

SPEAKING OF AND FOR FLOYD COUNTY
PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

NOVEMBER 12, 1942

THURSDAY

REGISTRATION BEGUN HERE TUESDAY

For Gasoline and Oil, Elsewhere in County, Starts Thursday

Although registration of home-owners and car operators for kerosene and gasoline rationing was slated to be started in Floyd county today (Thursday), this work for which Floyd county teachers have volunteered their services began in Prestonsburg Tuesday. Elsewhere in the county, registration will begin today, as scheduled. The Floyd County War Price and Rationing Board Wednesday received from the Louisville OPA office a request that registration for gasoline and kerosene rationing be deferred until Nov. 13, 19 and 20, but County Superintendent Town Hall held that, since the county's teachers had already prepared to serve on the dates originally scheduled, there should be no postponement in this county.

Registration began two days early in Prestonsburg, since all members of the high school faculty plan to attend the E. K. E. A., which convenes in Ashland Thursday.

What To Know and Do

When you apply for your gasoline rationing mileage card, be prepared to give the following information: Make, body type and model of your car, your license number, the number of your federal usage stamp, the serial number of each tire in your possession. Have your license tag receipt with you too.

Because of a hitch in the distribution of coupon books and forms over the country, gasoline rationing may be delayed until early in December, it was said this week.

Of interest to mine operations particularly is the announcement from state OPA headquarters that "no employes in most plants employing 100 or more may receive supplementary gasoline rations unless a plant transportation committee has been established to certify that the employe is a member of a ride-sharing group wherever possible. Ride-sharing groups must, wherever possible, also be formed by individuals wishing supplementary gasoline rations."

Such committees, it was explained by W. Claude Caudill, who as Floyd county Civilian Defense chairman has been asked to assist in the organization of these groups, are to be composed of three men. These committees will be expected to investigate each application for supplementary gasoline rations and to report its findings to the Local War Price and Rationing Board. Further particulars of the plan may be procured from the rationing board here.

Each qualified auto registrant will be issued an "A" ration book entitling him or her to approximately four gallons of gasoline a week. To procure a supplementary gasoline supply, registrants must make application on special forms.

4 DESERTERS RETURNED

Under Military Guard; Deserter from Navy Taken at Auxier

Four army deserters held in the Floyd county jail, left Wednesday for a return to military life of some kind, under guard of army military police. They joined four Martin county deserters on the way back to camp.

Those transferred from the jail back to military quarters were David and Howard Adams and Clell Broglin, all three arrested by head-of-Left Beaver officers, and Amos Refitt, captured only a few days ago at his Middle Creek home by Deputy Sheriff T. S. Sallsbury.

A Navy deserter, Harry Douglas Sherman, was arrested at Auxier Friday night by Deputy Sheriffs Arthur C. Carter and T. S. Sallsbury who later delivered him to Navy recruiting headquarters at Louisville. Sherman became a deserter five months ago, the officers said.

Former Martin Man, Hurt in Auto Wreck, Dies in Williamson

Fillmore F. Jones, 30 years old, former Martin liquor store operator, died at Memorial hospital, Williamson, W. Va., Oct. 29, of injuries sustained in an automobile wreck two days earlier on the Williamson-Matewan highway.

He was born at Virgie, Pike county, the son of Joseph and Catherine Little Jones.

Surviving, in addition to his parents, are six brothers: Perry and Aaron Jones, of Virgie, Roland, of Dorton, and Willie, Estill and John, all serving in the army; a sister, Mrs. Claude Adkins, of Columbus, Ga.

'HOME FRONT' SOLDIER DIES

Drift Schoolboy, Injured In Scrap Drive, Succumbs At Huntington Tuesday

Funeral rites were being held at Drift this afternoon for 14-year-old George Burke, Jr., who succumbed Tuesday morning at Orthopedic hospital, Huntington, W. Va., to injuries sustained Sept. 21 when struck by a truck while in search of scrap to aid the national war effort.

The schoolboy, it was said here, was pushing a wheelbarrow across the highway at Drift when a truck owned by Jerry Hall and driven by Ruford Kidd struck him. His skull was fractured and he suffered a broken jaw.

Meningitis developed, and this was given as the direct cause of death. The boy was treated for a time at the Martin General hospital and from there was removed Oct. 24 to the Huntington hospital.

Authorities here said they had no record of any action having been taken against the truckdriver. Surviving the victim are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Burke, Sr., two brothers and a sister: Edgar Allan Burke, of the U. S. Navy; John M. and Jewel Edith Burke, both of Drift.

The youth, whose case attracted wide attention in this county, will be buried at Drift under direction of the Ryan Funeral Home.

REED MINES LEAD AREA

In Matter of Safety; Record of Big Sandy Field Cited by Sisk

Mines operated by Ward and M. K. Reed, in this county, led mines of the Big Sandy area in the matter of safety during September, A. D. Sisk, secretary of the Big Sandy Elkhorn Mining Institute, reported last week. Their operations, Turner Elkhorn Mining Company (A) and Liberty Elkhorn Mining Company, produced a total of 36,292 tons without an injury.

Other mines in the no-injury class for September were: Goose Creek Mining Company, Elk Horn Coal Corporation Mine No. 4, Central Elkhorn Coal Company, Mines Nos. 3 and 5, Elk Horn Coal Corporation Mine No. 1, and the Central Elkhorn Coal Company, Mine No. 6.

Three fatalities marred the report. These came after that area had gone without a fatality for two months.

A total of 110 injuries were reported.

Ches. & Ohio Special Here Last Friday

A special train of four coaches, carrying officials of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company, stopped here Friday for a short period before going to David and points up Beaver Creek. B. F. Combs, attorney for the railway company, boarded the train here and accompanied the officials to the various points of interest in Eastern Kentucky.

One coach on the special was the private car of Barbara Hutton, which the company has purchased. It is one of the most elaborate coaches on any railroad and is enjoyed by its officials. Breakfast was served to the visitors and officials on the diner at Martin. W. L. Gentry, secretary of the Beaver Creek Consolidated Coal Company, was a guest of the president of the railway company.

BOARD ORDERS QUARANTINE

County Authorities Told To Enforce Treatment Of Floyd Rejectees

Quarantine of several Floyd countians who have been rejected for military service because of syphilis and who have not submitted to later treatment as directed was asked Thursday, last week, by the Floyd County Board of Health.

The board directed County Attorney W. W. Burchett and Dr. Marvin Ransdell, head of the county health department, to take necessary action.

At the same meeting the serving of pasteurized milk at school lunch-rooms was ordered. Schools served with raw milk may pasteurize the milk, it was provided.

Another action of the board was to ask deferment from military service of M. V. Clarke, sanitary inspector of the Floyd County Health Department.

Members of the county board of health are Dr. M. V. Wicker, Mrs. W. W. Burchett, Dr. G. D. Callihan and County Judge E. P. Hill, Jr.

HUGHES KILLED IN SLATEFALL

Former P'burg Resident Miner at Drift, Dies Of Internal Hurts

Crushed internally by a slatefall in the Stumbo Elkhorn Coal Company mine at Drift Thursday morning at 9 o'clock Gene Hughes, 63 years old, of Minnie, died before he could be removed from the mine.

Mr. Hughes was a former resident of Prestonsburg. He suffered a fractured ankle, in addition to internal injuries.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Rosa Hughes, and the following sons and daughters: Kelly Hughes, of Hunter; Estill Hughes, Ashland; Miss Eunice May Hughes, Arnold; Gertrude and Earl Hughes, all of Minnie. He also leaves two brothers and three sisters: Oscar Hughes, Lackey; George Hughes, Van Lear; Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Webb, Paintsville; Mrs. Arvie Roberts, Louisa, and Mrs. Elvada Childers, of Knox county.

Funeral rites had not been completed Thursday afternoon. Burial will be made on Barnett's Creek, Johnson county, under direction of the Arnold Funeral Home.

Woman's Club in Meet At Home of Mrs. May

The Prestonsburg Woman's Club met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. R. V. May, with Mrs. W. C. Rimmer, Mrs. Cal Clarke and Mrs. W. P. Mayo as co-hostesses.

Mrs. J. B. Hilsenbeck, of Jenkins, district governor, Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, was a guest at the meeting. Mrs. Kathryn Frazier, club president, presided at the meeting, and directed her glee club in the music program. A report of the recent district meeting at Jenkins was given by Mrs. Jane R. Combs.

Two Floyd Countians Get Wings As Pilots With Army, Navy

To the ranks of the men who will fly U. S. planes in the war with the Axis Floyd county has, within the last few weeks, contributed two pilots.

Nick C. Wallen, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Wallen, Banner, Ky., was a member of the last class in aviation cadets and enlisted men in pilot training to graduate from the advanced, twin-engine Columbus Flying School, Columbus, Miss., on Nov. 10.

He received the silver wings of a pilot and a warrant as sergeant pilot in the Army Air Forces. Sergeant Wallen entered pilot training Feb. 25 and attended flying schools at Jackson, Miss., and Greenville, Miss., before his graduation at the advanced flying school at Columbus, Miss. Sgt. Wallen is a graduate of Prestonsburg high school. Sherwood Walker, 24, of Gallia, Ohio, and formerly of Sugar Loaf, near here, was commissioned an ensign in the Naval Reserve and awarded the gold "wings" of Naval Aviation at Jacksonville, Fla., last month. Commanded by Captain John D. Price, commandant of the Jacksonville Naval Air Station, upon the successful completion of his exacting flight training, Walker is now ready for active duty at one of the many Naval stations or with the fleet air arm. Ensign Walker completed his elimination flight training at the Naval Reserve Aviation Base in Miami, Florida, before reporting as an aviation cadet to Jacksonville in March. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walker, of Gallia, he attended Rio Grande College. He is a member of Phi Rho Pi fraternity. Mr. and Mrs. Walker formerly resided near Prestonsburg.

ASK $40,000 DAMAGES

Survivors of Victims Sue Jackson, C. & O. Railway Company

A total of $40,000 damages is sought in two suits filed in circuit court here this week by survivors of accident victims.

Tom Calhoun, father of Carl Thomas Calhoun, and administrator of his estate, asks of Abe Jackson, doing business as the Jackson Furniture Company here, and Clifford Coleman, his truckdriver, $10,000 damages for the death of his son on Oct. 6.

Mrs. Ida Stumbo, wife of Joe Stumbo, and administratrix of his estate, seeks to recover $30,000 from the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company. The company's train struck and killed Joe Stumbo June 14 at McDowell. Also named in the suit are Charlie Marshall, engineer, and Herbert Borders, fireman, of the locomotive.

Both actions allege that the truck and train were operated recklessly and carelessly. The Stumbo suit contends that the victim was killed while on the railway tracks at a public crossing.

KMI DEFEATS CATS, 28-0

Visitors Use Passes To Demonstrate Superiority

Outweighed and outmanned, the Prestonsburg Black Cats lost to the Cadets of Kentucky Military Institute here Saturday afternoon, 28 to 0, in a game featured by KMI's passing attack and a staunch Prestonsburg defense.

But for Sharp's sharpshooting to pass receivers, the visitors might have been held to a single touchdown.

KMI scored twice in the first quarter, one on a pass and the other score being set up by a forward. A safety was scored by the winners in the second on an unusual play. KMI's fumble went over the Prestonsburg goal line and when Prestonsburg recovered it was scored an automatic safety. Had KMI recovered, it would have been a touchdown.

Passes figured in the next touchdown, which came in the third. A Prestonsburg pass attempt in the fourth was ruled completed and fumbled, with KMI recovering on the Black Cat 30, and from there lugging the ball over in the closing minutes of play.

Capelli, a power in the Prestonsburg backfield, sustained a broken collarbone during the game and is out for the remainder of the season. His loss weakens the Cats in their remaining games on the sched.

Allen Begins Duties As OPA Board Clerk

G. R. Allen has begun work as chief clerk of the Office of Price Administration's ceiling price board here. Mr. Allen's office is in the Hughes building and is connected with the Rationing Board office.

Map of Prestonsburg To Locate All Homes; Streets To Be Marked

A new map of Prestonsburg, showing every house location in town, is being made and approximately 50 copies will be made available to business firms and interested citizens, City Councilman R. G. Francis, in charge of the work, announced this week.

Residents of Prestonsburg will be asked to number their houses, thus making identification easy.

Mr. Francis also announced that all Prestonsburg streets will soon be identified by markers. Removal of posters and placards from telephone and light poles here was begun this week and the upper section of town netted two cartloads of paper.

Police this week warned against the breaking of bottles in the streets. Shattered glass, they pointed out, is taking heavy toll of tires.

The police department also said it would assist residents in locating missing articles, and asked that finders of lost items leave them with the police at the Blackburn Service Station.

51 REJECTED FOR SERVICE

17 Floyd Countians Held Mentally Unfit At Induction Center

Fifty-one of the 168 Floyd countians who left here Nov. 5 on call from Selective Service Board 44 for final examination at Huntington, W. Va., for military service were rejected because of a variety of shortcomings, a report received Sunday by H. T. Hill, clerk of the board, showed.

Of the 51 rejected for service, 17 were unacceptable on the grounds that they failed to pass certain mental tests.

Although 183 were to have been sent from this board to Huntington on Nov. 5, a number of the selectees were transferred for induction with other service boards, and four failed to report here as directed, leaving only 168 who actually made the trip to Huntington.

Of the 117 accepted for service, 110 returned home for their 14-day furlough before entraining for Fort Thomas, Ky.

'NO RIDE' RULE ESTABLISHED

By Education Board To Abide by OPA Regulations

To comply with Office of Defense Transportation regulations, to save wear and tear on school buses and tires, and to conserve gasoline, the Floyd County Board of Education at its November 3 meeting directed that the buses must be used only for the purposes for which they were purchased—to transport children, teachers and other school employes to and from school and to afford transportation for none other.

At the same time, the board set the maximum speed limit for school buses at 35 miles an hour.

Other major provisions of the special rules and regulations governing the operation of the Floyd county school buses follow:

A school bus driver must be 21 years of age, must have a valid first aid certificate, must pass medical examination prescribed by the County Board of Education. He must be sober, conduct himself properly and be careful at all times for the safety of the children in his charge. Being in charge of extensive equipment, he is responsible for its care and use at all times.

School bus drivers are required to follow the bus routes, time schedule, stops, etc., which are prepared by the Superintendent and principals co-operating. Unnecessary stops must be eliminated as well as unnecessary miles traveled. Over-lapping and duplication of bus routes must be eliminated.

Complete, detailed and accurate reports of the school bus service must be kept daily by each driver. Such reports must cover number of pupils carried, miles traveled, gas and oil used and cost of same, and other information called for on blanks furnished by the County Superintendent. These reports must be approved by principals.

7TH DISTRICT VOTE CONTEST NOT FILED

Gabbard Investigates Charges of Fraud In Election

Rumors of an impending election contest aimed at unseating Congressman A. J. May, Prestonsburg, lacked confirmation this week from Dr. Elmer E. Gabbard, Buckhorn, Ky.

Dr. Gabbard announced, following a conference with attorneys in Louisville last week, that no contest will be filed until he has made "most careful" investigation of charges and reports. He added that he has "reports of many irregularities which, if by further investigation are substantiated, would clearly establish that Mr. May was not legally elected."

Dr. Gabbard's visit to Louisville was made to ascertain how to proceed and how to take proof, in the event that he does contest results of the election. He was told by Charles I. Dawson, former federal judge, that the contest action, if filed, must be filed with Congress and would likely then be referred to the committee on Elections and Privileges. Such a contest proceeding may be filed within 30 days after the election. Joining Dr. Gabbard and Mr. Dawson in the conference were Dewey Daniels, former Hazard postmaster, and John E. Campbell, Hazard attorney and former member of the Republican state committee.

The defeated Republican nominee said that if he does file a contest action it will not be "the result of any feeling of chagrin or disappointment," but "solely to vindicate and protect" the people in their right to a "fair and impartial election."

Congressman May, in Washington, declared there are "no grounds for a contest" by Dr. Gabbard. "If he

Floyd Bandage Quota Reached Wednesday, Mrs. Keenon Says

Mrs. Lillian Keenon, director here of Red Cross sewing of dressings for army hospitals, announced Thursday morning that volunteer women workers here reached their September quota of 9,000 dressings Wednesday night, ahead of schedule. Work on the quota got off to a belated start, but was completed in less than the four weeks allotted for the undertaking.

As many dressings were made Wednesday as were completed during the entire first week of work, she said.

Thursday, work on the October quota of 16,500 dressings began. The November quota is 55,000.

An average of 15 women are assisting in this work daily, Mrs. Keenon said. Beginning this week, the workroom will open, Saturday afternoons, at 1 o'clock. Results of evening work sessions have been particularly gratifying, Mrs. Keenon added.

THE TRIAL OF ADOLF HITLER

Bailiff—Mr. Schickelgruber to the bar! Hitler—You can't do this to me! A Voice—Wanna bet?

Q.—What is your occupation? A.—I was a paper hanger until I gave it up.

Q.—Why did you give it up? A.—My wall paper selections drove the customers crazy.

Q.—Why didn't you let them make their own selections? A.—I wanted to be boss of everything, even then.

Q.—You also did some oil painting, did you not? A.—Yes, but that's not among the crimes I'm being tried for, I hope.

Q.—It should be. You also were an architect? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did you have any clients? A.—Not after they saw my blueprints.

Q.—When did you decide to give up honest ways of making a living and found a new order? A.—One day when I looked into a full-length mirror.

Q.—What happened to influence you? A.—I saw a reflection of Napoleon.

Q.—Only one? A.—Sometimes I wonder.

Q.—To what do you attribute your rapid rise to complete domination of the German people? Was it something you ate? A.—No. It was something THEY ate.

Q.—Where were you on the night of August 31, 1939? A.—Ach, if I could only forget it!

Q.—Why did you invade Poland? A.—It was not an invasion; it was counterattack with pursuit.

Q.—Do you still think anybody here will believe that one? A.—No, but it's my only chance.

Q.—You also attacked Belgium, Holland, Norway and other small nations in violation of treaties. You are charged with the bombing of defenseless towns, wanton destruction of shrines, schools and great historic sites, the murder of hospital inmates and general barbarism. What is your plea? A.—I deny everything.

Q.—On what basis? A.—On the grounds a cooked goose can't depend on its memory.

Q.—You signed a pact of friendship with Russia and then stabbed her in the back without warning. What about that? A.—When I sign a pact of friendship it should be warning enough!

Q.—Won't you please cease being arrogant, insolent, boastful and altogether offensive? A.—I'm not being arrogant, insolent, etc.; it's just my radio manner.

Judge—That reminds me; I think the prisoner's radio speeches should be added to his crimes.

Q.—Do you remember that speech where you said you would never take off your uniform until you had licked the world? Whatever became of that uniform? A.—After four years without being removed it became so infested with cooties that I became the world's outstanding subject for de-lousing by unanimous consent.

Judge—I think we have heard enough. The jury will retire for ten seconds and reach a verdict.

Hitler—No jury ever reached a verdict in ten seconds.

Judge—This one will.

STRAIGHT MAN A man I like is Marshal Smuts—He never deals in "ifs" and "buts."

Well, those bundists convicted and on their way to serve prison terms, were all shown in the newspaper photographs, grinning if not leering at the rest of us as if it were all a very funny matter with quite a light and airy side. Which renews Elmer Twitcheil's campaign to Cease Glorifying Indefensible Grinning. If there is anything that offends most Americans it is these snapshots of all sorts of law breakers, leering while police and court officials stand about smiling sweetly, too. What's the laugh? It escapes us.

TURNING back the pages of many, many calendars, your correspondent still recalls the thrill that came when the first breath of early fall came along, and the dog days were over. That meant football. We began practicing around September 15, and the season came to an abrupt finish on Thanksgiving day.

It's all different now. Football is already at full swing in many colleges and many camps.

Yale, for example, one of the most conservative of all the universities, has gone all out—not so much to develop a single outstanding team, but to have hundreds trained in the matter of condition and discipline that football demands. Certainly no university is doing a finer job. I also could mention Maryland and many others.

These teams want and will work for winners. But beyond that more attention will be paid to mass than to class.

Students who never thought of football before now will be shown the feeling of hard body contact, of increased speed, of improved stamina, of quicker reactions in competition. In the universities, the colleges and the prep schools there will be at least five, or possibly ten, football players in training against one for other seasons.

"Why," someone has asked, "shouldn't these men be in active war service?"

The main answer is that the war department wants it this way. First, because most of these men also are taking war training. Second, because the war department wants its coming replacements and reserves to be the best soldiers in the world, trained and conditioned for what is to come later on.

Every university and college of any standing in the country is doing its best to comply with the demands or requests that come from the top.

Football is already under full swing at the Naval Cadet camps located at the universities of Georgia, North Carolina, Iowa and St. Mary's.

"War," as the late General Sherman said, "is hell." But football in Georgia and North Carolina through August is no part of a picnic.

No one yet knows just how such coaches as Bernie Bierman and Jimmy Crowley will be able to get winning teams with squads that come and go, with almost no stars from the pros or from the colleges.

The odds are all against them. But football is a big part of their training, and this happens to be the main idea.

These four Naval Cadet camps have over 40 games scheduled with the stronger university teams, facing one of the toughest schedules of the year.

Other Games In the meanwhile the pros and the army squad are both on their way to camp, to many camps, for the eight games scheduled this month and through early September.

This army division, under Bob Neyland and Wallace Wade, will set at least one football record. They will finish up their schedule by September 20, just about the spot when most of the others are swinging into action.

Coaches Neyland and Wade have the "rush act" to handle. They have the material—many of the great football players of recent years—but the job of whipping these men into a football machine in a short while is no simple job.

You can gamble that the Washington Redskins, the New York Giants, the Green Bay Packers, the Brooklyn Dodgers and others will be something to shove around, despite the fact they have lost close to a hundred star men to the services. Messrs. Steve Owen, Curly Lambeau, George Halas and others still have enough good material left to keep any team busy, no matter how many stars may be working against them. They, also, are out to win.

And these games will play a big part for Army Relief. They are a big part of the bigger game. And they will be something to see.

Stout Combination The Big Nine, plus Notre Dame, may easily be football's stronghold for the new campaign. And this isn't overlooking Iowa, which would be a serious mistake.

There are linemen on hand to match the backs, especially at Minnesota, where Norse forwards usually have the call. Minnesota's big line will be led by Dick Wildung, one of the greatest forwards in 1941—a sure bulwark in the season that is not too far away, and which the fans are looking forward to.

Hatcher's Address Lands Former P'burg Woman

(Address delivered Oct. 27 at Lexington, Ky., by Secretary of State George Glenn Hatcher upon the installation of Mrs. Josephine Harkins Browning as Worthy Grand Matron, Grand Chapter of the Eastern Star of Kentucky.)

I am sure that I shall perform no other act during my term of office as Secretary of State of our Commonwealth, which will be more in harmony with my personal feelings, than this public acknowledgement of and concerning the life and service of your distinguished guest of honor, Mrs. Josephine Harkins Browning, your Associate Worthy Grand Matron of the Grand Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star of Kentucky, as well as to say a few words in tribute to Lt. Martin Roberts, Associate Grand Patron. I expect to say things on this occasion from my heart; and I trust that such will not be burdensome. Please have faith, hope and charity, anyway. Let me explain by way of example:

"Once when a speaker was introduced, the applause indicated that the listeners had faith that they would hear something worthwhile—about midway of the speech, the hand claps showed that the audience still had hope and, finally, after enduring a long discourse of words and the end eventually came, the applause given was for charity."

I trust that your faith, hope and charity will all three prevail in my behalf this evening long enough for me to say these earnest words. Sincerely speaking, if I were making an official utterance right now to all Kentuckians, I would admonish them to observe the examples of punctuality and organized efficiency worthy of emulation at their best in the Order of the Eastern Star of Kentucky.

The Grand Chapter's 40th annual session is this week the center of activities in its "patriotic session" of 1942 for fraternalism in Kentucky. Its growth, progress, beauty and substantial prosperity and influence are the work of many hearts and hands. Many and diverse are the influences which have helped to place it in this, its commanding position.

As we reflect on the greatness of your organization, we become aware at once of the great sense of obligations which every person in Kentucky, and especially you, who are present here tonight, owes to the keen-visioned, Christian, patriotic founders of your present and past officers of your order.

For the past several years, Mrs. Browning's participation in your organization has been one of growing interest fraternally; and her career has been rising and ever expanding in your midst. She, this lady of character, noted for her beauty, culture and a personality which grips the hearts of all who know her, has responded to the call of leadership. She has succeeded by working her way from the bottom to the top. Cousin Josephine, we all felicitate you on the high esteem in which you are held, not only among the folks of the Big Sandy country of Eastern Kentucky, but by your legion of friends throughout the Commonwealth; and which is held for you, especially by your sisters and brothers in this great Order of the Eastern Star. You are a distinguished Kentuckian, a daughter of the South. You are dearly beloved by your friends and neighbors of your native hills and mountains.

Without flattery or undue bragadocio, I feel I am compelled to go into detail for a few moments to recall to you all how this shining star in your Order has reached her present standing and position. First, she is cloaked in a mantle of dynamic and imperial simplicity. This peerless lady and citizen is devoting her life daily to the sacred altars of her home, church and community, and the cherished institutions of free men and women.

I am told that the records of Adah Chapter No. 24, Order of the Eastern Star, of Prestonsburg, Ky., show that, early in life, Josephine Anna Harkins was recommended, investigated, and was elected for membership; and was initiated as a member of that chapter. From the very date of her membership, she became active in your Order. She immediately became Acting Associate Matron. She was then elected Worthy Matron of her home chapter at Prestonsburg, where she still maintains active membership and interest. She was appointed to the office of Grand Organist of the Grand Chapter and was re-appointed to the same office for another year.

The records clearly show that her active interest privileged her to hold most every office, large and small, with excellent efficiency in her local lodge of the Order. Four years ago, she was appointed Grand Adah of the Grand Chapter; and was elected Associate Grand Conduress the following year. Her services were so well performed to merit her election as Grand Conduress a year later. Nothing seemed to stop her rise among you. You honored her again last year by elevating her still higher in her present office of Associate Grand Matron. Her elevation to the office of Worthy Grand Matron, which will be a really after only a few formalities, is the highest in the Grand Chapter of Kentucky; this coveted office brings her to an exacting position, for which she is admirably fitted. Her leadership will still be an added inspiration to the Grand Chapter.

In compliance with the fitting motto of the Eastern Star, Mrs. Josephine Harkins Browning has followed "The Gleam," and accepted the hard road of leadership which you have so graciously imposed upon her. Besides the accomplishments of her efforts, and her own initiative, there was born into her a heritage and a love for service to humanity, and the Eastern Star and the things for which it stands. Delving back into the past, we find that her grandfather, Joseph M. Davidson, served as Grandmaster of Zebulon Lodge of the Masonic Order in 1888 to 1889. Her father, Walter Scott Harkins, was also Grandmaster of the Zebulon Lodge of the Masonic Order in 1886; and her brother, Joseph D. Harkins, was Grandmaster of the same lodge in 1910-11. My father was one of Zebulon Lodge's first members.

Mrs. Browning was further imbued along these lines, because her dear, sainted mother, Mrs. Josephine Davidson Harkins, one of the dearest souls of our family, was one of the pioneer members of your Order; and is one of four living today, who attended the first Grand Chapter of the Eastern Star in Kentucky, forty years ago. (Aunt Josie, will you and your two daughters, Josephine and Woodie, please arise to be recognized at this time? Ladies and gentlemen, there stands three of the finest examples of womanhood in Kentucky—there they are, three ladies, distinguished because their hearts and souls are enmeshed with the love of your wonderful organization.) They stand, as does your Order, for the worship of God, friendship and fellowship among your fellow men and women. Will Joe, the son of Mrs. Harkins, please stand and be recognized? Long may they live for the sake of humanity. Josephine, may you continue to receive richly deserved honors.

I wish it were possible at this time to introduce to you Walter Scott Harkins, Sr., the husband and father of this fine mother and her son and daughters, and Walter Scott Harkins, Jr., who died only a few years ago. To have known these men was to love them. Their having lived was not in vain, as is evidenced here this evening.

Another person, whose activities and leadership have merited your fraternal attention is that honored gentleman, Lt. Martin Roberts, your present Associate Worthy Grand Patron. His distinguished service through the years has merited his elevation to his present position. In recognition of this ability and devotion to your Order, you have manifested a desire to elevate him to the office of Worthy Grand Patron, the highest in your Order in Kentucky; and I understand that he will be installed during this session in his new position.

Since Mr. Roberts is a member of the United States army, you are keeping in step with the times by honoring this gentleman, who belongs to the forces upholding our democracy, the armed forces of the United States.

My remarks would not be complete were I to close without expressing myself in behalf of those members of our land and naval forces composing the United States armed forces. They are the "sword of freedom," forged upon the altar of liberty to protect American ideals and institutions, sacred to all Americans. These forces are now being used as a "holy sword" to cut the bonds which hold other peoples of the earth in evil bondage. Our ancestors have relied upon this army of ours, since this sword of Freedom, so to speak, came into being. Our army and navy, composed of free men, are determined to burst the shackles of tyranny now, as they did in the American Revolution. Our young men and many women are giving their all—sacrificing as did our forefathers for freedom and liberty. The United States has never lost a war from the days of Washington, our first Commander-in-Chief, down to the present time, when Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States, our great Commander-in-Chief, leads us on to victory. We are proud of our men in the army and navy, and for what they stand and fight—America.

May we always have fathers and mothers like you building and upholding Christian principles upon which our democracy is founded.

May we have the courage of our convictions always and be unafraid for God and country. That phrase spoken by an earnest, doctory chaplain during the epic defense of Bataan may well be used by us all, as a guide to live by and to fight and die by. That phrase, "Praise the Lord, and pass the ammunition," gives anew to American citizenship like you the inspiring fact that religion, liberty and freedom are still for he-men.

So long as America has men and women like you—ever building, ever-defending and Kentuckians like those gallant sons of the "Blue Grass State" fighting the forces of evil wherever they may be all over the world, we shall always have Christianity, liberty and freedom. Continue your good work, and may God bless you. God bless America!

Radio Mechanics Test At Pikeville, Nov. 17

The next examination for radio mechanic learners will be held in Pikeville, 9 a. m., Nov. 17, at the postoffice. Application blanks and further information may be obtained at your local postoffice or U. S. Employment Service.

Qualifications for this appointment are few. There are no educational prerequisites. Applicants must be 18 years of age and must pass a general mechanical aptitude and intelligence test. All who pass will be considered for appointment to one of the preliminary training schools in Kentucky which are under the supervision of the Lexington Signal Depot. All appointees are required to enlist in the Signal Corps of the U. S. army and are placed on a reserve status until they finish their six months training course. The Signal Corps will consider for appointment individuals who may be classed as 1-T in the Selective Service draft.

Half of the students' time is spent in the classroom and the other half is spent in the laboratory working on actual radio equipment. The first period pays $85 per month and the second three months is paid at the rate of $120 per month.

WHAT HAPPENS IN COUNTIES THAT GO DRY?

PROHIBITION laws are designed to prevent the sale of alcoholic beverages. Such laws do prohibit legal sales in licensed places—but they do NOT and never have prevented illegal sales by bootleggers. The history of Prohibition—federal, state and local—is one of complete failure. Here is a concrete example: consider the experience of Clark County, right here in Kentucky. In 1938, Clark County voted dry. In June, 1941, it held another election, and this time voted for legal control. According to records of the Clark County Court and the Winchester Police Court, during the last 11 months that Clark County was "dry", 28 persons were convicted of drunken driving and 11 were convicted of bootlegging. During the first 11 months since Clark County has restored legal control, drunken driving convictions were cut 60%, and only one was convicted of bootlegging. This is the record where prohibition has been tried and rejected. Doesn't that record speak for itself? KENTUCKY BREWING INDUSTRY COMMITTEE BREWING INDUSTRY FOUNDATION HARRY D. AWED INTO SILENCE

THE typewriter experts and the chiefs of staff who frequent thousands of America's street corners were strangely silent this week.

For months they had been exercising the right of Free Speech and Free Press by blaming everybody from President Roosevelt down to the boys in uniform for the bad news that had been coming our way discouragingly often.

They had blamed politics with impeding the war effort; sneered at America's defense efforts, meanwhile yelling to high heaven for offensive action; had pitied Old Man Hull for his "easy ways" with Vichy; had querulously and continually demanded to know why we didn't do this or why we didn't do that, and why more was not done here or there over the globe to win this war.

Few of us failed to join the ululations of the pack. Even Wendell Willkie, certainly a splendid American, was led to cry out against our failure to get going.

But last Saturday night, along about nine o'clock, came word that hushed all that. Keyboards of the typewriters stood clackless and the generals and admirals left the street corners.

Word came that Americans had landed in Morocco and Algiers, executing a daring enveloping movement against the Axis army retreating from Egypt back across the burning sands of Africa. Gone that apparent appeasement of Vichy; that seeming apathy in the United Nations' high command turned out to be a mere desert mirage.

Politics, after all, hadn't enervated the strong arm of free American fighting forces; Old Man Hull had not been asleep, he simply had outfoxed the wily enemy and their stooges, Laval and Petain.

When the medals are being passed out, the finest should be accorded those leaders of the United Nations who have resisted all taunts and turned deaf ears to derision while protecting the military and state secrets that lesser men could not protect in this battle to the death with a ruthless and crafty foe. For it is hard to know that you are doing your best and what you think is right and best for your cause and keep silent when well-meaning but ignorant men cry out that you are a sluggard and a hindrance to the common cause.

Since Pearl Harbor, this plan of action along the Mediterranean coast of Africa has been in the minds of President Roosevelt, the chiefs of the country's armed forces and the corresponding leaders of the other countries allied with the United States. It was the American plan, however, all the way.

The President of this country, in times such as these when his own sons and the sons of thousands all over America are risking their lives for the very existence of America, has been accused of playing politics as Commander-in-Chief. It was Drew Pearson, famed news commentator and columnist, who recently answered all that. Mr. Pearson made answer by stating the simple truth that, had this invasion of North Africa been made by United States troops, a few days before the recent election, the Administration in Washington would not have lost a single seat in Congress.

But this nation, a fair land, is a fortunate land. Its President does not play the grim game of war, that way. He called for the drafting of 18-19-year-olds, a move, made shortly before the election, that he knew would lose his party votes. He bided his time for the attack in Africa, so that victory in this war, not at the polls, would be ours as well as his.

And so American guns roar and American planes swoop over Africa. And so American boys march toward what we all hope will end in victory.

And so we typewriter experts and street-corner strategists sit back with bated breath to watch the parade of patriotism of big men and the sacrifice of fighting men.

soldier and his friends in for dinner. This sort of invitation would be particularly acceptable at Thanksgiving time, when the thoughts of many a lad in olive drab will be resting on the home he left behind him.

One thing, however, should be remembered by prospective hosts: These boys in service are hearty eaters. Maybe you've forgotten the days when you were young and worked 12 or more hard hours a day. Maybe you've forgotten how those children of yours, when they were in their early 20's, cleaned their plates at every meal. If it's soldiers you're inviting in for dinner, see that the mashed potato dish is heaped to overflowing, and that the pie doesn't come in fashionable slices. And remember always, that when a polite soldier, responding to a second-helping suggestion, says he "doesn't know," he means he's still hungry as the very devil.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

times difficult for outsiders to understand. As an example of this, she tells about one of her friends who was hunting in the hills, and like most city people in Ozark woods, he became lost. He finally stumbled onto a back-country road, and in sheer desperation walked along it, hoping it would lead him to some familiar highway. After walking some time, he came upon an old man sitting on the fence, just looking. "Good morning," said the lost hunter. "I seem to be a bit confused in my directions. Where does this road go?" The old man took the pipe out of his mouth, spat at a weed and said, "I bin here nigh onto forty-nine years, and it hain't went no place yit!" Whereupon he put the pipe back in his mouth, and continued to look out over the scenery.

Modern financiers should be interested in this account of how a bank came into being in the Gold Rush Days in Nevada, as related by Edwin Corie, in his novel, "Coarse Gold." Here it is in the words of the president of the bank, Roland Fredericks (who at a later date was to walk out the back door of his bank with what remained of its assets): "I rented a store which was nothing but a board floor and canvas walls and put out a sign: BANK. It seemed as good a business as any in this new community. . . . I opened my bank at 10 o'clock in the morning, and by late afternoon I had accumulated a total of six hundred and twenty-four dollars on deposit to which I had issued temporary deposit slips to twenty-two customers. Nobody asked any questions. The sign bearing the single word BANK was guarantee enough. At four o'clock in the afternoon I closed the door for the day. The 'bank' was so good that I decided to put my own five dollars in, which I did and thus became my own twenty-third depositor. . . . I don't know of any better way to start a bank."

INVITE A SOLDIER

WHILE we're "agin" weeks-for-this and weeks-for-that, we do think someone might institute an "Invite-a-Soldier-To-Your-Home-For-Thanksgiving" Week, and thereby earn the gratitude of a lot of lads in uniform who may be a little tired of army chow.

Army food is good, it's nourishing, and it is filled with vitamins and calories and all those things the doctors go for. Army meals are well-balanced and bounteous. There's just one thing the army mess hall lacks—and that's the home touch. Most of the boys in uniform lived in the atmosphere of pleasant homes—and they miss it.

So we heartily approve of the suggestion that people in Cincinnati, whenever they can, invite a

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

SOLDIER WONDERS WHY WE FAILED Editor, The Times:

I notice that you Floyd countians didn't reach your goal in the scrap drive.

Have you looked everywhere around your place or did you depend upon the other fellow to gather up enough scrap for himself and you, too? I am sure that every family could turn in a few pounds.

Do you realize that the winning of this war depends upon the people at home, as well as the soldiers? There is a job for every one, a definite job and it must be done. It may be on the farm, in the mines, or in the factory. These jobs must be carried on and the person that fails to do his job properly is a slacker, even though you may not realize it.

When you are riding around in your car, did you ever think that you may be rolling your home and country into the hands of the Germans and Japs? The importance of both gasoline and rubber for airplanes has been stressed many times before, so there isn't any use going into that, or either the rubber boats carried in the planes. Now, there is the gas mask, an article upon which the difference between life and death depends. How would you feel if word of your son or brother should come home that he had died from exposure to gas due to a leak in the rubber tube of his mask? This could have been due to a poor grade of rubber, maybe not as good as your tires. You had worn your tires out riding around—then you would feel that you had done something that let your son or brother down as well as your country.

There are so many other things to take into consideration such as the waste of food. You must realize that thousands of people have been taken from the farms who formerly worked there. Some one of them must work hard enough to make up for the loss of that hand or hands.

The war must be fought at home as well as on the front lines in order for us to win this war. So let's suffer a few inconveniences now in order to be free Americans in the future.

A SMILE AND A PRAYER Editor, The Times:

Enclosed is a poem I would like to have published in your paper, especially for the benefit of a certain class of women who call themselves mothers, but who disgrace the name, "Mother," by their squawking and hysterics when their sons get their call for the army.

I am also a mother and I can well imagine what it is like to see a son march away to war. My husband went to the army when our son was only one month old, but no one heard any complaints from me or saw any tears. I sent him away with a smile and a word of encouragement. I held back the tears until I could be alone.

But I am proud of my soldier-husband and if ever the day comes when my son too must march away to war, I only pray that God will give me the courage to send him away, as I did his father, with a smile and a prayer.

After all, it is our men and our sons who must face the dangers and the hardships. Should we not be brave and do our part as they must do theirs?

A SOLDIER'S WIFE

(Editor's note: But for our policy of eschewing poetry, we would have published the contributor's poem. Her courageous letter, however, gets her sentiments "across" quite effectively.)

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D. Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

"NOW"

AMONG all the bywords that I have heard none seems more universal in extent than "Now." I have questioned people from every part of the nation and have found that all children have used it almost exactly the same way. I suppose that it started by being used to mean literally what it says, as in "You let me alone now." But it soon lost this and acquired a slightly bellicose tone, as if it might have been a substitute for a word prohibited by parents or school teachers. Sometimes it did not have any sentence to intensify but appeared alone; when that happened, the poor little fellow who was using it had got so angry that he had run out of anything to say and was merely exploding.

Here is a typical use of the word. Two children are playing with a ball or other toy. One gets it and keeps it, though he is not the owner. The other one asks for it calmly for a while and then resorts to "Let me have my ball, now." If this does not bring it, there often follows a loud and angry appeal to Mammy to "make Jim give me my ball, now." If Mammy is too far away or too busy ironing or washing or cooking, fists come in handy. Diplomacy yields to warfare, just as if the youngsters were two great and mighty nations acting like small boys.

"What's in a name?" asks Shakespeare. Too much is made of mere words that are supposed to be naughty. Since many such words are under the ban, we had to let our feelings out in some way. I have heard "Now" said in a tone that would make mere profanity sound reverent. There was no punishment ever offered for this strong word so far as I can recall; hence we could put into it every conceivable shade or tint of meaning. Only the initiated could know just how profane we were when we said the word.

The same thing could be said for many another harmless byword. Swearing as such was sternly forbidden by parents and by custom. Some people used bywords very much as we use salt and pepper, for seasoning and not to attract attention. But on occasions a thing that was merely "dadgummed" could be so bad that we smaller boys and the women might very well blush with shame for ourselves and for the naughty man who said it. One of our teachers regularly called a boy "honey" when he was on the verge of administering a thrashing. We soon learned when that word was used to expect a scene, one in which the teacher would acquire more power and more respect. "Some 'honeys' were not very bad, but others were about as bad as blanket-blanks could be in ordinary society.

It is strange, after all, that mere words are expected to express what we mean. No amount of writing can explain the flavor of the simplest words uttered with passion. If we can ever perfect a simple and inexpensive way of recording all kinds of speech, I want to put down for future reference some of the "Nows" that I still hear wherever I go.

MONEY TALKS

By FREDERICK W. STAMM

Economist and Director of Adult Education University of Louisville

A RECENT survey estimated that there are approximately 20 million refrigerators, 3½ million gas and electric ranges, 19 million washers and ironers, 16 million vacuum cleaners, 16 million toasters, 38 million radios, 15 million electric fans, and 90 million miscellaneous and small electrical appliances now in use in American homes.

Because of the war, American factories which were producing this type of equipment have been forced into war industries, and we can no longer buy new equipment. This presents a two-fold problem. In the first place, householders must take better care of their electrical equipment, or they may find that they cannot secure repair parts if their refrigerators or vacuum cleaners break down. It is time that we all become conscious of the fact that we must pamper our equipment if we are to enjoy the luxuries of the mechanical age. Electrical dealers, many parts of the country have stated that they had only enough repair stock to run them some three or four months and, in many cases, especially in rural communities, the conditions are even more alarming. This simply means that if some of your equipment breaks down, you may not be able to get it repaired.

The second problem presented by this mechanization of the home concerns the electrical appliance dealers. Many of them can no longer buy new equipment and the supply of new parts has become inadequate. It seems to me that in the face of these scarcities the electrical appliance dealer who can no longer secure new equipment for sale might well turn his attention to the repair angle of his business, for I believe this provides an excellent opportunity for him to "ride out" the war until peacetime production makes new equipment available. There is no doubt that a major part of our electrical equipment will be worn out during the period of the war, and if electrical appliance dealers can maintain their establishments there will be a tremendous market for all of their products after the war. But in the meantime, let us all co-operate to keep the American home on the most efficient basis possible.

Marine Representatives To Be Here, Nov. 19-21

Representatives of the United States Marine Corps Recruiting Service will be at the postoffice here, Nov. 19, 20 and 21, for the purpose of interviewing and examining applicants for enlistment in the famous fighting leatherneck organization.

These Marines will be particularly anxious to discuss with the fathers and mothers of young men about to enter the armed forces the advantages and opportunities offered by the Soldiers-of-the-Sea.

Any young man between the ages of 17 and 30, who is normally sound physically and mentally, may qualify for enlistment. Those who have not reached their 21st birthday must have the consent of their parents.

Men accepted in Prestonsburg will be sent to Louisville, at government expense, for their final examination and induction. Immediately upon taking the oath of enlistment, in Louisville, they will be transferred to one of the Marine Corps bases for training. These bases are located at San Diego, Calif., and Parris Island, S. C.

SERIOUSLY SPEAKING

By E. F. EPLING

"From the halls of Montezuma the shores of Tripoli—"

This week, the 7th, remembered the 167th anniversary of fighting Marines. And they're only on the shores of Tripoli by hundreds of shores and fronts.

Their equipment and the wear of the other soldiers, sailors and men come from the farms, mill mills, homes and factories. Are one of the many thousands who helping to arm the men who fighting your battles? Or are you indifferent, unthankful drone who knows nothing but gimme? It's his to make a bee out of a drone, but possible to eliminate those who der the workers and fighters.

An extra front has been opened. Every hour our boys are fighting and dying. Will every true American see to it that those who strike industries vital to supporting forces are put where they, too, fight? There they will learn who takes to retain their way of life.

Not only special privileges, normal conditions are interrupted for the duration. An interruption not bad. But an elimination would be terrible, a calamity.

Our armed forces say this shall happen. Are you doing your part? From every hamlet in the nation to the shores of Tripoli, and beyond to whatever obstructs freedom mankind—

Our Marines, together with the army and navy and our air of the sky, are on the march. To supply lines reach back to you to me. What are we doing?

Once again—what are we doing? Is it support—or hindrance?

READING and WRITING

IF YOU were asked to select the ninety-three most important living American authors, whom would you select? Whit Burnett, the editor of Story Magazine, was faced with this problem not so long ago when he decided to edit "This Is My Best," an anthology of outstanding American authors' choice of their most outstanding work. "This Is My Best" will be distributed next month by the Book-of-the-Month Club as a dividend for November and December.

He didn't have to trouble about which piece of writing to select, since that, as the title indicates, was in each case left to the author. And of course, he knew which writers he himself liked best. But he wanted to get other people's opinions. Accordingly he inaugurated a very comprehensive survey. He sent a list of some 150 contemporary authors to booksellers, librarians, literary reviewers and also authors, teachers, and public figures—some 20,000 in all. Those canvassed were asked to indicate their hundred choices and to write in any names that were not included in the ballot.

The person getting the top number of votes was Carl Sandburg, and next to him came John Steinbeck. Following these came Eugene O'Neill, Ernest Hemingway, and next came three women authors: Willa Cather, Pearl Buck, and Edna St. Vincent Millay. Others rating a high place in the list were Sinclair Lewis, Stephen Vincent Benet, Christopher Morley, Carl Van Doren, Robert Frost and Thornton Wilder.

The true Ozarkian, Marguerite Lyon remarks in her book, "And the Green Grass Grows All Around," has a sense of humor that is some-

ONE of the most mysterious and colorful figures in this modern conglomeration of golfing talent is Joe Kirkwood. Joe is almost complete proof as to the vital part the emotional or psychological side can play in this ancient Scottish game.

At 200 yards away Grantland Rice he could make a caddie duck with either a slice or a hook. It was an easy game in trick shot or exhibition play.

How It Works Years ago I followed Kirkwood in a North and South championship at Pinehurst. He wasn't scoring any too well.

The Curse of Golf "Golf would be an easy game for anyone to play," Joe continued, "except for one thing."

As the military and economic forces of the United Nations begin to equal and in some respects to surpass those of the Axis, the war for freedom becomes more than ever a problem of supply.

Our good neighbors to the South are invaluable sources of raw materials. Tin comes from Bolivia, rubber from Brazil, copper from Chile.

Critical metals not only are restricted for any but war uses, but existing stocks are being gathered in wherever they may be found.

Use of stainless steel in more than 75 products, from coffee pots to farm machinery, has been prohibited.

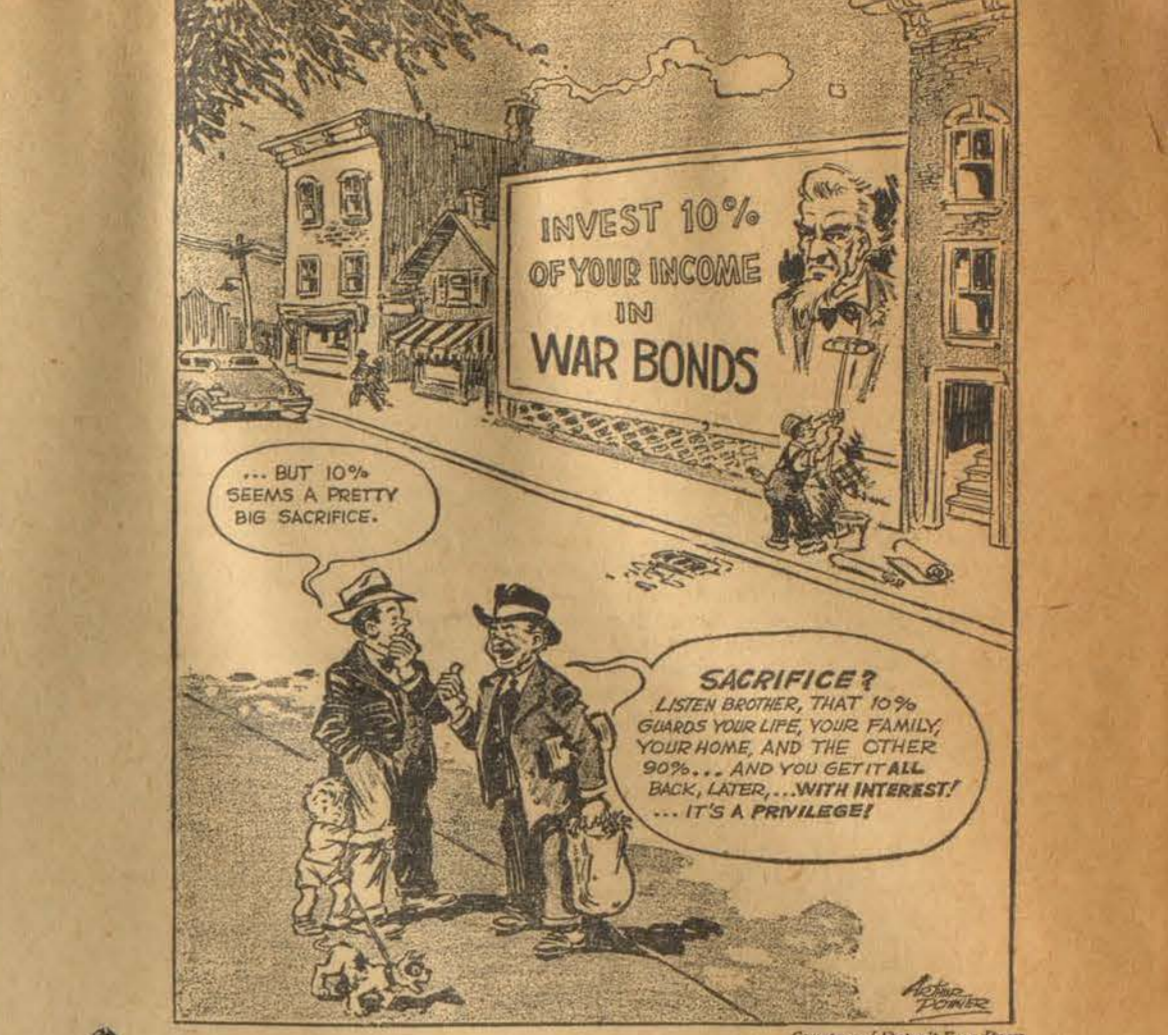

To save rubber and metals, the manufacture of typewriters ceased at the end of October. But the government needs 600,000 typewriters.

Production and distribution of razors and razor blades have been placed under tighter restrictions.

Local Selective Service Boards are being requested to grant occupational deferment to "necessary" men and war industries have been instructed to stop recruiting such workers for industrial labor.

It is illegal to sell or to offer to sell women's hosiery made from "spun" nylon, nylon "blend," or nylon "combination" yarn until the OPA has established specific prices.

ALL QUIET ON SHOTGUN FRONT AS HUNTERS PREPARE FOR BIG PUSH STARTING NOV. 24TH

Kentucky hunters have silenced their guns on doves and squirrels and are now making check-ups on hunting equipment, preparatory to the opening of the quail and rabbit season which begins in Kentucky November 24 and extends through Jan. 9.

S. A. Wakefield, director of the Division of Game and Fish, points out that the only game that can be hunted at present is ducks and geese. All other game is now protected by closed seasons until the rabbit and quail season opens.

quail are quite plentiful this year and as a result of the re-stocking program carried out last spring by the Division and sportsmen, and to the favorable nesting and rearing seasons which the quail found during the late spring, summer and early fall months. Rains in recent weeks have assured ample water supply for game birds and other forms of wildlife. Shortage of manpower on the farms during the past months has not permitted the harvesting of some crops of wheat, hemp, sorghum and other types of crops which provide food for wildlife and neither has the shortage of labor permitted the cutting of weeds along fences or pastures and this has provided a lot of good cover for both wild animals and birds.

Rabbit is reported plentiful in several counties in the state.

Wakefield calls the hunter's attention to the fact that the Bob White quail cannot be bought or sold anywhere in Kentucky at any time and anyone doing so is subject to arrest. The bag limit is 12 a day or not more than two days' bag limit—24 in possession. Rabbits may be bought or sold anywhere in Kentucky during the open season but no person may have more than 16 rabbits in possession at any time. The daily bag limit is 8 with possession of 16—two days' bag limit.

By JUDY GARLAND
Young Screen Star

You don't have to sing or dance to entertain the soldiers. All you have to do is talk. Just pull up a chair, sit down and be prepared to answer a lot of questions. That's one thing I found out during my tour of the Army camps. All the fellows want to know about Hollywood and the motion picture stars and I wanted to know all about them.

If the soldiers asked me questions, it didn't compare with the quiz I put them through. All my life I've wanted to travel throughout the United States, staying a week or two in each town. I wanted to meet people from different parts of the country. When you live in one town, your scope is narrowed.

Of course, a trip like that would be impossible for a working girl, boys from every city and state in each camp I met and talked with boys from every city and State in the Union. It was everything I expected and more than an education. I had to know about each one, where he came from and what he did. The thing that touched me most was that they were equally interested in me. If it hadn't been for the boys at Camp Robinson, I would never have had a wedding cake.

WEDDING CAKE DONATED TO ME BY SOLDIERS

The day we played there was my wedding anniversary. My husband, David Rose, who accompanied me on the trip, and I were talking about it. The boys overheard and that night we were given a surprise party. The highlight of the evening was a huge wedding cake topped by a tiny bride and groom. A wedding cake was the one thing I felt cheated of when we were married. Now I had that, thanks to a bunch of swell people.

The first time I sang for the soldiers I was scared to death. My knees shook and my voice trembled with a severe case of stagefright. It seems silly now, as I look back on it. Every performer dreams of stopping a show, but believe me, no show was ever stopped with the thunderous applause and appreciative response that greets an entertainer playing to a group of soldiers.

TOURING CAMPS LIKE 'OLD HOME WEEK'

In a way, touring the camps was like my old vaudeville days. Making overnight jumps on milk trains and playing four-a-day instead of the usual two. It was like "old home week." Many of the performers were people with whom my mother and father, as well as my sisters and I, had played in vaudeville.

It was wonderful to see these people, headliners twenty-five years ago, return to bring the house down in Army camps all over the country. One of the trouper told me he never hoped to experience a greater moment than the day he opened at the Palace Theater eighteen years ago. But he did when, with the same act, he received an even greater ovation at Fort Knox in Louisville, Kentucky.

A NEW CRADLE FOR TALENT

Willie Shore, the "Abba-Dabba Man," who was my favorite comedian when I was a little girl, played with us at one camp. He does an act with a seltzer-water bottle and I used to sit out front with the soldiers and watch him. It never failed that when he squirted the water it would land on me. This often resulted in my appearing on the stage in a slightly wet and bedraggled condition, but it was wonderful.

These performers were all my old friends and it was grand to see them back in front of an audience where they belong. Camp shows have not only brought entertainment to the soldiers, they have revived vaudeville and opened a new field for young hopefuls who up to now have had no opportunity to appear before an audience. A new cradle for talent has been found.

We did four shows a day. One at the reception center where the newly inducted boys gather, one in the hospital and two in the auditorium. At each show I sang two set songs and then did request numbers. It seems the boys favor the old songs and in my case the two outstanding requests were "Over the Rainbow" and "Dear Mr. Gable."

The first time they asked for the "Gable" song I was stumped. It had been a long time since I had sung it, but after ad-libbing the lyrics a few times, the original ones came back to me. The shows were all at night and my days were spent touring the camp.

There's one thing about the army. It has a swell sense of humor. When I started out I couldn't tell the difference between a private and a general. I was introduced to a colonel one night and to the great amusement of all the boys I acknowledged the introduction with a "I'm very happy to meet you, Corporal!"

They howled and when I arrived home they sent me a huge chart listing all the insignia and what each stood for. Just to keep me straight, they wrote.

WHAT KENTUCKIAN WOULD SHOOT A VOTER WHO CAN'T BLEED?

By ALLAN M. TROUT (In The Courier-Journal)

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 7.—The machine age has caught up with Kentucky politics. For the first time in 150 years of statehood, voting machines made their appearance in 78 precincts at the general election last Tuesday.

And what happened? For the first election in a coon's age, not a single shooting was reported at a single polling place in Kentucky. White doves of peace fluttered all day long over 4,339 precincts in the Dark and Bloody Ground.

For many years now, the nation has cocked its ears for the familiar sound of gunfire at Kentucky elections. Outspoken anger followed by a few quick shots, have come to be accepted by Kentuckians as an inevitable feature of election day.

Countless generations of Kentucky editors have reserved two columns on election night—one for returns and the other for shootings. "How many dead by now?" is as routine a question to ask an editor on election night as "How did Nelson go?"

Irvin S. Cobb has said Kentuckians vote with Winchester rifles. In his "Exit Laughing," Cobb tells of retaining interest in Kentucky politics long after leaving the state for residence elsewhere. On the night of the 1932 election between Roosevelt and Hoover, Cobb relates, he forgot for the moment that a new law in his old state delayed the count for 24 hours after the polls closed. He entered his apartment in New York and asked:

"Any news from Kentucky yet?"
"Yes, dad," his daughter answered. "First scattered returns are just in: Nine dead and 14 wounded. Additional figures are expected when more outlying precincts are heard from."

"My daughter," Cobb adds wistfully, "being only one-half Kentuckian, sometimes manifests a regrettable tendency to jibe at institutions which, to her aging father, are sanctified."

Cobb, of course, wrote that with tongue in cheek. Actually, not more than two were killed, not five wounded, in that election.

Forgetting Cobb's fanciful writing for the moment, older Kentuckians recall with tragic regret the bloody affair at Clayhole, precinct, Breathitt county, where five were killed and 17 wounded in a pitched battle between Demo-

Hill Country Turns To Hay and Pasture

Gray H. Williams, farm agent in Harlan county, says farmers of the hill country are fast learning the value of hay and pasture to furnish cheap feed and to protect the land. To back up his statement, he submits the following records:

M. A. Calhoun of Loyal sold $700 worth of cattle, most of which were calves that never tasted grain.

Grant Madden of Dixey sold $300 worth of cattle and $102 worth of lambs that cost him nothing except pasture.

M. G. Smith of Harlan "doesn't have anything to do but take it easy and watch his cattle grow on excellent pasture."

At Grey's Knob Lawrence Skidmore keeps 25 head of cattle solely on pasture. He sold two calves for $53.

John Cawood of Cawood is grazing 18 head of cattle on 15 acres of meadow from which he cut 16 stacks of hay. He has enough hay and pasture to winter his cattle.

Chad Lewis of Loden was once a big corn grower. Now he knows that hay and pasture provide plenty of food and protect the soil. He cut his alfalfa three times and then left a big growth for winter.

Fred Bargo of Guiston has six acres of alfalfa in what was once a swamp. It was drained a year ago and limestone and phosphate applied.

L. G. Morris of Cumberland saves $150 to $200 by grazing cover crops in the winter and spring. He cut four acres of alfalfa and ryegrass three times, and also has four acres of a mixture of timothy, lespedeza and alsike clover.

Henry Turner of Verda cut three good crops of alfalfa and demonstrated alfalfa can be grown. He has 20 acres of meadow and pasture land which gave him all the hay he can use, and now it is being grazed.

Milt Holmes of Holmes Mill cut a crop of soybeans in July, and followed with alfalfa and ryegrass. The alfalfa now is 18 inches high, which means he should get four cuttings next year.

In renovating her mother's farm, Daisy Cawood of Harlan included a hillside with a 45-degree slope that a few years ago grew nothing but pawpaws and saw briars, and was full of gullies. Now it is covered with grass.

The entire farm of Milt Carter at Cawood is in either grass or cover crops, in which cattle, sheep

WAYLAND HOT SHOTS

By R. H.

Now that the election is over, we can get that off our minds and begin thinking about something else. It's grand to live in a country where we have a right to different opinions, freedom of speech and freedom of the press. I know that we are all of one opinion on winning this war, that in the future we will still maintain that freedom.

Wayland doesn't seem like the same place any more. We are working five days a week and that d—tiple is not giving any trouble at all since we threatened putting it in battleships. The "black diamond" is sure rolling out from under it now—around 4,000 tons daily.

The Rebekah Lodge set a supper for the Odd Fellows Lodge No. 38, Saturday night. The ladies put on a little floor work for the men and it was the best I ever saw. It was a wonderful supper, and deep in my heart I appreciated it, along with all the other members of Wayland Lodge No. 38, and wish to say to the ladies, your work was so much better than the men you have made them ashamed of themselves.

This column would not be complete without saying something about the fountain girls. The trouble with them, they all want to get married who are not married, and no one to marry. Betty said all she was waiting on was the preacher and, of course, the man. I have picked one out for Christine and Louise, but they don't want to be old maids, they can't be so particular.

Several boys were reporting to Dr. Wicker for blood tests this week. Among them was a fellow from Lackey whose test showed up 70 proof, 30 per cent bean soup. Looks bad for him.

State Business Shows Uptrend in September

Business conditions in Kentucky showed a general improvement during September in comparison to the same month a year ago, the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Kentucky has reported.

An improvement over August of this year was noted in the report, made after a state-wide survey. The Bureau also said the business index for September was 6.3 per cent above the corresponding month a year ago and 3.1 per cent above August of this year. The calculations made no allowance for price changes.

Coal production was 5.3 per cent above last September, electric current consumption was up 27.7 per cent, the dollar volume of retail trade advanced 12.6 per cent and newspaper circulation improved 12.6 per cent.

By contrast, however, motor fuel tax collections showed a decrease of 32.8 per cent and toll bridge and ferry traffic was off 19.7 per cent in comparison to September, 1941, the report said.

The bureau was "impressed with the extraordinary long range gains occurring in the western part of the state." This was attributed to the "war boom" which struck later in that area than in other sections of Kentucky.

Miss Waleida Smiley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Smiley, of Prestonsburg, was admitted Nov. 6 for medical treatment. She is somewhat improved.

Miss Margaret Crider, of Betsy Layne, was admitted on Nov. 6 for medical treatment and dismissed on Nov. 8 in good condition.

Master Otto Frazier, Jr., small son of Otto Frazier, of Martin, was admitted to the hospital Nov. 7 for medical treatment and is improving nicely.

Master Elmer Conley, son of Wyatt Conley, of Garrett, was admitted to the hospital Nov. 7 for medical treatment and dismissed Nov. 9 in good condition.

Master Lonnie Sizemore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland McDowell, of Minnie, was admitted to the hospital Nov. 8 for medical treatment and dismissed Nov. 9 in good condition.

Several counties were represented in the attendance at the annual beef cattle day in Union county.

and hogs are grazing. Lee Taylor, of Saylor grew only four and a half acres of corn this season, since he had plenty of hay and grass for his stock.

C. V. Bennett of Harlan sowed four acres of alfalfa on soybean land, using ryegrass as a nurse crop. He is planning to grow less corn and more hay and grass.

Billie Pope of Cawood sowed five acres of alfalfa in September to provide hay for his dairy herd.

Millard Scott of Blair sowed vetch, ryegrass or other cover crops on all his land, even on his garden.

H. P. Maggard of Blair turned a cover crop of vetch and ryegrass that was so big he could hardly handle it. Corn was then planted. But the July flood nearly got it. However, it began to grow well in August, fed by the nitrates from the vetch.

Contest Not Filed

does get a recount," Mr. May added, "I will gain votes. I lost several hundred votes in my own county because the tabulators threw out ballots from which the precinct clerks had failed to tear the stubs," he was quoted as saying.

On the other hand, it was pointed out, over in Johnson and Martin counties, both of which are heavily Republican, tabulators permitted ballots in the same condition to be counted. "These ballots from Johnson and Martin would be thrown out in a recount, and my majority would be larger than it is now," the Congressman stated.

In Frankfort, Commissioner of Agriculture W. H. May, Jr., speaking for his uncle, Congressman May, declared, "They are contesting the wrong man." His statement included the allegation that registration for kerosene and gasoline rations was conducted in both Martin and Johnson counties on election day, at the voting-places, bringing against Congressman May a tide of Republican votes.

A worker on the Martin county rationing board denied that registration was conducted in that county on election day. No denial was made that Johnson county registration was conducted as alleged.

Registration for gasoline and kerosene users had not been advised at any time, it was pointed out here this week, earlier than November 9, six days after the Congressional election was held.

BOOZE

To the Fathers and Mothers Of Floyd County:
 They have rationed our sugar
 And soon will ration shoes:
 There are plenty barefooted children
 All on account of booze.

Fathers come home drinking
 And sometimes mother, too:
 Their children, cold and hungry—
 All on account of booze.

Flour barrels are empty,
 Mothers' hearts are sad,
 Children cold and hungry—
 All on account of DAD.

DAD, you may like your whiskey,
 You may like your beer,
 But look what dangerous times
 Are facing us here.

Our boys, they are leaving,
 Their hearts are lone and sad.
 Whiskey caused the trouble,
 Please, won't you quit it, DAD?

Homes have been wrecked,
 And children's hearts are sad.
 Booze is all the trouble—
 Vote it out, Dad.

Our boys and girls are drinking,
 They're in Floyd county, too;
 Dad, if you love your children
 Vote against the Booze!

Booze often causes sickness
 And sometimes deaths, too;
 And when you find it out
 It's all on account of Booze.

Now, may God bless Floyd county,
 And all its voters, too,
 Now will you go on election
 And vote against the Booze?

Now may God bless each Christian
 Who's traveling the holy way,
 To bring out all your friends and neighbors
 On this election day.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

A pelorus, used by the Navy, is a device which fits over the surface of a compass to enable the operator to take bearings on distant objects. It has split hair sights, has been in use for many years . . . and costs approximately $125.

These instruments are essential equipment to every American ship which comes out of the shipyards. With the scores of ships now being completed each month, we need many of these instruments. Your purchase of War Bonds and Stamps will help pay for them. Invest at least ten percent of your income every payday in these interest bearing Government securities.

ule — Pikeville Saturday afternoon and Paintsville on Thanksgiving. Both games will be played here. Coach Branham said Preston, Cat center, suffered a badly bruised hip and may not be available in the game against Pikeville.

Both teams were feted Saturday evening at the high school cafeteria, with the Parent-Teacher Association serving 117.

Johnny Heinze, Prestonsburg end, and Sharpe, KMI backfield ace, were named the outstanding players in the game and each was presented a $25 War Bond at the banquet. Each man was selected by players of the opposing team.

Bob Francis presided as toastmaster at the banquet. Mayor E. P. Arnold welcomed the guests, and the coaches of the two teams, Coach Branham, of Prestonsburg, and Capt. Pace and Eline, of KMI, were introduced by Walter Scott Harkins. Talks were made by Dr. Richmond, of KMI, Prof. Ishmael Triplett and Prof. Claybourne Stephens, of Prestonsburg, Capt. Pace and Capt. Eline, of KMI. Music for the occasion was rendered by the high school glee club directed by Mrs. Kathryn Frazier.

"I'm Bill Smith —the guy who installed your telephone . . . but I'm on leave from the Solomon Islands show, and I'm GOING BACK.

"I just dropped in to tell you we boys in the A.E.F. are grateful to the folks back home who are doing everything possible to help war production. Everything that helps war production helps us at the front."

By helping to keep long distance telephone lines clear for war calls, you help speed war production. War calls are crowding telephone lines—especially the "long haul" lines which are the most heavily loaded with war business. The greater the distance you talk, the greater the likelihood of delaying vital war calls. To keep telephone lines clear for our armed forces, war industries and civilian defense agencies, is our job here at home.

We cannot add new lines because materials are more urgently needed to equip our fighters. Therefore, to make more room on crowded long distance lines for important war business, telephone users are urged to make only absolutely essential calls and to be brief in all conversations.

War takes no holiday, so please do not use "long distance" to exchange Thanksgiving greetings.

Studebaker says:

"Wartime care will save your car"

Government regulation of driving makes it clear that every one of our cars and trucks is vital to the nation's need for essential wartime transportation.

Less driving means more danger from corrosion, sticking parts and leaking engine gaskets. Slower speeds make small irregularities of engine performance more bothersome.

Your car should be lubricated and inspected on the basis of time rather than mileage intervals.

Use your car carefully. Give it regular maintenance. This is the best way to preserve it. Simple, yes, but important.

Studebaker dealers are engaged in a wartime service program—to assist you—regardless of the make of car or truck you own.
