

Betsy Layne School Destroyed By Fire

BUCKET BRIGADE SAVES GYMNASIUM; ORIGIN UNKNOWN

Classes to Continue Monday; Plans to Rebuild Structure Considered

Betsy Layne, Ky., Jan. 13 (Spl.)—The Betsy Layne high school building was completely destroyed by fire here at near midnight Tuesday with in a few hours after the community witnessed a basketball game in the nearby gymnasium.

A midnight bucket brigade is credited with saving the gymnasium.

At Prestonsburg, Wednesday evening, after returning from a trip of investigation to Betsy Layne, Mr. Hall placed the loss at approximately $40,000. Included in this was $1,500 worth of band instruments. The building and equipment was insured, a report from the superintendent's office said, for $27,000.

County Supt. Hall said that the origin and cause of the fire was not yet determined.

The school enrollment, said Mr. Hall, is about 500 pupils and served one-fourth of Floyd county, embracing Mud Creek, Mare Creek, Betsy Layne proper and the vicinity above Allen to the county line.

At the next board meeting, it is understood, a building to replace the old one probably will be discussed. The old building originally cost $23,000 but, it is estimated, building materials have advanced considerably in the last three years.

Arrangements were being made, M. Hall said, to rent some available vacant houses which to hold classes, and have the students in their classes Monday morning, Jan. 18.

Superintendent Hall stated that some had expressed the opinion that due to the closing of the mine the building would not be replaced. He said that this rumor was false as plans would be rushed for a replacement, although the new building might not be ready for use before beginning of the next school year.

CIRCUIT SESSION IN SECOND WEEK

Four Receive Pen Terms in Four Days; Fines Recorded

The January term of circuit court is in session winding up its second week. Commonwealth's Attorney O. C. Hall stated that on Tuesday the court handled 60 cases. Some of these were continued, while there were 28 convictions, said Mr. Hall.

Tuesday saw two men receive terms in the penitentiary. Harrison Ousley was sentenced two years in the pen for shooting without wounding. Did Case was convicted of stealing bee hives and given one year in the reformatory. On the same day, Clyde Harper was fined $500 and Mencie Prater was fined $250, both being convicted of driving while intoxicated.

CITY COUNCIL IN SPECIAL SESSION

Bond Issue Considered; Will Sue on Delinquent Taxes

The city council, with all members present, held a special meeting in the city hall Tuesday night. Those present discussed ways and means of meeting the cost of operating the city's government and paying the deficiency already created.

The street lights, said Mayor Carter in the meeting hall, will be cut off on February 1 if enough taxes are not collected to settle the back light bill for street lights.

It was stated that The Times that the council plans to bring suit to collect delinquent taxes. "Everyone that has been sued," Mayor Carter stated, "their property will be sold by the court for the taxes."

Another progressive drive of the mayor's, it is understood, is adopted by the council, and is contained herein as a request to the people from the mayor:

TO THE PUBLIC:

Every one that has a city warrant is asked to list the warrant with J. M. Weddington.

The city council is trying to sell bonds to pay off the present indebtedness of the city and the members of the council have to have amounts of the warrants to determine the outstanding indebtedness of the city. Each of these warrants presented will be thoroughly investigated.

In regards to the vice campaign launched last week, it was stated that about eight lewd women were run out of town. Names of these were not obtained. Orders, Mayor Carter stated, have been given by the police to others to leave immediately. If they do not, they will be confined in the city jail.

On the 'dead man corner' or Graham and the Mayo Trail—the scene of three recent accidents—SLOW and STOP signs are to be installed, Mayor Carter said.

Here From Hazard

Mr. J. P. Garnet, of Hazard, Ky., was a business visitor in Prestonsburg Tuesday.

TWO MEN REPORTED KILLED BY TRAINS IN FLOYD COUNTY

Mishaps at Garrett and Melvin; One Victim Deaf Mute

Monday evening, at approximately 6:30 o'clock, Maryland McCown was killed by a Left Beaver train at Melvin, Ky. According to reports, Mr. McCown, about 38 years old, was walking in the middle of the track toward the approaching train and was run over about 50 or 75 feet west of the Melvin crossing.

One leg was severed and the body was crushed, it is said. Mr. McCown was an ex-railroader and formerly resided at Shelby, Ky.

The Times was told that members of the crew stated that they sounded repeated warnings and did not realize that the victim would not leave the track until it was too late to stop the train.

Frank Estep, 21 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Estep, of Printer, Ky., was killed by a train at Garrett, Ky., Friday evening, Jan. 8. His arm and head were severed from his body and the body was cut up badly, it was stated.

The victim was a deaf mute. Reports say that he was walking down a side track at the upper edge of Garrett and stepped into the path of the train on the main line.

Funeral services were held for the victim Sunday, with Rev. Melve Allen and Rev. Alex Allen officiating. Burial was made in the May cemetery at Martin under the direction of G. D. Ryan.

He is survived by his parents, five brothers and four sisters.

LITTLE FLOYD, ORPHANED 'COUNTY'

Did you ever hear of Little Floyd? If so, you are one of the very few people living in Floyd county who have.

A question of jurisdiction over the trial of a certain case has brought to the fore facts concerning Little Floyd, which is a part of Floyd county, but lying wholly in Pike county. A strip of Pike county one half mile wide separates it from Floyd county, proper.

The facts are that when Pike county was severed from Floyd county about the year 1825, there was a certain citizen named Tandy R. Stratton who wanted to remain a citizen of his native county of Floyd, but whose farm of approximately 750 acres was included in the new county of Pike. Mr. Stratton was so anxious to live in Floyd county that his brother, James

FOURTEEN JAILED; TRIAL SET JAN. 18 IN BLACKLEG CASE

Six Warrants Yet Not Served; Three Execute Bond for Appearance

Two of these men, Curtis Marshall and Shem Bailey, filled a $10,000 bond Tuesday evening. The remainder were placed in jail with seven others already confined.

Saturday evening Albert Marshall and George Cole came to Prestonsburg, in the company of Alex Adams, Magoffin county attorney, and Burnett Howard. George Cole filled a $10,000 bond that evening.

Three more are known to be in Magoffin county. Kendrick stated Tuesday evening. Their names are Eddie Marshall, Thomas Salyers and William Fletcher and that they would be here Wednesday. The whereabouts, he said, of Carl Hall, German Risner and Henry Risner were unknown. O. C. Hall said that warrants would be issued for Morg Perkins, Earlie Risner and Everett Risner. This would be a total of 26 men wanted on these charges.

DRILLING REPORTED BY GAS COMPANIES

Fourteen Wells Catalogued to Times—Unusual for January

During the month of January the local gas companies reported drilling or plans for immediate drilling of 14 gas wells in this section.

The Warfield Natural Gas Company office attaches stated they have eight wells at present. These wells and their locations are as follows:

The W. A. James farm, the Sarah Jane Robinson farm, the Mary Cline farm and the M. B. Collinsworth farm, in Martin county; the Stratton farm near Betsy Layne and the W. T. Osborne farm on Toles's Creek, this county; the H. H. Smith farm and the Jasper Pratt farm in Knott county.

The Kentucky West Virginia Gas Co. are planning to drill three wells for gas within a short time and are now drilling one oil well on Camp Branch, near Betsy Layne, in Floyd. The three locations planned are the Burchett farm on Cow Creek, in Floyd county; the Tom Hagans heirs on Jones Fork in Knott county; and one well on Coldwater Creek in Martin county.

The Inland Gas Co. is drilling a well on the Martha Shepherd farm in Magoffin county that is reported 1628 feet in the Maxon sand and are starting to drill on the Jack Webb farm on Jones Fork in Knott county. The Inland reports its work was up 50 per cent more than that of last year.

The sources of the above reports state that these reports are subject to change at any time through work orders from their home offices. It is understood that this is a prelude to heavy program expected to get underway later, although weather and other conditions may govern this anticipation.

Reports from other companies here were not obtained.

TWO YOUTHS HELD; APPREHENDED HERE

Two Other Children Near Death; Funeral Services Held

Foggy weather and the blinding headlights of an approaching car was blamed for the accident that took the lives of two school children on the Mayo Trail at the upper edge of Betsy Layne Sunday night about 7 o'clock by two boys who were placed in jail here.

As a result of the tragedy, Bonnie Bess Layne, age 9, was killed instantly; Clarissa Sargent, age 11, died in the Methodist hospital; Dorothy Layne, age 15, and Helen Sargent, age 8, have both legs broken. The extent of other injuries was not learned. The Layne girls, The Times was told, are the daughters of Bill Layne, of Betsy Layne, and the Sargent sisters were daughters of Sargent, assistant mine foreman at Harold, Ky.

Within about 45 minutes after the accident occurred and a few minutes after receiving a telephone call, Deputy Sheriff O. H. Stumbo and Constable Epp Laferty apprehended two youths at the intersection of the Mayo Trail and Court street here. They were in a 1935 Ford pickup truck. The hood was dented, a headlight and horn smashed and fender dented on the left side of the truck.

According to officers, the boys are Noah Newsom, 23, who gave his address as Harold, Ky., and said that he was the owner of the truck, and Clifford Adkins, 18, also of Harold, stated that they were on their way to Van Lear, Ky. Officers quoted them as saying they couldn't see the girls until they were hit. They said they did not stop because they didn't think the girls were hurt. They readily admitted hitting the girls but claimed due to a heavy fog and glare of headlights of an approaching car that the tragedy was unavoidable. Newsom said that they were going not over 25 miles per hour.

Arresting officers stated that Newsom was under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

The two boys in custody stated that they saw only two girls, to officials Sunday night. One theory of the accident was rumored that the

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Glory Vs. Undernourishment.
SANTA MONICA, CALIF.— Because their dictators are piling up armaments and building up armies at a rate unprecedented, the German people must, it appears, go on rations, cutting down their daily consumption of breadstuffs and fats, with the prospect of still more stringent restrictions.

But their overlords—a reasonably well-nourished lot, to judge by their photographs—keep right on preaching that such compulsory undernourishment is all for the greater glory of the waterland.

I know of but one historic parallel to match this. It is to be found in Mother Goose, where it is poetically set forth: There was a piper And he had naught to give her So he pulled out his pipes and played her a tune And bade the cow consider.

Signs of Disapproval.
ONCE, in Montana, I heard two cowboys talking about the father of the sweetheart of one of them. "I've got a kind of a sneaking idea that Millie's paw don't care deeply for me," said the lover. "What makes you think so—something he said?"

"No, because he don't never say nothing to me, just sniffs. But the other night I snuck over there to see Millie, and, as I was coming away, I happened to look back and the old man was shoveling my tracks out of the front yard."

The archbishop of Canterbury is likely to wake up any morning and find the British public shoveling his tracks out of the front yards.

International "Messifications."

JUST about the time the contesting groups in Spain lose the twenty or thirty confusing names the correspondents have hung on them and resolve themselves into the army that's going to take Madrid not later than 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and the army that's going to keep Madrid until the cows come home, a fresh complication breaks out in China. General Chang gets into a mixup with General Gu.

Just one clear point stands out of the messification. When the dust clears away some small brown brothers wearing the Japanese uniform will be found sitting on top of the heap. China's poison is Nippon's meat, every pop.

Rationalizing the Calendar.

THE plan to adopt a rational calendar is finding favor in administration circles at Washington, as in European countries.

Every time this proposition—which is so sensible and seemingly unattainable—bobs up, I think of the little story of the venerable Alabama pessimist who dropped into the general store just in time to hear the proprietor reading aloud from the newspaper that the project for thirteen months of twenty-eight days each had been laid for consideration before the League of Nations.

"I'm ag'in' it," declared the aged one. "It'd be jest my luck for that extra month to come in the winter time and ketch me short of fodder."

Stunts in the Films.

FOR ordinary film stunts, current prices are: Tree fall, $25; stair fall, $50 (each additional fall, $35); head-on auto crash, $200; parachute jump, $150; mid-air plane change, $200; high dive, $75; being knocked down by auto, $75 being knocked down by locomotive, $100; trick horse riding, $125; crashing a plane, $1,500.

It doesn't cost a cent, though, for practically every slightly shopworn leading man, on or off the screen, to crave to play "Hamlet" on the stage. But it is almost invariably expensive for the producers who occasionally satisfy these morbid cravings.

Here's Swell Game for Flu Victims— "What's His Name?"

MAYBE it's not a very good game but anyhow it's better than the flu and so the nurse, the doctor and the patient can play it.

All you do is remember some nickname that once was spread across the sports pages or was otherwise familiar to thousands of cash customers at athletic arenas. Then you laugh fiendishly, while your playmates try to recall the baptismal monicker of the party associated with it.

For instance—But probably you have a good sports memory, too. If so—What's His Name?

- 1—The Honest Blacksmith.
- 2—Americus.
- 3—Silent Mike.
- 4—Canada's Boy in Blue.
- 5—Old Smoke.
- 6—The Boy Plunger.
- 7—The Boy Wonder (Billiards).
- 8—The Boy Wonder (First of the numerous baseball heroes with that nickname).

- 12—The Indoor King.
- 13—The Whoa Back. (Just to make the jinx number more complicated this is a football play.)

Now if You've Not Peeked Here Are the Answers

For the benefit of those who have not peeked the answers are printed below. Some easy ones were inserted here and there but those getting 10 correct can award themselves medals and go to the head of the class.

- 1—Famous prizefight referee and generally credited with being the first referee ever to enter the ring wearing a dinner suit.
  - 2—Gus Schoenlein. A very good light-heavyweight wrestler of 15 years or so ago.
  - 3—Silent Mike Tiernan. A pitcher who became one of the greatest of all time right fielders. He played for the original New York Giants.
  - 4—Edward Hanlan, who was born in Toronto in 1855 and became the greatest of all single scullers.
  - 5—Another of the names for the Hon. John Morrissey, who won the American heavyweight championship in 1853, was elected to congress and provided Saratoga with its first high-class gambling.
  - 6—Riley Grannon, one of the most famous of race-track bettors. When Henry of Navarre ran that celebrated dead heat with Domino, Riley had 100 G's riding on Henry.
  - 7—Willie Hoppe.
  - 8—Arthur Cummings. As early as 1868 he was advertised all over the country by that name and for the fact that he was the only man in the world who could make a ball curve. It was a sweeping outcurve and he pitched it for, among others, the Famous Stars of Brooklyn at the old Capitoline grounds.
  - 9—The Cleveland Club's name in the days when the eminent Deacon McGuire was manager.
  - 10—Jack Schaefer, Sr. Greatest of them all at rail play, once having run 3,000 points on the rail without a miss and the run unfinished.
  - 11—Isaac Murphy, most celebrated of all negro jockeys.
  - 12—Jay Eaton, one of the most noted bicycle riders of the Nineties.
  - 13—Stagg invented it so that Chicago could beat a well-favored Michigan eleven, 15 to 6, in 1900. It consisted mainly in having a pusher back of the fullback in plunges through the line.
- His friends insist that the dearest ambition of Branch Rickey, very able head of the St. Louis Cards baseball syndicate, is to own the Brooklyn Dodgers.
- Cecilia Colledge, tops among the British amateur figure skaters, is teaching Yankee lasses a trick or two they never understand. By insisting that she is entering the movies strictly on her acting ability she retains her amateur sports standing.

Opinions
 "Everybody is entitled to his opinion," said Uncle Eben, "but if you's goin' to fuss with everybody whose opinions ain' de same as yours, you's goin' to end up mighty lonesome."

 Hummingbirds in captivity thrive on a mixture of honey, condensed milk, meat extract, and a patent food preparation, with fruit flies for a snack between meals.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:
UNLESS he receives the $15,000 which he is more than worth, Van Mungo probably will be baseball's toughest 1937 holdout . . . Joe Louis pays no rent in Chicago. The Bomber and Marva recently moved into their own building, a six-suite apartment house which Louis purchased with his bit from the Schmeeling affair. . . Myer Aaronson, all-New Jersey high school guard last year, is high scorer for the George Washington university frosh basketball team. . . George Read, the celebrated turf clocker, used to train game cocks and once conditioned a start that was undefeated in 11 battles.

Senator (by personal nomination) Wild Bill Lyons carries a cane that is, in reality, a Winchester rifle. It is a gift from Mrs. James A. Farley, wife of Bill's pal, the Postmaster General. . . Big Bill Dwyer, the turf and hockey magnate, once was an usher in a theater. . . Fight Announcer Harry Balogh has a tough time pleasing his rival bosses. At the Hippodrome he wears a dinner jacket, per orders. At the Garden he does not wear a dinner jacket, per orders. . . Tex Rickard, who built the Miami Beach dog track, died the night it opened.

Bookies who squawked all summer about how tough the grind was in New York are having easier going at Miami. About 25 of the better known price makers are assembled there and, although Tropical Park is decorated with numerous signs prohibiting bookmaking, a whisper, a wink or a gesture does wonders. . . The best prospect on the N. Y. U. frosh basketball team is Bobby Lewis, who played for the championship DeWitt Clinton high quintet. His brother Normie is co-captain of the Violet fencing team. . . Johnny Kilbane, former featherweight champion, is active in promoting amateur boxing in Cleveland. . . That town, by the way, is erecting a new 16,000-seat indoor arena and plans to be represented in the big time hockey and pro football leagues next year.

Springfield college has instituted community singing between the halves of its basketball games. . . Basketball, incidentally, seems to breed iron men. Johnny Moir, leading scorer of the Notre Dame team which will attempt to repeat against N. Y. U. in New York in February, broke his jaw in a recent contest. One game later he was starring against Northwestern. . . Boxing's latest mystery is—"Who snatched the pen with which the signing was done for the Braddock-Schmeeling match?" It belonged to Deputy Commissioner Joe McOwen and when last seen was in the hand of the Garden matchmaker.

Gehrig Wants to Spike Myth About Fondness for Eels

Lou Gehrig wishes someone would spike that eel legend. Says he hates the damn things, never did like 'em and that everywhere the Gehrigs go the hostess invariably comes up with a special dish of 'em. . . They say Frankie Frisch traded Rip Collins because he observed the fellow climbing up into the press box one day, clad in uniform and clamoring for a chance to get off his story to a Rochester newspaper. . . Is there some more bad feeling on the Red Sox because Business Manager Collins went over Field Manager Cronin's head to appoint Bing Miller as coach? . . . Lew Young, six foot six inch center, has resigned from the Wyoming university basketball team in the strong Rocky Mountain conference. Said he "needed a better job" in order to continue in school.

Would an investigation reveal that Schmeeling's end of the forthcoming purse already has been assigned to a New York promoter? Not, of course, to avoid surrendering the $25,000 good faith forfeit the State Athletic Commission has demanded. . . Dr. Thurman B. Rice, director of health education in Indiana high schools, says that basketball is being overemphasized in his state. Also says this is resulting in a neglect of other sports and is a condition that will carry over into adult life. . . Sixteen different jockeys won the first 16 races at Tropical Park. . . The Giants' Horace Stoneham, youngest of big time baseball club presidents, once was a mechanic at an auto race track.

Sunday School Lesson

International Sunday School Lesson for Jan. 17, 1937

Lesson Text—John 4:7-26.

Golden Text: "Whoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst"—John 4:14.

Our lesson last Sunday recorded a conversation which Jesus had with one of the most important men of his day, Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews and a Pharisee. The appeal of the gospel to people of all stations of life is shown further in the lesson for today which records his conversation with and conversation of one of the very lowest creatures which Jesus might have come in contact with, a woman of Samaria.

There were several very distinct reasons why she would have been considered too low for Jesus to have cared for. First, she was a Samaritan, and the Jews despised the Samaritans and would have nothing to do with them. Second, she was a woman and a rabbi was not supposed to talk with a woman on the street, not even his own wife. And, third, she was a woman open immoral, having had five husbands and at that hour, was living with a man who was not her husband.

However, Jesus overcame the prejudices of sex, nation and station in life and, using a figure of speech in which she and all inhabitants of that country were intensely interested began a conversation which resulted in lifting her from a life of sin into a position where she could testify so fervently that many others were led to a faith and belief in Jesus as the Messiah.

Tired after a long walk from Judea to Galilee, Jesus sat down by the well of Jacob while his disciples went to the nearby town of Sychar to buy food. While Jesus rested, a woman of Samaria came to the well to draw water. Jesus courteously asked for a drink of water to the great surprise of the woman, who, of course knew the feeling of hate between the Jews and the Samaritans.

Water in that country was one of its greatest needs, consequently was greatly prized. Women of the family often walked long distances in the late afternoons to bring the necessary water to the home for the following day. Thus, when Jesus spoke of "living water" he spoke of something that was of deepest interest to the woman to whom he spoke.

When the woman expressed her surprise that a Jew had asked a favor of a Samaritan, Jesus answered: "If thou knewest the gift of God, and who it is that sayeth to thee, Give me to drink, thou wouldest have asked him, and he would have given thee living water."

Seeing that Jesus had no rope or vessel with which to draw water from the well, the woman asked how it was that he could supply her with water, was he greater than Jacob, who dug the well by which they talked? Jesus answered by explaining the difference between the water which she could give him and the water which he could supply. The physical thirst could be quenched with water from Jacob's well but he who drank would thirst again, while he who drinks the "living water" which Jesus supplies shall never thirst again—he shall be contented. The water, taken into ourselves, shall become a part of us, strengthening us and helping us in our daily lives. If it does not do this, then we have not partaken of the "living water" which Jesus offers us.

In order to help the woman farther, Jesus delves down deeper into her inner life, allowing her to convict herself of sin and showing her that Jesus was one endowed by God with a knowledge of things withheld from ordinary men. When Jesus asks her to go and call her husband and bring him to him, the woman stated that she had no husband, to which Jesus revealed his knowledge of her life, that she had had five husbands and the man with whom she was living was not her husband.

Attempting to change the subject, she asked Jesus to settle the long standing dispute between the Jews and the Samaritans as to the right place in which to worship. Jesus then pointed out that God may be worshipped anywhere, the place not mattering nearly so much as the manner in which the worshipper worships. He said, "God is a spirit and they that worship him must worship in spirit and truth."

He then reveals a truth to woman which he had not told the Jews as yet when he says, in answer to her statement that the Messiah when He came would settle all such disputes, "I that speak unto thee am he (the Messiah)." That the Samaritan woman accepted this statement as undeniable was evidenced by her action recorded in the larger lesson, in which she went back to Sychar and begged her townsmen to "Come, see a man, who told me all things that ever I did." Through her testimony many believed in Christ.

Thus we see that Jesus, instead of resting, used this casual meeting with a despised woman and a subject which was of deep interest to her, to convict this woman of sin, to a belief in and acceptance of him as the Messiah and giver of eternal life and so enthused her with joy and her regeneration that she became a witness to "those things which she had seen and heard," winning others to Jesus.

COMMON CAUSES OF HEADACHES

With our irregular mode of living and abundance of food supplies very few of us get by without occasional headaches. Most headaches are loss of time. If we were all more watchful of our diet and lived on more simple foods including vegetables and fresh fruits lessening the work of our digestive organs making it more simple for the body to eliminate waste products, many of the common headaches would be eliminated.

Sarah Ann's Cooking Class

More and more fish are being eaten as we learn how to market and cook them; and nowhere is good cookery more important than in fish dishes. The right garnish or sauce or both and the combination of foods with which fish is served have much to do with the popularity of fish. In the following recipes one fish may be substituted for another.

Fish Chowder
2 pounds haddock fillets
2 sliced salt pork, diced
1 onion, sliced
1 1/2 cups diced potatoes.
2 cups milk
2 teaspoons salt
Pepper
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon flour
Cut fillets in uniform pieces, not too small. Fry pork until crisp, add onion and cook until a delicate brown. Strain fat into a chowder kettle, add fish, potatoes, salt and pepper. Cover with cold water, bring to boiling point and simmer until potatoes are tender. Mix flour with a little water until smooth and add to the chowder with the milk. Bring to boiling point again and add butter. Add a few broken crackers. Serve with hot buttered cornbread, a green salad and a lemon pie.

Salmon with Celery
Parboil 1 cup of celery, cut in small pieces in salted water. Make a cream sauce of two tablespoons butter and two tablespoons flour, blend ed. Add one half cup of celery water and one half cup of evaporated milk. Season to taste. Fold in 1 small can (about 7 ounces) of salmon. Put the drained celery in a baking dish, cover with salmon. Sprinkle with buttered crumb and add a few dashes of paprika. Bake about 20 minutes until brown in oven 350 degrees. Serve with baked potatoes, broccoli and grated raw carrot and shredded cabbage salad.

Creamed Tuna Fish
Drain 1 can of tuna fish. Make two and one half cups of medium thick white sauce, seasoned with adash of curry powder, juice of one half a lemon and 2 tablespoons of pimentos. Add the tuna fish and serve hot. Serve with a vegetable salad, deviled eggs and hot biscuits.

Baked Stuffed Haddock Fillets
2 haddock fillets
1 cup dry bread crumbs
2 tablespoons boiling water
One fourth cup melted butter.
1 tablespoon chopped onion
Salt and pepper
8 slices fat salt pork
Mix crumbs, butter and chopped onion. Moisten with boiling water and season with salt and pepper. Cut the fillets (about five eighths of an inch thick) in halves, put a spoonful of the bread mixture on top of each piece of fish, then a thin slice of salt pork. Put in a baking pan with a little water and the other 2 slices of pork. Bake 50 minutes in oven 400 degrees, basting occasionally with the water in the pan. Serve with tartar sauce, parsley, potatoes, grilled tomatoes and a salad made of shredded cabbage, green peppers, shredded lettuce and bacon dressing.

5 tablespoons milk
Salt and pepper
1 cup canned or cooked fish, flaked.
2 tablespoons fat.
Mix eggs slightly, just enough to blend yolks and whites. Add milk, salt, fish and pepper. Melt fat in omelet pan and turn in the egg mixture. Pick up with a fork until the whole is of a creamy consistency. When brown underneath, fold and turn out on a hot platter. Garnish with diced beets.

Broiled F'nnan Haddie
Wash fish thoroughly. Let soak in cold water, skin side up, for one half hour. Pour off water, cover with hot water and let stand 15 minutes. Put on a hot platter, spread with butter and a little cream. Sprinkle with pepper and garnish with lemon. Serve with chilled tomatoes, cucumber and baked potatoes.

Broiled Sardines On Macaroni
Boil 1 package elbow macaroni in salted water until tender. Prevent the macaroni from settling on the bottom of the pot by dropping it so slowly into the boiling water that bubbling is continuous. Do not overcook. Drain and pour on a platter. On top place jumbo sardines, drained and broiled under the flame. Garnish with slices of tomatoes and peppers.

Creole Oyster Gumbo
2 dozen oysters
2 quarts oyster liquor
1 pint hot water
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon flour
1 white onion
Parsley, thyme and bay leaf
Salt and pepper
Put the butter into a kettle and when hot add flour. When brown, add the chopped onion and parsley. Fry these brown, then add chopped bay leaf; pour into the hot oyster liquor; then add hot water. When it comes to a boil add the drained oysters. Cook 3 minutes; take off stove and stir 1 tablespoon full into hot gumbo. Serve at once with boiled rice.

YOUNG MEN WANTED FOR NAVAL SERVICE
A number of vacancies exist at this time for enlistment in the U. S. Navy. Those applying now may be expected to be called for final enlistment within six or seven weeks. Desirable young men between the ages of 17 to 25, who can pass the required physical examination, will be enlisted as apprentice seamen and transferred to the training stations, either at Great Lakes, Chicago, or Norfolk, Va., for three months training before being sent aboard one of the ships of the U. S. fleet. The pay while in the training camp is $21 per month; after transfer to a ship a raise of to $36 per month is made. Board, room and medical attention is furnished free and an initial outfit of uniforms, worth about $80, is given to each recruit. The navy provides an excellent opportunity to learn any standard trade such as machinist, electrician, carpenter, plumber, stenographer, boilermaker, metalsmith, and many others.

Applicants must be citizens of the United States, intelligent, of good character in their community, and unmarried. Those interested in enlisting should write or call at the following stations for further information:
Naval Recruiting Station, postoffice bldg., Louisville, Ky.

SINUS TROUBLE
Sinus trouble is another contributing factor of many headaches. The sinuses are the bony cavities that open into the nose and drain secretion from the mucous membrane which are identical and continuous with the lining of the nasal passages. The obstruction of the narrow passages causing swollen tissues and retention of secretion which upon lying down at night does not drain freely is more or less the cause of morning headaches, these headaches disappearing later in the day when the secretion has a chance to drain and the nose relieved of the congestion.

WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO?

The statistics will be rather gruesome but, in a few weeks, you will hear that the year 1936 set a new record in the number of lives snuffed out on the high ways of America, where millions of sensible citizens pursue the great god Speed, when they sit behind a steering wheel.

If all the editorials and all the speeches, spoken and written on the subject of highway safety, were collected in one pile the summit would probably reach the height of the bodies, collected in one heap. Neither broken bodies, sorrowing hearts or warning words have been powerful enough to stop the slaughter that takes away one hundred Americans every day.

There was a time when we believed that safety could be attained by strictly limiting the speed of vehicles but we have passed on. As long as faster cars are built there will be greater speed than before and as long as individuals delight in telling of record trips in better time the laws on the books will not stop the death list from mounting.

Laws on the books are worthless unless enforced and worse than useless if constantly ignored. The laws of the land, attempting to regulate the speed of motor vehicles, are violated so many more times than they are enforced that a speeder, caught by the law, is almost regarded as an innocent victim of circumstances. Even the driver, who kills, is given the benefit of the doubt and dismissed, too often, with the saving, "Well, everybody violates the speed laws!"

This is no effort to solve the problem, merely to impress upon readers that the problem exists. What are we going to do about it, if anything?

BAPTISTS PLANNING

Baptists of the state are looking forward to the meeting of the Kentucky Baptist Bible Conference, recently authorized by the General Association at Paducah.

The meeting is to be held in Louisville, Jan. 17-22, at the Walnut street Baptist Church, 3rd and St. Catherine streets.

The committee announces an imposing array of speakers and Conference leaders, including Dr. W. T. Conner, of Texas; Dr. Ellis Fuller, of Atlanta; Dr. J. R. Sampey, president of the Southern Baptist Convention; Dr. E. F. Haight, of New Orleans, besides several other state and Southwestern men.

The Louisville churches are throwing open their homes and several hundred state pastors are expected to be in attendance. The committee is suggesting that churches provide traveling expenses for their pastors, which will be about all their cost.

It is believed that this Bible Conference will grow into some such institution as the Winona Lake Conference of Indiana or the Northfield Conference of Massachusetts.

Dr. Finley F. Gibson is host pastor, and Dr. E. C. Stephens is general chairman of the meeting.

CONSIDER YOUR PROBLEMS

The average person, at times, stops to ponder on the problems of life and very often arrives at a conclusion that would lead to considerable improvement if it was logically followed through.

We hasten to advise all readers of The Times not to give too much attention to the perplexing mysteries of the universe and the manifold misbehavior of mankind. Time is rather important and it is more sensible to give such thought as you have available to the solution of the problems affecting your own life and within the range of your own capacity to correct.

There are many men and women who swing thru life with the idea of nothing to worry about, that what is will always be and that somehow the family will take care of itself. While this philosophical calm might be comfortable it is not entirely sensible. It would be much better for people to concern themselves with the development of their own personalities, the solution of questions raised in daily touch with others and attempt seriously to fit themselves in the day and age in which they live.

There is no magic formula for accomplishing this. Each man and woman, each boy and girl, have different problems and must arrive at the goal thru various methods. Your method might not be the same as that adopted by another and yet both may seek the same destination. Try to make progress yourself and encourage others to do the same. It is the way to live.

CHILDREN'S DAY

A good old custom that grew up in the Sunday school was Children's day, a custom that I have not observed in many years, though I am told that it still exists in some parts of the state. I recently asked my freshman class how many had said pieces in a Children's Day exercise, only to discover that not one of the 37 in the class had ever seen such a program. Evidently the custom is going the way of many another fine thing. After it had been in existence for a generation or two, it broke into our small neighborhood. Of course, our little church had to celebrate. The teacher of the country school was instructed to plan a program and put it on. I was in the lanky, skin ny age at that time and was fond of Sunday school because the church stood near a creek where I could lay before and after the services. Someone thought I could sing and so put me up to lead the small children in a song called "Remember the Sabbath Day." In order to make it thoroughly in accord with the occasion, the director asked a little girl of the neighborhood to play the organ as an accompaniment to the young chorists. She could play the song only in a high key, a mile or so above where it was written. Consequently, I was the only one who could make the high notes, but the others joined in after I had screamed a few bars alone. I can still do my place.

EASTERN TO OFFER SPECIAL MUSIC WORK

Richmond, Ky., Jan. 11—Last summer Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College, as a special feature of the first summer term, offered five weeks of music instruction to High School students in the form of a music camp. About 100 High School students from 13 Kentucky counties and 4 other states took advantage of this training. They were housed in special sections of the regular college dormitories and received their meals at a private dining room operated in connection with the college cafeteria.

Including this work in the summer school program last year was an experiment; but because of the enthusiastic way in which it was received by high school music people, Dr. H. L. Donovan, president of Eastern Teachers College, and the members of the musical faculty have decided, according to college officials, to make this high school music training a permanent part of the summer course. The music instruction for high school students will be offered during the first summer term of this year, which begins June 14 and ends July 17. In order that no good high school musician may be denied this instruction because of a lack of funds, the college authorities have decided to charge only the actual cost of board, entertainment and a small incidental fee. Prof. Henry Schnabel, director of bands at Eastern, will be in charge of all music instruction for high school students. Before joining the Eastern music faculty in September, 1936, Prof. Schnabel was director of the Portsmouth, O., high school band. Under his direction the Portsmouth organization won several state and national honors. His wide experience with high school music camps makes him an ideal person to direct the Stephen Collins Foster Music Camp at Eastern Teachers College.

The entire music faculty will assist Mr. Schnabel in working out the music program for the high school students. In addition to music instruction, a complete program of recreational and social activities under the direction of the physical education staff will be provided for those students who are enrolled for the music camp.

Hearty Eaters

If certain celebrities really ate what legend says they did, the wonder is that they managed to do so much work. Dumas, they say, was insulted if offered less than three steaks for a meal. Balzac consumed 100 oysters, a dozen lamb cutlets and a sole or two at a sitting. But don't feel inferior if you require only a ham sandwich for lunch. Isaac Newton lived on a scanty diet of bread, water and vegetables.

Kindness and Self Control

Through all the ages, want of self control has continued to bring down sorrow and suffering upon this sad old world. Men are no nearer self mastery today than they were five thousand years ago. You cannot glance over a newspaper but you can find many records of brutal, unjustifiable killings.

He who lacks self control easily flies into a passion, which generates poison in his system so rapidly that his judgment is warped as completely for the time being as though he were under the influence of alcohol or some other equally pernicious and powerful drug.

Prof. Gates performed many experiments to discover the effect of anger upon the body. He found that the perspiration of an angry man on being treated with a chemical reagent, showed a certain color: that of a man in grief another. All these experiments indicated that each mental state always gave the same color reaction. They that emotions affect the blood, and hence the whole body. Gates condensed the breath of several different individuals. From angry persons a brownish precipitate was obtained which he administered to men and animals. It caused great stimulation and excitement, even killing small guinea pigs. He says that "every emotion of a false and disagreeable nature produces poisons in the blood and cell tissues."

In an old medical book, it related that a strong, vigorous, well developed young mother, rather of the bovine type, had a baby that was quite as healthful as herself. Something occurred that threw the mother into a violent fit of rage. Shortly after, she nursed her hungry infant. The child was thrown into convulsions and died within a few hours. The best authorities asserted that the milk killed the child. The poisons generated in her blood by her fit of anger were secreted in her milk. Similar circumstances have been observed, even among animals.

Men little realize what a force for good or evil thought is. "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." Want of self control, anger, and disagreeable emotions poison the body and injure the mind. If children were taught that it is disgraceful to give way to temper, much regret and sorrow in after life would be avoided in after life. Teach them that kind thoughts give rise to kind deeds. If they are taught to love their fellow men, and the helpless, defenseless animals it would incline them toward gentleness and justness.

Few things are more conducive to self control than real kindness of heart. If boys and girls could experience the joys of hunting the birds and wild, shy things with cameras instead of guns, we would see less crime and fewer murders in our country. A new era of peace on earth, good will to all of God's creatures would be ushered in. They would grow away from many of the savage instincts that persist in spite of mere literary education.

What the human race needs is a baptism of kindness and self control. Peace, love and goodness would reign on the earth, instead of hate, misery and discontent.

Home Living Crops Increase

The almost universal tendency to plant crops for home consumption is clearly brought out in comparison with the number of farms in the recent enumeration reporting vegetables and the acreage devoted to them with statistics of the 1930 census.

THE TIMES SNAPSHOTS

A different type of coronation—This pretty girl was crowned Potato Queen of Michigan in celebration of a $27,000,000 bumper potato crop.

Despite the drouth, which destroyed material acreages of all of these crops, there was a marked advance in the number of farms reporting these items: for example, 3, 100,000 farms raised Irish potatoes in 1934 against 2,982, 000 in 1929, and for sweet potatoes more than 1,750,000 farmers reported as compared with 1,126,000 at the previous census. This same general situation will be found by comparison in the number of farms reporting each of the vegetables enumerated. The respective acreages disclose an exactly similar trend, notwithstanding the drouth which materially reduced the harvested acreage in many of the main producing states. In crops other than the vegetables, it will be found to exist in such crops as sugar cane, which is planted for home production of syrup and in the farms reporting major classes of fruits. It may be followed still farther into items covered in other agricultural releases, such as the number of farms reporting owning cows milked, butter churned, and pigs and chickens raised. The entire crop situation might be stated in a nut shell as follows: The huge reductions in cash crop acreages were brought about by seasonal weather conditions and by planned readjustments, the land so released going into crops for soil improvement for feed for the human and animal population of farms. Hard times, low prices of crops during the period, and the inability to purchase contributed to the necessity for raising as many as possible of the things needed on the farm.

Girl Gets Pointers on Balking Prison Release

Oklahoma City, Okla. — Lea M. Nichols, chairman of the state board of affairs, was dubbed the Solomon of the board after he disposed of a knotty problem that had the other members baffled. A girl in the state penitentiary appealed to the board to be allowed to complete her sentence of a year. She hoped the added time would be sufficient to effect the cure of an ailment. But the law said she had to go. Time off for good behavior had reduced her term to a little more than seven months. Nichols had a happy thought. He told the girl: "Go out and have a fight with one of the inmates and you will lose your good behavior time. Then you can stay the year out." She took a swing at a fellow prisoner and precipitated a scuffle. Her good behavior time was withdrawn and she can finish out the year.

To stop Mike from picking up discarded cigars and cigarettes, Mrs. Olexik said, she had to buy the boy a package of cigarettes every few days. Hospital authorities have been adamant. SYNOPSIS

Kezia Marsh, pretty, selfish and twenty, arrives home in Corinth from school and is met by her older brother, Hugh. He drives her to the Marsh home where her widowed mother, Fluvanna, a warm-hearted, self-sacrificing and understanding soul, welcomes her. Kezia's sister, Margery, plump and matronly with the care of three children, is at lunch with Hugh's wife, Dorrie, who has pleaded a previous engagement. On the way back to his job at the steel plant founded by one of his forefathers, Hugh passes Doc Miller, a boyhood friend whom he no longer sees frequently because of Dorrie's antipathy. Fluvanna Marsh wakens the next morning from a dream about her late husband, Jim, whose unstable character she fears Kezia has inherited. Soon Ellen Penleton comes over. She is an artistically inclined girl who is a distant niece of Fluvanna's and a favorite of Hugh's. She happily tells Fluvanna she has become engaged to Jerry Purdue.

"I'm telling you first, before anyone," the girl went on. "I can tell you things, Fluvanna—you understand. I'm exquisitely—divinely happy! Why, Jerry—" she shook her head, murmured: "It's beyond words—the feeling. I never thought anything so nice would happen to me!" "All nice things should happen to you, Ellen!" "I wish Mother were as easy to tell things to as you, Fluvanna." She gave a rueful smile. "She won't be pleased—nor Father. It will be hard—that part—the telling them. Perhaps I'll wait a while." Fluvanna called up the stairway. "Ellen is here. Hurry down, Kezia." Ellen returned with the flowers arranged in vases. "I mustn't stay for breakfast. I went out early painting in the ravine and left word that I'd be back by breakfast time. She'll worry. I'll stay until I see Kezzie. Nice to have her home, isn't it? Not so lonely for you." Fluvanna nodded. "Very nice. And I'd have been much lonelier if a certain person hadn't been very kind about coming often." "I? . . . Puff! I loved coming . . . you're just fascinating to me. I never get tired of being with you—perhaps fascinating isn't the word." She sat down on the davenport beside Fluvanna. "I told Jerry I could tune in with you. He understood. He understands everything." Fluvanna patted her hand. "So all this happiness came to you last night? May I tell Kezia?" Ellen laughed. "I don't mind. And Hugh—do tell Hugh. He's an understanding sort of person, my favorite cousin among hundreds!" The older woman knew she was getting pleasure out of her naive confession so she encouraged her. "You met Jerry in April?" "Oh, no—last fall. I've seen something of him for a long time. He would come—then stay away. You see, he thought his family would matter. His father is a roller in the mill and his uncle runs a cigar store. He said he couldn't bring them to meet us and all the relations—you and the Renshaws, the Woods, the Moffats, the Debarrys—we are an awful crowd, you know. Not that he's ashamed of his people! He says they are plain, nice people, saved to send him to school in the East . . . he's very proud of them . . . just thought it wouldn't do." "Afraid to let himself go because your father has money?" Ellen nodded, then said in a low voice: "I told Jerry that the fact that he loved me meant everything—more than money, more than family. It seems to me that when two people love each other, they give the most priceless possession—something greater than anything in the world." Fluvanna kissed her impulsively. "You are a sweet child—and a very wise one." A silence, then Ellen rose. "I must be going." "Wait. Kezia will be down in a moment. She asked me to call her early because she's playing tennis." She went to the stairway. "Coming, Kezia? . . . Ellen is in a hurry." She heard Kezia murmur to herself before she replied: "A few minutes." In a little while Anna announced that breakfast was getting cold. Ellen started toward the door, the rainbow expression of her face faintly clouded. "I really must be running along. Tell Kezia I'm sorry—some other time!" She had scarcely started her car in the street and moved off, when Kezia came downstairs. Her arms stole around Fluvanna's neck. "Alma Mater," she murmured caressingly. Then she said with silky vindictiveness: "What was Ellen after at this hour in the morning—a worm?" "Kezia!" "I know—wanted to see what I was doing today and make plans! She doesn't need to think I intend to go around with her all the time." Fluvanna took a drink of coffee. "Why do you think such unpleasant things? You played together a great deal when you were small. Wouldn't it be just as easy to think she was fond of you, wanted to welcome you home?"

Kezia sulked for a minute. Then she broke a piece of toast, crumbled it thoughtfully. "I suppose I might have come down." Her mother smiled as she saw victory in sight. Kezia was ashamed of her action, but had had to defend it. "She has a tough time at home. No wonder she comes here so much. Cousin Gavin is too nervous to allow the radio to be played when he's in the house, and her mother, pretentious and calculating, nagging the life out of her—what a mother!" shuddered Kezia. "I have no reason to be envious of Ellen. If a man goes romantic over her—they think of Lizzie for a mother-in-law—then it's good-bye Ellen!" She sat there, her eyes dreamy and misted. "I'm so mean," she faltered, "and you're so good to me! Oh, Mother, how do you put up with me?"

Fluvanna was moved, as she always was when Kezia was penitent and misty-eyed, even though she knew it did not hinder her from doing the same thing over again directly. The girl rose in a sudden whirlwind and came around to her chair, laid her cheek against hers. "I know I'm horrid!" Charming, emotional and impulsive—like Jim. Her heart plunged with misgiving for Kezia, a vague anxiety. She caressed her automatically. Kezia went back to her chair. "Be nice to her when she comes again—or, better still, telephone her." "I will," Kezia nodded between bites. "I'll telephone her this noon. Pete told me about this Purdue she has been going with—very smooth looking—like Ronald Colman. They're all betting it won't last a month!" "I wouldn't be too sure." Kezia looked up quickly. "H-m-m-m, have you a scoop?—she tell you anything?" "Not for the public yet. So keep it secret." "No?" Kezia's brows went up. "Well, is that a headline! Ellen put it over! Cheers for Ellen!" Kezia rose from the table. "I'll breeze around there after I get through playing tennis and ask her to bring him over some night soon." She dropped a kiss on her mother's hair. "I'll tell her that while I'm immersed in the halls of learning, she grabs off the best-looking man in town!"

CHAPTER II The back yard lawn of the Hugh Marshes was veiled in the translucent light which comes just before darkness. The west was a faint saffron streaked with mauve; birds talked in sleepy twitterings; a wood dove cooed in a willow. Dorrie reclined on a wicker chaise longue and Hugh sat near her smoking a pipe. Hugh's eyes were on the arabesque pattern of the trumpet vine. Dorrie allowed the evening paper to drift to the ground. "Hugh, I'm constitutionally lazy." "M-m-m." "Aren't you interested? Did you hear what I said?" "That you are lazy? Yes, I heard. I don't know what we can do about it." She shrugged and a curling smile that he never liked to see crept around her mouth. "It means nothing that you have a lazy wife?" "You make pretty things for the house—curtains, cushions. Your clothes—you spend a lot of time sewing." "But that's what I like to do! I mean I'm lazy because I don't do the things I ought to—but don't want to! You see there's a distinction." "I'm not complaining." His mind slipped away to the plant. If they landed the Cincinnati order and the one from Dayton it would keep them running all through June, when there would be a natural recession. They hadn't done badly for a small plant, considering conditions. "You're not thinking about me!" said Dorrie sharply. "Who else?" He knocked the ashes out of his pipe. "If I think about the business, it's for you, isn't it?" "I'm trying to make a confession, but you won't listen." His left brow went up in its humorous twinkle. "What's bothering your conscience?" "I should have your family here once in a while. We're always being invited to your relatives'. It's one of the things I ought to do, but don't want to." "You mean you don't care for my family?" "I don't care for many people, do I?" she tossed back, smiling. "No; but I thought you and Mother—" "I'm fond of your mother. She has an extraordinary effect on me. Makes me feel good inside and out—like a steam bath and a soothing oil rub by a Swedish masseur." "Gosh, Dorrie!" "Margery, since she has those children, doesn't talk my language. I can't get passionate over croup and adenoids and spinach, can I? But Kezia has a streak of wickedness I understand. Fun to watch her maneuver her own purposes."

Simple, Practical Frocks

WHERE, oh where is the feminine wardrobe that wouldn't take on momentum through the addition of just these three simple, wearable frocks? Surely like the Model T, it would be hard to find. And the thrilling thing—the important feature—is that these frocks are planned and patterned exclusively for the modern woman who sews—for you, a member of The Sewing Circle. Pattern 1914 is a house dress with a future. It is young and practical. The new notched collar, ending as it does in twin scallops below the yoke line, gives the waist front balance and brightness. The bodice is slightly fluted to make this a comfortable style to work in as well as one that is attractive to look at. The skirt is slim lined and simple—as you would have it. Use dimity, dotted swiss or gingham for this number. Designed for sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3 3/4 yards of 35 inch material. Pattern 1989 is the polite young model caught with its back this way, perhaps the better to show off the beautiful shoulders and chicest-of-chic descending lines. You'll run-up this frock in short order but you'll wear it endlessly and with that happy confidence which only a style with distinction can give. Make it of raspberry wool crepe and trim the collar, cuffs and hem with royal blue. Pattern 1989 comes in sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 (32 to 42 bust). Size 16 requires 3 yards of 54 inch material with 5 yards of braid for trimming. Pattern 1206 is a most attractive newcomer to the blouse 'n' skirt category. An alliance of this sort brings glamour and romance to the gay wearer. Gold or silver metallic cloth, or perhaps shimmering satin for the blouse with a skirt of velvet will make a million dollar outfit. Make it yours in a couple of hours. It is available in sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 (32 to 42 bust). Size 16 requires 2 1/2 yards or 39 inch material for the blouse and 2 1/2 yards for the skirt. The blouse with long sleeves requires 2 3/4 yards 39 inches wide. A detailed sewing chart accompanies each pattern to guide you every step of the way. Send for the Barbara Bell Fall and Winter Pattern Book containing 100 well-planned, easy-to-make patterns. Exclusive fashions for children, young women, and matrons. Send fifteen cents in coins for your copy. Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Patterns 15 cents (in coins) each. Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.
