SPEAKING OF AND FOR FLOYD COUNTY

PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

AUGUST 30, 1956

THURSDAY

This Town— That World

HINT?
I have just come out of shack. It's enough of a strain to open your mail these days between the first and tenth days of any month, but when you walk into your office on the 3rd as I did this noon, and find lying on your desk a pad of checks—well, you just begin to wonder who's hinting that payment is in order now, and not later.

THE OLD, RED ROOSTER

This story may be symbolic, or it may just be plain political, we aren't certain. Anyway, Lennie Moore comes into our office Friday morning, towing a well-penned red rooster with him. Lennie declares he isn't disavowing ownership of this fowl because he reminds him overmuch of the Democratic party, but we have doubts, anyhow. He claims the bird was being very democratic about visiting his neighbors' gardens and throwing the dirt to the extent that a vegetable shortage threatened on Riverside avenue. Says that he was democratic in that he visited the small gardens as well as the large and that if he had any respect for one person above another, or for anybody, said respect had not yet been discovered.

Anyway, we kept the rooster, having in mind our friend, Abe Smiley, as the eventual owner. And before long Abe had the rooster, sans coop and everything should have been all right. But before the day was over Abe was back in conference with our Mr. Bill Darby, who cannot see a rooster very often unless he is penned in a log cabin. Abe wanted some assistance from Bill toward buying another rooster to go along with the one he now had.

Whereupon Darby informed Abe that this is a pretty poor season to be canvassing Republicans

JUDGES TALK COURT IDEALS HERE MONDAY

Judge Hogg Is Visitor At Court Opening; Hill Talks on Booze Traffic

Two judges addressed the jurors and spectators at the opening of the September circuit court term here Monday—Appellate Judge Astor Hogg, of Harlan, a candidate for re-election to the state's highest court, and Circuit Judge Edward P. Hill who spoke to the jurors about existing conditions and jurors' duties in the matter of law-enforcement.

Judge Hogg was introduced by the presiding judge after the session had been opened by prayer by the Rev. Harold W. Dorsey. The appellate judge praised the newly introduced practice of opening local courts with invocation for divine aid and guidance. "People will tolerate mistakes in the executive and legislative branches of their government, but when things aren't done right by the judicial branch it shakes the faith of the people. The very stability of the people, the blessings of society depend on the uprightness of our courts."

Speaking as a candidate, Judge Hogg expressed doubt that judges should be elected under a party label. He added that he started his campaign last year "right here—and I wanted to return to start here this year."

Boottlegging was listed by Circuit Judge Hill as the most frequent law-violation in this county, and so he cited it as first for the enforcement job. Speaking to the grand jury, he pointed out that state law provides a double penalty for second offense bootlegging and felony prosecution for the third offense. "Indictments should be made so as to make this law apply to these repeaters," he added.

Commenting on information that he had received from Sheriff Gorman Collins to the effect that a number of persons wanted to indict deputy sheriffs for false arrests or mistreatment, Judge Hill remarked that this is a subject which requires careful investigation. "They should not be indicted every time some fellow gets mad because he has been arrested," he said. "You ought to be reasonably sure a citizen has been mistreated before making an indictment against an officer."

Touthing on the state of the law against carrying concealed deadly weapons, he remarked that the court has few such cases, these days, and that the scarcity of pistols accounts for fewer killings.

The grand jury did not have a murder case to investigate as of Tuesday morning.

CANEY ROAD IS A "MUST"

Before Cold Weather; Material Shortage May Delay Highway 23 Work

Work on resurfacing U. S. 23 from Prestonsburg to Pikeville, which was discontinued a few days ago, will be resumed in four, possibly six weeks, according to M. F. Johnson, district highway engineer at Pikeville. The suspension is due, he said, to the scarcity of aggregate which is shipped here either from Ashland or Ironton.

The surfacing job planned for the Dinwood-Manton road, or as it is called locally, the Caney Fork road, ran into a snarl this week also. Bidding closed August 24 but the Adams Construction Company, of Paintsville, was the only contractor submitting a price on the job. Contracts have been awarded when there was only a single bidder, it was pointed out to The Times this week, but in the Caney Fork case the price was considerably above engineers' estimate.

The Highway Department has asked the company to send a representative to Frankfort to discuss two things: (1) The reason for the bid above the estimates, and (2) to see if assurances can be made, in the event the company is awarded the contract, that the surfacing

Neon Sixteen-Year-Old Bright Light In Beauty Contest; Floyd Girl, Third

Sixteen-year-old Adrienne Jackson, of Neon, emerged the victor Monday in the beauty contest staged by the United Mine Workers as a feature of entertainment at their annual Labor Day celebration held at Allen. Eighteen girls entered the pulchritude parade.

Second and third places went to Phyllis Ann Hall, 18, of Whitesburg, and Sparkle Gayheart, 16, of Garrett. First prize was $250 cash.

OUTLAY TOTAL OVER $90,000

Harold Telephone Firm Equipment Buying Told; Contract Awarded Today

Equipment purchases totaling $93,402 and plans for construction which will run into additional heavy cash outlay were announced this week by the Harold Telephone Company.

Paul D. Gearheart, president of the company, said the purchases include an automatic switchboard, bought from the Stromberg-Carlson Company at a cost of $33,702, and $59,700 worth of lead cable to extend a distance of 23 miles.

The switchboard will be installed shortly after Jan. 1, and bids on the outside plant of the company, including setting of poles, stringing of line and other operations, will be opened today (Thursday). The contract will cover approximately 100 miles of line.

A contract also will be let later, possibly about Oct. 15, on construction of a new central office building to house automatic equipment and to serve as storage and office space, Gearheart said.

When the telephone system, serving a wide area of the upper section of this county, is cut over for operation by automatic equipment, he added, free service will be available from Pikeville to the Harold exchange. At this time the toll for this distance is 20 cents.

Mr. Gearheart added that the company now has 706 applications for telephones and that it is installing lines and other facilities to accommodate a total of 1,100. It has at this time about 150 subscribers.

The Harold Telephone Company, received a loan of $337,000 several months ago from the telephone division of the REA.

LINE CHANGE HANGING FIRE

Council Told Company Booing Its Proposal; Study Sale Carb Sought

The Prestonsburg City Council, whose recent resolution asked the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company to remove its lines from private property bordering city-owned property on Central avenue here was told Monday night by H. D. Hayes, Paintsville, district manager for the firm, that his company is giving the request full consideration.

He was not in position, however, he added, to say definitely when action will be taken and if the telephone company will bear all the expense of moving the line. Mayor Harry Sandige and members of the Council told Mr. Hayes that they did not want to appear to be "pushing" the phone company but that they hoped the change can be made within a period of five or six months.

Driveway of one home now under construction, that of Joe Wedington, is partially blocked by a telephone pole and the driveway has been excluded from the building contract as a result. Another home, proposed to be built by Astor Meade, has been delayed, because, it was

Saturday at Midnight Registration Deadline

Saturday midnight is the deadline for voter-registration, and the County Clerk's office here will receive registrations till that hour, County Clerk DuRan Moore said Tuesday.

Mr. Moore said registration has been fairly heavy but that he is certain many who are eligible to register and vote in the coming election either have not learned of the registration dates or have simply neglected to register.

Many 18-year-olds eligible to vote for the first time are among those who have not registered, it was said.

Second place winner received $125, and third place carried a consolation award of $50. All three winners received silver trophies.

Judges of the beauty contest were out-of-state show people who were unacquainted with any of the entrants.

Other entrants, each representing a local union of the UMWA, were Sandra Williamson and Joanne Leslie, both of Pikeville, Mary Kay Mullins and Kathryn Taylor, both of Elkhorn City, Katie Lea Caudill, of Hardbury, Gilly Hamilton, of McDowell, Shelby Lucas and Pat Fulton, both of Whitesburg, Norma Call, of Sergeant, Ramona Lee Sparks, of Millstone, Eloise Reynolds, Whitesburg, Phyllis Taylor, Wayland, Christine Hamilton, Wheelwright, Betty Correll, of Neon and Norma Stephens, of David.

Miss Jackson, the winner, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy W. Jackson, and a junior at Neon-Fleming high school.

FIVE WRECKS ARE REPORTED

No Fatalities in Floyd As Holiday Death Toll In State Stands at 10

Floyd county escaped by narrow margins in at least five instances of contributing to the state's Labor Day week-end death total in traffic accidents.

Two men involved in Floyd crashes were hospitalized here, and two Floyd countians were in Ohio hospitals following a wreck during an out-of-state trip over the holiday. Buddy Collins and William Cornelius Clevenger, of this county, were injured Saturday afternoon when their car left the highway at Ball Alley and plunged toward the river. Collins was dismissed this week from the Prestonsburg General hospital, but Clevenger, who suffered a chest injury, remained a patient there. His condition is good.

Charlie Warrix and Bert Hicks, of the Middle Creek road, were hurt the same day when, driving in heavy fog, their car entered a four-lane highway on the left and collided with a Michigan car between Chillicothe and Circleville, Ohio. Warrix, owner of the Floyd car in the collision, suffered head and chest injuries and is a patient at University hospital, Columbus. Hicks had a chest injury but was able to be brought home Monday. Warrix condition is not serious, it was said.

Another wreck involved autos of Mrs. Charles Wiechers, public health nurse with the Floyd County Health Department, and J. B. Ford, of Prestonsburg, Sunday near Lanier. This and two other wrecks were of a minor nature, it was said.

Jack Poe, local plumber, is in a Huntington hospital suffering from fall injuries. His leg was broken in three places, it was reported.

The Kentucky death toll from highway accidents over Labor Day stood at 10, four less than State Police Commissioner Widener had predicted "unless drivers slow down." The death total for the nation from all types of accidents stood at 482.

POLICE PLAN SPEED TRAPS

Leslie Says Speed Curbs To Begin Friday; Sheriff To Give Requested Help

The Times was asked this week by David B. Leslie, city traffic officer, to serve notice on all who drive that speed traps will be established in various parts of Prestonsburg, beginning Friday morning of this week.

The move is intended to halt speeding which has been described as a major problem here.

Leslie said Prestonsburg police will be assisted by Sheriff's deputies, and that other county officials have pledged their cooperation.

"We've tried friendly counsel, but that hasn't helped," the traffic officer said. "Now we intend to enforce the law against speeding. Nobody will be chased when they are seen speeding, but their car license numbers will be taken and warrants will be issued for their arrest."

Sheriff Gorman Collins was quoted by Leslie as saying he will make deputy sheriffs available three days a week in order to enforce safe driving regulations. Offenders will be taken to police court. In addition to the fine for such an offense, conviction also will result in revocation of driver's license for a period of six months.

WIDOW'S SUIT ASKS $90,000

Funeral Home, Employee Named by Mrs. Anderson; Crafts Sue for $75,000

One of the heavier damage suits filed here in recent years is that in which Mrs. Rebecca Anderson, administratrix of the estate of her husband, Foster Anderson, last week sued John F. Richey, doing business as the Eastin & Richey Funeral Home, and John N. Taul.

Mrs. Anderson's suit, prepared by the Pikeville law firm of Baird & Hays, asks $100,000 damages for the death of her husband, plus $1,500 hospital and funeral expenses.

Anderson, 42, an employee of the Princess Elkhorn Coal Co., David, was fatally injured April 27, last, when an ambulance of the M. Sterling funeral home, driven by Taul collided with Mr. Anderson's auto at a road junction near Goodloe as he was driving toward his home here. Francis Harmon, also of Prestonsburg, a passenger in the car, was seriously injured.

The suit alleges that Taul "so negligently and carelessly operated the ambulance that 'it was run against, into and upon' the car."

Taul emerged from the collision with minor hurts.

A total of $75,000 was asked in a suit filed Wednesday morning against the Valley Motor Co., Inc., Prestonsburg, and its employee, Charles Nelson, in the death June 13 on Little Paint Creek of James Albert Craft.

The parents, George and Ermale Craft, ask $25,000 for loss of companionship, love and affection of the child, and George Craft as administrator of his son's estate asks $50,000 damages.

The petition, prepared by Atty. Claude P. Stephens, claims that Nelson was driving a company car at excessive speed in approaching a place along the highway where he knew children would likely be present and that he did not have control of the auto.

Says Sanitarians' Work At UMW Rally Stopped

Inability of the Floyd County Health Department to enforce State Health Department foodhanding regulations at the UMW Labor Day celebration at Allen will make future attempts to enforce such regulations at public events an embarrassing job for the health department and its sanitarians, M. V. Clark, director of the health department, said Tuesday.

Mr. Clark said he and department sanitarians learned two days before the Labor Day celebration that they would not be able to do anything toward enforcement of state regulations which are devised to protect from disease germs food and drinks that are handled and sold in the open. So, he said, they decided to do the next best thing—to go to the celebration and carry on an educational campaign with the foodhandlers who had concessions there, urging them to take certain precautions and thus provide the maximum protection to the public possible under the circumstances.

This service, he said, was in addition to the free blood-testing program for diabetes and syphilis detection which was jointly sponsored by the health department and the Floyd County Medical Society.

Clark said B. B. Bloomer, master of ceremonies at the celebration, intervened as he was discussing with the operator of a stand her responsibility to protect the customer in every possible way. Bloomer, he said broke in on the conversation to remark that they had had celebrations in other counties without interference from health departments but that as soon as they came to Floyd county they met with "cranks and cranky ideas."

Bloomer and Clark almost came to blows when the remarks were repeated, the health director said. He added that Mr. Bloomer then served verbal notice on him that no further inspections of any of the concessions would be permitted. Four stands, he said, had been visited at that time.

"Wherever food and drink are being served to a crowd of people such as this, there is a major health problem," Clark said. "So many of the communicable diseases are spread through food and drink, such as typhoid, diphtheria, dysentery, tuberculosis, polio, scarlet fever, new virus infections, common colds and others. I, as director of the health department, am fully and completely responsible for the health-safety of the people as far as it is within my power. We had two alternatives: we could have kept our hands off

12 EMPLOYEES OFF ROAD JOB

District Engineer Says Release of County Men Made As Economy Move

Twelve maintenance employees of the State Highway Department in this county were released Sept. 1, it was disclosed by highway officials Tuesday. The releases were made in a general economy move, M. F. Johnson, district highway engineer at Pikeville, said.

Johnson wrote Woodrow Fitzpatrick, highway maintenance foreman, Aug. 29, instructing him to make the decrease in his forces.

"I've been instructed by the Frankfort office to limit the number of people employed on Floyd county maintenance," Johnson wrote Fitzpatrick. "This limit has been established as an economy measure and is necessary in order that expenditures do not exceed the budget allotments."

The men released were George W. Allen, Ernest Boyd, T. H. Burchett, H. A. Casey, John L. Griffith, Joe Helton, Tom Johnson, S. Y. Layne, Lonnie McSurley, L. P. Montgomery, C. C. Scaif, and Elder G. Wright.

This leaves 47 maintenance employees and six on a special crew in this county, it was said.

THORNG HEAR GOV. CLEMENT CENSURE GOP

Labor Day Rally Crowd Also Hears U. S. Senator Pledge Aid on Waterway

"I feel at home in Kentucky," Gov. Frank Clement, of Tennessee, told several thousand persons Monday at the annual Labor Day celebration at District 30, United Mine Workers, at Allen.

He said his mother was a native of Allen county and he had lived in Scottsville, Bowling Green and Kyrook. "One good thing about being a Tennessean is that you're a neighbor to Kentucky," the recent keynoter at the Chicago Democratic convention added.

After that his speech was a castigations of the Republican party and its leaders. With almost evangelistic fervor he blasted Charles Wilson, Ezra Taft Benson and others. "Charles Wilson is a man who can put one foot in his mouth and then winds up trying to get the other one in, too," he said. He took a crack at the Republican farm program. "I knew Ike was going to run for President. He can't afford to retire to the Gettysburg farm as long as Benson is Secretary of Agriculture."

Senator Earle Clements introduced the Tennessee governor to the Labor Day crowd estimated by some as high as 10,000 persons. What is normally a staid UMW program featuring contests and entertainment turned into a political affair with candidates of both parties present to solicit votes. Although John Sherman Cooper, candidate for United States Senator against ex-Governor Lawrence Wetherby was present, he was not a speaker, nor was Scott Craft, Republican aspirant for Congress. Both did a lot of handshaking.

Governor Clement sat on the platform with Democratic big-wigs and UMW officials while Sam Caddy, Sr., District 30 head, and John Young Brown, Lexington attorney,

Former All-American Weaver Still Has Eye on Old School

As the "Praying Colonels" of little Centre College at Danville prepare for the 1956 football season which is only a few weeks way, a Floyd county man is one of their strongest supporters.

This Floyd countian is J. R. "Red" Weaver, one of the immortals who made of little Centre a football David which was to conquer Harvard, the grid Goliath, in the days when the Ivy League was the Big League of football.

Red was a member of the Walter Camp All-American football team in his sophomore year at Centre, then was selected by the late dean of America's sport writers, Grantland Rice. He is also the holder of a kicking record which the professional Lou Groza did not approach in college—that of kicking 99 consecutive extra-points.

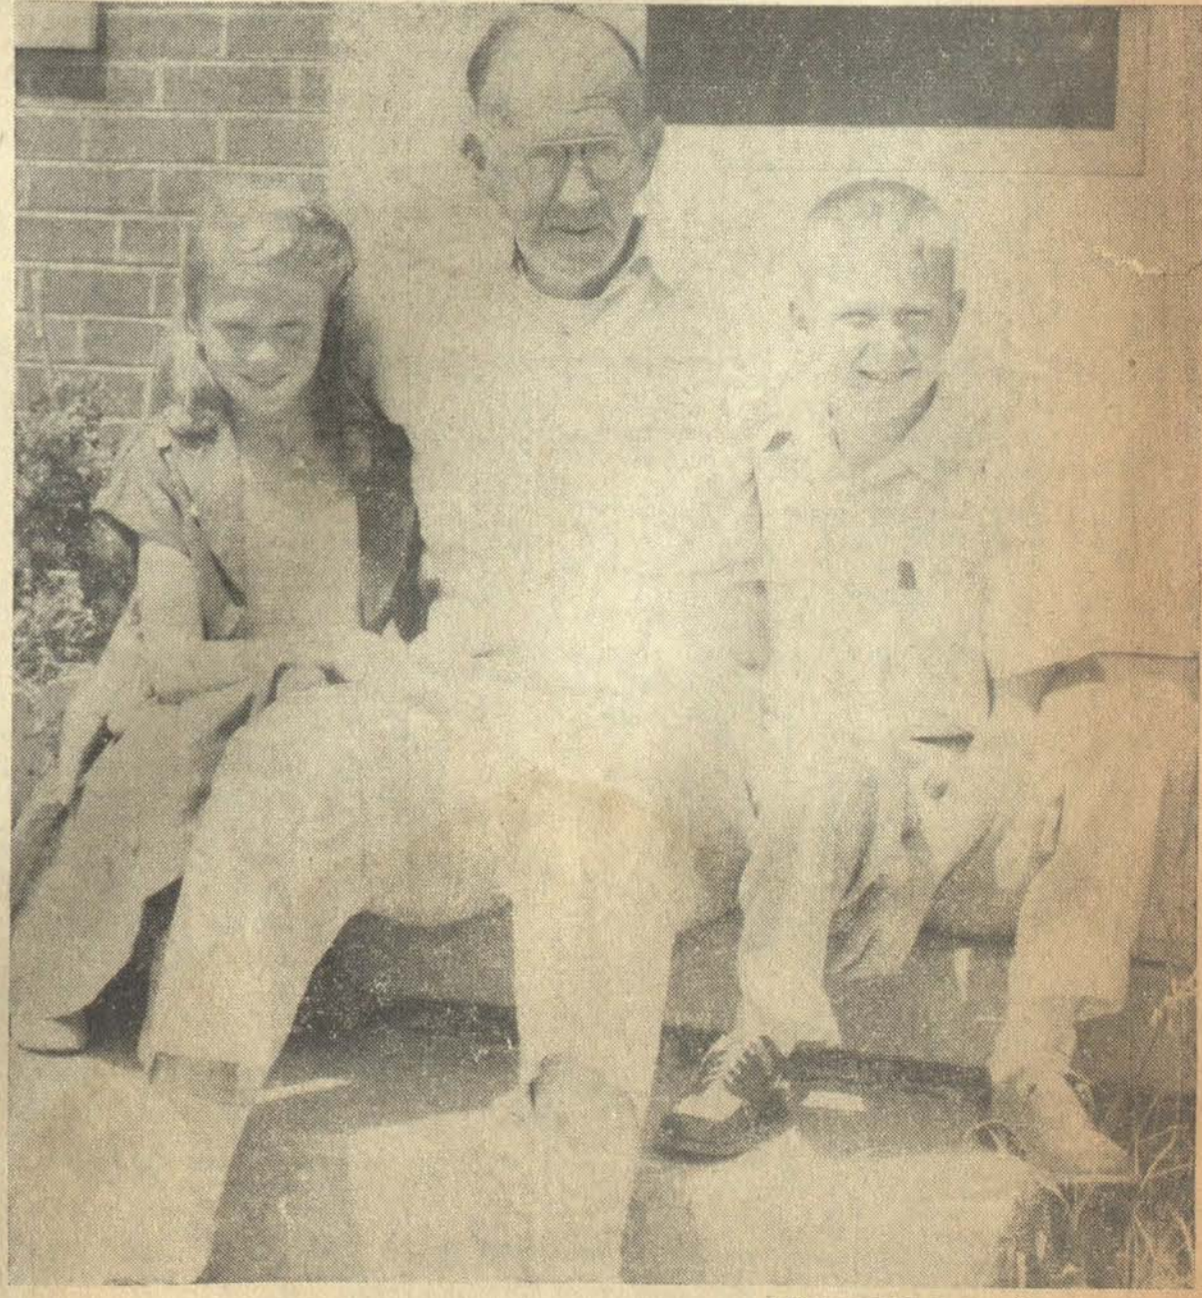

He is probably the only Floyd county man ever to appear in Ripley's Believe It or Not. Every football season, Ripley commemorates the amazing record of Red's at least once. Red, now ending his work as reservoir manager at Dewey Lake to go to Greenup, Ky. and construction work there with the U.S. Corps of Engineers, said that he kicked 37 straight, missed one, and then went on the bing that totaled a Ruthian 99 consecutive kicks through the uprights. Did he finally miss one?

"No," said Red. "I got hungry, quit college, and went to work." The work was to be professional football, in the old National League, where Red played eight years.

Red and his fellow Texans who put Centre in the history books of football were started in their careers by Robert L. Myers, the son of a Presbyterian minister. Myers, athletically inclined, started a football team at Norfolk high school on the northside of Fort Worth where Red and Alvin "Bo" McMillen joined him in 1911.

Weaver, at the time, was a seventh grader and McMillen, who later enjoyed a successful coaching career at Indiana University and with the Detroit Lions, was in the sixth. In 1914, a rule was passed in Texas that grade school students would be barred from participating in high school athletics.

"That's how we got into high school," Red grins. "One day we went to grade school and the next day we were in high school." Because the boys entered high school prematurely, they were unable to finish their high school educations in normal fashion. Red relates that he played part of a year as a post-graduate, then was asked by Texas educational authorities not to take part in football within the state.

"That's why McMillen and I came to Somerset to finish up high school so we could get into college." In a five-year period 27 of the senior class at Norfolk migrated to Kentucky and Centre College to play football and continue their education.

At Somerset high school, where he and fellow Texan McMillen sparked an outstanding team, he was joined by the former U. S. Senator and ambassador to India, John Sherman Cooper, then a lanky end, "Red" Roberts, later All-American halfback and a man seen in recent years about Eastern Kentucky. Gerald Griffin, head of the Eastern Kentucky Bureau for the Courier Journal, who then was a center and a guard.

Besides holding the distinction of All-American honors and having the all-time record as an extra-point boater, Red is reputed to be the smallest lineman ever to make All-America.

There is a great difference between a druggist and a pharmacist.

Preparation of a doctor's prescription is a painstaking, exacting process, one to be done ONLY by a registered pharmacist, and not by a mere druggist who has not been educated and trained in the profession.

There is a law which prohibits, under penalty, the filling of a prescription by any other than a registered pharmacist. It is a good law, for nothing is more important than your health, and hit-and-miss filling of prescriptions creates a very real danger.

A registered pharmacist prepares every prescription sent to us. Every prescription receives his individual attention.

All mail orders promptly filled for prescriptions and medicines.

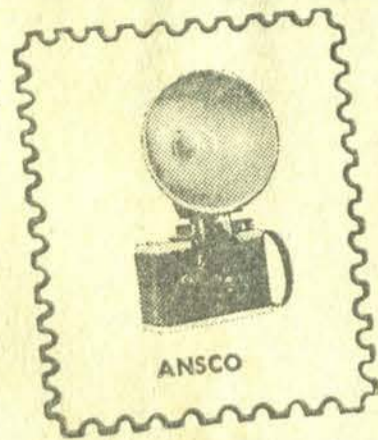

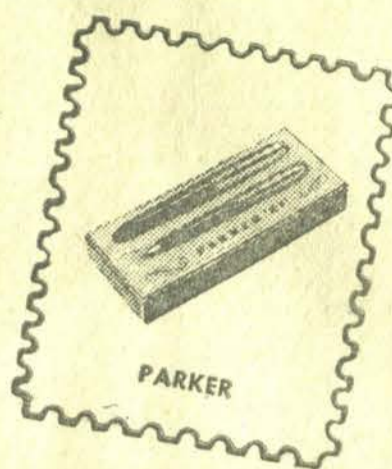

If you have faith in your doctor and believe he is right, have his prescription prepared right.

said, a pole stands in what would be Meade's living room. Mr. Hayes pointed out that cost of relocating the line will be heavier than would normally be expected, because it is a toll line and that a new line must be put into operation on city property before the present poles and wires can be removed from private property.

Mr. Weddington said this week he called on the Public Service Commission to prod the telephone company and that he is in receipt of a copy of the Commission's letter to the company's Louisville office requesting that Southern Bell comply with the City Council's request.

Councilman Watt Hale, of West Prestonsburg, again submitted for consideration a draft of an ordinance intended to check bootlegging here. The ordinance, if adopted, would automatically revoke the permit of any taxicab owner who is arrested for bootlegging or convicted of other violations.

The Council expressed interest in the ordinance and it is being prepared for a possible early vote, it was said Tuesday.

The Harris Brothers Construction Company was granted a permit to erect on South Lake Drive a brick-and-tile structure for storage and office purposes. It will house materials used in telephone and power line construction.

of the road can be completed before cold weather, a highway department official declared.

Considerable doubt exists that resurfacing of U. S. 23 will be finished this season, District Engineer Johnson points out. He said that if aggregate could be procured and the weather does not close in on the contractors it might be completed but, otherwise, it would not. Low temperature and fog, which prevents the drying of the present highway concrete, materially slows the work.

At other places on the road front in this county are two bridges out of use. The Allen-Dwale bridge, which collapsed several weeks ago with a truck, is the subject of a petition bearing 500 names which County Judge Henry Stumbo will carry to Frankfort in a few days. The Pikeville office of the Highway Department has requested the Frankfort office to make a survey on what can be done at Allen.

The Little Mud Creek bridge, on Ky. 979, partially collapsed Friday of last week, shutting down three truck mines in the area. Materials to rebuild the structures were due to arrive at the site today (Wednesday) and repair could be made in a few days, it was said.

Aged Hueysville Man Victim in Huntington; Last Rites Held Monday

Grover Cleveland Stephens, 73, of Hueysville, died at St. Mary's hospital, Huntington, at 9:30 a. m. last Saturday. A heart attack was given as the cause of death. He was stricken the day before his death. He was a retired miner.

Mr. Stephens was a son of the late Reuben and Jane Hicks Stephens and was married to Catherine Bailey Stephens, who survives. Surviving children are Warnie Stephens, Corunna, Ind., Frank and Mitchell Stephens, both of Hueysville; Russell Stephens, Kendallville, Ind.; Mrs. Alma Bradley, Munith, Mich.; Mrs. Sadie Sparkman, Hueysville; Mrs. May Patrick, Stockbridge, Mich. A sister, Mrs. Rebecca Crisp, of Martin, also survives.

Funeral rites were conducted at 10 a. m. Monday, at home, the Revs. L. P. Tussey and Ashland Shepherd officiating. Burial was made in the Stephens cemetery on Salt Lick under the direction of Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

T. A. Bates, of Melvin, Former Deputy Sheriff, Victim of Heart Attack

Funeral rites for T. A. Bates, 70 years old, who died of a heart attack at his home at Melvin, Aug. 25, were conducted last week, with burial in the Thornton cemetery in Letcher county.

Mr. Bates, who was widely known in this county, was a native of Letcher, the son of Jane Bates. He had lived in this county about 35 years and at one time was a deputy sheriff.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Pearl Bates, of Melvin, and the following children of a previous marriage: Uriah Bates, Mrs. Myrtle Johnson, all of Melvin; John Bates, of McDowell; Mrs. Della Stanley, of Martin; and Jake Bates, of Printer. He also leaves two half-brothers, Archie Craft and Wash Bates, and a sister, Mrs. Lettie Williams, all of Letcher county.

Officiating at the funeral were the Revs. Joe Jones, Ellis Moore, Henry Blair and others.

Two More from County Have Perfect Standings

Polk Saunders, of Prestonsburg, and Charles Curry, of Wheelwright, both students in the College of Education at the University of Kentucky, achieved perfect all-A standings during the school's summer semester.

The College of Education placed more students on the honor roll for the summer session than any other at the university.

Well-adapted grasses and legumes combined in proper mixtures, seeded at proper times and in proper rates, will cut pasture and cover-crop costs, say Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service pasture specialists.

State Highway Workers May Not Hold Office

Frankfort, Sept. 3 (Spl.)—Highway Department personnel were forbidden from holding a political office while an employee of the state in an order issued by Bert Kiser, commissioner of highways.

The order reads: "It shall be the policy of the Department of Highways that no employee of the Department may hold any position of office, either elective or appointive, with any city, county or municipality, except such offices as are civic patriotic in nature, including draft boards, zoning boards and school boards."

Kiser said, "Any employee of the Department who files for any office covered by this order must resign his position on the date of the filing."

The order does not preclude the appointment or election of employees to state boards or association for professional regulation.

Wreck-Injured Man's Cries for Aid Unheard Altho Help Was Near

Estill P. Collins, of Martin, hopes that the next time his car leaves the highway it will be in the daytime and near a home where everybody hears well.

The Martin man was driving towards home, he says, Sunday evening at about 8 o'clock when his auto left Highway 89 between Printer and Hite, plunging over the embankment, turning upside down and breaking his leg. He managed to extricate himself from the upset car and crawled about 30 feet towards the highway. Coming to the embankment, he found it impossible to scale it in his injured condition.

He spent the night calling for help from a nearby home, but nobody responded to his pleas. Finally, after daybreak, Maryland Conn discovered him and went for an ambulance. He was taken by Hall Bros. Funeral Home ambulance to the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin.

Friends later told him that in the home near the scene of the wreck live an aged couple who could not hear well and that their three sons are totally deaf.

One year ago today Our mother went away
 To walk on streets with gold are laid and live where roses never fade.

We miss you, Mother, so very much; The sound of your sweet voice and loving touch. Oh, yes, Mother, we miss your love and care. But still we know you are happy there with Dad, who went on before.

To wait for you at Heaven's door, To say, "Well done," and to ask you in to live with Jesus and with him. We miss, mother and dad. Sadly missed by her six children, Lizzie, Grant, Brad, Burl, Sadie and Effie.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our deepest appreciation to our many friends, neighbors and relatives for their kindness and expressions of sympathy extended during the illness and upon the death of our loved one, Ike Slater. We extend our thanks to the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for its efficient service. We are grateful to the James W. Alley Lodge No. 869 of Wayland and to all Masons who took part in the funeral services. We were deeply touched by their wonderful Christian service. We extend our thanks to all the ministers and brothers who visited with us during our hours of bereavement. We cherish their sermons as they brought the Word of God closer to our hearts. We can never forget Brother M. C. Wright, Br. Ballard Baker, Br. Francis Hubbard, Br. Huff, Br. Edd Moore, Br. Russell Jacobs, Br. George Perrigan, Br. John Rose, Br. J. J. Stanley, Br. Banner Mann, and all other Brethren who visited us and took part in the funeral services. Their wonderful sermons and consoling words were a consolation in our hours of bereavement. We appreciate the condolence of a number of other ministers whom we are unable to remember by name. We remember each person and organization for the beautiful flowers they sent.

Mrs. Verdie Slater and Family.

Crocodile Has Strongest Mouth

American or African crocodiles probably have the strongest mouths of any living creature. The longest one on record is 33 feet, and 20-footers are commonplace. An article in the September issue of Sports Afield magazine reports they undoubtedly kill more people than any other creature on earth.

This agency represents some of the largest and oldest fire and automobile companies in the U. S. A., and quite a few of our companies have been in the business over 100 years. We are noted for prompt payment of our claims, and have never refused to pay a legitimate claim.

The meaning of this article was that almost two years ago, we had two companies that pulled out of the state, and rather than let our policyholders go unprotected we paid personally for their policies with another of our companies. Agents like ourselves, all over the state, were in the same position, altho not all gave this consideration to their policyholders.

I am in the insurance business to stay, and I represent only the best of companies. Almost every policyholder I have, I know personally, and I am proud to serve them. Thanks to my many friends, our business has more than doubled in the past 12 months. I want to take this opportunity to thank you again for your business, and I hope to continue to serve you as long as you have a need for any type of protection. We sell all lines of insurance.

Within the next week we will have a company to write coal mine compensation anywhere in the state, and it is an old and proven company.

Yours Truly,
BLAINE R. HALL

Hospitalized Dana Woman Says Wound in Shoulder Accidental Shot Result

Mrs. Hadler Boyd, of Dana, was brought to the Prestonsburg General Hospital Monday afternoon suffering from a revolver bullet wound in her left shoulder which, she said, was the result of an accident at her home. She explained that the weapon was in a dresser drawer, among clothing, and that the hammer must have become cocked as she pulled garments from the drawer. At any rate, she told a relative, when she moved the gun it fired. Her condition is good and she is expected to be able to return home in a few days. Breathitt county had no draftees in World War I. All men of selective service age volunteered.

Statutory Rape Charge Placed Against Prater; Held Under $5,000 Bond

Ed Prater, of this vicinity, was held under $5,000 bond by County Judge Henry Stumbo, Saturday, following a hearing on a statutory rape charge after he allegedly had spent three nights at lodging-places here and elsewhere in the county with a 13-year-old girl.

The defendant did not testify at the hearing. Grand jury action is expected to be taken this week. On the whole, Floyd county was quiet over the holiday week-end, although 24 persons were booked at the county jail since last Wednesday, with 21 of these being jailed Saturday. Three men were jailed on drunk driving charges: M. L. Hamilton, Carl Stanley and James L. Penix. Others jailed:

Johnnie Mulkey, breaking and entering; George Rudolph Patrick, desertion; Willie Harris, grand larceny. James Johnson was jailed Saturday in default of $2,500 bond asked by the Floyd circuit court on a cutting and wounding count.

Surveying Contract Set For Buckhorn Project

A surveying contract for land to be bought for the Buckhorn Reservoir project was awarded this week to Henry Spalding, Hazard, Ky.

reviewed the gains labor has made in recent years. Bart Bloomer, of Pikeville, was master of ceremonies. Caddy introduced Senator Clements.

"I'm here only to introduce a great American," Clements said in referring to the Tennessee governor. He noted that nearly 70 years ago the first Labor Day was celebrated and he paid tribute to former leaders of the movement.

"No people have been more kind and generous to me than the people of Big Sandy," Clements said. He referred to proposed canalization of the Big Sandy but turned aside to say that an occasion like this is a temptation to talk politics. He added: "If you people are against this waterway don't send me back to the Senate, for rest assured Carl Perkins and I will work to develop this river."

Of Governor Clements, he said: "He is a kind of Kentuckian, for he thinks like us. You'll hear more of him in the future than any other single American."

"You're electing a party to office in November," the Tennesseean said. "One is the party of the people, the other is the party of big business. Under the Republicans the poor get poorer and the rich get richer. It is the party of Dixon, and Nixon, and Yates."

Speaking to the coal miners he asked, "What does a bunch of millionaire Republicans know about crawling into a coal mine? None of the Republicans around the Council tables know the problems of the people. We've got a policy of drifting now at Washington. Dulles is the greatest unguided missile in the history of the country."

Conclusion of the major speech of the Governor, who is a Methodist lay speaker, was reminiscent of an evangelistic service. "The poor people, living on a little meat and a little bread, know the truth. They know the Democratic party is looking out for them." He pleaded for the election of Democratic Senators from Kentucky, as the loss of one may enable the Republicans to organize the Senate. "The challenge is yours—do not let the torch fall," he concluded.

and gone fishing, which would have been the nice, easy thing to do, but to have done this would have been a neglect of duty and neglect of an opportunity to prevent the spread of disease."

Continuing, Clark said:

"With the County Fair and the annual Fish Fry coming up, it is going to be somewhat embarrassing to ask concession stand operators to comply with regulations that we were not able to enforce in this instance. But please bear in mind that during the past few years there has been a big decrease in the number of communicable diseases in our county. We feel that our 'cranky ideas' and 'cranky' public health workers have played a big hand in this decrease."

Clark expressed deep appreciation of the compliance by the four concession stands he and the two sanitarians visited and advised, and expressed the belief that all others would have done so, had they been given an opportunity to help them. "The three of us are of the unanimous opinion," he said, "that if we had not been refused permission to work with the concessions we could have solicited the full support of every operator in doing the very best job that could have been done with the available facilities. Those people who had paid for permission to operate those concessions were some of our leading citizens and ordinarily are the best supporters in our public health work."

Of crime in general Judge Hill said:

"Let me say here and now that even though we do our very best to enforce the law, that is not sufficient. The trouble is in the hearts and minds of people. So we must start in the homes and in schools and churches and start with our children while they are young to get them on the right track. It's as much our duty to try to improve the other fellow as it is to punish him."

He named Ex-Magistrate Monroe Hall, of Melvin, foreman of the grand jury, but when the appointee pleaded nervousness and suggested that Fred Hall, of Galveston, be named for the foremanship, Judge Hill agreed to the change.

COAL EXPAND EXPORT SALES

Consolidations Planned By Leading Companies; Record Market Is Seen

Coal made news recently, with reports of expansion plans of leading producing companies sharing the headlines with reports of improved prospects of coal exports.

At Pittsburg, Pa., and Pocahontas, Va., it was reported that Pittsburgh-Consolidation Coal Co. and Pocahontas Fuel Co., Inc., have informally discussed a possible exchange of Pocahontas common stock for unissued common stock of Pitt-Consol. Formal action will await meetings of Pitt-Consol shareholders on Nov. 5 and of Pocahontas stockholders on Oct. 22.

In New York it was announced that Pittston Co., stockholders will meet Oct. 16 to consider purchase of the remaining 42% of the stock of Clinchfield Coal Corp. Pittston now owns 58% of Clinchfield, whose stockholders will vote on the plan on Oct. 17.

The coal export situation was reviewed in a New York Journal of Commerce article on Aug. 23. The author, Paul Nadler, predicted that U. S. coal exports should remain at near-record levels at least "through 1957 in spite of the slackening of the West European economic boom and the cheaper cost of local fuel in most nations." Demand for coal is so strong, he said, that contracts have been signed as far ahead as 1962 and that ships not yet built have already been chartered for coal service.

The appointment of W. W. Goldsmith as chairman of the National Coal Association's 1957 Convention Committee has been announced by President L. Newton Thomas, Mr. Goldsmith is president of The Elk Horn Coal Corporation, a position to which he was elected in January, 1954, after being associated with the concern for many years. He has long been active in NCA affairs, serving most recently as a member of the 1956 Convention committee. Appointment of Mr. Goldsmith at this time assures that planning for NCA's 40th anniversary convention will get off to an early start. It is expected that Thomas will shortly name members of the Committee who will serve with Mr. Goldsmith.

Among them were Robert Hoe, who started the printing press firm; Henry Dismore, the saw making pioneer; London-born William Skinner, founder of silk satin mills; and William Colgate, a candlemaker from Hollingbourn, who started one of the biggest soap companies.

Oregon Admits Stumpos Own Part of Highway; Toll Road Threatened

Southern Oregon's Stumbo clan, still claiming it owns a 16 1/2-foot strip of the Pacific Highway, was waging a comic opera struggle with the state last week. Members of the family, with tongues in their cheeks, threatened to operate a toll road on the strip.

Robert G. Stumbo, spokesman for the group, says the state has admitted overlooking the purchase of the plot of land several years ago. Two weeks ago the Stumbos stretched a rope across the highway and stopped traffic for a while. A big "Private Property" sign erected by Robert Stumbo on the road brought amusement from the drivers and wide publicity for the Stumbos' claim.

The Oregon Highway Department is not impressed with the toll road idea advanced by the family although two days of file-searching did disclose the strip was not owned by the state. It is ready to negotiate for it though.

Stumbo has announced that his attorney would handle any negotiations.

"I can imagine they are quite embarrassed," he said.

But as for the toll road . . . "Well, we'd like to sort of follow that along."

The day after the traffic-stopping they applied to the county clerk in nearby Roseburg for permission to operate the disputed strip as a toll road. The application even included a proposed rate schedule for livestock and wheeled vehicles.

Robert Stumbo told a reporter, "The Highway Commission has always pushed the little guy around down here in southern Oregon . . . and it occurred to us that if we're paying taxes on the property we just might as well take it over."

It is said by oldsters that the ancestor of the Oregon Stumbo brothers left Floyd county about 50 years ago.

The fishing was good last month at Cherokee Lake, this group says. They caught a fine string of bass and crappies. Left to right are Hubert Scall, daughter Mary Alice, 14, now of Hamilton, O., but formerly of Prestonsburg; and Brad Parsons, Elkhorn City. They fished six miles north of Morristown, Tenn.

State Mental Unit Has Fewer Patients

Frankfort, Sept. 3 (Spl.) — Total population of four state mental hospitals decreased by 405 patients during the fiscal year, 1955-56 according to a report by Dr. Frank M. Gaines, commissioner of mental health.

Dr. Gaines said last year was the first time in the records of his department, the number of patients decreased, even though 300 more were admitted to the mental hospital in the same periods.

He believes the decline can be attributed to "improvement in the number of professional personnel and widespread use of tranquilizing drugs."

There were 7,272 patients in the hospitals on June 30, compared with 7,677 a year ago.

Patients admitted between July 1955 and 56, were 2,786, compared with 2,486 admitted the preceding fiscal year.

The increase, Dr. Gaines explained, is largely due to continuing gain of elderly patients, who often die soon after admittance, because they were critically ill physically.

Mental hospitals are still overly crowded, the Commissioner added.

Pen Inmates Publish Tract on Delinquency

Frankfort, Sept. 3 (Spl.) — A pamphlet designed to acquaint the parents and youth of Kentucky with the problems of juvenile delinquency is being distributed by the State Department of Welfare, according to Commissioner Charles Allphin.

The pamphlet, printed in the interest of crime prevention by inmates of Kentucky State Reformatory, LaGrange, states there are 3,497 adults confined in state penal institutions, 503 juveniles being maintained by the state, and 1,860 persons on parole or probation.

The booklet explains what crime means, and the penalties which may be incurred. Parents are advised: "delinquency can be prevented. The ultimate solution of the problem is in the hands of the parents, through closer supervision of children, inquiring of their whereabouts and knowing the kind of company they keep."

Copies may be obtained from the Parole Board Office, State Building, Frankfort.

FORT KNOX, Ky. — Pvt. Carl H. Scutchfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Talmadge Scutchfield, of Water Gap, Ky., recently completed the first phase of six months of active duty under the Reserve Forces Act at Fort Knox.

Scutchfield received eight weeks of basic combat training at the Fort, to be followed by advanced individual and unit training.

Men volunteering for six-month tour of active duty are permitted to finish their military training in local Army Reserve or National Guard units. The 18-year-old soldier is a graduate of Prestonsburg high school.

Two PHS Graduates at UK Receive All-A Standing

Two Prestonsburg high school graduates who were summer students at the University of Kentucky ended their work by achieving perfect all-A standings.

Adrian N. Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Collins, of Prestonsburg, was one of the two. He was a senior in the college of Arts and Sciences and was among 21 from that college who placed on the select list.

The other was Earl Edsal Moore, one of eight in the College of Agriculture, who had a perfect standing. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Moore, of Prestonsburg. Mr. Moore has volunteered for army service since his recent graduation from the university.

P'BURG TEAM WINS FOUR

Semi-Pros Finish Series By Sweeping Twin Bill At Grayson, 5-1, 9-0

Playing five games in as many days, the Prestonsburg semi-pros took four of a five-game series from Grayson and Wheelwright.

Winning at Wheelwright last Friday, 5-4, again on Sunday, 11-7, and sweeping a double-header, Labor Day, from Grayson, 5-1 and 9-0. Prestonsburg lost the first game of the series to Grayson 8-7.

Prestonsburg enjoyed the help of Howard Burchett, well-known baseball figure throughout this area who has been working in Iowa for the past few years. Burchett, while in high school, was the pitcher who was selected by The Courier-Journal as the outstanding high school player in Kentucky for the year 1948.

Well-pitched games did not hurt the Prestonsburg chances as Curt Burchett, Howard's brother, threw timely and well-pitched games, as did Julian Campbell and Junior Butcher.

Manager Amon Childers expressed satisfaction with his pitching staff which improved as the series progressed. In the last two games on Labor Day at Grayson the Prestonsburg flingers allowed only seven hits.

In the first game at Grayson Julian Campbell gave up only three hits, all singles, while his backers found the opposing hillsman for ten hits and nine runs. Curt Burchett kept up the fine pitching by adding a four-hitter, giving the Grayson team one run. Earlier, against Wheelwright,

Enjoy Water Sports But Play It Safe

Frankfort, Sept. 3 (Spl.) — You can still enjoy Kentucky's lakes and rivers in August and early September, but be sure to play it safe, as accidents caused by rudeness and carelessness, can still make water sports quite dangerous.

Such is the advice given by Dr. Russell Teague of State Department of Health. "Swimming was once considered taboo during the 'dog days' ", Dr. Teague continued, "but this idea is not generally accepted today."

Because this season is often very dry, there is more danger of the swimmer being exposed to typhoid and other diseases through stagnant water.

Last year 110 Kentuckians drowned in boating or swimming accidents, the largest percent of them young men between the ages of fifteen and twenty-four. Thirteen of the victims were women, the Health Director added, with nine of them under the age of twenty-five.

Reserve Unit Leader Says Few Places Open

This reserve group is available for those who have recently been discharged from the Air Force and are under reserve obligation. These personnel assigned will receive full pay for each training session. All those interested in joining this reserve unit are invited to attend these meetings.

Ford Trucks Cost Less!

"I earn as much as $30 a day more because my Ford T-800 tandem job can carry more payload than comparable trucks," says timber-hauler Clarence Landwing.

"Low cost, dependability, toughness—that's what I get in Ford trucks," says John Karks. "Ford's power takes me through tough going that would stop many another truck."

Ford's low initial prices mean real savings, to be sure. But the on-the-job savings you get in Ford trucks count even more!

Take running costs; they're downright low. Because only Ford gives you the gas and oil economy of modern Short Stroke power in every truck. Only Ford offers Short Stroke engines backed by over 5 billion miles of on-the-job experience.

Upkeep costs are low because Ford trucks are built extra strong. They outlast all other leading makes—a fact certified by independent insurance experts. That same stand-up ruggedness means greater dependability, too.

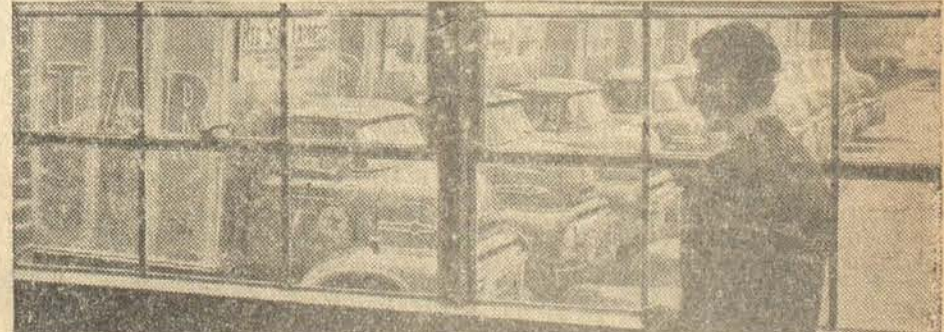

And when it comes time to trade—you'll gain from Ford's traditional high resale value, too. You'll find that, from start to finish, Ford trucks cost less.

THE BIG FLEETS BUY MORE FORD TRUCKS THAN ANY OTHER MAKE

SEE YOUR FORD DEALER Ford Trucks last longer Using latest registration data on 10,502,351 trucks, life insurance experts prove Ford trucks last longer.

"When you figure low running and upkeep costs, high trade-in and low price, we feel that nothing can beat Ford trucks for value," Charles Sofer, president of I. Hart & Co.

"Ford's Short Stroke engine design and rugged chassis mean low operating and maintenance costs," says John Coleman, whose firm operates 45 Ford C-750's.

Blackburn-Burcham Vows Said at Martin Church

At 4 p.m. on Sunday, September 21 in the Martin Methodist Church, Miss Florence Blackburn became the bride of Seaman First Class Roger Burcham.

Miss Blackburn, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Blackburn, is a Martin high school graduate of the class of '36, and was a cheerleader for three years there. Mr. Burcham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Z. A. Burcham and was graduated two years ago from Martin high. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. P. Carrin in the presence of the two families and intimate friends. Miss Betty Ann Burcham was maid of honor, and Mr. James D. Gray served as best man.

The couple left for a short trip, visiting places of interest in West Virginia.

According to the September issue of Sports Afield magazine, sport fishing license sales in Alaska for 1955 were 60,745—a four per cent increase over 1954.

Burchett threw the ball past 17 batters in winning, 5-4.

Julian Campbell, the winner of the first game on Sunday, was backed by two double plays. A game with Wheelwright is scheduled for Sunday with the Wheelwright colored team at Prestonsburg.

Health Director Reports Polio Cases

Frankfort, Sept. 3 (Spl.)—Fifteen new polio cases were reported in the state, during the week ending August 18.

Dr. Russell Teague, commissioner of Health, stated this was the highest number of cases to be reported in one week so far this year.

With the peak season for polio consistently in August and September, the total of cases for the year, including the latest report is only 26. In 1933, a comparatively mild year for poliomyelitis, Dr. Teague reported a total of 62 cases in the state at the corresponding time.

"Comparing these figures, we feel the Salk polio vaccine may be preventing a good number of paralytic polio cases," Dr. Teague said, "however we cannot really expect an over-all decline until almost all the population has received vaccine." Figures show that only about 31 per cent of Kentuckians under the age of 20 have received the shots.

Though he painted pictures of some 250 beautiful women, Jean Baptiste Camille Corot, the great French artist, never married, recalls Malcolm Vaughan in Reader's Digest for September.

Here again Grantland Rice, the much respected sports writer who died only a few years back, figures in the controversy as to whether or not Red is the smallest lineman to merit All-American recognition. As Red tells it, he was in New York, back in the '30's for a Notre Dame-Army game, when at a hotel, he met Knute Rockne. Rockne, the famous coach of Notre Dame, invited Red to attend a banquet for the Notre Dame squad.

"I told him I didn't have any right attending a Notre Dame banquet since I went to Centre. He asked me why didn't I go to Notre Dame. I told him that I would have been too small for a school like Notre Dame." Weaver weighed only 155 pounds.

"Well," Rockne said, "you made All-America, didn't you?"

"So I attended the banquet where Grantland Rice and Rockne were talking. Grantland commented that I was the smallest lineman to make All-America. Rockne said, "Well, I don't know, I've got one that's pretty small." He was referring to Metzler, a guard, who made All-America that year. Grantland Rice said that he'd like to see him on the scales. "We never did see Metzler on the scales, so we took it for granted that perhaps I was the smallest."

It is a wonder that a man of Red's diminutive proportions could equal an All-American's performance on the football field. To do that it is necessary to possess a great amount of courage and what the old-timers call heart. Red had both. As an illustration, here's one of Red's casual stories concerning the history of a missing digit.

Pointing to the missing finger, he said, "I had that finger taken off on Wednesday and played on Saturday. And it wasn't necessary to take the finger. I was showing a boy how to get down in the line, and I said, 'Now you close up your fists so if someone steps on it, they'll slide off.' And, two or three plays later, I put my hand down just like that (fingers outspread) and was passing the ball with one hand behind me to a back when a fellow just walked up and stomped it. One of my own teammates, and he broke my finger in two joints. We knew the referee, who was going to officiate, would not allow any fisticuffs or any dirty play in the game, and that a spit and cast were out. You can make a billy out of a cast, you know. I've seen that before in a game. So they took me down to the doctor and he whacked it off. Put a piece of adhesive tape and a bandage on it. Played that game against Harvard. Of course," Red ended that vein of talk, "I believe that modern-day football players are treated better."

Red is one of the players who loved to play defense. In his playing days, he backed up the line. He says that the line can make a line backer look awfully good or just awful. And, to Red, one of the bitter pills of football is the non-recognition of good line play. As he explains it, "Now, I can remember when I played football, 75% of the people at the game couldn't tell you who the linemen were or even their positions. Only thing they could see was the man carrying the ball, the backfield man. And there's still a lot who are that way today. A lot who see them on television. You see a lineman but no one knows who he is. Of course, I'm naturally prejudiced. I was a lineman. And, if I had it to do over again, I wouldn't consider playing in the backfield. You wouldn't have any fun back there. The line is where you have your fun."

In talking about line play, Red told the story of Gus Sonnenburg who in pro football was Red's teammate and, later, the world's champion wrestler. "One night Sonnenburg and I were in Providence, R. I., at a wrestling match, and Sonnenburg gets up and offers to bet anyone in the house $100 that he can throw the two wrestlers in the ring. Well, as it so happened, we had played Providence several times that season and a fellow knew Sonnenburg from the games. He bet Sonnenburg $100 that he couldn't throw them.

"We came back the next Saturday. When Sonnenburg got into the ring, his opponent approached him with his arms high over his head, as was the custom. Sonnenburg just butted him in the stomach and out he went. The other guy was easy, and Gus won the $100 and started showmanship in the ring."

Red who made All-America in his sophomore year did not repeat in his junior year. "And," he says, "I'll tell you why."

"In the first quarter of the Harvard game I fractured my ankle. I didn't do too good that game with the bone sticking through the skin. I played the entire game... and I fell out with the coach for the simple reason he didn't let my handicap be known. It didn't look good at all. When I got hurt I told him I had an ankle busted up. He looked at it and said he thought it would be all right. He used raw-hide shoe thongs, pulled the outside of my shoe and wrapped it entirely in adhesive tape. Had to take the shoe off during the half and put on a larger shoe. At the end of the game, when they cut my shoe off, the blood poured out on the floor. We had an old negro trainer who took one look at the blood and keeled right over."

"No, it didn't set right with me. Not right at all. Yet," he said, "I was dumb enough to leave West Point and return to Centre the next year."

Is kicking hard? "No," he said, "it's like bunting a baseball. You just tap the ball right and it goes. The nicest thing about extra-points is that there is no record of the goal-posts ever moving."

Red was asked about the alleged dirty playing in the professional football leagues. He answered quickly, defending the type of play in the pro leagues.

"No, no, they play hard but not dirty. At least they did when I was with them and I played eight years. But they were tough. Power football. Of course you have some who are, as when I played football with the old Frankfort Yellow Jackets, are dirty. I remember a boy who went to the University of Pennsylvania. Gave me a working over one game. He kicked six of my teeth out. So I asked him, 'Is that the way you want to play it?' and he said, 'Yes.' So he snapped the ball and I fainted at him. He looked at me and asked me why I didn't do anything to him. A couple of plays later I hit him with the heel of hand on the back of his neck and they took him to the hospital. I thought I had killed the boy. I went to see him that night and he told me he was sorry he started it."

Some of Red's teammates on the Frankfort Yellow Jackets of the National League were Charley Berry, American League baseball umpire, Lou Little, head coach at the University of Columbia, Glen Kilenger, Heinle Mueller, and Jim Thorpe, the great Indian athlete who played every sport in the book and excelled at them all.

Red has seen the popularizing of the forward pass which ushered open football into style, the old union suit football uniform which fit players like long underwear, the evolution of football uniforms into their present vogue, and the advent of a new running style which "Bo" McMillen invented on the spur of the moment.

The Boston Post has records of this feat. As Red tells it, McMillen, running to his right towards the sidelines cut back towards the left sidelines and got away for 65 yards and a TD. This swinging back had never been done before but McMillen did it and got away with it. A picture appeared in the Boston Post next morning showing 19 men lying on the ground. "That is blocking, that is blocking," Red Weaver with still a ring of his Texas drawl approvingly remarks.

Another time, against the same team, Harvard, the Centre quarterback had been kicked in the head.

"He was on his feet and that's about all. And he ran the fullback nine consecutive times on the same play. Picked up 65 yards and a TD." Red also pointed out some of the changes in football over the years.

The modern T formation is not new, he emphasized. It was used in 1912 at Minnesota under the coaching of a Dr. William who later published a book on the system which is referred to quite often today. He says that anyone who participated in athletics in 1913, '14, or '15, can tell the same thing, because everyone was using it then. The quarterback had to receive the ball, he says. It was in the rules. "And then the Warner system, backs left and backs right, was your next trend. And I played football in high school when the center did not at all face the defense. He faced his backfield. And with the ball between his legs, he gave the ball to the backfield and led the interference. As you passed the ball, you took a short step, going to the right or left."

"Several other variations followed until today it is one continuous passing of the ball from the center to the quarterback. He cannot pass it to the side anymore. The rules slow down football in one respect and open it up in another. Now in the old days, one of the big features of football, as I see it, was the right to clip (blocking a player from the rear). That gave away with the grandstand football player who ran up and down the field and you had to wait on him to line up. Because, as long as you could clip from the rear, you could jump on his heels and he wouldn't jump but once. He got out of your way from then on. Of course, on account of broken ankles and torn up knees, that was eliminated. And, sometimes, you sorta think perhaps some of the rules which have been taken out of the book should have been left in. The game of football would have been much better."

"Now long ago it was a game of defense and kicking. Some teams still play that type of ball, but, for most of them, football has opened up in the spreads and lots of passing. I know your university (Kentucky) does it. And I want to say that the boy (Blanton Collier) at the University is doing a good job. You know when Bryant was there you had to have a foreign language dictionary to pronounce the players' names. I think it good to have homestate boys on the team. They are the ones who will contribute to Kentucky and not the boys from other states who leave as soon as they graduate."

"I think," says Red Weaver, "that I was very fortunate to play football when it had reached the highest peak it has ever reached in this country. You talk to a lot of sports writers and they'll tell you the same thing. It's true, for the simple reason that everyone came out of the service in much better condition than a football coach could get them in ten years. And the season of 1919 has been designated by many authorities as the greatest football ever to be played in this country, not by one university, but university after university, at that time, had the best men and the best records were made. The boys were just returning from the service, a great majority of them. They were permitted to transfer to any school they wished and still be eligible for play that year. So the larger schools got their pick of men. We were fortunate at Centre in not losing anyone, for the simple reason we had played together practically all our lives, you might say. And, of course, I think that was the entire solution of why we had such a good team at Centre College."

Red has mellowed. The fierce spirit which found a 155-pounder playing professional football at a position where modern critics would indicate that a man is light at 220 pounds can flame up after all the years, but it is better controlled. Red has little patience with the football star who attempts to rest on his laurels. He has never dodged hard work, nor has he used his fame as an athlete to set up a "soft touch." He has worked in the Oklahoma oil fields where he knew "Pretty Boy" Floyd. In recent years he has worked mainly with the U. S. Corps of Engineers.

Today, he is happily married to an attractive redhead, and they have two redheaded youngsters, 6 and 8, who turn their red-hatched nogginns to the names of Shelby Stuart and Jim Sam.

He is philosophical about athletics and college. "Always remember," he advises students who plan to take part in college athletics, "what you came for. An education is the only thing no one can take away from you."

Cadillac

To the Man Who is Hesitating...

There are many motorists here in this community who have given serious consideration to the purchase of a new Cadillac car this year—and yet, for one reason or another, have not made the move.

If you are among them, we hope that you will pause to read the little message that follows. For we are sure you will find it interesting.

Ordinarily, when a man hesitates to make the move to Cadillac, it is because he is not familiar with the practical aspects of Cadillac ownership.

Insular as original cost is concerned, a Cadillac is eminently practical. Several models, in fact, are actually priced competitively with the so-called "medium-priced" makes.

Operating and maintenance costs are also remarkably low. We have heard it said by new owners that Cadillac is the most economical automobile they have ever owned.

And as for resale value—well, Cadillac traditionally retains a greater share of its worth through the years than any other motor car in the land.

In short, the great Cadillac car represents one of the wisest and soundest automotive investments on the highway today.

The moral of our message is this: It is still not too late to set things right in a 1956 Cadillac of your own!

We have a selection of new Cadillacs on hand—and we can promise you both prompt delivery and a generous trade-in allowance.

Why not come in today?

DRIFT

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The Drift Woman's Club met August 20 at the Turner-Elkhorn office building, with Mrs. Glen Ward as hostess.

The president, Mrs. Lloyd Stumbo, read a letter from Clara Shaw asking that the club be represented at a meeting in Pikeville to elect a governor, a vice-governor, and a secretary for the Seventh district. Dr. DeForest, of the staff of the McDowell Memorial hospital, and Miss Jerome, director of nurses, talked to the Club about the necessity of forming an auxiliary and asked that the Woman's Club help them. The club was invited to visit the hospital.

Don Claypool, of the Agricultural extension office at Prestonsburg, gave an interesting talk about the need for more 4-H Clubs in the county. He asked for volunteers to help as leaders. He also said that there will be more clubs organized in the Beaver Creek section of the county this year.

The following members and guests were present:

Mesdames Ivan Reed, Delmer Hall, Bobby Hall, Fred Cochrane, Girdle Moore, Dick Showers, William Hoffman, E. A. Reed, Lloyd Stumbo, Glen Ward, Joe C. Moore, Ray Turner. Guests included Miss Catherine Reed, Mrs. Bobby Turner, Dr. DeForest and Miss Jerome.

Stanley's Early Law Practice Recalled by Henderson Writer

Several months ago A. O. Stanley, former Kentucky governor and retired chairman of the International Joint Commission on the Canadian-American boundary, wrote State Senator Doug Hays, of McDowell. He enclosed a clipping from a Henderson (Ky.) newspaper dealing with the distinguished Kentuckian's early life.

"Your kind and valued interest in your old friend is my only warrant for imposing this little clipping on you," Stanley wrote Hays. "I felt nevertheless that you would be interested in Francele Armstrong's delightful reminiscences of my early days at the bar."

Stanley last visited Prestonsburg in 1950 to accept an invitation to speak at the Floyd county Sesquicentennial celebration.

The clipping from the home-town newspaper that delighted ex-Governor Stanley was rewritten from an article by J. Savoyard in 1909. It follows:

To understand A. O. Stanley it is necessary to know something of his background. His father was a graduate of Hanover college and the "Louisville University" law school. The elder Stanley opened a law office in Leavenworth, Kansas. After Lincoln's election in 1860 the lawyer made a red-hot secession speech in a red-hot abolition community, and as a consequence made a quick and veiled exit from Leavenworth in the dead of night.

Mr. Stanley headed back for Kentucky, organized the "Anderson (County) Tigers," a company of Confederate soldiers of which he was the lieutenant. When their captain was killed at Shiloh, Stanley became the leader.

Later Stanley was appointed Judge Advocate of the Army of Tennessee. After the war the confederate returned to Shelbyville where he took up the practice of law. He married Amanda Owsley, grandniece of William Owsley, learned Chief Justice of the State Supreme bench. Owsley was also governor during the Mexican war — so A. O.'s uncle, William Owsley, set a pattern for the boy who was to follow in his footsteps.

A. O. (Augustus Owsley) was born in Shelbyville some 89 years ago. He was the eldest of seven children, and at the age of 18 he took his share of what was left of the family fortunes and went shopping for an education.

Stanley managed to spread his $250 over five terms of college by working summers as a day laborer. He was graduated from Centre College in 1889. Oratory was his long suit—need we tell you that?

This is going to surprise you, though, Stanley became a teacher following his graduation from Centre. He taught at Christian College at Houstonville; at Bradfordville; and ran a coaching school for Centre at Mackville.

Meanwhile Stanley's father, who had practiced law and captained a Confederate company, became a Campbellite (or Christian) minister. He pastored churches at Campbellsville and Flemingsburg in Stanley's younger days.

After his father went to Flemingsburg, A. O. started holding teachers' institutes during summer months, teaching at the normal school in the winter. He managed to save $300, and to get ahead on reading law at nights. In 1894 he was admitted to the bar.

At the end of his first six months Stanley had collected only $60 in fees. Then came his big chance. A poor farmer came into his law office bringing with him a distressingly crippled boy. He wanted A. O. to take his case and use a local doctor for malpractice. Although local doctors refused to testify against their fellow, Stanley determined to go ahead with the case.

He was broke, but managed to pick up $75 teaching at Kenon County Teachers Institute. While in Covington he met an eminent surgeon who expressed the opinion that Stanley's client was a victim of malpractice. Stanley took his $75 and went to the leading medical college in Cincinnati where he learned all there was to know about the human leg.

Returning to home base, A. O. brought the case to trial. When the doctor was put on the stand the young lawyer, "made a monkey" of him by asking questions which showed up his lack of knowledge. Stanley won the case, and got a verdict of big damages. He was on his way at last.

After his first major victory with a court case, success came easy. A. O. Stanley became known as the man who had won the malpractice suit against the famed doctor thru his own superior knowledge of anatomy. With his share of the proceeds of the damages which were awarded to the plaintiff whose son had been an object of malpractice, Stanley forged ahead in his legal career.

One day he was arguing a case in the Kentucky Court of Appeals when Chief Justice Hazelrigg said to him: "You have all the earmarks of a successful tort and criminal lawyer. Henderson down on the Ohio is the place for you . . ."

Stanley took his advice, and went to Henderson on a steamboat. He landed on a dark dismal night in March of 1898—St. Patrick's Day. Practicing in Henderson says Savoyard, were: "Yeaman, perhaps a more learned lawyer and finer advocate than his brother, the great Yeaman, of New York; Vance, the Justinian of Western Kentucky, the leader; Clay, the peer on the stump of McKenzie and the rival at the bar of Yeaman; Powell, eloquent, scholarly, learned; Merritt, subtle, and profound; Lockett, Yeaman's partner and little short of Yeaman's equal; Givens, and Cecil, former justice, and now in full and active practice—those were the oldest members of the profession. The young lawyers were McClain, the junior Lockett, Taylor, the Wards, Sebree, Cunningham, Peters, Dudley and many others who made the Henderson bar the equal of any in Kentucky outside of Louisville.

"The circuit judge was the accomplished John L. Dorsey," continues Savoyard. "One of the greatest Nisi Prius judges of his generation. If someone had told young Owsley Stanley, a stranger and unheralded, friendless and nearly moneyless, that within four years he would have the most lucrative practice at that bar, that Judge Dorsey would resign from the bench and accept a partnership with him, and he would be returned to Congress from the historic Kentucky district, he would have smiled at it as a castle in Spain."

Stanley's introduction to the bar in Henderson was as dramatic as his first case in the Blue Grass area. There was a case which split Henderson in two—Hayes vs. Haag. Hayes was a minister, the principal of the high school, and he had been the lessee of one of the local hotels. An attempt was made to burn it, and Hayes was suspected of arson. He was arrested on a warrant charging him with having set the hotel afire.

The warrant against him was heard in the examining court, and the case dismissed. Whereupon Hayes sued Haag, who had brought the charges for defamation of character.

Stanley was employed on the more unpopular side of the case, to defend Haag in the defamation suit. He jumped into the case with youthful enthusiasm. He went to Texas, to Mississippi, to Missouri, for proof. He "chased Hayes, wandering from pillar to post, and proved him guilty of 100 infamies", says Savoyard.

"His speech to the jury is a splendid specimen of forensic eloquence," continues the writer, "and the verdict was a finding for the defendant. From that day Stanley was a leader of one of the ablest bars of Kentucky."

This brings us to the point where Stanley's life as we know it takes up. In 1900 A. O. was elected presidential elector on the Democratic ticket in the Second District, and in 1902 was elected to Congress. In 1904, he was reelected, and in 1906, again nominated for a third term.

After his first election to Congress he was married to Sue Soaper, of Henderson.

"It was no royal road Owsley Stanley traveled to success," says Savoyard. "There was not a more indefatigable worker in Congress. His knowledge of books is varied and extensive, and doubtless it is true that he knows more about the growing, the harvesting, the curing, the packing and the marketing of tobacco than any other man in the world. His speech on that subject made in Congress is a complete exposition of the monopolies and extortions of the Tobacco Trust.

"He is yet under forty," says Savoyard's 1909 account, "and if he shall remain in Congress, he is sure to be a leader. He has all the requisite attributes—ability, eloquence, courage, honesty, enthusiasm and industry. But after all Stanley's place is in a courthouse before a trial judge and twelve men in a box!"
