KENTUCKY ON THE MARCH
By EWING GALLOWAY

Jesse Stuart, the Greenup crumby author, listened two years ago to my little lecture on green pastures and cattle raising, sowed grass on some of his 700 acres of mountain slopes, bought a good sized herd of stockers (against the advice of cider farmers), sold them in the fall at a good profit, then fictionized the story and sold it to Collier's Weekly for a thousand bucks. Few farmers can duble up on cattle profits the way Stuart did, but also there are few farmers in Kentucky who couldn't do better with more grass than they now have.

For a couple of years Harry W. Schacter, president of the Committee for Kentucky, introduced me at public dinners as the owner of the biggest documentary photograph agency in the country and a hog raiser who provided electric heat for little pigs in cold weather. Eventually Schacter's little eulogy got a bit stale.

"Harry," I said to him one day, "why don't you tell dinner crowds I'm the guy who put bluegrass in west Kentucky? That would mean something to Kentuckians. They don't care a darn about my business in New York."

Saying your correspondent put bluegrass in west Kentucky really would have been piling it on rather heavy. Few counties in my end of the state were without bluegrass when I sowed my first field fourteen years ago. Henderson county had one bluegrass pasture that was twenty years old, and it is still the best in the county.

Smith Broadbent, Trigg county, has 350 acres of bluegrass. Runs hundreds of steers on it while feeding them grain. He and Smith, Jr., market thousands of corned steers in a year. William B. Wickliffe, Henderson county, second largest feeder in west Kentucky, also runs steers on bluegrass while feeding them corn.

Right now we are topdressing bluegrass with chemical fertilizer—four hundred pounds of 0-12-12 to the acre. That is half potash, half acid phosphate. If I had been really smart I would have done this four years ago.

(Synclated by The Union County Advocate)

Hannah explained that each claim for benefits is checked against the agency's wage records files which reflect the quarterly earnings of about 80 percent of all workers in the state. Any overlapping of the two forms is the basis for an immediate investigation. In addition, she said, many fraudulent claimants are reported by public-spirited citizens, or by former employers who are notified at the time a claim is filed.

"The few who manage to evade these safeguards are usually uncovered by the division's field investigation staff whose sole job is to check claims for possible violations," Hannah continued. "The great majority of claimants, however, are honest and only a relatively few attempt to obtain benefits illegally." He estimated that only about one percent of all claims could be classified as deliberate fraud.

"We do not intend to slacken our efforts to apprehend every chisel," Hannah concluded, "not only because it is our legal and moral responsibility to do so but because any let-up in our efforts would encourage the spread of this practice."

Brownies Honor Patient At Prestonsburg Hospital

Brownie Girl Scout Troop No. 15 a few days ago conferred on Mrs. Henry F. Patton, a patient at the Prestonsburg General Hospital. The Brownies also took gifts and each carried a message of cheer to the patient.

Mrs. Patton this week expressed in a letter to the troop her appreciation of the honor. She sent the troop a cash contribution "to further your good work and spread sunshine to others as you have to me."

Accompanying the troop on the visit were their leader, Mrs. Jean Schindler, Mrs. N. L. May and Mrs. Ray Howard.

Confessions of a Windmill Charger

THIS may sound like thinking out loud, but it has to do with this newspaper's political philosophy and that is a matter which belongs to its readers, that they may be aware of the thinking back of some of its editorial arguments.

Looking backward over a period of twenty years we fail to find even one Kentucky Governor who has not drawn our fire. In practically every case, we have assailed these gentlemen for "playing politics" with their office and all departments sprangling out from it down to the people.

The Times has, for instance, been critical of Governor Clements because of the policy which we at times considered to be "dictatorial," though it at the same time has admired his ability and courage.

All this criticism has arisen, perhaps, from a quixotic political theory of ours which has left us dreaming of a state chief executive who would devote all his energies to plain, simple service of the people, with no thought of next year's elections, the building of a political machine or the influencing of legislators elected by the people to do what their consciences dictate.

This is the ideal. To dedicate the Governor's office, or any other office, to plain, simple service of the people, without thought of present or future power—that has been our idea of the "golden mean."

But, come to think of it, we realize that a chief executive of this sort would not be an executive but a mere advisor only a step removed from the status of "one of the boys." Without strong leadership, without a leader who can and will crack the whip, the General Assembly would be more of a meaningless hubbub than it is. Undirected, it would be directionless, aimless, with every man for himself and nobody, certainly not the Commonwealth as a whole, getting anything worthwhile from its sessions.

Perhaps we are, after all, wrong about the whole thing. Maybe we owe those politicians who have been our Governors a blanket apology.

We shall think it over. Still, we are convinced of one thing, and that is this: The best politics ever played is plain, unselfish service in behalf of the public good.

Fred Dickerson and the pastor reported on the meeting of the General Association of Baptists of Kentucky held at Murray last week. They were the only messengers there from Prestonsburg.

A report meeting of the enlarged Finance Committee, which is endeavoring to secure $4,400 with which to finish paying for the purchase and for our mission location at Lancer, reported $1,700 in cash and pledges last Sunday night. Only members of our church and congregation are being asked to contribute. This Committee is requested to meet to give reports at the close of services this coming Sunday night, again. We believe with God's help we can do the job.

KNOW YOUR SCHOOLS
And What They Are Doing

By County Superintendent's Office

Department of Supervision
Floyd county is fortunate in having one of the finest film libraries in Eastern Kentucky. At present there are more than 100 films available to all the schools of the county. The films deal with a variety of educational subjects which are suitable for all grade levels.

Over 15,000 children have seen the four films that have been filmed in Prestonsburg covering the two rural school field days and the two high school Music Festivals of 1949 and 1950.

Since 74 rural schools have electricity, they are provided with two programs yearly which cover their grade level.

Rural School Loan Library
One of the outstanding features of the supervisory program is the rural school loan library which serves 150 rural teachers. Twenty-two hundred books are available to supplement the reading program of the schools. The teachers may select 15 to 20 books at one time and then return them at the end of four weeks to renew their supply.

The success of this library has been shown by the increased reading vocabulary of the rural children, and by the teachers who make frequent trips to the office for the purpose of adding to their reading corners.

In the near future the Board of Education hopes to spend $1,000 annually to build a greater library, and to provide a wider scope of materials for our rural schools.

A monthly bulletin is published in the department for the rural teachers and their schools. It contains various items and news of the happenings in the 101 rural schools of Floyd county. A copy or two is mailed to every school in the county. Through this paper the teachers of Mud Creek may follow the work of the teachers in Middle Creek, which adds to the friendly spirit that prevails in the rural areas.

Department of Health and Lunchrooms
There are at present eight lunchrooms operating in our consolidated schools, which feed from 75 to 450 children daily. Ten rural schools serve hot lunches but as yet they are not participating in the national school lunch program. With federal aid, these lunchrooms are able to feed each child a well-balanced meal for 20 cents.

Our school lunchrooms are celebrating their Thanksgiving dinner this week with the surplus commodities provided them by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. So far this year every school lunchroom has received a shipment of turkeys, cranberry sauce, potatoes, butter, canned cherries, cheese, canned tomatoes, and orange juice.

New president of the Hazard Coal Operators Association is L. A. Hopper, vice-president of the Columbus Mining Company. He succeeds George P. Fitz.

Other officers named were C. Prewitt Gum, vice-president, and William B. Sturgill, Prestonsburg, secretary. The officers were elected following a luncheon meeting Nov. 8 at the Lafayette Hotel, Lexington.

Coach Adolph Rupp, famed U. of K. basketball coach, was principal speaker of the group's dinner meeting. He discussed the prospects of the approaching season and told of the 1948 basketball team's participation in the Olympic games. Sturgill introduced Rupp.

Pikeville, Paintsville Named by Ky. Chamber

Pikeville later in the week was named another test city.
Paintsville this week joined Central City and Glasgow as a test city in the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce community development program.

The selection of Paintsville, announced at the close of the community development clinic by George L. Doyle, Mayor of Paris, was made by a State Chamber committee. Based on extensive surveys, the judging of the nominee-cities was done in anonymity.

Test city for the remaining geographic region of the Chamber—the Southeastern part of the State—will be named at a clinic scheduled at Corbin.

The State Chamber and its committee on industrial development will supervise the organization of a local community development association in Paintsville and will coordinate its operations. Long-term projects of the groups are to bring new industry to the area, to improve facilities for recreation, to beautify the community, to reduce unemployment, and, in general, to make Paintsville a more prosperous community.

Located in a fertile valley, Paintsville, on the edge of the Cumberland Mountain, is a thriving agriculture center. Tobacco, tomatoes, broom corn, cane, beans, potatoes, and strawberries figure as important crops. Never an industrial center, the city has a small manufacturing payroll, coming mainly from consumer industries such as bottling works, bakeries, and garages.

A recent survey of available female labor shows over 2,500 women can be employed by industry locating in the area. The Kentucky Chamber is currently working in conjunction with Paintsville authorities in an attempt to bring a clothing plant to the city. The plant under consideration would employ more than 400 local women.

Approximately 150 persons from Central and Eastern Kentucky attended the day-long clinic, which featured speeches and discussions on tourist promotion, industrial development, civic improvement, business development, and the organization of local development associations. The Kentucky Chamber's new publication, a community development guide, was distributed among those in attendance.

Danger of 'Jack-Knife' Stressed by Clubwomen

Betsy Layne, Ky., Nov. 18 (Sp.)—The Betsy Layne Woman's Club held its regular monthly meeting Thursday night, Nov. 18, at the home of Mrs. Edward Lykins. Miss Alice Williams opened the meeting by reading an article from General Federation Clubwoman entitled, "Thanksgiving," by Mrs. Eula Montgomery, Religion Chairman, GWFC. This was followed by Mrs. O. J. Williams presenting a "Thanksgiving poem," "For Simple Things," from the Kentucky Club Woman.

Mrs. Arthur Van Kammen, the program leader, opened her portion of the meeting by giving a review of the book, "The Tower and the Town," a story of a young minister, his experiences and life and how he became a minister. Mrs. Van Kammen had as her next topic, "The Toy That Kills—the Jack-Knife." An article from the November issue of The Woman's Home Companion, dealing with the vicious and dangerous switch blade knife was read and discussed at length. It was brought out that several teen-agers have been killed by these knives, and each member was urged to do everything possible to discourage their sale.

Mrs. Van Kammen gave reports from various agencies wherein the "Jack-Knife" had been instrumental in some crime. She concluded this portion of the program by presenting the following suggestions to women as a means of controlling this danger. Do not allow your children to carry them; discourage the use of any pocket knife unless absolutely necessary; talk to your local merchants and ask them not to display them openly, and work for a state law to be passed which bans the sale of switch-blade knives.

Mrs. O. J. Williams presided at the general session. Mrs. Beecher Hardwick, vice-governor of the Seventh district, KFWC, read the following resolutions adopted at the General Federation Woman's Club Board session in October: "Resolutions were adopted affirming faith in the United Nations as the greatest hope for the welfare of nations in war or peace; calling on the government to take measures to halt the present alarming infiltration by Communists into our national life; and also asking that overt acts or statements threatening the overthrow of our form of government be punished as would any other act of sedition or treason; supporting the principle of Article 43 of the United Nations Charter, which provides that all members of the United Nations make available to the Security Council, the armed forces, assistance and facilities necessary for the purpose of maintaining international peace and security; and assuming the task of alerting the women of America to the responsibility which will be theirs in case of attack and offering the services of the Federation to the government and civil defense agencies for such activities as may be required; and urging member clubs to take similar action on the state and local level."

"Further Reports on the European Trip," by Mrs. Hiram Houghton, president of the General Federation of Woman's Clubs and a member of the World Cooperative Tour, was reviewed by Miss Williams. A Kentucky Club Woman International Relations bulletin, "Why U.S. Bears Brunt," a mother's question about Korea and an answer, was read by Mrs. W.P. Howell. A general discussion followed the reading of this bulletin about why America's sons have to be sent to Korea.

Subscriptions to the General Federation Clubwoman were solicited, and all members were urged by Mrs. Williams, the club president, to subscribe to this magazine. It was decided to enter the Kentucky Club Woman press book contest. The publicity committee will be in charge of the compilation of the press book. Mrs. Glenn Blackburn was selected to fill the vacancy in the publicity committee.

The Christmas party committee reported on the names and ages of the underprivileged children in the first six grades of the Betsy Layne school. Additional committees for the Christmas party were appointed as follows: Games—Mesdames Lykins and Anderson; Decoration—Mesdames Hardwick and Blackburn; Food—Mrs. Chandler and Miss Williams; Invitations—Mesdames Williams and Hardwick; Gift Wrapping—Mrs. Howell. It was voted to fill Christmas stockings for the Veterans' hospitals. Mrs. Lykins volunteered to make the stockings, with members supplying items to fill them. Plans were completed for a bake sale and bazaar to be held early in December. The suggestions given by the division of art were discussed and it was decided to carry these suggestions out as nearly as possible in connection with all future programs. A reproduction of "French Comedians" by Antoine Watteau of the French School was on display during the meeting. Miss Williams gave an informal talk on this picture.

It was voted to contribute 100 per cent to the Penny Art Fund and to have a reproduction of some great painting shown at every meeting. A salad plate was served and an added attraction to each plate was a cornucopia filled with candy and nuts relating to the Thanksgiving season. The following members were present: Mesdames O. J. Williams, T. J. Chandler, Beecher Hardwick, C. H. Dickerson, R. L. Anderson, Glenn Blackburn, Arthur Van Kammen, W. P. Howell, Miss Alice Williams, and the hostess, Mrs. Lykins. The next regular meeting will be the annual Christmas party, Dec. 21, at the home of Mrs. T. J. Chandler.

Kentucky in Last Ten
In Youth Facilities; Reasons Are Talked

Kentucky ranks with the last 10 states in most all facilities for its children and youth.

Why this is true and what can be done was discussed by 51 Kentucky delegates to the Midcentury White House Conference on Children and Youth in Louisville, Nov. 15. These delegates received invitations from the President of the United States to represent Kentucky in the White House Conference which convenes in Washington from Dec. 3-7. Neil Dalton, Louisville, served as chairman of the session.

An important need is that of community education and awakening to responsibility for law enforcement, said Miss Alice Cobb, Frankfort, who presented Kentucky's report for Washington to the delegates.

Twenty counties in Kentucky are in the process of organizing, or are organized, for programs to meet the needs of children and youth in their communities. Representatives of three local groups explained their programs to the delegates.

Charles Dibowski, Louisville, discussed the results of the Louisville survey and what action that committee plans to take. Rev. E. Arthur Russell, Red Bird Mission, spoke on some of the accomplishments in the demonstration project in Clay county. William Sargent, Owensboro, pointed out some ways the people of Owensboro solved their problems and worked together.

Miss Kathryn Shepherd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brady Shepherd, of Prestonsburg, was chosen president of the Y-Teen district for 1951 at the district conference held at Ashland, Nov. 18-19. Miss Shepherd is one of the eight students from Prestonsburg who attended the meeting accompanied by their faculty advisor, Mrs. E. Dick Roberts. The students names are as follows: Kathryn Shepherd, Sue Miller, Roslyn Hager, Clara Pitts, Mary Jo Shivel, Julia Mayo May, Aileen Branham and Wanda Lee Leake.

The conference was attended by approximately 65 students from Middleboro, Hazard, Prestonsburg, Ashland, and South Portsmouth high schools.

The group enjoyed a banquet served by the Booker T. Washington high school Y-Teen club Friday afternoon, and an address by Rev. Harry King, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Ashland. Saturday speakers were Mrs. George Bedder, Ashland, who discussed "Citizenship in Democracy," Miss Jean Garrrell, recently returned from missionary duties in Japan, discussed "Privileges and Responsibilities of a World Citizen," and Mrs. E. Dick Roberts, Prestonsburg, who discussed "Duties and Responsibilities of Y-Teen Officers and Committees."

Mr. Dan Goldsmith, 3024 Curron Road, Louisville, Ky., owner of Coogla Cut Rate Store at 935 West Broadway, says there just aren't enough words in the English language to praise HADACOL correctly. He says he knows most folks don't realize what a change HADACOL can make in their life if their systems are deficient in Vitamins B, B<sub>2</sub>, Iron and Niacin. Here is Mr. Goldsmith's statement:
"Before I started taking HADACOL I was run down and nervous—and had a hard time sleeping nights. With my work in the store I have to spend sometimes 14 hours a day on my feet. Since I am in the retail business I saw how many folks were asking for HADACOL so I decided to try it myself. After the first couple of bottles I could tell a definite improvement. Now I have all the pep and energy in the world, my nerves are steady as ever and I really do get a good night's rest. HADACOL is wonderful—I not only take it, but recommend it to all my customers. I praise the day Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc put HADACOL on the market."

HADACOL Is So Different

Thousands are benefiting from HADACOL... whose systems lack Vitamins B, B<sub>2</sub>, Iron and Niacin. HADACOL is so wonderful because HADACOL helps build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (when Iron is needed) to carry these great Vitamins and Minerals to every body organ—to every part of the body.
Give remarkable HADACOL a chance and if you don't feel better with the first few bottles you take—you get your money back. Only $1.25 for Trial Size; Large Family or Hospital Size, $3.50. The new plant on which the May-Bilt Company began work 13 months ago, may cost $10,000 more than the original $49,500 contract price, Clyde Allen, secretary of the Martin Water Commission, said. The May-Bilt Company defaulted its contract, and the Water Commission, composed of T. J. Allen, Clyde Allen and Lloyd McGarey, completed the job, with the original contractor's bonding firm reimbursing the commissioners for their part of the cost.

When the water was turned on through the new system to the approximately 240 consumers in the town, the change-over was made just in time. For that very hour the old pumps had broken down again.

Jest Among Us ...

By Jack Wild

Soon the last football of the old season will be booted and soon the first basketball of a new season will be heaved hoopward. On December 9, the University's majestic Memorial Coliseum will be dedicated as a sports center when Mr. Rupp's lads tangle with the roundball boys of Purdue.

And that brings to mind a story about the Coliseum. Shortly before it was completed, U. K. President H. L. Donovan, who is justifiably proud of the mammoth structure, was showing a farmer friend through the building, pointing out various interesting features.

"You know, this is really a multiple-purpose building," Dr. Donovan said. "Twelve thousand people can be seated here for basketball games, and up to 15,000 for concerts and lectures." The old farmer looked around but made no comment.

"Excavation required the removal of 40,000 cubic yards of earth and over 10,000 cubic yards of rock," President Donovan continued. "About 11,000 cubic yards of concrete and 500 tons of reinforcing steel were used." Still the farmer said nothing.

"It's hard to believe, but 3,500,000 brick were needed," the U. K. president went on. "When winter comes, it will take enough heat for approximately 250 average sized homes to keep it warm. There are over 1,300 fixtures in the building." The farmer rolled his eyes as they crossed the gleaming, hardwood playing floor, but still he had nothing to say.

"There's half an acre of flooring on this floor alone," Dr. Donovan declared, "and from here to the ceiling the distance is 49 feet. The span of the main roof trusses is 225 feet. There are two acres of terrazzo floors, and the roof is 23 acres in area." The old farmer seemed impressed by the formidable statistics, but continued to gaze silently around the huge room.

"Now that you've seen the Coliseum, what do you think of it?" President Donovan asked at last. "Well, sir," the farmer drawled, "you sure could put a heap of hay in here!"

HOG KILLING

Thanksgiving through February is the time most hogs are killed for home use, and here are some suggestions that may be helpful to those who haven't killed their hogs yet.

You should greatly reduce the hog's feed at least 24 hours before killing, but keep plenty of fresh water by it. Water will keep the hog quiet and at the same time reduce the contents of the entrails. Avoid chasing the hog. Since this causes it to become overheated. An overheated hog doesn't bleed well and this may cause the meat to spoil.

Shooting is not the best way to kill a hog, but if you practice shooting use a small-calibre gun and stick immediately. The best way to kill a hog is to stick it. Bleeding is more thorough if the hog is hung up. Sticking is the least painful way to kill a hog because as long as a wound is bleeding it doesn't hurt chasing the hog, since this causes it to become overheated. A narrow, sharp-pointed knife is excellent for sticking.

If you use a barrel to scald hogs, the temperature of the water should be 155 to 160 degrees Fahrenheit. Higher temperature may scald the hide and cause the hair to set. A heaping tablespoonful of lye to each barrel of water will make it easier to remove the scurf. The carcass will be easier to cut if it is chilled first. Split the carcass and hang it in the smoke-house. If temperature is unusually low, it may be necessary to wrap the carcass in heavy cloth to keep it from freezing. Frozen meat is hard to handle and will not take cure.

Salt, saltpeter, and sugar in some form are the preservatives generally used in curing pork. Salt draws water from the meat and when used alone tends to harden the muscle fibers. Sugar has the opposite effect in that it preserves the juiciness and helps keep muscle fibers soft. Only enough saltpeter should be used to maintain the rich, red color of the meat. A good dry-salt cure can be made of 7½ pounds of salt, 2½ pounds of sugar, and 2 ounces of saltpeter, this being the amount of mixture for 100 pounds of meat.

Let us be Thankful!

Our pilgrim fathers had two notable characteristics; a genuine reliance upon the guidance and protection of God, and a strong disposition to look out for themselves.

These two traits are not antagonistic, but are complimentary.

There are some things in life that God expects us to do for ourselves. Men of great and lasting achievement never leave God completely out of the picture. Nor do they attempt to leave it all to God, and withhold the human support that He expects. Strong men, influential men, the most socially useful men and women are those who trust God as though all depends on Him, and then set themselves to the task as though all depends upon human effort.

Like the Pilgrims, when we receive God's guidance, let us return to Him hearts of genuine gratitude.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Donovan Warns of Need For More Engineers

A warning that the United States soon will be facing a critical shortage of graduate engineers was sounded this week by Dr. H. L. Donovan, president of the University of Kentucky.

An ever increasing demand on the part of industry for trained engineers together with declining enrollment in the nation's 138 schools of engineering will bring on a situation that could threaten the long-term of preparedness program now planned by U. S. defense chiefs, Dr. Donovan declared.

American industry presently requires 20,000 to 25,000 new graduate engineers yearly, the U. K. president said, and this demand may be expected to increase steadily for some time to come. Even the record number of engineers graduated this year—approximately 45,000—can do no more than postpone the shortage, he asserted.

Current enrollment figures of the 138 engineering schools indicate no more than 22,000 graduates in 1952, and 13,000 in 1954, Dr. Donovan continued. When the anticipated armed services quota of engineers is deducted, he said, the 1954 supply is reduced to 7,000 or about one-third of the industrial requirement alone.

The United States' highly mechanized economy today needs one engineer to every 65 workers as compared to the 1900 requirement of one engineer to every 250 workers, the U. K. president pointed out. The expected engineer shortage can be avoided only by a sharp upswing in engineering college enrollment, Dr. Donovan believes. To insure 25,000 new graduate engineers yearly, the colleges must attract almost 60,000 annually to their entering classes. This, the U. K. administrator said, is because fewer than half of those entering engineering schools complete the four-year course.

Five Christian county 4-H club members bought 100 Northwestern ewes for 1951 breeding ewe projects, of hay from the field.

Keck Asks Comment On Tourist Brochure Issued During Week

Frankfort, Ky., October 31 (Spl).—Twenty thousand copies of Kentucky's newest and most elaborate tourist brochure are now being addressed to the state's business and professional leaders. The mailing of the preliminary small edition solicits "critical comment," according to an inserted letter signed by Commissioner of Highways John A. Keck.

"Since the booklet is to be reprinted soon, we would appreciate sincerely your earnest and critical comment," the Keck letter states. "We hope you will call to our attention any omissions and any needed changes. If you feel that it is not truly representative of Kentucky, please let us know in order that we may take steps to correct it."

The new "Historic Kentucky Highways" which will replace its now nationally famous predecessor is a 60-page, four-color brochure containing more than seventy-five actual color photographs of famous and historic Kentucky locales. Interspersed are strip maps and short informative descriptions of Kentucky's most famous tourist routes along with other valuable and pertinent information.

On the front cover a "posed" color photograph at the doorway of "The Old Kentucky Home" at Bardstown presents Sam L. Woodruff in Versailles in the costume of a "Master of Hounds" holding at least four of the best fox dogs from the Woodruff Kennels in Versailles. Three of the hostesses at the Foster shrine, Mesdames Ethel Mattingly, Emily May Bush and Estella Gordon of Bardstown, dressed in period costumes are standing in the doorway. The black cover presents Kentucky's newest recreational center—Kentucky Lake. The "Delta Queen" on excursion out of Cincinnati and the famous schooner "Seven Seas" are pictured on the lake.

Both cover photographs are framed in an antique old frame on a walnut-panel "bleed" cover. Draped over the pictures are sprigs of "Forget-me-nots."

"Since January 1, 1948 we have answered more than 125,000 individual requests for information on Kentucky," Mr. Keck said. "It has become necessary for us to prepare a new booklet. . . . Nearly a million copies of the old booklet have been distributed."

Ask Your Gas Station Man!

OLDSMOBILE'S "ROCKET" ENGINE RUNS WITH SMOOTHNESS, POWER AND ECONOMY ON GASOLINE AVAILABLE EVERYWHERE TODAY!

Here's a question we'd like you to ask, next time you drive in for gas: "What do you think of Oldsmobile's 'Rocket' Engine?" Chances are, the attendant will tell you that the "Rocket" tops its field in smoothness, quietness, and quick-acting power. He'll probably explain that the "Rocket's" high-compression design gives it that thrilling response. We're sure he'll tell you that the "Rocket" uses gasoline available everywhere today—and makes every gallon go a long way! Your gas station man knows his engines, and he knows motor car values, too. That's why we think he'll tell you: "Yes, sir, mister—Oldsmobile's a smart deal!"

Floyd County Historical Notes

By HENRY P. SCALF

One year ago this November, the writer of this column received a letter from Annie Walker Burns, of Washington, D. C. She is one of the founders of the Dr. Thomas Walker Memorial Association, as well as its culting genealogist. This Association, founded for the purpose of commemorating Dr. Walker's Eastern Kentucky explorations, is headed by Flem D. Sampson, Ex-Governor of Kentucky. The board of directors consist of some of the outstanding men and women of Eastern, and especially of Southeastern, Kentucky. The letter, in general, was an invitation to attend the 200th anniversary celebration at Barboursville, Ky., of Dr. Walker's "first expedition and building of first house by white men west of the Alleghenies."

Annie W. Burns contributed in this letter some very interesting information on an early Floyd county family:

"The brother of my 1812 War ancestress settled in Floyd county. His name was Jonathan Tussey. He died about 1852. He said that he was born in Tennessee and that his parents were Jacob and Jane Tussey, which, or rather who, were the same as the parents of my Mahala who married my 1812 War Edward Walker, Jr. I found this death record at Frankfort among records which are preserved there on most all counties 1852 to 1862. However, most of the Tussey family moved on to Missouri. My ancestor, Jacob Tussey, who is also father of Jonathan, of Floyd county, made his oath of allegiance in Hagerstown, Washington county, Kentucky. They are French people."

Floyd county marriage records previous to the Civil War contain the records of two Tussey marriages—that of Jonathan C. Tussey who married Mary Bradley, Oct. 12, 1848, and that of Cobb B. Tussey, who married Minerva Jane Bradley, Dec. 1, 1859.

Annie Walker Burns is a lineal descendant of Dr. Thomas Walker. She is an outstanding genealogist who formerly resided at Wallins Creek, Kentucky, but now is doing general historical and genealogical research in Washington.

"Historic Kentucky Highways," a public information booklet issued by the Department of Highways, is very interesting reading. However, it contains some of those anonymous, needling pieces of misinformation about Eastern Kentucky that occurs all too frequently in booklets or articles of this kind. Let us quote: "The county (Floyd) was created in 1749 . . ." If it was created in 1749 two things have certainly occurred, was the remembering—one only this year and that was our Sesquicentennial celebration, which was 51 years too late, and the other was the founding of the county of Floyd here in the wilderness of Big Sandy when it was not even an explored domain.

On page 39 under the heading, Prestonsburg: "Here was Prestons's Station during pioneer days. The settlement grew up around the old Spurlock house, which became headquarters for General Garfield during the Civil War." In view of this statement, coming as it does from an authentic and official publication, we must unlearn the fact that the Spurlock cabin disappeared years before Garfield entered Prestonsburg and that the old Burns residence never housed and sheltered the future President of the United States.

You read the booklet, take your pick of so-called facts and make your own correction.

A letter from Joy Sparks, of Ashland: "What church did the older Strattons belong to? Maybe I could find him a wife (Solomon Stratton) from some old church records. He certainly never applied for a pension (Revolutionary War pension). I was lucky enough to get the church minutes of the Roaring River Baptist Church of North Carolina recently."

In answer it must be said that the older Strattons were Methodists and Methodism was the dominant faith of this family for a century and a quarter.

Further, the letter asks: "I noticed in the 1820 census of Russell county, Virginia, a John Scalf. Was he one of your relatives?"

He was the present writer's great-great-grandfather and died in 1820. He passed the name of John on down the last century and a quarter of time until nearly a score of his descendants have had the name. John Scalf never came to Floyd county, neither did his son, Britton, who was killed by a falling tree while acting as a road overseer in Russell county. This was in 1846. Britton's widow, who was Talitha McCouch, and her 10 orphaned children came to Big Sandy almost immediately after the tragedy to make their home.

Some one has requested the origin of the word, "ferminist," which means "near to" or "adjacent." Now let us take these words one at a time. We have "ruckus" as yet undisposed of and since "ruckus" may have been heard since the days of Queen Elizabeth, it was when it appeared in this column a typographical error. The word I was inquiring the origin of was "reekus," not "ruckus." I suspect the two words are synonymous or if not synonymous that "reekus" is a local variant of "ruckus." However, on second thought, "ferminist" will be accepted for study. If much thumbing and poring over of ancient sources reveal no information, the whole "passe!" will be handed over to an expert I know. Experts always have the answer.

In 1949 there appeared in The Floyd County Times an article, "Joshua Ross Comes To Eastern Kentucky." Ross, a settler from Marion, Virginia, lived out his life in the northern part of Pike county. At the time the article appeared, no mention was made of his burial place, as such information was not and would never be, it was thought, available. Now comes a very old descendant who says that Ross, the settler, is buried on the cemetery that lies on a knoll in the center of the valley of Cowpen Creek, near U. S. Highway 23. The grave is unmarked and unidentifiable like so many of the early pioneers and settlers.

Mr. and Mrs. Roe Turner spent last week hunting in North Carolina.

Misses Peggy Martin and Christine Hefflett have been quite ill with colds.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Damron spent last Sunday in West Virginia, guests of her mother, Mrs. Emma Jones.

Mrs. Belle Stumbo spent the weekend with her daughter, Mrs. Ben Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Porter and Mrs. Ann Damron were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cook.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Webb, of Allen, attended church here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hansel Honeycutt visited her father, Wiley Warrick, on the Auxier Road Sunday. Mr. Warrick has recently returned from St. Mary's hospital in Huntington, W. Va.

Mrs. Joe C. Mocre and Mrs. Roe Turner were shopping in Prestonsburg Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henson of Louisa, spent the week-end with their daughter, Mrs. Fay York, and family.

H. D. Hewlett spent a few days in Louisa last week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Porter and son, Freddie, were in Lexington, Ky., Friday and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Conn visited relatives on Prater Creek Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cook and son, Willie, and Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Martin were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Burchett on Cow Creek, Friday.

"WHAT D'YA MEAN... MORE PAYLOAD?"

DODGE "Job-Rated" trucks GIVE IT TO YOU!

IT'S A MATTER OF better weight distribution

You can haul more payload than ever in a Dodge "Job-Rated" truck, because the load is better distributed. Most trucks carry too much of the load on the rear axle—too little on the front. Because the engine of a Dodge "Job-Rated" truck is moved forward and the front axle back, both axles carry the right proportion of the load. That means you can haul bigger payloads without overloading.

NOT THIS The payload on most trucks—like the girl in this boat—rides too far to the rear. Result: there's too much weight aft, not enough forward.

BUT THIS In "Job-Rated" trucks, the load is moved forward—as the girl is now positioned. Results: proper weight distribution—bigger payloads—easier handling.

NEW! glyrol FLUID DRIVE! Available on 1/2-, 3/4- and 1-ton models... for longer truck life, lower upkeep costs. Ask us for interesting Fluid Drive booklet.

ECONOMY: . . . priced with the lowest "Job-Rated" for dependability and long life.

BIGGER PAYLOADS: . . . carry more without overloading axles or springs because of "Job-Rated" weight distribution.

EASIER HANDLING: . . . sharper turning! Parks in tight places. "Job-Rated" maneuverability!

COMFORT: . . . widest seats . . . windshield with best vision of any popular truck. Air-cushioned, adjustable "chair-height" seats.

SAFETY: . . . finest truck brakes in the industry . . . hand brake operating independently on propeller shaft on all models—1/2-ton and up.
