A PROGRESSIVE PAPER FOR PROGRESSIVE PEOPLE

TENTH YEAR NUMBER 43 Prestonsburg, Floyd County, Kentucky, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1936 $1.50 PER YEAR

TOWN AWARDED ADDITIONAL FUNDS FOR IMPROVEMENTS

Mayor Carter Notified $78,000 Additional Allotted Prestonsburg for City Improvements

STREET AND SEWER WORK

Notification of an additional $78,000 for street and sewer improvement and continuance of WPA activity was received from Mr. Carrington (CIV), assistant administrator at Washington, D. C., by Mayor A. C. Carter. It was approved by the administration board on Oct. 7 and signed by the President Oct. 25. This will be returned to the state administration offices at Louisville, where the official work program will be set up.

An official set up, learned from reliable sources, includes: continuance of present projects in operation, completion of Highland avenue, Friend street joining Mayo Trail, and Ford street between First and Second avenues. Preparation for the paving of Ford street was begun a few days ago. It provided for the paving of Westminster street joining Third avenue between Graham and Court streets, the furtherance of West Prestonsburg improvements, the construction of storm sewers to relieve the overflow of water during heavy rains and the widening of Court street approximately four feet from First to Third avenues. Court street is now a one way traffic road through the heart of Prestonsburg business section from East Second avenues.

Through the untiring efforts of Congressman A. J. May, Mayor A. Carter and State Senator Joe Heskett in journeys to Washington this extended work program was realized.

Plan School Building

A two-story school building to cost $80,000 and measuring 299 feet by 102.8 feet to care for the first nine grades in the city school is being considered in Washington. Mayor Carter was in our office Tuesday morning with the plans suggested by Mr. Meritt of Paintsville, who is in charge of WPA work in this district. Mr. Emanuel Tibbett, superintendent of city schools, and W. J. May, treasurer of city school board. These plans, along with plans, have been sent to the administration board in the nation's capital for approval.

This much needed structure is designed to replace the old building on the graded school grounds. The one now in use is one of the oldest buildings in town. It should accommodate and add the present enrollment of the first six grades is 500 pupils, or about twice the capacity of its side.

The proposed building is to be of the type, consisting of a central hall and two large wings, each having a special basement. If the plans are approved the building will be constructed so as to contain 22 class rooms which include the principal's office, especially large class rooms, kindergarten and music rooms. In addition there is an auditorium approximately 90 feet by 50 feet with a stage in the rear. Each class room has its cloak and storage.

The project has been sponsored by Mayor A. C. Carter. In an interview with Mr. May said: "I feel that this will be rushed in Washington."

FINE ARTS PROGRAM OF E. K. E. A. AT VENTURA HOTEL

For the first time in the history of the Eastern Kentucky Educational Association Convention, which meets in Ashland November 13, there will be a meeting of Fine Arts Section in the ball room of the Ventura Hotel. This is a great step forward for the Association, indicating a progressive educational attitude in Eastern Kentucky. Mrs. Naomi Claypool, head of the Art Department of Morehead State Teachers College, will be chairman of the Fine Arts Section, has arranged, with the assistance of a committee, an interesting and helpful program for teachers who would like to know more about teaching Fine Arts in the schoolroom. Miss Mary Yocum, Fine Arts supervisor from Sandusky, O., will be the principal speaker. Miss Yocum is an outstanding person in the field of Fine Arts. She has an M. A. degree from Columbia University, New York City, has studied abroad, a number of times in Paris, Germany and Austria; has contributed articles to well known magazines such as "Design" and "School Arts." She is known all over the United States for her pottery work. Victor has made a motion picture of her making pottery which she will show as well as a number of things done by children in her schools. Miss Yocum has seven or eight art teachers under her supervision and it is a rare occasion when Sandusky students do not win most of the art prizes of the Association.

DIES

The district was unusually honored by having three other state officials present: Mrs. E. R. May, district governor, giving an unique report characterizing each of the districts in her report of their outstanding project and presiding as chairwoman of the session.

Mrs. W. P. Mayo, in her report as chairman of Art, announced that the University of Kentucky has consented to publish an art catalogue in co-operation with the K. E. W. A., that would list all works of art in Kentucky. In reporting on the art exhibit held recently in Louisville, Mrs. Mayo quoted an art critic from the Chicago Daily News as saying that this exhibit compared favorably with those of the Chicago Art Club and should be kept open to the public a month. It was also announced that several of Mrs. Mayo's pictures

STATE HEAD IN ADDRESS TO CLUB

"World Looking Forward to Womanhood to Help Solve Problems," Mrs. Wickliffe Reminds Club

At the annual meeting of the Seventh District of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs in Pikeville Saturday, October 24, Mrs. Paul Wickliffe, state president, of Wickliffe, Ky., gave an address of such an inspiring nature that those who heard her will have greater interest as club women than heretofore. Mrs. Wickliffe reminded the women that the world is looking forward to intelligent womenhood to help solve the problems of the world, that in the home the principles of truth, honesty and love are taught by the mothers. What are more powerful weapons of crime than the character training each boy and girl acquires from the maternal training and example of good parents? She told the women that the educational system of the future would spend billions in preventing crime from becoming inherent in our youth by cheating them to do what they are fitted to do. In order to make useful citizens. The adult criminal of the future will have the benefit of psychiatric examination before being placed in an institution, then segregated and treated according to his mental or physical condition. In closing, Mrs. Wickliffe quoted the slogan of the General Federation, "Education for living was not to make scholars of men but to teach them to live longer and more abundantly."

The district was unusually honored by having three other state officials present: Mrs. E. R. May, district governor, giving an unique report characterizing each of the districts in her report of their outstanding project and presiding as chairwoman of the session.

Red Cross Seeks New High Point in County Membership

A new high point in Red Cross memberships for Floyd County is being sought this year in the 20th annual roll call. Those conducting the drive are seeking 2,100 members in the county during the gregarious January drive and the culminating campaign from Armistice Day through Thanksgiving.

Wheelwright, flipping the 1935 roll call with 502 members, is again the wheelhorse of the present drive. A goal of 500 has been accepted by G. C. Suttlerland, safety director of Inland Steel Company, who for several years has been active in Red Cross work. It's the old story with Wheelwright now—beating the list—as that community has been first in memberships for four consecutive years, according to Miss Ella Noel White, executive secretary of the Floyd County chapter. Turner Elk horn Coal Company at Drift has also been a Red Cross minded community for several years, always reaching their goal early.

QUICK COUNT IN STATE IS EXPECTED

Approximate Figures Give Floyd Registration; Total for State to Reach Million Mark

A delayed count of Kentucky's vote in the national election, due to an anti fraud election law that has been in effect in the state for four years preventing start of the count until the day after the election, will not unnerve the candidate and voters this year should the result of the election depend upon the 11 electoral votes we cast.

The old law was subjected to a "face lifting" by this year's legislature to provide that precinct officials deliver unlocked election ballot boxes to the courthouses, as in the former law, but the count is to begin at 5 o'clock, or one hour after the closing time under the eyes of party watchers. With the "slow count" eliminated and a light ballot, the result, or at least a definite trend of over a million registered voters should be known the following day.

For the first time in history Kentucky has a state wide registration law requiring all voters to register on or before October 10, otherwise they cannot vote in the coming election.

ABIGAIL THEATRE OPENS

Second to none in Eastern Kentucky, in appearance and equipment, the Abigail theatre makes its opening bow to the public Friday, October 30. The interior, with an extra large stage, about 750 cushion seats, heavy rugs and multi color illumination ranks this place as one of the state's cinema palaces.

The Abigail opens with "Sitting on the Moon," starring Roger Pryor and Grace Bradley. The opening is formally scheduled for 6:30 p. m., with popular admission prices.

MISS KING, SECRETARY OF GIRL RESERVE CONFERENCE

The 1936 Eastern Kentucky Girl Reserve conference, which was held at Russell, Ky., Friday, October 23-24, selected Miss Eleanor King, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. H. F. King, of this place, and a sophomore in Prestonsburg high school as secretary. Miss King addressed the meeting Friday on the topic, "Portals." Miss Katherine Meade, daughter of County Court Clerk and Mrs. A. B. Meade, of this city, gave a report of Girl Reserve activities Saturday morning. Mrs. Roberts, faculty advisor of the local club of 150 members, accompanied Miss King and Miss Meade.

Delegates from Floyd county attending and schools represented were: Prestonsburg: Eleanor King, Katherine Meade, Mrs. Mae Roberts, Wheelwright: Gladys Mae Tackett, Kathleen Shepherd, Hazel Mae Blair, Virginia Dutton. Langley: Mrs. Blanche Martin, Peggy Jo Allen, Erma Stewart. Lackey: Josephine Collins, Cecelia Reed.

Ashland was selected as the meeting place for the 1937 conference. In a statement from Louisville this was marked as the most successful meeting in years.

$300,000 TO BE SPENT IN FLOYD BY ROAD BODY

Allen Lackey Highway to Benefit From $8,000,000 Allotment Made to Road Work in State

GAP TO BE CLOSED HERE

Floyd county is to receive the benefit of over $300,000 in state and federal funds from recent allotments according to reliable sources. This is the most to be awarded to any one county of the highway district, comprised of Floyd, Pike, Knott, Letcher, Martin, Johnson and Mingo counties.

$105,000 has been estimated as the cost of paving 3.6 miles of the Allen Lackey road, known as State Route 80. This concreting will extend from the end of the pavement above Allen to just above Dinwood, and the contractor will employ WPA labor. One half of the road is to be paved before the other half, thereby not interfering with traffic. Work was started this week on this road, which is one of the "main line routes" across southern Kentucky.

Although there is no official report regarding the remainder of the road from Allen to Lackey, it is understood that $180,000 is to be spent in the immediate future for improving 10.9 miles toward Lackey. As yet, it has not been decided as to what kind of surface will be used other than just "hard surface."

Straightening Mayo Trail

The state highway department has agreed, in a statement from the county attorney's office, that upon condemnation of property located at the upper entrance within the city limits, a contract will be awarded for straightening and land purchase the Mayo Trail from the end of the pavement above town to the junction at Third street. A suit of such nature was filed recently in county court by Forrest D. Short, county attorney, and E. P. Hill, city attorney, in behalf of the state highway commission, Floyd county and the town of Prestonsburg. If this materializes, one of the roughest gaps in the road between Ashland and Jenkins and one of the most dangerous turns, will be eliminated.

Upon hearing of the case, the court appointed commissioners who valued the Grace Ford property at $2,000. Both sides filed exceptions to the valuation, and a hearing was scheduled to be conducted Tuesday.

Huge Sum for Roads

New state highway construction now under way or approved aggregate approximately $8,000,000. Chief Engineer Thomas H. Cutler said this week in a statement issued at Frankfort, and $10,000,000 more "as a rough guess," will be spent for additional new construction by the end of the regular budget period on March 31, 1938.

The $8,000,000, Cutler said, is to be spent exclusively for new construction, in addition to highway maintenance, administration, office and other departmental costs.

Household Questions

Add a tablespoon of cream to each cup of beef or lamb gravy. It makes it a delicious brown.

A few bread crumbs added to scrambled eggs improves flavor and makes an extra serving possible.

Two tablespoonfuls of vinegar added to one cup of sweet milk will turn it into sour milk. Let stand for three minutes before using.

Doeskin and chamois gloves become stiff and harsh unless washed in tepid suds and rinsed in slightly soapy water.

To protect paper when cleaning paint use a piece of heavy cardboard about 12 inches square, moving it along as you wash paint.

Knit and crocheted frocks should never be hung from closet hooks or hangers if they are to keep their shape. Even eyelet cotton frocks will stretch less if folded and laid flat, or hung doubled across a wooden hanger.

Beat eggs only slightly when used in custards, puddings, sauces, etc. Beat well when used to make food light, as in sponge cakes, puffy omelets, etc.

If You Have a Child

ASK YOUR DOCTOR THIS

Ask Him Before Giving Your Child an Unknown Remedy

Practically any doctor you ask will warn: "Don't give your child unknown remedies without asking your doctor first."

When it comes to the widely used children's remedy—"milk of magnesia," the standard of the world is established. For over half a century many doctors have said "PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia." Safe for children. No other is "quite like it."

Keep this in mind, and say "PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA" when you buy. Now also in tablet form. Get the form you prefer. But see that what you get is labeled "Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia."

ALSO IN TABLET FORM:

Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

what Irvin thinks about:

Campaign's Home Stretch.

BEVERLY HILLS, CALIF. —Here the campaign is practically on its last legs, when it isn't standing on its head and spinning around—but yet not a peep out of the three fairest-haired young hopes of the New Deal.

They're still putting on an act—what's known in vaudeville as a dumb act—entitled "The Bollo Boys in a Sub-Cellar."

Horrid tales abound. "Tim rumbled that the gurgling sound coming from the White House dungeon is caused by Tugwell trying to get the gag out of his mouth with both hands tied behind his back. And a note believed to have been written by Harry Hopkins has been slipped through the bars begging somebody to smuggle in a file in a loaf of bread.

Richberg, once the merriest of the administration's songsters, doesn't chirp any more, having been induced to take on the role of the man in the iron mask.

Remote-Control Patriotism.

DID you ever notice that these impassioned European statesmen, who so boldly defy tyrants in the homeland, generally put two or three national boundaries between themselves and the objects of their hate before cutting loose? One fiery anti-fascist waited until he got to Hoboken to tell Mussolini right to his face—the face being only 5,000 miles distant—exactly what he thought of him.

Not that I'd blame any patriot for playing safety first, dictators being so sensitive to criticism. In fact, I like the idea so much, I'm thinking of taking a correspondence course in lion-taming, myself.

Debunking Politics.

CAN nothing be done to stop the destructive utterances of this man, Al Smith? Think of him, as he did in that Philadelphia speech of his, urging the voters to sift the bunk out of the campaign and study the facts. Does he want to deflate the whole system of American politics? Would you hire a cook who squeezed all the meat out of the sausage and fried the sausage skin for breakfast?

Even so, maybe a little debunking would be gratifying to quite a lot of us who wish to start concentrating on football as soon as possible. I'm especially interested in how Yale comes out on its clever little idea of selling to a commercial broadcast the radio rights for all games played on the home grounds. But the fellow who gets the empty-bottles concession is the one who'll really clean up.

"Lead Dollar's" Immortality.

HOW some old friends do hang on! Twenty-five years ago or thereabouts, it appeared as a short story in Everybody's magazine under the title, "The Lead Dollar."

Twenty years ago, believing I was using an actual occurrence which never before had been fictionalized, I wrote it, too, and called it "Heart of Lead," and, barely in time, was saved by Bob Davis and Charlie Van Loan from the unintentional but nonetheless serious literary crime of plagiarism.

Fifteen years ago, Octavus Roy Cohen and I just did head off a young girl writer who already had sold the same tale to a pleased editor. I forget now what she called her version.

Today, practically complete in all its sequences—poker game, bogus money, practical jokes, good Samaritan, homeless girl, skeptical hotel clerk, pitiable suicide and all—I find this dear old familiar standby in the current issue of a popular monthly with yet another author sponsoring it.

Jack Garner's Activities.

MONTH after month, Uncle Jack Garner never said anything but "Ouch!" and then not for publication. It seemed that, if defeated, he would go back from the comparative obscurity of Washington to the blazing prominence of Uvalde county, Texas, as the most finished specimen of sound-proof nominee American politics ever produced. But he's no longer a perfect example to all innocent bystanders—he's just a candidate.

Having read his first speech, I'm reminded of the English gentleman who fell on hard times but did have a few layin' hens left and was driven by necessity to peddle their product in the open street.

So she picked out a back alley for her debut into vulgar trade, and, as she crept stealthily along, whispered in a stricken undertone:

"Fresh eggs, tuppence. I hope no one sees me. Fresh eggs, tuppence. I hope no one hears me."

Army Looms Tough for Navy, and Lion Will Roar Plenty

IF CONGRESS were in session right now the duty of all humane and forward-looking taxpayers would be quite plain. Letters could be rushed to the guardians of the public purse urging that Navy forthwith be provided with six battle-ships, a dozen cruisers and as many submarines as any little admiral's heart desires.

Of course that would cost a pretty penny but it would be worth it. This is a nation which yearns to keep its bluff seadogs happy and I greatly fear no other sop will be quite so effective in easing the discontent which must settle upon Annapolis sooner than usual this season.

I mention this as the result of viewing Army in some of its recent football enterprises. The Cadets seemed far better than they have seemed in any early recent season. What is more the line—the runt, right guard Kimbrell, stands six feet and weighs 175 pounds—has such a sheer, raw abundance of power that even a Pitt coach would be awed at the sight.

Naturally Gar Davidson's team is, at the moment, far from a smoothly functioning machine. General Pershing had that same trouble at the start of the World war when he was tossed 3,000,000 stalwart youngsters and stacked up against outfits which had been practicing for years. But the power and the reserves are there—where they mean the most in football—and it remains only to be seen whether proper plays can be provided along with backs to execute them.

Against Lou Little's Columbia Army showed little in the way of a running attack. This partly could have been due to the greasy field, the unwillingness to display cherished formations to eagerly peeping scouts, and to the fact that both teams had quick success from the "gamble for a touchdown or nothing" formula. Monk Meyer is a very good passer and he was better favored than his equally able opponent, Sid Luckman, in having skyscraping wings to grab his tosses. Then, too, his coaches seemed to have stressed this aerial preparation more than did the Columbia mentors who provided a better balanced attack.

In the second period, for instance, the way was paved for the tying touchdown by means of an aerial connection with Wilson standing on the line. On this play one side of the line stays in position until the ball is tossed to the receiver, then forms for interference down the field. Greasy Neale has been using it at Yale for several seasons—indeed the Elis scored a touchdown Against Cornell with it.

It is not. It merely is a few degrees and seconds removed from the border line where illegality begins. Like that short, rifle toss over the line—first used in proper winning style by W. and J. years ago and again properly handled by Meyer and Hipps in time of need.

Defensively Army made mistakes—in mechanics as well as in cerebration—which could very well lose late season games. It is probable such defects can be remedied within another game or two. The real weakness right now exists in the backfield and there can be some wonder it was not long ago noted that Stromberg at right end has more real driving power than any Cadet ball carrier.

Columbia's problem is in the line, usually the place where Little-coached teams are at their best. Luckman, who seems likely to be the most popular football hero in local baseball parks this fall, needs more time to acquire big league savvy on the defense. That largely is because he can be drawn out of position.

Furey also is a back who would win the esteem of almost any coach for all that he weighs less than 170 pounds. Perhaps he does not catch the eye as quickly as did one or two other members of the famous Columbia football family but he is alert on the defense and may be the best interferer the Lions have had in several seasons.

Schulze, the rangy end, is another athlete who strengthens the old grad convictions that Columbia is back on its feet this year.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

FRANK KEARNS, new trainer for Warren Wright's Calumet Farm Stable, should know how to get his horses away from the post. He once was an assistant starter. . . . Frank Collins, Brooklyn newspaper man, has missed only forty home games since the Dodgers opened their new park in 1912. . . . Henry McLemore spent two years studying medicine at McGill university before he decided to become a celebrated sports writer instead. . . . Pop Foster probably is the fastest talking of all fight seconds when he is operating in Jimmy McLarnin's corner.

If Connie Mack gets hungry again this winter, the Yankees will offer numerous well-sugared doughnuts for Pinkey Higgins. They have a notion Pinkey might do very well in their second-base show window on Tony Lazzeri's days off during the next few years. . . . Cal Rainey, crack rider only a year ago when he was winning with King Saxon, weighs 130 pounds now.

Eddie Ainsmith, once famed as a catcher and as the best of all baseball fighters, is coming back to the big time. He has done so well as a Southern association umpire that the American League now controls his future. . . . Every horse likes carrots but only Pompoon can eat them by the bunch. . . . George Smith, the eminent box office man now reunited with Mike Jacobs, is no chance taker. He wears both Roosevelt and Landon buttons. . . . They led another lamb—this time a curly haired one from the Argentine—into the pit recently against Joe Louis. The slaughter took place as scheduled, in the third round. The lamb, by the way, was named Jorge Brescia. If it had not been for the necessity of having a fitting sacrifice for the opening of the Hippodrome sports temple he might—with another year of the six-rounders by which he was fattened—have become a fair fighter.

Pat Malone, Johnny Murphy and the other members of the Yankee bullpen gang are such modest citizens that they refuse to admit it. But little Jimmy De Foe, who runs errands for them out there in their left field station, is very, very happy about that $85 they presented to him as his cut of the World series. . . . Manhattan's football players are complaining out loud about having to perform at night. They insist most of them have caught colds.

Irish Are Said to Have Backfield Ills

In spite of early season scoring, Notre Dame insiders claim the Irish have backfield trouble. But you can pretty well depend on it that Elmer Layden is a good enough doctor to remedy the ailment before it becomes acute. . . . Soccer folks don't boot any chances to boost their game. For instance, John J. Doherty coaches the Elmer Layden Flushing Juniors and the St. John's university team in addition to being secretary of the Empire Junior league. And Tommy McManus, secretary of the Galloping Gaels of St. Mary's Cetics, also is treasurer of the Metropolitan league and delegate to the New York State association.

Jim Tierney, long secretary of the Giants, hopes to return to baseball next season. He has strong support for his bid for the International League presidency. . . . Foreign spies report that several English thoroughbreds are suffering from "heel bug." This is a form of athlete's foot and the germ is picked up on the turf, usually in the fall. It is rare in this country. . . . Although he was one of baseball's best third basemen for fourteen years, Joe Dugan never once handed the ball to the pitcher. Thought it was bad luck. . . . Jack McGrath, the United States Narcotic Squad man, gave Joe McCarthy his first glimpse of New York. That was in 1904 when McGrath refused to let his Giants appear against the Red Sox in the World Series. McGrath, long a baseball power in the Bronx, got together an all-star team that included Joe McGinnity and Rube Oldring. Then when he needed a second baseman he sent to Germantown for the smart, active youngster named McCarthy, who had not yet taken up baseball as a profession.

In addition to being cousins of Sports Columnist Dick Vidmer, the prize fighting Simmses of Cleveland (Eddie and Frankie) can play all kinds of musical instruments. . . . Max Machon, Max Schmeling's trainer, rarely finds words of praise for a European fighter other than the Black Uhlan. But Machon, on his last visit, remarked that he would like to have Gunnar Barlund, the Finn. Gunnar demonstrated why recently when he knocked out Sandy McDonald in two rounds at the Hippodrome.

Dean Watkeys, who has ranked tops among football officials during thirty years and 400 games, now is viewing the sport from a new angle. He takes an autumn Saturday off now and then to enjoy the thrills coming to a cash customer. . . . Wrestling Promoter Jack Curley pays his own expenses, while touring with Jack Dempsey, and making speeches for F. D. R. . . . Buddy Hassett, whose dad runs ozo of The Bronx's most active Democratic clubs, makes a political speech almost as well as he plays first base.

Seems Pat's Front Had Retreated to the Rear

Pat, being a sound sleeper, had slept through the racket set up by his alarm clock, and, consequently, when he did awaken, found himself late for work. He hurriedly dressed and rushed off. In his great haste he did not know that he had put his trousers back to front. Alighting from the bus outside the factory, he slipped and fell into the gutter. The conductor went to his assistance. "Are you hurt?" he asked. Pat looked down at his trousers and noticed his trousers were back to front. "I don't know," he said.

WPA OPERATION COSTS GIVEN IN RECENT FIGURE RELEASE

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 29—Overhead cost of operation of the WPA in Kentucky is given by figures released today by George H. Goodman, administrator, which show that approximately $3,600,000 is expended monthly with an administrative cost of approximately $80,000, or 2.7 per cent of the total.

Of the $3,600,000 total expended in Kentucky monthly, Mr. Goodman's report shows, $500,000 represents contributions by those who sponsor projects and local governmental units in taking advantage of the government's program of building into the future with permanent improvement, to be enjoyed by generations to come.

Mr. Goodman also gave out another set of interesting figures which tend to show the effect the Works Progress Administration has had in reviving business in every locality of the state, aside from the alleviation of want and suffering—the primary purpose of the organization.

Through Sept. 30, 1936, the Works Progress Administration in Kentucky spent $3,878,507 for materials and supplies. Few of the merchants, Mr. Goodman said, who have not felt the direct effect of these purchases, all of which have later taken the form of highways, schools and public buildings in the communities where the materials were bought.

Lumber dealers of Kentucky have benefited to the extent of $574,628, the largest single expenditure of the Works Progress Administration. Cement that cost $550,960 has found its way into projects of lasting durability.

GEORGE JARRELL PASSES

George Jarrell, a son of Anell and Betty Frazier Jarrell, died October 23, at the ripe age of 81 years. He was a devout member of the M. E. Church, South, for a number of years and was a kind and faithful father.

He was first united in marriage to Rebecca Laferty, who preceded him in death some 30 years ago, and to this union were born 9 children, four of whom survive: Mrs. Emma Evans, of Cracker, Mrs. Emma Evans, of Kenova, W. Va., John and Harvey Jarrell, of Water Gap, and two grandchildren, Harry and Rebecca Jarrell, who resided with him at his death.

He also leaves four sisters and five brothers: Sam and John Jarrell, of Allen; Joel Jarrell of Canterbury, W. Va.; Anell Jarrell Jr., of Oldtown, Ky.; Harvey Jarrell and Mrs. D. B. Hughes, of Martin; Mrs. Janey Canterbury, of Allen; Mrs. Sallie Bentley, of Wender; Mrs. J. C. Laferty, of Dwale.

He was one of Floyd county's oldest and best citizens. He was later married to Kentucky Branham, who preceded him in death some five or six years ago. Near the end he expressed great faith in meeting his Maker. Funeral rites were conducted from the home of his son, John Jarrell, at Water Gap, by Rev. John Laferty and F. C. Conley officiating. A host of friends and relatives were in attendance.

Burial was made in the Williams cemetery on Bull Creek.

Mrs. N. Y. Beavers has been very ill the past few days.

CLUB HEAD SPEAKS

 received honorable mention in the exhibit.

Mrs. S. A. Combs, state chairman of American Citizenship, has outlined a decalogue which if every club woman should adopt, would result in each club within being a better citizen herself, because of her example to youth, her knowledge of public affairs, her actions in matters of government and public affairs, and above all her influence upon a youth in outliving war.

As district chairman for Birth Control legislation, Mrs. J. D. May made a strong plea for the poor down-trodden mother that thought correct legislation she may have the privilege of spacing her children according to her physical strength and limiting her family to the ability of the father to support them. Finally, limitation of the low-income group and dependents will in a short course of time result in much relief from human suffering, physical and mental, and tend to improve the race.

Miss Sarah Hay, secretary of Adult Training and Education for women, contributed an exhibit of wearing apparel made in the WPA training centers of this district that proved to be of interesting beyond all conception. The handcraft displayed fell very short of that of the district in general and the families in particular will profit greatly by the knowledge and training being derived from these projects. Miss Hay also gave a most interesting account of the library on Horse project, which is being conducted by the WPA also. Resolutions were passed bordering every major point of interest mentioned.

Mrs. Katherine Langley, president of the Pikeville Club, told of the tentative plans for the 1937 convention, which is to be held in Pikeville next May. This meeting is unique in that the entire district will be hostess.

As a district project the club is sponsoring a safety campaign whereby all drivers may have occasion to learn the rules of the road, and if carried out will prevent many accidents.

MRS. SLONE SUCCEUMS

Mrs. Maggie Stone, 32 years old, wife of Hartman Stone, of Garrett, this county, died at the Beaver Valley Hospital, Martin, Sunday evening. Death was due to myocardial failure following an operation, according to reports.

Mrs. Stone was the mother of two children. Names of the survivors were not known as The Times went to press.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at 2 o'clock from the Garrett church by Green Allen, Yancey Leade and Willie Whittaker, of the Church of God. Burial was in charge of E. P. Arnold, Prestonsburg, undertaken.

Chatler have emphasized that highway work will be kept on a cash basis.

In new construction, attention is to be concentrated on "main line" routes across the state, Cutler said, to make Kentucky attractive to automobile tourists, at the same time continuing the program of county road improvements.

Cutler had prepared a construction program for the spring and summer of 1937 and submitted it to Commissioner Humphreys and members of the advisory commission. Revisions may be made on the basis of findings of the state highway survey, now getting started with a Robert Humphreys' fall quarterly budget of $200,000 federal and $50,000 state funds. This survey will be pending more than actual receipts, point the way for future construction plans.

MCDOWELL SCHOOL NEWS

The McDowell Parent Teacher Association has been making rapid strides since it was organized less than a month ago. Already it has been the means of bringing the parents into much closer contact with the school. The P. T. A. holds its next meeting Friday, October 30. Mrs. Maude Hall and Miss Octavia Brown will have charge of this entertainment for this meeting.

McDowell high school is making plans for a Halloween party. The party will be held in the gymnasium and only members of the club will be permitted to attend.

The high school students making the highest grades for the first six weeks were: Katherine Reed and Elsie Reitz. Each of these students had a perfect record for the first six weeks. These were the only honor students in the high school. Marie Hall and Helen Grace Salsbury were the honor students in the eighth grade.

Work on the new $5,000 school building has slowed down somewhat the past week due to a lack of snow. A crew of men has been getting out some this week and the work should go forward at a rapid rate. The new modern building should be finished in about two months. It will furnish an ample amount of room for the grades.

The organ of McDowell consolidated school is: Don't Let the Other School Catch Up With Us!

IN CINCINNATI

Mr. H. E. Hughes left Thursday morning to spend several days in Cincinnati on business.

MARAUDING MAROONS TO MEET MOREHEAD EAGLES

Richmond, Ky., Oct. 26—Catcher Rome Rankin's Marauding Maroons go into action this week against their old rival, the Morehead Eagles at Hauger Stadium on Friday in a contest that has Richmond fans agog with excitement. Hundreds of graduates of Eastern have signified that they will be on hand to see perhaps the greatest game of the age-old rivalry that has existed between the two state schools. Morehead, too, has denoted its intention of coming to Richmond en masse, as they recently asked that a block of tickets be sent to them for the tilt.

Eastern with an undefeated record enters the tilt against Morehead on comparative scores. The Maroons do not believe in the hardest fights. The last week Eastern subdued Georgetown team by a score of 62. Mud and rain was expected to be a factor in the Homecoming Day celebration. Neither team was able to put up a best offensive game.

Eastern to date is undefeated, having won five titles by aggregating 95 points while holding their opponents to 8. Morehead has a record of one win, one loss, and two ties games. They have beaten Transylvania, lost to Murray, and tied Union and Georgetown. Catcher Edis Johnson, of the University of Kentucky, has done great things to a very underestimated Morehead team this year and nothing would please him or the Rowan county school so much as to trounce the Maroons who last year annihilated the Eagles by a 53-0 count.

Two features of this year's battle will be the celebration of Dad's Day at Eastern at which time the Dad's of the students of Eastern are to be honored, and the presentation of a perpetual trophy by the A. Babb of Morehead to the winner of the annual game. The trophy consists of an old squirrel rifle that has been a prized possession of Mrs. Babb for many years. Thus will begin an affair similar to that of the Indiana Purdue "Little Brown Jug." An extensive program has been planned by T. E. McDonough, director of athletics at Eastern, for the first Dad's Day ever held on the Eastern campus.

FINE ARTS EXHIBIT

(Continued from page one) offered by scholastic magazines. Besides all her honors, Miss Yeoman is a charming person and a delightful speaker. On the program with Miss Yeoman there will be two Puppet Shows, supervised by Mr. Thomas D. Young, instructor in the Art Department of Morehead State Teachers College and supervisor of Art in the Training school. The first puppet show will be given by children of the eighth grade of the M. S. T. C. Training School. They have written their own play, "The Courtship of Miles Standish," made their own puppets and scenery, and will do the speaking and manipulating of them. They also will have a puppet amateur show. Mr. Young, who is widely known as a puppeteer and artist, will demonstrate some of his own puppets, which are quite clever and amusing. Teachers are especially invited to attend this meeting, and we extend a most cordial invitation to anyone else who may be interested in art.

6 small sweet potatoes
2 cup grated pineapple
1/3 cup honey
1/4 cup pineapple juice

Cut boiled skinned potatoes in 1/4 inch pieces. Pour part of honey in the baking dish, add potatoes and pineapple. Pour remaining honey and fruit juice over the top. Bake 10 minutes in oven 400 degrees. If desired marshmallows may be placed on top.

Sweet Potato Nut Loaf

3 cups mashed sweet potatoes
1 egg beaten
4 cup dry bread crumbs
1 cup chopped nut meats
1/3 cup butter
1 teaspoon salt-pepper.

Mash potatoes while hot. Add 2/3 cup of nuts, butter, salt, pepper, half of crumbs and beat thoroughly. Grease the mold and sprinkle thickly with crumbs and nut meats mixed, shaking out any that do not adhere to the mold. Turn in the mixture and pack tight. Cover top with remaining crumbs and nuts. Bake 1 1/2 hour in an oven 350 degrees. Serve with a sauce.

Sweet Potato Creme

Peel 2 large sweet potatoes, cover with water to which a pinch of salt has been added and cook until soft but not mushy. Rub them through a sieve and when cool, mix with 1/2 cup powdered sugar, the yolks of 2 eggs, a pinch of mace and 1/2 tea spoon vanilla. Press the mixture through a strainer upon a large plate. Make a large cavity in the center by carefully pressing toward the outside with a wet spoon. Fill the hollow with sweetened whipped cream and sprinkle with finely chopped almonds.

Ham With Sweet Potatoes

1 slice ham about 2 inches thick.
3 sweet potatoes, boiled until almost tender.
2 tablespoons sugar.
1 cup hot water

Brown the ham slightly on both sides and place in baking dish. Cover ham with slice of sweet po tato. Add hot water to the ham drippings, pour over ham and potatoes. Cover and bake in oven 350 degrees until the ham is tender. Baste occasionally with the gravy. At the last remove the cover and let the top brown.

Sweet Potato Balls

Boil the desired number of sweet potatoes until tender. Peel, mash and season them with sugar and butter. Make into balls, using 1 heaping tablespoon for each. In the center of each one put a marshmallow. Roll the balls in finely sifted bread crumbs, next in beaten eggs (using 1 egg and 2 tablespoons of water beaten together), then roll in bread crumbs again. Fry in deep fat until golden brown.

THE NEW PICTURES

Opinions are based upon the reports of P. S. Harrison, noted New York critic, whose reviews serve as confidential guides to theatre men all over the United States.

"THE TEXAS RANGERS"

(Paramount)—Fred MacMurray, Jack Oakie and Jean Parker.

Superior to the general run of Western pictures, this film has Fred MacMurray and Jack Oakie cast as two bandits who join the rangers so that they can carry on their work unmolested. Jean Parker is the Major's daughter, who falls in love with MacMurray and brings about his final reformation. Jack Oakie is very funny.

"CHINA CLIPPER"

(First National)—Pat O'Brien and Beverly Roberts.

This story is primarily concerned with the progress of aviation from the time of the first Lindbergh flight across the Atlantic.

Pat O'Brien plays the part of a visionary person whose foresight and courage bring about transatlantic flying. Beverly Roberts has the role of O'Brien's wife and the slight comedy is furnished by Ross Alexander and Marie Wilson. Humphrey Bogart, Henry B. Walthall, Joseph Crehan, Addison Richards are in the cast.

"I'D GIVE MY LIFE"

(Paramount)—Tom Brown and Frances Drake.

Tom Brown is cast as the son of an unloving and brutal man, Robert Glecker. Frances Drake has the role oflinger in Glecker's night club. Janet Beecher is the mother of Tom Brown and who was once married to Glecker but who is now the Governor's wife, Sir Guy Standing is the Governor.

Because of a murder in the picture it may be unsuitable for children, but it is excellent adult entertainment.

"WALKING ON AIR"

(RKO)—Ann Sully and Gene Raymond.

Comedy with tuneful music of popular variety. Although the plot is not unusual, it is gay. Henry Stephenson is Miss Sothorn's father, who refuses to let her marry a playboy. She engaged Gene Raymond to pose as a Count hoping to disgust her father but the plan works out differently from what she expects.

Jessie Ralph is the aunt and Francis M. Cockrell wrote the story. Suitable for all.

"POSTAL INSPECTOR"

(Universal)—Ricardo Cortez and Patricia Ellis.

Cortez, as a postal inspector, and Michael Loring, as a U. S. Treasury official, are brothers. Loring is in love with Patricia, who innocently gives information about the transportation of U. S. Money, which she learned about from Loring, to Bela Lugosi. Lugosi holds up the mail truck but is prevented from getting away by the floods. Other complications arise but everything turns out all right in the end. Because of the activities of the crooks, it may be unsuitable for children or adolescents.

"GENTLEMAN FROM LOUISIANA"

(Republic)—Eddie Quillen and Charlotte Henry.

The action of this picture takes place in 1876 and Quillen has the role of a farm hand who gets to be a famous jockey, riding Chic Salvo horse to victory. John Mullan is the villain of the piece and famous characters such as Steve Brodie, John L. Sullivan and Diamond Jim Brady are fitted into the plot. Charlotte Henry is the heart interest. Suitable for all.

CHEVROLET GETS FIRST PLACE AT NATIONAL AUTO DISPLAY

The Chevrolet Motor Company had first choice of show space at the National Automobile Shows at New York and Chicago this year for the tenth consecutive time, it was announced this week.

The Automobile Manufacturers Association, under the sponsorship of which the shows are held, annually gives first choice to the manufacturer showing the largest dollar volume of sales during the preceding year. Chevrolet has held this honor every year since 1927.

During the mid-year just ended, Chevrolet sold 1,125,000 units, according to W. E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager, and set a new all-time record. It was the seventh time in the past 10 years that Chevrolet has led the entire automobile industry in yearly sales.

Chevrolet will exhibit a complete line of passenger cars and commercial vehicles at both shows and will have lecturers on the scene to explain the exceptional features of the new Chevrolet for 1937.

THE FARM AND HOME

(Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station)

Moths are numerous in the house during the fall months, and may fly about and lay eggs all winter. Woolen coats and blankets, therefore, should be brushed, beaten and sun-dried frequently to dislodge eggs that may have been laid in them.

In substituting honey for sugar in recipes it is necessary to reduce the amount of liquid used. If medium thick honey is used in cakes or quick bread, reduce the liquid a fourth. If honey is substituted for all the sugar, reduce the liquid one-half.

Sulfate of ammonia or nitrate of soda is used on lawns in the fall at the rate of 1 pound per square rod. It is best to make the application just before rain, as it is in dry weather may burn the grass. Mixing with sand or dry soil makes for even distribution.

If no other form of animal protein is fed, laying hens should consume skim milk or buttermilk at the rate of a gallon daily per 25 of the general purpose breed or 30 of Leghorns. Omit water when feeding this amount of milk.

Black locust is one of the fastest growing hardwood trees. Under favorable conditions, it yields durable fence posts in 10 or 12 years. Seedlings may be planted in the fall, although spring is considered the best time to plant locust.

The value of mulching is generally not appreciated. It prevents leaching, preserves moisture, suppresses the growth of grass and weeds, and supplies nitrogen and other nutrients. It is especially beneficial to flower gardens and vegetable gardens. A heavy winter mulch helps to make a mellow, rich soil in the spring.

ANEMIA

A reader requests an article on anemia. This is a big subject and therefore difficult to deal with in one article.

Moses wrote about 3,500 years ago, "The blood is the life." The word is derived from the Greek and means without blood. This is due to the fact that in severe cases of anemia the blood is thin and watery.

The coloring matter of blood called hemoglobin carries the oxygen throughout the body and keeps the vital processes functioning. When the hemoglobin is reduced beyond a certain point the person has anemia. Then there is another type of the disease which is caused by the decrease in the number of blood cells or corpuscles.

A person with severe anemia usually has a very sallow skin; as the trouble advances, they grow fatigued on exertion. The breathing often becomes shallow and rapid from the effort to get more oxygen into the system.

Anemia is often caused by loss of blood, by infections and by some thing going wrong with the blood-making organs. Many people are suffering from the lighter types of anemia who have none of the above symptoms. Most of them, howseen to be cured. The method of treatment is based largely upon the feeding of liver.

The liver cure was discovered almost by accident. It was observed in a laboratory in which experiments were made upon animals, that after dogs had been bled, that if they were fed upon liver, they made blood very rapidly. Doctors began giving anemia patients a diet consisting largely of liver. Some of them came back almost from the grave. This cure was announced to the world, and gave hope to thousands who would have perished if this discovery had not been made.

Liver has now been analyzed and the active blood-making principles extracted. This can be taken instead of eating the liver, which is distasteful to many. A sufferer from pernicious anemia cannot remain cured permanently. He must continue to take a certain amount of liver in order to maintain health.

CHAPTER X—Continued

"I wouldn't want to impose like that on a decent father-in-law, Henry; it'll be bad enough for any man to have you hitched into his family. Lift him out of here, boys—give me a hand. We've got to get him up to the office. What's that noise out in the corral?"
"Nothin' at all," blustered McAlpin, struggling along the gangway with Sawdy's feet. "Just a few bucks from the Reservation, initiatin' Barney Rebstock into the tribe. Henry, you're heavier than a ton of bricks. I can't hold on much longer."
Not until the doctor had nearly finished dressing the cowman's leg did the wounded man begin to tell the story. And he had hardly been made ready to send to the hospital when John Lefever and Bob Scott appeared at the box office door with Barney Rebstock, white and scared.
"What's a-matter with the rest of you?" exclaimed Carpy testily, as he eyed the three.
"Why, Barney," explained Lefever blandly, "fell off his horse a few minutes ago and broke his wrist. Fix him up, will you, doc?"
"What the devil's this cutting and squawking all about?" asked Carpy of Lefever later that night.

The two were seated in the doctor's office about midnight. "Doc," explained Lefever, "the boys are pretty sore about Bill Denison's ranch house gettin' burned down. The day after the fire Barney Rebstock left two hundred with Harry Boland. Where'd he get it? The boys made up their minds to find out. Sawdy got him down to McAlpin's barn, but when he began to pump Barney the cuss showed fight. You know Henry. He'd never used a gun on a shrimp with a knife. So the rest of us, waitin' in the corral, carried Barney out of the barn, showed him a rope by the light of the lantern, and asked him how about that fire."
Carpy shook his head. "Dangerous business, John. Did you string him up?"
"Hell, no. I hadn't no more'n adjusted the noose and asked him was it comfortable under his ear, when he told the whole story. McCrossen hired him to do it for Van Tamber."
Carpy muttered an angry epithet. "—gave him two hundred and promised two more when the job was done. What do you think of that, Doc?"
Carpy was silent a moment. "Rot-ten business. But what's the good of stringing Barney up? He'll deny everything. That ain't the only thing, John. The old devil couldn't be convicted. But it would make a nasty mess to try Van Tamber for hiring Rebstock—and where would the shame land? On Jane Van Tamber. And she head over heels in love with Bill Denison, and he with her—what can be done?"
"You fellows ought've asked me that afore you began stringing Barney up," added Carpy, after a moment's thought, "there's only one thing I know of you can do now. Bill Denison is the man most interested in the situation the way it stands."
"I guess we can't get away from that," admitted Lefever.
"Lay the whole mess before Bill and ask him what's to be done."
Lefever was doubtful. "I don't know what the boy will say, doc."
"And I don't care a hang," retorted Carpy. "That's all they'll get from me."
Next morning Carpy was making his rounds at the hospital. In the corridor he encountered Lefever. John took off his hat and scratched his head. "Well, doc!" he exclaimed.
"Well," echoed Carpy, "what you doing up here?"
"We talked it over."
"Who's we?"
"Why, Sawdy, McAlpin, Bob Scott, Ben Page, 'n' me. We talked it over 'n' concluded to follow your talk—put it up to Bill."
"Sit down there in the office till I see him myself."
"O. K., Doc. I'll go in and set with Sawdy."
Dr. Carpy opened the door of Denison's room. Close to Denison, who sat with bandaged eyes, in an armchair, stood Jane, arranging some briar roses in a vase.
Denison was fingering, rather nervously, his eye bandage.
Jane turned. "Oh, here's Dr. Carpy, Bill. Good-morning, doctor!"
"Any mornin'g's a good morning when a man can set eyes on an up-an'-comin' girl like you," said Carpy. "Bill," he continued brusquely, "you're too slow. If I had as good a sight for sore eyes as she is, right close to me, I'd take a peek at her if I had to go blind the rest of my life."
Jane turned away with a protesting smile. Denison looked confused. "Say!" exclaimed Carpy suspiciously, "what's been going on here? What have you two been up to? Bill," he said suddenly, "you've been moving that bandage!"

"Why, I did lift the bandage for a few seconds," confessed Denison.
"What for?"
"To look at the roses."
"Bill, you're a blamed liar. You lifted it to look at this girl—didn't he, Jane?" Carpy thundered the question in his most aggressive manner.
"How do I know, doctor?" asked Jane demurely.
"Bill," he said, sitting down by his patient, "tell me just what and how much did you see when you lifted that bandage."
"Doc, I'll confess, I couldn't see much—just a blur."
"And your eyes ache and sting now, don't they?"
"They burn a little, Doc."
"I'll say they burn a little! How many mornings has this been going on?"
Denison was silent. "Only yesterday and today, doctor," confessed Jane, hesitatingly.
"Well, don't try it any more," said Carpy to Denison. "If you do, I'll put you back in a dark room. I only let you out here on the theory you'd behave yourself."

Carpy picked up his bag. He was part way down the corridor when he was waylaid by Lefever.
"Come into Sawdy's room a minute, Doc," pleaded Lefever. "He'd like to talk this thing over with you."
Sawdy, propped up in bed, led the talk. But the talk was not to Dr. Carpy's liking. "Yes," he muttered scornfully, "I expected that's the way it would work out. If there's a mean job to be done in this town, put it on me."
But the pair now working on the doctor's sympathies knew their victim pretty well and, having once brought him to refuse their request, needed only to persevere in order to make him grant it. This brought Carpy back that afternoon to Denison, alone.
"Doctor," said the injured man, "I couldn't be sure this morning when Jane was here whether you were talking to encourage her and me, or whether you really think you can save my sight."
"Bill, I was honest in what I said," returned Carpy. "I believe and hope I can save your eyes. But it's not all in my hands; I told you that, too. If Nature's willing, we're going to get through all right—does that satisfy you?"
"That's all I can ask, Doc."
"Bill," said the doctor suddenly, "Sawdy and Lefever have found out who burned the ranch house—and why it was set afire."
"Who was it?" asked Denison violently.
"Keep cool, Bill; keep cool. It's a mean mess."
Denison was on fire. "Why don't you tell the story?" he demanded angrily. "What did they do?"
"First," responded Carpy, determined not to be rushed, "you found that Barney Rebstock had a pocketful of money since the fire. They lured him down to McAlpin's barn. When Sawdy began to question him, he showed fight. The upshot of it was, the two went at it hammer and tongs in a box stall."

CHAPTER XI

Things were at this pass when one day Van Tamber told his daughter he must go to Medicine Bend on some bank business. Jane knew that he was not able to make the trip—Carpy had told her more than once that the old man's life hung by a thread. She pleaded with her father, found out what the business was, and offered to go in his stead.
She took the morning train for Medicine Bend, secured the further time on his notes at the bank, spent the night at the Mountain House, and took the afternoon train west for Sleepy Cat.
The Pullman cars were crowded. Jane was forced to find a seat in a day coach. Here she placed her handbag in the seat beside her, bought a magazine, and resigned herself to a long afternoon and evening.
Two men had taken the seat directly behind her. Jane resumed her reading until in the conversation between the two men her attention was attracted by catching the name of Bill Denison.
Her curiosity once aroused, it was easy to follow the drift of their talk. Presently she heard mention of her father's name. Aroused now to keen interest, Jane was torn between the feeling that she ought not to listen and the impulse that she must.
"Of course, nobody can prove it," were the words she heard. "I didn't say they could. That old bird knows too well how to cover his tracks. But everybody knows how he deviled Denison's brother when he lived there—tried to buy him out, then scare him out, and then smoke him out. The old devil has been crazy ever since he owned Gunlock to get hold of that little Spring Ranch. Why? Account of the water. It's the biggest spring in the hills. Now that he's back from the hospital, the first thing he thinks of is to get hold of that spring."
Jane listened with bated breath.
"Why, it's common talk in Sleepy Cat," the narrator went on, "that he paid Barney Rebstock to set Bill's ranch house afire and came damned near burning Bill up in it."
Her heart stopped beating as she heard the dreadful recital, delivered as calmly as the merest bit of current gossip would be discussed on a street corner.
"According to what I hear," continued the narrator, "Sawdy and some of Bill's friends choked the story out of Barney. Sawdy got cut up in the fracas with him—Sawdy was laid up in the hospital for a month. Barney's a mean devil with a knife."
The train was pulling into Sleepy Cat. Jane, rousing herself from a stupor, her breath choking her, her heart ready to burst with every beat, staggered to her feet, dazed, and supporting herself along the aisle with her hands alternately on the backs of the seats, stepped blindly down to the platform.
Bill Page, who was in with the team and buckboard to take her home, reached for her handbag. "No, Bill," Jane said quietly. "I'm not going out tonight."

Denison was silent. "Only yesterday and today, doctor," confessed Jane, hesitatingly.
"Well, don't try it any more," said Carpy to Denison. "If you do, I'll put you back in a dark room. I only let you out here on the theory you'd behave yourself."
Carpy picked up his bag. He was part way down the corridor when he was waylaid by Lefever.
"Come into Sawdy's room a minute, Doc," pleaded Lefever. "He'd like to talk this thing over with you."
Sawdy, propped up in bed, led the talk. But the talk was not to Dr. Carpy's liking. "Yes," he muttered scornfully, "I expected that's the way it would work out. If there's a mean job to be done in this town, put it on me."
But the pair now working on the doctor's sympathies knew their victim pretty well and, having once brought him to refuse their request, needed only to persevere in order to make him grant it. This brought Carpy back that afternoon to Denison, alone.
"Doctor," said the injured man, "I couldn't be sure this morning when Jane was here whether you were talking to encourage her and me, or whether you really think you can save my sight."
"Bill, I was honest in what I said," returned Carpy. "I believe and hope I can save your eyes. But it's not all in my hands; I told you that, too. If Nature's willing, we're going to get through all right—does that satisfy you?"
"That's all I can ask, Doc."
"Bill," said the doctor suddenly, "Sawdy and Lefever have found out who burned the ranch house—and why it was set afire."
"Who was it?" asked Denison violently.
"Keep cool, Bill; keep cool. It's a mean mess."
Denison was on fire. "Why don't you tell the story?" he demanded angrily. "What did they do?"
"First," responded Carpy, determined not to be rushed, "you found that Barney Rebstock had a pocketful of money since the fire. They lured him down to McAlpin's barn. When Sawdy began to question him, he showed fight. The upshot of it was, the two went at it hammer and tongs in a box stall."

"Let Me Put That Bandage Back Where It Belongs."

Barney had a knife—he drove it through Sawdy's leg, and Sawdy was choking him to death when McAlpin and the boys heard the noise and stepped in to save the thief. Then they took him out behind the barn till he told his story.
"Mind you, this now is Barney's story—might or might not be the facts. He claimed he was paid two hundred dollars to set the house afire, with a promise of two hundred more after he'd burned it."
Carpy paused. He thought the sickening truth must have already begun to penetrate Denison's mind; it had not.
"Who," asked Denison, with a fell epithet, "paid him to burn me up?"
"As Barney tells it," continued Carpy deliberately, "it was between McCrossen and Gus Van Tamber."
Denison sprang from his chair. He tore the bandage from his sightless eyes. From his disfigured lips there poured a stream of bitter words.
"Not too fast, Bill—not too fast. Remember there'll be another to suffer like hell if this thing ever gets out."
"Oh, I know it must never get out. But that man! Doc, he ought to be roped and dragged to death by a wild
