

EDUCATION BOARD ACQUIRES 2 BUSES

SERVES BEAVER CREEK, BETSY LAYNE AND LEFT BEAVER

SEATS FORTY PUPILS

The Floyd county board of education recently purchased two new school buses to accommodate about 40 students each and have one in operation along the Mayo Trail. These buses serve Prestonsburg and Betsy Layne schools.

Mr. Hall, county superintendent, stated that these two modern types of school transportation would increase the enrollment at the schools mentioned by approximately 15 per cent. To take care of the whole county, according to Mr. Hall, there is a need of a fleet of six buses and roads in fair shape upon which to operate them.

Upon the recommendation of the State Department of Education, both Dwale and Weeksburg junior high schools will be eliminated, but the Weeksburg school was reinstated with the 11th and 12th grade pupils transported to the Wheelwright school and carried in private cars.

Another delivered Saturday, and put into operation Monday, September 14, on the Right Beaver road from Allen to Garrett, is approximately the same capacity, but differently designed.

The county board of education is to be commended on this progressive move, which serves to safely transport children to and from school. Both buses are to be headquartered at Allen.

MINIX SLAIN BY COLLINS AT ESTILL

Bob Collins, of Wayland, has been lodged in the county jail here, charged with the slaying of Wilbur Minix at Estill, at 2 o'clock Monday morning.

In a statement to The Times, Collins stated that he and some friends were enjoying a friendly game of cards at the home of L. A. Skeans, when Wilbur Minix entered the home and was ordered by Skeans to leave three times, but refused to leave.

It was stated that Collins fired two shots, one striking his brother, Orbin Collins, 32 years old, killing him instantly, and one striking Minix, who was taken to the hospital Monday morning in a dying condition and succumbed Monday morning.

Another version of the shooting was that the difficulty arose over a poker game.

Sheriff M. T. Stumbo, Chief of Police Will A. Willis Deputy Sheriffs Fred Bates, Mitchell Thomas, Verne Castle and Mey Click made the arrest Monday at the Bradley home at Estill.

L. A. Spears was also taken into custody and was released on $5,000 appearance bond.

MAYOR CARTER TO RE-BUILD GARAGE

Mayor A. C. Carter, of the Carter Motor Sales, distributor of General Motors products, announced this week that construction of a new garage will be commenced within the next 10 or 15 days, to replace the one recently destroyed by fire.

Mayor Carter is constructing a temporary building to be used during the construction of the new garage, and assures his patrons that the high class sales and service for which his company is known will be maintained.

Walter Scott Harkins, Jr., Is Victim of Appendicitis

KIWANIS INTERNATIONAL TO MEET IN JOHNSON CITY

The annual convention of the Kentucky Tennessee district convention of Kiwanis International will be held in Johnson City, Tenn., October 15, 16 and 17, it was announced today by Oliver A. Kays, district governor, Danville, Ky.

"The program this year promises to be of much interest and we are expecting a record attendance," Mr. Kays stated.

"Notable among speakers scheduled for the convention will be Past International President Harper Gatten, International Trustee Harold Hipler, Conventioneer Russ Hill and others. The Johnson City Club has also arranged for a good orchestra, a football game and other outstanding features of interest."

The Kentucky Tennessee district of Kiwanis International is composed of 55 clubs with a total membership of approximately 2,500, it was stated.

All Kiwanians and their wives are cordially invited to attend the convention. Special programs are being arranged for the women, it was said.

PROMINENT LOCAL ATTORNEY DIES IN HUNTINGTON, W. VA.

Walter Scott Harkins, Jr., 38 years old, died Thursday, September 10, at 3:30 p. m. at the Memorial Hospital, in Huntington, a victim of appendicitis.

Mr. Harkins' death came as a distinct shock to his many relatives and friends not only in the Big Sandy valley, but also throughout the entire state. Within a few days following an operation, on Sept. 5, his condition became critical and he continued to grow weaker. The end came five days later.

Mr. Harkins was a son of the late Walter S. Harkins and Mrs. Josephine Davidson Harkins, whose families were among the early settlers of Eastern Kentucky.

He received his early training in the public schools of Prestonsburg, prepared for college at Kentucky Military Institute, later entering Center College at Danville, where he received his A. B. degree. He received his law degree at the University of Michigan. After graduating from the University of Michigan, Mr. Harkins returned to Prestonsburg and was admitted to the bar in November, 1928, and formed a law partnership with his brother, Joseph D. Harkins, which firm was known as Harkins and Harkins.

Mr. Harkins was a member of the Bar Association, and practiced not only in the state courts, but also in the Kentucky Court of Appeals, the U. S. District court and the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Mr. Harkins was a member of the American Legion Post No. 129, and always showed great interest in the activities of the Legion and the welfare of the service men as a whole.

He was a director of The Bank Josephine, and was also a stockholder and director in several gas companies, and was especially active during the early development of the Eastern Kentucky gas field.

In addition to his brother, Joseph D. Harkins, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Marguerite Harkins, nee Miss Marguerite Fox, of Danville, Ky., his mother, Mrs. Josephine D. Harkins; four sons, Montgomery Scott, William Fox, George and Donald, of Prestonsburg, and two sisters, Mrs. H. B. Browning, of Ashland, Ky., and Mrs. G. L. Howard, Miami, Fla.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday, Sept. 12 from the M. F. Church, South, of which Mr. Harkins was a member, by the Rev. H. P. King, assisted by Dr. W. O. Carter, of Paintsville, and the Reverend Dr. Webb, of Pikeville, Ky.

Interment was made in the family cemetery in Prestonsburg under the direction of E. P. Arnold.

Many relatives and friends from out of town attended the funeral, among whom were:

From Frankfort, Ky.—Miss Lillian Ingram, Mr. Staggman, sergeant-at-arms, George Taylor, George Hatcher, Mary Mary May and daughter, Miss Shirley.

From Ashland, Ky.—Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Burke, Mrs. W. A. Ginn, Miss Eleanor Browning, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Keenan, Mr. M. C. Funk, Judge and Mrs. Tinsley, Mrs. Rebena Roper, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Snyder, Mrs. Hugh Morehead, Mrs. Carolyn B. Meek, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Hatcher, Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Hutsinger, Ward B. Allen, John E. Buckingham, Mr. and Mrs. Eroy Browning.

From Catlettsburg—George B. Martin, Mrs. Jack Cottrell, Luther Meeks.

ENROLLMENT OF STUDENTS AT EASTERN SEPTEMBER 18

Richmond, Ky., Sept. 11—Eastern Kentucky State Teachers' College will open its thirtieth session with the registration of students for the fall term to begin Sept. 18, when enrollment of freshmen starts.

The freshman registration program will occupy Sept. 18 and 19, with upper classes registering on Monday, Sept. 21. The schedule of classification of freshmen will include addresses by President H. L. Donovan, Dean W. C. Jones and Major C. W. Gallaher, in command of the recently established field artillery division of the R. O. T. C. at Eastern.

Recreational features of the freshman program include a tour of the campus Friday, Sept. 18, at the conclusion of which refreshments will be served at the Home Economics department. On Friday evening freshmen will attend the picture show to be given in the Hiram Brock auditorium.

The program for Saturday, Sept. 19, will be in the class room and on the campus with greetings from President Donovan, Donovan, and a discussion of "The Selection of a Curriculum," by Dean Jones, and an address by Major Gallaher on "The R. O. T. C. at Eastern."

On Saturday afternoon freshman class schedules will be made out at the administration building, and the day's activities will be closed with a party at Pirman Hall at 7:30.

LOCAN MAN WINS FIRST PRIZE IN MUSICAL CONTEST

Bob Bossey, of Prestonsburg, won first prize of $10 in a musical contest held at the Weddington theater in Pikeville.

Tuesday night, Sept. 22, the final contest will be held at this same theatre of the winners in seven consecutive weeks.

After each contestant has performed, a vote is taken by the audience by ballot to decide the winner.

MARTIN SUFFERS FRACTURED SKULL

Son of Tandy Martin Found Injured Monday Morning On Railroad Tracks Near Dwale

Duke Martin, 30 years old, son of Tandy Martin, of Ashland, is in the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, suffering from a fractured skull and broken leg.

Martin was found Monday morning at 3 a. m., by Jim Rowe on the railroad tracks a short distance below Dwale. Rowe notified the section foreman, who brought him to Allen, and he was then taken to the hospital by Dr. E. E. Martin.

Martin was unable to give a clear account of the accident, as he was suffering from shocks but Wednesday morning hospital attendants reported that he was showing some improvement.

PIKE-FLOYD MINES TO BE ABANDONED

Pittsburgh Coals Company Starts Pulling Steel This Week at Betsy Layne, This County

Report reaches us that the mines of the Pike Floyd Coal Company at Betsy Layne will be abandoned by the company.

Company officials, stated Wednesday that a crew of men were put to work to pull steel and all equipment from the mine.

The tippie head house and all tippie equipment were destroyed by fire on July 13 of this year, at an estimated loss of $75,000. Since that time, the mine has not been in operation.

Pike Floyd was one of Floyd county's best producers, employing between 400 and 500 men, and was always able to give their workmen steady employment.

Landon Increases Lead In Third Week Of Poll

360,302 Straw Votes Now Tabulated In Nation-Wide Presidential Balloting

BIG VOTE ANTICIPATED

New York, Sept. 17—With a total of 360,302 votes tabulated at the close of the third week in the nationwide Presidential poll, now being conducted by 3,000 daily and weekly newspapers, Landon continues to pull away from the field. Even though slight, this gain in lead is maintained in all three of the major breakdowns on a percentage basis.

Herewith are the vote totals from 41 states, as cast for the six presidential candidates:

Total vote, all candidates, close this week:	360,302
Landon	219,810 (61.0 per cent)
Roosevelt	117,248 (32.5 per cent)
Leake	16,842 (4.7 per cent)
Thomas	3,097 (0.9 per cent)
Colvin	1,127 (0.3 per cent)
Browder	2,142 (0.6 per cent)
Total vote, Landon and Roosevelt, close third week:	337,058

CRIPPLED CHILDREN TO BE EXAMINED AT PAINTSVILLE

A free clinic for the purpose of examining crippled children in four counties will be held by the Kentucky Crippled Children Commission Wednesday, September 23, in the Mayo Church, Paintsville. The counties for whose benefit the clinic is planned are Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin and Martin.

Committees in each of these counties will help promote the clinic and will furnish transportation to Paintsville for all cases in need of it. Chairmen of the committees in the various counties are as follows:

FLOYD COUNTY—Miss Ella Noel White, Prestonsburg. Children who need transportation to Paintsville to attend the clinic are to meet at the health department office in Prestonsburg at 8 a. m., Sept. 23, and cars will be furnished to take them to the clinic.

JOHNSON COUNTY—Mrs. O. M. Evans is general chairman of the committee on arrangements for the clinic. Mr. Forrest Preston is chairman of the committee from the Paintsville Rotary Club which will furnish transportation. Any cases living out in the county are to get in touch with Mr. Preston in Paintsville if transportation is needed.

MAGOFFIN COUNTY—Judge F. C. Lacey, chairman of the committee in charge. Children needing transportation to Paintsville are to meet at the health department office at 8 a. m., Sept. 23.

Examinations and diagnosis at the clinic will be made by Dr. W. M. Brown, Lexington, and Dr. M. D. Garred, Ashland, home surgeons, assisted by nurses on the staff of the Kentucky Crippled Children Commission. The clinic will be for diagnosis only, but applications for hospital care may be filed with the Commission's field workers and cases as admitted for treatment as soon as possible.

Several previous clinics have been held in Paintsville and a number of boys and girls from this section of the state have received treatment at the expense of the Commission. All these previously treated cases are urged to attend the clinic on Sept. 23 in order that the doctor may examine their present physical condition and offer further advice.

SIDE SADDLES

One of my students recently came into my class in great glee: she had seen, while visiting in a neighboring town, a well-dressed, middle-aged woman ride into town on a side-saddle to do her Saturday shopping, or "trading," she might have called it. People forget to look at the new cars in their eagerness to see this woman, who seemed to have stepped, or ridden, out of a story-book. Now some of us might reveal our ages if we told how many side-saddles we have known, and some few of us could tell of going to camp meeting or other places with young ladies who rode gracefully on side-saddles and wore very proper riding-skirts, too. On a peck near the old stile-block at our country church an older member of my family counted 33 riding skirts on a single Sunday morning, and it was not a special occasion, either.

Side saddles, above every other characteristic they may have had, were proper. They betokened helplessness and daintiness. I can almost imagine their having had a great increase in popularity during the reign of Queen Victoria, when so many of our habits acquired so much respectability. How far back they go I do not know. Chaucer's nun, who above all else a lady of good manners, is pictured in the illustrated manuscript dating back more than a hundred years as riding on a side-saddle, while the rather masculine Good Wife of Bath rode in mannish fashion. But side saddles, and most other kinds, have practically ceased to be, except for pleasure, and riding habits these days are decidedly different. Saddles are seldom used for pleasure, and riding habits, these days, are decidedly different. Saddles are seldom used for pleasure, and riding habits, these days, are decidedly different. Saddles are seldom used for pleasure, and riding habits, these days, are decidedly different.

An old lady I once knew, still living and not very old used to shock our staff town by riding up and down our streets, even on county-court days, not on a side-saddle but astride and with divided skirts! Tragic things were predicted of her, lessness and daintiness. I can almost imagine their having had a great increase in popularity during the reign of Queen Victoria, when so many of our habits acquired so much respectability. How far back they go I do not know. Chaucer's nun, who above all else a lady of good manners, is pictured in the illustrated

The WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONAL

by MAX BERNIS

When Two Laws Clash

What happens when one law conflicts with another? Under our Constitution there can be no conflict between Congress and the Courts, but only between different laws. The conflict arises because our system of government provides for laws of four different degrees of authority as follows:

- I The Federal Constitution (the "supreme law");
  - II Federal Laws passed by Congress;
  - III State Constitutions;
  - IV State Statutes passed by state legislatures.
- State laws (III or IV) are inferior to Federal laws (I or II) and a law passed by Congress (II) is inferior to the Constitution (I). Obviously, a citizen cannot obey two laws that conflict with each other, because if he obeys one he disobeys the other. Therefore the inferior law necessarily must give way to the superior law. In such cases, "we the people" specify in our Constitution that the Supreme Court shall act for us and decide. But the Court does not decide whether a law is good or bad; it merely lays the inferior law alongside the Constitution as the supreme law and decides that the two harmonize or conflict. If they conflict the Court simply so states—that is, declares the inferior law "unconstitutional."

The rule is simple and the procedure unescapable: When one law conflicts with another, the inferior law necessarily must give way to the superior law.

Without such a procedure, inferior laws would take precedence over superior laws and ultimately nullify our Constitution, which "we the people" specify is "the supreme law." (Next Week: "A National and Federal Government.") Copyright 1936 by Max Bernis

SUGGEST CARE IN BALANCING DIETS

There are certain foods which the body needs, and there should be some of each of these in each day's diet. points out the "4-H Food Manual," a Kentucky College of Agriculture publication used in 4-H club work.

A diet which supplies these needs of the body is an adequate diet; that is, there is not too much starch or too much protein or too much fat, but a good proportion of all. An adequate diet also supplies the minerals and vitamin needed for health. The manual says that some of each of the following groups should be eaten each day:

- Cereals: Bread, macaroni, rice, oatmeal and other breakfast foods.
- Fats: Butter, cream, olive oil, other fats and meat fat.
- Vegetables and fruits: Two of each every day, dried beans and potatoes.
- Protein foods: Meat, eggs, cheese, fish, dried beans and peas.
- Sweets: Sugar, sirups and honey. Use sparingly.

Let milk play an important part in all meals. A quart a day for children and at least a pint for adults are the amounts needed for health.

It may not be possible to have all the necessary foods in one meal, but they should be supplied in one of the three meals a day, it is stated. It is better to consider all three meals for the day when making out the menu, rather than to consider each meal separately. It is the adequate diet for the whole day which counts.

BRANDING DANGEROUS CARS

In a European country, the cars of motorists convicted of flagrant violation of traffic laws are painted with an emblem, as a warning to other drivers. It is said that this practice, newly started, has caused an appreciable decline in dangerous driving, as motorists naturally want to avoid the embarrassment and publicity the emblem gives them.

A great many thousand American motorists should have their cars so branded.

The worst class of offenders consists of those who push the throttle to the floor-board as soon as they get out of sight of the traffic officer. Excessive speed—and there are times when 15 miles an hour is excessive—is responsible for more deaths than any other driving violation.

Passing on hills and curves and "meandering" through traffic are also potent causes of death, injury and destruction. On a myriad tragic occasions, a driver has tried to save a needless minute—at the cost of a life.

Driving on the wrong side of the road, juggling traffic lights, passing at intersections—are practices dear to the heart of the Dark Angel. They help keep our morgues and hospitals full to capacity.

Yes, it might be a good idea to adopt the branding practice in this country. A suitable emblem would be a skull and cross-bones.—Industrial News Review.

Sarah Ann's Cooking Class

Avocadoes are available almost the year round, but their principal season is from November to May. They are high in energy producing and body building elements. They contain vitamins A, B, C, D, E and F. Only the fully ripened fruit should be selected for immediate use. Avocadoes are ready for use when the flesh has softened so that the fruit yields to the gentle pressure of the full hand. Many delicious dishes may be created by the modern cook by using avocadoes.

Avocado Sea Food Salad
Peel avocadoes thinly and cut them in 6 sections lengthwise. Place two sections on their side on each plate. Between the sections place shrimp or crab meat or lobster. Serve with hearts of lettuce and mayonnaise.

New Mexico Avocado Salad
1 cup mashed avocado.
1-4 cup canned tomato pulp free from juice.
1 teaspoon onion juice.
1-2 teaspoon chili powder.
Salt.

Mix these ingredients together. Chill. Serve on crisp cold leaves of romaine, garnished with a small dab of mayonnaise.

Avocado Sandwich
Choose avocadoes that are well-ripened and peel thinly. Mash the meat thoroughly. To each avocado add 1-4 teaspoon of salt and 1 teaspoon of lemon juice. Spread on cheese crackers, sprinkle with paprika.

Avocado and Orange Salad
Cut one peeled avocado in slices. Peel three oranges and remove sections from Membrane. Arrange alternate slices of avocado and orange on lettuce. Serve with French dressing made with lime juice instead of vinegar.

Avocado and Grapefruit Salad
1-2 cup mayonnaise.
3 tablespoons cream, whipped.
2 avocadoes.
2 cups grapefruit sections.
Endive.
Green pepper.
French dressing.

Put the mayonnaise into the whipped cream until thoroughly blended. Peel the avocadoes and cut each lengthwise into 16 strips. Marinate in the French dressing for 30 minutes in the refrigerator. Place alternately 4 strips of avocado and 3 sections of grapefruit on 5 crisp strips of endive for each serving. Garnish the top with a tiny green pepper strip. Serve with mayonnaise and cream mixture.

Avocado With Lime Ice
1-2 teaspoon gelatin.
2 teaspoons cold water.
1-2 cups water.
1-2 cups sugar.
1-2 cup lime juice.
Few grains salt.
1 egg white.
Green colorant.

Soak gelatin in cold water five minutes. Make a sprup by boiling the water and sugar together. Cool. Add lime juice and turn into refrigerator tray. When partly frozen turn out into a bowl, beat with egg beater and add stiffly beaten egg white. Add enough coloring to give a delicate green. Freeze. Chill avocadoes and cut in halves. Fill with lime ice.

Chill medium sized avocadoes, halve, remove stone and pour French dressing which has been highly seasoned into each portion, allowing 1-2 avocado for each service.

Avocadoes on the Half Shell
Cut the fruit into halves lengthwise and remove the seed. Arrange in salad plate with lettuce leaves. Chop fresh green peppers finely, cut peeled cucumbers in small cubes. Marinate in French dressing made with lemon juice and only a small portion of oil. Fill the center of the avocadoes generously, with a small slice of pickled beet and a sprig of parsley on the side of the plate.

Tomato and Avocado Cocktail
Pour 2-1-2 cups chilled tomato juice slowly into 3-4 cup chilled evaporated milk. Stir the mixture vigorously. Add 1-2 teaspoon salt, 3-4 cup chopped ice and 1-4 of an avocado, cut in bits. Set in the refrigerator to ripen.

GUNLOCK RANCH

by FRANK H. SPEARMAN

Copyright Frank H. Spearman WNU Service

SYNOPSIS

Sleepy Cat, desert town of the Southwest, is celebrating the fourth of July, Jane Van Tambel, beautiful daughter of Gus Van Tambel, hated owner of Gunlock ranch...

Half a dozen cowboys had edged up to listen to the controversy, Jane whirled around to them. "Boys," she said, speaking in lower but very determined tones...

Reeling off her words rapidly and firmly, Jane explained the situation to her growing circle of listeners. "Now I have discharged McCrossen," she said in conclusion...

One of the boys, Bull Page, stepped promptly to Jane's side. Before he reached it, four more were on their way. Barney Rebstock and a crony stood still. It meant that they sided with the foreman.

"Now, Bull," she added snappily, "hunt up as many of the other boys as you can find and let's get going."

Within a few minutes, with the ponies dancing and the men shouting, a party of ten headed south for the Denison ranch.

Not until they reached the last crest of the hills separating the two ranches and Jane looked over on the lowlands of the smaller ranch, did she catch her breath in sudden fear.

In the nearer distance lay Denison's buildings. Between the two points a second fire burned, curving like a great scimitar along the out-over lands surrounding the ranch.

"Bull!" she called fearfully to her nearest cowboy. "What does it all mean—is there anything that can be saved?"

"Why, I can see where they've been back-firin'. Can't tell much about it till we get closer. Come on, boys! Push 'em over the hill. If this is too fast for you, miss," he yelled, "follow us!"

But nothing was too fast for Jane. The city girl was always on their heels. With the ponies in a lather, the Gunlock crew pulled up short before the ranch-house corral, where a party of fire fighters just from town were starting for the front.

Jane saw a man riding up from the creek, but it did not look to her like Bill Denison. Not until he drew near and lifted his hat hastily to her as he rode over to talk to Pardaloe, did she realize it was he.

As rapidly as possible he greeted the newcomers, told them where they were most needed, pointed and started them on their way, and turned to Jane.

The boys, including Jane's contingent, dashed off with much shouting and yelling. Conspicuous among them rode the evangelist preacher, Panama, his heavy, straight black hair dancing up and down under his sombrero, and with him rode his neophyte, the bald and profane Jake Spotts.

"Oh, Bill!" exclaimed Jane, as Denison rode up, "I'm so sorry."

"I hope I didn't stir things up over there, by sending that message. I shouldn't have done it, only—I promised," he said in a dry, cracked voice.

"Don't think about the small things, Bill. You should have sent long ago. I brought all the men I could."

"McCrossen refused to come?"

"He was kind of mean—so I came myself—I hope I'll do for a substitute?"

His answering smile was joyful. "It was too good of you to come, Jane. But now I've got to ride right out again. Would you step into the cabin and rest up before you ride back?"

"Ride back? Yes, but who's going to cook for all these men? I'm going back to get Quong and bring him over in the chuck wagon and take possession here."

Noon passed before Jane got back to Denison's and installed herself with Quong in the kitchen.

One man, severely burned, came in from the front towards dark. Carpy could not be reached till morning. Jane bandaged the man's arms and fed him. Denison rode in late, smoked and scorched anew, but tireless.

"Bill," she asked, sitting down opposite him, "tell me honestly: are you holding it?"

"Jane, to tell the truth, I don't know. Sometimes I think we are—sometimes it looks bad. In a forest fire, every hour must tell its own story; that's about the size of it."

Afterward He Sat Down Beside Jane on the Bench Outside the Door.

nothing more I can do here, tonight. I'm going home. I'll be back by daylight in the morning. You go to bed. You must be dead."

"I'll ride over along with you, Jane." "No, you will not."

"But, Jane, you're not going to deprive me of riding home with you?" "Yes, I am."

"Oh, please!" He pleaded with her like a boy. "I've been counting on it all day—"

"I thought you'd been fire-fighting all day."

"Fighting fire and thinking about you and saying, 'Tonight I'll ride home with Jane.' Oh, girl! If you knew what that means!"

Bull Page stood by the ponies. Denison saddled his own, and Jane and her escort set out for Gunlock.

They did not ride fast. There was so much to talk over. Both were serious. Denison knew better than Jane how grave the danger was both to himself and to her. But he had his hour with the woman he loved, and for that hour what else in the world mattered?

"Oh, Bill," protested Jane, faintly, sick at heart with the happiness of listening to his words. "Don't! You mustn't say such things. I won't listen to you, Bill. I'm nothing but a girl, and you're making me a goddess or a fairy—stop such nonsense. Not one word more, Bill Denison. If you keep on, I'll break out crying. Here's the house, anyway. Good night. I'll be over in the morning at daylight. Think well of me, Bill. I always shall of you!"

Every available man was out on the front lines when Jane reached the threatened ranch after daybreak. Quong kept the little stove in the kitchen hot, and Jane, busy about the cabin and looking after the boy burned the day before, did not realize how fast the morning was going, until Carpy arrived from town to dress the lad's burns. He greeted Jane and, with her to help, went to work on his patient.

Afterward he sat down beside Jane on the bench outside the door.

"So," said he, "you're playing good Samaritan. How are you holding out over at Gunlock?"

"All right; the danger is all from this way. If we can hold the fire over here, it's not likely to bother us, Oh, doctor," exclaimed Jane, springing to her feet, "what does that mean?"

Riding out of the woods south of the ranch house, she saw a party of men slowly advancing. Doctor Carpy's eyes were more practiced. "Some one hurt," he said tersely. Jane was in a flutter. "Keep cool," admonished Carpy as he rose. "We'll soon know what it's all about."

Riding between two men, supporting him on his pony, a third man riding behind the trio, Carpy saw the injured man, hatless and coatless, and heard him suppress an occasional groan. Carpy walked forward to greet the party. "Well, boys," he asked, "who is it this time?"

Jim Laramie answered. "Why, doc, it's Jake Spotts. There's been a bad accident. Jake and Panama got cut off up by the pass. Stayed too long. I'm glad you're here, doc; he's hurt pretty bad."

"No!" screamed Spotts, so blackened and burned as to be unrecognizable, and writhing in pain, "it ain't me, doc; it's Panama! Damn it—go back, boys, and get Panama. I tell you, go back!"

"Denison has gone to get him, doc," explained Laramie. "Keep quiet, Jake, you only make your leg worse. It's his leg, doc."

Carpy motioned. "Bring him into the cabin."

The unfortunate barber, eased, with many groans, off the pony, was laid on the dinner table, asking for water and half deliriously calling for Panama. Carpy examined Spotts. He found to his relief that the man was not seriously burned.

"It's his left leg," explained Carpy a little later to the group; "broke down near the ankle."

"Doc," moaned the hollow-eyed, lantern-jawed barber, "I'm all right. For God's sake get the boys to go back after Panama."

Carpy saw that nothing but a bluff would quiet the pain-racked man. He turned to the men standing by and winked. "Here, you fellows! Get right out and hunt for Panama. And don't show up here till you find him!" thundered Carpy.

Keeping up a rapid fire of talk, Carpy opened his bag, set out his needed appliances and his bottle of chloroform, gradually subdued the man, got him, with Jane's help, under the anesthetic, and working in his shirt sleeves and in the intense heat at a breathtaking speed, finished the operation, sat down, drew a cigar from his waistcoat pocket and lighted it.

"Jane," he said, "I suppose this is your first surgical case?"

"Yes, Doctor."

"You'd make a good nurse, girl."

"Doctor, what do you suppose he meant calling so for Panama?"

Carpy explained. "Today," he continued, "Panama was his partner on the line: the men work in pairs generally."

"I hope they'll find him all right." "I hope," observed Carpy thoughtfully, "he'll be all right when they do find him."

"There come some of the boys. Denison is with them," Carpy said suddenly, pointing to the edge of the woods. "They're halting. They've got something slung across the back of a pony. I'll walk over."

CHAPTER VII

Dr. Carpy walked hurriedly to the edge of the woods where the men gathered closely around him.

"Best thing to do is to take off that old bunkhouse door, Bill," said Carpy, when he saw whom they were carrying. "We can lay him on that and carry him over here to the shed."

They had brought Panama out of the burned timber where Denison and Bull Page had found him. They had taken in a pony, bareback, to where he lay, slung the big fellow across it, and thus carried him through the woods.

Panama was lifted from the pony and laid on the door. A colored neckerchief was laid over his face, and with stumbling steps he was carried back of the bunkhouse. Two sawhorses had been set to support the door, and on it Panama lay at rest. His companions made ready to start back for the fire lines.

"Now, boys, watch out," said Denison gravely. "We can't afford any more mistakes like this. If Jake and Panama had listened to me they wouldn't have got cut off. Bull," he added, speaking to Page, "get up a pair of ponies, if you can find 'em, and hitch 'em to the light wagon. Carpy wants Panama taken right in town to the undertaker's."

The injured barber was coming to. He had been carried to the bunkhouse and was propped up on a bench outside the doorway. He looked at Carpy wistfully. "Tell me, Doc," he begged, "have they found Panama yet?"

I did what little I could do for him here. But I've not got what's needed here for treatment. Panama's got to go to town. They're hitching up the wagon."

Spotts started up, on fire. "Then I've got to see him before he goes. Don't let 'em start till I see him, Doc. Where is he?"

Carpy tried in vain to quiet his patient. He might as well have tried to stop a forest fire by talking to it. "Keep your leg quiet, Jake. You mustn't have any excitement tonight. I've done my best for you. Now, damn it, dry up: I tell you you can't see him."

A dreadful light dawned on the barber. His gaunt jaw dropped, his hollow eyes flamed. "Doc!" he cried out, "Panama's dead!"

The word rang in Carpy's ears for many a day. "Jake," he said brusquely, "I've tried to soften things for you—doesn't seem to be no use. They pulled him out of the woods after the fire passed a grove back of Gunlock Knob."

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

A damp cloth dipped in baking soda will remove tea and coffee stains from china cups.

In pressing never put an iron on the right side of any goods except cotton. Always lay a cloth between the iron and the goods.

Never prune climbing roses in the fall. Cut out all dead canes but wait until next spring before cutting out dead shoots.

To clean glass in oven doors rub over with vinegar then wash with soap and water.

Pull out old stalks in your vegetable garden as soon as the crop has been picked. This will make the cleaning up of the garden later much easier.

If a thick cloth is placed at the bottom of a pan or bowl in which delicate china or glass is being washed the danger of chipping will be lessened. This will also prevent silver from being scratched.

Order hyacinth, tulip, narcissus, snowdrop and crocus bulbs now. In preparing beds for these bulbs mix bonemeal liberally into the soil, but never permit manure to come in contact with the bulbs. They should be surrounded only by soil or sand.

PROMISE YOURSELF

Certainly we do not wish to bore our readers with diatribes against the killing of so many American citizens on the highways of the land but it is a serious matter when nearly 3,000 citizens bite the dust every month in automobile accidents.

The number of these injured is appalling. The economic loss alone justifies a campaign to reduce accidents, and save life and limbs.

There is much that the average man or woman can do in this drive for safety. No one has to wait for his neighbor. You can make up your mind to do it, hereafter, you will drive more carefully. You can do the same. The cumulative effect will be tremendous even if there is no organization, no city and no blasting.

We hope that at least one reader of this article will decide now to take the pledge of the safe driver. If you are the one, you needn't bother about advertising it to the world. Just remember your promise to yourself when you are driving an automobile.

"AMBULANCE CHASING"

"Ambulance-chasing" is a term used to describe lawyers who actively seek contacts with those injured in accidents and instigate law suits for the benefit of the injured and the lawyer, with most of the emphasis on the attorney's compensation.

The habit is frowned upon by bar associations in resolutions and by many lawyers in addresses, but the chase flourishes. In many large cities it has developed into a real racket, with corrupt doctors and lying witnesses ready to back up the fake claims of injury.

The practice has been exposed in many instances, notably when the "injured" brother in a Chicago suit threw away his crutches and denounced the doctor who had just testified about his broken leg. In New York City last week a lawyer, said to have the largest practice of its kind in the United States, was arrested on a charge of soliciting the victims of accidents. That his firm has filed 3,000 accident suits in the last few years indicates that "ambulance chasing" has been lucrative with him.

OLD MINES ARE SEALED

Louis, Ky., Sept. 12.—The old Mellonburg mine at Peach Orchard, opened in 1858, were sealed with concrete last week, 78 years after opening, by the WPA cooperating with the United States Health Service in an effort to eradicate acid pollution of streams in the Big Sandy valley.

The mines, once the scene of a booming frontier town, had not been in use for 40 or more years, residents of that section said.

Webb Holt, of Busseyville, county supervisor of the WPA mine sealing project, supervised closing of the mines Wednesday after a crew of 10 workers had been engaged a week. Three entries to the old mine about a mile and a half below Richardson on Peach Orchard Branch were sealed.

Mr. Holt said that the WPA mine sealing crew had already sealed approximately 75 mines, and that there are several hundred entries in the county yet to be sealed.

Artist—"Ever do anything in the mine?"
Model—"Yeah, took a bath last night."

"Discourtesy" Is Chief Cause Of Road Toll

St. Louis — "Downright discourtesy" is the chief cause of the nation's highway accident toll, three judges here, who annually handle 50,000 traffic violations, agreed today. They suggested an etiquette book for motorists.

"Plain garden variety rudeness bears more blame for automobile accidents, than any other cause," said Judge George G. Vest of city court No. 2.

"The average motorist's short temper at traffic situations," added Judge Joseph L. Simpson, of city court No. 1, "is very often translated into recklessness."

Judge Joseph F. Dickmann, whose court of criminal correction considers thousands of traffic appeals, said:

"A persistent traffic discourtesy is simply an accident looking for a good place to happen."

Judge Vest's pet peeve is the driver who tries to scare traffic out of the way. Judge Simpson is impatient with impatient drivers. Judge Dickmann hoards his wrath for the jay-

But lumping them altogether, the jurists agreed, here are the 10 greatest public traffic enemies (G-Men please note):

1. The bluffing road hog.
2. The impatient driver.
3. The careless pedestrian.
4. The driver who insists on being at the head of the pack.
5. The driver who won't signal.
6. The double parker.
7. The driver who won't dim his lights.
8. The driver who turns in the middle of the street.
9. The driver who weaves in and out of traffic.
10. The horn blower.

TO PREACH FAREWELL SERMON

Rev. G. W. Rose will preach his farewell sermon at the Pilgrim Holiness Church here Sunday, Sept. 20, at 7:30 o'clock.

Rev. Rose has labored with the people of God in Prestonsburg and surrounding communities for the past 15 years, being one among the first to preach holiness in Prestonsburg, and one among the leaders in erecting and organizing the Pilgrim Holiness Church here. Mr. Rose was also elected and served as first pastor of this church, but being a man of God, with his life wholly consecrated to the upbuilding of God's cause, he feels led by the Holy Spirit to enter new fields of labor. His ministry and labor has not only meant a lot to us as individuals, but to the community at large.

We feel sure you will want to hear his farewell message. We bid him God-speed in the new work he has chosen, and invite you to attend the services. Plan now to be with us.

CONTRIBUTED.

Does William live above the average? Yes, his room is up in the avery.

BONANZA

This week ends the first month of school with a gradual increase in enrollment. The school is proving very successful under the leadership of Ellis Hale, principal.

Mr. Leslie, his assistant, is organizing a literary club. Friday morning, Miss Docia Baldrige and students of the advanced grades went to the government knob, where they enjoyed a picnic. Games and contests in the afternoon added enthusiasm to the outing.

Mrs. Gladys Stepp and the primary pupils are planning a tea party to be given soon.

The school boys have made an excellent tennis court within the last few days.

A nice book shelf as made by the NYA boys last week and presented to the advanced grade room.

The independent basketball team joined the high school boys in a game Friday afternoon.

Miss Alice Marie Slone celebrated her eight birthday recently with a party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Butler Slone. After games were played, dinner was served to the following small guests: Betty Joe and Bobby Jean Hall, Lillian Mae Shepherd, Rebecca and Martha Christine Baldrige, Mary E. Spradlin, and Mildred Shurt.

M. A. Stanley, merchant here, who suffered a paralytic stroke a few months ago was thought to have had a light stroke Monday evening.

Mr. James Whitaker, who has been seriously ill, is improving.

Mrs. Frank Spradlin was the dinner guest Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Colvey.

Mrs. W. Stepp, teacher here, was accompanied to her home at Prestonsburg Friday by her mother, Mrs. James Stepp, who spent the week end visiting Mr. and Mrs. Stepp, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Burke and County Attorney Forrest D. Shurt.

Misses Gladys and Golda Conley visited at Elliott Point Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Stanley and daughters, Annabel and Bobby, and Mrs. O. C. Colvey, visited Mr. and Mrs. Lee Herald, of West Prestonsburg, Sunday.

Messrs. Johnnie and Ottis Conley were guests Wednesday night of their sister, Mrs. Henry Stephens, of Prestonsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Butler Slone attended church on Middle Creek Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Ratliff were in Bonanza Saturday.

Misses Mildred Hill and Docia Baldrige were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Hill.

Albert Harmon returned to the CCC camp recently, after visiting homefolks here.

Students from here who left to attend Pikeville College this week were Hazel Irene Hill and Sammy Shurt.

Mrs. Thes. Stanley, one of our oldest residents, purchased a car recently.

Sunday is church time at the United Baptist church. As usual, a large crowd is expected.

BETSY LAYNE

The Betsy Layne Training Center held open house day on Wednesday, August 25, for visitors to see and inspect the various garments made at the center. We have now 12 workers at the center who are very interested in the work. Each woman makes an average of two garments per day. We had a fine display of garments on Open House day, with several persons visiting, and all expressed hearty approval of the well-made garments on display.

The following persons were visitors: Rev. Isaac Stratton, Mrs. Louise Stratton, Miss Alice Stratton, F. F. Miss Eunice Seaf, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Stratton, Mrs. Rosa Thacker, Miss Ruby Boto, Henry B. Harvey Thacker, Mrs. Louise Gunnell, and Miss May Thompson. All expressed admiration for the fine work done by the center.

Rev. Page, of the Holmes Church, has been holding a revival at this place for three weeks.

Miss Evelyn Clifton, of Pikeville, is visiting homefolks here.

Miss Josephine Rowe was visiting Miss Artie Clifton this week.

A Few Little Smiles
Last Is First
Gladys—Have you finished that book I lent you, dear?

Patricia—Nearly, dear, I've only got the beginning to finish.
Paired
She (coming out on the piazza)—What! Only you here? Where have all the nice boys gone?

Sightless Love
Lester—When did you first realize that you were in love with me?
Lulu—When I discovered that it made me mad to hear people call you ugly and brainless.

Obedient Boy
Botchy—Say, Peco! How did you ever come to be an elephant trainer?
Peco—Well, yuh see, my mother always told me to try and master the big things in life.

To the Victor
Miss Skeet (in background): Oh, heavens! They are fighting a duel for my hand!

Of All Things
Holly (at a dance) — There seems to be something familiar in the way you put your arm about my waist.
Wood—There ought to be. I was your first husband.

Equalizing Equilibrium
"Nature," said the philosopher, "always makes compensations. If one eye loses sight the other becomes stronger. If one loses the hearing of one ear the other becomes more acute."

Oh, Whom?
Mrs. Fuddle — William, you haven't kissed me for three whole days.
Prof. Fuddle (absently) — You don't say! Then whom have I been kissing?

Next Best Thing
She—Are you in the habit of speaking to ladies you don't know?
He—Yes—the ladies I do know won't speak to me.

BOYS AND GIRLS
The large Post Toasties advertisement in another column of this paper offers all sorts of free prizes and tells you what to do to have Melvin Purvis send you free his official Junior G-Man Badge and his big book. Be sure to see this offer.—Adv.

Women Smoked Before
The common practice of smoking among women of today, instead of being an innovation, is merely the revival of an old custom. In Ohio history there is plenty of evidence of women of the early days smoking pipes and cigars and even chewing tobacco and snuff.

HAIR COMING OUT?
Regular use of Glover's Mange Medicine and Glover's Medicated Soap for the shampoo helps check excessive falling hair and wards off dandruff. As aid to normal hair growth and scalp health. Ask your hairdresser.

Miserable with backache?
WHEN kidneys function badly and you suffer a nagging backache, with dizziness, burning, scanty or too frequent urination and getting up at night when you feel tired, nervous, all upset... use Doan's Pills.

DOAN'S PILLS

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Camels and Communists
FLAGSTAFF, ARIZ.—There's nothing new about the fable. The only novelty is in the moral. One night a camel came and begged to be allowed to poke his cold nose inside an Arab's tent.

So the Arab, being a good-hearted Arab, says yes. Pretty soon the camel claimed his ears were chilly and could he shove in as far as his ears? And the Arab said that was O. K.

Irvin Cobb

Next the camel got permission to put his neck in out of the weather, and, after that, his forelegs and then his front hump, closely followed by his rear hump, and finally his hindquarters.

When morning came the camel was inside the tent, completely filling it, and the Arab had been crowded outside and there he was—poor shivering wretch, as homeless as a ha't.

Moral—Every time I hear of an imported Communist smuggling himself into our midst, I think of a cold-nosed camel.
Holding the Bag.
UP to now our government has declined all invitations to jump into the Italian-German-French-Russian-British snarl, but watch for an effort to induce America to join in when the time comes for dividing up control over poor old Spain's ports, islands and remaining colonial possessions.

Not that we'd want anything out of the grab-bag and not that they'd give us anything. They'd merely expect us to hold the bag afterwards, which would make two bags in all—this little new one and the big one we've been holding ever since 1918.

Travelers' Homecoming.
CALIFORNIA travel bureaus report an increase of incoming tourists. But then again, on the other hand, part of it may be due to returning residents who went hurriedly away when the papers started printing a certain romantic diary. If your sins do not always find you out, at least they frequently find you getting out.

It's all over now and peace and quiet have been restored to our home circles, but at the height of the rush one involuntarily was reminded of the ancient story of the Frenchman who bet with his friend he could prove every man, however outwardly pure, had a dreaded secret in his life. So, to test it, he sent to each of the ten most respected notables in Paris an anonymous telegram reading as follows: "All is discovered. Flee at once."

And next morning nine of them were gone and the tenth had committed suicide.
"Backward" British Justice.
ENGLISH news-reel producers have been fined $10,000 — and that's important money in any language — for tiling a film "An Attempt on the King's Life."

Mind you, they weren't punished for any injury this title might do his majesty. Incredible though it sounds to us, the charge was: "Contempt of court for prejudicing the case against McMahon (the man who tried to shoot King Edward) before he was brought to trial."

For contrast, take a not altogether forgotten criminal case. Possibly you may remember a certain murderer's trial and what sort of publicity went before it, and what actually occurred whilst "twas being held, and what the aftermath has been, with attorneys and key-witnesses and—yes—actually some of the jurors peddling their private views for public consumption; and the governor of a great state displaying curious and violent activities, even when the verdict had been called a fair one by the high courts?

Backward race, these Brits, trying people by the evidence and not by the newspapers and the moving-picture cameras.
A Gentleman's Dinner.
BACK EAST, a distinguished continental chef rises up to outline the American gentleman's ideal dinner. He names eight courses, which is too many, and no domestic flavor about any part of it.

In rebuttal, I crave to offer a menu of all native products. First, Lynnhaven oysters on the half shell, with western celery and ripe olives. Second, terrapin stew. Third, rice-fed canvasback duck, with lye hominy and a baked wine-sap apple. Fourth, one very small slice of hickory-and-sassafras-cured razor-back ham with watercress salad, soured in a plain oil and vinegar dressing. Fifth, toasted southern beaten biscuit and a mere morsel of old-fashioned country rat cheese—preferably from Herkimer county, New York.

Cards Tumble Sign Possibly Gang Has Underrated Rivals

HAS the same sad fate which overtook our own Polo Grounds front runners for a pair of seasons caught up with the once proud Gas House Gangsters?

Definitely—for all that they were well aware of their pitching frailties—the Cards all along have been vocally confident they were the class of the circuit. When, now and then, they labored through an unfortunate series it did not seem to distress them. They merely shouted that this could be charged up to what Dizzy Dean terms "spermentin" and then moved on to the next address.

In quieter moments all of them—manager and batboy—confided that they looked forward to the waning days of the season. Then, when experimenting had gone quite far enough, they expected to turn on so much heat that even Manhattan clients would be panicked into grudging applause.

They spoke with such great—and apparently quite honest—unconcern about the future that there is little wonder even the Giants believed them early in July. Even now—as one who picked them at the start and has abode with them in happy confidence ever since—I cannot believe they were up to some of their old sly tricks on a faithful follower.

Now that they have undoubtedly fulfilled the letter of their prophecies by turning on the heat and causing previously timid men and maids of Manhattan to indulge in ecstatic patty-cakings, I cannot believe that such miracle-working mortals were guilty of double-talking all the while.

So far as I am concerned they could scarcely have known that their boisterous antics would so sorely enrage the Boston and Pittsburgh peasants that the heat would come from such directions. Neither could they have had any inkling that the Manhattan merriment could be partly occasioned by the support they recently have been giving to one of the most amazing teams of recent seasons.

Instead, it seems that Frankie Frisch and his followers under-rated their adversaries. In spite of the fact that several St. Louis pennants have been won by mad drives down the home stretch, they seemed to feel that they never could be so sadly overtaken, as were the Giants and Cubs of other too recent seasons.

So they were caught improperly arrayed for meeting visitors who sneaked upon them just as upon the Giants of a season back.

There are several reasons why the Cards still may be fortunate in the pennant chase. One of them is that the Giants started their spurt early and from very far back and so may be halted by the law of averages. Another is that there are men, especially pitchers, who can quickly be brought in from the farms, if Breadon and Riekey decide to risk a minor league pennant for the sake of a big-time success. The third, and probably best, reason is that the Cards are a set of husky, hard-bitten athletes. Only the Yankees, formed out of a very similar mold, have previously seemed able to recover as quickly from adversity. That ability to rise above defeat is most important in a flag chase. In fact, no team without this quality ever won a pennant.

Success in baseball often is almost entirely a matter of spirit. When the Braves came from the bottom to accomplish their 1914 miracle, they scarcely believed what was happening until almost at the finish. Then, when the going might have been tough, they were sustained by the conviction that, no matter how good opponents might seem to be, their own luck was considerably better. So they felt they had nothing to worry about and devoted their best efforts to playing baseball.

Somewhat the same thing happened to the Cubs last fall and to the Cards in 1934, although in both cases the short space of remaining time and utter collapse of a rival had much to do with the result. Indeed, several Cub stars quite frankly admitted that all along they felt it merely was a beautiful dream and only woke up when they found the Tigers whaling the merry blue blazes out of them in the World Series.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:
MRS. JOHNNY COONEY sings in the same high-class manner that her husband snares those line drives in the Brooklyn outfield. Pat Malone says that Tony Lazzeri is the smartest player with whom he ever has teamed.

Johnny Evers once stole third base with a broken leg. He doubled to left, slid into the bag and came up limping. After that he went down to third and shortly thereafter discovered that a bone had been broken in his ankle.
What with salaries, the track's cut, etc., it costs the average ring book $1,200 a week to operate on New York courses. Because they pay higher salaries, the clubhouse nobles have a nut of close to $350 a day while the field hands need $63 for expenses each afternoon.

Schmeling First Trained for Advertising Career

Max Schmeling put in three years learning the advertising business in Germany before he came to this country.

Max Schmeling

Germany before he forgot it all and became a heavyweight boxer. His friends say he would probably have had big success as an advertising man for he is a shrewd business man. Pat Malone never has cashed a baseball salary check. Sends them home to the Missus. The average bank roll of a racetrack bookie is $5,000 to $7,500, if they operate in the main ring. Since the law does not permit bonding gamblers, the satchel slingers do not have to be annoyed by red tape. They go into action as soon as some responsible person has okayed them with the authorities.

The picture of a celebrated tennis star is displayed on an equally celebrated transatlantic liner with the caption, "Hellen Mills Mody."
Would anybody like to bet about where you get the big news first? Six months ago (and at least four times between that date and the Schmeling-Braddock postponement) this writer definitely advised readers there would be no heavyweight championship bout this year. Secretary of State (N. Y.) Eddie Flynn and Mike Jacobs, the pugilistic impresario, have one habit in common. When they make notes and then slip the papers into the sweat lands of their hats you know there is no chance of their forgetting.

There is very little wonder that the ambitious Dick Bartell loses so many of those diamond spats. Even when sparring in the dugout the Giants' mite forgets the first fight principle and leads with his right.
Bullet Berkholtz, Ohio State soph, is being tabbed as the new star of the Big Ten football firmament. They say he is a triple threat ace and one of the best ball carriers in years.

Black Hat McCarty, the turf historian, once ran a buck bet up into a $25,000 score in 10 racing days. The U. S. Football association plans to be well fixed for soccer players when the 1940 Olympics come along.
In spite of the advance furor concerning Bill Lynch, Princeton's soph fullback, teammates claim that Larry Taylor, his sub, will be the real Tiger star. They say Lynch is weak on pass defense and other such items even though he is a whale at lugging the ball.

Horse players are not the only persons who get the old oil from owners. Many trainers feed olive oil to their gee-gees.
Jim Braddock is not the only member of the firm of Braddock and Gould to pull up lame. Gould is nursing a sore left knee as the result of unwisely sliding into second base while trying to achieve greater glory for good old Evans Lock Sheldrake. Four major league ball clubs are planning to do their spring training outside the United States. The Athletics will establish their base at Mexico City, the Cincinnati Reds in Porto Rico, and the Cardinals and Giants in Havana. The last thoroughbred George Phillips saddled recently before he was indefinitely ruled off the turf at Saratoga was named Go Home. Jerry Conroy, member of Jimmy Braddock's publicity staff, is said to be the best baseball player in the fight business. Jerry is a southaw, plays first base and can hit a la-Babe Ruth. Pop Ryan, who used to manage fighters more than a decade ago, owns a restaurant and grill on Eighth avenue in the fifties. Billy Hogan, Gus Wilson's lightweight protege, isn't going to rely on his ring earnings in the future. Billy opened a beer pub in Sparkill, N. Y., and is doing a bit of all right. Irish Eddie Brink, Seranton battler, is an orchestra leader-crooner in his home town when there are no fights to be had—Crooning is an easier way to make a living, Eddie.

NATIONAL CONVENTION PARADE
 The National Convention Parade will be held Tuesday, September 22. It is the duty of every Legionnaire to make a creditable showing in this spectacle, every member of the department who is in uniform should cooperate toward the end by taking part. For some reason or another, many Kentucky Legionnaires are wont to stand on the sidelines as spectators, instead of taking an active part in this parade. Let's not let this be the rule in Cleveland, thereby embarrassing those who by their active participation are endeavoring to uphold the honor and dignity of the Kentucky Department of our great commonwealth. If everyone marches, then Kentucky will make just as creditable a showing as any other state in the parade.

Inconsistent Acts Will Not Be Tolerated at Cleveland

Decency must be the watchword of Kentucky Legionnaires during the National Convention in Cleveland, Sept. 20-25.
 Before the 18th annual convocation at Cleveland, every Legionnaire should study the mandate of the St. Louis convention.
 It is printed herewith for the edification of those who are "playful" or "funny."
 The St. Louis resolution:
 "Whereas, it is the desire and ambition of the American Legion to make its National Conventions outstanding gatherings observant of law and order, not only by its members and guests, but by all others attracted to cities where such conventions are held, and by residents of such cities themselves;
 "Resolved, That the National Convention Corporation in the future take such steps to eliminate at its inception, through rigid police enforcement, such things as throwing of water by irresponsible persons out of hotel windows, and by any other rowdiness not in keeping with the wholesome funmaking of visiting Legionnaires, and their families.
 The statement of James W. Hammett, who will be marshal of the Kentucky division, reads as follows:
 "The parade in Cleveland will be one of the largest in the history of our organization. It is the only means by which the public on the streets gain an impression of the strength of the American Legion. It behooves each and everyone of us in that parade to conduct ourselves in a manner that will not react to the discredit of the American Legion. It has been suggested that where possible every Legionnaire in the parade be in uniform and by all means the Legionnaires should wear their Legion caps; but regardless of the uniform, every Kentucky Legionnaire should be in the parade. No Legionnaire will be permitted in the parade in any manner of dress considered disgusting, objectionable, vulgar or indecent."
 While the St. Louis resolution may be far-reaching so far as some men are concerned, it nevertheless will meet with the hearty approval of the majority of Legionnaires.

Tenth District: The first district conference held in the state under the new department administration was held by the Tenth District, at Prattsville Sunday, September 6. Department Commander Edward M. Seap and Department Adjutant T. H. Hayden attended the meeting. Clyde Sanders, the Tenth District's commander, was so well pleased with the fine reports from the posts as they were presented at the meeting that he predicts the Tenth will be over the quota by Armistice Day. Past Department Commander James W. Hammond and Department Commander B. M. Rogers were also on the conference program. The Kentucky Legionnaire.

Out of Step Again.

Answering a question as to complaints that private industry is unable to induce many relief workers to quit WPA jobs for private jobs President Roosevelt said there was a reason. He told his press conference that when such complaints were run down it was found that private contractors were offering less than fair subsistence wages. Meanwhile Postmaster General Farley was making a speech in which he said, "the farmers are getting better prices and the workmen more pay."

The Curious Corner

By James Taylor Adams
 Robert Shanklin Salyer was twice married and both of his wives were the grandmothers of his first wife's grandchildren; and, besides being grandfather to his children's children, he became their step-grandfather, and his second wife, besides being their own grandmother, became their step-grandmother as well.
 Here is how it happened: Robert Shanklin married a Miss Easerling. They had several children. Lucy Salyer married Eli Stapleton. They had several children. Stapleton and R. S. Salyer's wife died and the widow Stapleton and widower Salyer married, which explains the strange relation of their offsprings.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS TO RECEIVE MORE FUNDS

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 17—Additional funds to be used in aiding needy high school and college students who have been affected directly by the drought are being allotted to Kentucky schools by the National Youth Administration, Robert K. Salyers, deputy state director, stated today. The increase was announced following receipt from Richard P. Brown, deputy executive director of the NYA, announcing a Kentucky drought allotment of $63,614 for the first three months of the 1935-37 school year.
 The special appropriation, in addition to the regular three months allotment of $189,035, will be distributed among high schools and colleges in Kentucky for aiding students between the ages of 16 and 25 who, without assistance, would not be able to attend school. Participating in the NYA program are 300 independent public school districts, 80 private secondary schools and 32 colleges and junior colleges. Approximately 15,800 part time jobs will be made available to deserving students through these allotments.
 The drought fund followed a plea from college administrators and school superintendents for additional student aid funds to help combat the effects of the drought on young people hoping to attend school. Nearly every school authority reported that application for student assistance showed a large increase over last year. Kentucky colleges have promised cooperation in enabling deserving individuals to attend school by offering additional scholarships, workshops and by permitting the payment of tuition in installments.

During the 1935-36 school year 12,451 students were enabled to continue their work through NYA assistance. They were paid a total of $295,573.11 for part time work.
 Under the National Youth Administration program, high school students are paid an average of $6 monthly, college students are paid up to a $15 monthly average and graduate students may earn as much as $25 monthly for a nine-month period.
 Students aided are employed on projects sponsored and operated by the educational institutions they attend. They are engaged in all types of work, including research, clerical and unskilled.
 The NYA educational aid program is administered by school authorities. Applicants for high school assistance are to apply to the superintendent of their school district or to his representative. College applicants should make application to the president of the institution they plan to attend.

FOUNDER OF CANEY SCHOOL SUCCUMBS

Miss Katherine Pettit Established Schools and Won Award For Service
 The death of Miss Katherine Pettit, winner of the Algernon Sidney Sullivan award for outstanding service to the people of Kentucky, was mourned Friday throughout the mountains by friends and former pupils of the nationally known educator.
 Founder of the Hindman and Pine Mountain Settlement Schools, Miss Pettit died Thursday at the home of her sister, Mrs. S. Huggins Lewis, on Tate's Creek pike, near Lexington.
 Miss Pettit began her work in 1895, going each summer for the next four years to Hazard with traveling libraries of the State Women's Christian Temperance Union and the State Federation of Women's Clubs. Four years later she was joined by Miss May Stone, of Louisa, the two going to Troublesome Creek at Hindman. Residents urged them to establish a school, which, after some delay, was done in 1905.
 The Hindman Settlement School combined academic, social and hospital work with industries enabling pupils to work their way through school. In 1913 Miss Pettit left Miss Stone in charge and started a similar school at Pine Mountain in Harlan county.
 Miss Pettit, an ardent temperance advocate, was honored with the Sullivan medal at the University of Kentucky commencement in 1932. She was a descendant of John Bradford, who established at Lexington the first newspaper published west of the Allegheny mountains.
 Surviving also is another sister, Mrs. Waller O. Bullock, Lexington.—Hazard Herald.

On a warrant sworn out by his own father, Date Underwood, of Royal Oak, Mich., was arrested for stealing a $300 diamond ring from his mother.

Two other Lackey students, Misses Catherine Chandler and Virginia Hayes, are entering the University of Kentucky as sophomores.
 Three other graduates of this school, Agnes Dames, Ila Triplett and Commodore Griffith, will enter college at Pikeville.

Miss Katherine Pettit Established Schools and Won Award For Service

The death of Miss Katherine Pettit, winner of the Algernon Sidney Sullivan award for outstanding service to the people of Kentucky, was mourned Friday throughout the mountains by friends and former pupils of the nationally known educator.

Founder of the Hindman and Pine Mountain Settlement Schools, Miss Pettit died Thursday at the home of her sister, Mrs. S. Huggins Lewis, on Tate's Creek pike, near Lexington.

Miss Pettit began her work in 1895, going each summer for the next four years to Hazard with traveling libraries of the State Women's Christian Temperance Union and the State Federation of Women's Clubs.

The Hindman Settlement School combined academic, social and hospital work with industries enabling pupils to work their way through school.

In 1913 Miss Pettit left Miss Stone in charge and started a similar school at Pine Mountain in Harlan county.

Repeal Of Entire Omnibus Bill Is Demanded By Merchants

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE CALLS ON GOVERNOR TO ACT

A resolution adopted by the Chamber of Commerce of Campbell county demands that Governor A. B. Chandler call a special session of the Kentucky legislature to repeal the omnibus tax law in its entirety. It was learned Thursday.

The resolution declares that this twenty per cent sales tax is unjust, discriminatory and ruinous to such businesses in northern Kentucky. According to the resolution, dealers in the project affected have been "severely" penalized and have been forced to suffer much loss.

The demand was made in a resolution adopted Monday night and released for publication Thursday. The omnibus tax law enacted by the General Assembly last spring put a tax on soft drinks, ice cream, candy, chewing gum, nuts and cosmetics.

The resolution adopted by the Chamber of Commerce of Campbell county is the first concerted attack on the entire omnibus bill, although there have been attacks on the ice cream tax and cosmetics tax, both in the courts and by resolution calling for repeal of these taxes.

TEXT OF RESOLUTION:

The resolution, a copy of which has been sent to Governor Chandler, follows:

"Whereas, there was passed at the last special session of the Kentucky Legislature, and approved by the Governor, House Bill No. 59, known as the Omnibus Sales Tax Bill, which act levies a 20 per cent tax on many products sold in the state which are necessary to the health and happiness; and

"Whereas, enforcement of the provisions of this act in Campbell county and northern Kentucky has worked a severe hardship on all our citizens; and

"Whereas, dealers and manufacturers of soft drinks, ice cream, candy, chewing gum, cosmetics and like products, have been severely penalized and have been forced to suffer heavy losses in business; and

"Whereas, this omnibus sales tax law is unfair, unjust, discriminatory and ruinous to such business in this section of Kentucky; and

"Whereas, industries handling like products in border states are reaping a rich harvest through Kentucky citizens buying such products across the borders; and

"Whereas, it is earnestly hoped and prayed that his excellency, the Honorable Albert B. Chandler, Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, will call a special session of the legislature immediately for the purpose of repealing this very obnoxious and oppressive sales tax measure, in its entirety; therefore,

ACTION IS URGED

"Be it resolved by this Chamber of Commerce of Campbell county, in special session on Monday, August 24, 1936, that we urge upon and implore Governor Chandler to take such action immediately; and

"Be it resolved that Chambers of Commerce and like organizations in the state be urged to adopt similar resolutions; and

"Be it still further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be mailed to Governor Chandler, Lieut. Governor Keen Johnson, to all members of the Kentucky House and Senate, and to all chambers of Commerce in the state; and

"Be it still further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be given to the newspapers of the state for publication."

Funeral rites were conducted from the old Leslie home on the Caney Fork of Johns Creek Monday, Sept. 14, at 2 p. m., by Rev. Isaac Stratton and burial was made in the family cemetery.

NEW BUILDINGS FOR KENTUCKY STUDENTS

When the students of Kentucky returned to school this month some 15,000 attended classes in new and modern class rooms that have been completed with the aid of the Public Works Administration in cooperation with the state, counties, municipalities and boards of education throughout the state. An additional 6,000 will be accommodated during the current school year when projects now under construction are made available, was announced by Mr. George H. Sager, state director of the Public Works Administration.

Ninety-three buildings consisting of 538 class rooms which were constructed in the President's Public Works program in Kentucky not only made available to school children more modern and sanitary educational buildings and facilities, but was of great value in reducing relief rolls and placing men in private employment, Mr. Sager said.

In addition of 45 elementary schools, 37 high schools and 11 college buildings to the state school system, Mr. Sager said has materially aided the state department of education's drive to lift Kentucky from near the bottom of the list of states in the matter of school facilities. While Kentucky ranked about forty-sixth in value of school property it is fifteenth in the list of states taking advantage of WPA help in increasing school facilities.

The monetary value of the buildings, which exceed $7,000,000, cannot be compared with the physical, social and educational benefits which will be derived by the future citizens of Kentucky.

The gratifying results obtained in this school building program were made possible through the efforts of civic-minded citizens who, alert to the needs of their communities, and anxious that their children be given every advantage in the game of life, applied to the Federal Government for aid in the construction of these essential facilities.

Mr. Sager asks that all citizens, residing in or near the 65 communities benefited by the President's Public Works program, visit and inspect the work that has been done in order that they may recognize the permanency of the work and appreciate the continuing of social value and added prestige afforded by these structures.

EDITOR'S NOTE: By cooperating with the WPA, Prestonsburg may have had a new graded school building in place of the antiquated structure to which our children are now going.

WPA TO FINISH PAVING STREETS

Carter, May and Tackett Secure Allocation of Funds for Local Improvements

Congressman A. J. May, Mayor A. C. Carter and State Senator Joe P. Tackett made a trip to Washington last week, and upon their return to Prestonsburg, announced that approximately $76,800 had been secured from the WPA to be used in the construction of streets and improvements in the city.

Mayor Carter stated that already about $80,000 had been spent and over 1.4 miles of streets graded and concreted, and this additional money would construct at least two miles within the city limits.

Mayor Carter also announced that $50,000 had been allotted to improve the sewage system of the town.

While in Washington, Congressman May discussed with WPA officials the construction of a new graded school building in Prestonsburg to cost about $80,000. This building would replace the antiquated fire-trap which our children are now going. Mr. May was informed that no plans or estimates had ever been furnished the WPA for this project, and any plans must originate from the local board.

FARMERS REPORT STRANGE MALADY AFFECTING LIVESTOCK

The Kentucky State Department of Agriculture was asked for aid by the cattle and livestock growers of Greenup county in an effort to stop the death of livestock resulting from a strange malady.

Tuesday afternoon Mr. Dan Miller, one of the leading stockmen of Greenup county, found eight of his prize cattle victims of this strange malady. Three of his cows died on Monday.

Two cows belonging to Green Howard, deputy sheriff of Greenup county, died Monday night.

Experts are expected to arrive here from the State Department of Agriculture to diagnose the deaths of the cattle.

Several other livestock growers here reported deaths among their cattle from this disease. The loss at the present time is expected to be several thousand dollars.—Greenup News.

There is Always a Good Market for LIONS

By H. S. MOSHER

If raising lions for the market down in South-Florida isn't putting the climate to work for you, then what is? A look at a map of the world will show that the lower part of the Alligator State is "on a line" with northern Africa where some of the world's largest and fiercest lions roam about in the wild desert country of the Sahara. And so down in southern Florida two enterprising farmers have taken up lion farming!

The lion raisers (fanciers) are J. H. McKillop, farm manger, and P. M. Hutton, a partner in the venture. Mr. McKillop spends most of his time on the farm—sleeps within thirty feet of some of the largest and fiercest beasts, in fact. The McKillop-Hutton lion farm is located two miles north from Fort Lauderdale, in Broward County, right on the highway into Miami, so thousands of tourists stop each year to see the lion farm in operation. The huge cats don't seem to mind the attention. The lionesses go right on raising huge families of cubs, while the lions strut majestically up and down their enclosures, roaring their defiance to all man-kind.

"Yes, we raise lions for the market. There is always a good market for lions. Zoological gardens, circuses, owners of animal shows, and others, buy them for good prices. Right now we are unable to supply ten orders for youngsters. And if, in addition to our regular business of lion farming, the public insists upon being let in to look at our operations, isn't it a good idea to charge them a few dimes a head? Well, we do that and we find that both raising lions and letting tourists pay you to see lions raised are profitable!" is the way J. H. McKillop explained his novel venture.

In Natural Surroundings

The Fort Lauderdale, Florida lion farm is an imposing looking place. There is a high wall around the outside and as one enters, it becomes evident that the lions are quartered in several old rock quarry pits. The great gaping holes in the earth (rather in the rock) make the finest quarters imaginable for lions. Even the largest and strongest of the King of Beasts can't leap up over the side of these pits. And pools of beautiful, clear water in the lowest parts of the quarry-holes, add much to the beauty of the farm. Mr. McKillop has built a huge, artificial waterfall which comes tumbling down over a rocky bed between the largest of the old quarries. Huge lions strut about below—they are not caged—and onlookers are told that some of the scenery is typical of the African veldt.

"Yes, we keep our lionesses working. Lions are just big cats. They have lots of kittens, frequently, or rather one should say cubs!

"It takes only 120 days for lion cubs to come into the world. There are from one to three cubs, as a rule, but mostly we have twins. Because we take the youngsters away from their mothers at two months after they're born, you can see we average nearly two litters per year to the lioness. The lions do their part!" Mr. McKillop explained while conducting the STATE FARMER reporter about the premises.

Some distance from the imposing looking entrance and "African veldt" lion caves in the rock, the lion farmers have a "lion house" which is just a wooden building, full of steel cages, where they keep the "main supply" of lions while additional quarters are being prepared out in the quarry-pits.

Mussolini From Ethiopia

At present only a few lions are roaming around in the open, so to speak, down in the rock. The others are still quartered in cages in the lion house.

Natural surroundings are a factor of the Florida lion farm.

"Yes, that's Mussolini roaring," Mr. McKillop said, as we entered the place. "Mussolini is a lion from Ethiopia. He was captured alive there and has always resented it. He is the meanest, fiercest brute I've ever seen and a killer!"

Fortunately it was feeding time. Negroes entered with huge chunks of beef. All the lions in the house, nearly a dozen of them, began roaring at once. What a racket! The 10-pound slabs of raw beef were tossed to the front of the cages and the lions pulled their rations through the bars.

"We have 21 lions now on the place. We feed them 200 pounds of beef a day—six days a week. On the seventh they are given medicines, good for their inwards. The small range cattle of South-Florida are cheap and often a carcass won't weigh more than 200 pounds. But the beef makes fine lion food," Mr. McKillop explained.

There were dozens of people in the lion house watching the lions eat; hearing their roaring. When the "roasts" were handed out the huge cats became silent and fell to eating—all but Mussolini. This huge, dark-maned lion, Mussolini, held his portion of beef between his paws and roared fiercely at the humans just out of his reach. Every few moments with a roar he would charge toward the front of the cage. Mussolini acted much as a cross dog acts with a bone. After "showing off" for fifteen minutes this big lion finally ate his dinner.

Guard-rail Protects Spectators

There is a guard-rail between the place where onlookers stand and the cages. On this rail are signs, reading:

"Menelek," with Cole Bros. Circus, is valued at $5,000 by Clyde Beatty.

his unusual livestock enterprise.

"Some days we've had as many as 1,500 people visiting our place. This would be on Sunday in the winter. But from 200 to 600 daily attendance is common." Adults are charged 35c each, children less. It looks like no matter how well Mr. McKillop's lionesses produce cubs—that he'll make money anyway!

Sleeps Under Waterfall

Mr. McKillop pointed to the "lucky" lions which roaming around in the lion pits, near at hand. Then he pointed to the artificial waterfall.

"I sleep under the waterfall—in a little apartment we've built there at the top of the stairs. The lions wake me up nearly every night when they get to roaring. That's part of lion farming," he observed.

David Kirkbride, the keeper, is one of the most experienced lion men in the business. He was brought to Fort Lauderdale by Mr. McKillop to give the lions expert care.

The Fort Lauderdale lions are as neat and clean as an old maid's pet Persian cat. They are, actually, in the pink of condition. Cages are kept clean and sanitary. And of course those lions who are fortunate enough to have quarters in the "veldt" section of the farm are living almost as they would live in Africa. In time Mr. McKillop hopes to have all of his beasts living naturally that way.

Henry Pringle, a colored lion attendant, says "all de lions are gentle, boss." But Manager McKillop says "Henry" is the only negro they ever had who didn't arouse the lions to a fury—the moment the darkey was spotted! Seems the big cats always have disliked negroes, Henry excepted.

Back in the "veldt" country, beside the waterfall, and seated under a coconut palm tree, Mr. McKillop disclosed that he had to pay as much as $700 to $800 a piece for some of his lions, at the start. He said most of his youngsters sell for $200 to $400 each, depending upon their appearance. He expects the lion farm to pay—both from the standpoint of producing lions and because thousands of people pay him to see

There was the granddaddy of all drouths in Middle and East Tennessee the first part of the Summer, a hangover from Spring. Note the knee-high corn as late as July 1, in foreground, and burned out pasture.

A SERIES of downpours giving Tennessee two and a half inches of rain early in July, and heavy rains in Kentucky in the Blue Grass Region and over much of the state the first week in August did much to restore optimism, and to insure in many sections of both states fair crops with total cash return, due to higher prices, probably equaling, possibly bettering, last year.

While 70 counties in Kentucky are on the official drought list, the August rains did much to improve pasture, corn and tobacco. In the extreme western part of the state the corn crop is estimated at normal, but in the rest of the state it will run about 60 per cent.

The Kentucky tobacco crop will average about 65 per cent of normal but higher prices will offset to an extent the short crop. Burley is expected to bring 25 cents or better. Last year it averaged 20 cents.

Soil Conservation and AAA payments in Kentucky will total around $13,000,000. Much sudan grass, soybeans and cowpeas, and other hay and pasture crops will be sown this fall and there will be large seedings of rye and wheat for fall pasture.

In Tennessee, the heavy rains early in July were followed by a short dry spell which gave farmers an immediate chance to replant crops destroyed by the early spring drought. Tennesseans were further encouraged by the announcement from the Department of Agriculture in Washington that farmers cooperating in the 1936 Soil Conservation Program could plant feed, forage and food crops above their original basis and not lose their soil building payments.

While the crop estimate for Tennessee made on June 1, 1936, was the most pessimistic on record, by the third week of July with more inches of rainfall recorded, it was difficult to remember how the brown, sun parched fields had looked six weeks earlier.

Tennessee harvested 4,532,000 bushels of wheat this year, more than the 1935 crop. Corn will be 2,500,000 bushels under 1935. Tobacco suffered heavily. It is believed that the 1936 yield will be approximately seventy million pounds, most 20 million under the 1935 crop. The oat-crop is the lowest on record.

The late crop of potatoes put out early in July in Tennessee, is expected to pay a handsome dividend. While the hay crop will be considerably under 1935 should favorable weather last for 10 days beyond the average frost line of October, there would be extra cuttings and a consequent gain in tonnage, but August expectations were for a total crop of around 900,000 tons.

One cash crop that escaped serious damage in Tennessee despite the late spring, prolonged cold weather, and the summer drought was cotton. Excluding the early killing frost, experts estimate 100,000 bales.

In spite of the optimism created by the late July and August rains drought took a heavy toll from Kentucky and Tennessee farmers. Truck gardeners had almost a total loss in roasting ears for early market. Feed prices advanced sharply, affecting both dairymen, feeders and poultry producers, and all crops were injured to greater or less degree. How far increased prices will offset yield losses remains to be seen.

The animal husbandry and crop division of the Tennessee extension service advised the planting of forage crops to offset increased costs of feed. In Tennessee, the college advises the time limit for seeding crops as follows:

Alfalfa and Red clover up to September 15.
Rye from August 20 to November 1.

Rye grass, September 1 to October 15.
Barley, September 1 to October 15.
Wheat may be sown in October.
Winter oats, September.

"If Tennessee valley farms were operated by westerners accustomed to irrigation, there would be streams of water flowing through the fields and pastures, and the farmer who was foresighted enough to be prepared to furnish his own rain would be reaping a good harvest of high priced crops."

This is the statement of M. M. Johns, U. T. extension specialist in rural electrification, who holds that many farms with lowlands adjoining streams, can flourish despite such a drought as damaged Tennessee and the rest of the southern states, excepting not more than three, this year.

Now Mr. Johns does not advocate irrigation, such as is practiced in the west. Other agricultural specialists know that soil types are different from the irrigation area of the west, that rolling and hillside land, most of it with rock just underneath, would never repay any investment in irrigation, let alone the problem of preventing wash.

"But there are low, flat fields, with deep soil, that can be supplied water from rivers, small streams, ponds, springs or wells, according to Mr. Johns. "It is not necessary to go to the west coast to find examples of profitable irrigation," Mr. Johns says. "There are a number of irrigation plants in Virginia, pumping water on truck crops and apple orchards, which have paid for themselves out of the profits of one or two years' operations. There is scarcely any section of the country where rainfall is so evenly distributed that supplemental irrigation would not be profitable on certain types of crops.

"Intensive crops, such as vegetables and fruits, will frequently pay good returns on a reasonably large investment in an irrigation sprinkling, or pumping system. At the Mississippi experiment station good results have been obtained from a small stream. Even pastures have shown unexpected profits from the application of irrigation water in such semi-humid areas as the western part of Oregon.

"In this section of the country there are many locations where the application of irrigation water would mean merely the placing of a temporary dam across a creek and the plowing of ditches to conduct the water to the fields. Farmers in the hilly section of Union county, Georgia, have taken advantage of this opportunity during the drought. A dozen or more farmers diverted water from small streams and applied it to their gardens and potato patches with the expenditure of a few days labor.

"If large quantities of water are available, distribution may be made over the surface by flooding. Row crops usually are irrigated by flowing the water in between the rows. These furrows must have a slight grade, which means that they should be laid out carefully to permit the water to flow, and at the same time to prevent washing.

"It is too late to plan for irrigation after crops are suffering for moisture, unless the water is at hand and easy to supply. The time to think about next year's irrigation and do some planning for it is right now, when the drought is fresh in mind."

"In order to get the best results from irrigation one must study how to apply the water effectively, how to prepare and lay out the land and ditches, and what type of pumping equipment to select to do the job most economically.

Duck Season's Opening

A Tennessean River duck hunter. Note the green cane blind on the bow of the boat.

By DICK WOOD

The opening of the duck shooting season is a major event in the lives of over a million sportsmen. Ducks are widely distributed and popular game with all shotgun users.

Migrating ducks often light and tarry for days on ponds, sloughs and creeks, providing sport and duck dinners alike for the farmer lad with his single barrel "Long Tom" and the crank sportsman with his automatic.

Jump shooting on rivers requires considerable skill and provides more real sport than deer hunting. The usual procedure is to engage a local riverman to paddle his skiff on a float down river.

Thrills Around Bend

The start should be made on a considerable "tide" (freshet) which keeps the ducks near the banks, and the colder the morning, the better. The hunter invariably follows the convex bank, and the skilled boatman keeps the craft hugging drooping foliage, and paddles quietly, from the stern. One or two shooters sit in the bow and bang away at ducks along the banks, within range.

This sort of hunting is far more enjoyable and sportsmanlike than sitting in a cold blind, firing into the occasional flock that drifts into a bunch of decoys.

The river duck hunter anticipates thrilling action around every bend. When the ducks come out or rise perpendicularly, skill is required to hit them from a moving boat. Sometimes a small bunch of ducks will be sighted far down the bank and a long stalk by boat begins. If a straggler or brace of mallards are kicked up on the way down, the hunter has to make a hasty decision on taking the bird in hand or trying for the two in the bush. It usually pays to pass up no fair shots. Sometimes ducks are not frightened by shooting beyond half a mile.

Conservation Problem

It is illegal to use an automatic shotgun of more than three shots. Since wild ducks were diminishing rapidly, something had to be done by the conservationists. I contend it is not the gun, but the man back of it, who hogs the game. My idea would be to restrict hunters in areas where ducks are abundant, such as on the marshes of Maryland, to single shot arms; the river duck hunter will seldom kill the legal limit with the five shot automatic, and the extra shots do save a lot of cripples.

The 12 gauge is almost universally accepted as the best duck bore, but the 20 makes clean kills at slightly shorter ranges and is a more sportsmanlike gun where ducks are abundant. If using a single barrel, I prefer a 30-inch full choke. If a double barrel, 28-inch, right modified, left full choke. None but the best grade duck loads should be used.

JEST A-WHITTLIN' AN' A-THINKIN' BY PETE GETTYS

about say that the farmer ain't progressive—that he's operating small producing units wastefully, while industry, puttin' together the efforts of thousands of workers under a single roof, has swept by him and left him hopelessly in the lurch.

The man who believes these things is no closer to the farmer than the caricatures in the funny papers would make him. Those who have worked with the American farmer know that he has set a new record in the history of man in contact with the soil by the quickness and intelligence with which he has assimilated the results of invention and scientific research, and made the change in his daily practice which new appliances and new methods indicated.

Bookkeeping on the farm of course ain't the exact science it is in case of many other commercial businesses—but there are some reliable cross section statistics of our country's successful farming—

But these are gross incomes—still they ain't the total gross, an' every radish pulled, every quart of milk used by the family an' its labor, every chicken an' hog butchered an' every day of housing enjoyed must be added to make a true gross.

Agriculture's more than a profession for makin' a living. It's the life of families workin' at it. There's no other vocation which requires the entire family as does the business of farming. Men who make their livin' farmin' have never prospered to the same degree that some men in other trades and professions have, even with the same or even more capital invested an' the same muscle and brains applied to their business, an' it's doubtful if they ever will.

The farmer can't control the weather, the rain, insects, disease an' other factors entering into the cost of production an' the price at which the product is sold, with the same degree of accuracy as the man runnin' a factory. However, for one that likes farmin' there's other compensations. There's an independence an' down right pleasure in workin' in the open an' with growin' things that only people thoroughly familiar with the farmin' business can understand.

This Summer there was a moon-vine growin' on a stump in our side yard. We sat out on the porch about dark an' looked at the buds and waited for 'em to open. As long as we watched, they didn't seem to stir, but take our eyes away for a few minutes, an' lo an' behold! there they were in full bloom just a smilin' up at you.

"Listen, Honey"—said the old B. Mammy—"Look over yonder, in cawn-fiel'. See dem tall stalks move an' quiver? Yet there's nary a fiel'-hand near 'em. Hear dem big blades rustle? Yet ain't 'ary breath of wind to stir 'em from their sleep. Some one what comes to see sure, that our corn don' blight, that sun don' parch, nor rain don' mildew. Somebody is makin' sure that his children have corn for the winter, corn an' to spare!"

FOR ALL NIGHT
EVERY NIGHT
SOMEONE WALKS
IN THE CORN.

Yes, some one walks in the some unseen power, makes those vines open.

Maybe there is and maybe there ain't somethin' that God made that's prettier 'n a Jersey heifer—but whatever it is, I ain't never saw it—and evidently there's some who don't share in this opinion for out in Kansas they had a "Beauty Bovine Contest"—open to all the breeds and not judged on the regular points—any cow—scrub or pure-bred, with sufficient "it" could enter the race, and the pickin' of winners was made strictly on the grounds of charm and beauty—artificial beauty aids, of course, were allowed, an' beauty shops did a landoffice business. Rouge, lipstick an' mascara were freely painted on, hoofs were carmined an' eyebrows penciled an' curled, bovine coiffures were baked an' frizzed into permanents that'll be the envy of the barn lot for many months." But the judges selected a registered-Holstein as "Miss Bovine America," an' left out the Jersey queens.

—o—

Like the old feller who jumped a ten-rail fence—he said he had to 'cause a bear was after him. A lot of us fellers have done a lot of things durin' the last few years that we thought we couldn't, " 'cause we had to—the old she-bear depression was crowdin' us." Now along comes the Dept. of Agriculture an' says when sufficient pressure of hunger an' heat is put on some species of grasshoppers, an' they can't get around fast enough a-hoppin', they can change into fliers so they can get places quicker an' the young turkeys can't catch 'em. Grown at high temperatures, an' deprived of choice green food, grasshoppers in test cages grew longer wings, got slimmer, an' took on brighter colors.

Yes sir—hard times'll evolve a lot of things—an' make necessity the mother of invention with a vengeance.

—o—

When two fellers, both apparently about equally mentally equipped, an' one seems to get along better than the other, a reason's sure to crop out sooner or later. Over in the adjoining county there's a number of good farms and good farmers—all seemin' to get along pretty good—until the drought came this Spring an' their hay crops an' pastures dried up, an' they had to go to town for hay—except one—"just like a lot of other insurance I carry, I always have an extra silo to fall back on that carries me through, an' it has paid for itself many times over this Spring."

The feller who can't afford fire insurance is the one who can't afford to be without it, an' it's the feller who thinks he can't afford an extra silo that needs it worst.

—o—

"Neighbor, this shorely must be God's country around here—walnut an' hickory nuts an' chinky pins an' wild grapes and chestnuts, and a whole wagon-load of stuff that just growed. Now, if a feller just had a yaller hound dog that'd tree ginseng, an' shary nosed razor-back hog to root it up—wouldn't he be fixed?"

—o—

It's mighty aggravating to hear some feller who doesn't know what he's talkin'

- 277 per cent more barley.
- 50 per cent more rye.
- 33 per cent more wheat.
- 17 per cent less cotton.
- 11 per cent more potatoes.

Groups of farmers called planning committees met in each of the 120 Kentucky counties last Winter, studied their soil conditions, the crops they would grow without any adjustment program, the livestock they normally produce, and then made recommendations regarding increases or decreases that would properly conserve the soil. The State College of Agriculture summarized the figures, which mean increases in forage and hay crops and decreases in intertilled crops.

In 1929, 1,446,000 acres of land in Kentucky were reported as idle or fallow, a large part of which presumably was left bare through Winter, a period of severe leaching. To reduce erosion such land should be seeded in the Fall to a cover crop such as wheat, rye or barley. Hence the recommendations of the planning boards that barley be stepped up 277 per cent, rye 50 per cent and wheat 30 per cent.

Approximately 29 per cent of the tillable land in Kentucky normally is devoted to intertilled crops such as corn and tobacco, and 54 per cent to hay and rotation pasture. A reduction of intertilled crops with a consequent devotion of about two thirds of the land to hay and pasture, it is thought, would do much to conserve the soil resources of the state.

Under Kentucky conditions, the growing of tobacco is considered less injurious to the soil than the growing of corn, because tobacco is harvested earlier than corn and a winter cover crop can be sown immediately.

The Experiment Station reports notes that failing markets, surplus production and the like may justify a reduction in tobacco, but soil conditions call for a reduction in corn rather than tobacco.

In order to maintain fertility and to prevent erosion, somewhat longer crop rotations than now practiced are advised by the Experiment Station. To assure grass crops that will help prevent erosion, more ground limestone and fertilizer must be used. If these practices are followed, it is believed that yields per acre of most crops will be increased and that the quality of pastures will be improved sufficiently to permit an increase in livestock.

More Livestock Possible

The Experiment Station is not entirely in accord with the planning figures regarding livestock increases. Speaking of sowing small grain and grasses at the same time in the Fall of the year, or grasses and clovers in small grain the following Spring, the report says that if this practice could be increased, together with increased grain production, the state might support an increase of 40 per cent in dairy cows, 200 per cent in beef cattle, 50 per cent in sheep and 30 per cent in poultry.

Four extension field agents of the College of Agriculture who travel extensively in the state supervising demonstrations in stock improvement and contacting farmers and county agricultural agents are Wayland Rhoads, Richard C. Miller, Grady Sellards and Stanley Caton.

Said Mr. Rhoads of beef cattle: "Enough distillery slop is being produced in Kentucky to warrant an increase of 40 per cent in beef cattle feeding, if all of it were used. Forty thousand cattle were brought into the state in 1934, when hay and pasture were abundant. Production of hays, alfalfa, lespedeza and other forages are increasing. We need more beef cattle produced on the farms, and could feed more brought in from the west."

An authority on sheep, Mr. Miller thought there might be an increase from the present million head to a million and a half. Small farmers, especially in the western part of the state, should raise more sheep. Sheep eat a lot of material on the farm that otherwise would go to waste.

Mr. Sellards wants good hogs. The state should produce a million good ones annually, he believes. He also expressed the opinion that the mountain people should raise enough to provide their own meat.

Conservative Mr. Caton refused to get excited about poultry. Climate, nearness to market and general adaptability make Kentucky a good poultry state. Scavenger flocks are the curse of the chicken business, although the College of Agriculture has done almost a miracle job improving flocks of the state. Mr. Caton believes small farmers could well afford to give more attention to poultry. Turkey raising is developing rapidly in the state.

Soil Authority Quoted

Prof. George Roberts, head of the agronomy department of the Agricultural Experiment Station and College of Agriculture, preached soil conservation before many of the boys connected with the "New Deal" were born. "The soil is the fundamental resource of the people," he declared, "and when it becomes impoverished the people soon become impoverished along with it."

Prof. Roberts estimates that 35 million dollars is the annual value of the nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash washed out of the soils of Kentucky. Plant food losses from erosion are 20 times as great as the removal of plant foods by crops, he declared. He suspects there is a close relation between the amount of soil erosion in a given area and the number of rural people on relief in that area.

This noted soil authority points out that in the bluegrass region of Kentucky, where the soil is still fertile, 60 per cent of the crop and pasture land is kept in pasture and 15 per cent in hay. In the 37 poor counties west of Louisville, only 44 per cent is in pasture.

Future Encouraging

The planning statistics, then, as well as the opinion of men in position to have ideas on the future of Kentucky agriculture, would seem to indicate that farmers need to attend first of all to the fertility problem.

For farmers in position to follow the recommendations of the state's Experiment Station and College of Agriculture, and to make adjustments in keeping with county planning and national conservation programs, the future holds encouraging prospects.

Some boards, nails, hammer and saw, and a can of paint resulted in the kitchen cabinet, water table and stool shown at the left.

A fresh, cherry slip-cover transformed an ugly old chair into a comfortable and attractive bed room piece.

A Boyd county family used the stone from what is said to be the last of the open hearth charcoal furnaces to construct the attractive fire place shown below.

No candle holders were available, so attractive pairs to flank the lovely old mirror were fashioned from shoe trees.

Use iodine to touch up scratches in cherry or mahogany furniture. It looks more natural than streaks of varnish.

A good "sink cleaner" is made from dissolving a bar of white kitchen soap in a quart of boiling water and adding a tablespoon of kerosene. Use this after washing dishes.

Use double boiler to save fuel. Cook in the lower part such foods that need boiling and in the top part heat peas, corn or other foods that only need simmering.

When separating eggs, if you drop a portion of egg yolk into whites, moisten a cloth with cold water, touch the yolk and it will adhere to it.

Lemon juice added to the boiling water for meats will make tough meats tenderer. Steaks will be improved by rubbing them with a cut lemon and brushing them with oil ten minutes before cooking.

If bothered with moths on rugs—wipe off rug in warm water with a small amount of turpentine added.

Never apply soap directly to black materials, wash in sudsy water made by soap flakes, do not have water too hot.

Save cabinet and pantry space by hanging your cups on small brass hooks screwed into the underside of shelves.

How smart she looks in her thoroughly tailored suit and fetching hat. But no less smart, and just as fetching, is her handbag made in a few hours' time. Crepe paper crochet did it, and she can well be proud, for it cost literally only a few cents, and the bag is sturdy, colorful, and right for any daytime occasion. The crepe paper is cut in strips 3-8 inch wide, stretched and twisted, and crocheted with a steel hook No. 0, 1, or 2. Cut the paper across the grain and do the stretching by hand or with the aid of an inexpensive little gadget called a twister.

The stitch is simple, being a single crochet combined with double crochet, picking up both loops of each stitch. Two contrasting colors of crepe paper were used, vermilion and sand. The directions are easy to follow, and you need only substitute your own chosen colors for the two given.

The bag is made in three pieces—one flat piece 10½ inches wide and 18½ inches long, and two gussets. Start with the flat piece. Chain sufficient to fit width work will draw (single crochet). ## Cottage Cheese Fruit Salad Ring

One food which makes a most appropriate hot weather dish because of its remarkable versatility in its many uses is cottage cheese.

Cottage cheese may be used as the main part of the menu and mixed with boiled eggs or nuts. In sandwiches, it may be combined with jelly, preserves, raisins, nuts or olives. Salads in which cottage cheese may be used are numerous and as a dessert, it may appear in the form of a pie, pudding or sundae.

A jar of cottage cheese makes an economical food because there are no waste portions to discard.

The U. S. D. A. summarizes the virtues of cottage cheese as: "One of the important meat substitutes. It contains a larger percentage of protein than many meats and furnishes this material at lower cost. In every pound of cottage cheese, there is about one-fifth of a pound of protein, nearly all of which is digestible." Here is the recipe for fruit salad ring:

FRUIT SALAD RING

- 2 pounds Cottage Cheese.
- 2 tablespoons plain gelatin.
- ½ cup water (cold).

Combine gelatin and water. Dissolve it over boiling water. Cool. Add mixture to cottage cheese that has been forced through a potato ricer or sieve. Pack into greased ring mold and chill until firm. Unmold and serve with favorite fruit salad in center.

Fair Time in Tennessee

Lowing cattle, steaming hamburgers and lost children! Ice cold drinks and canned fruit! Horse shows and a merry go round!

We're right in the middle of the county fair season in Tennessee. Sunk in the red during the early depression years, the county fair is staging a rapid comeback, beginning with 1933, with attendance totals mounting yearly. Where the biggest day at the average county fair didn't run much above 3,000 a few years ago, the mark is now around the 10,000 figure. This year prize money is up, and entries are more prolific.

Tennessee's first county fairs started in August, with the largest number scheduled for September. A few will be staged in October, sponsors preferring to follow the state and district fairs rather than be in advance.

Knoxville, Chattanooga, Jackson, Memphis and Nashville have their fairs beginning in September. The state fair, of course, is at Nashville, but the other exhibitions named have as large attendance and exhibits. Lawrenceburg also has a district fair with attendance figures surprising for the population of the town.

For almost a decade, horse shows have grown in popularity as fair highlights. The larger fairs contribute to this interest with generous prizes and a variety of classes, harness and saddle events. Competition in community horse shows precedes the county affairs, and winners from these latter events usually, if considered good enough, go to the district or state fairs.

However, the county fair hinges about agricultural products, as always. Secretaries, as a rule, are working with state and extension service leaders in promoting purebred stock this year. The building of more creamery stations, construction of cheese plants and shift to livestock due to increased pasturage, launched first under the AAA and now going on as a result of the soil conservation program, has caused a boom in dairy herds. The distribution is beginning to be more general, especially in plateau counties where purebred Jerseys were a rarity a few years ago.

Beef cattle types are increasing also, and the promotion work of various agencies among young people, encouraging beef cattle projects, has been reflected in the fair prize lists, county, district and state.

Tennessee's oldest fair is at Alexandria. For 81 years the DeKalb County Fair has been a going concern and, as its secretary, Rob Roy declares, it is "the Grandpa fair of the south, with a record of every premium paid." Rob Roy is the tycoon of the county fair association and no state fair would be normal without his presence and aid.

The Tennessee State Fair is held this year from Sept. 21 to Sept. 26. Memphis stages the Mid-South Fair Sept. 14-19.

Knoxville, with the Tennessee Valley Fair, follows the state fair, its dates being Sept. 28 to Oct. 3. Chattanooga holds its exhibition the same week as the state fair in Nashville.

Jackson's West Tennessee district fair is to be held the week of Sept. 14-19, and the Lawrence district fair comes Sept. 28-Oct. 3.

Cotton

A cotton bag in which to package raw sugar has been designed by technologists of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, in cooperation with the North Carolina State College. The bag is to be put through a series of practical tests in transporting raw sugar from Hawaii to refineries in California, in comparison with sugar bags made of jute. At present, jute bags are used exclusively. All jute is imported to this country, chiefly from India. While cotton bags will cost more than jute, Bureau officials believe that this disparity in cost may be overcome by developing a cotton fabric that can be reused three or more times. The cotton bag will be definitely cheaper than jute if it can be used three times, since jute bags are used only once.

Ten thousand cotton bags will be used by the Hawaiian sugar association in making test shipments. Officials estimate that if cotton can displace the jute bagging, it will provide an outlet of about 10,000 bales of cotton a year. If all imports of raw sugar were packaged in cotton bags the consumption of cotton would be increased by about 50,000 bales a year.

Rural Electrification

Under the direction of the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work, in cooperation with state and community 4-H Club leaders, a national program on rural electrification, is this year, attracting nation-wide attention. In connection with this contest, 4-H boys and girls are offered a number of prizes including eight all-expense trips to the 15th National 4-H Club Congress to be held in Chicago Nov. 27-Dec. 5, and three cash college scholarships of $400, $300 and $200, which are provided by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

Refrigeration

Apple growers of the Shenandoah-Cumberland section, who export to England, will get better returns on their early fall crop if the fruit is shipped under refrigeration, according to the Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture. This is particularly true in September, when exceedingly warm outside temperatures are likely to bring about decay in fruit in transit. Apples shipped without refrigeration usually arrive on the foreign market fully ripe and with varying amounts of decay.

Drought and heat sent an unusual amount of corn into silos.

Farmer's Share

The farmer's share in the consumer food dollar is the subject of a recent study made by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. The study shows that the average city working man's family spent for 58 foods surveyed, $331.00 in 1935, of which the farmer received $138.00. In 1933, at the depression low, the city consumer spent $264.00, for the same foods, of which the farmer received $92.00. The difference between the amount received by the farmer and the price paid by the consumer is the margin going to processors, transportation agencies, and distributors. This margin was $193.00 in 1935, including about $11 for processing taxes.

Roughage

Shifting acreage from soil depleting crops to such soil improving crops as alfalfa serves the best interests of the dairy industry in several ways, according to O. E. Reed, Chief of the U. S. Bureau of Dairy Industry. Growing and feeding good quality roughage enables the dairyman to produce the best milk and the cheapest milk, and conserving the soil fertility with grasses and legumes pays extra dividends, Mr. Reed declares. In a study of the costs of growing various dairy feeds in 16 states, it was found that good alfalfa hay produced 100 pounds of nutrients at a cost of 83 cents; oats cost $2.02 for each 100 pounds; corn silage $1.54 and clover hay 97 cents.

Building Lines

Over 4,200 miles of rural electric lines in 12 states will be financed with more than $4,500,000 allocated from funds available to the Rural Electrification Administration, according to an announcement made by Morris L. Cooke, Administrator. More than $1,000,000 of the funds will be available to build seven new rural line projects in Georgia, Kentucky, Massachusetts, North Carolina, Ohio, Washington and Wisconsin. Money from the REA has now financed over 17,750 miles of distribution lines serving 67,000 farm customers. Activities of the RVA has intensified interest in many farming sections in the possibility of electrification.

Butter

Butter prices will be materially higher this fall. Drought injury to pastures and feed crops radically cut down milk production, and butter and cheese prices started upward during July. The United States entered the fall with storage stocks of butter and cheese 15 per cent lower than a year ago.

Canning Crops

Canning crops were severely affected by the drought, particularly in the important canning crop producing states of Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and New York. The crop of green peas produced a total pack of about 17,000,000 cases as compared with 24,698,000 cases last year. Other canning crops suffered in proportion.

Floods

Only close cooperation between farmers and engineers can solve the nation's flood problem, according to H. H. Bennett, chief of the Soil Conservation Service.

Upstream farmers must follow practices that will reduce excessive water runoff at the same time that downstream engineers are building dams and levies on the trunk rivers.

Bennett points out that until a few months ago, flood control was regarded strictly as an engineering problem, but agricultural methods for reducing high water levels at their source was being fully recognized. As an example, the severe flood in June of 1935, at Stillwater, Oklahoma is cited. At that time, two closely associated streams ran high over their banks, while a third stream did not go over its normal banks in spite of the fact that the rainfall was practically the same over the three watersheds. The watershed of the stream which did not overflow had been treated, over 90 per cent, with erosion-control practices.

"I am convinced," said Mr. Bennett, "that from now on we should, and will, tackle the problem at its source—in upland fields, pastures and on other sloping parts of watersheds, where flood waters begin to accumulate and where silt loads are picked up."

Poultry

An unusual rise in egg prices continuing through the latter half of this year is predicted by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Poultry prices on the other hand, will decline more than the usual seasonal amount, due to the increased number of chicks hatched and to the probability that the drought will lead farmers to sell more chickens because of shorter feed supplies and higher feed prices. The drought is viewed as the decisive factor in the egg and poultry outlook because of its effect on the feed situation. The stock of eggs in cold storage is very small.

Wheat

Wheat prices for this crop year will average higher than last year, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. World supplies are much smaller than a year ago. World production, excluding Russia and China, is estimated at 210,000,000 bushels less than last year, and the world carry-over is 210,000,000 bushels under last year. Current reports from Russia indicate that that country will not harvest as large a crop as last year.

Here's How To Treat FOOT ITCH ATHLETE'S FOOT

PAY NOTHING TILL RELIEVED
Send Coupon

According to the Government Health Bulletin, No. E-28, at least 50% of the adult population of the United States are being attacked by the disease known as Athlete's Foot.

Usually the disease starts between the toes. Little watery blisters form and the skin cracks and peels. After a while the itching becomes intense and you feel as though you would like to scratch off all the skin.

Beware of It Spreading

Often the disease travels all over the bottom of the feet. The soles of your feet become red and swollen. The skin also cracks and peels, and the itching becomes worse and worse.

Get rid of this disease as quickly as possible, because it is very contagious and it may go to your hands or even to the under arm or crotch of the legs.

Most people who have Athlete's Foot have tried all kinds of remedies to cure it without success. Ordinary germicides, antiseptics, salve or ointments seldom do any good.

Here's How to Treat It

The germ that causes the disease is known as Tinea Trichophyton. It buries itself deep in the tissues of the skin and is very hard to kill. A test made shows it takes 20 minutes of boiling to kill the germ, so you can see why the ordinary remedies are unsuccessful.

H. F. was developed solely for the purpose of treating Athlete's Foot. It is a liquid that penetrates and dries quickly. You just paint the affected parts. It peels off the tissue of the skin where the germ breeds.

Itching Stops Immediately

As soon as you apply H. F. you will find that the itching is immediately relieved. You should paint the infected parts with H. F. night and morning until your feet are well. Usually this takes from three to ten days, although in severe cases it may take longer or in mild cases less time.

H. F. will leave the skin soft and smooth. You will marvel at the quick way it brings you relief; especially if you are one of those who have tried for years to get rid of Athlete's Foot without success.

H. F. Sent On Free Trial

Sign and mail the coupon and a bottle of H. F. will be mailed you immediately. Don't send any money and don't pay the postman any money, don't pay anything any time unless H. F. is helping you. If it does help we know you will be glad to send us $1 for the treatment at the end of ten days. That's how much faith we have in H. F. Read, sign, and mail the coupon today.

GORE PRODUCTS, INC.,

Eliminating Off-Flavors in Milk

Under the heading, "Some Facts About Milk Flavor," the Dairy Department of the Kentucky College of Agriculture makes the following comments:

There are only two principal causes of off-flavors in milk at the time it is drawn from the udder. Perhaps the most common are flavors due to feed eaten. Chief among offenders are weeds such as wild onion, ragweed and bitterweed. Certain green forage crops such as rye and green alfalfa cause pronounced off-flavors in milk unless grazing periods are properly spaced. Other green feeds known to affect milk flavor are cowpeas, beet tops, rape, cabbage, turnips and kale.

Most feed and weed flavors pass into the milk within 30 minutes after the feed is consumed and remain for a period of three to four hours. Therefore, if the cows are removed from the pasture to the dry lot or clean pasture several hours before milking, most off-flavors will be eliminated. Usually four hours is sufficient, but with such weeds as onions and bitter weed six to seven hours should be allowed.

Full rations of alfalfa hay, green alfalfa clover hay or corn silage produce a strong feed flavor when fed one to two hours before milking, but do not flavor the milk appreciably when fed four to five hours before milking. Green barley, wild oats and foxtail produce feed flavors. Improperly cured hay transmits a musty flavor to the milk.

Another class of off-flavors frequently encountered are those depending on the physiological condition of the cow.

The statement is sometimes made that milk from cows on pasture in the Spring contains a "grass" flavor. This flavor may usually be traced to a digestive disturbance in the cow, caused by the sudden change from dry feed to new grass. After a few days, the cow becomes adjusted to her new diet, the intestinal disturbance is corrected, and the slight off-flavor largely disappears. This "grass" flavor in milk may be minimized greatly by allowing the cows to graze for only a short period each day until they have become accustomed to green feed.

Another source of undesirable flavors in milk is the cow in advanced lactation or those having a diseased or inflammatory condition of the udder.

One of the first symptoms of garget or mastitis is an increase in the sodium and chlorine or salt content of the milk, giving the milk a characteristic salty flavor. Cows that have been milking for a long time will sometimes produce salty milk even though they have no symptoms of a diseased udder.

If only a few cows are producing such milk it will usually be diluted to such an extent by mixing with the milk from other cows that its effect will not be detected. However, the quality of the entire output will be lowered slightly.

The Farm Bureau In Kentucky

By L. A. VENNES
Kentucky College of Agriculture

Since the day Daniel Boone first came through the Cumberland Gap into the wilderness, which is now the State of Kentucky, and shot for himself a mess of squirrels, the settlers and residents of the state have been individualists. Each pioneer's farm and household was self-sufficient and except for a few necessities, such as salt, gun powder and coffee all else was produced on the farm. That the success of a pioneer depended upon his individual courage, ingenuity and industry, developed an independent type of citizen and this characteristic still is apparent today.

Ben Niles,
President

At various times in the state's history, farmers, in large numbers, have joined general farm organizations, but these movements have, in the past, been short lived.

The Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation is the only active general farm organization in the state. Not until it was reorganized in April, 1933, have Kentucky farmers shown a definite interest in its development. At the time of the reorganization, there were only 300 paid up Farm Bureau members, but the membership has grown steadily until there are local organizations in 59 of the 120 counties of the state, with a total membership of about 6,000. Henderson County leads in membership with 650. Campaigns to increase membership are being carried on in all counties.

This interest in the Farm Bureau Movement can probably be attributed to four major causes. First, the depression with its accompanying low agricultural prices, farm foreclosures and lowered standard of living brought many of the farmers to see their problem as one common to all agriculture and one impossible to solve by individual effort.

Second: The Agricultural Adjustment Act and subsequent agricultural legislation sponsored by the general farm organizations have been pointed to as to what may be accomplished for agriculture if the farmers unite their forces. Furthermore, the method provided for administering the Agricultural Adjustment Act within the counties lent itself very well to furthering the cause of farm organizations.

Third: Taxation is always a live question when it affects agriculture. The Farm Bureau grasped its opportunity of appealing to, and serving farmers by fighting for a sound tax program. Their tax program called for (1) removal of all state property taxes, (2) income tax on personal income and corporate net incomes, (3) revised inheritance tax to meet the 80 per cent federal offset, (4) selected luxury sales taxes, (5) adequate liquor, wine and beer taxes, (6) reduction of automobile licenses. During a special tax session of the State Legislature, a law was passed taxing cigarette sales within the State. This bill was unpopular among burley tobacco growers and the Farm Bureau gained popularity by its fight against the bill.

Fourth: The growth in membership of the Farm Bureau has been due in no small measure to the ability and efforts of the general secretary, Ben Kilgore, and the guidance of its board of directors. At the time that he became Secretary, finances and membership in the organization were at a low ebb. Mr. Kilgore has built an organization that is now being felt throughout the state.

Mr. Kilgore was born in North Carolina and received his early training in that state. He studied agriculture and received his degree of Bachelor of Science from Iowa State College at Ames, Iowa.

The board of directors include: Ben E. Niles, Henderson; J. L. Thurmond, Grocery; Wm. C. Dale, Finchville; B. E. Nute, Valley Station; M. D. Rice, Winchester; and Ernest Rice, Harborsburg. Mr. Niles is president.

Garrard 4-H'ers Garner Awards

With 11 carload grand prizes and six individual grand championships to its credit in 14 years, Kentucky's famous Garrard county 4-H Club is out to capture another purple ribbon at the annual Fat Cattle Show to be held at the Bourbon Stock Yards in Louisville.

Sixty-one purebred Aberdeen-Angus calves are being fitted for the show in November. And every boy and girl in the club declares they are going to win again, take both carload and individual grand championships. And, judging from their past record, they certainly stand a good chance of doing it.

Fourteen shows have been held, beginning in 1922. The first two years did not see Garrard county at the top, either in the groups or on individuals. Then these youngsters gained supremacy. Beginning with 1924, the Garrard county 4-H Club has made a clean sweep in grand champion carloads with the single exception of the year 1929, when they gave way to a heavy carload of black cattle fed out by Bottorff Bros., noted farmers of Goshen, Ky.

Four club members boasts this progressive organization have taken six individual calf grand championships to Garrard county. Julian Price Bourne carried off top honors in 1926 and 1927; Paul Rich took them both in 1928 and 1930; F. L. Sutton captured the laurels in 1931, and Miss James Charlotte Sanders was the winner in 1935.

Finishing from 50 to 100 calves every year, the Garrard county 4-H club has received more than $50,000 in payment for calves and in cash premiums in 14 years. It now is the most famous county in the States in the 4-H club baby bo-

Teaching Biddy To Lay and Pay

BY A. B. BRYAN

Seven Oaks poultry farm, two and one-half miles from Spartanburg, S. C., is the laboratory in which T. L. Green and his son, O. H. Green, have found diverting interest and satisfying profit in working out scientific poultry production practices that led to heavier production of large eggs. Incidentally, Seven Oaks farm has become the center of a better-poultry community through the sale of hatching eggs and baby chicks to neighboring farmers.

It is 10 years since T. L. Green, growing tired of his grocery business in town, bought 16 1-2 acres of Piedmont rolling land a few miles from town, equipped it with poultry farm needs and conveniences, and started out with determination to produce egg layers would be profit payers.

Skillful Breeding

For seven years, Seven Oaks farm has been the home of 2,000 or more large White Leghorns that average 175 or more eggs each per year. Aiding in the good work, O. H. Green, son of T. L., graduate of Clemson, the state agricultural college has joined his trained efforts with the father's to make the best better.

This hen laid 313 eggs in her pullet year.

The Greens are frank to ascribe their success to superior breeding stock, careful management according to advice of poultry specialists, and trap-nesting.

"Eight or ten years would be too short a time to breed up a flock to lay as our hens lay if we had started with poor run-down stock; but we didn't," said the senior Green. "We started with the best obtainable by purchasing from a breeder who was a constant importer of high-producing birds. We then ordered 12 pedigreed males. The results were so favorable we have had for several years hundreds of hens that produce 200 to 300 eggs per hen yearly, and they are some of the biggest White Leghorn hens in the South.

Trap Nests Don't Lie

"Without the aid of trap-nests we could have done little. The only way to tell how many eggs a hen lays is to trap-her and count the eggs. Which hens are laying of-colored, badly shaped, or pee-wee eggs can be told in no other way.

"We weed out hens that lay small eggs. We have hens that produce eggs weighing 26 ounces per dozen. Our pullets, because of their excellent body weight and development at maturity, start off by laying large eggs."

Hens have spread to a half dozen or more states, with never a dissatisfied customer. The premium on eggs and the demand for breeding has been a big factor in the profit made at Seven Oaks.
