1076 EMPLOYED BY LOCAL WPA; 27 CO. PROJECTS

Near Fatality at 'Free Gratis' Saw Mill Operation at Bonanza, This County

Eight men were seriously burned Monday evening near 4:30 o'clock at Bonanza, Ky., one of the quartet, Ellis Hale, son of the late George Hale, being in the Paintsville hospital in grave condition. Mr. Hale, about 28 years old, well known young man and principal of the Bonanza high school, was scalded from head to foot, a report from the hospital stated Wednesday evening.

After school had turned out, Mr. Hale had walked over to where a sawmill was in operation, about 300 yards from the school. Hale and others were standing by a fire approximately 20 feet from the boiler when it exploded, force of the blast hurling bystanders 50 feet, it is said.

The sawmill, operated by Ransom Spradlin, to saw lumber donated by citizens to replace the home of Arthur Baldrige that burned Christmas morning, a resident of the Bonanza section told The Times Wednesday, was being operated gratis and quite a number of bystanders were present when the explosion occurred.

Others injured are Otis Conley, Jim Spradlin, Wayne Music, Lee Spradlin, Lenox Spradlin, Arminas Short and Bill Harmon, who suffered severe burns and bruises. One suffered from a lump of coal that landed on the bridge of his nose and buried itself in the base of his forehead. Reports state that they are recovering at their homes.

In a telephone conversation with attaches of the Paintsville hospital, it was learned that Mr. Hale is in serious condition, but showing steady improvement. It was said that he is getting along very well considering his grave injuries, but would be confined for a period of time.

Reports Give Estimate of Present Activity; 13 Road Jobs

Reports, this week, from the local relief offices, state that approximately 1076 men and women, at present, are employed by WPA projects in the county. These people are working on 27 projects now in operation. Thirteen of the projects are road jobs. Mr. S. A. Ballinge, WPA engineer for Floyd county, said that the county quota of men is 1150.

The road jobs and the number of men employed are listed below. Of these, some have just started while others have been in operation for some time. They are:

Cliff Auxier: 2 miles completed with four remaining and employing 53 men.

East Point Auxier: 2 miles finished with but one half mile to complete and working 51 men. Completion of this road depends upon cooperation to be secured from the fiscal court, relief official here said, in obtaining right of way around a 'blind crossing' at the railroad. This right of way would follow around the hill and into low land, Auxier.

Abbott Creek road, 3 and one half miles complete of 6 miles approved and employing 64 men.

Bull Creek road: one half mile complete on the lower end and using 117 workers. The upper part of this is finished from Allen to the foot of the mountain below Dwale. The present job will cover the remainder to that point from the city limits of Prestonsburg.

Middle Creek, left fork road: 1 mile finished and 5 miles remaining; 83 workers employed.

Steele Creek road near Wayland: one half mile out of 4 miles, 32 men working.

Retsy Layne streets resurfacing: 50 per cent complete and working 47 men.

City Council Announces 1937 Program in Meeting

NEW MENINGITIS CASE

A report from the county health department this week states that a new case of spinal meningitis came to their attention Monday, Jan. 4. John Edward Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wright, of Emma, it is reported, was stricken Sunday. Dr. Marvin Ransdell, director of the local health department, visited the patient Monday and administered the serum.

"Context in six families under quarantine," Dr. Ransdell stated, "but no spread of the disease is anticipated." The child was stricken while in school Wednesday. Dr. Ransdell said that the children around the Wright child suffered an indirect exposure to the disease.

Case was diagnosed Sunday in Pikeville hospital.

CAR CONTEST VOID

Floyd Post 189, American Legion, has called off the contest to give away an automobile. At a meeting held Dec. 17 it was voted that the solicitors who were selling tickets at 25c each refund the money to people who had purchased chances on the car. Notice of the above action of the local post was brought to the attention of The Times by Marvin Marshall, Commander, and G. G. Africa, Adjutant, this week.

All ex-soldiers are urged to pay their 1937 dues. This is $3 per year payable to Joe P. Hobson, finance officer.

DATES SET FOR SPELLING BEE

Prizes To Be Awarded; Winner Eligible to Compete in State Contest

Announcement came from the county superintendent's office this week that a county spelling bee will be held at Prestonsburg on Feb. 6 to determine the spelling champion of Floyd county. Tentative plans call for the contest to be held at the graded school building as in the past.

The champion wins the right to represent Floyd county in the state-wide contest to be staged in Louisville in April by The Courier Journal. This winner has been, in the past, awarded expenses for a ham or her and teacher, to Louisville. Other entrants were awarded a dictionary for each ensuing year.

Winner of this year's contest will receive a first prize, the runner-up will be awarded a second prize. Details of the contest and nature of the prizes to be awarded in addition to the trip for the winner were not definitely outlined Wednesday.

In issuing the announcement, Mr. Hall, county superintendent, is requesting teachers to make preparations now to have their representatives selected in their school spelling bee and hold their spelling matches before Jan. 23.

Any student in the eight grades is eligible to enter. Of about 125 schools there is expected approximately 50 or 60 entrants in the finals here. attaches at the superintendent's office said.

Mrs. Ralph Harmon, of Danville, Ky., arrived here this week for a visit with relatives.

LAUNCH CLEANUP CAMPAIGN AGAINST VICE, RUDE WOMEN

City Facing No Lights; Drive Started on Delinquent Taxes

The city council, with all members present, met in the city hall Tuesday night, Jan. 5. The body of city lawmakers was gathered in its first meeting of the new year and the major issue of the session was planning their program for the year 1937.

The council was informed that Prestonsburg faces the problem of having no street lights. Mr. Hodges, from the offices of the power company, informed the council that the city's power bill was unpaid for sometime and if the back bill was not paid within 30 days the street lights of the city would be shut off.

The city treasury is suffering a huge deficiency at present, and city officials say, "Cooperation of every citizen is necessary to help the city governing body to overcome this deficiency. In the meeting, the council declared that all delinquent taxes would be collected and that the city would take charge of all taxes. Mr. Weddington will make an audit of city taxes, it is said.

Mayor Carter stated Wednesday that "there were some taxes unaccounted for and every effort within the law will be made to collect these back taxes for the last five years from delinquent taxpayers or their bondsmen." Each taxpayer may feel assured that all will be done to collect all delinquent taxes.

MASONS' BANQUET HELD MON. NIGHT

Ninth Annual Affair; Sixty-four Lodgemen Attend

The annual banquet of Zebulon Lodge No. 273 F. and A. M., attended by many Masons and their guests, was held Monday night, Jan. 4, in the banquet hall of the Auxier hotel here. This banquet or her and teacher, to years ago to honor past masters and newly elected officers were awarded a dictionary for each ensuing year.

Sixty-four Masons and their guests gathered at the scene of festivity and were led in the functions of the evening by Police Judge Alex H. Spradlin, who was toastmaster for the occasion. Mr. Spradlin presented the following speakers: Col. Irvin Arrowsord and Paul Calvert of Paintsville; E. E. Clark, R. C. Thomas, B. M. James, Mrs. B. M. James, Ex-Senator Wm. Dindus and others from Prestonsburg, whose names were not obtained; and C. P. Hudson, son of Pikeville.

Interesting and thoroughly enjoyed was the musical portion of the program, capably arranged by Mrs. Edith Fitzpatrick James. Appearing in the program were Mrs. C. P. Stephens, who rendered a beautiful solo; the Selvers brothers, Jay and Woodrow, Danville, Ky., arrived here this week for a visit with relatives.

Court Begins; Caudill Raps Road Houses, Liquor Selling

The January term of circuit court opened here Monday morning Jan. 4, at 9 o'clock. Circuit Judge John W. Caudill instructed the grand jury on at least seven points of law violation prevalent in the county.

Wednesday morning the court gave special instructions concerning pinball machines. He said: "Any officer or magistrate is subject to a penalty, who stands by seeing these machines and fails to take them up." Judge Caudill asked the jury to return indictments against any officers found guilty of ignoring these machines.

Judge Caudill stressed also the illegal sale of liquor such as selling on Sunday, selling to drunkards, permitting drinking on premises, selling to minors and remaining open after midnight.

The use of pistols in respect to fathers keeping them around homes where small boys might easily obtain them was mentioned. Caudill instructed the jury relative to violations of election laws and game laws.

In referring to pinball machines, Judge Caudill stated, he was informed that in spite of recent rulings, some places in Floyd county were operating these machines, and he said: "They must be stopped. Pointing to roadhouses, Caudill told the jurymen that they were doing more damage to society than any one thing. He said that officers were not to keep peace but to protect the owner and his business.

Troy B. Sturgill, circuit clerk, said that approximately 150 cases were disposed of this week, up to Saturday.

The grand jury returned a total of 70 true bills. Three murder indictments were included in these. They were against Jay Whitten, Newton Moore and Eugene Maynard.

Adoption papers were filed this week in the circuit clerk's office by R. L. May and Hatie May, of Wayland, to adopt Lucille Sourborn, age 15 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Preston of Carlyle, Ky., were the guests over the week end of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Pharis

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—S Out here the new Authors' club is functioning nicely and abounds in surprises. For instance, at one of our luncheons, the following types were observed:

An Armenian, he being the only Armenian I ever met that didn't try to sell me a rug.

A visitor from Aberdeen who not only bought for himself but wanted to buy copiously for others.

A native writer who declined to talk about his own works.

A British writer in the same admirable fix.

A radio comedian who did not discuss his nationally important feud with some other radio comedian—probably saving that stuff for his regular broadcasts.

A house committee chairman who neither bragged nor apologized.

If we can only maintain this average, the Authors' club will become the most unusual organization on earth.

"Made in Japan."

A HIGHLY patriotic function there was a tiny American flag at each place, and on mine I found, in very small print, "Made in Japan."

And it is officially stated that at least three out of four of the totem poles sold to tourists in Alaska as authentic relics of the aborigines come also from the orient.

If, as and when we get to heaven, I wonder how many of the angels we're going to find running around wearing the label, "Made in Japan?"

Collegiate Cosmetics.

THE students' newspaper of the University of Wisconsin has made a scientific study of the subject and announces that the average coed (female type) uses enough lipstick in one year to paint four barns. That sounds like an exaggeration, or maybe mouths are running longer and barns are running smaller. But the barns do look better for being painted.

Movie Family Parties.

MONTHS after a moving picture studio has changed hands or undergone an upheaval—such earthquakes being quite frequent—the new bosses sometimes are still finding, tucked snugly away in the payroll, relatives by blood or marriage of the ousted bosses. To you, reader, a new production may be either an epic or a flop, but out here it's often just a pleasant family party, extending even into the third generation.

In other words, Hollywood has added a new line to the old spiritual, as follows:

An Anti-War Prescription.

IF SENATOR HIRAM JOHNSON of California had never done any other statesmanlike thing—and he's done many a one during his long service in Washington—this country would owe him a debt of gratitude for that act which he put through congress providing that America can lend no more moneys to any foreign government still in default for sums previously borrowed from us.

Can any sane man doubt that certain European powers, now heavily in debt to us, would now be at one another's throats if they were assured of financial backing by Uncle Sam for their fighting. In other words, they'd love to enjoy another world war so long as they didn't have to pay for it. But once in awhile, even a born sucker takes the cure, provided there's a Hiram Johnson to write the prescription.

Teacher's Treat

As schools all over the world break up on St. Thomas' day, it is a great occasion for children. In Denmark it is customary to allow children to do almost as they like, and near Antwerp they rise early, run to school, and lock the master out till he promises to treat them. In other parts of Belgium, parents, servants, and schoolmasters are locked out, the teacher being chaired to the nearest inn where he is forced to pay for cakes and punch. In Germany, St. Thomas' day is a great day for forecasting the future. Thousands of young women visit astrologers, palmists, and clairvoyants, to learn what the coming year has in store. In Westphalia they eat and drink to capacity as a sign that they hope to escape scarcity within the next twelve months.—Tit-Bits Magazine.

Not All Have Mouths

Not all animals have mouths, for certain parasitic forms, notably the tapeworm, lack a system for digesting food. In such cases, the food is absorbed through the surface of the animal.

Remember When Sloan Got $40,000 Without Ridin' Nag

DO YOU remember 'way back when—

A jockey received $40,000 because of a race in which he did not ride, own, officially train, or bet on the winner?

That was in 1902 when the French filly, Rose di Mai, won the Prix de Diane at Chantilly. Tod Sloane, perhaps the greatest jockey of all time, had been barred for two years by the English Jockey club because he had committed the heinous offense of betting on his own mounts. So he had come to Paris and it was charged that he had worked the filly in trials for the stake.

This annoyed the French Jockey club, which then had a tight working agreement with the British lords of the turf. The stewards contended that Tod had been refused a jockey's license and consequently was not in good standing. So, as punishment for his reported appearance as an exercise boy, they expelled him from the French turf.

Tod sued and the case excited comment over all the racing world while it dragged on into the highest court of appeals. Finally when the high-stepping jockey, who had arrived in Europe several years previously with a $250,000 bankroll, was down to his last pound the verdict arrived.

It created a legal precedent for the turf but probably Tod never concerned himself about that. Starting with the $40,000 received in damages he soon was happily engaged in winning (and losing) a new fortune almost as large as the one he previously had accumulated.

A group of American Olympic athletes were forced to replace their drinking water with light wines? That was when the U. S. team was on the way to Athens for the 1906 games. A stop was made at an Italian port and customs inspectors noted the huge jars of mineral water.

Such a new-fangled aid to the well-conditioned athletes was beyond the comprehension of the inspectors. Visitors always were trying to work new smuggling tricks on them and they thought they knew gin when they saw it. So they confiscated this contraband "gin."

But even though they were weak on Yankee notions, the Italians were as strong on international galantry as they were on red tape. Even now there are members of that team who smack their lips as they recall the gallons of vino which replaced, at the inspectors' expense, each drop of "gin" water.

Bill Tilden turned down a $60,000 offer to turn pro?

That wasn't so terribly long ago at that—a matter of about a dozen years. But since the lion of the tennis courts did make the switch he has harvested a crop of dollars that is not to be sneezed at. And his example has been followed by other lights of the racket game from Vinny Richards down to Fred Perry. The odds, though, are that Tilden's earnings are a good deal ahead of any of his fellow tennis pros.

A player, dusting himself off at third base, received the greatest surprise ever to come the way of a hitter of a game-winning triple? That was years ago when Moose McCormick had been with the Giants only a few days. He had been told to bunt but a ball came across the plate to his liking and he swung with full force.

He was met at third base by a red-faced, highly excited little fellow. A season or two later Moose came to bat as a pinch-hitter six times in a six-game series while winning five of the games and tying the other with his hits. But such fame was in the future.

He slapped the dust from his clothes with one hand while he extended the other for the expected congratulations. Then he listened in awe. The red-faced little fellow was not in a congratulatory mood. Instead Manager John J. McGraw was fining Moose $50 for disobeying the order to bunt.

Bob Fitzsimmons was preparing to win the heavyweight championship of the world from Jim Corbett at Carson City? A visitor one day discovered Ruby Robert standing just outside the Fitzsimmons bedroom door listening intently. Inside the room Mrs. Fitzsimmons could be heard lifting her voice in prayer for victory.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE: BIG-TIME baseball men who for years have conducted their business with scant regard for the rights of customers probably will behave for a while now. The reason is they have been tipped off that continued mismanagement will result in a governmental bureau taking charge of the national game—in order to preserve it from the fate of the buffalo. . . . The thirteen-year-old national diving queen, Marjorie Gestring, is an accomplished pianist. . . . Contrary to reports, there is a stone on Tex Rickard's lot at Woodlawn. There is, however, no marker on the great fight promoter's grave and no provision for upkeep.

That pass interference rule will not be changed in spite of the clamor of the losers and the sillier reporters. So far only one sane remedy has been proposed although dozens were discussed and laughed down during a meeting of the Eastern Association of Football Officials. This was Bill Crowley's suggestion that only one pass should be permitted during each series of downs in the last five minutes of each half. It would minimize one of the two real causes of the trouble, the number of desperate heaves that are made when scant scoring time remains. . . . Big league clubs would do well to consider Smokey Joe Martin, sent to Baltimore by the Giants last summer. Since receiving a chance to play regularly Martin has become the best third baseman in the minors. . . . Bill Powers, secretary of the New York Hockey Writers association and one of the game's best informed reporters, was born in Florida.

Giants to Put McPhail in Charge of Farms

The Giants are planning to put Larry McPhail—who provided the Reds with night baseball and other circus features before departing suddenly from Cincinnati—in charge of their new farm system. . . . Lee Handley, the young infielder the Dodgers tried so hard to get, has a weak arm. . . . The strident objections of one of the powers about the throne prevents the Dodgers from making a deal for Joe Stripp. . . . If Eddie Mayo, recently transferred to Boston by the Giants, can hit .260 next season the Bees believe they are first division bound. . . . Mayo, by the way, should hit 20 points better than that when played regularly. . . . The slump which caused Heinie Manush to fall into possession of the Dodgers was due not so much to failing eyes as a persistently ailing charleyhorse. . . . The forwards for Pittsburgh in the Eastern Amateur Hockey league are Crossley Sherwood and Colin Sherwood. They are twins.

Larry McPhail

Lawrenceville coaches speak with awe concerning the end play of fifteen-year-old Puffy Bigler, son of Princeton's very good 1919 tackle. He is six feet one inch tall and weighs 175 pounds. . . . Tony Justice, Gonzaga's 195-pound end, is another player who will bear watching in 1937. Big Brother Eddie, of the Boston Redskins, claims the kid is due to be one of the nation's best. . . . Aside from the fact side-armers always did worry him there was another reason why Wally Berger had hitting trouble last year. Pitchers found they could keep the big Bees' outfielder under control if they threw at him. . . . Ralph Guldahl, leading pro golf money winner, is not superstitious about it but his two Pekinese dogs are named "In" and "Out."

Ted Kid Lewis has found a use for yesterday's newspaper. He uses it for wallpaper in his London cafe. Lewis's son, Morton, is one of the more eminent British movie camera men and soon will visit Hollywood to observe American film methods. . . . The Stadium club in London, where Georges Carpentier and Joe Beckett once drew $175,000, is no bigger than New York's St. Nicholas Palace. . . . Jimmy Walsh, the hard-hitting lightweight champion, is England's best fighter. . . . Benny Lynch, claimant to the world's flyweight title, is a crowd pleaser while Johnny King, bantamweight, is fast and clever.

Comment on the legalistic ledger-deman by which baseball's high commissioner insured the extinction of all independent minor league owners and enabled the rich Cleveland club to retain the sensational Bob Feller—"The Supreme court follows the elections. Judge Landis follows his $50,000-a-year salary." . . . Art Chapman, probably the best playmaker in the National Hockey league, comes by his skating ability naturally, his mother having been one of the best figure skaters in the Winnipeg neighborhood. Incidentally he met his wife, who has won numerous trophies for speed skating, when the two of them were appointed instructors at a Winnipeg playground.

Walter Brown, the Bostonian who coached the United States Olympic hockey team, has discontinued his five-year-old practice of touring Europe with American amateur sextets each winter. Can't get any fun out of it any more. Feels that European "amateur" teams have so many Canadian ringers these days that it would take a pro outfit to beat any of them.

The Mark "Sterling"—

Fascinating History of the and Its Meaning Wherever A

THE name sterling silver has a fascinating history. The name originally was Easterling, but in the progress of time became contracted to sterling. The Easterlings were a group of men who, in the Twelfth century, came to England from Camden in Europe, a place to the east of England and from this geographical fact gained their name. The men formed a guild to uphold standards of excellence in their work, and to protect themselves from robbers and pirates.

Sterling Coins.

The high standards pertained also to the coinage with which they paid those with whom they dealt. So unvarying was this money, and of such pure silver, that it became a gauge of excellence for all silver. The proportion of pure silver to the alloy was enormous, being at the ratio of 925 silver to 75 copper in each 1,000 parts. This same ratio pertains even today in all sterling silver.

Sterling Standard.

So adamant is this ratio, that no deviation of it is permissible under the name sterling. Severe penalties are laid down by our federal statutes for infringements of this ruling. So when you see the word sterling on the silver you already have or on pieces you are buying, you know you are of the finest grade. The silver may be marked fine, or 925-1000, for the markings indicate the same—sterling silver.

Solid Silver.

The term solid silver synonymous with sterling since the proportions may be 925 fine. Solid silver is a flexible term permitting many uses.

Plate and Plated Silver.

The word plate, when applied to silver was once a guarantee of pure silver, but now the word so associated with plated silver, that the name, silver plate, has lost its high standing. It is recognized in its true sense of sterling, by a comparative few persons, those only who know its rightful significance, and are versed in names of silversmiths, recognizing wares as true plate or as plated silver thereby.

Standard of Excellence.

So absolute is the meaning of sterling as the highest grade possible in coinage or silverware, that the word has become synonymous of worth and value whether applied to silver, material things or to character.

Persons sleep better if they eat lightly just before going to bed. Try a little hot milk and bread. Eating heartily before retiring, however, is of doubtful value, and may keep one awake.

Cracks in the plaster are usually due to the settling of the foundation of the house, poor structural framing, poor lathing and lumber shrinkage. Better construction throughout the house is the way to prevent plaster cracking.

Instead of taking a chilled lamb to the fire, wrap it up well in a blanket or with sacks. It is difficult to keep a lamb from developing pneumonia after it has been by the fire for several hours. If a lamb can be induced to nurse, it will usually revive rapidly.

Selecting a dozen or more good hens and mating them to a male bird of high production blood is a good way to improve the flock. The birds should show laying ability of medium size, good type and color, free from all defects. A light covering of manure will protect strawberry plants through the winter. Straw or hay may be put on top of the manure, for further protection, and then raked off in early spring, leaving the manure for fertilizer.

PRUNING OF TREES IS SEVERELY CONDEMNED

The mutilation of beautiful shade trees, done on the theory that pruning every year or two is necessary, is condemned in an article by Prof. N. R. Elliott, landscape specialist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. Most trees used for shade need little pruning, he declares, and the severe dehorning so often given is never advisable.

The practice sometimes followed of trimming back all branches, often leaving stubs 3 to 6 inches in diameter, is declared to be a sure way of forever ruining a tree that otherwise might have been beautiful.

"There is no excuse for disfiguring shade trees in such a manner," Prof. Elliott asserted. "The number of trees, especially in towns and cities, that have been treated in this way, is amazing, and the results of such treatment are never outgrown. Home owners should stop and realize that it takes years to grow large beautiful trees that can easily be permanently injured in a few hours by pruners who measure the effectiveness of their work by the amount of brush they remove."

Occasionally, shade trees do need some pruning, but Prof. Elliott would limit it to careful thinning where a few of the overlapping branches are removed or headed back slightly. In removing branches, cuts should be made close to the main stem or lateral and the wounds painted with a good grade of paint.

The work should be done during the winter, when the tree is dormant, since limbs can be removed with less injury to leaves and young growth. Trees damaged by storms should have the wounds treated as soon as possible.

Sarah Ann's Cooking Class

The vitamins that we must have are abundant in greens. Greens furnish the necessary roughage that are not likely to irritate the digestive organs. To the person not requiring energy food they are a boon, and to the one needing food of energy value they should be served with sauce or dressing high in calories.

How to Cook Greens

Wash and cut the greens, having all leaves free. Put in a bowl of cold water. Put two vessels of water on the stove and bring both to a boil. Into kettle put 1 tea spoon of baking soda and in to this put the greens. Let boil 3 minutes—no longer. Then drain the water off and refill the kettle with fresh boiling water. Add 1 tea spoon salt to the quart of water and allow the greens to cook until tender. Drain and season. Add butter, bacon fat, cream or white sauce, salt and pepper if desired.

Spinach and Tomatoes

Put a layer of seasoned fresh or canned spinach in a greased casserole, then a layer of canned tomatoes well seasoned. Repeat, top with buttered crumbs. Bake in an oven 375 deg. for 20 minutes.

Braised Lettuce

Cut washed heads of Boston lettuce in quarters, cook in salted water until tender. Lift out, shape and brown in shortening in which has been sautéed a few slices of carrot, 1 onion and 1 crumbled bouillon cube.

FORD TO INTRODUCE NEW SET OF ARTISTS

A sparkling new variety program, "Watch the Fun Go By," prepared by Al Pearce and his gang and an orchestra headed by Larry Marsh plus a brilliant new musical program, "Universal Rhythm," presenting new and novel arrangements of popular dance numbers by Rex Chandler and his 43 piece orchestra, will be the Ford Dealers' popular radio broadcast offering to open the new year, it was announced this week.

The two new programs will replace Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians who closed an interesting three year run on the Ford program Tuesday, Dec. 29, with a final broadcast over CBS coast to coast network.

For the new shows, Ford retains the two choice spots on the network formerly filled by Waring, 9 p. m. EST Tuesday nights over the CBS coast to coast network, and the same hour Friday night over the NBC Blue network.

The Chandler show was the first of the two new programs to hit the air. They made their debut at 9 p. m. EST New Year's day over the NBC Blue network.

SIX HELD ON 'BLACK LEG' CHARGE

ing to safety. He returned to prosecute the guilty ones here.

County Attorney Forrest D. Short said that the complainants secured warrants for trial in the county court here. The warrants, sworn out about a month ago, charged "binding and confederating with criminal intent." Mr. Short said the defendants were never brought to trial. He stated that the grand jury investigated the county court indictment and the charges made.

Wednesday the grand jury indicted 27 Maogffin county men. Four of these men, Troy Cole, Noble Cole, Newt Cole and Jim Marshall, were lodged in jail Wednesday at day light by I. H. Fitzpatrick, deputy sheriff. Before the grand jury, Jim Marshall offered to turn state's witness.

Mr. Hall, commonwealth's attorney, stated that a witness testified before the grand jury that the terrorists have been guilty of going to a home or two, and while there they would brandish guns on the men folks and ravish the women occupants.

The above mentioned four men were held. Later, Roy and Beecher Cole, who had come to visit their brothers, were included in the names on the grand jury indictment and were taken into custody on Bugger Mountain, Mrs. Cole further stated. "They bonds were set at $10,000 each. In the grand jury indictment the men were formally charged with "criminal syndicalism and sedition." A prison sentence of not exceeding 21 years and a fine not exceeding $10,000 can be imposed if found guilty.

Those indicted are George Cole, Carl Hall, George Marshall, Roy Cole, Beecher Cole, Bill Slone, Morg Perkins, German Risner, Curtis Marshall, Taylor Marshall, Henry Risner, George Whitaker, Mann Marshall, Eddie Marshall, William Fletcher, Thos. Salyers, Troy Cole, Noble Cole, Newt Cole, Albert Marshall, Sherm Bailey, Dona Risner, and Everett Risner.

Mrs. George Cole, age 41 years, mother of the four Cole men in jail, and she says she is the mother of 15 children, 13 of whom are living, traveled by way of Salyersville, 35 miles, to Prestonsburg. She arrived here Wednesday without funds, she stated to County Attorney Short, after spending 75c for bus fare that she borrowed near home.

In talking to Attorney Short relative to the organization, she said: "Carl Hall, one of the men indicted, organized the men with a subscription of about 30 cents a month." It was supposed to be an unemployment league organized to provide work for men who were idle. Men folks of the Cole family joined and got work to do on a relief project on Bugger Mountain, Mrs. Cole further stated. "They thought the 'union' was honorable," she says, "and didn't realize that whippings and outrages were being blamed on the so called 'union.' She said that when her husband and sons learned of this they withdrew and stopped paying dues. Mrs. Cole says that the defense counter charges malice and false swearing.

Jim Marshall, one of the men in jail who talked, said: "The league was organized as an unemployment league in October, a year ago." He stated that there were 29 members, including himself. According to him, the organization operated similar to the Ku Klux Klan, but was "kindly broke up after the trial at Salyersville." He said that the same bunch was on trial at Salyersville and that he was afraid to talk over there. Marshall said that he and some of the others were guilty of whipping people.

Mrs. Cole stated that "black legging" was a joke and that folks in her community used the term in kidding each other.

Guy Marshall, distant relative to Jim, made statement to Deputy Sheriff John Stumbo and The Times that Roy and Beecher Cole were not guilty of beating Barnett and were working for him at the time of the alleged attack.

Marshall is a member of the firm of Marshall Brothers operating two circle sawmills at Royalton. He said, "there was some whippings and such stuff going on, but don't know who did it." He stated that reliable sources informed him that the organization had a meeting place or building and that any time a red light showed from the place it would be a signal of danger and to stay away. He was told, Mr. Marshall said, that there were instructions of Carl Hall to members.

Mr. Marshall was here to fill bond for Roy Cole. The defendants plead "not guilty"

We resolve to save money during 1937 by making all household services electric — and in this way, to secure wholesale electric rates.

Resolution to save money by putting electricity to work

NEW YEAR'S resolutions are made to be broken, for usually we decide to give up something we like to do. "Never again" will we smoke—or eat sweets, or keep late hours. Instead of renouncing the pleasant things in life, try a new kind of resolution. Pledge yourself a jollier, happier life with freedom from care and more time for the wholesome enjoyment of living.

Resolve today that henceforth and forevermore you will do no labor that can be done electrically by a little motor. Resolve to operate all household services by the most convenient kind of power—electricity. In this way you become a "wholesale" user of current and you are eligible for the extremely low rates available above the average use.

With rates as low as these no one can afford to live without electric labor saving devices.

To Quickly Ease Pains of Rheumatism

Ask Your Doctor About Genuine BAYER Aspirin

Any person who suffers from pains of rheumatism should know this: Two genuine BAYER ASPIRIN tablets, taken with a full glass of water, will usually ease even severe rheumatic pains in a remarkably short time.

Ask your doctor about this. He will probably tell you there is nothing better. For real Bayer Aspirin tablets not only offer a potent analgesic (pain reliever), but start going to work almost instantly you take them. Note illustration of glass.

Try this simple way. You'll be surprised at how quickly pain eases. Get real Bayer Aspirin by asking for it by its full name, "Bayer Aspirin" at any drug store. Now virtually one cent a tablet.

THACKER KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE

Fearing further trouble the boys said they left the scene the the accident immediately. The body was found, fore part of head crushed, lying 21 feet from the edge of the road on the other side, 63 feet from the spot. One of Thacker's slippers was found tightly laced.

Circumstances surrounding the death of Mr. Thacker seem rather odd. There is reason to suspect foul play and further investigation will be conducted, members of the family said.

Burial took place in the family cemetery near the home on Jones Fork at 2 o'clock Monday evening under the direction of G. D. Ryan.

Surviving the victim are his aged father and mother, six brothers and three sisters: Mrs. Vadie Sparkman, Mrs. Russell Johnson, of Mousie, Ky.; Mrs. Arizona McIntyre, of Gauley Bridge, W. Va.; John C., of Garrett; Willie, Blaine and Russell, of Lackey; Kay and Leonard, of Fill well, Okla.

CITY COUNCIL ANNOUNCES 1937 PROGRAM IN MEETING

Among some of the things outstanding in the program is curtailment of all expenses mapped for the coming year possible. Details of this phase of the program are not, as yet, worked out definitely.

A highlight of the year planned work is a clean up drive to rid the town's streets of street walkers, rude women and such. The council wishes the cooperation of every good citizen. It has been common, not only here but abroad, to hear comment daily upon the number of lax women to be found roaming the streets and habitating the dives of our town. This has served as a 'stench uot' in the faces of and say that they have no statement to make. Magoffin county officials are to be here Saturday in the interest of the defendants.

The council pledged cooperation with the state's drive for safety, elimination of drunken and reckless driving and notification to auto clubs that this drive is no intention whatsoever to make Prestonsburg a speed trap for motorists. This sort of drive is being conducted by all the states at present. One of the main points in the safety drive is to curb speeding. Officials declare that "through out the year, the speed limit of 20 miles per hour will absolutely be enforced. Lives of school children must be protected!"

Herein is a notice to this effect, tendered to The Times

TO THE PUBLIC

Notice is hereby given the speed laws of the will be rigidly enforced police department. We trap, but offenders a speeding will be arrested.

Yours respectfully

SUNDAY GUNFIRE CLAIMS ISAACS IN KNOTT TROUBLE

Hall Wounded In Affray on Dry Creek, Knott County;
 Cause Not Revealed

Gunfire flared near the county line of Floyd and Knott counties and as a result
 Willie Isaacs, aged 33 years, is dead and Gilbert Hall, about 23 years of age, was taken to the Stumbo hospital at Lackey. The fracas took place on Dry Creek in Knott near the head of Jack's Creek
 Sunday afternoon.

It is said that in the course of the difficulty that Isaacs first wounded Hall, and that Hall retaliated, fatally wounding Isaacs, in a version of the affair to The Times.
 Hall was wounded in the arm. Isaacs was shot twice, one bullet entering the chest and the other the abdomen.

JIM CROW

A little over a century ago the comic Negro was introduced to the American public in the character of Jim Crow. T. D. Rice, Negro minstrel, won great popularity in 1835 in this role and played several times in Kentucky. Too often since then this side of Negro life has been regarded as the only one. Black face comedians have made this character known everywhere and it would be hard to separate the actual negro comedian from the white man masquerading as such. These actors have chosen to reveal the high good humor of the Negro, usually the younger Negro, his fondness for gay attire, his innate love of music and dancing, his ability to wield a razor. The radio in our time has many a black face team, known all over the world, carrying on the the Jim Crow tradition.

Though the professional actors and radio teams have caught much of the air of the Jim Crow type, there is still much to be learned from actual characters living in every part of the South. Every section has a comic Negro philosopher or clown. He does not seem quite aware how funny he is; it usually ruins his impression when he does learn that he is naturally comic. He sees the incongruities of his own time and place and almost unconsciously imitates them. I lost many a good lick with the hoe in the field listening to Curt imitate the various members of the Mt. Zion congregation. We hear a lot about one man badns now; Curt was a one man troupe of actors. From pompous dignity of a preacher to the high pitched wailing of a shouting auntie he could change in a twinkling, keeping all the time a seriousness that would be the envy of professional actors. You wouldn't have called Curt irreverent he just saw the comedy of his life and expressed it with little or no effort.

Not so much has been made of the female comic Negro, but Eda, one of our neighbor girls was a match for Curt. She could cakewalk like every person person she knew, from the gayest youngster to the oldest victim of rheumatism. She could shout on all the scales and reproduce all the effects of a sermon, song, and shout. She, too, seemed unaware of her acting ability and was not trying to bring any of her church people into disrepute. She reminded me then of small children who unconsciously repeat words or gestures of those around them. Each new Sunday at Mt. Zion was enough to call into play her acting ability. She interrupted the washing of dishes to take a turn across the kitchen in the manner of some sister marching up the aisle to deposit her weekly offering; she would cakewalk from the dining room to the kitchen with an armload of dishes, occasionally with disastrous results. We children stood around in the way to see what new antics she would try next, sometimes suggesting certain roles that she had previously enacted. Most of the negroes we knew would not often portray white characters in our presence, though I am sure that they did this in their own cabins. Sometimes we would persuade Curt or Eda to talk and act like some eccentric white man or woman and then double up with laughter at the accuracy of the acting. When I asked to work in the field with Spencer, I never knew who he would be when he came in the morning to begin work. He was likely to greet me in the guise of any one of a dozen well known white men of the neighborhood.

RICHMOND MAROONS PREPARING FOR TWO CONFERENCE GAMES

Richmond, Ky., Jan. 4.—Having cut their vacation short by reporting to Coach Rome Rankin early last week, Eastern's Maroons are putting the finishing touches on their drills for the two conference tilts they are to play this week. On Thursday, the Maroons entertain the Kentucky Wesleyan quintet at Richmond and on Saturday the Rankin men will travel to Danville to do battle with Centre's Colonels.

During the early drills the play of Ray Fritts, a newcomer to the Maroon fold this year from Cumberland Junior College, Bob Hatton, the edogated Hoosier lad that jumps center for the Maroons, and Les Voshell, a sophomore from Burlington, have stood out. However, Coach Rankin is not breaking up the combination that has won easily from a strong alumni team and Transylvania. He is holding on to the machine composed of Woodie Hinkle and Tommy Scott at forward, Hatton at center, and Capt. Demoisey and Roy King at the guard posts.

With the Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Basketball tournament only seven weeks away, Eastern is beginning preparations for the biggest tourney that has ever been staged in the state. Eastern is the host college this year for the first time in the history of the school and nothing is being undone by tournament manager T. E. McDonough to insure a great tournament.

Last year Eastern was the runner up in the state meeting, being nosed out by a great Western Kentucky Teachers' team in the final tilt of the tourney held at Bowling Green.

After Teeth Lose Their Nerve

Before the days when novocaine came into general use in dentistry, the agony of drilling was so acute that the writer while in the dentist chair was in the habit of gripping the arms and letting imagination have free rein. She pictured the dentist in the popular role of his satanic majesty, giving his subjects a literal sample of things that were to come. Sometimes she'd think regretfully of how much more realistically Dante could have painted his Inferno if he had experienced the tortures of dentistry.

But most dentists, being human and sympathetic, freed the habit of killing the nerves in teeth that were especially bad. In fact, crowns of the teeth were replaced either by gold or porcelain. The recipients of these artificial crowns often rejoiced at their improved appearance as with satisfaction they viewed in the dentist's mirror their beautiful new teeth.

In those days the killing of nerves in teeth was considered a most humane procedure. It saved so much pain. Then, too, the victim could sit still long enough to have the cavity properly prepared to be filled. And there was another side to it. So many people just wouldn't go to the dentist often enough, and the cavities in their teeth were so deep that the nerves were exposed and had to be destroyed. In fact, some of them died spontaneously.

It was really believed that a dead tooth was about as good as a live one. People did not remember that a dead tree will become full of bugs that prey upon it and ultimately destroy it. That's just what happens to dead teeth. Being dead in a human mouth the bugs and poison from them get into the blood stream and sometimes destroy the people who harbor them.

The American dentists had the proud distinction of being called the best dentists in the world, when something exploded with a bang. "In October, 1910, a celebrated surgeon, Sir William Hunter, of London, delivered a lecture before the faculty of medicine at McGill University at Montreal. While expressing his admiration for the ingenuity and skill of dentists, he denounced in no uncertain terms the practice of building dental restorations on dead and infected teeth. He condemned also the gold shell crown and the cemented in bridge work of the period. He proclaimed that patients with such dentistry had septic mouths; that they eventually became sick patients. It was a scathing indictment of American dentistry."

"An American dentist, Dr. W. D. Miller, had pointed out the same thing 19 years ago. No one paid any attention to him, but Hunter's blast woke up the profession, and sent them scurrying to their microscopes with roots of dead teeth for examination. To the surprise of investigators most virulent germs were found upon the root of these defective teeth after extraction. It was also discovered that when the scrapings from such roots were cultured that colonies of pernicious bacteria were found.

From the Indians the pioneers learned that the buffalo provided the redskins with fresh meat, tallow (marrow kept in skins), and dried tongue. The skin the tribesmen made robes of; the hair on; clothing and bedding. Dressed without the hair, built tepees and boats by the green skins and stretched over a wooden framework. They were made from the thickest bags for use in traveling and clothing of many kinds. Coffins, then known as "win sheets," served for the dead. The Indians made red thread and bowstrings. The Indians and buffalo taught the pioneers a lot of lessons in being provident.

Home Heating Hints

By John Barclay Heating Expert

Fire to Burn Briskly to Quick Heat on Cold Mornings

A joy and comfort it is to sit in your home heated on cold mornings! And it can be done! The grates gently. When the fire appears in the ash-pit. Next, open damper and close the grate until the fire burns brightly. Fresh fuel be necessary, feed it on the fire in a thin layer. Give it time to burn well and heat the house, then add a full charge of coal. When the gases have burned off, reset the dampers for normal burning. This same rule applies should the fire get very low and almost burn itself out at any time. Be careful not to smother it with too much coal. Open the ash-pit damper and close the check damper. When the fire again is burning brightly, shake the grates gently until the first red glow appears in the ash-pit, add a full charge of fuel, allow the gases to burn off, reverse the dampers—close the ash-pit damper and open the check damper. That's the way to save fuel and cut down trips to the cellar.

SYNOPSIS

Kezia Marsh, pretty, selfish and twenty, arrives home in Corinth from school and is met by her older brother, Hugh. He drives her to the Marsh home where her widowed mother, Fluvanna, a warm-hearted, self-sacrificing and understanding soul, welcomes her. Kezia's sister, Margery, plump and matronly with the care of three children, is at lunch with them.

Margery's dainty figure had grown plump, but there were contented lines about her eyes and mouth. She wasn't sorry for herself tied down with three children under six. She didn't mind her vanishing prettiness. This was the life she had dreamed of ever since she had been a little girl and played with her family of dolls—a home, an adoring husband, and children to tend and scrub and dress attractively.

"Margery—precious!" Kezia came through the screen door, and ran toward her sister.

Mrs. Marsh surveyed them all from the head of the table, her gentle shining eyes resting on them one by one. "Do you realize this is the first time we have sat down together for years?"

She had never said anything like that before. With utmost tact she had made Dorrie and Will Platt, Margery's husband, welcome, but Hugh felt that it added to her pleasure today to have just them. It bridged the interlude since they had left her roof and become absorbingly interested in other pursuits, other persons.

Margery forgot her role of dignified young matron, Hugh, his position as assistant to the president of the Brower Steel Works, Kezia, the sophisticated teachings of Lolly Masters, an older girl at school, and her desire to model herself on the lines of that seductive and fascinating person.

"What are the headlines about the Cornithians, Marge? The births, the weddings, the deaths, the scandals—particularly the scandals! . . . I love knowing the dirt about people! It makes you feel you're not so bad yourself!" cried Kezia over the coffee. "You would," said Hugh. He tweaked her ear as he rose. One o'clock. He must get back to the office. "Put them on the spot—use machine guns!"

Fluvanna followed Hugh to the door. "Give my love to Dorrie! She's a thoughtful child—she brought me a new book yesterday, a novel on China. Dear of her." "She did?" Hugh's face brightened as it always did when Dorrie was praised. Dorrie hadn't mentioned the gift, but she had a queer respect and affection for his mother, a revealing admission.

He spent the afternoon going over the cost sheets, and had a talk with Sloan, the president, over the price cutting of the Arrow Steel, which kept him until after five.

He took his car from the parking shed under the bridge and slowly wove his way through the impatient late-afternoon traffic.

He ran into a gas station to fill up his tank. A boyhood friend, Doc Hiller, waved to him as he passed. He waved back. He had a shamed feeling of ingratitude at the sight of Doc. They should go to see the Hillers, have them for dinner. They had called, made so many friendly advances—and Doc was such a darn good fellow! But Dorrie had a cool way of ignoring debts she did not intend to pay.

"Yes," she would reply listlessly to his suggestion, "sometime we must have them. Don't feel up to it now. Perhaps next week."

He lived on a street which had been part of the fairway of a golf course before the town had spread westward. The small Colonial and English style houses were attractive and well-kept, each with its hedge and evergreen shrubbery and driveway leading back to the garage. His own house was of tapestry brick with casement windows, green flower-boxes on the square porch at the side, green and henna awnings. He left the car in the drive. Perhaps Dorrie would want to go out after dinner.

A bridge table in the living-room, with cards and scores littered on it, testified to recent activity. Then he saw Dorrie in a small sunny room just beyond, sitting relaxed, quiescent, her hands folded in her lap. The sun touched her burnished hair, accented the creamy pallor of her skin, her red mouth, the delicately moulded nose.

Hugh stood still a moment while emotion burned through him. It came on him with a surprise, almost a choke. This lovely woman was his—his. He left her in the house each morning . . . she was his to return to at night. The pith of his heart . . .

"Dorrie." She started a little as if recalled from distant visions, then rose and came toward him. Her sea-green eyes had an excited luminosity in their depths as if her thoughts had been pleasant ones.

"Hello, Hugh." "Didn't you hear me come in?" She smiled slowly up at him as his arms went around her. "No, didn't hear you."

"What were you thinking about?" She shook her head. "Don't know . . . day-dreaming, I guess."

He kissed her. Her hand curled in his; a flush rose on her delicate cheek.

"Have a good game?" "So-so. Joan and Orinda—Lesley Gates for a fourth." She moved toward the table and put the decks of cards in their paste-board covers. "Lesley is a poor loser."

Fluvanna awakened from a dream of Jim Marsh, her husband. She had the illusion he was bending over, trying to tell her something, and all the sick, unruly associations that his memory brought unfurled themselves and waved exciting banners. Presently, lying with her eyes wide open and seeing the reassuring light of day, the sensation ebbed.

Kezia was home—was right across the hall, sleeping in the green and gold bedroom. Kezia was probably the reason she had dreamed of Jim. The child didn't look like him . . . no, Hugh resembled his father in stature and feature, but Kezia's whole personality carried a haunting reminder. The expressions she had, the tricky way she raised her eyes and made them aspiring and wistful, her cajoling manner which concealed her purposes, the will to have her own way, all hinted at the feminine counterpart of Jim.

She rose and drew up the shades. The perfume of lilacs came up from a bush beneath the window and brought back the spring of long ago—lilacs, the murmur of growth, and two people under an umbrella . . . Just a week after she met him.

That had been a momentous night, a kind of prescience about it from the second the Clements had presented him. Fate did that sometimes. Usually it worked soundlessly, but once in a great while it spoke a single word to you—"Now."

Ella Clement had said: "This is our cousin, James Marsh, from Philadelphia. He is opening an insurance agency here . . ." and Ella had gone on chattering in her tangential way about the Marshes living near some park, and her visit to them once when she had met some Senator—what was his name?—and the really very nice people who lived in Philadelphia.

Later when they were alone for a moment, Jim had smiled with his enigmatic eyes—strange the pull of some eyes—and said: "They've told me about you. I've been wondering how you got your name, Fluvanna. I never heard it before, but it has a nice sound, like deep water flowing under a bridge."

She had gone home that night with a disturbance in her heart—such as she had never known before, and said to herself: "If he asks me, I shall marry him." . . . Yes, it had been like that.

She found a note under the knocker on Kezia's door. "Wake me at eight. I'm playing tennis." It was five minutes to eight now. She rattled the knocker and heard a sleepy response from Kezia.

In the kitchen, Anna, a chunky girl of Roumanian parentage, turned from the stove with a liquid shine of welcome in her long dark eyes. "Good-morning, Mis' Marsh."

"Good-morning, Anna. Breakfast almost ready?"

"Ready in ten minutes or so. I haven't squeezed the oranges. Miss Kezia be down?"

"Yes, she's getting up. She is going to play tennis with some friends. I'll go out to cut some flowers for the table."

She went out to the garden. Eric Olsen, a young man who took care of the yard and the car, was cutting the tender lush grass. The mingled fragrance of the lilacs, the shorn grass, the wild crab, sent a tingling response through her being. She gathered a bouquet of dark blue iris, then clipped an armful of fragile nodding columbine. She wiped the garden mould from her feet before the side door.

"Hello, Cousin Fluvanna," called a youthful voice from inside. "I just walked in—been wandering about." She held the screen open for Fluvanna.

"Ellen! . . . Been painting?" "I had to—this morning! Lovely flowers—let me take them."

Fluvanna thought: "If you could paint yourself among those flowers, Ellen!" Aloud she said: "Just in time for breakfast—you must stay. Kezia will be down in a minute. I'll call her—tell her you're here."

Ellen put out a detaining hand. "Not yet—not just yet. I have something to tell you."

Fluvanna smiled. "Nice?" "Very nice . . . I'm engaged."

"No!" "Yes, I am," returned Ellen ecstatically. "It happened last night! . . . To Jerry!"

"Dear—dear!" murmured Fluvanna. "You told me quite a bit about him, brought him here . . . still I didn't think so soon . . ."

STAR DUST

Movie • Radio

By VIRGINIA VALE

IT WILL be a long time before radio and motion picture executives forget the abdication of ex-King Edward VIII of England. The radio speech he made just before he left England was so moving that everybody is trying to arrange a regular program that will have one-tenth of its appeal.

On all sides they have been hearing of how strongly it affected its hearers. And the movie people would give practically anything for a story half as dramatic and thrilling as the one they followed so eagerly in the newspapers. Of course, they'd like to film a picture based on the real story, but that's forbidden.

Janet Gaynor is going to freelance, after being under contract to one company for so long. She is now making "A Star Is Born," on the Selznick lot, because she liked her part from the moment she read it. So she's going to go on selecting her own roles—with the consent of the companies that happen to be making the pictures—and she's crazy about the idea. Her worshiping public should be, too.

Janet Gaynor

Bing Crosby's radio programs always have such a casual air that they sound as if they were being made up on the spur of the moment. As a matter of fact, they're written by the ace man of one of our biggest advertising agencies. Which all goes to show that it takes experts to make people sound natural.

The new version of "Seventh Heaven" is coming along fine, with Simone Simon in the role that made Janet Gaynor famous overnight, and James Stewart in Charlie Farrell's place. Henry King, who directed "Lloyds of London," (which you'll want to see) is wielding the megaphone.

Speaking of "Lloyds of London" brings up the fact that his work in that picture made a star of young Tyrone Power, son of the famous old actor of that name. Twentieth-Century Fox is giving the young man a stellar part in "Love Is News," with Loretta Young playing opposite him. He had a hard time getting started; being his father's son wasn't the help you'd think it might be. Now he's on his way!

One of our ace directors returned from England recently, after completing a very successful picture, and announced that he'd never get over one thing that happened to him. In Hollywood he is accustomed to discussing the rewriting of a scene with the author who is working on the picture, and having said author promptly leap to a typewriter and dash off the new version.

In England he was working with a well-known woman writer. They would discuss the changes that had to be made. Then she would get into her car and go to her country home. A week or so later she would return with the new version of the scene, perfectly written. At first the director nearly went mad; eventually he wondered why everybody didn't work that way.

Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone are the most recent recruits to the Broadway stage—that is, they are if they can find just the right play, (and it's rumored that they have) and if the studio will let them have leave of absence. It has been no secret that the ambitious Joan wanted to try the stage some day; she once danced on it, and now she wants to act. But she wanted to wait till she felt ready for it, and has always insisted that her husband must act with her because she'd lack confidence if he didn't. And as he made quite a reputation for himself before he went to Hollywood, the change won't be hard for him.

ODDS AND ENDS . . . Shirley Temple's father has abandoned the banking business and become an agent for actors . . . Now he'll have to spend his time trying to find somebody who'll be as successful on the screen as Shirley is . . . William Powell will appear without his moustache—at his request—in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" . . . First time in 15 years that he's done it . . . If you listen to Jack Benny's radio programs you've heard Kenny Baker . . . You can see as well as hear him in "The King and the Chorus Girl," Carole Lombard's new picture, when it's finished; he'll do two songs.

THREE more intriguing numbers than these would be hard to imagine—even in this day of rampant fashion and scintillating style! It's a trio that the younger set in The Sewing Circle will be enthusiastic about too, for first consideration is given them in—

Pattern 1996—This excellently styled jumper dress is one of the lot of six and the lass of fourteen will sing long and loud over. It is a guaranteed delight for both mother and daughter because it's the simplest thing to sew and the most intriguing frock a child ever had. The puff of the sleeves and the flare of the skirt place a pretty accent on youth. Available for sizes: 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 1 1/4 yards of 35 inch material for the jumper and 1 1/4 yards for the blouse.

It makes a grand thing of simplicity—a brilliant success of the new silhouette Buttons, bold shiny ones, add classic chic to the back. And in the matter of sleeves there's an opportunity to choose for oneself. Sheer wool, challis, taffeta or silk crepe will be a likely material for this dress. Designed for sizes: 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 2 1/4 yards of 54 inch fabric. With long sleeves 2 1/2 yards.

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained.

Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes; feel nervous, miserable—all upset. Don't delay! Use Doan's Pills.
