Another Memorial Day and some of these boys will be brought home. Others will rest from life's fitful labors where they fell.

Wherever they are, these dead, they are in a goodly company—members of an "invisible caravan" in which warrior-hero, merchant-prince, the peaceful farmer, the high, the low, find common ground.

high, the low, find common ground.

In whatever corner of the earth these have found eternal repose, such days as Memorial Day remind the living of their loss and their debt to those who have gone ahead.

(The photograph above is of Grave 228, Plot H, Row 10, in the U.S. military cemetery at Foy, Belgium. The grave is that of S/Sgt. Vigus M. Steele, son of Mrs. Rebecca Steele, former Prestonsburg woman, now of Detroit, Mich, who was killed March 7, 1945. The photo was taken by Leona Hames, a Belgian girl whose name Mrs. Steele learned through an American newspaper story telling of Mile. Hames' visit to the grave of her American soldier-sweetheart in the same cemetery.)

Scutchfield Admits Endorsing 2 Checks Taken at Postoffice

Edd Scutchfield, Bull Creek veteran of World War II, is in the county jail here awaiting action by federal authorities after police said he confessed to a postoffice inspector. Tuesday that he endorsed two U.S. government checks which had been stolen from postoffice boxes here.

Over the world more than 200 such all who rest in Valhalia.

Over the world more than 200 such graves hold the mortal remains of Floyd county boys who died for their country. Some are in beautiful, well-kept cemeteries, such as that in which the accompanying photograph was taken. Some are in far-off jungles, marked only by a rude cross and a weathered "dog tag."

Another Memorial Day and some of these boys will be brought home. Others will rest from life's fitful labors where they fell.

Whereter than posonnes sodes here. Scutchfield's arrest by Policemen Joe Hyden and Willie Martin followed by a few minutes Monday morning his attempt to cash the second check taken from the post-office—a salary check issued to Mrs. J. G. Porter, Prestonsburg, employe of Selective Service Board 44. When he presented the check to Russell Hagewood, cashier of the First National Bank, Mr. Hagewood asked him to wait a moment. The veteran fied the bank and Mr. Hagewood notified police.

fied the bank and Mr. Hagewood notified police.

Scutchfield was found hidden almost at the edge of the river, some distance above the Bank.

Claiming that a second man was involved in the case, the prisoner contended he did not break into the postoffice boxes, that he was given the check by a man whom he failed to identify and who asked him to cash the checks for him.

After a postoffice inspector had questioned Scutchfield at the jail and compared the handwriting on the Porter check with that on a check issued to Ollie Blackburn and cashed at the Trail Dispensary here, he was said to have admitted endorsing both checks. The Blackburn bears were fine the check to the check of the chec g both checks. The Blackburn neck was taken from the postoffice the same manner as the check to irs. Porter.

WOMEN HERE IN NIGHTMARE RIDE DOWN MOUNTAIN IN BRAKELESS AUTO

The nightmare of plunging down a mountainside in an automobile beyond control became reality to Mrs. O. G. Pennington and Mrs. N. M. White, Jr., both of Prestonsburg, last Friday evening.

On a drive downriver the two women had experienced no difficulty with the car, owned by Mr. White. They topped Abbott mountain, near here, en route home and as Mrs. Pennington applied the brake when the car gained too much momentum, she found the foot brake would not hold. Mrs. Pennington jerked the emergency brake—to no effect. By this time, the automobile was at such speed she could not shift into low customers are mostly voices on the telephone"

To a lot of businesses, customers are better known by their voices than by their faces. They order by telephone-seldom come in person to buy.

Many merchants conduct their buying in the same way. The telephone is the funnel through which flows an endless stream of commercial trans-

Businessmen have grown accustomed to continually rising standards of telephone performance. But with the Telephone Company—as with every business—the maintenance of that performance is directly related to the maintenance of earnings.

In 1945, telephone earnings were the lowest in more than two decades. In the current year, even lower earnings are in prospect. Wages have been increased, in keeping with the national trend, and the cost of everything else which goes into the furnishing of telephone service is steadily rising.

As every business man knows, adequate earnings are a primary requirement of American enterprise. Telephone earnings must be sufficient to provide the kind of service you expect and to attract new capital for continued expansion.

In a word, adequate earnings safeguard the full usefulness of the telephone in carrying on the affairs of the community.

Don't think I'm jealous. No. Only I do think I deserve a better break against that genie with the whiskers. Imagine, writing books about him. And not even mentioning me!

I'm a modest fellow. But let's face facts. That goon doesn't even belong in the same league with me. Why I could give him cards and spades and still come up with more miracles per kilowatt hour than he could perform in a thousand and one nights. My trouble is that you folks take me for granted. When I heat your electric iron, or chill your refrigerator, or pop up your toast, or clean your rugs, you expect it of me. But let that dopey genie do anything and right away somebody writes a book! Ah me! Also, woe and alas! But don't think I'm going to sulk. I'm used to being taken for granted. I'll go right on being at your service, day and night. But I just had to get this gripe off my chest!

Faithfully yours, ELEC TRICITY. (Lowest Paid Worker in the World)

SPEAK ME NO RIDDLES One of the most enigmatic statements to come out of Frankfort, Washington, Moscow or any other capital, great or small, was Governor Willis' when he told a war veteran, a student at Morehead State Teachers' College, that "politics left Morehead with Dr. Vaughan."

Unless one has prescience omni-

Unless one has prescience, omni-science and other super-human powers that make plain the Governor's innermost thoughts now and in the future, one finds it difficult to grasp a statement like that.

THE FLOYD COUNTY TIMES confines its news-stories and its editorial comment, for the most part, to matters affecting Floyd county. It to matters affecting Floyd county. It does not depart from that policy in wondering about this Morehead situation, for Floyd county has been sending many of its young men and women to Morehead State.

This statement of the Governor's, a will-o'-the-wisp of the spoken word that eludes capture by the ordinary mind, leaves us only questions to ask, surmises to make.

Did Dr. Vaughan play politics?

Did Dr. Vaughan play politics?
Has he placed his political faith and interests above his hopes and work for the college?

If he is indeed the political villain the Governor's statement would in

If he is indeed the political villain the Governor's statement would imply, and if his departure would remove forevermore the stain of politics from Morehead's halls, why did not the Board of Regents upon refusing to re-employ him make plain that that was their reason? And, the Board failing to render this service to an interested public, why did not the Governor say as much in so to an interested public, why did not the Governor say as much in so many words, tossing all "double talk" out the window and naming "book, chapter and verse" for us folks who to this day believe Dr. Vaughan is a scholarly gentleman whose thoughts and works were de-voted to the betterment of his school rather than to the mean business of playing politics with the futures of playing politics with the futures of young men and women?

Or did the Governor mean that his Board of Regents will now cease playing politics—after politicking Dr. Vaughan out of Morehead?

DAR-RK, BROTHER

"Your newspaper," an anonymous-correspondent from Martin wrote last week (the letter was received Saturday noon by Pony Express) "is supposed to mirror Floyd county life. Then will you reflect for me the Floyd county picture just now, with no meal for our corn-pone, no trains, no buses and nobody working in the mines?"

As of last Saturday, our outlook was this (and it's derned little brighter now):

Keep your War Bonds now-they'll

Licensed retailers of beer in Kentucky have the courage to say "No" whenever asked to break the law or to ignore the rules of good conduct.

This is because of the brewing industry's determination to deal only with good, law-abiding citizens and because of the United States Brewers Foundation's program of education, vigilance and Self-Regulation - a program designed to maintain clean, wholesome surroundings wherever beer is sold. Failure to cooperate in the public interest is not tolerated.

In cooperation with lawenforcement agencies, these combined efforts have proved that Self-Regulation works!

Even Crops Can Tell You When They're Hungry

A farmer with the "know-how" can spot, at a glance, evidence of starvation in his growing crops, and remedy it. You will find it profitable to learn the signs of "hidden hunger" in your crops, whether you are selling them as cash crops or using them as feed for livestock. Once you have learned to understand the "sign language" of plants, you can often tell just by looking at a growing plant whether it is drawing from the soil all the nitrogen, phosphorus, potash and other elements it must have to produce healthy, high-yielding crops.

A deficiency in these essential elements will affect the plant's appearance in some way which will tell you just what is short. Here are some of the "hunger signs" in corn, for example:

- Yellowish-green leaves and stunted growth indicates nitrogen deficiency.
- Tips of leaves gummed together indicates cal-
- · Purple color in leaves indicates phosphorus de-
- Bottom leaves dead; yellow striping between

Vaccinate pigs against cholera

- veins of upper leaves (condition known "white-bud") indicates zinc deficiency.
- · Scorching along the edges of leaves indicate potash deficiency.
- · Regular yellowish-white stripes on leaves indicate magnesium deficiency.

Other crops also show "hunger signs" which can be recognized at a glance if you know their sign language. Your county agent or vocational agricultural teacher can tell you about them or advise you about books or bulletins which give detailed information. Because of their thorough understanding of soil and crop conditions in your district, they are the men to answer your questions. Both are ready and able to help you. They know the signs of crop malnutrition and can give you valuable advice.

while they are still young, advises the United States Bureau of Animal Industry. It is cheaper, the pigs are easier to handle, and the risk is less. Several pig diseases have symptoms similar to cholera, and with cholera eliminated through early vaccination, diagnosis and treatment of the specific disease will be simplified.

KEY TO SUCCESS IN FEEDING GROWING PIGS

by J. H. Longwell North Dakota Agricultural College

If the pig is to grow normally, it must be provided with the required amounts and proper quality of building materials with which to develop the various body tissues

Quantity of feed alone will not insure thrift, vigor, and normal growth. Water, protein, minerals, vitamins and energy must be supplied in proper proportions to enable the pig to build a strong skeleton, plump muscles, vigorous vital organs, and the desirable amount of fat.

Quality of protein is especially important because all the essential amino acids, or body protein building-stones, must be included in the feed. The inclusion of some animal protein in the feed is the simplest method of insuring a supply of all the essential amino acids. Vitamin A, most easily supplied from green pasture, and Vitamin D, best obtained from direct sunshine, must also be provided. If you meet the quantitative nutrient needs of the pig, the goal of efficient gains is not difficult to attain.

NUTRITION IS OUR BUSINESS - AND YOURS Right Eating Adds Life to Your Years-and Years to Your Life

Worth thinking about: Consider that word a-n-d. It usually joins things together, but now and then we use it to separate things which should not be separated.

Strawberry-shortcake is a homely example of our meaning. It's eaten everywhere . . . it has two parts . . . but no one ever separates that satisfying combination in word or thought. You'd never think of saying strawberry and shortcake.

So it is with many combinations which cannot exist separately. There's agriculture-industry and the livestock-meat industry, for example. These combinations cannot be split into separate sections, because all parts of each are dependent on the others. The production of livestock and the preparation and distribution of meat are as inseparable as strawberry-shortcake. When producers prosper, meat packers prosper. When one suffers constant loss, the other must suffer also. Those of us in the livestock-meat industry have mutual interests, and we work together toward a common goal.

Ratty Arithmetic: One rat eats about 150 pounds of corn per year. It costs you as much to keep 10 rats as to keep 17 laying hens. Those 17 layers could produce 200 eggs each, at 36¢ per dozen, which would bring you $102. For 10¢ you can poison those rats. Then, you can feed the corn to your hens and collect the differ-

You who raise and feed livestock know as well as I do that the prob-lems of the livestock-meat industry are usually mighty complicated. Naturally, I am always interested in what others have to say about our problems, especially in the press or over the radio.

During the recent meat strike, for instance, I was impressed with the effort that was made to place both sides of the question before the public. On the other hand, I was disturbed, on several occasions, by statements made by people who either did not know all the facts, or who ignored them—people whose words consisted of part-truths and their own biased opinions.

To my way of thinking, all of us should consider all the facts that are available if we are to form a fair opinion on any subject. And so, it seems to me espe-cially important that ranchers and farmers have the fullest factual understanding of every part of the live-stock-meat industry. Now I don't pretend to know all there is to know, and you probably have many facts that I lack. But from long experience in this business we have learned many things which might help clear up certain doubts and questions you may have in

If there are things about our business that you aren't sure about, we would appreciate hearing from you. We will reply with whatever facts we have. I am sure that our correspondence will make for a better mutual understanding of our common problems.

LONG DISTANCE

CALLS ARE STILL

INCREASING

The volume of Long Distance calls keeps right on growing. Between towns and cities only a few miles apart, folks are making one-fifth more calls today than during the peak of the wartime load.

As a result of this postwar rush of short-haul calls there is likely to be some delays on calls to nearby points until the necessary materials can be obtained and additional circuits provided to relieve congestion.

In the meantime, everything possible is being done to handle all calls promptly.
