This Town— That World

A heavy foot and a light head will make a wreck out of you.

TROUBLE AHEAD

Beginning next Monday, we have an idea the youngsters and their elders are going to have their TV troubles, and I have a pretty fair idea who will take a beating. We who are interested in such prosaic events as a Democratic convention with all its warring factions, chest-thumping and filling and tacking may succeed in banishing the children while we look in on the more or less orderly proceedings in Chicago, but there's always the danger of a counter-attack. They're not above trotting out a record-player and rending the air with those musical melodies known as rock-and-roll. Ah, me!

TO A CORRESPONDENT:

That report that I am the worst fisherman on Dewey Lake is a dark calumny—yes, a black lie. I am only one of the two worst.

THE MCKEON CASE

Sgt. McKeon is sorry he led six Marine recruits to their deaths by drowning. Everybody is sorry—who would not be? We are sorry even for the sergeant. His is a tragedy that will haunt him all his days. Commenting on McKeon's drinking in barracks, an army veteran of World War II told us this week that during and after the war he and other non-commissioned officers were issued regular whiskey rations along with cigarettes, candy, etcetera.

"If that whiskey wasn't to be drunk in barracks, where was it to be drunk?" he wondered.

QUESTION

If it's news when a man bites a dog, why isn't it news when at a racetrack there are windows that clean people?

WANTED TO PAY IN ADVANCE

It is to me that this one has been printed in this column before, but at least one reader of T-W evidently didn't see it, since he has

NO CHEATING, PETTY WARNS

Expense Account Padding, Use of State's Materials To Cost Workers Jobs

State Highway engineers, foremen, and maintenance supervisors were told recently that the padding of expense accounts, joy riding in state automobiles, and the use of state materials to build private roadways would result in immediate dismissal.

Martin Petty, Frankfort, deputy commissioner of the Kentucky State Highway Department, made the statement at a meeting in the district engineer's office in Covington.

After issuing the warning he declared: "And no Joe Blow will get your job back for you."

Petty also drew a line between the duties of district engineers and the newly created office of highway advisory commissioner. He told the employees they were to take orders from the district engineer and "nobody else."

LOAN GROUP GETS PERMIT TO ORGANIZE

Federal Savings & Loan Here To Be 2nd of Kind In Big E. Kentucky Area

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board, Washington, D. C., last Thursday gave official approval of the application filed by eight Floyd countyans for permission to organize and operate here a Federal Savings & Loan Association.

The Floyd organization will be known as the East Kentucky Federal Savings & Loan Association. It will be the first of its kind in operation between Paintsville and Bell county, in an area comprising an estimated 300,000 population, it was said here this week.

Before the Association can actually begin business, however, not less than 150 persons must become depositors, and the total of their deposits must not be less than $200,000.

"We don't anticipate any lack of depositors; otherwise we would not have filed an application," a spokesman for the organizers of the association said here Monday.

The eight Floyd business men who filed the application are: Former Appellate Judge Bert T. Combs and Byron Nunnery, of Prestonsburg, Ray Fraley, J. M. Turner and M. E. Deering, all of Wayland, G. C. Spradlin, of Prestonsburg and Martin, B. F. Reed and B. Alvin Reed, both of Drift.

The applicants have until Jan. 31, 1957 in which to meet the $200,000 deposit total and other

Turkish Tobacco Tour To Start Here, Friday

A Turkish tobacco tour is scheduled for this and Johnson counties, Friday. The tour group, consisting of interested farmers and county extension agents, will start at the office of County Agent Ellis Boggs at 8:30 a.m.

"All farmers interested in raising aromatic or Turkish tobacco should go on this tour," Boggs said. "Much can be learned about production on a trip like this," he added.

Floyd and Johnson counties have six experimental plots of the tobacco to determine if a seasoning or leavening addition to the conventional American cigarette can be grown in Eastern Kentucky. No governmental quota restrictions exist on its production as does on burley and other types.

CREDIT GROUP MEET CALLED

Housing Administration To Confer At Pikeville With Lenders, Builders

A meeting sponsored by the Federal Housing Administration and the Voluntary Home Mortgage Credit Program's regional committee, will be held Tuesday, August 14, in Pikeville at the Kentucky Power Company's auditorium at 7:00 p.m. for personnel or lending institutions, builders, and material supply dealers for the purpose of providing assistance in obtaining low interest, long-term financing through the facilities of the Voluntary Home Mortgage Credit Program.

All interested personnel of lending institutions, builders and material supply dealers of Prestonsburg, Pikeville, Paintsville, Salsersville and Inez are invited to attend.

The tight money market together with the limitations on real estate loans imposed on lending institutions, has prevented many prospective home owners from obtaining loans to build or buy homes. Orville M. Howard, director of the FHA Office in Lexington, said this week.

At the Pikeville meeting the Federal Housing Administration will be represented by Mr. Howard, director; John B. Stinger, chief underwriter, and Donald P. Fischer, insurance program representative. J. B. Graves, Jr., executive secretary, voluntary Home Mortgage Credit Program's regional committee in Nashville, Tennessee will be the main speaker.

FOOTBALL PRACTICE SLATED

Football practice will begin Monday, 9 a.m., Robert Wallace, coach, says. Candidates are asked to report with shorts and shoes by 8:30 a.m., he says.

Times Changes Publication Date To Wednesday With This Edition

THE TIMES this week is changing its publication date to Wednesday, instead of the traditional Thursday.

The change is an experiment, made at the request of local advertisers. If satisfactory to all concerned, the new date will become permanent.

As a result of the change, all advertising copy must be in our hands by Monday afternoon instead of Tuesday. News-letters also should reach this office on Monday, and all "spot" news must be in type not later than Tuesday.

The change we are making is made in the hope of rendering better service to those whose advertising makes the paper possible, and we are hopeful that it will better serve the public generally.

BREAKS GROUP SELECTS DAY ASK COUNCIL TO PLACE BAN

Pikeville Man Chosen Commission Chairman; To Study Construction

The Breaks Interstate Park Commission elected K. J. Day, Pikeville, as chairman Monday after receiving from landscape architects a detailed "intermediate" report.

Other officers chosen at the annual organization meeting were Mrs. Ben Kilgore, Frankfort, state parks director, renamed secretary, and Senator M. M. Long, St. Paul, Va., elected vice-chairman.

Day, who moves up from the post of vice-chairman, will name the commission treasurer later. The commission has three members from Virginia and three from Kentucky.

Another meeting is scheduled for August 20 for probable final approval of some of the construction plans. Day expressed hope the bids might be accepted on some of the work by about October 1.

The first five construction projects to be undertaken will center about a water-distribution system for the park on the Kentucky-Virginia border, a reservoir, concession stands, picnic-shelter facilities, and a home for the park caretaker.

SURETY FIRMS HIT BY STATE

Johnson Truck Ass'n One of Three Losing Self-Insuring Rights

A move toward liquidation of three insurance firms—one located in this section—which are adjudged to be operating beyond their certified limits was begun last Friday at Frankfort.

Clay Shackelford, chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board, said an investigation of the entire field of self-insurers in the state uncovered the situation and led to prompt remedial action.

He said orders were issued July 20 revoking the self-insuring certificates of Johnson County Truck Association of Paintsville and Southern Coal & Lumber Producers Association of Lexington.

On the same date, the board ruled that the certificate of Tri-State Employers of Lexington had expired and would not be renewed.

Complaints were filed in Franklin circuit court against the three on July 26. Orders authorizing their liquidation were granted by the court the next day.

State Insurance Commissioner Cad P. Thurman was named receiver for each in agreed orders. Injunctions issued at the same time enjoined the firms from transacting business, disposing of property, or interfering with the liquidation.

The complaints charged simply that the firms had not applied for certificates of authority to engage in the insurance business. They set out that the firms applied for their own liquidation.

Shackelford said the three had qualified as self-insurers under a previous board and had extended the coverage of their certificates to "various and sundry member."

The board's investigation disclosed, he said, that about 417 separate employers had been brought under the three certificates.

A self-insurer is an employer who is able to submit a financial statement and post bond of a nominal amount to show he is sound financially. Such firms need no workmen's compensation policy with a commercial insurance company.

Shackelford estimated there are

On Wearing of Shorts In Public Places Here; Legislation Postponed

Women-representatives of two churches here appeared before the City Council Monday night, requesting that the Council enact an ordinance forbidding the wearing of shorts on the streets of Prestonsburg or in public places by females past the age of 10 years.

It was said that the delegation of six to eight represented only their groups.

Council did not take any action at Monday's meeting but Mayor Harry Sandige appointed a committee to study the question. It was said that officials of Pikeville and Hazard, where similar ordinances have been enacted, will be contacted for information on the form the ordinance shall take, if one is presented for a vote by the Council.

Wearing of shorts in public has been discussed widely here, and the Local Council of Churchwomen, representing most, if not all, local churches, recently declined to go on record as asking for legislation, although opposed to shorts as public wearing apparel.

"Prestonsburg is not a resort town, and the public appearance here of women and young girls in shorts is certainly not in good taste," one member of the group said, adding that this was the consensus of opinion.

A fair supplement to The Times will be issued again this year. This supplement is one of the chief means of financing the annual agricultural event, it was pointed out.

Central Avenue Homes Are Under Construction; Street Access Planned

Foundation work is under way on Central avenue for two homes, and clearing of a site for a residence on Highland avenue began this week.

Carl Watson and Joe Weddington have awarded construction contracts on their Central avenue residences to J. L. Gummels & Sons and the Home Appliance Company, respectively. Both will be brick buildings.

Tom Graham Dingus began clearing his Highland avenue lot this week, preparatory to building. It was said that the Harkins family plans opening of a street at the rear of his and other lots in order to sell hillside building sites overlooking Highland.

FLOYD FAIR DATE IS SET

Fourth Post-War Fair Booked Here Sept. 22; Attractions Scheduled

The fourth annual post-war Floyd County Fair will be held here from Wednesday, Sept. 19, through Saturday, Sept. 22, it was decided at a meeting of the Fair Board Thursday evening of last week. Fourteen persons interested in the promotion of the Fair were present. Jesse Elliott, chairman, presided.

It was tentatively decided at last week's meet to hold the Fair at the city playground, as was done last year, although this decision could be reversed, it was pointed out, if it became necessary. Next scheduled meeting of the Fair Board is set for Thursday evening of this week at the courthouse.

Two bicycles will again be given away to two lucky schoolchildren on the last day of the fair. The County Superintendent of Schools' office will distribute 16,000 free tickets on the bikes, according to Franklin Moore, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Moore also said that the Gooding Amusement Company, of Columbus, O., will furnish the rides again. Scheduled for the fairgoers' amusement are three kiddie rides, merry-go-round, ferris wheel, whip and swings. Square dancing, a colorful spectacle on Court street here the last two fairs, will be held again, this time under the direction of Darwin Wells, of Auxier.

"Department heads should get their committees to list all rings of the Fair competition and submit to the Fair board secretary," it was said this week by Jesse Elliott, chairman. "This should be done not later than Aug. 16," he added.

A fair supplement to The Times will be issued again this year. This supplement is one of the chief means of financing the annual agricultural event, it was pointed out.

SAYS SCHOOLS TO OPEN SOON

Rural School Vacancies Few, Turner Says; Gaps In Larger Schools Open

The teacher situation in the rural schools, which opened Monday of last week, was adjusting itself this week and County Superintendent Virgil O. Turner said he expects all these schools to be in session shortly.

What is causing more concern, however, is the matter of teachers for consolidated schools, music and home economics teachers in particular. These larger schools will begin their terms August 27.

Other states have made some inroads on the county's list of available teachers, but Mr. Turner is hopeful all places will be filled by opening of the new term.

Teacher salaries may not be definitely fixed before Sept. 15 because of certain difficulties in establishing teacher rankings and in determining the exact amount of pay to be received. Until the official salary schedule is adopted by the county, as in the case of practically all other counties of the state, will pay teachers on a safe basis and then when the pay schedule is adopted compensate them for any back salary that may be due.

Board Honors Dr. Allen As Educational Leader

Dr. J. H. Allen, veteran member of the Floyd County Board of Education, was named at the Board's Tuesday session the county's outstanding educational leader.

Honoring of leaders "most loyal to education" in each county district is being undertaken by the Eastern Kentucky Education Association.

Other business transacted by the board was the employment of needed additional teachers, bus drivers and janitors. Several routine matters were disposed of, including the ratification of the bond of the treasurer of the school funds, setting up the teachers' working calendar, abandoning the Spewing Camp school building and asking for bids on a new one, and ordering the advertising for bids on a new Simpson Branch school building.

Teachers employed and the schools they were assigned to are: Naomi Stone, Sizemore; Josephine Hopson, George school; Rose Hagans, Martin; Anna Crum, Maytown; Claude May, McDowell high school; Elizabeth Thomas, Allen school; Joyce Terry, Martin; Polly Harmon, Goble Branch. Alva Allen was transferred from Allen to Martin.

Bus drivers hired are Perry Prater, Effort Hall, Homer Hall, Troy Hayes, Henry Hicks, Delver Hall, Ed Hampton, Langley Hall, Clyde

ESTATE HEIRS SUE COAL CO.

Harkins Heirs Join Mayo Claiming Royalties Due By Firm Total $24,709

Heirs of the Harkins estate here and the John C. Mayo Company filed suit in circuit court here Friday seeking to recover from the Mountain States Coal Corporation a total of $24,809.84 claimed due them in minimum royalties on a 233-acre tract of coal on Prater Creek.

The tract of land was leased by the late Joseph D. Harkins in 1947 to the Pike Elkhorn Coal Company, which later passed into receivership, the lease being conveyed by the receiver to Mountain States Coal Corporation. The suit contends that minimum royalties in these amounts are due heirs of the Harkins estate:

$2,500 for the year from July 1, 1951 and $3,000 for each of the years 1952, 1953, 1954, 1955 and 1956.

The John C. Mayo Company, which claims a per ton royalty of 15 cents and a minimum royalty of $1,800 a year, set the amounts due it as $1,760.40 for 1951, $2,200 for 1952, $1,049.44 for 1953 and $2,200 for 1954.

The joint complaint was prepared by Joe Hobson. Individuals appearing as plaintiffs are Mrs. Josephine H. Browning, Ashland, Mrs. Mary E. Harkins Vanlandingham, Miami, Fla., Mrs. Reba B. Harkins, Prestonsburg, Mrs. Marguerite F. Harkins, Danville, and sons, Mrs. Billie H. Harkins and children, Mrs. Mary Jane Harkins and children, of Prestonsburg.

NEW MANAGER BEGINS WORK

Bondurant on Lake Job After Getting Degree; New Fish Species Added

New superintendent of Dewey Lake state park, its boat dock and recreation facilities is James E. Bondurant, a native of Brandenburg, Meade county.

He assumed his duties August 1, succeeding Ford Nunnally who was assigned to the work temporarily on July 15. He, his wife and two children moved a few days ago to the home constructed last year in the park area for the park superintendent.

Mr. Bondurant, who was graduated from the University of Kentucky in June, this year, does not have a parks service career in his long-range plans, however. He has his law degree from U. K., recently took the state bar examination, and hopes to practise his profession either in his hometown, Brandenburg, or at Elizabethtown.

Another species of fish has been within the last two weeks added to Dewey Lake with about 100 fingerling walleye pike released there by Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources employees. A heavier stocking of this species is planned, it was said this week.

Although suffering from the summer doldrums, fishing at the lake perked up slightly within the week with a few early-morning catches and some success at trolling.

A new population study was made last week by Bernard Carter, biologist, Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources. Recent rains had raised the lake level slightly, and this, together with temperatures which had driven fish into deep water, were regarded as responsible for lack of success of the study.

TESTS REVEAL NO WEAKNESS IN GYM BASE

Lexington Engineers In Exhaustive Study Of Foundation Soils

Exhaustive tests by means of soil borings and field loading show that the foundation soils on the site of the Prestonsburg high school auditorium-gymnasium structure now in the early stages of construction are capable of withstanding the stresses that will be created by the weight of the building and its contents.

Briefly, this was the report made to the Floyd County Board of Education by Proctor-Ingels Engineers, Porter J. White Consulting Engineers, and John A. Stokley, geologist, all of Lexington.

The tests were requested by the Board of Education after a former associate of the architect who designed the building had said he would not be responsible for any possible foundation weakness.

While the study of foundation soils dispelled all doubts of the footer strength and that of the soil to bear up under the weight of the big structure, a weakness was uncovered in the plans for the concrete bleachers in the Gym. These plans are being changed to meet all weights and stresses that might in the future be expected.

Fortunately, the only steel delivered for the bleachers was for the frame, and the other steel to be used will be prefabricated to meet the new specifications.

In tests made of the foundation soils two methods were used: one, soil borings to an elevation of 10 feet or more; the other, field loading tests. This loading test was made by placing a foot-square steel plate in an excavation at the approximate level of the bottom of the pier footings. A timber platform was built on this plate and a load of 6,000 pounds was placed on the platform.

The foundation soils have a safe bearing value of 4,000 pounds per square foot or more, the engineers and the geologist concluded.

ASK SO. BELL TO COOPERATE

City Council Resolution Says Line, Poles Slow Building of Residences

Prestonsburg's City Council Monday evening adopted a resolution calling on the Southern Bell Telephone Company to cooperate with the city and its citizens by removing onto city property existing telephone lines and poles which are marring the appearance of Central avenue property here and hindering construction of homes.

The resolution pointed out that a housing shortage exists here and that several residences have been built, and plan to build, homes on the east side of Central avenue, one of the few places in Prestonsburg where home sites are available. Southern Bell poles on building lots and in front of existing homes are making residential property there unsightly, however, it was pointed out, and in one or more cases poles occupy the actual site of proposed buildings, preventing construction to the damage of property-owners and to suppliers of materials and builders as well.

Council's resolution points out that the telephone poles can be moved onto city property without undue expense and to the benefit of the telephone company's present and future customers, and such action would be "a gesture of cooperation with the city of Prestonsburg and of goodwill toward its citizens."

A recent company estimate of the cost of moving the line was $6,000.

Application of Amos Gray for employment as a member of the police force was received at the same meeting. A meeting of Council members with the police department will be held before action is taken on the application, it was said.

A petition from certain residents of the Graham and Third street vicinity protesting noise of roosters and turkeys kept on the property of Dr. John Sizemore was referred to the Health Department. Dr. Sizemore is employed by the Health Department as part-time medical attendant.

Air Travel, TV More Thrilling To Woman, 95, than 'Old Times'

By HENRY P. SCALF

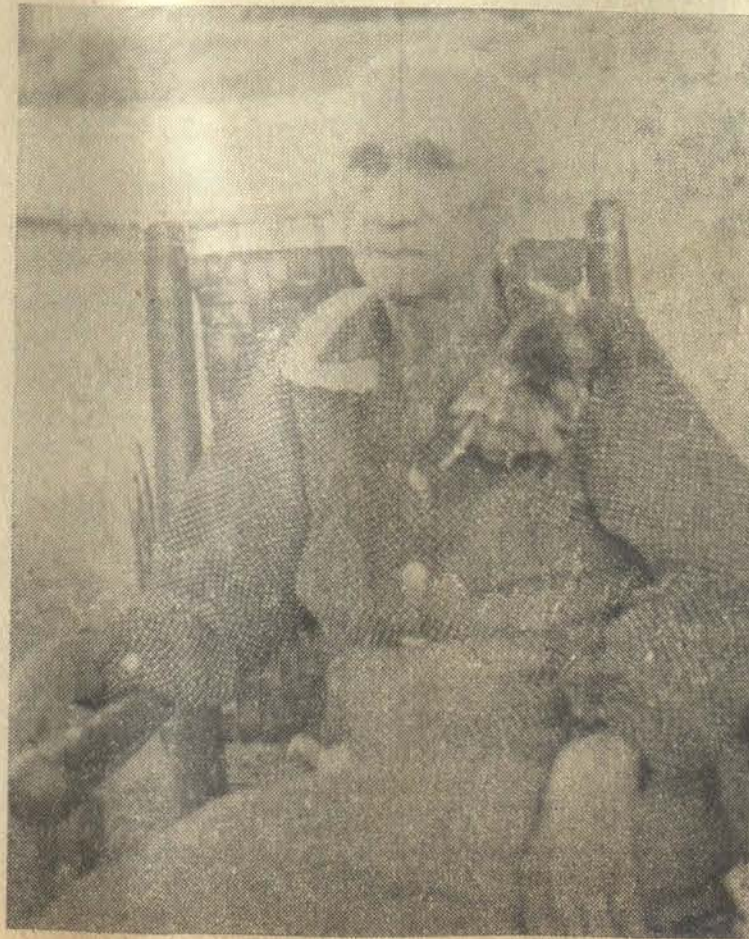

Mrs. Belle Wells, Auxier road resident, was born two months after the Confederates fired on Fort Sumter to start the Civil War. Now 95, she remembers incidents of that struggle when she was a mere toddler of three years. Her memory thus encompasses over nine decades of life.

She doesn't live in the past, though as many aged persons do. She likes the present, its many utilitarian comforts and gadgets, its TV sets and airplanes. She took her second plane ride four years ago at Virginia Beach. She wanted to hurry home, though. She was getting behind on the soap operas on television.

Born on a rough mountain farm on Daniels Creek, this county, June 20, 1861, the daughter of Wash and Mintie Clark Wells, she was inured to hard work from childhood until late in life. For three-quarters of a century she met grimly the work-packed, lean years. That's all over now. Living comfortably on a farm with her daughter, Rosa, she does about what she pleases. She has pet aversions, though. Weeds in a garden, for instance. Often she ducks the house, escapes her daughter and swings a hoe around the place. Swings it vigorously, too, like a person years younger.

Maybe you think you can get a

Magill Cites New Law Prescribing Procedures For Handling Claims

House Bill 334, enacted by the 1956 General Assembly, is of interest to all persons doing business with county fiscal courts.

David Magill, local finance officer, Kentucky Department of Revenue, says the bill established procedures that must be followed by the fiscal courts in handling claims against the county.

This bill requires all claims to be filed with and recorded by the fiscal court clerk, Magill said. The claims must then be considered by the fiscal court in chronological order as filed with the clerk. The court is without authority to consider any claim which is not filed with the clerk, he said.

The procedures will have little or no effect on the majority of the counties which pay all valid claims currently. There are a few counties, however, that find it necessary to carry over valid claims from one fiscal court meeting to another. In those counties, it is essential for the claim holder to file their bills with the fiscal court clerk as early as possible to insure that their claims are paid by the fiscal court in proper order.

Purpose of this law is not to restrict the power of the fiscal court but to provide an orderly manner for conducting the county business, Magill said.

BABE DIES

Eugene Akers, two-month-old son of Foster and Shirlene Akers, of Grethel, died at 10 a.m., last Saturday. The child had been ill a week. He had no surviving brothers or sisters. Funeral rites were conducted last Sunday at the home, the Revs. E. V. Hamilton, J. B. Hamilton, and Bill Martin officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery at Grethel under the direction of Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

National Rural Letter Carrier's Convention will meet in Louisville, August 14-17.

Banner Farmer Dies Suddenly, Tuesday Eve; Rites Set For Tuesday

Jesse Ward, Banner farmer, died suddenly and without warning near his home at 8 p.m., Tuesday.

Ward and his son had been lying near the mouth of a mine and had fallen asleep. When his son, Harvey Ward, attempted to awake him, he found that his father had died in his sleep. According to the coroner's inquest, Ward had suffered a heart attack.

Ward, 60, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Saul Ward, both deceased. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Barbara Clek Ward, his sons, Harvey Ward, a step-son, Maltie Hall, of Banner, one daughter, Mrs. Catherine Akers, Cleveland, O., and two sisters, Mrs. Effie Collins, Columbus, O., and Mrs. Bathena Butcher, Inez.

The funeral will be held Friday at the home of James Estep where the Revs. Carl Layne and Wallace Lewis will conduct the services. The burial will be made in the Weddington cemetery under the direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Time To Plan For Winter Cover Crops

By Donald W. Claypool
The winter cover crop is potentially one of the most important crops grown in farms in this area. Not only does it provide protection of the soil erosion in the winter and adds plant food and humus when it is turned under in the spring, but it also can provide a luxurious and most nutritious pasture for all kinds of livestock in late fall and early spring.

Just how much value a cover crop is to an individual farmer depends upon how well he does four important things. The first of these is to sow early. The earlier the crop is sown, the earlier it can be grazed and the more winter pasture will be had. This is of special importance to the sheep raisers of this and neighboring counties. If a cover crop is seeded in late August it will be ready to graze sometime in November and can usually be grazed for about a month. In the following March sheep can be turned back on the cover crop and kept there until the permanent pasture has obtained enough growth for use. Those farmers growing a variety of early maturing hybrid corn are the ones who will be able to take the fullest advantage of early sowing.

The second important thing is to prepare a good firm seedbed and cover the seed well. Vetch should be sown deep, and crimson clover should be sown shallow. A good disking or harrowing of a field of corn stubble before seeding and a dragging following seeding should be adequate for establishing a good seedbed.

A third thing which is of importance is to sow plenty of seed. Small grains and winter legumes should be seeded heavily when practice production is the primary aim. For best results, 20 pounds of crimson clover or at least 30 pounds should be seeded with at least two bushels of small grain per acre.

The fourth important thing to do, is to inoculate the legume seed. It is absolutely essential that vetch or crimson clover seed be inoculated unless that particular field has grown that crop for at least two years previous.

Incentive payments may be given to those who wish to establish a winter cover crop provided they sign up for incentive payment by August 15. The requirements are: that 300 pounds of 4-12-8 or the equivalent fertilizer be applied to the ground at seeding time and that the amount of seeding time and that either 15 lb of crimson clover and small grain is used or by October 1 if vetch and small grain is used.

200 self-insurers in Kentucky and said the board's investigation led to only the three revocations.

A hearing for the three defendants was held July 16 through July 20, but Shackelford said he felt it would be unfair to comment on evidence presented there. The lengthy testimony is in the process of being transcribed for official records.

Shackelford said that the board's interest in the case ceased when the cancellation orders were issued.

The next step, he said, was for the firms to apply with the insurance commissioner for liquidation. Court action was the necessary third step.

Shackelford said quick action by Insurance Commissioner Tursman prevented some degree of chaos since employees previously covered by the defendants' certificates lost workmen's compensation coverage temporarily. It was possible only after the court action to arrange new coverage.

A large number of the "member" employers brought under the questioned certificates were coalmine operators.

The circuit court complaints named as individual defendants the following:

Wade Hall, doing business as Tri-State Employers; Hugh B. Steely, doing business as Southern Coal & Lumber Producers Association; Steely, Herbert Black, and C. C. Dotson, doing business as Southern Coal & Lumber Producers Association, and W. E. Garland, doing business as Johnson County Truck Trades Association.

New Power Substation Completed on Lake Drive; Has 3,750 KA Capacity

The Kentucky Power Company announces the completion of the new Prestonsburg Substation in the Webb Addition on North Lake Drive. This new station has 3750 kva of capacity which is more than twice that of the old station.

Construction of the larger station was necessary to meet the growing needs of the community. The station was designed to permit further increases in capacity as the electrical load in Prestonsburg and vicinity continues to grow.

Equipment in the new station is of the most modern type. The cost of the new facilities was approximately $75,000.

led all of them to the cornfield where each who was large enough took a row. Not long ago, a son, Charles M. Wells, came home from New Jersey to visit. She asked him if he remembered the night they hoed corn so long by moonlight. He did.

Turning to the subject of rafts on the Big Sandy years ago, she recalls a wealth of information on rivermen and river customs. "It seems strange now when I look out at the river and see no rafts. My husband walked the river one time on the floating logs," she said.

Wireman's Shoals was a place much dreaded by the raftsmen. When the flotillas of giant poplars and oaks were heading over the shoals, Mrs. Wells could often hear the rending of breaking tie-poles and the noise of logs butting each other as the rafts broke up on the shoals. Upstream raftsmen would tie their crafts to the bank, rush down stream to assist their fellows in trouble at the shoals. To reach the scene they had to go through Mrs. Wells' yard. She recalls vividly the set faces of stern woodsmen as they rushed by, few speaking, all headed grimly for the breaking rafts.

Then suddenly Mrs. Wells shifts from the story of trouble at Wireman's Shoals to trouble she had with the children inviting raftsmen to stay all night. "Them briggity youngsters would go out to the river bank, yell out to the raftsmen, 'Throw in your line, we'll keep you all night.' Then I'd have a big bunch of raftmen to keep and hardly any way to bed them down. One time I had six or seven of the boys brought in. I fed them their supper and told them I just couldn't bed them. They'd have to hunt another place to sleep. But the men said they would just sleep anywhere. They'd sleep on the floor or anywhere. I had to keep 'em."

Life got better for Mrs. Wells. She reared her children, gave them an education. John C., the youngest, is principal of Auxier high school; Charles M. is a retired professor of Rider College, Trenton, N. J. There is Stella, who married T. Y. Harman; Maggie, who married Clabe Bingham, and Rosa, with whom she stays.

Now living in comfort at her daughter's home, she recalls most of her life with a laugh, remarks that she'd like to see some of this generation try a hand at hoeing corn around a rough hillside or watch them pull on an oxen's horn with a plow line. She laughs at the very suggestion of it.

Few women, granted the boon of longevity, are ever as vigorous and alert at 95 as Mrs. Wells. Perhaps it wasn't the hard work altogether that made life lengthen out for her. Maybe the fact that she could laugh so well at life's many vicissitudes had something to do with it.

Guerrillas didn't seem to bother the Wells home any but some sort of a straggler did, she recalls. A stranger appeared one day and demanded food. Her mother complied and the famished man ate and went away, telling no one his name or business. The next day he returned, ordered food again. Again he was fed. This went on for a week. Then one day a squad of blue-coated soldiers came along, asked her mother if a stranger was lurking in the neighborhood. She said there was and pointed up the road. The men in blue returned in a short while with a prisoner.

"He won't bother you again, Mrs. Wells," the leader said. And he didn't. She never learned who the man was or for what he was wanted.

Wash Wells came back at the close of the war and life lengthened out, with hard work on a farm featuring most of his days. Belle and a brother, Alex plowed with an ox-team, named Rum and Rowdy. Alex held on to the plow handles; Belle drove them with a line wrapped around the lead steer's horns.

Old enough, she started to school. The old log school house at the forks of Daniels Creek had a dirt floor but was replaced with puncheons years later. She remembers her first teacher as Wallace Spears, her second as Bill Johnson. "Lots of the teachers used a lot of birch but you know I never got a whipping," she declares.

In 1883 she married James R. Wells, a neighborhood boy, and they went to housekeeping nearby. Her husband farmed and logged. He entered into a partnership with his uncle, Jim Perry, on a river saw boat. These two wandered up and down the stream, doing custom sawing at any place a man wanted to skid a few logs.

In the meantime, hard work for her filled every waking hour. She sheared sheep, picked, carded, spun and wove the wool, picked geese, wove coverlets, made blankets out under a shed near the barn. "I got up every day before daylight. You couldn't lay and snooze those days," she affirmed.

She and James had eight children, five of whom are yet living. The family made a couple of moves. First, the father removed to the mouth of Johns Creek, then up the river to Wireman's Shoals. James R. Wells died in 1905 and is buried in the family cemetery overlooking the home and the river.

The old log house near Wireman's Shoal was filled with bullets during the Civil War's Boat Fight. The children had an interesting time digging "minnie" balls out of the mud-chinked walls, for the Confederates used it as a bastion for a short while during the battle. She recalls that her mother said Frank Rose, who was killed at the Boat Fight, was first buried in a sand bar but was later exhumed and removed downriver.

Mrs. Wells now lives in the house her husband staked off but never built. He left her seven children, one having died in infancy. Still harder times were her lot. Now she was a widow with little children to rear. She requirements usually incident to the founding of an institution of this type.

To win approval of their petition before the Federal Home Loan Bank Board the petitioners were required to show:

1. That a necessity for such an institution exists; its usefulness and success; and
2. That there is a reasonable probability of its usefulness and success; and
3. That it can be established without undue injury to existing local thrift and home-financing institutions.

It was emphasized that the East Kentucky Federal Savings & Loan Association is a community project formed to encourage home-building and is not designed to have any harmful effect on existing banking institutions. This argument, it was said, is supplemented by the fact that under the Federal Reserve System banks may not make a loan of more than five years' duration while a federal savings and loan association may not make a loan for any period less than five years.

Ground-floor offices are required of such an institution, and the East Kentucky Federal Savings & Loan Association expects to locate in the business section of Prestonsburg. It was said this week to have two or three places under consideration, one of which is the Ford-Ranier building opposite the bus station.

CARD OF THANKS

We gratefully acknowledge every kindness and personal service rendered by good friends during the last illness and upon the death of our loved one, Mrs. S. E. Allen. We would especially thank the ministers, the Revs. Harold W. Dorsey and Ira McMillen, Jr., for their comforting words, and the Carter & Callahan Funeral Home for its efficient service.

Two of Five Accidents On Railway Crossings Occur Where Protected

Some motorists seem to insist on getting hurt!

Take those who are involved in railroad grade crossing accidents, for example.

Two out of five of these accidents occur at crossings protected by gates, lights, bells, watchmen or a combination of these, according to the 1955 edition of the National Safety Council's statistical yearbook, "Accident Facts."

What's more, autos often run into trains, and after dark it's a toss-up as to which will be hit by which.

Many hunters imagine that red clothing makes them too apparent to game. But Col. Townsend Wheelen, famous big game hunter, writes in the August issue of Sports Afield magazine that this is not so because all animals (except men, apes, and monkeys) are color blind.

Past President of FHA At Prestonsburg, Given Scholarship at Morehead

Betty Sizemore, of East Point, and a graduate this year of the Prestonsburg high school, was one of four Future Homemakers of America girls to be awarded a scholarship recently by the Kentucky Liquid Petroleum Gas Association. The scholarships, worth $200 each, were presented at a dinner in the girls' honor at the Phoenix Hotel, Lexington, evening of July 23.

Two of the girls were high school graduates and two with college credits. The girls honored with Miss Sizemore were Sarah Ward, Paducah, a junior at Morehead State College; Francis Hackworth, Sellersville, a junior at Eastern State College; and Fay Harper, Elkton. Awards were made by Irvin Estcorn, Louisville, vice-president of the Association.

Feels Even Better than He Looks!

Ever notice how a man looks when he takes the wheel of his new Cadillac and heads for his favorite highway?

Take a good look the next time you have a chance—and we think you'll see a happy man!

There's just no mistaking the pride and satisfaction that show in his face... or the happiness and contentment that reside in his heart.

And, as any experienced Cadillac owner can testify, he feels every bit as wonderful as he looks! For a journey in the "car of cars" is both a marvelous tonic for the spirit... and a wonderful opportunity for physical rest and relaxation.

It starts the instant he slips into the driver's seat and rests his hands on the wheel. Those deep, soft cushions hold him in perfect comfort... and he is surrounded by beauty and luxury.

Even before he sets the car in motion, some of life's care and worry seem to go out of his day.

And then comes the miracle of Cadillac performance. It's an inspiration just to sit at the wheel... to look out over that graceful hood... and to watch the miles flow gracefully by.

And how easy it all is. Just a gesture of his hand on the steering wheel and the car follows effortlessly and obediently. Just a touch of his toe to the accelerator and the car answers instantly to the command. Just a nudge of his foot on the braking pedal and the car comes to a smooth, safe, silken stop.

Sound wonderful? Well, we sincerely urge you to come in at your first convenience—spend an hour at the wheel—and see for yourself.

We'll be happy to give you the keys... and the car... and some wonderful news about the cost and delivery advantages that you will enjoy if you make your decision for Cadillac today.

Why not stop in and see us soon?

Virgil Webb is a coal miner who knows that God heard his prayers deep in a coal mine and shaped circumstances so he could be rescued and eventually saved.

The night of December 9, 1955 is likely to be a night which Webb, a miner for twenty years, will always remember. It was this night, he says, when God intervened with certain death to spare his life.

The Prestonsburg man had gone to work at the Princess Ekhorn mines as usual that day, not suspecting that before his shift was over, he would be lying, maimed and bruised, as near death, as death could be approached.

Webb, before he started his account of that fateful day's events, said that most people don't think an accident can happen to them. It was always happening to the other fellow. He was happy that day. His wife was expecting, and Christmas, a very special time of the year in the Webb household, was near.

He was checking the skids with only thirty minutes left in the evening shift, just returning from the loading point when he hit his back against something and pitched forward onto a loaded coal car. Almost immediately he felt unbearable, excruciating pain tear his leg.

The action was too fast for comprehension, except, when his leg pulled loose from its hip pocket, he was sure it had been torn away from his body. "Everything was just set to go wrong. I could do the same thing a thousand times and the stiffest penalty I would have to pay is dusting myself off," he said.

The car ploughed Webb into a passage which measured from the top of the loaded car to the ceiling, had only five inches clearance. Webb was a thick 202-pounder. The coal in the car pressed into him with crushing force. Small V's were imprinted into his chest as a result. "When a man is crushed by coal," Webb said, "he has V shapes all over him."

Webb was lying in a grotesque position. His left leg was dangling over the rear left side of the car. His abdomen was firmly lodged over the car and his leg, as the car passed between the timber support, was caught at the thigh. As the car moved it bared the bone to the knee. His body now, caught at two places, the chest and the knee, was being stretched to horribly that it tore his body at the groin.

The pressure against this chest forced tremendous pressure towards his neck. As a consequence his neck swelled to a freakish size, as did his head, causing his eyes to pop from their sockets and come to rest upon his cheeks. After his leg had slipped from the enclosed space, the car came to rest 29 feet from where it had started.

But Webb, even after the terrible punishment, was still conscious. He was thinking, frantically—and praying.

"When death stares any man in the face he calls to the Lord to save him. I asked Him if I could just spend this Christmas with my family and to see the baby that was on its way. I wanted to get my life squared away and redeem myself. I wanted to live right. In a few seconds a person can think of a thousand things. I knew I had to have help . . . fast . . . and I prayed that He might help me," Webb said.

Webb desperately realized that it was only a matter of seconds when the car would again be moving. He knew that his battered body could not survive additional torture. He expected the mine foreman, Glen Dixon, of David, to order the motorman to start the loaded cars off the tracks at any time. Quitting time was near when the labor car would take the miners out. He began to scream for help. Unable to move, his leg cut open to the bone, almost torn in two, he screamed and prayed, and hoped that in the bedlam of noise created by the simultaneous running of an elevator, shuttle cars, car spotter, coal Joy loader, and the cutting machines, that someone, in the next precious few seconds, might hear and act.

Dixon had felt a peculiar urge to crawl toward the mine facing that day. It was an odd thing, going against his usual schedule completely. He approached the place where he knew Webb was. He knew if he were to say anything to him he would have to yell as loud as he could to be heard over the noise of the machinery. Sometimes, Dixon knew, he had to put the loudspeaker of the Walkie-Talkie system close to his ear to catch its sound. He had arrived at the facing, he heard a muffled cry. It sounded like, "Lord, help me." Anything could happen in a coal mine. He ordered the machinery turned off and began to listen intently. The sound became stronger. He followed it.

Dixon was convinced that some one, in the darkness of the mine, had been run over by the cars. He looked under a car. Nothing. As he straightened up he saw Webb.

Webb says he heard the anguished cry of Dixon, who, in shock said, "Oh my God, Webb, how did you get yourself in a shape like that?" Then Dixon quickly yelled, "Don't move the cars," to the motorman.

And the reply, which almost paralyzed Webb with fear, was, "You say to move the cars?"

"No, don't move them," Dixon screamed back. "There's a man caught on one."

He remembers that Glen Dixon, John Bays, Jr., and Galen Picklesimer, taking a jack and lowering the cars two more inches, removed him from the car by "pure main strength and awkwardness" out of the seven-inch space. He collapsed in the lap of Dixon. When one of the four noted that Webb's eyes were resting on his cheeks, Webb grasped his eyes with both hands and replaced them. "They were stretched real tight so when I put them close to the sockets, they popped right out of my hands into place," he said.

As Webb awaited the ambulance, Dr. John Archer administered a shot. He remembers I. C. Spotte asking him how he felt and the men outside saying that he probably wouldn't live to reach the hospital.

Later, when Franklin Moore, Dr. Archer, and John Bays, Jr., accompanied Webb to the hospital, he was reported as screaming portions of the Lord's Prayer. He would then successively repeat the Lord's Prayer, each time in a quieter, more controlled voice. By the time he reached the Prestonsburg General hospital he was repeating the complete Lord's Prayer in a perfectly calm voice.

His wife was not given any false hopes. Drs. John and George Archer, physicians who had seen mine cases succumb from lesser injuries told her if Webb lives 72 hours they would then, perhaps, take hope. Webb lived. Inside two weeks it was apparent that only time would be required to heal the injuries.

No one can understand, the doctors least of all, why this man did not die. Why did not shock take its expected course as it might on one who had had his heart, lungs, and his entire chest badly mangled? Twelve ribs were cracked, his leg bared, on one side, of flesh, and, according to the doctors, they had never seen a heart so badly bruised without being punctured.

Webb says, "Any of the ribs could have punctured my heart or lungs . . . and it didn't happen." Then he grinned and said, "Brother, you can't tell me a human body isn't tough!"

He believes that it was not only the will-to-live but the help of God that saved him. There are too many things, according to Webb, that are strange. For instance, the mining engineers, who inspect after each accident, cannot understand how he survived. He could have been pulled apart, or, as it happened in the majority of accidents of that nature, been reduced to mince-meat by the grinding action of the car against the ceiling of the mine. Some are killed by the timber pin which digs into victim's bodies. It only tore Webb's clothes. They could not understand why Dixon took the erratic course to find Webb on the loaded car. It would have been much more normal for Dixon to sidetrack the cars without searching for Webb. Death surely would have resulted.

The doctors could not understand why Webb did not die on the way to the hospital. However, as Dr. John put it, Webb seemed too busy for death . . . he was concentrating on recitals of the Lord's Prayer.

Webb smiled at the interviewer and reminisced. "I heard Russell Pfeiffer, a friend of Dr. George Archer, talking. I knew he ran a woodwork shop and wondered what the devil he was doing at the hospital. Then I thought Dr. George might be borrowing one of Russell's saws to cut my leg off. And another thing, while in the mine, I felt for my leg and mistakenly found my overalls which were lying away from my leg. I couldn't find my leg inside so I assumed it had been torn off."

Webb is now a burly, handsome fellow whose appearance belies the evidence of an accident which has taken so many. He now walks among the living, ever mindful that he is doing so by the mercy of God.

BAGWORMS

Bagworms are the worms that weave part of the foliage and even small branches into bags that hang on evergreens and some deciduous plants. These bags may be seen hanging on the plants practically all seasons of the year. When the eggs hatch and the young worms emerge they are ravenous feeders and unless controlled quickly, they often injure ornamental plants to the point where they never regain their former beauty.

Control: 1. Hand pick and burn these bags from November until March 15. Where there are just a few bags hanging on the plants they are easily seen during these months, and if they are all picked and burned, the worms will be controlled.

Additional control methods are these: Use four tablespoons of malathion in one gallon of water. Two sprayings should be sufficient. Each spray should be applied at 6 p.m. as the worms have crept out by that time.

POWER SHOVELS GROW

Excavating shovels used to remove overburden in surface coal mining operations continue to grow. Peabody Coal Co., of Chicago — second largest commercial coal producer in the nation — has ordered for operation near Freeburg, Ill., a shovel with a 70-cubic foot bucket able to move 105 tons of overburden at a time. Recently a shovel capable of 90-ton bites was put into operation by M. A. Hanna Co., near Cadiz, O. The Peabody Shovel will be the largest in the world.

SENATORS HIT OIL IMPORTS

Solons of Both Parties Claim Foreign Oil Over Level Set by President

WASHINGTON—Thirty-one Senators, 15 Republicans and 16 Democrats, calling attention to the fact that the amount of oil imports is exceeding the level set by a President's Committee last year, Monday asked Director of Defense Mobilization Arthur S. Flemming for "assurances" that remedial action will be taken. The request was made in a letter pointing out that the Defense Amendment of the Trade Agreements Extension Act of 1955 was adopted with the understanding that the Executive branch of the government would not permit oil imports to exceed the 1954 relationship to domestic production.

"It is our understanding that oil imports have continuously exceeded the 1954 ratio to domestic production, and that these excesses have been increasing despite the efforts by your office during the past year to obtain a voluntary restraint on these imports through a number of appeals to the importing companies," the letter stated. "It is our further understanding that the future programs of these companies . . . show greater excesses in scheduled imports at a time when domestic production is being curtailed."

The Senate members informed Dr. Flemming that "no evidence is available to us that oil imports have been, or are being, restrained within the limited determined to be necessary in the interest of national defense."

The letter further stated that Dr. Flemming's plans to re-examine the basic standard for determining import levels "indicate a further delay in accomplishing such restriction. In conclusion the Senators wrote:

"As Senators interested in assuring that oil imports do not impair the necessary developments of domestic fuel resources, we would appreciate any further advice or information you can furnish us as to this matter, including whatever assurances you can give us that action will be taken to carry out the intent of the Defense Amendment to hold oil imports to the 1954 relationship."

The letter was signed by the following members of the Senate:

Allot (Colo.), Anderson (N. Mex.), Barrett (Wyo.), Beall (Md.), Bible (Nev.), Capehart (Ind.), Carlson (Kans.), Case (S. D.), Chavez (N. Mexico), Clements (Ky.), Curtis (Neb.), Daniel (Texas), Dirksen (Ill.), Ellender (La.), Goldwater (Ariz.), Humphreys (Ky.), Jenner (Ind.), Kerr (Okla.), Laird (W. Va.), Langer (N. Parsons entered the Army in April, 1954, and arrived in the Far East in July, 1955. He attended Betsy Layne high school.

Form Roads Group To Push Passage Of Bond Issue

Frankfort, Aug. 2 — The Kentucky Better Roads Council was formed recently in Louisville, to promote passage of the State's $100,000,000 highway-bond issue at the Nov. 6 general election.

Former Governor Keen Johnson was named president, with Mayor Hecht Lackey, Owensboro, and H. P. Minch, road chairman of Kentucky Rural Letter Carriers Association, co-vice-presidents. Dewey Daniel, of Hazard, was named treasurer and Glen Weinman, Lexington, secretary.

If the bond issue, passed by the Legislature last spring, is approved by the voters, the money will be used to match federal funds for construction of a 640-mile interstate highway system within the State, and for primary, secondary and rural roads.

Speakers at the organizational meeting included Frankfort attorney Joseph J. Leary, who largely drafted the bond-issue act passed by the Legislature; State Highway Commissioner Bert Kiser, Dwight Bray, chief engineer of the State Highway Department and Dr. James W. Martin, state finance commissioner.

The five-point program as outlined by Leary was:

1. Kentucky could receive an estimated $486,100,000 for the construction of inter-state highways.
2. State would receive $55,620,000 in federal aid for other roads during the next three years.
3. To secure all federal aid available on a matching basis, including money at ratios of 9 to 1, 50-50, and 60-40, the State would have to put up $57,550,000 during the next three years.
4. Of the $57,550,000 proposed to be spent for matching funds during the 1957-59 period, $11,930,000 would be matched 9 to 1 by the Federal Government and the remainder at 50-50 or 60-40 ratios.
5. Per cent estimated cost of the 640-mile inter-state highway system in Kentucky would be $486,100,000 over a 13-year-period.

Nothing takes to the road like a Chevy!

Once in a blue moon a car like this comes along—a design so advanced in performance, so beautifully balanced that it stands out above every other car on the highway. It has a solid, sure-footed way of going that makes driving safer and more pleasant on any road. And you feel a very special sense of security in its rapid-fire responsiveness to your touch on the wheel, brakes and accelerator.

You can see that the '56 Chevy is a standout for style. But until you have driven one you're missing the best part of the news—the fact that Chevrolet is the smoothest, solidest, most wedded-to-the-road automobile you ever bossed. Try it and see.

America's largest selling car—2 million more owners than any other make!

You get more car when you buy it . . . more dollars when you sell it! Chevy has the highest resale value of the leading low-priced models!

Fannin, McCreary Judge, Resigns; Had Been Named Presidential Elector

Mitchell S. Fannin, a native of Betsy Layne, who was appointed McCreary county judge several months ago, resigned Thursday of last week. Fannin had held a state job appointment since March 1, serving as manager of the Somerset State Highway office.

Fannin said he was resigning to serve as Democratic presidential elector from Kentucky, a post to which he was named recently by the party. He said the attorney general's office had held the positions of judge and elector were incompatible; that is, he could not hold both.

But Attorney General Jo M. Ferguson said his office also had advised Fannin it thought the judgeship and highway posts were incompatible after Fannin had asked about the matter.

Fannin was named judge by former Governor Lawrence Wetherby for the unexpired term of G. C. Walker, which extends to the November election this year.

Harry G. Davis, Governor Chandler's executive secretary said Fannin's resignation as judge had been received and appointment of a successor was expected to be announced soon.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Miss Justice, Mr. Rorrer Are Wed

Miss Betty Lou Justice, daughter of Mrs. Ona Mullins of Pikeville, and James V. Justice of Canton, Ohio, became the bride of Mr. Ralph Thomas Rorrer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rorrer, Lancer, Ky., Friday, July 20, at the home of the bride of College street, Pikeville.

The Rev. W. E. Davis performed the double ring ceremony in the living room of the home before an improvised altar of white gladioli.

The bride wore a street-length dress of white lace with white accessories, and wore a corsage of white orchids.

Mrs. Vivian Stratton Mullins, the bride's only attendant, wore a turquoise and white silk dress with white accessories and a shoulder corsage of yellow rose buds.

David May served as best man. The bride's mother was attired in a navy and white dress with navy accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple left for a wedding trip to Myrtle Beach, S. C. For her going-away costume, the bride chose a pink faille dress with black accessories and wore the orchid from her bridal flowers.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Rorrer are residing with his parents at Lancer.

Woodmen Representative Given Expense Paid Trip For Salesmanship Record

Ernest Turner, of Drift, representative of the Woodmen of World, was notified late last month that he had won an all-expense paid trip to Detroit and Windsor, Canada. The trip was awarded Mr. Turner on the basis of an outstanding sales record. Mrs. Turner will accompany him.

T. E. Newton, field manager of the fraternal organization at Omaha, Neb., wrote the Floyd county representative, July 25, that he had been recognized for outstanding salesmanship.

"We are sure you will enjoy the program planned for Monday and Wednesday the week of August 20, in the Wayne Room of the Statler Hotel as well as the trip to Greenfield Village, the Ford Plant and Windsor, Canada, on Tuesday," he wrote Mr. Turner. They will leave Aug. 18.

Plenty of Zip at a pip of a price

(It's a great time to buy a Buick!)

SERIOUSLY—where else can you get so much snap and ginger at such a peach of a price?

Where else can you get a big, high-powered, steady-riding hardtop like this '56 Buick Riviera—at a figure that's pretty close to what they're asking for similar models of the well-known smaller cars?

Nowhere else that we know of—which is one big reason why Buick outsells all others cars in America except two of those smaller cars.

BUT RIGHT ALONG with low price is something else behind Buick's big success: Buick is a lot more automobile for the money.

It gives you more room and luxury—more zip and power thrill—fine handling and sure-footed stability.

And it gives you something you can get in no other car—today's advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflo.* It's

Few Convictions May Be Mounting Deaths Cause

Kentucky's traffic violation conviction rate was pointed to this week as one of the possible causes of mounting deaths in the Commonwealth.

Commissioner of Kentucky State Police P. A. B. Widener compared Kentucky's 68.5 per cent conviction rate for moving hazardous traffic violations with 96.7 per cent figure in New Jersey.

He emphasized that speed heads the list of fatal accidents causes and stressed the 77 per cent conviction rate in Kentucky for speed arrests as compared with a 93.5 per cent figure for convictions in similar New Jersey arrests.

Commissioner Widener said Kentucky statistics used for the comparison were from the 1955 calendar year while New Jersey statistics represented the 55-56 fiscal year. "The two periods are close enough together to get a close parallel comparison-wise," he said.

The Commissioner said safety officials are alarmed at Kentucky's rising death toll. He pointed out that road deaths in the Commonwealth has consistently run about 10 per cent under the 1955 count for most of this year, but as of Aug. 1 were only 3 per cent under the '55 mark. He said 404 persons were killed on Kentucky roads during the first seven months of 1956 compared with 416 during that same period last year.

Widener added that Kentucky State Police have 254 police personnel with a 7,836 square mile area. He also stressed the fact that Kentucky has 13,023 miles of state maintained highways compared with 12,448 in New Jersey.

QUIZ CONTEST HERE, AUG. 14

"What's The Answer" Stated at Strand Theatre, Offers $25,000 in Prizes

A "What's The Answer" contest—leading to prizes valued at nearly $25,000—and elections of local board and Farm Home Advisory committee members, will be among the highlights of the annual Southern States membership meeting for the Prestonsburg area to be held at 6:45 p.m., August 14, at the Strand Theatre here. The session is being sponsored by Southern States and the Prestonsburg Farm and Home Store.

The "What's The Answer" contest—there will be about 450 such contests held throughout the six-state operating territory of Southern States Cooperative within the next few months—will be built around a slide film report of Southern States Cooperative and local agency operations for the past year.

To be eligible, contestants must be 18 years of age or older as of August 1, 1956, and be a member or patron of Southern States or be a member of their families, or be a member of any farm family. He or she must attend the local Southern States meeting in the community.

There will be three contests, based on "What's The Answer" questions, to be held at local meetings. All winners will have their names entered in the grand prize competition which will be held as part of the Southern States annual Stockholders meeting scheduled for Lexington, Ky., in November. Two winners at the local meeting will receive electric skillets.

A total of 15 grand prizes, all of them with cash options, will be awarded at Lexington. Included among these are $1,200 worth of Southern States supplies for use on the winner's farm; a 35-cubic-foot food freezer; a fertilizer spreader; $1,100 worth of Southern States supplies for use on the winner's farm; $1,000 worth of seed; a milking machine; a bulk milk tank; $1,000 worth of fertilizer; and other prizes.

Homer Neeley, of Prestonsburg will serve as chairman of the local meeting. Rev. Alex Stephens, of Cliff, will give the invocation. A report of local operations and services will be given by Oden Stewart, manager of the Prestonsburg Farm and Home Store. Southern States District Manager Tommy Combs will report on over-all Southern States operations for the year ended last June 30.

Nominees for the local Southern States board for the Prestonsburg area are Homer Neeley, Prestonsburg; Alex Stephens, Cliff; Ezra Crisp, Dana, and Jesse Wallen, of Watergap.

Nominees for the Farm Home Advisory committee are Mrs. Henry Wright, Prestonsburg; Mrs. Billie Merritt, Bonanza and Mrs. Gladys Conn, Dana.

Other nominations may be made from the floor. Members of the board whose terms expire this year are John Walken and John Neeley.

Members of the Farm Home Advisory committee whose terms expire this year are Mrs. Grace Conley and Mrs. Alex Stephens.

Two From This County Receive U. of K. Degrees

A total of 374 students received degrees at the University of Kentucky's summer commencement program Friday night in Memorial Coliseum in Lexington.

UK President-Elect Frank G. Dickey, who will formally assume the duties of the presidency Sept. 1, delivered the commencement address. President H. L. Donovan, who is retiring Sept. 1 after 15 years in the position, presided at the ceremony. Dr. Donovan presided over his first UK commencement at the graduation of summer session students in 1941, following his appointment as president on July 1 of that year.

University officials have reported that the summer class includes graduates from 90 different counties in Kentucky and 20 other states. Ten doctorates, 175 masters and professional degrees and 189 bachelors degrees were awarded.

Candidates for advanced and professional degrees included Paul Hopper, of Wayland, who received the Master of Business Administration degree.

Bachelor's degree was conferred on two Floyd countians:

Edsel Moore, Prestonsburg, and James Stephens, Price.

GI LOAN END SET FOR 1958

Life of Loan Program Is Prolonged by Year Under New Legislation

The World War II GI Loan Program ending date has been extended for one more year to July 25, 1958 under an omnibus GI loan law signed by the President August 1, 1956.

In the 12 years that the GI loan program has been in operation, 4,466,000 World War II veterans throughout the nation have borrowed $33.2 billion in GI loans to purchase homes, farms and businesses. In Kentucky approximately 40,000 World War II veterans have borrowed $280 million in GI loans.

The GI loan program previously was scheduled to end July 25, 1957 and, under the working of the original law, all GI loans would have had to be closed by that date.

Under this new law, any GI loan for which VA receives an application by July 25, 1958 may be guaranteed or insured by VA if it is completed by July 25, 1959.

VA emphasized that the new law affects only World War II veterans. Korean conflict period veterans have until January 31, 1956 to obtain GI loans for homes, farms and businesses.

In addition, this new law will permit any veteran who sells residential property purchased with a GI loan to be relieved from liability to the Government under certain circumstances.

Previously, the veterans who sold his property and allowed the purchaser to assume his GI loan still remained liable to the Government in the event of subsequent foreclosure and the payment of a guaranty claim by the VA.

Now the veterans may be relieved of liability if the purchaser assumes full liability on the loan, the VA approves him from a credit standpoint, and the loan is current.

The new law also permits World War II veterans to have their GI loan entitlement restored up to January 31, 1965 if their property:

- (1) Was taken by a Governmental agency for public use;
- (2) Was destroyed by a natural hazard, or
- (3) Was otherwise disposed of for compelling reasons without fault on the part of the veteran.

The new law also amends the GI bill to permit the restoration of GI home loan entitlement to a veteran in military service who disposes of his home because of a transfer under military orders.

A veteran, under the new law, will have to certify that he intends to live in the home he is buying with the assistance of a GI loan at the time of application and at the time of closing the loan.

The new law also clarifies and confirms VA's authority to make the final determination of reasonable value of property irrespective of the estimate of value made by an individual appraiser.

Motorists Asked For Suggestions On Road Markings

Frankfort, Aug. 6 (Spl.)—State officials, in an effort to lift Kentucky higher regionally and nationally in highway and traffic operation, are asking motorists for suggestions on improving driving conditions in the Commonwealth.

Highway Commissioner Bert Kliser has requested motorists—both here and from out of state—to write Mr. H. Alves, director of Traffic, Department of Highways, Frankfort, giving constructive comments on improving route markings and other safety signs, so important to car drivers, particularly visitors.

Although Kentucky is now ranked fourth highest in traffic operation and maintenance in the South-eastern states—and in the top half nationally—State authorities want to put the Commonwealth in first place. Presently, only Virginia, Florida and North Carolina, in that order, rate ahead of Kentucky in the 12-state area.

According to State Traffic statistics, Kentucky leads the region in number of marked curves; in no-passing zone signs; in special markers; in number of signal studies made and in highway delineators. It ranks second in miles of hard-surface roads and in total miles of new highways constructed. Kentucky is recognized as being one of the most attractive states in the country. Now state officials want to make its highways the best marked and safest for its motorists.

WAYLAND MAN RECOVERING

Walter Martin, Jr., who for the past two years has been principal at Napier high school, Hazard, underwent a stomach operation at Good Samaritan hospital, Lexington, last week. Mr. Martin is convalescing and he expects to be home in about 10 days. His plans are to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Martin, Sr., Wayland, before assuming the duties of superintendent in South Salem, Ohio, September 1. Both Mr. Martin and his wife have been enrolled at the University of Kentucky for the summer.

NOTICE

I hold notes, checks and material liens on properties for large sums of money due me for lumber. Many of these accounts have been outstanding for a long time. I find that due to illness I will have to ask all who owe me to pay their accounts by September 1.

I have never sued anyone yet on an account but when you get old and are not able to earn a living you often find it necessary to demand payment. If accounts are not settled by Sept. 1, I will go before the grand jury and indict the persons who have given me bad checks. All others are hereby notified that I will bring suit on uncollected accounts by Sept. 1.

Three widows owe me accounts for lumber. This is notice to them that their accounts are being marked paid in full.

YOU GET MORE FOR YOUR MONEY WHEN YOU buy a CHRYSLER in August!

Let Bill Lundigan show you Chrysler's beautiful 4-door hardtops on "Climax", Thursday, August 9, 7:30 P.M., Channel 11.

By trading for a new 1956 Chrysler right now you get the most for your old car and pay the lowest fall price for your new car. And the car you're driving will never be worth as much again.

Even more important, Chrysler gives you more that's new right now than many cars will have even next year... year-ahead successes like Flight-sweep styling, pushbutton driving, center plane brake system, the only full-time power steering and airplane-type V-8 engine. No wonder people are trading in other makes of cars for 1956 Chryslers at an all-time record rate.

Both Heat and Cold Can Kill Council Says

Do you ever moan, "This heat is killing me?" Well, it can—and so can cold!

Excessive heat and cold killed 1,208 persons in the United States in 1954. Excessive heat was responsible for 978 of the deaths, excessive cold for 230.

Hunger, thirst and exposure killed 238 other persons, according to "Accident Facts," the National Safety Council's statistical yearbook, which is just off the press.

The 1954 figures are the latest available.

COLTS HALVE FOUR GAMES

Dixon's Three Homers Help Team Gain Split With Wheelwright Club

Three homers off the bat of Wayne Dixon enabled the Prestonsburg Colts to split a doubleheader last Thursday with the Wheelwright club in which the Colts won the first, 12-6, and, facing a three-hit performance by Waddle, lost the second, 12-2.

Dixon, a center on the Prestonsburg football team, sent three balls for homers in the first game. The first homer, according to spectators, traveled about 350 feet, and the other two, although smacked hard, disappeared out of the park over the near right-field fence. His homers accounted for four runs.

The McCoys and Hatfield were at it in the Wheelwright line-up in the second game when McCoy managed to walk every time and Hatfield, not to be outdone, gathered two hits. No less effective in defeating Prestonsburg plans to score was the pitching of Waddle who allowed only three hits, two being made by Dixon. Waddle, in the five-inning fray, struck out 11 batters.

A seven-run inning, resulting from Waddle's single, Sword's base-on-balls, Curry's single, Hatfield's ace, a pass to McCoy, Curry's hit to right and Campbell's single put Wheelwright out of Prestonsburg's reach in the second game.

A fourth inning rally sparked by Dixon's homer and a double by centerfielder Julian Campbell in the first game added up to 10 runs for the Prestonsburg cause. Pitcher Meade of the Colts welcomed the extra runs as he allowed Wheelwright six runs.

In a doubleheader played earlier the two teams split, Wheelwright winning the first, 13 to 5, and the Colts copying the second, 6-4.

Don Sullivan, manager of the Colts, announced that the Prestonsburg team will play a return doubleheader at Wheelwright tonight (Wednesday).

SPORTS CHATTER

By Quentin Allen

OUR CHOICE

Now that "King" Kelly Coleman has been beset by difficulties it might be honestly said that the best basketball guard in Kentucky is playing football in this year's East-West gridiron contest.

Lowell Hughes, who has turned many a head with his feats on the hardwood and the football field, and who is the object of many major league baseball scouts' attention, is the lad. Hughes, for all his athletic ability, has not let his press notices go to his head and is this paper's choice as an outstanding example of sportsmanship in Kentucky.

TWICE TAGGED

Word comes along that Heber Burke has caught a fish without putting a hook into the frisky thing.

Bear tale? No, it's a fish tale, but true, says Heber. He vows that the fish, instead of being hooked, was caught when the hook slipped inside a tag which had been placed on it. So Heber actually tagged a "tagged" fish.

BUT ANYBODY!

Editor Allen strolled nonchalantly into his house the other day, just returning from an evening's tour of Dewey Lake. A Cincinnati Redlegs game was in progress, which gave the editor little opportunity to catch anybody's attention. Then the great revelation came. He pulled a fish from behind his back, and, to the surprise of all, it was a nice fish, weighing 4 1/2 pounds.

Which prompted the smallest of the Allen clan to remark, "Everybody must have caught one." Yes, folks, it proves that anyone can catch a fish. Conclusively!

WHOOOPS!

Dave Marrs refuted the "idleness of August" this week in hauling a 6 1/2-pound largemouth back to the docks after deceiving the whopper in striking a Lazy Ike. While most are either complaining that the weather is too hot for fishing or that there aren't any fish in the lake, Dave's fish, taken in the hottest month of the summer, might quiet some of the moaners who should take a hint and get out some Lazy Ikes and a casting rod.

PREDICTION

This writer has a Drew Pearson prediction. I predict that next spring, when the high school basketball tournament is held at the Fairgrounds in Louisville, there will not be half as many people attending the prep school classic as did this year from Eastern Kentucky.

Strictly for Redleg fans: Little Leaguer Bobby May, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob May, Prestonsburg, had on his return here from the South very pleasing news to report about an up-and-coming prospect of the Redlegs. Curtis Flood, a member of the Hi-Tom club in the Carolina League, smacked a grand-slam and made some Willie Mays-like plays in the outfield, according to young Bob. Bobby added that Flood, only 18, is presently leading the league in hitting and home-runs (.341, 20 homers).

P'BURG TAKES DOUBLE BILL

Campbell, Barchett Hurl Well in Defeating Martin Here Sunday Afternoon

The Prestonsburg semi-professionals swept both ends of a doubleheader last Sunday from a Martin nine, 12-0 in the first, and 8-1 in the nightcap.

The contests, held at the new field adjacent to the Prestonsburg high school, saw strong pitching exhibitions by the Prestonsburg right-handers, Julian Campbell and Curt Burchett.

Campbell kept the Martin hitters off balance during the entire contest as he limited the visitors to two hits and no runs. In shutting the Martin club out with ease, Campbell allowed only two runners, Robinson and Fannin, as far as second. Curt Burchett was almost equally effective in the second game when Martin scored only one run in making three hits off his pitching.

Prestonsburg enjoyed their biggest inning of the day on three errors by Martin infielders, a base-on-balls to Johnny Ellis, a single by Curt Burchett, and a towering home-run by Adrian Blackburn which chalked up six runs in the first contest.

Tommy Westfall and Caudill put together a triple and a single to push over the only Martin marker of the doubleheader.

Former Allen Man Victim In Michigan; Burial Is At Dwale

Marion Wright, 65, formerly of Allen, died at Marshall, Mich., Friday of last week, from the effects of a cerebral hemorrhage suffered over a year ago. He had remained bedfast the entire period of illness.

A son of the late Garfield and Susan Robinson Wright, he was married to Sally Robinson, who survives. Surviving children are Lee, of Marshall, Mrs. Nancy Bentley, of Allen, Mrs. Jobe Adkins, of Marshall, and Mrs. Della Akers, in Ohio. Brothers and sisters surviving are James A. Wright, Mrs. Anna Goodman, and Mrs. Sarah Howard, all of Marshall, and Mrs. Lula Fields, of Allen.

Funeral services were conducted, Tuesday, at 10 a.m., at the Dwale Methodist church, the Revs. Wallace Calhoun, Ira Fields and Henry Porter officiating. Burial was made in the Dwale cemetery under the direction of Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

Traffic Travels State Super-Road After Dedication

Frankfort, Aug. 2 — The Kentucky Turnpike was officially dedicated July 31 at 11 a.m. Ceremonies were held at the Shepherdsville service area located approximately one mile north of the toll plaza.

Master of ceremonies for the dedication was Lieut. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield. Music was furnished by the Fort Knox band.

Automobiles were allowed to pass over the road toll-free until midnight, Ed Kubale, turnpike manager said. One toll plaza is located near the southern terminus at Elizabethtown and the other at the intersection with State 44 near Shepherdsville.

At its northern terminus in Louisville the turnpike will connect the Watterson Expressway and the North-South Expressway, now under construction. Two service areas have been established where motorists will find attractive stations providing food and complete motor service.

Of the latest design in super highways, the Kentucky Turnpike, with two 24-foot cement roadways separated by a 20 foot median strip, is not only the most modern highway in Kentucky but a very scenic one as well.

Kubale said pilot runs made before the opening of the turnpike, driving within the 60-mile-per-hour, State speed limit, shows the trip from Louisville to Elizabethtown can be made in slightly more than 40 minutes.

Chandler Authorizes State Medal for Valor

Frankfort, Aug. 6 (Spl.) — Any State employee who performs a "hazardous duty at the risk of his own life" will be eligible to receive the Governor's Medal of Valor.

Gov. Chandler, in authorizing the medal, directed that it be granted for services of "extraordinary nature, such as a firefighter exposing himself to danger that is above and beyond the call of duty."

OUR STATE

(Number Fifteen of an Educational Series)

TOLL PLAZA

The recent growth of highway traffic has created a situation which in many ways parallels that of 1793 and Kentucky has borrowed from the experience of the early settlers in turning again to the turnpike for a partial solution of the problem, but with a difference. Whereas the original turnpikes were built by private enterprise with the hope of earning profits, the new Kentucky Turnpike will be constructed by the state and will become a free public facility once the tolls collected from users have retired the bonded indebtedness.

Tough jobs demand a Universal 'Jeep'

A 4-Wheel-Drive Universal 'Jeep' takes you to the job, wherever it is—on the road or off! This rugged performer carries men and equipment over the highway in conventional 2-wheel drive. Then, when work calls for travel off the road—through mud, sand or snow, up hill or down—you shift a single lever for the extra traction of 4-wheel drive. With power take-off, or hydraulic lift, the Universal 'Jeep' does an almost endless variety of jobs. To find out what it can do for you, ask for a demonstration.

Traction. 4-wheel drive gives the extra traction for traveling up steep grades or broken ground. The 'Jeep' is built to stand up and take it in tough usage.

Mobile power. With power take-off, the Universal 'Jeep' provides mobile power for operating welders, compressors, generators and many other kinds of specialized equipment.

Hydraulic lift. With hydraulic lift, the 4-wheel drive 'Jeep' operates graders, scrapers, post hole diggers and most 3-point hitch implements.

Now a 'Jeep' with longer wheelbase—the new model CJ-5. Carries larger, bulkier loads; has all the features that made the 'Jeep' famous.

Meditation was by Euna Laven, prayer by Mrs. Edna Mae Callison. Dramatization, "Four Years of Growing Time," was by Mrs. Virginia Lushbaugh and Tiney Crisp, in which they gave a report of the growth of the society. The goal chart used during the last quadrennium was presented and local charts and other material were used to show the advance of the work. Refreshments were served in the dining room by Mrs. Carr the pastor Rev. John P. Carr, and the following members: Mesdames Tiney Crisp, Virginia Lushbaugh, Flora Gray, Euna Laven, Lucy Kinzer, Bennie Laferty, Pearl Kinzer, Nancy Louder, Jewel Allen, Peggy Sexton, Edna Mae Callison. The September meeting will be in the church, with Flora Gray as hostess.

Indians' Chase Of Great Grandfather Of Ex-President Gave Church Its Name, Truman Says In Letter To Ky. Senator

Former President Harry S. Truman tells an interesting story of how historic Long Run church got its name in a letter to Senator Earle C. Clements.

Commenting on a bill introduced in the Senate by Senator Clements requesting a study of making the Long Run area in Jefferson county a national monument, the former President said:

"My two grandmothers and one of my grandfathers were members of that church, and I remember Grandmother Young telling me how the church got its name. It seems that her grandfather and some of his neighbors were being chased by Indians. When they scattered, her grandfather crawled into a hollow log to hide. The Indian who was after him jumped up on the log and, after looking in vain in all directions, said, 'Long Run, white man'."

The grandfather of President Abraham Lincoln owned the area where the church was built 111 years ago, and he was killed by Indians there. His body is buried under the church.

Jesse Floyd Blevins, Tram Man, Succumbs At Local Hospital

Jesse Floyd Blevins, 71, of Tram, died at the Prestonsburg General hospital, last Saturday, following an illness of four months. He was a farmer and had resided at Tram for 14 years.

Mr. Blevins was a son of the late Robert Blevins, of Johnson county. Three children survive: Mrs. Lovey A. Wright, of Tram, James R. Blevins, Gallipolis, O., and Miss Myrl D. Blevins, also of Tram. Brothers surviving are Dock Blevins, of Weeksbury, Dick Blevins, of Van Lear, and Harrison Blevins, Springfield, O.

Funeral services were conducted Monday, at 10 a.m., at the home of Mrs. Wright at Tram, the Rev. Carl Layne officiating. Burial was made in the Tram cemetery under the direction of Carter & Callihan Funeral Home.

Increase Is Noted In Child Placement

Frankfort, Aug. 6 (Spl.) — Seventy-seven Kentucky dependent children were placed in homes for adoption during the six-month period ending June 30, a spokesman in the Department of Economic Security reported recently.

During the comparable 1955 period 51 children were placed, the spokesman said.

Of the 1956 placements, 49 were reported to courts the last six months as approved for adoption by the department.

It said children placed in homes for adoption reside for a minimum of three months, after which the court reports are made.

Seventeen of the 77 of this year's placements were made during June.
