Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 5.—Twenty seven new fires erupted today in Kentucky forests. State Forester Harrod B. Newland said most were deliberately set.

Today's outbreak cast a dismal shadow over the state's 39 protected areas. Newland said the weatherman predicted higher winds and promised no rains.

Today's outbreak brought the total to 38 fires covering a total of 3,225 acres. More than 200 men are on the line fighting the fires.

The hardest-hit areas are in the Eastern and Southeastern regions. In the Eastern area there are 12 fires covering 888 acres and in the Southeastern section there are 13 fires covering 1,170 acres.

NOV. 13 GAME HUGHES' LAST

In High School Play; P'Burg Triple-Threat Back Hailed in Story

Paintsville, Ky., Nov. 4 (Spl.)—Of special interest to the hundreds of fans who will witness the Big Sandy Bowl game here Thursday night, Nov. 13, will be the fact that John Delmar Hughes will be playing his final game for the Prestonsburg Black Cats as his team meets undefeated Lynch.

Eastern Kentucky fans agree that the brilliant Prestonsburg quarterback is probably the outstanding player in the history of the Big Sandy Conference. Many of his feats are listed in the following story by Gordon Moore which appeared recently in The Courier-Journal:

"John Delmar Hughes, Prestonsburg's outstanding triple-threat quarterback, is destined to become Eastern Kentucky's all-time athletic great, and his gridiron feats continue to fill the weekly record books.

"This versatile 17-year-old, six-foot-one-inch 180-pound youth has the agility of a top performer as he excels in football, basketball and baseball.

"Hughes, undoubtedly, has one of the most unique passing records of any high school player in the United States today, and his magic ball handling chores from the quarterback spot have won him acclaim from scouts of Ohio State, Tennessee, Kentucky, and Notre Dame.

"In football, his most notable sport, as a sophomore he completed 94 of 122 passes for 746 yards gained, 11 of which were touchdowns. He tallied five touchdowns himself and paced Prestonsburg to a 10-1 record along with a bid to the Mt. Sterling Recreation Bowl. At the close of the season he was selected to the second-team Courier-Journal all-state aggregation. Last season as a junior, Hughes tossed 147 passes, was successful 101 times with 23 going for touchdowns and the overall yardage gained by passes was 1,471. He crossed the goal line nine times for 54 points, and booted 44 of 52 extra points. His being named to the all-Big Sandy Conference team and captain and quarterback of The Courier-Journal all-state team were synonymous with his great play of the season.

Local Board No. 25 Calls 17 for Nov. 12

CARD OF THANKS

Words cannot express our sincere thanks to all who assisted and for the consoling words from our friends upon the death of our son and brother, Carl. We especially want to thank all who sent flowers and Revs. Alex Stephens and Paris Music for their comforting words, also the Carter & Callihan Funeral Home.—Mr. and Mrs. Meniffee Whitaker and Family.

"WE NEVER HAD SO MUCH LUCK"

At the Annual Meeting of Big Sandy REA at Prestonsburg this year Mr. Gale Music, of Bonanza, won a kit of tools. His name went from there to Louisville and won again, this time a complete water system for his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Music had talked of buying a water system but he said: "Let's not be in too much of a rush. Something might turn up in Louisville."

Something did turn up down at Louisville! Mr. Music's reaction to this was: "I just had a feeling that I could win that water system!"

Mrs. Music could hardly believe it. She said: "I am thrilled to death. We never had so much luck. I never believed REA would ever do us that much good!"

Republican Committee Thanks Floyd Voters

The Republican Campaign Committee of Floyd county would like to take this means to express an appreciation to all the organization workers and voters of both parties who contributed to our victory on November 4. Without the spirited efforts of the workers and the many men and women who joined with us in the Crusade for America we could not have been victorious.

Our victory is not a mere partisan one. It was a victory won by Republicans, Democrats and Independents who seeing America's need came to the rescue with a landslide victory of unprecedented proportions. People with vision do not perish. Your vision and ours was the one of a decent, incorruptible, prosperous America.

Now that we have won, let us be generous in thought to the many who exercised their right of suffrage to vote against us. As Americans we can all close ranks for our common country. Under our newly-elected president, Dwight D. Eisenhower, who has demonstrated leadership as an outstanding general we can march on under a banner of statesmanship equal to the laurels of battle. He is the hope of America and the promise of a great tomorrow.

COUNTY COAL BEST SUITED

For Making Coke, Says Report of Bureau; 3 Elkhorn Seams Best

The three Upper Elkhorn beds of Floyd county this week were listed by the U.S. Bureau of Mines as the best suited in this area for making coke for steel and other metallurgical purposes.

A report just released by the Interior Department agency describes washing tests that led to this finding. The report is the ninth in a series of county-by-county surveys conducted by the Bureau on a national scale.

In Floyd county, the Bureau obtained coal from 24 mines for its laboratory tests in Pittsburgh, said Regional Director H. P. Greenwald, of the Bureau's Northeastern Region.

Upper Elkhorn No. 3 bed, the most promising for metallurgical uses, contains less than 1 per cent of sulfur impurity, except in the northern part of the county. Even there, says the Bureau, a relatively simple washing treatment will result in a clean coal meeting metallurgical specifications.

The report also clearly shows the possibility of preparing washed coal from Upper Elkhorn Nos. 1 and 2 beds over a wide area in the county.

Included in the report on Floyd county are complete details regarding the studies conducted on the coal samples. Its authors are William J. Crenztz, Bureau chemical engineer, Washington, D. C., and J. W. Miller, coal technologist, Central Experiment Station, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Secondary beds in the county, such as Ambury and Hazard No. 7, show little promise of producing metallurgical coals, while the Winifred, Whitesburg, and Fireclay beds, also secondary, would probably meet coking qualifications in most areas if properly washed. However, the output of all these secondary beds is negligible, the Bureau found.

A free copy of "Report on Investigations 4620—Preparation Characteristics of coal from Floyd County, Kentucky," can be obtained from the Bureau of Mines' Publication-Distribution Section, 4600 Forbes Street, Pittsburgh 13, Pa.

FLOYD FIRE-FIGHTING JOB ENDS WITH MONDAY'S RAIN

The fires started Sunday, October 19, in the Sand Branch region," said Forest Warden Forrest Burchett. "Since then I have been running like hell and praying for rain."

The Sand Branch fire was "whipped" two or three times, but soon others were breaking out all over the county. Most people attributed the sudden flare of woodland fires to the dry period which is the worst since 1930, but in one section people remembered how combustible paper was dropped by German airmen in World War II, and this rumor was wherever the fires spread.

The second fire appeared in the Dewey Lake-Auxier region and Burchett and his crews fought it 36 hours. Palmer Crum, forest ranger for Floyd and Magoffin counties, had to devote part time to other sections and while Burchett was "running like hell" in Floyd, Crum was engaged with the burning woods on Burning Fork and other regions of Magoffin.

After the Dewey Lake fire, reports of others came thick and fast. There was one on Stephens Branch, and on Buck's Branch a crew fought three whole days. "You couldn't see much for the smoke," said Burchett. "You would be fighting one end of the fire like mad and you didn't know where the other end was. Men fighting on one section of the fire would back-fire on us and that made it mean. It's a wonder they hadn't burned us up. I'm going to indict some people for back-firing the woods."

After Tuesday, October 21, fires were reported so fast that the crews couldn't hope to reach them all in a reasonable time. Burchett and Crum began to find experienced supervisors that could take a crew into the woods. They were wearing down with the physical strain and no sleep. At times they were in the woods 36 hours.

"Lucy and Mrs. Miranda Gearheart were the dispatchers for several days," said Warden Burchett in referring to his wife and Crum's mother-in-law. "They stood by the telephones and took calls. I would call back sometimes a dozen times a day and get reports from Lucy. Palmer was doing the same with Mrs. Gearheart. They told us where the fires were."

The funeral was conducted Sunday from the home of Mrs. Nora Hays at Jenkins by the Rev. Isaac Stratton and Bert T. Conn. Burial was made at Jenkins.

ALLEN-WORTH VOLUME NOW BEING PRINTED

A new slant on the subject will be presented in a work on American Government written by Dr. Jack Allen, of the faculty of Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., in collaboration with Dr. Worth whose history has been adopted as a textbook in 45 of the 48 states. Printing of the book already has begun, but a chapter covering this year's Presidential election remains to be added, and the work will not be placed on sale until after Jan. 1. Dr. Allen is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Allen, of Prestonsburg.

Turkeys, chickens, groceries from his store, and cattle, too, are the diversified things he has to sell. The cattle are fine-grade stock with a purebred shorthorn bull. Fifteen of his 17 head of cattle are heifers, and will calve soon. Fifteen calves at $40 or $50 a head is a lot of change too for a Floyd county farm.

All around the Smith farm is self-sufficiency. It is a self-sufficiency that comes from a diversity of crops and things to sell. It looks like the answer to how to make a Floyd county farm pay off with profit and a good life.

Mrs. Alice Akers Roberts, 79 years old, widow of James R. Roberts, and a native of this county, died Friday at Sharon Heights hospital, Jenkins, a victim of paralysis.

A native of Banner, she was a daughter of John and Susan Hall Akers. She had been a member of the Christian Church since 1906, and had many relatives and friends in this section. Surviving her are seven daughters, Mrs. Nora Hays and Mrs. Lucy Childgreen, both of Jenkins, Mrs. Otilie Hardin, Williamson, W. Va., Mrs. Ora Oprandi and Mrs. Lola Blackburn, both of Jefferson, Texas, Mrs. Sue Caudill, St. Albans, W. Va., and Mrs. Nina Smith, Leupp, Arizona. She also leaves four sisters and three brothers, Mrs. Mollie Gilliam and Mrs. Ona Rose, both of Emerson, Ky., Mrs. Lulu Yeager, Columbus, O., Mrs. Margaret Hammond, Dennison, O., Jake Akers, of Dwale, Noah Akers, Banner, and L. W. Akers, Baltimore, Md.

The funeral was conducted Sunday from the home of Mrs. Nora Hays at Jenkins by the Rev. Isaac Stratton and Bert T. Conn. Burial was made at Jenkins.

Under the dependent children program, an average of $53.03 went to the families each month. Blind people received an average of $31.97.

Barnes explained that public assistance recipients in the state are receiving larger checks this month, reflecting additional amounts voted by Congress at its last session plus anticipated balances of state funds resulting from case load reductions in the three programs.

Old-age assistance rolls have been reduced by 13,000; aid to dependent children by 10,000 children; and aid to the needy blind by 150. Reduction in the rolls by efficient administration has enabled the state to make payments more in line with current standards of living, Barnes continued.

Increases in average payments were: Old-age assistance, $30.17 to $35.03; aid to the needy blind, $32.06 to $36.30; and aid to dependent children, $14.88 to $17.97. Of the latter, Barnes said, the average family will receive $64.15 for October as compared to $53.17 in September.

Maximum payments under the public assistance program have been upped from $50 to $55 for both needy aged and needy blind. The aid to dependent children program has resulted in a maximum increase of $3 for each recipient.

SPORTS AFIELD

By TED KESTING

Jason Lucas, well-known angling editor, reports that recently he's received a good many interesting letters from some of the most successful carp fishermen in this country and in England, where carp fishing is taken more seriously than here.

In spite of the great number of baits recommended for carp, these experts are unanimous in saying that the best bait of all and about the only one needed, is the common doughball. They agree that it should always be made of bread, never of raw flour. Another thing on which most of them insist is that the doughball be small even for larger carp, barely covering the hook.

And they all hold that a small hook is necessary, as well as fine terminal tackle, if one is to catch many wary carp. Some of them use a very thin leader of nylon monofilament, but others say that the slight stiffness of this will cause most carp to eject the doughball before being hooked. These prefer very thin, soft line, either all through or at the end.

Of course, Jay has received far more letters from those who say they simply can't catch carp even where there are plenty of them. It seems obvious in such cases that the trouble is not with their baits but with their methods. They don't realize how wary the carp is—they use large hooks, baits and heavy lines, and move around in plain sight of the fish. Sometimes, chiefly in spring, such fishing will get them, but generally it is wasted effort.

A cane pole with line tied on is out with such fine terminal tackle as the experts use. Carp of any size would promptly break it. And make no mistake about it—the carp is a strong fighter, little if any inferior to some of our game fish.

So to be a successful carp fisherman one must learn to play large, powerful fish skillfully with rod and reel and light line. As a matter of fact, this is such good sport that even the top notch angler is overlooking a fine bet if he doesn't go out and try them some evening on light tackle. He'll find to his surprise that hooking a carp isn't the simple thing he thought it was.

When only 25 years old, Gideon Shryock won the competitive architectural contest which earned him the right to design Kentucky's Old State Capitol building.

Marion Jackson Ratliff Dies at Martin Home, Victim of Heart Attack

Marion Jackson Ratliff, 85, of Martin, died at his home, Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 4, of a heart attack. He was the son of William Riley and Betty McDonald Ratliff, and was married to Essa Lona Crisp, who survives.

Surviving are the following sons and daughters: William Riley Ratliff, Martin; Willard Ratliff, Ashland; Mrs. Elizabeth Hayes, Martin; Miss Verna Cecil Ratliff, Martin. Surviving also are one sister, Mrs. Mary Osborne, Eastern, six grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Funeral rites were conducted today (Thursday) at the Mormon Church of Martin, the Revs. Bill Flannery and Harrison Hunter officiating. Burial was in the Martin cemetery under direction of the Turner Funeral Home.

Floyd Native Dies In Ohio; Rites Held Saturday at Lackey

Funeral rites for Callie Reed, 70 years old, former Floyd county man who died last Thursday at his home in Burlington Heights, O., were conducted Saturday afternoon from the Freewill Baptist Church at Lackey. He was a victim of cancer.

Born and reared in the Hueysville section of the county, he was a son of Dillard and Malissa Sexton Reed. Before his removal to Ohio several years ago, he was a gas company employe. He was married twice—first, to Mary Huff, after whose death in 1938 he was married to Sarah Estep, who survives.

The following children of his first marriage survive: John Reed, of Wayland, Virgil Reed, Elyria, O., Mrs. Branch Roertson, of Lackey, Mrs. Birdie Clagett, San Diego, Calif., and Mrs. Cerecdo Mullins, Clarksdale, Miss. Four brothers also survive: Creed, Worley and Sage Reed, all of Plymouth, O., and Bill Reed, Willard, Ohio. He also leaves 20 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Officiating at his funeral were the Revs. Henry Mullins and Dillard Reed. Burial was made in the Wicker cemetery at Garrett under direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Kentuckians who make a go of it in business:

A hardware merchant I have been dealing with for 15 years sometimes doesn't have what I want. He doesn't merely say "sorry" and give me a blank stare.

"If you can wait a day or two I'll get it for you. If you can't wait you can try my competitor up the street."

Mentioning a competitor endeared this merchant to me for a lifetime. It was applied sportsmanship.

A repair garageman has had most of my jobs, as long as the hardware merchant has been selling me nails, hinges, shovels and fence wire. In all that time he has never turned in a bill that looked too large. When he has to do a little job over, there is no charge.

Then there is the baker who never skimps butter and sugar in his pastry.

And the restaurateur who never holds back on his customers when business slackens a little. Instead of cutting down on the quantity or quality of the vittles, he seeks ways to improve everything even if it throws him for a temporary loss, because improvement in the grub starts people's talking, and you know word-of-mouth advertising is the best ever.

A merchant who really knows his business never stocks goods of questionable quality. He thinks of his customer first, not profits he might make by selling things he wouldn't buy for his own use.

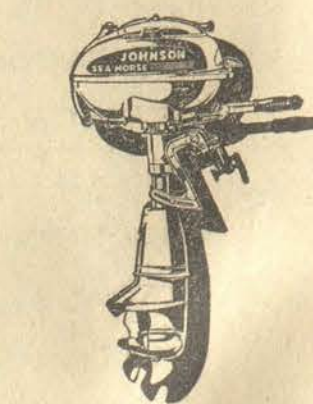

For many years I have patronized a chain department store that never sells anything below standard quality, and never overcharges a customer. If an article turns out to be faulty the store makes good without a word of argument. Many years ago an aunt of mine in Dixie village, Henderson county, bought a cook stove from this firm and the fire box burned out in a few months. She wrote the company about it and was told promptly to put the used stove on the railroad platform at nearby Corydon and pick up a new one. No quibbling, no demanding verification of my aunt's letter.

Also there is the druggist who trains his soda fountain help to look pleasant and always put out a glass of water and a napkin with sodas, sundaes and malted drinks. The boys and girls behind this fountain are never spoken of as soda jerks.

Commenting on the election, the Superintendent said, "We want to get down to work, to forget any differences that may have existed, to hold no grudges and try to get done what Floyd county needs in its schools."

PLAN VALLEY AREA MEET

Business Group Picks Ashland for Meeting To Study Problems

The Ashland Board of Trade and the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the service clubs, development associations, and chambers of commerce of Eastern Kentucky will sponsor an Eastern Kentucky Town Hall meeting at Ashland, Nov. 20, it was announced this week by O. C. Kean, president of the Ashland Board of Trade.

This unique meeting, the first of its kind to be held in Eastern Kentucky, will take place at the Ashland high school auditorium and will attempt to review, through the old-fashioned techniques of the town meeting, progress that has been made in Eastern Kentucky and to chart the course to be followed in the further development and expansion of economy in this part of the Commonwealth.

Upwards of 1,000 businessmen, professional men and civic leaders and representatives of key service clubs and women's organizations are expected to attend. Co-sponsoring the meeting are the chambers of commerce and service clubs of the counties of Greenup, Boyd, Floyd, Lawrence, Johnson, Pike, Carter, Elliott, Morgan, Magoffin, Rowan, Letcher and Martin.

"Economic and development problems of Eastern Kentucky will come in for detailed analysis and discussion," Kean said. A panel comprised of authorities on the problems of our region will spotlight the needs and means for achieving progress," Kean added, "and we believe many pertinent plans for action will evolve from the questioning period."

Some of the main speakers at the Town Hall Meeting will be Governor Lawrence Wetherby, W. P. Curdin, Commissioner of the Department of Highways, and David F. Cocks, president of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce and vice-president of the Standard Oil Company (Ky.). David Aronberg, Mayor of Ashland, will preside over the meeting, which will also schedule addresses by prominent businessmen.

Business Group Picks Ashland for Meeting To Study Problems

The Ashland Board of Trade and the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the service clubs, development associations, and chambers of commerce of Eastern Kentucky will sponsor an Eastern Kentucky Town Hall meeting at Ashland, Nov. 20, it was announced this week by O. C. Kean, president of the Ashland Board of Trade.

This unique meeting, the first of its kind to be held in Eastern Kentucky, will take place at the Ashland high school auditorium and will attempt to review, through the old-fashioned techniques of the town meeting, progress that has been made in Eastern Kentucky and to chart the course to be followed in the further development and expansion of economy in this part of the Commonwealth.

Upwards of 1,000 businessmen, professional men and civic leaders and representatives of key service clubs and women's organizations are expected to attend. Co-sponsoring the meeting are the chambers of commerce and service clubs of the counties of Greenup, Boyd, Floyd, Lawrence, Johnson, Pike, Carter, Elliott, Morgan, Magoffin, Rowan, Letcher and Martin.

"Economic and development problems of Eastern Kentucky will come in for detailed analysis and discussion," Kean said. A panel comprised of authorities on the problems of our region will spotlight the needs and means for achieving progress," Kean added, "and we believe many pertinent plans for action will evolve from the questioning period."

Some of the main speakers at the Town Hall Meeting will be Governor Lawrence Wetherby, W. P. Curdin, Commissioner of the Department of Highways, and David F. Cocks, president of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce and vice-president of the Standard Oil Company (Ky.). David Aronberg, Mayor of Ashland, will preside over the meeting, which will also schedule addresses by prominent businessmen.

A GRACIOUS WINNER

On the whole, exultant Republicans are very considerate of crestfallen Democrats, hereabouts. One stalked a group of losers, Wednesday morning, and the boys shrank within themselves. There he came; this is it, they figured. But when he got there he eased them off the hook with a simple question: "Anybody know where a body could get an early '30-model soup kettle?"

LEADER OF US ALL

Most of this prattle about the election has been written to show that we are on sound ground: "set in our ways," intense in our political likes and dislikes, but Americans when it's all over.

In President-elect Eisenhower and Governor Stevenson the country was offered men of high character and ability. The country was very fortunate in having such Presidential timber. "Tke" is our President for the next four years, and he merits the confidence and the support of every American.

House control apparently hinged on the outcome in a half-dozen or more districts created by reapportionment of voting strength, with only a vote or two likely to separate total Republican and Democratic strength.

The Senate contest was just as tight. Republicans had gained a net of one seat and needed to win four of nine undecided races to seat 49 Republicans in addition to Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, who turned independent and supported Stevenson.

If the GOP won the four outstanding races in which they were leading and if Morse, who won't say how he will vote on the question, joined the Democrats, that party could organize the Senate with the tie-breaking vote of Vice-President Barkley.

Then the Republicans would have to wait until Senator Richard Nixon, of California, swept into office by the Eisenhower landslide, becomes vice-president 17 days later to reverse the result.

Eisenhower, wildly cheered when he appeared in a New York hotel ballroom, matched his opponent's unity plea, said it was "a day of dedication rather than triumph" and pledged that he never will give "short weight" to his responsibilities in Washington.

In his sweep Eisenhower carried two states the Republicans hadn't been able to capture since 1925—Massachusetts and Rhode Island. He won or was out in front in 15 states where the Republicans have not had a Presidential victory since 1936—Arizona, California, Idaho, Illinois, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Utah, Texas, Virginia and Washington.

But his landslide wasn't quite as widespread as that registered by Hoover, since Eisenhower couldn't break into West Virginia and North Carolina as the former president did in 1928.

In some respects, Eisenhower's was more of a personal than a party victory. Although he helped to elect Republican administrations in many states, there was tough sledding for the GOP in Senate and House battles and gubernatorial races.

The general's friend and one of his earliest presidential rosters, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., conceded defeat by his Democratic opponent, Representative John F. Kennedy, in the Massachusetts Senatorial race. Republican James F. Kem, of Missouri, went down to defeat and Senator Harry Cain, of Washington, was trailing.

In Ohio, Democratic Governor Frank Lausche won going away from Charles Taft, brother of the senator, despite Eisenhower's hefty majofity over Stevenson in the state.

On the other hand, Eisenhower's surge helped Senators Joseph R. McCarthy, of Wisconsin, and William Jenner, of Indiana, get re-elected. Both were prime targets for Democratic attack in the campaign.

MUCH PROGRESS

During the so-called "reconstruction" years following the Civil War, Kentucky made much progress, noting such landmarks as the adoption of the present state Constitution, the opening of the first telephone exchange, in Louisville, and the running of the first Kentucky Derby.

The Rev. J. I. Myers, pastor of the Mayo Methodist Church, of Paintsville, will be the principal speaker of the evening and will talk on the greatest national Scout program, "Forward on Liberty's Team."

A nominating committee composed of Dr. C. L. Hutsiniller, Clark Todd, J. T. Parker, J. C. Eddleman, Byrd Cox and Glenn Salyers, with B. F. Reed as chairman, will nominate the officers for the district for the coming year.

The Floyd and Johnson districts were consolidated at the last meeting of the two districts into one, which is now known as the Jenny Wiley district. Meetings will be held in Prestonsburg each month.

Floyd County Historical Notes

By HENRY P. SCALF

The Apple Orchard cemetery on Brushy Fork of Johns Creek is one of the oldest in Big Sandy. It was so called because the early Maynards planted a large orchard nearby and as the decades went by the trees grew large. Before the last one expired from decay there were some that were 24 inches in diameter.

Today a church stands nearby, its age indeterminate. Preaching has gone on in it for at least a century and interment of the local families in the adjacent cemetery longer by far. The area covered by the burial ground is several acres.

Buried here are the early Maynards. Therein lies Christopher Maynard, called Kit, and for whom Kit's Narrows, corrupted into Kitten Narrows, was named. Kit was born June 29, 1814 under a stone cliff at the foot of the cemetery hill. A road now bisects the stone house his parents lived in for a brief time in order to get time to build a pioneer home. Kit died July 20, 1888, and is buried a few score yards from where he was born.

Here in the Apple Orchard cemetery are buried members of the old Davis family. Tombstones also mark the last resting place of Lowes, Robinsons, Blackburns, Hannahs, Elkins and others. John M. Davis was born April 20, 1851, died Aug. 5, 1898. Eva Maynard, wife of Christopher, is buried near her husband and died Nov. 6, 1912. She was born Nov. 27, 1808. If the tombstone record is correct she was 104 years old. Barney Maynard, whom people remember well was born Feb. 22, 1836, died Feb. 10, 1917.

Near the cemetery lived Samuel Robinson whose wife was Cynthia Elkins. Samuel was an old-time doctor. His medicines were concocted from herbs and roots of the forest. Services of Samuel were in demand all over Brushy and into Martin county. Samuel's son Lee married Leanna Maynard and moved to Meathouse Fork of Wolf Creek. If a list were made of the highest class citizens of Martin county these two people who lived to be very old would be ranked high on the honor roll. A church of the Baptist denomination on that creek is named for Leanna.

Exact dates of birth and death are generally dry facts, of use and interest only to the descendants or genealogist. For these Samuel was born April 12, 1820, died April 8, 1901. Cynthia was born Nov. 11, 1816.

Korea Vets Now Have War II Vets' Status Under Benefits Plan

Veterans of the Korean campaign now receive the same protection for themselves and their families that previously applied only to World War II veterans, Thomas B. Thompson, Floyd county Social Security representative, said this week.

Survivors of men or women who served in the active military or naval services of the United States after July, 1947, should inquire at the Social Security field office nearest them for information about their possible rights to Social Security benefits based in whole or in part on the wage credits for military service now provided for by the latest change in the Social Security Act.

Thompson explained that wage credits of $100 for each month of military service could be credited in most cases to the deceased veteran's social security account in determining both insured status and amount of benefits the survivors might be entitled to receive. Formerly, only military service between September, 1940, and July, 1947, could be counted for social security purposes, but this change extending the time for all active military service from September 16, 1940, through December 31, 1953, will provide protection for Korean veterans like that previously afforded World War II veterans. This service is applicable, Thompson said, if death occurred either in service or after discharge.

It would be possible, Thompson interpreted, for the widow, or widower, with minor children, or a dependent parent, to receive monthly social security benefits based on military service alone if the serviceman or woman had at least 18 months' military service between September, 1940, and December 31, 1953. It also would be possible to combine military wage credits with work performed prior to entry into service or after discharge for paying benefits.

In each case, he explained, the problem is an individual one, and each survivor should be prompt in contacting his office to get full details as they apply to his case so as not to lose benefits which may be payable.

Thompson said that living veterans would not have to take any action now to have social security credits for military service put on record for this would be done at the time of retirement or when the survivors filed claim for benefits.

A social security representative is at the Prestonsburg Employment Office each Thursday morning from 10 till noon, to assist the people of this area with any matters pertaining to social security.

Denzil Halbert's Purple Flash of Martin high school will open their 1952 basketball campaign at home Friday night against Hindman high school, a team which may expect to be in the thick of the fight this season for the state championship.

Although Martin has eight seniors ready for play, the team this season is minus the services of Pete Grigsby, all-state guard last year and perhaps the finest athlete the school ever produced. Asked about a replacement for Grigsby, Coach Halbert said this week, "He's the kind of player you can't replace. Nobody will ever take his place."

The return to form of Tackett this season is expected to help the Flash. The youngster submitted, early last season, to a knee operation to correct a condition such as that which sidelined Kentucky's one-time great, Bill Spivey, and for the remainder of the season could not go at top speed.

Hindman did not lose a man from its 1951-52 team which wound up in the fourth spot in the state high school tournament, losing in an overtime period to the championship Cuba five.

Year's Smartest Car - Year's Greatest Deal!

TRADE NOW FOR THE DEAL OF THE YEAR ON A FUTURE-STYLED MERCURY

THINK of it this way. The car you are now driving will never be worth more money than it is right now. In a few short weeks it could be a year older by trade-in standards. That's why it's more important than ever that you trade for a Mercury. For this is the one car in its class that eliminates the worry of buying a new car that may soon look out of date. Mercury's forerunner styling is designed to anticipate the future... is planned to stay years ahead of the calendar.

And don't forget Mercury's unequalled record for economy. On the official ton-mile basis—with optional overdrive—it's twice been Sweepstakes winner of the Mobilgas Economy Run. TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.

Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

"COAL-OIL LAMPS"

This afternoon's paper announced that now 95% of rural America is lighted by electricity. That means that my old friend the coal-oil lamp is a past institution, a mere museum piece for most Americans. I have watched the rapid expansion of REA in my own area, realizing that in some ways we live near some of the last places to be reached by electric lines. There was a strange feeling that came over me when the REA line got to Fidelity, for that seemed the very end of the line. Now there is hardly a place in my present county or the one in which I grew up where it would be possible to see a coal-oil lamp except in the attic or in a storeroom.

Somehow, though I have used an electric light since 1906 except for brief phases of teaching in rural areas back in 1907-1910, I find it hard to believe that an institution of such widespread use and standing should so suddenly become a rarity. By living in cottages in summer in remote places in Maine or Michigan, I have come to know the coal-oil lamp in my grown-up days; one of my friends owns a cabin not too far from my home where we still use a lamp, even though it is a more modern fixture than the ones we had in our houses at Fidelity. Every time such a light is in use, I think back to days when just such lights constituted the only serious threat to the engulfing darkness. And I wonder what customs will grow up around the new lights that will be as distinctive as those that the coal-oil lamp brought.

There was the skill needed to unscrew the top of the lamp and fill up the bowl with oil, being careful to waste as little oil as possible. And the chimney had to be cleaned carefully to prevent breaking it; what good was a lamp without a bright, clean chimney? The wick, too, had to be cleaned and trimmed to make it give the maximum light, without smoking or flickering. I rejoiced when my hand got too big to stick inside a chimney. That meant that I was now a big boy and not merely mother's little helper. I could help feed the pigs or ride the horses to water, or maybe plow the garden.

With all the vast number of lamp forms that are to be bought now, none of them seem to be as classy as some of the stylish lamps we used to have. Take the hanging lamp, for instance. Where in a modest home today would you find the equivalent of soft-shaded lamps with dangling pendants such as those that hung down from the hanging lamp? And where are such exotic things as the lamps with tinted shades that used to be lighted up when special company occupied the front room? These two kinds I have mentioned now sell like antique jewelry in the stores of my town, making me wonder at the richness of the front rooms that I used to know.

It is to be feared that with the coming of electric lights people will forget how to roll lamp-lighters and use them, too. There are so many ignorant people that I must tell this bit of worldly wisdom that I know. Tear a strip about two inches wide from a newspaper; moisten your fingers; and then start rolling the strip at one of its corners. From long practice I can do this as skillfully as I did half a century ago. When you get to the end, being careful to keep the strip running anglewise, fold over one end to keep the lamp-lighter from unrolling. Place this contraption and others like it in a pitcher or big-mouthed bottle on the mantle-piece, where they will be handy when you need to light the lamp from the fire in the fireplace. Matches, you must remember, were once very scarce articles and had to be conserved; lamp-lighters were just the thing to relieve the situation.

I wonder whether an electric light, kept burning in a window, will bring back a wandering boy or girl quite as effectively as a coal-oil lamp. And still more, I wonder what you do to keep the mosquitoes and the malaria out, as the lighted lamp, turned down low, used to do. New folkways will just have to grow up to take the place of the loved and lost ones that we used to know.

PLATES BEING DELIVERED

Kentucky's 1953 license plates are now being delivered to county court clerks, according to Charles Williams, director of the Division of Motor Vehicle Registration. The tags are designed with white numerals on a blue background. State law provides that plates may be placed on sale Dec. 1, but the actual sales date is determined by the county clerks. The old plates expire Dec. 31 and the last day of renewal without penalty is March 1.

SOIL CONSERVATION

By L. R. JOHNSON
Soil Conservation Service

Everett Thompson, of the Mare Creek community, has a good stand of Ky. 31 fescue grass on a steep hillside that was seeded this fall. Despite the dry fall the hillside is nice and green and can be seen as you travel along the road. There is a good reason for Mr. Thompson's success. He cut his corn in early September and prepared a good seed bed, used certified seed and applied 300 pounds of fertilizer per acre. These things are important in getting a good pasture stand: good seed, prepared seed bed that will hold moisture and fertilizer to start the grass growing before cold weather. A few acres well done will mean more pasture than many acres seeded on hard ground without any preparation or fertilizer.

Within the next few weeks we will be sending in our orders for wildlife plantings for next spring. If there are any farmers that we haven't contacted who would like material for wildlife planting they should see us at once and get their orders in now.

We are interested in getting more cover for food for wildlife, especially quail. We have to produce more food if we are to increase the quail population. Bi-color lespedeza is one of the better foods for quail. The plant produces large quantities of seed that will furnish food throughout the winter months. If there isn't sufficient cover for quail we can get multiflora rose shrubs that can be planted around the bi-color and furnish cover for quail and serve as a fence for livestock. We can get these shrubs free of charge for farmers who are interested in producing feed for wildlife. These plants are furnished by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources who are cooperating with the soil conservation districts in providing protection for our wildlife.

TREATMENT INCREASES

The Kentucky Crippled Children's Commission is providing treatment for an increasing number of patients each year—the number jumping from 1,899 three years ago to 3,104 for the recent fiscal year, State Auditor T. Herbert Tinsley reported. The Commission provides for hospitalization and out-patient care, in addition to conducting free clinics throughout the state.

STATE BUSINESS PROSPERS

The Governor's Small Business Commission reported that Kentucky business firms have received $170,779,000 in prime defense contracts since beginning of the Korean War—and an undetermined number of subcontracts. During the last fiscal year, Kentucky construction firms alone obtained $10,312,000 in armed forces contracts, and procurement contracts have totaled $99,527,000.

On the farm of Albert Kenneweg in Campbell county, visiting students saw such good farming practices as diversion ditches, broad base terraces, renovated pastures mowed pastures, contour planting and a farm reservoir.

Two Floyd Students Achieve High Scores On U. of K. Tests

Margaret Ann Everly, of David, and Marion Thacker, of Banner, were among 108 new students recognized last week at the University of Kentucky for achieving outstanding scores on the University placement tests.

Miss Everly is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Crawford, David, and Thacker is a son of Mrs. Noah Thacker, of Banner.

Dr. Lysle W. Croft, director of personnel at the University, announced that such recognition was given only to those new students who are placed in the "A" section of general ability, English and mathematics. He pointed out that the "A" section consists of the highest 25 per cent of the scores on each test.

"Such high achievement reflects credit not only upon the parents, but also on the schools from which these students were graduated," Dr. Croft said.

Approximately 1,500 freshmen and other students entering the University for the first time were required to take the placement tests.

A patch of potatoes treated with 5-10-15 fertilizer by James Curry and son of Madison county yielded twice as much as an adjoining patch not fertilized.

IT'S A GOOD WORLD

BY WILMAY

Rev. Gordon Duncan, of West Liberty, is conducting a two-week revival at the First Baptist Church of Martin. He is unquestionably one of the most powerful, young preachers we have ever had the privilege of hearing, likewise one of the most fearless. The two go hand in hand. He calls a spade a spade, so to speak, and the rest of us can like it or leave it. The sermon he delivered on his first night was one of the greatest we have ever heard anywhere. He lasts a full good hour, and no one gets tired. He candidly states that he has no sermonettes for "Christianettes." He is not afraid to call what is wrong with Christians, the church, the nation and the world. Come out and hear him when you can.

Pageant picture-taking has been postponed till November 16 at 2 p.m., because of the smoke. Scenes to be made are posted in stores. This gives more time for additional work on the hill, where men and boys are still sorely needed before cold weather begins. We need to ask ourselves this question, "If everyone were just like me, how soon would the pageant work be completed? Too many are letting 'George' do it. A few good men and women have carried the load. It is a gigantic undertaking for a small community. All characters should participate in the work to be done. If you wish to volunteer, call Mrs. O. R. Marshall, James Salsbury, Denzil Halbert or Mason Moore, who can assign you, or notify Mrs. Ollie May, who is helping to supervise the hill work as a co-producer.

We have a dear friend who confesses that she keeps rather close tab on her teen-age kiddies, which is as it should be, more or less. Sonny is a high school junior. Recently he remarked to her, "Mom, I just wonder what you will do in Korea." When his dad told him he may have the car next spring for the junior prom, and go for his girl, he replied in amazement: "You mean that Mother won't be along?" Dad said she would not. The lad turned to his mother and asked, unbelievably, "You won't even be in the back seat?" She assured him she would not. "Oh, gee, it sounds worth trying," he answered.

Perhaps you read in a recent magazine where Sonny got to camp. A camp master was helping the lad unpack and came to a parasol among the things in his bag. "What's this, son?" he inquired. "An umbrella," the boy replied. "What's it for?" asked the man. "Sir, didn't you ever have a mother?" the kid asked.

We are cutting the column short this week so that everyone will find the election news in and not crowded by matters of less importance. May the better man win in every race. And may all of us who lose be good losers. May we, the American people, not forget that world conditions make it imperative that we stick together, regardless of whom is victorious.

Something must turn back the pendulum for our nation if utter chaos does not occur. We are undermined morally, the way termites attack a building. One man cannot change matters overnight. Only united citizens, Christian men and women who put God first, can help to alter the course of our national history today.

ROWE COMING HOME

He served in the 25th Infantry Division, now the senior American division on the peninsula. It landed in July, 1950, shortly after the Communists attacked the Republic of South Korea.

MARTIN

WOMAN'S CLUB IS ENTERTAINED

The Allen-Martin Woman's Club was entertained by its "daughter" club, the Drift Woman's Club, Oct. 20, with a buffet dinner. The tables were decorated in the Hallowe'en motif. After dinner games were played, after which each club held its own business meeting.

Means of earning money was discussed by the Allen-Martin Club. The motion made by Mrs. William Martin that the club sell sandwiches and coffee at the extension courses being held in Allen every Monday night was voted.

Delegates and alternates appointed to the district meeting in Prestonsburg were Mrs. John W. Hall, Mrs. William Martin, Mrs. Mack Elliott and Mrs. Belford Reitz.

FESCUE SURVIVES

Fescue was about the only grass that came through the drought in Calloway county, although lespedeza made a quick come-back after the rain.

EMERGENCY PROCLAIMED

Governor Lawrence Wetherby proclaimed a state of emergency in Kentucky's 11,500,000 acres of forest—due to the prevalence of fires in much of the area, which have been aggravated by drouth conditions—and called on all Kentuckians to join with local firefighting groups to quell the fires. Extensive fires were reported in 31 counties.

KILBURN WITH X CORPS

With X Corps in Korea—Cpl. Bill Kilburn, Jr., son of William Kilburn, of Hueysville, recently arrived in Korea and has been serving with X Corps.

A Matter of a Few Feet of Water

THE TIMES has an idea that five more feet of water in Dewey Lake for the dry season of the year at least would not be difficult to attain, if the gas companies which have installations in the reservoir area would not claim a huge sum for fancied or possible damages.

Heavy winter and spring rains bring the lake level up around the few wells one of these firms has which are no more than 15 to 20 feet above the conservation pool level of the lake. These big rises of the lake haven't damaged the companies to an appreciable extent, and what damage would be caused by five feet of water added to the lake during the season when floods are a rarity does not appear clear.

At this time, the lake level is down about two feet from the pool elevation of 645 feet. This is the result of a drouth-marked "dry season" and the necessity of maintaining a specified flow of water below the dam while the inflow is at a minimum.

Five more feet of water certainly would have done no damage this summer and fall. We await proof that it would hurt, any summer or fall.

The impoundment should indeed be at least 10 feet deeper. The needs of a recreation-starved area of thousands of square miles demand a larger body of water. Too, the lake at its present level does not hold back the influx of muddy water from the upper reaches of Johns Creek, with the result that siltage is heavy, a large part of the lake is discolored throughout the spring months, the effect on fish life and propagation is extremely harmful, and the ultimate dread result will be a silted-in lake.

This greater depth of the impoundment, however, may meet numerous obstacles which may not be cleared away for years. Then while the job of obstacle-clearing goes on, why not five feet more water, with another five feet the ultimate goal?

We are aware that the gas companies have their investments in the Johns Creek valley to protect, and we are not unwilling to believe they will want to give the public deserved consideration. At the same time, we realize one official could not commit his company to a definite policy as regards to the future of the lake. But we do feel that those actually in control of company policies should look into the matter and try to reach a decision which would do justice to themselves and to the people of this section.

Kinston Had "What It Took"

THE TIMES, along with other Kentucky newspapers, received this week from the Kentucky Agricultural and Industrial Development Board, a reprint from BETTER LIVING, the DuPont Company's employee magazine, in which is told how DuPont arrived at a choice of the community of Kinston, N. C., as the site for its new synthetic fiber plant.

Because of the interest this section has in new industry, and with the idea of supplying information which might produce a formula for success in the section's efforts to get such new business, we list here what DuPont looked for before deciding which of 87 prospective plant sites to select:

Labor supply, adequate water and power, proximity to customers, ease of procuring raw materials, transportation, housing, government, churches, schools, recreation, highway access, climate.

These were the main success ingredients of the North Carolina community, although there were deficiencies on a few counts. On the whole, however, that town of 20,000 population "had what it took" to get located there one of the activities of the giant DuPont enterprises.

Here's what Kinston had, and the points in its favor may give other communities an idea of what big manufacturers are seeking:

A thriving city in a predominantly agricultural area; an immediate supply of more than 1,200 men and women as workers; an expanded building program to improve a housing situation that was rather cramped; good roads and a 2,000-car parking lot with direct access to a trunk highway; 40 churches representing all major denominations; two hospitals of 113 beds, 62 additional beds planned and a clinic near completion; a municipal swimming pool, five community centers, an athletic stadium seating 2,474, a professional baseball team and six motion picture houses; four grade schools, two high schools, two parochial schools (plus 10 consolidated schools in the county), railroads and highways linking the city with major centers in the East, with 75 miles of new road being laid in the county.

Perhaps we are not ready, just now, for a huge industrial enterprise, but we cannot see wherein our raw materials, our labor supply and other qualifications are not sufficient to meet the needs of many industrialists.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Isabelle Hays Terry, daughter of Garrett Hays, of Langley, Ky., and his former wife, Mrs. Vina Allen Justice, of Paintsville, Ky., was born Feb. 11, 1915. She departed this life Oct. 27, 1952.

On June 3, 1935, she was united in marriage to Shelly Terry. Into this union were born four children—two sons and two daughters. One son, Quinton, died at the age of about two years. The other son, Clinton, and the two daughters, Peggy Sue and Shelly Jean, survive with her husband, Shelly. One brother, Chester Hays, Inez, and W. M. Hays, of Ashland, and three sisters, Mrs. Hester Williams and Mrs. Lora B. Waddles, both of Middletown, O., and Mrs. Magdalene Hall, Torrance, California. She suddenly passed out into eternity, leaving her loved ones to mourn their loss.

In this attempt to chronicle the beauty of the life of this young wife and mother the writer truly feels helpless in his efforts to assemble suitable words.

Solomon, the great wise man of God, said, "Words fitly spoken are like apples of gold in pictures of silver." The beautiful virtues of her life as a mother, wife, neighbor and friend, as observed by the writer during the 15 years that we have known her, speak far more eloquently than any words we can use. We hope that her passing into eternity was the beginning of eternal joy and glorious peace in the presence of Him that sits on His great throne amid the shouts of praise and singing of angels and the heavenly smiles of Jesus.

Humbly,

LETTERS

TO THE EDITOR

AN ANSWER TO ALL EXCUSES

Editor, The Times:

This letter is an urgent appeal to every person between the ages of 18 and 60 not to let the bloodmobile visit this community again and go away without filling all their quotas. This letter is especially directed at this time to every one in the vicinity of Wayland, as the bloodmobile will be at Wayland, Nov. 13.

To you who are fearful of the effects of giving blood, remember this—the blood center has needed blood desperately and has turned down donors because it judged them unable to give. Because I had been anemic most of my life, I thought I couldn't possibly give a pint of blood. I wanted to go, but I dreaded it. I thought I could do my part by getting others to give blood. In the long-drawn-out process of giving my reasons for not giving myself, I finally reached the point where I could not ask others to give unless I at least tried to give myself.

I can't tell you how elated I was after I had given blood. To me the little red pin represents a "Red Badge of Courage." Although there is absolutely no comparison in the way we give blood and the way the soldiers give blood on the battlefield, I won't minimize the fact that it takes courage for most of us to be a blood donor the first time. I don't believe anyone would dread it the second time. It may affect you psychologically, but I am convinced it doesn't hurt you physically. Although I had expected to be affected at least slightly by it, I had no ill effects whatsoever and even felt better after I had given the blood than before. It is natural to fear the unknown, but give one time and you won't dread it again. You'll be very glad you went.

To you who plan to go but are putting it off, waiting for a convenient time, the need is now. A soldier stops being a private citizen to become a soldier, whether it is convenient or not and whether he wants to or not. One thing is certain: He can't wait for the blood you are going to give after he is wounded. Many reports have come back that lives could have been saved if the supply of blood had been plentiful.

To you who have never gone to give blood and don't intend to go, then you should go for your own sake as well as the soldier's sake. And there is someone I'd like you to meet and talk with. She has a boy in Korea. She goes every time the bloodmobile comes to Wayland. She has small children. She leaves her work, goes and gives blood and goes back home to work. She would no doubt give a thousand pints, were it possible, to be sure her son would have blood if he needed it.

Now, give her those excuses you were ready to give me, I know exactly what you were going to say, but ask yourself one question: How can you accept their sacrifice and withhold the very thing that might save these soldiers' lives if they were wounded?

I am unable to tell you how proud and happy I am to have been A BLOOD DONOR

A CHRISTMAS SUGGESTION

Christmas will be here soon, and it's a day we all look forward to here at home. But have you stopped to think about your neighbor's boy or husband or maybe one of your own family about where he will spend this Christmas?

That's why I hope that every one who reads this will stop and think it over. If you are planning on giving some one a gift this Christmas, why not give one of the greatest gifts that could be given to any one that needs it badly.

A pint of blood would make some wounded soldier a gift that could mean his life. Don't you think it's worth it to see some soldier come home safe? Sure you do. Well, you can, friends, if you will give that extra pint of blood. I know. I have seen it pull lots of soldiers through, and one of your nation's problems today is getting enough blood for our armed forces fighting in Korea so that we here at home can continue to live the right way; that's something I can say today.

I spent almost 12 months in Korea. Believe me, I don't want to see the things that are happening there happen here in our own country. Here is one way every one can help. Almost every month the Red Cross visits your home town. Give your home town a high standard by giving the most blood every month. While at the time you are giving your home town a high standard in these Red Cross drives, you are giving the greatest gift to some wounded soldier in Korea. I know a gift from the heart will be loved by the Lord. You know, God loves people who do good deeds like that. Not only that, it helps the poor old mother and father to see their son or daughter again.

WATER WELL DRILLING

SEE OR WRITE J. W. KINZER Phone 2876 ALLEN, KY.

So let's make one special gift for our wounded soldiers this Christmas, that they might be here with us in other Christmases to come. Give all you can in all these drives. Work hard together, and God will bless us all for a job well done.

A pint of blood could be the gift that could be the choice where some GI might live or die. Give with an open heart. God, I am sure, will bless you for it. Please give today.

He Even Hates to Stop for Lunch!

Put a man behind the wheel of a Golden Anniversary Cadillac—point it to a destination some hundreds of miles away—and try to stop him!

And small wonder! In all the world, there is no finer relaxation for a work-weary man than a day's drive at the wheel of a Cadillac.

Try it sometime, and see for yourself. The moment you slip into the driver's seat, you'll sense that something extraordinary is about to happen to you.

The car has a "feel" to it—even when it isn't in motion. You sit right. The wheel falls naturally into your hands. You look out through the big curved windshield—over the beautiful hood and into the distance—and you know that "this is it!"

And then you turn the key and the great engine whispers into action—and the day's fun begins.

First, there's the silence—only the sound of the wind —and the occasional tick-tick of the electric clock. And then there's the comfort—the easy, soft, steady ride over almost any type of road.

And next, the handling ease! The steering wheel moves with the weight of the hand. There is remarkable steadiness on straightaway and curves. And the brakes give added confidence each time you touch the pedal.

So the miles go by and the miles go by. Towns and villages appear and disappear.

"What's that? It's time for lunch?" "Okay—but let's make it something quick and easy. We'll have a big dinner tonight."

Don't you think you'd like to own the car that can make a journey such a great delight? If so—come in and see us—any time.
