This Town— That World

If I can keep out of my shadow, this Ground-Hog Day, maybe this column will get written, after all.

WHAT?—NO BEER?

Friends of mine was telling me about an electric shaver and was surprised that I hadn't seen it advertised on television. I had seen the ad but was so all mixed up I thought it was a new kind of beer being offered a public that will swallow just about anything.

THE LUCKY STIFF!

Bill Grimm, our next-door neighbor, has received and waved under my nose the District Angler's Certificate awarded him by the Courier-Journal for his first-place bass entry from this district in that newspaper's 1955 fishing contest. Having congratulated Bill and spent some time vowing I'll show them a thing or two this coming season, I'm all out of words needed to express my envy.

NICE GOING FELLOWS

This column arises to remark that it is inordinately proud of Representatives Lon C. Hill and David Martin, Jr., because they stood up and were counted against removing the Keeneland racetrack tax. If the day ever comes, and sometimes we have thought it was near, that representatives of the people can't vote against a thing that they know is wrong and not in the public interest, then it's time to pick up your marbles, if any, and go home.

POLIO CLINICS DRAW HEAVILY

Clinic at Martin Sets New Record for County; Measles Cuts Total Here

The Floyd County Health Department today (Thursday) was busy at work in most effective series of polio clinics it has conducted since the Salk vaccine became available last year.

Today's clinic is at Wheelwright's Community Hall where a thousand youngsters are expected to receive the vaccine.

In the first of the week's clinics, at Martin high school, 1,037 were vaccinated. At Betsy Layne high school the number dropped to 472, and at the health department here Wednesday 806 received the vaccine.

The last clinic of the series, scheduled Friday at Garrett high school, is expected to be the largest of the week. M. V. Clark, health department administrator, said he expects between 1,200 and 1,500 children to be present. The Garrett clinic is expected to be larger than any of the others because children from McDowell, Drift, Maytown and Wayland will go there.

The largest polio clinic held in this county prior to this week's series was held at Garrett last fall with more than 400 being vaccinated.

Mr. Clark said the total number of immunizations for the week will approach the 5,000 mark.

MEADE NAMED IN FAKE CALL HERE, JAN. 18

16 More Indictments Made in Liquor Cases; Meade Avers Innocence

Last of the indictments to be voted by the grand jury here before its adjournment Saturday was that which named Donald Lee Meade, of Prestonsburg, former traffic manager for the Department of Highways, on a charge of making a false telephone call.

The indictment was made on testimony of Mrs. Joe Weddington, and it alleged that Meade "did unlawfully, illegally and knowingly transmit in and over a telephone line . . . a false communication to Mrs. Joe Weddington with the intention to frighten, scare and injure her, her husband and their two-year-old child."

The indictment added that the telephonic message was, substantially, this:

"You and your baby had better get out of the house, for it is going to be blown up."

Meade, who executed $500 bond pending trial at the April term of circuit court, has vigorously denied the accusation since his name was first mentioned in connection with the phone call which Mrs. Weddington reported on Jan. 18.

"I never talked to Mrs. Weddington over the telephone in my life," he said.

Sixteen more indictments alleging liquor offenses were returned during the last three days of the jury's session. These were accused of possessing liquor for the purpose of sale:

Dave Hughes (three indictments), Dave Hughes and Cat-Tail Campbell, George Hamilton, Walker Hamilton (two indictments), Willie Little, Sam Stanley, Roger Click, Viola Handshoe, Banner Hall, Oliver Allen.

Emery Hall and Matthew Kidd were indicted for possessing liquor for beverage purposes.

Other indictments alleging major offenses follow:

SECOND PLANT TO OPEN SOON

Hayes, Bogardus Found Richlands, Va., Plant; Community Aids Project

Arlie E. Hayes and B. P. Bogardus, owners of the Hayes Metal Products Company at Hi Hat, this week announced that they and associates will open a second plant at Richlands, Va., by Feb. 15.

The new plant, which will occupy two buildings with 22,000 square feet of floor space under roof, will be known as the Hayes Richlands Metal Products. Its products will be the same as those manufactured at Hi Hat plant—mainly, steel truck bodies and mining machinery.

Mr. Hayes is president of the Virginia firm, and Mr. Bogardus is secretary-treasurer. Walter Simmons, of Richlands, is vice-president, and J. A. Robinson, also of Richlands, is a member of the board of directors.

The Floyd firm's decision to expand with a new plant in Virginia followed substantial community contributions on the part of Richlands to get the plant located there. The plant expects to employ about 25 persons. It will be housed in two buildings which formerly were occupied by the C. C. Self Bus and Taxi Lines and the Richlands Lumber & Supply Company.

FLOYD SHEEP SUCCESS TOLD

County Agent, Speaker At Farm and Home Meet; Farmers Review Results

"Sheep fit well into the type of farming indicated in Floyd county and other Eastern Kentucky counties," County Agent O. E. Boggs told the 44th annual Farm and Home Week meet at the University of Kentucky this (Thursday) afternoon. Appearing with the Floyd county agent on the afternoon program were Virgil Smith, Paul Dotson and James E. Allen, all sheep growers.

Boggs listed four problems that hinder sheep production in the eastern part of the state: Lack of fencing, insufficient hay and pasture, some people's natural dislike

The Girls in Green Will Offer Girl Scout Cookies

"When the little girl in green comes knocking at your door the next two weeks, her hopes will be high as she invites you to fill your cookie jar with Girl Scout cookies. Her smile will be genuine, for she is proud to be a Girl Scout and it's thrilling to be a real Sales Scout working to raise the funds necessary to maintain their camp and aid their local troops."

So runs the appeal to the public made this week by Girl Scout leaders in Floyd county.

The annual Girl Scout cookie sale will begin Saturday and continue through Feb. 18. In Prestonsburg all seven troops will begin their sale on Saturday, Feb. 11, but over the county as a whole the girls will begin work Feb. 4.

Profits from the cookie sale will help support the Girl Scouts' Camp Chatterwain on Dewey Lake. Their leaders are asking the public to show appreciation of the girls' eagerness to help themselves, by buying liberally.

YOUTH CENTER OPENING SET

Coach Wallace Named To Supervise Center Opening Here Friday

The interclub board of supervisors of the Prestonsburg Youth Center has announced that the Center will open at 6:30 p.m., Friday in the Municipal building with Bob Wallace, football coach at Prestonsburg high school, as supervisor.

Open house will be held Friday and Saturday, and parents are being invited to inspect the Center.

The Youth Center will be operated for all students at the Floyd county high school here and for seventh and eighth-grade pupils of the Prestonsburg grade school.

At last Thursday's meeting of the board of supervisors two members—Miss Nancy Ann Branham, representing Adah Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, and Herbert Patton, commander of Walter K. Bowling Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars—were added to the board. Five civic groups are represented on the board, also the Presbyterian Church by Mrs. Ralph Davis and the young adults of the Methodist Church by Bob Wallace.

Groups which will contribute to the support of the Center are listed as the Prestonsburg City Council, the Kiwanis Club, Kiwanians, the Senior and Junior Woman's Clubs and Veterans of Foreign Wars; and these individuals or firms: Wright Brothers, Bob Francis, Apparel, Francis Store, The Leader Store, A. W. Cox Department Store and Hutsiniller Drug.

The Youth Council, which is composed of five elected class representatives and five representatives of high school service clubs, met Monday with the advisory committee and Mr. Wallace to work out rules for the center. Members of the Advisory committee are Mrs. W. W. Cooley, chairman, Mrs. Earl McDonald, Mrs. Chalmers Frazier and Mrs. Glenn Brickley. The Youth Council is composed of class representatives Red Minix, Peggy Music, Harold Cooley, Jerry Hall and another member to be named, and these school club representatives: Dolores Hughes, Honor Club; Glenn Anderson, Allied Youth; Nancy Rose, Tri-Hi-Y; Rebecca Conley, Y-Teens; Rex Music, Key Club.

Rules compiled include these:

- I. Membership Requirements:
 - (a) 50c annual dues.
 - (b) Limited to Prestonsburg schools, grades 7 through 12.
 - (c) Membership cards must be represented at the door before admittance.
 - (d) Cards may be used only by the owner. Anyone found violating this rule must forfeit his membership.
- II. Rules for Members:
 - (a) Members will be expected to conduct themselves as ladies and gentlemen at all times.

ICC UPHOLDS STATE RATES

Freight Set on Coal By Rail Commission Regarded Reasonable

The Interstate Commerce Commission last Friday upheld the reasonableness of the intrastate rate for bituminous coal set by the Kentucky Railroad Commission.

The principal railroads in Kentucky had petitioned the I.C.C. with the charge that levels of intrastate rates in Kentucky were lower than interstate rates on coal coming into Kentucky from Virginia and West Virginia.

The railroads contended the Kentucky rates were unreasonably low and deprived them of revenue to which they were entitled.

But the I.C.C. decision held that the Kentucky rates "are not shown to cause any undue, unreasonable or unjust advantage, preference, or prejudice as between persons or localities in intrastate commerce or those in interstate commerce," it added that the rates were not discriminatory.

TRIO JAILED, TWO CONFESS

$5,000 Bond Is Asked Of Three After Local Business Firms Looted

Breaks into two West Prestonsburg places of business last Thursday night and into a service station near David Sunday night were followed this week by the arrest of three men, two of whom signed a confession to the West Prestonsburg burglaries.

Jailed here were Harrison and Ezra Marsillett, West Prestonsburg cousins, and Johnnie Newsom, of Blue River.

The Marsillets, admitted breaking into the store of Bill Fitzpatrick and into the Vanhoose Lumber Company building at West Prestonsburg but denied complicity in the service station looting. Newsom, at whose home meats and other items stolen from the Fitzpatrick store were found, denied he had anything to do with the breaks.

All three were booked at the county jail on charges of having stolen goods in their possession. Bond of each was set at $5,000 and only Ezra Marsillett had gained his release as of Wednesday afternoon.

In their statement admitting the West Prestonsburg breaks the Marsillets listed meats, flashlights, belts and other items as having been taken by them from Bill's Community Grocery, owned by Bill Fitzpatrick. They said an electric saw, a drill, a plane, hammers, a hand saw and other articles were taken from Vanhoose's.

Only a watch and a knife taken from the grocery store were reclaimed, although a quantity of meats and cheese were found by officers at the Newsome home on the Sam Hale Branch, near Blue River. Fitzpatrick estimated his loss at $275.

Part of the $275 loss in equipment from the lumber company was recovered, and Ezra Marsillett promised to return other items. The Vanhoose loot was found at the

Johnny Hall, 57, Melvin, Is Victim of Diabetes At Home on Wednesday

Johnny Hall, 57, of Melvin, died Wednesday, at 10:30 a.m. Diabetes and high blood pressure were given as the cause of death. He was a miner.

Mr. Hall was a son of the late John and Della Hall and was married to Rilla Little, who survives. Surviving children are Garland, Gardner and Franklin D. Hall, all of Asbury, N. C., Maryland Hall, of Melvin, Mrs. Charles Chavens, of North Carolina, Mrs. Roy Macon and Mrs. Russell Macon, both of Sea Grove, N. C., and Mrs. Melvin McCormick, Manchester, Tenn. Brothers and a sister surviving are Lee Hall, of Wheelwright, and Mrs. Morgan Bridgeman, Ramsur, N. C.

Funeral rites were incomplete today (Thursday), it was said at the Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

BURNS CLAIM FLOYD NATIVE

Former Johns Cr. Woman Fatally Burned Saturday At Lawrence Residence

Mrs. Eva Delong, 61 years old, formerly of the Dick's Creek section of Johns Creek, died Sunday morning in a Huntington hospital of burns suffered Saturday at her home at Adams, Lawrence county.

Byron L. Young, Lawrence county Coroner, said Mrs. Delong was standing before an open-grate fire when her clothing ignited. Her husband, James Delong, was at the barn some distance away, when he heard the screams of his wife and a child who was with her. Coroner Young said the burns covered 85 percent of her body.

Daughter of the late W. J. Setser, Mrs. Delong was a native of the Johns Creek section and resided on Dick's Creek till inundation of the valley by Dewey Lake was imminent. Surviving are a daughter, Thelma Grace, four sons, Edward, Ireland, Alton and Elmer also five brothers and sisters, James Setser, of Auxier, Jake Setser and Miss Lucy Setser, of Lower Johns Creek, Mrs. Alta Delong, of Adams, and Mrs. Alma Simpson, East Point.

Funeral rites were conducted Tuesday from the residence at Adams, and burial was made in the Wells cemetery.

Mrs. Kate Halbert, 78, Wife of Former Jailer, Succumbs at McDowell

Mrs. Kate Halbert, 78, wife of former jailer Will Halbert, of McDowell, died at home Sunday. The cause of death was not given.

Mrs. Halbert was the daughter of the late John Sizemore and Fanny Osborne Sizemore. Surviving children are James, Garner, and Penn Halbert, all of McDowell, Mrs. Walter King, of Printer, Mrs. John Holbrook, of Neon, and Mrs. Vida Stewart, Lorain, O. One brother, Ad Sizemore, of McDowell, survives.

Funeral rites were conducted from the auditorium of the McDowell high school, Tuesday at 10 a.m., the Rev. Robert Martin officiating. Burial was made in the Sizemore cemetery at McDowell under the direction of Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

COURT SPLITS ON 3 ISSUES

Tie Vote Is Recorded On District Detective, Relief Office Worker

The fiscal court was split on three issues at its special meeting last Thursday, and on two of the issues the breach was wide.

Magistrate John May's motion to hire Milford Tackett, as truck driver and worker at the commodities relief office here to supplant Amos Poe and the motion of Magistrate Ellis Martin to employ a Commonwealth's detective for a period of four years resulted in an even split in the voting by the four magistrates, with county Judge Henry Stumbo casting the deciding vote to hire Tackett and not to hire a detective.

Magistrate John May and Edgar Howell voted together on the two questions, with Magistrates Ellis Martin and Grover Holbrook opposing them. May and Howell voted for the employment of Tackett and against the hiring of a detective.

On the third issue, Magistrate Martin's motion to rescind the court's previous order to employ a

To Conduct Revival

The Rev. Paul Stoneking, pastor of Prater Memorial Methodist Church, Salyersville, will be the evangelist during the revival at the Community Methodist Church here.

The revival will begin Thursday, Feb. 9, and will continue through Feb. 19, with services each evening at 7:30, it was announced by the pastor, the Rev. Harold W. Dorsey. Mr. Dorsey will lead the singing.

The public is invited to each of these services.

JURORS ASK "TO LETTER" ENFORCEMENT

Final Report Requests Peace Bonds for Those Guilty in Booze Cases

The grand jury in its final report to Circuit Judge Edw. P. Hill last Saturday called on the courts and officers of the county for strict enforcement of the law.

The report, signed by Harve Spears, foreman, recommended that:

1. The circuit, county and magistrates' courts "live up to the letter of the law" in requiring persons convicted of violation of the liquor laws to execute peace bonds.

2. The County Judge revoke the roadhouse permits of any place operating under such permit and convicted of a liquor violation.

3. Any individual who is convicted of a law violation be required to serve his days in jail as provided by law.

The grand jury also asked the circuit court to talk with the editor of The Floyd County Times to see if arrangements can be made for The Times to refrain from publishing the names of individuals who have been indicted until bench warrants have been issued and delivered to the Sheriff's office. "This, we feel," the jury wrote, "will aid the Sheriff in making speedy arrests."

(The Times learned this week that, except in cases where speedy action is requested, bench warrants are not issued for those under indictment until the docket is prepared for the term of court following the grand jury session.)

For example, bench warrants most of those indicted by the grand jury will not be issued until the docket for the April term of court is prepared.)

The grand jury also expressed belief that Sheriff's deputies should appear before the grand jury as the first part of the grand jury session to make indictments on offenses they know of at the time.

"This will aid the jury as the reporter in speeding up the report during the last of the report commented.

WRITS ASKED BY 4 JAILED

Floyd Men Claim May Promised They Would Not Be Sent To Jail

Writs of habeas corpus or error coram nobis, or both, have been asked by four Floyd countians who have been fined on pleas of guilt to liquor charges, then later jailed on capias pro fine issued by Magistrate John May.

Two of the petitions, those of Angel Jones and Hershel Chaff were filed Tuesday. The other two were filed Thursday by Joe Moran and Jim Potter. The petitions in all four cases named Jailer Brock Hayes and Magistrate May as defendants.

Hearing of the first two cases was originally set by Circuit Judge Hill for Monday, but a postponement till Friday was made when Magistrate May reported he was unable to be here Monday.

(A writ of error coram nobis is a legal step necessary when the record of a case in itself does not present circumstances or facts on which the person in jeopardy is entitled to relief.)

Jones' petition claims that Magistrate May issued a warrant for his charging him with possession of alcoholic beverages for the purpose of sale. Jones entered a plea of guilty, and the case was continued till the next regular court day. In the interim, his petition continues, persons purported to be authorized representatives of the Magistrate, and May himself, told Jones that if he would pay the sum of $114 representing fine and costs, his case would be settled and there would be no judgment entered against him for any term in jail.

Relying on this assurance, the petition says, Jones paid the fine and costs and was again assured his case had been settled and that no jail term would be imposed on him. Jones added that he did not know of any jail sentence till he was jailed Jan. 23. He claims he was given trial in his absence, that no evidence was introduced against him and that he, therefore, made a plea of not guilty. Because he was not tried by jury Jones claimed May illegally fixed his penalty at more than the minimum of $30 fine and 30 days in jail. The plaintiff also contends that when he was jailed Nov. 23 he filed motion and grounds for a new trial, that a

Sandy Valley Council Girls Picked for Camp

Four Girl Scouts from the Sandy Valley Girl Scout Council have been chosen to attend the national Girl Scout Senior Roundup, Mrs. Ray Howard, president of the Council, announced here this week.

The girls are: Libby Ann Mays, Troops No. 16, Wheelwright; Avinell Burgess, Troop No. 16, Wheelwright; Lois Brenda Allen, Troop No. 2, Martin, and Kathryn E. Roberts, Troop No. 2, Prestonsburg.

The Senior Roundup will be held at the Highland State Recreation Area near Pontiac, Michigan from June 29 to July 11. The first large national encampment to be held by the Girl Scouts, the Roundup will be attended by 5,000 teen-age girls and their leaders from all parts of the United States and by six teams of girls from other countries.

Taking their own tents and camping gear, the Sandy Valley Girl Scouts will live outdoors for two weeks at the Roundup tent city. Girls from McDowell county, West Virginia will join these Girl Scouts in forming a patrol and cooking meals and sharing in the Roundup's Americana activities.

Mayor Sandige Proclaims Feb. 17 A Day of Prayer

In cooperation with the local Council of Churchwomen, Mayor Harry Sandige, and the City Council of Prestonsburg have proclaimed Friday, February 17 (First day of Lent) as a day of prayer. This proclamation is in conjunction with the World Day of Prayer observance in 134 countries around the world.

At 12 noon there will be a two minute period for prayer. Church bells will ring. Traffic is requested to stop. Radios will be silenced; business will stand still. It is hoped

Hancock Says Legion Vanned Early Attacks on Communism

Tenth district legionnaires heard Darrell Hancock, commander of the Kentucky Department, last Sunday, lash out vigorously at those who criticize the Legion for a lack of program. "The American Legion has a program," he told the gathering of veterans in the Municipal building here.

"Take any field and you will find the American Legion has a program second to none," the Department Commander declared. He pointed to a long list of youth activities and the organization's child welfare work. "Take, for example, the field of Americanism, and I can tell you that back in the days before there was a Federal Bureau of Investigation—back when it was somewhat popular to be a Communist—there was one group in this country who recognized its menace, and whose members volunteered to infiltrate Communist cells and get information on names of Communist leaders and methods of operation. When the Federal Bureau of Investigation came into existence here do you suppose it got its first documentary information on Communism?—from the American Legion."

MR. HANCOCK

Hancock, son of a Clay, Ky., coal miner, with the background of an outstanding military career, having been, for one thing, the young commissioned officer in the army ground forces, was staunch in his advocacy of armed security. He pointed out that two days before the attack on Pearl Harbor the Legion was called "warmongers and fools for continually harping for a strong national defense system."

The Legion has a religious program, too, Hancock recalled. "I could tell our critics about the 'Back to God' movement initiated by the American Legion which has won so much praise. I could tell them that whenever we hear a person on radio or television say, 'I'll see you in church Sunday,' he is doing that because the American Legion asked him to."

The Kentucky Department Commander pleaded with the assembled veterans to do two things:

"First of all, go beat the bushes and get every single member you can—and there isn't a person here who can't do that. These people in Washington don't pay any attention to anything but numbers. And every time you sign up a member you are making it a little tougher for them to take away the things we've won after many years of hard work and fighting. And finally, I would ask you that whoever you talk to, wherever you go, tell the American Legion story the way it should be told."

TO SUBSCRIBERS IN THE NEW BANK AT MARTIN, KY.

There has already been subscribed to the new bank to be located at Martin more than $150,000.00 and it will be approximately $200,000.00 before the end of this week at which time the subscriptions will close. However, I hope those who wish to avail themselves of this opportunity, which may only come once in a lifetime, do so immediately.

No doubt many of you who have already subscribed will be approached by other people who are interested in other banks to discourage you in this effort which will be only for their selfish purposes and ends. Some people do not wish to see others succeed — they don't want a small amount of the wealth of the county, they want it all.

I have never before in life met with such encouragement and good wishes for an undertaking. This bank will be owned by more people than all the other banks of Floyd county combined and, no doubt within a short time, will become the largest bank in the county. Within ten years you will have received in return every dollar you have invested and your stock will be worth $2.00 for every dollar invested.

If you are approached by others to discourage you, give no heed to their appeal because some will feel the sting. In order that you may get some idea what bank stock may become in value: The First National Bank, of Prestonsburg, was organized in 1904 by Samuel Hale, my grandfather, Jonah Webb, A. J. May, W. H. May, J. M. Weddington, R. E. Stanley, Hiram Harris, O. P.

Powers, George (Bringe) Allen, and Silas Johnson (Speight, Ky.). The original stock has now paid more than $1,000.00 for each $100.00 invested and a $100 share is now worth, or that is the bid price for none is for sale, $2,000.00 for each $100 invested, making over $3,000.00 originally invested $30,000.00 or more. Many other banks have made a like success.

With the help of each subscriber, their neighbors and friends, a like success will be attained for you, your children and grandchildren. We all desire to live and see them have a better chance in life than we have and a better opportunity to secure more of the good things the world affords.

The majority of the wealth of Floyd county lies on the waters of Beaver and two-thirds of the people live from Allen south, and Martin is almost, if not the center of population; therefore Martin is the logical place for this bank and for that reason it was selected as the ideal spot.

See your neighbors and talk this matter over with them while there remains a small amount of stock to buy in this new bank. Trips have already been made to Frankfort to prevent the organization of the bank. This is a true statement, based upon actual knowledge, not guess work. With best wishes to each of you and with the hope that we will be operating a bank in the near future.

I am respectfully yours,
HENRY STEPHENS

new trial was granted and he was released from jail. On Jan. 14 the case was called, he continues, on the regular call of the Magistrate's docket, and the case was continued till Feb. 11. Therefore, he reasons, no judgment is on record against him.

Graham's petition contains these contentions:

He was arrested Jan. 29 on a capias issued by May. The capias was void and its issuance erroneous. Graham was a trustee and officer of Prestonsburg Aerie 2560, Fraternal Order of Eagles, and on or before Nov. 14 last year deputy sheriff, acting upon an invalid search warrant, searched the Aerie's premises here and May issued a warrant alleging illegal possession of intoxicating beverages.

Graham, for and on behalf of the Eagles, appeared before Magistrate May and entered a plea of guilty, and the organization (Prestonsburg Aerie) was fined $100 and $14 costs, which the organization paid. Graham says he was told by the Magistrate that no jail sentence would be imposed. He claims that if he had had a fair trial and had not acted on "the misrepresentations and fraud" practiced upon him by the defendant, John May, he could have made a legal and sufficient defense, in the search warrant and supporting affidavit were illegal.

The Moran and Potter cases are almost identical. They, too, paid $100 fines and costs, and claim they were told that would be the end of their penalties. On Dec. 8 capias were issued by the Magistrate and they were jailed. They contend they did not get fair trials and that May refused their plea for trials on the merits of their cases. Their appeals to circuit court were dismissed last Thursday. If a new trial were granted them, they contend, they would be able to defend themselves on the basis of erroneous search warrants and affidavits.

Jones and Potter are represented by W. W. Burchett, Graham and Moran, by Paul E. Hayes.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Amos Napier, who passed away four years ago—Feb. 6, 1952.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's weary troubles and trials are past.
In silence you suffered, in patience you bore,
Till God called you home to suffer no more.
Memories are treasures no one can steal,
Death is a heartache nothing can heal.
Some may forget you, now that you're gone
But you will remember, no matter how long.
Sadly missed by the children.

WHEELWRIGHT

P-T-A. ENROLLMENT NEAR 500

The Wheelwright Parent-Teacher Association held its January meeting last Thursday at the grade school cafeteria. Treasurer Joe Peraino reported that lights had been ordered for the old gym, which is being renovated to make a grade school auditorium and also to serve as a future meeting place for the P-T-A. The membership of the P-T-A. here is now near the 500 mark.

The fire-escape is now being installed at the school after a prolonged delay. The next project of the P-T-A. will probably be to buy a curtain for the stage of the high school auditorium. It is hoped this can be accomplished in time for the Commencement exercises at the end of this school year.

Principal Boons Hall was commended for the many things he has done to improve the school, such as procuring phonographs for each of the 14 grade-school rooms, with albums suitable for each grade; large pictures for 17 class-rooms; a movie projector for the high school; window blinds for seven high school rooms, and two sets of new encyclopedias for the school library, and song books for all rooms needing them. He helped defray part of the expense of converting the grade school gym to an auditorium and had installed supply cabinets and shelves in two rooms at the grade school.

Mr. Hall stressed the need for children to attend school every day, pointing out: first, they can better obtain the benefits of education, and second, since the amount of money allotted is based on the number attending school, every student absent means less money for the county's schools.

Charles Jenkins, administrator, gave an interesting address on the equipment and operation of the U. M. W. McDowell Memorial hospital. Mrs. Conway and Mr. Cook won the prizes for most parents present. Refreshments were served.

The George Coppage family in Todd county picked up over $1,000 worth of leaves after housing 3.4 acres of tobacco.

DRIFT CLUB MEETS

The Drift Woman's Club met Jan. 2 for its monthly business meeting at the home of Mrs. Joe C. Moore. Mrs. Anna Sue Stumbo, president, presided.

The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Joe C. Moore in the absence of Mrs. Geraldine Ward. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Phyllis Reed. Correspondence for the past month was read by Mrs. Stumbo.

Mrs. Howard Barry has urged all club members to attend the work shop at the winter board meeting which will be held at Lexington.

Mrs. C. K. Stacy, district governor, urged all clubs to have a contestant attend the music contest at Beattyville, Jan. 21.

A letter was read from Mrs. Marguerite Bruce urging all club members to cooperate in the program of juvenile delinquency. Much can be done on this problem in the home, church and schools, she said.

The club accepted two new members, Mrs. Oris Salisbury and Mrs. Virgie Shannon.

Mrs. Moore made pictures of the club members, after which she served refreshments to the following:

Mesdames Oliver Elam, Girdle Moore, W. L. Reed, Bill Hoffman, Fred Cochrane, Dick Showers, Alvin Reed, Ivan Reed, Bobby Hall, Ray Turner and Misses Ruby Akers, Betty Turner, Jack Hall and Catherine Reed.

The club met Jan. 16 at the home of Mrs. Alvin Reed.

Mrs. Ivan Reed, chairman of the International Relations Committee showed a very interesting film on Mexico.

Refreshments were served to the following members:

Mesdames Ivan Reed, Lloyd Stumbo, W. L. Reed, Dick Showers, Bill Hoffman, B. F. Reed, Oliver Elam, Joe C. Moore and Ray Turner and Misses Ruby Akers and Claudia Watson.

The Drift Woman's Club was hosted to a card party Jan. 28. A large crowd attended and enjoyed bridge, pinocle and samba. The club also had an auction sale on "White Elephant" packages. Proceeds from the party go toward repair work being done on the youth center. Hostesses for the evening were Mesdames, B. F. Reed, Ivan Reed, and Ray Turner and Miss Betty Turner.

that all will cooperate in this proclamation.

There will be opportunities for public worship throughout the day. All churches will remain open. Services for men will be held at 7:30 a.m. and for the public at 2 p.m. at the Methodist Church. Business places are being requested to close for the worship period, 2 to 3 p.m.

This year is the seventieth year of the observance in the United States. Services begin on the Tonga Islands, just west of the International Date Line, where Queen Salote leads her subjects in prayer. They continue throughout the day in 134 countries, closing with observances on St. Lawrence Islands, Alaska.

Purpose of the Day is to unite all Christians in a bond of prayer and to make an offering for Christian missions at home and abroad.

The program comes from a different country each year. The service for 1956 has come from Cook Christian Training School for Indians in Phoenix, Arizona.

Toward the end of 1955 auto service stations in London began selling gasoline produced from coal in South Africa at a plant 60 miles south of Johannesburg.

Mrs. Pearl D. Holbrook Dies at Daughter's Home At Water Gap, from Cancer

Mrs. Pearl Damron Holbrook, 50, of Water Gap, died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Dennis Meadows, Tuesday, at 8:30 a.m. Cancer was given as the cause of death.

Mrs. Holbrook was a daughter of the late Hiram Lafferty and Virgie Thompson Lafferty. She was first married to Frank Hatfield and to this union was born a son and daughter: Marion Hatfield, Point Pleasant, W. Va., and Mrs. Meadows, of Water Gap. She and her second husband, Jerry Holbrook, had no children.

Surviving half-brothers and a half-sister are Pat Damron, Jake Damron and Mrs. Della Graham.

Funeral rites were conducted Wednesday at 2 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Meadows, the Revs. Charley Rowe and Jack Derossett officiating. Burial was made in the Stephens cemetery under the direction of Carter and Callihan Funeral Home.

of sheep and non-enforcement of the dog law. He noted that this county had an "exceptional record in production." The state-wide average for lamb loss is 15 percent. In Floyd county, it's only eight to ten percent," he said.

Smith, Dotson and Allen reviewed for the Farm and Home meet and their production records, considered by sheep specialists as outstanding. Smith had a record of one and a half lambs per ewe, sold 117 pounds of lamb per ewe with a profit of $33.34, based on each animal; Dotson grossed a profit of $31.80 per ewe and Allen $24.37 on each animal.

The afternoon session today was on sheep production and was presided over by R. C. Miller, sheep specialist of the Extension Service. Lawrence, Morgan, Johnson and Knox counties were also given time on the afternoon program.

FOOT SAVING EDUCATION

By E. B. May, Jr.

Are shoes that are outgrown by one child safe for another? Yes and No. The accepted reason for not using handed-down shoes is that the foot defects of the first child can be inflicted on the second. This is true.

But if the first user had normal feet, isn't his good wear-pattern just as likely to encourage good foot function? It is.

When the budget is hurting it is a lot safer to use brother's cast-offs than to cramp feet in his own outgrown shoes.

Baptists Here Set
Sunday School Goal
Next Easter at 1,250

Sunday school teachers and officers of the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church met at the church annex Tuesday night to discuss plans for Sunday School enrollment and enlargement during the next several months.

Among the things proposed by the group was an over-all Sunday school goal of 1,250 for the main school and its 10 missions on Easter Sunday, April 1. Those present recalled how that a year ago, when the pastor proposed a goal of 1,000 in attendance at Easter, many thought the goal was too high and almost unreasonable to consider. Yet the pastor, Rev. Ira McMillen, reminded his co-workers Tuesday night that through prayer and diligent efforts on the part of the Sunday school forces the goal was not only reached but surpassed with an attendance of 1,106.

Attendance at each Sunday school last year was discussed and new goals set in the light of existing conditions. The following are the names of the Sunday schools supported and operated by the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, with the first figure representing last year's attendance and the number in parentheses being the proposed goal for this year:
Prestonsburg 355 (400); Lancer 75 (75); Holbrook 53 (65); Cow Creek 71 (100); Home Branch 100 (100); Benedict Chapel 133 (135); Ivy Creek 35 (60); David 161 (165); Blue River 77 (80); Needmore 47 (No longer open); Spurlock — (50), new school; Buckeye—(30), new school.

COLEMAN SPARKLES AS WASPS STOMP BLACK CATS, 107-80

The region's top point-producing prodigies, Kelly Coleman and Lowell Hughes, literally tore the nets to shreds as Coleman outpointed Hughes, 63 to the Prestonsburg ace's 46 in Wayland's 107-80 victory over the Black Cats at Wayland Tuesday night.

Coleman defied all Prestonsburg defensive efforts to stop him. Hughes found the range in the last quarter when he and Coleman continued their barrage which may have set a new record for combined scoring for two players in one game—109 points.

The run-and-shoot game was never more typified with both teams flinging the ball in liberal fashion at the basket. Coleman, who scored at ease, tipped in an unusual number of baskets during the night's action.

Robinson, Wayland center, dumped in 25 to add to Coleman's astronomical total. The Prestonsburg five was within 13 points in the fourth quarter when a rally seemed to be blooming but, with Coleman swishing 10 quick points, the Black Cats suffered their tenth defeat.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to express our deepest appreciation to those who did so much for us during the illness and upon the passing of our dear father, brother, and husband, Perry Ousley, and for every courtesy extended to us through flowers and personal services. Especially we are thankful to all of the ministers, who were so kind to come and participate in the services, and Hall Brothers Funeral Home for their kind and efficient service.

The Howard Family,
Rev. Stewart Howard.

The No. 3 scorer in the nation is Morehead's "Dangerous" Dan Swartz. A 6-4 senior, Swartz has racked up 448 points in 15 games for an average percentage of 29.9 points per game. The Eagles, as a team, are leading the nation's major colleges in scoring with an average percentage of 98.2 points per game. In addition to his scoring prowess, the former Owensville high school star is leading Morehead in rebounds with 226 saves to his credit.

FURMAN WATCHES COLEMAN
Furman University, of Greenville, S. C., had five scouts watching Kelly Coleman perform against Prestonsburg, Tuesday night. Ex-Wayland high school all-star, Fred Fraley, is a member of the current Furman cage team.

COLEMAN BESTS HUGHES, 63-46
In the non-defensive game, which Wayland won 107 to 80 over the Black Cats, Coleman took 52 shots from the field and connected on 27 for a 51.9 percentage and tallied 63 points to up his season's total to 1,153 for 24 games, or a 47.6 per game average. Meanwhile, his scoring counterpart, Lowell Hughes, flipped 46 shots from the field, was successful on 18 and ended with a total of 46 points, which gives him a total of 553 for 14 games or 39.5 points per game.

Thus, if Coleman scores more than 31 points against Betsy Layne, Friday night, he will break his own state record of 1,174 points in a single season.

ATTRACTIVE DOUBLEHEADER
Tuesday night, February 7, Paintsville will be the scene of a gala doubleheader with the host Tigers meeting rival Flat Gap and Wayland clashing with Meade Memorial, a team they conquered, 103-63, on January 3.

CARR CREEK WINS 20 IN ROW
Since losing to Wayland, 70-68, on November 8, Carr Creek high has won 20 straight games. The two teams will meet again in Hindman on February 24. "Copper John" Campbell's high-scoring Wasps have now copped nine in succession.

JIG-FISHING
Recent rains and incoming water to Dewey Lake should make "jig-fishing" ideal, in the event of some warmer weather.

CARD FLAGET
Prestonsburg high school will open its 1956 football schedule with Louisville Flaget, M. C. Napier, of Hazard is seeking football opponents for the '56 season. They may become the tenth member of the E.K.M.C.

LAUREL DATE SET
Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 30 — The Kentucky Mountain Laurel Festival will be held May 24-26 near Pineville. Governor Chandler set the dates on request of Mrs. Harry B. Gaunt, general chairman for the event.

Retirement Is Planned By Col George T. Derby; To Join Ashland Company

Col George T. Derby career soldier and United States Army district engineer of the Huntington office since 1953 will retire May 1. He will join Ashland Oil & Refining Company.

Derby said he is requesting his retirement as of May 1 under a law which permits voluntary retirement at a reduced pension, he will have 29 years of service.

At Ashland, Paul G. Blazer, board chairman of Ashland, said Derby will join the staff of the executive department immediately after his retirement.

Much key work was accomplished in the Ohio Valley and vicinity during Derby's tenure with the Army Corps of Engineers here.

It included beginning of work on the huge Greenup Dam and Catlettsburg floodwall, both in Kentucky; completion of work on the Maysville, Ky., floodwall and resumption of construction of the Sutton, W. Va., reservoir and improvements at Dewey Lake.

Blazer said "Colonel Derby is a man with capabilities in so many fields that we feel especially pleased that he is to accept a position with our company." Derby probably will have a roving assignment at first, Blazer added.

Derby was preceded by his father at West Point, and his grandfather was a member of the 1848 class.

His retirement will not strike the name of Derby from the rolls of the armed forces, where it has been since 1846, because his son, Lt. (jg) George K. Derby, U. S. Navy chief engineer on the U. S. S. Sumner, is making a career in the Navy, and his younger son, Roger W. Derby, an officer candidate at Fort Benning, Georgia, hopes to be commissioned this year.

It's The Court's Job Now

Noting that the grand jury of the Floyd circuit court in a period of three days last week voted 55 indictments accusing residents of this county of possessing whiskey for the purpose of sale, one wonders how many in this county are engaged in the liquor traffic.

The indictments were made on the statements of officers who had raided the premises of most or all of the individuals named, and it is reasonable to surmise that these raids have not yet approached the bottom of the bootlegging barrel. This is one Floyd county "business" that is thriving.

Whatever the situation, it is well that these matters have been referred to a grand jury and to the circuit court for final action. Now the job is the court's. The officers have made raids, they have voluntarily appeared before the grand jury to make indictments. There is only one more thing they can do, and that is to appear as witnesses at the trial of the cases.

It is not within the province of this newspaper to say that every man or woman accused of selling whiskey is guilty. To find that out is the duty of the court. And it is the duty of lawabiding citizens to help the court in the full exercise of its authority toward determining the guilt or innocence of every person accused.

New Library Quarters Are Occupied; Wallace Asks Early Book Return

The Floyd County Library board held its regular monthly meeting Friday of last week in its new headquarters in the old high school building. Approval of the new quarters was voiced by all the members present, Robert Wallace, librarian says.

"The Bookmobile library is open to the general public at the new headquarters each Friday afternoon from noon to four o'clock," Wallace pointed out. "Last Friday over 70 books were loaned. I want to urge each borrower to return the books within two weeks so that someone else may use them," he added.

"The board continues its purchase of new and useful books for the readers," Wallace says. "In addition some important new books have been donated. Noble Hobbs, of the United Mine Workers of Pikeville, recently gave 'Bonanza Trail,' a new account of ghost mining towns in the West. The book was borrowed before it was processed for library use."

Others who have given books and magazines for distribution in the county are:

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stumbo, Mr. and Mrs. Lon Moles, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Francis, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Joe P. Tackett, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Wm. F. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Davis, Mr. Paul Wells, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. Lee McCabe, Mrs. Effie Powell, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Layne, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Carter, Alma Collins, Mrs. Oma P. Elkins, Mrs. Edward Allen, and Billy Ray Osborne.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all who helped us in any way, through the death of our beloved son, Oscar C. Hamilton, who departed this life Jan. 22, 1956, at the age of 41 years, 11 months and 22 days.

Our deepest sympathy is for his beloved wife and four sons. We especially thank his wife for the love and kindness she showed us by bringing our son to our home for his last rites.

We especially want to thank Elder Bert T. Conn and Elder Carl Layne for the kind words that they spoke also Elder Willie Conn for the humble prayer he prayed. We also thank the Carter & Callihan Funeral Home for the kind service showed us upon our son's death. We also thank Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Mont Hall, and Mr. and Mrs. John G. Hall for the information they gave us concerning our son's death.

In spite of bad weather and bad road conditions we were wonderfully blessed with plenty of help and company.

He is survived by his wife, Hazel Hall Hamilton, and four sons, Norman B. Hamilton, in a T. B. sanatorium in Ohio, Charles Ray Hamilton, of the Air Force, Scott and Curt J., at home, Patroit, Ohio; also his father and mother, T. F. and Bessie B. Hamilton, of Banner, Ky.; four brothers and three sisters, T. F., Jr., Idlis, Harry L. and Mrs. Leonard Akers, all of Banner, Bill Hamilton, Millbury, Ohio; Mrs. Franklin R. Renfro, and Mrs. Victor Lowe, of Indianapolis, Ind., and a host of friends to mourn his loss.

But we feel our loss is Heaven's gain, just one more gone for us to go and see.

Written by his Father and Mother and Family.

Clymer, Pa., claims Arthur Godfrey not as a native son, but as one who once worked in the area's coal mining industry for about a year.

Two members of Troop 20, Boy Scouts of America, were advanced to the rank of Eagle Scouts at the Court of Honor held at Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church here last week. They are Henry Hughes (left), son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hughes, of Prestonsburg, and Eddie Leslie (at right of photo), son of Dr. and Mrs. Edw. B. Leslie, also of Prestonsburg.

The Eagle Scout award, one of Scouting's highest, was presented to them by their Scoutmaster, Herschell Tackett, who appears in center of photo. Fred G. Francis, chairman of the Troop 20 committee, presided at the Court of Honor. Each of the two boys in turn presented his mother with an Eagle pin, and Eagle certificates were presented to their fathers.

Star Scout awards were presented by R. V. May to Bill Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Allen, and Jackie Rowe, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Charles Rowe, all of Prestonsburg.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS
The Betsy Layne Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. C. H. Dickerson on January 19.

The club voted to send a contribution for "Seeds of Democracy" to the Philippine Islands.

The March of Dimes drive was contributed to by the Club and by individual members.

Mrs. O. J. Williams was in charge of the program on International Relations. The program was a resume of a trip made by Mary Pillsbury Lord, who is the U. S. representative on the United Nations Human Rights Commission. She and her husband visited 13 countries in 10 weeks, circling the globe and covering 25,000 miles.

She found in her travels that all over the world progress is being made in the field of Human Rights. It was evident also that women are bettering not only their own lot, but are improving living conditions in their countries and are helping to resist Communism.

Mrs. Lord also has a heartening answer to the question, "What are people around the world thinking about the U. N.?" She found genuine hopefulness about the U. N. Again and again she heard people say "Without the U. N., the world would be arguing with guns instead of words."

At the conclusion of the program refreshments were served to Mrs. E. P. Davis, Mrs. W. P. Howell, Mrs. T. S. Salesbury, Mrs. Edward Lykins, Mrs. O. J. Williams, Mrs. Beecher Hardwick, Miss Alice Williams and the hostess, Mrs. Dickerson.

The number of youngsters in the "shots" in Prestonsburg Wednesday was cut down because of a measles epidemic. Clark and Dr. John G. Archer, who worked at the clinic here, agreed the number appearing for vaccination was reduced by at least 200 for this reason.

Youngsters appearing at the clinic here were told not to take the vaccine if they had been given a measles "shot" recently, and all were checked as to temperatures and symptoms.

With the age for those eligible to receive the Salk vaccine extended up to 20 years, high school pupils increased the number at the clinics. Another factor in the success of the program is the disappearance of fear of the vaccine.

Mr. Clark said children who did not receive the vaccine this week because of colds, measles or other illness may get the immunization by going to the health department on any Monday, Thursday, or Saturday. "Our serum supply is adequate to serve all eligible to receive it, and we are anxious that they get it," he added.

He also pointed out that the "polio season" will begin in May and that all children should have received two shots by that time.

Floyd doctors, clubwomen and school leaders are cooperating in the immunization work this week, as in earlier clinics.

Whitley county farmers received approximately $50,000 for strawberries the past year; 200 acres will be harvested this year.

home of Faye Allen in West Prestonsburg where Ezra Marsillet stayed, officers said. One item was found in a stove, others in a bed. Some meat identified as having been taken from the Fitzpatrick store also was found in the Allen home. The woman had not been named in a warrant Wednesday afternoon.

The officers, among whom were Taylor Stumbo, industrial guard for the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company, Deputy Sheriff Frank Blackburn and Policemen B. L. Sturgill and Bill Potter, searched the Newsome home Monday night. Policeman Sturgill said Harrison Marsillet then admitted the theft, saying his brother Ezra was with him. He added, Sturgill said, that Ezra cheated him in the division of the spoils.

Bob Craft identified chickens at the Marsillet home as those stolen from his flock. Marsillet also denied knowledge of how the fowls got there.

The service station near David, owned by Mallory Stores, was looted Sunday night. Twenty-five tires several car batteries and a cash register were taken, it was said here.

Authorities have questioned the Marsillet and Newsome about their whereabouts on the night when the Cooley Brothers Grocery at Cliff was entered and approximately $2,000 in cash and checks taken from a cash register, but that break remains unsolved.

Deputy Sheriffs Troy Mullins and Kenis Hall and Allen Policeman Frank Crum jailed here Tuesday Gene Yates and Ronald Gene Stone on a breaking and entering charge after the two allegedly had entered a building of the Stephens Elkhorn Fuel Corp., Manton.

Four jailed by State Trooper Attington on the same charge were Roy Adkins, Charley Cecil, Willard Cecil and a juvenile.

Others jailed within the week included: Roger Click, accused of having beer in his possession for the purpose of sale, arrested by Deputy Sheriff Ed Amburgy; Charles Floyd, drunk driving, jailed by Deputy Sheriff Willie Johnson; Darbe Gray, having beer in his possession, booked by Deputy Sheriff Amburgy.

home demonstration agent, and to transfer the funds allocated for that purpose to the Emergency fund, Martin, Holbrook and Howell voted for the measure, with May voting against it.

In the first item of business for the session, that of naming Will Boggs, of Garrett, commissioner of the Beaver-Elkhorn Water District to fill the vacancy created by the resignation last March of Ray R. Allen, May, Howell and Martin voted together. Holbrook abstained from voting.

Salary of Tackett, who began work at the commodity office Wednesday, was set at $175 a month, "if funds are available," the order added.

On the question of a Commonwealth's detective the court was divided in voting exactly as when it declined, two weeks earlier, not to re-employ a detective.

Decline in the crime rate was given as the reason for refusing to hire the detective when the matter was considered earlier in the month. The court at last week's session did not bring to a vote the question of hiring a clerk or stenographer for the office of Commonwealth's Attorney Burnis Martin.

AH! SWEET MYSTERY

With all the disagreements between men the world over, there is one point of agreement between them. All are pretty well agreed that woman is the most complex of all God's creatures.

And just to be sure she stays that way man works overtime outfitting her with a whole collection of conflicting characteristics. He vows no man can understand a woman. (Some have been known to tell other women his wife doesn't understand him). He also will vow she can't understand anything. He'll talk about feminine wiles in one breath and in the next try to paint her as a cleptomaniac who couldn't trick two-year-old Junior into doing something against his will. One moment she's a Mona Lisa, the mother, the spirit of tenderness, forbearance and sacrifice; the next, she's a harridan, a fishwife, a scheming Delilah, a creature of mixed emotions and unpredictable whims.

Man calls her the weaker sex, and still the little woman is the one he comes home whining to when he takes a licking. After she has consoled him and done all she can to make a man out of him, he thrusts out his chest, juts out the old chin and hotfoot it to tell the boys on the corner that she's the cause of his bad luck.

Complex or no, woman is the handiest gadget any household ever had. No wonder she was originally named man's help-meet.

Just to show how we men try to hide behind our wives' skirts, there's the story that comes out of Dallas, Texas this week about the 43-year-old man who was staggering down the street when the cops hailed him and asked him to leave to. He, naturally, denied he was drunk. But the officers reminded him that for some mysterious reason his breath reeked of whiskey.

And there was where that mysterious, complex creature, the Little Woman, came into the picture.

"Right you are," the man granted. "But I haven't touched a drop. My wife was drunk when I left home—I got this way just kissing her goodby."

NEW COMMENTATORS

I am happy to report that Kukla, Fran and Ollie will "cover" both national political conventions this year. After we have watched all the monkey-shines and heard the Democratic Donkey bray and the Republican Elephant trumpet, it will be a relief to see and hear the sady-eyed Oliver J. Dragon, with his head draped over the railing, expound his theories.

the jury asked the Floyd County Health Department to investigate the method used by the County Dog Warden in disposing of animals he has killed. The jury recommended that arrangements be made to bury or burn such animals.

"The grand jury desires to go on record," the report continued, "in complimenting the Jailer in his effort to keep a dilapidated jail in a clean and sanitary condition." Commenting that facilities at the jail are not what they should be, the jury recognized the financial plight of the county and suggested that improvement of mattresses and bedding be made when the Jailer's supply fund makes it possible.

Urging the Sheriff to continue his drive on bootlegging, the grand jury acknowledged the efforts of Sheriff Collins and his deputies "to wipe out the unlawful traffic in alcoholic beverages in this county." At the same time it added its recommendation that the Sheriff's force "serve all papers as speedily as possible."

The jury reported that in its nine days of work it questioned about 160 witnesses, with the result that 116 indictments were returned. It reported that the large number of child desertion cases appearing before the grand jury "was for the sole purpose of state aid."

Hargis-Cockrell Feud Ended When Leader Killed by Son

BY HENRY P. SCALF

Fifty-seven years ago a group of men sat around a law office in Jackson, Breathitt county. On one side, whispering low and then in consultation, were O. H. Pollard, attorney for the Democratic contestees in the county election, James Hargis, the county judge, and Ed Callahan, newly-elected sheriff.

Across from Pollard sat James B. Marcum, attorney for the Republicans or Fusionists, and nearby sat or stood a few friends of the contesting Republican candidates. A witness occupied a chair between the two angry groups, replied, usually after much recrimination between both sides, to the questions asked.

Marcum and Pollard, heretofore law partners and the best of friends, were broken now, each representing opposite sides in a bitter, drawn-out election contest suit. They glared and shouted at each other, their brows furrowed in deep anger.

Suddenly the tension in the room snapped and pistols were drawn, swung threateningly, but no shots were fired as if each hesitated on the edge of the awful precipice of blood-letting the shots would touch off. Taking advantage of the moment of hesitation, Marcum arose and ordered Hargis, Callahan and Pollard from his office. The Hargis-Cockrell feud was on. It lasted 12 years.

The Cockrell and Hargis families were closely related, the intra-marital relationships seeming to intensify instead of diminish the ferocity of the feud. There had been other feuds in Breathitt, each contributing to the succeeding one, just as all of them now seemed to contribute to the Hargis-Cockrell struggle. The hatred, engendered by the political struggle, in which Hargis was elected county judge and Ed Callahan as sheriff, ran its course from the first break in Marcum's office, up through a crescendo of fury, culminating in a crime that shocked even blood-soaked Breathitt.

After the difficulty in the law office Tom Cockerell killed Ben Hargis, brother of James, Marcum defended Cockerell without charge. Soon Jerry Cardwell, a Cockrell adherent, killed John "Tige" Hargis, another brother of Judge James Hargis. The Hargis friends retaliated by ambushing Dr. B. D. Cox, guardian of the Cockrell children, including Tom who had killed Ben Hargis. Jim Cockrell, Jackson marshal, fell from an assassin's bullet fired from the courthouse, and out in the county, away from Jackson, men traveled the road only in the daytime if they were adherents of neither side, and only at night or through the woodlands if they were Hargis or Cockrell men. The shooting was so common in Jackson that a nocturnal walk was highly dangerous. If a person had to go out into the streets he tied a lantern on the end of a long pole, carried it several feet in front of him.

Jams Marcum wrote the Lexington Herald, Nov. 9, 1902: "There have been over thirty men killed in Breathitt since the 24th day of last December and the Lord knows how many wounded..." Those men were killed in eleven months. The feud last ten years longer.

Marcum had a premonition of his own death, had stayed almost incommunicado in his home from all but the closest of friends for months. One day he ventured to the courthouse, filed a few papers in the contest cases, Curtis Jett shot him dead on the courthouse steps. Judge Hargis and Sheriff Callahan were sitting, at the time, in front of the Hargis store, across from the courthouse. Marcum lay a quarter-hour before anyone would approach. No one in Breathitt would serve as coroner, none had served for years, and no magistrate could be induced to hold an inquest over the body. Curt Jett and Tom White were tried in a courthouse guarded by state militia. The jury failed to agree. They were retried in Harrison county and given life terms in prison.

Judge James Hargis and Sheriff Ed Callahan were wealthy men, but they expended a fortune in trials for murder. They faced juries five times in Jackson, Lexington, Beattyville, and Sandy Hook, but each time the Commonwealth failed to convict. Sheriff Callahan went back to Crockettville after the expiration of his term of office, ran a general store a few yards from his home. Fearing that his enemies would eventually kill him, he built a log stockade from his home to the store. Judge James Hargis stayed on in Jackson, or logged on the tributary streams of the North Fork of Kentucky River.

Judge Hargis was now an embittered man, had grown vindictive and cruel. His strength was herculean, his rages sudden and violent. His son Beach, product of "Bloody Breathitt," drank to excess, wrangled with his father. At times the elder Hargis beat him severely, threatened to kill him again and again. One time he pounded Beach almost to unconsciousness, was threatening to kill him when his wife and her mother interposed. Beach Hargis lay in bed for days, brooding over his beatings, hating his father and harboring dark thoughts.

James Hargis bought a tract of timber on Quicksand Creek and logged it; Beach Hargis worked with the men, slept in the camp shanty, seemed to be a willing employe of his father. But at times he drank, if no whiskey was to be had, Brown's Bitters and brooded.

Then one day, early in 1908, Beach Hargis went to his father's store in Jackson, asked the clerk for a pistol from the stock. It was refused but the clerk did point out a gun, belonging to Beach's father, in a drawer and told him to take that. The young man put it in his pocket. James Hargis was in the other end of the store, did not see his son arm himself.

The next morning Beach appeared at a barber shop, his face swollen and red and to the barber, who inquired about the condition of his face, said his father had beaten him again. A man passed, and startled, Beach said, "I thought that was the old man." He left the shop, went out in the street, bought a bottle of Brown's Bitters, drank it down.

Drinking and talking, he walked around Jackson, met a friend and asked, "Did you hear about the old man mashing my mouth?" Two hours after that he went to a drug store, kept by Dr. Hogg, a brother-in-law. He was crazy now with drink, swung the pistol around, pointed it at Dr. Hogg and a bystander. A few minutes later he left and went to his father's store.

The store was a huge, double-room building, a partition offsetting one department from the other. James Hargis busied himself as his son entered the store behind the counter on the side opposite the front entrance. He was morose and sullen, had just told James Isom that he was done with his son forever and would kill him before night.

Perhaps no greater indictment of any man was ever written than that of Appellate Judge Henry S. Barker when he phrased these words:

"James Hargis was a man of violence and blood. He had established in the county of Breathitt a reign of terror under the influence of which the law was paralyzed and its ministers overrun. He is pictured as a man of gigantic frame, savage temper, and indomitable courage. He had surrounded himself with armed mercenaries whose minds he inflamed with drink and who seemed to be willing to do his bidding even to the point of assassinating his enemies without fear of the consequence of their crimes, without remorse or pity for the result."

"He had not only broken down the law and terrorized its officers but he had made the temple of justice itself the rendezvous for assassins who sheltering behind its walls reddened its portals with the blood of its votaries. He literally ingrafted upon the civilization of the twentieth century

West Prestonsburg "Patient of the Week", At Outwood VA Hospital

Morgan Howard, 26-year-old veteran from West Prestonsburg, and a patient at VA hospital, Outwood, Ky., has been named "Patient of the Week" because of excellent progress in the rehabilitation program at the hospital.

This phase of the overall program is sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, Department of Kentucky, and is under the direction of the Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation Service of the hospital.

Mr. Howard was admitted to the hospital June 1, 1955, and referred for treatment on August 15. He was assigned to the Educational Therapy Section for a course in Bookkeeping and on October 12, 1955 was assigned to the Occupational Therapy Section where he took up leather craft. His instructors report that he is completely cooperative in all phases and is making excellent progress.

He served about 10 months in the army and was a student prior to admission to the hospital. He is married and expects to return to school after discharge.

Straw and sawdust were used to mulch strawberries on several farms in Estill county.

WE KNEW IT WAS GOOD -but oh, brother!

1956 Buick ROADMASTER
6-Passenger, 4-Door, Riviera,
Model 73

IT STARTED right on announcement day.

On that day, we made bold to call this the Best Buick Yet. (A pretty big statement, we're sure you'll agree.)

But, in the scant three months since then, we've had ample proof of how more-than-right we were—

Not just from the tremendous initial interest shown in the new 1956 Buicks—

Not alone from the way our sales have zoomed past all expectations—

But more especially and more clearly and more positively from the enthusiastic "play back" that's coming from happy new-Buick owners.

So, if you'd like the story firsthand—see if you can get a '56 Buick owner to stand still long enough to tell it to you.

For it's a real news story you'll hear about:

You'll hear about a wallowing-big new 322-cubic-inch V8 engine that delivers its record-high power with the obedience of a bird dog.

You'll hear about a terrific new Variable Pitch Dynaflo* that gives double-action take-off and instant acceleration right in the driving range—along with a thrifty boost in gas-saving mileage. Yet, when you do floor the pedal to switch the pitch—you get an extra abundance of safety-surge power to pull out of tight spots on the highway.

You'll hear about a new "sweetness" of ride made even more buoyant by deep-oil cushioning and all-coil springing—and about a new ease of handling and steering—and a new four-footed sureness when taking the turns.

So what's left to be told?

Except the news of brilliant new Buick styling inside and out—which you can see for yourself. And the question, "How much?"—which only you can answer.

For, you can go all the way from the bedrock-priced SPECIAL—to the high-stepping CENTURY—to the outstanding SUPER—and on to the custom-built ROADMASTER.

Why not come in—right soon? Learn how easy we'll make it for you to step into the '56 Buick circle—without busting out of your budget.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick built today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

Nearly 104,000,000 tons of coal go to produce the electricity needed annually by America's manufacturing industries, in addition to millions of tons for heat and process steam.

Goal Over-Subscribed In Bond Drive, Said

The U. S. Savings Bonds Division of the Treasury Department recently expressed its sincere appreciation to the citizens and volunteers of Floyd county for the parts they played through the promotion and purchase of $491,381.00 in Series E and H Savings Bonds during 1955. In December, sales of both series amounted to $33,868, bringing the county's sales to 102.4% of the annual goal of $400,000.00. For Kentucky, in December, sales amounted to $5,505,902, bringing the cumulative sales to $66,085,671, or 104.5% of the annual goal of $63,200,000.

the savagery of the fifth and introduced into a community of law and order the merciless ferocity of the middle ages."

That was the man Beach Hargis saw busy himself with his stock of merchandise and he knew that he was a "savage, vindictive man, utterly without pity or remorse and liable under the influence of passion to imitate the crime of Ivan the Terrible by killing his own son..." Beach Hargis sat down in a chair near the front entrance and stared moodily out the door.

A man entered the other department where James Hargis stood, asked where his son was. The father pointed, said, "There he sits. I have done all I can for him and I cannot go about him or have anything to do with him." Turning to another man, he spoke again: "I don't know what to do with Beach. He has got to be a perfect vagabond and he is destroying my business and if Dr. Hogg lets him stay there he will ruin his business."

James Hargis now parted his way between several persons in the store and approached his son. Beach got up as his father neared, walked around behind a pool case on the end of a counter. When the two were about three feet apart a pistol fired, the two men grappled and the gun fired four more times. Bystanders ran to separate the two, found the father on top of his son. They pulled him up and then they saw he had a pistol in his hands. James Hargis gave the pistol to a bystander, saying, "He has shot me all to pieces." He sank to the floor and died in a few minutes.

Breathitt county, long hardened to feud murders from ambush and in the darkness of night, was shocked now. Parricide was a crime they had never known. Business ceased in Jackson as stores closed their doors, people went home, closed other doors and talked in whispers.

Beach Hargis was indicted, Feb. 18, 1908 and the case was tried at Irvine, in Estill county, before Judge James P. Adams when the defendant tried unsuccessfully to remove from the bench. For counsel the mother of Beach Hargis and his friends hired Ex-Governor William O. Bradley, Allie W. Young, Judge David B. Redwine, J. J. C. Bach, Sam H. Kash and Thomas L. Cope. Perhaps at no other criminal trial in Irvine did such an array of legal talent defend a man.

The defense offered to introduce evidence to show that Beach Hargis had been beaten by his father with a ramrod and with a rope; had struck him in the mouth with his fist, on different occasions; had threatened to kill him, and would have done so except for the interference of others but its submission was denied by Judge Adams. Throughout the trial Beach Hargis' mother and grandmother stood by, testified for him.

Despite all efforts of counsel, Beach Hargis was convicted and sentenced to life in prison. He appealed and the sentence was affirmed, although two of the appellate judges, Henry S. Barker and T. J. Nunn dissented. Judge Barker thought evidence as to the character of James Hargis and evidence of the beatings should have been presented to the jury.

"To shoot one's father seems almost an inexcusable crime and is so considered by the average man," Judge Barker said in his opinion. "If it is to be justified at all it must be justified by showing a very extraordinary occasion. Beach Hargis knew his father, knew his savage and ferocious temper, knew his pitiless heart and his gigantic strength; and so knowing had a right to presume his life was in danger."

Ed Callahan, friend and ally of James Hargis, haunted with the fear he would die from ambush, stayed close to his store at Crockettville. His father had died that way, scores of his friends, and enemies, too, had died in Breathitt's bloodiest feud. He refused to leave his home except through the walled-up walkway to the store. Then one Saturday (May 4, 1902), he heard the jingle of the telephone near the store window. He answered it, hung up the receiver and turned. A dozen shots roared out from across the creek, two struck him. One in the breast was fatal.

Both leaders of the Hargis clan were dead now, one of the victims of parricide, the other from ambush at his store window. Most of the leaders of the Cockrell family were dead too, many having succumbed to shots out of the night or fired from the leafy roadside. Leaders and yeomen of both sides had died in pitched battle. Between the angry shouts and the flash of guns in James B. Marcum's law office in 1899 and the death of Ed Callahan at Crockettville in 1912, a hundred men, some said more, had died.

Beach Hargis, while he had not actively participated in the struggle, contributed to its end by killing his own father, stayed behind prison bars for years. Finally released, he went back to Breathitt county, but soon disappeared. He was declared legally dead after several years. Relatives think he died in Canada.

fore Judge James P. Adams when the defendant tried unsuccessfully to remove from the bench. For counsel the mother of Beach Hargis and his friends hired Ex-Governor William O. Bradley, Allie W. Young, Judge David B. Redwine, J. J. C. Bach, Sam H. Kash and Thomas L. Cope. Perhaps at no other criminal trial in Irvine did such an array of legal talent defend a man.

The defense offered to introduce evidence to show that Beach Hargis had been beaten by his father with a ramrod and with a rope; had struck him in the mouth with his fist, on different occasions; had threatened to kill him, and would have done so except for the interference of others but its submission was denied by Judge Adams. Throughout the trial Beach Hargis' mother and grandmother stood by, testified for him.

Despite all efforts of counsel, Beach Hargis was convicted and sentenced to life in prison. He appealed and the sentence was affirmed, although two of the appellate judges, Henry S. Barker and T. J. Nunn dissented. Judge Barker thought evidence as to the character of James Hargis and evidence of the beatings should have been presented to the jury.

"To shoot one's father seems almost an inexcusable crime and is so considered by the average man," Judge Barker said in his opinion. "If it is to be justified at all it must be justified by showing a very extraordinary occasion. Beach Hargis knew his father, knew his savage and ferocious temper, knew his pitiless heart and his gigantic strength; and so knowing had a right to presume his life was in danger."

FIVE WAYS ARE SUGGESTED FOR FOUNDATION FINANCING

Frankfort, Ky. 30 (Spl.) — The largest and most legitimate of general fund budgetary needs lies in the field of public education, especially if the Foundation Program is to be fully financed, the Legislative Research Commission reported to the General Assembly.

The results of a year's study, under supervision of Dr. Clarence F. Heer, was made available to the lawmakers and suggested that "funds reasonably expected from existing tax sources are too small in amount to fully satisfy the immediate requirements of the foundation program."

Dr. Heer suggested, however, that there are five possible ways of providing additional state revenues without resort to new taxes. He reported these possible sources:

1. Increase in yield of present taxes resulting from growth of the economy and better tax administration.
2. Savings through economy and efficiency in government operations.
3. Increased Federal assistance.
4. Increased local support of local functions.
5. Changes in bases of distributing state aid.

The report pointed out, that financial ability of local governments to discharge adequately their responsibilities is weakened by the low percentage at which property is, on the average, assessed for local taxation.

"Were local assessment ratios raised from the present, statewide average of 37 percent to a more realistic level of 50 percent, the local share of the cost of the foundation program would rise to $51,800,000 a year, and the state's share would be reduced by $13,800,000," the report added.

"Complete elimination of per capita distribution of state funds for schools would reduce the state's share of the cost of the fully implemented foundation program by upwards of $5,000,000. However, this saving would be at the expense of some two dozen local school districts, most of which are in the highly industrialized areas."

NEW POLICE BOARD

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 30 — Governor Chandler named a new four-member State Police Personnel Board for terms ending June 19, 1956, 1957, 1958 and 1959—to replace appointees of the Wetherby regime.

Frazier LeBus, Lexington, was named for a term ending this year; William Marshall Bullitt, Louisville, 1957; John Cottrell, Georgetown, 1958, and Gayle A. Mohney, Lexington, 1959.

Members of the old board, who resigned, were S. C. Barnes, Elizabethtown; Robert D. Graham, Bowling Green; Norman A. Chrisman, Pikeville, and J. B. Lawton, Central City.

"ENDEAVOR WEEK" PROCLAIMED

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 30 — Governor Chandler proclaimed the week of January 20-February 5 as "Christian Endeavor Week" in Kentucky and urged that "all churches and Christian people of the Commonwealth rededicate themselves to the task of reaching and guiding young people in the way of righteousness and to encourage those who, in their youth, are taking leadership in God's work."

At a recent school for training Scout executives for the Boy Scouts of America, men taking the course included leaders from Finland, Brazil, Norway, Burma, and the Philippine Islands.

An ad this size in THE FLOYD COUNTY TIMES is seen by at least 12,000 people and at a cost of only $6.50 to you.

If postal cards were mailed to 12,000 people it would cost you, the advertiser, $240.00 for the cards alone plus the cost of printing and handling.

THROUGH NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING YOU CONTACT THE SAME NUMBER OF PEOPLE AND AT A SAVINGS OF MORE THAN $280, besides saving the work of addressing and mailing cards.

Newspapers Lead In The Advertising Field

In a survey made of the advertising practices of stores in all sections of the country, it was found that they allocated 80 per cent of the advertising dollar to the newspaper, 10 per cent to television, 4 per cent to radio, 3 per cent to direct mail, and 1 per cent to other media. Newspapers have been and still are advertising leaders.

EMPHASIS ON AGRICULTURE IS PROMISED BY NEW BOARD

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 26 (Spl.) — Kentucky's new Agricultural and Industrial Development Board, named last week by Governor Chandler, today began work under the chairmanship of W. F. Foster, Mayfield, and promised that, in the future, more emphasis will be placed on agricultural problems as part of the Agency's functions. Robert E. Hatton, Louisville, was chosen vice-chairman of the Board.

B. F. Reed, president of the Turner-Elkhorn Coal Co., Drift, is a member of the newly appointed board.

It was revealed that a new division of Agricultural Development will be established within the Board to "promote greater consumption of Kentucky agricultural products, to provide better marketing facilities for agricultural producers, and to locate new plants in Kentucky which will use agricultural products in their processing and manufacturing operations."

It was emphasized that the new division will co-ordinate its functions with other agencies dealing with agriculture, without overlapping or duplicating functions. Foster explained to board members that he had wished someone else had been chosen chairman, someone living nearer Frankfort, for convenience sake. He explained, however, that he had accepted the chairmanship only upon the urgent insistence of the Governor.

"A program like this does not stand still," he told fellow members of the Board. "It moves forward or not at all. If it goes backwards, it loses its main reason for existence. The ultimate that lies beyond all our activities is a greater economic destiny and a better lot for all Kentuckians. The Board's job is to promote economic development, and that is everybody's business."

He then reminded the Board that the "present, acute problems of agriculture and the public demand for greater attention by state government to their solution call for additional, increased and determined efforts by the Board to improve and stimulate the agricultural economy of the Commonwealth."

Members of the newly appointed Board in addition to Foster and Reed; are: Martin S. Bowne, Clearfield, general manager, Lee Clay Products Company; Robert E. Hatton, attorney and vice-president, American Barge Lines; John N. Browning, Maysville, farmer and industrialist, president of the Browning Manufacturing Company, Proctor Wood, Millersburg, owner Paris Stockyards, farmer and warehouseman; John Kirtley, Owensboro, vice-president, Texas Gas Transmission Company; William T. Owens, Louisville, director of Public Relations, the Girdler Corporation; Frank Bassham, Harlan, vice-president Harlan-Wallins Coal Company.

Ex-officio members are Governor Chandler; Commissioner of Agriculture Ben J. Butler, Commissioner of Industrial Relations Oscar J. Coke; Dr. Frank J. Welch, dean College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky.

Mr. Browning did not attend the opening session, due to weather conditions and Commissioner of Agriculture Butler was represented by his assistant, Mancel J. Vinson. Agriculture: Mr. Wood, chairman, Dean Welch and Commissioner of Agriculture Butler. Legislative: Mr. Hatton, chairman; Mr. Kirtley and Mr. Owens. Organization: Mr. Bowne, chairman. Mr. Browning, Mr. Bassham, Mr. Reed and Mr. Coke.

Governor Directs Check On Use of State Cars

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 30 (Spl.) — Governor A. B. Chandler expressed the hope that the present session of the General Assembly which began January 3 can be closed "with reasonable dispatch by February 15" preparatory to a series of special sessions which the Governor intends to call for specific purposes.

The plans were disclosed to the Cabinet in session here, a session which was featured by a directive to State Police to stop any state-owned automobiles seen on the highways at night and on week-ends, with instructions to report such use to department head.

Two officials, Commissioner of Highways Robert Humphreys and Chief Mines and Minerals Inspector James H. Palan, reported that some use of official vehicles was necessary. The Governor agreed but said that citations by the State Police to department heads would provide a means of allowing the heads of the agency to determine whether the use was legitimate.

Many and Diverse Proposals Feature Bills in Assembly

These bills have been offered in the General Assembly:

County election commissioners would be paid $8 a day for their services from the state treasury (the cost now is being borne by counties) under terms of a measure offered in the Senate by four Senators—Albert H. Thomason, Leitchfield; Denver C. Knuckles, Middlesboro; J. Harry Davis, Grayson, and Ed P. Warriner, Albany.

A veterans' bonus of from $5 to $10 a month, based on the number of months served and whether domestic or foreign service was served and to be financed by a special 10 per cent sales tax on alcoholic beverages, was offered in the Senate by Senators A. E. Cornett, Hyden; Harry Davis, Grayson; Ed Warriner, Albany; Denver C. Knuckles, Middlesboro; and Albert Thomason, Leitchfield.

County court clerks would be required to certify to the Secretary of State election results within three days (the present limit being five days) with penalties for failure to do so—if a bill offered in the House by Reps. Clyde Howard, Elizabethtown; Durham Howard, Pineville; Emmett Hawkins, Scottsville; E. D. Polite, Harlan; Joe Nunn, Cadiz; James C. Grundy, Jr., Lebanon; Pearl McKinney, Morgantown; Vernon Reed, Hodgenville, and Ralph Smith, Guston, is approved. Another election bill proposed by Clyde and Durham Howard, Hawkins, Polite, McKinney and Vernon Reed would provide that persons failing to vote for five years would be subject to summary challenge from the registration rolls.

The State Department of Revenue would be given the right to enforce a "fair trade" code in the cigarette field, and outlaw the practice of rebates or selling at less than cost if a bill proposed by a group of Senators is approved. The measure was proposed by Senators E. W. Richmond, Owensboro; E. P. Warriner, Albany; Albert Thomason, Leitchfield, and Wayne Freeman, Mayfield.

Local option determination on whether to elect school superintendents by popular vote was proposed in the House by Rep. Will K. Peace, Republican, Williamsburg. Peace's proposal would restrict the election to persons legally qualified to hold office and establish a minimum salary of $5,000 for the office.

Constitutional amendments appointive officers to reside outside the area they serve in the House by Rep. Blankenship, Blankenship, Hartford. Existing law requires that any officer, whether elective or appointive, reside within the area he serves.

Hunters would have to procure written consent of landowners before going upon their land for that purpose, under terms of a bill offered in the House of Representatives by Rep. Leonard Hislope, Republican, Somerset.

All tobacco warehouses would be required to pay the State an annual $25 license fee if a bill offered by Rep. Brooks Hinkle, Democrat, Paris, in the General Assembly, is approved.

All fiscal courts would be empowered to hire a "friend of the court" to supervise and enforce orders of the circuit court in divorce actions under terms of a measure offered in the House by Rep. Paul Young, Democrat, Olmstead. Existing law limits such employment to counties containing first and second class cities.

Any person who has taught school twenty-five consecutive years would be entitled to a life certificate under terms of a bill offered by Rep. D. C. Casey, Democrat, of Mount Eden.

Police, sheriffs and other law enforcement would be authorized to arrest persons at the scene of a motor vehicle accident where "reasonable grounds exist to support the fact that a crime has been committed" if a bill offered in the House by Rep. George F. Harris, Democrat, Salem, is approved.

Restoration of the full county unit system of local option elections was asked by a group of representatives in a bill offered in the House—a system that has not been in vogue since 1948. Present law allows cities of the first four classes to have their votes counted separately from the remainder of the county, and frequently produces "wet" spots in otherwise "dry" territory. Sponsors of the bill include Reps. Charles L. Conrad, Falmouth; Vernon Reed, Hodgenville; Owen Billington, Murray; Harry M. Caudill, Whitesburg; Pearl McKinney, Morgantown, and J. Murray Blue, Providence.

Insurance solicitors could be granted a license upon attaining eighteen years of age—instead of the present minimum twenty-one years—according to a bill offered in the House by Representative J. Murray Blue, Providence.

Salaries of Circuit Court Clerks for acting as county law librarians would be raised from $20 to $50 a month under a bill proposed in the Senate by Sen. Ed P. Warriner, Republican, Albany. Other proposals of Warriner's include: Resolutions memorializing Congress for aid in public school construction; to restore the minimum bribe tobacco base to six-tenths of an acre, for appropriation of funds for completion of the Upper Cumberland River dam system.

A blow at "speed traps" operating within the state would be taken under terms of a House bill offered by Rep. Harry King Lowman, Democrat, Ashland. It would require all fines and penalties collected, including bail forfeitures, be paid into the State Treasury and set a maximum fine of $25 that may be imposed on any person for the initial violation of any traffic law, ordinance, rule or regulation relating to speed on the public highways.

Rep. Clyde Howard, Democrat, Elizabethtown, proposed a new judicial district in his area establishing Hardin county as a separate district, and leaving the three remaining counties of that district, Breckinridge, Meade and Grayson in a new district. Co-sponsor of the bill is Representative Edward Embry, Republican, Leitchfield. Mr. Howard also proposed a Constitutional amendment to shorten the terms of existing State officers and members of the General Assembly by one year, to throw State and district elections in even-numbered years. A third bill of Mr. Howard would prohibit guest passengers in automobiles from using the host vehicle owners in case of an unavoidable accident.

Two bills aimed at regulating labor unions were offered in the House jointly by Reps. A. W. Wells, Democrat, Bardonia, and Leonard Hislope, Somerset. The first of the number would make labor unions, along with corporations, subject to punishment for violations of the Corrupt Practices Act for contributing any sum of money, or other inducement to any political candidate in any election. Fines ranging up to $5,000 and six-month jail terms for those responsible would be provided. Any attorney who accepted employment and compensation from a corporation or labor organization with the understanding it would be contributed to the support of any political movement, would be made subject to disbarment. Picketing, too, would be strictly regulated if another bill of Wells and Hislope is approved.

It would outlaw secondary boycotts, the picketing of any other place of business other than the one being struck. The measure, too, would limit pickets to two at any place of business, and terminology of placards used would be made subject to laws of libel and slander.

Motor vehicles operated by diesel fuel would be required to be equipped with an exhaust pipe higher than the vehicle, if a bill offered by Senator John W. Willis, Democrat, Greenville, is approved by the General Assembly. Another Willis bill would require a license from the County Clerk for spraying power-line rights of way with injurious chemicals.

Kentucky's Congressional delegation would be memorialized to support a uniform nationwide marriage license law, under terms of a proposal offered in the Senate by Senators Fred Lucas, London; Albert Thomas, Leitchfield; Ed P. Warriner, Albany, and Denver C. Knuckles, Middlesboro.

Creation of a new judicial district in Western Kentucky through revising of boundary lines is proposed in a bill offered in the House by Rep. Pat Tanner, Democrat, Owensboro. These districts would be established: McClean and Muhlenberg counties would be entirely new; Daviess county would be made a separate district; Hancock, Edmonson, Ohio and Butler counties would be made a district. Present boundaries include the Daviess, Hancock, and McLean circuit; and the Edmonson, Ohio and Butler and Muhlenberg circuit.

The House approved and sent to the Senate for concurrence of a bill of Rep. Harry King Lowman, Democrat, Ashland, that would allow second class cities to pension police judges who have served twenty years or longer in office.

Approval of a bill of Senator William Sullivan, Democrat, Henderson, to make $2,100,000 available to the Governor's Emergency Fund was voted by the Senate and forwarded to the House for concurrence. The State Fair is slated to receive $1,500,000 of the total and the remainder of $600,000 is due to be allocated as the Governor may direct to meet other outstanding commitments.

Tightening of regulations surrounding admittance of children to school is sought in a bill proposed in the Senate by Senator E. W. Richmond, Democrat, Owensboro, and Senator Wayne Freeman, Democrat, Mayfield. The bill would provide that a child who becomes six years old by September 30 may enter school within thirty days after the opening of the school year, but those reaching that age after that time would wait until the next year. The present law allows children who will become six December 30 or before, to enter.

Reshuffling of the Kentucky Judicial Council to allow persons elected to the Court of Appeals or circuit bench to assume duties as members of the council before their qualifications as members of the Courts—and to allow meetings of the Council to be held on call of its presiding officer, rather than mandatory that such meetings be held—was proposed in a bill offered by Senator George E. Overby, Democrat, Murray.

UK BOARD ACCEPTS GIFTS
A total of $29,768 was accepted last week in gifts for the University of Kentucky by the institution's Board of Trustees. Among the gifts was a donation of $10,000 from the Henry Fischer Packing Company. Also included were gifts of $6,000 from the Kentucky Utilities Company and $5,000 from the Distillers Feed Research Council.

Mrs. Souleyrette Heads Floyd Heart Fund Drive; State Goal Is $225,000

Appointment of Mrs. Roy Souleyrette, of Wheelwright, as 1956 Heart Fund drive chairman for Floyd county during the annual campaign in February has been announced by Robert H. Alphin, Frankfort, state campaign chairman. Mrs. Souleyrette served in a similar capacity during the successful 1955 and 1954 campaigns.

The state's 1956 Heart Fund goal is $225,000, Alphin announced. "Heart Sunday," the two-hour, house to house solicitation which climaxes the month-long drive, will be conducted in most Kentucky counties on February 25.

Alphin's announcement called attention to the sponsorship by the Kentucky Heart Association, its local chapters and committees of a year-around program of research, health education and community service. The program, he said, "spearheads the fight against the nation's number one killer and crippler, heart disease."

Mrs. Souleyrette will be assisted by chairmen in the following localities; Mrs. Cora McHone, in Wheelwright; Miss Alice Williams, in Betsy Layne; Mrs. John Straton, in David; Mrs. John Ison, in Langley; Mrs. John Sherman, in Martin; Mrs. Lloyd Stumbo, in McDowell; Mrs. N. D. Howard, in Wayland; and Mrs. Ruth Jessie, in Weeksbury.
