filled a month ago by the appointment of his brother-in-law, Bill Allen, and Harold Bailey resigning at the board meeting on Tuesday, this week, John Campbell, of Garrett, being chosen to fill the vacancy.

Resignations of Childers and Bailey followed the Floyd circuit court ruling ousting them and Jack Branham from membership on the board. Bailey superseded the judgment, serving as a member on the board until Tuesday.

Dr. J. H. Allen was elected chairman of the board, succeeding Mr. Bailey.

The board is considering purchase of a second school bus for transportation of students to school here and, possibly, to Betsy Layne. Recently, a bus was bought to serve high school students between Weeksbury and Wheelwright. The Weeksbury high school was eliminated upon recommendation of the state department of education, making arrangements for transportation facilities necessary. The bus will serve approximately 60 students from Weeksbury and points between that place and Wheelwright.

Purchase of the second bus is contingent upon the board of education budget being adjusted to accommodate this outlay of money. It would furnish transportation for students from East Point and intervening points to the high school here and also high school students from Allen, Dwale, Emma and other up-river towns, since the state department of education has recommended abandonment of the Dwale high school, indicating (Continued on page eight)

MAYOR CARTER ILL

Mayor A. C. Carter was taken Monday to the Stumbo Memorial hospital, Lackey, and for a time his condition was quite serious. His many friends are hopeful now, however, that an operation will not be necessary. Mrs. Carter was in Bluefield, W. Va., visiting relatives when Mayor Carter became ill.

UNION SERVICE AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

There are only two more of the union services to be held this summer. The one this coming Sunday night will be in the Presbyterian Church. It is hoped that the fine spirit of co-operation that has marked the other services will continue to make itself felt in these closing services.

Rev. E. M. Hart, of Owensboro, Ky., will preach.

SLAYER OF PITTS HELD IN MISSOURI

Jim Barnett Located Last Week
Through Tip Received by Sheriff
Stumbo

Deputy Sheriff R. R. Allen and Isaac Stumbo, son of Sheriff M. T. Stumbo, left Thursday morning, last week, for Seymour, Mo., to return to this county Jim Barnett, 19 years old, to stand trial for murder in the slaying July 25 of Jim Cecil Pitts.

Acting on a tip that young Barnett and two others left this county in an automobile during the night following the slaying, Sheriff Stumbo wired officials at Seymour to look for the slayer who, it was believed, was staying with relatives there. He was quickly located and placed under arrest.

Slaying of Pitts took place on the mountain at the head of Buck's Branch, a few miles from Martin, as the principals in the affair and others were said to have been en route to Sparlock Fork of Middle Creek where Pitts' father, Mexico Pitts, resides. Liquor figured in the slaying, it was said. Pitts was killed by the charge of a shotgun said to have been fired by Barnett as the two grappled for possession of the firearm.

Flames Follow Explosion in Destruction of Carter Motor Sales Garage Here Thursday

Big Sandy's finest garage, that of the Carter Motor Sales here, was destroyed by a terrific blast and by subsequent fire at 2 o'clock Thursday morning.

Cause of the explosion and fire had not been determined when this was written Thursday. H. H. Holcomb, whose home is located near the garage, said he saw the roof heave and the walls surge, the sound of the explosion following. As the pine-sheathed, composition-roofed top of the structure collapsed, the fire broke out through the entire length of the garage.

Mayor Arthur C. Carter, owner of the building, has been a patient at the Stumbo Memorial hospital, Lackey, for several days and an estimate of his loss was not available. It was said that the damage was partially covered by insurance.

Floyd Men In Demonstration Featuring Oil, Gas Exposition Held at Mt. Pleasant, Mich.

Most spectacular of all demonstrations offered at the Michigan Oil and Gas Exposition, held last week at Mt. Pleasant, Mich., was that in which a group of Big Sandians, including three Prestonsburg men, extinguished a derrick in flames after gas from a high-pressure line had been ignited.

Mrs. Joe Jarrell, Prestonsburg woman who witnessed the feat, writes: "I know if any of you Big Sandians could have been with me in the grandstand and heard these 10,000 people expressing their appreciation of the daring act our own boys performed, you would have no doubt been just as proud of them as I was."

The Big Sandy group, known as the Kentucky Fire-fighters, was composed of H. L. Gentry, West Liberty; Arthur Salyers, Jack Arlington and Lonnie Hopkins, Prestonsburg; Harry Arlington, Salyersville; Walter Blanton and Everett Conley, Paintsville, and Houston Johnson and Johnny Green, Ashland.

Dressed in asbestos suits and armed with most modern of fire-fighting equipment, the Big Sandians subdued the blaze which leaped 150 feet into the air.

MAKING ESTIMATES FOR COUNTY ROADS

72 Counties Participate in Plans for Expending $2,000,000 on Rural Roads

It was announced Friday by Cecil T. Williams, commissioner of rural highways, that 72 counties in Kentucky have taken advantage of the Department of Rural Highways' $200,000 road work.

In most cases the amounts approved constitute only a partial program, Mr. Williams said. In many of these counties work is now underway and in others it is expected work will start as soon as the personnel can be selected and equipment put on these projects.

Mr. Williams said the total amount of road work approved by his department to date amounts to $848,578.00.

Thirty-two counties, including Floyd county, have submitted projects and district engineers are now making estimates of the cost of the work. When these projects are approved, Mr. Williams said, agreements will be drawn and work will be ready to start.

Only a few counties in the state have not submitted a program of any kind. Among these are Johnson, Knott, Lawrence, Magoffin, Martin, Pike, Owsley and Wolfe.

Most of the delay in starting projects in various counties, Mr. Williams said, has been due to the lack of necessary equipment and the large amount of detail work necessary in getting the projects under way.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Archer arrived last week from Bowling Green, Ky., for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Archer.

Sheriff M. T. Stumbo was in Paintsville, Ky., on business Tuesday.

BIRTH ANNOUNCED

Attractive announcements have been received here telling of the birth on July 29 of a daughter, Barbara Layne Fitzpatrick, to Mr. and Mrs. George H. Fitzpatrick, of Miami, Fla. Mrs. Fitzpatrick is the former Miss Lucille Baxter, of Paintsville. Mr. Fitzpatrick is the son of Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Fitzpatrick, of Miami, and formerly of Prestonsburg.

FLOYD COURTHOUSE REPAIR IS STARTED ON FORCE ACCOUNT

Reynolds Named to Superintend Work; Completion Hoped Before Cold Weather

SPAN CONTRACT LET

Repair of the Floyd county courthouse began this week, all plans for re-modeling the structure damaged by fire several months ago having been discarded as inexpedient by the fiscal court. Joseph Reynolds, of Teaberry, Mud Creek, is supervising repairs, with the court's authority to hire necessary labor, and with the county furnishing all necessary materials.

Though it is not definitely known what the extent of the work started this week will be, it was learned from an authoritative source that a new roof for the building will first engage labor, then enlargement of the County Clerk's and Circuit Clerk's offices, re-flooring, re-ceiling and re-plastering, and construction of a stairway will follow.

Mr. Reynolds as superintendent of construction is responsible to the Floyd County Building Committee consisting of County Judge W. L. Stumbo, County Clerk A. B. Meade and County Attorney Forrest D. Short. He is employed for actual working time, the fiscal court at its meeting last Thursday ordered, at the wage of $3 per day. The Building Committee was authorized to purchase materials as needed.

Reynolds was authorized by fiscal court order to employ carpenters at a wage rate not to exceed in any event 75 cents an hour and the common labor wage scale was fixed at a maximum of $2.50 a day. Plasterers, plumbers and skilled workmen are employed as needed by the county at the wage prevailing in this community.

Compensation insurance has been obtained, as directed by the fiscal court, on all workmen to be employed on the project.

County officials are hopeful that the work can be completed before cold weather.

Sale of funding bonds amounting to $200,000 for retirement of indebtedness of the county is contingent upon action of the Court of Appeals, to which such matter must be submitted before placed in effect. Appellate court action is expected in the matter next month. Millard Allen and Jim Osborne were awarded the contract on construction of the bridge across Right Beaver Creek, near Garrett, on their bid of $1,500, the county to furnish all materials.

Mrs. Lydia Preston and Mrs. Adian Collins, sisters, both of Prestonsburg, were patients in St. Mary's hospital, Huntington, W. Va., this week, following operations to which they submitted a few days ago. Both are convalescing nicely, their many friends will be pleased to learn.

Wells-Elkhorn Sold under Court Order for $75,000

J. S. McVey Is Purchaser of Four Mines, Leases, All Equipment;

The Wells-Elkhorn Coal Company was sold by Harry Laviers, special commissioner, on order of the United States district court, here Saturday to J. F. Mandt, agent for J. S. McVey, for $75,000.

The sale conveyed the company's four mines at Estill, Jones Fork, Lackey and Garrett, including 3,159 acres of coal under lease, all mining machinery, houses, stores, etc.

Upon approval by the court of the sale, which is expected to be made Friday, this week, a company will be organized and operation of the mines resumed, it was said.

The company went into receivership last year, and its mines have been in operation since that time under the receivership of Harry Laviers, with George B. Archer in active charge of mining activities.

Youth, 19, Jailed Here For Slaying Father-in-Law

Bud Whitt Swings Shotgun Barrel Against Head of Andy Engle, 60
'I Didn't Want to Kill Him,' Slayer Declars

Bud Whitt, 19-year-old "married man," is in the county jail here facing a murder charge in the death Sunday night at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, of his father-in-law, Andy Engle, 60, from a skull fracture sustained Friday afternoon when Whitt struck Engle on the head with a shotgun barrel.

At the jail Wednesday afternoon the boyish-looking slayer told The Times that "I could have shot him but I didn't want to kill him."

Young Whitt and his 17-year-old bride of 10 months had been visiting during the day with her parents who reside at the former Bascom Stephens home, near Lem. Whitt said his father-in-law had tried to separate him and his wife since their marriage and that he followed them onto the railroad as they were leaving to return to their home on Stone Coal Creek. Attempting to make them return to the house, Whitt said, Engle turned on him with a knife in his hand. "He started to cut me and I struck him on the side of the head. I didn't mean to kill him—I struck him too high," the slayer said.

Another version of the killing claims, however, that Mr. Engle was slain without provocation.

Surviving Engle are his widow and one daughter, Mrs. Whitt. His body was prepared for burial by E. P. Arnold and was taken to West Garrett, where burial was made in the Martin cemetery. The victim came to this county from the Kentucky river section.

Examining trial for Whitt will be held this afternoon (Thursday), it was said at the County Judge's office.

PASSING INSTITUTIONS

Second Table

I do not wish to belittle the penance of the saints, but I do not remember just now that any of them ever had to endure the agony of waiting until the second table was ready. I must confess, however, that though many boys have feared starvation while waiting for the older ones to make an end of their meal, I have never heard of any actual case of a boy dropping from exhaustion just when the long-awaited invitation to dinner came.

Long ago I ceased to trust my memory too much when things of my childhood was concerned, but it seems to me that at least once a week we were subjected to the indignity of second table. Nothing ever provoked such a feeling of inferiority as having to wait. Circuit riders were the protagonists in the weekly drama; and they were always hungry, especially for fried chicken. And there were swarms of relatives, who may seem interesting to our parents, but who were like so many locusts in the land of Egypt. It is hard to keep separate in my mind yet week-end relatives, preachers, and second table. The whole thing is like a nightmare. However much I may have simulated as doth conversation on table man-joy when the visitors came, I was secretly glad when they left, for the humiliation of waiting for them to eat would now be over until they, or some more like them, appeared again to mar my childish happiness.

Visitors talked even longer than they ate. A boy, as all of you know, does not like to spend a whole day on chewing a mouthful. If left alone, he does not talk while he is eating.

He just accepts the responsibility of getting the job done in record time. No youngster ever advised us to eat deliberately; if I am rightly informed, it was an elderly doctor, who forthwith gave credence to the strange belief that chewing the same mouthful several dozen times would bring about a wise old age and also exuberant health. I am not informed as to the life of the great inventor of taking time to eat, but I am willing to wager a lot that it never occurred to him or any one else to eat slowly until a few teeth or false ones and a slowed-down appetite prompted him to announce what he fatuously thought was a new discovery. It sounds very much like a "day by day in every way," and the rest of the equally fatuous philosophy. As for me, neither very old nor a philosopher with a creed to support, I rather honor that boyish idea that a biscuit was made for one bite and a piece of pie for two, while a glass of milk is good for just two gulps. Between the ideas that people must eat deliberately and must also talk but never with anything in their mouths I was formerly greatly puzzled, and I fear I still am. A serious business like eating ought to be free from any thing that doth so easily beset us.

After awhile second table did not seem so bad. About this time it became the custom to have the little dears eat with grown-ups and parade their manners. I am beginning to wonder whether the youngsters they ate. A boy, as all of you know, does not like to spend a whole day on chewing a mouthful. If left alone, he does not talk while he is eating.

but that this movement will be largely of cattle to be grazed and roughed through the winter, rather than of cattle for immediate grain feeding.

Cattle numbers in the United States, although considerably smaller, than two years ago, are still relatively large. Because of the drought now prevailing over a wide area, cattle numbers at the end of 1936 may be less than at the end of 1935. A marked increase has occurred in recent years in the proportion which the cattle in the area east of the Mississippi river are of the total in the country as a whole and this proportion is expected to increase.

Cattle slaughter during the remainder of 1936 is expected to be large, and larger than that in the corresponding period of 1935. Although it will include somewhat larger numbers of fed cattle than a year earlier, most of the increase will be in low grade cows and heifers. Slaughter in 1937 probably will be less than that of 1936, with the greatest proportional decrease occurring in the supplies of the better grades.

Further improvement in consumer demand for meats is indicated during the remainder of 1936 and the first half of 1937. This improvement will offset to some extent the price weakening effect in beef caused by larger supplies of hog products resulting from the increase in hog slaughter this coming winter. Next spring and summer when both cattle and hog slaughter is expected to be smaller than in 1936, the increased demand for meats is expected to be reflected in a higher level of cattle prices than has prevailed thus far this year.

Because of reduced marketings of well-finished cattle, prices of such cattle are expected to advance sharply toward the end of 1936 and prices of these kinds next spring are likely to be at much higher level than in the first half of this year. Increased supplies of the lower grades this fall, resulting from liquidation caused by the drought, together with the reduced demand for feeder cattle probably will cause prices of such cattle to decline more than seasonally during this period. During the first half of next year, however, the prices of these cattle may advance somewhat as they did early in 1935 when a very sharp rise occurred.

TEST OF LOCAL OPTION IS FILED

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 13—Suit to test the validity of Kentucky's local option liquor control law, passed by the 1936 legislature, has been filed in the Whitley county circuit court by Clive White, Williamsburg liquor dealer, Attorney General B. M. Vincent was advised today.

Hearing on the case was set for Tuesday at Barbourville before Judge P. L. Senters. Assistant Attorney General A. S. Funk will defend the statute.

White, seeking for an injunction against Sheriff W. C. Hamlin, E. C. Hickey, circuit court clerk, and S. L. Renfro, contends that the act is unconstitutional because the title relates to more than one subject; that corporations are subject to lighter penalties than individuals for violations; that unreasonable search and seizure are allowed; that regulation and limitation of jurisdiction and practice of the courts is attempted; that its election provisions are illegal, and that taking of property without due process of law is provided.

A suggestion that county clerks advertise the time when they will close the registration lists for local option elections was made today by Attorney General B. M. Vincent in a communication to J. A. Moneyhon, county clerk of Bracken county.

A number of county clerks, Mr. Vincent said, have inquired relative to the time for closing the registration lists for local option elections, many of which are scheduled for September. Registration for the general elections, under the 1936 Registration Act, may take place at the county clerk's office between August 15 and October 10.

The law stipulates, he said, that the county clerk shall deliver, along with the ballot, a complete registration list to each precinct election clerk.

"The only time limit set on you," Mr. Vincent advised Mr. Moneyhon, "is that you should deliver this at the time you deliver the ballots. You might do that the day before or two or three days before. You have the right to set the time yourself, and I believe it would be wise to advertise the time that you will close the registration for these lists."

Summer Corn, Cattle and Hog Prospects Are Given

Prospects for Kentucky's corn crop are estimated in July as a whole, although conditions are exceedingly irregular, varying from total failure to excellent.

All 1936 estimates in this report are subject to revision either upward as the season progresses, depending on whether conditions after August 1 are particularly favorable or unfavorable.

Probable corn production in Kentucky was forecast August 1 at 46,024,000 bushels, compared to a July 1 prospect for 61,194,000 bushels, and a crop last year of 62,238,000 bushels. The United States total corn crop this season was forecast August 1 at 2,439,135,000 bushels, compared to a July 1 prospect for 2,244,834,000 bushels; 2,291,629,600 bushels produced in 1935, and an average annual production of 2,553,424,000 bushels 1928-1932 inclusive.

The number of cattle on feed for market in the corn belt states on August 1 was about 3 per cent larger than on August 1, 1935, according to the estimate of the United States Department of Agriculture. The increase in the number on feed August 1 is much smaller than the increases estimated on April 1 and January 1 of this year which were 41 and 28 per cent larger, respectively, than on heavy for the remainder of the year.

Reports from feeders as to weights at which cattle on feed August 1 this year would be marketed show a little larger proportion of cattle under 1,100 pounds than was reported last year in August, but smaller than the proportion reported in the preceding three years.

Reports from feeders giving the number of stocker and feeder cattle they expected to purchase during the five months of 1936 and the number purchased during the same period in 1935 show expected purchases this year to be much smaller than actual purchases last year. For the corn belt, as a whole, the decrease was over 30 per cent with the largest decrease in the states west of the Mississippi river, where the effects of the drought this year on grain production have been most serious. This reduction is thought to give a better indication of the number of cattle that will be fed for market during the coming fall and winter than the actual shipments of stocker and feeder cattle. It is expected that a movement of stock cattle, which was of this year which were 41 and 28 per cent larger, respectively, than on heavy for the remainder of the year.

Right Out Of The Air

By R F SERVICE

Edgar A. Guest, the household poet, was first regarded as a versifier when he first came to radio. Then when he first took over "Welcome Valley" on Tuesday nights over the NBC-WJZ network he gradually became an actor, portraying the kindly editor of the "Welcome Valley Chronicle." And now, since he has turned master of ceremonies in greeting a different event of the week to the broadcast in which every effort is made to get the chief character present in person. . . . Nice feature of Hollywood as a place to broadcast from for everybody connected with Radio Theatre is the fact that so many of the stars engaged for the program have swimming pools right at their homes. . . . writers and assistants who work with Cecil B. DeMille, producer of the program, enjoy "at home" rehearsals exceedingly when the weather is hot, because the star generally suggests working out near the swimming pool. . . . Latest flash from Hollywood is that Jack Oakie will star in Radio Theatre on August 31. . . . remember his performance in "Applesauce" on the same program some months ago? . . . radio needs him more often. . . .

Timeliness is now the test Rudy Vallee uses to pick the guest acts for his weekly Variety Hour. . . . he has added a dramatized news or human interest event of the week to the broadcast in which every effort is made to get the chief character present in person. . . . Nice feature of Hollywood as a place to broadcast from for everybody connected with Radio Theatre is the fact that so many of the stars engaged for the program have swimming pools right at their homes. . . . writers and assistants who work with Cecil B. DeMille, producer of the program, enjoy "at home" rehearsals exceedingly when the weather is hot, because the star generally suggests working out near the swimming pool. . . . Latest flash from Hollywood is that Jack Oakie will star in Radio Theatre on August 31. . . . remember his performance in "Applesauce" on the same program some months ago? . . . radio needs him more often. . . .

SYNOPSIS

Sleepy Cat, desert town of the Southwest, is celebrating the Fourth of July. Jane Van Tambel, beautiful daughter of Gus Van Tambel, hated owner of Gunlock ranch, has arrived from the East for the first time. She watches the Frontier Day celebration in company with Dr. Carpy, crusty, tender-hearted friend of the community, Henry Sawdy of the Circle Dot ranch, tricked in a fake horse race the day before by Dave McCrossen, foreman at Gunlock, plans revenge. He enters Bill Denison, a handsome young Texas wrangler, in the rodeo which McCrossen is favored to win, and lays heavy bets on him. Unknown to the crowd, Denison is a champion horseman. McCrossen and the young stranger tie in the various events. Denison then drops a cigarette carelessly. Racing down the track full tilt, he picks up the cigarette. The verdict goes to Denison when McCrossen refuses to attempt the stunt. Entreated by the crowd, Denison agrees to perform another trick. Jane Van Tambel is asked for her bracelet and throws it on the track. Just as Denison rides to pick it up a yell from Barney Rebstock, a McCrossen henchman, scares the pony, nearly costing the rider his life. Gun play is prevented by the intervention of Dr. Carpy. Back on Gunlock ranch after two years in Chicago, because of her father's illness, Jane gets lost riding in the hills and meets Denison, now a neighbor, who guides her home. Not knowing her identity, he speaks bitterly of Van Tambel. She tells McCrossen who brought her home and she denounces Denison as a cattle thief. Later she asks Dr. Carpy why her father is unpopular and he tells her it is because of Van Tambel's ruthless and unscrupulous character.

"Who is that man?" asked Bull as Panama left the shop.

"Why, you ought to know that man, Bull. He's an old-time Sleepy Cat gambler and confidence man—up to every game they ever played from here to Frisco."

"What's his name?"

"They used to call him Big Bill Hayes."

"I heard that name."

"Guess you did—guess everybody's heard it."

"But he made a trip to Panama when the French outfit was runnin' things there. He cleaned up on the Frenchmen, and they run him out of town. He says he got the dysentery down there. Anyway, he got away before they strung him up for a cardsharp. Now everybody calls him Panama."

"What's he doin' here now?"

"Why, the damned critter got religion somehow, and he's the kindest, best preacher that ever talked in Sleepy Cat. He's doin' a world of good."

Oscar spoke up. "Panama's breaking Jake of swearing, Bull."

"Got a job, ain't he?" snickered Bull.

"Just the same, he's cooled me down a lot—you know that, Oscar," declared Spotts. "Otto!" he yelled to the porter in the back room. "What the hell's a-matter with the hot water this mornin'?"

CHAPTER IV

Jane made it a practice to visit her father at the Medicine Bend hospital at least every two weeks.

She spent the day at the hospital with her father, ate an early supper with him, and took Number One back to Sleepy Cat. Her father asked a good many questions about McCrossen.

"A good man," Van Tambel said wheezily of him again and again. "His only trouble is gambling—he will gamble."

"I'm sorry, Father," returned Jane with asperity—it was not the first time he had made the same remark—"but I don't quite see how I can watch him, do you?"

The night was an unquiet one for Jane's pillow. The more she thought about her surprise admirer and his crude advances, the angrier she grew. In the morning she breakfasted and ordered her saddle pony. She meant to take a long ride all by herself and rid herself of her annoyance in the morning air of the high hills.

The day was sympathetic to her purpose. She rode under a cloudless sky into the far reaches of Gunlock Ranch. Insensibly, the clouds in her mind cleared and left her free to enjoy the glory of the scene.

On and on, Jane rode. The pony was spirited and seemed, like his mistress, to enjoy the jaunt. The farther she rode, the wilder the country grew, with only small bunches of cattle here and there to remind her of her domain. At length the hills grew too rough for pleasure riding. With her spirits quieted and feeling invigorated, Jane reined about for the ranch house.

Covering considerably more distance, Jane, having grown weary, was rejoiced at last to see the dusty, serpentine foothills road well below her. Having reached it, she reined into it and jogged along, confident of reaching home soon. Presently she encountered an Indian family traveling toward her in a wagon. She reined up.

"Am I heading right for Gunlock Ranch?" she asked of the man driving.

He nodded affirmatively. But a bright-eyed boy in the wagon box made a protest. He jabbered in low tones to his father and, turning to Jane, exclaimed, "Wrong way," and pointed north. The father shook his head, and the dispute grew. Jane, confused by the uncertainty, thanked the party and rode on south.

A few miles farther she met a horseman heading north. As he drew near, Jane thought she recognized him as the man who had directed her back to the ranch a couple of weeks before, at the close of a long day of riding through the Gunlock hills. Jane reined up inquiringly. The horseman responded to the unspoken invitation by doing likewise. Jane saw a slender face, deeply tanned, black hair, mild brown eyes, a large nose, and a small mouth, framed by a not unfriendly chin.

"Good-morning," ventured Jane. "Can you tell me whether I am on the right road to Gunlock Ranch?"

"The man listened but made no effort to speak. Instead he looked at the girl silently. His gaze was embarrassing.

He ignored her question and instead asked one himself:

"Aren't you the girl who got lost around here a couple of weeks ago?"

"Y-yes," answered Jane. "And aren't in who directed me back to ranch?"

"Guess I was," the man replied, in an absent-minded way."

"I realize that it's stupid of me to lose my way again," she said, "but can you tell me whether I am heading right for the ranch?"

He found his tongue and spoke quietly: "Well . . . you'd reach the ranch the way you are going, though probably not today."

"Not today?" she asked in amazement.

"You want to reach the ranch house, I suppose?"

"I do."

"Then you're heading the wrong way."

"Will you please set me right?"

"You'd better take the back trail. You're going away from the ranch house now."

Jane exclaimed in surprise. "Why, how is that? Are you sure?"

"Dead sure." A suspicion of humor crept into the words.

Confused at being caught wrong, Jane flushed. The man, silent, just looked at her. She did not like it; he might be laughing at her. Facing him more sternly, she asked with helpless annoyance in her words, "What am I to do?"

"Back trail."

"What does that mean?" she asked tartly.

"Turn around."

"Where am I?"

"Pretty well out on the Gunlock Indian Reservation."

"I've never felt so stupid in my life," declared Jane, trying to act at ease as she reined about. "I thought I knew this country well enough by this time not to get lost. I'm certainly not a tenderfoot."

The man smiled, but to himself. "There's been men here several years who get lost riding in the hills. It's no disgrace for a two-monther."

Jane did not relish being termed a "two-monther." "Oh, I've been here before," she said airily.

He offered no comment. Tired, waiting for him to say something, Jane was nettled by his continued silence.

"I see you're wearing your bracelet," he remarked of a sudden. The words came, so to speak, out of a clear sky. She looked at him just as suddenly as he had spoken; and in alarm.

He was looking straight ahead—just as if she were not within miles—and with the impassive expression of a man riding quite alone. Could he be, she asked herself in a flash of fear, a bad man? Could he mean to rob her of her bracelet and watch?

For a moment she was too upset to speak. But her silence seemed not to move her companion.

Looking placidly ahead, and after waiting for her to comment, he spoke again:

"I might be wrong. But I thought I saw that bracelet about two years ago, Fourth of July."

"Oh," exclaimed Jane for want of something better to say.

"Anyway," continued her even-speaking guide, "I know I couldn't be mistaken about the young lady that wore it. Weren't you visiting here around that time?"

"Yes," ventured Jane, stealing a glance at the questioner. His gaze was fixed steadfastly ahead.

"Were you at the Frontier Day celebration in Sleepy Cat that Fourth of July?" he continued.

"Y-yes," repeated Jane. "W-were you?"

"If I hadn't been," he answered dryly, "I shouldn't have seen the bracelet."

They were jogging along pleasantly enough, and as the man didn't actually demand her bracelet or watch, her panic subsided.

"Stopping over at the ranch for a while, are you?"

"For a while, yes."

"Some of the boys over at your ranch were telling in town they had a young lady over at Gunlock that used to ride in a circus. I suppose it was you."

"I'm the only woman, young or old, over there."

"What circus did you work with?"

"Oh, several circuses," said Jane recklessly.

"What were some of them?"

Jane, growing flighty, named one of the big ones whose shows she had attended in Chicago.

"What year were you with that show?"

She was growing desperate. With affected embarrassment she turned full on him. "You mustn't ask me that. Women are sensitive about their age, don't you know?"

For the first time he turned his eyes directly toward hers; there was a slight mutual shock at the encounter. To hide a momentary confusion, she laughed nervously; but a bridge—a little bit of a bridge over a little bit of a brook—had been crossed. And the little bit of a brook was of the kind that sometimes leads to a big river.

His eyes were brown—Jane could see them now—together with some of the lightning that flashed in response to her words. She was even a little scared.

"I've heard some women are that way," he went on, "but I shouldn't call you a woman."

"Oh, my! Why not?"

"Well, I'd call you a girl. The reason I asked was, because I was with that show one season myself."

This was growing terrifying. Jane made an effort to change the line of talk; but her stranger was interested. "Did you ever happen to ride in Madison Square Garden?"

"N-no! Did you?"

"I rode there one winter when we showed there."

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

After washing white silk stockings or gloves and rinsing them thoroughly be sure to hang them in the shade to dry. This will keep them white.

When blankets are washed at home do not wring them dry. Instead hang them outdoors on the clothesline to dry.

If the chicken is well rubbed inside and out with a cut lemon before being cooked it will make the meat white, juicy and tender.

When you have potatoes left over from a meal do not peel, as a cold potato keeps better with the jacket on. If peeled, it dries on the outside and must be trimmed before using, and that is wasteful. Also, an economical way to prepare mashed potatoes is to boil them in their jackets, peel and then mash.

Left-over cauliflower can be dipped in cracker crumbs and egg and fried in deep fat and served for luncheon or supper.

Before heating milk in a sauce pan rinse the pan with water and the milk will not scorch so easily.

Never beat or stir cereals or rice with a spoon. It makes them pasty. Use a silver-plated fork.

OLD IDEAS ABOUT LIGHT AND SEEING ARE DISPROVED

Scientific research has exploded and outmoded many ideas about eyes and seeing, which are important in our everyday lives.

For example, seeing is not done with the eyes alone. Seeing is a partnership between our eyes and light. Be the light ever so bright — we cannot see without eyes. And though our eyes may be perfect, we cannot see without light.

And, contrary to general opinion, some eyes require more light than others. Children and old people need more light than average adults to prevent eyestrain.

The light that is good enough for one task is not necessarily good enough for another. Sewing and studying require more light than reading a well-printed novel.

One bright light for your reading or work is not enough. Light must be diffused about the room so that sharp contrasts between light and shadow do not cause the eyes to adjust themselves repeatedly, resulting in eyestrain. The eyesight of the average person is not exceptionally good. Here are the facts: One school child in every five, forty college persons over fifty years of age have defective vision.

Science also says, homes without electricity are not necessarily well lighted, neither are homes without electricity necessarily lighted poorly. The lighting in many homes with electricity can be improved by increasing the sizes of bulbs, diffusing the light and fitting lamps with light-colored shades. For homes without electricity, there are modern gasoline and kerosene pressure mantle lamps that supply light which is the nearest like daylight of any artificial light.

Turner's Criticism

Turner, the famous English painter, once ridiculed his own paintings as a salad was offered him at a dinner party, in this wise: "Nice cool green that lettuce, isn't it? And the beetroot pretty red — yet not quite strong enough, and the mixture, delicate tint of yellow that. Add some mustard and then you have one of my paintings."

STUMBO MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

One of This Section's Most Successful Institutions, Devoted to the Service of Those Who Are Ill—No One Turned Away for Lack of Money.

There is no institution in this part of the country more worthy of mention than this foremost hospital. "Without health all the other gifts of life are worthless." Human nature seems to be so constituted that we mortals do not realize the truth of this statement until it is too late. Health is one of these things—like a good wife—not appreciated until it is gone.

This hospital offers the patient quiet and rest combined with every modern method of treatment and diagnosis. Laws of nature and principles of science are coordinated in the most effective care of their patients.

Their modern building is complete and equipped for all kinds of cases. Special department for contagious diseases, kidney and bladder trouble, eye, ear and nose department, under capable direction of specialists in these diseases.

Special development in the laboratory and diet kitchen make systematic study and rapid results in treatment possible.

The hospital contains complete operating departments, nursery and examination departments.

This modern institution contains quarters for the reception of cases requiring personal care and individual study. We are glad to compliment this institution on its surroundings and their work in the relief of suffering humanity. We judge man's love for God by the way he treats his fellowmen.

It has been built up to its present high standard by the tireless efforts of its efficient staff and the years that have been spent and the results that have been obtained deserve the praise of all.

The hospital has most efficient laboratories and is equipped to take care of out-of-town patrons in a prompt manner.

Spenders of Yesteryear Gone With Their Billions Paris Hotels Empty England Learns Also

Europe learns that political experiments cost money. England decided to prevent Mussolini taking Ethiopia, camping along the imperial British highway, and controlling Lake Tana, source of Nile water.

Washington that Mussolini could not possibly conquer Ethiopia in less than three years, probably not at all.

When the dust had settled and England, with her chicken-feed assortment of 51 league nations, had apologized to Mussolini and tossed Haile Selassie into the waste-basket, England found her foreign commerce much damaged.

For a little while she will copy Job: "I will lay mine hand upon my mouth. Once I have spoken . . . yea twice, but I will proceed no further."

Paris, which is France, decided to sing and dance a new carmagnole with Russian dressing; clenched fists raised in air a la Russe; red flag waving; the doleful strains of the Communist hymn, l'Internationale, and its Communist injunction, "Arise, ye prisoners of starvation," excellently sung from the Arc de Triomphe to the Place de la Bastille.

You can hardly imagine what fire, fury and enthusiasm thousands of young and old French gentlemen put into that hymn, although many of them showed few outward signs of starvation.

There were, and are, manifestations everywhere. Now in the chamber of deputies, Monsieur Gaston Gerard, practical French statesman, asks, "What has become of our foreign tourists and their spending money?"

M. Gerard tells the deputies something must be done. In 1927, 2,125,000 foreigners from all over the world visited France, spending much money.

Foreign visitors, says M. Gerard, used to give highly paid employment to half a million French men and women; spent 500,000,000 francs for French railroad and steamship tickets; scattered throughout France from 12 to 15 thousand millions of francs.

Fifteen billions, even in francs, are "real money" here. M. Gerard tells the chamber French prices are too high. There is something in that, with the four-cent franc costing six to seven cents in the United States—a comic-opera situation, considering the relative wealth of the two nations.

M. Gerard thinks there should be some cabinet official to look after foreigners, with better propaganda and fewer vexatious taxes on foreigners; there is nothing in that.

Foreigners do not voluntarily travel and spend money where they feel they are not wanted. The cosmopolitan, educated Frenchman is as polite and hospitable as ever, but ask him what sort of reception the crowd gives to the foreigner, British especially. It offends the British ear to hear A bas les Anglais!—"Down with the British!"

An innocent American, in an innocent average American automobile, sallied forth on July 14 to help France celebrate the destruction of the Bastille, and perhaps give a few feeble cheers for Lafayette, or Woodrow Wilson, or somebody.

Great crowd in the Champs Elysees, especially around the innocent American car, with new paint, shiny chromium and several cylinders. A polite policeman says monsieur should know better than to appear in a car of "grand luxury" on such a day.

Nothing happens to the car of grand luxury; it crosses the Avenue of the Champs Elysees, about 300 feet, in less than twenty minutes. The French, newly self-identified as "prisoners of starvation," are interested in the auto American, which is careful not to bump anybody.

The bourgeois, the "rich," an extinct species, although it does not yet know it, are nervous. In a vague way they feel that they are held responsible for all those "prisoners of starvation," with their strong voices, deep chests, powerful fists and pink complexions.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Debunking War's Romance SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—Mrs. "Bud" Lighton, one of the smartest women on this or any other coast, has started a symposium of suggestions for the promotion of national sanity the next time diplomats or politicians, profiteers or professional sword rattlers, or all of these types combined, try to rush a country into futile and uncalled for war— which classification covers most wars.

Her peace formula includes these ideas: No brass bands whatsoever. No speech-making by stay-at-home orators. No recruiting except by men who have themselves enlisted for active service.

No shiny buckles, no gaudy regalia. Respect for the flag and, if necessary, all proper defense for it, but no cheap waving of it beforehand. No blatant emotional displays being turned off or on like a hydrant. Reason to be invoked rather than mob-steria.

Red Baiters' Field Day AGENTLEMAN in Iowa, who presumably inquired into the matter, asserts that in this country are upwards of 4,000,000 aliens who entered illegally and that the vast majority of these—over 90 per cent, are on relief.

Locally speaking, I'm told that the average foreign-born agitator, ostensibly seeking to organize the casual workers of this state, is really a red agent spreading communistic doctrines under cover of his seeming activities in the industrial field.

The League's Big Moment AT LAST here's a chance for the League of Nations to function. For the poor thing it has been an uphill pull to slide down hill so steadily, with each descending step toward the bottom marked by disappointment and failure.

But now, the league can punish at least one small nation for persistently breaking the otherwise solid front presented by nearly all the important European powers. Surely, ere long, it will hang some sort of penalty on little, simple-minded Finland for regularly paying installments on her debt to us.

Paging the Black Legion IT IS passing strange that the Black Legion is so slow about offering Herr Hitler honorary membership in the mother-lodge up in Michigan.

Meanwhile just so long as they didn't try to stop him from shaking those nimble feet our brown-skinned flying squirrel, Jesse Owens, should worry because a dictator refuses to shake his hand. With Metcalfe and other dark colleagues helping him pile up so commanding a lead for the American team in the Olympic games, it's almost time for the band to play "All Gawd's Chillun Got Wings."

Synthetic Spanish Hidalgos AND the famous Santa Barbara fiesta festing on every side and yours truly looking as much like a Spanish hidalgo as anybody born in McCracken county, Ky., could be expected to look.

Down at his home on the range where seldom is heard a discouraging word—except from Washington, D. C.—we behold Uncle Jack Garner, with his head over the corral bars, beginning to moo plaintively. And now, on top of all that, it seems we must start worrying about Tommy Manville's next wife, or wives, as the case may be—and probably will.

Uncommon Sense by JOHN BLAKE

Just outside my window I can hear a slight clicking every time the members of my household turn on the taps in their kitchens. That clicking reminds me constantly that water is expensive down here in this seaside cottage where I am spending a month.

By and by, when I close the cottage a man with a key will come along, unlock a meter and take its reading.

These boys on the Maine coast are careful, as they should be, that no summer dweller gets away without making matters square with that meter.

On Housing: "Slums are a slur on our civilization."

On Russian Drama: "Plays where they spend three hours talking about life without bothering to live."

On Discipline: "It has always been a mystery to me how a certain number of people feel that the only way they can express the feeling we all have about war is by discouraging any form of healthy discipline and training."

doing with them, and what we are getting out of them as they come and go.

As the poet observes of the minutes, "we cannot strive to grasp them all," but we can grasp and hold many more than we do if we remember that every click of that meter means a second used or lost forever.

What our time allowance is we shall have no means of knowing. But we can if we are careful get more out of existence as it passes than we usually do.

So, when you hear that meter ticking in the cellar, or the clock ticking on the wall, you will realize that your life is being slowly measured out to you.

Keep as careful track of it as you are able to.

Get as much out of every working hour—and every playing hour as it is possible, and when it is all over you will know that you have made the best possible use of a life which you might, by heedlessness, have wantonly squandered.

How They Gyp 'Em In Martin County

[By W. B. Ward in the Paintsville Herald-News]

A very recent decision rendered by the State Tax Commission on June 15, to be exact, on the facts of law as manifested and interpreted by the astute pleadings of the Hon. W. R. McCoy, of Inez, Ky., attorney for the plaintiff in the case has opened up quite an interesting question for all people who have leased their gas and oil rights to various corporations. These leases and conditional deeds and all title to the gas and oil passes from the land holder to the lessee or corporation so long as the lease is in force and its conditions met. In fact, the lessee absolutely owns all gas and oil rights during the life of the lease. Now right here is where the lessor or farm-owner comes in for his gyping. He owns the land. The corporation owns the gas and oil. This piece of property is not listed for taxation by Martin county officers, but it is listed for the corporations at Frankfort, Ky. There it can be juggled and taxed to suit convenience of the lessee or corporations. These lessees know the ropes and they have the very best legal talent to represent them both in Martin county and at Frankfort. They pay high for this talent, but they make money by doing so. Wonder if it would not be good business sense for the lessors or farm owners who have leased their gas and oil for a long or a pittance to organize into one strong group and pool all their interests with the one main view and that main view to be to have a square deal. It might be good business and money in their pocket for all to go together and employ a good, honest, sensible attorney to be on the job and stand for the citizens and his rights. If corporations can make money by hiring competent advice, why cannot the farmers deal with cases before them. The farmers profit by using brains in their interest. The tobacco growers know this. So does every other group of producers. Mountain men seem to be slow to see the advantage of it through the courts. That is only standing together. Their gas, coal are gone. What have they in return? Has there been a fair divide? Who got the lion's share and why? Who has paid high for his whistle? Well, just look around you. As said above, the gas companies own all the gas leases and they are assessed on this wealth on certain percentage basis over a period of years and regain all at Frankfort. On these agreed sums they pay certain taxes. That is all well and good if the assessment is high enough. But here is the fly in the ointment. The Martin county farmer who has leased his rights away as to gas and oil is also assessed for that same gas property and is paying taxes on the property he does not own. This is double taxation and no court of justice in the land will uphold such highway robbery. If each lessor will go to the tax commissioner's office in Inez they will find that he is being all taxed on the gas company's property. estate owners. Will they, the small estate owners, sleep on, or will they company's assessment at Frankfort be being raised. This is a nice battle. Their motto should be, "As of taking up a collection for tax for me and mine, we will have a square deal." This fight now won by Mr. McCoy and his clients has been a long and tedious one, reaching over more than one administration. There have been many obstacles in the way. Only a big estate with much money back of it could afford to fight it to a finish. Now that the thing is done, the man of small means knows his rights, too. He must now stiffen his backbone and demand the same. This is no time to sell a birthright for a mess of pottage. There has been too much of that in Martin county in the years ago. The day of reckoning is now about to come. This is only one of several check-ups the "dear people" are about to make.

NO REFORMATION AT REFORMATORY

The declaration that the term "reformatory" is a misnomer when applied to Kentucky's penal institution of that name at Frankfort, was convincingly proved in the striking address by James Hammond, superintendent of the institution, before the Ashland Kiwanis Club on Wednesday.

Mr. Hammond, immediate past commander of the American Legion in this state, has made an excellent record since his appointment to the superintendency of the Frankfort reformatory about six months ago. But the shockingly inadequate equipment and facilities provided in the institution are a disgrace to the state which create conditions that no man, however able, can overcome. It is to Mr. Hammond's credit that he faces these conditions frankly and courageously.

About 2,800 men and 80 women are housed in the Frankfort institution, built more than 100 years ago for a maximum of 850 inmates. The last addition to this prison was constructed 72 years ago. Conditions arising from this forced overcrowding are indescribable. Instead of being a place of reform, it is necessarily a school of crime in which hardened criminals of the worst type and young first offenders must live and work together.

It should be said to the credit of the Chandler administration and the Governor himself that the problem of new penal and charitable institutions has been attacked by the first practical effort at solution made in many years. Through the use of federal and state funds, plans are to be carried out to build a new prison to replace the present old one at Eddyville and to abandon completely the antiquated reformatory at Frankfort.

In the place of the latter, it is planned to build somewhere in the state a new, modern institution with a large farm and workshops attached. Projected improvements also call for similar replacements for the placements for the other inadequate institutions which are a disgrace to the name of Kentucky.

Whatever the necessary cost, it will be justified. Criminals are being turned back into our society under the parole system, much readier for a life of crime than when they were committed to Frankfort or Eddyville. The cost of this procedure to the cities, counties and states is staggering and will, in a very few years, amount to a much more than the investment in the new institution planned.

Mr. Hammond, an Eastern Kentuckian of great ability who is admired by all who know him, is to be commended for his frank discussion of conditions before civic clubs and other organizations. He brings home to them in an irresistibly convincing way the present need for a change in Kentucky's disgraceful institutional condition.—Ashland Daily Independent.

BETTER POWER SERVICE

The Herald-News is pleased to report this week a vastly improved power service for the citizens of Paintsville. The Herald-News in the last week's issue called attention editorially, to the poor service which had been rendered by the power company for several months. Especially was this true of radio interference which had been traced to faulty equipment. But this trouble has now been almost wholly cleared up and local radio sets are now working almost perfectly.

Mr. Hodges, manager of the Kentucky and West Virginia Power Company, of Pikeville was in Paintsville last week and told a Herald-News representative that no expense would be spared in giving the citizens of Paintsville the best service that money could buy or human ingenuity produce. Mr. Hodges had with him one of the greatest radio experts in the United States who made a thorough check of the electrical system of Paintsville and surrounding territory, and all equipment believed to be faulty was repaired or replaced. Mr. Hodges said that because of the extension of new lines over which the company had no control had overworked their service crew and for this reason the company was slow in reaching Paintsville, but that every defect would be remedied and a continuity of perfect service might be expected in the future. Mr. Hodges asked the forgiveness of the citizens of Paintsville and said his company was anxious to co-operate with the citizens with a view of giving the best service possible to secure.—Paintsville Herald-News.

FORD SALES EXCEED 400,000 4th MONTH

For the fourth consecutive month, domestic sales of Ford V-8 cars and trucks totalled more than 100,000 units. It was reported today at the home office of the Ford Motor Company. This continuation of high-volume sales into mid-season represents a surprising reversal of the trend in former years.

The demand for Ford V-8 units has been so well maintained into the late summer, it was explained, as to make necessary the abandonment of plans for a general vacation shut-down of the Rouge plant during the current week. The plant was partially closed during last week, it was said. Production of current models will be continued when the plant resumed full operations about August 17.

The large volume of July business can be partially attributed to the recent announcement of new Ford V-8 passenger car interiors and the addition of de luxe equipment for Ford V-8 trucks, it was said. Ford's production in July in the United States and Canada totalled 115,137 units.

Hatfield Electric Appliance Shop, Pikeville, Feature Sales and Service on Nation's Leading Electrical Appliances

Crossley Shelvador Refrigerators, A. E. C. Washers and Ironing Machines, Round Oak and Universal Gas and Electric Ranges, As Well As Other Home Labor Saving Machines, Expert Installation and Service With Each Sale

This firm realized conditions of the day and seeing a splendid opportunity to be of great service to the people of the territory and at the same time to build a business, secured the sales and service for many of the leading manufacturers of electrical appliances and thus are in a position in the way of the modernization of the home from an electrical standpoint.

"Do it with electricity." This indeed is the slogan of the age. And well it may be. Where we did two for sale here do the family washing things electrically ten years ago, we do a score now. And each new task that electricity performs takes away just that much more from the tiresome routine which sometimes makes life a burden. To make life pleasanter, more liveable in the homes of this community is no indirect aim of this up-to-date electric appliance shop; it is the primary aim of this business.

Name almost any of those things which the average woman dislikes to do about the house, and there is a device of machine for it in this store which will do it. If it does not do the work entirely, it takes the drudgery out of it. No woman likes to wash. It is almost proverbial that women kill themselves over a washboard. Electric washers for the lady of the house by pressing buttons. Electric irons take much of the annoyance and work out of ironing. Vacuum cleaners are famous for the work they do. But there are also electric dishwashers here, even electric egg beaters.

Acquaintance with the electrical supplies business, also enables these men to buy at an advantage. By knowing the needs of the community they are able to buy in quantities large enough to be able to sell these labor-saving machines at the lowest possible prices. Their stock, of course, is made up from lines made up from the leading electrical appliance manufacturers.

This firm does not only sell you the appliances but it has a corps of installation experts who will see that the machines are properly set up in your homes, and will be on hand to insure that everything starts working properly.

PAULEY LUMBER AND REAL ESTATE CO, PIKEVILLE, FEATURE LUMBER, WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Ready at all times to supply the people of this city and vicinity with the best building materials for the beautiful homes for which this community is famous, this planning mill is a community asset.

The pride of every community—particularly of this community—is its beautiful homes. Outsiders judge a community by its homes more quickly than by anything else. A man wants a home which exactly suits him and his family. There is only one way to have such a home—build it. No home will be built to meet the wishes of another till exactly suit you.

Furthermore, he knows his needs perfect. He never has to carry dead stock with the resulting high prices. All these factors allow him to operate on the closest possible margin. Thus he is giving to the community the results of his long experience, his unusual ability and his unusual acquaintance with the lumber business.

These benefits accrue to the citizens of this community in the form of the lowest possible prices on lumber, thus enabling them to carry on the building of homes and places of business and in this way promoting the progress of the community.

If you are considering building a home, you can do nothing better than to consult Pauley Lumber and Real Estate Company. They not only can tell you what is the best kind of lumber to use throughout the home you are planning to build, but they can refer you to a most reliable contracting firm who will take care of your home in a most efficient manner and at a most reasonable cost.

Too much cannot be said for the manager of this firm, H. Pauley, as a man who knows his business and who holds a high place in the minds of progressive citizens in the community. Courteous and friendly both in his business and out, this man has won the confidence of everyone. He is not content to serve the public merely in his business; he insists in doing everything possible to support commendable community activities. It is worthwhile to visit this planning mill just to make the acquaintance of this amiable individual.

A most worthy institution with years of service to the people of this section is a financial pillar of unsurpassed strength in this section of the state. Its methods are up-to-date and efficient. Its management is able and fully competent to cope with every financial problem that may come to it for solution, an important factor in the development of this section.

It is known as a bank of superlative integrity and one that can be counted on to carry its share of the load in any forward-looking and progressive movement. Its influence on the home life of the country has been marked, indeed, for through its willing assistance and able advice many who would otherwise never have known the satisfaction of owning their homes are now substantial citizens and home owners and are aiding in the progress of their various communities.

The policy of this bank is one of accommodation and convenience to its customers. Liberal without being careless, conservative without being hidebound. The best interests of its customers are always consulted and they determine the course it shall follow in every instance, except where those interests would conflict with or prove a menace to the welfare of the community at large. The policy has drawn to this institution a large clientele, friends to all whom it serves.

This bank, of course, conducts a general banking business. Its services and advice are sought by the large corporations as well as the humblest individual, and in every instance the same courteous treatment is extended and the same careful attention given to the problems presented. They have always adhered to the soundest principles of banking and are well deserving of the magnificent patronage that has been extended to their ably managed institution.

SPECIAL JURY IN KNOTT ORDERED

To Investigate Two Slayings, Two Robberies, Panel Drawn Saturday

A special grand jury will be empaneled when the Knott circuit court re-convenes Monday for the final two weeks of its session, Circuit Judge John W. Caudill, said this week, to investigate a series of crimes in that county. Judge Caudill went to Hindman Saturday to draw the names of jurors from the jury wheel.

Two homicides, two robberies and a number of minor felonies have been committed since the regular grand jury adjourned. One of the reasons for calling the special probe lies in the fact that Beckham Napier is held in jail without bond in the killing of a man named Patrick recently. The slaying, evidence uncovered at Napier's examining trial, was premeditated, this testimony claiming that Napier, intoxicated, picked up his gun, stating he intended to kill Patrick.

Another slaying to be called to the attention of the grand jury is that of Elisha Owens, Caney Creek merchant, at the hands of John D. Huff near the latter's home on Jones' Fork.

PUBLICATION FOR TEACHERS ISSUED

Floyd School Census Total Is 16,065 After Weekday System Added

"School Notes" is the title of the mimeographed publication issued to Floyd county teachers from the office of County Superintendent Hall. The bulletin as a whole is of much interest to teachers, and the following two items are of general interest:

"With the addition of the Weekday schools to the county system our official census for this year is 16,065. This means that our per capita of $11.65, which is the highest ever known in Kentucky, will bring a total allotment of $187,357.25 from the state department."

"Up in District No. 13 Robert Marshall reports a total enrollment of 52, with only three letters of the alphabet represented when the surnames are called. Exactly one-half of these are Shepherds. Only ten of the others are left when the Skones are taken out. Arnetts, Hackworths and Hales make up the ten."

J. W. Call & Son, Funeral Directors and Embalmers, Pikeville Deserve Well Merited Tribute for Efficiency

Located in Pikeville, Telephone 75-77 or 79, With Ambulance Service Day and Night.

J. W. Call and Son are funeral directors who have made every effort to put into their service the little appreciative things that do so much to make for the comfort and convenience of those who call upon them.

To help lessen the pain at the time of death of our loved ones, to see that everything is done that can be done to make the last service for our dear departed, to surround the funeral rites with a magnificence that is glorious—this is the work of these dignified, yet up-to-date funeral directors. From the time they are called in the hour of death you may rest assured that every detail of the burial service will be taken off your hands. These men have made a specialty of taking over all arrangements and carrying them through perfectly.

Their is a business which only a comparatively few men are prepared to enter. It is not just a matter of skill, not just knowing the technique of embalming, the successful funeral director must have more than just these qualities, he must have personality, a certain adaptness for handling delicate situations and a dignity that is required in but a few professions. People remark at the smoothness and satisfying quietness with which funeral service is carried out when conducted by them. They seem to have the inherent ability for this work.

In addition to their skill, they are completely equipped to conduct a funeral on any scale. Complete motor equipment greatly facilitates the smooth carrying out of the last rites.

The people of this community have learned to think of them at the time of death. Their long period of business existence has made them known to every one and there is undoubtedly a great satisfaction as every one knows, in having someone whom you know and in whom you have confidence, conduct the funeral service.

CHANGES MADE IN BOARD

that it will no longer recognize the high school department there. If the schedule can be arranged to do so, the same bus may run on into Betsy Layne to transport students there, it was said this week by County Superintendent Palmer L. Hall.

The board of education at its meeting Tuesday voted to build a one-room school at Bradley Ford, approximately three miles above Wayland. Students from that section hitherto have attended a Knott county school, but congested conditions in the school they have been attending makes it impossible, it was said, for them to be accepted there this year. At the same time, the four-room frame school constructed on Stone Coal was accepted by the board.

Other business transacted by the board follows:

Resignation of Franklin Webster as principal of the Estill consolidated school accepted. Claude May named to succeed him; Mrs. Elizabeth Mayo employed as principal of the Beaver high school; Addie Stepp hired as high school teacher at Bonanza; Harrison Elliott hired to take the place of Claude May at Wayland; Iola Crisp transferred from Lackey to Martin; Dorothy Martin employed as teacher at Drift; Christine Coleman employed in the Wayland colored school and Mamie Gilbert in the colored school at Weeksbury.

They furnish a funeral home for the benefit of those who live in limited quarters, and it is fully equipped and at the disposal of all patrons. The funeral home has become the accepted system in the more metropolitan centers for people in the most palatial homes.
