

Former Floyd Family Featured in Magazine

The October issue of the Home Life Magazine carries an interesting story about the home and family life of the Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Felty, Jr. and children, former residents of Allen for 16 months, now located in Westwood, a suburb of Ashland, where the Rev. Felty is pastor of the Fairview Baptist Church. The magazine is presenting a series of Christian family stories. Mrs. Felty is the former Miss Leslie Gay Motter, of Wauauga, Tennessee. Their four children are Rebecca, Johnnie, Gussie Gay and Spurgeon.

Heavy Expenditures Foreseen in County For New Farm Homes

Farm families in Floyd county will spend more than $1,410,000 for new housing in the next three to five years, according to a forecast released by the Tile Council of America.

"As a result of high income during the last few years, farmers in every part of the nation are prepared to invest record amounts in new home construction and in general farm improvements," said F. B. Ortman, chairman of the Council's residential construction committee.

Pointing out that the comforts and conveniences of urban living are now available to farm families, Ortman said many new rural homes will incorporate such features as central heating, tiled bathrooms and modern kitchen facilities.

Rapid electrification of rural areas of Kentucky is making possible the incorporation in new homes of many labor-saving and comfort-providing devices undreamed of a generation ago, according to Ortman. Rural Electrification Administration estimates disclose that more than 38 per cent of all farms in the state now receive central station electric service. Refrigerators, electric washing machines and deep freezing plants, as well as plumbing systems, will go into many new homes as a consequence.

Brooke One of 36 In Newspaper Work

Albert Bush Brooke, Jr., of Wayland, is one of 36 University of Kentucky journalism graduates this year to find employment in his chosen field, Dr. L. Niel Plummer, head of the U.K. Journalism department, announced this week.

Brooke is currently employed as a reporter for the Lexington Herald. Dr. Plummer revealed that the demand for journalism graduates this year far exceeded the supply and that prospective employers with promising offers had to be turned away as early as May.

The department follows a policy of fitting its graduates to the job rather than just merely filling a position and this policy has become known throughout the nation. The U.K. Journalism department is one of 34 schools of its kind in the country which are fully accredited by the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism.

KENTUCKY FARM PRICE RISES GREATEST IN U. S.

"The world demand for products of Kentucky farms is reflected in the increase in farm land prices in this state during World War II," according to A. G. Brown, deputy manager of the American Bankers Association and director of its Agricultural Commission, reporting on the farm land price situation at a recent series of banker meetings sponsored by the Kentucky Bankers Association at Flemingsburg, Dry Ridge, Somerset, Hodgenville and Princeton.

"Kentucky farm land prices actually have advanced higher since the beginning of World War II than they have in any other state," Mr. Brown stated. "As of July 1, 1947, they have increased 145 per cent over March 1, 1939, against an average increase of 93 per cent for the rest of the nation during the 12 months ended July 1, 1947," he stated. "The increase in Kentucky was 16 per cent as against 10 per cent for the country as a whole."

"In 1946 the banks of Kentucky made 63 per cent of all farm mortgage loans recorded in the state," he stated, "against an average figure of slightly over 34 per cent for the country as a whole. The average size of farm mortgage loans made by all lenders in the state in 1946 was more than double the average size of such loans made in the period 1937-40, and the banks led the lenders in this respect." Mr. Brown said that this is not meant to question the judgment of the Kentucky banks in making farm mortgage loans. "As a matter of fact," he said, "I believe that a loan to a good farmer on a good farm, properly appraised and amortized, is truly self-liquidating and has a proper place in the investment portfolio of any country bank."

"However, the fact that farm land prices in Kentucky have shown a greater increase than those of any other state would indicate, it seems to me, that it would be wise for Kentucky banks in every community

The Lackey-Garrett Woman's Club met in the home of Mrs. Harry Sherman, Sept. 23, at which time Miss Chloe Gifford, state president of Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, addressed the club members. The program follows: Flag Salute and Club Collect by all; recording of "My Old Kentucky Home"; a preview of the coming year's work by Mrs. Fred A. Martin, president; and an informal address by Miss Gifford covering the importance of the individual and her participation in government—particularly local. Emphasis was also placed on the study by the entire club of the state Constitution. At the close of Miss Gifford's address, the members participated in a round-table discussion of the United Nations. Those present were the following members: Mesdames Irvin Mullins, Willard Castle, John Wallace, Carl Wrightson, N. D. Howard, S. M. Martin, A. E. Hickerson, Roy Souleyrette, A. E. Quinlan, Thomas Hatcher, J. C. Wells, George Evans, Jr., Jack Paul, Earl Castle, J. T. Spillman, Melvin Hayes, Rudolph Spencer, Frank Rasnick, C. B. Ison, Felix Coburn, Charles Sturgill, Fred A. Martin, Harry Sherman, Miss Marie Coburn and one guest, Mrs. J. S. Houghlin, of Bloomfield.

On Saturday, Sept. 27, the annual Seventh district convention of Women's Clubs was held at Wheelwright, with Miss Clara Shaw, of Jenkins, district governor, and Miss Chloe Gifford, Lexington, state president of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, in charge. Those from the Lackey-Garrett Club who enjoyed the hospitality of the Wheelwright club were Mrs. Carl Wrightson and guest, Mrs. Stewart, Mesdames J. C. Wells, Frank Rasnick, Rudolph Spencer, Chas. Sturgill, Fred A. Martin, George Evans, Jr., Gorman Collins, M. M. Collins, Earl Castle, W. T. Hatcher, Thomas Hatcher, and J. T. Spillman. Mrs. J. C. Wells and Mrs. Thomas Hatcher served as delegates from the Garrett-Lackey Club.

to discuss the farm land price situation in their areas. They have an obligation to help keep their farmers in a safe financial condition. The financial spiral now evident throughout the nation's economy will end some day, and if history repeats itself, there will be a reaction in farm prices. A lot of folks can be ahead, including farmers and country banks."

Mr. Brown stated that, "The president of the American Bankers Association, C. W. Bailey, president of the First National Bank, Clarksville, Tenn., has given a major portion of his attention to this subject this year. Mr. Bailey has carried on what amounted to a crusade all over this country aimed at influencing bankers to study closely the trend in farm land prices," he said. "Mr. Bailey preached to the bankers an eight-point program, which was also preached to the Farm Land Price Conference, consisting of representatives of farm lenders, farm leaders and government farm credit agencies, in Washington on June 9 of this year. The Eight-Point Program that Mr. Bailey stressed were as follows:

1. Discourage all borrowing that is based upon high farm prices that may result in excessive indebtedness as farm income returns to more normal levels.
2. Discourage borrowing to speculate in farm lands.
3. Discourage the mortgaging of personally owned farm for the purpose of buying additional land.
4. Encourage farmers to pay their existing mortgage debts.
5. Urge farmers to build up financial reserves through ownership of Treasury Bonds and savings deposits in banks.
6. Help their farm customers keep in a sound financial position.
7. Discuss the farm land price situation at all meetings with bankers and farmers.
8. Keep in mind constantly that the sound value of farm land depends upon the capacity of farms to produce a profitable income over a period of years.

WATER—A BUILDER OF GREAT CITIES

THE great cities of the world, and not those of the United States alone, are located, almost without exception, on waterways—a navigable stream, a lake, or an ocean.

Regardless of the number of its linking highways and railroads, no city has ever developed into a major metropolis without direct access to navigable water.

There are some sections where no huge center of population can ever arise, and this is such an one. But full industrial development of such areas is always possible; and it is interesting to note that such development follows, rather than precedes, water transportation and water power.

Dr. O. W. Thompson, of Pikeville, president of the Big Sandy Valley Association, recently made available the following article by Yates Catlin which was originally published in The Waterways Journal, and which presents a picture of West Virginia that, with a navigable waterway, could be that of Eastern Kentucky:

I recently returned from a motor tour of West Virginia, the state which, more than any other, has expanded its industrial production and improved its economy through cheap water transportation.

The Ohio river, which forms West Virginia's 277-mile border on the northwest and west, is the state's principal waterway. It has a nine-foot channel as well as the Kanawha river, which is locked from its mouth to Kanawha Falls, a distance of 90 1/2 miles. The Monongahela river, a direct water connection between the northern West Virginia coal fields and Pittsburgh, is locked for slackwater navigation for 37 miles within West Virginia with commercial channels extending three miles in each of two tributaries, the West Fork and the Tygart rivers. The Little Kanawha river, with a four-foot channel, is open for navigation a distance of 48 miles.

I was looking for one thing—the relationship between cheap water transportation and industrial expansion—and while I interviewed Chamber of Commerce executives, statisticians, industrialists, and newspaper editors to support my observations with facts, the dependence of one upon the other is so apparent that even the casual visitor is impressed with the modern uses of river transportation.

My riverside tour was planned so I could see first-hand whether the improved rivers were fully utilized by industry and the public and whether they were attracting new industries to the shores of their great placid pools of slackwater.

My findings far exceeded my expectations. Each improved river was lined with great mills, factories, refineries, mines and quarries. There was not one but many industrial plants costing millions to build and employing thousands of workers.

The chemical industry has followed cheap transportation up the Kanawha river to find ample water supplies furnished by a river dammed primarily for slackwater navigation but providing as by-products water resources of hydroelectric power.

West Virginia's coal deposits are fully exploited along her navigable rivers, on which towboats push coal barges to nearby as well as distant steel mills and chemical factories.

And, of course, industrial expansion has been moving rapidly down the Ohio Valley from Pittsburgh and along 277 miles of West Virginia boundary since President Hoover, in 1929, dedicated the last locks on that broad boulevard of commerce.

I asked Walter Hart, editor of the Morgantown "Dominion News," why the $63,000,000 Heyden Chemical Works was located on the Monongahela river at Morgantown. His answer was the same as I received to all such questions:

"The improved river. When the federal government improved the Monongahela river with locks and dams it created the two things most essential to large-scale, modern industry—cheap transportation and ample and stable water reserves. There is a city of Morgantown because it has an improved river."

"Industrialists along the river (Ohio) without batting an eye, predict that within 10 years, the territory from Wheeling to Point Pleasant, W. Va., will have firmly established chemicals as one of its major industries, alongside the stalwarts—coal, steel, oil and gas. The upper Ohio Valley some day will be one of the leading chemical centers of the country.

"Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company is already in with a big plant. American Cyanamid and Chemical Corporation will build a $6,000,000 plant near St. Mary's, W. Va., and Du Pont has announced plans for a $10,000,000 plastics plant near Parkersburg, W. Va. At Marietta, pany is building a plant for Ohio, the B. F. Goodrich Com- plastic fabrication. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company is seeking land for a plastics factory north of Natrium, W. Va., on the Kanawha river."

There are seven major railroads and 23 other railroads lines in West Virginia, and yet the fabulous industrial growth of the state has paralleled the extension of river transportation. The state's manufacturing output has multiplied five times since 1912.

Improvement of the West Virginia rivers has created, between the dams and locks pools from four to 12 feet deep and hundreds of feet wide from which the new industries draw a constant water supply. Every river town has its seaplane base widely used by private plane owners, and each pool furnishes good fishing and boating, as well as bathing.

Locked-in river waters exert this magic power.

In the Allegheny Valley of Western Pennsylvania lies vast reserves of the same natural resources which have been developed in several remote West Virginia valleys through cheap water transportation. For a number of years it has been apparent that other modes of transportation could contribute little more to the industrial development of the valley and that if the valley was to enjoy economic expansion, rather than economic deterioration in the postwar years, it must turn to the extension of the inland waterway system.

Newspapers and WHAS To Sponsor Contest For State's Pupils

School pupils throughout Kentucky are eligible to compete for $2,425 in prizes in the fourth annual Soil Conservation Essay Contest, sponsored by The Courier-Journal, The Louisville Times, and radio station WHAS. The 1947 contest was announced this week by A. Threlkeld, president of the Kentucky Association of Soil Conservation District Supervisors, and Barry Birmingham, president of the newspapers and radio station.

Booklets containing the rules of the contest are to be distributed to schools in all counties by soil conservation district supervisors. Those unable to obtain the booklet through their schools may write the promotion department in care of The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times and WHAS.

Subject for the 1947 contest is "Why Soil Conservation is Needed in My County and How My Soil Conservation District Has Helped with the Problem." Essays are not to exceed 1,000 words and should be typewritten or written in ink on one side of the paper.

The contest closes November 15. All essays from a school should be delivered to the office of the County Superintendent of Schools prior to that time. A $100 Savings Bond will be the state winner's prize. Second place winner in the state gets a $50 bond, and third place a $25 bond. The best essay in each of the 91 soil conservation districts of Kentucky will win a $25 bond for its writer.

Full information and assistance may be obtained from soil conservation district supervisors in counties having soil conservation districts. Boys and girls wishing to compete from counties not having conservation districts should write to the newspapers and radio station.

Of Costs Held Illegal Dismissals On Payment

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 25—Mark Tackett, an attorney of Virgie, who declared there should be an investigation of dismissals of prosecutions upon payment of costs in Pike county, was advised today the procedure is illegal.

Asking about such dismissals in Magistrates' courts by the County Attorney or one named to act for him, Tackett wrote:

"It seems to me that the state and county is being 'gypped' around here in that respect. I should like to see an investigation of this matter in Pike county. It is getting so rotten it stinks."

Attorney General Eldon S. Dummit replied that dismissals can be made only by the presiding judge, though the prosecutor can recommend them. Dummit also expressed belief that Kentucky's Criminal Code forbids assessing costs unless a fine, however small, is imposed.

Answering other questions from the Virgie attorney, the Attorney General declared:

1. No one can act as an assistant County Attorney, except in the absence of the County Attorney, and the assistant must post bond and take an oath and then is qualified to receive the fees the County Attorney would have received.
2. A County Judge is entitled to fees in civil cases, but not in criminal cases.

Approximately 2,000 feeder lambs are now on pasture in Pendleton county.

INFORMATION OF INTEREST TO VETERANS

(No. 8 of a Series)

The 10 questions that World War II veterans ask most frequently about job-training benefits under the G.I. Bill are answered herewith by Veterans Administration.

Veterans asked the questions in a study that VA conducted recently to learn how much they know about their federal benefits. The questions and answers follow:

Q. How much subsistence is paid for on-the-job training and what is the effect of the wage ceiling?

A. Veterans in job-training under the G.I. Bill receive $65 a month if they have no dependents, or $90 a month if they have one or more dependents. If they are earning $175 (without dependents) or $200 (with dependents) exclusive of their subsistence allowances, they are not entitled to VA subsistence payments under the law.

Q. What is the difference between on-the-job training and apprentice training?

A. The field of on-the-job training is almost limitless. It includes any job, except those of recognized trade status, that has been approved by a state approving agency. The period of job-training must not be less than three months and more than two years. Apprentice training is similar to other job-training, but it only covers certain skilled trades of an apprenticeship nature. Instead of training under an employer, as is the case of a veteran in job-training, the veteran-apprentice trains under an apprenticeship council in accordance with the standards established by the council governing apprenticeship in each trade. Also, apprentice training may run to a maximum of four years.

Q. Does VA find a job-training place for the veteran?

A. VA does not find an employer for any veteran who desires to enter job-training under the G.I. Bill. However, veterans may get the assistance of state, municipal or other employment agencies in locating a job-training establishment.

Q. How are places of job-training approved and how does a veteran find out what establishments are approved?

A. Training establishments are approved by state approving agencies for job-training under the G.I. Bill. All VA offices maintain a list of approved establishments in the area in which they are located.

Q. What tools and equipment does VA furnish on-the-job training?

A. VA may pay for those tools and equipment that are needed by other trainees for the satisfactory pursuit of their training course.

Q. Will VA pay tuition for a veteran attending high school while he is in job-training?

A. Yes, provided his course of study is related to the vocation for which he is training, or if the high school course is prescribed and recommended as a part of his job-training.

Q. What happens if the employer dismisses the veteran from his job-training situation?

A. The veteran's training status is terminated and his subsistence allowance ceases. It is then up to the veteran to seek another place of employment with approved job-training programs.

Q. What should the veteran do if he is not satisfied with the job-training he receives?

A. That is a matter for the veteran to decide for himself, but it might be advisable for him to seek the counseling of a VA training officer. He can always discontinue his training, or, with VA's permission, he can switch to another training establishment.

Q. What does VA do to make sure the veteran is receiving good training?

A. Under the law, periodic inspections and checks of training establishments are required in accordance with nation-wide training and approval standards.

Q. If the veteran finishes a job-training course and has entitlement time left, may he enroll in another job-training course or may he go to school for the remainder of his entitlement?

A. The veteran may use any entitlement either for job-training or for educational training with VA's prior approval.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.
Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

GATHERING PLACES

ONE of my graduate students has become very much interested in studying the places of some county where people have congregated since earlier times. Every county that we know would make a fascinating subject for study. A map showing the places and a paper indicating the rise and popularity of them would be a great addition to our knowledge of folk customs.

Springs everywhere have always been great centers of interest. Some of them became the water supply for the family, especially when they were located by or near a good home site. Others became quite early neighborhood places where picnics were held or where a church grew up or where camps were held. Our Sulphur Springs, a little more than a mile from Fidelity, combined many things, for it was a place for camps and picnics and also was the location of our Methodist Church until the threat of Kentucky Lake made it necessary to move the building to the village. In addition, it was the source of water supply in dry seasons after the cistern had given out and even the bored or dug wells might have shrunk. There we took our horses to water, as it was much easier and more sanitary than a mere horse pond would have been. Platforms where speakings could be held and even crude benches remained from year to year until they rotted away. Confederate reunions, candidate speakings, neighborhood picnics, young people's Sunday afternoon gatherings all used the stand and the benches. The springs, so far as Fidelity neighborhood was concerned, was an institution.

Some of these springs early became summer hotels or camping places. Nearly every county had one or two such, most of which have now ceased to be. But the old spring, probably choked up with weeds or bushes now, still puts out its water supply, quite disreputable in appearance and giving no hint of its former greatness. I have visited many such places, both while they were popular and after they had begun to decline. I have sometimes camped at or near some of the former great places that had completely disappeared but have still kept a memory in the community.

Places that become known to the sight-seer are also important in this study of folk gathering places. A bluff, a hillside from which a great view is possible, a "lover's leap," a haunted spot associated with early history or tradition—all of these I have known and visited. Our Devil's Pulpit, near Fidelity, was a rock-crowned hill with a wide prospect; hence the visitors always were taken there. Pine Bluff, on the Tennessee river, now overlooking Kentucky Lake, attracted many a picnic party from the earliest days and is today the site of some cabins of people who live in the county seat. Nearly every community that I have known has an authentic "lover's leap" with an impressive story attached. It might seem that self-destruction by rejected lovers was once more prevalent than now. Our haunted house, which I have told about elsewhere in this column, was always viewed by us and our visitors with a bit of light laughter, because we always saw it in broad daylight; just how we would have felt after nightfall I never tried to find out. Many a time I have half-consciously taken boys on walks with me in order to lead them by the tree on which a man was hanged by a mob long before I ever heard of Bowling Green. I have always heard that such a tree would die; nothing was said about how long it would take to accomplish this fact. Anyway, the haunted tree is dead, but I fear the illnesses incident to old age had more to do with its demise than any unpleasant association attached to it.

Wouldn't you like to have a map of your own county worked out in detail, showing all these gathering places and sights to show all wide-eyed or skeptical visitors?

What the Bible Says

By request of some interested friends of mine, I am giving a few Bible points on adultery and fornication:

LANGUAGE OF CHRIST

"Moses, because of the hardness of your hearts, suffered you to put away your wives."
"But from the beginning it was not so and I say unto you, whosoever put away his wife except for fornication and shall marry shall commit adultery and whosoever marrieth her that is put away commit- teth adultery." (Matthew 19: 8-9.)
"Marriage is honorable in all and the bed undefiled, but whoremonger- ing and adultery God will judge." (Heb. 13:4.)
"The wife is bound by the law as long as her husband liveth, But, if her husband be dead she is at liberty to marry whom she will only in the Lord." (1st Cor. 7:3-9.)
"Neither let us commit fornication as some of them committed and fell in one day three and twenty thousand." (1st Cor. 10:8.)
"But fornication and all uncleanness or covetousness let it be not once named among you as becometh saints, neither filthiness nor foolish talking nor feasting which are not committed, but rather giving of thanks, for this ye know that no whoremonger nor unclean person nor covetous man who is an idolator hath any inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and of God." (Eph. 5: 3, 4, 5.)
My Bible views on adultery and fornication are that any preacher or teacher that will give strength to either is causing our nation to perish, all such should be marked, avoided and their mouths stopped.

MAN SLAIN, DEPUTY SHOT

Louis, Ky., Oct. 1—Mrs. Mary Jane Ward, young wife of Lonnie B. Ward, petitioned for a peace bond against him today after a fight last night in which his uncle was wound- ed fatally, and an elderly neighbor was shot.

Luther Ward, 48, died in a hos- pital here early today, several hours after the exchange of gunfire on Dry Fork, 20 miles from here.

A floor supervisor at King's Daughters' hospital, Ashland, said that the wounded man, Lee Thomp- son, who had been deputized to as- sist Deputy Sheriff H. H. Smith a short while before the shooting, was in fair condition. Thompson, a farm- er, suffered a single bullet wound which struck him below the ribs and tore through his back.

Sheriff Proctor Fyffe said that the Wards had been "carrying on, riding their automobile through the Dry Fork district, doing some shoot- ing and abusing some people," and that Smith had been called to quell the disturbance.

Thompson had just taken Lonnie Ward, 32, into custody on a drunk- enness charge and was searching him, the Sheriff said, when Luther Ward fired. Thompson returned the fire, hitting Luther twice in the right side and once in the leg.

Fyffe said neighbors of the Wards attributed the disturbances by the uncle and his nephew to Mrs. Ward leaving Lonnie Ward. The trouble started, he said, near the home of the wife's parents. The younger Ward remained in jail here tonight, unable to pay a $21.50 fine imposed by County Judge L. P. Wellman on the drunkenness charge.

Native Floyd Woman Dies in Pike County At 80 of Apoplexy

Funeral rites for Mrs. Mary Hall Fouts, 80-year-old native of this county, who died at Hartley, Pike county, Sept. 24, were conducted Saturday from the Long Fork Baptist Church, Hartley. Death resulted from apoplexy.

Mrs. Fouts was a daughter of Dan and Martha Stone Hall, early residents of the county, and had resided at Hartley for the last 25 years. She was married in 1888 to John Fouts, who survives. She was a devout member of the Regular Baptist Church.

Surviving, besides her husband, are two sons and three daughters, Jacob Fouts, of Weeksbury, Ted Fouts, Winston-Salem, N.C., Mrs. Frances Hall, McRoberts, Mrs. Martha Belle Mullins and Mrs. Dakota Tackett, both of Hartley; one foster son, Estill Cornett, Atlanta, Ga.; one brother and one sister, Hiram Hall and Mrs. Nancy Hamilton, both of Blue Moon.

Burial was made in the Amil Little cemetery at Hartley, the Baker & Preston Funeral Home directing.

Tribute To "Junior"

We cannot think of you as Major Sutton, son, not even after you are gone. To us, as to all your hometown friends, you will always be just simply "Junior." The old community pays you final homage this week, but that does not mean you will be forgotten.

Laurels and medals made no difference to you. You were still one of us, in every sense of the word, especially one of the boys. When home on leave, with your rank and standing, you'd likely have fallen over if one of the boys had saluted you briskly. You were so unconscious of being an officer that they, too, gave it no mind.

Your love and devotion to your homefolks deserve mention, your thoughtfulness of them. It is too bad there is no one like you to comfort them now.

Most of all, we remember you as a little boy in the schoolroom, bubbling over with life and fun, smart and "sharp as a tack." Always eager to be going, ready for the game, whether something ordinary at hand or the game of life itself. Perhaps that's why you were chosen as bombardier of the lead plane that dropped the first bomb on Italy when the Allies opened against her. You loved action. It was your soul. You could turn in an examination paper in five minutes and get a grade as good as any at that. While generally the youngest in your class, you were also in the top circle when it came to marks. You were just a blue-eyed boy with dark, curly hair, who won your way into the hearts of many who felt an aching void when the awful message came.

AN OLD TEACHER FRIEND HANG ON TO YOUR WAR BONDS — YOU'LL BE GLAD YOU DID

swer to military authorities after being a.w.o.l.

Commonwealth witnesses told of seeing the party's auto driving into the street where Patrick's car was parked in front of his home, of one man alighting, entering the car and driving away behind the other auto; also of seeing the man in the Patrick coupe crossing Abbott mountain ahead of the other car and beckoning with his hand to the others to come ahead.

Elmer Holland is being held here for military police. The six-month jail terms of Sport Hale, Robie Harmon and Flem Frause, convicted of escaping the city jail here, were nulled on Commonwealth motion. The trio contended they did not force their way from the jail, that a hole in the building was made by an unnamed person and that they simply walked to freedom.

Miss Gifford, Speaker At Club Luncheon

Miss Chloe Gifford, president of the Seventh district of Women's Clubs in Kentucky, was guest of honor at a luncheon given by the Prestonsburg Women's Club September 23 at the Brown hotel. Miss Gifford, who is also an assistant in the University of Kentucky Extension Department, and a member of the Committee for Kentucky, was introduced to the club by its president, Miss Alice Harris, and welcomed by Mrs. J. Following a solo, "Neapolitan Nights," sung by Mrs. Wayne Braden, accompanied by Mrs. Palmer L. Hall, Miss Gifford gave a short address. She stressed the idea that every clubwoman should be an informed woman and urged that all members should be actively interested in politics and affairs of state. The latter part of her discussion was taken up with the problems of the Prestonsburg Club and possible solutions.

Miss Gifford's message was heard by the following members: Mesdames Wayne Bradley, Clabe Bingham, John G. Archer, B. F. Combs, Gordon Francis, E. S. Collins, Wall Hamilton, Chalmers Frazier, Palmer L. Hall, J. D. Mayo, Lon C. Hill, J. H. Keenon, Sam L. Spradlin, John P. Sammons, Merle Wilson, Miss Alice Harris and one guest, Mrs. Blanche Carnes.

unload half-ton rolls of newsprint; strain me at the task of getting same on the press.

2. The same gams pumping ink from a barrel into the fountains.

3. The romantic task of operating a Mustang mailer. Stamp, stamp. Such interesting work!

4. The force rolling newspaper packages, addressing same, putting same in sacks.

For 21 years I have been seeking that purple halo of romance that is almost universally believed to hover over the dome of a newspaperman. I have something to look forward to — I'm still hoping to find it.

Well, anyway, let us stop it by expressing the devout hope that the first 21 years are the hardest!

HANG THE EXPENSE!

The Kentucky Bankers Association means to pay its debts, regardless of expense. Comes now to hand a letter stating the Association has discovered it owes The Times 3 cents for refund on a postage due letter. Check in the amount of 3 cents was enclosed.

This took us so aback that we have counted fingers till we arrived at how much this 3-cent matter cost the Bankers Association. Let's see: The check, 3 cents; check tax, 2 cents; postage stamp, 3 cents; letterhead and envelope, 3 cents; executive's time dictating letter (if he dictates fast), 25 cents; secretary's time taking dictation, transcribing notes to letter, sealing envelope, addressing and stamping same, 24 cents (no boss is worth two cents more than his secretary)—total, 60 cents.

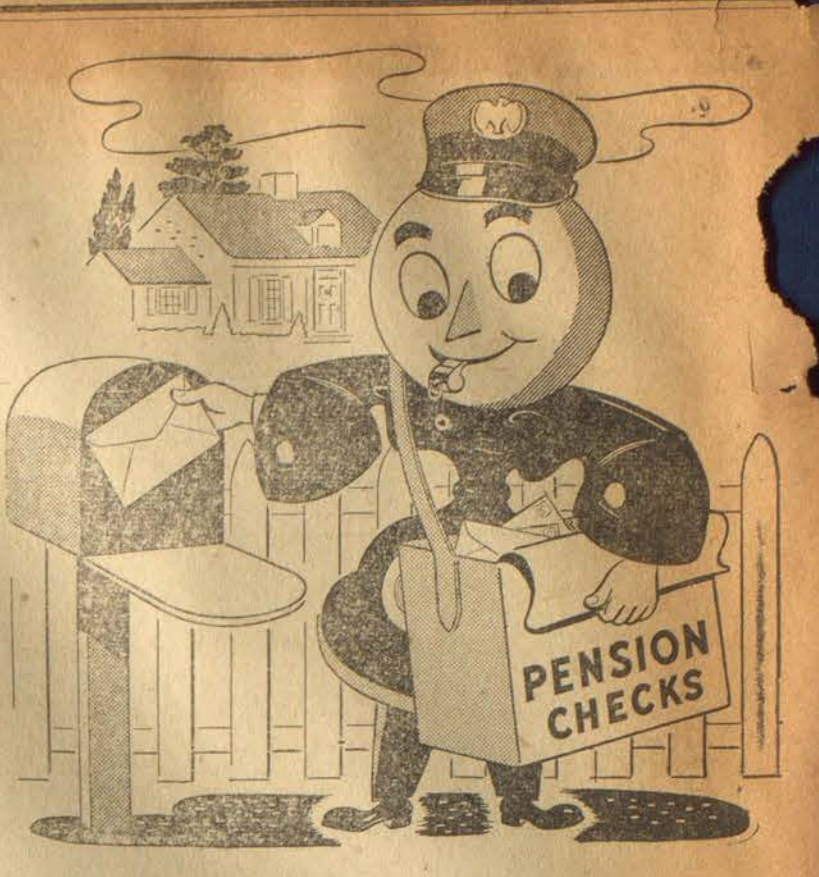

Thanks! No charge for the better part of an hour of my valuable time figuring out all this.

MEDICAL MIRACLE

Today Your Pharmacist Drops A Few Facts About...

AMIDOPYRINE

Quite by accident, a British physician, Dr. Loewenthal, discovered that a pain killer, Amidopyrine, was also a drug par excellence in the treatment of Menses. He has small patients to ease their headache and bone pains and was surprised to find that their fever and rash disappeared along with their pain. Thus another childhood disease was all but eradicated.

CLIFF

Mrs. Best and the pupils of Cliff school held "open house" for parents and friends last Friday. Before noon the regular schedule was in force and children were observed in their actual school classwork. In the afternoon all were entertained by playing of the new electric phonograph and the showing of film on the projector which was purchased with proceeds from the pie social given August 8. The purpose of the occasion was to let parents see how their children worked at school and to acquaint them with how their money from pie social proceeds was actually spent. Refreshments were served at the end of the day. Those calling during the day were Superintendent Palmer L. Hall, Paris Conley, Mrs. Wesley Campbell and Mrs. Ted Green, all of Prestonsburg, Mrs. James Stephens, Mrs. Allan Combs, Mrs. Manda Fenix, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Vaughan, Mrs. John Stephens, Mrs. Otto Hall, Mrs. Woodrow Stephens. Parents and friends are urged to visit the school regularly because better understanding between parents and teachers makes for a better school and certainly better understanding is prompted by regular visits to the classroom.

Others visiting Cliff school recently were Prof. Jesse Elliott, Floyd county band instructor, Russell Johns, salesman for Central School Supply, Louisville, Miss Jane Robinson, demonstration teacher for the Silver Burdette Conley, and Henry Martin, Floyd county school supervisor.

Mr. and Mrs. Anse Baldrige and daughter have moved to their new home in Prestonsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Cornett have moved to Darlan Sammons' home here since Mr. Sammons moved to Prestonsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Stephens were business visitors in Paintsville Thursday.

Will Stephens, who suffered broken ribs when trodden by cattle, is able to "go about" the place again.

Mr. and Mrs. Orion May, Mr. and Mrs. Clevis Beverly and children and Mrs. Hershell Warrens, all of Wayland, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay May.

George Samuel Vaughan, guard on the Prestonsburg football team, suffered a sprained ankle while practising last Thursday and was unable to play in the game Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Moore and children visited relatives on Johns Creek Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Rice and baby daughter, of Banner, visited Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dotson last week-end.

Woodrow Stephens is employed as night clerk at the Auxier hotel, Prestonsburg.

Henry Shell returned home from Silver Creek, N.Y., last week.

Those from Cliff who are ill include Stephen Lee Best, William Kelly Moore, Billy Joe Dotson, Sam Vaughan, Mrs. Jeff Vaughan, Mrs. Will Stephens and Albert Nunneery.

Tom Stephens is unable to work in the mines due to a fractured rib caused by a falling block of coal.

Mrs. C. E. Hornbuckle and son, Clarence, Jr., of Ashland, and Mrs. Bob Marshall and daughter, Barbara, were calling on their aunt, Mrs. Will Stephens, recently.

INFORMATION OF INTEREST TO VETERANS

(No. 7 of a Series)

Disabled veterans are entitled to many federal benefits not available to the nondisabled, according to Veterans Administration.

Some of these benefits are explained in the following replies to the 10 questions most frequently asked by disabled veterans during a study VA conducted to learn how much they know about the federal program:

Q. What benefits does the disabled veteran receive under the vocational rehabilitation program that are not available to him under the G.I. Bill?

A. The disabled veteran receives several additional benefits under the Vocational Rehabilitation Act (Public Law 16). During his vocational rehabilitation and for two months after his employability has been established, he receives at least $105 if he has no dependents, or $115 if he has a dependent, plus $10 for one child, $7 for each additional child, and $15 for a dependent parent. He may receive more than these guaranteed minimums if his disability compensation, pension or retirement pay, plus the standard allowances of $65 or $90 a month, is higher than the amount guaranteed under the act. Other advantages include certain traveling expenses, other than daily commutation; availability of a $100 government loan; extension of training enlistment under certain conditions, and personal guidance and attention by VA training officers. Additional details may be obtained at any VA office.

Q. Does VA help the disabled veteran get a job after he finishes his training?

A. Yes.

Q. What is vocational advisement all about and why is it required under this program?

A. The main purpose of vocational advisement is to determine whether a disabled veteran should train for a profession, or for a particular trade or occupation based on his previous education, experience, personal desires and present ability. He is required to take a series of aptitude tests at a VA guidance center where he is interviewed and counseled by a group of highly trained specialists. His desires will be permitted to govern in most cases, but the counselors are required to advise him against starting a course for which his aptitude or physical limitations do not insure a reasonable likelihood of success. In short, this advisement is required under the program to insure the disabled veteran's proper rehabilitation.

Q. Will the disabled veteran's disability compensation be reduced if he goes into training under this program?

A. No.

Q. What happens if the disabled veteran falls in his course under this program?

A. Generally, VA will take special steps to enter him in another course in which there is every likelihood he will complete successfully. The situation depends on the facts and circumstances in each case.

Q. What are the conditions for eligibility under this program?

A. A disabled veteran must have had active service on or after Sept. 16, 1940 and before the official end of the war, with a discharge under conditions other than dishonorable. He also must have a compensable service-connected disability and he must show a need for vocational rehabilitation to overcome the handicap of his disability.

Q. How much VA supervision and assistance does the disabled veteran get in his training?

A. VA training officers inform and assist him in all matters affecting his training. They are continually on the alert for circumstances that might prevent his progress and they exert every effort to remove these obstacles.

Q. What is the maximum length of training a disabled veteran can get under this program?

A. The maximum is four years; however, VA may extend the time if factors in any case warrant an additional period of rehabilitation.

Q. What happens if a veteran in training under this program becomes ill or is injured?

A. Under such conditions, if the veteran is injured, suffers a relapse, or if his disability is further aggravated during his training, he may be granted an increase in the rate of his disability compensation. If he requires hospitalization, it may be furnished at government expense.

Q. Must a disabled veteran go to a vocational school or may he go to a liberal arts college, a high school, or similar institution under this program?

A. He may enroll in any VA-approved educational institution or training establishment offering the course or training which VA has found he needs to insure his proper rehabilitation in line with his own desires.

MAKE NO MISTAKE

ELECT ELMER BOWE, OF WAYLAND, KY., FOR REPRESENTATIVE, 96th LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT. WORLD WAR VETERAN—FOUR YEARS IN ARMED FORCES—MEMBER AMERICAN LEGION

TO THE VOTERS OF 96th DISTRICT:

At the recent primary I had no opposition from my own party, for which I am naturally grateful. Now, with opposition in the final election, I have nothing to say against my opponent. I merely ask the good people of the 96th District to consider my platform and the things I stand for, and as a citizen, my friendship for people of all classes, and my earnest desire to render you all the right kind of service. These things considered, I feel sure you will be kind enough to give me your support at the November election.

The following is my program for your consideration:

1. A $700 state bonus for veterans.

I have advocated state bonuses for veterans since my announcement for Representative. Others talked about it in the last part of the primary, which consisted mostly of hot air and last minute promises.

Extreme differences mark the extent of help to veterans planned by various states. In many states legislation is already in force which will mean actual cash and other benefits for veterans. Some states have no legislation at all, either adopted or pending, and apparently don't want to be bothered. When the war was finished and the boys were returning home, you remember, fellows, how they slapped you on the back and said nothing was too good for you boys. That's actually what they meant—nothing. Kentucky frees all disabled veterans from paying poll tax. I wonder if they can afford it. Your past legislators were like "Nero"—they fiddled while the veterans burned. You can use your vote and change this—stick with Bowe! He will stick with you.

The veterans need a bonus because of the failure of the economic system to restore him to his rightful place since his return. General Bradley says there are 4,000,000 veterans unemployed and 3,000,000 without homes in the scandalous housing shortage.

I want to ask you to turn your memories back to those fearful, bitter days when your sons and brothers tore themselves away from you and turned their faces toward the enemy. You pledged to them the avowal that we were entering the war to end all wars.

Let us bow our heads for one full minute of silent reflection, and ask ourselves if we and our official representatives are living up to these promises you made your sons and brothers. My buddies and comrades who have not returned to find out you really meant what you said, vote with the veterans and vote for Bowe.

2. Increased Legislation and Representation to Miners.

I have lived in the coal districts all my life. My father was killed by a fall of slate in the coal mines, and I know the hardships of the miners and problems of the laboring people. You can count on me 100 per cent with Labor. As William Jennings Bryan said, "You shall not press down upon labor this crown of thorns—you shall not crucify mankind upon a cross of gold."

3. Increase in Teachers' Pay; Teachers want Action, not Promises.

4. Increase in Old Age Pensions—$75 monthly in Old Age Pensions.

5. Increase in Unemployment Compensation; and remove red tape in drawing same. $30 for 26 weeks in jobless benefits.

6. $2.00 Auto License Tags.

7. State Job Preference for Veterans; Equality of Social Opportunity, job and careers open on ability, not birth; freedom to select job from choice rather than necessity.

8. I am a firm believer in the expansion and extension of rural electrification program so cheap electricity will be available to every home in this district. I will not vote to destroy the progress of cheap electricity for all.

When you go to the polls in November to vote, a vote for Bowe is a vote for the common people.

I am in this race to the finish and will serve you to the best of my ability and give you my promise that you will not regret any support that you may give me.

Your friend,
ELMER BOWE
Republican Nominee for Representative, 96th Legislative District
