This Town—That World

WEATHER REPORT: High pressure area over Mid-West, centering on Chicago this week, moving to West coast over week-end with blasts of hot air hitting San Francisco next week.

The title of the baseball farce featuring Ted Williams might have been called "Great Expectations."

ALL BELONG IN JAIL TOGETHER

We have no sympathy at all for those so-called American citizens who were bilked out of $10,000 or so by a negro miner from Middleboro who extracted money from them by simply signing Hitler's name, or the name of Hitler's late paramour, to letters soliciting support of a "New Revolt." The disturbing thing about news of this sort is the fact that there are people in this country who would follow Hitler if he were alive.

CONSOLATION

John Hensley recently returned here from Indiana where he visited his brother. He tells of a fishing trip the two took to Michigan, and sadly relates that their catch was only 19 bluegills. We hope it will be some consolation to him to learn that they did exactly 19 times better than Dr. J. H. Allen and Ray Allen did in Michigan, a couple of years back.

MAN, THE GREAT SPOILER

If any think that there is not inherent evil in man, let them consider the destructive, unholy purposes to which man has turned the useful gifts of his Maker: wood and stone into arrows and spears, metals into bullets and shrapnel and bombs; even the infinitesimally minute atom into a

CLUB CHANGES EVENT LOCALE

Fish Fry Set Sept 16 For Speedway at Allen; Span Break Forces Shift;

The fish fry sponsored annually by the Floyd County Fish & Game Club will be held Sept. 16 this year and in a new location. Because of inaccessibility to autos of the Beaver Valley Golf & Country Club grounds at Allen, with the bridge spanning Beaver Creek there closed to traffic, directors of the Fish & Game Club decided Monday night to stage the fish fry this year on the Sandy Valley Speedway at Allen.

Program for this year's event has not been arranged, but it is expected to be of a nature similar to those of preceding years which have attracted the largest crowds to attend any such event in Eastern Kentucky. Arnold Workman, of Prestonsburg, is chairman of the program committee. The prize bag this year, it is planned, will be comparable to those of other years.

2ND PIPELINE JOB STARTED, PLANT RESULT

New Line from Maytown To West Virginia Will Convey Liquid Products

Second of two big pipeline construction jobs resulting from construction of the $9,000,000 hydrocarbon recovery plant being built near Maytown is now being laid over a mountainous stretch of Kentucky and West Virginia that is only two-tenths of a mile shy of the 100-mile mark.

This project, the laying of a six-inch line from the plant at Maytown to Institute, W. Va., will entail the expenditure of $2,500,000. It will carry from the hydrocarbon recovery plant at Maytown to the Carbide & Carbon Chemicals Company plant at Institute, W. Va., liquid by-products extracted from natural gas at the huge Maytown plant.

The first pipeline was laid from the Maytown plant to the Clinchfield Coal Company gas field in Virginia via Osborne Gap to draw on that field for additional natural gas supply. The Ranier Construction Company, Prestonsburg, contractor on laying of the 12-inch line from Maytown to Osborne Gap at the Kentucky-Virginia line, has completed the difficult task of excavating and laying the pipe over an area as rugged as any to be encountered in this section. The Kentucky sector of the line connecting with the Virginia field was calculated to cost $1,296,700.

Carbide & Carbon is building the pipeline from this county into West Virginia. Field construction is being done by two sub-contractors—the 38-mile stretch from Kermit, W. Va., to Maytown by the Stout Construction Company, and the remaining 61.8 miles from Kermit to Institute by Carl Smith, Inc.

It was said this week that the sub-contractors expect to complete work on the line by Dec. 31 and that liquid gas will be received at Institute from the Maytown plant by March 31. The tentative date originally set for plant completion at Maytown was Jan. 1, next year.

Once in full operation, the Floyd plant will be capable of producing daily about 10 million cubic feet of ethane, propane, butane and natural gasoline in liquid form. It is being constructed by the Kentucky Hydrocarbon Company, a subsidiary of the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company, which in turn is a part of the Equitable Gas System, Pittsburgh.

LETTER ASKS BARNES PROBE

Attorney Here Writes U. S. Official He Has Partisanship Evidence

Paul E. Hayes, Prestonsburg attorney, Saturday wrote J. H. Falloon, of the Office of General Council, U. S. Civil Service Commission, that he has at his disposal evidence "which will be of interest to you" and other evidence which will be "sufficient to convince any impartial person" that Vege E. Barnes, commissioner of Kentucky's Department of Economic Security, is using state and federal funds and the program for partisan political purposes.

Mr. Falloon's office, Hayes said he understood, has supervision of the enforcement of the laws and regulations of the various state merit systems established pursuant to requirements of federal law in order to participate in welfare programs.

Mr. Hayes in his letter alleged that:

1. Mrs. Tribby May, of Langley, was discharged from her post as social worker for alleged political activity and on her appeal from the dismissal of the Personnel Council found that the evidence did not sustain the dismissal of the Floyd county woman. The Council recommended her reinstatement but Barnes rejected the recommendation.
2. Barnes announced recently that he would give all of Kentucky's Department of Economic Security employees time off with pay to attend county Democratic conventions in Kentucky. "This was done," Hayes wrote, "when the present Governor was engaged in a struggle to obtain control of the Democratic party machine. Mr. Barnes not only suggested that it was the right of Merit System employees to so en-

Fiscal Court Requests Construction of Highway On Toler to Pike Line

The Floyd fiscal court last Thursday adopted a resolution calling on Rural Highway Commissioner J. B. Wells to construct a rural highway up Toler Creek from the end of the present WPA built road to the Pike county line. Similar requests have within the last two months been made by the court on two other roads in the county.

The court also rescinded its order of May 11 exchanging property with Andy Mitchell on the Ste Frasure branch of Big Mud Creek. Mitchell's deed was voided, and the old road which would have been eliminated was re-established.

HEALTH TAX IS PROPOSED

Board of Health Asks Fiscal Court's Action In Submitting Proposal

The Floyd County Board of Health at its special August 9 meeting called on the Floyd fiscal court to direct the County Court Clerk to place the issue of a health tax of 9 cents per $100 valuation on the coming November election ballot.

The court has not acted on the board's request but is expected to do so shortly. The question to be submitted to the voters of the county, to be answered by a "Yes" or "No" vote, will read:

"Are you in favor of establishing a public health taxing district for Floyd county which shall have the authority to impose a special ad valorem tax for the maintenance and operation of the Floyd County Health Department, provided that such special tax shall not exceed nine cents on each one hundred dollars of the assessed valuation of all property in the district?"

MARTIN SUES FOR $20,000

Prosecutor Names Meade, Constable Caudill; Says Chance for Bond Refused

Commonwealth's Attorney Burnis Martin filed Saturday in the Floyd circuit court two suits by which he seeks to recover a total of $20,000 damages.

One of the complaints names Astor Meade, of Prestonsburg, as defendant, alleging that Meade on last August 14 assaulted him. Compensatory and punitive damages amounting to $5,000 are asked of Meade.

The other asks $15,000 damages of Constable Johnnie Caudill, of Magisterial District 3, on the grounds that Caudill arrested Martin while he was in bed at his home here on advice of a physician after the assault by Meade, and that Caudill placed him in jail without giving him an opportunity to execute bond.

The arrest was made on a warrant sworn out by State Senator Doug Hays, of McDowell, who alleged that Martin struck him at the courthouse here.

In the Meade suit the prosecutor claims that as Commonwealth's Attorney his duties had reference to the Eagles Club here and that he felt it necessary to converse with trustees of the club, of which Meade was one. These inquiries, he contends, incensed Meade, who allegedly attacked Martin with his fists and "other weapons to the defendant's unknown." He alleges that the attack was without excuse, was premeditated and was committed with the intent of humiliating and degrading him as an officer before the public and to interfere with him in the performance of his official duties.

The plaintiff claims in the suit against Constable Caudill that the officer arrested him while he was in bed at his home as a result of his injuries, and that Caudill's re-

Two Floyd-co. Men Victims In Lawrence County Wrecks

Separate highway accidents near Louisa on the same day, Friday, cost the lives of a Prestonsburg man and another who was a native of this county.

Dead are Karl Cecil Tucker, Jr., 38, of Central avenue, Prestonsburg, and James D. Spears, 29, of Blaine, Lawrence county, formerly of German in the Johns Creek section of this county.

Spears was killed at 2 p.m., last Friday, en route from Blaine to Louisiana, when his truck rounded a curve on Ky. 32, seven miles west of Louisa, and went out of control, running onto the side of a hill. When found he was lying in a ditch behind the truck, his chest crushed. He died about 15 minutes after arrival at the Louisa hospital.

Mr. Tucker, who moved here with his family about eight months ago from Charleston, W. Va., was instantly killed in a head-on collision with his station wagon with a pickup truck on U. S. 23, four miles south of Louisa, and about four hours later. It was said that as he drove from Prestonsburg toward Louisa the tire of the approaching truck blew out, the truck going out of control and careening into the traffic lane followed by Tucker's car. Services of two wreckers were required to pull straight the smashed auto and extricate the Prestonsburg man's body.

Ben Figg, Jr., 29, of Louisa, driver of the truck suffered minor injuries. He was taken to Veterans hospital, Huntington, for treatment.

Surviving Mr. Tucker are his widow and one son, Timothy, 3. He was a salesman for the Guthrie, Morris & Campbell Company, dry goods suppliers, Charleston. His funeral was held in Charleston, Monday, and burial was made there.

Funeral of Mr. Spears was held at the home of his parents, William Keeney and Myrtle Jane

A son of the late Guy Rorer, Sr., and Margaret Fraley Rorer, he was married to Goldie Calhoun Rorer, who survives. Two children survive: Charlotte and Guy, III, both at home. A sister, Mrs. Richard Elkins, and a brother, William Rorer, both of Lancer, survive.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p.m., last Sunday, from the Cliff Church of God, the Rev. Moses Kitchen and others officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery at Cliff under the direction of the Moore Funeral Home.

Floyd School Features Adopted in Ky. Program

Kentucky's place in the general educational column may be close to the bottom, but the state's work in educating and training exceptional or retarded children ranks with the four or five states nearest the top. That fact is being pointed up by state administrators of the program, it was said here this week.

The Martin School for Retarded Children, started two years ago, has pointed the way for the state, too, it is being noted. The Division of Education of Exceptional Children, Frankfort, noting the success of the Martin institution, has adopted several features of the work into the state program.

Mrs. Joe Begley, of Betsy Layne, who has taught the Martin school since it was started, will conduct the educable group class this year. A teacher for the trainable class has not yet been found but it is hoped one may be procured from

BOARD LETS SCHOOL JOBS

Work at Betsy Layne, McDowell, Martin Let At Total of $48,652

The Floyd County Board of Education in a special meeting Tuesday awarded school building contracts totaling $48,652.

Largest single project of the three let to contract was that at the Betsy Layne school where Goodman & Scott, Pikeville, were low with their bids of $22,392 on an overhaul job on the old theatre building there which houses the school lunchroom. Front portions of the structure will be divided into four rooms, leaving the lunchroom at the rear, the present outside tile wall will be removed to permit installation of metal window frames and the tile will be replaced by brick, and two restrooms will be added.

W. R. Kendrick, Prestonsburg contractor, was the successful bidder on a two-room structure to be erected in connection with the Martin school and a similar structure at the McDowell school. His bid on each job was $13,130. Each building will be separate from present school buildings in the two towns, and one room of the Martin building will be used for classes for exceptional children.

County Superintendent Virgil O. Turner said the average of slightly more than $6,000 a room on the Martin and McDowell jobs is the best bids the Board of Education has received during his administration.

All bids are subject to the final approval of the State Department of Education.

the retired or substitute teachers. Mrs. Begley was recently awarded a certificate to teach exceptional children, making her one of the five regularly certified instructors of this kind in the state.

Mrs. Begley's salary has been assumed by the County Board of Education but the pay of the trainable class teacher must be paid by the Council, in the event one is found. The county board plans the construction of a classroom on the grounds of the Martin high school for use of the educable group but will be unable to provide a classroom for the trainable children. Last year's building will not be available this year, it was said. Dr. Frances Sherman, council secretary, made a request this week for the public to volunteer information as to where a suitable building could be secured. It should be in or near Martin, she said, since proximity of the two classrooms would enable the teachers to confer on mutual problems.

Plans were readied for the operation of the Martin school at a meeting of the Council for Retarded Children at Martin recently. Eleven members of the group attended to formulate a screening program for exceptional children who have been recommended for education or training. Minimum foundation aid will be available for educable children, but for those who belong to the trainable group only private funds may be used.

The term, "psychometric screening," used by leaders of the Council, is really a system of I. Q. tests, it was explained. By this method it can be determined whether a child belongs in the educable or in the trainable group. It was pointed out by the council that a child admitted to either of these classes may be transferred later to other classes.

"There are numbers of children not learning in school," it was said by Dr. Sherman, "and they ride along. Some parents are reluctant to allow their children to attend the exceptional classes. But no parent should hold any resentment about the placement of his child. In the small exceptional classes, either educable or trainable, the child will have much better attention than in the public school."

A committee on admissions and releases will determine, after screening, to what class in the school for exceptional children the child will be admitted. This committee, composed of eight interested persons, among whom are a representative of the county superintendent of schools, a psychologist and a local physician, may find after tests that the child should be in the public system. This committee will be assisted at all times by the advice of the various teachers and principals of schools from whence the children were referred.

COURT TERM'S LIQUOR CASES STAND AT 59

Court's Rum Docket Heaviest Since 1930's; 147 Booked for Hearing

The heaviest Floyd circuit court liquor docket since Prohibition days helps add up to the 147-case total that will engage attention of the court during the next Criminal term which will convene on the morning following Labor Day.

In all, 59 liquor cases are docketed for hearing during the session. Most of these have been set down for Sept. 6 and 7, third and fourth days of the term. A majority of these cases stem from indictments returned at the last session of the grand jury, and officers said at that time they planned several other indictments but that adjournment of the jury came before they could make them.

The number of child desertion cases is down considerably from the total at the last two preceding terms. Eighteen are docketed, and all these but one have been set for trial on the first day of court, which indicate that several may not be before the court.

Only two murder cases are booked for hearing, and both are on indictments made at previous court terms. Ira Hamilton is slated for his second trial on Sept. 10. He won a reversal from a previous conviction. Second trial of Colie Salisbury is booked for Sept. 17. His first ended in a "hung" jury.

Two voluntary manslaughter cases are on the docket—that of Irvin Stone, set for Sept. 13, and the trial of Tim Jones for Sept. 15. The docket includes six drunk driving cases, five for cutting, shooting or striking and wounding, two for hit-run operation of a vehicle. Only one case of carrying a concealed deadly weapon is on the docket, while two accusing defendants of reckless use of a deadly weapon appear.

WRITS ACCUSE DEPUTY SHFS.

Robbery, Illegal Search, False Arrest Alleged Against Three Officers

Three warrants were issued by the County Judge's office this week naming as many Floyd county deputy sheriffs—two on charges of armed robbery and illegal search and another on a false arrest count.

Deputies Ed Ambury and Al Patton were placed under $1,000 bond on each count in the armed robbery and illegal search warrants which were sworn out by Hite Foster. Foster claimed they took from him without his consent a pistol.

Deputy Sheriff A. J. Reed was accused of false arrest by Cliff Allen, Monday. Allen in swearing out the warrant for Reed and Chester Neeley alleged they arrested him when he was committing no offense. Neeley was not an officer, according to records in the County Clerk's office.

Noah Johnson and James Pack were held to $500 bond each this week on a trespassing warrant procured by Flora Little. She told Judge Stumbo the two men fenced up a cemetery and turned cattle into it.

HIGHWAY JOBS ARE ASSIGNED

Construction of Sidewalks And Surfacing Route 122 Awarded to Contractors

Two contracts for construction work in this county were awarded recently by the State Highway Department.

One calls for the construction of a five-foot side walk from Branham street to the new high school building in Prestonsburg. The R. R. Dawson Bridge Company, Bloomfield, Ky., was the successful bidder on its low bid of $6,147.85.

The second contract is for the bituminous surfacing of Kentucky 122 from the Pike county line on Abner mountain and extending a distance of 12.77 miles to 3.3 miles north of Hi Hat, The Adams Construction Company, y.

Loar, 86, Born in Pioneer Home, Recalls Early Mill, Silk Culture

BY HENRY P. SCALF

James H. Loar was born at Betsy Layne in a house built by the pioneer James Shannon Layne, his great-grandfather. He had lived either on the exact spot or within a few yards of the site a long, rich lifetime of 86 years.

All around Uncle Jim, as his neighbors call him, and his wife, Pollyann, only three years younger, is history. He can conjure it all up for you because he is steeped in the lore of his people.

Uncle Jim is a rugged bit of history himself. He has logged, farmed and "sold goods." He plowed again this year, can show you an excellent garden. "I was a bit late in getting it in, but it's fine, though," he says.

Talk to him and soon you know there are two stories, one about himself, of which he will scarcely talk, the other about his people, who settled the town in 1796, four years after Kentucky was made a state and four years before Floyd county was organized.

He is a product of the land upon which he has lived so long. Rugged and "square," he dislikes dishonesty. He "took everybody to be honest" years ago but found out they weren't. He paid notes for other people, had to sell land to do it. He has given each of his three children a home, could have given them more. "If everybody had been honest."

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Loar, of Betsy Layne, sit on their front porch a great deal these days, enjoying the serene peace that comes from a lifetime on the land.

For decades his home has offered generous hospitality. It was a mecca years ago for preachers, salesmen and travelers of all kinds. Congressmen and governors have eaten at his house. Pollyann kept a "settin' table", and the food was good and the welcome warm and pleasant.

That home was a big, two-story house, standing on the exact spot where James Shannon Layne, immigrant from Amherst county, Virginia, and his wife, Caty Hager Layne, daughter of the Hessian sol-

Operation of the Martin school was hampered last year by lack of transportation, it was said by a Council member, but the situation will be relieved somewhat this year. The children may ride the regular public school buses. This adverse transportation lowered last year's attendance a great deal.

The eleven Council members attending the recent meet at Martin were Bert Combs, president; Dr. Frances Sherman, secretary; R. V. May, treasurer, Rev. and Mrs. Robert Martin, Blanche Dingus, Floyd county health coordinator, County Superintendent V. O. Turner, Mrs. Joe Begley and Minor Pace.

Next meeting of the Council is slated for Monday evening, August 20.

BUS SERVICE IS RESUMED

Allen Brothers Start Bus Operation Again On Temporary Permit

Bus service between Prestonsburg, Wayland, Wheelwright and Hazard and way points was resumed a few days ago by the Allen Brothers Bus Company which recently purchased the franchises and equipment of the defunct Sparks Brothers Bus Company.

The purchase was made by Bill Allen, of Martin, Jack and Alex V. Allen, of Allen, from Oak Sparks, Paintsville, and McKinley Sparks, Prestonsburg, founders of the Sparks Brothers bus line who later sold the line to a local group, headed by Fred Dickerson. Amount involved in the transaction was not stated.

The bus line is being operated under a temporary permit issued by the Division of Motor Transportation pending a hearing in Frankfort on the Allen's petition for approval of the franchise transfer from Sparks Brothers to them.

Currently, only two buses are in operation, with the three owners doing all the driving. A third bus is almost ready for operation, and it was said others will be put into service as repairs make them serviceable. Three runs daily are being made between Wheelwright and a fourth stopping at Martin on the way from Wheelwright. Two runs are being made between Wayland and Prestonsburg, a third stopping at Allen. One round trip is made from Prestonsburg to Hazard.

NO-DELIVERY ORDER FINAL

State Road Department Throws Food Delivery Into Laps of Counties

The State Highway Department's decision to stop supplying truck and labor to haul federal surplus commodities in Floyd and other counties apparently is final. County Judge Henry Stumbo said this week.

He and Pike county Judge Ervin S. Pruitt had planned a conference of their fiscal courts with Highway Department officials, but Highway Commissioner Bert Kiser advised them by letter of his order that the practice be discontinued and they decided further discussion of the situation would be in vain.

Judge Stumbo said Monday that "with the limited funds we have we haven't enough to handle the relief job as we would like to handle it." He added that he will "try to work out something" before the next meeting of the fiscal court.

The Department's division of maintenance has been supplying trucks and men to haul the commodities for distribution to needy persons in some counties.

Maintenance Director J. A. Spears reported that a study showed the operation, began as an emergency measure several years ago, has been costing the Department about $100,000 a year. Kiser said the state needs this money to match federal highway funds.

Spears said transporting the commodities had deprived roads of needed maintenance equipment and labor. Workers frequently have been required to leave highway jobs to haul the commodities, he said.

4 from County Attend Leadership Conference

About five hundred leaders in Kentucky education participated in the annual Leadership Conference of the Kentucky Education Association held last week on the campus of Western Kentucky State College at Bowling Green.

The theme of the conference, "Kentucky's Educational Opportunities," in its various phases was developed and explained through addresses, panel presentations and small group discussions.

Subjects of discussions included orientation of new local education association presidents to their duties; ways of working with press and the public; the expanding program of the State Department of Education; plans for observance of KEA Centennial at the April convention in Louisville, and the necessity for expansion of services of both KEA and the National Education Association in the months and years ahead.

Attending from Floyd county were Mrs. Shirley Hughes, Blanche Dingus and County Superintendent Virgil O. Turner, Prestonsburg; Earl P. Martin, Harcid.

Miss Harlowe Is Bride Of Mr. Brasfield; Vows Said at Louisville, Ky

Miss Sarah Helen Harlowe became the bride of Robert Thomas Brasfield on Saturday, Aug. 5, at 8 o'clock in the Crescent Hill Methodist Church, Louisville, Ky.

The altar was graced with palms, tall baskets of white gladioli and daisy pompons, and four pairs of seven-branch candelabra. White satin ribbons and clusters of huckleberry foliage were used as aisle markers.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Julian Churchill Harlowe, of Louisville, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Harlowe, of Prestonsburg. Mr. Brasfield is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Brasfield, of Louisville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Murray Hamburg original of Chantilly lace and organdine taffeta featuring a scalloped bateau neckline, long sleeves petal pointed over hands and enhanced by a bussel effect which made a chapel train. Her ballerina length veil was of Italian lace softly scalloped around the edge. The veil was brought back from Italy when the bride toured Europe last year. She carried a cascade of tuber roses.

Miss Carolyn Williams was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Ann Brasfield, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Janis Scobee, Miss Joan Leachman, and Miss Linda Ware. They were attired in floor length gowns of aqua taffeta and net. The dresses were made with strapless bodices and matching capelets. An apron effect over the net enhanced the billowing skirt and the back displayed a large bow. They wore matching tiara of iridescent braid, and carried bouquets of painted daisies.

Miss Ellen Leigh Agee, of Gallipolis, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a floor length dress of white taffeta with double tiers of net over a hoop skirt. Her head piece was a tiara of white iridescent taffeta, and she carried a miniature bride's bouquet.

Thomas J. Brasfield served his son as best man. The wedding guests were seated by Thomas E. Agee, Jr., uncle of the bride, of Gallipolis, O., Thomas Cochran, James Carpenter, Dale Johnston, and Charles Helier.

Mrs. Harlowe selected a gown of dusty rose organza with matching hat. Mrs. Brasfield wore a dress of blue lace and matching accessories. Their corsages were cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Thomas E. Agee, Jr., of Gallipolis, O., soloist. She sang "Because," "Through The Years," and "Walk Hand in Hand."

After a reception at the Crescent Hill Woman's club, the newlyweds left for a wedding trip to Cumberland Lake. They will return to make their home at 3214 Utah avenue, Louisville.

The bride is a graduate of the Kentucky Home School for Girls, Louisville, and attended the University of Kentucky where she was a member of Chi Omega sorority. The bridegroom, a graduate of Louisville Male high school, is now attending University of Louisville dental school.

GUEST OF MRS. HARLOWE

Mrs. A. C. Harlowe had as her houseguest her cousin, Mrs. Florence Hill, of Clarksburg, W. Va., the first of the week.

The People Take Action

Citizens of East Point and Hunter in this county have demonstrated how communities may remove enterprises which they consider inimical. They did this by petitioning the County Attorney to start legal action to close the businesses in question.

These were no dictatorial actions; the people themselves initiated them and only after due consideration. The one business already closed had its "day in court" with the right to introduce testimony in its defense. The other will have the same privilege. These are orderly processes of law in which the people are having a part.

We congratulate these citizens on their courage. Instead of writing anonymous letters describing conditions and blaming everybody but themselves for what allegedly was taking place, these citizens, the solid core which holds their community together, set their names on paper, boldly calling for the courts and enforcement officers to call an abrupt halt to operations by closing the doors of the businesses in question.

Floyd county has more than two places that should be closed. Prestonsburg and vicinity have their share of them. Officers will make sporadic raids, illegal liquor will be found, penalties will be assessed by the courts. But between raids business continues as usual, and the operator all the while grows more crafty in concealing the physical evidence of his guilt and becomes more circumspect in his illegal transactions. Padlocks on doors do the job most effectively. They keep the bootlegger from operating at the same old stand, and serve notice on landlords that their property may cease to yield any financial return whatsoever if they continue to rent or lease to bootleggers.

The Times has not yet changed in its belief that the law was written to apply to all violators and that it should so apply without exception, whether the violator be a "pocket-bootlegger" or an influential citizen whose greed for money has dulled his more decent instincts.

The Times and all others who looked on objectively, without partisan slant, are disgusted with the convention method. Our disgust is not confined to either faction, it extends to both. It covers the whole system of selecting delegates to the state convention, where the steamroller continued to function. Yet this wasn't the first steamroller put into operation in Kentucky, and it will not be the last if the convention method is continued in use.

HEALTH NOTES

By Floyd County Health Department

"Today the modern mother breast feeds her baby," says Mrs. Catherine Wiechers, Floyd County Health Department nurse. "Breast feeding is an insurance against infant diarrhea and generally gives a baby a healthier, happier start in life."

Most mothers can nurse their babies without any difficulty, and a mother's milk contains almost everything a young baby needs for nourishment.

Breast fed babies have many advantages and greater health protection than bottled fed ones. Infection is less likely from a breast. A mother passes some antibodies against disease to the infant in her milk. Breast milk is cheap and requires no advance preparation since the milk is always ready and at the correct temperature. A baby is more apt to get the amount of milk he needs at one feeding when his food isn't measured for he can drink until he is satisfied.

Mrs. Wiechers recommends that nursing mothers plan their regular work around their baby's feeding schedule. During feeding time a mother should relax and enjoy her baby. During the milk producing months, a mother should watch her diet carefully. Additional information on breast feeding and a mother's diet is available in the pamphlets, "Mother, Breast Feed Your Baby" and "Your Food Before the Baby Comes" which can be obtained at the Floyd County Health Department.

What we are trying to get around to is this:

Why, in the name of a freedom-loving people, doesn't Kentucky follow the example set by a few other states, and have the names of party convention delegates placed every four years on the regular election ballot, so that "free" men and women could exercise their now-questionable freedom of choice without fear of reprisal, free of coercion, and without having to contribute to community ill-feeling by lining up against neighbors, friends and even kinsmen?

Whiskey, Beer Sales Out in Dry Areas, Emphasized By the Attorney General

Whiskey and beer sales in dry territory are out of the question legally any way you look at it, the Attorney General's office emphasized last week.

J. M. Johnson, adjutant of McClellan Anderson Post 104, American Legion, at Neon, asked in a letter if the law wouldn't permit such sales to members only in a bona fide private club.

"It is unlawful," said the reply, "not only to sell, loan, or give away liquor in a dry territory" but it is also unlawful to procure for or furnish another alcoholic beverages.

It's the system that's at fault. The fault is not new. It has existed all the time. Only, the recent showdown fight which brought out partisans by the many thousands made the flaw more apparent.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.
Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

"Superstition As a System"

Frankly, through the half century that I have studied folklore I have not been too much interested in individual superstitions except as they illustrate the workings of the folk mind. A superstitious belief written down as having been a part of the lore of some county at a certain time sounds too mechanical, too much like a mere statistic. Of course, if the person believing or practicing the superstition is named and described, the dry statement at once becomes alive; the dry bones take on flesh and blood, and beauty. One of my graduate students, some years ago, did more for superstitions than most others of the numerous ones whom I have taught. He saw each belief in its setting, with its place in every-day life. Sometimes he saw it as a very distinctive part of his own early life, when the superstitious practice was regarded as of much importance as the findings of the learned. In this way he was able to convince the others in the class, some of whom had not had such intimate connections with the folk, that superstition is a system rather than a mere series of isolated beliefs and practices.

Whether we realize it or not, everybody is forever adjusting the phenomena of the universe to a theory, his or someone else's. Through our schooling we have learned hosts of accepted theories and gradually become accustomed to dismissing unwarranted theories and even become disgusted with what we may have formerly believed about the working of things. It is usually some time before we are brave enough to accept bodily theories of the educated and follow them, for there remains a reverence for Uncle George and Grandpa and others who firmly believed their traditional explanations. In fields where health or finances are concerned it seems fairly easy to accept the philosophies of scholars, but in minor matters it is pretty hard to give up what was formerly believed.

Superstition, as I have inferred, is a system. It may be an outgrowth

Death Car Driver "Saw Child Too Late"

They asked me did I see the child? Yes I saw him. And he's all I've been seeing since. I saw him. But it was too late to stop. I was the last to see him alive. And the first to see his lifeless body limply sprawled on the pavement—a few inches from the bumper of my car.

Yes, I am the man they now call "death car driver." I own the car whose picture you saw in the daily press. And, yet, a thousand times I wish I were the victim rather than the man who killed him. For he died only once, but I a thousand deaths since then.

I saw him running out between two cars. He looked away. But yet his childish steps led into my path. I honked the horn. I kicked into the brake. I heard the tires squeal. And then the thud. I saw his little body hurt through air and fall down flat just as my stopping wheel almost touched him once more.

I walked ahead and bent over his crumpled form. "Call an ambulance," I shouted. "Quick." I saw the gathering crowd. They all looked at the child. And then at me.

Then came police and then the doctor. He looked first at the bloody face and form, then looked away and slowly shook his head. And then I saw the anguished features of a man—the father—and heard the desperate screams of a bereaved mother—how can I forget.

And when the scene had cleared and I had filed reports at headquarters and the police had

Woman's Club Is 'Up and Doing'

(From the Courier-Journal's "Meet The Clubs" Section, Sunday, July 8)

The Betsy Layne Women's Club, like this Floyd county farming community's namesake, is small but "up and doing."

One of the town's earliest settlers, Aunt Betsy Layne was just a little over 4 feet tall and never weighed more than 85 pounds in all her 85 years.

Aunt Betsy, say the townfolks, had a sort of sixth sense. She knew before anyone else in town when one of her neighbors was sick or in need of help and was always the first one on the doorstep volunteering a hand.

Aunt Betsy's philosophy is the motto of the woman's club—"Let us then be up and doing, with a heart for our fate." The 10 members take their motto seriously and the tiny club—one of the smallest in the Kentucky federation—has been on the honor roll every year since its organization in 1942.

The club's president, Miss Alice Williams, is a descendant of Betsy Layne. And though Miss Williams is a bookkeeper, even she has difficulty keeping track of club accomplishments.

Here, according to Miss Williams' calculations, are just some of the things the women are up and doing:

They supply free glasses and dental work for needy pupils in the Betsy Layne grade and high school.

Members seek out indigent persons who are in need of chest X-rays, report their cases, and, when necessary, members take them to the health office for X-rays. The secretary-treasurer of the club, Mrs. Beecher Hardwick, is president of the Floyd County TB association.

The club also sends Christmas baskets of food and toys to the needy and makes annual contributions to the Veterans Hospital at Fort Thomas.

The women have contributed books to the Bookmobile and the Bookmobile station is in Mrs. Hardwick's home.

This year and last year the Betsy Layne entry—Patty Lykins—won first prize in the Seventh District art contest.

The club's helping hand reaches farther than its own community of 600. Each year members participate in the General Federation's "Seeds for Democracy" project, send contributions to the American Bible Society for Bibles for Korea, to the "Meals for Millions" program, and to the "Chicks for Ecuador" project.

Last Easter they sent a contribution to the General Federation "Mountaintop Cross" project at Bald Knob near Alto Pass, Ill. The huge cross to be built at Bald Knob will symbolize united faith of the nation.

For funds, the members hold an annual Christmas bazaar. Throughout the year at monthly sewing bees they make quilts to sell to fatten the treasury.

The president's mother, Mrs. O. J. Williams, is a past governor of the Seventh District, and Mrs. Hardwick is a past vice-governor.

Miss Williams lives with her parents on their farm, though she says she isn't much of a farm hand.

"I shine at only three things—sewing, baking and making candy," Miss Williams has no time for hobbies.

"When you live in a farming community, you don't need a hobby. There's always a chore to be done—either at home or at one of the neighbors."

The Minister and ALCOHOLICS ANONYMOUS

By The Rev. Orville Pearson, Minister, First Presbyterian Church

In its wise refusal to form alliances with any denomination or sect, Alcoholics Anonymous can be a source of strength to any person who has an alcoholic problem, regardless of race, religion or political party. But this refusal has laid the fellowship open to the charge of being "church rivals" or "cold toward the church."

This needs to be said against the charge.—The fellowship, to be true to its purpose, cannot embrace any faith as its very own, but individuals within the fellowship can and do belong to and work hard in the faith of their choice. Members attend, after a while, when they begin to improve their "contact with God," the church that has shown by ministerial and congregational interest and action, concern for their problem.

How can a church and a minister show this concern?

1. The minister must be ready, by inclination and training, to extend pastoral services to alcoholics, excessive drinkers and as their minister in this concern, refrain from "holier than thou" attitudes, and have the same Christian concern for the alcoholic as for any other person of the community who has a need.

2. The minister should know and lead the church in the knowledge of the resources to help deal with all aspects of the problem. (The nearest A. A. fellowship, when their meetings are, the nearest A. A. hospital, how to get there, the nature and names of the published aids for the alcoholic and his or her family, etc.)

3. The minister should reveal by reference on occasion from his pulpit, in his pastoral visits, and by his church periodicals, that he knows of the problem and is willing to help. The congregation should rejoice in the references and see in them the mark of a shepherd who wants to serve.

4. The minister and the congregation should know that membership in A. A., if it leads into membership into the church, does not mean the end of the alcoholic's problem. They should regard the A. A. member as a person whose sickness is arrested but not cured. A member must be encouraged to continue in the fellowship of Alcoholics Anonymous, to live the program. The church must never be guilty of thinking, or of leading the alcoholic to think that he no longer needs A. A. when he becomes a church member.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Times:

It is at the request of the Brotherhood of the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church that I am writing this letter to bring to the attention of the general public a worthwhile community project.

This group wishes to go on record as favoring the action of the Council of Church Women of Prestonsburg in their efforts to rid the magazine racks and newstands of the community of books, magazines and comic books that are harmful to the moral and spiritual well-being of our people. The Brotherhood commends these women for the good that was done through their visits to the merchants of Prestonsburg in securing their cooperation in keeping such literature off of their shelves, and would urge that monthly visits to these stores be maintained to encourage them in their efforts to buy and sell that which will be a benefit rather than a detriment to the moral and spiritual well-being of our community.

We realize and recognize the fact that many publishers of printed materials are interested in one thing and that is the money they can derive from the sale of their products. They care nothing for the minds that are warped and the lives that are ruined by the filth that they constantly pour out on the lives of our youth and adults as well. One does not have to go far to find evidence of that which is salacious and obscene and to see the need of combating this evil influence.

We join with any others who are interested in correcting this situation and would urge parents and other church groups to let their sentiments be known.

Yours for better reading,
IRA McMILLAN, JR.,
Pastor, Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church

Editor, The Times:

There is much misunderstanding or want of understanding of the Reserve Forces Act of 1955, most frequently referred to as "The New Reserve Law". There is, likewise, confusion and misunderstanding as to the Army's interest in this law. This matter of misunderstanding came out frequently during a recent effort to contact the parents of all High School graduates and explain the law to them.

In the first place, the Reserve Forces Act of 1955 became a law by action of the United States Congress—your elected representatives, sworn to the service of your best interests. It is my opinion, as a citizen, that the Congress passed this law because they recognize a continuing threat to our country, which can be defeated only by developing and maintaining a strong military reserve as a part of our society.

It is the responsibility of the Armed Forces (Army, Air Force and Navy) but especially of the Army, to recruit, equip and train the manpower included in the Reserve Forces Act of 1955. For this reason, we in the Army are interested in enlisting the support of all the people for our efforts. We are especially interested, of course, in those who join and take active part in the reserve units in their community. But we are interested only in enlisting individuals who are informed and who are patriotically interested in fulfilling their obligations as citizen-soldiers. It gains us nothing but "made work" becomes a true burden if those enlisting have no interest beyond avoiding forced induction or gaining a few dollars pay.

We admit that we are interested in enrolling on our drills all those whose presence will add to the National Defense. But we feel we have another obligation to the citizens.

BIBLE QUIZ

JOB FAITHFUL IN ADVERSITY

Q. Who was Job?
A. "There was a man from the land of Uz, whose name was Job; and that man was perfect and upright, and one that feared God and eschewed evil."

Q. What is said of his family and prosperity?
A. "He had 7 sons and 3 daughters. He had also 7000 sheep, 3000 camels, 500 yokes of oxen, 500 donkeys, and a very great household; so that this man was the greatest man in all the east." (Job 1:2-3).

Q. What theory did Satan have about Job and his prosperity?
A. He is good because he prospers. Said he to the Lord, "If you will take away everything he has he will curse you to your face." (Job 1:11).

Q. To test Job's faith, what did the Lord allow Satan to do?
A. Take away his family by death and destroy all his wealth. (Job 1:13-19).

Q. When everything was gone and Job was left alone what did he do?
A. Fell down upon the ground and worshipped and said, "The Lord gave, and the Lord has taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord." (Job 1:20-21).

Q. When the Lord met Satan the second time of what did He remind him?
A. That he still holds fast his integrity. (Job 2:3).

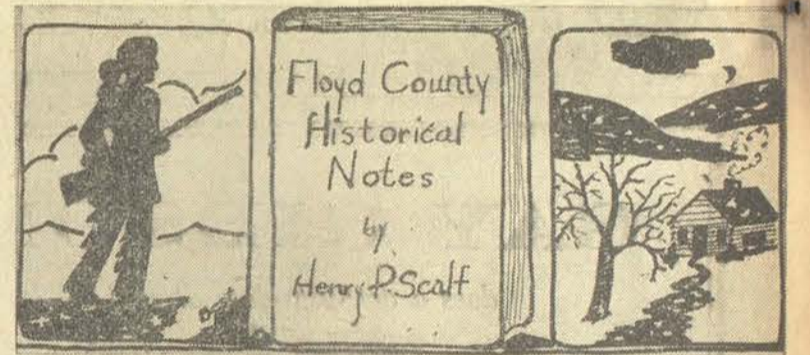

Q. What further test did the Lord allow Satan to make?
A. Afflict him with sore boils from head to foot (Job 3:7).

Q. With everything gone including his health how did he react to such a situation?
A. Said Job, "Even though He slay me yet will I trust Him." (Job 13:15).

Q. What is said of the latter end of Job?
A. It was better than the first... for the Lord gave him twice as much as he had before. He had also seven sons and three daughters. "And in all the land there were no women found so fair as the daughters of Job." (Job 42:10-17).

Q. What is the value of the Book of Job?
A. "Throws light on human suffering. 'I will never leave you or forsake you.'" (Hebrews 13:5).

Anyone can write a book. The trick is getting someone to read the thing, and pay for it.

Mrs. George C. Landreith, of 4 Olmi Landreith Dr., Alexandria, Va., dropped in the office last Saturday on a hunt for some genealogical information. She is a descendant of Samuel Auxier, pioneer Blockhouse Bottom settler, through his daughter Frances Amelia Pannyny who married April 27, 1890, Rev. Samuel Hanna (Hannah).

Frances Amelia Auxier was the only daughter of Samuel who was born in Kentucky. Locally, few know little of Rev. Hanna, except that he was a Baptist minister who lived near the mouth of Johns Creek. Some say he founded the Church of Christ (Christian) in Johnson county. He was captured at the Battle of Wireman's Shoals (Boat Fight) and was taken along with his son-in-law, Dr. Isaac Goble, to Libby Prison, Richmond, Va., where he died Feb. 4, 1963. He was 61 years old, too old by far to withstand the rigors of a Confederate prison camp.

All the above Mrs. Landreith knew. We discussed Samuel Auxier, her ancestor who married July 15, 1779, in Virginia, probably Culpeper county, Sarah (Sallie) Culp, born Jan. 16, 1763, died 1862. Samuel, born about 1761, was killed, either on a buffalo hunt on Middle Creek in 1801, six years after he founded Blockhouse Bottom, or as some accounts give it, as he was returning from King's Salt Works in Virginia and his horse shied, ran against a tree, giving him injuries from which he succumbed in two weeks. He lies buried in Blockhouse Bottom. His daughter, Frances Annelia, was born shortly after his death.

Mrs. Landreith is descended from Samuel Hanna, Jr., son of Rev. Samuel who married Hammond. She was a daughter of Jillson Hammond, born 1808.

One of the objects of Mrs. Landreith's search was to determine the father of Jillson. She thinks it was John. Also she asks about John Franklin, who came to Johnson county, then Floyd, at least as early as 1805. It was noted by the Virginia lady that Rev. Samuel Hanna was a son of Ebenezer Hanna, one of the founders of Licking Station, now Salsersville, about 1796. All the authorities on Eastern Kentucky history say Hanna was from South Carolina but Mrs. Landreith says his son, Rev. Samuel, was born in Pennsylvania, in 1802. If this is true it means that Hanna didn't come to Salsersville in 1796 but many years later. Anyway it has never been disproved that Archibald Prater, the Licking Station settler, didn't found the town in 1796. It may be that Hanna came several years later. Hanna may have wandered south, moved back northwest again as did so many Eastern Kentucky settlers.

Children of Rev. Samuel Hanna and Frances Amelia Auxier Hanna were Sarah, married a Porter, Dr. Abraham, married Susannah Webb, Samuel, Jr., married Hammond, and the ancestor of Mrs. Landreith, Margaret (Peggy), married William Hyden, Shadrack, John Minerva, married Jasper Webb, and Emeline, married Dr. Isaac Goble.

The history of the Leslie Family upon which Ruth Cleveland Leslie, a fifth generation descendant of William Robert Leslie, Big Sandy pioneer has been at work the past two years, has been completed and will be ready for delivery this month. Title of the publication is "The History of the Family of William Robert Lesley and Elizabeth Buchanan Lesley." The subtitle is "Two Hundred Years in America: 1755-1955."

"This is a story of an ordinary American family," Miss Leslie, a resident of Washington, D. C., writes. "The ancestry, both paternal and maternal, was of the Celtic race and originated in Scotland almost a thousand years ago. Now, although the Scotch-Irish strains still predominate in many sections, almost every nationality of the Caucasian race and even the American Indian are represented in this family. It is truly representative of a cross-section of the United States. Some of its members have attained high places in industry and the professions, as well as in business and in the mechanical and engineering skills and many still cling to the land as did their forefathers."

The volume, of approximately 500 pages, is illustrated with over 200 photographs and other pertinent pictures. The seven main sections of the book are: I. Leslies and Buchanans in Scotland. II. American Bound. III. Lesleys on the Blue-stones in Virginia. IV. Lesleys in the Sandy Valley of Kentucky. V. Family Data. VI. Selected Biographies. VII. Bibliography.

Such a tax would eliminate all appropriations now being made annually by the fiscal court. It is estimated that the full nine-cent levy would raise approximately $30,000, which with funds available from state and federal sources would make possible personnel and services to include the following:

The half-time services of a physician in addition to those of a fulltime administrator; four fulltime public health nurses instead of the present three; two fulltime sanitarians; three clerks; one janitor; two three-hour dental clinics a week for 10 months of each year.

Always hard-pushed for funds, the health department is now operating on the least budget under which it is, M. V. Clark administrator, said. He also said that the competition for the services of doctors and nurses is becoming keener every year and that counties such as Floyd under their present financial circumstances may be placed under a severe handicap in bidding for the services of qualified personnel, as is the case in the bidding for the services of teachers.

Twelve counties have voted special health taxes since the act authorizing health taxing districts was enacted in 1954. Perry county, the latest of the 12, last year voted a 10-cent tax.

The Board of Health at last week's meeting approved the following Citizens Health Committee which will serve in a liaison capacity between the health department and the public:

Mrs. J. W. Bailey, Wheelwright Woman's Club; Cliff Aders, Wheelwright Kiwanis Club; Dr. Edward B. Leslie, Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club; Rex Osborne, Radio Station WPRT; Mrs. Myrtle Hardwick, Betsy Layne Woman's Club; Mrs. Sharon Ellis, Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club; Mrs. Sue May, Prestonsburg Woman's Club; Mrs. Maggie Hewlett, Drift Woman's Club; County Attorney Hollie Conley, Floyd fiscal court; Quentin Allen, Floyd County Times; Mrs. George E. Evans, Wayland-Lackey-Garrett Woman's Club; Miss Blanche Dingus, Floyd County Board of Education; Robert Wallace, Prestonsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce; Mosaleete Patton, Maytown Woman's Club; Sarah Laven, Allen-Wartin Woman's Club.

Lawrence E. Wills, 72 Garrett Resident, Victim Of Heart Attack, Tuesday
Lawrence E. Wills, 72, of Garrett, succumbed to a heart attack, at 2:30 a.m., Tuesday at home. His wife, Ida Goodman Wills, survives, as does a sister, Miss Inez Wills, Daiden, W. Va.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow (Thursday) at the home and burial will follow in the family cemetery at Garrett under the direction of Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

3. During the week of August 6 telephone calls were made by Mr. Barnes and one of his top assistants to certain Kentucky personnel in Economic Security district offices, and the word was passed that funds were needed to finance Governor Chandler's campaign for the Presidency and that employees were expected to contribute.

Hayes added that he is in position to supply Fallon with the names of persons who named and received the calls and also names of certain employees who made contributions. (Governor Chandler a few days ago said he would not accept contributions made, if any, and it was strongly denied that any gift proposed was to finance the Governor's presidential campaign.)

The poorer counties as well as the wealthier ones have requested this service from the Department, Kiser said. He added that many times trucks have been asked to haul loads small enough to have been carried in a sedan. An added problem, he said, has been storage of the commodities in state warehouses and garages. In some instances, Kiser said, the Department even has been called upon to distribute the commodities.

The Department had rescinded a previous order, effective last April 12, that the practice be discontinued so that counties involved would have sufficient time to arrange for the hauling by other means.

Mrs. Nancy Layne Honaker and the locally famous North Carolina mule that lived, oldsters declare, to the age of 67. (This picture was reproduced from a copy made from an old tintype by Col. J. H. Hatcher, of Pikeville).

stayed there in 1837, wrote in his Life and Travels: "Our first quarterly meeting was held about the middle of December at James S. Layne's who was well prepared to support such meetings. In fact, I thought it was one of the best homes I had ever found in all my travels."

Loar also tore down the Layne slave house but continued to use the old well. That well was dug by the human chattels of the Layne family around 150 years ago.

He has many changes in Big Sandy in the last eighty years, he says as he looks out at the whizzing traffic on U. S. 23. That road was a wagon-rutted trail when he was a boy. During the Civil War it was far worse than that. Gen. "Bull" Nelson, after licking the Confederates at Ivy Mountain, reported to his superior on the state of that road, said he had to stop pursuing Col. Andrew Jackson May and camp ten miles out of Pikeville. He yielded to battle fatigue and the sloppy road, pitched his tents near the old Layne home.

Two or three hundred feet from the present home of Jim Loar the Laynes had a horse mill where corn and wheat were ground. Jim Loar went to work driving a horse there when he was ten years old. People brought grain in covered wagons from as far away as Catterletsburg after the Civil War. Uncle Jim remembers seeing, while a mere lad, dugouts fashioned out of poplar logs, loaded with grain, coming down the river and tying up at the Layne landing. The mill ground as high as 300 bushels of grain some days.

The horse mill reminds Uncle Jim of the famous Nancy Honaker mule. It lived, he and many oldsters affirm, to be 67 years old. James S. Layne acquired the mule in a swap with a North Carolina trader long before the Civil War. It was a young brute then but gentle, and he gave it to his daughter Nancy. She rode her beloved mule as long as it lived. It's age made it famous in the section. Everybody calling it Nancy Honaker's mule. Jim Loar drove his grandmother's mule many days around the wide sweep of the horse mill tread.

A few years before Nancy Honaker died in 1900 the mule succumbed, all agreed, to senility. She had it buried, but in a short while, growing sentimental about the beloved beast of burden, she exhumed the head, wrapped the skull in red velvet, gave it a place of honor in the store. Drummers came in, begged for a souvenir, knocked out the teeth and took them away. Finally, after the teeth were all gone with the memento-hunting knights of the road, Mrs. Honaker took it out of the store, put it under the floor. The skull lies there yet under the floor of her granddaughter's house.

So runs the saga of Nancy Honaker's mule. Col. J. H. Hatcher, great-nephew of Mrs. Honaker, hunted up a picture of her with the famous animal, and had copies of the old tintype made, kept one as a prized possession as long as he lived.

Talking about his grandmother, Nancy Layne Honaker, Uncle Jim recalls the death of his grandfather, Thomas Honaker. He married Nancy in 1843, two years after what post Civil War Big Sandians referred to as "the Typhoid Year."

The disease was rampant in the valley that year, and although Nancy recovered, three of her brothers died. One was Tandy Middleton Layne, husband of Elizabeth (Betsy) Johns Layne, who gave her name to Betsy Layne; the second to succumb was John Lewis Layne, grandfather of Col. Hatcher, and the other was William Henry Layne, son-in-law of Judge John Graham.

Nancy and Thomas lived at Pikeville for a short while. He was elected County Judge and at a session of court he tried a half-witted boy on some sort of charge, now forgotten, and adjourned for dinner. When he returned to the courthouse

Mrs. Sylvia Lewellyn Victim at Salem, Ohio; Was Floyd-co. Native

Mrs. Sylvia Lewellyn, 51, Salem, Ind., died last Saturday, at 8:57 a.m., at the Washington County hospital there, of a heart and liver ailment. She was a former resident of this county.

Mrs. Lewellyn's last husband, John Lewellyn, preceded her in death. She was a daughter of Leon and the late Virgie Press-Fannin.

Surviving children are D. M. Parsons, and Archie Parsons, both of New London, O., John Fannin, of Minnie, Mrs. Mary Bates, Kendallville, Ind., Mrs. Juanita Osborn, Naples, Ky., Mrs. Myrtle Osborn, and Mrs. Pauline Kidd, of Osborn, and Mrs. Lizzie Daniels, of Printer.

Funeral rites were conducted Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the Drift Church of God, and burial followed in the Lucy Hall cemetery at McDowell, under the direction of Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

Chairman Charles R. Hook, of Armo Steel Corp., told a recent convention of the National Coal Association "there is a strong movement toward the use of more pig iron per ton of steel" and that "rising pig iron demand spells more coke." It requires 1½ tons of coal to produce one ton of coke.

The science of medicine seemed to attract the Loar family. Dr. Peter, a brother, was the doctor in charge of medical services for the railway company between Pikeville and Jenkins. He went to Silverton, Oregon, 27 years ago, built a hospital, operated it for years. He is retired now. There was his father, Dr. Steven G. Loar, and now there is the grandson, Dr. Ray Stratton, who is just completing a stint in the army in Georgia.

Jim Loar, though, never longed for any of the professions, loved only the land over which hangs the history and lore of his people. The land oftentimes imparts serenity and peace in the weighted years of life. Uncle Jim is harvesting that now.

SCHOOL NOTES

By Wayne Ratliff
 Supervisor of Instruction

OPENING DAY FOR CONSOLIDATED SCHOOLS

Consolidated schools will open Monday, August 27th. Children will be enrolled in the morning and teachers will report to Martin high school for group meetings at 1:00 p. m.

FLOYD COUNTY FAIR

The Floyd County Fair will be held September 19th through the 22nd on the Prestonsburg elementary school grounds. The school exhibits last year required more space for display than they did the year before and for this reason we are asking for additional space for this year's exhibits. We feel that through your help and cooperation the school display has been an outstanding attraction for the parents and pupils in Floyd county. Let's continue to make our section of the Fair one worthy of the highest praise.

Preparation of exhibits should begin at once as "Fair Time" will soon be here.

An agreement has been reached whereby one teacher from each school may be dismissed Wednesday, Sept. 19, at 12:00 noon for the purpose of bringing materials from her school and placing them on display in the school tent.

The teacher representing each school will be responsible for setting up her school's display and will also be responsible for picking up those materials by 9:00 p. m. Saturday, Sept. 22.

HOME VISITATION DAY

Permission has been granted by the State Department of Education for us to use Wednesday, August 29, as Home Visitation Day for all teachers of the county.

It has been stated to the Department of Education that this day will be used to become better acquainted with our parents and with the home conditions of our pupils. Furthermore, another reason given for using the day in this manner is that better parent-teacher-pupil relationships will grow out of it. Too, we have stated that a full-day—equal in length to teaching day—will be spent.

On this day (with rural and consolidated teachers, visiting at the same time,) we should be able to get the most complete census that Floyd county has ever had.

Your enrollment-census cards should be delivered to your principal, if you have one, or to the attendance office by September 4.

EIGHTH GRADE EXAMINATIONS

Examinations for those pupils who have spent a year in the seventh grade, and a year in the eighth grade and were unable to take the test given at the close of rural schools in the spring may report to the office of the Superintendent of Schools, Tuesday, August 21 at 9:00 a. m. and take the test.

18 ON ONE HOOK

Speaking of fishing—or were we?—Dr. George P. Archer, of Prestonsburg, topped all Floyd countians' catches a few weeks ago. Fishing in Florida, he landed 18 fish on one hook—believe it or not! After rassin' a shark 45 minutes, he decided no one fish could give a body that much trouble, and he was right. His catch was a 230-pound mother shark, and when she was cut open he learned he had also landed 17 baby sharks.

Reflecting the rapid expansion of barge transportation of coal, some 202 docks for loading and unloading of bituminous have been built on western waterways.

fusal to take him before the judge who issued the misdemeanor warrant for his arrest, or to the next nearest magistrate, was in violation of the plaintiff's civil rights under the state and federal constitutions and under Kentucky law. His petition added that he pleaded with Caudill not to take him and that he asked the officer to call his doctor to confirm his statement about having been advised to stay in bed.

The petition claims that it was Caudill's duty to take him before the judge or the next nearest magistrate, but that Caudill instead "illegally, unlawfully and without right, and with evil and malicious intent, refused to do so and lodged him in the Floyd county jail where plaintiff was kept in a cell as a common criminal." It also points out that Caudill came a distance of 30 to 40 miles from District 3 to Prestonsburg to arrest him on a warrant which could have been executed by any Prestonsburg policeman, the Constable of District 1, the Sheriff or any deputy sheriff.

Both suits were prepared by Claude P. Stephens, Prestonsburg attorney.

Senator Hays' peace warrant and assault and battery charges against Commonwealth's Attorney Martin were dismissed last September.

Paintsville, will add the bituminous surface for $113,733.26.

The Highway Department is also advertising for bids on the surfacing of the so-called Caney Creek road on Middle Creek. This projected construction begins at Kentucky 404, 2.6 miles northeast of David and extends to a point approximately 1.5 miles west of Kentucky 80, near Dinwood, a distance of 6.35 miles. Surfacing is to be bituminous Clas C-1.

Neighboring Pike county seemed to be faring well in construction projects, it was noted this week. Rural Road Commissioner J. B. Wells, Jr., has approved funds for black-topping nine stretches of roads in that county for a total of 22 miles and costing $194,000.

The Winston Ford Company, Prestonsburg, has been awarded the contract to grade, drain and surface the Pikeville by-pass road at a cost of $378,913, and is well advanced in work on that project.

Re-surfacing of U. S. 23 from Pikeville to Prestonsburg is now underway, the contractors having initiated the work over two weeks ago. The bituminous surfacing materials are being assembled and prepared near Harold for that job. Preliminary work on U. S. 23 for the sector to be surfaced has been done at state expense, with low spots filled in and some widening done.

BILL SIGNED BY IKE TO GIVE AUTO DEALERS RIGHT TO SUE

Washington, Aug. 8 — President Eisenhower signed a hotly disputed bill today giving dealers the right to sue manufacturers on charges of coercive practice and bad-faith cancellation of franchises.

Congress passed the bill amid conflicting arguments as to whether it would help or hurt private enterprise, and whether it would discourage or stimulate so-called "boot-leg" sales of automobiles which allegedly permit the private buyer little or no redress if the car proves faulty.

In signing the bill, the President said "It constitutes only a partial solution to the problem..."

It might be considered an unwarranted intrusion by the Federal Government into an area traditionally reserved to private enterprise, and therefore "represents a new departure in the exercise of federal authority, a point which will undoubtedly come to the attention of the courts," that President added.

But, he said, he was approving the bill in view of the findings of Congress that the conditions in the automobile industry may be of a temporary nature.

He directed Government antitrust enforcement agencies to review conditions which brought about a demand for the legislation "to determine whether they continue to exist, to study alternative or different solutions to the problem, and to make recommendations for appropriate actions by the next Congress."

The bill was an outgrowth of public hearings at which a Senate antitrust subcommittee heard disputed testimony that dealers often had been forced by coercion and intimidation to buy from the manufacturers more cars, trucks and parts than they could sell through normal trade practices.

The National Automobile Dealers

Association contended those who refused to overbuy or resisted too strongly often were penalized by cancellation of franchise or other actions it called unfair.

But not all of the dealer witnesses agreed with this. And the automobile-manufacturing industry opposed the measure vigorously.

The bill allows the dealer to sue in the federal courts for damages, including costs of the suit, for failure of a manufacturer to "act in good faith in performing or complying with any of the terms or provisions of the franchise, or in terminating, cancelling, or not renewing the franchise with said dealer."

SECOND DAM BIDS SOUGHT

Contract on First Work On Buckhorn Reservoir Up for Letting Sept. 2

Bids for the first phase of construction of a second Eastern Kentucky dam, the Buckhorn Reservoir flood-control project, were solicited by the Army Corps of Engineers' Louisville district office last Wednesday.

The project, for which Congress appropriated $1,000,000 this year, is on the Middle Fork of the Kentucky river. It will create a large lake in Perry and Leslie counties. The final cost is expected to be about $10,000,000.

The first work will be on a control tower and outlet works. Tentative date for receiving bids is September 11 at 2 p.m.

The control tower, from which movable parts of the dam will be operated, will be of reinforced concrete with plumbing, heating, and electrical facilities.

Also to be built under the initial contract are hydraulic-control gates and a 600-foot-long reinforced concrete discharge conduit. The dam will be built over and around these installations.

The work calls for about 5,500 cubic yards of concrete, 32,000 yards of earth excavation, and 6,070 yards of rock excavation.

The Engineers' office said the first contract covers about 10 per cent of the total job.

LOSS NOT FATAL

A leading utility executive who anticipates some "gradual" loss by the coal industry to nuclear fuel has said he believes "on balance, even the atomic energy scales will be tipped in favor of coal for at least 10 to 20 years."

Commonwealth Edison Company of Chicago, one of America's largest electric utilities, anticipates use of 11 million tons of coal in 1956, or about 90 per cent of all the fuel used by the company. One of the longest barge hauls for coal will be that of West Kentucky Coal Co., which plans to send coal by Waterways from Uniontown, Ky., to Tampa, Fla., a distance of 1,600 miles.

FARM BUREAU BACKS BONDS

Directors' Vote Favors State Road Bond Issue Up for Vote November 6

The Kentucky Farm Bureau Board of Directors, today went on record as favoring the $100,000,000 road bond issue.

The Board said the action was taken because primary and secondary roads would benefit from the bond issue just as well as the inter-state road system.

The bond issue is in keeping with a long-standing Farm Bureau policy to work for "sound programs of improving and maintaining primary roads," said Burl S. St. Clair, president of the Kentucky Farm Bureau. "In light of this resolution, the Kentucky Farm Bureau will lend its influence and support to the adoption of the $100,000,000 road bond issue."

"The Board gave quite a bit of study to the issue before arriving at its decision," said Mr. St. Clair. He said the Board would cooperate with the Better Roads Council in any educational efforts to promote the bond issue. It is expected that passage of the bond issue will make more state money available for use on secondary, primary, and farm-to-market roads.

The Highway Department has said that the bond issue can be paid off over a 30-year period with taxes imposed by the last session of the General Assembly.

"If we don't make use of these funds they will probably be made available to other states," said Mr. St. Clair. "It's going to cost us anyway, so we might as well participate."

The bond issue will be voted upon in the general election to be held November 6.

Education Plan To Better School System Is Told

Kentucky's 221 local school systems will receive improved instructions through the co-operative program of providing services launched by the State Department of Education and four state colleges.

Eastern, Western, Murray and Morehead State Colleges will share equally the cost of a consultant who will be stationed on each campus to work with local educators.

Dr. Robert R. Martin, superintendent, said a joint employment of personnel will be part of the in-service teacher-education program. Since 1950 the program has been sponsored by the Education Department, he said.

He added that all of Kentucky's 34 colleges, offering programs of preparation for teachers, will have some part in the over-all program by making staff members available to local systems, which use in-service activities.

Dr. Martin also said, "This co-operative approach to upgrading the quality of education in Kentucky provides a way for not only the improvement of teaching in the classroom, but also for strengthening the program for preparation offered future teachers in the colleges which prepare teachers."

The consultants on the campuses will be Miss Ethel Barnard, Western; Eugene Russell, Murray; Harry Banks, Eastern, and Frank Vitte-tore, Morehead.

Mrs. Mary Marshall, consultant, who has served the in-service teacher-education program since 1952, will have headquarters in the Frankfort office of the Department of Education.

It's Safer in City Than In The Country Safety Council Says

Sometimes you're safer among the tall buildings than in the tall corn.

The traffic death rate in urban areas is less than half that of rural areas, according to the 1956 edition of the National Safety Council's statistical yearbook, "Accident Facts."

The 1955 rural death rate was more than eight per 100,000,000 miles of travel, while the city death rate was less than four. Night driving is considerably more hazardous than day driving in both urban and rural areas.

MAY RESTORE LOUISIA LOCK

Clements Bill To Spend $50,000 on Lock Okehed; Would Give Water Supply

LOUISIA, Ky., August 1 — The approval by the House of Representatives last week in Washington to an amendment to HR-7596, introduced by Senator Earle Clements, authorized the Corps Engineers to expend $50,000 for the restoration of Lock No. 3 in the Big Sandy River at Louisa.

This is hailed here with acclaim inasmuch citizens can feel secure from a standpoint of adequate water supply, as the dam will make a pool 18 feet deep, and puts six feet of water on the sill of the dam at Chapman, eight miles up Levisa, and on the sill of the Saltpetre dam on the Tug River.

Another amendment to the bill offered by Clements and approved by the House would prevent disposal of lock facilities by U. S. Corps of Engineers until a determination by project structures, including real property, will not be required in connection with an improvement for navigation or other allied purposes under consideration in the survey of the Big Sandy.

If the legislation is approved by the White House, the Big Sandy survey will be completed this fiscal year.

Grave of Musick, Massacre Victim, To Have Marker

By Rev. G. C. Musick

(Many descendants of David Musick, Indian atrocity victim, reside in Floyd county—Ed.)

On Sunday, August 13, at 2:00 p.m., a marker will be unveiled at the grave of David Musick, a pioneer settler of Russell county, Virginia, who was killed by the Indians in 1792.

This gathering of the Musick and related families, to which the public is invited, will be held about three miles northwest of Honaker, Russell County, Virginia, on Route 80, known as the Helen Henderson Highway, which leads from Honaker over Big A Mountain, through Buchanan county. The Combs cemetery, in which Musick is buried, is located on this highway a short distance from where he lived when he was murdered. Those who come via Coulwood and Cleveland will have hard surfaced roads all the way to the cemetery.

Prof. W. E. Gilbert, Radford, Va., a native of Russell county and for many years an instructor in Radford State Teachers College, will make an address on the subject, "Early History, Position and Nature of Southwest Virginia."

E. J. Sutherland, Clintwood, Va., lawyer and Trial Justice of Dickenson county, will give an account of the David Musick massacre and of other families in Russell, Tazewell, and adjoining counties who suffered from Indian outrages.

Rev. G. C. Musick, Renick, W. Va., a great-great-grandson of David Musick, and historian of the family, will give a brief sketch of the Musick family.

While David Musick was living on what afterwards became known as the Johnson Combs farm, his home was attacked by a band of Indians.

He was killed and scalped and his family, which consisted of his wife and five children, were captured. As the Indians started on their return to Ohio with their prisoners, they crossed Big A Mountain into the present county of Buchanan, passing down Russell's Fork River to its junction with the Big Prater River in Dickenson county where the town of Haysi is now located. Here they were rescued from the Indians by a posse of white settlers.

A few years later, about 1795, Mrs. Annie McKinley Musick, widow of David, married Ephraim Hatfield who lived on Thompson's Creek, a short distance from the old Musick home. Ephraim Hatfield had been married previously to a Miss Smith and two sons, Joseph and Valentine Hatfield, had been born to this union.

Ephraim Hatfield and his wife, Annie McKinley Musick Hatfield, moved to Blackberry Creek, in Pike county, Kentucky. The following known children were born to this union: George, Jeremiah, Ade, Phoebe, and Peggy. Valentine Hatfield moved to West Virginia and Joseph to Pike county, Kentucky. Anderson Hatfield (Devil Anse), was a descendant of Valentine Hatfield.

It doesn't cost a cent to Take a Ford Test Drive... and you may save hundreds!

Would you trade 20 minutes of your time for a saving of hundreds?

Why put off the fun of a Ford Test Drive for a single day? As you know, it puts you under absolutely no obligation. And it may save you literally hundreds of dollars—we'll get to that a little further on.

By a Test Drive we mean more than a once-around-the-block "spin."

We want you to test the power that rocketed Ford to a 500-mile stock car record at Indianapolis... the GO that won the grand prize at NASCAR's Daytona Championships. We want you to feel how this Ford scat pays off in your kind of driving: in traffic, passing on the highway, getting going at traffic lights. We'll put either a Ford Six or a mighty V-8 with up to 225 h.p. at your disposal.

We want you to drive and listen—drive and feel.

That fine-car quiet results from sound insulation under the hood, under the roof, in door and body panels—the most insulation in any car at anywhere near Ford's low price.

Some other things that contribute to that smooth, silent, luxury-car ride are things which Ford's leading competitor certainly can't boast: Ball-joint suspension with wide base control arms for better steering, more stabilized wheel alignment... shock absorbers that are mounted to the frame rather than the body.

"Sure," you'll say as you drive along the road, "Feels pretty good—but after all, this car is new."

Well sir, when you come in from your drive we'll show you why Ford will stay like new for a long, long time.

We'll show you how Ford has five cross-members (including a "K" member) in its frame. Ford's leading competitor only has two. We'll show you the deep-block Y-like engine design which enables Ford engines to take it.

Now—what you've been waiting for. How can you save hundreds of dollars by taking a Ford Test Drive?

Simply by proving to yourself that there really is a fine car in the low-price field.

You see, the reason a Ford does not cost hundreds of dollars more than it does, is Ford's huge production and the huge volume which we Ford Dealers sell.

There are many cases where "medium-priced" cars claim to be priced within a few hundred dollars of Ford. Remember, however, these prices are usually arrived at by comparing their lowest-priced models—stripped—with Ford's most expensive models that include all of the comforts of driving.

But enough of this talk. Come in. And you do the driving and the talking. Bring the family, too.

FORD goes first

SAYS STATE AUTO OWNERS WERE OVERCHARGED $400,000

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 8 — Insurance Commissioner Cad P. Thurman said today Kentucky automobile drivers are entitled to at least $400,000 in refunds from overcharging insurance companies.

The figure may run as high as $750,000 he said.

Thurman said a study of practices of certain "well-known automobile insurance-writing companies" showed automobile owners had been overcharged to a larger extent than first thought.

He identified them as companies who do not operate through duly licensed insurance agents.

They have failed, he said, to obtain the proper information for correct classification and rating of the insured.

The few companies evidently gave policyholders a high-premium rating when they were entitled to a different rating, he said. Policies were written to cover drivers under 25 years of age when such drivers were not involved in the car's operation, he explained.

Insurance rates are much higher when a car is operated by a young driver.

Thurman's announcement said refunds have been figured on more than 1,600 risks, an dollar amounts vary from a few dollars to as much as $100.

The companies involved have reported, he added, that more than $100,000 has been refunded to date on overcharges.

He said the overcharging practice has gone on for about five years.

"It is not to be presumed," Thurman said, "that anything like a majority of insurers are guilty of this misclassification. Some direct writers have failed to properly rate their policyholders."

QUIT OFFERS MADE BY TWO

Waterfield Says 'Papers' May Have Been Attempts Of Men To Quit Positions

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 8 — Lieutenant Governor Harry Lee Waterfield today admitted that "some papers" presumed to be the resignations of P. A. B. Widener and Don Sturgill were offered to him Monday.

Widener is State police commissioner and Sturgill is legal counsel for the State Police Department.

Waterfield said:

"I think this thing has blown over now. I do not anticipate the resignations of either in the future."

Waterfield said he had heard rumors that the two men planned to quit, and sensed the purpose of Sturgill's Monday visit to his office. Sturgill said he had written statements from himself and the commissioner, Waterfield added.

"I gave them back to him and asked him to return them to Widener," Waterfield said. "He did, and came back later to apologize."

(Reached by telephone at his Lexington home today, Sturgill said he would not confirm or deny reports of his visit to Waterfield's office, except the statement about the apology.)

"I have not apologized to anybody," he said. "I haven't done anything to apologize about. Whatever I did was on instructions from the commissioner."

Waterfield said he expects Widener to be appointed to the new post of commissioner of public safety when that department is activated September 1.

The job will pay $12,000 a year. Widener's present salary is less than $10,000. However, money would not be a factor, since Widener's wealth reputedly runs into millions of dollars.

Some speculation is that he would be less happy as commissioner of the four-division department. His No. 1 interest is police work. The State police will be one of the four divisions.

The others will be fire prevention, including the State fire marshal's office; operator's licenses and registrations and accident prevention.

Widener, questioned at his home in Lexington yesterday, denied that he has resigned, and said he would have no additional comment on the subject until Governor Chandler returns to Frankfort. Chandler is in Chicago organizing for his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

McDowell Hospital Staff Host At August Meeting

McDowell—The August professional meeting of the McDowell physicians and surgeons was held at the McDowell Memorial hospital. This is the monthly meeting where members of the medical profession discuss and analyze pertinent medical problems and new developments.

An innovation was instituted when members of the nursing profession of Floyd and Pike counties were invited to attend. As guests, it was felt that this action would lead to more intensive and greater coordination, which is required in meeting the many and varied problems of health that are to be encountered in their areas.

The culinary staff, under the direction of Mrs. Clara Broadwine, the hospital's dietitian, served dinner. Dr. Ira F. Wheeler, epidemiologist at the Cumberland Field Station, U. S. Public Health service, spoke on the "High Incidence of Enteric (Intestinal) Infections." His talk illustrated by slides.

Among the 44 members and guests attending the lecture were representatives of the Pike and Floyd county health department, the Pikeville Memorial hospital and Our Lady of the Way hospital. Among the specialists were: Doctors Floyd O. Atchley, Parasitologist; Maxwell Wilcomb, biologist; William T. Cooley, bacteriologist; E. T. Thorness, pathologist.

The entire staff of the McDowell hospital, headed by Dr. Walter R. DeForest, chief of clinical service, served as hosts.

State Hospital Patients Participate in Picnic

Approximately 1,350 patients, including 50 in wheel chairs, at Eastern State Hospital, Lexington, took active part in the 3rd annual picnic held on the front lawn of the of the hospital on Aug. 8th. The patients not able to go outside were served on the wards.

There was a gaily decorated mid-way, booths for games and contests, "supper on the ground" and a special musical program. The musical program was provided by a grant from the music performance Trust Funds of the Recording Industries. Booths were manned by hospital employees who contributed their own time for the project and many volunteers.

The food for the picnic supper was prepared by the dietary department of the Hospital but the "road treats", those that meant so much to the patients, such as ice-cream, candy, cakes, cigarettes and soft drinks, were donated by many individuals, church and civic groups, business firms and homemakers clubs. These came from Lexington and some from the 39th Northeast counties included in the hospital district.

ANTI-TB DRUGS HELP CLOSE MANY HOSPITALS, SANATORIA

Special to The Times

New York, N. Y., August 13 — Scores of tuberculosis hospitals and sanatoriums are closing their doors for lack of patients at a time when more Americans are undergoing treatment for TB than ever before, the Health News Institute reported today.

This paradoxical situation can be attributed in large measure to the dramatic success of isoniazid, and other TB-fighting drugs developed after years of costly research by the nation's pharmaceutical manufacturers, a survey by Health News Institute, information agency for the health field, disclosed. Introduced only a few years ago, these drugs are changing the entire complexion of the medical fight against one of man's oldest and deadliest scourges.

The effect of isoniazid and the other principal anti-tuberculosis drugs, streptomycin, dihydrostreptomycin and PAS (para-aminosalicylic acid), is to cut down the time a TB patient must stay in the hospital, while the infectious period of his disease runs its course. The patient then is discharged, to continue treatment either by regular visits to hospital out-patient clinics or at home.

The HNI survey disclosed that while the number of persons being treated for tuberculosis rose steadily during 1954 and 1955, due to better screening and detection, 94 hospitals and sanatoriums caring for TB patients either closed their doors during these two years or were converted to other uses. Twenty-three new ones were opened, but there was a net reduction of 3,215 beds.

The savings resulting from this shrinkage in the number of beds devoted to tubercular patients are considerable. With bed costs for TB patients estimated at $9.72 a day in 1954 by the United States Public Health Service, the reduction of 3,215 beds means a saving of millions a year even though the patient, productive again at home or at work, must still receive treatment on an ambulatory basis. As one example, New York's Bellevue Hospital estimates it costs just half as much per day to treat a patient in its out-patient chest clinic as it does when he is hospitalized. And the savings in manpower and equipment, to say nothing of freeing these beds to care for other sick persons, also are sizable.

Paralleling isoniazid's spectacular medical success has been a sharp drop in price. Since it was first placed on the market in 1952, the retail price has dropped about 70 percent, as manufacturers have improved production methods and written off the millions they spent in developing the drug and putting it through its first clinical tests.

One of the most important accomplishments of the TB-fighting drugs has been a drastic cut in the number of deaths among children with military tuberculosis or tuberculosis meningitis—two acute forms of the disease. Dr. Edith M. Lincoln of Bellevue Hospital reported recently that only one sick child in 100 died from either of these two acute forms of TB when treated with isoniazid in combination with streptomycin or dihydrostreptomycin. This compares to a death rate of five per 100 when streptomycin alone was the best available treatment—and a death rate approaching 100 per cent before streptomycin came into use.

The drugs also have changed surgical techniques in treating TB. Since they tend to control active infection, the chest surgeon can cut small sections of calcified tissue from the lung to eliminate inactive but potentially dangerous trouble spots.

More than 100 pharmaceutical companies in the United States today have been licensed to make preparations containing isoniazid. Despite all its successes to date, however, Health News Institute points out isoniazid and the other anti-TB drugs have not eliminated tuberculosis as a public health problem. But the outlook is bright for the TB patient whose disease is discovered early and treated promptly. And work goes on in the research laboratories of pharmaceutical companies all across the country to find a drug that will destroy the tubercle bacillus wherever it exists in the body.

The payoff!

There are many ways to measure life insurance values. Financial stability, service, prompt payment of claims: these are some of the important yardsticks. Woodmen of the World, financially strongest fraternal benefit society, is proud of its showing of excellence by these measurements. Of more than 7½ millions of dollars paid in 1955 death and disability claims, litigation required settlement in but a single one. This remarkable record is second to none in the life field. In the matter of promptness, too, Woodmen has a superb record. Checks to beneficiaries are usually in the mail within 48 hours after receipt of proofs. This just, liberal, speedy performance in claim settlements stands out. It is another demonstration of the plus benefits offered by membership in a great Society.

TWO SCHOOLS NEED COACHES

Grid Teams of Section In Trouble As Season To Get Started Soon

Eastern Kentucky's football playing schools are plagued with many difficulties, and the 1956 season is less than a month away.

Louisia is frantically searching for a grid teacher, and Jenkins high school is also in need of a football tutor.

Louisia's schools open August 20, and football practice is scheduled to get under way Monday.

In addition, Elkhorn City, Pikeville and Paintsville will have new coaches this season, and M. C. Napier, Leslie County and Wheelwright have added football to their athletic program this year.

This is the coaching line-up at present: Pikeville, Bobby Phillips; Whitesburg, Ed Moore; Fleming-Neon, Dave Hurst; Prestonsburg, Robert Wallace; Hazard, Jim Caudill; Paintsville, Walter Brugh; Belfry, Guy Patterson; Elkhorn City, Arthur Mullins; Wheelwright, Wilbur Jamerson; Leslie County, John Griggs.

The annual shortage of football officials is present again this season, and many schools are having problems in completing their schedules.

Elkhorn City is seeking an opponent for September 14, either at home or away, and Fleming-Neon would like to fill September 8 for a game at home.

GRID GOSSIP

Jack Hall, ex-Fleming high school ace and more recently of the University of Wyoming Cowboys, will return to Fleming this season as assistant coach in football and basketball. John Morgan and Preston Armstrong will again serve as grid aides to Hurst and handle basketball, baseball and track. Elkhorn City will not have a single senior on its '56 football team. Alvis Brown (Marshall) is the new assistant to Charlie Snyder at Catlettsburg high. Raceland and Catlettsburg will meet twice on the gridiron during the coming season. Each will play once at home, but only one meeting will count in the N. E. K. C. John Thompson, last season's mentor at Louisa, will assist Denver-Ball at Raceland. "Moon" Edwards has replaced Everett Vanover at the helm of Wurland's grid forces. Vanover has moved to Paris High.

Prestonsburg Expecting Good Team Despite Loss Of Star Quarterback; Black Cats To Be Light But Speedy

Prestonsburg high school expects its 1956 football team to equal or better last season's unit which recorded five triumphs, lost three, and tied one and finished fourth in the nine-team Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference.

The Black Cats have graduated their two-time all-state quarterback, Lowell Hughes, who will perform for the University of Kentucky freshman team this fall, thus joining his brother, John Delmar Hughes, on the U. of K. squad.

Brother No. 3, Paul Phillip, of the Hughes family of football greats, is the leading aspirant for the quarterback spot, which has been capably filled by a Hughes since the 1950 season.

Coach Robert Wallace, Western State College graduate and second-season mentor at Prestonsburg high, had 41 candidates answer his first call for practice last Monday.

In this group were 10 lettermen and eight starters from last year. However, tackle Bill Rorer, 5-foot, 11-inch, 230-pound junior letterman,

Paul Hughes, a 6-foot, 1-inch junior, will have his work cut out if he is to fill the shoes of his previous brothers who have been the all-state quarterbacks for the past four years in Kentucky.

The Black Cats, thus far have carded a nine-game schedule, including seven E. K. M. C. opponents. School officials would like to schedule a game either at home or away on August 31.

Louisville Flaget is the only newcomer to the schedule. The schedule: Aug. 31 (to be filled); Sept. 8, Louisville Flaget, there; Sept. 14, *Hazard, home; Sept. 21, *Elkhorn City, there; Sept. 29, *Jenkins, home; Oct. 5, *Pikeville, home; Oct. 12, Louisa, home; Oct. 19, *Belfry, (Williamson, W. Va.); Oct. 25, *Whitesburg, home; Nov. 2, *Paintsville, there. * E. K. M. C.

If the tail of a woodchuck you've just shot sticks straight up, the August issue of Sports Afield magazine says that you can be reasonably certain he's finished.

LEFTY HURLS COLTS TO WIN

Childers Holds W'Wright To Five Hits; Win Brings Record to 6 Won, 4 Lost

Southpaw Archie Childers yielded only five hits and three runs in a Prestonsburg Colts 9-3 victory over the Wheelwright Colts at Wheelwright last Wednesday.

The pitching of Childers and the potent bat of Wayne Dixon, who lined out a triple among three hits, made the Prestonsburg win and lost record 6 and 4.

G. Hall, center fielder, was Wheelwright's most effective batsman against Childers as he gathered one hit, got two free passes and scored two runs.

Behind Wayne Dixon, Prestonsburg rightfielder, who paced the winner's attack, were Joe Harris, Charles Wells and Henry Hughes chipping in with two hits each.

If They Weren't Breaking the Law They Apparently Were 'Fixin' To'

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 9 — It takes neither a gun to make a hunter, nor a bagged animal—nor even the sight of an animal.

County Attorney Davis Williams of Mundfordville was told today he had a case against a group of men gathered around a tree where four coon dogs were barking, even though:

1. They had no guns.
2. They had no coon.
3. No one actually saw a coon.
4. No one was climbing the tree.

Assistant Attorney General John

B. Browning, answering Williams' query, said hunting laws were so strict in their definition of "hunter" that a jury might be convinced the men were hunting out of season simply by their presence around the barking dogs.

He suggested however, Williams' case would be stronger if someone had seen a coon or if someone had been caught climbing the tree.

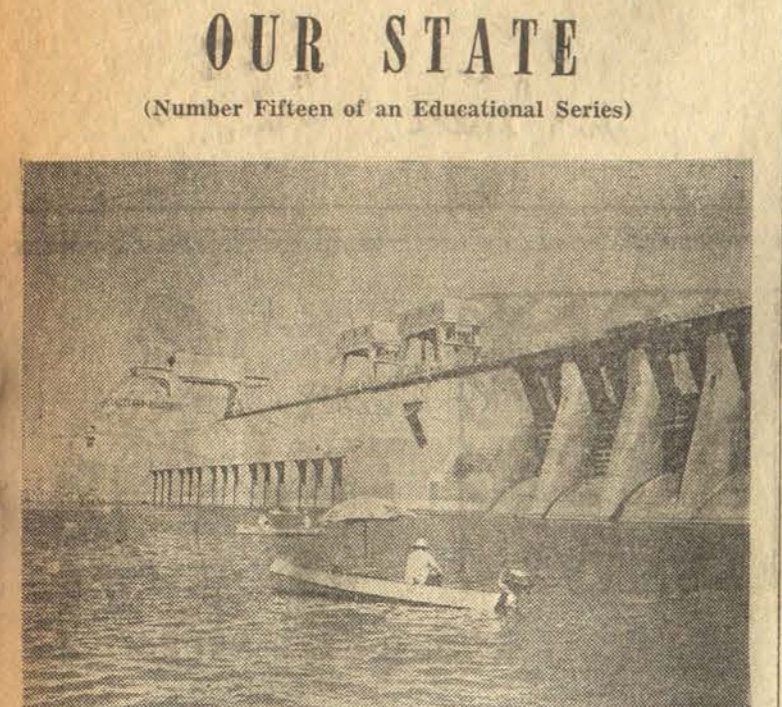

The jury might believe the men's story that they had been fishing and were exercising their dogs, he said.

WHAS CRUSADE FOR CHILDREN OFFERS TEEN-AGERS TV SPOTS

Two Kentuckiana teen-agers are going to join nationally prominent entertainers and WHAS' own talent line-up on the third WHAS Crusade for Children which will be broadcast and televised simultaneously over WHAS Radio and TV September 22 and 23.

Floyd county's retarded children have benefited during the past two years through funds raised by WHAS Crusades for Children.

WHAS announced plans last week for the selection of the Crusade Teen-Age King and Queen. The requirements are that they must be teen-agers, no younger than 13, not over 19. They must be residents of Kentucky or Southern Indiana, and their talent must be in the non-professional category whether it be singer, dancer, instrumentalist or specialty act.

Entries may be made by sending a postcard to King and Queen contest, WHAS-TV, Louisville 2, Ky. The postcard should bear the entry's name, address, telephone number, age and description of his or her act. All entrants will undergo preliminary off-the-air auditions which will be judged by WHAS program personnel, and those passing this preliminary audition will be eligible for the contest. In both the preliminary audition and the contest performers will be judged on skill in relation to age, showmanship, and personality combined with poise.

The King and Queen contest will consist of four one-half hour television shows, the first of which is Sunday, August 12, from 10 to 10:30 p.m. The other shows are scheduled for August 28, September 9 and September 16. There will be six competing acts on each of the first three shows, and a boy and girl winner from each of these shows, a total of six teen-agers, will appear as finalists on the show of September 16. The contestants on these four programs will be judged by a panel of three members.

Winners of the King and Queen contest will appear on several WHAS radio and television programs in addition to the Crusade for Children show.

1956 Safety Drive Slated Next Month By Mining Groups

For the sixth consecutive year, a month-long coordinated educational campaign to help reduce the toll of accidental injuries and death will be conducted in tri-state mining areas of Kentucky, Tennessee, and Virginia, it was announced this week by James H. Phalan, chief of the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals.

Cooperating in the "September—No Accident Month" safety program will be the mining departments of all three states, various mining institutes, the U. S. Bureau of Mines, United Mine Workers of America, coal operators and insurance underwriters.

"Safe today—alive tomorrow," the theme of the 1956 campaign, is designed to emphasize as forcibly as possible the vital importance of obeying the rules of safety, not only in the mines, but on the highway, in the home, at school, on any job, and at play.

Originally conceived as a mine safety program, the campaign was broadened three years ago to cover all phases of daily activity.

"The reduction of injuries and deaths in our mines through the application of safety rules and procedures has proven that accidents can be prevented," Phalan declared, "and if we can focus attention on safety rules in other phases of our activities, similar progress can be expected."

"Our slogan for this year's program 'Safe today—alive tomorrow,' is a cogent reminder that safety pays, and with the cooperation of the press in the tri-state mining area we will again bring the rules of safety to people in all walks of life. If everyone heeds, everyone will benefit."

The recent resurgence of the coal mining industry, it was pointed out, makes the campaign especially important this year.

In addition to newspaper publicity, the program will be furthered by the use of 50,000 "Safe Today—Alive Tomorrow" stickers for miners' caps, 20,000 automobile bumper posters, 5,000 safety posters and 5,000 window transparencies. All display and educational materials are furnished by the Safety Engineering Department of the Bituminous Casualty Corporation, one of the leading underwriters of workmen's compensation and liability insurance in the coal mining industry.

Kentucky Parks Give State Great Industry

Frankfort, Aug. 15 — Kentucky has a great industry, doing approximately a $300 million dollar business a year at its parks, shrines and memorials.

This statement was made by Mrs. Ben Kilgore, state park director at a Lexington Kiwanis club meeting recently. Kentucky is one of the top five states in the union in park development, with a great future in this field, Mrs. Kilgore said.

The park director said the state hopes to expand facilities at the parks including cabins, hotels, camping areas and recreational equipment.

One plan calls for linking the Pine Mountain Natural Bridge and Cumberland Falls parks with trails and providing designated camping areas along the way for overnight hikers. Another plan is to start drift fishing at the Cumberland park, Mrs. Kilgore added.

A budget of $225,000 is provided for operation of the parks, a decrease of $50,000, yet the park developments can be continued, Herschel E. Riordan, assistant director, said.

Corn-on-Cob Freezing Poses Several Problems

Freezing corn on the cob is less satisfactory than the freezing of almost any other vegetables, according to Mrs. Pearl Haak, specialist in foods at the University of Kentucky. She bases that statement on the number of letters and telephone calls that come to her concerning the problem. The corn has a flavor of the cob, housewives report.

The probable cause is due to the variety of corn grown that has large cobs, Mrs. Haak explained. By the time the corn is blanched long enough to heat through the cobs, the corn is overcooked and loses its delightful flavor. If the cob isn't heated through, enzymes change the flavor of the corn to that of the cob.

Here are Mrs. Haak's recommendations:

Select for freezing perfect ears with small cobs and young tender corn in the thin milk stage. Husk, remove silks, trim and wash. Place ears in boiling water for 7 to 11 minutes, according to size. Use a large amount of water so that boiling resumes quickly after the corn is placed in it. Immediately after the blanching period, place the corn in about the same amount of cold or ice water until the cob is chilled.

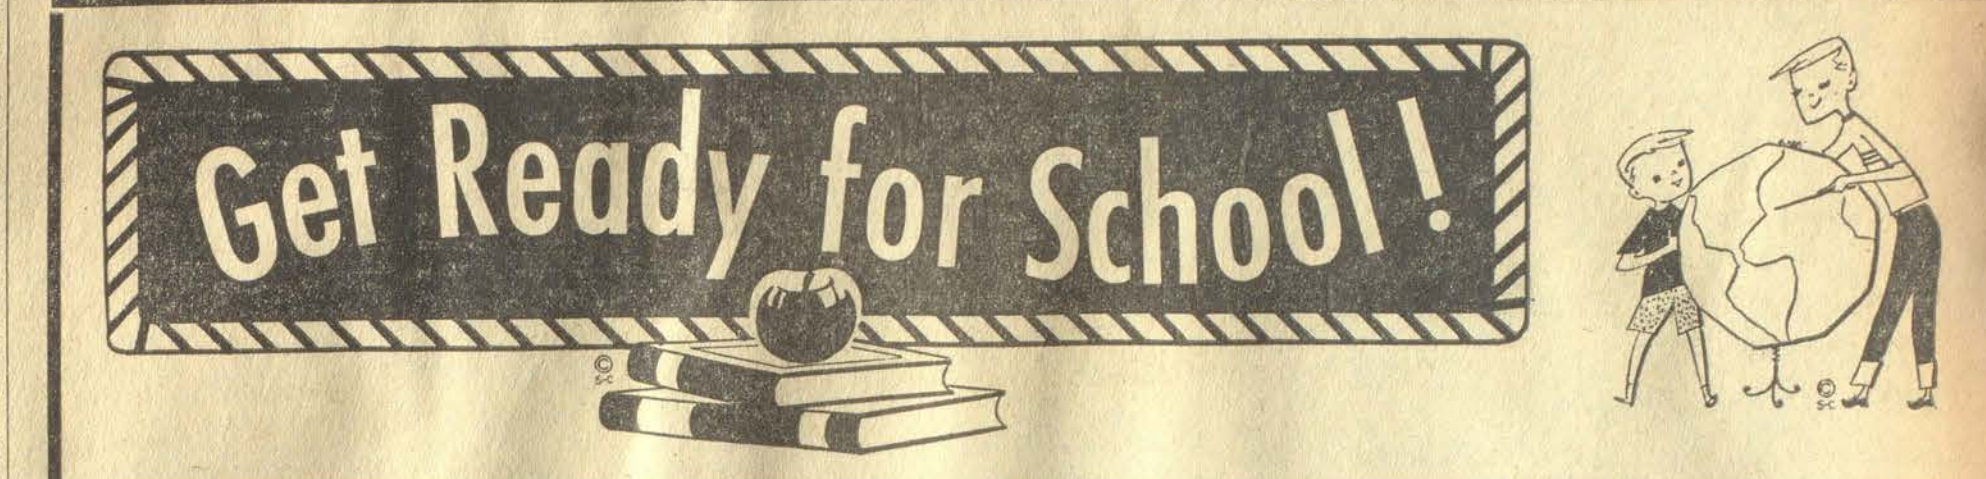

To freeze, wrap each ear separately in moisture-vapor-resistant cellophane and cover with stock-inette, or pack in bags. Have the quick-freeze temperature at least a zero, or preferably 10 to 15 degrees below zero. After freezing, store at zero or lower.
