PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

OCTOBER 27, 1955

This Town— That World

HELL BE READY

We haven't inquired this week to learn if Prestonsburg's Delmar Hughes, UK Wildcats' quarterback, will be able to play in the Rice game Saturday. We haven't asked for this reason: We figure that any youngster who can get his nose broken and his face otherwise bashed in, knocked dizzy, then a few minutes later take a whiff of smelling salts, come back into the game with 20 seconds left to play and the outcome of the whole thing depending on him in those last crazy, mixed-up seconds, and kick the field goal necessary to win the game—we figure that kind of youngster will be ready to play any time they call for him.

WE HAVE OUR SUSPICIONS

Wish the Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources had done a population count below Dewey dam while the lake was being lowered the last few days. That's the only way they could have ever convinced us the lake didn't lose a lot of badly needed bass, and the chances are such a count would have merely confirmed our dark suspicions.

Heard at the Thursday Morning Coffee Club meeting:

"See where Dulles has ended his visit to the United States and returned to Europe."

JUST AN EXERCISE RUN

A visit to this office by Mrs. Florence Montague, of Hazard, Prohibition ticket candidate for State Treasurer, reminds us that more than Democrats and Republicans are in this coming election. If all the "Drys" in Kentucky would vote for her and others on that ticket, they might have a look-in, but the facts of political life are such that the Prohibition ticket is running merely for the benefit of a work-out.

13 CHURCHES ENDORSE LAW ENFORCEMENT

Ask Sheriff and Others To Penalize Bootlegging Without Fear or Favor

Thirteen church groups of the county, their pastors and 305 members have signed petitions commending the fight made on bootlegging in Floyd county, asking that it be continued without fear or favor and calling on court officials to use their offices in the effective prosecution of such cases.

Other churches are expected to join in the move, and it was explained by some pastors that many more members of their churches would have been glad to sign the petition.

Sheriff Gorman Collins, who sounded the sentiment of church people of the county, expressed his gratification for the support given to date. "These are the people any officer or court needs in support of such an undertaking, and without these and all other good citizens no sheriff, policeman or judge will get done the work that should be done."

The sheriff has pledged his office to a continuation of the drive on bootlegging, and no favors granted.

The petition which had been prepared for signatures of pastors, and which later was used as a petition form for members of the several churches, reads, in part:

"As a minister of the Gospel who is interested in removing from our county the evil influences of intoxicating liquors, I wish to go on record as endorsing the fight on bootlegging as far as it has gone in Floyd county, and at the same time I would ask that the efforts of officers be extended to all parts of the county to the extent that all bootleggers, wherever they may live, be arrested and prosecuted without fear or favor."

The petition also called on the Sheriff and his deputies to double their efforts "to arrest those guilty of bootlegging, and the Circuit Judge, County Judge and Commonwealth's Attorney and each of the county's Magistrates to cooperate insofar as possible . . . to the end that bootleggers may be imprisoned as well as fined."

Those who signed the petitions also asked those in authority "to use their offices to close all places where bootlegging is carried on."

The First Baptist Church at Allen in a special note on the petition it used requested that the property of those convicted of bootlegging be confiscated and sold.

Aged Watergap Resident Dies At Home Last Week; Was Knott County Native

Ira Everedge McGuire, 79, among the oldest of Floyd women, died last Thursday at her home at Water Gap. Death followed a year's illness of the infirmities of advanced age.

A native of the Troublesome Creek section of Knott county, she was a daughter of John and Sallie Music Everedge. She came to this county to reside with an uncle, Bill Music, and was married to the late George McGuire in 1875. Mrs. McGuire had resided in the Bull Creek community where she died for 70 years, and had been a member of the Methodist Church 60 years.

Surviving her are three sons and two daughters, Dick and Jack McGuire, both of Water Gap; Taulbee McGuire, of Dwale, Mrs. Maude Scutchfield, of Water Gap, and Mrs. Angie Patrick, Ashland. She also leaves a half-sister, Mrs. Lyda M. Stafford, Huntington, W. Va., 17 grandchildren and 44 great-grandchildren.

The funeral was conducted at 2 p.m., Saturday, by the Revs. Carl Layne and Floyd Laferty, and burial was made in the McGuire cemetery, the Carter & Callihan Funeral Home directing.

TOUR TO STOP SHY OF FLOYD

C. of C. Industrial Group To Visit Paintsville Area, Then Tour Other Sections

Ashland will be the starting point for industrialists who will participate in the first out-of-state Kentucky Chamber of Commerce industrial tour October 31 to November 3.

R. M. Watt, Lexington, chairman of the chamber's industrial-development committee, said the tour will assemble there on the afternoon of October 31 and will leave the next morning to visit potential plant sites.

On the first day the tour will go to Paintsville, Mount Sterling, and Winchester, spending that night in Lexington.

On October 2, the tour will visit locations at Richmond, Berea, Mount Vernon, London, Corbin, Burnside, Somerset, and Stanford, stopping for the night at Danville.

On the last day, the industrialists will visit Harrodsburg, Burgin, Lawrenceburg, Frankfort, Carrollton, and Warsaw, terminating in Covington that afternoon.

The purpose of the tour, Watt said, is to acquaint industrialists with Kentucky—its communities, marketing advantages, and resources—and to show the potential industrial development of the state.

WILKES TELLS TEACHER JOB

Louisville Educator Here For Reading Conferences; Says Flesch Theory Wrong

"We take children as God made them and as the last teacher left them," Dr. Joe F. Wilkes, of Louisville, told several hundred rural and high school teachers in a conference on reading problems here Monday.

"Each child is as normal as he can be. For him, he is like a tree, maybe gnarled and twisted or beautiful and straight, but it's the only way he can be," he said in describing the child when it starts to school.

"But we may improve their normality," he added.

The teachers, meeting in the cafeteria of the new Prestonsburg high school building, heard Dr. Wilkes, head of teacher training at the University of Louisville, explain many ways to improve the child's normality but he warned the pedagogues that they are not "dispensers of knowledge but creators of situations wherein children gain knowledge." He went on to describe a poor teacher. "A poor teacher stands with a book in her hand. Some of the 20-year teachers taught the first year and repeated it 19 times."

Monday's meeting here was the

DRAWS WITHIN STEP OF TOP

Grand Lodge Names Hall Ky. Deputy Grand Master At Meeting in Louisville

John W. Hall, of Martin, advanced last week at the grand lodge meeting of Kentucky Masons in Louisville to a single step from the post of grand master as he was named deputy grand master. The final step to the top post in Kentucky Masonry will be taken by the Floyd countian at the 1956 meeting of the grand lodge.

Another Floyd man, James E. Goble, of Prestonsburg, was named district deputy grand master of District 36, which is composed of Floyd, Johnson, Pike and Martin counties.

Fred B. Layman, of Harned, Ky., was named grand master at last week's meeting. He succeeds Earle W. Adams, Owensboro. Wm. O. Ware, of Covington, was chosen grand senior warden, and Marvin Whitton, of Lexington, advanced to grand junior warden.

When Mr. Hall becomes grand master next year he will have become the second Floyd man to attain that office. Dr. R. M. Sirkle, of Prestonsburg, ended his term as grand master last year.

Attending the grand lodge from this county besides Mr. Hall, Dr. Sirkle and Mr. Goble, were Z. S. Dickerson and Rainey White, of Prestonsburg, John R. Baldrige, of Langley, W. E. Parker, Wayland, and Rudolph Spencer, of Garrett.

TO ASK COURT TO VOTE FUND

Needed for Relief Job; Cuts Advised by Those Voting "No," Is Claim

Magistrate Holbrook said Tuesday that he will ask the next session of the Floyd fiscal court to restore the full services of the Floyd county relief program which was ordered curtailed at a previous meeting.

The official said that both County Judge Henry Stumbo and Magistrate John May, who voted against the reduction after Magistrates Holbrook, Howell and Martin had voted for it, had at first recommended the cut in expenses because of the financial condition of the county.

"All of us who voted to reduce expenses understood it was agreed we must take that action," Holbrook commented.

Magistrate Holbrook said this week he believes about $3,000 can be made available to the relief fund by keeping in operation old road trucks which the court had planned to trade in for better trucks. The cash difference between the old trucks now in use and used trucks in good condition would be about $3,000.

The Magistrate agreed that it will be impossible to serve the needy of the county from the relief office here, with applicants coming to Prestonsburg for commodity foodstuffs. "The very people who need help would be left out," he said.

For the present, however, and until the court meets relief applicants will be required to call at the relief office here for foodstuffs. With only one man to help him, G. R. Spradlin, relief supervisor.

Undesirable Movie Showing Is Deplored

The Prestonsburg Council of Church Women this week voiced its disapproval of the showing of undesirable films in community theatres. In a prepared statement the Council said:

"We, as Christian women, wish to express publicly our disapproval of the showing of undesirable movies in our theatres. We have no desire to antagonize any person or persons, but merely wish to take our stand for the betterment of our community."

CHILDREN, 1-9, TO GET SHOTS

Age of Those To Receive Salk Vaccine Is Lowered As Date for Clinics Near

The Floyd County Health Department has been notified by the State Department of Health that all children, ages 1 through 9, and pregnant mothers will be eligible for Salk vaccine in the clinics which are scheduled to begin in the county Nov. 14.

Before this new ruling was handed down, the age group eligible for immunization was 5 through 9.

M. V. Clark, health department administrator, said second shots for children who several months ago received the initial vaccine injections will also be given at the series of clinics. He announced that the supply of vaccine had been increased this week by 1,900 cc., bringing the total on hand to 4,600 cc.

The recommended schedule for polio immunization, the State Department of Health said in a recent release to Mr. Clark, is two shots a month apart and a booster shot six to 12 months later. It was pointed out, however, that if a child is ill when the second vaccine shot is due the interval may be prolonged even up to six months without losing the effect of the immunization treatment. This information also said the fact that a child has received a Salk vaccine shot does not make it unsafe for him to receive a vaccine shot of another type—typhoid, diphtheria, etc.—after a brief interval. It added that the two types of vaccine could be administered simultaneously to well children.

Mrs. Kate B. Harmon, 85, Widow of Local Educator, Succumbs At Home Oct. 17

Mrs. Kate Branham Harmon, widow of the late Daniel O. Harmon, well-known Floyd county educator, died at 1 p.m., Monday at her Court street home here, a victim of the infirmities of age and the effects of a fall suffered about two weeks earlier. She was 85 years old.

A native of the Cow Creek section of the county, she was a daughter of George W. and California Harris Branham. Her mother was a granddaughter of John Graham, Revolutionary War veteran, and because of Mrs. Branham's close relationship to Graham she was until her death several years ago accorded an honorary membership in John Graham Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

A quiet, home-loving woman, Mrs. Harmon had resided on the street

Mary Mitchell in bed at her home on Clear Creek with some of the gifts she received at Mary Mitchell Night.

Pretty Mary Mitchell, of Lambert, on Clear Creek, who has walked only six months during her 17 years because she was stricken by polio when she was a mere toddler, is finding life brighter these days.

Two things have made things brighter:

1. Monday night of last week was Mary Mitchell Night at McDowell high school where the Beaver Valley Kiwanis Club gave the girl a party and showered her with gifts.

2. Mary is now at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Mitchell, of Lambert, after an operation at Kosair hospital, Louisville, and she and the surgeons who performed the operation look optimistically forward to the day soon when she will be able to walk.

The young girl was carried into the McDowell school building last week to receive the special attention of Kiwanians. She received gifts of cash, clothing and jewelry. Equally important, she received the attention that makes her somebody among the people she knows after a lifetime of crawling to get where she wants to go.

Mary's father is an invalid and has been unable to work the last three years. She was sent to the Louisville hospital at the expense of Floyd County Chapter, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and the 10 months she has already spent in the hospital and the long treatment yet to come will be done at an outlay of several thousands of dollars by the chapter.

FOREST MEET HEARS DOSKER

Keynote Speaker Says Floyd Forest Production Is Far From Developed

Some $300,000 worth of forest products came out of Floyd county last year, and this figure could be raised $2,000,000 if one cord of pulpwood per acre of forest land had been taken.

So declared C. D. Dosker, president of Gamble Brothers, Louisville, in the keynote speech delivered at the first annual Floyd County Forestry Congress held here last Friday.

Chandler and Barkley Speak at Rally Here

A. B. (Happy) Chandler came to Prestonsburg last Thursday after defeating the home-town candidate Bert T. Combs in one of Kentucky's hottest primary fights and poured a little oil on the situation. "I want the people of Floyd county to know I didn't say a single harsh thing about Judge Combs," he said.

Speaking with and for Chandler was U. S. Senator Alben W. Barkley, who supported Combs.

Along with the rally, attended by the whole slate of Democratic nominees was an old-fashioned barbecue, which this year is becoming more and more a feature of the Kentucky political scene. The courthouse was filled to capacity, with scores standing and many outside. The crowd was estimated at 750 persons.

Harry Lee Waterfield, who preceded Chandler, said that he had been ill "but there's nothing the matter a big majority for the Democratic ticket won't cure." The candidate for lieutenant-governor pointed out that the few times Republicans had been elected to state offices, Democrats had done so by staying at home. A few of the primary issues of this campaign, Waterfield said, were education, health and welfare and roads.

Chandler recalled the changes in the primary laws effected under him, reviewed some of the accomplishments of his administration 20 years ago which were the payment of the state debt, old age pensions "without liens" and free text-books. "I want you to let me run on my record," he said. Lashing into Denney's record while in the legislature, he said that the Republican nominee voted against more "good things than any other man ever voted against" and that now he was re-

Thomas E. Green, 59, Of Betsy Layne, Dies In Veterans' Hospital

Thomas E. Green 59, of Betsy Layne, succumbed to cancer, Monday at 4 a.m. at the Veterans' hospital, Huntington. He had been ill since May.

Mr. Green was a veteran of World War I and had spent most of his life in the mining industry as a foreman or superintendent. He was a native of Kenese, Ky. He was affiliated with the Masons and American Legion.

A son of the late Samuel and Mary Ellen Crabtree Green, he was married to Marie Simmons Green, who survives. He had no surviving children except a foster-daughter, Miss Marjorie Simmons, of Lexington. Two sisters, Mrs. Edith Davenport, Harvaton, Ky., and Mrs. Ann Simmons, of Garden Grove, Calif., survive.

Funeral rites will be conducted at the Hall Bros. Funeral Home chapel at Martin, the Revs. Clyde Layne and Wilby O. Patten officiating. Burial will be made in the Martin cemetery.

EXCESS GAS MINE REPORT IS SET ASIDE

U. S. Court of Appeals Holds Princess Elkhorn Mine Safe To Operate

The Princess Elkhorn Coal Company at David, won Wednesday its fight against a report by a federal mine inspector on August 31, 1954, that its Princess No. 2 mine contained too much gas for safe operation.

The victory came when the United States Court of Appeals Sixth Circuit, upheld the Federal Coal Mine Safety Board of Review in voiding the action of the director of mines.

The case was reported as the first in which a decision of the director of mines was challenged.

The inspector found there was 0.27 per cent of methane gas in the air in the mine and ordered the company to comply with the law, which holds 0.25 per cent as the margin of safety.

The coal company appealed to the director of mines and was denied relief. The case then was taken to the Federal Coal Mine Safety Board of Review. That board directed annulment of the mine-director order which denied the coal company's application for relief from the mine inspector's action.

The safety board contended air samples were not taken in accordance with the law. That was contrary to the opinion of the director of the Bureau of Mines.

The Coal Mine Safety Board of Review split, 2 to 1, in its finding.

In affirming the decision of the majority of that board, the Circuit Court of Appeals said:

"The conclusions of the board in our judgment were correctly drawn and the order of the Federal Coal Mine Safety Board of Review from which this appeal is taken is affirmed."

The Court of Appeals continued: "The matter presented for decision here falls clearly within the doctrine of expertise promulgated in the opinions of the Supreme Court. The members of the Coal Mine Safety Board of Review are members better qualified than are the members of this court to interpret the meaning of the word 'face' as used in the act in the context of the facts found by the board.

"We think the conclusions of the majority of the board are reached upon sound reasoning and rest upon a rational basis and warrant in the record."

SIDEWALK JOB HERE PLEDGED

By Both Chandler, Denney As Danger to High School Pupils Cited to Candidates

Both the Democratic and Republican nominees for Governor have pledged themselves to do something about the lack of sidewalks on North Lake Drive leading from town to the new Prestonsburg high school.

The hazards to pupils because of the lack of sidewalks along the heavily traveled U. S. 23 were called to the attention of Chandler and Denney recently, and state help was promptly offered by both in the event of their election.

Chandler made his pledge here last Thursday when he said that he wanted to make two special commitments. One was to improve U. S. 23 from Louisa to Jenkins; the other, to construct sidewalks "to the big new high school here. That will be a chief concern of mine."

Denney wired The Times: "My attention has been called to need for sidewalks along U. S. 23 leading to new Prestonsburg high school and that the situation is dangerous to children. When elected Governor I will immediately have this remedied at state expense."

Ottis D. Spurlock, principal of the new high school here, has repeatedly warned of the danger to pupils. Only last week Spurlock said, he was standing within a few feet of a high school junior who had stepped onto the highway to get out of the mud. An approaching car had to skid several feet to avoid striking him. The school held explained that precautionary measures were instituted at the beginning of school to lessen the danger to pupils when they found it necessary to cross the highway. The Key Club, sponsored by the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club in co-operation with the school, maintains an usher system across the highway. "The traffic problem is inconvenient to the

This farm is located only 2 1/2 miles from Owingsville on good road. School bus stops right in front of house. The school is a highly rated one and occupies a new and modern building. The farm is also on a Carnation milk route where milk is picked up daily. The Delta Natural Gas line is less than a mile away and there is a possibility of this farm receiving natural gas service this fall or by very early spring.

Auxier Says Man, 93, Claims He Knows Silver Vein Locale

Ben Auxier, Jr., Pikeville geologist who has recently made in this section uranium finds of varying degrees of value, said this week he has traces of an Eastern Kentucky silver vein that may run back to the storied "lost silver mine" of John Swift.

The young Pikeville man brought to The Times office a chunk of dark-colored ore which, he said, came from a piece that originally weighed 100 pounds. This ore, he said, has been assayed at 63.8% silver—and, he has been told, it came from the Cumberland mountains, in the vicinity of the Kentucky-Virginia line.

Auxier said he has been in contact with a 93-year-old man who claims he knows whence came the silver used in the late 1890's which was coined into silver dollars, and the coining of which resulted in the grandfather of the old man drawing a federal pen term along with another man. The old man, now sick and bedridden, Auxier not to divulge his identity.

"These men are dead and can tell no story, but from all the search I have made in regard to this story, I believe it is true," Auxier said. "The story goes, these two men left their homes early one morning and walked to a certain place in the Cumberland mountains, and then returned with sacks of ore which the next day, to smelt and mold their silver dollars. The reason they were convicted was that they were not using any alloy to harden their silver and were caught on its softness."

The assay referred to was made when the government was developing its case against the old man's grandfather, Auxier was told.

"I have reason to believe I can come to terms with people who know where this vein of valuable mineral is located," Auxier said. "This is fact, not fiction."

He added that John Potter, who operates the Potter Service Station at Elkhorn City, has told him that the molds used in this counterfeiting operation were hidden in a rock-cliff near his home but he has never been able to find them.

"If anybody is interested in finding silver ore," suggested Auxier, "a good place to start looking is on Hurricane Branch on Elkhorn Creek, near Elkhorn City. The property belongs to J. E. Belcher and permission to prospect can be obtained from him. Other spots of interest are in the Bartlick section of Virginia, not far from Elkhorn City, and on the Camp Branch, near the Breaks, in Virginia."

The link with Swift's silver mine, which for generations has been a will-o'-the-wisp for every soul fired with the lure of hidden treasure, appears in the following excerpts from John Swift's Journal.

We started from home on the first day of October, 1767. Arrived at the place on the 4th day of November, 1767 where we stayed until April 1767 when we started home. We went by Sandy, where meeting with nothing material on the way home. We started back for the same place on June 4 of the same year and arrived safe at the place on the first day of July: where we stayed until October 25th. When we started for home and went by Sandy where we lost two horses being stolen by the Indians. This caused us to leave two horse loads, which was a great loss to us. But we were thankful that we escaped with our lives and got home on the 1st day of December.

In the year 1764 we were at the place again and came by the place where we left two valuable prizes and found things as we had left them in 1762. I made three other trips to the place; which I kept no account of save some peculiar marks.

We first left between 25,000 and 30,000 dollars and crowns on a large creek running near a south course, close to the spot we marked our names Swift, Munday and one other name on a tree with a compass and trowel.

Directions to the Lost Silver Buried in 1764—

About 20 or 30 poles from the creek stands a sharp rock, between it and the creek you will find a smaller rock of bluish color, with three chop marks with grit stone, by rubbing on the rock. By the side of the rock you will find the prize we left, at three different times at no great difference from the place. We left $15,000 here marking 3 or 4 trees with curious marks. Not far from these trees we left a prize near a forked white oak and about 2 feet under ground. We laid two stones on the place.

At the Forks of Sandy we kept two horses loads. Close by the forks is a small rock house which has a spring at the end of it. Between it and a small bench we laid it on the ground. It has plate value of $3,000 in Crowns buried in the cracks of the cliff.

Next to the creek the mine is on, it heads south-west and North-west. It abounds with plenty of Laurel and is very clifty; that is, it is almost impossible to get a horse near the place. We took our horses within 6 or 7 miles of the place. There is a holly thicket 1/4-mile below the furnace and a small lick a mile down. There is a large buffalo lick 5 miles from the small lick on another water course that we named Lick Creek. This creek forks about 3 miles below the furnace. On the left hand side is Furnace Creek. Below the creek is a short stream of water running in a Northeast direction. Between the forks and the holly thicket you will find my name on a tree 1767. About a mile down you will find on trees the names Carly, Munday's, Jeffersons in years 1767, 1765, 1763.

Auxier claims there are in this section large deposits of silver, lead, zinc and small amount of copper, vanadium and other minerals of known commercial value. He is anxious to explore the full possibilities of the area, and is seeking financial backing up to $1,500 to carry on extended prospecting with Geiger counter and other modern facilities.

Pikeville Bottlers Of Coca-Cola, First To Bottle 26-oz. Size

The Coca-Cola Bottling Company of Pikeville became this week the first Coca-Cola Bottling plant in Kentucky to bottle and distribute the new 26-ounce family-size Coca-Cola, Jack L. Hatcher, president of Pikeville company, announced the introduction of the new bottle.

Mr. Hatcher said. "The new family-size has the same distinctive shape as the present standard bottle. In fact, the two are companion packages. The standard bottle will continue to be our mainstay. What we're doing by bringing out this new bottle is simply making it more convenient for the public to buy and serve Coca-Cola. The product is the same, the quality the same—the size is a matter of preference and now we're offering everyone a choice."

The new family-size Coca-Cola represents the first change in packaging in over 40 years for Coke which is known the world over for quality refreshment.

The Pikeville Company has just installed a complete new line of production equipment to bottle the new size Coca-Cola. The company's plant, which is located on the corner of Cline and Steele streets in Pikeville, is one of the most modern in the state.

An artificial breeding association will serve dairy farmers in Boyd, Carter, Greenup and Lawrence counties.

The Churches Speak

THE TIMES this week publishes a news-story telling of thirteen ministers and members of their congregations stating their position on the question of dry-law enforcement by the Sheriff and officials of the courts. Frankly, we find their stand encouraging.

The churches have almost unanimously supported the theory that it is their duty to fight the use of, and traffic in, alcoholic beverages. This has resulted in their joining in the fight for "dry" laws.

But as the law was flaunted and as whiskey and beer continued to be sold—if not openly, with considerable sang-froid—these churches were criticized. It was said that they were belligerently for a dry county but that they were supinely weak after the vote was in and tallied and the victory won.

Now, they commend the Sheriff for the work thus far done toward arresting the bootleggers, at the same time urge him to go farther and make other arrests, to arrest all; and more, they call upon judges, magistrates and prosecutors to prosecute with all possible vigor those arrested on bootlegging charges.

The position of the churches is now more clearly defined. Now no official can say he hesitates to enforce the law because he lacks public support. The most powerful group in any county has spoken.

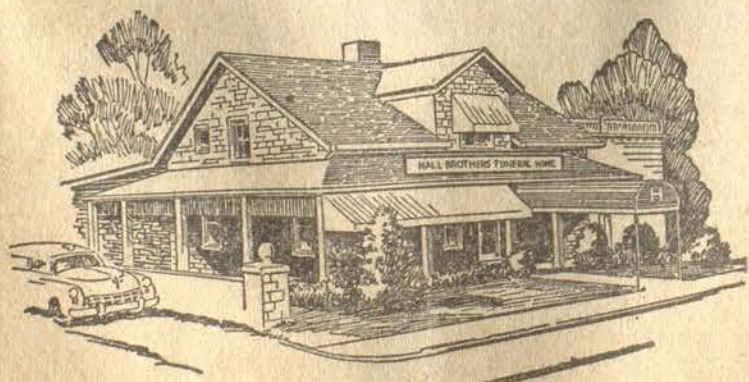

Fifteen acres of alfalfa and bromegrass sowed by Roy Neumeister of Barren county was ankle high in a little over a month.

Few oldsters remember Rev. M. T. Burris in Floyd county although several in Lawrence county, where he lived out his last years, may recall him. He was a descendant of the pioneer, Robert Leslie, of Johns Creek. When William Elsey Connelley began gathering information for his Eastern Kentucky Papers and his History of Kentucky he asked Rev. Burris to prepare a manuscript on the genealogy and local history of the Leslie family and the Leslie Settlement. This manuscript was one of the prized possessions of the historian Connelley when he died. His papers disappeared after his death and no amount of search will disclose their whereabouts.

A Prestonsburg minister, Rev. Robert Regan, a native of Arkansas, remembers Rev. Burris—out in Arkansas and Missouri. Burris moved to Golden Missouri, at one time and while there preached to a wide area. Rev. Regan writes for this column: "A surprised man (I'm not saying 'old' man) is swept back to early boyhood by some historical information stumbled upon incidentally here in our beloved Kentucky hills. While reading the history of the Conleys in the writing of William Elsey Connelley, I ran into a reference to Rev. M. T. Burris, prominent in our section in an earlier day, who went out to Missouri. I said to Mrs. Regan, 'Why, I knew Brother Burris when I was a small boy in Arkansas.'"

"Nostalgic, indeed, was the effect. It took me instantly back to my boyhood home: the splendid Christian home of my beloved father and mother, Dr. and Mrs. Milton R. Regan. This home was the hospitable headquarters for all Baptist preachers coming to or passing through Eureka Springs, Arkansas—not closely restricted to those of Baptist persuasion, either. One of several preachers, who made an impression upon me, was, as we all know him, 'Brother Burris.' He was a strong, earnest, loving-hearted servant of the Lord. He frequently dropped in on us from his home at Golden, Missouri, just across the line, about twelve miles from Eureka Springs."

Continuing a few excerpts from letters of Mrs. Neva M. Dalton, of Sacramento, relative to the John and Dicea Alice Stratton family, which migrated from here to Edgar county, Illinois, in 1817:

"My family (descendants of John and Dicea Alice Stratton through the Browns) came to California in 1900 so I don't personally know too much about the Illinois Strattons except from a family record of Berthena Stratton Brown, my grandmother, in her handwriting in her family Bible. Her brothers and sisters and her parents are listed.

"I was back in Illinois four years ago and at that time visited John and Dicea Stratton's graves. They are buried in the same plot as my grandparents, at Paris, Ill.

"My father's name was Thomas Henry Clay Brown, so his family, as has been said, must have been related to the Henry Clay family. One of my aunts said at one time that Grandmother Stratton and Grandfather Brown were first cousins."

KENTUCKY NEEDS WORKERS

The University of Kentucky estimates that Kentucky needs 1,000 more engineers, 3,000 new school teachers, 500 more graduates in agriculture and home economics and 1,000 graduates in business and public service.

5. WATER RESOURCES

Development of these . . . Work with any and every group interested . . . Conservation and development of natural resources will be of first importance.

6. STATE EMPLOYEES

Selected in accordance with standards set forth in the Civil Service and Merit Systems . . . Establishment of a sound and effective retirement plan . . . Capable and competent employees who conduct themselves properly will be retained in their present jobs.

7. HEALTH AND WELFARE

Mental hospitals brought up to standards which modern means and methods make available . . . Better use of probation and parole procedures and a more effective system . . . Better medical care for indigent citizens . . . Health units and health centers to be within reach of all the people . . . More rural hospitals erected . . . Increased medical scholarship fund . . . Establish a State Division of Accident Prevention, well staffed and financed.

This represents a program which extends, improves and expands, in Democratic tradition, services of government to meet the needs of our people.

IT'S A GOOD WORLD

(The views expressed herein do not necessarily reflect the views of The Times.)

And Floyd county again topped the list, when her kind doctors voted for free polio vaccine. They put our children before themselves.

Folks are "plumb" proud of Wayland-Lackey-Garrett Woman's Club, recently featured in the C.-J. Small wonder, with Edith Howard holding the reins of that grand group.
Mrs. Howard stated that ten clubs in this county will cooperate to help with the Arts-Craft program, originally suggested for the handicapped and needy by Mrs. John Roberts, and recently begun among club members by Mrs. H. L. Ley, whose ideas were equally original, as neither knew of the other's plans.

The last brochure from Standard Oil shows a pottery, using native clay, near Richmond. A friend back from N. C. says one county there specializes in carving animals, etc., from dogwood. They sell quickly in roadside markets. Louisville club-women are selling articles made from the lowly tin can. Our county has enough free, unused materials, wasting, to support many local industries, etc.

Mrs. Bob Martin says gourd dip-pers will sell anywhere. So would miniature gourd for decorative purposes. She says many people long to own something made by real mountaineers. We should capitalize on being hillbillies, teach our children to be proud to be one. Not all of our ancestors were feudin' moonshiners, quick on the draw. Many were stalwart pioneers, who slaved for the highest principles. If enough participate in reviving crafts, old-time mountain "kivers" will soon be made once more from our own sheep, off local hillsides. Mrs. Martin says the use of homemade dyes would add value to the articles.

She suggests that club women or civic groups consider building a typical log cabin, furnished in ancient style, to attract Lake tourists.
Admission fees could go to the School for Retarded Children. Many regard this agency as a logical one to receive retail profit from handmade articles.

In Prestonsburg, a badly crippled young man sometimes has to ask alms. But he can make lovely steer-hide handbags, he told one minister.
He prefers doing that if able to sell them. Numbers who can afford them will be happy to buy them when they learn his story.

Big things are expected from the Council of Church Women in Pres-tonsburg, if only because of its choice of outstanding officers. It has announced a concern in civic and social problems. If its leaders can help to see that Daily Vacation Bible School children are taught how to do wood-carving, make baskets, do other handwork, in time those youngsters will number thousands and later be leaders to teach and train larger numbers in need of such, as the boys and girls of today become the men and women of tomorrow.

Prestonsburg Woman's Club offered an ideal solution by having a discussion on Unity in Community Service. Coordination of effort and leadership, consolidation of goals, will achieve much in themselves.

Aged Mare-cr. Resident
Dies of Heart Condition;
Was Former Postmaster

John Cord Clark, 89, of Mare
Creek, died at home, at 8:10 p.m., Monday. He was the victim of a heart condition and had been ill two years, seriously so two weeks.

Mr. Clark was a native of Buffalo Creek, a son of Addison and Jane Adams Clark. He was the first postmaster at Wonder, serving in that capacity for 30 years. The major part of his life was spent in farming and logging. For some years and his wife owned a store on Buffalo Creek and about 25 years ago moved to Mare Creek where they also operated a store.
He was a member of the Methodist church.

Surviving is his wife, Kate Adkins Clark, a son, Ballard H. Clark, two daughters, Mrs. Vivian Blackburn and Mrs. Nora Maynard, all of Mare Creek. Also surviving are eight grandchildren, 14 great-grandchildren, and eight great-great-grandchildren. A brother, Tom Clark, of Endicott, and a sister, Mrs. Bird Harville, of Guilford, survive.

Funeral rites were conducted today (Thursday), at 11 a.m., at home, the Revs. W. O. Patton, pastor of Vogel-Day Methodist Church, and Hershel Short officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery on Mare Creek under the direction of Baker Funeral Home.

As a result of the display of 473 straw hats and bags by the Madison county homemakers, two gift shops have requested that they be supplied with them.

This county is wisely and rapidly moving in that direction. This does not mean union of civic or church groups. It means cooperation in planning objectives. The Kiwanis Clubs have long set this example.
Ten Women's Clubs are now interested in working on the county level, (as well as on district and state ones). There has been much talk of a Community Chest, to avoid dozens of annual drives, when men reach for their billfolds every time they see a woman coming. An intense need is to see that every child (juniors and above) in the county, has the chance to belong to ONE good youth group. At present numbers are in many, while many are in none. P.-T.A.'s will accomplish much more by having a strong county organization.

Numerous citizens believe the time is near when the county leaders will conduct forums, establish goals, discuss problems, unite in plans and purposes. Dr. George Archer, Wayne Ratliff, Franklin
Moore, and others have been mentioned as possible heads.

Any civic organization desiring radio time, please contact the writer.

When you send your donation for ber to add a note of thanks for all he has done to help others.

Weren't the last week articles by

"I have never been able to attend any public school," the girl tells friends. "The only schooling I have ever had was during the 10 months I was in the hospital." She has learned to read and write, and is keenly interested in music. She has an excellent voice, and wants voice training almost as much as to walk again.

"I had a wonderful time at the party the Kiwanis Club gave for me, and I got many beautiful presents," she said.

According to the girl's mother,
Mary walked 10 months from April till Oct. 28, the day when, suddenly,
"she got limber and numb, her legs just seemed to fall out from under her, just gave away on her."

"I carried Mary three miles through the hills to the railroad station at Ligon," Mrs. Mitchell recalls of the early days of her daughter's illness. "The passenger train was running then, and that was the only way I had to get there. I took her on the train to Dr. W. D.
Osborne at Bypro."

It was Dr. Osborne who told the mother that her child had infantile paralysis and that there was nothing he could do for her.

Until members of the Beaver Valley Kiwanis Club and other friends became interested in the girl and enlisted the help of the Foundation for Infantile Paralysis life for her was mainly a matter of four walls.
At first days and nights of pain, then despair when a lifetime of crawling to get about the house or into the open sunlight faced her.

But things are looking up for Mary Mitchell, these days. She has pretty dresses, a beautiful watch, a complete wardrobe, even some money that she and her family so badly needed. And the bright hope, too, of walking as she was born to walk.

Lieut. Pace is a graduate of the Unicise will be held in Louisiana, Nov.

Arrest of Troy D. Martin Requested by Fort Wood On Charges of Assault

Wanted by the 79th Military Police Detachment at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., is Pvt. Troy D. Martin, former Floyd county deputy sheriff. Flyers were received by Sheriff Gorman Collins here this week asking Martin's apprehension for the military authorities on charges of alleged assault to commit rape, assault, and robbery.

Martin, a native of Left Beaver Creek, was a deputy sheriff here 1946-49, the local information attached to the flyer said. He served in the military police of the U. S. Army five years. No date for his desertion was given. He drives a Buick automobile, uses the various aliases of Bill or Bruce Martin, Bill Foster, Bill Forrester and Arley Tims. No recent whereabouts were given.

Described as six foot one inch tall, weighing 220 pounds, he is "considered dangerous." Occupations he has engaged in were listed as bartender, grocery store clerk and cook.

The flyer detailed the modus operandi of the wanted man: "He frequents taverns and bars of medium class and attempts to date the younger waitresses. In these approaches for dates, Martin has in the past, invariably given an alias as his identity." Women resisting his advances are choked and beaten, the military authorities say. The wanted notice was signed by Capt. H. E. Bracey, commanding the Fort Leonard Wood military police detachment.

"It's not the work I enjoy," said the cab driver, "it's the people I run into."—U. S. Coast Guard Magazine, Annapolis, Md.

1955 PAYROLL LOSSES CITED

Floyd Industrial Worker Pay Loss over $2 Million From '53; Pike Hit Hard

Floyd county industrial payroll covered by unemployment insurance in 1954 were $2,328,002 less than those of the preceding year, according to figures compiled by the Agricultural and Industrial Development Board of Kentucky. Average monthly employment dropped, too, from 5,893 to 4,883 persons.

Pike county's loss was the most significant of any Big Sandy county. It lost $11,62,930 in payrolls and the average persons in monthly employment dropped from 9,046 in 1953 to 6,251 last year.

(The figures for Floyd and other counties of the section this year will show a decided improvement in economic conditions, it is predicted.)

Floyd county's industrial payroll in 1953 was $19,968,267, dropping to $17,640,865 the next year. Pike's total payroll income dropped from $32,244,715 to $20,571,785. Johnson county had the least change in industrial payrolls, according to the report. Its 1954 figure, comparatively small in relation to Floyd and Pike, stood at $2,969,084 but dropped only $431 to a total of $2,968,653. The drop in average monthly employment was only 24 persons, making Johnson the most stable economy of the Big Sandy, judging from industrial payrolls.

Highest industrial payroll in Kentucky last year went to Jefferson county where workers were paid $631,014,747, an increase from $610,756,000. Lowest industrial payroll was in Elliott county when only $30,620 was paid, a drop of $38,033. The number of persons, 18, in monthly employment remained the same.

Per capita income in the various Eastern Kentucky counties showed figures far below that of the industrialized counties of Northern Kentucky. Jefferson county's per capita income was $1,944 but Floyd's was only $836. Other low Eastern counties are Pike, $844, Magoffin, $454; Johnson, $801; which was a slight increase, and Lawrence, $566. Lowest per capita income in Kentucky is in Martin county with only $368 and figures compiled by the A. & I. D. Board show that declining.

Farm men and women meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kelly V. Rose in Hickman county saw house improvements and a new dairy barn.

Dr. Wilkes' morning discourse (he spoke also in the afternoon) was an exposition of the fundamentals of good reading instruction and methods of insuring the child would "have a reading increment each year."

"The modern school is a social laboratory in which children live," he said. He described the first-grader coming up to the teacher with its finger under a word and asking it be pronounced. He indicated a revolutionary teaching situation. "If the class is a social laboratory the child would know where it could get help, be it in reading or in arithmetic."

Wilkes touched on the subject of phonics, disagreed with Rudolph Flesch's "Why Johnny Can't Read." He did however say that phonics should be taught, and expressed the hope that all teachers would read the Flesch book. Educators are too prone to get their backs up when something contrary to commonly accepted belief comes out. He asked the teacher-critics of Flesch to remember that the schools belong to the public and if the public gets interested enough in the schools to look in they'll find many things unsatisfactory.

"But if Johnny can't read," Wilkes affirmed, "it's not because somebody didn't teach him. Flesch's book has some possibilities, but it is not the way to teach reading. His methods are not acceptable in the light of modern research."

Dr. Wilkes declined to be called an expert, even though he was offering some expert advice. "An ex is a has-been, a spert is a drip under pressure," he said. "Every teacher is a reading teacher, though. I hold a certificate that says, if the school board will hire me, that I'll teach the children to read, not just hold their feet to the fire until they do, or fail them if they don't."

He talked about speed in reading. "Speed is a function of comprehension. The speed fits our purpose but don't use the word 'speed' in the first few grades. Say, 'Read more slowly', don't push. An automatic increase in speed doesn't increase comprehension."

The head of UL teacher training listed five things, either or all if necessary, children may do when they encounters a word it doesn't know: Look at it, guess at it by either reading up to the word or immediately after, use phonics and structural analysis by breaking the word into syllables and pronouncing the syllables, using the dictionary from the fourth grade up—or, if these all fail, ask somebody. "That doesn't necessarily have to be the teacher, either," he added.

He closed his morning talk with a reminder and an injunction. The reminder was, "Good teachers live with ignorance and mistakes without getting emotional. We make as many mistakes as the children." The injunction was, "Teach for the future and not merely today's lesson."

At both McDowell and Prestonsburg group meetings were held. The devotional period here was led by the Rev. Harold W. Dorsey, of Prestonsburg, and Dr. George S. Watson, of Drift. Consultants on the staff conducting the conference were:

Mrs. Ruby Evans Hart, Extension Department, University of Kentucky; Miss Thelma Evans, Training School, Morehead State College; Denver Stone, director Public Relations, Morehead State College; Miss Martha Virginia Shipman, Training School, University of Kentucky; Dr. Henry Martin, director Training School, Eastern State College; Herbert Jukes, Education Department, Pikeville College; Carl Hatcher, supervisor, Pike county schools; Redford Damron, supervisor, Pike county schools.

TO THE EDITOR

THE SYMBOLISM OF AUTUMN

Editor, The Times:

Although autumn is symbolic of death, it is nevertheless the most beautiful of the two equinoxes. It is a time when nature has aged and turned golden, when a vast and profound solitude has settled over the mountains and valleys and vales. Why is it beautiful when no longer can one hear the merry songs of birds, or the hum of honeybees, or watch the gaily bedecked butterflies flit from flower to flower? That question, like many questions relative to creation, is unanswerable, it is not within the power of human intelligence to grasp and unfathom the riddles which surround the origin of the animate and inanimate.

The once verdant vegetation nearing its end in a quiet and beautiful way is comparable with the permanent of many aged people whom I have seen. They stand on the threshold of eternity, but they fear not. They fear not the great beyond, for by some spiritual invitation they are told that in some infinity hereafter they—like the rebirth of nature's wonderland—also will be reborn and rejuvenated. These are people who have lived their lives keeping the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule uppermost within their thoughts.

As the approaching harvest moon cometh in all her glorious beauty, I would like for the people of all atheist nations to pause and reflect. Could they gaze into space and behold the myriads of stars, other suns which are shining on other planets, and into the infinite void of the Milky Way—could they do that and still retain their atheistic views? Any intelligent person knows there is a Divine Creator and if we pattern our lives after Jesus, we will have nothing to fear, not even death. In that final and supreme hour the humble and pure of heart will have a rebirth.

Like nature we will be the same, but clothed in a different garb.

Moreover, it was pointed out, this heavier financial return would have been possible without loss to the county's timber resources. This cutting for pulpwood, the speaker said, would have been for forest improvement by cleaning up timberland and preparing for forest regeneration through the planting of valuable trees or by permitting natural seeding of new trees.

"Timber represents one of Eastern Kentucky's natural resources, and we have got to change our thinking habits in regard to it," Mr. Dosker told the comparatively small gathering of forestry experts and citizens. "We must quit thinking in terms of sawlogs and boards and turn to thinking in terms of fiber board, newsprint, and other products that would revolutionize the economy of this section."

The Forestry Congress here, one of two such meetings held in the Big Sandy valley last week, brought together state and federal foresters, industrialists, bankers, educators and owners of timberland in a study of problems of profitable timber growing and of timber utilization. The other meeting was held at Pikeville. The two problems were studied in panel discussions led by James Newman, field agent in Forestry, UK Extension Service, and William J. Johnstone, agricultural representative of the Kentucky Bankers Association.

Mr. Dosker emphasized the fact that timber now standing can be used tomorrow, that its use, properly planned, can serve to clean up forests and result in forest regeneration through the planting of valuable trees such as oak, poplar, walnut and others, or through natural seeding, to replace the undesirable forest growth that is removed.

These facts on forest growth were stated during the panel discussions: With proper management, timber will increase at the rate of 5% with compound interest.

The average annual timber production per acre in Eastern Kentucky is 104 board feet but should be 250 board feet. Land that will produce 100 bushels of corn to the acre should go as high as 400 board feet.

Ten per cent of the average tree in this section makes No. 1 lumber; the remainder goes into less than No. 1 common, which is cull material.

One of every five trees in Eastern Kentucky is a cull.

Thirty per cent of the average tree cut in this section makes lumber; the other 70% is dead loss. A tree cut for saw timber would bring about $4 more, on the average, if the part left after it is trimmed were sold as pulpwood rather than being left to rot on the hillside and create a fire hazard.

Opportunities for timber-owners lie, one panel discussion decided, in production of timber for pulpwood and for further processing into boxes, sawhandles and other finished items. Floyd county, it was held, should prepare to ship the finished wood product to market instead of shipping rough lumber and then buying it back in finished form. Chemical treating of various woods to preserve them and render even inferior woods long-lasting was suggested as a local business opportunity.

All these matters of forest development and timber production are not to be undertaken lightly and without careful planning, foresters and doers taking part in the discussion emphasized. Modern cooperative means of merchandising woodland products also were urged as a "must" if the section is to profit from its forest resources as it should.

The Forestry Congress was greeted by County Superintendent Virgil O. Turner, J. B. Clarke, Prestonsburg attorney, presided as master of ceremonies, and the invocation was given by the Rev. Orville Pearson. Panel members included A. L. Sohaney, district service forester, Kentucky Division of Forestry; Malcolm Williamson, of the Berea Research Center, U. S. Forest Service; H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., cashier of the Bank Josephine, Prestonsburg; Kenneth Quigley, Central States Forest Experiment Station, Columbus, O.; Ben L. Hornback, forester, University of Kentucky, Jackson, Ky.; Marion Hafele, of the Mead Corporation, Ashland, and Claybourne Bailey, Justell.

County Agent O. E. Boggs said another Forestry Congress will be held here next year, and that it is hoped even more concrete information, some in documentary form, will be made available to civic and business leaders who in turn would be expected to convey possibilities of the program to the people of their respective communities.

Democrats clasp hands in a show of harmony at the rally and barbecue held here last Thursday. Left to right, Circuit Judge Edward P. Hill, Jr., A. B. (Happy) Chandler, Joe Weddington, Floyd county campaign manager, and Senator Alben W. Barkley. Hill and Barkley were Combs' supporters in the recent primary.

a better governor the next four years. I want him elected," the dean of Kentucky Democrats said. Barkley, after asking support for Judge Astor Hogg, who is running for the Court of Appeals, launched an attack on the Republican national record, recalled the promise by his opponent, John Sherman Cooper, in the last Senatorial election to revive Eastern Kentucky coal markets by the exportation of coal from this section. He said that he was not surprised the program was abandoned after the election. "You cannot rely on any promises the Republican make," he said.

Barkley praised Judge Bert T. Combs. "You have an outstanding man here in Judge Combs. He would be an able governor, an able lawyer, was an able Commonwealth's Attorney and is an able judge with integrity." He detailed his and Chandler's voting of the last few years. "I voted for Judge Combs because I thought this end of Kentucky needed a governor. I had a right to do that. I've voted for Chandler and against him; he has voted for me and against me. The record is a sort of criss-cross thing." But the ex-vice-president said he was going to vote this fall for Chandler: "I am for Happy without equivocation or reservation."

Other speakers at the Democratic rally were Congressman Carl D. Perkins and State Senator Doug Hays. All the Democratic nominees were present and were presented with several prominent out-of-county Democrats in brief recognition acknowledgements.

OBJECT LESSON

Now is the time for teachers to take their pupils to Dewey Lake. Not to show them the surrounding hills in their autumn glory but to let them see what has happened in that area and is happening all over Eastern Kentucky, year in and year out.

We refer to the results of erosion that are so painfully evident there, now that the water level has been reduced 15 feet. Where once was the beauty of water is now the ugliness of mud-covered bottomlands, the brownish goosy deposit of soil from upstream farms and slopes that amazes the viewer by the depth of sedimentation that has accumulated in the few years since the lake was impounded.

One wonders, looking on the unsightly mess, seeing that mud has filled in the stream bed even more than had ever been suspected, if one day sedimentation will not turn the lake into a big mud-hole, fit only for carp and cat-fish habitation.

The tons of mud washed down into the still waters of the lake and there deposited are but a few of the thousands of tons of good Big Sandy valley soil that are lost every year.

Look on a muddy stream and you're watching the farms float by.

WE HAVE NICE VISITORS

Mrs. Shirley Hughes' sixth graders visited us, the other day, piled us with questions, inspected the machinery, then on assignment from their teacher wrote about what they had learned.

One wrote about her fascination by "the big machine that prints and folds" The Times. Another told how interesting it was to learn "how they got the ads, how they were printed and how mats were fixed to be put in the paper," and more than one envied a Mr. Larry Johnson because somebody in the shop set his name on the linotype and gave him the slug.

One girl wrote: "I would never like to work in a newspaper office, because you might get hurt. And it is a lot of work."

And you might get old working around such a dump, honey. And it is a lot of work—you can say that again.

EPITAPH

In Charleston, W. Va., there is a statue of a man whose name we recall as William Gassaway Davis. We may have forgotten the correct name, but the inscription below stuck with our rather fickle memory:

"He worked as if he would live forever.
He lived as if he would die tomorrow."

RIVER SURVEY FUNDS ASKED

Budget Director Is Told $77,000 Needed To Make Survey of the Big Sandy

Four Democratic members of Kentucky's Congressional delegation Monday urged the Bureau of the Budget to allocate sufficient funds in the coming fiscal year to complete the Big Sandy and Kentucky river surveys.

Statements presented to Budget Director Rowland Hughes at the public conference also called for funds to commence construction of the Buckhorn reservoir and to further construction of the Catlettsburg floodwall.

Senators Earle C. Clements and Alben W. Barkley, Congressmen Carl Perkins, of the 7th Congressional district, and John Watts of the 6th district, said they had been advised by the Corps of Engineers that it would require $77,500 to complete the Big Sandy survey and $100,000 to complete the same work on the Kentucky river.

In regard to the Catlettsburg project the Corps of Engineers was quoted as indicating that $2 million applied on the project would maintain the accelerated building schedule adopted by the Congress last year.

Congressman Perkins stressed the importance of making $1,500,000 available for the commencement of construction of the Buckhorn reservoir. He said that the recommended figure was based on the estimates made by the Engineers.

Senator Clements' statement, read for him by his legislative assistant, was prefaced by the remark that his statement was the first of a series he would make to urge comprehensive flood control and water development throughout the Commonwealth.

Senator Clements maintained that completion of the Big Sandy survey would clear the way for the utilization of the region's water resources.

"While in many areas the nation is experiencing an increase in industrial expansion and commercial prosperity," Clements said, "the Big Sandy basin communities—although rich in mineral deposits and other natural resources—are experiencing an economic depression with a high percentage of the total labor force unemployed."

The four Democratic members of Kentucky's Congressional delegation participating in Monday's budget conference said that until the completion of the Kentucky river survey, development of the river was being delayed. They stressed that a complete development of the river—embracing flood control, water storage and navigation facilities—would benefit many counties in the Commonwealth and particularly those in the river basin.

public, too," he said. "It slows down traffic, causes congestion."

Spurlock noted a by-product condition stemming from the lack of sidewalks. Pupils walk to school along the dirt path adjacent to the highway and carry mud on their feet. No matter how clean they attempt to get their feet some of it is carried into the building, where it dries and gets in the air. "It poses a real cleaning problem," Spurlock added.

Dog Cases Are Continued At Quarterly Court Here; Tag Sales Up, Cook Says

All charges against those who have refused to comply with the dog law were continued before Clifford B. Latta, county judge pro-tem, here Monday, but Roy Cook said that several others had paid court cost and tagged their dogs. The continued cases will be tried next term of Quarterly Court, at which time County Judge Stumbo is expected to preside.

Cook said that he had "worked" Middle Creek and Bull Creek and "found the people very co-operative. I believe 95% of the people are in favor of the dog law," he said. "I'm having plenty of calls from every section of the county asking that strays be picked up and the law enforced. I will eventually get to them. One thing I want to ask the people and that is to quit dumping stray dogs around. Keep them until I get around. A stray dog is hard to catch."

The community of David was "worked" by Cook recently and he picked up 18 strays. He plans to work in Right and Left Beaver the next month. Sales of tags is proceeding at a satisfactory rate, the warden told The Times.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 24 (Spl.) — Kentucky's dog tag sales are on the boom, with more than 56,000 such sales having been made during the past three months, Wayland Rhoads, Dog Law administrator, reported today. The number far exceeds those sold during the same period a year ago, which was the previous high.

In addition, the Kentucky Law Advisory Committee, headed by Commissioner of Agriculture Ben S. Adams, announced payment of $5,327.22 to claimants for livestock losses suffered by dogs. The claims ranged in size from as low as $3 to $317 indemnity, representing losses suffered by 79 individuals in 27 counties.

Money to pay the claims is obtained from the Livestock Fund which receives one-half of each $1.50 license sold.

The committee noted that there are numerous instances reported where people with an unwanted dog on their premises carry it to another community and "drop" it rather than procure a license. The committee urged that such persons notify the local dog warden or humane society to pick up the dog and take it to the dog pound.

W. S. Scott of Pendleton county reports 40 per cent more silage from sorgo than from corn.

Children Urged To Enter Contest

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 24 (Spl.) — Kentucky school children participating in the State-wide Fire Prevention Week contest were urged today to mail in their essay entries by October 31, closing day for receiving the articles.

State Fire Marshal J. T. Underwood, Jr., said that more than 3,000 entries had already been received, but several times that many were expected before the closing date. Children are asked to complete in 25 words or less the sentence: "Fire is our most dangerous enemy because _____".

The contest is divided into six divisions and is open to any Kentucky school child, grades one through twelve. First prizes in each age group are U. S. Savings Bonds with maturity value of $75; second prizes are $50 bonds; third prizes, $25 bonds and fourth prizes, $10 in cash. Entry blanks were mailed to all schools, Underwood said, but if any child failed to receive the regular printed entry blank, an ordinary sheet of paper may be used. The entry must include the child's name, address, grade in school, name and address of school attended, and teacher's name. Entry blanks may also be obtained from the State Fire Marshal's office here.

Volunteers Fire Groups Subject To Taxation

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 24 — Property owned by a volunteer fire department nonprofit corporation is not exempt from taxation, it was held by Assistant Attorney General M. B. Hollifield.

"Exemptions from taxation must be strictly construed," Hollifield wrote Circuit Judge Paul J. Stapleton, Newport, "and the only tax exemptions authorized are public properties owned by the public and real or personal properties owned by private corporations devoted strictly to religious, educational or charitable purposes."

"It is true that property of a volunteer fire department may be devoted to a public purpose, but unfortunately it is not owned by the public. The real estate of a volunteer fire department cannot be exempted from taxation unless it is both owned by the public and used for a public purpose."

MARINES TAKE CITY, IN 1776

Commodore Hopkins' Gunpowder Needs Sparks Assault by Seven Ships

Thousands of vacationing Americans will visit the Bahamas this year. Sprawled on sandy beaches or trekking about the islands, enjoying the peaceful, old-world atmosphere, few of them will know that a Marine captain once captured Nassau, capital of the Bahamas.

They would be equally surprised to learn it was at Fort Montague, near Nassau on the island of New Providence, that the same captain raised the first American flag to fly over foreign territory. A shortage of supplies in the American colonies was behind the conquest of New Providence and the Bahama capital.

To Commodore Esek Hopkins, commanding officer of Nicholas and commander of a brand-new naval squadron of seven ships, the reported 600 barrels of powder at Fort Montague were mighty tempting. He came out of Philadelphia in January, 1776, determined to make New Providence his squadron's first mission.

Hopkins' distaste for bad weather — there was plenty of it in the early part of '76 — and the joining of his squadron by two ships from Baltimore, also had something to do with his decision to proceed southward.

Under his orders the squadron, minus a sloop and a schooner separated by bad weather, assembled March 1 near the island of Abaco in the Bahamas. Two small sloops were put into use to transport the landing force to New Providence.

The attack was made the morning of March 3. An attempt to surprise the enemy failed; Nicholas and his force of 220 Marines and 60 sailors were discovered before they could make a landing. But, under cover of fire from two ships of the squadron, the Marines on daillors made shore and advanced toward the town of New Providence.

A mile east of the town, Nicholas came under fire of Fort Montague. He continued to advance, however, and shortly entered the fort. He found the guns spiked and the garrison gone.

Nicholas spent the night at the fort. Next morning, he and his troops advanced into Fort Nassau and seized the governor's house. All 40 guns of the fort were fully loaded, but possession was taken without a shot being fired.

With the island secured, Commodore Hopkins put his squadron into the harbor and came ashore to inspect the prize. In little more than 24 hours, 71 cannon, 15 mortars and 24 casks of powder had been captured to be used in the American fight for independence. The remainder of the powder had been done away with during the night by the island's governor. On March 17, after loading the captured stores on his ships, Hopkins sailed for Rhode Island.

The New Providence landing was the first of more than 200 in Marine Corps history. It is often referred to as the "most successful American naval operation of the Revolutionary War."

Bottled Gas Handlers Cannot Be Required To Take Examinations

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 24 — The State Department of Insurance has no authority to require service men for handling of bottled gas to take a written examination, it was ruled by the Attorney General's Office.

Assistant Attorney General Earle V. Powell held the General Assembly had never required such an examination, nor vested the Department of Insurance with authority to exact a written test as a qualification for handling the product.

IS YOUR ROAD MAP SAFE?

"Where do we come from?" is an important question. "Why are we here?" is quite thought-provoking. But "Where are we going?" is the most arresting question of all.

The wise traveler takes a trustworthy road map. It saves him time and guides him safely to his destination. Life is a short journey; eternity lasts forever. Hence, a safe road map for our earthly sojourn we desperately need.

Churches and church leaders may err grossly, inadvertently or otherwise, but the Word of God, never. "The world passeth away and the lust thereof, but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever."

The Bible is a safe guide precisely because it is the Word of God. The phrase "Thus saith the Lord," occurs scores of times in its pages. The Bible claims to be inspired, the Bible writers disclaimed that what they wrote was their own. "No prophecy of the scripture is of any private interpretation . . . but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost." II Peter 1:21.

No one has the authority to change it. "Thy Word, O Lord, is fixed forever." Revelation 22:18-19 warns of plagues to befall the man who adds to, or subtracts from what was written. Its teachings on the simplicity of salvation by faith as a gift from God (Ephesians 2:8) on out to its emphasis on baptism as a picture of what Jesus did to save the lost soul (Romans 6:3-4) are matters that New Testament churches will not tamper with.

No man can read the Bible regularly with sincere heart and open mind without being blessed. Thomas Jefferson once said, "I have always said and always will say that the studious perusal of the sacred volume will make better citizens, better mothers, better husbands. The Bible makes the best people in the world." King David said, "Thy Word have I hid in my heart that I might not sin against Thee." An American mother gave her son as he was leaving for college, the parting gift of a Bible. She had written on its fly-leaf, "Son, this book will keep you from sin, or sin will keep you from it." Months later, while on a downward course of debauchery, the youth was asked to lend this Bible to a friend, who discovered for him the mother's message on the fly-leaf. He started reading the Bible regularly, was converted, and today is an enthusiastic preacher of God's Word.

Honey Production Increase Reported

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 24 (Spl.) — Kentucky beekeepers are reporting an average production of 22 pounds from each colony of bees, considerably above the average for the past three years, according to Mancel J. Vinson, director of marketing for the State Department of Agriculture.

Frequent rains in late May and early June reduced the early summer production but mid-summer conditions were almost ideal from the standpoint of honey production, Vinson added.

Honey production is becoming an increasingly important source of farm income in Kentucky with a number of areas intensifying their colony production. The average price support for the product was 9.9 cents a pound.

"In addition to providing a profitable enterprise and hobby, honey bees are essential for proper pollination of more than 57 different legumes, vegetables and fruits," Vinson continued. "Wherever pastures are planted with a grass-legume mixture, honey bees may be used to obtain proper seed set of the legumes, thus insuring a long-time pasture stand."

Cats Run Wild To Score 39 Points in Last Half

The Prestonsburg Black Cats struck for six touchdowns in the last half to break a 0-0 halftime deadlock in subduing hapless Belfry 29-0, for their fourth football triumph of the season.

Six players, four from Belfry and two Black Cats, were ejected from the bitterly-fought contest which was marred by seven fumbles and some 250 yards in penalties.

Five players, Lowell Hughes, Paul P. Hughes, Buford Crager, Ralph Shepherd, and tackle Bruce Howard, each scored a touchdown in the bruising second half that saw the Black Cats do a reversal of form from the first 24 minutes of the contest.

Two costly fumbles in the loosely-played first half inside the 20-yard stripe prevented Prestonsburg touchdowns, and Belfry scored twice from the five, only to have both nullified by off-side penalties. Midway the second period, the bellicose Pirates picked up a Hughes bobble on the ten and in five plays, following the two off-side infractions, had the oval on the Black Cat two, first and goal, but hard-running fullback Ernest Hatfield fumbled to quell the threat.

Lowell Hughes was the Belfry target throughout the game, but the visitors' rough tactics failed to dim the all-state quarterback's stellar performance.

On the third play of the third period, halfback Buford Crager climaxed a 55-yard march by going off-tackle for a 35-yard touchdown, and L. Hughes missed the point after.

Two minutes later, Lowell Hughes electrified the Homecoming crowd with a 60-yard punt return to pay dirt, only to have the elusive dash called back by a clipping penalty. The Black Cats were not to be denied the second marker of the night as they reeled off the six-pointer on the same series, with an L. Hughes to Crager to P. Hughes lateral nine-yard scoring play. Crager and P. Hughes had sparked the drive with two 15-yard gains.

L. Hughes ran the margin to 18-0 by intercepting a Blevins pass on the midfield stripe and galloping the 5, where he handed off to Bruce Howard who jaunted to the end zone. Hughes added the point after.

Prestonsburg added three more touchdowns in the final quarter, sub-half Ralph Shepherd returned a pass interception 10 yards for one, the passing combination of Hughes to P. Hughes and Crager in a 40-yard march netting the next with Hughes getting the tally, and L. Hughes scored the third on a 10-yard trek in the waning seconds.

Coach Guy Patterson, who suffered a broken back in an automobile accident in Mid-August, was on hand to see his charges for the first time this season.

Friday night, Prestonsburg meets the improving Whitesburg Yellow Jackets in the Letcher county seat in another E.K.M.C. tussle. Both are 3-2 in the loop and tied for fourth spot in the standings.

RULE INTERPRETATIONS

The officiating in the Prestonsburg-Belfry football game was highly questionable, not from a penalty standpoint, but from rule interpretations, four in number, that escaped the supposedly watchful eyes of four striped-shirted individuals who are classified by the K.H.S.A.A. as grid officials.

The 1955 National Federation Rules clearly define the situations, too numerous to mention here, but it is our honest conviction that the whistle-blowers were not too familiar with them.

AH! AT LAST!

If our calculus and trigonometry were up to date, we would figure how many casts in the past 20 years and untold numbers of fishing trips it has taken our esteemed fishing editor to land a 5¼-pound largemouth bass, which no doubt will be the number one topic of conversation in his weekly fishing column labeled THIS TOWN—THAT WORLD... He has seven witnesses to verify the successful catch made at Dewey Lake last Thursday, which was edition day of the Times.

Organized Labor Cannot Take A Chance On Happy Chandler

IN VIEW OF HIS PUBLIC LABOR RECORD

Every coal miner and member of the United Mine Workers should remember the vicious anti-labor Smith-Connally Act. This bill, designed for the sole and express purpose of government seizure of the nation's coal mines, provided an anti-strike clause wherein your Union and John L. Lewis were dragged into Federal Court and the U. M. W. as such was fined 3 Million Dollars and John L. Lewis was personally fined $10,000.

Your coal mines were taken over by the government, injunctions were issued and the miners were forced to return to work without a contract.

HAPPY CHANDLER as UNITED STATES SENATOR joined the enemies of Labor and VOTED FOR THE SMITH-CONNALLY ACT.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt, a great friend of Labor, recognized this bill to be dangerous to our American way of life and branded it as a vicious anti-labor bill and designed to destroy all labor in America. He vetoed the bill and Happy Chandler joined hands with other anti-labor and reactionary Senators and voted to OVERRIDE A VETO OF LABOR'S GREAT FRIEND, FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

Happy's Smith-Connally Act alone justifies every coal miner in Kentucky in going out to the Polls on election day and to join with John L. Lewis in voting against HAPPY CHANDLER by voting for ED DENNEY FOR GOVERNOR.

MINE WAGES SET BY U.S.

Government Order Fixes Bituminous Wage Scale Under Walsh-Healey Act

The government last week fixed for the first time pay rates for miners producing bituminous coal for the government. Secretary of Labor Mitchell ordered the rates into effect Nov. 25 at levels which had been requested by major coal producers, using union labor and by the United Mine Workers Union.

The effect of the order, made under the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act, is to make the required pay rates for coal producers, in order to be eligible to bid on government orders approximately equal to the UMW rates.

The pay schedule affects, in particular, the Leslie-Clay field in Eastern Kentucky. To that extent it will affect the non-union coal operators who pay substantially less than UMW wage scales. They had argued the order would put many of them out of business. The Walsh-Healey Act authorizes the Labor Department to set minimum wages for workers engaged in filling government contracts. The guiding principle is that there must be the "prevailing" wage for the type of work.

Mitchell found, with one exception, that the rates proposed by the UMW were the "prevailing" rates payable on government orders. The rates range from $1.40 per hour in Iowa to $2.346 in Montana.

The Iowa rate was the exception Mitchell found did not agree with the UMW. For the vast bulk of the coal areas, known as the Appalachian Region covering Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, Eastern Kentucky, Northern Tennessee, Ohio and Illinois, a rate of 2.245 per hour was fixed. Today's order made final tentative proposals in an order of Aug. 3. The rates adopted by Mitchell were based on the $18.25 per day basic union wage scale effective until Sept. 1. The union then won a $2 per day wage boost, hiking the daily rate of $20.25. Union sources indicated the UMW may petition Mitchell sometime in the future to raise the rates to take account of this increase.

Not Mad-Just "Unhappy"

DEAR FRIEND AND FELLOW DEMOCRAT:

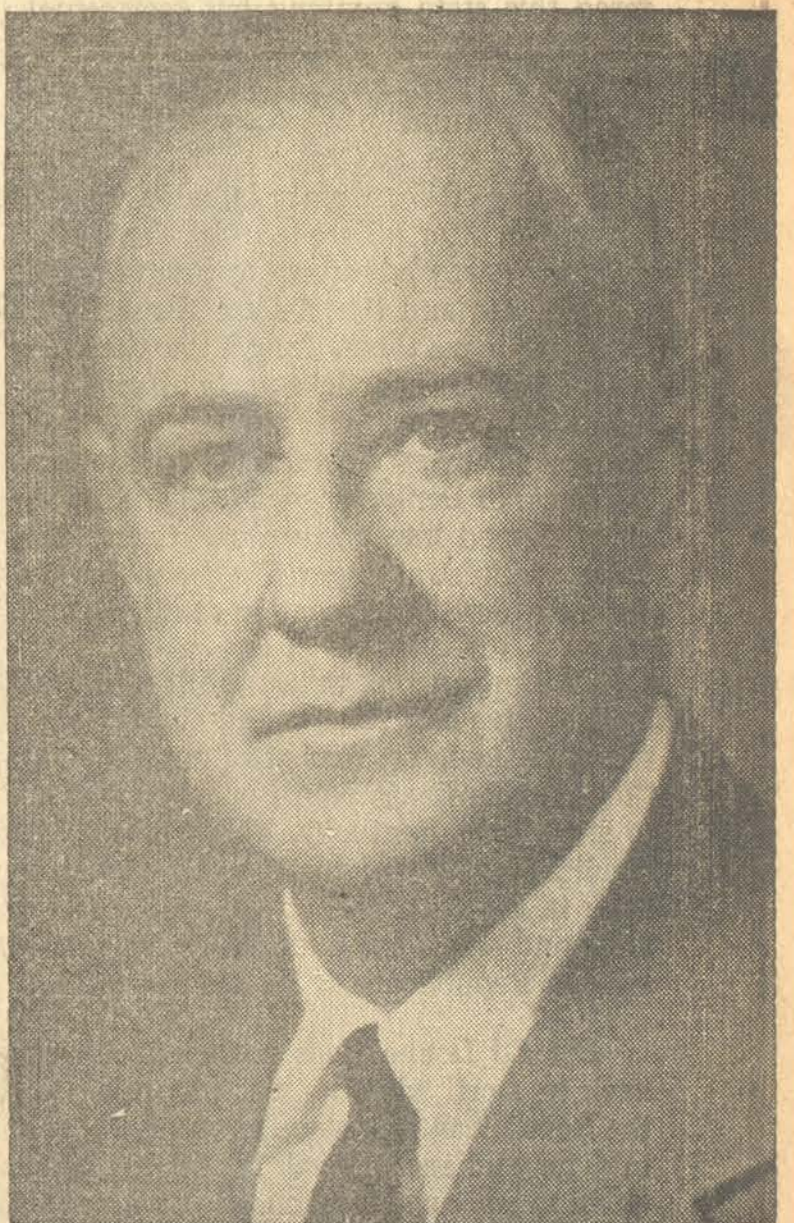

We Democrats have joined together for the purpose of working for the future of Eastern Kentucky, our homes, our schools, our children. We have studied our candidates for Governor, both A. B. Chandler and Ed Denney, their platforms, their truthfulness, sincerity and their understanding of our problems in Eastern Kentucky.

Our findings are: Ed Denney measures up to the standards which we look for in a man who has aspirations of being our Governor. He is a man of religious background, truthful, honest and sober. He knows our problems, our hopes, and the kind of future we want for our land. He is forceful and a fighter for right. He has spent his life among the people of our mountains as a teacher, a lawyer, and as our district attorney. He is a man of vision and foresight with his eyes to the future—our future in Eastern Kentucky. He is the man who will do for us what Bert Combs would have done, had he been our Governor.

We were for Bert Combs in the primary as we would have been for any Eastern Kentucky man who was of the high caliber as he and sincerely wanted the same things for his people of the mountains as Ed Denney wants today.

We have weighed Mr. Chandler in the balances and have found him wanting in many things. He won his election over our young man from Floyd county, not by his eloquent speeches or his singing of "Gold Mine in the Sky" of his ability as a ballplayer, but upon the fabrications of a political mind, dedicated not to the principles of fair play but to the idea of "it's not how you play the game but—Win."

This man, Chandler handles the truth so recklessly that the Courier-Journal says lies became the hallmark of his campaign. He cares nothing for Kentucky or our hills. He is only interested in furthering his political ambitions and to line the pockets of the political stooges who support him. These who support him are not the kind of people we want running our state government, not these Newport gamblers, not these pinball and slot machine kings, not these bootleggers and whiskey czars, and not these race track and gambling syndicates. We do not want all the vices that our people fight so hard against to be legalized and shoved down our throats by this man who WILL NOT tell the truth. We do not want our lakes and parks made into political plums. We do not want our schools to be known as No. 48—in the states.

We want, as you should want, the better things in life, good schools, good parks, good government, and industry in our mountains where jobs will provide for us and for our children a future with security.

We are for Ed Denney because we have faith in him and his program and faith that he will provide this future. This faith we cannot have in a man who will resign from the Senate for a baseball job, while our sons were dying for their country, a man who will accept $32,000 from a whiskey firm while elected to high office as A. B. Chandler did in the last war. A vote for Denney is a vote for ourselves, our children, our future. Vote

DEMOCRATS FOR DENNEY

THERE IS ONLY ONE ISSUE IN KENTUCKY

There is only one big issue in this campaign for Governor. That issue was there before A. B. (Happy) Chandler was nominated by the Democrats and Ed Denney was selected by the Republicans. The issue was there decades ago, has persisted down through Kentucky history for a long, long time. That issue is Democratic government versus Republican government. No amount of effort by the Republican party to obscure the issue, no cheap camouflage of the party name will change it.

The Republican party recognizes the issue, knows that the Kentucky voter is aware of this distinction between the two parties and is inclined to exercise his right of suffrage against them for good and sufficient reasons. Those reasons have been in existence a long time. They stem back through the long record of Republican leadership that has never offered this state anything but ineffectual and fumbling attempts at progress. That's why the Republicans now hide their party label, push forward a candidate with his sponsors hiding in the brush.

The Republican party is, admittedly a realistic party. It realizes its utter failure to offer Kentucky anything constructive in the way of reform or progress while it was in power a few times and that failure rises now, like a long buried ghost to plague them. They know that at one time, just barely five decades ago, their party offered Kentucky nothing but the prospect of civil war and armed thugs at the state capital. Kentucky threw them out on their ears then. Since then, when the forces of Democracy were a little unaware, the Republican party slipped into power three times. They seldom mention those administrations and in the records of constructive government there is no mention at all.

Ed Denney recognizes the ineffectuality of his party to lead or give this state an administration dedicated to good roads, to the improvement of our school system, to the selection of subordinate public officials who are able and willing to serve only Kentucky. That's why Ed Denney poses as a candidate without a party, that's why he shoves the elephant back in the barn and go out with a few disgruntled Democrats and stalks the mule. The situation embarrasses nobody but the Republicans.

But Ed Denney was not trying to camouflage his party back in April when he was preparing to be a candidate in the Republican primary. He was a stalwart Republican then, told an audience, April 12, at Louisville: "If I run, I am going to run as a Republican. I am not going to forsake my own party to get a few Democratic votes on the other side. If I should run, and lightning should strike, I believe that the Republicans should get the spoils."

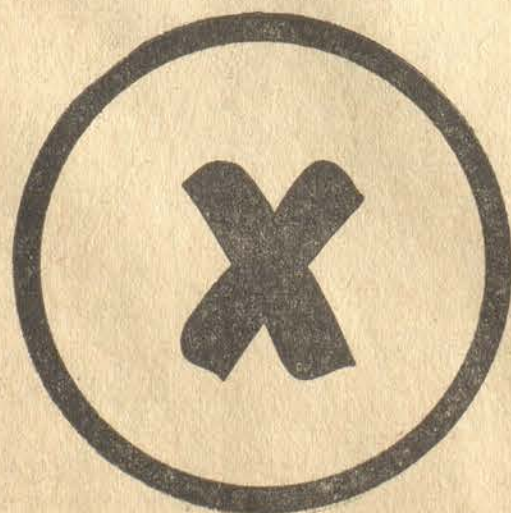

The Republicans would like to forget about that statement of Denney's. They are promising many Democratic state employes that they can keep their jobs under Denney. But that's not what Denney said in April. He said then he believed the Republicans should get the spoils.

And spoils is what the Republicans think our state government is. They think the jobs, the whole mechanism of government is just so much booty to cart off, just so much, as Denney says SPOILS to hand out—to the Republicans. We have Denney's word for it.

SPECIAL PLEDGES BY CHANDLER

Chandler told a Prestonsburg audience last Thursday that he wanted to make two special commitments:

1. He would build the necessary sidewalks along North Lake Drive "to your big high school. That will be a chief concern of mine."
2. He pledged himself to improve U.S. 23 from Louisa to Jenkins.

The record of past Republican administrations should be examined. They sponsored no social legislation, they advocated no progress, they passed out the jobs to Republicans, while Kentuckians marked time until Democratic leadership could be returned to power. Kentucky historians scarcely mention Republican administrations. There is nothing, of course, to mention but ineffectuality, stalemated governors and legislatures, and a blank marking of time while Kentucky waited.

Denney's record is typically Republican. He was in the State Legislature at one time, earned the reputation of a man who always voted NO. No matter how good the bill was, no matter how great was the need or demand for a bill to be passed, Ed Denney voted NO. He voted that way on soil conservation, TB sanatoria, aid to dependent children, appropriations to the Disabled Ex-Service Men's Board, guaranteed veteran re-employment, and dozens of other things the Democrats sponsored and passed.

Denney is against a sales tax . . . Now. But he wasn't always against it, maybe not so firmly and finally committed against it even yet. As Chandler says, "A leopard doesn't change its spots." Denney managed Eugene Siler's campaign for governor four years ago. Siler ran on a Sales Tax program. Denney was a firm, faithful advocate of Siler and his program then. Maybe he is trying another little bit of camouflage. If a man denies his party, he can deny a program he privately favors.

To the teachers of Kentucky Ed Denney offers only the ineffectual thinking that is traditionally Republican. He told an audience at Louisville last week:

"If I can keep expenses as low as possible and keep our income high, then I can effectuate the Minimum Foundation Program. If we can't do that, we're going to have to have more money."

Chandler says he can implement the Minimum Foundation Program for Education WITHIN the present tax structure. That's the clear-headed thinking of a candidate who knows the tax structure of Kentucky and what it can stand. The above statement of Denney's reveals again the befuddled thinking of a candidate who offers a lot of "If's". If he can he will, if he can't he will . . . by getting more taxes.

This state has had enough of high taxes that brought little, often meaningless benefits. Just last week a tax research group pointed out that Kentucky had the highest tax increase in the nation. To impose more taxes, to take the chance of Denney imposing extra taxes is to risk fiscal bankruptcy in Kentucky. Chandler has had tax authorities examine the tax structure and income and knows how to implement the Minimum Foundation Program for Education without extra taxes.

The issue is just Democratic good government or Republican mismanagement and leaderless inefficiency. It has always been so in Kentucky, will be that way forever unless the Republicans grow a crop of progressive leaders.

The election of A. B. Chandler for governor, Harry Lee Waterfield as lieutenant-governor with the full Democratic ticket, offers Kentucky the assurance of a stable, wise and effective state government.

OTHER STATES STUDY PARKS

In Kentucky; System
Here Noted for Strides
Made in Recent Years

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 24 (Sp.) — The publicity that Kentucky has received for the rapid strides it has made in the development of a state park system and the attraction of tourists has resulted in efforts in many states to try the same program.

Latest example of this is a special edition of The Daily Plainsman of Huron, South Dakota, which featured many photographs of Kentucky state parks and recreational facilities and stories on what progress this state has made. The headline in this special edition said: "Dakota Can Do What Kentucky Has Done." The newspaper argued that South Dakota should profit from Kentucky's experiences and develop a state park system of its own.

The state of Kansas also has shown great interest in Kentucky. Several members of the new Kansas State Parks and Recreation Commission recently spent two days in the Kentucky Lake area studying development and operation of state parks there.

The state of Oklahoma also has studied Kentucky state park operations as a part of its program to issue $7,500,000 in revenue bonds to finance construction of state park facilities.

Tennessee moved last week to get a larger share of the tourist business. Governor Clement named a newspaperman as state director of parks to head a new promotional effort, and has indicated he hopes to entice some of the trained park personnel from Kentucky into the Tennessee system.

Gulf's New Super-Refined GAS-OIL TEAM

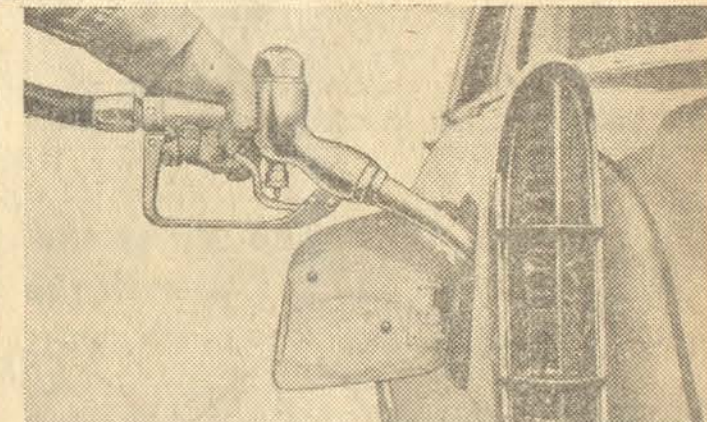

...for more miles per gallon

DIRTY-BURNING
TAIL-END

NEW GULF
NO-NOX

Gulf No-Nox burns clean. Here's proof: Note the black deposit, on plate at left, caused by the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline—the part which Gulf refines out in making New Super-Refined NO-NOX. But see how clean new NO-NOX leaves the plate at right.

Prove it in your own car. Now—on the road in your own car—see for yourself how New Super-Refined Gulf NO-NOX can give you the best in motor performance and protection . . . plus more miles per gallon in the kind of short-trip, stop-and-go driving you do most.

...for more miles per quart

Gulfpride Select works clean. Here's why: Most oils are refined only to the stage shown in Graduate A. Gulfpride Select is further refined by the Alchlor Process, removing up to 15% more of the carbon-formers, shown in Graduate B. Graduate C contains new super-refined oil.

Prove it in your own car. This new oil can give you more miles per quart because it has natural viscosity (body)—contains no artificial thickeners that break down in service.

REMEMBER: No gasoline alone can give you today's finest performance . . . no oil alone can give you today's finest protection. Get the super-power Gas-Oil Team . . .

FIVE DANGERS ARE NAMED

Clark Cites Home Perils For Children; Accident Prevention Week Called

The average home contains 1,500 square feet of potential death of children.

This warning was issued this week by M. V. Clark, county health administrator in an appeal to parents to participate in Child Accident Prevention Week, which will be observed next week by the health department. The period, October 23-29, has been officially proclaimed as Child Accident Prevention Week by Governor Lawrence Wetherby.

The program is a highlight of the health department's year-round crusade to educate parents to practice and teach safety habits in an effort to reduce the tremendous toll of child accidents in the home area.

Mr. Clark suggested that parents observe Child Accident Prevention Week by conducting home hazard hunts to remove dangers to the lives and limbs of their children. He cited the following points as among the preventive measures which should be taken:

1. IN THE KITCHEN—Lock up household poisons, keep sharp instruments and matches out of reach; turn pot handles in on the kitchen stove; put hot dishes in the center of the table out of reach of curious hands; keep children away from appliances in operation; unplug and cover appliances when not in use.

2. IN THE BATHROOM—Lock up medicines, even ordinary ones such as aspirin and laxatives; keep toxic cosmetics out of reach; put sharp manicuring and shaving instruments out of reach; never leave small children alone in the bathroom, even for "just a minute."

3. IN THE LIVING ROOM—Lock up firearms and ammunition; keep matches, cigarettes, and lighters out of reach; fasten windows securely and put gates at the top and bottom of stairways to prevent falls; put safety plugs in unused electric outlets; keep electrical cords in good repair.

4. IN THE YARD AND GARAGE—Lock up poisons, such as insecticides and turpentine; put garden implements, such as mowers and shears, and tools, such as saw and lathe, carefully away where children cannot reach them; teach children not to play in driveway; always know where the children are before backing out of the driveway.

5. AROUND THE NEIGHBORHOOD—Report uncovered wells and cisterns to authorities; fence your yard to keep small children from wandering to unfenced ponds; teach children not to play in excavations, abandoned refrigerators, deep freezers, and trunks or on buildings under construction; teach children never to pet stray animals and never to tease pets, no matter how familiar they are.

From washer and dryer—clothes come clean—soft and fluffy dry. Less fade and tear—clothes and linens last longer dried in gentle heat.

Mild breeze of the dryer that you control... instead of hot sun, dusty buffeting wind, or chilling cold that fades and freezes fabrics.

Official Warns of Hallowe'en Dangers

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 24 (Spl.) — "Hallowe'en can be fatal."

This grisly reminder came today from State Fire Marshal J. T. Underwood, Jr., who urged that safety precautions be taken in order to prevent needless accidents.

"Fire authorities have long recognized Hallowe'en as a day of danger," Underwood added "and unless safety precautions are taken by persons planning festivities we can expect a recurrence of needless accidents. Flameproofing all costumes made of loosely woven fabric is one of the most important safety measures.

"To flameproof a costume, dip it in a solution of nine ounces of borax and four ounces of boric acid to a gallon of water. Wring by hand; hang out to dry. Ironing does not affect the flame resistance, but the treatment must be repeated after each laundering."

He warned that flameproof is not fireproof.

"If you hold a match to a flameproof fabric, it will burn," the fire marshal continued. "But it will not continue to burn when you take the match away."

The use of candles in jack o'lanterns is another serious fire hazard, the fire marshal noted. He recommended using a flashlight—the kind which remains lighted when the top is unscrewed. Remove the top and stand the light on its base inside the pumpkin. A cardboard collar fitted into the pulp will help keep the light upright.

The fire marshal also warned against the use of flammable decorations for parties.
