

This Town-- That World

If they had to leave the weather and politics out of their conversation, it's doubtful if half the people would be speaking, these days.

Having indicated that sage observation, we are off on another of these weekly "columns". Why I wait till Thursday morning to tackle this chore, I'll never be able to explain. Probably just like having a tooth pulled.

ADVISE SELDOM HEADED
I believe I have said this before, but it might be said again: There naturally may be expected to be a lot of other days after election day, and a lot of living with and among members of both parties. So don't take yourself and your ambitions so seriously that you lose your sense of the real values, build up for yourself a lot of petty animosities and invite lasting enmities.

SAME LIFE
Those cattlemen out West are in much the same boat as those coal operators were who sided with the railroad on river canalization, only to find the railroad going diesel right after the battle was over.

GOOD LADD!
The sprightly Bill Ladd, of The Courier-Journal, helps take us off the hook about the condition of this desk. We recommend his Wednesday morning piece to all who have come into this office, taken a glance at my accumulation of papers, magazines, letters, trivia, what-not, and blandly inquired, "When are you gonna move?" If I could find the telephone directory, I'd call a certain party and ask him to read Ladd's article.

COMPLETES THE LONG CIRCUIT
A watch that left the place upwards of 80 years ago and belonged to the man for whom the town is said to have been named, passed through Salyersville last week. This

DROUTH GOES ON, THO RAINS DAMPEN FIRES

Water Shortage Hits Schools; State Opens Hunting Season Anew

Kentucky's long drought was not ended by the light rain that fell over the week-end and Wednesday, but the dampness was considered extensive enough by the Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources to open the woods again to hunters.

Floyd county and other counties of this section had lighter rains than other areas of the state where precipitation ranged from half to 3/8 of an inch.

A lot of rain must fall in this county to bring relief. Although late precipitation will not materially affect crops except fall sowing of grasses, it is badly needed to halt shortage of water for both human and livestock consumption.

County Superintendent Virgil O. Turner said this week that several schools may be closed for lack of water, unless the drought is broken by more than gentle showers. Some schools are hauling water in barrels as far as a mile and a half away, and authorities have been concerned about the water supplies schools have been obliged to draw upon for drinking water.

At Bosco where a school building is under construction, Superintendent Turner said, water for use in concrete work has been hauled from Lackey. Three wells drilled for the school there are dry.

Water for household purposes was in almost every part of the county a matter of neighbors sharing with each other, and in many instances the neighbors were a mile or more apart.

PILOT OF JET SAFE IN CRASH

Army Plane Crashes Near West Liberty As Fuel Runs Low

A U. S. Air Force jet crashed into a hillside near Blaze, Morgan county, shortly after dusk Tuesday evening, and through the night searchers combed the surrounding countryside for the body of the pilot.

The excitement created by the crash attracted to the scene half the population of West Liberty, the county-seat, eight miles away, and the sense of tragedy mounted through the night as the pilot, Maj. William D. Britton, remained missing.

By 5 a.m., Major Britton's father, his brother and brother-in-law had arrived in West Liberty from Knoxville, Tenn., where they had been informed by a newspaper of the accident. They went with others to the scene of the crash, saw the disintegrated fuselage of the jet, the engine which had hurtled into a barn, setting it afire. They were told the only trace of the pilot was his jacket.

Returning to West Liberty, the father and his party entered a restaurant. The father was convinced his son was dead. A bystander asked a waitress if there was any word from the pilot.

"Yes he's down the street there," the girl replied.

Earl W. Kinner, Editor of the Licking Valley Courier at West Liberty, said Major Britton told him his fuel supply was about exhausted when he saw a beacon on a mountain overlooking West Liberty.

Upon learning that Judge Rice had held Mr. Lewis in contempt of court, Commonwealth's Attorney Martin and Dr. Edward B. Leslie, Prestonsburg, president of the Floyd Taxpayers League, wired Lewis:

"You are the one man in Kentucky who has had the courage to represent the interest of the taxpayers against formidable opposition. Without you, the taxpayers of this state would have no lawyer who would dare face the present political machine. On behalf of the taxpayers of Floyd county, may we have the honor of paying your fine?"

The fine was the largest that a court could levy without intervention of a jury.

At his Lexington home Lewis commented that his response to the rule was ignored and "I am the victim of the situation."

The Lee county suit challenged the borrowing of $10,000 and cost $100,000.

WAR VETERAN MINE VICTIM

Monroe Watkins, First Worker in Permele Mine To Be Killed in Mishap

The first fatality ever to occur in the No. 2 mine of the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company at Permele, near David, claimed the life at 5 a.m. Tuesday, of Monroe Watkins, 32, motor brakeman.

Watkins, a resident of Buckeye Fork of Middle Creek, was caught between the roof of the mine and the top of the car which was in motion. Death was instant. The belief was expressed that the victim had been working on cars moving from a section of the mine with a higher roof and that he had not noticed that the cars had entered a section with less clearance.

A veteran of World War II, Watkins was a son of Wiley and Grace Stone Watkins, who survive. He also leaves his widow, Mrs. Marie Watkins, two children, James and Loreta, and the following brothers and sisters: Nero Watkins, Goodloe, George Watkins, Atwood, Ind., Mrs. Viola Shepherd, Stockbridge, Mich., Mrs. Maude Webb, Blue River, Mrs. Daisy Bradford and Mrs. Aggie Dotson, both of Silver Lake, Ind., and Mrs. Lottie Prater, of Bonanza.

GROUP PAYS LEWIS' FINE

Tax League Attorney Fined for Contempt In Lee County Case

The $30 contempt of court fine assessed of Jesse K. Lewis, Lexington attorney, by Circuit Judge S. H. Rice, of Lee county, was paid Monday by Commonwealth's Attorney Burris Martin, of Prestonsburg, on behalf of the Floyd County Good Government Taxpayers League.

The court last week cited Lewis for using "scurrilous, abusive and insulting" language in an affidavit filed asking Judge Rice to vacate the bench in the trial of a suit filed by taxpayers against Lee County Judge Cecil Kincaid and three members of the fiscal court.

Mr. Stephens said Senator Clements objected to his grand-jury investigations of crime and gambling in Northern Kentucky. He also criticized Governor Wetherby for failing to send state troopers to clean up Newport, "steeped as it was with vice and gambling."

Senator Earl C. Clements replied that Stephens was "wholly untruthful and malicious" when he said that Clements kept him from being reappointed United States district attorney.

Further, said Clements, if Stephens was trying to say that Clements sought to keep him from doing his duty in prosecuting gamblers, he was guilty of uttering "an unmitigated lie."

"I might point out," Clements said, "that during a considerable portion of the 20 years that Mr. Stephens served as assistant dis-

Two Bloodmobile Stops In County Nets Total Of 102 Pints of Blood

Visits to two Floyd towns by the regional Red Cross bloodmobile netted 102 pints of blood—a showing which leaves the county far behind its 1953 quota with only two months to go in the year's blood program.

Of this total, Wheelwright contributed 61 pints, and residents of David gave 41 pints. In each case, volunteers who walked in to give blood without previously signing pledge cards were big factors in the drive.

At Wheelwright 38 persons were scheduled, 29 of these appeared, 38 walked in and six were rejected.

David scheduled 41 persons but only 21 appeared. Twenty-eight walked in, and eight were rejected.

The next visit of the Bloodmobile will be to Wayland, next month.

Health Department Warns Meat Vendors Of Open-Air Operation

A warning to peddlers of fresh meats on the streets of Floyd county towns was voiced this week by the Floyd County Health Department.

M. V. Clark, county health administrator, said such vendors of meats will be given one notice to stop, and upon their failure to do so will be prosecuted.

He referred to those who cut and process meats from trucks or wagons, in the open air, while selling to consumers on the streets. "It isn't fair," said Clark, "to require meat markets to have hot and cold

STEPHENS-CLEMENTS BREAK MARKED BY NEWPORT SPEECH

In a speech delivered Tuesday night before the Campbell County Civic Association at Newport, Claude P. Stephens, of Prestonsburg, former U. S. district attorney accused U. S. Senator Earl C. Clements of virtually blocking his reappointment to the federal post.

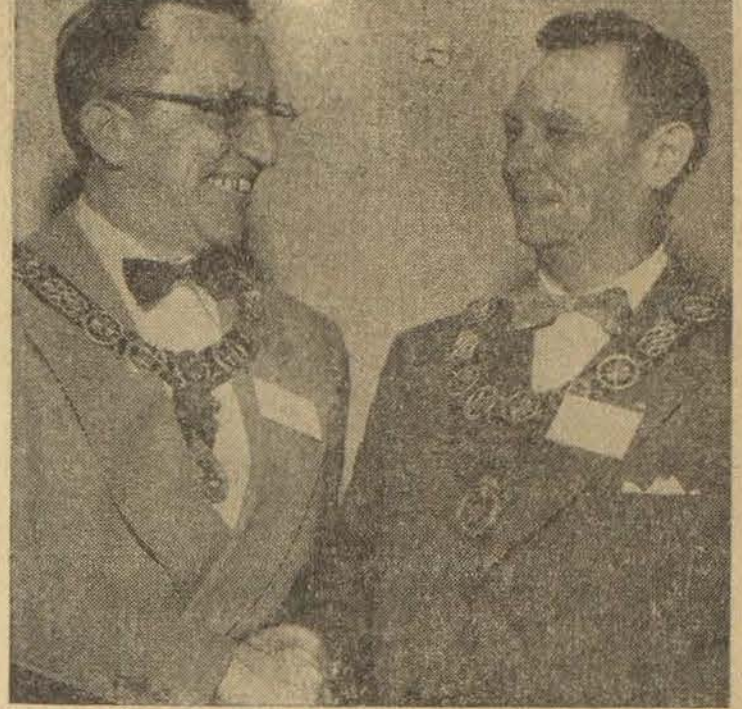

Mr. Stephens said Senator Clements objected to his grand-jury investigations of crime and gambling in Northern Kentucky. He also criticized Governor Wetherby for failing to send state troopers to clean up Newport, "steeped as it was with vice and gambling."

Senator Earl C. Clements replied that Stephens was "wholly untruthful and malicious" when he said that Clements kept him from being reappointed United States district attorney.

PERKINS ASKS O.D.M. ORDER

Restoring Defense Work Priority to Areas Where Surplus of Labor Exists

Congressman Carl D. Perkins has protested to Arthur S. Flemming, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization, against O.D.M. policies in labor-surplus areas, such as those in Eastern Kentucky.

In a letter to Flemming, Congressman Carl D. Perkins urged that Flemming:

1. Restore a suspended regulation that gave defense contracts to labor-surplus areas if they were able to meet the low bids of other areas.

2. Immediately release an order granting rapid tax write-offs to firms building new plants in labor-surplus areas.

Perkins said the principle of the suspended regulation had been approved by both House and Senate.

12,000 VOTES IS ESTIMATE FOR COUNTY

In Next Tuesday's Election; Amendment Given Heavy Support

Unsensational but interesting, sometimes bitter, the Floyd county election campaign drew this week within a few days of next Tuesday's election-day effort at the polls.

A total vote of 12,000 or more was predicted. If this figure is accurate, it still would represent less than half the county's voter-registration.

Despite the inner-party fight on one issue, that of amending Section 186 of the Kentucky Constitution, there was little if any disagreement. Sentiment in the county is overwhelmingly for the amendment, with whatever opposition making little noise.

Newspaper and radio advertising and a liberal plastering of handbills were used by opposing forces in their drive for votes. The Democrats continued with a series of community meetings.

The ballot, in addition to the Constitutional Amendment No. 1, will submit to the voters Amendment No. 2, which would permit the General Assembly to provide the manner of selecting certain state officeholders. The Democratic-Republican line-up on the ballot, will be, as follows:

For Representative, Dist. 96: Lon C. Hill, Democrat; N. M. (Bud) White, Republican.

For Representative, Dist. 97: E. H. (Ted) Stumbo, Democrat; Paul B. Akers, Republican.

For County Judge: Henry Stumbo, Democrat; Lackey Salisbury, Republican.

For County Attorney: Hollie Conley, Democrat, unopposed.

For County Clerk: DuRan Moore, Democrat; Cecil Newsome, Republican.

For Sheriff: Bill Hall, Democrat; Gordon Collins, Republican.

For Jailer: Preck Hayes, Democrat; W. P. "Willie" Clark, Republican.

For Tax Commissioner: Clive Akers, Democrat; W. D. Steele, Republican.

For Coroner: James J. Carter, Democrat; John Parsons, Republican.

For Magistrate, Dist. No. 1: Grover C. Holbrook, Democrat; Worth Music, Republican.

tended that some of the money was used to promote election of certain county officials last August. Judge Rice held that fiscal court had the right to borrow money against anticipated revenue and the suit subsequently was dismissed.

Lewis' affidavit contended that Judge Rice could not give a fair trial because of "political affiliation" and because he "previously consulted with the defendants."

The judge sustained Lewis' request to vacate the bench. However, when the attorney declined to answer questions relating to the affidavit, Lewis was cited for contempt on grounds that the affidavit impugned the "honor and integrity" of the court.

Lewis apologized Monday and filed a response in which he said the language in the affidavit was not intended to reflect upon the honor and integrity of the presiding judge. The attorney asked permission to withdraw the affidavit and motion and submit another eliminating such language as the court had termed objectionable.

Judge Rice replied in part, "As an attorney it is your constant duty to maintain respect due the courts of this Commonwealth, but in this instance you have not merely departed from, but have willfully and grossly violated that duty by making unwarranted false attacks upon the honor and integrity of this court."

"Your response to the rule is considered insufficient because the offense, being so extremely contemptuous, cannot be purged by apologies or retractions."

The Court of Appeals Friday denied Lewis a writ of prohibition to prevent Judge Rice from carrying out the show-cause order. The high court said it would give an opinion later.

The former federal official said it was "plainly" the Governor's duty to send troopers to stop "big gambling, billion-dollar syndicated gambling, a stench in the nostrils of all good people of the city and state."

If he had been Governor, Stephens said, "I would have followed the example set by Governor Lausche of Ohio, who drove big-time gamblers, the Cleveland syndicate, from Ohio."

Unfortunately, the Ohio gamblers came to Kentucky and set up in Newport and Covington, he said, and Wetherby did not stop them.

Stephens said the schools, homes, and churches have failed to properly teach the evils of gambling. Public opinion must back up efforts to rid any area of crooked officials and crime, he declared.

VOTERS, BEAR THIS IN MIND

Next year, I and other men who are Democratic nominees at this election, will be fighting for the Democratic Party, as we always have fought in the past, believing the principle that the individual, the common man, counts more in this country than Big Business.

And while we are doing this next year, the men who are opposing us on the Republican ticket, asking Democratic men and women to elect them, will be fighting for the Republican party, using their influence to try to carry out their Republican. These same Republican candidates next year will have their usual slighting remarks about Democratic leaders such as Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alben Barkley.

They like your support when they need it. But when means the difference between happy, prosperous homes and drouth-stricken farmers begging for help and getting help—they cannot or will not help you, because they subscribe to the Republican doctrine that ignores the individual.

The Democratic party in Floyd county offers the people who will serve you well in office, and who also will fight with you when the bigger national issues are at stake. When has the Republican party furnished Floyd county a public official who has made a record of outstanding service? Think back.

Of course, we are all people, the same people. Our only difference is that we do not think along the same lines as mean so much to so many.

Think, Democrats, before you vote.

I also would like to appeal to every voter, whatever his political beliefs, to vote YES for the Amendment of Section 186 of the Kentucky Constitution. Better schools and the welfare of our children should be our first consideration.

Sincerely,

HENRY STUMBO,

Democratic nominee for County Judge

is the story of the watch as told by its present owner, Otto Bower, of Cassville, Mo.:

R. G. Salyer left Salyersville, the town which bears his name, in the 1870's, going to Golden, Missouri. There he was a livestock dealer, and he prospered, later buying an interest in the Cassville bank, moving to that town and building for himself and family what was known as a mansion. From Salyersville he took his fine Elgin watch with him. In his last years, Mr. Salyer had whims, and he would hide valuables in various nooks and crannies of this mansion. After his death, J. M. Bower, father of the present owner of the watch, was called to the house to do some carpenter work. And in a secret place inside the big, old-fashioned fireplace he found three $20 bills and the watch.

Honest man that he was, he called Mrs. Salyer, who gave him the watch and kept the money. The watch was handed down to Mr. Bower's son, and so it was that after a long time it got back home for a few fleeting moments last week as Otto Bower and his wife were en route to Prestonsburg to visit Mrs. J. M. Weddington and other relatives.

PROCK HAYES
Jailer of Floyd Co.

I was born and reared on Turkey Creek near Langley, Ky., in Floyd County. This is my first time to be nominated for any public office. I am 67 years old and a poor man and at my advanced age cannot work hard for a living, like I have in the past. My opponent has a good income and is able to live without this office.

My wife and I have visited with the broken-hearted to try to share their troubles in almost every community in Floyd county. We have also for the past 40 years been attending the different churches in Floyd county.

I believe the people of Floyd county will give me this office by a large majority. They know if their sons should become in my custody, my wife and I will treat them right.

I will also work hard to keep the jail and courthouse clean and in sanitary condition.

Your vote and support on November 3rd will be deeply appreciated.

ON AMENDMENT NO. 1

REPEAL SECTION 186

1. It causes over-crowded school buses.
2. It has caused a shortage of qualified teachers.
3. It prevents teachers from having adequate teaching materials.
4. It has resulted in Kentucky ranking 42 in education.
5. It allots $40 to a school child in one county and $140 in another.
6. It causes over-crowded classrooms to the extent of 65 pupils per room in some cases when 30 should be the number per teacher.
7. It prevents children from having essential training in vocational fields, Home Economics, Art and Music.
8. It reduces the number of library books available to each child.
9. It has caused and is causing large numbers of Kentucky's fine teachers to go to adjoining states for employment.
10. It has been responsible for thousands of Kentucky children quitting school before reaching the sixth grade.

Can anything be done about these conditions? SURELY!

Tell your neighbors that the present method of distributing state school funds under Section 186 favors some sections of the state and places hardships upon another Section. See that every qualified voter goes to the polls on November 3 and votes "YES" on Amendment No. 1.

How Will You Vote On The School Amendment?

(A Guest Editorial) By MRS. EDGAR R. MAY

Last week The Courier-Journal reported the Louisville Board of Education against the amendment. They say the measure would cost their schools $1,300,000 per year under the present distribution. If this does not change people here opposed to the measure, nothing can. Floyd would share in what city schools lose. Still some citizens oppose it.

Their reason is that the politicians will have it in their hands. They have it in their hands now, and under the present law it is impossible not to continue favoring city schools. The legislature has always handled the funds. Public officials asked for the change, to help weak counties, lacking wealth to tax for school support, so Kentucky may advance and not remain 48th! They planned the survey, recommended the change. If we trust them, surely they will fulfill their promise.

A position more selfish than that of the Louisville Board is hard to conceive. City schools have had a tremendous advantage for generations. No one seeks favoritism for weaker ones now, only equality. Fairness toward everybody should always be exercised. If the only way to help poorer areas is at the expense of the rich, then that is right. America divides with war-torn countries today. Heavy taxes here help provide money and food given to others in need. Common decency compels us to share. The U. S. is caring for Korea, sharing what we ourselves could use. To turn a deaf ear would be unthinkable. Moses might have remained a prince in the palace. Instead he chose to share the burdens of his suffering people. It is selfish of Kentucky cities to oppose the amendment, which alone can provide equal opportunity for all her children.

Reports that give only the black side of the mountains anger us. We have often defended the hills in writing. Some accounts are exaggerated even when none applies to our progressive citizens. They hurt because most of the needy masses are humble, good people who had little opportunity. The smartest person we ever knew is a native of Floyd county. Thousands here meet any test. But too much is at stake now to permit any of us to deny the presence of a dark side. Resentment against those willing to describe it will only "cut off our noses to spite our faces," unless we resent it enough to do something about the bottleneck 186, that has caused the conditions in need of change.

A teacher in Floyd said her youngster is not getting his work though he makes grand grades. A former teacher said her little girl does not know what she is covering but makes all A's. A principal said his sister's children in a northern Kentucky city are much advanced over most children here. Not one of these reflects on Floyd teachers, many of whom have enviable records everywhere. But they understand the handicaps teachers labor under here the shortage of needed materials, heavy student loads. They know some little ones start school annually with small chance of mental development, because of limited background from families poorly educated for generations.

Many in our room come from homes without a newspaper, not a magazine. Free reading material is above the level of numbers. A book firm representative says cover what we can of the book, that texts are planned for all kinds of schools, including city ones with better facilities. Our children are not dumb. Many excel in countless places. But scores have had little chance. Such obstacles hinder any teacher. They handicap every child. You may have a Ph.D. degree, but your son moves as the class does to a certain extent. The chain is no stronger than its weakest link. These hindrances, prevalent in poorer counties for generations, because of bottleneck 186 help explain why one author says the ways of life in the mountain dells have changed little through the years. They illuminate the statement by a missionary in the country, whose life story mentions what poor readers many good people in the hills are. They show why one mission board told workers going to Borneo to visit the hills of Kentucky first. These reports do not apply to our educated people, but they help show our obligation to needier ones, whose youngsters seldom learn as well as those from homes like yours! Vote YES on Nov. 3rd. Help the kids who need it most.

As for Louisville, we believe many Christians there will vote for the bill out of the goodness of their hearts. If war game and bombs forced her citizens to seek refuge elsewhere we know our kind people would gladly open their homes and share their last crumb with them. Atomic destruction would be equalization of another type of speeder process. God forbid that it should happen!

IN KENTUCKY — under Section 186 of the Constitution adopted in 1891 there is no minimum level or standard of education guaranteed on an equal basis to every Kentucky child.

IN KENTUCKY — each school day more than 200,000 children are transported a total distance of 134,000 miles—more than five times the distance around the world.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

CITES GROUND OBSERVER NEEDS

Editor, The Times:

The Ground Observer Corps in this area, trained by the Lexington Filter Center, has been in operation since August 1951. During this time much has been accomplished, thanks to all the active members of each observation post. However, much more remains to be done. Although the number of OP's reporting during each exercise is increasing, the rate of increase is small considering the real danger of an air attack.

In a single real Soviet warplanes could bomb eighty-nine (89) cities leaving more than 11,000,000 dead or wounded. At this very moment the Soviet Union has more than one thousand long-range bombers which can fly nonstop from their home bases to any important target in the United States. In addition, they have a growing stockpile of atomic weapons. Russia is spending millions in military preparation. Why?

President Eisenhower certainly must have had the foregoing facts in mind when he stated, in announcing the Korean Armistice, "We have won an armistice, on a single battle-ground—not peace in the world. We may not now relax our guard or cease our quest." The job of the Ground Observer Corps is to detect and report aircraft to the Filter Center. We need to have the Observation Post in your town active during each exercise. Then we will have experienced personnel available in your strategic area. This system will work if each Observation Post participates.

We extend to the members of your post our most sincere thanks for your efforts in the past, and we ask for your support in the future.

Sincerely, William W. Preble 1st Lt. USAF Comdr. Lexington Filter Center

'Bear' Facts-

By PAUL BRYANT UK Football Coach

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Football historians of the next decade, tracing the trends of the grid sport and consequences of the abolishment of two-platoon rules, will undoubtedly mention the beginning of the new era in terms of effects felt by the many good teams.

While the records indicate an apparent connection between the rules changes and the success (or lack of it) enjoyed by grid units representing schools of varying reputation and size, I believe another aspect might be explored as perhaps even a more basic topic. This is the fairly obvious reality that a large percentage of the highly-touted offensive backs are not doing so well in their attempt to live up to the reputation built up during the days of free substitution. I would not say that any of them are complete washouts by any stretch of the imagination. In fact, most are still very dangerous performers who can win for you. What I mean to point out is that they are not doing so well under two-way play conditions as they might have been expected to do on the basis of normal improvement over good performances of last season.

The rule forbidding free substitution for these backs has been directly responsible for this condition. Reasons for it are two-fold: (1) No offensive specialists are in there to help and (2) defense takes something out of the star offensive back, making him less effective carrying the ball.

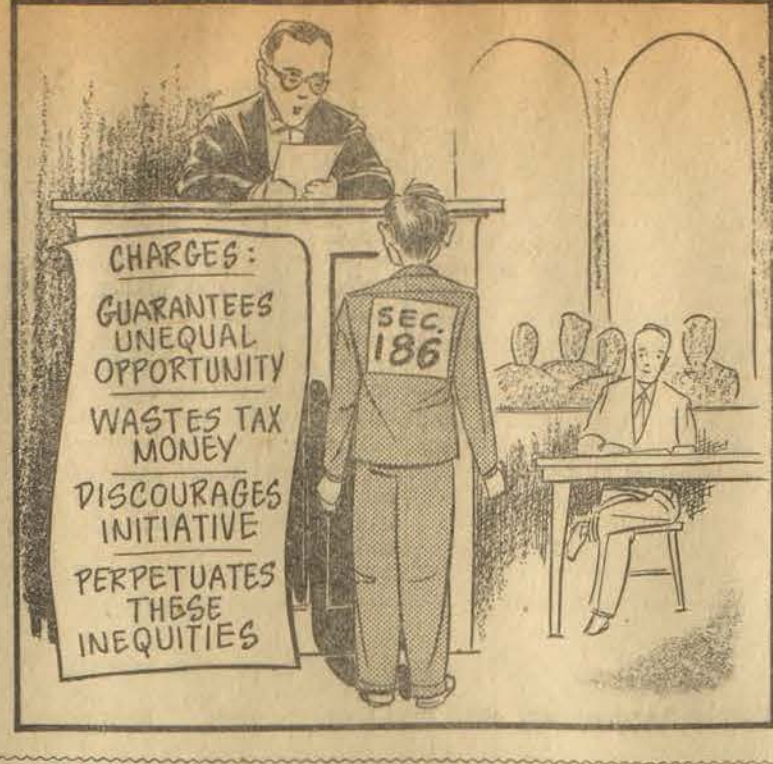

For a few illustrations of how good backs are not making sensational showings, you need not look further than the Southeastern Conference. Take the cases of Leon Hardeman and Bill Teas of Georgia Tech, Alabama's Bobby Luna and Corky Tharp, Max McGee of Tulane and Florida's Rick Casares.

In fairness to the few top backs who haven't been bothered by the substitution limitations, I should mention a couple of boys who'll be thrilling the fans and their coaches a good deal this year—Jackie Parker of Mississippi State and Kentucky's own Steve Mellinger's efforts have been hampered to some extent but not enough to keep him from consistently coming up with fine performance in the clutch. These are the real athletes who should rate high mention in any future analysis of the rules changes.

IN KENTUCKY — Section 186 of the State Constitution perpetuates and increases inequities. The more money distributed under 186 the greater the inequities become.

IN KENTUCKY — each school day more than 200,000 children are transported a total distance of 134,000 miles—more than five times the distance around the world.

Under the regulation a labor-surplus area got a second chance at a defense contract if it could meet the low bid of another area. Perkins said this cost the Government nothing and provided employment for distressed areas.

The Government has permitted new defense plants to write off the cost for tax purposes over a five-year period. This 20 per cent yearly write-off is in contrast to the usual 3 per cent a year. Its purpose was to encourage companies to take the risk of building new defense plants.

Perkins said Fleming has had under consideration a similar plan for any new plant built in a labor-surplus area, with the area providing jobs in areas where they are needed.

"Last July, Fleming said the order was being written up," Perkins said. "He has been revising it since but the indications are he won't release it."

"A tax-amortization plan for new plants in labor-surplus areas will be meaningless if it is delayed until the facilities of current contractors are expanded," Perkins told Fleming. "New firms will be unable to compete even with an accelerated tax write-off. This delay will only accelerate the recent trend of allocating contracts to a few large industrial centers."

Perkins reminded Fleming of his recent speech pointing out that a hydrogen-bomb attack could devastate any plant or even an entire community.

"The dispersion of defense suppliers is not only desirable from an economic standpoint but absolutely necessary as a defense requirement," Perkins told him.

Perkins wrote that he has asked the Kentucky Agricultural and Industrial Development Board to give Fleming all data concerning the suitability of Eastern Kentucky for industrial chemical plants.

"There is an abundant supply of timber resources in this area, along with an excellent source of underground salt brines," he said. "The defense - production potential of this area is almost unlimited."

More than 14,000 electric locomotives are in use in U. S. bituminous coal mines.

THO TRUCK MINE PRODUCTION SHOWS DROP, NEW OPERATION OF PIKE-ELKHORN PROPERTY STARTS WITH LENGTHY COAL SALES CONTRACT

Evidence that the truck coal mine industry is not dead in this area was pointed out recently when the Powell Branch Fuel Company began operations at Tram. The property acquired by the new company was the old Pike Elkhorn Coal Company that had operated throughout the war but suspended operation a few years ago.

Leonard Steffy, former superintendent of the Pike Elkhorn Coal Company, and associated with Dalton Mines after Pike Elkhorn was bought by A. J. Dalton, of Pikeville, heads the new company. Operation began seven weeks ago with a few employees but has now attained a production of slightly less than a hundred tons daily.

Mr. Steffy says that the new company has an extended contract for the sale of its coal and foresees no market trouble. The coal is hauled a short distance by truck and loaded through a tippie in cars on a railway spur built up Powell Branch a few years ago by Pike Elkhorn.

Truck mine production, represented by the Big Sandy Elkhorn Coal Operators Association skidded again according to the latest report of that organization. The week ending Oct. 10, 40 tons were loaded by truck mine members but the next week it dropped to only 33 tons, indicating that production of truck mine coal by members of the Association was dwindling almost to the vanishing point. The new Powell Branch Fuel Company is not a member of The Big Sandy Coal Operators Association, it was said. Total production of all members of the Association skidded somewhat the week ending Oct. 17, it was disclosed. The previous week showed a car loading of 5339.4 cars but dropped the next week to 5,023.8 cars. However this production is steadily gaining on the figure for the corresponding period last year. Only 1624.8 cars, or 8,124 tons, now separate the present production figures from last year's corresponding tonnage.

IT'S A SECRET BALLOT FOLKS THAT MEANS YOU CAN— VOTE AS YOU PLEASE

The man who hollers the loudest is hurting the most. That's why Henry Stumbo is hollering "Vote it Straight". He knows if you Vote It Straight, he has an excellent chance to be re-elected. A Straight vote catches all the candidates whether they are good, bad or indifferent. A straight vote will catch him, and he is betting on the straight vote.

Let the taxpayers talk about Big Deals. Henry hollers Vote It Straight. Let farmers discuss indictments for neglect of duty on the roads. Henry hollers Vote It Straight. Let the voters speak about excess fees paid or unpaid into the County Treasury, and Judge Henry hollers Vote It Straight. He's hurting. Unless you Vote It Straight he's defeated.

He doesn't mention your conscience, your sense of right or wrong, your civic duty, or your moral scruples. He appeals to your party loyalty, to the fact that "he scratches your back, now scratch mine". He reminds that he has promised a road, a bridge or to scrape twice every election year. He talks about a Straight Vote as if it were a solemn duty to the state, as if only by straight votes can a man continue to walk erect, and face the world.

He sat in his office a great deal and smiled brightly after the election. He had it in the bag, he thought. There would be enough straight votes to eject him. Then the BIG DEAL story came out. He sat up when the storm broke, and at the instance of his friends he took to the country. He's scared. He knows that men and women have party loyalty, alright, he knows they will excuse, in the name of the party, mistakes and minor negligences, but he is afraid they will not excuse the Big Deal, and a host of other things. He's scared. That's why he hollers Vote It Straight.

As for you, Mr. Voter, vote your conscience, and you will be voting for yourself.

Yours for "Woodshed Honesty,"

THE HENRY STUMBO RECORD

A great deal of incorrect information has been given to the public with reference to the handling of the county's fiscal affairs by Judge Henry Stumbo. The only correct information can be obtained by examining the records of the Treasurer of Floyd County. Henry Stumbo has been a member of the Fiscal Court as Magistrate and as County Judge for the past fourteen (14) years.

Below is given the figures of the county's indebtedness as taken from the records of the County Treasurer, when Judge Stumbo first became a member of the Fiscal Court in November, 1939, and also the county's indebtedness as of June 30, 1953 showing amount debt was reduced between these dates:

County's indebtedness as of June 30, 1938—$842,745.62
County's indebtedness as of June 30, 1953— 228,174.31
Reduction of county's indebtedness— $614,571.31

A reduction of the county's indebtedness of $614,571.31 in such a short time speaks for the manner in which Judge Henry Stumbo and the Magistrates have handled the county's fiscal affairs.

Also of importance to the public is the large sinking fund which has been accumulated. As of June 30, 1953, the cash in the sinking fund amounted to $106,538.56, which is now in the hands of the County Treasurer.

FLOYD COUNTY DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

I certify that the figures quoted in the above statement with reference to the county's indebtedness and with reference to the amount of cash in the sinking fund are true and correct as shown by the records of my office.

By C. A. LEWIS

LEXINGTON, Ky. — In its intensive program to improve agriculture, the University of Kentucky recognizes the high place of pasture crops. Nearly half of Kentucky's farm land is used for pasture production, according to Circular 510 of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics. Additional grazing is furnished by small grains and cover crops and by aftermath growing following small grain, corn, tobacco and other crops.

A recent survey showed that in the Bluegrass region about two acres of cropland were used for pasture for every acre for harvested crops. In the lower Ohio Valley, where corn, tobacco and livestock make up the major part of farm production, only a little more than one acre of cropland was used for pasture for each two acres of harvested crops.

The circular says that over 77 million acre-months of grazing was available on Kentucky land for pasture in 1949. About 175 million animals were grazed in the state that year. That meant about nine animals for each 100 acres of farm land. Some farms supported many more animals. About five acres of pastureland, in addition to aftermath, small grain and cover-crop pasture were available for each head of stock.

Much pasture in Kentucky could be improved—made to furnish more feed, the experts say. There are over a million acres now in brush, weeds and other worthless growth that could be cleared, fertilized and seeded.

With modern tools and the knowledge of land use, it would be comparatively simple and inexpensive to have the pasture needed to more than double the numbers of cattle, sheep, hogs and chickens raised in this state. Kentucky is far enough south to have a long grazing season and far enough north to grow good grass. It is an ideal grass state.

Social Workers Exams
Set at Pikeville, Nov. 7;
Education Required Told

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 28 (Spl.)—Robert L. Veazey, State Merit System supervisor, announced today that an examination for social workers for the State Division of Public Assistance will be held at the Pikeville Employment Service Office, Connelly Bldg., Nov. 7, at 8:30 a.m.

The primary purpose of the examination is to establish eligible registers from which future vacancies may be filled, and an existing vacancy in the Magoffin county office may be filled soon after the examination if budgetary conditions permit. Qualified applicants from Pike, Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin and Martin counties are invited to participate in the examination. In filling vacancies, preference is given to residents of the county in which the vacancy occurs, Veazey said.

To be eligible for the examination, applicants must be high school graduates and have completed two years of college or two years of full time paid employment within the last ten in a field related to social work which involved contact with the public. A suitable combination of college education and employment will be accepted.

The starting salary for the position is $210 a month. Persons appointed are required to have cars and will be paid seven cents a mile for travel connected with official duties.

Applications may be obtained from Employment Service Offices in Prestonsburg and Pikeville or by writing the Merit System Supervisor, Capitol Annex Building, here. In addition, applications may be procured at the examination center on the date of the examination.

BY WILMAY

National Bible week is closing. We need not limit reading to that time. Our bodies are fed daily. The soul should be. Only studying Christians become growing ones. Others remain anemic, swayed by the wind. Yet God's Book is the most neglected one in countless homes. Billie Graham recommends exchanging spiritual blessings and thoughts from Bible readings daily. But people sometimes forget about the Bible and prayer till trouble comes.

The Reader's Digest article on Death, by Dr. Peale, recalled a personal instance we have shared with several. When our good doctor and two kind neighbors labored to bring us out of a heart attack ten years ago, we saw the golden aura of light and have since mentioned the indescribable beauty, simplicity and peace of lasting impression. Such experiences mean much to believers known to have been in dying condition.

Cynicism and disbelief, now so rampant, make some hesitate to share spiritual blessings. Others regard it as boastfulness. Dr. Graham's newest leaflet says he has noticed the trite verbal intercourse that passes daily, and states that our conversation anywhere should be concerning things of the Lord. If this man of God feels thus, shouldn't we? The closer we get to our Maker, the less likely someone has to tell us the danger of gossip and other low forms of conversation. The more likely we shall prefer spiritual topics, from habit alone.

"But many will laugh at you," some one remarks. "Talk about God and they say you are crazy." They called Paul crazy, too. Modernists label John the Baptist a neurotic. History records that Spurgeon, greatest preacher since St. Paul, was believed "teched in the head."

Last week, a Right Beaver friend asked friends to pray with her about a burden. She said some would be amused over the idea. A year ago another acquaintance said if her husband knew how she felt concerning spiritual matters he would take her to a psychiatrist. Yet she had seen a famous psychiatrist die, begging for someone to tell him about God. When their time comes unbelievers do not send for those who laughed with them at Christians, do they? They never ask for a skeptic from their own friends, do they? They send for a strong believer.

Dr. Pusey, youthful new president of Harvard, is an active Christian. He opposes all fundamentalism and gives first place to God in his life and work.

Many dread to think what may soon happen to America unless our great nation decides soon to come back to God. Our position of world leadership, our humble religious beginnings, are so parallel to those of Israel in early days. God has marvelously blessed us, but each generation drifts further from God.

Eastern Kentucky will miss Dr. Thompson, a man of outstanding vision. Failure to achieve his goals did not deter him. Others may reap the harvest and glory of his labors, but he struck with worthy causes throughout his inspiring lifetime. His example may well be imitated by other civic leaders. He never gave up because some project he was promoting encountered obstacles and did not succeed immediately.

Wayland geography teachers had the privilege of seeing Miss Nesbit of Silver Burdett, ably demonstrate this subject Friday. We found it most helpful. Otis Spurlock was present and commended the grade school for sending notes to parents and voting out drinks and candy. Our fine principal, Alex Spencer, Jr., is responsible for both moves, which are wise unless texts are wrong? Lately a prominent dentist told a teacher if schools do not cease the sale of such in ten years Floyd will not have enough dentists to pull the children's teeth. It takes some of us a long time to learn money is not everything. Parents blame teachers for selling it. Teachers blame them for giving children money to buy it. It is a vicious circle. If all opposed to it would take a public stand, something could be done. We know three children with false teeth and another told to get them. It is tragic. The state dentist told county teachers in Martin he looks into some terrible mouths here. Our county Health Coordinator, Miss Blanche Dingus, said one girl found with perfect teeth does not indulge in sweets!

Women Democrats Pledge
Pikeville College Funds;
Club Director is Speaker

Besides the purely partisan affairs of their organization considered at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Floyd County Democratic Woman's Club, a substantial pledge, the exact amount undisclosed, was made to Pikeville College to assist that institution in its effort to become a four-year college. Mrs. Ralph Davis said Wednesday. The dinner meet was held in the Turner building which is currently serving as Democratic headquarters.

Attending the dinner were Democratic precinct chairwomen and others. Mrs. DuRan Moore, president of the county Democratic Woman's Club, presided. Present, as chairwoman of the precinct committeewomen, was Mrs. Betty Stephens as guest speaker. Other speakers were Mrs. Lula Roberts, Hazard, district director of Democratic Woman's Clubs, Mrs. Lon C. Hill, and Mrs. M. M. Collins. It was decided to hold monthly meetings of the organization following the coming election.

Former Martin Resident,
Victim of Heart Attack
At Ohio Home, Saturday

Tilden T. Osborne, former well-known Martin man, died suddenly Saturday afternoon at his home in Clarksville, O., victim of a heart attack.

Onetime owner of a large part of the site of the present town of Martin, Mr. Osborne had resided in or near Clarksville since 1928, having purchased a farm there after selling his real estate at Martin. He was a member of the Holiness Church, was widely related in the county and had many friends in this section. He was a son of W. T. and Louise Dingus Osborne.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Jennie Mayo Osborne, and nine sons and daughters: Mrs. J. D. Adams, of Martin, Earl Osborne, of Ohio, Carl Osborne, Dayton, O., Mrs. Orville Robinette, Dayton, O., Nell and Rhoda, of Wilmington, O., Lottie and Mildred, of Clarksville, and Mrs. Jennie Smith, of Georgia. One brother, the Rev. S. D. Osborne, and a sister, Mrs. Susie Osborne, both of Martin, also survive.

Funeral rites were conducted Tuesday at Clarksville, and burial was made there.

COMPLETE FILE REQUIRED

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 12 — Kentucky laws require that fiduciaries file a complete account of receipts and disbursements with the County Court, instead of a mere signed statement that the "estate has been settled according to law." It was held today by Assistant Attorney General M. B. Hollfield.

Advising the County Judge of Mason county in respect to estate settlements, Hollfield held that the Courts will protect officials who comply rigidly with the requirements of the law, but "when he does otherwise, we cannot assure him of that protection."

DO YOU WANT
FOUR MORE

WITH THE

3 B's

Banner - Bev - Bill

In my all-out effort to make clear the issues of this campaign, I feel it necessary to remind the good people of Floyd county of a few facts admitted even by my opponent.

First: He informed you through the medium of this newspaper that he has promised two of Banner Meade's present deputies jobs if he is elected. One of these being Bev Sturgill. Now I have nothing personal against Mr. Sturgill. He has played a very important part in law enforcement, or the lack of it, in this county for the past four years. He has a record and you are the judge. Personally, I am not proud of it and will terminate his employment upon taking office, January 1, 1954.

Banner, our present Sheriff, admits that he supported my opponent in the primary and is actually campaigning for him today. Then it's only fair to ask—"Where will Banner be if my opponent should win?"

Do you want to be stuck for four more years with the 3B's—Banner, Bev and Bill? Again I promise you four years of law enforcement with an administration brand-new in all its parts.

Highway Death Rate Is Showing Decline

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 27 (Spl.) — Kentucky's highway death rate for the first eight months of 1953 was down slightly compared to the same period last year, according to a report made today by the Department of State Police.

The figures through August, the latest month for which a complete study is available, show that deaths this year have occurred at the rate of 8.3 for each 100 million vehicle miles traveled, while the rate last year for the same period was nine.

Through the eight months this year, there were 493 deaths in 5,886,000,000 vehicle miles, while there were 509 for 5,620,000,000 miles last year.

The mileage estimates are obtained by using a formula devised by the National Safety Council which takes into account the amount of gasoline sold within the state. The gasoline sales are determined by the amount of tax paid.

Later accident figures show that on a numerical basis Kentucky is doing better in preventing highway deaths this year. Through Oct. 21, there were 594 fatalities compared to 640 at the same date last year.

I'M FOR:

A system whereby the people of Prestonsburg will know at all times the exact amount of money received by the water and gas system and also the amount of money that is spent and for what purpose.

Improvements in our town within our ability to pay as we go.

I'M AGAINST:

The million dollar bond issue. Prestonsburg cannot even pay the interest on this money.

THE VETERANS ENDORSE HENRY STUMBO

The veterans of Floyd county have closely observed the official conduct of County Judge Henry Stumbo during the four years that he has served as County Judge of Floyd county. Where matters concerning the various veterans' clubs were being considered by Judge Stumbo, we have found him to be very interested in helping us onto greater progress, and we feel that he has a deep interest in veterans affairs in Floyd county.

On the many occasions when individual veterans have appeared before him in the Quarterly Court, we have noticed that Judge Stumbo has treated these particular veterans with fairness and justice, always giving them the benefit of clemency when possible.

Accordingly, the veterans of Floyd county heartily endorse his candidacy for the office of County Judge of Floyd county for the next four years on the Democratic ticket, and favorably recommend him to the voters at the November 3rd, 1953 General Election.

Maytown 4-H Club Members Set Mark At Fairs, Ag Events

Now that exhibitions at the state and county fairs are over, records of the two events show that the three members of the Maytown 4-H club who are sons and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Lowe copied more prize ribbons than any family in the county.

Palmer Keith, Donald and Claudena Lowe received a total of 35 ribbons in the Floyd County Fair. Claudena had already taken two at the State Fair. In addition, the two boys were selected as 4-H district champions who will go to the state contests at Lexington.

Their achievements are only a part of the record of the Maytown 4-H Club. Zena Bradley, another member of the club, is a district 4-H champion. Reba Salyers took six ribbons at the State Fair while Brenda Salyers added two more. The two Lowe boys were also members of the county poultry judging team of three that won third place in the state. Tommy Martin, the third member of the team, scored highest on the team.

Zena Bradley, of the Club, was a style revue specialist at 4-H Junior Week held at Lexington. Nearly all the members of the club exhibiting at the county fair in many departments took several ribbons, winning also as a club group a prize for the best 4-H club exhibit and secretary book.

An aftermath of the 4-H club work of the Lowe family will be the appearance of Palmer Keith and Donald on WSAZ-TV sometime in early December with the other district champions.

COUNTY HELD NOT LIABLE

For Payment of Bonds Issued for Purchase of Utilities Firms

A ruling from the Attorney General's office was received here Wednesday by County Attorney W. W. Burchett holding that the county bonds recently issued for the purchase of various gas and water systems in the county are not the obligation of Floyd county but are payable only out of revenues derived from the several utilities projects.

The opinion, written by H. D. Reed, Jr., assistant attorney general, follows:

"Your letter of recent date questions whether or not bonds issued by a county pursuant to Chapter 58 of the Kentucky Revised Statutes would impose a liability on the part of the county for the payment of these bonds, other than the obligation to pay them from revenues derived from the public project which the proceeds of the bonds have constructed.

"Your attention is directed to KRS 58.040, the applicable portion of which provides: 'The bonds shall be payable solely from the revenue derived from the public project and shall not constitute an indebtedness of the state, county, city or political subdivision within the meaning of the Constitution'. In view of this section, if the bonds have been properly issued under Chapter 58 of the Kentucky Revised Statutes no obligation on the part of the county has been created other than to retire the bonds from revenues derived from the project."

NO SCHOOLS WILL LOSE
UNDER WETHERBY PLAN

Special to The Times

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 27 — No school district in Kentucky will lose money through passage of the amendment to Section 187 of the constitution if the General Assembly follows recommendations of Governor Wetherby which will make when the body convenes here in January.

Wetherby made this clear in television and radio appearances last week in which he urged support of the amendment, which deals with the distribution of common school funds. He had earlier made the same promise in his first statement endorsing the amendment.

The constitution as it now stands is stringent in its regulations for distributing school money. Under the amendment, the Legislature would be allowed to devise a means of spending funds where they are needed most.

"No school district should have money taken away from it to help another," Wetherby said in reassuring districts that have expressed concern over losing funds as a result of the amendment.

"If the amendment is passed, I will recommend to the Legislature that present methods of distributing funds be continued if the total appropriation to common schools is the same for the next biennium as it is for the current two years. If the appropriation is more, I will recommend that the additional money be placed in the equalization fund for distribution according to sound school financing principles.

"Under this method, no district will have less money to spend in future years and the poorer districts may have more," the Governor explained.

Wetherby said he had "great confidence" in the members of the General Assembly and called on the public to trust him with determining an equitable method of sharing the school funds.

The Governor also came out strongly last week for the other Constitutional amendment that will appear on the ballot Nov. 3. The "short ballot" amendment, as the measure is called, would provide for only five officials elected state-wide and would give the General Assembly the authority to determine how the treasurer, secretary of state, commissioner of Agriculture and superintendent of public instruction are selected.

BE YOUR OWN JUDGE

Last year the Good Government Taxpayers League asked Judge Stumbo to turn into the County Treasury $2,000 that was long past due. The Judge cried politics and smear to his reputation, however he later paid the $2,000.

A few weeks ago when the grand jury indicted him for neglect of duty, again the Judge cried politics, and tried to prove his innocence by citing a statute other than the one under which the indictment was drawn. Now he says the publication of the Deal is just another attempt to smear his official reputation. We ask only that you make this test. Go to the courthouse and read the records of the Henry Stumbo Deal in order book 6. Then go to your own personal attorney or to some close business associate and lay the facts before him. Tell him what you read on order book 6. We assure you that he will tell you Floyd county has bought old run-down properties at a fantastic price and that the taxpayers of this county have now saddled upon them a burden for many years to come. All done that a few might profit.

STATE OIL PRODUCTION SET RECORD LAST YEAR

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 19 — Kentucky's oil production for 1952 reached an all-time high of 11,917,903 barrels—571,121 barrels above 1951, the previous high year, it was disclosed today by A. D. Sisk, chief of the State Department of Mines and Minerals.

Increase was principally due to increased drilling in the western and south-central portions of the state, with water-flood projects in both eastern and western Kentucky accounting for part of the increase.

The western Kentucky field was the most active section, according to Sisk, accounting for a majority of the new discoveries and approximately 80 per cent of the total oil production. This section accounted for 1,139 wells drilled, compared with 1,060 for the preceding year.

Eastern Kentucky developments were limited principally to further extension of the Big Sandy gas field, and a small oil pool was discovered in Greenup county, while the south-central area, principally because of the Monroe county development, accounted for increased production of approximately 150,000 barrels.

Western Kentucky produced 270,770,000 cubic feet of natural gas while the eastern Kentucky field accounted for open-flow development of 147,772,000 cubic feet.

Vote Your Conscience and You Vote Right

A public official should be a man who is not only qualified in the technical sense but who has the necessary qualities to administer the office he seeks with a sense of justice, of right and wrong. He should be a man who is sober himself for if he sits in judgment he needs clean hands. The law commands respect when it is administered by those who cannot be reproached.

Worth Music is a candidate for magistrate. He is the one candidate upon whom no reproaches have been heaped, upon whom have descended no whispering campaigns, who has not been attacked either for his public or private record.

The record of his life speaks no evil whatever. He has been honest, sober and accommodating. You have heard that before but you never heard it denied in regard to Worth Music. He is that and a lot more. He is a good man. He believes in the things you and all of us believe—good churches, good schools, a good neighborhood.

Make this test. Go into his neighborhood, call on his neighbors and ask them about the man's life. They will tell you what we now say—that Worth Music is a man above reproach.

What more can be offered in a candidate? What better qualifications for any office than these qualities of mind and spirit that establishes a man above reproach? You are the judge. After you have asked Worth Music's neighbors then ask your conscience how you should vote.

MUSIC CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

"VOTE YOUR CONSCIENCE— AND YOU VOTE RIGHT"

This Is the TRUTH-- and It HURTS

Judge Henry Stumbo in last week's Times says "Let's Look at the Record". We have already looked at the record, Judge Stumbo, and now we propose to look into what you say. The record itself on Order Book 6 was bad enough. What you say in an attempt to explain is much worse.

You say that the omission of one fact was deliberate. Not so, Judge Stumbo. We did not have room in an article of the size necessary to explain for the public all of the ramifications of the BIG DEAL. What you say we left out was the setting up of the special fund called, "Waterworks and Gas System Project Bond and Redemption Fund for 1953". Certainly that fund was set up as the medium whereby Floyd county collected into, from the Beaver Elkhorn Water District, the revenue necessary to pay off the bondholders. You made this necessary arrangement with the bondholders so they could get their money when the bonds mature. Every bondholder expects to be paid. You merely set up the necessary legal machinery for them to collect.

You say, Judge Stumbo, in your article: "That the truth is Floyd county acts merely as a fiscal agent or as a holding company for the water and gas district, just as it has acted in the past for the Floyd County Board of Education".

You got your lines mixed on that one Judge. You mean Floyd county bought the water and gas systems and that the Beaver Elkhorn Water District is the county's agent, don't you? At least that is what the Record says in Order Book 6. That record says Floyd county bought these systems for $230,000 and issued bonds for the money to pay. Your court made the Beaver Elkhorn Water District the agent of the county. The county is no holding company for anyone, Judge. The county is the outright purchaser. You were acting as agent for nobody. You were acting for yourself and in so doing you acted for Floyd county, much to our regret.

You say Judge, "It was considered and talked in open court". Was it, Judge? Was it in the county court room or in the now famous little cubby hole in the back of the County Court Clerk's office where you meet lots of times, and the general public can't even get its head in? Anyway, why was it not a matter of common knowledge that Floyd county had bought these water and gas districts? You had a one-time notice of the Bond offer published in The Courier-Journal. Why didn't you give the matter wide publicity and feel the public reaction to the Big Deal? We know why, Judge. The public, if it had been properly informed, would not have tolerated it. You say: "It was not my idea, I assure you, we acted in good faith representing a group of citizens who in turn represented the water district".

Now Judge, we take you up on that one, right here. Set down and make us out a list of these people who represents the water district, and whose idea it was, since you say it wasn't yours. Write down the owners of the various water and gas districts. While you are doing that, Judge, write down what the middlemen paid for these properties. We already know what they got. We want to see what their profit was. We challenge you to prepare a list of the interested parties who worked the deal up and to write out in detail every name of the owners of these properties who sold to the counties.

Explain why the bonds were sold at a TEN PERCENT discount, and why the interest rate was much more than it usually is. Judge, explain why Floyd county bonds have to sell under par. The recent school board issue sold above par at a lower rate of interest.

Judge, you warn people against half-truths. You better warn them against the whole truth. When the public knows the whole truth it will be righteous in anger and indignation. Only you can tell the whole truth. We challenge you to tell it in the Floyd County Times, and to leave no names and figures out.

We warn you, Judge, that the people are not satisfied with your cries of politics, and smear to your official reputation, because they are looking at your record as it is written in Order Book 6.

FOOTBALL CHATTER

By GORDON MOORE

Promoters of the Recreation Bowl in Mt. Sterling and the Big Sandy Bowl in Paintsville, which feature four of Kentucky's outstanding prep football teams, possibly hurt their gate and gave little consideration to fans of the Cumberland Valley conference when they scheduled both games for November 13.

The C. V. C. leaders—Lynch and Cumberland—clash with undefeated Lafayette and Catlettsburg in the respective Bowls.

Lynch and Cumberland will decide which has the better team this Friday night in their battle for the C. V. C. crown.

Whitesburg will attempt to stop Lafayette this week in Lexington. Jenkins fell before the state's fifth-ranked team, 38-0, last Friday. The Yellow Jackets are virtually assured of the 1953 E. K. M. C. championship, with only Wayland left in conference play. They have won five in a row.

If Whitesburg can be used as a measuring stick, E. K. M. C. football is woefully weak this season, since the heir-apparent to the E. K. M. C. crown bowed to Cumberland, 26-20, and was whitewashed 57-0 by Lynch.

Belfry's end, Bob Greer, may have established some sort of punting record last Friday as he averaged 52 yards in five tries—one for 65 yards. His teammate, center Lawson King is one of the finest linemen ever to play in the Big Sandy Valley.

Prestonsburg and Wayland vie for Floyd county football supremacy this Friday in the county seat, so come out and boost your team. Both have a 2-3 mark in league play.

Miss McComas Ranks Third at Pike Speech Festival Last Week

Special to The Times
Pikeville, Ky., Oct. 25 — A Prestonsburg high school girl placed third in public speaking at the Pikeville Regional Speech Festival here yesterday.

Anna McComas, Prestonsburg, was rated close behind two other students who were tied for first place in the event at Pikeville Junior College. Dr. A. A. Page, college president, reported. The tie was broken in a conference of judges to give Janet Stout, M. C. Napier high school, Hazard, first place and the right to represent the region in the state meet this Saturday (Oct. 31.) Second went to Peggy Ford, Pikeville College Academy.

A total of 36 students from 12 high schools took part in the meet, which included only the two events, both using the subject, "The Minimum Foundation Plan for Education in Kentucky." They were moved ahead from the festivals' usual spring date in order to arouse interest in the question before next month's elections, it was said.

Mrs. Cora Cook is speech coach at Prestonsburg.

Dr. Gifford Blyton, of the University of Kentucky, headed the judges, who also included two University students.

ORIGINAL CONSTITUTION GONE

By MALCOLM PATTERSON
(In The Courier-Journal)

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 24 — The day was hot and dry, just like many that drought-stricken Kentucky had been having lately. Shade trees around the old State Capitol in North Frankfort were heavy-laden with dust. Horses' hooves made slow clop-clop sounds on the streets.

Up in the House chamber on the second floor of the old Capitol leading political figures were assembled from all over Kentucky. They had been arriving for days by train and by steamboat.

That was the scene as described in a Legislative Research Commission report, as they convened the first session of the Constitutional Convention that had required about 20 years to call.

The day was September 8, 1890. There followed 224 more days of sessions, days of discussion and debate, writing and rewriting.

At the 228th session, late in the afternoon of September 28, 1891, 96 delegates went to the clerk's desk to sign a copy of Kentucky's new Constitution.

The document had been written in a fine script by William Randall Ramsel, delegate from Laurel and Rookcastle counties. Signed, it was turned over to the secretary of state's office.

Today, as Kentucky voters are considering two constitutional questions, one of the most remarkable things about that document is the fact it is missing—has been mysteriously gone from State archives for years.

So Kentucky, somewhat like

England, is living without a written constitution. There is a difference, of course. England never had a written constitution. Kentucky just doesn't have the one that Ramsey wrote out in longhand, as voters debate the promised "school" and "short-ballot" amendments to be voted on November 3.

The research report says a typewritten document in the State's possession apparently was copied from the handwritten document that has been missing for more than 30 years.

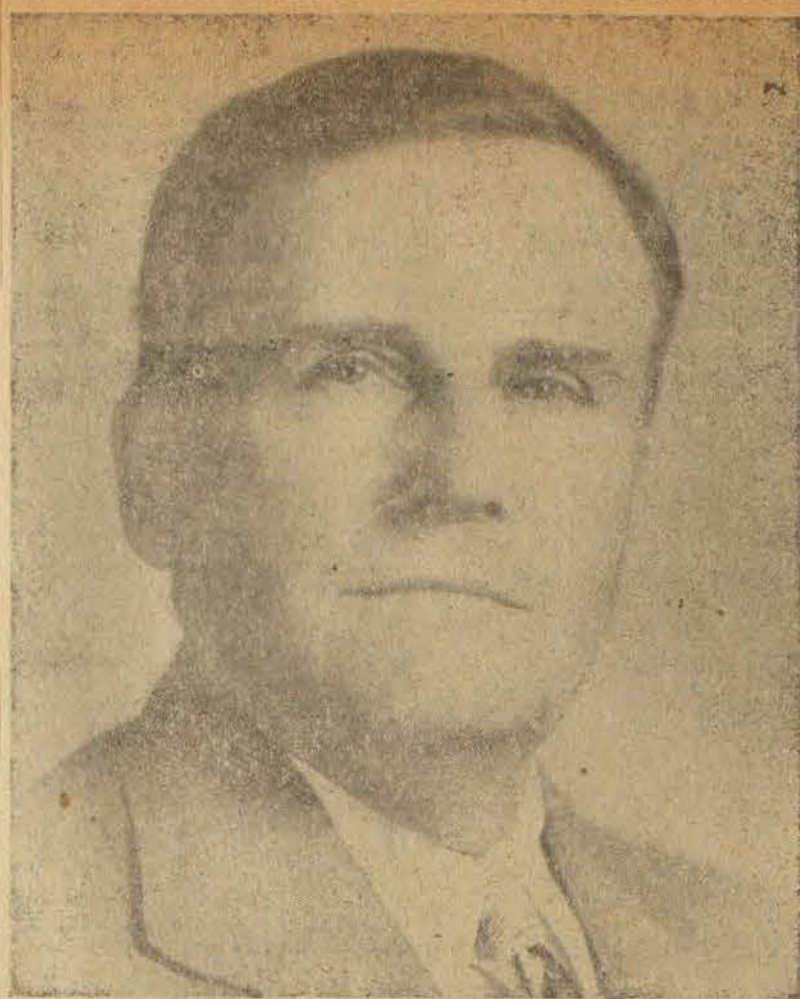

Bayless E. Hardin, secretary of the Kentucky Historical Society, said this week the society has at its headquarters, which incidentally are in the old Capitol, what he believes is the original text of the 1891 Constitution. It and the names of its signers are typewritten. Hardin said the delegate with the good handwriting copied the long-hand document for the delegates to sign.

There've been different theories about not only the missing 1891 longhand document, but also the 1792, 1799, and 1849 constitutions, all of which were missing at one time.

In 1948 the original copies of the 1792 and 1799 constitutions were returned to Earle C. Clements when he was Governor. He declined then to say how, when, or where he had received them, only remarking, "They were delivered to me. It's enough to say that they are found."

But the 1849 and 1891 texts are still missing.

I am very thankful for the kind interest that you have shown me in the past. I will greatly appreciate your support in this election.

I have always conducted my political campaigns on a high level. I have always been aware of the feelings of my opponents and their friends and their loved ones. I have never knowingly wounded anyone's feelings, or spread unkind gossip about any of my opponents or their loved ones. It has always been my nature and desire to be kind and considerate of others.

I have always tried to live a good, clean life; to do my level best for the good of my county and my country.

I have faith in humanity, and I have always tried to see the good that there is in everyone, and to help them achieve success and happiness in this life, and hope for a better World in the Great Beyond. Never will I lend my thoughts or my conduct to the tearing down or the destroying of the good that there is in the life of anyone, whether they be my colleague or my adversary. I firmly believe that no man can build himself up by tearing down his fellowmen. I will always work for that which is good, right and noble and honest.

Your County Court Clerk's office has been well kept in the past. We have worked long and hard and been faithful and true to your trust. SUPPORT ASKED

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 12 — Superintendent of Public Instruction Wendell P. Butler called on public school officials to join in the campaign to strike out of the Constitution the present Section 186 which, he said, only increases inequities and waste.

"The issue involved in amending Section 186 of the Constitution is an educational one," he wrote school officials. "Passage of the amendment will make it possible to adopt a valid, State-wide program of education. As long as Section 186 is in effect, additional funds will only increase inequities and waste."

Prestonsburg Hands Belfry First Conference Loss, 7-0

PASTURE DEMONSTRATION

A pasture demonstration on the G. G. Auxier farm in Johnson county includes a sodway to carry off excess water, reports Curle Ferguson, assistant county agent for the University of Kentucky. The soil was tested and then treated with limestone and fertilizer and seeded with rye and Ky. 31 fescue.

TIMES WANT ADS PAY—USE THEM REGULARLY!

The Prestonsburg Black Cats thrilled some 3,500 homecoming fans last Friday night as quarterback Lowell Hughes and halfbacks Clifford and Ronnie Goble sparked an 88-yard march in the final two minutes to drop Belfry, 7-0.

In suffering their first defeat in conference play, Belfry was eliminated from contention as a title contender, and Prestonsburg upped its loop standing to 2-3 and an overall record of 5-3.

Both teams blew several scoring opportunities in the bitterly-fought contest, and six fumbles—four by Prestonsburg—had no effect on the scoring.

Belfry's fine defensive line, led by all-state-candidate Lawson King at center, stopped Prestonsburg's first scoring threat midway the first period on the five-yard line. Clifford "Punkin" Goble and Hughes were instrumental in gaining three first downs to put the ball in scoring position, but Belfry shoved the 'Cats back to the 20 after four downs.

The Pirates zoomed into Black Cat territory on a 15-yard aerial from quarterback Bud Brunty to Teddy Shannon, and three plays later to the 19 on Billy Smith's end sweep. But the Black Cat forward wall of Charles Salyers, Bert Dixon, Bucky Burchett, Randall Wells, Ed Ousley, and Paul Ousley held on fourth down.

C. Goble intercepted one of Brunty's passes on the 20 before the half ended to quell the second drive of the period.

Hughes ran the second half kick-off back to the midfield and on successive downs, Alexander, Johnny Thompson, C. Goble and R. Goble sped to the 15, then the first of four third-quarter fumbles kept the Black Cats inside their own 20-yard line for the next 12 minutes.

Following an exchange of kicks in the final frame, center Joe Tackett recovered a fumble on the Pirate 49 and a play later C. Goble raced to the 35 for a first down, but the heavier Pirates refused to give ground and took over. After failing to make any appreciable gain, Bob Greer, who had a punting average of 52 yards for the night, kicked to the Prestonsburg 12.

With two minutes and 20 seconds left and Belfry apparently willing to settle for a tie, Hughes replaced Alexander at the signal-calling post and promptly completed 3 of 5 passes to R. Goble and C. Goble, sandwiched between ten-yard gallops by the Gobles for a first down on the Belfry 15.

Ronnie Goble then electrified the crowd by slipping 15 yards around right end for the game's first scoring, only to have the elusive Jaunt nullified by a holding penalty.

C. Goble picked up enough yardage on the next two plays to offset the penalty and put the ball on the 18. Then Hughes pitched a perfect strike to C. Goble on the two and Goble stepped into pay dirt for the victory. Hughes split the uprights with the extra point attempt while the stands roared.

A Doc Ferrell-coached team has never lost to Belfry and in winning Prestonsburg has lost only one game on the home field in the last four years—that, a 7-6 decision to Jenkins in 1952.

"The time to be happy is now. The place to be happy is here. The way to happiness... making others happy."

Here are three short simple sentences... each only seven words in length... but each containing a volume of wisdom. So often we can't see the forest for the trees and SO IT IS WITH HAPPINESS. It lies so close and is within such easy grasp that all too often it escapes us completely. By regretting what happened yesterday, and fearing what might happen tomorrow, we may lose the blessings which surround us today.

The things which are closest to us are the very things which bring us the most happiness. Our home, our families, our friends. Yet how often do we put those very things aside to chase nonexistent rainbows with non-existent pots of gold at the end of the road.

Like perfume, we cannot miss having happiness fall on ourselves if we but try to spread it among others... so let's make up our minds to enjoy WHAT we have, WHILE we have it, and to share our blessings with others less fortunate than we.

WASPS DOWN ELKHORN CITY

Knight Runs, Passes Wayland to Second Grid Win of Year

Wayland's undermanned Wasps won their second game of the season last Friday night by whipping the Elkhorn City Cougars 19-6. Both wins have been in E. K. M. C. play.

Quarterback Jimmy Knight gave Dave Adams' charges a 6-0 lead in the first canto as he whirled 40 yards through the Pike county team for the marker. The conversion attempt was wide. The Cougars tied the count at 6-all by marching 50 yards in the initial quarter.

Wayland moved to a 12-6 half-time command on Knight's 35 yard pay-off pass to end Don Murphy, and the Wasps added an insurance touchdown in the third on John Murphy's four-yard plunge. Meadows kicked the point after.

The Wasps will battle the Prestonsburg Black Cats in Prestonsburg this Friday night for the Floyd county grid championship.

Alfalfa Improved

Warren county farmers who applied boron and potash got almost a third more alfalfa, according to observations of UK County Agent E. R. Russell. Boron increased growth and kept the tops of the plants from turning yellow, while potash kept the plants from turning yellow at the bottom. Where both boron and potash were used, the alfalfa showed good color and vigorous growth.

ELECT FOSTER "Sid" MEADE

MAGISTRATE, DISTRICT 3

Don't you people in Floyd county think it is time to elect men who are qualified and have no political rings in their nose? The office of Magistrate is one of the most important offices in the county. The four Magistrates and the County Judge make up the fiscal court, and the fiscal court disperses every tax dollar collected.

I have two college degrees and have taught school twelve years on Left Beaver Creek. During that time I had some 600 pupils, and I treated every one of them fair and square, and I believe 99 percent of them will tell you just that. I am personally interested in the welfare of veterans, because I spent three years in World War II. I am personally interested in the coal miners, because my only brother earns his bread from toiling between two rocks. I am personally interested in the welfare of orphans, because my father died when I was five years of age.

I am opposed to a "mud-slinging" campaign, therefore I will not say anything against the record of your Magistrate in District No. 3. Ellis Martin has been your Magistrate for the past four years and you voters know his record as well as I do.

If you think he has been a better Magistrate than I can and will make you, then I don't deserve your support. If you think that I am a well-qualified young man who has the welfare of all the people at heart and will not let outlaws and "hatchet deputies" control me, then I deserve and will always be grateful for your support.

Snow White, Dwarfs Point Need of Change For Better Education

Martin school pupils, teachers and patrons held a rally recently in the high school auditorium for a better understanding of Section 186 and why it should be amended. The band, under the direction of Miss Betty Lou Hall, presented a concert of favorite selections. A pantomime of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, by the first seven grades, was enacted while Jerry Grigsby, a seventh grader, read a paraphrased version of the familiar story. The following characters were represented:

Snow White—Average or normal school child; Witch Queen—Section 186; Prince Charming—Minimum Foundation Program; Dopey—Safety; Sneezzy—Sanitation; Sleepy—Transportation; Happy—Handicapped Children; Bashful—Overcrowded Schoolroom; Grumpy—Mr. Normal Child; Doc—Drop-outs.

Following this presentation, a student conversed with a make-believe voter, explaining to that voter just why he should vote "YES" on amending Section 186, November 3. A group of students then held a panel discussion on this issue.

The speaker, Mr. Brown, of Pike county, drove home the fact that we are at the educational crossroads where every voter must take a definite stand, either for or against better schools.

Wheelwright Women Back Section Change; Donate to Girl Scouts

Mrs. W. B. After his talk members asked questions about certain points of the proposed amendment which they did not understand fully.

The Club agreed to support the Minimum Foundation Program.

The Club also voted to join the $30 Club of the Girl Scouts, this money to apply towards building the Girl Scout Camp on Dewey Lake; also to donate $25 towards the purchase of a bookmobile unit.

QUESTIONS THE JUDGE DIDN'T ANSWER

AND

FACTS about the BIG DEAL

In a recent issue of The Floyd County Times and in handbills we called upon Judge Henry Stumbo to explain THE BIG DEAL, to set out who profited by this huge financial legerdemain, and just what the BIG DEAL meant to the taxpayers of Floyd county. Silence answered us. He knows and we know that nothing he can say will explain or wipe that out.

We ourselves do not know all the many angles and ramifications of the BIG DEAL. We can only read the records. This we have done. We therefore, since Judge Henry Stumbo will not, will attempt a partial explanation of certain things about the DEAL. We defy Judge Henry Stumbo to deny the truth of anything we say.

The various gas and water district properties are worth by the judgment of disinterested business men something around $25,000 to $40,000. No more. We are prepared, if necessary, to deliver under signed statements, analyses of their worth by prominent Floyd county business men who will state, that is all they are worth.

We say that the BIG DEAL gets worse and worse every time it is examined by us. We thought at first glance it was a mere bond issue for $230,000 but in taking the interest of $179,950 into account we find the whole amount saddled upon the taxpayers to be $409,950. Nearly half a million dollars. In a few years it will be necessary, because some of the districts are losing money now, to refinance the Big Project. It is conceivable that this thing will finally cost Floyd county nearly a million dollars. Our children will be carrying some of this load in the years to come.

You say this bond issue is not an obligation of Floyd county. Let us point out something, Judge Stumbo. If a man buys something it is his and any liability accruing from the ownership is a liability of the owner. You know that. Every lawyer, every business man, teacher, farmer, every adult voter knows that the owner of a property has thrust upon him by law, liability of that ownership. If that had not been so the men who staged the BIG DEAL, and the bondholders would not have asked the bonds be issued in the name of Floyd county. Now here, Judge Stumbo, we want to ask a question. We know they may be embarrassing questions, but remember you are the duly elected county judge, and a candidate for re-election. The voters are entitled to know:

Question No. 1. Who bought from the Elkhorn Coal Corporation the Wayland Gas and Water District for $22,000, and was permitted to sell the water district off for $5,000? This would leave $17,000 in the gas district. Who sold that gas system to Floyd county for $67,500 and made a profit of $50,500?

Question No. 2. Will you deny, Judge Stumbo, that the Allen-Dwale gas system could have been bought a year ago for $12,000, but that Floyd county bought it for $45,000?

Question No. 3. Who said, Judge Stumbo, "They (taxpayers) don't have a leg to stand on". Did you state that under oath on the witness stand?

Question No. 4. Who bought Garrett-Bosco gas system for $2,400 and began to lose money and then sold to another man for $10,000 just before the Big Deal was brought off, and did this man sell to Floyd county for $45,000? Don't you read the records in the Clerk's office?

Enough of questions, Judge. You won't answer anyway. But we say this and defy you to disagree with us. If you knew what all was going on around you in pulling off the Big Deal, if you knew certain men were making fortunes in it, then you knew you betrayed Floyd county when you voted for the Big Deal. Remember you voted first all the time according to the record. If you didn't know what was going on, then you were the most gullible man who ever acted as County Judge.

Judge Stumbo, you remember one of the most prominent men in Eastern Kentucky appeared before you and in the interest of the taxpayers and Floyd county, and advised against the Big Deal. This man, Judge, knew the implications for this county. He had read the law. You did too Judge Stumbo. And here is what you read:

Section 58.130 of Kentucky Statutes reads: "Any governmental agency may use for the purpose of acquiring, constructing, maintaining, extending or improving a public project, or for the payment of interest or principal on any revenue bonds issued by the agency pursuant to K. R. S. 58.010 to 58.140, any funds or tax revenues available for general purposes of the agency and not required by law to be devoted to some other purpose." When the old, worn-out gas and water system begins to totter on their legs and ready for bankruptcy, when their revenue fails to support them and pay the principal and interest on the huge bond issue, then the county will have to dig into the tax revenues, under K. R. S. 58.130, to pay up. Any court in the land will force you to do it and you know it. That is why our children will have to assume the burden.

A few final questions, Judge Henry Stumbo, on another matter. Why was it necessary to indict you for neglect of duty in the matter of roads? Why did you pick out a case having no bearing on your case at all, and try to use that case of the Court of Appeals to show you were wrongfully indicted? Here is the case, Judge, under which you were indicted. It is the Commonwealth vs. Boyle County Fiscal Court. The Court of Appeals said in that case and it was almost exactly like your case: "The proper remedy being an indictment against the officers composing the court for wilful neglect in the discharge of their official duties." The court further said: "These officials are invested with the necessary discretion as to the manner of discharging the duties of their offices. But this discretion is not one that can set at naught the duty. Their discretion consists in the manner how, not in the matter whether, the highway shall be kept in a fit condition for public use." Again let us point out that Statute 61.170 states you are subject to indictment for neglect of official duties.

We bring this matter of indictment against you, Judge Stumbo, because it is never mentioned by you. You forgot to mention it or the Big Deal either on the radio last week. You are such a great road-builder, Judge Stumbo, then why didn't you use the $230,000 to build about 50 miles of blacktop rural roads instead of buying old, worn-out gas and water districts? If roads were built taxpayers would get something for their money.

Before parting with you Judge Henry Stumbo, we want to go back to the bond issue in the Big Deal. Read one, Judge. It says: "Said county covenants that said public project will be continuously operated as a revenue producing undertaking, and that it will fix or cause to be fixed such rates for services furnished." That is why the miners and farmers of Beaver Creek had their gas and water rates raised last month, Judge, and that is how money is being taken from the partly employed miner. You are bound by a bargain to make these old gas and water systems pay.

Judge Stumbo, you have been telling the voters that the bond issue, and the operation of the business, is no concern of the county, that the county is merely a "holding company" for the gas and water systems, and that the county is not obligated in any way. Let us see, Judge. We can read, and as ordinary citizens we have a little understanding. Go back with us and read again: "Said county covenants that said public project will be continuously operated as a revenue producing undertaking." If Floyd county is not obligated to operate or see that these systems are operated, then we can't read or understand either.

You have a lot of explaining to do, Judge Stumbo, and the time is getting short. What we have asked you, we did so in good faith. We didn't skip any questions because they were embarrassing to you. We ask you to answer if they are embarrassing.

It is your duty to the voters. We shall not be satisfied with half-truths, evasions or double-talk. Leave out the double-talk. Explain, piece by piece, just what we have asked you. Don't cover anything up, or evasions now Judge.

Dear Fellow Floyd Countians:

For the past six weeks I have been continuously campaigning, trying my best to see every voter in Floyd county. However, I regret to say that there are many I will not be able to see because time is short.

For the past two months, I have brought you the issues in the County Court Clerk's race. I have said nothing I cannot prove by the record and nothing I will apologize for.

Furthermore, I want you to know that my opponent has not exercised his great American privilege of discussing his indebtedness of $4,600.09 that the fiscal court has ordered him to pay back. If you, the voter, have any doubts about the accuracy of my statements just ask Henry Stumbo or Ellis Martin, or any of the other magistrates because they all signed the order demanding DuRan Moore to pay the above amount back. He has thus far refused to do so.

However, as a good American and a good Floyd countian I do not wish to be elected because of the failures and shortcomings of my opponent. I want to pledge you now that I and my assistant, Imogene Stumbo Moore, will do everything in our power to keep your records straight and establish for you an honest and efficient office. All my as-
