Two Named in Theft Of Truck Near Here

Earl Miller and Newt Green, of this vicinity, were jailed here after having been arrested at the Paintsville Country Club shortly after midnight Saturday by State Patrolman Alvin Adkins as suspects in the theft of a truck from John Meadows, of West Prestonsburg. They were booked at the county jail here on grand larceny charges

Their arrest followed stalling of the car in the highway between Paintsville and the club, blocking traffic

A 1934 black Ford sedan was also reported to Patrolman Adkins as having been stolen December 6 on Cow Creek.

Patrolman Adkins said operation of stolen cars over wide territory indicates a flourishing "black market" in gasoline in this section, since those accused of the thefts could not possess legal gasoline coupons.

Also in jail here are Charles Caudill, of Bypro, and Norsie Bolding, of Wayland, on peace wairants. Caudill, accused of attempting to kill T. A. Bates, well-known Bypro man, will be given hearing Monday before County Judge Hill. Minnie Horn, of the Right Beaver section, is held on a grand larceny charge sworn out by Kendall Moore, of Northern, who alleges she stole from him $500 in cash.

Wherein Flood Control Dams Fail

TOM WALLACE, Kentucky's editorial crusader for conservation, lends to this newspaper's recent editorial urging reforestation in Floyd county the dignity of re-publication in his newspaper, THE LOUISVILLE TIMES, and the following editorial comment of his own:

SANDY VALLEY VOICE RAISED

When such editorials as that of The Floyd County Times, reprinted in this page, become prevalent in local newspapers in Kentucky the great problem of right land use in this state will be well on its way to solution.

Big Sandy valley in its primeval state was a scene of rare beauty and of rich natural resources which might have been perpetuated. The Floyd County Times does not exaggerate the ruin that has been wrought or the importance of restoring the hillsides that are "chutes down which every rain sends the remaining topsoil."

The area is not beyond restoration, but continued neglect would make it finally like the scenes in Palestine where, widely, there is no longer soil which rains can send down hill; where the hills are bare stone.

THE TIMES is grateful for the Louisville newspaper's support. We need it. Also needed is the immediate support of Congressman May and others of the Kentucky delegation to the national Congress as plans are being laid for postwar public improvements.

It occurs to this newspaper that the need for deepening feeder streams and reforestation of their surrounding hillsides is a deeper, truer, more important objective than that of building flood control dams.

A dam built, say, twenty-five miles from the source of a stream provides protection against flood only for that portion of the valley below it; meanwhile, it causes the inundation of hundreds of acres of level land above-floods the only profitably tillable land above the barrier. At the same time, unless a reforestation project accompanies the building of the dam, the cause of floods remains.

Such a man-made contrivance to protect localities farther downstream, with no co-operation given nature, is the perfect example of locking the door after the hoss is stolen.

This is no argument against the con-struction of flood control dams. They have a definite purpose, even if their benefits to some are gained at the cost of huge expanses of good land which their dammed-up waters inundate. This is, rather, to point out that any effective plan for permanent flood protection for this section, or any other similar area, must embrace reforestation and a cessation of our generations-old warfare with nature itself.

The trees and grass must be restored to our hillsides to prevent those disastrous "flash" floods and to control erosion if any flood control plan is to become effective.

The story of Boyd's success is you know that he himself is unable follows to work much and must depend on a tenant and hired help. This comeback was made, too, at a time of life when most men are thinking about retiring rather than beginning anew to pay off their debts and improve their farms. In 1936 Mr. Boyd owed over $5,000 on his farm and nearly $3,000 in personal debts. He had no car and when he went to town he rode a horse or went in a wagon. He had bought his farm some years earlier at a rather high figure and was a taxes. During the past summer he

Since 1936 the entire farm has had at least two tons of lime per acre and this year part of it limed for the second time. Phosphate has been used on a part but not all of the farm. Mr. Boyd has been interested in using lime first and with his type of land it has apparently been more important than phosphate. Since the farm is well limed now he will begin using phosfarm normally grows about 20 acres of corn all of which is seeded to

There is one 20-acre field on the farm seeded to redtop and lespe-dezt in 1935 and is still being used for hay, pasture and seed. Mr. Boyd believes that this field has been worth more in these crops than in corn and at the same time has left the land without any erosion and in better condition than when seeded. It usually yields about 100 pounds of redtop seed per acre, and and a half ton of hay, plenty of pasture in fall and spring and occasionally a crop of lespedeza seed. Mr. Boyd keeps from 12 to 15 grade Shorthorn cows and usually four brood sows. He is reducing his hogs now since he expects to grow only eight acres of corn next year, and will devote more of the farm to hay and pasture. He will probably buy a few calves to supplement those which he is now raising on the

What Helps Agriculture Helps All of Us!

This page is printed here as a service to all farmers and ranchers of America. Together with you producers, we have a big job to do in the business of feeding this nation of ours well.

A short time ago I was talking about improved methods with a farmer. He said, "The way I look at it is this

-what helps agriculture helps all of us." That is it in a nutshell. What helps agriculture does help all of us-producer, meat packer and processor, retailer and consumer. So the purpose of this page is to tell in a few words and many pictures about all manner of things that do help agriculture. We hope that by searching out news items, telling of new trends, big or little, reviewing findings of agricultural experiment stations, by recounting the experiences of successful individuals, and in many, other ways, we can render a worthwhile service to all who produce our nation's food.

John Holmes, President Swift & Company

The Editor will be F. M. Simpson, who is already well known to many of you as Manager of our Agricultural Research Department. He will welcome your suggestions and original ideas. Mr. Simpson is the Editor-but it is your page. Please help us make it a useful one. A Merry Christmas to you all!

Nutrition Is Our Business-and Yours!

"Right eating adds life to your years, and years to your life."

These six Americans are united in the job of seeing that 132,000,000 fellow Americans get enough of the right kinds of food to eat. The rancher, farmer, meat packer, retailer, housewife and scientist, each has a part in the preparation and distribution of meats and other foods.

Feeders of livestock know that diet has a lot to do with the health of their animals. It is the same with human beings. There is a great deal of research being conducted at the present time in our universities to find out more about the relationship between diet and human health, and Swift & Company gives many grants to aid this kind of research.

Maybe you've heard the epic story of "Zeke" Givan. "Zeke" was a farm boy from Dearborn County, Indiana-until he enlisted in the Marines. His first big show was at Kwaja-

Not so many years ago a lot of people said meat was hard to digest; that children should never be given pork, etc. Nutritionists have proved that pork is one of the most digestible of all meats, rich in Vitamin B1. These and many other basic truths about meats and other foods have been established by the work of nutritionists. You can readily see why such discoveries help the sale of meat and of livestock. That is why we say-"Nutrition is our business-and yours."

> Does lots of wool on the face and legs of a sheep and a wrinkled skin help to make a more valuable fleece? No, says the U. S. D. A. Sheep with wool over their eyes produce fleeces of lighter weight and less value than open-faced sheep.

PROFITABLE CATTLE FEEDING

Under present conditions the Illinois Agricultural College recommends feeding medium feeders or better to a good finish but not to choice. Their suggestions:

 Keep cattle largely on pasture and roughage until they have most of their growth. 2. Feed common two-year-old feeders minimum amount of corn to medium finish, producing commer-cial or B-grade beef. 3. Feed medium two-year-old feeders minimum of corn to a medium finish, producing commercial or B beef; or short-feed them a full feed of corn to a good finish, producing good or A-grade beef 4. Short-feed good and choice two-year-old feeders a full feed of corn plus suitable supple-ment to produce good or A-grade beef. 5. For details, write College of Agriculture, Urbana, Ill., for Bulletin No. 501.

BETTER PASTURES PAY The pasture is capable of making a real contribution to farm income if given a fair chance. Often land unsuitable for anything else is called pasture and receives hungry animals graze on it. The picking is pretty slim, extremely low in phosphorus and calcium, deficient in the protein and other minerals needed for animal nutrition.

To have profitable pastures, the yield per acre must be greatly increased, the nutrient content improved, the grazing season must start earlier in the spring, last later in the fall. Rye, grass, winter oats and other winter cover crops must be made available for grazing. Better land must be chosen. Frequently, the best agricultural land, as properly managed pasture, will pay as big dividends as any crop.

Farm animals require daily amounts of nutrients i proportion to the animals' weight and productive activ ity. To meet these requirements, thickly so ded pasture nd legume is desirable with a combination of grasses which produce less fiber and woody materi id more protein, minerals and vitamins.

How to stretch a ton of coal!

Save Coal - and Serve America

ONSERVING coal is going to be a "must" for everybody this winter. This isn't because less coal is being mined.

It is estimated that 29 millions more tons of coal will be mined this year than last-with fewer men. Quite a feat by mine owners and miners alike! And there are adequate rail facilities for bringing the coal to your city.

But certain grades and sizes of coal are needed for war production. And, in addition, your local dealer is suffering from a shortage of manpower, trucks and tires. So be patient with him.

And onserve the coal he is able to o you. You can make your coal go at least 10% further — and at much on your fuel bill-by a number of simple precautions.

See that your heating system is clean and in good repair. Close off unused bedrooms. Pull your shades and drapes at night. If you can, insulate. For other suggestions see your coal dealer.

One of the biggest jobs of the C&O Lines is hauling coal from the mines along its routes, so we're in a position to understand the problem, and to know how essential coal in these days.

TO THE MAN WHO CARRIES WATER FOR A

AKE water do the "running" for you. Give yourself, your family and farm, a Merry Christmas. Now that the governfamily and farm, a Merry Christmas. Now that we electric ment has authorized increased production, more electric water systems will soon be available. Plan right now and install one as soon as possible..

Just as reminders—you know that a cow's milk production decreases more rapidly from lack of water than from lack of foodthe average milking cow needs 200 to 300 pounds of water a day; to produce more eggs, a flock of 100 hens needs 80 pounds daily; a hog requires about 16 pounds a day to quench his thirst. It all adds up to a staggering burden unless the water does the running. And then, too, there are more vegetables and better fire protection with a running water system.

It's up to you, Mr. Farmer, to give yourself a permanent Merry Christmas for years to come.
