MIDDLE CREEK WORK PLANS SHROUDED IN SECRECY

"Informed sources" here maintained a deep silence this week as rumors of contracting on the Middle Creek railroad, plans of the Island Creek Coal Company for huge operation-investments in that section and hints of a "captive" mine (an operation similar to that of Wheelwright where the mines are owned by the Inland Steel Company) were heard.

It was reported, however, that abstracting of titles to what may become the right-of-way for the 10-mile railway line was under way here.

Authoritative sources said Tuesday night in Huntington that substantially more than a majority of 27,000 shares outstanding in the Beaver Creek Consolidated Coal Company has been acquired or optioned by Michael Gallagher of Cleveland. Mr. Gallagher, understood to be acting for unknown principals, was said to be seeking all outstanding stock.

Reached at Cleveland, Mr. Gallagher, a Chesapeake & Ohio executive, refused comment. In financial circles it was said that the purchase of the Beaver Creek stock was not a Chesapeake & Ohio project.

Principal holdings of Beaver Creek shares in Huntington, including those of W. F. Hite estate and of C. L. Ritter, the company's president, were said to be among those already acquired by Mr. Gallagher.

Should all of the 27,000 shares be acquired at the figure reportedly being offered the consideration would total approximately $1,000,000.

Beaver Creek Consolidated is not a coal producing company. Its properties consist of approximately 50,000 acres in Floyd and Knott counties in Kentucky, acquired originally by Isaac T. Mann of Bramwell; John C. C. Mayo of Ashland, Ky.; and William F. Hite, Huntington. Of the total Beaver Creek land holdings, 14,000 acres are being developed by lease-holding companies.

C. L. Ritter is president, Sam A. Taylor, Pittsburgh, vice-president, C. M. Cohen, treasurer, and W. L. Gentry, secretary of the Beaver Creek Consolidated Coal Company.

Prestonsburg Stores Close Thanksgiving

Prestonsburg merchants will observe Thursday, November 21, as Thanksgiving Day, in compliance with the declaration of President Roosevelt and Governor Keen Johnson. Stores will be closed all day.

This Town-- That World

MAN OF MANY "ALIASES"

What's in a name? Well, see what the Associated Press folks making out of the moniker of Dr. Josef Nordenhaug, former pastor of Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church here, now pastor of the Vinton (Va.) Memorial Baptist Church:

His collection of envelopes shows these versions of his last name: Worenkantz, Nordanhang, Nordenhog, Nordenham, Nordang, Hasdenhaug, Aidenburg, Hordenhour, Vandenbaug, and Needahug.

That, for a guy named Joe!

HEARD HERABOUTS

Your roving reporter circulated around and about this week, and what he heard about the election he reports:

... I oughta call Roosevelt the poll-vaulter. I'm for That Man, next time. I wanna be on the band wagon. Willie didn't do so bad—goody! ... D-r them polls. Roosevelt is a Vinty dear friend o' mine—he cost me 25 smackers!

OFFER HOMES FOR HOMELESS

We know nothing about these folks, but they surely are good. They are the Rest Harbor Rural Association, Inc., Lockport, Ky., and they write County Judge E. P. Hill that they have some free homes for good, homeless girls. The Association also writes that it has some calls for babies, about two years old.

Garrett Man Dies Of Paralysis Sunday

Harry H. Stansbury, 73 years old, Garrett, died at his home Sunday, after having suffered a paralytic stroke seven weeks before.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Victoria Stansbury, Garrett; three daughters, Mrs. Virgie Bellomy, Garrett; Mrs. Goldie Justice, Pinson Fork, and Mrs. Ethel Cecil, Logan, Ohio; four sons, Malcolm, Meeker and Edgar Stansbury, all of Louisa, and Milton Stansbury, Harold.

Funeral services were conducted from the Methodist Church at Garrett Tuesday, with the Rev. C. C. Newsum, pastor of the Maytown Methodist Church, officiating. The body was taken to Louisa, where burial was made under the direction of the Ryan Funeral Home.

W'WRIGHT TIPS LOUISA, 14-13

FULLBACK'S SMASHES INTO LIGHT LINE, FEATURE

Featuring Cordell, powerhouse fullback, with the help of an able supporting cast, Wheelwright's first-year football team Saturday afternoon defeated Louisa on the Lawrence county field, 14-13.

An unidentified (to us) announcer droned over the loud-speaker system through the game, "Cordell through the line for 10 yards, Cordell off-tackle for six yards, Cordell on an end run to the seven-yard line. . . . Offensively and defensively, the big boy in his first year of gridiron entertainment for the boys who sit on the sidelines too old to play, but old enough to second-guess, yell for more action from those who can and are able to mix it up, was the sensation of the game."

It would have been a shame for Wheelwright to have faced that fighting gang of Louisa Bulldogs without Cordell. And it would have been a massacre for Louisa to have faced the Floyd countians without the services of Childers, one of the speediest backs on this or any other man's river.

Two bad passes from center and penalties at critical moments probably cost the Left Beaver Creek boys at least one touchdown, and, maybe, two, early in the game. To start off the fireworks, Cordell began with a series of line plays at the beginning of the second quarter from mid-field, interspersed this with an end-run on which

RED CROSS QUITS RELIEF WORK IN FRANCE

As Floyd Chapter's drive for funds for the American Red Cross began Monday, Armistice Day, announcement was made that the Red Cross had decided to cease its relief work in France and practically withdraw all its field forces from the country.

Floyd countians have been interested, since France succumbed to Hitler's armed forces, in knowing where their contributions are going—and this is given as the answer to that question.

This, in effect, leaves England and sympathetic countries as the beneficiaries of whatever Red Cross funds and supplies that may go overseas. Donors have expressed the fear that their desire to help in a humanitarian way may help the dictator-countries to feed their own armies and peoples.

Medicines as well as foodstuffs and clothing are necessary for the relief of hungry, suffering women and children in war-torn countries, where suffering of the helpless is the rule rather than the exception, Miss Ella Noel C. White, executive secretary, Floyd Chapter, pointed out this week.

No definite quota has been set for Floyd county, according to Mrs. F. L. Heinze, Red Cross chairman.

Floyd county's Red Cross contribution is urgently needed—for local needs as well as those who innocently suffer overseas, it was said. The drive for funds will continue till Thanksgiving.

"Those who have room in their hearts for pity for those who suffer through no fault of their own, whether they live in America or in bomb-scourged Europe, will surely find a bit of help in their pocketbooks to help in this drive to save human life rather than to destroy it," a local Red Cross official said Monday as the drive began.

TRUCK DRIVER CHARGED

AS BODY OF HALE FOUND IN DITCH NEAR EMMA

Gene Harris, son of Malcolm Harris, well-known Prestonsburg man, was arrested Sunday morning by Police-man Arthur Blackburn and a state highway patrolman on a manslaughter warrant issued by County Judge E. P. Hill, Jr., after the body of Robert Hale, 47, of Bull Creek, had been found lying in the ditch near Emma Saturday night, was held to have been the victim of a hit-run driver.

Harris, driver of Spurlock's bakery truck, operating out of Prestonsburg, was quoted by authorities as saying that if his truck hit anything on the run back into Prestonsburg he was not aware of it.

Bloodstains found on the truck, housed in a Prestonsburg garage Sunday morning, were submitted Monday to analysis by a state highway patrol chemist. His findings were not made public.

Harris, released under bond, will be arraigned for examining trial Saturday.

The horse which Hale is believed to have been riding when struck died shortly after the accident. A mule accompanying the horse was uninjured, it was said.

The tragedy took place near the home of Gerald Leslie, member of the Prestonsburg high school faculty, who resides approximately six miles from here on the Mayo Trail between Prestonsburg and Allen. Authorities deduced that Hale was riding on the right side of the highway toward Prestonsburg and that the truck was trav-

VOLUNTEER LIST, UP 19

NUMBER FROM FLOYD TO BE CALLED, INDEFINITE

Voluntary enlistment during the past week of an additional 19 Floyd county men for one year's military training under the selective service act brought the total number of volunteers from this county to 50, it was reported from the two local draft boards this week.

Classification of practically all those who had volunteered up until last week had been completed, with all being classified in the 1-A group pending the outcome of physical examinations which are scheduled for Friday. Applicants in this group are classified as being available for immediate service. The actual number to be named from this county for the first call next week yet is not known definitely, members of the local boards said Wednesday.

Those who have applied for immediate service since Wednesday of last week include Ralph Webb and George D. Ratliff, both of Blue River; James Goodman, Dock; Frank Hall, Harold; John Hall, Allen; John Fannin, Osborne; Ernest Boyd, Alex Boyd, Amberson Jarrell, all of Dana; Kelly Shepherd, Myrtle; Mont Collins, Lancer; Alfred Ray Alexander and Charley Whitaker, both of Auxier; Delmar Evans, Hunter; John Dee Bradley, Martin; Jake Vinson, Johnie B. Vance, George E. Webb and Terry Tussey, all of Wayland.

Floyd Davis, Hippo, has volunteered for the three-year period.

ROOSEVELT POLLS 71 PER CENT OF FLOYD COUNTY VOTE

After undergoing the rigors of the most heated national election in a generation, and withstanding the agitation of a Congressional election that was "local" in its scope, Floyd county and every other county in the Seventh Congressional district kept Election Day peaceful and quiet.

A "break-down" shows that Roosevelt, with 9,100 votes to Willkie's 3,711, polled approximately 71 per cent of the Floyd county vote. In other words, this county in its support of FDR was around 18 per cent ahead of the remainder of the nation.

Senator Chandler's vote was 8,962 as against Walter B. Smith's 3,697, or the percentage of Chandler's vote in the county was 69 plus per cent.

Congressman May's vote was 67 plus per cent in his race against James W. Turner, Paintsville, in the face of a spirited fight for district representation.

Congressman May's lead over his district was almost 11,000 votes, a sur-

H. H. JUSTICE IS VICTIM

FORMER MERCHANT DIES FOLLOWING LONG ILLNESS

H. H. (Black) Justice, former merchant and one of Floyd county's most prominent citizens, died at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, Monday evening at 7:20 o'clock after an extended illness.

Mr. Justice was taken to the hospital from his home near Printer, 17 days prior to his passing and his wife Mrs. Helen Allen Justice, accompanying him to the hospital, sustained a broken hip in a fall as the ambulance stopped in front of the hospital. He condition was said Wednesday to be critical.

A native of this county, Mr. Justice had operated mercantile businesses at Dinwood and other Floyd communities but retired several years ago on account of advanced age and failing health. He had been for many years a member of the Christian Church and was recognized as one of the section's best men.

Surviving him are two daughters, Mrs. Proctor Hayes of Langley, and Mrs. Cora Stone of Michigan; and two sisters, Mrs. Isobel Allen, Alphoretta, and Mrs. Marm Dingus of Ohio.

Funeral rites are being conducted this afternoon (Thursday) by the Revs. T. F. Meade and Henry Parsons, of the Christian Church, near Alphoretta, under the direction of the Ryan Funeral Home.

LEGION MEET PROMISED

TO PRESTONSBURG BY COMMANDER OWENS

Tode Owens, District Commander, 10th District, American Legion, told members of Floyd Post here Saturday that they could have the winter convention of the 10th District if the local Post want it. The convention is to be held on December 7.

The Post requested Mr. Owens to bring the convention to Prestonsburg and a resolution was passed directing the Secretary and the Commander to obtain permission from the school board for use of the high school auditorium at 2:30 p. m., December 7.

A resolution was passed for the presentation by Floyd Post of a large flag to the Prestonsburg high school at the opening of the winter convention ceremonies.

J. R. Hurt, former past commander, was named chairman of a committee to organize a ladies' auxiliary. Miss Gambill, of Jenkins, president of the Auxiliary in the 10th district, attended the meeting here and gave the local committee full co-operation.

Father of Floyd Man Dies in Lawrence

Funeral services for Daniel Seters, 70 years old, of Griffith's Creek, Lawrence county, who died at his home November 1 after an illness of three months, were conducted from the home Sunday of last week. The victim was the father of Carl L. Seters, of Ivel, this county, and was a retired C. & O. carpenter.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Lucy Taylor Seters, nine other sons and one daughter.

Burial was made in the Seters family cemetery near the home.

Six Named Here To Advisory Boards

Appointment of advisory boards for each local draft board in the state to give advice and assistance to men registered under the Selective Service Law was announced Wednesday by Governor Keen Johnson.

Selective service regulations provide that each advisory board "shall normally be composed of three lawyers," and that "the chairman shall, if practicable, be a judge of a county court." Every county judge in the state was a member of one of the various boards.

The advisory boards from Floyd county are: No. 44—County Judge E. P. Hill, Jr., Joe Hobson and J. D. Harkins, Prestonsburg.

No. 45—F. P. Hall, Weeksburg; J. W. Howard and E. L. Allen, Prestonsburg.

P'BURG LOSES AT RUSSELL

HUNTER IS HELD BY WINNERS' LINE

Entering the game highly-favored to trounce a much lighter team, the Prestonsburg high school Blackcats fell victim to a speedier Russell Maroon eleven, 20-0, Saturday night at Russell, as the winners played their best football of the year.

Pre-game over-confidence of the Blackcats was shaken early in the opening period, after Russell had kicked-off the Prestonsburg opening kick-off on their own 35 and five plays later had marched over the Blackcat goal line. Quarterback Ratliff made the marker on a ten-yard slice off tackle, and he was trapped as he attempted to hit the line for the extra point.

The Prestonsburg offensive completely bogged down and the usually hard-hitting Charley Hunter, at his accustomed fullback post, was stopped repeatedly by the onrush of the lighter Russell line. However, his defensive work, as that of Herald in the line, was outstanding.

Although they made five first downs, three of them on Salisbury's plunges, the Blackcats did not threaten the Maroon goal line. Salisbury also came through with an excellent exhibition of punting.

Russell's second touchdown came in the second quarter on a cut-back executed by Halfback Caudill, and the kick for extra point clicked. They added the third marker in the third period on a series of line smashes, with Caudill finally lugging the ball across from the five. Hackworth kicked the extra point. When the game ended

PART OF REA LINE STAKED

WIRING CONTRACT IS AWARDED MORELL'S

With approximately 30 miles of the first 150 miles of the Big Sandy Rural Electric Co-operative Corporation's line in this county already staked, and another staking crew started at work Tuesday morning, actual construction on the project which will bring electricity to several hundreds of rural homes of the county is expected to be started this month.

Contract for wiring the homes already embraced in the REA program of the two counties and to be included within the next six months was awarded by the board of directors of the co-operative Monday to the Morell Supply Company, Prestonsburg. It is estimated that 500 homes will be wired under the contract.

Competing with Morell's in the bidding for the contract were the Westgate Electric Company, Columbus, O., and the Maggard Hardware Company, Paintsville. The cost per unit, under the contract, is much lower than could have been procured by each individual home-owner on the wiring and outlets.

No final acceptance of bids was made on electrical appliances because of the insufficient number of bidders. Development of an additional 150 miles of extension lines is included in immediate plans of the co-operative. Of this, 10 to 20 miles will be in Pike county, 40 to 50 miles in this county, and about the same mileage in Johnson.

Mrs. Iley B. Browning, Ashland, visited her mother, Mrs. Josie D. Harkins, here last Thursday.

LOCK AND DAM PLANS O.K.'D IN REPORT

BIG SANDY PROJECT IS STEP NEARER REALIZATION

Hopes of Big Sandy lock-and-dam enthusiasts rose a notch higher last week as the district office of army engineers, Huntington, W. Va., recommended to the Cincinnati office, U.S. Army Engineers, that roller-type dams be constructed to raise to a nine-foot stage the river to a point at the forks of the Levisa, eight miles above Pikeville.

It was reported here that the Cincinnati engineering office, after a study of the Huntington office report, will forward its recommendations on to the Bureau of Rivers and Harbors, Washington, D. C.

The entire matter devolves finally upon recommendation of the Bureau of Rivers and Harbors, river improvement supporters say.

The Huntington report followed a survey of river conditions, made by U. S. Army engineers, the hearing held at Pikeville a few months ago, all followed by Congressman A. J. May's support of the plan.

Mrs. Molly R. Ford Dies Near Here, Nov. 11th

Mrs. Molly Ramey Ford, 40 years old, widow of Thomas E. "Pomp" Ford, died Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Ford, near Lancer, where she had resided since the death of her husband two years ago. She had been ill for several months and death was ascribed to softening of the brain.

Mrs. Ford was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Ramey, of East Point. A member of the Adventist Church, she was one of the county's best women. She is survived by her father, two sons, Lewis Irvin and George Dudley; one brother, John Ramey, East Point, and five sisters: Mrs. Siller Robinson, East Point; Mrs. May Robinson, Hager Hill; Mrs. Malta Collins, Garrett; Mrs. Hester Clagett, San Diego, Calif.; Mrs. Martha Penix of Ohio.

Funeral rites were conducted Wednesday afternoon, the Rev. Isaac Stratton officiating. Burial was made in the Ford cemetery under the direction of the Arnold Funeral Home.

IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Dave Branham is a patient at the Paintsville hospital.

A DOLLAR VS. DEATH

We all like to save money; we all like to get as much wear out of our tires as we can, but the last 2,000 miles of possible mileage in a tire may be the most expensive sort of saving. Some day driving along out will go the tire with a bang and the car will swerve off the pavement and in the ditch bringing untold pain and trouble.

The last 2,000 miles on a tire are at best worth but one or two dollars in tire mileage. If the tire blows out at 50 miles per hour it may mean death. In any event, it means more trouble and expense.

Any tire store will allow as much on a trade-in as you can get in mileage and there will be no risk.

Don't take a chance to save a few miles of mileage on an old tire!

Don't dice with death for a couple of dollars!

High School Journalists
To Hold Meeting
AT U.K.

The annual mid-winter meeting of the Kentucky High School Press Association will be held at the University of Kentucky Dec. 6 and 7, under the sponsorship of the University's department of journalism, Dr. Neil Plummer, head of the department, announces.

More than 300 high school boys and girls are expected to attend the two-day conference of high school journalists this year, surpassing the 220 delegates who attended last year.

The program will include 25 professional round-tables, which will have as leaders prominent newspaper men and women and journalism teachers from throughout the state. A special edition of The Kentucky Kernel, University of Kentucky student newspaper, will be published by the high school journalists during the two-day convention, with each school furnishing one reporter to the paper.

Social events planned for the high school members of the Fourth Estate include a banquet, luncheon and dance.

AGAINST HATCH BILL!

Yes, the election is over. And neither do I have any political fish to fry. But, right in the midst of all this praise for the Hatch Bill, I want to go on record as being 100 per cent opposed to the law which prohibits an employe of our national or state governments who is either wholly or partly paid with federal funds from engaging in political activity.

I am against any law which singles out any minority group and takes away any part of their personal freedom. I think the Hatch Bill is such a law.

A red-hot political campaign, with no holds barred before election and no handovers after, is one of the healthiest signs of a true democracy. This means that anyone who has the courage of his convictions can get out and scrap for them—no matter who he works for!

The Hatch Bill was concocted and passed by Republicans who wished to defeat the present administration, and by die-hard Democrats who wanted to scare FDR away from the third term. Ninety per cent of the newspapers (already anti-Roosevelt) turned the fight for its passage into a crusade and the public followed. The President endorsed the measure to cinch its becoming a law.

But what FDR thinks about the Hatch Bill, what the public thinks, or what you think about it is immaterial. The fact remains that the law didn't beat the "ins" or help the "outs." To my mind it is one step toward curtailment of personal liberties. And any law that is even a half-step towards taking away an honorable person's freedom certainly has no rightful place in the law books of a free and liberty-loving people.

PROPAGANDA?

I've just received my November issue of "The New American," a news pamphlet published twice a month by some outfit in Chicago. The paper's managing editor is one I. Krechevsky, and the paper itself deals with foreign and slightly colored (Red) domestic news. It quotes their subscription price at 50c per year.

What I'd like to know is, who paid my half-dollar, and what "return" do they expect to get out of the investment?

TIDBITS
FOLKLORE

THE MOON

If I were a sentimentalist, I could use this subject to induce a romantic mood. But, since I am a folklorist, I had better help you with your farm or garden work.

The moon controls the tides, as everybody knows. From time immemorial people have thought that it also controls other things. Not all people who believe in the moon live beyond the end of the gravel road; right in the midst of cultural areas are people who plan much of their work with reference to the phases of the moon. However, the farm is the moon's special realm.

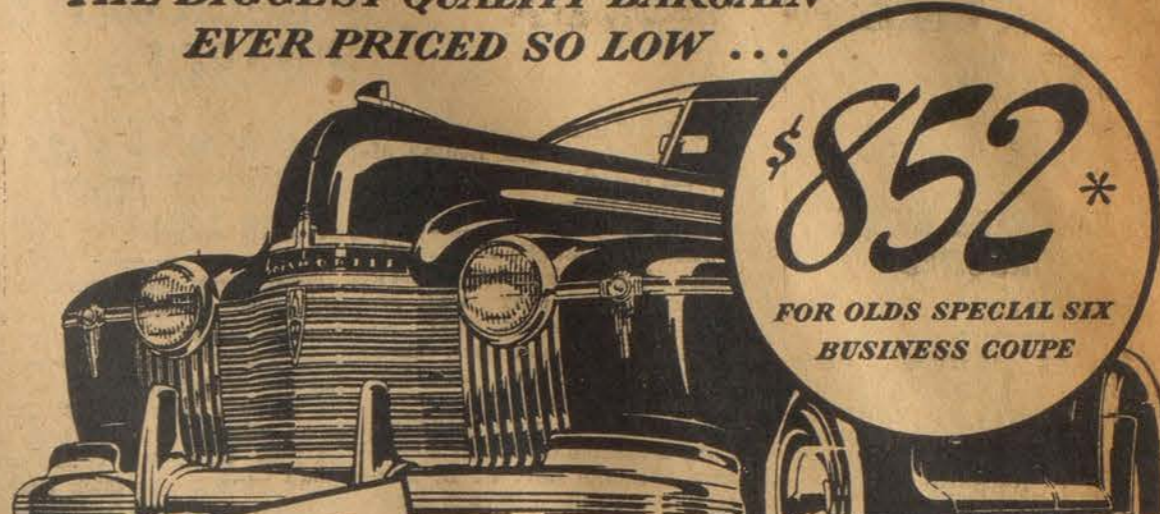

If you want good root-crops—potatoes, beets, radishes, turnips—plant them in the dark of the moon. Likewise, if the edible part of the vegetable is above ground, plant the seeds in the light of the moon. If you are ignorant as to what "light" and "dark" signify, consult the almanac or calendar. When the moon has reached its full and is growing smaller, that is the "dark" of the moon; conversely, after it has passed its dark phase and is becoming brighter each night than it was, you have the "light" of the moon. Watch your next plantings accordingly.

Corn has a queer way of reacting to the moon's influence. If it is planted in the dark of the moon, the stalks are short and stocky; when it is planted in the light of the moon the stalks grow tall and slender. All poor hill-sides, evidently, are planted in the dark of the moon, but the stocky part of the stalk fails to appear.

You should consult the moon when you kill your winter meat. Not all folk

Hybrid Corn Gives
Favorable Returns

Farmers in Adair county, Ky., are reporting favorable results in growing hybrid corn this year. L. G. Keltner announces that a yellow hybrid tested on his farm yielded 48 bushels more per acre than the local yellow variety. A white hybrid produced 21 bushels more than the common white corn.

A. S. Allison shucked 26 bushels to the acre more from a field of yellow hybrid than from local yellow varieties, while white hybrids on his farm outyielded local kinds by 18 bushels. Adair county farmers grew about 1,000 acres of hybrid corn this year, including two of the best yellow and two of the best white varieties, according to County Agent R. B. Rankin.

In Owsley county, 500 farmers grow one to 10 acres of hybrid corn with high yields, less damage from storms, etc.

M. Y. Byrd and Hobart Nevells, of McCreary county, have purchased purebred bulls for community use.

Testing soil for acidity is going on at a rapid rate among Clark county farmers.

KIDNEY STAGNATION IS WORSE THAN CONSTIPATION!

Because We Treat Constipation at
The Onset, While We Neglect
Our Kidneys Indefinitely

No other organ in your body is of more importance than your kidneys. For in your kidneys there are nine million tubes which must work day and night to filter the fluids and keep the system free from wastes, acids, poisons which, if permitted to remain, may cause serious kidney and bladder troubles.

It is no wonder then that Nature often calls for help to clean out the kidneys. So if you are troubled with Getting-Up-Nights, Leg Pains, Backache, Nervous Headache, Dizziness or Loss of Energy, due to functional kidney disorders, try KIDANS, the famous kidney remedy, which aids Nature to flush out the kidneys, to filter all wastes, to prevent kidney stagnation.

KIDANS is Safe and Reliable. Thousands report entire satisfaction. Taken according to directions, KIDANS will give splendid results. Try KIDANS. Buy it at our Special Price Offer on two boxes. Use one box. If not satisfied, return unopened box and GET YOUR MONEY BACK.

If your local druggist cannot supply, send $1.00 to The Kidans Company, Atlanta, Georgia, for two full size boxes on a money-back guarantee.

AT THE END OF A CRUISE IN 'CELESTIAL' WATERS

By A. E. AKERS (Son of J. E. Akers, Dwale), Radioman Second Class U. S. Navy
U.S.S. Tarpon, Submarine Force, Manila, P. I.

On the 28th day of June, 1940, the Fourteenth Division of Submarines, now stationed at Manila, P. I., sailed from Manila for their summer-time maneuvers in Chinese waters, as the heat is too intense around Manila during the summer months for comfortable operations, especially in a submarine.

We arrived at Tsingtao, China, (pronounced Sing-Taow) on the 2nd of July, and, due to the absence of our tender, we were forced to lay at anchor in the outer harbor for three or four hours. During those first few hours we got our first glimpses of the coast of China. At first, the town of Tsingtao looked as modern and as up-to-date as Manila. The houses were mostly all new and had brown roofs with large, green lawns; but this was the view from the outer harbor, which is some three miles out to sea.

Tsingtao is built on a hill which slopes down to the China Sea. At the base of the hill and on the water's edge is a Japanese army airport, surrounded by large radio towers which, we learned, were previously owned by the Chinese.

In the late afternoon we went into the inner harbor and then the fair city which we had viewed from five miles distant began to take on the aspects which are familiar to all Chinese cities. There were numerous Chinese junks, which are old and worn-out, man-propelled boats on which families of the lower class Chinese live and are only allowed to go into town a few minutes per day. The junks littered the inner harbor in all directions, except around the Jap airport. We anchored about five hundred yards off-shore and at that distance we could get smells, when the wind was blowing right, that only a Chinaman could endure for any length of time. No words can describe those awful stenches that came off the waterfront where the lower class Chinese lived and ran their shops. Mixed with the odors were the ever-present babble of the Chinese "junks" and their families. Some were around the submarines at all times trying to sell something or bum something. It was impossible for one of the crew of the ship which I was on to come to the topside eating a sandwich. If we did (as our ice box was always open with plenty of sandwich material), there would always be some little Chinese child that looked at you with eyes that said they were hungry. So we just gave it up and quit trying to bring anything to eat on topside during the day.

The next day I went over to town and took a "looksee." The lower section was terrifying but, as you progressed farther into the business and residential districts, the town took on a look of decency.

There were, of course, the different sections of town but all were different in their own way. The German section differed from the American and the Japanese from the Chinese, etc. There are no avenues or streets in Tsingtao. All are roads, with the most popular one being Shantung road.

American money is called "gold" and the Chinese money, "Mex." Our American dollars were, at that particular time, worth about 18.20 Mex. It all depends on the rate of exchange, which varies mostly from 12 to 22 to 1.

If you intend to buy anything from a Chinaman you follow the following procedure: You ask him the price. (Let us assume it is 90 Mex.) He will say, "90 Mex, Joe, proper price." (Everybody is Joe to a Chinaman.) You will then say, "Ah, come on, Jesse James, without his gun, I will give you 5 Mex, can do?" He will probably say, "No can do, Joe." You then take out five Mex and lay it on the counter and say in a very determined voice, "This is my last and only price. Are you going to sell or do you want to see me go down to Jelly-Belly's and spend this good Chinese dough?" If he then refuses, you turn and walk out and, ten-to-one, he will call you back and say, "Tell you what, Joe, you velly special friend, I will make it 75 Mex." You then be easy and say, "No, that is still plain robbery, I will give you 8 Mex and no more." He will refuse and you call him a robber, thief and a few more pet names, and tell him he should be investigated by the F.B.I. Well, anyhow, you continue this bartering until you get him down to 15 Mex and then you will probably get cheated. But if you ever go to China and intend to buy anything, take the first price and divide by 10 and subtract half of that and work from there.

Tsingtao is higher in prices than any of the ports we visited so we won't go into prices until we get to Shanghai.

The only sure method of transportation in Tsingtao is the richshaw, which, all of you know, is a two-wheeled concern pulled by a Chinaman. It is a rather speedy means of getting somewhere, providing you are not in a hurry. And sailors don't hurry while in China. You just tell the boy that you want to go to a certain place and then relax until he stops and, five times out of twenty you will be where you want to go without having to ask some "Gob" who knows where the place is.

A rickshaw will cost you from five to ten Mex a day, all depending on your generosity. The boy—incidentally, the boy may be from fifteen to fifty years old, can run like a Kentucky-bred race horse and maybe as long and the majority of them can speak a little English, at least enough for you to tell them where to go.

There are more Chinamen in China than in "Frisco"; so the most-spoken language is Chinese, which is a very hard language for a sailor to learn. (The only word I learned was "Cheela" which means "scram") and as a result the Chinese have learned to speak English. It is very natural to hear a conversation of the following type take place: Some sailor who has been in China two months and has mastered the Chinese lingo to a fair degree will say to a rickshaw boy, "Hey, Joe, Little Russia, International Club, sabe? Chop, Chop, can do?" ("Chop, Chop" means, "hurry") and the boy will come back with flawless English, after years of employment by the bluejackets of Uncle Sam's navy. "Can do, Joe," and the sailor is immediately off to Little Russia and the International Club. Sometimes, tho, you may run into the unfortunates of the Chinese race who have not mastered the English language and have to draw pictures or make signs in order to get a cup of coffee. But, if you have the "Mex," you will find some Chinaman who can understand sign language or has a higher conception of art if the proprietor cannot speak English fluently. There is a saying that in China one must have "Mex Appeal" if he wants to get along.

Every other place I have ever been, the women are trying to get a number seven foot into a number five shoe. Well, it seems that the Chinese women like small feet also. I noticed a lot of the women, especially about the age of 30 years, who had bound feet. While still infants they have their feet bound with strong cloth and their toes grow back under their feet, therefore making a number seven a number five. Smart people, the Chinese!

If a Chinaman cannot please you with his present sales talk he will immediately make up one to suit you. Take, for instance, the following: One afternoon, a few friends and myself were having a beer in a local cafe when a bird-seller came in and tried to sell us a bird. Well, you can easily guess that we didn't buy a Chinese bird. Just who could tell what it was talking about when it rattled off in Chinese? But the bird-seller didn't leave. About that time one of my friends complained to the bartender about the hot beer and told him that, being an American, he liked to drink ice-cold beer. Well that Chinese bird-seller came around later on and wanted to know if we wanted to buy an ice-cold bird that could talk and sing. We still didn't go for the sales line.

Our stay in Tsingtao was cut short by two months, due to some sailor not liking the looks of a Jap soldier, and a riot followed which led up to no liberty for the Asiatic fleet for eight days. We were then sent to Chefoo, China, which is like all the rest. No good in general. And from there to Weihaiwa, which was also no good. We then went back to Tsingtao for a week before leaving for Shanghai.

One thing I did notice is the treatment the Japs give the Chinks. It is no strange sight to see a Jap soldier flailing the everlasting daylight out of a lowly Chinaman. The Japanese ride the rickshaws and, if they are in a good mood, they pay; if not, they don't. The Japs take the cushions out of the Chinese rickshaws and throw them away. Every day at 1 o'clock, the Japanese drive two tanks down the main street in what they call a patrol run. Japanese soldiers are over all sections of the town and they really take what they want. They have an execution grounds in Tsingtao which is really pleasant if you can conceive the idea of a Chinaman bending down on a knee and a Jap shooting him behind the ear. But the grounds were not used while we were there.

There were a few Japanese warships in Tsingtao while we were there but they gave us no trouble with the exception of the riot already mentioned. In that riot the Japs learned that ju-jitsu is no match for strength, especially if the strength is in the form of flying beer bottles.

And On to Shanghai

For a long time before reaching the Yangtze river we could see the effects of it. The water in the Yellow Sea was a muddy color, due to the discharge of the Yangtze and Whangpoo. We went up the Yangtze for a short distance and then turned up the Whangpoo. From here on we could see where the Japs had been. Great buildings were torn up and holes were gaping at us from apartment and business houses.

We tied up in the river about three miles below Shanghai and hired an Italian tugboat as a liberty boat for the six submarines and the U.S.S. Pigeon, which had accompanied us from Tsingtao. All hands that were allowed went ashore on the first boat at 1 p. m. On our way up the river we passed warships of different nations, including French, Italian British, Japanese, and our own gunboats which were along with commercial ships from many other nations. We were landed at the customs jetty and stepped again onto Chinese soil, but, this time, we were in Shanghai—Shanghai the Pearl of the Orient.

Shanghai has the most modern of theatres and night clubs some of which are exclusive after 7 p. m. We, the American sailors, preferred mostly the Fourth Marines Club, which is our Marines' own private club, but American sailors were welcome. There were just about all of the things one could hope to buy. But you know, "variety is the spice of life." So we went out and visited some of the others.

Shanghai has been called "The City for Sale," and no one can deny the fact if they have ever been there. There is a price tag on everything in the town. I will quote some of the prices: Taxicabs, Chevrolets 1940 model, 7 Mex per hour; a full-course meal, 3 Mex; haircut, shave and shampoo, numerous extras, 3 Mex; and, in the line of drinks, the following prices were about the same all over the town: Coca-Cola, beer, 90 Mex per bottle; any mixed drink, 90 cents Mex per glass; whiskies of just about any brand was from 20 to 25 mex per quart.

In Shanghai you meet all kinds of people of all creeds and nations. There are many different branches of service men there, including U. S. Navy, U. S. Marines, British Navy, British Marines, French Navy, Italian Navy, Italian Soldiers, Japanese Army and Navy and some mixtures who call themselves the Shanghai Volunteer Corps, and Shanghai Military Police.

Then there are a bunch of men from India, who call themselves Sikhs, that hire out as special guards and bodyguards.

The civilian population is composed of all nationalities also. From one spot I could see the following flags flying: U. S., British, French, Italian, Japanese, two different brands of Chinese flags, Swedish, Norwegian, and some more I couldn't recognize.

The Russians seem to be more plentiful, having been exiled from Russia during the recent revolutions. All of the dance-hall hostesses were Russians.

Shanghai was the one Chinese-owned, Japanese-controlled place which we visited where the U. S. Navy was appreciated and treated like we were not intruding. Everybody was nice in all respects to us. We got the best of service and no trouble came up while we were there. Everybody had a swell time and enjoyed the stay there. Well, we bade Shanghai farewell and left for Manila. We are looking forward to our next visit back to the Chinese coast, but, due to the trouble that has come up, we may not get to go back as usual. But here is hoping we will.

Now we are back in Manila and the sweltering heat, which is always present, but during the winter, is three degrees cooler than in summer and that is one consolation.

$1.50 Per Year Payable In Advance

NORMAN ALLEN Editor

Entered as second class matter June 18, 1927, at the postoffice at Prestonsburg, Ky., under the Act of March 3, 1879.

THE TIMES ENDORSES

1. Immediate completion of the Left Beaver, Middle Creek and Johns Creek road.
2. Consideration by officials of human needs, not the need for political influence.
3. Completion of all Farm-to-Market roads, by W. P. A. labor if possible, maintenance of these routes by the state rural road fund.
4. A trade-at-home policy followed by merchants and customers alike.
5. Full co-operation with all county and city officials, insisting that lawmakers and enforcement officers themselves obey the law to the letter.
6. Continuance of the Floyd county health department and the county agricultural agent work.

MEN OF GOODWILL

Eastern Kentucky politics reached a new high last Tuesday. While certain sections of this and other states awaited reports of election violence, the news from Floyd and other counties of the Seventh district was all quiet and serene.

And, to point the way to the nation, the Seventh district's principals in the Congressional race maintained a high level of sportsmanship, before and after the election, that puts to shame the Presidential campaign and the "little" things said and done by those who should know better.

While a bitter Presidential campaign raged over the country A. J. (Jack) May, Democrat, and James W. (Jim) Turner, Republican, fought their own battles hard but clean. The little there was of "smear" campaigns in this race was originated, both have said, from over-enthusiastic partisans. And when it was all over the two men, winner and loser, talked to each other as friends. Congressman May received from Mr. Turner the congratulations of a fine loser, and he reciprocated this fine spirit.

Whatever bitterness now exists in the Seventh, whence tidings of gunplay and bitter recriminations were expected, is to be traced directly to the Presidential campaign. Our own two home candidates have given no cause for disunion in these days when unity is most needed. When the vote was counted the election was over for them.

America might well lift up its eyes unto the Hills for a splendid example of the true American way of conducting an election and of accepting the mandate of the voters.

FOR A FREE AMERICA

THE FLOYD COUNTY TIMES doubts the wisdom of this country or any part of it denying to any party the right to a place on the ballot.

This doubt is based not on a fear of loss of our democratic privileges, of our exercise of the right of suffrage as free men and women. Rather, THE TIMES is of the opinion that such exclusion from a place on the ballot strengthens the opposition to our form of government by providing a further pretext for those who do not agree with the American way to criticize it.

On the whole, however, this newspaper is convinced that neither the name of Earl Browder, Communist candidate for the Presidency, nor the names of his electors deserved a place on the ballot. This opinion we base on these premises:

1. Earl Browder acknowledges his allegiance to Russia, not the United States. Therefore, his place on the ballot would not be for the purpose of permitting an American to vote for another American as President of this nation but for the purpose of trying to elect as governmental head of the United States a man who would use his high office not to preserve the sovereignty and the integrity of the United States but to make this country subservient to foreign states, theories and policies.
2. This country, in the face of a recognized crisis, has already gone too far in extending to its enemies the rights of free men—rights of free men while they hope to turn this country into a pawn of dictators. Witness: this week's sabotage in industrial plants. Find a Democrat or a Republican in that gang of saboteurs, if you can!
3. Earl Browder, unlike Norman Thomas, the Socialist party candidate, sought not the support of voters on broad economic, humanitarian and political principles. He disavowed a country which would shelter and protect him, his group has already cost the people of these United States several millions of dollars as the Dies committee investigated un-American acts. His group should cost the taxpayers no more in the matter of ballots and the dis-union that arises from political campaigns.
4. There is a wide gulf between Freedom and License.

The major parties of this country, in the election just past, devoted their attention to matters which were at least believed to concern America and to those steps which each believed would make this country secure, its government permanent.

To those who have something else up their sleeves, our final word is—our Ship of State has already enough barnacles hanging to the hull.

"OFF THE RECORD"

It has been rumored persistently for quite some weeks that Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy is going to resign from his post in London. We can only hope that these rumors are not without foundation.

The latest of Mr. Kennedy's various mistakes was an interview in Boston, in which he not only repeated his oft-quoted pessimistic belief in Britain's ultimate defeat, but announced that democracy in Great Britain is finished.

As sometimes happens when men see their own words in cold print, Mr. Kennedy repudiated the interview, adding tactlessly that he thought it was "off the record." His denial, in the form it took, only serves to confirm the accuracy of the reporter of the Boston Globe.

The American Ambassador at London has one of the most critical posts of responsibility in the world today. His is a task of liaison between the two great English-speaking peoples, one at war and the other eager to give every non-belligerent aid. It is not a post for a man who parades his defeatism, or who has written off as a total loss the tradition of democratic self-government in Britain.

It should be an easy matter to find a man for the London Embassy more firmly devoted to Anglo-American solidarity, more discreet in his "interviews," and more willing to maintain some faith in the future of the democratic tradition in the English-speaking nations—Cincinnati Enquirer.

KENTUCKIANS VOTED WITH DIGNITY

Politically speaking, Kentucky seems to have come of age with this election. The largest vote in its history has been cast and tallied with efficient speed, and with a minimum of disorder even in the sections which hitherto have taken politics seasoned with a little violence.

Particular interest attaches to the vote in Eastern Kentucky, home of the traditionally Republican Seventh and Ninth Districts. In the first place its size reflects something of the huge population increases in the area over the past ten years. It also seems to indicate that the Democrats have made permanent inroads into the once solid Republicanism of the coal counties. Non-coal counties have maintained the Republican lead for the Ninth District, but Bell and Harlan, in the Ninth; Letcher, Floyd and Perry in the Seventh have given President Roosevelt just about the same majorities that he won there in 1936.

This is particularly interesting in view of the large union vote, which apparently paid not the slightest attention, either to the last-minute exhortation of John L. Lewis, to the reportedly strong pro-Willkie sentiments of the operators, or to the admittedly lavish expenditure of campaign funds by the Republicans in both districts.

At all events, Kentuckians and their friends need have no reason to apologize for their conduct at this election. Rowdiness and trickery appear to have played little part. Dignity and a solemn realization of issues marked Kentucky's procession at the polls, as it did those of her sister states, and once again democracy has shown that it is capable of rising above its own less worthy and all-too-human predilections.—The Courier-Journal.

ELECTION REFORMS

Popular election of those who make and enforce its laws is the keystone of the government of the United States—the heart of the American system. The United States government, however, conducts no elections. The elections are conducted by the states, each in its own manner, although there are federal statutes designed to eliminate corrupt practices in elections involving federal offices. The average American cherishes his right to vote just as Americans in general cherish the right to govern themselves. Yet they suffer and endure the ill-effects of cumbersome and extravagant election practices, tolerate election abuses and permit corrupt practices to flourish under their gaze—and do nothing.

Democrats did not invent election abuses. At least, if they did, it was a long time ago. And Republicans have perfected their share of them. Both parties are equally guilty.

Probably the chief barrier to election law correction and election reform generally lies in the fact that there seems a tacit understanding between the two major parties, or their workers, that certain things must be done. Each side—Republican and Democrat alike—does these things. Each knows that the other does them.

Vote-buying is the most flagrant of such offenses. It exists and everybody knows it exists. It goes on from election to election, by biennial period to biennial period and nobody does anything about it. It is strange that those who supply the money—wherever it comes from—should not recognize its futility. Bought votes change the results of few if any elections. The two parties understand each other at the polls. In the name of all that's sensible, why not abandon this unspoken conspiracy and let the debauchable electorate stay away from the polls if it chooses?

Why don't they grasp the certain fact that some year—not next year, perhaps, though possibly—the hand of the law is going to fall heavily upon election conspirators? Why don't they, in the name of decency, cut the whole ugly business out?—Herald-Dispatch (Huntington, W. Va.)

THE NOVICE TEACHER

By R. D. JUDD, Ph.D.,
Morehead State Teachers' College

How many new teachers does Kentucky employ each year?

A. Upon investigation, this situation was more favorable than I had anticipated. In any school system where there is a turnover for the novice teacher greater than 5-7 per cent the situation makes for many difficulties. In Kentucky for the year 1931-32 there were 1,939 teachers employed who had no previous teaching experience. In 1937-38 there were 972 teachers entering the profession who had not previously taught. In 1939 there were 1,040 teaching without previous teaching experience. About 200 of this number went into high schools and the other 800 taught in the elementary schools. This number represents about 6 per cent of the total number teaching in Kentucky, a fact that is not wholly without some merit. This means that there about 25,000 boys and girls receiving instruction at the hands of a novice teacher. It is a good policy to add youth to the teaching personnel each year, provided any one system does not get more than its share. This number of new teachers may indicate that teaching is becoming more of a stabilized profession and teachers are going into it as a "life calling." No doubt the teacher retirement law will cause this figure to rise over the present figure because of the retirement of some in the upper age bracket. A few years should bring about a stable condition. In Kentucky we have 18,000 teaching positions, we are turning out about 3,000 teachers a year. From the figure it seems that we have about two qualified by law for each teaching position. This does not mean by any wild stretch of the imagination that we have more good teachers than we need. Quite the contrary. The writer sees no valid reason that we should have so many emergency certificates in Kentucky when there are so many qualified teachers available. According to the latest reports (1939) Kentucky issued about 60 of these emergency certificates. A great number of these teachers teach with only high school work to their credit and some. I am told, do not have any high school training. I do not like to take a critical attitude about such matters, but Kentucky children deserve to have the very best teachers available. We could start right on this spot and work toward the goal of equal educational opportunity in Kentucky.

McGuire succeeds Claude H. Farley, Pikeville.

Other officers elected were: David Hense, superintendent of Martin county schools, first vice-president; and William Justice, Heller, Ky., high school principal, second vice-president. The three officers will each serve one year.

Lockwood-Rankin Wedding Announced

Announcement is made of the recent marriage at Catlettsburg, Ky., of Miss Dorothy Lockwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ike Lockwood, Prestonsburg, and Mr. Robert Rankin, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Rankin, Louisiana.

Both were graduated from the Louisville high school in the class of '36. Mr. Rankin, who was all-state high school football player, later attended Eastern State Teachers' College in Richmond and now is employed by the Junior Mercantile Company at Omar, W. Va., as manager of the men's wear department. Mrs. Rankin was active in Louisiana church and social circles and was a popular member of the younger group there, where her parents resided for several years prior to their recent removal to Prestonsburg.

Immediately after the ceremony, the happy couple left for Omar, W. Va., where Mr. Rankin had a furnished apartment awaiting them.

Betsy Layne 4-H Club News

Betsy Layne, Ky., Nov. 12 (Spl.)—The Betsy Layne 4-H Club won in the recent Floyd County Fair the largest number of cash prizes and the largest cash sum of all the 4-H Clubs competing, although placed third in the group display. This was made possible by the large number and the quality of Crop Project record books, and Insect Collection displays.

The following is a list of the winners and the group in which each won as well as the award in each case:

- Home Ec Project Record Book—
Eva Moore, first prize, $2; Maggie Hunter, second prize, $1.75; Lillian Steele, third prize, $1.50; Rubestine Clark, fourth prize, $1.25; Doris Jean Hill, fifth prize, $1.00.
- Field Crop Project Record Book—
Richard Cecil, first prize, $2.00; Clyde Keathley, second prize, $1.75; Eugene Stephens, fourth prize, $1.25; James Clark, fifth prize, $1.00.

Insect Collection—
Richard Cecil, first prize, $1.00; Clyde Keathley (Trees Scrap Book) first prize, $1.25; Sylvia Spears, (4-H Club Sec. Rec. Book) first prize, $2.00. These prizes, totaling $28.00, were the largest amount ever to be received by a 4-H Club in Floyd county. They represent the winnings from nine out of 10 classifications offered from project record books and collections. The Betsy Layne patrons and 4-H Club sponsors are rather gratified at the unusually high rating of the winners at this, our best Floyd County Fair.

On Thursday all students who wished to vote were required to register, giving the same information that is required of a voter.

On the Friday preceding the national election those students who had registered were allowed to vote, using sample ballots furnished by THE FLOYD COUNTY TIMES, and a regular ballot box and stencils, furnished by A. B. Meade, County Clerk.

An interesting fact is the student body gave the Democratic party an almost 2 to 1 majority.

The students are grateful to Mrs. Jane R. Combs and the American History classes, who sponsored the election, to Norman Allen, who furnished the ballots, and to A. B. Meade, who furnished the ballot box and stencils. Much educational value was derived from this campaign by the student body.

McGuire Is Elected President of E.K.E.A.

Heman McGuire, superintendent of Carter county schools, was elected president of the Kentucky Education Association at the general assembly of the association delegates at Ashland Friday afternoon.

McGuire succeeds Claude H. Farley, Pikeville.

Other officers elected were: David Hense, superintendent of Martin county schools, first vice-president; and William Justice, Heller, Ky., high school principal, second vice-president. The three officers will each serve one year.

John Fred Williams, superintendent of Johnson county schools, and Leroy

Meeting Defense Communication Needs Today and Tomorrow

To be prepared for emergencies of whatever magnitude or urgency is a requirement to which telephone company workers are accustomed.

The National Defense Program is a new emergency to be met. New switchboards are being installed, several thousand miles of telephone lines have been strung and large scale telephone engineering projects are under way to serve the fifty newly approved and existing army and navy posts and air bases located in the territory served by this Company.

Long distance communication facilities are also being expanded and new circuits have been established to assure ample long distance telephone service between these military bases and all parts of the nation. Southern Bell and the entire Bell System are in high gear, meeting the nation's present defense needs and prepared to adequately meet those of tomorrow.

COURT SELLS FRANCHISES

FOR CONSTRUCTION OF REA POWER LINES

Franchise permitting the construction of rural electric lines in this county was sold Monday by the Floyd fiscal court to the Big Sandy Rural Electric Co-Operative Corporation for $17.

The franchise was necessary to REA development already under way in the county, since the court, a few years ago, sold a franchise to the Kentucky & West Virginia Power Company for the development of its interests in the county.

At the same court session, the Works Projects Administration was asked to construct a road down Home Branch of Buffalo and up Buffalo Creek, a total distance of four miles. Deeds have already been procured for the route.

A set-up of 29 road projects was recently made by the court in order to benefit from its share of the $2,000,000 rural road fund of the state. The program thus outlined becomes effective April 1.

Boy Scouts Here, Guests Friday Of Elders

Prestonsburg's Boy Scout troop was guest of the Kiwanis Club and local business men at a wiener roast held at the scout cabin here Friday evening.

At the departmental meeting of music teachers Friday Mrs. Chalmer Frazier presented the Prestonsburg high school trio, composed of Misses Vivian Caudill, Jane Carol Hager and Judith Morgan Davidson.

Mr. Triplett presided over the meeting of the Department of Superintendents and Principals, at which Town Hall delivered an address.

Milby to Conduct Trade Survey Talk Here

The Prestonsburg Co-Operative Business Association, meeting at the Auxier Hotel at 7:30 p. m. Friday, will hear C. D. Milby, teacher-co-ordinator at the Mayo State Vocational School, Paintsville, lead a discussion regarding a retail trade survey advocated for Floyd county by the school. The survey, if made, will be sponsored by the merchants of Floyd county and conducted under the supervision of the school.

In addition to promoting retail surveys in co-operation with the local merchants, the Mayo School is sponsoring salesmanship classes as a part of the Kentucky State Board of Education plan for practical education in the field of distribution. Classes are now being conducted at Garrett on Monday evening of each week and at Wayland on Tuesday evening of each week. Approximately 20 students are enrolled in each class.

Mr. Milby, who conducts the salesmanship classes, says their purpose is to educate the salespeople to better understanding the customer's problems and thereby create a mutual friendliness which will result in greater co-operation. According to Mr. Milby, much interest is being manifested in the classes and he urges all who are connected with retail distribution and who reside in the vicinity of Garrett and Wayland to register for the course.

BILL HENRY SAYS:

(The views herein expressed are those of the writer and not necessarily those of The Times.)

DEMOCRACY will never die. Fifty million people, Americans all, have said so in no uncertain terms. Less than 12 hours after the closing of the polls throughout this great country on election day, all bitterness of the pre-election campaigning was forgotten—with the exception of a few newspaper columnists some of whom have the taint of Communism and Fascism under their skin.

Democracy in the United States is as Democracy should be—universal recognition, individually and collectively, of the other man's right to think, talk and act according to the dictates of his own conscience so long as he respects the rights of his neighbors. Our democratic form of government will live and grow stronger as other forms of government decay, because liberty is more precious than anything on the face of the earth.

America is united as never before; the business man, the farmer and the miner rubbed shoulders good naturedly on election day. There were differences of opinion as to candidates but there was never any doubt in the heart of a single man but that the other fellow was striving in his own way to promote what he believed to be the best interests of his country.

LABOR should mark November 5, 1940 on its calendar as the greatest day in its history. Individually—and as a group they proved they are Americans first and they will brook no one man or any number of men in their midst whose purpose is to weld them into an automat controlled by push-buttons. The rank and file of labor did more on this day to bring peace among themselves than anything their highly-paid national leaders have done in all their years in office. If labor is now the "man" I think it is, John L. Lewis not only will be forced to resign as head of the C.I.O., but he will be kicked out as head of the U.M.W. of A. When he is out and a man like Phillip Murray represents the C.I.O., there will be no excuse for business to refuse 100 per cent co-operation. A strong labor and a strong business willing to give and take will mean a strong America. A weak labor and a weak business pulling against each other will send America to destruction.

BUSINESS should be the first to say, "Well done, my friend." For political reasons, John L. Lewis was accepted into their camp but there was not a man among them who meant what was said about their erstwhile enemy being a good fellow, a great American. It was John L. who ordered the sit-down strikes, it was he who ordered millions of men to lay down their tools for weeks and months at a time, causing a loss of millions of dollars to those men and industry. If business fails now to seize the one real opportunity it has had to take labor in as a partner, it will find no sympathy among the "in-between" millions who have here-to-fore acted as a buffer between the two.

CAPITAL—LABOR! What are they? Where does the dividing line fall? Where is the man so all-powerful and far-seeing who can truthfully say he belongs to one class or another? In this great democracy of ours you may be a business man today and a laborer tomorrow; today you are able to write a check against a fat bank account and tomorrow your creditors may close you out. It is only in un-democratic countries where a few are guaranteed a permanent status of the "upper-class" to the detriment of the majority. It must not and will not happen in America.

There is one question and only one to be decided between capital and labor. When this is done there will be peace and not until then. The question is what percentage of the profits shall labor have for its share in the production of our wealth? Never again shall any man rise up and call himself a benefactor of the nation just because he may happen to pay a slightly higher wage than the average, while at the same time he is stuffing his pockets with millions. The day of the Fords, the Wehrs and the Girdlers is past. No man must be the judge of what is a fair wage. Industry must be willing to share with a worker a fair proportion of its earnings, no matter what the amount may be.

Pikeville Residents Hurt in Wreck

Three prominent local residents were injured, all of them seriously, when an automobile in which they were riding skidded and left the highway near Frenchburg on the Paintsville-Lexington highway last Friday afternoon.

The injured were: Mrs. Zach A. Justice and daughter, Florence, and Mr. Rudolph Bentley. Mr. Bentley's young daughter, the other occupant of the car, was unhurt.

Mrs. Justice sustained a fractured skull and other injuries, while her daughter suffered a fractured arm. Mr. Bentley is suffering from injuries to his pelvis and chest.

The accident occurred as the party were en route from this city to Lexington. It was raining and the black-top road was slippery. Miss Justice, who was driving, lost control, it was reported, as the car skidded.—Pike County News.

MARTIN

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Allen were home from Hellier, election day.

Bill Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Reynolds, was home from Morehead over the week-end.

Frank Martin, Jr., a student at Morehead State Teachers' College, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Martin.

Election day passed very peacefully and quietly.

While the Martin Purple Flash started off their basketball season with a win from Oil Springs, their next two games have not been as successful. They lost Wednesday night to Auxier at Auxier, and Saturday night they lost to McDowell on their own home floor, 19 to 18.

Mrs. Ruth Ring gave a farewell party Tuesday afternoon for her daughter, Libby, who left Wednesday to spend the winter in Florida with relatives.

Master Dale Ratliff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tip Ratliff, entertained several of his young friends at his home Saturday afternoon in honor of his birthday.

GAS DRILLINGS ARE STEADY

ATTENTION, CENTERED ON DEEP TEST OPERATIONS

General operations in the Eastern Kentucky gas field continued on an even trend last week, with no completions listed in the operators' reports. Attention seems to be centered on reports of deep test drilling for oil in this section of the state, especially in Magoffin and Morgan counties.

The Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company has reached the 2630 foot mark in well No. 5271, William C. Elliott, on Pike Fork of Toler Creek, and is idle at well No. 601, Crit Mitchell, on Mud Creek. The same company is drilling at the 1116 foot level in salt sand in well No. 5277, Newt P. Harris on Long Branch of Calf Branch and is down 1351 feet in red rock in well No. 5279, Henderson Roberts, on Big Branch of Little Mud Creek.

The Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company has reached the 280 foot level in well No. 5280, Samuel Justice, on Justice Branch of Little Beaver and is down 40 feet, spudding, in well No. 5281, Joel Stumbo, on Branham's Creek.

In Knott county the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company is down 1140 feet in salt sand in well No. 602, Will D. Hall, Joe King Branch, and is drilling at the 1475 foot level in red rock, in well No. 5115, J. L. Spurlock.

The same firm is down 2340 feet in Weir in well No. 5270, Preston Hall on Dry Creek and has reached the 2400 foot mark in shale in well No. 5273, W. J. Slone on Caney Fork. The same company is drilling at the 1250 foot mark in salt sand in well No. 5278, William Slone, on Caney Fork of Right Beaver Creek and is down 465 feet in sand in well No. 5283, Benjamin Smith, on Four Mile Branch of Jones Fork.

The latest report coming from sources that have proved authoritative in the past is that a rotary rig will be moved into the Ezel area in southwestern Morgan county within the next few weeks. This is a development that has been long awaited in Eastern Kentucky and the operation will be certain to hold the spotlight.

The Cumberland Petroleum Company is down 2507 feet in shale in the deep test on the L. C. Bailey farm two miles west of Oil Springs in Magoffin county. Clinton sand is the stated objective but it is thought possible an effort may be made to hit St. Peter sand.

Oliver Jenkins, drilling on the Rolla Dixon farm on the headwaters of the Open Fork of Paint Creek, has shut down at the 668 foot mark, through the Big Lime, in another Morgan county operation.

Auxier Hi Hornets Stop Martin, 30-15

Auxier, Ky. (Spl.)—Limiting the opposition to one field goal and two free tosses during the second half, the Auxier high school Hornets swamped the Martin Purple Flash, 30-15, in the local gym Wednesday night of last week.

After out-scoring the visitors, 17-11, at the half, the Hornets almost completely throttled the Martin scoring machine during the second half, allowing Marshall to score a field goal while Spurlock and Ryan each were scoring a charity toss.

Watson, Auxier center, carried off scoring honors for the evening, with nine points. Close behind were Evans, Hall and Patton, all of Auxier, who scored eight, seven and six points respectively. Tackett led the Martin scorers, with a pair of field goals.

Friday night Coach Frazier's team will entertain the McDowell netters.

Line-ups: Auxier (30) Pos. (15 Martin Bickford (6) F. Tackett (4) Patton (6) F. Rice Watson (9) C. Wilson (2) Evans (8) G. Goodin (3) Hall (7) G. Spurlock (3) Substitutions: Martin—Marshall (2), Ryan (1), Flanery, Crispe, Referee—Buchanan.

Wonder why the Dictators got so mad over the results of this election? Let them rave—there's nothing they can do about it—so what?

Some fellow up here was raising heck on election day because he couldn't find FDR's name on the ballot.

What certain old fellow in Drift was caught down under the bridge looking for a footlog to get across the creek? Failing to find it, he waded across—just under the bridge.

The U.S. Senate has just lost a great leader—Senator Key Pittman. He will be sorely missed.

There is a lot of subversive literature being mailed up in this section, especially to the miners. When you get hold of any, mail it to the FBI—or notify them.

I heard a radio announcer say that Russia's Premier and Hitler met in Germany this week-end to agree in dividing up the world. If they mess with the Western Hemisphere they won't need but six feet of the earth.

I just don't see why this section cannot get any of the defense factories that are being built. The natural resources are plentiful—coal, oil, gas—fairly good transportation and the terrain makes it safe from attack. And we would go out of the way to assist in any way possible.

PELLAGRA INCREASE TRACED TO PASSING OF WATERMILL

When the old watermill stopped grinding home-grown corn, and farmers started buying the corn-meal product of big mills far away, pellagra started in the South, Dr. Seale Harris of Birmingham, Ala., said in an interview recently.

"The South undoubtedly has been maldigned," Dr. Harris said, pointing out that California, for example, has more pellagrins than Alabama; and that the incidence of alcoholic pellagra among the well-to-do is prominent in the North, just as its incidence among the poor and underfed is predominant in the South.

But about the cornmeal—Dr. Harris believes that nicotine acid, the pellagra preventive factor in vitamin B, is extracted in refining of corn meal and degenerated grits, and other corn products. Moreover, certain toxins develop in staling corn meal, he contends, and these tend as toxic ethyn alcohol, to induce pellagra.

Fresh corn meal, ground by old-time mill rocks, which gave the consumer all the properties of the fresh corn, would put enough pellagra-preventive in the diet of "cornbread, syrup and sowlbelly" to prevent development of the disease among the Southern rural poor, he suggested. Of course, that diet is insufficient anyway, and should be supplemented with green vegetables, meats and raw fruits—all of which carry nicotine acid in valuable quantities.

Dr. Harris said symptoms of pellagra may be stopped in alcoholics by administration of synthetic nicotine acid alone, but that a cure may be effected only by improvement of the general diet and a cessation of the alcoholic intake.

He said the toxic effect of ethyl alcohol on the liver, which normally stores up and utilizes the vitamins, is one principal cause of alcoholic pellagra. The other is that the alcoholic loses appetite for vitamin-carrying foods.

A specialist who has done vast original work on vitamin deficiency diseases, Dr. V. P. Sydenstricker, of the University of Georgia School of Medicine, has a scientific exhibit of color photographs illustrating his recent observations.

He expressed a belief eventual control of vitamin deficiency diseases involves an economic re-construction which erects a barrier for public health agencies and makes the problem a social one.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Zimmerman, Wheelwright spent the week-end here as guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Francis.

TOWN-WORLD

PERSONAL NOMINATION FOR CARTOON OF THE WEEK:

That cartoon of the New York Tribune, in which the cartoonist depicted a Zulu chieftain on an island surrounded by periscopes, falling bombs, roaring airplanes and sinking ships, holding out a frayed top hat—relic of some missionary, no doubt—and announcing to the nine-tenths-naked savages in war regalia squatted about: "Brethren, today's collection will be to send a missionary to teach humanity brotherly love and integrity to our poor, benighted brothers in faraway lands."

Think that cartoon back through, from start to finish, will you? Then tell us who is civilized . . .

SHORT-SHORT STORY

The bad man was on a rampage—roaring drunk and thirstin' for blood. He stamped into a neighbor's home, demanded food.

"I'll take a full meal of chicken livers," he bellowed. "A full meal of chicken livers if it takes ever' d—chicken on this place!"

The mild-manner farmer inquired, "How 'bout a mess o' hummin'-bird wings?" and, off-hand, killed one with a rifle-shot as the bird hovered over a flower 30 yards distant.

The bold, bad man went elsewhere for his eatin'.

IN SELF-DEFENSE

Just to save myself from being scooped by Briar Buck, I'm recording the fact that Coroner Elliott Prater was twice divorced and twice married during the September and October terms of circuit court here.

W'wright Tips Louisa

he dragged at least two tacklers with him up the side-lines, and finally wound up with a touchdown. Then, to make the marker more marked, he plunged the line for the extra point.

Louisa came back in the third quarter with Mitchell taking a cleverly-executed pass from Ball to race 15 yards unmolested for a touchdown. Childers then scored the extra point around right end. At the start of the fourth quarter, Childers raced 25 yards around right end for Louisa's second marker, but he failed on his try for extra point by racing around the same end of the line.

from Martin, Cordell took the ball to Louisa's one-yard line in the fourth quarter. And from there he lunged through for his second touchdown. Then it was a comparatively simple matter for him to dash out around right end, then lurch through the line for the extra point needed to clinch the contest.

Wheelwright was set back 20 yards on penalties, most of which impeded offensive thrusts. Louisa lost no yardage by way of penalties. Wheelwright completed three of its five passes for a gain of 48 yards, while Louisa, attempting the same number of aerial forwards, was held to a gain of 37 yards as two passes were completed.

U. S. Naval Recruiter To Be At Wayland Nov. 19-20

S. Caudill, chief shipfitter, of the Naval Recruiting Station, Ashland, will be in Wayland Nov. 19-20 and in Pikeville on Nov. 22-23 for the purpose of examining young men between the ages of 18 and 21 years, for enlistment in the U. S. Navy.

Due to the increase of the navy personnel a number of vacancies now exist and those who can pass the physical and mental examination will be accepted and enlisted as soon as their papers are complete, which will be only a few days after the application is made.

The navy provides excellent opportunity to learn any of the standard trades such as machinist, electrician, carpenter, boilermaker, metalsmith and many others.

Those interested are requested to meet the Navy Recruiter in Wayland or Pikeville on the dates mentioned, or write to the Navy Recruiting Station, Ashland, Ky.
