

Mrs. Rufus Crisp, 73, Heart Attack Victim At Allen Last Week

Mrs. Louellen Clark Crisp, 73 years old, member of a well-known Floyd county family, died suddenly last Thursday morning at the home at Allen of a neighbor, Mrs. Willard Kinzer, victim of a heart attack.

Mrs. Crisp became ill while alone at her home and crossed the street to the neighboring home. She died before medical aid could be summoned.

A daughter of the late Lindsay and Rebecca Mayo Clark, she was born and reared near Allen. She had been a member of the Methodist Church since childhood.

Surviving are her husband, Rufus Crisp, her son, Palmer Crisp, of Allen, a sister, Mrs. Anna Stephens, of Prestonsburg, and one brother, Prof. David L. Clark, Austin, Texas.

The funeral was conducted Sunday afternoon from the Allen Methodist Church by the Revs. M. N. DeHaven and W. J. Kenney. Burial was made in the Mayo cemetery near Allen under direction of the Carter & Callihan Funeral Home.

On God's Coattails?

FEW who have stopped to analyze political effusions have failed to note that at election-time all the boys are anxious to jump on God's handwagon for a brief ride till the voting is over. Few of the speakers at the Republican and Democratic national conventions failed to use His name as a rallying cry and most of them waited till late in their speeches to mention God. As they soared to empyrean heights of oratory they invoked the higher power, not as a deep, underlying theme, but by way of climactic effort.

Fine and humble as Democratic Presidential nominee Stevenson's acceptance speech was, it had one glaring weakness. His reference to the agony of Christ as descriptive of his reluctance to assume the great responsibility of leadership ("Let this cup pass from me"—remember?) was as a literary effort bathos and a poor parody.

After the Republican convention had had its innings at invoking divine power, and as the Democrats prepared to do likewise, The Christian Century vigorously blasted this hypocritical phase of politics in an editorial, "On God's coattails?" excerpts of which are here printed:

The politicians, who are always looking around for a coat-tail on which to ride into office are leaping in platoons on the trailing garments of Divinity. Men not previously known for piety have suddenly become polite and profuse in their public references to God. Others who seldom darken the doors of a church openly identified themselves and their causes with religion. Scriptural references crop up unexpectedly in addresses, and sometimes the holy name of God is mentioned in the body of a political speech. Invariably it appears at the end. The speech-writers' union must have ruled that a conclusion which invokes the name of Deity simply cannot fail to bring down the house.

Perhaps we ought to be grateful that the things of the spirit are getting all this attention, but it makes us sad and a little sick. Nobody doubts that many men in political life are as good and sincere Christians or Jews as anybody else and that they have a right to express their views. Such men are entitled not only to respect, but to support and encouragement. But the churches do have valid cause for complaint over the exploitation of religion for political ends. It was never so evident as in the present campaign. Too long this exploitation has been tolerated as just another peculiarity, like baby-kissing, of the politician on the prowl. But these times are too serious for that. Even more important, it is wrong to treat true faith in God as if it were something that is worn once in four years, like a campaign button. It is either far more than that, or it is an offense to heaven.

Part of the trouble is that both parties are in the grip of public relations experts. Once a public relations expert has spotted a trend, all his fellow practitioners rush to join the procession. Religion, say the trend-setters, is becoming more popular. Its influence might be decisive in a tight election. So there will be no escaping the political exploitation of religion in the next few months unless the churches rise up and call a halt. Both parties have many men who often employ the language of faith to serve their political aims. President Truman does it frequently, but he is not alone. During the recent Republican convention, Chicago saw attempts to put over one candidate by tireless identification of his cause with "Onward Christian Soldiers" played over and over by hired bands. In another demonstration it saw men carrying signs: "God and MacArthur." In the Democratic convention that is opening as this paper goes to press, we expect to hear one speaker after another call upon the name of the Lord.

The religious leaders who are asked to do the praying at the conventions seem to have entered, with few exceptions, into the conspiracy to exploit religion for partisan purposes. They know they are selected with great care, as they should be. But what is the purpose of the program committee which is so careful? Is it to select men whose devotion and spiritual stature are so unmistakable that their prayers will be heard by God, so the convention will in fact receive divine guidance? Or is it to choose men from churches having in their memberships the largest number of votes? The roster of the cardinals, bishops, rabbis and other clergymen who were asked to lead in prayer answers that question before it is asked. Do they agree with the politicians that God is on the side of the heaviest voting battalions?

Their prayers indicate that they do. Were these petitions really addressed to God, who judges the heart and is not impressed with windy intercessions? Of were they tailored, as if they were political speeches, to the television audience? The length and especially the substance of many of the prayers indicate they were designed for human, and not divine, ears. So the conventions of 1952 will go down in history as the political assemblies which occasioned the most eloquent prayers ever addressed to the American people. With some exceptions, the religious leaders to whom was entrusted the exalted ministry of prayer at these conventions prayed as though God were indeed a mythical Uncle Sam, or possibly a mythical Uncle Republican or Uncle Democrat. True religion is not served by such performances, and honest politics does not require them.

It is the duty of the churches to bear witness to God. In an election year, it is their job to protest when His name is taken in vain. Somebody has to stand up and point out that He alone is sovereign, and that His rule covers all mankind and all ages. God is not a Republican, much as that assertion may dismay the citizens of Maine and Vermont; or a Democrat, even though that may be disbelieved in the Solid South. He is not even an American, shocking as it may seem to say it, and it is just possible that he thinks no more of the "Star-Spangled Banner" than he did of the battle cries of the Philistines or the war whoops of the Navahos.

KOREA BLUES

Across the river from Japan Korea is the spot Where we are doomed to spend our time

In the land that God forgot, With rice patties and honey buckets, Where a man gets mighty blue, Three thousand miles from everything and you.

We sweat, we freeze and shiver, It's more than a man can stand, We're not supposed to be convicts, Just defenders of our land.

We're soldiers of our country Earning our monthly pay, Guarding people with millions For two and a half a day.

We're living with our memories, Waiting to see our pals, Hoping, just hoping, they don't marry our pals.

Nobody knows we are living, Nobody gives a damn; At home we are forgotten— We belong to Uncle Sam.

The time we spend in Korea, Our lives we have missed, Boys, don't let the draft board get you,

And for God's sake don't enlist. When we get to heaven, "St. Peter," we will yell, "We're soldiers from Korea, We've spent our time in hell."

You Can't Buy Freedom... BUT You CAN Sell It!

Vote-buying is a violation of the law. Vote-selling is also a violation of the law. You wouldn't sell something very precious to you like your child, would you? If a man sells his vote he sells something as precious as his own child—his freedom.

Vote-buying and selling is as reprehensible a practice as ever fastened itself upon any body politic. Democracy ceases to exist when mass vote-buying becomes a general practice. With mass vote-buying demagogues and the "well-fixed" financially take over the offices that should be the free gift of the people.

Buyers and Sellers are equally guilty in this reprehensible practice.

Approximately 250 members of Southern States Co-operative, their families and other farm people in the Prestonsburg, Ky., area heard reports of their cooperative's services for the first 11 months of the 1951-52 fiscal year at a meeting held July 23, 1952, in Prestonsburg.

In addition to the report given by district manager Tommy Combs, members were elected to the Southern States Prestonsburg Advisory Board.

According to Mr. Combs, the more than 250,000 members of the Co-operative in the six-state operating territory, put through their organization nearly $141,000 worth of purchasing and marketing volume during the fiscal year which ended June 30. The figure was estimated on the basis of the first 11 months of the year. The Cooperative's net worth was given as over $24,000,000.

The report of local services was given by Ogden Stewart, manager of the Prestonsburg Farm and Home Store.

Floyd-Co. Graduates To Hear Rev. Martin

Pikeville, Ky., Aug. 4 (Spl.)—Some 40 Eastern Kentucky men and women, a quarter of them from Floyd county, will be graduated from Pikeville Junior College tomorrow (Friday) evening.

The Rev. Vernon P. Martin, Jr., Pittsburgh Presbyterian minister, will speak at the annual summer commencement. The exercises will be held at 8 p.m. in Wickham Chapel, Dr. A. A. Page, college president, said.

All but one of the prospective graduates are students in the college's teachers course, and will qualify upon graduation for the provisional elementary certificate. About three-fourths of the group already have taught one or more years on "emergency" permits.

Pike, Johnson, Letcher and Martin counties also are represented in the graduating class. "Dr. Martin is the son of a Kentucky family that goes back to the early days of the Kentucky settlement," Dr. Page said. "His father, the Rev. Vernon P. Martin, Sr., was active in Presbyterian mission work in this state for many years before taking a pastorate in Ohio."

Before going to the Second Presbyterian Church of Wilkesburg, Pa., a Pittsburgh suburb, the commencement speaker was pastor for several years of the Evanston Presbyterian Church of Cincinnati. He was the organizer and first director of the Cincinnati Westminster Foundation, a central organization of youth of his church.

Dr. Martin holds the A.B. degree from Albert Hollbrook College, Manchester, O., the B.D. degree from Princeton Theological Seminary, and the D.D. from Waynesburg College, Waynesburg, Pa.

IT'S A GOOD WORLD

BY WILMAY

The men folks can tell each other how to get a rattle out of the back of their ears. Just let her drive.

A little girl went to stay with her aunt while her mother took a second honeymoon with her new husband. While visiting with her aunt and uncle she learned how to return thanks and was quite proud of the fact. Her aunt told the child's mother to be sure to call on her and encourage her to continue saying grace. And for the benefit of the stepfather she called on the child in her home before the newlyweds left for theirs.

The little girl tucked her head and said, "Dear Lord, we thank you for all this good food we've been having, 'cause I don't get it 'cept when I come to Aunt Doris's house. Amen."

King Farouk has been dethroned, and the chances are that his infant son may never become a monarch, despite present plans to that effect. It may be different when a man abdicates but when a nation disposes of a ruler history proves how seldom the heir apparent ever wears a crown. Time may show that Egypt is no exception.

Royalty has long been a joke in many lands, but is no laughing matter in those where even the poor are heavily taxed to maintain one family and all its descendants and connections in splendor for generations. And no matter where they seek refuge or what they left behind the vast majority find no difficulty to continue life as usual.

There seems to be some questions in the minds of many as to whether foreign or domestic affairs will dominate the coming presidential campaign. Regardless of what significance the candidates accorded the subject of heavy taxation, it is certain to play an important part in the November election. When it comes to party affiliation, most of us are what we were brought up to be. And every student of history knows depressions follow wars in a style that has repeated itself in both Democratic and Republican administrations. Neither Hoover nor Cleveland wanted a panic and breadlines.

The present cold war has done much to allay and to postpone a slump since World War II or a repetition of the market collapse of 29. It behooves all of us to recognize the fact that this can still happen, regardless of which party may be in power. Fairness and consistency remove party lines. So many citizens have come to realize this through the attempts of the nation to educate the voters that numbers disregard party lines and vote almost entirely for the man. Actually it is a good sign. And the mere fact that thousands from either party will cross to the other is proof that our two-party system is far from dead, though each party now has some new life and faces in its front ranks.

And while it is true that no nation or organization goes beyond its leader or head, it is equally true that success depends to no lesser extent upon those who are in there pitching with the man at the helm. The star forward may chalk up the points—he may be high score man—but ask any coach how valuable his guards and other players are.

Just as the credit for social gains and progress does not go exclusively to either party likewise we need not blame either altogether for corruption and evils that mark an administration. Scandals have not been confined to either party. They have been all too prevalent in both, on more than one occasion. No one defends them. National politics are a stench. The things practiced and condoned by both sides put the entire country to shame. No change will take place till we the people demand it in both parties. Too often we have, to choose between the lesser to two evils.

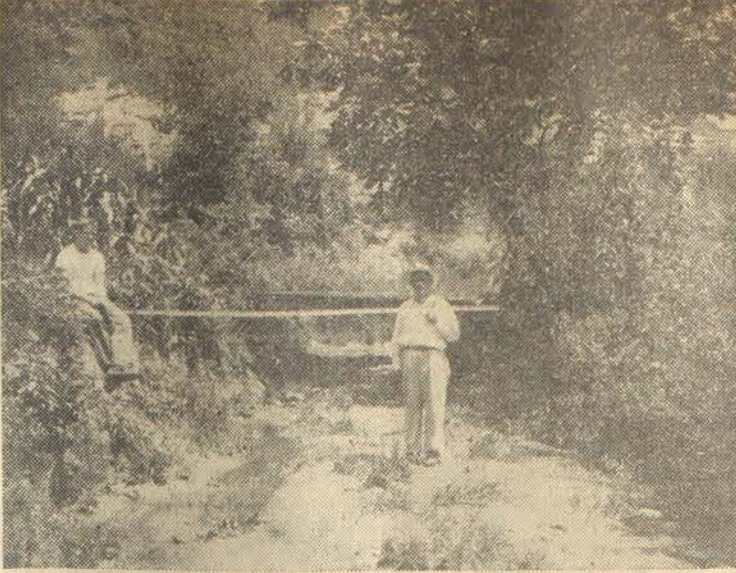

Recent conventions crystallized public sentiment for a presidential primary. If our government is to be one Of, By and For the people machines should not dominate candidates. Backroom caucuses in the wee morning hours should not select the man who carries the banner. Trading and swapping will become a thing of the past. Vice-presidents will be chosen on the basis of ability and as a choice of free Americans rather than to assuage some geographical section whose vote might go the other way. This is not a complaint against either nominee for the second post. No doubt each is well qualified. It is a complaint against the methods used to select the man who may sit in the chair of the highest office of the land.

At the huge air base, located near Dayton, O., the cadets undergo rigid courses designed to prepare them for future duties as junior officers in the Air Force, Air National Reserve, and Air Force Reserve.

AID GIVEN ON DRAINAGE PROBLEM

The above picture shows the widening of Brandy Keg Creek through the farm of "Bur" Akers. L. R. Johnson of the Floyd Conservation Service and the little sons of Akers demonstrate by means of a measure the great extent it was necessary to widen the stream to carry increased run-off after heavy rains.

The Floyd county Soil Conservation Service, in addition to its many other activities on the soil conservation program, is concerning itself with a phase of water drainage that has had little attention by Floyd farmers except in a haphazard way. That is facilitating the run-off of surface water from farms in a way to avoid erosion and the destruction of stream banks.

Stream banks, choked and with insufficient capacity to handle an increased run-off, from torrential rains, are being given attention. "Burr" Akers of the Brandy Keg section (see cut) with a long serpentine stream through alluvial soil on his farm sought the advice of the Soil Conservation Service on the problem of stopping stream "bank breaks." The cause of "bank breaks" was a stream bed with insufficient size to accommodate any appreciable increased run-off after rains. With heavy machinery recommended by the Soil Conservation Service about 600 feet of the stream was widened. The cost, approximately $100, is negligible.

Sanders Dies Monday At Paintsville; Was Ill Last Six Years

John Lee Sanders, 55 years old, of Betsy Layne, died last Monday afternoon at the Paintsville hospital, a victim of a six-year illness of heart disease.

A native of the county, he was a son of the late Tom and Geneva Woods Sanders. He was a miner until ill health forced his retirement and was a former employee of the Glorora Coal Company. He was a member of the Freeville Baptist church. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Eliza Prater Sanders, four daughters, Mrs. Marie Nelson and Mrs. Tootsie Spicer, both of Cincinnati, Misses Mary and Glenda Sanders, of Betsy Layne, and Paul Sanders, of Betsy Layne. He also is survived by two sisters and two brothers, Mrs. Alka Collins, of West Virginia, Mrs. Myrtle McCoy, of Auxier, William Sanders, Betsy Layne, and Orville Sanders, of Broadbottom.

His funeral was conducted Friday morning from the residence, the Revs. Isaac Stratton and Wayne Blanton officiating. Burial was made at Emma, the Arnold Funeral Home directing.

Funeral of Collins Held at East Point

Funeral rites for Garland W. Collins, of Auxier, who died in a Paintsville hospital, July 23, were conducted from the East Point Church of Christ, July 25. His death followed an illness of five months.

Born August 28, 1882 in Johnson county, he was the son of Wallace and Rebecca Wells Collins. He is survived by his widow, Bertha Honeycutt Collins, two sons, Ashley Collins, Van Lear, Fred Collins, Danville, formerly of Prestonsburg, three daughters, Mrs. Ruby Austin, Boons Camp, Mrs. Virgie Hall, Mealy, and Mrs. Beatrice Bickford, Auxier.

Other survivors include four brothers, Bailey and McKinley Collins, Odds, Ky.; Lacy Collins, Auxier, Dave Collins, Ashland; three half brothers, Curtis and Woodrow Collins, Van Lear, Haskel Collins, and four half sisters, Mrs. Leonard Denison and Mrs. Willie Wells, Odds, Mrs. Herman Wells, Ashland, and Mrs. Juanita Collins, Van Lear.

Burial was in the Wells-Collins cemetery at Odds.

George Rogers Clark plotted his conquest of the British Northwest at Ford Harrod, now a Kentucky state park at Harrodsburg.

when the value of the work is considered.

Alex Derossett, another Floyd farmer, has approximately 200 feet of channel that needs widening, deepening or straightening. L. R. Johnson, of the Floyd district of the Soil Conservation Service, says in reference to Derossett and his stream problem: "He plans to do something about it."

Johnson tells of a few things that all farmers may do on the problem of water run-off. The ditch or stream must be sufficient to carry the water after the heaviest rain. If not overflow results and breakage will occur on one or both sides of the stream. These facts are obvious but are ignored by many farmers. Johnson goes on to say that an open, straight ditch will carry more water.

Floyd county has 2,994 farms; 132 of these farm owners have made plans to improve their farms in various ways. "Most of them have stream banks and stream channels that need improvement," says Johnson.

Tells Plans To Found Huge Drive-In Theatre In Vicinity of Martin

Lawrence Keathley, veteran Martin theatre man, announced this week plans for construction soon of a drive-in theatre which he proposes to make the largest and most modern of any in the Big Sandy area.

The outdoor theatre will have a 500-car capacity, he said, and a large concession stand which will be air-conditioned and which also will provide a playroom for young children who prefer play to watching the picture. He said he has four or five locations under consideration but would not designate any of these except to say the theatre will be in the vicinity of Martin.

Mr. Keathley is now negotiating for equipment. He will continue the operation of his Martin theatre.

WHEAT... AND COAL

In the wheat state of Kansas two million tons of bituminous coal are produced annually with about 90% coming from surface mining operations.

AN OPEN LETTER TO PARENTS

Dear Parent: This letter is one I intended to write quite some time ago as a help to the parent in guarding and caring for the child's teeth. I find children's teeth are in a very grave condition. No doubt dentists all over the country will agree. They are losing 6- and 7-year molars even before the last of the deciduous or "baby teeth," as they are sometimes called, are shed. The molars mentioned above are permanent teeth and should be filled since their services are very valuable. They are the key teeth for all permanent teeth; they should be cared for early by having a thorough check-up frequently. I'm sure your dentist will be only too glad to advise you without charge.

I was talking to Mr. Lloyd Stumbo, principal of the Drift consolidated school, who had a very good idea and put his idea into immediate use. He removed from the school premises soft drink machines and replaced them with 5 and 10c bottles of milk. The former group has acid added, which is quite undesirable not only to the teeth but to the general health as well. Mr. Stumbo, after putting milk in the school, weighed the children at the beginning and at the end of the year to check their weight. The results were startling. Too, Mr. Stumbo takes up current collections which are used to buy vitamins for the undernourished children.

Too much candy is another item to guard against as it builds up the weight and positively is no asset to the teeth. The teacher cannot do everything in the line of decay prevention. The parent must begin the education: first, frequent visits to the dentist, be among the first in donating to such ideas as Mr. Stumbo's, realize the importance of your child's teeth and help by giving them the proper food, and above all, see that he gets plenty of milk. To you parents who give your children food grown on your own farms, be sure that the soil has had a good cover crop and the proper fertilization, or the food grown on it will fall short of the vitamins necessary to their diets.

Great interest should be taken to secure the proper advice from the medical and dental professions, which is your very best guide. Very truly yours, DR. G. C. COLLINS, Dentist 1t-pd.

Payment of $100 to the Slick Rock Baptist Church for rental of its building for school purposes for the year was ordered at Tuesday's meeting. Employment of Mrs. J. A. Spradlin as bookkeeper and Mrs. D. C. Herndon as clerk-typist at $195 a month each was approved.

The Board received from the Betsy Layne consolidated school a deed to the playground property which the school itself bought, paying Mr. and Mrs. Sam Thomas $250. The property includes the Little Hill and a natural amphitheatre.

A financial statement showing in detail all receipts and expenditures will be required of each school, according to an order of the Board.

Insurance on the school system's 20 buses was awarded to the Spurlin Insurance Agency, which, it was pointed out, submitted the only bid.

Gov. Wetherby Replies To Bull Creek Petition, Says Report Requested

The Floyd fiscal court recently adopted a resolution calling on the Rural Highway Department for blacktop surfacing of the Prestonsburg-Allen road through Bull Creek, and citizens of that section have forwarded to Governor Lawrence W. Wetherby a petition citing condition of the route and its needs.

Upon receipt of the petition Governor Wetherby wrote Jesse Wallen, one of the interested group, in part: "The Rural Highway Department has been requested to have a full report made on this particular stretch of road and to advise you of any future work plans that exist. You may be assured I am glad to lend encouragement to the favorable consideration of the project in the event funds are now available for additional road work in your county."

turned from Hayward, Wisconsin where the BLUEGILLS WERE BITTING. Said statement, being supposedly a direct quotation, has been circulated as stated herein to various and divers persons in Floyd county, State of Kentucky, United States and Foreign Countries, and by so spreading the libel rumor has caused certain reflections upon the fishing skill of the plaintiffs and their renowned ability at the art of casting and luring the walleyed pike, bass of 16 inches up, and other game fish to the deep freezes of the said plaintiffs. Plaintiffs further state that a certain news item quoting the catch of Banker G. C. Spradlin and Judge of the Court of Appeals Bert T. Combs was not questioned by the editor and that such news item of amateur anglers was given preference over the news item of professional and renowned anglers.

"The plaintiffs herein pray for all just and proper relief and payment of libel as well as retraction of said news item herein referred to by the said Floyd County Times in bold letters and spread at large upon the front page of said publication. The plaintiffs further pray for better fishing weather and that the court will reprimand the defendants for showing preference to amateur anglers."

The action was filed in the Anglers Court of Relief, Hon. J. M. Turner presiding.

And I hasten to make a correction of the aforementioned R. R. Allen did catch a crappie for which I failed to give him due credit, if any.

And may I ask—why that question mark, me fine buccos, following the statement that I am a fisherman of "some note"?

MINGO-CO. WHITE OAK TREE SPROUTED IN YEAR 1356

Big timber men conjure up the story of the widely-known Mingo white oak—perhaps the largest tree of its species in historic times. This giant among the hardwoods was cut down in 1936, as a safety measure, when it failed to produce leaves for the first time after a lifetime of 579 years.

It had been accurately measured in 1932 by Emmett Keagle, then president of the Mingo County Fish & Game Protective Association, and Dan R. Griffin, at that time state forester of West Virginia. The measurements are believed to stand as records for the white oak.

An increment borer was employed to determine the age of the Mingo white oak. This is an instrument which, driven to the heart of a tree, takes from it a small cross section which permits counting of the annual rings, or growth marks. The oak was found to have been growing through 576 seasons.

It was 145 feet in height, 96 feet in total spread and 90 feet from ground level to the base of its first branch.

At ground level, the big oak measured 30 feet and nine inches in circumference, and over nine feet in diameter. At the forester's "breast high" measurement (four feet and six inches above the ground) the oak was 18 feet and five inches in circumference and five feet 10 and one-half inches in diameter.

It is difficult to realize just what that 579-year-age means. The Mingo white oak sprouted on a hillside on the Trace Fork of Pigeon Creek in what now is Mingo county in the year 1356. At that time the low, raking galleys of those fierce sea rovers, the Norsemen, were plying back and forth between Norway and Greenland. Whether or not one Leif Erickson and a crew of Norsemen drifted as far as the North American coast between 983 and 1410 remains a disputed issue. At all events, the Mingo oak was more than a century old when Christopher Columbus landed in the West Indies.

Study Lunch Program For County's Schools At Martin Workshop

The Floyd county school lunch workshop was held at Martin high school, July 30-31. Assisting at the workshop were Miss Willie Moss, supervisor, School Lunch Program, State Department of Education, Frankfort, Ky.; John Milton Stumbo, sanitarian, Floyd County Health Department; Mrs. Robert S. Wellman, supervisor, School Lunch Program, Floyd County Superintendent's office. Together the group worked out what the workers believed a school lunch program should be and what a school lunch program should do. Other topics discussed and studied were: Sanitation in a Lunchroom, Good Buying Practices, Suggestions for Saving Pennies in the School Lunch Program, Suggestions for Saving Food, Value of Making Lunches Attractive, Timely Tips and the Commodity Distribution program.

David Woman Victim At 37 of Tuberculosis

Mrs. Josephine Hale Webb, 37 years old, wife of Bill Webb, died at her home at David, Saturday, a victim of tuberculosis. Mrs. Webb was a daughter of Bill Hale, of Bonanza, who survives. She had been a member of the United Baptist Church since 1944 and was one of her community's best women. Besides her husband and father, survivors include three children, Joyce Ann, Donald Ray and Wanda Lee, her step-mother, one sister, Mrs. Ocie Webb, and nine half-brothers and half-sisters, Eugene, with the army in Korea, Ruth Ann, Reva, Cledis, Cora, Virginia, Charles, William and Alex. Funeral services were conducted from the residence at David Tuesday morning by Elders Everett Daniels, Wallace Calhoun and Alex Stephens. Burial in the family cemetery was directed by the Arnold Funeral Home.

old when Christopher Columbus landed in the West Indies. The very name, "Pigeon Creek," makes us reasonably sure that the oak grew in the path of the tremendous migrations of the passenger pigeon—a species of which the last known survivor perished in the Cincinnati zoo in 1914. It is reasonably sure that the eastern bison—the woods buffalo which gave its name to streams and other geographical features in West Virginia and Kentucky—roamed the wilderness and grazed the beaver meadows where the oak stood. Almost surely the great oak "knew" the Carolina parakeet, that small, gaily colored parrot which was once familiar to the Allegheny scene.

If the tree outlived these, and other wild animals, it likewise outlived the Americans who failed to survive the coming of the white man and were crowded from a picture in which civilization set aside no place for them.

There is no written record to say when the Mound Builders disappeared from the American scene. It seems possible that the great oak tree was a sturdy young giant when these people were manufacturing their marvelously sculptured effigy pipes, woven cloth, their ornaments of bone and shell and rough pottery.

Lost in pre-historic antiquity are the people of Algonquin extraction from the north who succeeded the Mound Builders. The once-powerful Eries or Cat People who, in turn, drove away or exterminated the successors of the Mound Builders may have occasionally passed the big oak until, about 1650, when the people of the Six Nations virtually exterminated them.

The Mingo, from whom Mingo county, West Virginia, was to take its name, certainly ranged the area of the Mingo white oak. These people, a wandering group of Senecas, ranged far from the Eastern trails of the Six Nations to which their forefathers had belonged. Cherokees, Delawares, Wyandottes and Miamis possibly were human familiars of the great tree.

The big oak may have attained its ultimate majestic height when Governor Berkeley of the English Colony of Virginia sent William Lederer on three westward expeditions in 1669-70. A year later Fur Trader William Wood had sent Thomas Batts and Robert Fallam from Petersburg, Va. They claimed to have discovered the New River and descended it to what must have been the mouth of Gauley and the falls of the Kanawah.

Perhaps some of the buckskinned men who marched with Lewis to Point Pleasant may have passed the Mingo white oak. Later on, some of these frontiersmen may have moved by the Trace Fork and Pigeon Creek to join the backwoodsmen who exterminated the British under Colonel William Campbell at the Battle of King's Mountain under the guidance of Jack Sevier, Roundabout Ben Cleveland and James Robertson.

The tree was old at the time of our Declaration of Independence. Perhaps the oak was one of the oldest living things ever to exist in what is now West Virginia.

nation she replied, "My word is my oath."

Officers said she invited them to search her premises when they called, Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Osborne listed several women whose homes she said she passes en route to the store and post-office daily who will, she believes, testify in her behalf. Two of these were subsequently found to have been listed as among those who complained of something being amiss.

Mrs. Osborne said rumor had it that she was about to become a mother before the death almost two years ago of her husband, Earl Osborne, who was paralyzed for months before his death.

"It hurts me to be slandered this way," she complained in a calm voice.

The warrants for the two women were sworn out by Deputy Constable A. F. Rice, a resident of the community. Mrs. Osborne was placed under $2,000 bond to appear here Friday for examining trial. Mrs. Mulkey's bond was placed at $1,000.

You Can Whisper—and Be Heard!

We should like to have you come in for a ride in a Golden Anniversary Cadillac. And when you do, we hope you will just sit back and relax . . . and listen!

And what will you hear?
Well, you'll hear the soft sound of the wind as it slips past the streamlined body . . . and, possibly, the quiet ticking of the electric clock.

But aside from these—you'll hear almost nothing. In fact, you'll find you can actually whisper—and be heard by your fellow-passengers!

We want you to experience this because nothing speaks more eloquently or more convincingly of motor car quality than—silence!

It tells you, first of all, that here is automotive engineering at its superlative best. For such silence of operation can only come when every phase of the car's performance is in perfect harmony.

It speaks of precision—for only the greatest accuracy in design and construction can result in such remarkable freedom from vibration.

It is a testimonial to fine craftsmanship—to quality materials—and to scientific styling.

And, of course, this marvelous quiet foretells many of the pleasures and satisfactions you would enjoy as the car's owner. It promises rest—and relaxation—and peace of mind . . . and a minimum of upkeep expense.

So why not take our suggestion—and come in and drive this beautiful Golden Anniversary creation? Let it tell you its own wonderful story through the things you cannot hear!

Passion Pageant Board Begins Work for 1953

Martin, Ky., Aug. 4 (Spl.)—The board of directors of the Passion Pageant met Friday evening, with Mrs. E. R. May presiding. The resignation of Mrs. Ollie May as secretary was accepted, and Mrs. E. C. Coleman was named to succeed her. Mrs. May remains on the board.

At a previous meeting the board had voted to make the Pageant countywide if other communities responded to the invitation to participate, as more characters are needed. Since only two communities sent representatives to the meeting called for this purpose, this move was rescinded on motion of Denzil Halbert. Martin will give the Pageant in 1953 alone. The Pageant will be called The Mountain Passion Pageant.

Mr. Halbert was appointed chairman of the committee on Constitution. Dr. Wade Mahood was appointed to purchase postcards and Christmas cards of pageant pictures. (It must be stated here that the Mahood Drug Store had no profit in handling Pageant pictures. Their services, like those of others, were free.) Charles R. Marshall was appointed to contact Standard Oil about featuring the Pageant in the Scenic South. Reports were made on recent publicity, several newspaper articles in various states, and one in The Pipeline, June issue.

Foreword and dedication of the Pageant booklet, bearing completion, were read and approved. This issue of the booklet will be dedicated to the good people of Floyd county who make its publication possible. A special vote of thanks goes to Scott Craft, of the Vanhose Lumber Co., West Prestonsburg, for his generous donation of lumber, etc.
Directors will meet each Tuesday at 7 p.m., in the Methodist Church. A call meeting for Friday, Aug. 8, at 6:30 on the Pageant grounds was announced to the board members, to study plans for stage settings.

BETSY LAYNE

PLAN PROGRAM, YEARBOOK

The Program Planning and Yearbook committee of the Betsy Layne Woman's Club held a meeting Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Beecher Hardwick, who presided at the meeting. The purpose of the meeting was to make initial plans for programs and club work for the new club year. The programs were planned in accordance with the plans and outlines of work of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs. The theme of the KFWC for 1952-53 is Community Service and work was planned in this phase also. Special emphasis was placed on programs on International Relations, American History, Legislation and the Federation. Hostesses and program leaders were selected at this time. At the conclusion of the meeting, Mrs. Hardwick read a card from the editors of American Magazine urging the reading of an article in the August issue of American, entitled, "Louisville Battles the Bulge," by Vance Packard. This article tells about a city-wide effort to combat overweight through diet control. Refreshments were served to the following: Mesdames W. P. Howell, O. J. Williams, Glenn Blackburn, T. J. Chandler, Miss Alice Williams, and guest, Mrs. Clyde Blackburn.

Floyd County Historical Notes

By HENRY P. SCALF

The following letter from Inez Baisten Livingston, of Loyall, Harlan county, is so full of information that it is being passed on to the readers. The many Lane dates may be of benefit, especially to those who have been trying to untangle the relationship of the early Lanes (Layne) and the Southwest Virginia Shannons:

Think you very much for the Mead history. I have copied it all and am enclosing your original copy. In working at the Scott county courthouse on our Livingston family, I have found some miscellaneous items about the Meads recorded there. I do not know if all of these items are of the same family but two of them certainly are. They are: Rhodes Mead married Sally Richardson Oct. 7, 1828, marriage book 1, page 32.

Moses Mead married Druscilla Marshall, Dec. 25, 1832, Book 1, page 47.

William Mead and Susannah Salyers married Sept. 22, 1853, according to the rules of the Baptist Church, Marriage book 1, page 140.

Isabell Mead married Joseph Salling, March 11, 1832, Marriage book 1, page 44. Married by William Willis.

James A. Rhodes married Susanna Bellamy March 3, 1859. He was from Hawkins county, Tennessee, the son of Wm. and Rosanna Rhodes, Marriage book 2, page 9.

Haywood Rhodes married Sallie Carter Feb. 3, 1873. He was from Stokes county, N. C. He was 20 and she 19 years old. He was the son of Joseph and Catherine Rhodes, Marriage Book 2, page 42.

Unless otherwise named all of the marriages above were performed by Nathan Richardson, deputy clerk for John M. Henry, clerk of Scott county, Virginia.

Scott county would have been the last place I would have looked for any record of the Meads.

As I mentioned to you once and you probably don't remember, my husband's great-grandmother was Elizabeth Lane. We knew little more than that until yesterday. We visited a cousin of his who remembered this Elizabeth Lane. She told us Elizabeth had a first cousin named Shannon Lane. This was too much coincidence so we drove out from Gate City, Tenn., a few miles to the old Shannon Lane homestead. Three of his children lived there. They did not know how their father got that name but said their Lanes had originally come from England. They had an old family Bible of their great-grandfather and I copied it. I feel sure there is a connection with our Layne family. Perhaps you can see it more readily than I. I am also sending Ruth a copy. We know little of William and his wife, Miss Shannon. Perhaps this is something.

Lane Bible record: Corbin Lane died in Gate City, Tenn., 1819; father of Abraham Lane, Abraham Lane was born in the year of our Lord Jan. 18, 1784. Katherine Wolfe was born in the year of our Lord Oct. 3, 1782. Abraham Lane and Katherine Wolfe were married July 8, 1802.

Children of Abraham and Katherine Lane:

Mary Lane, born July 20, 1803; John R. Lane, born Feb. 27, 1805; Abraham Z. Lane, born September 16, 1806; Samuel W. Lane, born May 8, 1808; Joseph T. Lane, born March 22, 1810; Squire J. Lane, born Jan. 23, 1812; James H. Lane, born July 8, 1814; Margaret Lane, born Dec. 15, 1816; Jones W. Lane, born Sept. 23, 1818; Enoch P. Lane, born April 3, 1820; Katherine Lane, born Nov. 4, 1821; Frances Lane, born April 19, 1823; William D. Lane, born June 15, 1825; Martha Lane, born June 25, 1827.

All of the above were included in the Bible. I copied it exactly. The above mentioned Joseph T. Lane had a son whom he named Shannon Lane. Squire J. Lane married Barbara Horton and when he died she married his brother Abraham.

Thanks again for letting me copy the Mead paper and if I can be of any help to you in any of your work let me know. We get to Gate City and Jonesville quite often in our "digging" and I see a lot of Floyd county names—Wills, Richardson, Osborne, etc.

Yours truly,
INEZ LIVINGSTON
