EASTERN KENTUCKY TO PRESENT WEEKLY RADIO PROGRAM FROM U-K.

The usual policy of the University of Kentucky in sending radio programs to Eastern Kentucky will be reversed this summer when the mountain people themselves will present a radio show.
Each Saturday, starting June 1, the program entitled, "From the Kentucky Mountains" will be broadcast from the U-K studios through WHAS, Louisville, 12:30 to 1 p. m. Various U-K Listening Centers will be responsible for the various programs, and they will in turn send to Lexington a musical group and three people from the vicinity of their Listening Centers who will be interviewed on such subjects as their customs, traditions, farming practices and other phases of their everyday life.

The mountain musical groups will vary greatly. One center in southern Breathitt county will send a vested choir. Other centers have promised mountain ballad singers, and of course the guitar, fiddle, and harmonica will be much in evidence on these programs.
Besides the mountain talent, a Lexington religious quartet and soloist will appear on every program.
Bringing such programs to the University of Kentucky studios in Lexington is a novel experiment, and it is hoped, will provide a way of giving to the world an insight into the wealth of balladry, folklore, tradition and story that is the heritage of the people of Eastern Kentucky.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

We may have seemed to give all the publicity in this column to the Democrats, and if we have done this, it is because they are in power and there fore more news.

This week the Republicans are fighting for their county conventions and state convention for control of the party in this state.

Here is a line-up in the battle: Judge King Swope, Tom Yates, Bob Lucas and others want a state delegation to the national convention instructed for Dewey, Republican presidential candidate.

J. M. Perkins, Judge Willis, Maurice Galvin and others of the opposing faction want an uninstructed delegation to go to the national convention.

The Swope-Yates faction won out in the Republican Governor's primary and the convention battle this week may decide control of the party in this state.

Kentucky is an important state for the Republicans, and three presidential candidates already have visited it in their battle for delegates. Frank Gannett, Taft and Dewey have all visited Louisville and made speeches.

The present trend of Republican thought is that Taft has the best chance, with Wendell Wilkie as the dark horse, who may win the nomination.

Commissioner of Agriculture W. H. May announced recently that his office would lend every possible assistance to County Fair Associations in the organization of their fair program for 1940.

Commissioner May stated that it was his belief that all fairs, regardless of size or location, were principally agricultural exhibitions and that as such they should be devoted to the benefit of farmers generally and contribute their share toward improved farming practices by offering premiums for improved breeds of livestock and superior products of the soil.

According to a bulletin issued by the Department of Agriculture a few weeks ago there were 48 county fairs held in Kentucky in 1939 with an attendance of 272,200 persons. Indications are that approximately 60 fairs will be held in 1940 and a large increase in attendance is expected.

Any counties planning fairs or exhibits can get much valuable advice and assistance through Bill May, who is greatly interested in crop improvement, and who believes that the farmers should receive some material recognition for their effort in producing better crops.

LOUISVILLE MAKES VISIT HERE

There is no part of Kentucky with a more compelling lure for Louisville business men than the Blue Grass and Mountain areas of the eastern half of the state.

Here is one of the most beautiful scenic sections in America and one of the richest in natural resources.

So when the Louisville Board of Trade plans its annual Spring Outing it is always occasion for jubilation when it is announced—as for the 1940 tour—"It's the Blue Grass and Mountains this year."

The Louisville party of 100 comes to see the growth and progress of twenty-six Eastern Kentucky cities, to talk over problems of good roads, transportation, reciprocal trade relations and similar subjects.

They will be mighty glad to meet business and professional men, civic leaders and the ladies and the children when their special train arrives in—

TRI-STATE NEWSPAPER MEN ARE HUNTINGTON GUESTS
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE INVITES PUBLISHERS FOR INSPECTION OF NEW FLOOD WALL

Eastern Kentucky, West Virginia and Southern Ohio newspapermen visited a peaceful "battle front" Saturday.

Though they were accompanied by U. S. army officers, they were "permitted" to visit the "front" by civilians—and not a censor was in sight.

The "front" was the scene of the city of Huntington's defense against the Ohio river.

Stricken in 1937 by an unprecedented flood during which five lives were lost, an estimated property damage of $18,000,000 was sustained and 5,000 persons rendered homeless, the city's Chamber of Commerce immediately instituted a program which led to construction by the federal government and the city of Huntington of a flood-wall which is designed to cover the waterfront that a repetition of that disaster is inconceivable.

That was the battle front the newspapermen visited as guests of the Chamber of Commerce last week.

Subjugation of Ol' Man River in Huntington is being effected by construction of a floodwall extending approximately 12 miles along the Ohio and providing protection for the entire city within its corporate limits. Total cost of the undertaking will reach approximately $11,000,000.

In addition to the floodwall,—constructed of concrete and earth levees,—the program embraces installation of 18 pumping stations varying in capacity from 10,000 to 500,000 gallons per minute.

The wall is being built to a height of three feet past the level of the 1937 flood, the greatest in the history of the city. Pumps already installed and set to be placed will rid the city of water entering by way of the sewers.

Though not entirely completed, the floodwall and pumping system during the April flood this year saved the city from any property damage or any curtailment of any business activities.

The newspapermen were guests at the Golden Jubilee Anniversary banquet of the Chamber of Commerce Friday evening at the Hotel Prichard, at which Major Imbrie, editor of the Columbus (O.) Dispatch, discussed world problems as created by the European situation and the ascendancy of dictators.

Inland Gas Corp. Loses Appeal For Review

The Inland Gas Corporation lost in the Supreme Court in Washington Monday its attempt to obtain a review of a decision dismissing its anti-trust suit against the Columbia Gas and Electric Corporation.

The suit, in which the Inland charged Columbia with violating the Clayton Anti-Trust Act and asked $52,668.926 damages, had been dismissed by both the Federal District and Federal Circuit Courts at Philadelphia on the ground that more than three years had expired since the alleged anti-trust violation.

The Inland, which operated in Kentucky, alleged that through purchase of its capital stock Columbia had substantially lessened competition. Columbia was described as operating in Kentucky, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Michigan and New York through 60 subsidiaries.

The Inland suit alleged that a syndicate was formed in 1930 to construct a natural gas transmission line from Kentucky to Detroit that would compete with Columbia.

Inland's Supreme Court petition alleged that to prevent competition Columbia purchased control of Inland and other companies formed to take title to the pipe line and upon obtaining control placed Inland in receivership.

"The receiver appointed had been in Columbia's employ and, after receivership, continued to take orders from Columbia," Inland alleged.

BREWERS WILL CO-OPERATE IN ACTION AGAINST UNDESIRABLE RETAILERS

Louisville, Ky., May 25—Immediate cooperative action with law enforcement authorities will be taken against undesirable retail beer licensees, Frank E. Daugherty, state director of the Kentucky Brewers and Beer Distributors Committee, announced today.

Mr. Daugherty, former Attorney General for Kentucky and member of the 1938-40 state Legislature, was named director at the recent organization meeting of the committee in Louisville. Kentucky brewers and beer distributors, members of the new body sponsored by the United Brewers Industrial Foundation, pledged themselves to adopt and enforce a "clean up or close up" campaign in the state similar to programs inaugurated by the Foundation in other states.

After setting up an executive committee composed of six brewers and six distributors, the committee authorized Mr. Daugherty full power to carry out aims and objectives of the program. They instructed him to "crack down on the near-sighted minority which would abuse the privilege of their retail beer permits" and thereby project the interests of a vast majority of Kentucky beer retailers from the few who resort to such actions.

Governor Keen Johnson, Attorney General Hubert Meredith, Commissioner of Revenue H. Clyde Reeves and other public officials sent congratulatory wires to the state director and committee praising the program and welcoming the organization to Kentucky.

Kentucky beer distributors named to the executive committee are: Harry Nevels, Corbin; Frand Hendrickson, Maysville; C. P. Creedle, Paducah; J. B. Hatmaker, Pikeville; T. M. Beard, Shelbyville, and Marvin Nunley, Owensboro.

Kentucky brewer members: Frank Fehr, C. W. Bornwasser, and Karl H. Lang, all of Louisville; Walter Gruner, Covington, and H. T. Balcom, Jr., Newport. The sixth brewer member, an out-of-state brewer will be named later.

Ten districts were set up in the state with chairmen of these sections to be named at a later date and meetings will be held in each of the districts in the near future to acquaint distributors with committee aims and plans. These committees will aid the state director in the execution of various phases of the program.
