SEWER PROJECT APPROVED; ORDERS RECEIVED HERE

Pipe Purchased For Fill On Second; To Replace Bridge

$50,000 INVOLVED

Purchase orders for materials, equipment and tools are being handled in the local W. C. office, for a $50,000 drainage and improvement project for Prestonsburg, recently approved.

The project embraces a large storm sewer line running from "Yellow Town" down Westminster street thru to Second and Ford street and from there to the river back of Main street. Paving of Ford and Westminster streets has been at a standstill pending approval of the sewer project.

This project also covers sewers in the upper part of town along Riverside and along the highway. One of the lines will drain the swamp in that part of town.

Mayor A. C. Carter announced this week that the culvert pipe had already been purchased for the Second street fill to replace the bridge that has been condemned for approximately eight years. This fill will be similar to the one on Carter Boulevard between Court and Dingus streets. The bridge has been closed to traffic for some time.

This work will start in the immediate future. No estimate of the number of men to be employed was obtained this week.

Work is being started in West Prestonsburg this week on remainder of the paving designated for the section of Prestonsburg across the river. Mayor Carter stated that a new concrete mixer, much needed for the furtherance of the work that has been underway, has been purchased and that men are ready to start pouring concrete.

The Mayor said that $500 in subscriptions was still lacking to finish paying for the mixer, and that the citizens should tender their money for this purpose this week.

WOMAN'S CLUB HEARS DR. O. T. STEPHENS

The Prestonsburg Woman's Club met in its regular monthly session Thursday night, Feb. 14 at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Joe Hobson, with Mrs. E. P. Arnold, Mrs. S. C. Ferguson, Mrs. S. R. Auxier and Miss Virgie McComb acting as co-hostesses.

The program was in charge of Mrs. J. D. Mayo, chairman of Public Welfare. The cancer control program as outlined by the woman's field army was given by Mrs. Mayo, preliminary to a most enlightening talk made by Dr. O. T. Stephens on cancer. In this talk Dr. Stephens emphasized the early symptoms of cancer, early treatment and frequent examinations in order to bring about early cure for cancer.

Mr. F. A. Maggard, supervisor of the fifth district of NYA, told the women of the activities of NYA in Kentucky, the amount of assistance the local clubs could be to NYA, and the benefit derived by the community by giving further education and employment to the youth.

GARRETT STUDENT COUNTY CHAMPION

Wins Spelling Bee Second Time; Prestonsburg Girl Runner-Up

Two and one-half hours of competitive spelling at the graded school auditorium here Saturday, Feb. 6 resulted in Jewel Pritchard, 12 years old, being declared Floyd county spelling champion for the second consecutive year. Miss Pritchard was crowned champion in last year's contest.

Miss Pritchard is a seventh-grade pupil in Garrett consolidated schools. Her brother won the contest in 1935. They are children of Mr. and Mrs. James Pritchard, of Garrett. Her teacher is Lewis Campbell.

Margerilla Branham, eighth grade student of the Prestonsburg school, was runner-up, taking second place. Miss Branham is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ballard Branham, of Prestonsburg.

The word "registered" was the stumbling block to the runner-up. Fifteen were entered in the contest.

As first prize, the winner receives, for her and her teacher, a free trip to Louisville and

FUNERAL THURS. FOR WAYNE ALLEN TRAIN VICTIM

Body Discovered Tuesday Morning; Member of Prominent Family

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Besco schoolhouse for Wayne Allen, age 46, who was found dead on the C. and O. railroad tracks, near Midas, Ky., on Right Beaver. Body of the victim was discovered by a railroad track walker at 8:45 Tuesday morning.

The victim was badly mutilated, almost beyond recognition, it was stated. He was found a short distance from home midway between his home and the railroad tunnel nearby. At the time of the discovery, a battery hand lantern, probably used by Mr. Allen was still burning. The Times was told.

Mr. Allen was prominently known throughout this section and was a member of one of Floyd county's oldest families. He was the son of the late Jacob Allen and Mrs. Jacob Allen. In 1915 he was married to Mallie Craft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Craft, Paris, Ky. To this union were born nine children.

He had been employed by the Inland Gas Company to purchase right-of-way and to take leases in this section of the state.

He leaves a host of friends, relatives and business associates who mourn his untimely death.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Mallie Allen; eight sons, Wayne Volney, Clarence E., Alfred, Harry G., Robert N. and Maurice R.; one daughter who preceded him in death; his mother, Mrs. Jacob Allen; one sister, Madge Allen; and three brothers, J. R. and Martin Allen, Midas and Ward B. Allen, Ashland, Ky.

"Primp", A "Bill Of Sale" And Lincoln On Feb. 12

Prestonsburg, Ky., May 7, 1807—the first "Bill of Sale" to be recorded here in the clerk's office at the courthouse in Floyd county was entered into the records today by Alexander Lackey, deputy clerk to Wm. J. Mayo, according to present clerk's records.

Herein is contained a copy of said "bill of sale" as appearing on record in the clerk's office:

"Know all men by these presents that I, John Irwin, of Floyd County, State of Kentucky, for and in consideration of the sum of four hundred dollars to me in hand paid, the receipt whereof I do hereby acknowledge have bargained and sold, and by these presents do bargain, sell and deliver unto Benjamin Ellis, one negro boy, 13 years of age or thereabout, named Primp, which negro boy, as above described, I do warrant and defend to the said Benjamin Ellis, his heirs and assigns forever. In witness whereof I have set my hand and seal this seventh day of May and year of our Lord 1807."

REGIONAL MEET SITE HERE; FOURTH STRAIGHT YEAR

District Basketball Tournament Is Voted to Lackey For March 5-6

School authorities here were notified on Friday, Feb. 5, that the 15th regional tournament would be held in Prestonsburg gymnasium on March 11, 12 and 13. This is the fourth consecutive year Eastern Kentucky teams have awarded the local citizenry the tournament.

The winner and runner-up from each of the four districts will compete in the tourney here. The district tournaments are to be held at Lackey, Virgie, Paintsville and West Liberty on March 5-6. The schedules of the district and regional tourneys are pending a drawing to be held by representatives of the competing teams.

One of the largest district meets to be held in the region will take place at Lackey with at least nine teams to enter. Those will probably be Lackey, Maytown, Garrett, McDowell, Martin, Wheelwright, Prestonsburg, Betsy Layne and Auxier school teams. It is not understood this week whether Ebunanza and Wayland will enter the tournament or not.

The Inez Indians have won the regional tournament here for the past three years and barring any upsets in the district tournament at Paintsville will be here to attempt to make it four years in succession.

The gym floor was recently refinished at an approximate cost of $150. It is to be treated with a commercial product, similar to that used on large university gym floors, to make the floor non-slippery. Other minor alterations are underway this week in preparation for one of the most successful tournaments ever held here.

Here From Frankfort

F. A. Maggard, NYA representative, of Frankfort, Ky., spent several days here this week.

CHARLES ELLIS

Recorded by ALEXANDER LACKEY, D C F C C

Don't let the above fool you—look at the date line—but this bit of record of "Primp" is on file today, February 12, 1937, in the office of Banner Meade, county court clerk, at the courthouse here.

Today the majority or most notable of "bills of sale" involve automobiles, for similar amounts, in the county clerk's everyday records.

Today, also, we are celebrating the birth of a great Kentuckian, Abraham Lincoln, who became president and eventually freed the slaves after the states suffered bitter strife. At the head of the Confederacy, opposing President Lincoln's views, courageously enough, was Jefferson Davis, another Kentuckian. Primp, according to the records, if he lived that long, was near 70 years of age in 1863, when the Emancipation Proclamation was issued from Lincoln's office. The first slave sold in Floyd county, Primp, had served his life as a slave before the nation accepted the abolition of slavery.

DAVID COOLEY DIES MONDAY, FEBRUARY 8

David Cooley, age 41 years of Garrett, Ky., died Monday, Feb. 8, after an illness of several weeks due to pneumonia which developed into tuberculosis.

He was the son of the late James and Sally Banks Cooley. He was one of Floyd county's best citizens and well liked by all who knew him. He was a member of one of Floyd county's most prominent families. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lena Bosse Cooley and five children, Loureatha, age 15, Hattie Irene, 12, James 10, Robert Greenville, 9, Joe Arnold, 6, all at home.

He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. James Baisden, of Lenore, W. Va., and two brothers, Greenville and Arnold Cooley, of Water Gap, Ky.

Funeral services were conducted from the home Tuesday, Feb. 9, by Rev. Ben Craft and Rev. Joe Laferty. Burial was made in the family cemetery on Bull Creek under the direction of E. P. Arnold.

SAFETY COUNCIL AT COURTHOUSE

Met Feb. 10; Official Aid Assured On Traffic Violations

A meeting of the Safety Council was held at the courthouse here Wednesday, Feb. 10 at 8 p. m., to discuss means of bringing about law enforcement for traffic offenders.

Those present were Mrs. Regina Mayo, district chairwoman of Safety, representing the Woman's Club; O. C. Hall, commonwealth's attorney; Mayor A. C. Carter, of Prestonsburg; B. L. Sturgill, Floyd county jailer; Charles Milby, Wiwan's delegate, and Mrs. Grace D. Ford, D. A. R. delegate.

Commonwealth's Attorney Hall, in pledging his assistance to the state police whenever a case was brought to his attention, said that these were three casualty deaths to every natural death. He said that he would further solicit the aid of the state military police.

Jailer Sturgill told the council that "the welfare of our citizens is in the hands of our officers and local demands should be placed upon them to punish the law violators according to the offense."

Mayor Carter promised that local traffic offenders would be penalized.

Mr. Milby, who is constantly on the road as a driver expressed the opinion that every drunken driver should be penalized.

Matters pertaining to the coming year's work of the district posts will be discussed at a series of sessions to be held at the courthouse. Clyde Sanders, of Pikeville, district commander, will preside at the conference. Officials of Floyd Post No. 129 said that state officers are expected here for the conference.

Feathering Foes' Arrows

To ruminant upon evils, to make critical notes upon injuries, and to be too acute in their apprehensions, is to add unto our own tortures, to feather the arrows of our enemies, and to resolve to sleep no more; for injuries, long dreamt on, take away at last all rest.—Sir Thomas Browne.

If You Have a Child

ASK YOUR DOCTOR THIS

Ask Him Before Giving Your Child an Unknown Remedy

Practically any doctor you ask will warn: "Don't give your child unknown remedies without asking your doctor first."

When it comes to the widely used children's remedy—"milk of magnesia," the standard of the century is established. For over half a century many doctors have said "PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia." Safe for children. No other is "quite like it."

Keep this in mind, and say "PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA" when you buy. Now also in tablet form. Get the form you prefer. But see that what you get is labeled "Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia."

ALSO IN TABLET FORM: Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Surgeon's Neat Job on Muscles in Arm Heartens Parmelee

PLENTY of paragraphs for the price of one: Roy Parmelee writes that the Cards made him very happy when they traded him to the Cubs last fall.

The big pitcher adds that he recently spent an hour and a half on the operating table while a surgeon tinkered with two muscles which had grown together on his pitching arm. Now the wing feels swell and Parmelee is sure that at last he is going to live up to all those bright predictions Giant fans once made for him. . . . Skippy Bartell, three or four-year-old son of the Giant shortstop, who covered almost as much ground in the grand stand last summer as the old man did in the infield, is recovering nicely from an appendicitis operation.

Walter Kelley, bright Brooklyn lad who trains horses, is proudest of a gee-gee named Idle Midget who dotes on drinking pop out of a bottle. . . . Trainer Hirsch Jacobs is having the picture of Image, his greatest horse, engraved on a set of dinner plates. . . . Leo M. Shea, versatile Florida racing judge, also is an able fight referee. . . . Mrs. Ethel D. Mars expects a lucky 1937 with her two-year-olds, which cost more than $100,000 at Saratoga sales. All of them are reported doing well. . . . Just to prove that times do change a church magazine asked for, and received, two working press badges for the Tropical Park race meeting.

Basketball Men Unexcited Over Zone Defense Squawk Experienced basketball men are paying little attention to recent screams about the zone defense ruining the game. One member of the rules committee points out that this type of defense is almost as old as the game itself and capable coaches always have been able to find a way to offset it without pleading for new laws to make things easier for them. . . . Incidentally, here is a tip-off concerning the difference in rules in various sections of the country. At a recent Butler-Indiana game in Indianapolis it was announced that play would be according to "Big Ten Rules." The only way "Big Ten Rules" differ from other college rules is that the winning team takes home the ball.

The New York American hockey team, who spent a recent week end playing in Atlantic City, still do not know whether the auditorium management was kidding them. Anyhow, the dressing room to which they were assigned was labeled "Chorus Room No. 2." . . . Lorne Chabot, the goalie, is the only member of the Americans who wears spats. In New York that makes him a sartorial exception. In Montreal and Toronto, where he lives and works when not playing hockey, that makes him a smart man. You need protection in that cold weather. . . . Joe Lamb of the Americans is such a good golfer that he finished third in the Ottawa city championship last summer.

Jimmy Mars, who toils in Madison Square Garden publicity department, was christened Vincenzo Marazza. Mayor LaGuardia hung the "Mars" tag on him. . . . Joe Higgins, the income tax collector who looks so much like Jimmy Walker, gets plenty of play now when sportsmen discuss the next Democratic Mayoralty nomination. . . . Bob Cunningham, boxing and wrestling judge who was injured several weeks ago when a wrestler dived through the ropes and landed on top of him, wishes friends would visit him at the New York hospital. . . . Devotees of the sport might very well read "Squash Rackets," the book newly penned by Johnny Skillman, who was pro champion in 1933 and 1935. . . . Another book which will shortly hit the presses is "Fundamentals of Baseball," by Moose McCormick.

During the American Bowling Congress which will be held in New York from March 9 to April 30 each team will use a new set of pins. They are carefully weighed and for the first two weeks three-pound, four-ounce pins are used. At the start of the third week the weight is increased by an ounce. After four weeks the alleys are "normal" and pins weighing six pounds, six ounces are used.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

LONG ISLAND university has dropped plans for a gridiron comeback this fall. Instead the Blackbirds will continue to devote their best athletic efforts to winning basketball games. . . . Lefty Gomez's interest in prize fights is not entirely due to that brawl he soon expects to have with the Yankees concerning his 1937 salary. He always has been a red hot boxing fan and reads every bit of available literature on the subject. . . . Bill Tilden drinks tea with seven lumps of sugar in it during those rests between tennis games. Fred Perry's favorite tipple at such times is orange juice.

Big time hockey players are not exactly billing and cooing when they meet Bill Stewart these days. They say the Chief Referee technically is a most proficient arbiter, but that he sets himself up too much as a supreme power and otherwise takes himself too seriously. . . . Benny Leonard has abandoned, at least for the present, the notion of opening a new restaurant in Madison Square Garden. . . . Ray Schalk, Everett Scott, Chuck Klein and Jimmy Dykes are a few of the baseball stars who will compete in the Bowling Congress in New York this spring. Tony Cucinello, Heinie Groh and Jimmy Archer also are giving more than a thought to the affair. . . . Ed Beckman, son of that great pro star, Johnny, now plays on the Horace Mann team. . . . Ed Stevens, the automobile man who used to jump so high for the Irish-American A. C., has a young son who thinks nothing of clearing five feet ten inches in elementary school competition.

Those wrestling warriors who threatened to rend the nation with their disputes several weeks ago now are lovey-dovey so nicely that Jack Curley may be offering his shows at the Garden soon. . . . Gordon Bennett, captain of Dartmouth's football team, also leads the hockey sextet and has won three letters in that sport. . . . There is good reason why Waiter Jack Reiger never muddles the orders at one of the town's higher class hostleries. Jack has such a good memory that he still insists the newspapers gave him none the best of the decision when he fought Boer Rodol at the Pioneer A. C. twenty-six years ago. . . . Nels Crutcheff's brother Gordon is carrying on the famous family hockey name as captain at McGill.

Dempsey Shows Fondness for Pinochle Game

Jack Dempsey likes playing pinochle even better than fighting, while his manager, Max Waxman, is a sucker for the horses. . . . Billy Cordes, who was champion bowler thirty years ago, was the first maple crasher to roll 300 in championship play. . . . Can those Philadelphia rumors be true about Lew Tender's restaurant being in the hands of a receiver? . . . The du Ponts race track at Wilmington will be ready July 1.

Bob Spessard, the six foot eight inch, 210 pound center who performed for Washington and Lee against L. I. U. on the Garden court recently, has a better scoring average than that compiled by Stanford's sensational Hank Luisetti. He averaged 16 points a game last season and in twenty minutes of one game this year he netted 32 points. . . . Dynamite George Smith, the box-office man, is a $13 a day employee at Tropical park. . . . In addition to helping Colonel Wilton Farnsworth pick all those winners John Leon also exercises his talents as an employee at the Miami dog track. . . . Jimmy Kelly, the eminent sports restaurateur, has 100 pictures of celebrities adorning his office walls. Each one of them reveals the celebrity shaking hands with, or otherwise buzzing, Jimmy.

Harvey Snyder of Columbus, Ohio, who sold his Portsmouth franchise to Detroit, probably will be elected president of the American Football league. At the same time it is likely that Jersey City will land a team in the circuit. . . . Tall basketball centers sometimes are good scorers for their opponents. In a recent Game Willard Schmidt, six foot nine inch center for the McPherson (A. A. U.) Oilers who played in the Garden last year, twice tipped the ball into the enemy's goal while trying to deflect shots. Twice more in the same game the referee allowed opponents goals when Schmidt touched the rim of the basket.

One of the fiercest of all turf feuds now is being waged in Florida between Colonel Abe Hallow and E. R. Burch. Burch, who is very close to E. R. Bradley, is recognized as general manager at Hialeah. Hallow, a stalwart upholder of the J. E. Widener ideals, is not so strong officially, but nevertheless is reported to be a shrewd behind the scenes worker. . . . When he is playing pro tennis Ellsworth Vines' shirt is adorned with a U. S. Davis cup team shield. A grotesque and non-national cat's head is embroidered on the Fred Perry garment.

Ensign Fred (Buzz) Borries, former football and basketball star at the United States Naval academy, will return to his alma mater next fall as assistant to Lieut. Harry J. Hardwick, newly appointed head football coach.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Hollywood "Rifts" and "Probes." BEVERLY HILLS, CALIF.—

Out here, our two favorite headlines are "Rift" and "Probe," one signifying that some ideal marriage between movie stars has begun to split at the seams and the other that some functionary has been in office long enough for the professional investigators to start investigating.

In between, somebody is either trying to put Sister Aimee McPherson in a hole or get Tom Mooney out of jail. So far, neither undertaking has succeeded, but folks keep right on trying. Last month, it was Sister Aimee's turn. This month it's Tom Mooney's.

But when other sources of news fail, it's fine to be able to fall back on good old reliable "Rift" and dependable, stanch old "Probe."

Poor Lo's Renaissance.

THE government says the surviving Indians are actually increasing in number. I started to add that this proves the Indians are holding their own, but, since we've left them very little of their own to hold, I stayed my hand.

The Navaho's always have been the most independent and aloof of all the tribesmen. For the most part, they continue to live a nomadic existence, following their ancient beliefs and ceremonials, refusing to be caged in towns, yet, numerically and in material possessions, they out-grow any other tribe.

Can it be that the white man's culture, which we so jealously strive to cram down the gullets of red people and black and brown and yellow, isn't always what the victims need?

But, of course, to say that is practically to admit our civilization might have a few tiny flaws in it, whereas we know it to be the one perfect creation of man, and for proof point to its crowning achievement, the late World war.

The Spoils System.

THIS isn't a criticism, it's a timid little prediction based on all the political experience that the past yields to us:

Pledges of curtailment in governmental expenditures, as emanating from White House sources, are undoubtedly sincere. But Andy Jackson or whoever it was first coined the line, expressed the correct idea when he said that to the victor belonged the spoils—and not to let them spoil too long either.

So it shouldn't surprise anybody or deeply shock anybody, except the few G. O. P. boys still scattered through congress, if Pennsylvania and Missouri and certain other states should go right on getting plenty out of the treasury for continued relief work on behalf of Senator Guffey and Mr. Pendergast and such-like benefactors of the human race. Not that the ins are any greedier than the outs; they've merely improved in sagacity since the days when nearly all the smart wolves seemed to be Republicans and nearly all the half-witted sheep seemed to be Democrats.

But Passamaquoddy might as well make up its mind to being sort of neglected from now on. Maine, she ain't been actin' right.

France's Inconsistency.

FRANCE has just lent a vast sum to Poland, and Poland, it is admitted, will use the money to increase its war strength. If Poland should repudiate the debt and default on the interest, a howl will go up from "La Belle France" that'll ring around the world.

But, of course, it will continue to remain an evidence of soulless greed for Uncle Sam even to intimate that France might pay us a little something on account against the enormous amount she owes us for borrowed money which she has used to build up her army and also, it would appear, to pass along to Poland so that Poland may build up hers.

If consistency be a jewel, France is practically out of jewelry.

Cat as Prized Weather Forecaster

On Japanese ships in the Seventeenth century the tortoise-shell tomcat was so highly prized as a weather forecaster, because it would rush up the mast before the approach of a storm, that it was often classed as a member of the crew and given a rank higher than that of the cook.—Collier's Weekly.

Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fourth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxines. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds. Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

Sunday School Lesson

JESUS THE GOOD SHEPHERD

International Sunday School
Lesson for February 14, 1937

Golden Text: "I am the Good Shepherd: the good shepherd layeth down his life for the sheep."—John 10:11

This allegory of Jesus as the Good Shepherd follows the events recorded in last week's lesson. While talking to the man whose sight he had restored and to the Pharisees who had thrown this man from the temple and excommunicated him because he would not agree with them that Jesus was a Sabbath-breaker and therefore a sinner, Jesus goes on into this week's discourse by likening the Pharisees and false leaders to thieves and robbers who would enter the fold by means other than by the door to steal the sheep.

Jesus goes into detail as to the relationship of the shepherd, the shepherd's care for his sheep and the love of the sheep for the shepherd. When those who listened failed to understand what he was talking about and the references Jesus was making to themselves, Jesus explained the allegory by declaring, "I am the door of the sheep." Dr. George Adam Smith was talking one day with a shepherd in Palestine when he pointed to a hole in the wall of the sheep-fold thru which the sheep entered and asked where was the door. "Oh," replied the shepherd, "I am the door," meaning that at night he slept with his body across the hole to prevent any harm from befalling his sheep.

Again Jesus says, "I am the door: by me (through faith) if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and go out, and shall find pasture." "The thief cometh not, but that he may steal, and kill, and destroy: I came that they may have life, and may have it abundantly." Anyone who comes to God through belief in Jesus enjoys the safety, freedom and blessing which only He can give, but the thief of unbelief and sin only enters one's heart to steal men's finer impulses, kill his hatred of sin and destroy and joy with them. There are those who think of the Christian life as a "narrow" life, shut off and secluded from all that is really enjoyable, while, as a matter of fact, the real follower of Christ has a richer physical life, a sweeter domestic life, a happier social life and a deeper spiritual life than any one else in the world. And, more than that, he has an abiding life because the believer in Christ is promised everlasting life.

Changing the metaphor in referring to himself as the "door," Jesus says, "I am the Good Shepherd," and then proceeds to draw a sharp contrast between himself as the good shepherd and the religious leaders of his day whom he refers to as "hirelings." The good might not only mean kind, but also genuine or true, in contrast to thief or hireling. The Good Shepherd's care for his sheep in good weather and in bad, sees to their every need, protects them from all harm, even to defending them at the risk of his own life and, if needs be, to laying down his life for them. The hireling, only interested in the care of the sheep because of the money he receives therefor, runs at the first approach of danger, thinking of his own life rather than that of his sheep.

Jesus again repeats, "I am the Good Shepherd," adding: "And I know mine own know me." Jesus does not look upon his followers en masse, but, as the true shepherd knows the individual markings of each of his sheep and calleth them all by name, so Jesus knows each of his followers by name and is interested in each one. Can we, who profess to be followers of the Good Shepherd, say that we truly "know him?"

Another statement made by Jesus which has a deep significance to most of us is his declaration, "And other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also must I bring, and they shall hear my voice; and they shall become one flock, one shepherd." Christ is believed to be referring here to the Gentiles, distinct from the Jews, the chosen people of God, and yet, with him equally the sheep of his fold. These Gentiles have heard the voice of Jesus, echoing down through the ages and millions have accepted and believed on him. Jesus prophesies that these "other sheep" shall become one flock, with one shepherd—the Good Shepherd. The Church of Christ is an indivisible body, with separate parts, it is true, but all with the same purpose, bound together by a common faith, a common hope and one Lord. In our golden text, Jesus declares that the Good Shepherd willingly gave his life for his sheep thus calling attention to the fact that his death on the cross, which was to come, was absolutely voluntary—no man having the power to take his life, but "I lay it down of myself." Because he died, those who believe on him shall never die.

Eggs are 66 per cent water, 13 per cent protein, 11 per cent minerals and 10 per cent fat. Therefore, feed accordingly for best laying results. Hens must eat the minerals from which eggs are made, or else not lay to capacity.

Where wood is plentiful, limestone can be burned as cheaply as it can be ground on the farm. When 15c per hour is allowed for labor and $1 per cord for wood, the cost of burning limestone usually does not exceed $2 a ton.

Seams should be as small as is suitable for the material. Patterns usually make allowances for 3-8 of an inch. If a wider seam is desired, allowance should be made for it in cutting the cloth. There are several types and variations of seams.

Chicks should remain in the incubator or shipping boxes until ready for their first feed. Care should be taken that they do not become chilled. This means that the brooder should be run a day or two in advance of their arrival, to be certain it is operating correctly.

Entered as second class matter June 18, 1927, at the postoffice at Prestonsburg, Ky., under the Act of March 3, 1879

Let's Accept the Challenge

It can be done and will be done. At least 38,000 lives are to be saved by the end of 1940, a reduction of 7 per cent a year for five years from the 'all-time high' of 36,400 lives snuffed out during 1935 by motor vehicle accidents.

What part is our city to play in this heroic campaign, announced at the beginning of the year by the National Safety Council? Our cooperation is urgently requested. It certainly is needed. Every state, every city in the Nation must contribute its share of sincere active interest and effort if the goal is to be attained.

We have confidence in the people of our community. We know they will not remain passive in the face of this challenge. We know they will acknowledge this plea for human conservation by accepting, not by shifting responsibility. Certainly it will be no burden to save valuable lives, to prevent horrible injuries and the inexcusable wasting of millions of dollars. Surely we should welcome such an opportunity.

Other cities have reduced drastically their ratio of motor vehicle accidents. The records of cities like Evanston, Ill., Milwaukee, Wis., Grand Rapids, Providence and Pittsburgh, all winners in recent years in the Council's annual National Contest, are at once a challenge and a guide. They point the way. They show what really has been done and what can be done when a community makes up its mind to reduce traffic accidents.

We can not and will not let the burden of this campaign rest with a few cities. We must not allow their good records to be stained and offset by the bad records of other cities.

Let us welcome, then, the cooperation the National Safety Council is so eager to give. The Council's formula is offered to us—along with that organization's whole-hearted cooperation—in our plans to reduce the highway accidents. It is a formula, scientifically evolved, systematically proved. It has reduced traffic deaths and injuries in other cities. It can do so here.

What is this remedy? Engineering, education and enforcement are its three cardinal principles. They are the tools. Let us use them. Let us start with engineering and then follow with enforcement and education.

Let us unite in a sincere and determined intention to contribute a generous quota in this country-wide life-saving campaign. The stakes are well worth any effort. If the objective is realized at least 38,000 of those persons who are otherwise doomed to a horrible death within the next five years, will be spared.

Generalities won't stop accidents, but specific remedies will. Let us apply these intelligent methods to our own accident problems until definite progress is achieved.

BLACKCATS LOSE BY CLOSE MARGIN

Strong Garrett Five Wins Close Game Here Saturday Night

"They came, they saw and they conquered." And yea, in the last few seconds of play, too. Garrett's rough riding Black Devils invaded the den of the Blackcats here Thursday night and copped the second meeting this season of the two teams, 25-23.

Boys' teams played heads-up basketball. In the last quarter the score was tied four times. The Black Devils led at the end of the first quarter, 4-3, at the half, 9-7, at the third quarter, 18-12. In the fourth quarter the Blackcats flashed a comeback to tie up the game. The lead changed back and forth. The score was at 23-23 with seconds to go when Bingham, of Garrett, sank a floor shot just before the final whistle.

On the same night the first game saw a bunch of Prestonsburg graded school youngsters defeat the Bosco graded school, 20-13, in a very interesting game. Following the Devil-Cat game, the Independents stowed away the Garrett Independents, 39-19.

In the high school game, Conley, of Garrett, was high point man with 10, while Carter, Blackcat forward, was second with 7 points.

The Blackcats have won three out of four games played the past week. On Wednesday night they trounced Helfer, 46-16. Saturday saw the Cats go to Auxier and win, 29-22. Friday, the night before, on the local floor a toss by Patton from near the center of the floor beat Paintsville 20-18. Patton's shot, his lone score of the game, rang true with only four seconds of the game remaining.

The line-up for the Garrett game is:

P. burg	Pos.	Garrett
Carter	F.	Conley
Prater	F.	Bingham
Craft	C.	Fitzpatrick
Patton	G.	Cains
J. Tackett	G.	Campbell

Subs: P-burg — N. Tackett, Allen, Garrett-Patton. Officials were Messer, Price and Fitzpatrick.

TEACHERS MEET

An open discussion was then held embracing the two topics. Some of those present taking part in the discussion were Miss North in charge of Pikeville Training School; Mr. Oliver, superintendent of the Pikeville city schools; and Orville Wheeler, superintendent of the Paintsville city schools.

The club voted to hold the next meeting, tentatively scheduled for March 9, at Salyersville, Ky.

SAFETY CONTROL

The Safety Council is composed of civic club delegates and others interested in curtailing the present day extent of traffic violations and reducing the high toll of traffic accidents and deaths. Some time ago, Lt. Payne, of the state police, said here that most hazards in Floyd county was the law enforcement and that, if co-operation could be secured, five patrolmen would be assigned to this county to apprehend traffic violators. The council is taking steps to assure that co-operation.

It is to be given Monday afternoon at 2:30 in the high school library and auditorium and all high school students and the general public are invited to attend and bring a silver offering.

The library and auditorium will be decorated in keeping with the season and after tea is served in the library there will be a program in the auditorium including several folk dance numbers under the direction of Miss Kathryn Stumbo.

A Valentine tea was given last year for the first time and it is hoped that this occasion will be an annual event which will help bring the school and its work in closer contact with the parents and citizens of the community. All those who are interested in the school are urged to come and bring their friends. The new books which were bought for the library this year will be in for our inspection, as well as interests.

THE 25-MILLIONTH

HAS JUST BEEN BUILT

IT HAS never occurred before in automobile history that 25 million cars of one make, bearing one name, have been manufactured under one management. The 25,000,000th Ford car rolled off the Ford Rouge Plant production line on January 18, 1937.

25 million cars since 1903... more than one-third of all the cars ever built... enough cars to transport the entire population of the United States.

The figures represent a remarkable contribution to the social welfare, the industrial stability and the general progress of our country.

People respect Ford efficiency. They know Ford uses fine materials, the best workmanship at good wages, the most exact precision measurements. They know these things are passed along to purchasers in the form of extra value. Naturally, they like to do business with such a company. That is the only reason it has been required to produce 25 million cars.

Naturally, too, they expect more of a Ford car, more this year than last year—more each year than the year before. They have every right to. The experience gained in building 25,000,000 cars enables Ford to produce today a really superb motor car at a really low price—with the Beauty, Comfort, Safety and Performance of much more expensive cars.

The 1937 Ford V-8 combines advanced design, all-steel construction, extra body room, and brilliant brakes with a choice of two V-type 8-cylinder engines—the most modern type of power-plant on land, sea, or in the air.

The 85-horsepower engine provides top performance with unusually good economy for its high power.

The 60-horsepower engine gives good performance with the greatest gasoline mileage ever built into a Ford car—and wears the lowest Ford price tag in years.

People expect more of a Ford car because it's a Ford—and they get more, for the same reason. It is undeniably the quality car in the low-price field.

CHEESE AND CRACKERS

You may talk about restaurants and cafeterias or grills or what not, but many old-timers would much prefer the county-seat grocery with its cheese and crackers. Its canned oysters and pepper sauce. Now, of course, we usually took our lunch with us and ate it at the wagon on a vacant lot while the horses munched their fodder and corn; but sometimes we could spare a nickel or dime and could then indulge in a treat. Crackers were ordinarily thrown in with the purchase of cheese. One old man of my acquaintance got very angry with a grocer for charging extra for crackers. The cheese in those days, as you will still find it, came in large, round chunks; there was none of this modern stuff done up in tinfoil. It had a flavor and some body to it; disparaging critics of it sometimes called it rubber cheese, but they never knew the flavor imparted by hunger and by the rare privilege of eating what had been bought with their own money. And the crackers we used to eat differed materially from the ones we now buy; they were large, square fellows, lineal descendants of the hardtack of Civil War fame. A half dozen of these old-timers would furnish plenty of bread for a nickle's worth of cheese. This combination, with a few dipperfuls of water from the grocery bucket, furnished a square meal for any hungry man or boy. A little later a bottle of pop might be added, but I am now referring to the very old times when a nickle for cheese and crackers was a great extravagance.

STATE HIGHWAY DEPT. SAYS CONSTRUCTION MUST BE CURTAILED

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 11—Heavy emergency spending and the almost total destruction of several pieces of expensive and important machinery by flood water, Kentucky's 1934 state highway cents to spend, the one thing he would want would be a can of Cove oysters, little fellows about the size of dimes. The can was opened by the grocer and the contents poured into a deep, small bowl. Crackers were furnished free for this repast, as was also the pepper sauce. So accustomed were we to the small canned oysters that it took me years to get accustomed to larger ones that that were not canned. When I saw large shells the size of my hand, I did not believe they could have held oysters and was inclined to believe that someone had misinformed me. But, aside from their size, there was nothing small about the ones we ate in the grocery store. The same big crackers did just as well here as when they were served with cheese; all the supply came out of a large wooden box, exposed to the elements and the insects. Somehow nothing brings up the past so quickly as the smell of a freshly-opened can of oysters. When we children, who were reared on chills and fever, felt a chill coming on, we knew that we could call for some delicacy of food and so used our sickest moments planning what we would ask for. One sure thing for some of us was a can of oysters, partly for the taste, I suppose, and partly because it signified luxury. The big boys might go to the county seat on court days and come back slightly put up with pride over having eaten a can of oysters; we who had to stay at home could get revenge by having a chill and getting our can of oysters, though I must confess I would have preferred a trip to the county seat.

program, which was planned to include the construction of a considerable amount of new thoroughfare, will be sharply curtailed, according to an announcement made from the highway offices today. The ruination of several pieces of expensive and important machinery by flood water, Kentucky's 1934 state highway beginning of the highway department's fiscal year.

The state's program will necessarily be abbreviated in order that the department may concentrate its efforts and a portion of its financial allotment to the reconditioning of important arterial highways damaged and in some instances rendered virtually useless and unsafe by high waters. The reconditioning of these damaged roadways will be the first important task to be attended to by the department.

It was estimated that at least one-fourth of the main highways of the commonwealth were affected one way or another by the flood and as these serve traffic especially through the northern, central and western sections of the state it will be necessary to give them immediate attention. Twenty-nine counties along the Ohio and Kentucky rivers suffered the greatest damage by flood water. These roads are inlets and outlets to the state.

Several unforeseen instances arising from the flood took heavy toll where least expected and will take no small part in the curtailment of the program. The loss of revenue from the gasoline tax from the flooded area during the high water period will be felt keenly in the budget.

Thousands of automobiles, into which went millions of gallons daily, sending funds into the highway department coffers, were rendered useless during the flood, and many will remain idle during the period of reconstruction, further cutting the revenue.

It was pointed out by Robert Humphreys, commissioner of highways of Kentucky, that Louisville, Kentucky's only first-class city, and all of the second class cities in the state, with the exception of Lexington, were directly in the path of the flood and that during the period of inundation the revenue for gasoline tax fell sharply. It was estimated that no less than 60 per cent of all automobiles owned in the entire state were in the flooded area, which besides Louisville included Ashland, Maysville, Newport, Paducah and Frankfort.

Such a loss of revenue, even though it be only for a few days, combined with the loss of machinery and the dire necessity of repairing the state maintained arterial highways, it can readily be seen that the year's program will necessarily have to be curtailed to a great extent.

The loss of machinery may be only temporary, however. A large number of heavy and important pieces were either working or stored in the flooded area. These pieces will have to be replaced or reconditioned before going into active service again. The larger and heavier trucks, especially those with high wheels did yoeman's work during the flood, laboring under all sorts of conditions and without the care that is usually given them. These will need reconditioning.

The highway department trucks not only served the highway department during the flood but were assigned to all of the department's active in relief work, carrying food, equipment, refugees, going over streets and highways that were torn and uprooted by flood waters. Loss of a group of these would be deeply felt in the reconstruction.

These, with other other conditions that have arisen will necessarily curtail the state's program

PNEUMONIA

Pneumonia has been called "the captain of the men of death" and rightly so. It carries off 100,000 victims in the United States every year.

We have learned how to prevent typhoid and yellow fever, diphtheria, smallpox and many other diseases that were formerly so widespread and fatal but we have not found a specific remedy for preventing or curing pneumonia.

It is most prevalent in January, February and March. This proves that there is some relationship between cold inclement weather and pneumonia. There is more than one type of this disease, any one of which is apt to develop from a common cold, that extends to small areas here and there in the lungs. This type accounts for many deaths among old people and children, especially the undernourished.

Accidents and anesthetics are sometimes followed by pneumonia, which is probably due to the inhalation of noxious microbes into the lungs.

The most dangerous form of this disease is due to a specific micro-organism as the pneumococcus. This type runs a definite course. The poisons generated from germ may cause death, or the heart may be overcome and so disabled that it cannot keep up the fight for life and the patient succumbs. He may die from exhaustion.

The treatment is to keep every organ in the body in as good condition as possible. If this is done, and the heart and the heart can be sustained; the patient, especially if fairly strong, will overcome the disease, which usually runs its course in from seven to nine days.

The alcoholic or habitual drinker is a poor risk. He does not withstand pneumonia well. The vigorous often survive, if complications do not arise. Even then they may recover, sometimes after a lengthy convalescence. Long exposure to wet and low temperatures, remaining in damp clothing, all tend to invite cold which may result in an attack of pneumonia, especially among the old.

Let Children Dress Up—

Costuming Gives Them Invaluable Opportunity for Self-Expression

DRESSING up is a cure for a great many of the behavior problems of children of all ages, says Gertrude Oram in The Parents' Magazine. Whether it is the youngest member of the family, effectually hidden under his father's derby, or the teen-age son or daughter "dressing for dinner on Dad's birthday," a bit of costuming releases the natural dramatic urge of children, lifts, for a moment, the tight restraint of everyday living, and gives them the invaluable opportunity for self-expression.

Brings Reality and Dreams

"Many of the behavior problems of children, from simple fretfulness to serious juvenile delinquency, are a result of a cramping of the ego, of the sudden harsh restrictions for which the child is unprepared," explains Miss Oram. "Dramatic activity supplies a bridge between reality and dreams which is a real need of childhood and adolescence."

A four-year-old's deep hurt at being overlooked in favor of her curly-headed baby brother was erased when her mother dressed her charmingly in a crepe paper apron and cuffs and a cap that hid the straight locks which caused her grief. A boy who showed very little initiative in his lessons was amazingly dynamic at rehearsals of a play he and his friends were working out by themselves for the entertainment of other members of his group.

Incentive to Learn

Other lifelong benefits spring from dressing up in Indian suits or cowboy suits. "The helpful parent," continues Miss Oram, "will give his child an opportunity to learn as much as possible from each new interest, providing the tools or the suggestions which lead to the acquiring of new skills. Indians walk erectly. Sailors can find their way by the stars. Many a mother has been delighted to learn that the boy who could never be induced to take any interest in neatness in the abstract becomes insistent on absolute trimness in his Scout uniform."

Shield the Sensitive

It is important to remember that while children's natural dramatic impulses should not be repressed at this stage, neither should they be forced if the boy or girl is painfully shy. Gradual development, via the back row in choruses or minstrel shows, "has helped many an awkward adolescent into a new self-confidence and poise."

"It has been said many times," concludes Miss Oram, "that much of the juvenile delinquency in our age is the result of thwarting the longing for romance and adventure which all children feel and which becomes acute during adolescence. The urgent need to expand, to swagger, to be more than our own small and unimportant selves must be gratified in a normal way or it may find abnormal expression. . . . For almost any child at some time parents will find something helpful in the suggestion, 'Let them dress up.'"

SYNOPSIS

Kezia Marsh, pretty, selfish and twenty, arrives home in Corinth from school and is met by her older brother, Hugh. He drives her to the Marsh home where her widowed mother, Fluvanna, a warm-hearted, self-sacrificing and understanding soul, welcomes her. Kezia's sister, Margery, plump and matronly with the care of three children, is at lunch with them. Hugh's wife, Dorrie, has pleaded a previous engagement. On the way back to his job at the steel plant founded by one of his forefathers, Hugh passes Doc Hiller, a boyhood friend whom he no longer sees frequently because of Dorrie's antipathy. Fluvanna Marsh awakens the next morning from a dream about her late husband, Jim, whose unstable character she fears Kezia has inherited. Soon Ellen Pendleton comes over. She is an artistically inclined girl who is a distant niece of Fluvanna's and a favorite of Hugh's. She happily tells Fluvanna she has become engaged to Jerry Purdue. Ellen fears that her father and mother, Gavin and Lizzie, will not approve the match. Hugh and Dorrie go out to the Freeland Farms to dance with their friends, Cun and Joan Whitney. Whitney, who has been out of work, announces that he has landed a new position. They see Ellen Pendleton and Jerry Purdue. Cun and Dorrie dance together and then disappear for a while. Dancing with Joan, Hugh is amazed to find her in tears. Apparently she has some secret worry over her husband, Cun. Hugh sees Kezia accompanied by a young man.

CHAPTER III—Continued

They rose and floated away to the rhythm of the sentimental music. Ellen felt closer to Jerry when they danced than at any other time. They seemed so completely attuned then, step seeking step, turning instinctively in each graceful movement. He was just enough taller; he gave himself to the spirit of the underlying sensuousness of the air, communicated it to her.

The music ended with an increased tempo and a final bang. They walked to their table where the waiter had placed their dessert.

The place was filling up. There had been only eight or ten for dinner, but now almost every place was occupied. Across the room Ellen caught the eye of Hugh Marsh, gave him a laughing salute. Dorrie and Joan nodded to her, and Cun Whitney too. She had never met Cun, but supposed it was a pleasant informality evoked by the friendship of the others.

She turned to Jerry. "That's Hugh Marsh—you remember we called at Cousin Fluvanna's one night? The one in green with the stunning hair is Dorrie, his wife." Jerry put sugar in his coffee. "Your cousin, Hugh, is a good picker. What aophile!"

"Isn't it? Like a cameo." "What kind of person is she?" "I never feel I know her very well. She's not very friendly. You have the sensation she is passing judgment on you, finding you odd or amusing. It may be imagination on my part, or—"

"What?" "I think a person so beautiful creates a wall around themselves. Such a picture that you're a little in awe of them, wondering over the effect. Your fault, really, for you make them conscious of the admiration you feel, and they're amused by it."

Jerry nodded. "She sounds high-nosed to me," he pronounced briefly, cutting through Ellen's struggling analysis. "Is Kezia like her?"

"You'll meet her soon. She wants me to take you over some night."

Just as they were leaving, Kezia came in with Arthur Williams and they met on the steps. Kezia turned cordial, radiant eyes on Jerry as she extended her hand. "Nice to know you. I've heard so much about you."

Ellen could see that Jerry looked pleased and impressed.

"El, you're not leaving, are you?" came Kezia's sweet aggrieved complaint. "Do stay with us and dance—we'd have a foursome!"

Arthur seconded the invitation. "Sure—a foursome. What's the idea of leaving now?"

But Ellen pleaded another engagement and they took their departure.

Jerry helped her ceremoniously into the car. His manners were much better than most of the men she knew, she thought with pride. If he hadn't learned them at home, he had picked them up from observation of others. They would pass muster with her mother, Kezia—anyone. She hugged the reflection to herself with pleased content. One more point in the sum total of the graces which endeared Jerry.

They drove down the winding drive to the main road. "I wish we had stayed," said Jerry, regretfully. "Kezia—she's charming, isn't she? I wouldn't have minded meeting Hugh and what's-her-name, too. We could have had a good time." Ellen was conscious of a pang.

The knowledge that she was dragging him away from the gay company for an awkward interview with her family, made her feel guilty. "We'll go out again sometime," she said quickly.

As they spun along the concrete road toward town, edged with suburban bungalows and an occasional farmhouse, she wondered what would Mother say? Any of the terrible things she had voiced before she left? She wouldn't hear Jerry insulted! She would be firm on that. But how protect him from the iniquitous insult of the look Lizzie could wear upon occasion? She had watched Fanny Plance shrink and wither under its disdain and disapproval the time Caleb had brought her to the house. Her mother had asked Fanny icy questions designed to disconcert her. She hadn't come a second time, and presently Caleb had married Ena Mills. Mother shouldn't do that to her and Jerry! She must not. Ellen's delicate face looked almost steely in its valor as she decided that nothing would shake her determination to marry Jerry.

Mrs. Pendleton was evidently waiting for them, for she sat very erect in a torturingly stiff carved, high-backed chair. The living-room was in the full blaze of all the chandeliers. "Like a queen," crossed Ellen's mind in a nervous snickering instant. Mrs. Pendleton was a blond, big-boned woman, with distrustful, cold gray eyes and lips pressed close together. She hesitated about taking Jerry's hand, then withdrew hers quickly. Gavin Pendleton greeted them, gave short hard pulls at his mustache, then rushed out of the room, only to reappear in a moment.

"Ellen's father and I were very much surprised—very," began Mrs. Pendleton accusingly.

"But knowing Ellen," said Jerry, striving for lightness and ease, "knowing Ellen—you couldn't be, could you?"

"Just—what do—you mean—by that?" she spaced her words and fixed him with a glittering eye.

This is awful, thought Ellen. Mother giving him the third degree and Father waiting for his cue to play the heavy parent. . . .

"I mean that anyone should be forgiven for loving Ellen."

"Loving Ellen? . . . Mm-mm." Gavin rushed out of the room, snapped on the lights in the dining-room, put them out, returned.

"You see," said Gavin, brusquely, "we don't know much about you." He turned, got as far as the French doors, came back. He stood with feet apart; his hand reached for his upper lip. "Haven't paid much attention to whom Ellen was seeing . . . gave us quite a shock tonight . . . Mother not strong . . . very bad for her . . . shock. Girls—mm—thoughtless—mm—parents—mm—consideration."

Lizzie raised her platinum-framed eye-glasses, held them at the corner. "Do I know your parents?" she asked insolently.

Jerry colored at her tone. Ellen rushed in with: "Mother, they are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Purdue and they've lived here all their lives."

"I've never met them." It was slogging hopelessly. But Jerry braced himself and came through smoothly with: "Extremely nice parents—mine. Awfully fond of me and all that. I know it has come suddenly. I'm sorry that you're not well, Mrs. Pendleton, and that it has shocked you."

"I was feeling better, hoping, ever so faintly, that I might be able to enjoy the pleasures of life again . . . and then this comes!"

"But, Mother, it is nice. Something to be happy about! Why do you take that dismal tone?" cried Ellen exasperated.

Lizzie glared at her and drew a deep sighing breath. "I have been a martyr for years. No one knows what I have endured. Some days better—some days worse. I can never make plans like other people, never do the pleasant things I want to do. A sudden shock like this—"

Gavin disappeared from the room and came back with a cigar wrapped in cellophane which he offered to Jerry.

Jerry took a chair nearest Lizzie, shook his head gravely. "It must be terrible," he murmured. "I have an aunt who is an invalid."

Lizzie looked somewhat mollified. "It started with a sore throat, an infection in the blood stream. A very slow and dangerous disease. Few are ever cured." She actually smiled, although it was the slow, self-pitying smile of the invalid who enjoys her illness. "I've tried every doctor here that I have any confidence in, and I've been to specialists in other cities. Sometimes I am helped for a time—usually it is money thrown away. I manage to get about—just get about."

"Seems to me my aunt tried some kind of drinking water, a special kind."

Lizzie knitted her pale, scraggy brows. "Gavin, what was the name of the one I used so long?" Gavin shook his head gloomily. "Dunno." He, also, took a chair as if the worst of the tension was over.

Goat Eats Cactus

The cabretta, the half-wild goat of Curacao, practically lives on thorny cactus. The animal pounds the thorns off with its hoofs and then proceeds to feast on the cactus bark.

Going to the Party?

WHERE is the party? At Mrs. Smith's on Walnut street and it looks awfully much as though the principals were caught by the candid camera. Luckily, however, they're perfectly groomed for their parts:

Introducing Janet.

Janet in her jumper (Pattern 1996) is asking Mother which glassware to use. Her plaid blouse in taffeta makes her feel very dressed up. Mother chose this style because the many possibilities for change make it a wardrobe rather than a dress and she knew it would be easy-to-make. Your own little girl may have this same ensemble in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires 1 1/4 yards of 39 inch material for the jumper and 1 1/4 yards for the blouse.

Mother, the Hostess.

Mother is the perfect hostess, calm and assured, because she knows her all-occasion frock with its sprightly crisp apron (Pattern 1220) is becoming and appropriate. For house wear she made up this model in print. She is wearing here the crepe version and knows that it will be delightful for later on in cool black and white. It comes in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46. The dress and apron in size 36 require 5 1/2 yards of 39 inch material. The apron alone requires 1 1/2 yards.

And the Guest.

The guest just arriving is wearing her trigest Sew-Your-Own. She likes it because the puffed shoulders and swing skirt make her hips look smaller. The collar is young and the sleeves stylish. This frock is especially chic in silk crepe alpaca or one of the lovely new prints. For your own daytime distinction, then, why not make up Pattern 1205? It is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 (32 to 42 bust). Size 16 requires 4 1/4 yards of 39 inch material. One ball of yarn required for trimming as pictured.

Why Laxatives Fail In Stubborn Constipation

Twelve to 24 hours is too long to wait when relief from clogged bowels and constipation is needed, for then enormous quantities of bacteria accumulate, causing GAS, indigestion and many restless, sleepless nights. If you want REAL, QUICK RELIEF, take a liquid compound such as Adierika. Adierika contains SEVEN cathartic and carminative ingredients that act on the stomach and BOTH bowels. Most "overnight" laxatives contain one ingredient that acts on the lower bowel only. Adierika's DOUBLE ACTION gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old poisonous waste matter that may have caused GAS pains, sour stomach, headaches and sleepless nights for months. Adierika relieves stomach GAS at once and usually removes bowel congestion in less than two hours. No waiting for overnight results. This famous treatment has been recommended by many doctors and druggists for 35 years. Take Adierika one-half hour before breakfast or one hour before bedtime and in a short while you will feel marvellously refreshed. At All Leading Druggists.

THELMA HAYES

A Vagabond
What is this blinding, raging storm within me?

These winds that tear the strings that hold my heart? The cold icebergs that form within my breast?

Is it my gypsy feet calling, Telling me to depart?

Is it the haunted, snow-capped Mt. Etna which calls me, Or the silver wateras of the Blue Grotto,

Or the pleasure-loving Tapanan I long for?

Anywhere! Just anywhere! Let me go!

CEREDO REED

The Lackey Girl Reserves

Although the Girl Reserves club at Lackey was organized only last fall, they have progressed mentally, socially, physically and spiritually.

Josephine Collins and Ceredo Reed were sent as delegates to the Girl Reserve conference that was held at Russell, Ky., last fall.

Improvements have been made in the school because of the love and co-operation of the Girl Reserves. They have just finished arranging a reading room for the Girl Reserves and are now planning a sitting room for the teachers. Now they are working so as to give a donation to the Red Cross and to buy Girl Reserve pins.
