This Town— That World

THE COLORS ARE THERE

Botanists tell us that all those brilliant colors leaves develop at this time of year were there all along but didn't show earlier because the chlorophyll predominated so heavily earlier in the year that the leaves appeared altogether green.

There ought to be a moral or a sermon in this somewhere. The human being is called green in youth, but the latent colors of his nature, we sadly report, do not appear gloriously before he, like the leaves, passes on.

WE'RE GUILTY, TOO

We were just getting ready to jibe at those who had so little to do they had time to worry what Princess Margaret's intentions toward Capt. Townsend were, and then came along the girl's announcement that she would bow to the wishes of her church and country. So we found ourselves in the same boat with most other folks, in deep sympathy with a young couple who are just people after all and whose thwarted romance is no more tragic than many others.

Report on Dewey Lake:
Water low, murky to muddy. Fish reluctant. Navigation hazardous.

SUCH LANGUAGE!

Hallowe'en vandalism was, police here say, at an all-time low. That's not counting a personal message or so left in soap on our windows, addressed to me. Said window will now get their annual washing.

Business opportunity: Hallowe'en insurance. I've discussed this with a couple of my insurance friends, and they say they think it could be worked out on a $100 deductible basis.

CLOSED CLUB IS REOPENED

No Defense Made To Suit Filed Against Officials; Closing Followed Search

The War Veterans Club at Martin, which was closed by Sheriff's deputies a few weeks ago on order of Magistrate John May, was reopened last Friday on a temporary restraining order granted by Circuit Judge Edward P. Hill.

The restraining order was asked in a suit filed by the club against Magistrate May and Sheriff Gorman Collins. The complaint filed by the club contended it was padlocked without authority and that the Magistrate's closing order was illegal, inasmuch as no suit was filed or summons served on the club or its members.

Commenting on his action, Judge Hill said, "There was nothing else I could do. No defense was made or answer filed to the club's suit."

He said he inquired of both Joe P. Tackett, acting County Attorney, and Commonwealth's Attorney Burnis Martin if they wanted to offer a defense.

Any citizen or the Commonwealth's Attorney or the County Attorney may ask that the Martin club, or any other, be closed. Closing actions, he said, are legally initiated on petitions.

Magistrate May ordered the club closed after officers, who had a search warrant issued by him, found intoxicants on the premises. When inventory of the club's contents was made on the night of its closing beer again was found there.

Bob Stephens Arrested In 21-Year-Old Murder

WIFE'S STORY NETS ARREST OF FUGITIVE

Slayer of Hunt Waives Extradition to State, 'Glad It's All Over'

A woman's anger roused when her husband sought to commit her to a mental institution, caused the arrest of a Floyd county slayer who had evaded peace officers since the day 21 years ago when he killed a 72-year-old man near here.

Arrested at Lebanon, La., and held for Floyd authorities, Bob Stephens, now a man of 63, confessed that he killed Luce Hunt at Sugar Loaf, a few miles from here. "It was him or me," the aging truck driver told Sheriff Bryan Clemons, of Baton Rouge.

Stephens said he would waive extradition, adding that he is ready "to go back and straighten it out."

The Floyd countian was listed on Louisiana jail records as Samuel R. Stephenson. He and his son, Robert, 20, had signed papers to have Mrs. Stephens committed to a mental hospital.

Outraged by this action, Mrs. Stephens promptly informed officers when they went to her home that her husband and son were "trying to put me away so I can't tell about the murder he committed in Kentucky 21 years ago."

When sheriff's deputies searched the residence for Stephens he was not there, and the son finally admitted his father was hiding in a wood-patch near the Baton Rouge airport. He offered no resistance when officers found him Monday night.

"I'm sorry I did it, but I'm glad it's all over, and I'm ready to go back and straighten it out," he remarked.

The fatal wounding of Luce Hunt took place at his home in the late afternoon of Sept. 26, 1934. Shot in the abdomen, Hunt was brought to the office here of Dr. G. D. Callihan, then was taken to the Beaver Valley hospital at Martin where he died half an hour after arrival.

At Dr. Callihan's office Hunt was quoted as having told this version of the shooting:

Stephens was drunk and earlier in the afternoon fired three shots into the Hunt home. Hunt then came to Prestonsburg, appeared before the grand jury and made an indictment against Stephens. The letter learned of the indictment, returned to the Hunt home between 6 and 7 p.m., that day, entered and fired a single shot which hit the elderly farmer.

The report officers gave of the shooting said Hunt was unarmed.

In Louisiana this week Stephens argued the shooting was a case of self-defense, claiming it followed

VOTING NAME CHECK ASKED

Cooperative Signatures To Get Close Scrutiny After Tuesday Voting

Sheriff Gorman Collins said this week that comparative signature books sent to the polling places of the county for use by election officers who are required by law to see that each voter signs his or her name will be closely scrutinized after their return here.

If proof is found that the voter did not sign his own name or stated under oath he cannot write his name, the evidence will be submitted to the grand jury, he added.

"This," Sheriff Collins said, "is the best guarantee we have against voting absent voters and ballot-box stuffing, and now is a good time to start sticking to the letter of the law."

The County Clerk sends out instructions to election officers, challengers and workers, and the Sheriff said he wanted to urge all these to note the contents of these four-page leaflets.

Collins said the voting-place in Kiser precinct will be at Reynolds Dings' garage at the Forks of Beaver. In the past voters have been confused as the place of voting in that precinct has been changed from time to time without notice.

Auxier Road Home Burns Early Saturday Afternoon

Home of Mrs. Dick Clark on the Auxier road, near here, burned to the ground early Saturday afternoon, and lost with the structure was a large portion of its contents.

The fire, which was of unknown origin, was first discovered in the attic by passers-by as Mrs. Clark sat on the front porch. The 1½-story building contained seven rooms. Nothing was saved from upstairs rooms, and a large part of household belongings on the first floor were lost or badly damaged.

The loss was not insured.

BOOTLEGGING HALT SOUGHT

Ministers and Members Of Churches Back Drive Begun; Ask 'Crackdown'

Nine ministers and 64 members of their congregations this week were added to the list of church people who have endorsed the drive made in this county on bootlegging and who have called on officials to crack down on the liquor traffic.

Thirteen ministers and 305 members of church groups were listed last week in the movement.

One of those included in this week's report, the Rev. Harold W. Dorsey, pastor of the Methodist Church here, in a letter to The Times also points out that citizens have a duty to perform in this phase of law-enforcement.

Ministers who signed this week's group of petitions are:

Rev. Elby Frost, First Baptist Church, Martin; Revs. Green Bradley, Troy Nickles, J. C. Mosley, E. V. Hopkins, Sherman Stone, Hawk Moore and Hawley Warrens, all of the Regular Baptist Church.

CECIL BROWN AUTO VICTIM

Lone Witness To Tragedy Was Man of Same Name; Death Car Driver Jailed

Body of Cecil R. Brown, 47 years old, who was struck and instantly killed late Saturday night by an auto in Flint, Mich., was brought to the home here of his brother, George D. Brown, Monday night.

Brown, a machinist at the General Motors plant in Flint, died of internal injuries. He was hit while crossing the street, almost at the entrance to the plant. A negro was jailed as driver of the death car. The tragedy was witnessed by only one other man whose name also was Cecil Brown.

A son of John and Martha Murphy Brown, of Prestonsburg, he was a native of Lawrence county. He had been an employee of the C. & O. Railway Company 27 years before going to Michigan, was a member of Bremond Masonic Lodge, Newport News, Va., and of the International Association of Mechanics.

Besides his parents, Mr. Brown is survived by his widow, Mrs. Cora Blankenship Brown, two sons and two daughters, Dean Brown, Huntington, W. Va., Carson Brown, Flint, Mich., Mrs. Duke L. Stannaway, Newport News, and Mrs. James Eller, Birmingham, Mich.; four brothers, George D. Brown, Prestonsburg, F. G. Brown, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., G. B. Brown, Ashland, Ky., Edmund Brown, Pikeville; one sister Mrs. Claude A. Preston, of Ashland, and five grandchildren.

Funeral rites were conducted Wednesday afternoon from the First Church of God here, the Revs. Moses Kitchen and Everett Brown officiating. Burial was made in the Mayo cemetery here under direction of the Moore Funeral Home.

Rev. Mohney Scheduled in Methodist Revival

The revival, scheduled for several weeks at the First Methodist church here, began Wednesday. Evangelist in charge is Rev. Ralph W. Mohney, a native of Paris, but at present from a pastorate in Knoxville. He will preach through Nov. 11.

Rev. Mohney comes here after a successful career in youth and evangelistic work. He has traveled in several foreign countries, has served as directors of numerous evangelistic campaigns and is in wide demand as a youth speaker at camps, colleges and universities.

PRE-INDUCTION QUOTA HEAVY

56 Notified for Nov. 7 As Fathers Now Exempt And Navy Dips in Draft

A new Selective Service ruling exempting married men with children from service, the fact that the Navy this month will resort to the draft for personnel and the lack of screened draft registrants for future induction calls were given as reasons why the November pre-induction quota assigned this county is among the heaviest made during the peacetime draft.

Fifty-six registrants of Draft Board 25 here have been notified to leave Nov. 7 for preinduction examination. Four from this county will leave for military service Nov. 14.

Decision of the Navy to resort to the draft was forced by failure of its recruiting program to fill its personnel needs.

Those notified to leave for pre-induction follow:

Thirteen volunteers: Wallace Bailey Smith, Thomas; Carl Johnson, Weeksburg; Herbert Bentley, Wayland; Robert Rex Wireman, Jr., Auxier; John Walker Ratliff, Lancy; Kenneth Castle, Pyramid; Lacy Alfred Laferty, Allen; Roland Eugene Gray, Sloan; Edgill Osborn, East McDowell; Cleveland Johnson, Teaberry; Floyd Mosley, Minnie; Minnie; Don Ray Prater, Hueysville; Nelson Ray Baldrige, East Point, transferred to Lexington, Ky. Henry Edward Allen, West Prestonsburg; Charles Franklin Hale.

BOARD ADOPTS FINANCE AUDIT

For All County Schools; Approves Plan To Make Practice Gym for Team

A feature of the recommendations to school principals on policies adopted by the County Board of Education at its meeting Tuesday was the requirement that each school in the county keep a strict accounting of all monies it receives or spends. Reports of such accounts are to be sent to the State Department of Education for auditing.

H. C. Francis, Jr., president of the Prestonsburg Athletic Association, was granted permission to remove a partition in the old high school building here to provide a practice basketball floor and to remove the necessity of daily trips by the Prestonsburg high school net team for practice in gyms of neighboring schools. Similar action was previously taken by the City Board of Education.

No action was taken by the County Board, however, on another proposal by the Athletic Association. Briefly, the Association submitted for approval an agreement whereby the Association would build a football stadium on the new high school grounds here; it would have full and exclusive management of the stadium and the high school gymnasium and would also have the receipts from extra-curricular events staged in the stadium or gym. All receipts would be used to retire the debt incurred in construction of the gym and stadium.

The Board paid KEA (including EKEA) dues of all county teachers. The dues are $6 per teacher.

HIGH OFFERS ARE REJECTED

On Health Center Here; Final Decision Awaits State Action, 'tis Said

Bids on construction of the proposed Floyd County Health Center here were rejected because they were over $30,000 higher than anticipated, the Floyd fiscal court made a final attempt Wednesday morning to help make the needed funds available.

The court adopted a resolution appropriating $7,700 from the special hospital tax fund as its part of the additional $30,770 needed to finance the job. This appropriation is made with the provision that state funds match that amount, and that Hill-Burton federal funds match the total appropriated by county and state.

The court's action followed a visit to Frankfort Tuesday by County Judge Henry Stumbo, County Clerk DuRan Moore, Health Administrator M. V. Clark, Edw. Music and Eulis Williams, who asked for additional state funds. W. T. Judy, executive secretary of the State Buildings & Properties Commission, was not

Three From Prestonsburg Receive United Fuel Awards for Service

Milt Martin, of Allen, gas measurement district meter inspector and Willie Mellon, Prestonsburg, production clerk, employees of United Fuel Gas Company in Prestonsburg, were among 23 employees of the Charleston Group companies of the Columbia Gas System who received gold watches on October 25 in recognition of their 25 years of service, according to John W. Partridge, president of the Charleston Group Companies.

Wilson Stepp, of Prestonsburg, chief clerk in United Fuel's office here, was one of 40 who received emblems denoting 35 years of service.

The Charleston Group companies include United Fuel Gas Company, Central Kentucky Natural Gas Company, Atlantic Seaboard Corporation, Amergas Gas Utilities Company and Virginia Gas Distribution Corporation.

The watches and service emblems were presented to the veteran employees at a special luncheon held in Charleston, at the Daniel Boone hotel.

RABID FOXES MAY BE HERE

Youth Captures Gray Fox Which Had Bitten Him; Lab Tests Reveal Rabies

The possibility exists that Floyd county hills are infested with many rabid foxes, was the conclusion arrived at this week by health officials after a rabid fox had bitten a 17-year-old Middle Creek youth.

The youth, Richard Stone, was attacked last week while pulling corn from a fodder shock, and was bitten on the leg. He choked the fox, a big gray, loose and carried the animal home where he put it in a pen. The fox died during the night, and laboratory tests revealed it had rabies.

A quarantine of all dogs from Buckingham to Melvin for 45 days was issued Tuesday by County Judge Henry Stumbo after a six-month-old puppy, which had bitten four children, had been declared mad. All dogs in a five-mile radius of the places named must be kept confined or muzzled.

Health authorities pointed out that the puppy had not been immunized against hydrophobia because it was very small when a veterinarian visited the Buckingham section.

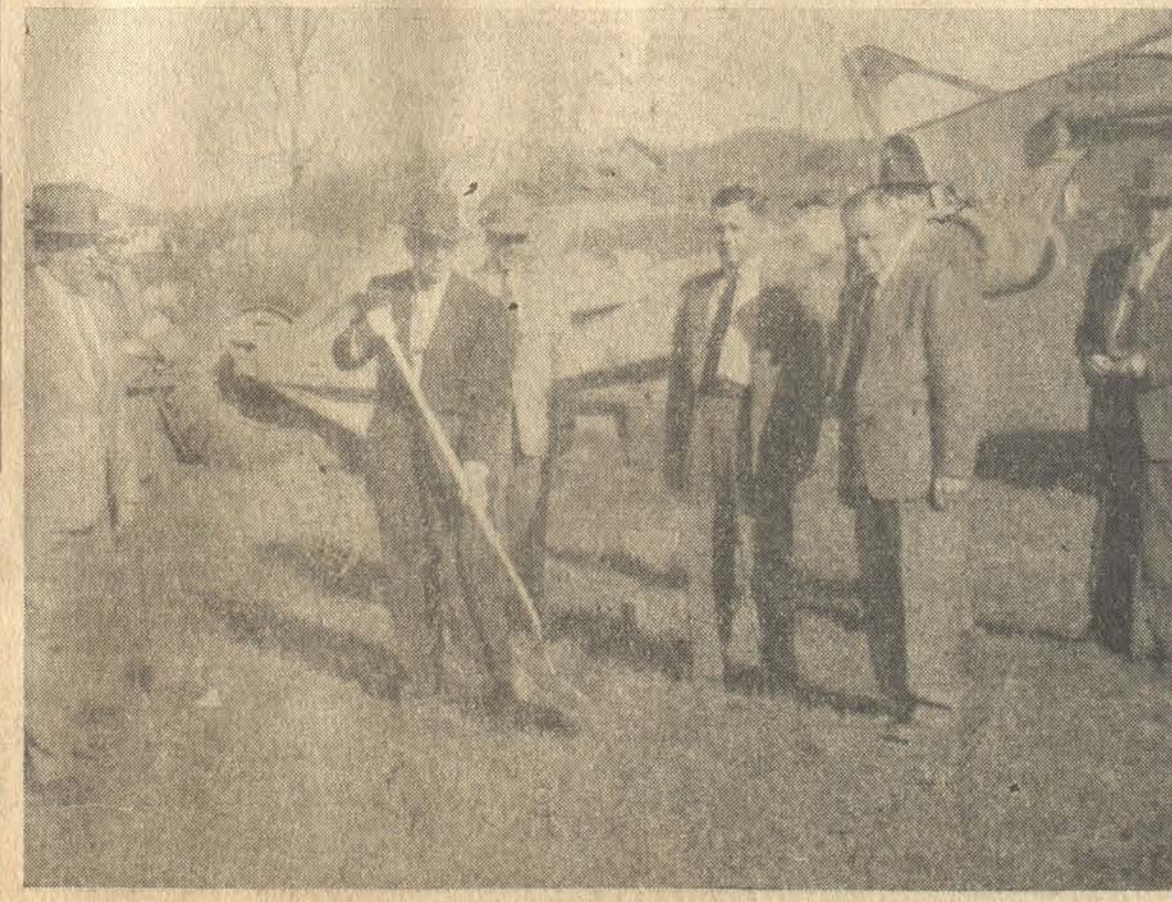

SPECIAL WPRT PROGRAM

AT 9:30 a.m., SATURDAY

A special program honoring a well-known resident of Floyd county will be heard over the Good World Hour from Radio Station WPRT Saturday morning at 9:30.

All citizens of the county are urged to hear this unusual program.

SCENE AT GROUND-BREAKING CEREMONY

GROUND-BREAKING CEREMONY at site of proposed hydro-carbon recovery plant, near Maytown, Monday afternoon included this scene in which W. C. Bomhoff, Ashland, vice-president of Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company and the Kentucky Hydro-Carbon Company, turned the first spadeful of earth. From left, E. E. Clark, Ashland, assistant to the vice-president; J. H. Keenan, Prestonsburg, superintendent of compressor stations; Mr. Bomhoff; Edward Roberts, Charleston, W. Va., who will be manager of the big plant; H. L. Ley, Prestonsburg, vice-president in charge of operations; Phillip Jenkins, Paintsville, superintendent of production; W. W. Wallen Prestonsburg, land agent.

FORD STARTS JOB PREPARING BUILDING SITE

Hydro-Carbon Recovery Installation Completion Stated for March, 1957

The first spadeful of earth was turned Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock on a Floyd county project which will entail the expenditure of $9,000,000 before it and all its related facilities are completed.

The brief ceremony marked the beginning of excavation for the big hydro-carbon recovery plant to be operated near Maytown by the Kentucky Hydro-Carbon Company, a subsidiary of the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company.

Immediately thereafter, bulldozers, trucks, and other heavy machinery of the Winston Ford Construction Company, Prestonsburg, successful bidder on preliminary work there, began the big excavation job and other work to prepare for plant construction.

The contractor and company official are hopeful that this work can be completed before winter weather makes such operations nigh-impossible. Work on the plant itself is scheduled to start next spring. Completion date on the huge plant has been set for March 1, 1957.

The contract to Ford was awarded by the Carbide & Carbon Chemicals Company, Charleston, which has the job of planning and building the plant for Kentucky Hydro-Carbon. Carbide & Carbon Chemicals is a division of Union Carbide & Carbon Company.

Work to be done by Ford is to prepare the plant site through the moving of approximately 35,000 cubic yards of earth, strengthening the bridge across Right Beaver Creek leading to the plant site bordering the C. & O. Railway, and doing the grade of a spur railway track.

TRIAL OF 174 CASES IS SET

Two Murder Cases Listed For November Term Here; Session To End Dec. 9th

One hundred seventy-four cases have been set down for trial at the criminal term of circuit court which will convene here Monday, Nov. 1, but a part of the docket, many child desertion cases in particular, is "inactive" and may be carried into future court terms.

The court term will adjourn December 9.

Two murder cases are docketed for trial, that of Ray Click for the fourth time. The other defendant is Isaac Stumbo, whose hearing is slated for Nov. 23.

Most often listed on the docket is the offense of child desertion, with 37 cases set for trial. Six persons are charged with shooting and wounding with intent to kill, 24 are listed on liquor charges, six for carrying concealed deadly weapons, seven for drunk driving, the same number for grand larceny and two for armed robbery.

There will be no grand jury at the coming term of court.

Scholarship at Princeton Awaits Howard When Army Service Ends

When Second Lt. J. W. Howard, Jr., of Prestonsburg, is through with his Air Force service he has something to look forward to in civilian life.

Awaiting him at Princeton University is the Proctors' scholarship, worth $4,500, and for his use in preparing his thesis for his doctorate.

The quiet, studious Howard is, strangely enough, finding military service very interesting. Before starting his Air Force stint this year his was the world of books, and he found them so interesting that he set scholastic records at every college he attended.

Howard received his bachelor's degree from Duke University, graduating summa cum laude. Then he won a $500 scholarship. In his first year at Princeton he won the Guggenheim Award, and last year he attained the highest standing in his class, receiving his master's degree from Princeton's Woodrow Wilson Foundation School.

A political science major, Howard lacks only his thesis of earning his doctor's degree. He is 24 years old.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Howard and a brother of Harris S. Howard, young Prestonsburg attorney.

Chorus, Band To Appear At EKEA and Homecoming Band Set for Bowl Tilt

The mixed chorus of the Floyd county high school, under the direction of Mrs. Arthur W. Haywood, will present a program of music for the second general session of the annual meeting of the Eastern Kentucky Education Association at Ashland, next Thursday.

The 55-member Floyd county high school band will participate in the homecoming parade and pre-game ceremonies at Eastern Kentucky State College at Richmond, Saturday. This is the second year for the "Marching Black Cats" to participate in the Eastern homecoming.

The band will march with the Floyd County Club float, built by the Floyd county students attending Eastern. The float is made using red and white roses and uses a Floyd county sweetheart motif.

Nov. 11, the band goes to Paintsville to participate in the Big Sandy Bowl marching band contest. Paul C. Hager is director, with Janet Whitten, assistant director and Paul Clifton, drum major.

Teen-Agers Charged With Armed Robbery

WELCH, Nov. 2—Three teen-agers have been charged with armed robbery in the holdup of two hitch-hikers near Pineville, early Monday morning.

State Police said Billy Lawless, 19, of Gary, was taken into custody yesterday at Beckley's Army recruiting station, just after he enlisted. A 15-year-old youth and his 17-year-old companion had been arrested Monday in Welch.

Donald Ray Barrett and Estill Cook, both of Pineville, told police, they were picked up by three youths and later robbed of $24 at the point of a knife.

Salk Vaccine Is Safe, Says Local Health Head; All Precautions Taken

Montain Clark, health administrator, was frank this week in discussing the few cases of polio contracted from the original batches of Salk vaccine. "But this incident has resulted in an investigation which has led to such a strict policy of supervision by the Public Health Service that it will not be likely that a similar slip-up will happen again in the manufacture of the polio serum," Clark said.

The Floyd County Health Administrator outlined what happened in the manufacture of the first batches of vaccine that caused polio infection in the vaccinated child. The Public Health Service had, in an economy move, cut some workers off and there wasn't adequate supervision of the vaccine manufacture. The cases of polio reported came from one manufacturer's allotment and from no other, Clark says. Safety committees of doctors and scientists now set-up by the government prevent it ever happening again, Clark says.

"Now the general public must rely mostly on the fact that all the medical and Public Health Authorities throughout the whole nation are now satisfied and are wholeheartedly recommending that every parent take immediate advantage of the opportunity to get their child protected against the dreadful disease of polio. The Federal Government, our own Congressmen and Senators were so convinced of the importance of immediate protection that they have appropriated enough money to pay for free vaccine and our own doctors here in Floyd county have pledged their services, free of charge, in five mass clinics to immunize every child between the age of one and nine years old.

The Board of Education, County Superintendent and all school authorities in the county have pledged their support in every possible way," the health administrator concluded.

The clinic schedule follows:

Martin, Nov. 14; Betsy Layne, Nov. 15; Prestonsburg, Nov. 16; Wheelwright, Nov. 17; Garrett, Nov. 18.

Mrs. Dona McCown, 66, Dies at Daughter's Home; Was Native of Floyd co.

Mrs. Dona McCown, 66, of Ashland, died Monday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. James O'Laughlin, in Jackson, Mich. She was a victim of cancer, after an illness of six months.

Mrs. McCown, a native of Floyd county, was the daughter of the late James and Mary Little Hopkins and was married to Henry McCown, who survives. Besides Mrs. O'Laughlin, a son, James McCown, of Charlestown, Ind., survives. Surviving brothers and sisters are John Hopkins, of Ashland, McKinley Hopkins, of Harold, Mrs. Will Johns, of Martin, Mrs. John Stumbo, of Harold, and Mrs. Mintie Osborne, of Ashland.

Funeral rites were conducted at the Unity Baptist church, at Ashland, Wednesday, the Revs. Homer Swindall and L. H. Tipton officiating. The last rites were held at the home of Mrs. John Stumbo, at Harold, today (Thursday), the Rev. Swindall officiating. Burial was made in the Hopkins cemetery at Harold under the direction of Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

COLDS COST 2 1/2 DAYS

St. Louis—Working time lost because of colds averages 2 1/2 days a year for each of the 60,000,000-odd persons in the nation's working population. Colds account for more than half the total number of absences from work and industry 28 per cent of the total work time lost.

New York—"Tree surgery" is an important sideline of a large electric utility which trims 240,000 trees a year, cuts down 50,000, copes with 8,000 new trees in clearing brush on 100 miles of transmission lines, and deals with 15,000 newly matured trees each year.

Russell Howard, 79, Dies Of Cancer; Was Father Of Betsy Layne Principal

Russell Howard, 79, of Betsy Layne, succumbed to cancer Monday at 2:45 p.m. at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Sam Thomas. He had been seriously ill for a year. A member of the Church of Christ for 20 years, he resided at Betsy Layne since moving to Floyd county several years ago.

Mr. Howard was a native of Pike county, a son of Harvey and Anna Pinson Howard. His wife, Polly Ann Pinson Howard, preceded him in death sometime ago.

Surviving sons are D. W. Howard of Betsy Layne, Kermit Howard, of Dyale, Victor Howard, of Pikeville, and Harvard Howard, of Ypsilanti, Mich. Also surviving besides Mrs. Thomas, are the following daughters: Mrs. Ann Scott, Farmers, Ky., Mrs. Mattie Blankenship, Route 1, Pikeville, Mrs. Morgan Hobson, of Coal Run, and Mrs. Laura Farley, of Betsy Layne. One half-brother, Dave Adams, of Route 1, Pikeville, survives.

Funeral rites were conducted at 10 a.m. today (Thursday) at the Betsy Layne high school auditorium, the Revs. Estill Hughes, Henry Parsons and others officiating. Burial was made in the Howard cemetery on Johns Creek, Pike county, under the direction of Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

MY ACQUAINTANCE WITH DALE CARNEGIE

The death, the other day, of Dale Carnegie, recalls my rather brief period of enrollment, several years back, in a Dale Carnegie course conducted here by J. Sneed Yager.

My part in this course was not unlike my record in one of the old-time singin' schools I attended and in which I learned just about everything in the book but couldn't, or wouldn't, sing a note.

I got into this Dale Carnegie course with considerable reluctance, but was prodded along by friends who thought there might be a chance for me. These same friends may also have seen a chance of having some fun out of me, too. I don't know. Anyhow, I signed up and with misgivings turned up for two sessions. We were being brought along slowly, and I was almost lulled into a false sense of security when all of a sudden it dawned on me that, next time, some of us would be called on to stand up and speak. And it might be I who would be forced to stand against the wall and face the firing squad!

I resigned. I didn't go back to tell teacher why I had quit. I had had it, and that was all. And ever since I have been known as the poor dope who took two Dale Carnegie lessons in order to find out he couldn't qualify as a public speaker.

Contributions by Caddy And Others Aid Library

Four new books paid for by a $10 contribution from Sam Caddy, president of District 30, U.M.W. of A., have recently been added to the growing Bookmobile library.

Continued support of the Bookmobile is shown by the gifts of fine books by Alma Collins, Mrs. Edward L. Allen, Billy Ray Osborne, Paul Wells and Mrs. Oma P. Elkins.

Bookmobile distribution of current news and picture magazines has been aided by Mrs. Emma May, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Keenan, Mrs. Fannie Collins and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Davis. Now being used with Bookmobile books are bookmarks designed by Lon C. Hill and the Floyd County Library Board.

Book circulation problems were eased when Rev. Orville Pearson mimeographed a number of "Book Overdue" postal cards.

Sgt. Troy Donald Calhoun, son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Calhoun, of West Prestonsburg is serving with the Second Armored Division in the famous 82nd Reconnaissance Battalion in Germany. He will return to the States for discharge in February 1956. Sgt. Calhoun was recently transferred from Austria where he served with the 59th reconnaissance company. He has been a tanker since he entered the army in February, 1955.

BURLEY ESTIMATE RAISED
Estimate of Kentucky's burley tobacco crop was raised 5 percent this week above an earlier estimate by the Department of Agriculture. The state's burley crop this year is estimated at 344,925,000 pounds as against 452,930,000 pounds last year, most of the reduction being due to a cut in acreage.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.
Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

"CORN YARNS"

In the earlier days of folklore study, the collectors felt that we in America were lacking folktales. Practically all the early efforts were spent in collecting ballads, and that field of folklore is still the one best studied in America. Some students lamented because we did not have such stories as the famous ones that the Grimm Brothers of Germany collected and published. Only in fairly recent years have folklore scholars decided that our corn yarns, among other folktales, are very distinctive and worthy of collection. One such scholar is Vance Randolph, the grand old man of folk study in the Ozarks. In our own state Dr. Herbert Halpert, of Murray State College and Dr. Leonard Roberts of Union College have helped awaken us to the importance of this type of folklore.

As you might suppose, I was practically raised on corn yarns. And all my life I have loved them, somewhat shamefacedly, for I used to feel that liking such common things was a sign of poor taste or even a depraved one. Years ago, in my last graduate work, I was assigned a task that probably made the older scholars turn over rather violently in their graves. Dr. Stith Thompson, the great folktales scholar, asked me to read in Latin, French, and German a whole group of yarns, give a brief summary of each of them, and indicate which ones were a bit too risqué to be studied. In that way I got acquainted with hosts of great illustrative stories, of the "That reminds me" type. Ever since then I have tried to keep my eyes open to the merits of such tales and have lost the shame I used to feel when I remembered that I liked corn things.

These corn yarns have a whole array of fairy tales of Europe. They are given a relocation by every teller of them, so that they seem to be genuine wherever they are found. It takes only a little readaptation to make them fit anywhere. "A feller over on Cutshin Branch had the purtiest wife you ever seen, but she used to flirt with drummers." And then we are off to a good start, with incidents as old as the human race but so localized that you are ashamed to doubt the incident as genuine history.

Dumb husbands of flirtatious wives, smart-aleck children who tell more than they should, coarse practical jokes, horse laughter, gags played on visitors from the outside world, the village idiot and his unexpected wisdom at times, cheaters who get cheated, local misers or Lady Bountifuls—a generous mixture of a few of these, even, with ordinary talk, and a good yarn results. I knew hundreds of them, on several levels of decency. The unexaggerated versions of the log rolling, ings and wheat threshings. Little boys were supposed to be elsewhere, but some of them managed to be near enough to get the coarse joke or coarser trick practiced on some newcomer. Then there were children's versions of many of these yarns, slightly dry-cleaned or toned-down. Even the women had their versions, sometimes rather far away from the loud-mouthed horse-laughter versions of the log rolling. A good place to hear some of them an all-night drinking binge in Prestonsburg.

"I went back to a girl's house to get some money she had taken from me and her father drew a rifle on me," he related.

"I grappled with him and told him 15 times to put down the rifle or I would shoot.

"Finally, I pulled the trigger of my 38-calibre police special (revolver) and he fell to the floor."

Stephens claimed he threw the rifle into a nearby road and departed.

After drifting a few years, he came here about 14 years ago and has been living in or near Baton Rouge, La., since.

Sheriff Clemons said Stephens' wife reported she was in a hospital at the time of the Hunt killing recovering from a beating by her husband and that the shooting victim died in a hospital across the hall from her.

Louisiana officers said Stephens has a police record, including a trial and acquittal in New Orleans a few years ago for shooting and wounding a man.

Immediately after learning of Stephens' arrest, Floyd officials began searching for records needed to procure a requisition from Governor Wetherby for the fugitive's return here. Circuit Clerk W. W. Cooley found that the original murder indictment against Stephens was voted in April, 1934 but was finally filed away after court officials lost hope of his arrest. A new indictment was returned in 1942, and this likewise was removed from the active court docket in January, 1947.

Sheriff Gorman Collins said Stephens will be returned here as quickly as the Governor of Louisiana grants extradition.

W. C. Bomhoff, Ashland, vice-president of Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company and the Kentucky Hydro-Carbon Company, said that when Carbide & Carbon Chemicals begin actual plant construction it will use local labor as much as possible.

The plant will be located on a tract purchased by Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company from the Miles Gibson estate. Once in operation, it will use an estimated 10,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas a day, extracting in liquid form ethane, propane, butane and gasoline which will be conveyed via pipeline to the South Charleston and Institute, W. Va., plants of Carbide & Carbon Chemical Company.

To supplement the present gas supply, gas will be piped from Virginia to the new plant, and the Ranier Construction Company, Prestonsburg, is now well advanced on pipeline construction from Maytown to Osborne Gap at the Kentucky - Virginia line. Meanwhile, another contractor is laying a line from the gas field owned by the Clinchfield Coal Corporation to connect with the line Ranier is laying.

FELLOWSHIP COLLECTS FUNDS

The Methodist Youth Fellowship enjoyed a party Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Marcum, Jr., and instead of the usual "Trick or Treat", made a door-to-door canvass for funds for under privileged children of other lands. They collected $31.26, later returning to the Marcum home for refreshment. In the group were Judy and Kay Roberts, Joy Cyrus, Lydia Spradlin, Judy Allen, Terry Lee Webb, Harold Cooley, Rose Worland, Johnny Crum, Marty May, Pat and Judy Baldrige.

Mrs. Margaret Woods, Age 89, Dies At Home Of A Son, Near Emma

Mrs. Margaret Skeans Woods, 89, of Emma, died Sunday at 5:40 a.m. at the home of a son, W. V. Woods. She had spent her entire life in this county. She was active until five weeks ago, when she fell and fractured a hip. Death was attributed to complications arising from the fall. She was a member of the Methodist church for 65 years.

Surviving her, besides her son, W. V. Woods, is a step-daughter, Mrs. Anna Harris, of Emma.

Funeral rites were conducted Tuesday at 10 a.m., at the Methodist church at Emma, the Revs. Saddler and Wilby O. Patten officiating. Burial was made in the Harris cemetery under the direction of Carter and Callihan Funeral Home.

in Frankfort, and they returned here without any definite promise, with the hope of reviving the project through Floyd county's own initiative remaining as the best prospect.

The low bid on the center was $105,970, and this was submitted by the Home Appliance Company, Prestonsburg. County, state and federal funds made available for the work totaled approximately $75,000. There were three other bidders, and the low bid next to that of the local firm's was approximately $114,000.

The Buildings and Properties Commission will meet Friday, and on the decision made at that session will depend the future of the health center here, officials believe.

Denney Will Win

Chandler Getting Desperate - Claims Credit for W. P. A.

Edwin R. Denney will be the next governor of Kentucky. He will be elected because the people of this Commonwealth know that he is the best man for the job. He is honest and qualified and he has based his entire campaign on reason and common sense. He has stood squarely on a platform which is sensible and which can be achieved.

He will be elected because his opponent, A. B. Chandler, has made a campaign of demagoguery and deception, typical of which was his constantly repeated charge that Gov. Wetherby had spent $20,000 for a rug which he knows actually cost only a fraction of that amount, and telling a Prestonsburg audience that he built more roads in Floyd county during his previous term than all the other governors combined since 1879. How ridiculous can he get? We challenge Chandler to tell where he built a single foot of road in this county.

He claims credit for all of Roosevelt's great achievements the R.E.A., N.Y.A., C.C.C., and now he wants credit for the W.P.A.

Read his absurd claims and you will agree with Senator Barkley, when he said you would have to cross your fingers and hold your nose to vote for Chandler. You will agree with The Courier-Journal when they said lies were the hallmark of his campaign.

The people have not forgotten Chandler's former administration as governor, when the state mental hospitals were shamefully filthy and inadequate, when patients were mistreated and denied medical care, when children at the House of Reform were brutally beaten, when state employees were ruthlessly assessed for political slush funds, when the State Highway Department was riddled with politics. And the State Militia prevented miners from forming a union.

The voters of Kentucky know that a new Chandler regime would be a repetition of the old one, for he is promising us the same old policies and politicians. He has refused to meet with Ed Denney on 15 different occasions before Women's Clubs, teachers meetings and ministerial associations to discuss the future progress of Kentucky.

Already, his henchmen have sought to assess the state employees, sending coercive letters to 14,000 persons, and say they are keeping receipts. Already, he has pledged that he will fire all state employees who did not support him in the primary.

The people of Kentucky have not forgotten that Chandler did not complete his last term as governor, but quit it to go to the United States Senate; nor have they forgotten that he quit his position as senator to take a baseball job at higher pay during the war.

Chandler is whistling in the dark to build up his own hopes. He knows he has lost Jefferson county by 15,000. He sees defeat staring him in the face but blandly prophesies his own victory by some fabulous figure. He will be defeated because the people of Kentucky want neither him nor the kind of state administration he offers.

They want, instead, a man such as Ed Denney, upon whom they can rely, and in whose administration Kentucky will go forward to greater progress, and not backward to another political hogwallow.

Join with us and forward march.

THIRD RAID HALTED

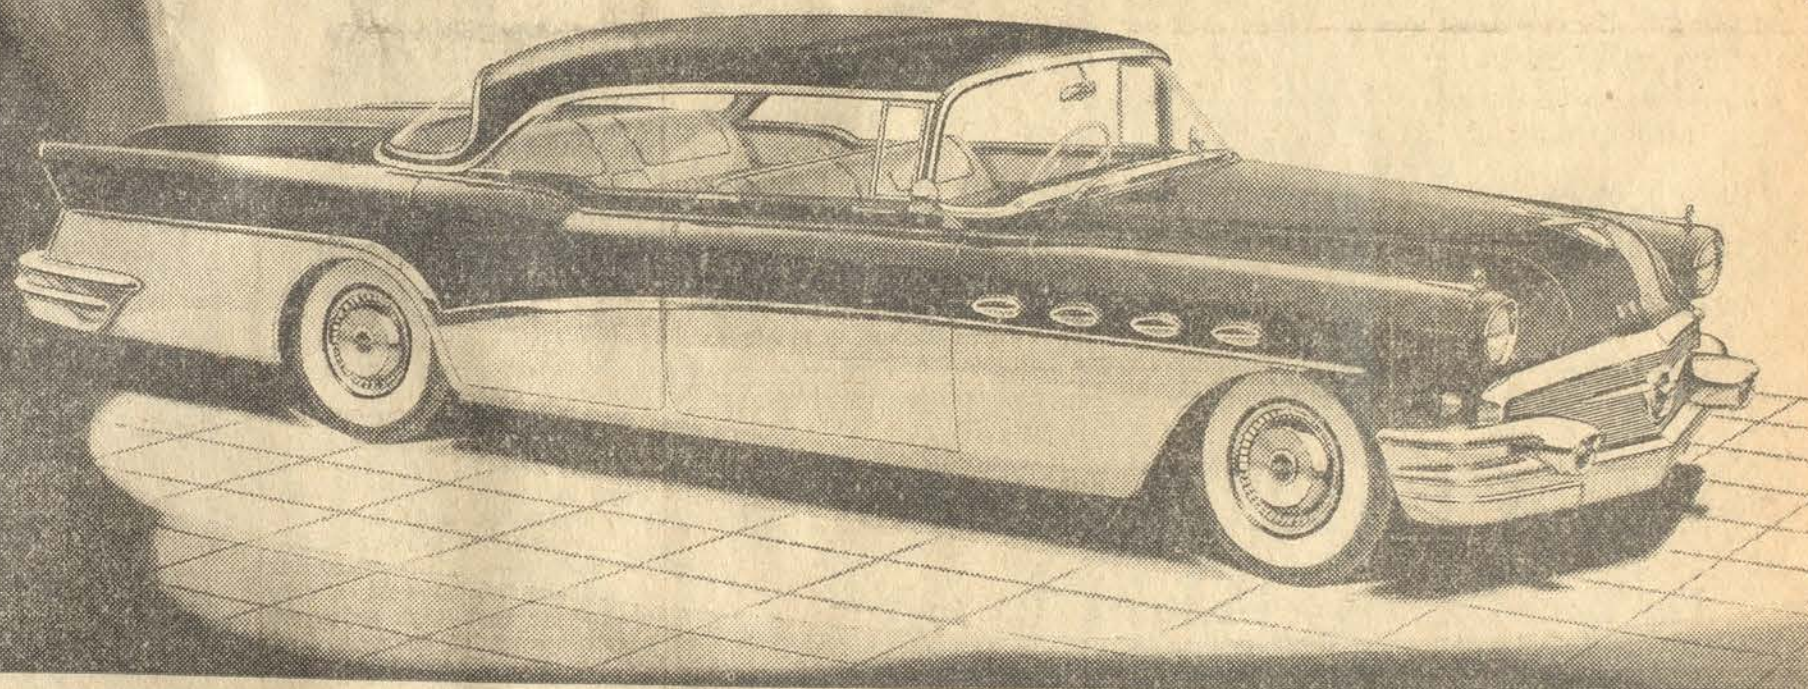

Tulane University "panty" raiders have failed for the third straight time since school opened in their efforts to make off with coeds' filmy lingerie.

The latest attempt, spurred on by a bugle call, was halted when the raiders were confronted with six campus policemen and several faculty members at the entrance to the women's dormitory.

You've often read or heard references to savings as a "nest egg" for your future. The treasury Department reminds us that china nest eggs don't grow into chickens, whereas money put into series E savings Bonds can grow for nearly twenty years. And you can count your chickens before they are hatched: the cash values for each six months are guaranteed in advance by Uncle Sam.

Best Buick yet

When better automobiles are built Buick will build them

IT COMES upon the heels of the most successful Buick in history—and beats it on every score.

In shimmering steel and solid sinew, it's Buick for 1956—and there's never been anything like it for pure automobile.

You get a good hint of what we mean when you take in the sweep-ahead styling of it—from the air-splitting prow of its V-front grille to the robust rake of its canted rear profile.

You get an even better hint when you open the doors and see the dazzle there—in the decorator fabrics and décors—in the jewel-like finish of the fittings—in the precisely shaped steering wheel and controls—in the rich new instrument panel with soft-padded top and glowing dials that detail your progress in changing colors.

But it's when you put this beauty to the city streets and the open highways that you learn the best of it.

prints on the engineering gems that spark the spectacular performance and ride and handling and roadability of these great Buicks for 1956.

Performance Without Parallel

A new advance in Variable Pitch Dynaflo* goes airplanes one better—steps up your getaway in normal driving without switching the pitch. But when you need that extra surge, it's there, instantly—and in extra abundance.

The might of big 322-cubic-inch V8 engines in every Series brings new record high power to all Buicks—ROADMASTER, SUPER, CENTURY, and the bedrock-primed SPECIAL. Yet this is such high-compression power, such dynamic driving power, such completely usable power at the rear wheels—the whole rear end has been endowed with extra brawn and heft and solidity to handle it.

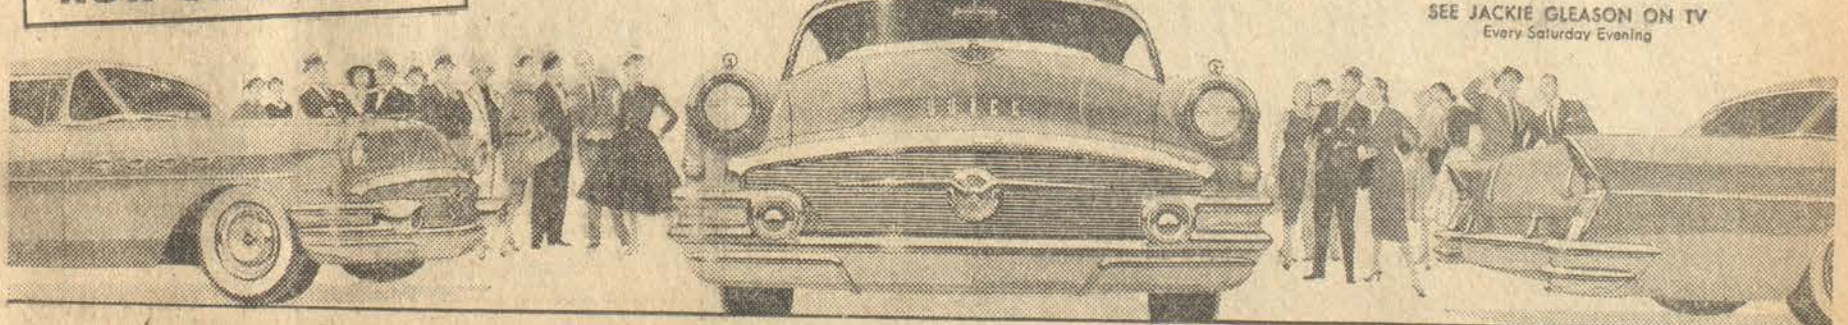

We could spread before you an acre of blue-

We could tell you about a new double-Y manifold of the engine for more usable power. And about a brilliant new front-end geometry that adds a whole new "sense of direction" to the car's travel. And about massive new direct-action shock absorbers that move three times more oil to cushion your all-coil-spring ride that much more buoyantly.

But you can get the full story right now, at our showroom, in a face-to-face meeting with the best Buicks yet—now on display, and setting a dazzling new pattern for 1956.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

Barrymore Art Brings Low Prices

EVERLY HILLS, Calif. — Art work by the late actor Lionel Barrymore brought meager prices in the first phase of an auction of his personal possessions.

Pencil sketches went for $1 or $2 and several oil paintings by Barrymore brought $7 and $8 each. Other articles such as a skull used by the late John Barrymore, Lionel's brother, in a portrayal of "Hamlet" and family photographs and mementoes of Lionel's career will be auctioned later.

EKEA SLATES TOP SPEAKERS

Roosevelt, Stoddard Will Speak at Education Meet At Ashland, Nov. 10-11

James Roosevelt, California Congressman, and Dr. Alexander J. Stoddard, superintendent emeritus of Los Angeles City Schools, will be principal speakers at the 32nd annual convention of the Eastern Kentucky Education Association, November 10 and 11 in Ashland.

Music will be provided at the general sessions by the Ashland high school chorus, the Floyd county high school mixed chorus and the Catlettsburg high school mixed chorus.

Program for the convention was announced this week by Dr. Adron Doran, president of EKEA and of Morehead State College.

Also scheduled to address the convention of Eastern Kentucky educators are the Governor-elect, Lieutenant Governor-elect and Superintendent of Public Instruction-elect for the state of Kentucky. Election of these officials will be held November 8, just two days before the opening of the EKEA meeting. Wendell P. Butler, present Superintendent of Public Instruction, will also address the convention.

First general session, scheduled for 8 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 10 at the First Methodist Church, will feature the address by Roosevelt. He will be introduced by Carl D. Perkins, Seventh district of Kentucky Congressman. Dr. Doran will welcome delegates and Carlos Oakley, president of the Kentucky Education Association, will extend greetings from the state organization.

Dr. Stoddard and Mr. Butler will speak at the second general session at 9 a.m., Friday. N. O. Kimbler, director of the Teacher Retirement System, will discuss the features of the law as amended by the 1954 session of the Legislature.

The final general session at 8 p.m. Friday will include addresses by the Governor-elect, Lieutenant Governor-elect, and Superintendent of Public Instruction, and the presentation of incoming EKEA officers.

Other activities of the convention will include departmental meetings Friday afternoon, a legislators' dinner on Friday and a social Thursday night.

Members of the Kentucky General Assembly from the EKEA district will be guests of local schools superintendents at the legislators' dinner Friday, Nov. 11, at 6 p.m., in the ballroom of the Henry Clay hotel. The social hour, following the opening general session Thursday evening, is scheduled to begin at 10 p.m. in the ballroom of the Henry Clay hotel. Entertainment for the social hour will be furnished by Dean Sturm's Haylofters, by courtesy of the Ashland Oil and Refining Co.

Kentucky Employment Up For 7th Straight Month

For the seventh consecutive month, employment of non-agricultural wage and salary workers in Fayette county continued to increase in October.

Non-manufacturing employment totaled 28,008, an increase of 1.2 per cent because of accelerated hiring in construction and government industries, said Manager O. L. Burkeen of the Division of Employment Service. Manufacturing employment totaled 4,488, a drop of 2.5 per cent from September largely because of temporary layoffs by tobacco redryers.

Failure To Convert Costs Cats, 13-12

The Prestonsburg Black Cats fought back from a 13-0 third quarter deficit by scoring the final touchdown on the last play of the game, only to have the all-important extra point attempt blocked in losing 13-12 to the heavily favored Whitesburg Yellowjackets last Friday night.

Trailing 12-6, with 1:59 left, Lowell Hughes sparked a 73-yard passing drive by completing four of five attempts to end Monty Rice, Buford Crager, and brother Paul Phillip, who made a sensational pay-off catch of a 40-yard heave in the end zone.

The Black Cats failed to muster a sustained ground drive throughout the fray and could only manage two first downs rushing, while the heavier Yellowjackets gained over 350 yards, largely through the efforts of hard-running backs Robert Meade and Robert Hodge.

On the second series of downs in the first period, Prestonsburg drove to Whitesburg 32 after Lowell Hughes returned a punt 25 yards to the 42, but the drive fizzled, and two plays later Eastern Kentucky's leading scorer, Robert Meade, went off-tackle for a 53-yard touchdown, guard Gary Long's try for the point after failed.

Following the ensuing kickoff in the second quarter, Hodge picked up a Hughes pass on the Black Cat 30, and it took three downs for the drive to reach the 5. On first and goal, Wayne Dixon, Prestonsburg center, grabbed Blair's pitchout to quell the scoring threat.

After failing to gain, Hughes uncorked a beautiful boot to the Whitesburg 24, and Meade and Hodge promptly brought the oval back to the Black Cat 40 in the next three plays. Tackle Billy Rorer broke up the march by intercepting Blair's pass. Again forced to kick, Hughes got off a 40-yard and fullback Jim Jones and Meade alternated to carry to the P-burg 2 as the half ended.

It took Whitesburg just three plays in the second half to take a 13-0 command as Robert Hodge, on the favorite cross-buck series, went 55 yards to pay dirt and Robert Meade plunged for the point after.

Two minutes later, Hughes whose long punts kept the Black Cats out of danger most of the fray, booted from the mid-field stripe to the end zone where Meade bobbled the ball and guard Ruben Tackett pounced on it for a Prestonsburg six-pointer. The point after attempt failed.

In the fourth, the Black Cats started a march on their own 30 after Monty Rice fell on a fumble. Hughes whipped to Rice on the 40, then to P. Hughes, who went to the Whitesburg 20. Buford Crager hit for 5 and Hughes passed 5 to Rice on the 10, then drove to the 5 himself.

On third down and goal, a mix-up in signals on a pitch-out set-up a fumble which Whitesburg recovered to stop the drive. The Yellowjackets drove to the Prestonsburg 27 before Bruce Howard, who was the defensive standout of the game, stopped a fourth down try. Then Prestonsburg started on its successful scoring march.

Friday night, the Black Cats move to Paintsville for their annual rivalry with the Paintsville Tigers. A win for either will mark a successful season, as both hold 4-3-1 records.

FIRST VICTORY

The Auxier Hornets recorded the first win of the 1955-56 cage season in the 15th region with a 79-73 win over Leatherwood of Perry county. Senior Hornet Paul Sester was the offensive show with 27 points.

PLAYER OF THE WEEK

Junior tackle Bruce Howard was the Black Cat Player-of-the-Week in the Whitesburg game, according to an announcement by H. C. Francis, Jr., of the Francis Stores in Prestonsburg, who sponsor the weekly selection.

THE BIG ONE

Paintsville and Prestonsburg renew their annual grid fracas in the Johnson county seat, Friday night at 8 p.m. Both have identical records for the season, 4-3-1, and both are 3-3 in the Eastern Mountain Conference.

The Tiger-Black Cat meeting will be the 30th of the series. Since the heated rivalry started in 1923, Prestonsburg has won 16, Paintsville eight, and five have ended in ties. The Black Cats failed to field a team during the war years of 1943 and 1944.

Auxier Opens Season With 79 to 73 Victory Over Leatherwood Hi

The Auxier Hornets traveled to Perry county last Friday night to play a strong Leatherwood team at the Vico gym. This was the first game of the season for Auxier's basketball team while being the third for the Leatherwood five. The Perry county team led for the first half, but Auxier found the range and won 79-73. The high point man of the game was Baker, of Leatherwood, with 35 points. Auxier was led by Paul Sester with 26, Porter Powers with 16 and James Cline with 15. Auxier's next game is November 1, with John's Creek of Pike county.

In the low-price field You can't buy safer!

And here's why. Ford alone brings you Lifeguard Design, a whole new family of safety features to give you extra protection in case of accident. There's a new Lifeguard deep-center steering wheel to help cushion the driver from the steering post; ★ new Lifeguard double-grip door latches to reduce the danger of doors springing open under impact; ★ new double-swivel Lifeguard mirror that "gives," for greater safety; ★ new optional Lifeguard padding material to cushion control panel and sun visors and lessen shock of impact; ★ optional floor-anchored seat belts to help hold passengers securely in their seats.

In any class You can't buy better!

The '56 Ford inherited its beauty from the Thunderbird. It's long and low—a fine car in every graceful line. And you can have the Thunderbird's "lightning," too, at no extra cost for the new Thunderbird Y-8 engine is the standard eight in all Fairlane and Station Wagon models! Here's power that gives you split-second passing ability and hill-climbing "Go." Come in for your Test Drive . . . today! You're sure to find many more reasons why you can't buy better than when you buy Ford. New luxury interiors . . . fine exterior finishes . . . a quality "feel" throughout . . . all add up to make this 1956 Ford the fine car at half the fine-car price.

It's the fine car at half the fine-car price!

For No. 1,
Against No. 2

The right of 18-year-olds to vote is so generally accepted that it should be unnecessary to remind anybody to vote "Yes" on Constitutional Amendment No. 1 which will appear on next Tuesday's ballot.

The voters of Kentucky are pretty well agreed that if the laws of the land can require youths of 18 to go to battle in defense of the nation and its principles, a law should exist in the same land permitting those in that age-group to have a part in the comparatively peaceful war that is known as an election.

Eighteen-year-olds have a lot of questions to ask, these days. Perplexing questions. Let them help with the answers at the polls.

At the same time this question is to be considered there is a second amendment to the state constitution which, however, deserves careful consideration before the voter gives it his or her support. This is Amendment No. 2 which would exempt from taxation all the household goods of any person used in his home.

The Times sees no need of such an amendment. The state's tax laws already allow an exemption of $250 on household belongings. Regardless of what we have heard in recent months, present taxes will not afford enough revenues to finance the Minimum Foundation Program for education in which we all presumably are interested. To cut down on the taxes derived from household assessments would be to create the need for revenues from some other source. Besides that, the amendment would effect little or no saving in taxes to the ordinary home-owner, at the same time would give the householder of more than average means an unneeded tax exemption on whatever luxury he might buy for his home.

If Kentucky had no need of this source of revenue, we would favor its elimination. But the need exists and will continue to exist. Why eliminate this tax and create another?

Whatever you do with your ballot on these and all other questions at stake next Tuesday, vote it like a good American. This is one of the freedoms for which 18-year-olds and many millions of others have fought to defend.

Twenty-Three Years Later . . .

How does the Floyd county of 1955 compare with the county in 1932?

That question is not intended to inquire about economic conditions, for the county, as well as the whole country, was in 1932 at nadir in the darkest economic depression of the nation's history.

Naturally, it is not asked for the purpose of drawing a comparison of the physical assets of the present Floyd with those of twenty-three years ago. Even the most despicable killjoy will have to admit that living conditions are not to be compared, that better roads, better automobiles, new household gadgets, scientific advances have brought the rank-and-file of the people far upgrade.

When we tell you that a look into an old newspaper file of The Times for the year 1932 showed that exactly 30 men and women were slain by other Floyd countians during those twelve months and that sixteen others were wounded, the reader will know the significance of the question. Also the answer.

That gory attestation to our marksmanship and murderous impulses was what caused one official of the day to describe Floyd's as "the bloodiest soil in the western hemisphere." Some of us who were around at that time thought he was using an over-broad brush in painting the scene, but the record was so stupefying that we had little heart to protest.

The figures do not tell all the story. A bank robbery was committed during the year. There were 11 murder cases set for trial at one term of circuit court. There were numerous other attempts at murder which went into the record as shooting at without wounding.

We do not turn back the pages at this late date to revive memories that would be better forgotten. We use them now with considerable pride to show that Floyd county has come a long way in the comparatively brief period of twenty-three years.

Floyd county's upward of fifty thousand people last year lived together with only five homicides. That is far from perfect, we know, but beside the bloody mark set in 1932 and for many other years before and after it is a Millennium-like peacefulness.

What has brought about this change? Many things. Most of those who lived by the sword, so to speak, died by it, and time otherwise has reduced the population of "bad men."

Education, academic and religious, civilized a fiery-tempered breed. Youth was given something to think about other than revenge, "getting even" or playing the bad man. As high school attendance increased the youngsters who otherwise would have been cut loose, or who would have cut themselves loose at the end of grade school began to realize that a gun on the hip does not make a man. Keen brains were tempered by the influence of a better way of life; and the keeper the brain, the duller the impulse to shoot and kill.

Improved roads, better means of transportation and the resultant knowledge of how other communities in their own county and those of other counties and states conduct themselves contributed to this education. All on the outside wasn't perfect, but it was better than the neighborhood poker game and unsupervised gatherings where the whiskey flowed freely and where every drinker had his hackles up, determined that no man should out-game him.

Improved economic conditions, too, apparently lifted Floyd county out of the killer class. Idle hands are, indeed, the devil's workshop, one must agree upon reading this record of violence established while men were helplessly trapped in hopeless penury. Some drank excessively in their desperation, and the tempers of hungry men are short.

Meanwhile, good citizens became more and more horrified by the situation. The courts and officials became more deeply concerned.

Then, finally, the Kentucky Legislature enacted a law forbidding the carrying of a concealed deadly weapon. That law, strangely enough, became fairly effective. Guns, which already had lost their appeal as Floyd county became more civilized, now became more of a liability to the owner than a menace to others. The homicide rate took its sharpest drop.

Perhaps there are other reasons for the better Floyd county, which still has its blots. Whatever they are, they achieved much toward lifting a fine people from ignorance, wild viciousness and outright outlawry.

PROCLAMATION

By The Mayor Of The City Of Prestonsburg

WHEREAS, the President of the United States has issued a proclamation calling upon all the citizens of this Nation to observe Friday, November 11, 1955, as Veterans Day to commemorate and to pay appropriate homage to the veterans of all the wars of this Nation who have contributed so much to the preservation of this Nation; to solemnly remember the sacrifices of all those who fought so valiantly on the seas, in the air, and on the foreign shores to preserve our heritage of freedom, and

WHEREAS, the Governor of the State of Kentucky by proclamation has further requested all citizens of the State of Kentucky to observe Friday, November 11, 1955, as Veterans Day.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Harry Sandige, Mayor of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, do hereby call upon all the citizens of Prestonsburg to observe Friday, November 11, 1955, as Veterans Day. I request all citizens of this City, business enterprises, veterans' organizations and city officials to assist the State Committee for the observance of Veterans Day in every way possible for the observance of November 11, 1955, with appropriate ceremonies.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the official seal of the City of Prestonsburg to be affixed. Done at the City of Prestonsburg this 31st day of October, 1955.

HARRY SANDIGE, Mayor

THINK SAFETY AT THE WHEEL SAVE LIVES. With almost twice as many cars on the highways as before the war, twice as much care is needed to halt the rising tide of death and destruction caused by traffic accidents. All of them are preventable, if we would only THINK, THINK SAFETY, that is, and practice it. THINK SAFETY, so that we have the safe rules of the road constantly in mind. These will keep you out of trouble: 1. Obey all traffic laws and all traffic signs. 2. Remember reckless driving is kid stuff. 3. Slow down, keep your car under control at all times. 4. Practice the same courtesy on the road you would extend in your own home. 5. If you drink, don't drive; if you drive, don't drink. 6. Be sure your car is mechanically safe. TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D. Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

In the early days of the study of folk songs, it was assumed by scholars that in primitive times everybody made up songs, everybody was a poet, if you please. The singing, dancing throng of these earlier scholars seemed to satisfy all one's questions about primitive people. Later scholars repeated this conclusion ad nauseam. It did not seem to dawn upon some of these intellectuals that they might observe primitive people of today and see how true their theories were. It would not have taken an observer more than a day at Fidelity to discover that singing, especially solo singing, ran in families. Once in a great while the whole community might join in on some song, but that was about like some modern singer of note requesting the audience to join him on the chorus of "My Old Kentucky Home." Modern scholars look upon ballad-making and folk singing as distinctly an accomplishment of occasional persons or of families but not of people as a whole. Certainly folk singing and other folk accomplishments were not universal in our part of the world. An occasional workman could do very artistic designing of furniture; some of our women, in certain families, could make artistic designs for quilts or embroidery; however, most of us were as awkward with our hands as the proverbial man with ten thumbs. My own artistry as a carpenter went no further than constructing horse troughs with fairly straight lines or chicken coops that would stand erect or nearly so. But some of the boys I knew could work wonders, even though they could not spell and did not know whether Europe was a country or some sort of patent medicine. Now, Aunt Jane and her daughter Mary were genuine folk singers. Whether it was a family characteristic beyond the time of Aunt Jane, I do not know, but I strongly suspect it was. Nobody else in my whole experience has ever had a more folksy voice than did Aunt Jane, and her daughter's voice was not too far behind her mother's. By the side of these two voices the others of us merely croaked or wailed. Mimicry also ran in certain of our families. One certain family did this so well that the rest of us seemed poor imitators. If one of our neighbor families had lived in the time of television or even extensive vaudeville, they could have been another Foy family, now so famous in pictures. Yarn spinning is by no means a habit equally great among all sorts of folk. Many yarn-spinners are dull to tears but live long lives without ever finding it out. It seemed a shame in my boyhood to tell a professional but dull yarn spinner that he was barking up the wrong tree. Many times we laughed at his story because it was so pointless or so irritating that we had to get some sort of relief, and swearing was forbidden in our homes. But the yarn spinner par excellence rarely is aware of his skill. He seems born with a taste for details and for expressive language. Whether his story is for men only or for other groups, he seems to know just where

PICKED UP IN PASSING

By James Taylor Adams

Pat Barton and Ef Strong had been neighbors on Critticle Branch for years and years. Had traded and trafficked a lot, back and forth. Never had had any bad feelings.

One fall Pat had a fine fattening hog in the pen and it was getting up close to killing time. On a certain Sunday Ef Strong walked up to Pat's place to chaw the rag a while, and to see what Pat might have to trade on. Ef took notice of Pat's fattening hog and, right off, he bantered Pat to buy it.

Pat shook his head. He didn't want to sell it, he said. That was a long time ago, and pork, bacon and hogs on the hoof were not worth much in cash money. But Ef Strong wanted that porker of Pat Patton's and he finally shook a ten dollar bill under Pat's nose and dared him to take it.

Pat reared back on his heels. He drew a long breath, took a fresh chew of tobacco, but he didn't take the ten dollar bill, much as he admired money.

Pat Barton didn't sleep much that night. Neither did Ef Strong. Bright and early the next morning, Pat pulled rein in front of Ef's house and hollered Ef to the door. "Was going over to town," he said, "and, as I come along, I got to thinking. Decided that, if you want it, you can have that hog for ten dollars, just as it stands."

Ef fingered his old pocketbook out of his pants pockets and extracted the same ten dollar bill that he'd poked under Pat's nose the evening before. He handed up, across the horse's neck to the waiting fingers of Pat's. "If you'll take that ten-spot," he said.

Pat nodded his acceptance; and the bargain was sealed. Ef, with a plowline across his arm, started off up the Critticle Branch road, as Pat galloped on towards the county seat.

It was about noon when Ef Strong came back down the Critticle road, a frown on his face and the plowline still hanging loosely from his arm. Just as he was turning in at his gate, there was a clatter down the road and then Pat Barton rounded a bend and pulled to a stop, facing Ef.

"You knowed that hog was stone-dead," Ef accused. "You had it propped up with four stakes. 'Just as it stands,' you said. Pat Barton you should be ashamed of yourself."

"Hold on!" snapped Pat. "You're the one that should be ashamed, giving me that old Confederate ten dollar bill, like you did. They would not have it in town, nowhere and Dorton even talked like he was a-going to get the law on me for trying to pass such money."

IT'S A GOOD WORLD. (The views expressed herein do not necessarily reflect the views of The Times.)

Artist Reba Mayo, who is always county-minded, says if the log cabin idea materializes (plan offered by Mrs. Bob Martin), she will gladly donate some antiques. Mrs. Mayo has an ancient stone, or rock, with a deep hollow in the top of it. Old-timers washed their hands in it years ago when such rocks were in common use in yards.

A citizen suggests that girls and women who would escort visitors through the cabin could wear linsey-woolsey costumes, like their great-grandmothers used on best occasions. Mrs. Tom James is an authority on early mountain dress. What would be more fitting than to have nearby a young swain, picking, "She'll be Coming Round the Mountain When She Comes", on his guitar?

A returned serviceman says he noticed several roadside markets in a hundred mile strip, in Alabama, selling only tilted bedsprads, made locally. Last week the C.-J. told how 700 Swedish women sell highly-priced knitted garments through a Home Cooperative. They make excellent money. One woman started the project in 1939, with 24 housewives of unemployed stonecutters.

Perhaps soon women of leisure here will open home cooperatives among handicapped and needy persons, whose crochet, knitting, needlepoint, quilting, rugs, spreads, baskets, novelties, etc., will be sold to aid them. The opportunity has no limit. A school cooperative could donate profit from objects carved or made during activity periods, to the Retarded Children's School. All Scouts might major on one or two items every year. Bible school groups could specialize in souvenirs to sell. Unless this program is sponsored, outside interests will bring machine-made articles and take advantage of the ideal market Dewey Lake provides. Everyone favors such a program, if only to reduce local relief rolls and keep home some of the thousands of good people who have to leave the county against their wishes.

Achievement in this line is impossible without unity and organization, plus expert planning. A Home Demonstration Agent would be the logical person to help correlate and coordinate the Arts-Crafts Program. Many are asking what became of the one promised Floyd county months ago. If she can accomplish one-tenth as much as County Agent Boggs is doing for our section she will be worth any price.

Rev. D. M. Aldridge, new president of Clear Creek Mountain Preachers Bible School, stated in the C.-J. last week that the "Greatest need of Kentucky mountains is for a trained religious leadership." He described the mountain area of Kentucky and nearby states as "religiously destitute." He means no reflection on workers and churches which do make the grade, but referred to many that fall. The golden privilege to change this belongs to you and me.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

ASKS SUPPORT OF AID TO NEEDY

Editor, The Times: We wish to thank the people who have contributed to Rev. Howard Church who has done so much for the needy persons in Floyd county. We appeal to you for further aid. As Rev. Church has been very helpful in giving food and clothing, especially shoes, to the most needy families, but unfortunately there are many more who are going without. Now that winter months are near and many of these children are trying to attend school without food, shoes and proper clothing, if you can give any aid to Rev. Church so that more children can be helped it will be greatly appreciated. Any size, color or kind can be used and appreciated. Thank you.

FOR THOSE INTERESTED

Editor, The Times: Floyd county folks seem to have a better than average interest in genealogy. Therefore I thought the publication of an interesting book on the "Eisenhower-Sisnehower, Isenhour, etc." families, along with the "Passengers of the Emigration Ship, Europa," might prove of interest to those readers of The Times who are interested in Americana.

The book is: "Eisenhower—Ancestors and Relations of Pres. Eisenhower," linen bound, $3.00. Order from Fannie B. Richardson, 681 E. Main St., Greenwood, Ind.

I do not know this lady and have no interest or connection in this venture.

Mrs. Robert Martin

Editor, The Floyd County Times:

I have an idea. And it is good—I think. Maybe it has been done before, but if it has I have not heard of it, but that is no reason why it can't be done, if it has not. When I read your article on B. M. Spurlock, it came to me to write you though I have often before in this thought of this idea. Namely: Why not interview these remaining old folks and record the interviews on TAPE? Just think what would mean to our history records, both for the county and state, some dozens and hundreds of years hence, should the world stand that long? Wouldn't it not be marvelous today to hear the voice of Lincoln, Douglas T. R., and lots of others, as well as the lesser known folks like your great-grandparents and mine? How wonderful for history classes!

I am sure this is not an idle dream, but one easily carried out and of great historical value to our county. When, if ever, the tapes begin to get worn they can be played onto another tape. At any rate they would be used only rarely. It seems to me the early experiences of any of our citizens over 75 are well worth recording—and the best way, if possible, to get them to tell of their experiences in a "talky" easy vein, with perhaps some "yes and no" type of questions in such an interview.

I understand there is an old Regular Baptist preacher, a Rev. Mosely almost 100. I think he would be a fine one to tape. Also I heard at Carl Layne's church the other night of a lady 102. Their pictures ought to be taken, also.

Along with this idea, I wonder why don't we have a Floyd County Historical Association with interested members paying fees and helping to preserve our culture for posterity? Several Kentucky counties have such associations and I don't see why we do not. We ought to have an old home given to such a group and have it become the HDQ. of the organization and the Floyd County museum. "Where there's a will there's a way."

ASKS SUPPORT OF AMENDMENT NO. 1

Editor, The Times: This is to call to the attention of the people Constitutional Amendment No. 1 which is to be voted on at the election next Tuesday. A "Yes" vote means that we are in favor of permitting those who are 18 years old to vote.

All of us are mindful of the services performed by youths only 18 years old in the armed forces, and all should be grateful to them. I urge support of this amendment, for the reason that I am convinced that any youth who is old enough to wear his country's uniform, carry a gun and undergo the hardship and dangers of military life is certainly capable of stamping a ballot and of doing it as well as those who are older.

May I urge the voters not to overlook Amendment No. 1 on the right-hand side of the ballot. Henry Stumbo, County Judge

PASTOR BACKS FIGHT ON BOOTLEGGING

Editor, The Times: The story that you carried last week, entitled, "13 Churches Endorse Law Enforcement," express my feelings in the matter of the liquor traffic in Floyd county. Something happened that I did not receive or misplaced the letter sent to the pastors.

Many of the people of the First Methodist Church and The Community Methodist Church of which I am the pastor have expressed their feelings concerning this matter. They are against "bootlegging."

It is good to have a sheriff with the daring to enter these places and make the arrests that are necessary. However, he is just one official and represents only one phase of law enforcement. Arresting a person for violating the law without prosecution is just as futile as a doctor who diagnoses a personal illness and offers no cure. This responsibility does not rest with the elected officials, but it is in the hands of those who sit upon the juries. So, we need to stand behind our judges, the attorneys whom we have elected to prosecute, and the juries which represent the people in making decisions regarding the guilt and who fix the punishment.

I want to see the day when it is a sin in the eyes of the people to deal in the manufacture, sale or use of alcoholic beverages, rather than the sin being "in getting caught." Let the public as well as the officials develop a conscience on one of the greatest evils of our great country. The public must accept the part of the guilt for which it is responsible. It is too easy for us to make the other fellow the "scapegoat."

Respectfully yours, Harold W. Dorsey

Scout Officers Named At Martin Church Meet

The Sandy Valley Girl Scout Council held its semi-annual dinner at the Martin Methodist Church dining room at 6:30 last Wednesday. After the flag ceremony, Mrs. Arthur Bradbury gave the invocation with a get-acquainted period following, with the business session and the election of officers, the reading of the treasurer's report, by Mrs. Gilmore, and the executive director's report, by Mrs. Zella Archer, winding the official business at the meeting.

Those elected to three-year offices were B. Alvin Reed, W. T. Gilbert, Wheelwright, Chester Patton, David, Mr. William Crawford, David and Mrs. Gorge Crubbs, Paintsville. Members of the membership nominating committee elected for two years are Mrs. Letha Wilkinson, of Wheelwright, Mrs. Virginia Harmon, David, and Mrs. Alvin Reed, of Drift.

Committee reports, at the meeting were given on Office and Staff, Finance, Established Camp, Day Camp, Camp Development, Training, and Public Relations. Unfinished business, for the most part, concerned an unfinished finance-drive, now under way, which has passed a little over half of the desired goal.

PIKE TEAM LISTS GAMES

Three Floyd Lettermen In Basketball Players Returning To Pikeville

Pikeville, Ky., Oct. 24 (Spl.) — Seven former Floyd county basketball players, including three lettermen returning from last year, are among the 34 members of varsity and freshman squads listed today at Pikeville College.

The lettermen are Ralph Roberts, Wayland cager, and Mack D. Stone and Jack D. Stevens, both of Garrett high. Others are Douglas Chaffins, Garrett; Jack P. Spradlin, Wayland and Bobbie E. Stratton and Glen Williamson, both of Betsy Layne.

The Pikeville Bears, taking their first step out of junior-college ranks, will meet basketball teams from eight small four-year colleges during the 1955-56 season.

John E. Renfro, new Pikeville coach, announced that the Bears, champions for the last two years of the Kentucky Junior College Athletic Conference, will open a 27-game schedule against Lincoln Memorial University Nov. 16 at Harrogate, Tenn. He named a varsity squad of 17 players, all but one Kentuckians. Only four lettermen, two of them juniors, returned from last year's Bears.

The former junior college at Pikeville, which added a third year this fall as it began expansion to a four-year school, will remain this season in the state junior-college conference. Renfro's first edition of the Bears will meet each of the other schools in the junior loop twice during the year, he said.

Under Walter Hambrick, now an assistant basketball coach at the University of South Carolina, the Bears won the championship tournaments of the state junior college conference in 1954 and 1955, and were Southeastern Junior College champs in 1954.

A 17-man freshman squad was named, to play a schedule of games against other college-freshmen, trade-school and high-school teams.

Members of the Pikeville varsity, with their high schools, include letterman Ralph Roberts, Wayland, and Mack D. Stone, Garrett, both juniors, and sophomores Doug Kerns, Meade Memorial, and Jack D. Stevens, Garrett. Others are John Lee Butcher, Pikeville; Charles Francis, Carr Creek; Hayes Harmon, Inez Douglas Kern, Coeburn, Va.; Arnold Meek, Meade Memorial; Garrett Mullins, Lincoln Institute; Lloyd Mullins, Carr Creek; William D. Page, Bowling Green; R. B. Singleton, Carr Creek; Kenneth D. Smallwood, Carr Creek; John Waddell, Hindman; Bob Walters, Pikeville College Academy, and Don Jack Whitt, Pikeville high.

Freshman squad members, with the high schools for which they played, are Homer Adams, Lenore, W. Va.; Millard Bevins, Belfry; Freddy Blankenship, Matewan, (W. Va.) Magnolia; Douglas Chaffins, Garrett; Jon D. Cunningham, Phelps; Jack Deskins, Pikeville; Donnie Layne, Pikeville College Academy; Joe Milan, Virgie; Bob Sparks, Belfry; Eugene Spicer, Pikeville Perry A. Cline; Jack P. Spradlin, Wayland; Landon Stepp, Warfield; Bobbie E. Stratton, Betsy Layne; George Supcoe, Jr., Virgie; Arnold Wells, Paintsville; Glen Williamson, Betsy Layne, and Mike Williamson, Pikeville College Academy.

ORDINANCE

ORDINANCE AUTHORIZING CITY ATTORNEY TO TAKE NECESSARY LEGAL STEPS TO INCORPORATE CERTAIN PROPERTY AT LANCER FLOYD COUNTY, KENTUCKY, INTO THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, FLOYD COUNTY, KENTUCKY.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY:

SECTION I. That the City Attorney is authorized to take necessary legal steps to annex as part of the City of Prestonsburg the following described property, lying on the southern city limits of the City, as it is now incorporated.

BEGINNING at a stake at the low water mark of the Big Sandy River, on the property line between Virgil Warrick and the Irvin Ford property, the present city limits of Prestonsburg; thence with said low water mark up the Big Sandy River in an easterly direction to a stake at the mouth of a small drain, at the low water mark of the Big Sandy River, about thirty (30) feet above the present residence of Mrs. L. The Fabulous '56 Pontiac

Introducing a Big and Vital General Motors "Automotive First!"

A new Strato-Flight Hydra-Matic—coupled with Pontiac's 227-H.P. Strato-Streak V-8—results in performance so new and dramatic it must be experienced to be believed!

THE ALL-TIME SUMMIT FOR GLAMOUR AND GO!

You enter a joyous new era of motoring when the lure of Pontiac's glamorous new style of tomorrow gets you behind the wheel.

Performance is so incredibly agile, so amazingly responsive that, if it weren't for Pontiac's size and comfort, you'd swear you were driving a new advance in sports cars.

Touch the accelerator and that great General Motors "First"—silken-smooth Strato-Flight Hydra-Matic—teams up with Pontiac's wholly new Strato-Streak V-8 engine to unleash the greatest "go" on wheels!

Pick yourself a hill and feel it disappear right under your wheels. Merely decide to pass that car ahead—and you've done it! Here's performance that's surely destined to "pull the props" from under well-established record holders.

But performance is only part of the fabulous Pontiac story for '56. Everything about it brings a thrill! There's a new ride, new handling ease, colorful new luxury interiors, and the greatest safety ever engineered into an automobile.

And as to style—well, a single look confirms the fact that Pontiac is again the most smartly distinctive car on the road—the one car that marks you as one who knows the best when he sees it.

So come in today and drive this fabulous car. Sure as you love glamour—sure as you love "go"—you'll go Pontiac in '56!

THERE IS ONLY ONE ISSUE IN KENTUCKY

There is only one big issue in this campaign for Governor. That issue was there before A. B. (Happy) Chandler was nominated by the Democrats and Ed Denney was selected by the Republicans. The issue was there decades ago, has persisted down through Kentucky history for a long, long time. That issue is Democratic government versus Republican government. No amount of effort by the Republican party to obscure the issue, no cheap camouflage of the party name will change it.

The Republican party recognizes the issue, knows that the Kentucky voter is aware of this distinction between the two parties and is inclined to exercise his right of suffrage against them for good and sufficient reasons. Those reasons have been in existence a long time. They stem back through the long record of Republican leadership that has never offered this state anything but ineffectual and fumbling attempts at progress. That's why the Republicans now hide their party label, push forward a candidate with his sponsors hiding in the brush.

The Republican party is, admittedly a realistic party. It realizes its utter failure to offer Kentucky anything constructive in the way of reform or progress while it was in power a few times and that failure rises now, like a long buried ghost to plague them. They know that at one time, just barely five decades ago, their party offered Kentucky nothing but the prospect of civil war and armed thugs at the state capital. Kentucky threw them out on their ears then. Since then, when the forces of Democracy were a little unaware, the Republican party slipped into power three times. They seldom mention those administrations and in the records of constructive government there is no mention at all.

Ed Denney recognizes the ineffectuality of his party to lead or give this state an administration dedicated to good roads, to the improvement of our school system, to the selection of subordinate public officials who are able and willing to serve only Kentucky. That's why Ed Denney poses as a candidate without a party, that's why he shoves the elephant back in the barn and go out with a few disgruntled Democrats and stalks the mule. The situation embarrasses nobody but the Republicans.

But Ed Denney was not trying to camouflage his party back in April when he was preparing to be a candidate in the Republican primary. He was a stalwart Republican then, told an audience, April 12, at Louisville: "If I run, I am going to run as a Republican. I am not going to forsake my own party to get a few Democratic votes on the other side. If I should run, and lightning should strike, I believe that the Republicans should get the spoils."

The Republicans would like to forget about that statement of Denney's. They are promising many Democratic state employes that they can keep their jobs under Denney. But that's not what Denney said in April. He said then he believed the Republicans should get the spoils.

And spoils is what the Republicans think our state government is. They think the jobs, the whole mechanism of government is just so much booty to cart off, just so much, as Denney says SPOILS to hand out—to the Republicans. We have Denney's word for it.

CHANDLER'S ROAD BUILDING RECORD

Chandler built more rural roads, spent more state money in Floyd county while governor than all the governors of Kentucky who preceded him. The record will bear this out. Here are some of the roads and the amounts spent: Allen-Lackey, $102,078.63; Allen-Lackey-Hindman, $200,546.70; Allen-Lackey-Hindman, $4,731.00; Martin-Wheelwright Jct., $118,229.80; Wayland-Beaver Gap, $91,600.97; Martin-Wheelwright Jct., $56,907.03; Martin-Wheelwright Jct. $61,651.55; and Martin-Weeksbury, $43,737.00. This incomplete list here shows 48,227 miles and $679,503.68.

The record of past Republican administrations should be examined. They sponsored no social legislation, they advocated no progress, they passed out the jobs to Republicans, while Kentuckians marked time until Democratic leadership could be returned to power. Kentucky historians scarcely mention Republican administrations. There is nothing, of course, to mention but ineffectuality, stalemated governors and legislatures, and a blank marking of time while Kentucky waited.

Denney's record is typically Republican. He was in the State Legislature at one time, earned the reputation of a man who always voted NO. No matter how good the bill was, no matter how great was the need or demand for a bill to be passed, Ed Denney voted NO. He voted that way on soil conservation, TB sanatoria, aid to dependent children, appropriations to the Disabled Ex-Service Men's Board, guaranteed veteran re-employment, and dozens of other things the Democrats sponsored and passed.

Denney is against a sales tax . . . Now. But he wasn't always against it, maybe not so firmly and finally committed against it even yet. As Chandler says, "A leopard doesn't change its spots." Denney managed Eugene Siler's campaign for governor four years ago. Siler ran on a Sales Tax program. Denney was a firm, faithful advocate of Siler and his program then. Maybe he is trying another little bit of camouflage. If a man denies his party, he can deny a program he privately favors.

To the teachers of Kentucky Ed Denney offers only the ineffectual thinking that is traditionally Republican. He told an audience at Louisville last week:

"If I can keep expenses as low as possible and keep our income high, then I can effectuate the Minimum Foundation Program. If we can't do that, we're going to have to have more money."

Chandler says he can implement the Minimum Foundation Program for Education WITHIN the present tax structure. That's the clear-headed thinking of a candidate who knows the tax structure of Kentucky and what it can stand. The above statement of Denney's reveals again the befuddled thinking of a candidate who offers a lot of "If's". If he can he will, if he can't he will . . . by getting more taxes.

This state has had enough of high taxes that brought little, often meaningless benefits. Just last week a tax research group pointed out that Kentucky had the highest tax increase in the nation. To impose more taxes, to take the chance of Denney imposing extra taxes is to risk fiscal bankruptcy in Kentucky. Chandler has had tax authorities examine the tax structure and income and knows how to implement the Minimum Foundation Program for Education without extra taxes.

The issue is just Democratic good government or Republican mismanagement and leaderless inefficiency. It has always been so in Kentucky, will be that way forever unless the Republicans grow a crop of progressive leaders.

The election of A. B. Chandler for governor, Harry Lee Waterfield as lieutenant-governor with the full Democratic ticket, offers Kentucky the assurance of a stable, wise and effective state government.

Sturgills from Carolina Settled Flat Gap Region

By James Taylor Adams
(The Mountain Eagle,
June 13, 1953)

Flat Gap, the head of Cumberland and upper Powell's River country is peopled with Sturgill and Stungill kin; and they have moved away, spread out, scattered, until to day they may be found in every nook and corner of the United States; but, all in all, they have held pretty well to Southwestern Virginia, East Kentucky, Southern West Virginia and Western North Carolina.

A Rev. Sturgill, of Avery County, North Carolina, who had made a study of the family history, said three brothers, mere boys, left the Black Forest of Germany about 1775, made their way to England and from there to America to settle in Western North Carolina. The brothers were Wilhelm, Jakob and Johann; and Mr. Sturgill has found that the last name was spelled "Steagel" for sometime after they arrived in America. William and James (Jacob) married and settled in North Carolina and spent their lives there. John was of a more restless turn of mind. He married Jemima Wells, daughter of Zachariah Wells; and then, one day, according to the late Nehemiah Webb, the two young people slipped away from their kin and disappeared into the wilderness to the northwest.

The young married couple went on to almost untracked wilderness of Southwestern Virginia; ever facing the great northwest, looking for a likely spot for their future home. Why they passed up so much rich land along the Clinch, the Pound and Guest's Rivers, is a mystery, but that is just what they did, to lose themselves in the wild and rugged mountains of the head of the Cumberland.

The Sturgills went not to seek their new home unprepared. Besides the horse, they had with them a cow, two shoats and two hens and a rooster. The cow and the hogs were herded along the trail all through the day; and at night, Jemima would milk the cow, after which John would take her out along with the horse on good grazing ground. The hogs would be enclosed in a makeshift pen; and the chickens left in the swinging coops which, during the day's journey, dangled from each side of the saddle.

So, according to their own story, kept alive through several generations of their descendants, and and written down by Nehemiah Webb, they pushed on and on, day after day.

The young pair had been gone from Western North Carolina for many months. Their folks back there had given them up as lost; either captives or dead, their bones scattered o'er some far-flung hill. Then, one day, some hunters ventured into the mountains which separate the headsprings of the Pound, Cumberland, Guest's and Powell rivers; in the vicinity of the now famous Baker Rock. They had pitched their camp, in the evening, atop the mountain at a point from which one can look down onto four rivers. The following morning as the men were breaking camp for the day's hunt, they were surprised to hear the ring of an axe, far down on the head of the stream to the north. They looked at one another in astonishment and discussed the matters in whispers: "Indians" they said; for they believed that the nearest white settlement was some thirty or forty miles to the south, along the Clinch river.

Fearful as they were, the hunters could not forego an investigation. So they skipped down the mountain, parting the brush and peering ahead, afraid of walking into an ambush.

At last they came to Cumberland River, its waters leaping over moss-covered boulders, splashing and gleaming like silver in the early morning sunlight. And downstream, a few hundred yards below them, stood a new made cabin, and standing on the trunk of a fresh-felled poplar, was a young man, swinging an axe with much determination and gusto. Hens were cackling in the cabin yard; two fat hogs were cracking acorns under a spreading oak near by; and a cow lowed softly in answer to a bawling calf; and a horse, lifting his head from the soft late grass, nickered a warning at the stranger's approach.

Young John Sturgill was as surprised at the hunters' visit as were they at finding a white man so far removed from civilization. But he made them welcome and he and Jemima told their story; and when the hunters returned to their homes they retold it. Soon it spread all over the Clinch and Holston river settlements and it was not long until it drifted over the mountains to Western North Carolina; and, before the year was out, the Sturgills had neighbors above and below them on Cumberland River and a dozen or more had settled on the head of the Pound and on Powell's and Guest's River, among them being Jemima's father, Zachariah Wells, who was among the first settlers in the Crackers Neck section of Wise County.

John and Jemima reared a large family of sons and daughters. They married and settled in East Kentucky, Southern West Virginia and all over lower Southwestern Virginia.

Homemakers in Mason county have "pen-friends" in 19 foreign countries with whom they correspond.

Truck Ruling Given
Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 2 — Cities have no right to establish lower truck weights on city streets than are permitted by state law, but may exercise police powers of the city by routing such trucks over given streets, Assistant Attorney General George M. Catlett advised the Harlan City Attorney.

A city may increase truck weights on state-designated highways by ordinance, but this authority may be overruled by the commissioner of Highways if he feels the designated roads are endangered, Catlett said.

Totally Disabled File Under New Provisions

Several hundred totally disabled people in this area have filed their claim to establish disability under the new "disability" provisions of the Social Security Act. Many others have initiated action under this new provision.

The "freeze", as it is called, became effective January 1, 1955. It permits the Social Security Administration to freeze individual's social security accounts as of the time the disability began.

The net result is to make it easier for the totally disabled to qualify for benefits and, in most cases, permit the payment of higher benefits. There is no provision for payments due to a person's disability.

H. Glenn Holyfield, Resident Representative, will be at the Employment Office, Prestonsburg, each Monday and Tuesday, at 10 a.m., to answer all questions pertaining to social security benefits.

PAWPAWS ARE SCARCE NOW ON EAST KENTUCKY'S HILLS

By LEE STEWART
(In Rowan County News)

Pfc. Wilson Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Miller, Prestonsburg, will go to Camp Polk, La., on manuevers from Oct. 31 until Dec. 15.

Miller, who will be along with 11,000 others taking part in the manuever, is in the 3rd Infantry Division at Fort Benning, Ga. He entered the Army Dec. 8, 1954 and completed basic training at Fort Knox, Ky. Miller is a 1952 graduate of Prestonsburg high school.

Pawpaw is a North American shrub or low tree of the custard family, native from Western New York to Nebraska and southward to Florida and Texas. On rich alluvial soil they will grow to the height of 50 feet with large leaves, sometimes 12 inches long and six inches wide, and brown to dark red flowers one to two inches across. The fleshy fruit from two to six inches long, matures in the autumn with a orange color. They are good to eat, I have found out this fall under George Caudill's single tree in his front yard.

I don't know why it is, but for many years in Eastern Kentucky, this aromatic wild fruit, loved by the people, terrapins, and country possums, has been almost nonexistent. A fellow was complaining to me about this the other day and believes that the government should conduct an investigation to see what was wrong and do something about restoring this fruit, the pawpaw, back to its former opulence.

Fifty years ago there were plenty of pawpaws (pronounced po-aw). They could be gathered by the wagon load. On one occasion I was going to Whitesburg with some Revenue men, and near town we saw an old lady filling a basket with paw-paws and one of my friends asked her what she was going to do with them, and she replied: "I am going to make apple butter out of them." My friend didn't make any remarks. I was deputy collector of Internal Revenue, and a civil engineer in Pikeville asked me to make a survey of a pawpaw distillery as he wanted to make some pawpaw brandy. They told me at the Collector's office that he did not have any rules or regulations whereby it could be done. I reported the fact to the engineer. Sometime later, he told me that "I got my pawpaw brandy, all right." I suppose that he made moonshine.

There is nothing wrong with the pawpaw bushes apparently. They are growing still on the mountains, have plenty of bloom every spring, look healthy enough, but when "foddering time" comes around, there "just ain't any pawpaws." Well not many and having little else to do, the possums just lay around in the trees and get the few there are the minute they begin to turn ripe. They don't leave any to fall off in the grass and leaves to ripen as a pawpaw should.

For more than 30 years I raided most every section of the mountains, found plenty of bushes but rarely a pawpaw. I recall that a pawpaw to be at its best, must be allowed to fall on its own accord from the tree and to lay for a couple of weeks or more in the dew and leaves. When it turns black as a man's hat, it is in fine shape for eating.

The pawpaw should never be eaten in a house, but on the spot and by one's self if possible. It is a fruit of reflection and reminiscence and is best eaten in the solitary and its natural elements under the bright blue sky amidst the flaming color of October.

Botanically speaking, the pawpaw is a kissing cousin of the papaya tree of the tropics. The papaya bears a fruit that titillates the tastebuds on the tongue much after the fashion of a muskmelon, but the pawpaw has a taste of its own.

To find one coal black, slightly dry, and deeply hidden among the leaves in a hollow or at the edge of a deep woods, and eat all alone, is something to remember and it will be remembered in the days yet to come of what we had in the days of long ago.

Something should certainly be done about the future of the pawpaw and the government should not neglect this delicious fruit.

Seaman Halbert Is Congratulated

Accompanying the citation, which was presented October 14, was an engraved cigarette lighter.

Ky. TB Hospitals Have 746 Patients Over State

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 31 (Spl.) — Kentucky's tuberculosis hospitals had an inmate population of 746 at the end of September—with 685 of the number free patients—it was announced today by Joe D. Miller, executive director of the State Tuberculosis Sanatoria Commission.

Admissions to the six hospitals during the month were 117, as compared with 114 discharges, while X-ray treatments were provided in 1,639 cases.

Population of each of the hospitals on September 30 was: Madisonville, 105; Louisville (Hazelwood) 226; Paris, 106; Ashland, 99; London, 105; and Glasgow, 105.

The Commission estimated the cost of operating the institutions for the month at $7.44 a day for each patient and said the average cost since July 1 was $7.29 a day a patient.

CORN DERBY RESULTS

The results of the corn derby plots checked in Floyd county this year have been received at the County Extension office and will be announced at the county Achievement Night, November 18. The awards, furnished by the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club, will be presented at that time.

SOILS LABORATORY

The Floyd county soils laboratory will soon be back in operation after being in storage for several months.
The laboratory will be located in the old high school building and is expected to be in operation on November 10. Applications are being taken at the Extension Service office for a laboratory technician.
Anyone interested in doing this type of work may make application subject to approval by the soils committee and the University of Kentucky. Harold Miller, soils specialist, from the University of Kentucky, will be in Floyd county on November 3 to train the new technician.

FALL TESTING OF SOILS

Rain and wet soils last spring caused many Kentucky farmers to collect soil samples for testing too late or they failed to collect any.
Some laboratories had samples pileup, and farmers did not get the results of their tests on time. This difficulty and rush can be avoided by collecting soil samples this fall and winter. Samples collected and tested this fall will serve the farmer just as well as sampling and testing next spring. In addition to avoiding the spring wet weather and rush, the farmer has more time for collecting good samples this fall.
The technician has more time to make the test, and the county agent has more time to make fertilizer recommendations. Consequently, the farmer has more time to shop around for his fertilizer.

The present economic situation relative to farm operating costs and prices received demands that farmers invest wisely. They must be sure that each investment will return a profit. For investment in fertilizers to return a profit, farmers must buy the required plant nutrients that are limiting production. A proper balance of the nutrients needed will give the greatest immediate returns. A soil test is the best method available for determining what is needed. This fall farmers should make a special effort to test all fields going into corn, tobacco, hay, or pasture next spring unless the land for hay and pasture is in rotation and was tested at the beginning of the rotation. Old pasture and hay fields should be tested unless these fields have been tested and the present fertilizer program is based upon that test.

Many farmers still feel that samples cannot be taken when the soil is wet. We prefer that samples can be taken when it is wet, provided the sample is air dried. Samples should not be dried in an oven, on top of a stove, furnace or radiator, or before an open fire. They can be dried in a heated room, however.
We hope farmers will sample more of their soils this fall.

Wooden Trays Ordered
Almost 1,000 wooden trays for refinishing have been ordered and worked on by members of homemakers clubs in Webster county the past year.

Betsy Layne Student In Pike College Play

Pikeville, Ky., Nov. 1 (Spl.)—Alice Snyder, of Betsy Layne, will play a part in the first production of the newly organized Pikeville College Drama Club, it was announced today.

Miss Snyder, a sophomore at Pikeville, also was elected the club's secretary-treasurer at the recent organization meeting, Mrs. Carl P. Hatcher, club sponsor and principal of Pikeville College Academy, said.

The group, composed of college and Academy students, will present the one-act comedy-satire, "Our Famous Ancestors," by Hark and McQueen, at the daily chapel period Monday, November 21. Miss Snyder will have one of the five parts in the playlet. Other officers of the drama club, which has 21 members, are Frances Chaney, Pikeville, president, and Richard Gibson, Pikeville, reporter.

City Sales Tax Out, Says Attorney General

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 2 — Cities are forbidden to levy a sales tax for school purposes—or any other—and are limited in their taxing authority to certain fields of property and licensing for which specific authority has been granted, it was held by the Attorney General's office.

The ruling given to C. E. Davidson, Ashland, held that taxes for school purposes are to be levied on property subject to local taxation, and that neither the Kentucky Constitution nor statutes gives cities the power to impose this type of levy.

Minor Guard Violator Is In Juvenile Jurisdiction

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 2 — A minor who is a member of the National Guard must be turned over to the juvenile court for infraction of the laws, rather than be tried under terms of the military code, Assistant Attorney General Walter C. Herdman ruled in interpreting conflicting sections of the law.

Herdman held that general provisions of the law must yield to specific sections in event of apparent conflict, and that the General Assembly has granted juvenile courts exclusive jurisdiction of offenses by a minor, and that the National Guard should yield control of offenses against the military code to juvenile authorities.
