SOCIAL SECURITY ACT IS EXPLAINED BY SECURITY BOARD

Those Eligible May Secure Independence by Meeting Government Requirements

EFFECTIVE AFTER 65

Employees of Industrial and Business Establishments, Factories, Shops, Mines, Mills, Stores, Offices and Other Places of Business:

The United States Government will, in the near future, set up a Social Security account for you, if you are eligible. To understand your obligations, rights and benefits, you should read the following general explanation.

There is now a law in this country which will give about 26,000,000 working people something to live on when they are old and have stopped working. This law, which gives other benefits, too, was passed last year by Congress and is called the Social Security Act.

Under this law the United States Government will send checks every month to retired workers, both men and women, after they have passed their 65th birthday and have met a few simple requirements of the law.

What This Means to You

This means that if you work in some factory, shop, mine, mill, store, office, or almost any other kind of business or industry, you will be earning benefits that will be coming to you later on. From the time you are 65 years old or more, and stop working, you will get a Government check every month of your life, if you have worked for some time (one day or more) in each of any 5 years after 1936, and have earned during that time a total of $2,000 or more. The checks will come to you as a right. You will get them regardless of the amount of income you may have. They are what the law calls "Old-Continued on page two

Widow's Home Dynamited On Jack's Creek Monday

The home of Mrs. Alice Hall, widow of W. R. (Red Will) Hall, was dynamited Monday morning about 1:30.

The dynamite was planted under the bedroom in which Mrs. Hall usually slept, and the bed which the usually occupied was blown to pieces.

Owing to the fear of a small boy to sleep by himself saved Mrs. Hall's life, as she left her own bedroom and went to an adjoining room to quiet the youth's fears.

Sheriff M. T. Stumbo, accompanied by several deputies, went to the scene of the dynamiting early Monday morning. A bloodhound was brought to Jack's Creek from Huntington, W. Va., but no definite clues were uncovered.

'Cats Top Paintsville 25-0 In Last Game

After sustaining two smashing defeats and a tie, Prestonsburg Blackcats made a strong comeback to finish the season in excellent fashion Thanksgiving Day.

The Cats plunged laterally, passed, field sifted and punted their way to a 25 to 0 triumph over their accustomed season-old foes, the Paintsville Tigers.

The game was played before a large Thanksgiving Day crowd, of around 500, many of whom came late, due to a mix up on game time.

The 'Cats were superior in almost every department of play. First the Tigers, slow in every organizing a team this fall, put up a hard, brave battle, tackled cleanly, and were in the game to the last.

One of the happiest features of the game was the good sportsmanship shown by both sides. Rowdiness that has marked other games between Paintsville and Prestonsburg games heretofore was missing.

Prestonsburg first scored early in the second period. In part due to poor punting the Tigers had been fighting back to wall, most of the quarter. But hard, swift tackling had kept the Black and Gold team out of the end zone.

MRS. EMMA LAFERTY CLAIMED BY DEATH

Mrs. Emma Laferty, aged 93, widow of the late Hiram Laferty, and daughter of Jim Banks, deceased, died Friday Nov. 20, a victim of cancer.

Mrs. Laferty was born on Middle Creek and lived there during the War Between the States, and remembered very clearly the battle of Middle Creek. She married Hiram Laferty, who preceded her in death 21 years ago, and moved to Bull Creek where she became a member of the Methodist Church 55 years ago, and had always lived a devout Christian life. They later moved to Prestonsburg, where the deceased had resided for the last 40 years.

Mrs. Laferty is survived by three sons, Epp and Floyd (Dumpy) of this city, Hiram (Dad) of Raceland, one daughter, Mrs. Doll Mellon of Prestonsburg; two brothers, Jim Paw Banks, of Prestonsburg, Rod Banks, of Paintsville, and one sister, Mrs. Alex Harmon, of this city, also, 15 grandchildren.

Funeral rites were held at the home Saturday afternoon by Rev. H. F. King, pastor of the Methodist Church, assisted by Revs. Potter and Roark. Interment was made in the Gearheart cemetery under the direction of E. P. Arnold.

Miss Dorothy Davis III Miss Dorothy Davis, 23, of Prestonsburg, is seriously ill of pneumonia in a hospital in Morehead, Ky. The Times advised that Miss Davis has already passed the crisis, but her weakened condition makes the situation very grave.

Miss Davis has for the past five years been widely connected with social life of both church and younger group activities. She has been occupying a position as part time musical instructor and student in Morehead College.

Mrs. Davis is former organist of the M. E. Church, South, here.

Mrs. Stone is survived by her husband, Black Stone, and five children: Paul, Herbert, Albert, Delia Joyce and Ernest Dale Stone.

Mrs. Stone was a niece of Dr. M. T. Dotson and Mrs. Julia Stephens, of Prestonsburg.

SPURLOCK HOME RAZED BY FIRE

The two story residence of Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Spurlock, of West Prestonsburg, was completely destroyed by fire Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

The fire was discovered when flames burst from an upper story window and started blazing high.

The blaze is said to have started from a faulty stove in one of the upper storerooms, it is thought.

The Prestonsburg fire department was notified too late to be of any assistance. Damage was estimated at $5,000, about half of which was covered by insurance.

Messrs. Ball and Bailey formed a partnership about four years ago under the name of Bailey's Cash Store, and have built up a most successful business. Several months ago they purchased the H. E. Stewart restaurant.

All health is attributed as Mr. Ball's reason for selling his interest.

Three Injured in Mishap

Mr. and Mrs. Troy Hughes and baby were painfully injured Saturday afternoon when the truck Mr. Hughes was driving plunged over an embankment on the Mayo Trail two miles south of Prestonsburg.

Mrs. Hughes was most seriously injured, suffering deep lacerations on head and face and chest injuries. Mr. Hughes received only minor injuries. The wreck took place, it is said, when Mr. Hughes stepped on the brake and the car started swerving, finally getting out of control.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE TO BEGIN FRIDAY, NOV. 27

Mrs. A. C. Harlowe Named Local Chairman of KTA

30th ANNIVERSARY

Protect Your Home from Tuberculosis BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS

The 1936 Christmas Seals go on sale Friday by the Kentucky Tuberculosis Association.

Plans to celebrate the 30th anniversary of the Christmas Seals are now under way not only in Kentucky and the nation but also the entire world.

Preparations have been under way for some time for the sale of Christmas Seals, but the KTA had an agreement with the American Red Cross not to begin the sale of Christmas Seals until after Thanksgiving in order for them to complete their "Roll Call." About 16,000,000 seals will be turned loose in Kentucky to aid in the fight against tuberculosis.

The Seal this year carries the face of Santa Claus and children, as well as grown-ups will want to buy them and make use of them.

Tuberculosis is, perhaps, our greatest enemy, and proceeds from the sale of Seals are used to fight this dreaded disease.

Mrs. A. C. Harlowe has been named local chairman of the Seal sale.

COAL REGULATION UNNEEDED, CLAIM

C. and O. Officials Speak Before Pikeville Kiwanians Recently

With business conditions steadily improving, production and marketing of coal will continue to function under natural economic laws, without the need of any federal regulation, according to P. D. Morton, of Huntington, W. Va., chief rating commissioner of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, who addressed the Pikeville Kiwanian Club at its regular meeting here two weeks ago.

Explaining his choice of subject by the statement that except for the National Coal Association, no single coal operator or group of operators has as large an interest in coal as the C. and O. Railway, Mr. Morton continued by saying:

"Coal has become the very life of our railroad, and as we look into the future we can see only coal as the principal source of revenue. The C. and O. has since the turn of the century, developed and served the richest area of coal known in the world. Early in the century the railroad's problem was mainly one of trying to keep up with the

SOCIAL SECURITY ACT

Age Benefits' under the Social Security Act. If you prefer to keep on working after you are 65, the monthly checks from the Government will begin to come in when you decide to retire.

The Amount of Your Checks

How much you will get when you are 65 years old will depend entirely on how much you earn in wages from your business or industrial employment between January 1, 1937, and your 65th birthday. A man or woman who gets good wages and has a steady job most of his or her life can get as much as $85 a month for life after age 65. The least you can get in monthly benefits, if you come under the law at all, is $10 a month.

If You Are Now Young

Suppose you are making $25 a week and are young enough to go on working for 40 years. If you make an average of $25 a week for 52 weeks in each year, your check when you are 65 years old will be $53 a month for the rest of your life. If you make $50 a week, you will get $74.50 a month for the rest of your life after age 65.

If You Are Now Middle Aged

But suppose you are about 55 years old now and have 10 years to work before you are 65. Suppose you make only $15 a week on the average. When you stop work at age 65 you will get a check for $19 a month for the rest of your life. If you make $25 a week for 10 years you will get a little over $23 a month from the Government as long as you live after your 65th birthday.

If You Should Die Before

Age 65
If you should die before you begin to get your monthly checks, your family will get a payment in cash, amounting to 3 1/2 cents on every dollar of wages you have earned after 1936. If, for example, you should die at age 64, and if you had earned $25 a week for 10 years before that time, your family would receive $455. On the other hand, if you have not worked enough to get the regular monthly checks by the time you are 65, you will get a lump sum, or if you should die your family or estate would get a lump sum. The amount of this too, will be 3 1/2 cents on every dollar of wages you earn after 1936.

Taxes

The same law that provides these old age benefits for you and other workers, sets up new taxes to be paid to the United States Government.
These taxes are collected by the Bureau of Internal Revenue of the U. S. Treasury Department, and inquiries concerning them should be addressed to that bureau.
The law also creates an "Old

New 1937 Ford V-8 Coupe Seen

Age Reserve Account" in the United States Treasury, and Congress is authorized to put into this reserve account each year enough money to provide for the monthly payments you and other workers are to receive when you are 65.

Your Part of the Tax

The taxes called for in this law will be paid both by you and your employer. For the next 3 years you will pay maybe 15c, maybe 25c a week, maybe 30c or more,
according to what you earn.
That is to say, during the next 3 years beginning January 1, 1937, you will pay 1 cent for every dollar you earn, and at the same time your employer will pay 1
cent for every dollar you
earn, up to $3,000 a year.
Twenty some million other workers and their employers will be paying at the same time.

After the first 3 years—that is to say, beginning in 1940—you will pay, and your employer will pay, 1 1/2 cents for each dollar you earn up to $3,000 a year. This will be beginning in 1943, you will pay 2 cents, and so will your employer, for every dollar you earn for the next 3 years.
After that you and your employer will each pay half a cent more for 3 years, and finally, beginning in 1949, 12 cents from now, you and your employer will each pay 3 cents on each dollar you earn, up to $3,000 a year.
This is the most you will ever pay.

What you get from the Government plan will always be more than you have paid in taxes and usually more than you can get for yourself by putting away the same amount of money each week in some other way.

How Many Pennies Your Child's Life?

Don't Try to "Save" on Home Remedies—Ask Your Doctor. There is one point, on which practically all doctors agree. That is: Don't give your child unknown remedies without asking your doctor first.

All mothers know this. But sometimes the instinct to save a few pennies by buying "something just as good" overcomes caution.

When it comes to the widely used children's remedy—"milk of magnesia"—many doctors for over half a century have said "PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA".

Keep this in mind, and say "PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA" when you buy. Comes now, also in tablet form.

GUNLOCK RANCH by FRANK H. SPEARMAN

"What's the matter?" stormed Denison, wild with the delay. "Just a minute," muttered Pardaloe. "Forgot something. Be right back."

Pardaloe spurred back to the jail once while his companions counted time. He rejoined them after three minutes that seemed to Denison thirty. "For God's sake! Are you ready now?" Denison chopped off the words furiously.

"All set, Bill," returned Pardaloe peacefully. "You hustled me so, I got the wrong hat, boy." Denison was wispish with impatience. "Man alive, what difference does it make what you wear?" he demanded testily.

"A whole lot of difference," returned Pardaloe with warmth. "Had on my new hat. It might git plugged." Three men rode with Denison that night—Pardaloe, Bob Scott, and Fryng Pan.

"Henry told me, Henry is hurt, then I'm off with Pardaloe and Bob Scott after McCrossen. He's running off steers tonight." "Where there's been a fire, there's been men," said Denison. "They may be there yet. But we've got to watch both sides of the creek."

From the moment Denison and his companions crossed the divide, they were riding into enemy country. Fryng Pan was asked to strike farther down and across the reservation; the rendezvous had been fixed at a point on Deep Creek.

conjectured wrongly that the cattle had been driven past this point.

Working carefully downstream through clumps of willows and alders along the benches, Scott pushed ahead to locate the phantom Fryng Pan.

Denison questioned him closely without shaking his certainty that neither cattle nor horsemen had passed down the east bank. The west bank, where the pursuers were now halted, was impassable for cattle.

"They've taken another trail," Bob, declared Denison to Scott. "There's an overgrown trail through the timber to the south. It's a long way around and rough, and they took it to throw off pursuit. But that may beat them yet."

"John," said Denison to Fryng Pan, "feel out the scrub for us. Let's go!" The riding was rough and the pace through the chaparral grueling.

"The Indians came back with news. 'There's somethin' looks like what's left of a campfire near the bridge.'" "Push on!" exclaimed Denison. "They may have halted there."

Their Hands Went Haltingly Up.

had been a trail down the west bank, and the job called for dogged endurance. Scratched and torn, the four reached an open breathing space where rock and shale ended the fight through the scrub.

"Where there's been a fire, there's been men," said Denison. "They may be there yet. But we've got to watch both sides of the creek." "How?" "The bridge." Scott grinned but shook his head.

Slipping off his horse and taking his rifle, Denison crept, crawled, and rolled down the slope towards the dying fire. For a little way he could be seen and heard. Then he vanished into the shadows.

He made out two voices, but this gave no assurance that one or more men might not be asleep.

Flattening on the sand, he listened. The fire and the men were not over fifty feet away. Denison could hear their words. They were talking English, though one voice was guttural and revealed a Mexican.

The first two men heard from him was a low but plain command: "Pitch up, boys!" The startled pair jumped to their feet. "Up! Put 'em up," came a sharper order.

"I'm here, same as you are, to meet some cattle coming down the creek," returned Denison. "I'm going to help you, Clubfoot. Hands up. Damn you, keep 'em where they are!"

"These boys are waiting for the cattle, same as we are," explained Denison when Pardaloe reappeared. "We don't need four hands on the job. Take their guns. Tie 'em up till we get straight."

"I don't care so much for the tools, but I sure miss my glasses," Boyle told his friend, Charles J. Anderson, diver. "I'll get your glasses for you," said Anderson, and soon he was groping about in diving suit at the bottom of the slip at the spot where Boyle said he lost them.

Scarcely were the words out of his mouth, when a spatter of revolver shots rang across the creek. "Bill," exclaimed Denison, "that's a fight. If these birds make you the least trouble, shoot 'em. I'm going over."

"How you goin' over?" called Pardaloe. "Quickest way I can. Bill," he shouted. "The bridge." He was running for his horse.

"You're crazy. It'll drop you a hundred feet, man!" shouted Pardaloe. "Watch your prisoners!" Denison was galloping away.

Pardaloe, petrified, watched the disappearing horseman. Nothing but the sharp echo in his ears of flying hoofs convinced him he was not dreaming, for he never would have believed sober Bill Denison would take so slender a chance of getting across the creek alive.

To this day the gap that Denison jumped has never been measured. The reckless rider had been spotted when he was less than halfway across. McCrossen, riding behind the cattle, had galloped forward when Restock ahead was intercepted and questioned by Scott.

Uncle Phil Says:

The Mark Stays

Gossip is like mud thrown against a clean wall; it may not stick but it leaves a mark. A girl's no-hope chest is one that begins to accumulate interest-bearing bonds.

There is nothing like the candor of boys toward each other's faults. Things that "cannot be done" are done within the following twenty years.

Destroying Accomplishments

Can't you see a splendid tree without thinking of the thrill of cutting it down? Apparently some can't and the anticipation overcomes them. There are people who think they are observant, who can't tell you offhand what are the pictures on a one-dollar bill or a five-dollar bill.

Be natural, borrowed garments seldom fit well. If his wife is the best dressed woman at the party, a man thinks it's worth it.

Ability to Profit

There is sometimes much ability in knowing how to profit by good advice. Silence is the wisest argument of the ignorant man and the wise man can frequently use it to advantage. Noah never wrote a book on natural history when he had the best of opportunities.

Deep-Sea Diver Recovers Eyeglasses From Harbor

Seattle, Wash.—Deep sea divers recovered millions in treasure from sunken ships, equipment lost overboard, but the Seattle water front the other day for the first time saw one of these under-water explorers retrieve a pair of eyeglasses from the bottom of the bay.

Ted Boyle, Washington Tug & Barge company carpenter, fell into the harbor. "I can't care so much for the tools, but I sure miss my glasses," Boyle told his friend, Charles J. Anderson, diver.

"I'll get your glasses for you," said Anderson, and soon he was groping about in diving suit at the bottom of the slip at the spot where Boyle said he lost them. In half an hour Anderson came up from a depth of 30 feet with the glasses and the tools.

Texas Man Returns $1,400 and Receives "Thank You"

Houston, Texas.—Honesty, like virtue, must be its own reward. So thinks J. J. Pierce, starter for a taxicab company of this city. He picked up a purse containing $1,400 in a telephone booth and turned it in to the company office.

A woman from Harrisburg, Pa., had just reported loss of the money, explaining she believed she had dropped it in a cab. She was overjoyed to recover the sizable sum. "Thank you very much," she said.

Fossils Sent to U. S.

Berkeley, Calif.—A rare collection of fossil reptiles has been sent to the University of California from the Karoo formation in South Africa. The remains are estimated to be 200,000,000 years old and to constitute a link between reptile and mammal life. They were discovered by Dr. Charles L. Camp of the university staff.

Panthers, Blackcats In Scoreless Game Here

Panther and Blackcat uselessly matched claws at Gasco Park last Saturday in Prestonsburg's homecoming play, before a record season crowd. Four quarters of play saw the game end where 'twas begun with each side on the bad end of a 0 to 0 score. As for a moral victory, both teams might make claims. Without its brightly shining Ishmael, crashing back ineligibly on account of too great age for high school play—Pikeville managed to hold off the local eleven when it threatened; and, being outplayed, refusal to be outscored. Prestonsburg, too, had some honors: more gains, more first downs, the ball in Panther territory, a good threat as the game ended, apparently more aggressive. But the score board is a heartless machine that cares not a whit for moral victories; and upper Big Sandy prowess remains with the twice zero score, a matter of debate. Each team had chances, although the Panthers only once thrust their way beyond the mid field marker. On this occasion in the third quarter after being abetted by penalties against Prestonsburg, two blocked punts—one of which was recovered by Pikeville, and enabled it to make a first down; and three recovered fumbles, all on the part of Allen, were other Blackcat notable doings. The first quarter was marked largely by punt exchanges with Mayo having the edge. On spinner plays through center Jones made ground, but no consistent drive developed. In the second quarter the Blackcats made some gains, but were not able to go far; and the Panthers, on a nice off tackle dash by Wiggins, earned their one first down of the game. During the period Mtadows blocked a punt on the visitors' 5 yard line, but Pikeville recovered. In the third period, in which Pikeville had the best of things, the 'Cats also made a thrust, Craft reeling off three off tackle thrusts to bring the oval down into the Panther territory. But the budding budding drive did not blossom and bring fruit. Passes were not frequent, each team attempting five. All of Pikeville's heavies bit the dust; one Prestonsburg toss was received; another intercepted. The 'Cats made seven first down against Pikeville's three, only one of which was by the regular play route.

COAL REGULATION

Continued on page one expanding coal traffic. But since 1932, the Chesapeake and Ohio has been able to meet all demands for equipment.

"This year appropriately 8 14 million tons will be shipped from mines on the Big Sandy. This means millions of dollars from the wages of mine and railway employees released in this area for the support of wholesale and retail establishments as well as the professional activities of your and other communities. It also means indirect benefits you receive in schools, roads and local governments, which are largely supported from taxes on coal and railway company lands and property. Mr. Morton then made and discussed in detail, with supporting statistics, the following general statements concerning the bituminous coal industry:

That production of bituminous coal depends on business conditions and rises or falls with general business.

That national coal requirements are not declining at a rapid rate, but are practically stationary now, and will probably increase in the next few years.

That there is no tremendous over production in the bituminous coal industry and practically no surplus capacity.

That competition between coal, oil, natural gas and hydro electric power is more fancied than real; coal's position as an energy producer is still unchallenged, and will probably remain so for years to come.

That because of these facts, there is no need for federal regulation of the coal business.

Mr. Morton predicted a bright future for the Big Sandy field, but suggested that instead of meeting seasonal demands for high production by importing labor which would become a charge on the community during slack seasons, it would be better "permit mines to operate six days in weeks of heavy demand, giving each employe a chance for more work with a corresponding increase in pay.—Pike County News.

The Business Outlook

NEW YORK. The natural forces of recovery have demonstrated their strength and have a momentum which may reasonably be expected to carry the country into new high ground, says "Banking," the publication of the American Bankers Association, in its August issue. The momentary stimulation following the distribution of bonus funds to the veterans has practically died away and is no longer an important business factor. A certain degree of uncertainty arising from the national political campaign is unavoidable, the magazine says.

FARM ACCOUNTING REVEALS LESSONS

Principles of Sound Business Management That Apply to All Farms

An analysis made of detailed records kept by a group of Wisconsin farms revealed several important lessons and the principles of sound business management derived from them apply equally well to other farms, says an article in the Bulletin of the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association. The article says: "Investment costs, including interest, depreciation, repairs, taxes and insurance, are approximately two-thirds of all farm costs. Furthermore, these costs are largely independent of the production program of the farm.

"This means that if a farmer cuts his production of crops or livestock, he increases his investment costs per unit of product produced, as a smaller number of units must then carry as large an expense load as before. This illustrates the importance, from the standpoint of costs, of operating a farm at or near capacity.

"Investment mistakes are more costly than many others because they cannot easily be corrected. If a farmer pays too much for his farm, his investment costs will be abnormally high as long as he owns it. If he constructs a $4,000 barn, when a $2,000 barn would have served his purpose, he will have excessive barn costs, year after year, during the entire service life of the structure.

"This emphasizes the importance of a knowledge of investment values and the specific investment requirements of individual farms.

Determining Real or False Economies

"In working for greater economy, it is essential that the farm manager be able to distinguish between a real and a false saving. This can be done only through a careful estimate of the contribution to income, over a period of time, of each item of expenditure. Only if more is saved in expense than will be lost in income, can a contemplated cut in expense be designated as a real saving.

"For example, dropping dairy herd improvement work may result in a yearly expense reduction. The question to decide is what effect the dropping of this work will have on the present and future income from the dairy herd. If the estimated loss in livestock receipts due to a lowered efficiency in feeding and breeding is greater than the original saving, then it would obviously be a false economy.

"Substantial savings can be effected on many farms through the use of more home grown garden produce and farm cured meats. Why pay out money for products of this kind that can be produced much cheaper at home? The money saved from the family food budget can be used for the purchase of many things that will make the farm a more comfortable and pleasant place to live."

CATS vs. PAINTSVILLE

was forced to punt. Later in the period, Johnson intercepted a Tiger lateral and went to Paintsville's two-yard line. But Roark fumbled, and the Tigers recovered. The 'Cats brought the ball back speedily, however, and Mayo, in a series of kicks, went over. Kick was a foul. Another good Black and Gold drive in the fourth period, in which Mayo and Craft figured, was ended when Paintsville covered a pass from center. But soon afterwards the 'Cats had another chance, and on a beautifully executed lateral, with Mayo Allen and Craft taking part counted again. Mayo's try at drop kick was low.

Both teams made gains before the game ended, but there was no more scoring.

Praising Grand Canyon. SCOOTING across Arizona I was moved to weave into this a complete description of the Grand Canyon. But mercy stayed my hand.

There's one thing about the Grand Canyon—long after every other natural wonder has been desecrated with architectural doodads and the scribbled names of individuals whose signatures would look all right on the register of any dollar-a-day American plan hotel, but are sort of out of place when smeared over one of creation's masterpieces, the Grand Canyon will still be unspilled.

California Rivers. IT'S fun to cross a river with at least a trace of wetness in it. It must be my early raising, but I like a river to be dampish—in spots, anyhow.

After two years I can't get used to southern California rivers, where, for nine months a year, the only craft you can navigate is a stone-boat, and unless they use a sprinkling system you can't see where you're going, and they deepen the channel by blasting and not by dredging, and you come back from an aquatic trip full of hayfever dust. They do say the fish have to learn to swim all over again every fall, and down between the steep banks the poor little frogs suffer terribly from sunburn. It's a great country for Holy Rollers but hard on Baptists.

Crater Versus Manville. I'M TORN between temptations. I'd like to follow the search now on again for Judge Crater, who has been mysteriously missing all these years except for the two or three hundred times when somebody said he'd been seen. On the other hand, Tommy Manville, the husband of his country, is reported as having fresh woman trouble back east—this time of a blonde nature.

Still, I can always prowling the deserts, looking for the judge. Out here, we hunt him at regular intervals. He's different from the Liberty League. It disappeared just as suddenly as he did, but stayed that way.

Commercializing Football. ONCE upon a time, and not so very long ago, a college was known by the football team it kept. Now it's known largely as the college that some football team is keeping.

And sport writers say that more money is now being wagered on football than on any other sport we have. And it doesn't take an expert's eye to see that, each season, football is becoming more and more commercialized, more and more professional, profit-making industry. Well, if football is to go the way of wrestling and horse-racing and prize-fighting, it'll pretty soon be so that about the only game a chap can play without fixing somebody beforehand will be solitaire.

Still, being a football devotee does keep you out in the open air. But you could say that same thing for a seagull.

Happiness Be cheerful! Which will you do—smile, and make others happy, or be crabbed, and make everyone around you miserable? The amount of happiness you can produce is incalculable if you show a smiling face and speak pleasant words. There is no joy like that which springs from a kind act or pleasant deed, and you may feel it at night when you rest, and at morning when you rise, and through all the day when about your business.

Goal Posts Belong to Winning Team, Coast Judge Rules

CUTUPS can now go to work on the goal posts without fear of tangling with the law. A California judge has ruled in a test case that, legally and morally, the posts belong to the winning team. . . . Gil Dobb, highly acclaimed for his excellent Boston College coaching, says that Temple is the second best team he has viewed in five years. First place goes to the 1935 Princeton. . . . Incidentally, Princeton, once famed for punt blocking proclivities, is one of the few Eastern eleven to fail to block one this year. . . . Dallas fans are imploring home town sports writers to forget the famous Fordham boomerang pass and start boosting Southern Methodist for the Rose Bowl. They claim that the Mustangs are even better now than they were twelve months ago.

If you hear Harvard's players blasting Old Roscoe and Young Sam, don't jump too quickly to conclusions. They merely will be popping off about the blocking and tackling dummies upon which they must daily exercise. Archie Soucek Navy end, has plenty of precedent to aid him when he leaps to snare a pass. Three other Souceks, all from the same family, previously have been in the Navy air service.

Add gents to keep an eye on. . . Porter Tull, who was brought up from the scrubs at the start of the season and has missed only twenty-seven minutes at center in Tulane's six games since then. He backs up the line like a Tieknor or a Tony Siano. . . Add sophomores who will bear watching—Ed Aldrico of T. C. U. The Texans claim that he is so good that they already have forgotten Darrell Lester, who brought All-America fame to the Horned Frogs for the past two years. . . Also note the 183-pound Tony Calvelli of Stanford, who played guard at prep school and started October as a center. Since then he has become a back in the Bobby Grayson tradition. Which means that he is a great plunger, even better defensively, and set some sort of record by completing six straight passes in the U. S. C. contest.

Zeke Williams, the gray-haired end who tackles so savagely for U. S. C., is a brother-in-law of Ken Carpenter, Olympic discus notable. . . In 1913 the University of Florida opened the season by defeating Southern College, 144 to 0. On the following Saturday Auburn licked Florida, 5 to 0. . . Yale Bowl was designed in such a fashion that, at 3 p. m. on November 15 of each year the sun shines across the short axis of the field. Thus neither team is handicapped by having sunlight in its eyes. . . Jock Sutherland of Pitt leads the nation's coaches in miles traveled while fidgeting on the bench in the midst of a tight game. . . Because he claims he was misquoted after the Notre Dame game last fall, Gar Davidson, ordinarily a most affable young man, now is the hardest of all coaches to interview.

Recalling When Grid Game Was Really Rough

Lou Little always laughs when people sigh about how rough the game has become. According to the ringmaster of the Lions, there never was a season to compare with 1919. The players were older, eligibility rules were lax and football was a pretty tame business for those fellows who had participated in the recent European pastime of war. Little says the 20-19 game won by Dartmouth from Penn that season never has been equaled for rough stuff. And, he adds, it's just as well. . . Note for next year: Hinchman, Princeton Frosh halfback, is not a world beating ball carrier, but he is an expert passer and reminds you of Mike Miles on blocking and defensive assignments. The boy, incidentally, comes from a sport family. His brother was All-America at Ohio State several seasons ago and his Daddy is the Hinchman who played big-time baseball and scouted for the Pirates.

Mid-Western letter writers are touting Ken Nelson, Illini end, as the best punt blocker in recent semesters. The one he blocked for the winning touchdown against Michigan was his seventh in three years of varsity competition.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

LONG ISLAND U'S famous undefeated basketball team is planning to capitalize on its collegiate training. The Hillhouses, Mersons and Benders hope to find some town to represent on the pro circuit after they graduate in June. . . The Cubs will get no place in their bid for Hank Leiber unless they wish to exchange Frank Demaree for him. . . By the same token the Pirates are not interested in Boston's attempt to peddle Wally Berger. They claim that he is over his peak and that his hand, broken in September, is healing too slowly to make him a good investment. . . Gus Lesnevich, Hackensack middleweight, is Los Angeles's newest boxing excitement. . . Army and Brown will not be on the Colgate 1937 schedule—which is just as well, since the Maroons must take on Nebraska at Lincoln.

During the Pitt game Fordham's players counted four whenever they used their much-discussed shift and so slowed it down to suit official requirements. Now Jimmy Crowley can be tipped off that he had better do something about his quick kick unless he wishes some technically correct arbiter to start calling penalties on that, too. . . George Dynamite Smith, the sports box office man who is boat-riding to California, paused at Panama long enough to postcard all his friends. . . Promoter Mike Jacobs has sinus and also a new set of store teeth. . . Long before he owned a pennant-winning baseball club Horace Stoneham of the Giants was highly esteemed as a prep school soccer and hockey star.

In Yale's dressing room, the week of the Dartmouth game, there was a blackboard diagram showing a green wave breaking against a sea wall of Yale players. And over each man's equipment there were diagrams showing his exact assignment on each play in the Eli repertoire. In spite of these elaborate precautions Dartmouth won. . . Training companions of famous horses seldom get a break. It was not until the end of the season that Infantry, Brevity's sprinting partner, came through at Empire City. . . Although there may be some doubt about his fighting ability they certainly could make a swell cigar out of that Mexican heavyweight, Perfecto Lopez.

Casey Stengel Doing Nicely With Oil Field

The Dodger directors will be disappointed to learn that Casey Stengel and his former playmates are doing very well with that Texas oil field investment. . . If Eddie Brink liked training as well as he likes fighting he might easily be the world's best lightweight. . . Cornell will take its early football exercises with Penn State, Syracuse and Colgate next season.

Because the Elis wanted dates already allotted to Dartmouth and Columbia, Yale will not be on the schedule. . . A horse without a tail is training on the Texas circuit. His name is Bronc Rider and he is a product of the Three D's Stock Farm.

Fordham's good season and the attendant big business at the Polo Grounds ruined Secretary Eddie Brannick's plans for an October trip with the Mrs. They'll take two weeks in Brooklyn instead. . . Princeton now realizes the truth of an item contained here recently, viz. that Coach Dick Harlow of Harvard is the toughest man in the country to beat when he is pointing for one big game. . . Pekin, Ill., claims that it lays it all over the cities of 16,000 population in the matter of bowling interest. According to Francis Albertanti the town has 120 men's teams and fifty women's teams, which makes one bowling team for each ninety-five inhabitants. . . The Cards are not kidding about wanting to deal for Dizzy Dean, but are bluffing about what they expect to get for him. . . Although he usually has very good success with players smaller than the usual major league football average Lou Little wishes his Columbia forwards were a bit larger this year.

Owners of race horses competing in California are forbidden to bet in handbooks away from the track. Two of them (in direct contrast to New York where handbook operators also operate some very interesting gee-gees) were set down at Tanforan for violation of this regulation. . . Ty Cobb, once blessed with a syphlike figure, now has trouble keeping down to a mere 206. . . John Drebing, Jr., son of the celebrated baseball writer, is a star of the Southside High soccer team out on Long Island and runs the mile under 4:40 so frequently that he can pick his college.

Andy Kerr made only two substitutions, one in the line and one in the backfield, while Colgate was surprising Army. . . It is true that the New York State Racing Commission will withhold dates from Empire City until the management guarantees to make improvements which will prevent the track from being a death trap for thoroughbreds again next year? . . . Solly Kreiger is clamoring for a chance at the Belting Brakeman or his conqueror, Babe Risko.

Cheering Comparisons—

How to Regard Beauty of Environs, and Those Lacking in Loveliness

FAMILIARITY with our surroundings can make us unobtrusive of their beauty, but it seldom makes us as oblivious to their lack of it. In some ways it would be a good thing if we could fail to note the ugliness or the homeliness, when our surroundings are so inartistic that they jar on our sensibilities. In other ways it is a blessing that we cannot make ourselves unaware of their lack of beauty. We would not strive to improve our environment if we could endure it without its clashing on our nerves. Because we feel dissatisfied when things are wrong, we bend our energies to rectifying matters. Dissatisfaction with things that are wrong is a first step toward improvement.

Oblivious It is when we are so placed that we cannot make changes in inartistic surroundings that we should steel ourselves to be oblivious to them. It is better to shut our eyes to ugliness, then let ourselves be made miserable by it. We can still keep our minds about the sordidness. We should make every effort to be unmoved by it.

Foreign Words and Phrases

Alis volat propriis. (L.) She flies with her own wings. (Motto of Oregon.) Beaux yeux. (F.) Pretty eyes; feminine charms. Coram populo. (L.) Publicly. Deus ex machina. (L.) The God from the machine; the person who unexpectedly saves the situation. En famille. (F.) Within the family circle; without ceremony. Flagraute bello. (L.) During hostilities. Hoch soll er leben! (Ger.) Long life to him! L'etat, c'est moi. (F.) The state, I am the state. (A saying attributed to Louis XIV.) Ora e sempre. (It.) Now and always.

lest it seep into our souls and make us miserable. It is not an easy task to keep our spirits on a high level of liveliness amid incongruous conditions, but it can be done.

In the Midst of Beauty The person who in the midst of beauty fails to be touched by its splendor is to be pitied. If he were made to dwell in the midst of ugliness for a little he would return to his former environment with a sense of appreciation. The busy homemaker who has a wonderful view from the windows of her apartment should not allow her work and cares to make her dull to her surroundings.

Cheering Comparisons The motorman whose route takes him through country of notable scenery should rejoice in his good fortune. Most motormen's routes take them through crowded streets, and often through subways, where beauty is totally lacking.

Scenic Beauty When, in the midst of loveliness, we get downhearted, it is well to think of ourselves in other environs, and then by comparisons we should begin to discover some of our benefits.

THE TRUNDLE BED

I have seen canopy beds, and iron beds, and four posters, and many an other kind, but the trundle beats them all. Architecturally it is not equal to most the others, but it like many of the things we love, is not famous for its size or splendor. Before the days of plenty of room it held a proud place in the household. But since a room for each person is the thing, the trundle bed has been taken down and removed to the lumber room in the attic, along with a lot of cast-off clothing and other things too sacred to be burned.

Some of you may not know what a trundle bed is, or rather was. I am more than pleased to tell you. Scarcity of room in the old-fashioned house made it imperative to have beds that could be easily removed during the day. The older beds were high very much higher than our present ones. This was a condition just right to call forth a trundle bed, a low bed that could be pushed, or trundled under the big bed. The earlier ones were made by hand, of course, by the local wood-turner or blacksmith. The trundle bed was the sleeping place, ex officio, of the smaller boys and girls, so they could be right at their mother during the night. Childhood knew in the old days two promotions: first from the cradle to the trundle bed, occurring at no certain age but dependent largely on the need for the cradle for a younger brother or sister; and, secondly, from the trundle bed to a "big bed," also occurring at no special time but sometimes dependent on the ability of the family to buy enough beds to supply its needs. It was supposedly the proper thing to promote the boy from the trundle bed when he began to get a trifle too long for it, but scarcity of beds often necessitated the keeping of the tall boy on the trundle bed, even though he had to curl up like a cat.

It was on the trundle bed that my brother and I were sleeping when we tried so hard to stay awake and see Santa Clause. At that time I was greatly disappointed at not being able to stay awake. I am glad now that nature's demands for lumber were stronger than natural curiosity. It was from the trundle bed that I got up early on Christmas morning and went to inspect my stockings and to begin to eat my way down its treasures. It was the trundle bed that received us again at the end of the great annual feast day, after we had devoured all our candy, raisins, oranges and apples, and had fired off all our firecrackers and Roman candles. The trundle bed was the scene of our frightful nightmares induced by too much birthday cake or too many cakes of smoked sausage. Even now I sometimes find myself calling in the midst of a nightmare for Mother, just as I used to do when I had eaten more than usual. It was the trundle bed, too, that made a good place to take a summer afternoon nap, by pushing the little bed so that a bit of it was exposed over behind the big bed. Every phase of boyhood slumber, summer and winter and spring and fall, is associated with the trundle bed, when we were still too small to feel ashamed at having to be so near to Mother when everything was dark and still.

It was with reluctance that we gave up trundle bed days, even if we were glad to be big boys. After the last boy was too long for the little bed, the much battered old thing was taken down lovingly and carried to the Garrett, where, in many a house today it still reposes, lost in the whirl of a busy life, but not forgotten by hosts of people who still hold reverently this reminder of their childhood.

CITY SHOE SHOP

The milk ordinance adopted by the local city council last spring, after some delay, was put into effect last Sunday morning, Nov. 15. If you are a regular customer, no doubt you have noted that the name of the dairyman, and the grade of milk is now printed on the bottle cap. If you are an occasional user of milk and depend upon your grocery for your supply, you have also noted that the name of the dairy and grade appear on the cap.

Never in the history of Prestonsburg has such pure clean and high grade milk been delivered and sold to the public as is being sold here now. The Floyd county health department has been working to this end for several years, to see that the people of Prestonsburg have a pure and safe milk supply for their families. The dairymen have been very cooperative in this movement to supply Prestonsburg with a safe milk and have gone to tremendous expense to provide the equipment necessary to produce a high grade milk, and should be commended publicly, and patronized liberally.

These dairies are under the constant supervision of the health department and monthly visits are made to each dairy, to see that each one is carrying out the provisions laid down in the state law and city ordinance. The grades of each dairy will be published each grading period, as provided by law, and any dairy we find not meeting the terms of the law and ordinance will be immediately degraded.

What is a Grade "A" dairy? A Grade "A" dairy not only has healthy cows free from disease and well cared for but a well lighted, clean barn is provided in which the cows are milked.

Milking "in the shade of the old apple tree" may be romantic, but it does not prevent dust contamination of the milk. If there is no milking barn or shed for the summer months it means that the cows are not protected during the cold nights of fall and winter and a clean milking place is necessary every day of the year.

A Grade "A" dairy barn has ample space for all the cows, a clean concrete floor with proper drainage, white washed or painted interior. It is kept clean because it is built to be kept clean. Here the cows are washed, brushed and milked.

In the convenient and well lighted milk house, the milk is strained, cooled and bottled, to be kept cold until delivery to your door.

The history of milk production has shown constant improvement in methods. Dairy farms around Prestonsburg have been in existence for many years but never in the past has milk sanitation reached the high level that is found in a Grade "A" dairy. If you could visit a Grade "A" dairy farm you would be impressed with the cleanliness and care in which the milk is handled. The dairy barn is white washed within and has plenty of light and ventilation. The cows are well cared for, the milk house, used solely for the cooling and bottling of the milk, and the washing of the milk utensils, is clean and well lighted.

Grade "A" milk is kept clean instead of being cleaned. The milk is cooled as soon as it is milked and is immediately bottled and capped and kept cold until it is delivered to your door. The dairy farmer who produces Grade "A" milk for Prestonsburg has pride in his part in the production of the milk supply for Prestonsburg's children.

Supervision of the milk produced on these dairy farms by the Floyd county health department insures your milk supply. Use milk at every meal.

Grades for grading period: Ward's Dairy, Paintsville, Ky. Grade "A" Raw; Leek's Dairy, East Point, Ky. Grade "A" Raw; Music's Dairy, East Point, Ky. Grade "A" Raw; Bays Branch Dairy, Cliff, Ky. Grade "A" Raw; Branham's Dairy, Cliff, Ky. Grade "D" Raw.

Eversole is a Hazard Republican and bet on Landon. Robinson is a Democrat and of course bet on Roosevelt. Many people will be on hand to watch the performance.

BETSY LAYNE

The basketball season opened at Betsy Layne Friday night with the renowned Bobcats playing Hellier high school. Speculation before the game seemed to give Hellier the edge. They had had six straight victories and no defeats. They had walked off with a laudable score from Cumberland high and Johns Creek high in their final two tilts.

The first few minutes of the game found the teams evenly matched, but the Bobcats broke the Hellier defense and made a field goal. After that Betsy Layne took and held the lead during the entire game.

Carmel Clark was high point man, scoring 28 points. R. C. Layne and Jack Branham tied for second place with six points each. Ottis Layne and Shade Hunley came third with three points, respectively. Vernor Clark, sub, made two points.
