Now that our youngsters are ready to leave for college, some of you parents may find this from the pen of Thomas Huxley as interesting as I found it:

"Perhaps the most valuable result of an education is the ability to make yourself do the thing you have to do when it ought to be done whether you like it or not; it is the first lesson that ought to be learned."

I may print this in form suitable for framing in a certain young gentleman's room, and could be persuaded to print a few extra copies if any of you parents think your youngsters need to be reminded of this truth.

A TALE OF TWO BROTHERS

The recent death of Ernest Shannon, of Louisa, recalls my acquaintance, years ago, with one of the great preachers of the country. This man was the late Dr. Frederick F. Shannon, brother of Ernest, who from a printer's devil on The Big Sandy News at Louisa rose to the pulpit of Chicago's great Central Church and to become rated by the old Literary Digest as one of the 10 greatest preachers in America.

A precocious youngster whose reading had been confined to Young Wild West and some of the other so-called "trash" of the day, young Shannon was given copies of PILGRIM'S PROGRESS and LAST DAYS OF POMPEII by the late Milton F. Conley, editor of the Louisa newspaper. After that, the boy read everything he and Mr. Conley could

Seven of nine places raided within the last two weeks by Sheriff's deputies yielded beer and/or whiskey in varying quantities.

Two private clubs yielded the heaviest hauls. The Eagles Club, raided here Aug. 21, and a private club at Martin, which was raided a week later, yielded 18-half-pints of whiskey each and beer.

Other places searched the night of Aug. 21 and the results:

Tom Bates service station and restaurant on Abner Fork, beer, wine and whiskey; Wade Holbrook on Abner Fork, a small quantity of whiskey; Dora Johnson, between Wheelwright Junction and Melvin, two cans of beer. Last Saturday night's raids were:

Place operated by Wade Little on Abner Fork, four half-pints of whiskey; the Shingle Top, between Allen and Martin, three cases of beer, two half-pints of whiskey; places operated by Willard and Banner Burchett at Knotley Hollow, no intoxicants found.

Ernest Stone was jailed Sunday of drunk driving by Deputy Sheriff Ed Amburgy, and Mel Click was booked the following day by Deputy Sheriff Troy Mullins on a charge of carrying a concealed deadly weapon.

Defendants in all these cases were released on bond.

Aim for Youth Center

Members of the inter-club committee formed to explore the possibility of establishing a supervised Youth Center expressed concern this week over what was termed the inaccuracy of a news-story published in The Times last week.

The Times story reported that representatives of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club, the City Council and others had indicated their interest in buying from John Allen and Byron Nunnery the W. S. Harkins home on Arnold avenue for use as a Youth Center and possibly for library and other community purposes.

"Actually," said Mrs. Lon C. Hill, chairman of the inter-club committee, "this committee was formed as an exploratory committee to look into the possibility of establishing a youth center in Prestonsburg, and we have never considered buying any property."

Mrs. Hill indicated that the present plans is to rent quarters for a youth center.

"After we had canvassed the local situation for two weeks," Mrs. Hill said, "we felt the interest shown by parents and civic groups justified the appointment of sub-committees to take practical steps toward establishing a youth center where young people could play games and dance under supervision."

"We already have been assured of support from the Kiwanis Club, and we expect to enlist the support of all active civic organizations whose members are interested in the recreational facilities offered to our young people," she added.

The organizational meeting of the committee was held August 25. Chairmen appointed for sub-committees are:

Finance, H. C. Francis, Jr.; Location, Herschell Tackett; Supervision, Mrs. Frank H. Layne; Regulations, Mrs. W. W. Cooley.

Attending the organizational meeting were Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Layne and Mrs. Cooley, all of the Woman's Club; Mrs. W. S. Harkins, Parent-Teacher Association president; Mrs. George P. Archer and Mrs. Chalmers H. Frazier, of the Kiwanians; H. C. Francis, Jr., Herschell Tackett and Dr. George P. Archer, of the Kiwanis Club, and Tom James, Area C. American Legion, commander.

Those taking part in earlier sessions included Mrs. Johnny Ellis, of the Junior Woman's Club; Mrs. R. V. May and Mrs. W. W. Burchett, of the Kiwanians; Robert S. Well-

UMW EXPECTS
HUGE CROWDAt Hazard Celebration Of Labor Day; Hobbs
Prepares For Event

Floyd county miners, their families and friends will add to the crowd which is expected to number 30,000 persons gathering at Hazard Monday for the annual Labor Day celebration by District 30, United Mine Workers of America.

Noble Hobbs, of Lexington, formerly of this county, who is secretary of the 46-member Labor Day celebration committee, has been in Hazard several days preparing for the big event.

The program will be at the old Hazard Bomber Baseball Park, much of which will be set off for parking, Hobbs said. It will be held from about noon until 5 p.m.

This will be the 10th year for the celebration, Hobbs said he based his estimate of attendance on previous years. The celebration was in Pikeville last year.

Speakers will be District 30 President Sam Caddy, Lexington, and William Hynes, president of District 4, Uniontown, Pa.

Professional entertainers will perform in a two-hour program that will include dancing, chorus line, and orchestra, a quartet, hill-billy and folk music, acrobatics and other acts, Hobbs said high school bands from throughout Eastern Kentucky also will play for the event.

The celebration committee, Hobbs said, represents 153 U.M.W. local unions in District 30, which comprises mining areas in the Kentucky River and Big Sandy valleys. B. B. Bloomer, Pikeville, will be master of ceremonies.

The celebration, Hobbs said, will honor the coal miners as representing an important segment of the nation's labor force.

Surviving children are Roy Lykins, St. Mary, O., Charles Lykins, Salina, O., Frank Lykins, Sandy Hook, Ky., and Mrs. Maggie Marshall, of St. Louis. Forty-Three At Martin; Public's Reaction Cited

The long-deferred effort to enforce the dog law finally got under way in this county last week when Roy Cook, warden, began operations in localities designated as having canine problems. No special effort was made by Cook to cover any Magisterial district in its entirety as was originally planned, but work was done at Martin and other places.

Martin is one of five incorporated towns in this county, Cook pointed out, and his activities in and around Martin were under the auspices of the Martin police force who solicited his aid. Forty-three strays were picked up and destroyed at Martin. Cook has a pound at Drift he rented to the county some time ago.

Cook, in commenting on the public's reaction to enforcement, said he has found that dog owners are confusing a rabies tag with the owner's tag required by law. Several owners on Caney Creek refused to buy the latter tag and will be cited to appear in court. "Nineteen out of 20 asked to buy tags are co-operating fine," said Cook, "but that twentieth man can make more noise than a kicking mule in a tin barn."

Cook said that he was going only into incorporated places at the request of and with the aid of the local officers. He said that most, if not all incorporated towns, like Martin, had their own dog ordinances, and compliance is much more effective if made with the assistance of the local police.

The warden announced that his present schedule calls for work in Magisterial District No. 4 the

Store-Owner Here
Injured in Wreck

W. O. Goebel, owner of the Ben Franklin Store here, was injured Tuesday afternoon when his auto wrecked at Lancer. It was said he lost control of his car which crashed into another auto parked at the roadside. He was taken to the Prestonsburg General hospital. His condition is satisfactory, and he has been removed to his home here.

Daniels told police he went to New York three weeks ago in search of work and that his money had run out. Climbing the bridge, he dropped a shoe, then articles from his pockets.

The shoe that was dropped on the Ashland-Coal Grove Bridge in 1953 had a note inside. The note read that Daniels had come

ENROLLMENTS
INDICATE GAINIncomplete Registration
Reports Show McDowell
Leading '55-'56 Increase

Enrollment in the county's larger schools which began their 1955-1956 terms Tuesday will be above that of last year, incomplete reports from most of the schools indicated.

Actual classwork in the new high school here has not begun and will be delayed several days while finishing touches are being added to the building and its facilities. Enrollment figures here are incomplete, because only freshmen were registered Tuesday and the registration of upper classmen will not be concluded till late today (Thursday). Nor was the enrollment complete in the seventh and eighth grade classes of the county system which will be taught in the old high school building here. The registration is exceeding expectations there, however, and a survey is being made to determine the situation in the "feeder" rural schools and how many pupils in these two grades can be handled here.

Generally, the enrollment situation elsewhere, as compared with that of last year, was this:

SEARCH LAKE
FOR BOMBERSgt. Richard E. Mayo, Prestonsburg Youth,
Was Member of Crew

A Sheriff's rescue crew this week attempted to locate the wreckage of a four-engine Air Force B-24 bomber which is believed to have crashed into Huntington Lake, in California 12 years ago, carrying to their deaths six crewmen, one of whom was Sgt. Richard Erwin Mayo, of Prestonsburg.

Sgt. Mayo was the son of Mrs. W. P. Mayo, of Prestonsburg, and the late Mr. Mayo.

Sheriff Melvin A. Willmirth, of Fresno, said he ordered the search when a waterlogged life jacket and die-marker kit was found recently at the lake.

The heavy bomber, based at Hammer Field near Fresno, vanished in December, 1943, with six men aboard. Two fliers parachuted to safety.

Willmirth said the lake is being drained to allow dragging equipment to reach areas previously inaccessible. However, he said, if the craft crashed in the deepest part of the lake it will be covered with water.

'Wanted To Talk with God,' Says Floyd Bridge-Climber

Chester Daniels, 30, former Justice man, last Friday night staged his second bridge-climbing act, this time mounting almost 400 feet into the superstructure of the George Washington bridge in New York City. Police quoted him as saying he made the climb "so I could talk with God."

His first climb was up the Ashland-Coal Grove bridge across the Ohio river in September, 1953. Two ministers persuaded him to climb down there after assuring him they would help him find a job.

Four policemen brought him down from the New York span. The operation required more than an hour. He was taken to Bellevue hospital for observation. During both climbs a shoe dropped by Daniels attracted the attention of a passing motorist.

Several years ago, acquaintances said, he wounded himself with a shot from a .22-calibre rifle.

Daniels told police he went to New York three weeks ago in search of work and that his money had run out. Climbing the bridge, he dropped a shoe, then articles from his pockets.

The shoe that was dropped on the Ashland-Coal Grove Bridge in 1953 had a note inside. The note read that Daniels had come

Following Poker Game;
Isaac Stumbo Is Jailed

Frank Shepherd, 44-year-old David man, was shot and instantly killed on the mountain side, near David, late Sunday afternoon by Isaac Stumbo, David miner, in an altercation following a poker game.

Stumbo was brought to jail here by his father Ex-Sheriff M. T. Stumbo, who does special officer duties at David. He waived examining trial and was released under $15,000 bond to answer to action of the grand jury which will convene here next Tuesday. His bondsmen are his father, E. A. Stumbo and Bill Fitzpatrick. Shepherd was shot six times. One bullet passed through his left leg, four entered his abdomen and one his chest.

Four witnesses to the slaying were interviewed Monday by County Judge Henry Stumbo and County Attorney Hollie Conley. The County Attorney said there are three other witnesses whose versions of the shooting have not been procured.

Stumbo's father said his son fired in self-defense. He said the two men had argued during the poker game and that his son had given his revolver to one of the group who was acting as a peace-maker. Quoting his son, the elder Stumbo said Shepherd persisted in quarrelling and that his son finally decided to leave, going to his car parked at the side of the road uphill from where the group had been playing cards.

After Stumbo had entered his car, this version says, Shepherd ran up, cursed Stumbo, called him "yellow," and declared "It's me or you." This version claimed Stumbo simply beat Shepherd on the draw.

The county officials heard statements of Mrs. Cumine Joseph, aunt of the slain man, Tandy Bartley, Bartley's son, Donald, and John Thornsby.

Mrs. Joseph said Shepherd was shot "over nothing," that he had his hand on the side of Stumbo's car and that she heard him say, "That might be all right," when Stumbo began firing.

The elder Bartley told officials both men drew their guns during the poker game argument but that he and others got the trou-

In Martin, Lewis Cases
After No Appeal Made

Final judgment of the special Court of Appeals named to sit in the trial of the cases of Commonwealth's Attorney Burnis Martin and Jesse K. Lewis, Lexington attorney, was issued August 19 and received at the office of the Circuit Clerk here last week.

The defendants had asked for 30 days in which to file a petition for rehearing, but the last date for filing, August 14, passed without the court receiving the appeal. Acree Austin, clerk of the Court of Appeals, said the final order was held up till Aug. 19 while the petition was awaited.

The order held both men guilty of unprofessional conduct. It suspended both from the practice of law for six months, but specified that the suspension is not to affect Martin in the performance of his duties as Commonwealth's Attorney.

PARK BUILDING
PLAN DROPPEDDewey Lake Expansion Program Hit As State
Halts New Bond Issue

Governor Wetherby announced Tuesday that the plan for a $3,600,000 bond issue to finance new state park facilities, including construction of a lodge and vacation cottages at Dewey Lake state park, has been dropped.

He said investment consultants had advised against the bond issue because of "uncertainties of future governmental policies relating to the development and operation of the state parks."

Had the bond issue been accepted, lodging and dining facilities at eight state parks would have been improved. Net profits of the entire park system would have been pledged to amortize the bonds.

Investment leaders advised Tuesday against the bond issue because results of the August 6 primary mean there will be a new administration in Frankfort for the next four years.

"Investors have no certain way of knowing what the policies of the new administration will be and how they would affect the operation of the State parks," the Governor said.

"It has been our policy to operate the parks so that profits would be available for improvement or to apply to the retirement of revenue bonds issued for new structures. The bond houses had indicated they were certain there would be a market for revenue bonds issued under such a plan of operation."

"In light of the uncertainty as to future policies, it is apparent that we could not now find a market for such revenue bonds, and for that reason the State Property and Buildings Commission has had to decide that the project cannot be carried out now," Wetherby added.

SCHOOL BOARD
ASKS TAX CUTPrestonsburg Proposes 5-Cent Reduction After Assessment Rise Noted

The Prestonsburg Board of Education at its meeting this week recommended to the Floyd fiscal court a 5-cent reduction in the school tax rate here.

The reduction cut the rate from $1.85 to $1.80. The cut was made on the special 35-cent tax voted to provide funds to finance construction of the gymnasium-auditorium annex to the new county high school building here. This in effect, reduced that special levy to 30 cents, and this resulted, it was explained, from a rise in property assessments providing more tax revenues than was originally expected.

The City Board also voted at this week's meeting to sponsor a kindergarten department, this year and employed Mrs. Bob Wallace, wife of the new head football coach, as teacher. The city schools abandoned kindergarten about four years ago, and this pre-school training had been given independent of the school system since that time.

Resignation of Mrs. Roberta Davidson from the grade school faculty was accepted, and Mrs. Wanda Hunt Laferty was named as her successor.

The grade school registered 603 pupils Tuesday—20 less than last year. The drop in enrollment resulted from the county system establishing seventh and eighth grade classes in the old high school building, thus eliminating attendance of rural pupils at the Prestonsburg grade school, City Superintendent Chalmers H. Frazier said.

But action wasn't stalled too long. The officers, headed by Chief Deputy Sheriff Troy Mullins, sent to May's garage at Allen for a large wrecker to move the safe from the premises to some place where an opening could be forced. The wrecker, which is often used to yank heaviest of vehicles up mountainsides after errant plunges from highways, creaked mightily, attempting to move the safe and, whatever contents it has, but all the creaking and straining succeeded in only budging the heavy repository from its solid foundation onto the wooden floor, which promptly gave way and added to the big moving problem.

EAST KY. MEN

To Form Fruit, Vegetable Market Group Oct. 12

Final plans were formulated here for the organization of the Eastern Kentucky Fruit and Vegetable Growers Association. Meeting at the office of County Agent O. E. Berry were agents from Knott, Perry, Johnson, Martin, Breathitt, Lawrence, Pike and Mazon counties. Oct. 12 was set for an organizational meet at the courthouse here.

Plans were made by Extension Service agents back in April for an area association to market fruit and vegetables when representatives of the Service met here and scheduled this week's meet. Presiding over the meeting here this week was R. H. Lickert, assistant state agent. Present, besides the various county agents from the counties concerned were W. W. Magill, strawberry specialist, W. I. Farmer, fruit and marketing specialist, and L. A. Venice, marketing specialist.

Reports were submitted by the several agents on their counties' strawberry acreages. A total of 405 additional acres are planned for the year following. Floyd county harvested 30 acres this year and is expected to plant 60 acres next year.

At the Oct. 12 organizational meeting of farmers and growers the regional co-operative association will be formally set up by the farmers themselves, it was pointed out. The meet will be held at 10 a.m. at the courthouse.

SUIT MARKS
'LEGAL FEUD'
THIRD ROUNDAsks $15,000 Damages, Temporary Injunction
In Right-of-Way Fight

The "legal feud" between the Elk Horn Coal Corporation and the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company, two of the section's largest firms in their respective fields, mounted last week with the filing of a third court action between the two.

This latest action, with the gas company as the plaintiff, attacks Elk Horn and its employe Curtis Carter, on the grounds that Elk Horn has moved a bulldozer onto right-of-way being cleared and graded by the Ramier Construction Company, contractor on construction of the gas firm's 12-inch pipeline extending from Maytown to the Kentucky-Virginia state line, and that by this action is making it difficult for the contractor to carry out the project he has undertaken.

The first was a suit filed by Elk Horn to recover from Kentucky West Virginia the value of coal allegedly unrecoverable around gas wells the gas company had drilled through coal seams owned by the plaintiff.

The second was Elk Horn's suit claiming its rights had been invaded by Kentucky West Virginia when it entered onto lands, the mineral rights underlying which Elk Horn owned, after buying rights-of-way for its pipeline

RAID YIELDS
LIQUOR, BEERNight's Vigil Over Safe Is Unrewarded; Attempts To Move It Are Stymied

Deputy sheriffs maintained an all-night vigil Wednesday guarding a six-ton safe which is suspected as the hiding-place of illegal liquor at the home on North Lake Drive of S. D. "Davy" Hughes. The safe became suspect after a raid earlier in the night had uncovered one case of beer and no whiskey.

Later, a case and a half of whiskey and about 30 cases of beer were found beneath the floor of the home.

Officers said they had information justifying their belief that a sizeable amount of whiskey is "safely" stored in the safe. The raid on the place was stymied when nobody on the premises, in the conspicuous absence of Mr. Hughes, could supply the combination to the safe.

But action wasn't stalled too long. The officers, headed by Chief Deputy Sheriff Troy Mullins, sent to May's garage at Allen for a large wrecker to move the safe from the premises to some place where an opening could be forced. The wrecker, which is often used to yank heaviest of vehicles up mountainsides after errant plunges from highways, creaked mightily, attempting to move the safe and, whatever contents it has, but all the creaking and straining succeeded in only budging the heavy repository from its solid foundation onto the wooden floor, which promptly gave way and added to the big moving problem.

At this point, when it appeared house-wrecking might result from further use of the wrecker, Charles May, operator, decided his machinery could be put to more effective use hitting wrecked automobiles back onto highways.

Meanwhile, the vigil continues today (Thursday) as officers await the return of Hughes, whose help with the safe combination is wanted almost as badly as his presence in court.

Miss Kelly, Lt. Lawrence Wed August 20th At Lexington Church

Miss Jane Miranda Kelly, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Strall Kelly, of Lexington, formerly of Prestonsburg, became the bride of Lt. Stanley Allen Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Lawrence, of Dry Ridge, Ky., in a ceremony performed at 3:30 o'clock Saturday, Aug. 20, at the First Methodist Church, Lexington. The Rev. Steadman Bagby officiated.

The church was decorated with palm, ferns, baskets of white Fuji chrysanthemums and pink carnations with pink wedding tapers in wrought-iron candelabra. Miss Patricia Edwards of Lexington, organist, and Miss Mary Belle Layne, Prestonsburg, vocalist, presented a program of wedding music.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a gown of bluish pink Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over pink satin. The lace bodice was styled with a wide scoop neckline finished with a narrow pleated yoke of tulle outlined with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. The long sleeves tapered to points over the wrists. The bouffant lace skirt was fashioned with a full flounce of bluish pink tulle which terminated in a wide sweep train. Her double veil of bluish illusion was held by a crown of tulle leaves with clusters of bluish pearl orange blossoms. She carried a crescent bouquet of pale pink roses.

Miss Mary Ann Kelly was her sister's maid of honor. The matron of honor was Mrs. Harry Dean Dodson, Jr. Bridesmaids were Miss Mary Ann Hadden, Mrs. William Glenn Robbins, both of Lexington, and Miss Ronnie Lawrence of Dry Ridge, sister of the bridegroom. All of the attendants wore floor length gowns of deeper pink chrysalis, styled with long torso bodices and bouffant skirts worn over crinolines. Their head-dresses were matching crystalettes bonnets detailed with seed pearls. They carried crescent bouquets of pale pink roses. Joanne Johnson of Hebron, cousin of the bridegroom, was the flower girl. She wore a floor length dress of pink crystalette with a wreath of roses in her hair. She carried a basket of rose petals.

Marvin Lawrence of Dry Ridge served his brother as best man. The guests were seated by Marshall Kinsey, Howard Snyder, both of Dry Ridge; Ray McWhorter and Donald Sorrell, both of Lexington.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents in The Colony. Assisting in entertainment were Misses Pat Wise, Judy Edegar, Nancy Mefford, Mary Belle Layne, Mrs. Robert Steinau and Mrs. Marvin Martin.

Lt. and Mrs. Lawrence will be at home in Del Rio, Texas, where Lt. Lawrence will be stationed with the Air Force.

The bride is a graduate of Lafayette high school and attended Mary Washington College in Fredericksburg, Va., and the University of Kentucky.

MAN-MADE WATER

Man can now duplicate ocean water, except for one "slight" difficulty—nothing will live in it, says A. C. Ferber in the September Reader's Digest. But if a small percentage of real ocean water is added, ocean life will thrive therein.

is this: that the state parks system that is now bringing into Kentucky more than four million visitors and half a billion dollars annually is not destroyed or even damaged by an executive act to satisfy a few to the harm of the many.

We should like to have assurance from both Mr. Chandler and Mr. Denney that this thing that has been a-building over the years will be permitted to stand on its present foundations, and that the state will continue to operate the business.

Floyd county is destined to share more and more in the dollars free-spending tourists leave wherever they go. We trust plans already formulated for the Dewey Lake Park will undergo no drastic change and that this, potentially one of the state's finest tourist attractions, will have a part in future years in attracting even more visitors to Kentucky, a state that now can offer the visitor something more than hospitality without sheltering roof for the guest.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

AN INEXHAUSTIBLE RESOURCE

Editor, The Times:

We are having a dedication service of the Breaks park on the Kentucky-Virginia border on Monday, September 5, Labor Day.
It is my opinion that the best thing that the people in Pike, Floyd and Johnson counties can do is to pool their advertising efforts and publicity in order that we may attract the tourists to this area. You possibly have noticed that last year there was five hundred twenty-three million dollars spent in Kentucky by tourists. You know that very little of this tourist money was spent in the towns along U. S. 23.
You have noticed what the citizens of Southeastern Kentucky have done lately in order to attract tourists in that area. You possibly saw in The Courier-Journal where twelve citizens met at Somerset, organized the area and dumped eighteen thousand dollars on the table to advertise their area. The tourist business is the second biggest business in Kentucky. U. S. 23 will soon be in condition that we can bid for the tourist business going North and South. The tourist business is an annual crop. It repeats every month. They come and go and take nothing away with them.
The nice thing about the tourist business is that it does not deplete any natural resources or assets.
A mine may run out of coal, an oil well dry up. But purple, green and yellow foliage in the fall season, deep-cut canyons and forest-covered mountains with the rhododendrons, the dogwoods and redbuds continue to share their beauty with the tourists without losing any of the attraction and lure.

Kentucky Steps Ahead— It Should Not Turn Back

The primary election campaign now belonging to history, although it still holds a prominent spot in current discussions, most Kentuckians will agree that Henry Ward and the last two state administrations have done an outstanding job in developing state parks.
Development of these parks, which involves careful planning and able administration, has resulted in a boom in the tourist business for Kentucky in the last seven years, with four million persons attracted to these vacation spots of the state during last year alone.
The parks, highly modernized, combining the idyllic with man-made facilities which take every advantage of bounteous nature, are now said to bring into Kentucky half a billion dollars a year.
Kentucky only last week was reminded in most striking fashion of this great economic asset when The Saturday Evening Post told the state's parks story with its article, "Kentucky Strikes It Rich". Seven full-color photographs illustrate the history of state parks from 1948 when fewer than 500,000 persons a year were drawn to the state by these attractions to 1954 when the total jumped to 4,000,000.

Henry Ward, the Commissioner of Conservation who must be credited with this achievement worthy of national attention and noteworthy enough to gain prominent display in a magazine so highly respected as The Saturday Evening Post, is not the indispensable man.
There are others who can continue his work, now that it has been started so well.
Whoever is elected Governor will in all probability have a new man for Ward's post, and it is pretty certain that the Paducah man has no desire to continue his work with a new administration.

The important thing each of the candidates for Governor should make certain of

40 Questions and Answers On the POLIO VACCINE

(Information compiled by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.)

8. Should the vaccine be given during a period of rising polio incidence?

Yes, because the protection it affords is greater than the possible risk of provocation. This was the decision of 26 physicians, health officers and virus experts who met with National Foundation medical advisers on June 18, 1955. The benefit to be gained by polio immunization increases as polio incidence rises, they said, since under such conditions a larger number of paralytic cases can be prevented.

9. How long does it take for polio to incubate?

From three to 35 days, in general, but most often in the neighborhood of two weeks. When a person is vaccinated, his body begins to develop polio antibodies. If he is vaccinated after he has been infected by the polio virus, however, one cannot expect protection from paralysis.

10. Does everyone produce antibodies?

No, but most people do. Apparently there are some who do not have the power to produce antibodies, and some produce only limited quantities, but relatively few people are in this category.

11. Are there times when the vaccine should not be used?

Yes. It should not be given to anyone who is ill at the time, especially if there is fever, sore throat or a gastro-intestinal upset. The vaccine also should not be given to individuals in a household where a case of polio has just been diagnosed, because other members of the family usually carry the virus at this time even though they are not ill. The decision as to using the vaccine rests, of course, with the family physician.

12. How long does protection given by the vaccine last?

There hasn't been enough time since the vaccine was developed to answer this question fully. Youngsters who received the first experimental vaccine in Dr. Salk's research program about two and a half years ago still have protective levels of polio antibodies. The decline in amount of antibodies following the third or booster shot of vaccine, however, is so slow that the vaccine's effectiveness is expected to last for many years. Only time and further investigation can give the complete answer.

13. If the second shot is delayed, will it be effective later on?

According to Dr. Salk, the effect of the first shot is not lost even if the second shot cannot be given for many months afterwards.

14. Does the first injection itself protect against paralytic polio?

It gives some protection, but reliable information does not exist as to the effectiveness of only one shot. One injection sets the machinery in motion for antibody production, reduces a child's chances of developing paralytic polio. Two shots are needed for more adequate protection during the current polio season—and three for long-term protection.

15. Should people who have had polio be vaccinated?

Yes. There are three types of polio virus and a person who has recovered from infection by one type is not necessarily immune to the other two.

16. Does the vaccine prevent non-paralytic polio?

No. But non-paralytic polio does not give an individual a permanent handicap and so is not important as a health problem. Many cases of non-paralytic polio are never diagnosed or reported, being so mild as to be passed off as a cold or the grippe.

17. Will children in priority age groups be given vaccine after the NEIP program is finished?

Various proposals have been made by federal, state, county and city health departments to purchase vaccine for administration to those in the age groups most susceptible to paralytic polio. If funds are provided by government agencies, such vaccine will be made available to children whose families cannot afford to purchase it, perhaps to all those in vulnerable age groups.
The situation will vary in different states and communities.

18. Is a dangerous virus used in preparation of the Salk vaccine?

All vaccines and nearly all drugs are made from material that is potentially dangerous, but these materials are refined or treated until they are not dangerous when given in recommended dosages. The Mahoney strain of polio virus, used in the polio vaccine, is—before treatment with formaldehyde—an extremely virulent strain. When properly inactivated for use in the vaccine, however, it will not cause any illness.

19. Is there more than one way (intramuscular) to administer the Salk vaccine?

The intramuscular injection was used in Dr. Salk's early investigations and in the 1954 field trials, with good results. Some experimental use has been made of the interdermal method, notably in Denmark, but studies as to its effectiveness have not yet been completed.
Interdermal injections means introducing the needle between layers of the skin, a difficult and time-consuming procedure.

A letter from Tommy Ray, in Japan, tells Libby Ree how the Japanese men are happy to eat their scraps from chow, and how one little fellow always smiles when he gets to fill a bucket with meat scraps, to carry home. It takes so little to make them ju-bilate. Americans have the highest standard of living on earth, luxuries galore, plus push-button service, while 300,000 homeless waifs in Korea face winter without clothes, food and shelter. Our small gifts to them are indeed small. Millions of American women average ten dollars monthly for cigarettes, and a majority of the same ones insist they cannot afford to tithe.

A statement in the Western ty of food for thought, for most of us. It reads: "Frankly, God does author was right, despite the fact that there always are some good people on almost any side, and a bit of good in everybody.

HEALTH NOTES

By Floyd County Health Department

TAKE A DEEP BREATH

We don't think much about breathing. Our lungs usually work for us without conscious orders from the brain. It is only when breathing becomes difficult that we stop to think of the complicated and delicate structure on which we depend for life itself.

So delicate is the fabric that the pressure of a small amount of air can cause a lung to collapse. The lung cavity is protected by the strong bony cage of the ribs, but sometimes a disease such as tuberculosis, a tissue defect, or a tumor will allow air, blood, or pus to get into the space around the lung and force it to collapse.

Even when one lung is partly or totally collapsed, a person can get on reasonably well with the other.
In treating tuberculosis, a lung is sometimes purposely collapsed to allow it to rest, and so give the diseased parts a chance to heal. For many years lung collapse, either temporary by forcing air into the lung cavity, or permanent by removing part of the ribs, was the only safe surgical treatment of TB.

Today, with the use of anti-tuberculosis drugs, the curgeon can often cut out diseased parts of the lung.
However, there are cases where this cannot be done and collapse can be more successful. In a new type of operation, collapse is maintained by putting into the chest cavity some material such as plastic balls.

Usually a collapsed lung will re-expand slowly as the air about it is absorbed, and normal function will be restored. But pressure over a long period may result in thickened, scarred membrane around the lung, permanently constricting it.
During World War II an operation was developed to free the lung of this scar tissue. Now a lung that has been totally collapsed for 20 or more years can sometimes be re-expanded.

Medical science is constantly learning more and more about our lungs and how they work, to give us healthier, happier lives.

Folk Tales of Southern Highlands Preserved by Floyd County Native

There was a time when Leonard W. Roberts didn't know a story—nary a one. Or so he said.
But a perusal of his recent book, "South from Hell-Fer-Sartin," believes all of that now. He has collected more tales from the Southern Appalachians than any other person, who ever interested himself in mountain lore.

The time he didn't know a story, or so he said, was when he entered Betsy Layne consolidated school as a gangling teenager from the Right Fork of Toler Creek. His English instructor was Mrs. Carl Hatcher. She told Roberts to write a theme. "What's a theme?" he asked. "It's a story," Mrs. Hatcher told him. "Don't know any stories," Roberts affirmed. He was told to write about his vacation. "Never had one," the Toler farm boy told her.

But questioning revealed he did know a story. It was about a chicken-catching cat. Mrs. Hatcher allowed him to tell it in class.
That story made local history and earned for Roberts a nickname that followed him ever since.

It seems the cat had committed the crime of catching his widowed mother's frying chickens and Leonard, or Len, was told to kill it. He took the cat to the creek.
He had difficulties doing so and told the story to his classmates in his Toler Creek vernacular. He threw the cat into the water. "It swam out. I throwed her in agin and she swam out. Finally I grabbed that cat and held her by the neck and sowed her under 'til she drowned."

A roar of laughter greeted the finale of this tale and his pupils called him Sowler for the rest of the school. The nickname followed him afterwards, to college, to the army, wherever he went. He would escape for a while but eventually Sowler would out.

From Toler and other valleys of Big Sandy to Hell-Fer-Sartin Creek, a tributary of the Middle Fork of the Kentucky River, in Leslie county is not so far, considering the basic linguistic differences. Years later when Roberts went there and visited Hell-fer-Sartin and other creeks like Cutshin, and the little town of Hyden, lying within the shadow of

MR. ROBERTS

Thousandsticks mountain, he left, knowing many, many folk tales of the mountains. He had recorded them, just as the mountain folk told them, and now there were not only cat tales, but tales of kings, princes, princesses, stories of Old Rawhead and Bloodybones, Dirtybeard, ogres, haints, witches and ghosts.

The tales, all recorded on tape and written for the book with slight editing, are in "South From Hell-Fer-Sartin," like or similar to the ones told to us by elderly persons of several decades ago.
We have grown older; civilization (or is it?) has caught up with us and we listen to a radio, watch T-V and read a daily newspaper.
Evenings, instead of sitting before a roaring fire and listening to the age-old tales of a race, we go to a movie or a club. We were forgetting until the Roberts book appeared. We remember only vaguely about Old Rawhead and Bloodybones and Johnny Who Never Seen Afraid. Leonard Roberts reached over the mountains and lifted a curtain on our past.
Lifted it with stories from a land South of Hell-Fer-Sartin.

The creek and many other headwater streams of the Kentucky River on the north side of Pine Mountain comprise the last stronghold of pure English language folk tales. Here people, good sturdy Anglo-Saxon, Scotch-Irish and Irish stock, lived isolated for generations from the fast pace of changing America. Here in their mountain fastnesses they preserved their way of life and their folk tales. Roberts found them and as far as opportunity for preservation of their stories is concerned, just in the nick of time. He thinks a decade later would have been too late. Civilization (or is it?) is catching up with them. Highway 80 splits the land straight through, and T-V antennas may be seen even now under the shadow of old Thousand-sticks.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.
Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

"Things We Did Not Have"

It has been a hard task to convince my wife and children that we at Fidelity just did not have a great many things that have become universal. We had plenty of many good things, too much of some; but there were just some experiences that had never drifted into our part of the world.

Since food makes up such a big part of a boy's life, I would like first to tell what we did not know.
When I left home at eighteen, I had never seen a carrot, or a head of cauliflower, or a salsify root, not to mention such garden truck as broccoli. After I was married, my wife bought some carrots and did not know how to cook them; both of us ate them anyhow, but it was a solemn duty on my part, the part of a new husband who wanted to be nice to his wife. Neither of us knew how I, especially, would become a veritable carrot fiend. Since I am interested in figures, I would love to see in one heap as many carrots as I have eaten in the last forty years. Grapefruit was utterly unknown to us, too. I still recall with joy how two students who were keeping house in the same building where my wife and I lived in 1915 gave me a big jar of grapefruit marmalade because they did not like it and thought it had spoiled. At some time between Fidelity times and then I had come to like the bitter-sour of grapefruit as well as I have always liked oranges, especially the tiny little ones such as Santa Claus used to leave in my stocking.

Besides garden trucks and fruits, there were other foods that we did not know. That great daily dish of the boarding houses where I later spent seven years, macaroni and cheese, was wholly unknown. We had read of the stuff, but the merchants at Fidelity did not carry it in stock. I wish I could remember my first encounter with it. In spite of the tons of it that I have eaten, I still like it and its gooey relatives.

UMWA Names Jenkins To McDowell Staff

Charles D. Jenkins, Jr., has been appointed administrator of the McDowell Memorial hospital, one of 10 hospitals now under construction to serve beneficiaries of the UMWA welfare and Retirement Fund.

I wouldn't say that that story published in the newspapers to the effect that the $5,000 bill isn't as popular, these days, as the $10,000 bill comes under the heading of news. The main trouble I've found about both of these bills is that they don't hardly make that kind no more.

The attendance was the lowest in years, the Floyd County Fish & Game Club's annual fish fry at Allen August 21 included all the contests and entertainment features that have regaled thousands over the preceding years. The crowd was estimated at 1,200, and it was said five funerals in the Beaver Creek section that day accounted in part for the attendance drop.

Miss Marla Combs, of Hindman, crowned beauty queen, winning out in a field of eight sectional beauties. She received a $50 cash award contributed by the Vanhose Lumber Company. Second place was won by Miss Connie Adkins, of Garrett, who received the Allen Lumber Company's $25 cash prize.

Stuart Stephens, southpaw cast-er from Prestonsburg won top award in the opening casting contest with a 98 in a cast-off with Bill Baker Burke, also of Prestonsburg, who had tied him with a 96. Quentin and David Allen tied for third with 93's, and the former won third prize by toss of a coin. Donald Workman, also of Prestonsburg, won fifth prize with a 92. All five members are former member of the Mountain Anglers who won a Dixie championship a few years ago and figured heavily in the National tournament at Toledo.

The junior casting tournament was won by Robert Reffitt, of Martin, with a 90. Toby Single-

Former Floyd Resident Succumbs in Baltimore

James E. Berry, 72, former Floyd county resident, died at Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, Monday of last week. He succumbed to complications following surgery. He was ill two weeks.

Mr. Berry was a son of the late James E. Berry, Sr., and Nancy Hickerson Berry and was married to Melvina Newsome Berry who survives. A retired miner, he had been a resident of Roth, Va., for 13 years. He was a member of the Church of Christ.

Surviving are two sons, James Berry, of Tipp City, Va., and Elmer Berry, at home; two daughters, Mrs. Thelma Prampre, Williamsburg, Va., and Mrs. Edna Perry, of Roth.

Funeral rites were conducted last Friday at the home, at Roth, at 11 a.m., the Revs. Clarence Greenleaf and Porter Grundy officiating. Burial followed in the Clinch Valley Memorial cemetery at Richlands, Va., under the direction of the Grundy Funeral Home, Grundy, Va.

Thornsbury denied seeing the shooting, claiming he was over the nearby bank. Others in the group maintained, however, that he was present.

Coroner James J. Carter, who conducted an inquest over Shepherd's body and later prepared the body for burial, said all bullets ranged upward except the shot in Shepherd's left leg.

Shepherd had been employed by the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company as a joy loader operator. He was a son of Jack and Mollie Shepherd, and was a native of David. His wife died two years ago. Survivors include two daughters and two sons, Ruth, Bernice, Adrian and Leon, all of David; three brothers, Rufus, Darb and George Shepherd, all of David, and three sisters, Mrs. Cumine Slone, Winona Lake, Ind., Mrs. Annie Dale and Mrs. Pearl Patrick, both of Willard, Ohio. One half-brother and three half-sisters also survive: Brice Shepherd, Silver Lake, Ind., Mrs. Polkie Brown, Ada, O., Mrs. Lona Prater, of Blue River, and Mrs. Linda Brown, Four Acres, Ohio.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday from the home, the Revs. Richmond and Ashland Shepherd officiating. Burial was made in the Brice Shepherd cemetery at David under direction of the Carter & Callihan Funeral Home.

Hammer-Beating of Girl Results In 7-Year Term For Paintsville Man

Paintsville, Ky., Aug. 24 — Dallas Hitchcock, convicted of assault was sentenced to seven years in prison yesterday for beating his daughter with a claw hammer.

Hitchcock, an unemployed miner-carpenter from nearby Horsemill Branch, pleaded guilty after a charge of assault with intent to kill was amended to the lesser charge of assault.

The daughter, 17-year-old Antoinette, was beaten savagely last May 23 on the eve of her graduation from Paintsville High School.

Her mother, Mrs. Minnie Hitchcock, had testified the beating resulted from an argument over the source of money for Antoinette's class ring.

The girl claimed she saved money while working part-time in a five and 10-cent store, then borrowed $7 to make enough to buy the ring. Hitchcock refused to believe her story.

Pledge Support To Fight Ku Klux Klan in Kentucky

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 29 — Attorney General J. D. Buckman, Jr., pledged his support to the Southern Association of Attorneys General in efforts to fight any revival of the Ku Klux Klan that may be inspired by efforts of the South to integrate the races in public schools. The pledge was given by Buckman to the Attorney General of Texas who reported that he had received reports that the Klan planned a revival in this connection.

“We must continue to operate a government of laws and not of men,” said the pledge of support. “Citizens have a right of peaceful assemblage, yet we are opposed to any clandestine organization based on hatred and committed to violence.”

1,500 See Eight-Team Football Game Played; Cats in Scoreless Tie

The first pre-season football game staged by the Kentucky Mountain Conference and presenting eight of the Conference teams in action by quarters was witnessed by approximately 1,500 persons at Pikeville Tuesday night.

Prestonsburg's Black Cats and the Pikeville Panthers played the last quarter, and the Cats held the strong Panthers to a scoreless tie.

Fleming defeated Belfry, 7-0, in the first quarter of play. Elkhorn City downed Jenkins, 12 to 6, in the second, and in the third Paintsville and Whitesburg played to a 6-all tie. Elkhorn City looked particularly strong.

Net proceeds of the game will be used to maintain the conference and to support baseball and track in the schools of the conference.

SPORTS CHATTER

By Gordon Moore

Dewey Lake has served the multitude of Eastern's Kentucky people adequately in many ways. Its recreational facilities are constantly being improved and upon completion of the new boat dock, lodge and vacation cabins it will be on a par with the best state parks in Kentucky.

The federal government, its rescovior manager and the rangers are to be commended on their fine and capable work, as is the state's conservation officers. They are helpful, polite and courteous, much more so than the public users of the lake.

Very few people realize the serious dangers of operating a boat and motor. The true fishermen is a sportsman in every sense of the word and is careful and considerate in the operation of his boat. But the general run-of-the-mill joy-rider and thrill-seeker is a menace to all who seek enjoyment on the waters.

These joy-riders threaten the lives of fishermen and people who are admiring the beauty of the water and country-side.

Being an ardent fan of the sport of angling, I find one of the most disheartening factors in fishing at Dewey Lake is to have some irresponsible "kill-joy" cruise by me in a 25-horse-powered boat at full speed. Very seldom do these speedsters consider the fisherman or others on the lake. They appear to take the attitude that the lake belongs to them. It's high time for them to be considerate of others, to slow down when approaching other boats and to use extreme care in all operations on the water.

The lake itself is large enough to accommodate the majority of users, if all concerned will take the necessary safety precautions.

A lucrative field for some ex-high school and college football players is officiating high school football games in Eastern Kentucky. Only two officials from the Breaks of the Mountains to Ashland are registered with the K. H. S. A. A. in this sport. One of the biggest headaches of football mentors is securing the necessary officiating for a contest.

Paul Francis, Prestonsburg Wholesale grocery operator, entered the fishing record books by capturing a 14-pound catfish on a rod and reel at Dewey Lake last week. His "whopper" of 33 inches has been the topic of conversation on the postoffice steps for the past few days.

When even our Editor, who has seen better days fishing and otherwise, begins to land them trolling, it's time for Isaac Walton to forsake the sport. A 4½-pound large-mouth bass last Saturday should keep the aforementioned newspaper publisher in a state of esteem until "jigging" season.

The annual Paintsville Country Club championship this week-end has local golfers, Joe Burke, H. A. Spradlin, Dr. John Archer and U.S. Recruiting Sergeant Glenn Walke planning strategy as early as 6 a.m. at the local coffee counter.

Kentucky To Continue Special Milk Program

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 29 (Spl.) — An agreement with the U. S. Department of Agriculture to continue operation of the special school milk program in Kentucky in the coming school year was announced today by Wendell P. Butler, state superintendent of public instruction.

The program was launched last year to afford milk at a reduced price to school children. Kentucky schools participating last year served 5,938,443 half-pints above the normal rate of consumption for those schools, Butler reported. A system of federal reimbursement for part of the cost of milk enables schools to serve more milk at a low cost. He said Kentucky will receive $1,088,632 for the operation of the milk program in its schools this year.

Congress authorized the program in the Agricultural Act of 1954. The act provides that funds from the Commodity Credit Corporation, not exceeding $50,000,000 annually, be used nation-wide. Reports received by the U. S. Department of Agriculture show pupils in the nation's participating schools during the past year consumed approximately 450,000,000 half-pints of milk above the usual consumption rate for the schools.

All non-profit schools of high school grade and under are eligible to take part in the program, Butler said. Participating schools must agree to operate their milk and food service on a non-profit basis, and to serve fluid, unflavored whole milk which meets local and state standards for butterfat content and sanitation. Schools participating in the program buy their milk directly from local dairies and distributors.

Butler said details of the program for schools, including changes for this year's plan of operation, and applications for taking part in the program have been mailed to all local school administrators in the state.

Pike County people find new way to make money: STRAWBERRIES

Sometimes just one man—with an idea—can change the face of the whole countryside.

That's what happened in Pike County—Pike County which had, always been primarily dependent on coal.

The man was Dr. W. F. Clarke, a Pike County physician, and he knew that coal wasn't the only good thing that comes out of the ground. He went to the County Agent and asked if Pike County's farming couldn't be expanded. It could, the County Agent said, but what Pike County people needed was an immediate cash crop.

They called a meeting. The 35 people who came did a lot. They agreed with Dr. Clarke and County Agent Manuel B. Arnett. They decided that strawberries were their best bet. They formed the Pike County Strawberry Growers Association. They elected Dr. Clarke president of the association.

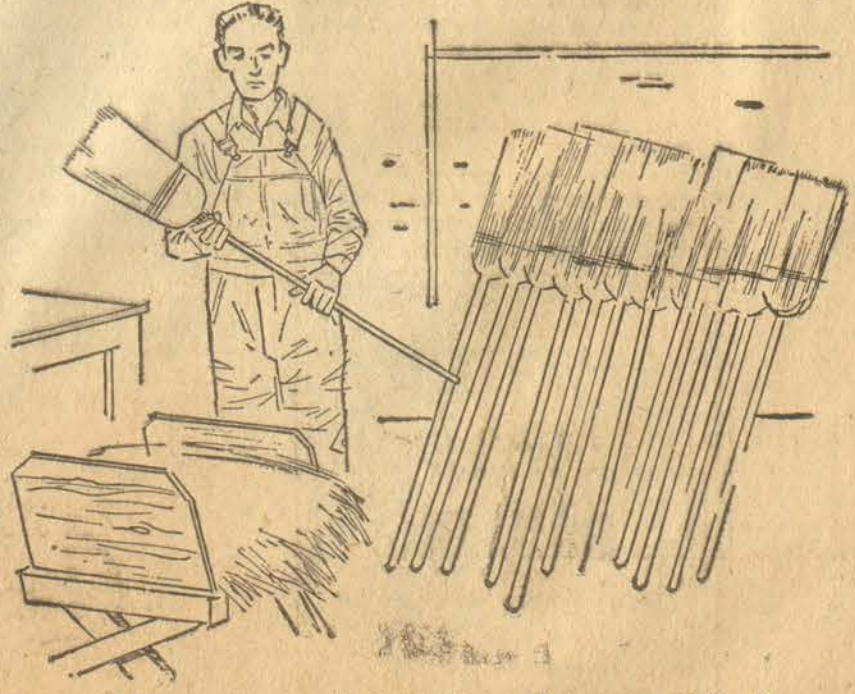

Today more than 230 people in Pike County are growing and selling strawberries at a profit. Their berries are sold on the local market as well as in Huntington and Cincinnati. Dr. Clarke says in 1956 there will be enough berries produced to establish pick-up routes throughout the county. Growers then will pick berries one evening and have them on the Cincinnati markets the next morning.

Once the people decided to go into this project, they got help from agricultural authorities and marketing experts. They got help from other businessmen who could also profit from this new activity. Once they decided to act, they were not alone. Plans are now being made to produce other fresh vegetables for nearby markets. No one knows where it will stop. Most people don't think it ever will stop.

Thanks to one man's idea, things are beginning to look a lot better in Pike County.

Hazard man not content with one business so he starts a new one... Result: MORE MONEY, MORE JOBS

T. F. Reynolds could have stuck to just one business—The Reynolds Artificial Limb Company of Hazard. But a man with an idea is hard to hold down. And T. F. Reynolds had a good one.

He knew he could make another useful product. He knew there was a demand for it. So, this year he established the Reynolds Broom Manufacturing Company. It's a small company. As a matter of fact, both companies are small—providing jobs for 6 employees at the present. But they're growing, and other people are growing with them. That's what counts.

"Already all of the wholesale houses in the mountain section of Kentucky are handling our brooms," Mr. Reynolds says, "Our business is good and getting a lot better."

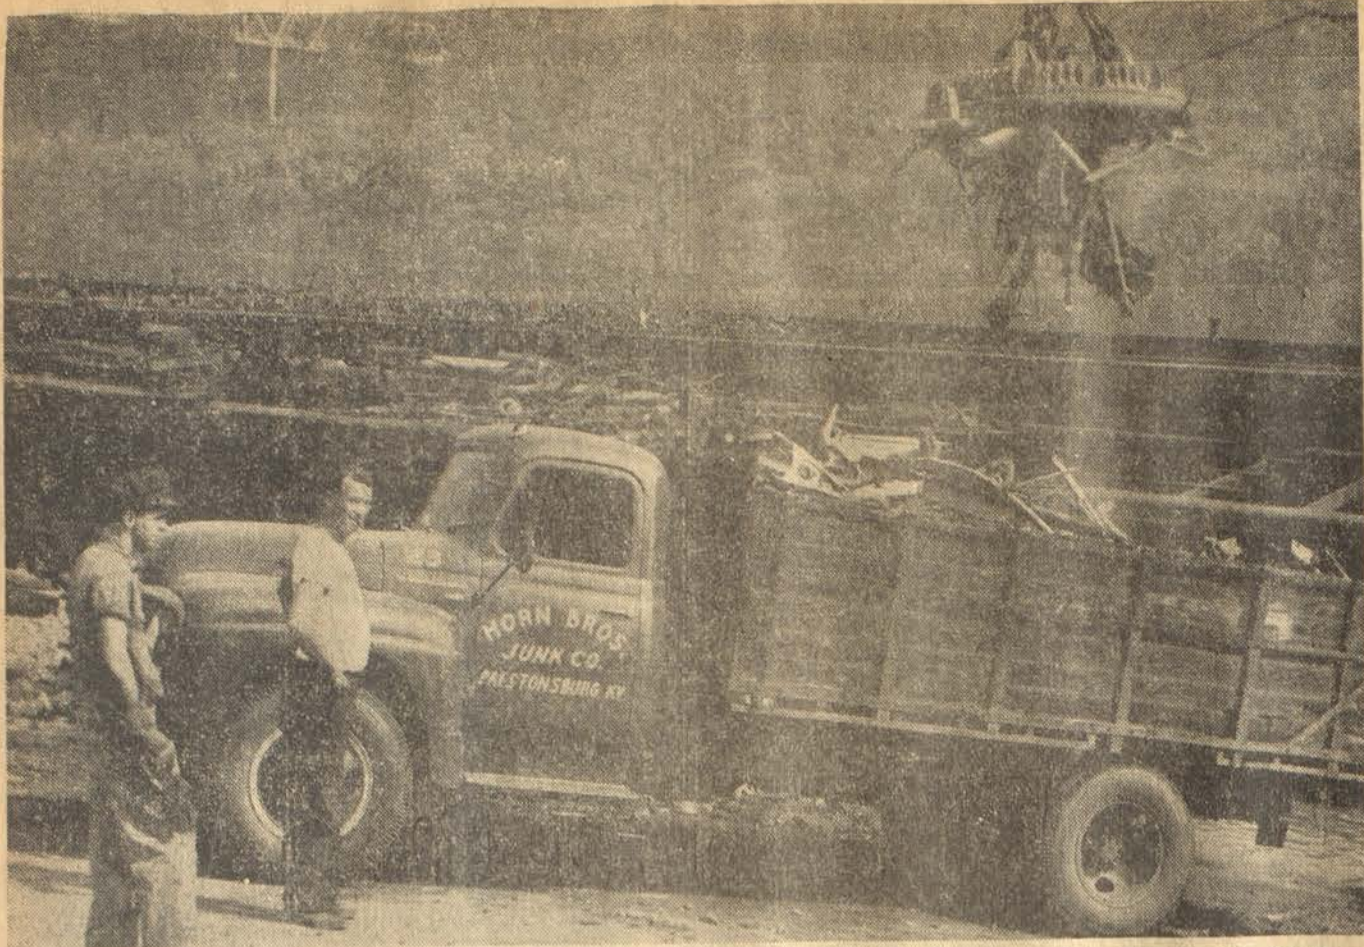

New money, new jobs in Hazard... that's the T. F. Reynolds story. Only one more thing. Mr. Reynolds uses about 25 tons of broomstraw a year—from Oklahoma. Broom handles—about 400 each week—come from Mississippi. He says he would rather buy these things locally if he could.

Anybody got an idea?

Ideas like these—once put to work—are helping this area. If you have such an idea, give it a chance to do some good. Tell it to the editor of this newspaper... or write to us, the Kentucky Power Company.

Eastern Kentucky will improve only as its people improve it—and... People Can Do Anything!

Other Kentucky speakers listed include Rexford Blazer, Ashland, president of the Ashland Oil Company and president of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, and Harper Gatten, Madisonville, executive vice-president of the state chamber and former president of Kiwanis International. A new and larger speakers' stand has replaced the old one, beside the grave of Richard Potter near the edge of the 2,000-foot gorge. A road has been cleared to provide easy access to a nearby spring. Roads to still more overlook points are being built. Two new rest rooms are to be completed in time for the dedication.

To My Customers and Friends

On and after September 1, 1955, I will no longer be connected with the Puroil Station which I now operate or with the Pure Oil Company in any way.

But I will be located in Prestonsburg, in the service station business, soon and will be prepared to serve my old customers as I always have tried to serve—to do my work well and render satisfying service at the least expense to those who are kind enough to give me their business.

I deeply appreciate all those who have patronized my Service Station, and I hope to renew our pleasant business relationship again within a very short time.

In the meantime, if any of you have road trouble and need help, remember that I have the equipment, even if I do not have a station, to help you. Call me any hour—day or night.
