

GUN TOLL--2 DEAD, 2 WOUNDED

STEPHENS ASKS TIGHTENING OF LEGAL WORKS

ENJOINS GRAND JURY TO SECRECY AS COURT STARTS

Instructing the grand jury upon the opening here Monday of the April term of the Floyd circuit court, Circuit Judge Henry Stephens, Jr., called upon jurors and officials for a tightening of the enforcement machinery, a cutting away of all dead weights, to the end that "as certain as a law is violated, punishment must come."

To the regular oath administered to the grand jurors Judge Stephens added the words "and that you will keep secret all proceedings, evidence, votes and everything that is done before you."

This part of the oath, he explained, was for the jurors' own protection, and "is . . . to keep outside influences from interfering with your work . . . I expect you to do this to the letter and report to me any one who attempts to talk to you about what is going on in the grand jury room."

"If I should lay the present crime wave to any one cause above others, I would say it was 'dis-interest' of the good people," Judge Stephens added, lashing out at the attitude of mind which he described as in effect saying, "Let George do it, I might hurt somebody's feelings, he might be a friend of my brother's wife's third cousin and, therefore, I will do what I can to permit him to escape the just penalty of the law; I have property that might be burned; I can't afford to tell the truth before the grand jury; I have political ambitions and I expect to be a candidate in the near future."

See editorial, "Judge Stephens Makes an Indictment"

Commenting upon "corruption in high places," he stated as one of the aims of the court "to root out these grafters and political highbinders, if there be any, in this district and county."

It was pointed out that several thousands of dollars will be saved to the taxpayers as a result of the fiscal court's action, taken since the last grand jury adjourned, in reducing the cost of relief commodity deliveries. The fiscal court was commended for its action. Judge Stephens also noted the publication of the County Board of Education's financial statement, adding that the fiscal court had its financial statement in preparation for publication.

This Town-- That World

From this distance it appears that they should have held Joe Louis' paycheck up.

NO VETERINARIAN NEEDED

"Safact, even if you don't believe it," the man said. He was discussing an ailment from which his cow was suffering. Her milk had a bad taste, and he was about to get some advice from the crowd when he floored the whole bunch by solemnly announcing that a certain old woman had bewitched the animal and nothing was going to do that cow any good until the spell was lifted.

Yes, that happened a few days ago—in Floyd county.

CHANGE OF MIND--IF ANY

For a while I was seriously contemplating a demand from this very paper, asking it to retract that crazy story in which my name was so freely bandied about. But, after reading The Paintsville Herald of last week, wherein the original story was reprinted, omitting, however, that all-important paragraph in which it was so carefully explained that the Norman Allen referred to was somebody else, I have decided that THE FLOYD COUNTY TIMES is not only the best paper in Floyd county but also the best in both Floyd and Johnson counties.

SPORTSMEN POST REWARD

SEEK CONVICTIONS FROM FIRES, BLASTS

A reward of $10 was offered by the Floyd County Fish and Game Association at its meeting here Tuesday night for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person in the county guilty of starting destructive forest fires and dynamiting fish.

At the same time the association appropriated $30 for the purchase of seeds for cover and feed for quail. This fund was augmented $14 by individual contributions of members present. County Agent S. L. Isbell, J. B. Clarke and Joe Hill were named a committee to distribute the seed to farmers interested in game preservation.

County Judge E. P. Hill introduced a resolution calling upon Governor Johnson to appoint for service in Floyd county a full-time warden, or, if this service is unavailable, at least a part-time warden. The club voted unanimously that the resolution be adopted, copies to be mailed to Governor Johnson. Major Brown, head of the Division of Fish and Game, and Dr. O. T. Thompson, Pikeville, chairman of the State Fish and Game Commission. Judge Hill pointed out to the club the fact that Floyd county sportsmen last year paid more than $1,400 for hunting and fishing licenses.

The meeting, second of the year, attracted sportsmen from all sections of the county, more than 50 being present. Roe Turner, secretary-treasurer, reported that the associa-

PROSECUTOR, EX-OFFICIALS ARE INJURED

Two former Floyd county officials, Ex-Circuit Judge John W. Caudill and Former Circuit Court Clerk O. H. Stumbo, were seriously injured and Commonwealth's Attorney John Allen was less seriously hurt Thursday night in an auto wreck near Ezel, Ky.

Stumbo and Caudill remain in the Paintsville hospital, each suffering broken right thighs. Mr. Stumbo also is said to have suffered a crushed pelvis. Commonwealth's Attorney Allen was able to return to his home near here Saturday.

The wreck took place on "Deadman's Curve," scene of numerous accidents, and within two miles of where Judge and Mrs. Caudill were injured previously in a collision. Slippery condition of the highway as a result of rain during the night is said to have caused the car, driven by Allen, to skid and plunge over a culvert. Harry Lee Leslie, fourth member of the party, escaped with minor bruises.

Isolation of the accident scene and lack of telephone communication forced rescuers to return those injured to West Liberty, where medical attention was lacking. The three injured men then were taken to Paintsville in a passenger car, arriving there at 1 a. m., Friday.

CHILD KILLED BY AUTO

GRAND JURY PROBES DEATH THURSDAY AT NORTHERN

The grand jury of the Floyd circuit court this week was investigating the death of eight-year-old Peggy Shannon May, who was struck and instantly killed by an automobile Thursday afternoon, last week, near the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Amanda Turner, of Northern.

Harry Bierman, Ashland, driver of the death car, contends that the child's death was unavoidable. He is quoted as saying that the tot stepped from behind a car parked on the north side of the highway, directly into the path of his auto, and that he did not see her until too late to prevent the tragedy.

Other witnesses of the tragedy said the child was dragged a distance of more than a hundred feet and that the salesman's auto did not stop until it had traveled approximately 300

FROM TIPSYP TIP GREW TURNER'S SUCCESS

Story of Floyd Countian's Rise from Poverty Recounted-- Tradin' Started 'Big Will' to Financial Power--Would Have Done Better if 'No' in Early Vocabulary

(By "BRIAR BUCK")

The man was drunk, almost roarin' drunk. But he "had something there." He was in a talkative mood, yet his words meant more than your ordinary, common drunk.

"Willie," quoth he, "when a feller rars back and jingles the money in his pocket--by gum, Willie, you alwavs have some money in your pocket to jingle right back at 'im"

W. J. "BIG WILL" TURNER can, if he cares to, jingle right back and raise you not one but several. At the age of 62, by dint of hard labor, honest but sensible dealings with others and the practicing of frugality, Big Will is an unqualified success in Floyd county's own little world of finance.

As a mere boy, he cut corn on Beaver Creek for the late John H. Preston, for the noble sum of 2½ cents per shock to pay for a primary Arithmetic and Geography, his first and last schoolbooks. "I've always believed that if I'd have gone another month to school, and learned to say, 'No,' I would be worth a lot more today," he will tell you.

His store business at Drift, where he has been thus occupied for the last 17 years, isn't such a far cry from his life occupation of "trading." At the age of 17, he traded a seven-jewel Elgin watch and $16 which he'd earned by working at the lordly pay of 35 cents a day for an old, saddle-sore, sway-backed mare, bridle on her and the spur to sink into her ribs and make her "act peart." His last dime he spent for "healing powders" and so, shortly afterwards, he rode her to the Baptist Association on Stone Coal where she went in a trade for a mule. Then the mule passed on to the late Abbott Barnett in return for a horse and saddle. Gone the days of ridin', bareback.

Then the tradin' started in earnest. Sheep, cattle, horses, hogs, chickens, pocket knives--what have you--any time, anywhere, he would buy, sell or swap.

So, by the time he was 26 years old, Mr. Turner had a horse and "two or three hundred dollars" for his very own. Just then, the little guy with the bow and arrow got in his work and he was married to Miss Cissely Robinette, young daughter of the late Elbert Robinette. The young groom was offered a

Is Honored By Masons

JO M. DAVIDSON

Of the 20 Floyd countians who were members of Zebulon Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons, Prestonsburg, half a century ago when Jo M. Davidson, assistant cashier of The Bank Josephine here, received his entered apprentice degree, only two are yet remaining among the living. They are Mr. Davidson himself and Ex-Senator Wm. Dingus, Prestonsburg.

Recently Mr. Davidson -- "Uncle Joe," to most of us--received his 50-year button and his life-membership card.

When Mr. Davidson, now honored among Kentucky Masons, first presented his petition to Zebulon Lodge, the order, then comparatively unknown in this section, was meeting in the grand jury room, upstairs of the old courthouse here, where the First National Bank now is located. Later, Uncle Joe reminisces, the Masons moved a block further down-river, to a room in the old school building opposite the Valley Inn hotel of today. Next, the lodge purchased from the late P. A. Hopkins the lot on Court street where the present Masonic building now stands. The hall at that time was upstairs in an old, frame structure.

Members of the lodge, as Mr. Davidson recalls them, at that time were T. Y. Fitzpatrick, John Wilse Mayo, J. Dick Mayo, A. J. Davidson, Isaac Richmond, F. A. Hopkins, Walter S. Harkins, Sr., Dr. H. F. Neel, W. H. May, John B. Auxier, Joseph R. Langley, Andrew Baldridge, Sr., Marion Moles, F. H. Morell, George M. Hatcher, Andrew J. Hatcher, Ferd C. Hatcher, H. H. Fitzpatrick, Ed Ford, Ralph H. Booton, Wm. Dingus, R. S. Friend, Robert Weddington.

His Masonic record reads: Initiated Dec. 13, 1889; passed to the degree of Fellowcraft, Jan. 13, 1890; raised to the degree of a Master Mason, Feb. 10, 1890; made a Royal Arch Mason at Louisa, Ky., July, 1890; made a Knights Templar in Maysville Commandery, Oct. 5, 1890 (at that time being "baby" Knight Templar in the state) was named a Noble of Kosair Temple, Louisville, in 1905, and later when a Commandery and Shrine were organized at Ashland he was demitted and joined the Ashland Commandery and El Hasa Temple; became a Scottish Rite Mason in India Consistory, Valley of Covington, Orient of Kentucky, May 18, 1921.

JAGGERS LAUDS FLOYD SCHOOLS

STATE DIRECTOR TELLS HALL OF OKEH

"I have never been more impressed with a county school program than I was with yours," County Superintendent Town Hall was told this week in a letter from Dr. R. E. Jagers, state director of teacher training and certification, who was the principal speaker at the dedication of the new Martin and Maytown school buildings last week.

Dr. Jagers, who visited several schools with Mr. Hall Friday, complimented the county education program upon the many new buildings and the work being done by principals and teachers. "My opportunity to contact teacher after teacher indicated to me that you not only have attractive buildings but you have co-operating communities and alert, conscientious groups of teachers and principals who have high qualities of leadership, and pupils who show evidence that they have come from homes interested in education to schools which can develop them," he added.

Praising the high degree of friendliness of the pupil-teacher relationship and the absence of restraint in the schools they visited, Dr. Jagers expressed his opinion that these qualities do not come about unless something significant takes place within the school.

Eight of the ten Floyd county high schools have been given ratings of "A" and the other two, because they have not enrolled the necessary number of students to warrant the rating, were

COURT EXTENDS FARM, HEALTH PROGRAM

Continuation of the work of both the Floyd county health department and the county agricultural agent was quickly voted by the fiscal court in session Tuesday, and appropriations were made to cover the county's part of salaries for the two agencies.

The county agent's appropriation was fixed at $1,200, payable monthly. The health department will receive $2,250 from the county.

Levies totaling $1.50 on each $100 worth of taxable property were made by the court, with a poll tax of $1.50 for general purposes and $1 for common schools being levied.

County levies made are: 20c per $100 of taxable property for the sinking fund; 50c per $100 for the general fund; 10c per $100 for the fund for the poor; 70c per $100 for common school purposes. The levies are the same as those of last year.

A levy of 1 per cent of the market value of all crude oil produced and sold in the county also was made for the benefit of the general fund.

Taxes for the various consolidated school districts this year will be paid on the following levy per $100 of taxable property:

McDowell Girl Succumbs To Throat Infection, Pneumonia

Miss Geneva Osborne, 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Osborne, McDowell, succumbed at the Martin General hospital, Martin, early Friday morning.

She had been suffering from a throat infection for some time and later developed pneumonia. She was admitted to the hospital four days before her death.

Surviving besides her parents are several brothers and sisters.

The body was prepared by the Arnold Funeral Home and taken Sunday to Indian Creek, Pike county, where burial was made.

MARTIN HELD IN SLAYING OF CLARK

OFFICER AND MINER IN DRIFT SHOOTING; WICKER IS VICTIM

One man dead and two others probably fatally wounded is the toll exacted in the county within the week by bullets, while a fourth man, a Knott countian, was killed under cover of darkness within a scant half mile of the Floyd-Knott line, near Lackey.

John Calvin Clarke, 52, World War veteran and well-known Branham's Creek farmer, died Friday morning at 2:30 o'clock, at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, of a bullet wound suffered shortly after noon of the previous day.

Across the line in Knott county, Bill Wicker, 37, restaurant-owner, was instantly killed Saturday night.

From Drift Monday afternoon late, two other bullet victims--Deputy Constable Dave Hall, 35, and Thomas Jones, 27, miner, were taken to Martin hospitals, suffering possibly fatal wounds.

Harold Martin, 17, was jailed here Thursday night by Magistrate Daniel Akers and Deputy Constable A. J. Akers as the slayer of Clarke, his uncle.

Saturday, young Martin implicated Johnny Clark, son of the slain man, and Walker Hall in the slaying. On his statement made to County Attorney Forrest D. Short, warrants for the arrest of Clarke and Hall were issued by County Judge Hill, charging them with aiding and abetting Martin in the slaying.

Goldia Clarke, wife of the victim, told authorities that the younger Clarke and Martin came to the Clarke home Thursday, around noon, and that when her husband reprimanded his son, telling him that he would have to stay at home and work and obey him or leave, Martin remonstrated. A brief argument between Martin and Clarke ensued, with both youths being ordered to leave, it was stated.

After the two had departed, Martin returned, armed. Mrs. Clarke said she asked Henderson Hall to try to get Martin to leave, and Hall told authorities he did this but that Martin pulled free of his detaining hand. As the elder Clarke was opening a door leading onto the front porch of his home, Martin emerged from another door opening onto the porch and fired two or three shots, one of which passed through Clarke's body from side to side, Mrs. Clarke testified. She said Martin then backed down the lane, his gun pointed toward her.

Recent Bills Affect Hunting Licenses, Open Seasons Frankfort, Ky., March 15 (Sp.) A bill providing for county as well as state-wide hunting licenses, fixing the cost of county licenses at $1 and the state licenses at $3, and repealing the ban against merchants possessing more than 16 rabbits at one time, passed through the Senate of the Kentucky state legislature the day before adjournment by a vote of 20 to 6. The bill, introduced in the House and passed by that body, now goes to Governor Johnson for his approval. The bill, introduced by Representative James W. Chapman, of Ashland, also increases non-resident hunting licenses from $10.50 to $15.50. The bill also changes the open season on mink, opossum, raccoon, fox, skunk and muskrat from November-December 31, to November 24 to January 9, inclusive. There will be no open season on otter and beaver. The open season on squirrels in Kentucky has been changed by the bill to now open on August 15 and close on October 31, inclusive. The rabbit season will remain as was last year, that is, opening on November 24 and extending through January 9.

"The contents of the bill, which includes changes of seasons on fur-bearing animals and squirrels, will go into effect 90 days after adjournment of the legislature (March 14) which means that those particular parts of the bill will become effective on June 11. The part of the bill pertaining to county and state-wide hunting licenses will not take effect until January 1, 1941," Major James Brown, director of the Division of Game and Fish, stated.

$1.50 Per Year Payable In Advance

NORMAN ALLEN Editor

Entered as second class matter June 18, 1927, at the postoffice at Prestonsburg, Ky., under the Act of March 3, 1879.

THE TIMES ENDORSES

1. Immediate completion of the Left Beaver, Middle Creek and Johns Creek road.
2. Consideration by officials of human needs, not the need for political influence.
3. Completion of all Farm-to-Market roads, by W. P. A. labor if possible, maintenance of these routes by the state rural road fund.
4. A trade-at-home policy followed by merchants and customers alike.
5. Full co-operation with all county and city officials, insisting that lawmakers and enforcement officers themselves obey the law to the letter.
6. Continuance of the Floyd county health department and the county agricultural agent work.

JUDGE STEPHENS MAKES AN INDICTMENT

Circuit Judge Henry Stephens, Jr., in his instructions to the grand jury of the Floyd circuit court, almost reached truth's bedrock when he said:

"If I should lay the present crime wave to any one cause above others, I would say it was due to 'dis-interest' of the good people; lack of co-operation; the attitude of mind which says, 'Let George do it, I might hurt somebody's feelings, he might be a friend of my brother's wife's third cousin and therefore, I will do what I can to permit him to escape the just penalty of the law . . .'"

A telling bit of sarcasm and a scathing indictment, this reference to those of us who would "let George do it" and ourselves escape our duties as citizens.

A sad commentary on us all, it is, too, when we must agree that what Judge Stephens has said is true—is a true bill against the "good" men and women who are the backbone of Floyd county, if it has any.

You like to sit back and talk. Just as a multitude of you would ask this newspaper to express your opinions about this and that, without disclosing your identities. Nothing positive, not exactly negative—just folks teetering, oh, so carefully, along an imaginary line smack in the middle of the road.

THE FLOYD COUNTY TIMES congratulates Judge Stephens for "calling the hands" of those who look to "George," poor fellow. Always and forever those who do not suffer from "dis-interest" and who would try to do something in the way of public service will find such folks waiting for them to take the lead, to stick their necks out and quixotically charge the windmill. Assuming the role of the Negative Quantity, letting George do it has got us nothing worthwhile, to date. So it would seem the wise thing to try being an Active Ingredient.

WILL THE PUBLIC DEMAND BETTER POLITICS?

Only the public can save the Hatch Bill now. If the public is indifferent it will deserve what it gets: a continuation of the machine methods which now degrade so much of our political life.

The Senate has shown that if possible it will avoid passing this bill. It has put the bill to one side for at least two weeks. It will leave the bill to one side forever, if the people permits. But if the public insists, the Senate will reluctantly take one more step toward cleaner politics.

The first Hatch Bill was passed as a result of widespread indignation at the use of federal job-holders to build a federal machine. Many politicians were themselves disturbed at the growing power of the federal machine, and were glad to have a pious excuse for weakening it. But the state machine is the citadel of "practical politics," and the new Hatch Bill attacks that citadel.

Howard Henderson says in his column today that under this bill "the political power of the state administration will be reduced to almost nothing." In Kentucky, for example, the machine will be deprived of the services of 16,000 Highway Department employees, and of all the Old Age Pension workers, Unemployment Compensation workers, State Board of Health workers, etc.

This would be a grievous matter for many politicians. But not for the public. The more the public's employes are kept out of politics, and on their jobs, the better for the jobs. And the better for democracy, in that there will be more chance for the voice of the people to be heard above the bellow of the machine.

The Kentucky Senators deserve our strong thanks for supporting the Hatch Bill. Senator Minton from across the river has made himself the bill's leading opponent. It is hard to find a noble motive for this opposition; and judging from his speeches, Senator Minton has not ever tried. It is the effect of the bill upon "practical politics" which he seems to fear; it is the same effect which the public has cause to desire.—The Courier-Journal.

JUDGE STEPHENS' CHARGE TO FLOYD GRAND JURY

Gentlemen of the Grand Jury:

It is the duty of the court and fitting and proper for the Judge to instruct the Grand Jury as to the manner of discharging its duties. The Grand Jury is the right arm of the Court and, without it, the Court is powerless to perform its chief function, which is to see that the law is strictly enforced and make itself felt as a protection of the innocent and the scourge of the guilty. Unless the Grand Jury does its full duty, the Court would be worthless and a waste of time.

You and I, before the law, are equals and that is because we live under a representative form of government, a government of law and not of men, a government where the authority rests with the people. Look at Europe today, a place where authority rests with a few and see what you have. Take the case of poor, bleak Finland, a liberty-loving people of 4,000,000, attacked by 180,000,000 Russians, a mighty foe, led by a ruthless leadership, convincing their people that they had been attacked by the Finns. This small country, however, put up a mighty struggle because they loved their homes, their families, and fought for principle, and that is why you people are called here today, to be fearless and attack this crime wave which is spreading over your country.

Therefore, it will be a steadfast policy of this court to have representative citizens, the best people from a moral and intellectual standpoint, to serve on the Grand Jury as well as on the Petit Jury. It is not my purpose to try and moralize or to preach a sermon. The most I want to assure you is that this Court is going to be honest and clean and to see that justice is done, and I expect the jurors who serve here to be of the same purpose and to do likewise. I expect this Court to make itself felt as a power for good in the community—that there shall be a certainty in the punishment of the guilty and that the innocent shall not be unjustly accused.

Therefore, I do not expect to be known here as your Judge who preaches a lot of long-winded sermons, without intending to practice them, but to do something and talk about it afterwards. Let action be our watchword, as I expect it to be mine.

The Court, however, cannot function properly without the co-operation and encouragement of the good people of the community, county and district. If I should lay the present crime wave to any one cause above others, I would say it was "dis-interest" of the good people; lack of co-operation; the attitude of the mind, which says, "Let George do it." I might hurt somebody's feelings, he might be a friend of my brother's wife's third cousin and, therefore, I will do what I can to permit him to escape the just penalty of the law; I have property that might be burned; I can't afford to tell the truth before the Grand Jury; I have political ambitions and I expect to be a candidate in the near future.

These are some of the reasons why crime goes unpunished. Men will sit on juries knowing they can't or won't give a fair trial and with no intention of so doing. I know, because I have seen it done here in this very courtroom. A man who will sit on a Grand Jury and protect his friend or kinsman from indictment, or on a Petit Jury and try to clear or convict one for ulterior motives, is the kind of a man who would turn traitor to his country and desert the army on the field of battle.

We must co-operate—we must join hands—we must fight for the right as God gives us to see the right. It is, indeed, a battle. We you and I, are at the front—we are in command. What do you expect of the common soldiers, if we in command, falter and give way? The forces of crime will entirely envelop us.

We can't help to be ill at ease, however, at times. We see so much corruption in high places—many men to whom the reins of power have been entrusted, so many who have faltered, failed, sold out, disgraced themselves and their country by graft and greed and filthy corruption. Let it be one of our aims, to root out these grafters and political highbinders in this district and county, if there be any.

I have read from the Statutes your qualifications. However, to do your full duty you must be more than sober, discreet housekeepers of the county. You must have respect for the law and an earnest desire to see it enforced. What is it that makes you safe and secure in your possessions and belief in the security of your life? You left no sheriff or constable at your door, or patrolling the road this morning when you left your home. You will stay away from your

Mrs. Sallie Martin, 61, Mousie, Is Victim Of Diabetes

Mrs. Sallie N. Martin, 61, wife of Fred Martin, Mousie, died at the Stumbo Memorial hospital, Lackey, Tuesday of last week, the victim of diabetes.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Huff, of Knott county, and had been a devoted member of the Regular Baptist Church for many years. Surviving, beside her husband, are home, your wife and children and loved ones, without fear, because this court and the other courts have been established and are operating to punish those who infringe upon your rights. All you have to do, to make it more safe, is to do your duty and to give these people who care little or nothing for life, their just dues and rid the country of them—and the sooner the better. It is the duty of the Grand Jury, as well as that of the Petit Jury to uphold the Courts, because they and they alone make our liberties secure. If the courts and jurors become corrupt, then the liberty of the citizen vanishes, and the gangster takes charge.

That is why I took a solemn oath to support the Constitution and the laws of our country and why every person who takes any part in the function of this court must be sworn. It is a sacred and important duty we have before us, and I for one don't intend to neglect or become remiss and I shall not permit any other official or juror connected with this court to neglect or become negligent in his or her duties, so far as it is in my power to prevent.

Let us, first and above all, tighten up the enforcement machinery. Let's cut off all the dead weights—let's make all our burdens easier by instilling in the hearts and minds of the people generally, both good and bad, that the laws on the statute books shall be rigidly enforced; that, as certain as a law is violated, that punishment must come. I don't mean to be a fanatic, or go beyond what is reasonable or fair—but the greatest thing is your home and mine—what will make your children and mine happier and healthier and more prosperous is my doctrine; is intended to instill in their minds that there is a certainty in punishment for violated law—and that no hook or crook or political influence or any other thing can save them from punishment. The severity of punishment is another matter, can always be properly handled by sensible jurors. It shall be my goal and ambition and I shall always strive to help in every way possible to bring about better law enforcement, and whether I shall attain it or not will depend upon the co-operation and the loyalty of the good people of this Judicial District. We should, above all, be glad today that we live in free America.

We should guard this heritage of freedom that was wrested from the hands of tyrannical rulers, a century and a half ago. We can do it by doing our duty. A great part of the world is at war, trying to destroy each other and, to a large extent, many of them do not know what it is all about.

I do not and shall not expect anything more from you than a fair, reasonable and sensible performance of your duties. Your duty is incorporated in your oath. You swore that . . . "saving yourselves, you do solemnly swear that you will present all treason felonies, misdemeanors, or breaches of the penal laws, which have been committed within the limits of this county of which you have knowledge or may receive information, so help you God." And I am adding to your oath this for your own protection, . . . and that you will keep secret all proceedings, evidence, votes and everything that is done before you." This last part is for the purpose to keep outside influence from interfering with your work and to keep you from talking or giving out information. I expect you to do this to the letter and report to me anyone who attempts to talk to you about what is going on in the Grand Jury room.

Since the last Grand Jury empanelled here, there has been quite a saving to the taxpayers, in that it was costing several thousands of dollars more than was necessary to deliver commodities. The Fiscal Court is to be commended for its action and I don't think you will have further complaint from that quarter. As requested and as required by law, the County Superintendent has published a financial statement of the kind as required by law. The people are entitled to know who is getting their money and the purpose for which the money was expended. The Fiscal Court has its financial statement in preparation for publication, and it will be ready in the near future. All this court desires, with reference to the fiscal affairs, is the cards to be laid on the table and let the people who pay the bills know something of their business and just how it is handled.

We have one official who has been very derelict in his duty. We have not had an official assessment in the county for some time. Hunting out of season—and fishing, forest fires and all other violations—I ask you to consider them all—they are now placed before you for your consideration.

FISH TRAPS

A reliable informant reports that the fresh-fish salesman (1½ miles south) uses fish traps in obtaining his "wares." In fact, when he raised a new trap for the first time recently, he had "caught" three large carp which brought him one buck each.

There's a reserved room in that building directly behind the courthouse for "sportsmen" of his calibre.

AS I DOPE IT

Where morphine is easily accessible, the "dopers" dwell. And unless they are confined in a sanatorium of their own, there will be youngsters around who are curious. That's where the danger lies—in starting new ones—and that is our reason for being glad the F.B.I. agents raided Prestonsburg's "dope ring."

POP & STUFF

Pity the GOP-our hopefuls who are luckless enough to get in the way of that Hull-Farley steamroller! . . . What happened to that John Y. Brown-for-Congress rumor, so talked about a couple of weeks ago? . . . Prestonsburg has too few Melanies and too many Belle Watlings. Supply and demand? . . . Maybe so, but there still seems a shortage in the supply of Rhett Butlers. . . . Incidentally, the supply and demand thing may explain why the Brown rumor died an early death. . . . Clean politics is something that should be, but isn't. . . . We understand, now, why so many good Democrats read the Republican Herald-Dispatch: the sports section is tops! . . . But Duke Redley should be informed that Big Sandy is NOT the Blue Grass. We mountaineers eat cornbread not burgo! . . . Since we've started this subject on papers, let's fling a flower or two toward the C-J—and especially to Allan M. Trout, whose "Greetings" column is a daily reminder for us not to forget our raisin! . . . Fifteen rabs for the L. Beaver blackout, and more power to the Highway Commission! Apologies are now in order.

CLUB SERVES ALL

Wisecracks of the Fish and Game Club claim that the 75 quail turned loose recently will benefit the fox-hunter as well as the bird-hunter. For the fowl not only furnish good targets and tastes for the bird mah, but actually supply food for the fox himself.

Further, the club even went so far as to appropriate $30 of their own funds to buy seed which will grow into food and "coverage" for the quail—and which, in turn, will grow fat and make an even better meal for the illusive, bushy-tailed canine.

So, "jms-up" you foshunters, and do your part with this wonderful organization. All factions co-operate for the common good of the club, and each group is being benefited thereby.

Practise Sessions For Ball Club Slated Soon

Upon the arrival of uniforms and equipment already ordered Prestonsburg's baseball team will begin practice for the season's play in the Big Sandy Baseball League.

A dozen or more athletes attended Sunday's meeting at the courthouse and indicated a desire to try out for the team. A number of other players in Prestonsburg and vicinity are expected to attempt to win regular players' berths.

Wm. Hagans was named business manager, and Mitchell Preston was chosen as secretary-treasurer. Manager of the team remains to be named. Directors of the Prestonsburg league entry are James Morell, Jr., J. E. Allen, J. S. Stodghill, Mitchell Preston and Wm. Hagans.

An encouraging reaction to the plan for raising funds through public subscription here has been noted.

ROBERTS, NEW GOP CHAIRMAN

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS HERE SATURDAY, HARMONIOUS

George T. Roberts was re-elected chairman of the Republican organization in Floyd county at Saturday's caucus, held at the courthouse here, and J. H. Nunnery was named secretary-treasurer.

Harmony prevailed as every precinct in the county, save Jack's Creek, was represented by precinct committeemen in person or by proxies.

Besides Mr. Roberts, S. C. Ferguson, Lackey Salisbury, W. B. Boyd, J. H. Nunnery and Harry R. Burke were nominated for chairman. The vote narrowed down to a majority for Mr. Roberts.

Mr. Nunnery and Mr. Boyd were nominated for the secretary-treasurer post, the former winning.

Sheriff Dial Salisbury presided as temporary chairman.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

ACHIEVEMENTS OF PCBA

As there has never been a statement of the aims and objects of the Prestonsburg Co-Operative Business Association published, it might be well at this time to give a short history of its formation and some of its accomplishments during its short but active existence.

About one year ago, when the Right Beaver section was flooded and some of our people were without food, shelter and in dire distress, a number of the citizens and business men of Prestonsburg, knowing of their plight, called a meeting, appointed active committees to solicit food, clothing, bedding and cash, which were immediately turned over to the Red Cross and rushed to our distressed friends and neighbors. While the emergency existed many worked day and night to do their bit (forgetting their own businesses.) Through the efforts of the citizens here over $1,800 were raised throughout the county and turned over to the Red Cross who then finished the job of rehabilitation (Pike and Johnson counties together subscribed less than $400). Seeing what a little co-operation would do and for some time having realized the need of an organization of some kind for the betterment of Prestonsburg and Floyd county, a number of business and professional men and women met at the Auxier hotel, April 18, 1939 and organized the Prestonsburg Co-Operative Business Association, with 53 charter members. Below is a copy of the first three articles of the by-laws of the Association:

"Article No. 1—The name of this organization shall be the Prestonsburg Co-Operative Business Association.

"Article No. 2—Objects:

"Section 1. The Prestonsburg Co-Operative Business Association is organized for the purpose of advancing (a) Commercial, (b) Industrial, (c) Civic and (d) Social Interests of Prestonsburg and Floyd County, Kentucky.

"Sec. 2. This association in its activities shall be NON-PARTISAN and shall not lend its influence to the election or appointment of any candidate for public office. However, the organization shall exert its fullest influence toward an enlightened public opinion on matters of public interest and shall take steps, from time to time, in order to promote an honest and efficient government in Prestonsburg and Floyd county.

"Art. 3 (Membership and dues)

Sec. 1 (Membership)—Men and women of good standing, who are interested in the commercial, civic and cultural progress of Prestonsburg and Floyd county, shall be eligible for membership in the P.C.B.A.

"Sec. 2—(Dues) (a) The dues of this organization shall be $5.00 per member annually, in advance."

Since its organization meetings have been held regularly on the second and fourth Fridays of each month at the Auxier hotel. The organization has continued to grow since its first meeting and now has a membership of 157 and by its varied activities has proven its worth and influence in the community. Although there is much yet to be done for Prestonsburg and Floyd county we feel that listing some of the activities which have been sponsored by the Association prove that it has been getting things done!

Shortly after the Association was organized frequent drawings were instituted, a number of the merchants co-operating, and over $2,500 has been given away to their customers as a goodwill gesture. A fine County Fair was sponsored last fall, with over $500 in premiums awarded. A bigger and better one is being planned for this year. A committee was sent to Frankfort, expenses paid by the Association, which successfully opposed gas rate increases, thereby saving consumers several thousand dollars annually. Through the efforts of the Association and co-operation with proper authorities, we now enjoy free parcel post and express delivery, with free freight delivery assured. Through active co-operation with a sympathetic, progressive city administration, we will shortly have reduced fire insurance rates and now have clean streets, donations having been made to provide adequate equipment for this work.

Just a few things accomplished—A joint meeting with the farmers of the county was held; also a picnic supper for the presidents and secretaries of the various U.M.W.A. Locals; active co-operation with federal authorities on the promised Johns Creek dam project; committee co-operating with the Pike and Johnson counties improvement associations toward improved economic conditions in the Big Sandy valley; headquarters for the district Census Bureau secured for Prestonsburg; work being done to secure air mail service for Prestonsburg and the Big Sandy valley; one of the biggest and best Fourth of July celebrations ever held in the valley made possible by the Association, and plans are now being made for even a bigger and better one this year. During the Christmas holidays the city was beautifully lighted to help spread the Christmas spirit.

Active co-operation with the Floyd County Game and Fish Club has been assured that organization and much good can be accomplished by this organization of Floyd county sportsmen. A goodwill tour was sponsored up both Beaver Creeks, our slogan being "If you can't get it at home, then try Prestonsburg." The Association believes in supporting your local town and county first.

The Association, in co-operation with the County Superintendent of Schools, sponsored a trip to the high school tournament at Lexington for members of the Prestonsburg high school team and cheerleaders, with captains of all county high school teams as invited guests.

The Association, realizing the importance of the Left Beaver road to that section and Prestonsburg, has been vitally interested in the completion of this road, and several months ago had as its guest Highway Commissioner Justice, who definitely promised completion of the road this year. Completion of this road will be one of the major objectives of the Association this year and we ask the co-operation of our friends on Left Beaver.

The Association stands ready to co-operate with all citizens and officials throughout the county on any project that is for the betterment of Floyd county and we feel that when we all pull together there is nothing that cannot be accomplished.

If you haven't been in Prestonsburg during the last year come and see us and we believe you will be agreeably surprised, the efforts of the Prestonsburg Co-Operative Business Association have not been in vain.

The Association has rounded out the year in fine financial condition and, despite all the money that has been spent on worthy projects, starts the new year with money in the treasury. The annual election of officers will be held, the first Friday in April. We expect the continued co-operation of the members of the Association and a membership drive will be conducted to double our membership this year. If you are interested in a better Prestonsburg and Floyd county join the P.C.B.A.

Lawrence County Jury Sentences Floyd Man On Charge of Theft

Jack Hall, Banner, Tuesday was sentenced to serve five years in the penitentiary by a jury in the Lawrence county circuit court which adjudged him guilty of stealing a coal heating stove from the Chestnut Gap church near Lowmansville, Lawrence county, on February 22. Immediately after the sentence his counsel filed motion and grounds for a new trial.

Edgar Howell, of Betsy Layne, who was indicted jointly with Hall in the alleged theft, gained a continuance of his case until the June term.

Members of the Chestnut Gap church accused the two men of breaking in to the church, which is near the Mayo Trail, while they were en route to Ashland and then stealing the church stove and taking it to Ashland in their truck along with other scrap metal. The church members also testified they later identified the stove at an Ashland junk yard.

Following the alleged theft the two men were arrested in this county and later taken to Louisa by the Lawrence county sheriff, Proctor Pyffe.

It's A Grand Old World

Every now and then you meet a man who'll tell you what a great place this world of ours is . . . and nine chances out of ten he's a fellow who has no financial worries. It's a grand and glorious feeling to be in his shoes, isn't it? The surprising thing is that it is not so difficult to put yourself in his place. An average income can be so invested that it will provide luxuries otherwise unattainable. This is a service we are giving to scores of families constantly . . . a service available to all.

home with his bride's parents, but this offer he courteously rejected, explaining that "No house is big enough for two families."

So to Turkey Creek Mr. and Mrs. Turner went and there, ignoring the warning that "the land is wore out," rented a farm owned by Isom Moore for $20 a year. The home they outfitted with home-made furniture. And they worked—worked hard. Sometimes as late as 11 o'clock at night in his "new ground" Bill Turner toiled. And he sold corn, every year of the five he spent on Isom Moore's "wore out" acres. By Christmas of 1908 he had saved $1,200, and with this he bought from John G. Turner his first piece of property—a tract of 140 acres on Sizemore Branch, a tract which he still owns.

From that good day to this, W. J. Turner has been working, saving, trading and buying. Now he is Floyd county's largest individual taxpayer in the matter of dollars and cents. As for weight, he tips the scales at 350 pounds. And today he will walk two miles just to trade cows with a neighbor.

And he's still working. From 12 to 16 hours a day. Not because he must, nor because of a desire for more wealth, but merely for the wholesome reason that he enjoys "dealing and trading" with folks.

"I have never wasted a half-day's work in my life on whisky," Mr. Turner says. Yet he is no teetotaler. He doesn't use tobacco. He is always ready and willing to donate to the relief of the needy. Every day, scores of men and women come to him for sound advice or financial aid; very few go away disappointed. The goodwill of children he respects very highly, and often expresses the belief that an ounce of reasoning is worth more with a child than a pound of punishment.

Looking back from his lowly start, Big Bill advises the young fellow starting out that "Nothing risked is nothing gained." Yet he would emphasize to youngsters the importance of hard work, honesty and the sound policy of spending less than what you earn.

All three of his sons, Ernest, Raymond and Roe, are also merchants. Of his four daughters—Madge, Malle, Mrs. Wm. Martin and Mrs. Bill Arrowood—two are teachers.

And the man who was wise enough to take sound advice, even from a drunk, isn't a bit "high-hat" today. If you have some advice worth passing along, he's always ready to lend an ear.

tion now has 86 members, 69 of whom have been enrolled in the game conservation movement since the last meeting two weeks ago.

C. A. Horne, president, expressed the club's dissatisfaction with the comparatively small quota of quail sent this week for distribution in Floyd county. The committee handling distribution of the birds reported to Mr. Horne that the shipment to Floyd county was short of the 75 reported en route here.

Introduced to other members of the association, and making brief talks were Mitchell Daniels, Auxier; Mr. Goes, Prestonsburg and Auxier; V. A. Hays, Langley; Magistrate Joe Prater, Hueysville, who brought three sportsmen with him; Arnold Cassidy, Langley; J. J. Hatcher, president of the Prestonsburg Co-Operative Business Association; Constable Marvin Marshall, Water Gap; Judge Hill and Mr. Campbell, of Wayland. From Mud Creek at the upper limits of the county to Auxier at the lower, sportsmen attended.

placed in class "B." Director of Supervision Mark Godman recently informed Superintendent Town Hall.

Schools given the highest rating and their principals are Prestonsburg, Clayborne Stephens; Betsy Layne, D. W. Howard; Garrett, Curtis Owens; Martin, Monroe Wicker; Maytown, V. O. Turner; McDowell, George L. Moore; Wayland, Boone Hall, and Wheelwright, Wayne Ratliff.

Because their high school enrollment totaled fewer than 100 students, Auxier and the Wheelwright colored school were given the rating of "B." With the exception of the latter, which was raised from a "B emergency," the ratings are the same as they were last year.

Mrs. Josie Hale, 70, Blue River, Dies Tuesday Night

Mrs. Josie Hale, 70 years old, Blue River, died at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, Tuesday night, following the amputation of her leg, which had been infected for several months.

Her husband, the late Ben Hale, died about four years ago, and she leaves no children.

Funeral services were held Thursday morning at Blue River, and burial was made in the family cemetery there, under the direction of the Arnold Funeral Home.

Presbyterian Auxiliary Officers Installed

Installation of officers of the Presbyterian Auxiliary, Prestonsburg, was marked Tuesday by an all-day meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank H. Layne, where a delicious spaghetti dinner was served.

Mrs. Jack E. Spurlin was inducted as president; Mrs. Wall Hamilton, secretary; Mrs. Joe Hill treasurer.

Others attending were Mesdames E. E. Clarke, Ralph Davis, W. C. Rimmer, E. R. Burke, E. H. Sowards, J. G. Archer, J. D. Thomas, R. H. Koch, Milton Cyrus.

Babe's Body Found Monday Morning

If authorities could catch up with the mother of the babe whose body, skull crushed to a pulp, was found at the roadside opposite Tram early Monday morning, or could identify her attendant, a murder charge would result, Coroner Elliott Prater indicated Tuesday.

The baby, a boy, may not have survived, even with the best of care, but the Coroner's jury held that it came to its death at hands unknown. Mr. Prater in his report to THE TIMES, said, "If the child lived for a minute, and was cast aside to die, the act was murder, the same as if it had lived to be a hundred years old."

The Rev. Joe Smith and Mrs. Ballard Scalf found the little body, a short distance above Ollie Caldwell's store. It is believed that the mother gave birth to the babe in an auto and cast the child aside. The body was at the Ryan Funeral Home, Martin, Monday afternoon.

BONDED Kentucky Par THE FINEST QUALITY BOURBON at its very best. REMEMBER, NO BETTER WHISKEY CAN BE MADE

"I'VE ADVISED A LOT OF PEOPLE TO BUY A PONTIAC!"

"A lot of people look at the size and quality of a Pontiac and decide without ever investigating that Pontiac's price is beyond their reach."

"They spot me in my big, new Pontiac and inquire how I can afford it. Few realize that Pontiac's price is right down with the lowest."

"I tell them to take a good look at a Pontiac price tag. It's an eye-opener. And that's why I'm driving a Pontiac."

"I never miss a chance to show off my Pontiac. There isn't a smoother engine on earth, and I'm getting three to four more miles a gallon."

IT'S AMAZING the impression of high-priced luxury the low-priced Pontiac has given to the American public. In a recent survey, nine out of ten people guessed the Pontiac price from $100 to $200 higher than the actual figure. And 49% of those who guessed so high said it was worth that difference!

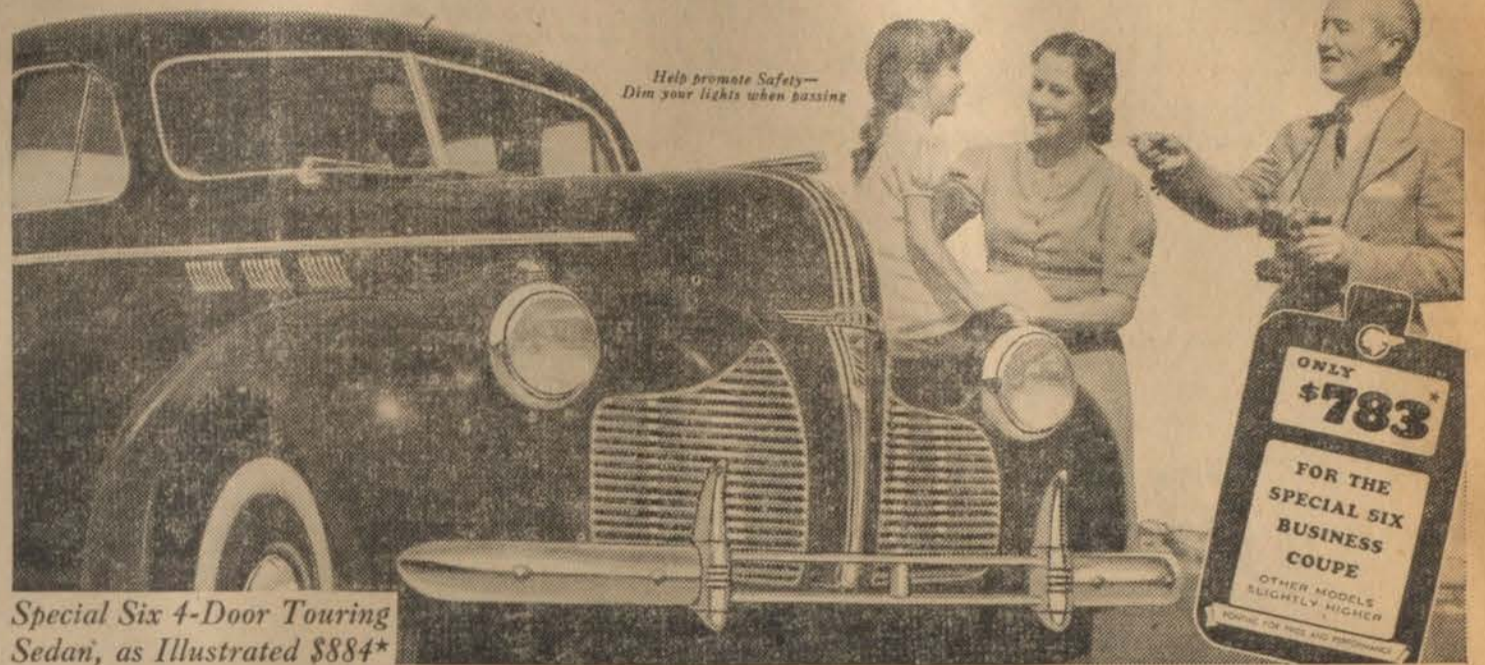

IT'S HUMAN NATURE to let your friends in on a good thing. That's why Pontiac owners are so busy advising their friends to buy the new 1940 Pontiac.

They're pointing out that, at a price right down with the lowest, Pontiac delivers you a big, long-wheelbase car—wide-seated and roomy—furnished and finished in luxurious fashion—and powered by a power-packed engine that challenges the gasoline economy of the smallest cars.

Why postpone that big-car, quality-car thrill? What's to stop you, when a big, beautiful Pontiac costs so little?

*Delivered at Pontiac, Mich. Transportation based on rail rates, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories—extra. Prices subject to change without notice. A General Motors Value.

Farm Plan Gives AAA Information

Floyd farmers who participate in the 1940 AAA program have until April 15 to draw up with a local committeeman in community meeting or at the county agent's office here individual farm plans which apply the program to their farms.

In working out each farm plan, farm operations will be outlined to bring the greatest benefits to the farmer through his participation in the farm program, it is announced. The farmer will get first-hand information about soil-building practices needed on the farm and how he may be eligible for the maximum assistance under the farm program.

The farm plan, a copy of which each farmer will receive when he talks with his county committeeman, also contains valuable information regarding classification of crops, maximum payments, soil-building practice credits, and similar data.

Any farm operator who does not have the opportunity within the next few weeks to work out a farm plan should notify his local committeeman or the county office that he wishes to do so. In order to qualify for payment under the 1940 farm program, the farm plan must be filed in the county office on or before April 13.

W'wright Hi To Have Football Team This Fall

With all the necessary equipment already bought and arrangements for the playing field completed, Wheelwright high school next fall will add football to its list of other athletic activities, Coach Walter Price has announced.

Inauguration of the game there is being made possible largely through the efforts and co-operation of Inland Steel Company officials.

Coach Price has started spring practice, with about 60 candidates, whose weight averages about 125 pounds, working out for the team. Efforts are being made to schedule home-and-home spring practice games with the Van Lear Bank Mules.

This fall the new team will play an eight-game schedule. Teams already contacted for games include Van Lear, Hazard, Fleming, Prestonsburg, and Belfry; St. Charles, St. Paul and East Pound Gap, Va.; Kermit, Delbarton and Matewan, W. Va. Possibility of the organization of a team at Wayland high school has been discussed. If the move is successful, the two teams probably will meet next fall.

TRAVEL BULLETIN TODAY'S ROADS

Eastern Kentucky Automobile Club

About Skidding

When wet road surfaces reduce the traction of the tires, when a vehicle rounds a curve at too great a speed, when defective brakes are suddenly applied, when tires are unable to firmly grip a wet or muddy pavement or loose sand or gravel, then a driver may expect to skid.

Although there are more skids and thus more accidents in winter, the month to month toll of fatal accidents from skidding varies but little. Experience shows that in bad weather, drivers are on the alert and guard against them, to the end that relatively few serious accidents are reported. Conversely, when motorists least expect to skid they travel at higher speeds. Then if a skid occurs, it results in a serious crash.

Skidding is an essential element in the cause of many car accidents. During the past four years, four of every 100 drivers involved in accidents were thrown from their intended direction of travel by skids, and 10 of every 100 accidents were caused by operating too fast for the existing condition of the road surface prior to the collisions.

All authorities seem to agree that the way to prevent a skid is to expect it and deal with it before it happens. The use of the brake and the speed at which one travels are leading factors in keeping out of trouble. So the first requisite is to maintain well-adjusted and well-balanced brakes. The second is to drive around curves or on slippery roads at speeds which should make braking unnecessary. A brake that locks or drags will throw a car out of control even on dry pavement and on a straight-away and to brake on a curve or brake suddenly on an unreliable road surface is poor driving. When rounding a curve, brake before reaching it, enter at a slackened speed, but accelerate slightly as you round it. When necessary to stop on slippery pavement leave clutch engaged and apply brakes carefully, touching them only lightly and intermittently. When starting on an extremely slippery surface place the gear in second and slowly, very slowly, and carefully engage the clutch.

Unless a car is traveling at an exorbitant rate of speed as it goes into a skid, it need not be fatal. If one keeps cool, keeps a firm grip on the wheel, and steers in the direction one is skidding, he can straighten out of it.

Skids often end in collision with fixed objects, other motor vehicles, railroad trains, and pedestrians, and severe damage may result. Or a skid may end in an overturned vehicle with serious injury to the occupants. Questions, therefore, arise as to who is liable because it is so easy to blame it "on the skid." For one's own protection, both to one's body and one's pocketbook be alert to skids! A skid may be a sufficient explanation to discount a charge of negligence but nevertheless, a driver may be made to bear any less that is sustained.

"DARKNESS"

Darkness greatly complicates the pedestrian problem.

The man on foot tends to make the mistake of believing that he can be seen by the driver from a far greater distance than is actually possible. The lights of the car make the vehicle easily visible to the pedestrian at a considerable distance. But the pedestrian is not seen by the driver until he is relatively close. This is true even under the most favorable seeing conditions. If rain, snow, fog or other conditions reduce the driver's visibility, the pedestrian can be seen only at a surprisingly short distance ahead.

The hazards of the pedestrian at night are so varied according to the road illumination, car lights and pedestrian clothing. By wearing something white or carrying a lighted lantern, the man on foot conceivably increases the distance at which he can be seen.

The tendency of pedestrians is to place too much faith in approaching drivers. The pedestrian thinks that the motorist can see him and will automatically slow down to let him pass. But thinking isn't enough—you've got to be sure.

Drivers aren't any better mind readers than pedestrians, and it is often difficult for them to know just what the pedestrian's next move will be. So be a little more considerate of the motorist when crossing the streets and walking along the highways, especially at night. A motorist has just as much right to expect the person afoot to observe the rules of traffic as the pedestrian does the driver.

Inasmuch as adult fatalities occur chiefly at night, it cannot be over-emphasized that the person who goes walking after dusk on the highway should protect himself by making sure of being seen by motorists. To walk on the highway at night in all dark clothing is sheer folly. The things that can be done by pedestrians to increase their visibility include: Carry a flashlight or lantern; wear a white shirt, coat, suit, pants, dress or shoes; hold a white handkerchief conspicuously opened; knot a handkerchief on the arm; carry a newspaper

Heart Ailment Claims Craynor Woman

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Hamilton Stone, of Craynor, who succumbed to a heart ailment at her home Monday, March 25, were conducted from the home Tuesday of last week, with the Rev. Bill Hall officiating.

Surviving are her parents, Squire and Mrs. Nancy Hamilton; her husband, Blaine Stone, and three small children, all of Craynor.

Burial was made in the family cemetery at Craynor, under the direction of the Ryan Funeral Home.

SHIKE'S POKES

The views expressed in this column are those of the writer, and not necessarily those of The Times.

Senator Taft let his foot slip when he said, "None of the R.E.A. Cooperatives are paying their way." Yet, better than five out of seven, are paying their way.

We were always told by our parents to be good and we'd grow up to be President. Seems as if Tom Dewey wants to do away with the "growing up."

It's a deplorable fact that none of the propagandists ever shoot square with F.D.R. and the New Deal. They yell about taxes spending and unemployment. Yet under F.D.R. our national income has doubled and without F.D.R. we'd probably have 20,000,000 unemployed instead of 10,000,000. The Republicans yell "Rugged Individualism." Well, rugged individualism won't create jobs. Constructive criticism helps and we all know the WPA is not perfect—but why don't some of these knockers bring forth something better?

The Messrs. Dewey and Taft can go on knocking—a hammer has no brains and the handle is a poor backbone.

The "Easter Bunny" turned out to be a March hare.

The Courier-Journal asks, "Will the Kentucky delegation stand by F.D.R.?" If they don't—they had better not come back to Kentucky.

That old road through Drift certainly needs fixing. A man was injured in Stallard Branch and he had to be brought out in men's laps, sitting flat on a truck. Cars and ambulances cannot get up this road. Considering the large number of people depending on this road and since the WPA has allocated almost $50,000 for Floyd county, why not fix up this road? If our officials really really want to help the largest number of people with the smallest outlay—that old road at Drift is the place.

Hazel Green sounds like a "sissy" name but there's nothing sissy about a bunch that scalped the Indians and skinned the Tomcats on the same day.

Wheeler Named Head Of Ashland Schools

Arville Wheeler, a professor in the Colorado State Teachers' College, and a nephew of Ex-Judge C. B. Wheeler, Prestonsburg was named last week as superintendent of Ashland schools.

Mr. Wheeler, a graduate of Centre College and the University of Chicago, is a former superintendent of both the Johnson county schools and the Paintsville city schools.

whom I'm going to accuse of being a man, the first seven letters of whose name spell Sherman: "Editor, The Times: "Was really grieved when I read in The Herald today that you had "gone nuts" and ran amuck in the streets of Prestonsburg. Hope you are suffering nothing more than a fit of temporary insanity and that the malady will not last. Cheer up—Your condition is the fate which overtakes all country newspaper editors; especially is this true in a jerkwater town like Prestonsburg. "Convey my deepest sympathy to Mrs. Allen and the little Allens."

PROUD J. D. Bob Harlowe, to acquaintance: "Why, you don't expect cigars from me, father of a girl baby!" J. D. Bond: "Have a cigar!" But the boy was born on April 1 and most of us were cautiously courteous enough to refuse J. D.'s smokes.

HA! WE GET A CHANCE TO CORRECT SOMEBODY ELSE! Duke Ridgley got a few things wrong, but it seems that his heart was in the right place, even if he did have some of his places wrong. Wrote the Duke in his Herald-Dispatch column Tuesday: "If you have never been to Drift, Ky., in the grand old county of Pike, you have never been anywhere and you haven't seen anything yet . . . Mitchell Day at Wheelwright Junction, on April Fool's Day, was something colossal . . . Orchids to Charles Preston, Roy Akers, Robert Shay, Claude Hutchinscn, Tom Raney and B. F. Reed, whose hospitality is boundless and their spirit of the Blue Grass is unsurpassed anywhere in the U.S.A."

Just for the record, this chronicler would remind the Duke that Drift is in the good, old county of Floyd and that the only kind of day Wheelwright enjoyed, April 1, was John L. Lewis Day. Now there was a time, Duke, when we would have joined you in saying that Left Beaver Creek towns are in Pike county, but we, the Highway Commission and the boys from Left Beaver have, or are, outgrowing all that. As for the orchids passed out to these Left Beaver boys, we have no correction to make.

PERSONAL—VERY! Asked this week if she knew "any personals for the paper," Mrs. E. H. Sowards back-cracked, "Sure, and this is very personal. I was—(deleted by censor) years old yesterday." What a woman, thus to defy the conventions!

MUNITIONS SALESMAN Best crack we've heard recently was Bud White's at a recent meeting of the Fish and Game Association here, at which every dynamiter of fish had been getting the very dickens. Quoth Bud when called upon to introduce himself: "Bud White, Prestonsburg—dynamite salesman."

A. B. Osborne, Martin, was named foreman of the grand jury. Tuesday morning, 33 true bills had been returned.

True bills returned were unavailable for listing by THE TIMES this week. Among the first convictions made by juries at the present term were the following:

Dennis Ward, charged with reckless use of a deadly weapon, $50 fine and ten days in jail; Frank Hopkins, carrying concealed deadly weapon, $50 fine and ten days in jail; Rev. Will Warrick and Rose Kinzer, adultery and fornication, each fined $25.

feet from the spot where the child was struck.

The victim had alighted from Robert Waddle's auto, headed up the Beaver highway, and had walked around the rear of the car to cross the road en route to her grandmother's home when struck. Coroner Elliott Prater said Bierman's brakes required pumping twice before "taking." The child's skull was crushed and death was almost instantaneous.

Surviving the little victim are her mother and many other relatives. Funeral rites were conducted Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, the Rev. C. C. Newsome, of the Methodist Church, Maytown, officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery at Northern, under the direction of the Ryan Funeral Home.

2 Dead, 2 Wounded

Martin told County Attorney Short that, after he and young Clarke had left the home, Clarke and Hall accompanied him to the home of Sam Adkins and John Martin and procured the pistol from which the fatal shot was fired. He said the other two men encouraged him to return to the Clarke home and awaited his return from the lethal mission. Hall was arrested and jailed here, but Clarke had not been apprehended Monday afternoon.

The Drift fray is said to have resulted from Deputy Constable Hall's attempt to arrest Lee Edward "Boss" Daniels, kinsman of Jones, on a charge of drunkenness. As Daniels resisted, according to the report received here, Jones appeared in the crowd which gathered, told the officer that he could not arrest Daniels and opened fire. The grand jury, following an investigation of the shooting, returned indictments against Thomas and Curt Jones, Deputy Constable Hall and Daniels, charging each with shooting and wounding. Incorporated in the shooting and wounding indictment against Jones and Daniels was the charge of aiding and abetting the shooting and wounding of Hall.

The officer is in the Beaver Valley hospital where he was said to have a "fighting chance" to recover from five bullet wounds which penetrated both lungs, his liver, one leg and his side in two places. Jones, shot two times, one bullet entering his right side and emerging near the spine, the other entering his left side and lodging in his hip, was said at the Martin General hospital to have a "fair chance" of recovery. During the melee Bill Elliott, a deputy game warden, was slashed about the throat. Bill Wicker, a brother of Mart Wicker for whose slaying Cluett Messer and Policeman Allen Stone, Lackey, are to stand trial this month, was shot while sitting in his restaurant opposite the Stumbo Memorial hospital. A rifle bullet passed through the glass portion of the restaurant door, struck Wicker in the back of his head and, exploding, almost decapitated him.

His wife, small daughter and others were in the restaurant when the shot was fired, it was said here. Identity of the gunman has not been established. John Sturgill, a resident of the vicinity in which the shooting took place, was quoted as saying he saw a black coupe turn on the highway, a short distance above Wicker's restaurant, and stop at the scene of the shooting. A man was said to have been seen as he leaped into the car, which dashed away.

Wicker is said to have expressed fear of a violent death. Surviving are his widow and several children. Funeral services were conducted from the home Monday, and burial was made in the family cemetery on Jones Fork, with the Arnold Funeral Home in charge. Calvin Clarke is survived by his widow and the following children: Juanita, John Lee, Beatrice, Revis, Russell, Kenneth, Barbara and Palmer Clarke, all of Branham's Creek; one brother, Lee Clarke, Cincinnati; two sisters, Mrs. Clara Combs, Letcher county, and Mrs. Victoria Adkins, Pauley, Ky.

Funeral rites were conducted Sunday from the home, the Revs. S. G. Rice and Johnny King officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery under the direction of the Ryan Funeral Home.

Quail Distributed On Floyd Farms

Seventy-five quail arrived Sunday for distribution on Floyd county farms, owners of which gave members of the Floyd County Game and Fish Association assurance that birds will be protected. County Agent S. L. Isbell, representing the lower section of the county, distributed 29 of the birds to 14 association members; C. A. Horne, Harold, association president, placed 21 quail on Little Mud Creek farms, while Wayne Stumbo, Drift, distributed the remaining 25 on Right and Left Beaver Creeks. Johnson county, at the same time, received a shipment of 300 quail for re-stocking purposes. The Johnson county game club last year is said to have contributed $100 to the state Fish and Game Division.

James Vaughan, 75, Dies at Lexington

Funeral services for James Vaughan, 75, well-known Middle Creek farmer, who died early Tuesday night at the Eastern State hospital at Lexington, were conducted from the home today (Thursday). Surviving are his widow and two brothers. Burial was made in the family cemetery on Middle Creek under the direction of the Arnold Funeral Home. Saturday night, April 6, is the time and Garrett is the place for the next Fish and Game Club meeting.
