

This Town— That World

The proper bending of the twig around the seat of sundry pants may keep many young sprouts from taking the wrong bent later.

SO THERE

We dislike mentioning newspapers, this week has been so rough, but we liked that idea the Napanee Beaver up in Ontario, Canada had. Last week it carried this notice:

"You may notice some typographical errors in this paper. They were put in intentionally. This paper tries to print something for everyone, and some people are always looking for mistakes."

HE HAD THE LAST WORD

In Johnson City, Ill., Elder Charles M. Weaver, of the Primitive Baptist Church, died Tuesday of last week and preached his own funeral next day. A minister for 62 years, he had always wanted to have the last word over his body. So, seven years ago, he recorded his funeral sermon, and this was ready when the time came.

You know, it might give us all some food for thought if we were to sit down and try to write something that could be truthfully said about us at our funeral. Might give most of us a bit of compeupance.

A MAN'S DEEPER THOUGHTS

Henry Fitzpatrick, who died last week, kept at his home on the Middle Creek road a bulletin board on which he from time to time wrote brief thoughts as they occurred to him. He frequently changed the board and scribbled something new, but his thoughts of January 6, eleven days before his death, remained untouched.

These are the words still on his bulletin board:

"Today, January 6, 1957"

"To love to preach is one thing. To love those to whom we preach quite another."

"No sermon is of any value, or likely to be useful, which has not the R's in it."

"Ruin by the Fall, Redemption by Christ, Regeneration by the Holy Spirit."

"The world is dying for want, not of good preaching, but of good hearing."

What better epitaph could he have written?

ASTOR MEADE CASE DROPPED

Court Grants Dismissal; Two Trials Draw Fines In Other Cases Listed

The Astor Meade case was dismissed today on motion of the Commonwealth after its motion for a change of venue had been denied by Special Judge Johnston.

Two of the three trials held within the week in circuit court resulted in fines as Lonnie Adkins was fined $100 upon conviction of a cutting and wounding charge, and Curt Tackett was fined $200 for drunk driving. Butler Hall won an acquittal in his trial on a child desertion count.

Trial of Astor Meade, charged with striking and wounding with intent to kill Commonwealth's Attorney Burnis Martin, was called

JURY REPORT HITS 'SYSTEM' IN USE HERE

Comprehensive Review Of Enforcement Work Given by Grand Jury

Concluding its work for the January circuit court term Monday, the grand jury in its final report to Circuit Judge Edw. P. Hill voiced criticism of the county's law enforcement system but withheld criticism of any individual.

The report, signed by John W. Straton, foreman, discussed at length the crime situation in the county and the ineffective method employed in meeting it.

"Naturally, the officials cannot be held entirely blameless," the report reads, "because the law provides the means and the authority for them to overcome or avoid the situations which cause us concern. They are functioning no differently than their predecessors, however, which is why we say our comments are directed toward the system rather than the current officials."

The jury said that, had time permitted, it would have preferred to investigate each office and assess its individual performance. Continuing on this same theme, the report added:

"In a great many cases the laws of the Commonwealth apparently are administered for the convenience of a few people rather than for the protection of all the people. Men who commit crimes are supposed to be prosecuted because they have violated the law of the land, and our public officials are sworn to perform this duty. Our officials, however, seem to feel that a wrong-doer should, in many cases, not be prosecuted unless the person who has been wronged insists upon it. . . . Sometimes, as was brought to the attention of the grand jury, witnesses for the Commonwealth were not even notified when the trial was to be held. Some of these cases were dismissed for lack of prosecution."

This attitude, the grand jury report continued, is also apparent in the lack of investigation of crimes by public officials. The recent "vicarious attack" on John Wes Music, 89-year-old East Point man, was cited as an example. "The law enforcement officials of Floyd county have made practically no effort to determine who committed the crime," the report added, pointing out that relatives of Mr. Music attempted to gather evidence and that state police made a "limited" investigation.

SCHOOL TEXT PREVIEW SET

Textbook Study Centers For Parents, Teachers Established in County

If Floyd county parents would like to get a preview of some of the textbooks their children will be studying for the next four years, now is the time to act.

The County Superintendent's office made this announcement this week, saying that study centers have been set up in the county for the study of textbooks in mathematics, health and the sciences. Teachers are being asked to study the texts at these centers and carefully evaluate each book as an aid to the textbook committee in its future selection of the texts to be used.

Books will be available at the following study centers on Tuesday and Thursday nights, Jan. 21 through Feb. 8, from 6 till 9 p.m.: Melvin, Garrett, Maytown, Allen, Auxier, Drift.

These study centers will be open on the same nights of the week, same hours, from Feb. 18 through March 3: Wheelwright, Wayland, Martin, Betsy Layne, Prestonsburg, McDowell.

The Board of Education office here also will be open Tuesday and Thursday nights, Jan. 21-Feb. 8.

One-fourth of the texts used are adopted each year.

DEATH CLAIMS BANKER HERE

H. D. Fitzpatrick, Sr., Ex-Senator, Merchant, Found Dead At Home

Henry Davidson Fitzpatrick, 77 years old, Prestonsburg banker and former State Senator, was found dead in bed at his home on the Middle Creek road, near here, last Thursday morning. Death was the result of a heart attack. Mr. Fitzpatrick had been active in business despite failing health and had spent part of the day preceding his death at his desk here at the Bank Josephine of which he was vice-chairman of the board of directors. News of his passing came as a shock to hundreds of relatives, friends and business associates.

Prior to his connection with the Bank Josephine he owned and operated for 30 years the Pure Food Company here. He later became active in real estate development in Prestonsburg's business district. A native of Prestonsburg, he was the son of Hiram Hamilton Fitzpatrick and Mary Sally Davidson Fitzpatrick.

FARM FAMILY WORK VIEWED

Farm, Home Program Plans To Be Described At Meeting Friday Eve

Farm and Home Development, one of the many multiple-phase efforts of the Kentucky Extension Service to improve farms and rural living, will be unfolded to the Extension Advisory Committee at its quarterly meeting here Friday evening. This method, new to Floyd county, will be initiated with farm families in early February.

"Farm and Home Development is a way in which families study their resources, goals and problems in order to improve their farms and home with the guidance of the Extension Service," said Robert Jones, assistant county agent. "Johnson, Pike and other adjacent counties have tried this method with outstanding success," he added.

Jones, in describing FHD, said it will be conducted through a series of meetings at which families will work out farm and home plans, to consist of setting up goals and projects.

Music clinics for bands and choruses, comprising a series of instruction sessions slated to end next Tuesday with approximately 100 participating students under the direction of the Morehead College music department, is now in progress in preparation for concerts to be held in various communities, according to an announcement made this week by Jesse Elliott, director of music in Floyd county schools and supervisor of the clinic.

Personnel of the Morehead team of instructors includes Dr. J. E. Duncan, Fred Marzon, John Carter, Jan Fleck and Mr. Wolfkin.

Those receiving the special instruction are termed "the cream of the crop" among Floyd county school musicians, and the concerts are planned for the purpose of giving

Purgation Board Work To End Next Wednesday

The county Registration and Purgation Board, now in session, will conclude its work next Wednesday, it was announced this week.

The Board said that many voters when they receive a notice assume that their names are already purged and so do not appear here. It pointed out that these notices are mere challenges and that it is particularly interested at this time in getting voters registered in the precincts where they reside. It is also important that women voters register when they marry.

BUSINESS MEN STATE NEEDS

Council Hears Request For Police Protection; Conditions Here Argued

The City Council Monday night officially acted on three separate items of business, but the story of the meeting is that of business men's call for police protection and the resultant discussion with just about everybody taking part.

The business actually transacted: Adrian Collins, cashier of The Bank Josephine, was named to the Water & Gas Commission to fill the vacancy created by the death of H. D. Fitzpatrick, Sr.; the Rev. M. Robert Regan, city tax collector, was allowed a 25% commission on whatever he can collect of the $4,200 in delinquent taxes left on the 1855 tax books; the city to pay $50 a month on the salary of a night policeman, the remainder to be paid by contributions from business men.

The issue that brought on the long discussion was stated early by Fred Cottrell, spokesman for the group of business men: "We need police protection—we want to know what we can do and what we can expect of the Council."

Criticism levelled at the police force included a statement from Councilman Curtis May that "the chief trouble is the police force—it's not doing the job." Then the statement of Bill Pettrey to the effect that of 100 violators the state police arrested only eight convictions resulted and that the state police said it isn't worth their while to try to enforce the law here. And Dan Goble: "Put a law in front of my theatre—I'll get five or ten drunks a night. I carry 'em out on my back. This town is in the worst shape I ever saw—beer and whiskey in their hands. . . . You're getting a black eye. They say they're paying off—the bootleggers say they're paying off."

Policeman Bill Potter and B. L. Sturgill denied the general drunkenness situation. Chief of Police Epp Laferty and other police challenged any man to offer proof of any "pay-off."

Two more policemen and a second squad car were suggested by Councilman Paul C. Combs expressed the opinion that a motorcycle policeman will pay the city in fines.

A "get rough" policy was urged on police, and the hope was expressed that the police judge—C. F. Rinehart, acting during the illness of Judge R. W. Feller—"will throw the book at violators."

Joining Council members and Mayor Sandige in the general discussion of the situation were these other representatives of local business: Thomas Hereford, R. G. Francis, Charlie Laferty, Dr. C. L. Hutsinpiiler.

BUDGET OMITS CANAL FUNDS

Perkins Urges All Data On Potential Upstream Traffic Be Submitted

Although an appropriation of $29,438,400 was proposed by President Eisenhower last week for water resources development in Kentucky, no funds for the Big Sandy were included in the budget for the next fiscal year.

Congressman Carl D. Perkins, Senators Clements and Humphreys asked last October that $200,000 be included in the budget for advance engineering and design on the long-dreamed-of Big Sandy waterway. A total of $125,000 had previously been appropriated by Congress for a study and survey of the river and the feasibility of canalization. This was enough to do this phase of the work, but the extra $200,000 was sought to carry on planning and design.

In a telephone conversation with The Times last week Congressman Perkins suggested that all interested persons and firms submit to the U. S. Corps of Engineers all available data showing what upstream traffic as pay-loads may be expected if the river is canalized. He urged this because, he said, the Corps of Engineers may disregard the industrial potential of the region if the river is canalized and not take into consideration the engineers' past experience with industrial development on waterways made navigable.

The result might be an unfavorable economic ratio report for the project unless it is proved that they now know why.

Two Are Picked For Heart Fund Drive in County

Appointment of C. Klimer Combs, of Prestonsburg, and Mrs. Cora McHone, of Wheelwright, as chairman and co-chairman, respectively, of the 1957 Heart Fund Drive in Floyd county has been announced by Jackson D. Guerrant, Danville attorney, state campaign chairman. The Wheelwright Woman's Club and other organizations in the county are assisting in the campaign. An active drive is planned. Kentucky's minimum goal in the 1957 campaign, which extends throughout February, is $250,000. Guerrant announced that most Kentucky counties and many individual communities will bolster their campaigns with special door-to-door "Heart Sunday" collection by volunteers on February 24.

Suit Against Newspaper, AP Dismissed by Meade

The $100,000 libel suit of Donald Lee Meade against the Huntington Publishing Company, the Associated Press and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Weddington, of Prestonsburg, was settled last week as to the publishing firm and the Associated Press.

The action against the Weddingtons, residents of Prestonsburg, remains unsettled. Attorneys for Meade declined to disclose the terms of settlement with the other two defendants.

Deputies Find Booze Cache on Second Raid

A raid in the Mud Creek section Saturday afternoon netted 38 half-pints of whiskey from the premises of Grant (John Hog) Hall. Nothing was found on the property of Cecil Hamilton, where the second raid was made by deputy sheriffs.

Sheriff Gormon Collins said the liquor at the Hall premises was found under the floor of an outside toilet. A previous search had been unavailing, and the officers say they now know why.

CLUES SOUGHT IN DYNAMITING SUNDAY NIGHT

Sheriff Says Identity Of Guilty Known; Probe Expected To Break Case

County and state officers were joined by a Federal Bureau of Investigation agent in a probe of the dynamiting here around Sunday midnight of the auto of Sheriff Gormon Collins and the blasting in the same manner about half an hour earlier of the car of Deputy Sheriff Silas Derossett at the Derossett home on Bull Creek.

Heavy dynamite charges were used in the blasting of the two cars. Concussion and flying debris shattered windows of homes in the Westminster street area near the Collins car which was parked in a driveway alongside his home. Both cars are considered total losses.

The investigation as of Tuesday morning had reached the point where Sheriff Collins expressed confidence that the guilty persons are known. "We haven't picked anybody up yet, but we will," he said. The Sheriff said bootlegging interests of the county are involved in the dynamiting. He declined to comment on other possible angles of the case.

The charge was placed under the rear of each car, blowing out the gas tank, tearing into the trunks, twisting the rear bumpers and fenders.

The two blasts took place within a period of 30 minutes—the dynamiting of the Derossett car at about 11:35 p.m.; the Collins car, a few minutes past midnight.

The explosion outside the Sheriff's home disturbed a large part of Prestonsburg. Sheriff Collins had not retired, but other members of

MARTIN BOYS PLEAD GUILTY

3 Sentenced for Thefts On Six Charges; Police Recover Most of Loot

Three Martin juveniles who were jailed here Saturday afternoon by State Detective E. L. Cornett and Deputy Sheriff Willie Johnson entered pleas of guilty Monday morning to charges of breaking and entering on six counts.

Unless probated, the youths will be committed to the Kentucky Youth Authority until each attains the age of 21 years. The three were remanded to jail by County Judge Henry Stumbo.

The youths are: Donald Sisco, 15, Jimmy Branham and Adrian Dingus, each 17. The series of breaks began Jan. 9 with the looting of Martin high school from which two phonographs worth an estimated $150 were taken, and ended with the robbery Saturday morning of the AMVETS Club at Martin where the youths took about $20 in cash and 15 cases of beer. In between those dates the three committed these breaks:

Jan. 11, Bates' Drive-In at Printer, with the haul, including about $30 cash and cigarettes, candy and other items, amounting to about $200; Jan. 14, the C. & M. Service Station, Allen, from which tires and other merchandise valued at $1,000 were taken; Jan. 18, the Big Y Drive-In at Allen, with a cash haul of about $50. Two shootings were taken from the home of John H. Osborne at Martin.

Detective Cornett said the beer taken from the AMVETS Club was recovered and placed in the custody of Judge Stumbo, and that the goods and cash taken from the Allen service station, the Big Y Drive-In, the Osborne home and Martin high school also have been returned to the owners.

Arrested on a charge of knowingly receiving stolen property was Bruce Branham, 33, brother of one of the three juveniles involved. He was jailed here.

Two other juveniles have been implicated in some of the breaks but these had not been arrested Monday afternoon, the state detective said.

New Parasitic Weed Found in Carolinas

Kentucky farmers this week were alerted to the presence of witchweed, a parasitic weed, in the Carolinas.

The new pest attacks corn principally. Witchweed seed may lie dormant for years until seed comes in contact with the root system of another plant. Then it attaches itself and kills the host plant.

Joe F. Freeman, weed-control specialist of the UK Agricultural Experiment Station, says many Central Kentucky farmers are familiar with another parasitic weed, called broom rape; these seeds also lie dormant until hemp, tobacco or certain other crops are planted in the area. Broom rape eventually will force abandonment of infested fields for production of these crops.

Weed specialists say witchweed, found in 40 locations in North and South Carolina, might be capable of destroying more corn than the European corn borer insect — $80 million annually.

In South Africa, home of witchweed, sudan grass is planted, encouraging witchweed to germinate. Then the sudan grass crop is plowed under. The USDA is studying chemical and rotation practices as control measures.

To the Voters Of Floyd County

As most of you know by now, I am a candidate for re-election as Circuit Judge. Between now and May 28th, I shall be somewhat handicapped in the matter of getting over the county to campaign, due to the fact that I have court continuously until then.

So, I would like to urgently appeal to my friends and supporters, to talk to your friends and neighbors in my behalf. I do not believe you would want me to neglect my official duties in your courts to promote my personal political welfare. So I must rely upon those of you who believe in my cause, to carry on the crusade for me.

I have heard recently of some untrue rumors being spread concerning me, the origin of which I do not know and will not try to determine. I believe such tactics to be unfair and unjust and beneath the dignity of the highest judicial position in your county. I know you will pay no attention to wild, politically inspired rumors.

I believe the people of Floyd county are entitled to know the truth about candidates for office and that they want to decide between candidates on the basis of their qualifications rather than on the basis of wild rumors started during the heat of a campaign.

I also believe that my reputation for honesty and fairness built up during my entire lifetime in Floyd county will be more important to you than some unverified rumor you might hear between now and the Primary Election.

I have tried to make you a good Judge and have decided the cases which have come before me on the law and the facts rather than on politics or political influence. I think that is the kind of Circuit Judge you want and I am submitting my case to you, the people of Floyd county, on that basis.

I hope to see all of you before the election but if I am unable to do so, I humbly and sincerely ask for your support in my behalf.

Respectfully yours,
EDWARD P. HILL

Howard Estill, Engineer, Succumbs in Lexington

Howard Estill, the mining engineer for whom the Floyd mining town of Estill was named, died in Lexington last Wednesday.

Estill supervised the laying of brick streets in Paintsville and was associated with the late John C. C. Mayo who opened the coal fields in Eastern Kentucky. At one time he was connected with the Middle Creek Coal Company here.

Estill went into the coal business for himself and in 1913 became chief engineer for Elk Horn Coal Corporation. He later was a mine superintendent for Stonega Coal & Coke Company, of Big Stone Gap, Va.

Estill quit the coal business 29 years ago and turned the family tradition of Kentucky-cured country hams into a profitable business.

In recent years he had cured an average of 3,000 hams yearly, shipping them to every state and several foreign countries.

He is survived by his wife and two brothers, W. Rodes Estill, Fayette county, and George Castlemann Estill, Miami, Fla.

Judge Says Rate Boost Asked By Private Owners

County Judge Henry Stumbo told The Times this week that rumor in the Lackey vicinity is claiming that he is responsible for the proposed gas rate increase at Lackey. He pointed out that the gas company is privately owned at Lackey by members of the Horn family and that whatever increases in rates that may occur there will result from action of the Public Service Commission upon the petition filed by owners of the gas company at Lackey.

This Borders On Anarchy

Floyd county got dangerously close to anarchy this week with the dynamiting of the autos of the Sheriff of the county and one of his deputies.

All the things, the events, the conflicts, that lie back of this dynamiting are not known, may indeed never be fully known. Not even the identity of the guilty is known as this written. But that does not alter the fact that such an attack could easily have been lethal, that it was deliberately aimed at officers of the law and that it is anarchical in conception and execution.

This, incidentally, borders on the state of affairs this newspaper has long feared and warned officials and citizens against. We do not say this to assume the role of a prophet, major or minor, but to cite again the need for a wholesome regard for the law and for those charged with administering the law in all its phases—and to remind ourselves as citizens, as well as officials, that law as mere reading matter is dry reading, that law as mere paragraphs on a page of a book are without meaning, and that through lack of meaning the law loses dignity in the minds of young and old. In short, there has been overmuch winking at violations of good and sound laws.

This is not said in a spirit of criticism for any individual. In some degree all have failed. The law has not been a broom that swept clean. The courts have failed on occasion when enforcement officers succeeded. Citizens such as you and I have failed because we have accepted it all as "the best we can do."

Regardless of your politics or your personal likes and dislikes, if you do not feel alarmed by such a situation as this your concept of a civilized, orderly society has sadly deteriorated.

Those dynamite charges heard Sunday night were not just big "booms" to entertain children or to give us something to talk about the next day. They were window-shattering, steel-twisting warnings.

shipment via water upriver will be of considerable volume to add to the heavy downriver coal shipment already in sight.

Congressman Perkins said he will insist on funds for advance planning of the Big Sandy river development project if the U. S. Army Corp. of Engineers thinks the project should be completed.

Perkins said the Engineers' preliminary-survey report on the Big Sandy will be completed by July 1.

The purpose of the preliminary survey is to determine the need for replacing obsolete navigation facilities on the Big Sandy and the Tug and Levisa forks, and for flood control, hydroelectric power, and water supply in the valley.

Other Kentucky construction projects in the budget:

Catlettsburg floodwall, $2,000,000; Greenup lock and dam, $13,500,000; Buckhorn Reservoir in Breckinridge County, $3,000,000; Maryland Warsaw locks and dam on the Ohio River near Warsaw, $9,500,000, and the Barkley Dam across the Lower Cumberland River in Western Kentucky, $5,000,000.

The budget included these funds for advance engineering and design projects:

New Richmond locks and dam across the Ohio River near Mentor in Campbell county, $175,000; Nolm River Reservoir in Edmonson county, $138,000; Barren River Reservoir No. 2 in the Green River Basin, Allen and Barren counties, $50,000, and Ohio River navigation replacement projects, $50,000.

Recommended funds for examinations and surveys by the United States Army Corps of Engineers:

Little Sandy-Tygart's Creek, $30,000; Kentucky River, $54,500; Cypress Creek in Muhlenberg and McLean counties, $5,000; Laurel River, $19,800, and Clark River, $16,100.

Nat'l VFW Week Now Under Way

Commander Harold B. Rice, of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 5839 this week pointed out that 6,542 V. F. W. posts in all parts of the country are now actively engaged in sponsoring youth activities. His statement was made in connection with National V. F. W. Week—Jan. 20-26.

He announced that Thursday, Jan. 24, has been designated as V. F. W. Youth Welfare Day and on that day hundreds of posts will conduct demonstrations of their youth program.

Rice said that during the past year marble tournaments were held in over 1,200 communities; 1,000 Boy Scout units met under V. F. W. leadership; 500 baseball teams made up of boys in the 13 to 15 age group took part in the V.F.W. teen-er baseball program; 175 teams were enrolled in the junior bowling competition; 75 units participated in junior rifle marksmanship contests, and 200 teams engaged in organized softball play.

He said two national tournaments play big roles in V.F.W.'s youth program. This year the eleventh annual national V.F.W. marble tournament will attract 45 or more entrants to Seattle, Wash., on June 20-21-22. At Hershey Park, Pa., Aug. 11-16, the cream of V.F.W. teen-er baseball teams will meet to decide the national championship. Teams will compete in each of eight areas for the right to play at Hershey.

Other national championships, settled through regional matches, with comparative scores used to determine the winners, are the rifle and junior bowling events.

the family had. He said he saw nobody leaving the scene, but added that one car had passed his home two or three times prior to the blast.

A heavy sufferer from the blast here was Deputy Sheriff W. B. Boyd in whose home 14 window panes were shattered. Seven panes, two complete sashes and six storm windows in the Collins home were blown out. Shattered also were panes in the nearby Presbyterian Church and in the homes of Mrs. Foster Anderson, Jesse B. Hage-wood, F. P. Howard and Norman Martin.

Sheriff Collins said the explosives were set off by means of fuses. He added that his telephone rang about the time of the blast which shattered his car.

Radio equipment in the trunks of the two cars is believed ruined. Loss of the two autos leaves the Sheriff's force with four radio-equipped cars.

At the DeRossett home, which is the old Green Stephens residence, about five miles from here, windows were shattered, strips of weatherboarding were ripped off the house, near the car, and a mantel was blown down in the living room.

Footprints in rain-soaked earth at the rear of the DeRossett auto were covered by the deputy and thus so well preserved that satisfactory plaster casts of the prints were made later, it was said.

Insurance covers the damage to both autos.

MORE COAL IN 1955

Unlikely as it seems, more coal moved on Chesapeake Bay in 1955 than on the Kanawha River in the heart of West Virginia's coal fields. Chesapeake Bay barges carried more than 7,900,000 tons; on the Kanawha River 5,800,000 tons were moved.

ject them, under Extension supervision, toward completion. It is envisioned that families, after working through the meetings, the number to be set by the families themselves, will have an understanding of farm and home living equal to a short course in farm and home management at the University of Kentucky.

"The program is open to all farm families, but 10 to 20 families will make a group about the right size for discussion meetings," Jones said. He revealed that meant personal contacts had already been made and that several families have shown interest.

The first meeting of families is tentatively scheduled at Prestonsburg but other meetings will be set at local communities if the need arises.

Basically, Jones says, Farm and Home Development will help to increase net income. "It will help provide a better living in farm homes and aid families, working together, to reach decisions," he says.

Dixie Trapp, home demonstration agent who went to work here Nov. 1, will play an important part in Farm and Home Development. While the county agents will be working with the agricultural phase she will aid and advise on improved home management and family living problems.

Farm and Home Development differs from other Extension activities, it is pointed out. In the past the Service has dealt with the farm, home and family as separate units and problems have been handled without much consolidation of the total unit.

"In FHD we will think of the farm, home and family, as one unit," Jones explained. "We might add here if the main source of income does not come from the farm it does not keep a family from being a FHD family. One cannot think of the family without thinking of the relationship of farm and home. All three are tied very closely together."

Plans for FHD, already laid, are for the services of a home management specialist to advise and work with farm families on problems arising in the home. Other specialists, in any field, will be available, if needed, it was said.

Farm and Home Development has almost unlimited possibilities if pursued, Jones explained. Some of the phases of farm life that may be studied and on which plans can be formulated are soil management, crop production, improved livestock, food supply, nutrition and health, landscaping and family insurance.

Specialists already tentatively scheduled to Floyd county to assist in FHD are Wilmer Browning, Knott county native, who is a specialist in agriculture economics, Miss Frances Stallard, Extension specialist in home management, W. W. Magill and W. I. Farmer, strawberry specialists.

ment in the assault on the East Point man. A woman whom he accused of striking him was recently released from jail here under $4,000 bond. The jury's report said the testimony produced was not adequate to gain enough votes from the grand jurors to make an indictment, and is suggested that officials learn what they can about the case and present the evidence to the next grand jury session.

Turning to the bootlegging situation, the grand jury pointed out that the law provides heavier penalties for liquor violation when an individual has been previously convicted for the same offense. Yet, the report noted, it has been reported to the grand jury that a number of these second and third offenses were being tried only as first offenses. "This appears," the report noted, "to be deliberate attempts to by-pass the law and permit violators to escape with only nominal penalty. The infliction of the strong penalty for the second and third offenses might do more to reduce bootlegging than any other practical step which could be taken."

Lack of organization of the "parade of people" appearing before the grand jury was also pointed out for discussion. It was pointed out that the County Attorney or whoever is named to assist the grand jury should be informed by the Commonwealth's Attorney, the Sheriff and others of the matters to be brought before the grand jury, and that he should attempt to schedule an orderly appearance of witnesses. It was suggested that the first day of the grand jury session should hear routine and obvious cases that can be disposed of by an inexperienced jury, and that controversial cases should be presented on the second and third days so that the jury may have time for investigation and deliberation. "The County Attorney did help us, but the unscheduled appearance of witnesses made it difficult to arrange all the interviews we wanted," the report added.

Noting that the courthouse "leaves much to be desired", the grand jury said it favors "serious consideration" in a year or two of a new courthouse. Roof repairs now were suggested, and the jury pointed out that prisoners should be used in making minor repairs and in washing and painting the county buildings.

The magnitude of school truancy was referred to, and it was pointed out that about 1,000 children who should be in school are absent. This, the report said, is costing the Floyd county school system about $800 a day and is a problem which merits the close attention of school officials and the County Judge and the Magistrates of the county. The report pointed out that very few parents have been required this year to show cause why their children are not in school. Asking the co-operation of trial officials, the jury urged the County Superintendent to present all justified cases to them.

It was noted that the Jailer's records show that some persons have been arrested at one time and charged with several violations such as drunk driving, disturbing the peace and reckless use of a deadly weapon, and each charge booked to a different court. The jury said it was unable to get testimony as to why this was done, adding that the effect of such booking of prisoners might require the defendant to pay separate costs of $5 each for only one arrest.

Juvenile delinquency here and elsewhere in the county came in for the jury's attention, and the jury placed the heaviest responsibility on the parents. It suggested school and church and Sunday School attendance for juveniles and asked that ministers use their influence in the pulpit and out to warn parents and their children of the problem and to offer suggestions. Rigidly enforced curfews were suggested for several towns of the county.

The jury commended the Sheriff for his efforts in procuring a radio network, adding that Floyd towns should equip their police cars with radios and so join this system of rapid communication between officers.

The county jail, the report noted, is clean, sanitary and well kept. Baths for prisoners are needed, however, it added.

Heart Attack Is Fatal To Sarah Patton Laferty; Funeral Held Saturday

A heart attack following four weeks of illness resulted in the death of Mrs. Sadah Patton Laferty, 71, of Water Gap, at 2 p.m., Wednesday of last week at the Prestonsburg General hospital.

A native of Stephens Branch, she had been a resident of Bull Creek for the past seven years. She was the daughter of Mark and Teenie Sizemore Patton.

Mrs. Laferty is survived by her husband, Frank, of Water Gap; a son, G. B. Laferty, Water Gap; two daughters, Mrs. Teenie Crum, Water Gap, and Mrs. Hazel Birmingham, Louisa; four brothers, Joe Patton, Langley, Jake Patton, Eastern, Bill Patton, Weeksbury, and Jeff Patton, Rochester, Ind.; and six sisters, Mrs. Lula Crisp, Alphonetta, Mrs. Phoebe Crisp, Printer, Mrs. Janie Harris, Portsmouth, Ohio, Mrs. Emma Tackett, Lackey, Mrs. Darcus Cole, Harold, and Mrs. Flora Harris, Wheelwright.

She had been a member of the Christian church for fifty years. Funeral services were held at 10 a.m., Saturday in the Laferty Chapel at Sloan, with the Rev. Floyd Laferty officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery under the direction of the Carter & Callihan Funeral Home.

PEGASUS PARADE

The Theme of the Kentucky Derby parade this year will be famous horses—of fact and fiction. The big march, seen in 1956 for the first time in 25 years, is known as the "Pegasus Parade," after the winged horse in Greek mythology. (That nag we bet on last year could have used wings. He ran more like the wooden horse of Troy.) The Derby, with its week of festival, ranks among such other top fetes as the Orange, Sugar and Rose Bowls, and the Mardi Gras.

Similarity of Names Causes Embarrassment

Again a similarity of names has caused a Floyd county citizen embarrassment, and Russell Crum, of Allen and Dwale, has requested The Times to state that he is not the man of the same name who has been indicted on a forgery charge. James Laferty, former Prestonsburg bus driver, has also requested The Times to say that he is not the James Laferty named, some time ago, on a liquor charge.

Instruction to the students, in preparing them for the concerts, is divided into two organizations, band and chorus, in order to present what may approximate an all-star county band and an all-star county chorus.

Not only will the concerts offer the public a chance to hear the best of the county's school musicians but they will produce, it is hoped, a source of much-needed revenue to aid the music program in the county. Students will offer tickets for sale very soon and dates will be set for the performances.

BLESS HIM!

The most factual, most unprejudiced article we have ever read about this section of Kentucky was printed 39 years ago in the old CENTURY MAGAZINE. It's "The Mountaineers," by Rollin Lynde Hunt, who came to this section a rank outsider, traveled these hills and wrote his sincere, sympathetic assessment of the mountain people.

This man Hunt did not come looking for log huts only, or for moonshiners and feudists, with the idea of returning to New York and writing off the whole section as a land of benighted people living in poverty, squalor and ignorance. He found those conditions here, true, but he also found a beautiful land, a proud, hospitable people, and he declared those unsavory conditions were no more typical of Eastern Kentucky than sordid conditions found in other states and in their cities were typical of them.

Hunt did delve into some of the humor of the hills, and some of it he set down in print. This anecdote is typical of the few he told:

"Why don't you sell this miserable patch of ground and get out?" a furriner asked of a resident of Heller-Sartain Creek.

And the mountaineer gave the intruder to understand: "I ain't so pore as you think. I don't own this patch of ground."

About 90 percent of our raisins come from Thompson seedless grapes, and are sold as seedless, bleached or unbleached raisins. Bleached raisins have been changed from a dark brown color to a yellow or amber color.

This is the time of year when most major items of fishing tackle are bought. There's plenty of time to consider what to get, and to wait, if necessary, while your dealer orders it for you.

Buying just before a fishing trip, says Jason Lucas, angling editor of Sports AfIELD magazine, is pretty sure to result in getting, ill-considered things that won't be used.

Since preferences in tackle are highly individualized, it would be wise to discuss what tackle to get to suit the type of fishing you'll do, and that will be most suitable for you.

Spinning tackle is perhaps the easiest to select without much knowledge of fishing, and about 20 minutes of practice will have anyone using it well enough to get by. Too, the slipping clutch prevents a beginner from breaking his line when he hooks a large fish. The present popularity of spinning, in fact, can be attributed to its simplicity.

The chief weakness of spinning tackle is that the light line can't hold larger fish from running into dense weeds, snags, brush or such, to tangle up. Wet flies, used chiefly for trout and sunfish, can be cast with spinning gear, by using either a "bubble" or a "spinning fly line."

Both of these are rather makeshift devices, for spinning tackle is designed to cast lures. As to the recommended line, six-pound monofilament seems to be the most popular.

Fishing with fly tackle requires some good coaching beforehand. Once this has been accomplished, you're set. Jason suggests a moderately powerful trout dry-fly rod between 7 3/4 and 8 feet, weighing between 3 1/2 and 4 ounces, for small trout, bluegills, bass, tarpon or steelhead.

An HCH dry-fly line of the modern, light, long-floating type is the best to use on fly tackle, for either dry or wet flies, but not for bass bugs. A C-level line, inexpensive, of the same long-floating type, will do for wet flies and bugs.

With casting tackle, you don't need the careful coaching that you do with fly tackle, although it does call for more practice than spinning tackle.

A light casting rod of six feet or even slightly longer is best for the beginner. A rod of split bamboo or hollow glass has the nicest feel and action, but one of solid glass certainly casts well enough for practical purposes and is less likely to be broken by the inexperienced angler. A 12-pound line services well for most purposes.

Pork should be cooked slowly and long for best flavor and to kill parasites present in pork, say UK Extension food specialists. It should be brown and crusty on the outside and without pinkness on the inside.

Louisville Man Claims Bond Issue Violates Constitution Parts

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 16—The $100,000,000 road-bond issue violates 11 sections of the State Constitution, according to a lawsuit filed against it today in Franklin circuit court.

This is the suit by which the issue will be tested, ultimately by the Court of Appeals, before it is offered for sale in blocks of not less than $5,000,000 each.

The proceeds will be used to match federal aid in the gigantic road-building program planned by the administration of Governor Chandler. Estimates of the first three years of construction total $231,570,000.

The bond issue was authorized in an act of the first special session of the General Assembly of 1956. It was approved at the polls November 6 by the margin of 6 to 1.

The test suit was prepared by Bullitt, Davison & Tarrant, Louisville law firm. It was filed here by Thomas S. Dawson and Earl Wilson of the firm.

Attorney General Jo M. Ferguson will head defense counsel.

The suit was brought in the name of Roscoe R. Dalton, a taxpayer at Louisville.

The bond issue plan proposes: 1. To match federal aid for the primary, secondary, and urban systems in Kentucky. This is at the usual ratio of 50-50.

3. By using bond money for this matching, $37,000,000 in State money ordinarily used for matching would be released the first three years.

4. These released State funds would be diverted to an accelerated program of improvement of roads outside the federal-aid system in Kentucky.

5. At the end of the first three years, there would remain unspent $42,500,000 of the bond issue. This would be used in 1-to-9 matching for completion of the interstate system during the last 10 years of the program.

The proposed issue is of general-obligation bonds backed by full faith and credit of the Commonwealth, and secured specifically by revenue paid into the road fund.

The issue is for 30 years, cannot be sold at less than par, nor bear interest at more than 3 per cent.

The test suit charges the act authorizing the issue violates Section 51 of the Constitution because the title does not include five important provisions in the body of the act.

It violates Sections 49 and 50, the suit continues, because:

1. The debt evidenced by the bonds will exceed the $500,000 State debt limit set by Section 49, and is not for any of the purposes mentioned in that section.

2. The act does not levy an annual tax sufficient to discharge the debt in 30 years.

3. It was not submitted to the people in the form required by Section 50.

The suit also charges: The act violates Section 47 because it originated in the Senate and contains provisions for raising revenue. This section requires revenue measures to originate in the House.

It violates Section 27, 28, and 29 because it attempts to delegate unconstitutional legislative powers to the State Property and Buildings Commission.

It violates Section 230 because it seeks to divert road-fund revenue from the purpose for which the taxes were levied.

The act violates Section 46 because the General Assembly did not pass it according to the terms and provisions laid down in the section.

It violates Section 177 because this section does not permit the State to pledge its credit for construction of highways.

It violates Section 178 because it does not "adequately" specify the purpose for which the borrowed money is to be used.

Moreover, the suit charges that the act is violated because it states operation and maintenance of toll bridges shall be paid out of the road fund. Despite the fact that toll-bridge bonds were outstanding when the toll-road act was passed, the act tries to give the bond issue first claim on the highway fund.

"The act, by reason of this provision," the suit goes on, "impairs the obligation of the contract holders of the bridge bonds and deprives them of their property without due process of law."

The act also violates Section 177,480 of K. R. S. for the same general reason. But this reason involves the prior obligation of the road fund to operate and maintain the Kentucky Turnpike if tolls are not sufficient.

The act was attacked further for these reasons:

1. Some sections of it are in error or inconsistent.

2. The secretary of state did not meet requirements of the act in her notices of election, etc.

3. The title fixes the total debt at $100,000,000, but the body of the act contains interest provisions that make the total higher.

4. The State will use part of the issue to match federal money 1-to-9 but the act permits only 50-50 matching.

LIMESTONE FOR CHURCH

A slab of Kentucky limestone will form the altar of a Massachusetts church. In behalf of Gov. A. B. Chandler, George Carr Gantor, executive assistant to the Commissioner of Conservation, sent the stone to the Rev. Anthony Oliver of the Westford, Mass., Outdoor Church. Upon the rock were carved the word "Kentucky", the governor's name and an outline of the Commonwealth. The pastor had requested the slab from Chandler.

General Electric Company anticipates use in the average home of 7,500 kilowatt hours of electricity a year by 1966, in contrast with the use of around 3,000 kilowatt hours in 1958. In terms of coal, at today's rate of efficiency, that would mean the average home will use around 3.5 tons of coal, as electric power, in 1966, against about 1.5 tons in 1958.

Twenty-six percent of farm wives are now said to be working off the farm, resulting in more food and clothing being bought instead of farm-produced.

Organization Meeting Stated at Martin High

An organizational meeting for extension classes to be conducted by Morehead and Eastern State College will be held at Martin high school, Saturday, 9:30 a.m. "All interested teachers and prospective teachers should try to be there," Wayne Ratliff, director of supervision, Floyd County Board of Education, said.

Both colleges have promised to try to meet the needs of teachers, and regular classes will be conducted wherever a majority of teachers decide upon.

There will be no Spring Term at either Morehead or Eastern this year. This may make it more important that teachers try to get into the courses to be offered.

LOOK!

... more than a car ... more than a truck

LOOK again! IT'S THE NEW FORD RANCHERO

HAULS LIKE A TRUCK! No need to hold back on load. ... HANDLES LIKE A CAR! Ball-joint front suspension—first time on any pickup—gives true passenger-car ride.

Looking at the boldly modern styling of the new Ford Ranchero, you may find it hard to believe that it's actually a man-sized truck.

It carries more than half a ton. That's more capacity than many standard pickup trucks offer you.

And it's a show pony, too! The Ranchero looks, rides and handles like a passenger car.

The new Ford Ranchero is surprising in many ways. Never has so much style and luxury been packed into so rugged a vehicle at such a low price.

Local ASC Office Head Reveals 1957 Deadline For Reserve Requests

Elder Goble, office manager of the Agricultural Stabilization Committee announces that January 28 will be the beginning of the sign-up period for the 1957 Acreage Reserve program. Goble stated that the compensation for participation in this program will be determined by using the normal farm yield for tobacco and the farm productivity index for corn and cotton. He went on to say that the maximum acreage for the farm that may be placed in the 1957 Acreage Reserve program will be for corn 20 acres or 30% of the allotment, cotton 10 acres or 30% of the allotment, and for all types of tobacco, one acre or 30% of the allotment whichever is larger for each commodity.

The agreements will be approved on the maximum acreage to the extent of the county allocation on the "first come first served" basis, in the order in which they are filed by the producers in the county office.

Goble pointed out that the producer may indicate his desire to place more than his maximum acreage limitation in the Acreage Reserve program with the additional amount to be approved provided money is available after the final sign-up date. The deadline for signing the Acreage Reserve agreements will be March 1 for cotton and all types of tobacco and March 8 for corn. Eligible crops for Kentucky are corn, cotton, wheat, burley, fire-cured and dark air-cured tobacco, however, the final date for entering into the 1957 wheat Acreage Reserve program was October 5, 1956.

It was pointed out that persons interested in entering into an Acreage Reserve agreement should contact their local ASC county office.

Niece of Prestonsburg Attorney Master Homemaker Award Winner

MRS. TOMMY OLDFIELD

MRS. CECIL DAY

Mrs. Cecil Day, of Spencer county, and Mrs. Tommy Oldfield, of Morgan county, who is a niece of J. W. Howard, Prestonsburg attorney, have been chosen by a statewide committee as Kentucky's Master Farm homemakers of 1956. They represent the Stephen Foster and Big Sandy districts, respectively, of the Kentucky Federation of Homemakers, it being their "turn" this year to nominate their outstanding homemakers for this honor.

The recognition service for the two women will take place on Jan. 30, at 3 p.m. at the Memorial Coliseum in Lexington, an event of the 45th Annual Farm and Home Week at the University of Kentucky.

The Recognition is sponsored by Kentucky Federation of Homemakers Guild, and the UK College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

Mrs. Tommy Oldfield and her husband live on a 950-acre farm at White Oak where beef, tobacco, hay and corn are produced principally. They are the parents of two children, Tommy, Jr., 12, and Brenda Sue, 5. Mrs. Oldfield's father, Bernard Howard, also makes his home with them.

A project of the past 10 years has been the modernizing of the 59-year-old, 10-room house built by Mrs. Oldfield's grandfather, the late Harris Howard. A basement and central heating system, a water system with two baths, a kitchen fitted out with modern equipment in a step-saving arrangement, and an equipped laundry are proof of the managerial ability of this housewife.

In addition to growing a large garden, canning and freezing vegetables and fruits, doing the family laundry, and meal preparation, Mrs. Oldfield has built up a large market for cured hams, selling as many as 150 in a season.

Butchered beef, lamb and pork, poultry, eggs and molasses are also sold from the farm.

Fresh vegetables in summer and frozen and canned ones in winter, an abundance of milk, all the eggs needed, cottage cheese and ice cream, and a selection of meats—pork, beef, lamb and chicken—all contribute to the health of the family, says Mrs. Oldfield. With so much food production on the farm, grocery shopping is reduced to once a week or even twice a month, she said.

"The homemakers club has helped me more than anything else in keeping up with the times," said Mrs. Oldfield in whose home the White Oak Homemakers Club was organized 14 months ago.

Mrs. Oldfield served as a home furnishings project leader in her club, she helped with polio vaccine shots, worked with various government agencies in the county, and supported the REA.

She is active in the affairs of the rural church in her community, and was 100 per cent in attendance at her homemakers club the past year.

Talmadge DeWitt Mayo, Pioneer Texas Educator, Floyd-co Native, Dies

Talmadge DeWitt Mayo, 77 years old, Floyd county native and for many years a school superintendent and teacher in the Dallas county, Texas schools, died Dec. 16 in a Dallas hospital after a long illness.

A son of Jacob and Minerva Mayo, of this county, he came of a teaching family. In 1902 he went to Commerce, Texas, where his cousin, the late Prof. W. L. (Bee) Mayo had founded the East Texas Normal College, and he worked his way through two years of school there. After teaching a one-room Texas school—thus beginning a career that continued in classroom and in administrative posts for 45 years—he received his first degree from the Commerce college in 1911. He and his wife, the former Margaret Richardson, served as the faculty of an Ellis county rural school, then moved to Howard, Texas, where he assumed the job of building a school and erecting the first teacherage ever built in Texas.

Later he taught in Pecan Gap, was superintendent of Lancaster schools eight years, served one term as superintendent of Dallas county schools, after that taught at Vickery and Hillcrest high school where he evolved the first 12-year school program put into effect in Texas, then to Arcadia Park and Sunset. He ended his career at Sunset as a classroom teacher—the work he had always loved best, the actual teaching of children. One of his great sources of pride lay in the fact that in his various building programs he provided improved schools for Negroes.

Surviving are his wife, two sons, Dr. T. D. Mayo, Jr., and W. L. Mayo. Burial was made in Dallas.

Your Mutual Benefit Life Man says:

"NINE OUT OF TEN SUCCESSFUL MEN WANT CUSTOM-BUILT LIFE INSURANCE"

Some men, of course, can get by nicely with "ready-to-wear" life insurance designed for average instead of individual needs. But for most successful men—at least 9 out of 10—life insurance is something personal that must be custom-made to meet personal needs. To serve such men, Mutual Benefit Life Representatives have made life-time, full-time careers of planning life insurance instead of merely selling it. HALL AND OSBORNE STAR IN MEET

Paintsville, largely through the individual efforts of senior forward Bryan Hall, retained the championship of their own invitational tournament over the past week-end.

In the popular meet, Hall and Charlie Osborne, of Flat Gap, thrilled the crowds with their stellar rebounding and offensive play. Osborne, one of the most sought-after high school stars ever to play in the mountains, flipped in 125 points in three games for a nifty 41.6 per game average, and yet, he missed the final quarter of the championship game, which eventually set the stage for Paintsville's victory.

Hall, a six-foot, one-inch youngster with a fine scholastic record, hit for 72 points, turned in a fine defensive performance in each fray and rebounded like a demon. In the final fray, he limited 6-5 Carroll Burchett to eight points and waged a bitter battle with the much taller Osborne and Burchett for control of the backboards.

In addition to being a star basketball artist, Hall is one of the better high school golfers in eastern Kentucky, as shown in the annual area golf tournament and the Kentucky high school play-offs.

NEW FOOTBALL MENTOR

A forthcoming announcement from the Floyd County Board of Education will name John Griggs as the incoming football coach at Prestonsburg high school. Griggs, a former teammate of ex-Prestonsburg tutor, Doc Ferrell, played under Paul Bryant at the University of Kentucky and during the past season was head football coach at Leslie County high school at Hyden.

Griggs will finish the current school year in a teaching position at Martin or Betsy Layne, then assume his new duties at Prestonsburg next season.

MAYTOWN SEEKS 18th AND 19th WINS

Undeclared Maytown high, the winningest team in Kentucky high school prep circles, will invade Martin Friday night in quest of its 18th consecutive win. Saturday night, the Wildcats return home to meet Wheelwright in a make-up contest and next Tuesday have re-scheduled the postponed Salyersville meeting until that time.

WHEELWRIGHT WITHOUT MENTOR

Wheelwright high school is vainly searching for a basketball coach to complete the current school year, now that Wilbur "Shorty" Jamerson has returned to school.

The coachless Maroons have eight remaining games on the schedule before the district tournament begins in the latter part of February.

Giant Steps Predicted In Stocking Program

Frankfort, Jan. 21 (Spl.) — The farm pond stocking program, carried on by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources for the last 10 years, is ranked as one of the top programs of its kind in the nation and is providing neighborhood fishing opportunities throughout Kentucky.

In the program's initial year, the newly organized farm pond crew handled 1,200 applications from farmers wanting their ponds restocked. In 1956, more than 8,000 applications were processed and approximately 440,000 "new" bass, bluegill and crappie were delivered.

Getting all the fish to the numerous pond owners would seem to be quite a chore but the planning and efficiency of the pond crew makes the job run smoothly. The easiest part of the entire program is for the pond owner to get the fish.

The pond owner calls the local conservation officer who visits and checks size, depth, fertility and other aspects of the pond. The officer assists the applicant in filing a form which is sent to the fisheries' office in Frankfort. Within a short time, the pond owner receives a card telling him the fish transport trucks are rolling and the fish will be delivered at the county courthouse on a certain day. He picks them up at the courthouse, releases them in his pond and awaits the recommended 15 months before trying his luck.

The farm pond crews make three deliveries to the state's farm ponds each year. Black bass are delivered in Spring. Three to four inch shell-crackers and black crappie go in late summer and a bluegill delivery wraps up the operation in the late fall. In the future bluegill will also be delivered in Spring.

The accomplishments have been tremendous during the first 10 years of the program. Fish and Wildlife officials predict some giant steps in backyard fishing during the coming years.

Hazard Man Is Named Babe Ruth League Head; Succeeds Hubert White

Orville Igoe, of Hazard, has been elected 1957 state director of the Babe Ruth League youth baseball program in Kentucky by the state's 16 loops.

Igoe, who served as president of the Perry County Babe Ruth League in Hazard after helping to form the league, succeeds Hubert White, of Middlesboro, as state director. Under White's leadership, the program added seven leagues in 1956 to almost double its membership.

Leagues in 47 states and five Canadian provinces belonged to the program in 1956 as the 75,000 boys participating made Babe Ruth League baseball the largest organization in the 13-15 year-old age bracket.

An engineering inspector for the Kentucky Department of Safety, Igoe is a former amateur baseball performer, is married and the father of a son and two daughters.

Former manager of the Hazard Amateur Baseball League team, he is a member of the Hazard Masonic Lodge, Baptist Church, was chief of the Hazard fire department for several years, has been active in youth and PTA programs and in the Hazard school system.

SPORTS AFIELD

By TED KESTING

Any beginner deer hunter should keep in mind that deer do not have fixed habits, and what few they have will differ in localities and seasons. For those who are about to embark on their first deer hunt, Col. Housend Whelen of Sports Afield magazine has compiled some pointers.

In the East deer are usually hunted by driving or still-hunting. The drive will usually be in charge of some experienced hunter, and his directions should be followed. For one or two hunters the method that must be used in eastern woods is still-hunting.

You will have the best chance of success if you hunt on the upwind edge of feeding grounds (apple orchards, old lumber slashings, second growth birch and poplar thickets) around dawn and dusk. During the remainder of the day hunt the thick growth where the deer are most liable to bed, and hunt upwind or at right angles to the wind.

Be slow, careful, and as quiet as you can, covering not more than half a mile an hour. Your rifle should be carried in a ready position from which you can fire instantly, and be loaded and locked. At any time, a deer may jump up within 25 yards or less, and may be out of sight within five seconds or less.

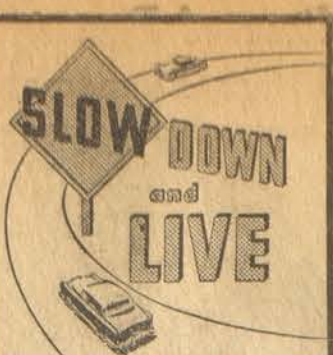

It is advisable to wear soft clothing that will not scratch audibly when it contacts twigs or leaves. Shoes should have soft rubber soles; rustling leaves, scratching brush or the breaking of very small twigs will probably not alarm a deer unless within 25 or 50 yards, but these slight sounds will alert it at 100 yards or more, and it will be on watch.

In the first and last lights of dawn and dusk it may pay to pause or stand or sit hidden at places that afford a good view of fairly open country between feeding and bedding grounds. In these early and late hours deer may be moving back and forth between feeding and bedding grounds.

Once you hear a noise, and have made sure it is not another human being but a deer, and a legal one, you are ready to shoot. Push your rifle straight forward, muzzle pointing towards the deer, but close under the shoulder, at the same time throwing the safety off. Follow the deer with the front sight, and when it passes or jumps through a fairly open place between trees, in almost one motion raise the butt to the shoulder, drop the head into the line of aim, put the front sight on the lower front portion of the chest, and press the trigger.

You just got your first deer!

Kill Japanese honeysuckle before planting trees, foresters say. The foreign plant will smother trees if it once takes firm hold of a growing plant.

Brashear Hits for 15 In Bellarmine Victory

Dick Brashear, of Manton, six-foot freshman at Bellarmine College, spearheaded a second-half rally recently which gave his team an upset victory over Hanover, top-ranking team in the Hoosier Athletic Conference. Bellarmine, a five-point underdog, defeated Hanover, 93-75, at Male gymnasium, Louisville.

Coming off the bench late in the first half, Brashear picked up 15 points—14 of them on field goals—as he connected seven times on 13 shots at the basket.

Playing a guard position, young Brashear looms large in his team's plans for the future. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Brashear, of Manton.

RISTER HAS 545 MARKERS

Although overshadowed somewhat in the individual scoring race in Eastern Kentucky by Flat Gap's Charlie Osborne and Auxier's Porter Powers, Edgar Rister, Garrett's six-foot, two-inch senior forward, is one of the leading candidates for all-state honors. In 17 games to date, the four-year starting veteran has tallied 545 points for a 32.1 per game mark.

Rister is not a flashy performer, but has one of the best shooting eyes o' fany player ever in Floyd county. Garrett's shot charts indicate that the agile ace hits on 69 per cent of his flings, and most of them are from back of the foul ring.

Two out of every three hopper cars of coal moved by the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway will take delivery of almost 12,000 freight cars before the end of 1957, completing the latest order ever placed by the company, which is the owner of the largest coal car fleet operated by any U. S. carrier.

NEW BIBLIOGRAPHY

A new contribution to the history of our area is a bibliography, titled "A Bibliography of Floyd County, Kentucky," by Willard Rouse Jilison, Kentucky historian and geologist, now living in Frankfort, but formerly a Prestonsburg resident.

It contains "Citations of Printed and Manuscript Sources Touching upon its History, Geology, Cartography, Coal, Salt and Gas with Annotations. (1750-1956)" There are 125 items, many of them rare.

One citation, of much interest to Floyd countyans, is "A List of Taxable Property for the District No. 1 in Mason County, Kentucky." Containing 20 pages of manuscript and compiled by Edward Dobyns. It is in the Mason county records.

"This manuscript tax list is styled Floyd County, 1793 on the outside cover, thus indicating that several years passed during which the area was so designated before the General Assembly in 1799 legally erected this taxing district as the county of Floyd." Jilison writes: "In this hand written list prepared the first year after statehood (1792) it is interesting to see a considerable number of easily recognizable Floyd County pioneers, among whom the following may be cited: Joseph Abbott, Nathaniel Allen, Joseph Allen, Thomas Boyd, William Boyd, William Breckenridge, Joseph Combs, John Davidson, Josiah Davidson, Andrew Davidson, Daniel Goble, Caleb Goble, Adam Hatfield, Alexander Hughes, John Johns, Thomas Johns, John Patton, Elizabeth Sellers, Leonard Sellers, John Sellers, Robert Wiley, John Wiley, Elisha Wiley. At this time John Graham, apparently had not yet taken up his residence in that part of the Big Sandy Valley which was then regarded as later (1799) set off by the Legislature as Floyd County. In 1793 Graham appears on the Mason County tax lists of District No. 2."

TALT HALL

Emory L. Hamilton, teacher in the Wise (Va.) high school, writes about Bad Talt Hall, the Beaver Creek native who was hanged in Wise, then Gladeville, in the early nineties. Hall killed, among others, Enos Helton, marshal of Norton, Va. A ten-year-old boy, Uriah N. Webb, write a ballad that was sung from Big Sandy to Pound. Hamilton sends a copy.

The last verse, typical of many mountain ballads, ends with the remose of Hall as he was on the scaffold:

"They built the platform, boys, Nearby the jailhouse side. He walked out on it, wrung his hands and cried: 'I killed Enos Helton and now I have to die.'"

A letter from the historian, J. Winston Coleman, Jr., of Lexington, advises he is gathering materials on the old charcoal furnaces.

"I am gathering materials to do an article or maybe a pamphlet on the old Kentucky charcoal iron furnaces. . . . For County Judge

DEWEY ROBERTS Voters and taxpayers of Floyd County if I am elected your County Judge, I will pledge myself for honest, sober and efficient administration and to take care of your tax dollar. I will see that there will be no unnecessary expenditure made. I will operate your county on cash basis. I will invite the taxpayers to attend the Fiscal Court meetings, so they may know how and for what purpose their money is being spent. I think the people who pay the money in ought to have something to say about how it is spent. The Fiscal Court meetings will be held open to the public. There will be no extra tax burden put on the people.

I know this office belongs to the people and not to no certain individual. I will invite them to come in the office any time they choose, and I will be ready and willing to try to help them solve their problems. This county collects enough money from taxation, if properly handled to give the people good service. I will endeavor to give them the best service possible.

If I am elected County Judge your county will not be run in the red. There will be money in the treasury to take care of the county's needs. All claims will have to be filed according to law and in order. All just claims will be paid and all unjust ones will be disallowed. Voters help me and we will put our county on top.

Respectfully, DEWEY ROBERTS Pol. Adv.

Boost Annual Coal Production Rapid industrialization of India has prompted plans for boosting annual coal production from the present 38,000,000 tons to 60,000,000 by the close of the country's second Five-Year Plan. Some authorities believe it will be necessary to step up India's coal output to as much as 150,000,000 tons a year to keep pace with its industrialization.

Your Income Tax (Questions and Answers by Cost Accountants)

April 15th is just around the corner but don't wait until the last minute before starting to work on your tax return. Get an early start and avoid careless omissions that may be costing you money. There are many different types of errors made on tax returns and most of them could be eliminated if more care were given to the preparation of the returns.

This is the second in a series of articles containing questions and answers relating to income taxes, prepared by the Louisville Chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants. To help taxpayers make more accurate returns the Louisville Chapter of N. A. C. A. suggests that taxpayers devote more time to careful reading and understanding of each line on the form—it might save you some money.

Q. What is form 1040A? A. This is the simplest tax form. Form 1040A is a card form that may be filed instead of form 1040 if your income was less than $5,000 and consisted entirely of wages reported on withholding statements, or consisted entirely of such wages and not more than a total of $100 of income that was not subject to withholding.

Q. Who may use form 1040? A. Any taxpayer except a non-resident alien. Form 1040 is designed to meet the needs of all persons. Most taxpayers who use this form will find it necessary to use only a part of the form. Therefore, it is so arranged that pages 3 and 4 may be discarded if not needed.

Q. What items of income should not be reported? A. Life insurance proceeds upon death. Interest on state and municipal bonds. Gifts, inheritances, and bequests. Social Security benefits. State unemployment compensation benefits. Veterans benefits to veterans and their families.

Q. What are the advantages of a joint return? A. The law lets married persons split their income for tax purposes, by filing a joint return, even if one has no gross income. The tax on a joint return is generally less than would result from separate returns. The benefit results from the graduated rates. For example, twice the tax on $10,000 is less than the tax on $20,000.

Q. A couple became man and wife on December 31, 1956, may they file a joint return for 1956? A. Yes, for joint return purposes, persons are considered married for the full taxable year, if they are husband and wife on the last day of the taxable year.

Q. My wife had a diamond ring and watch stolen by a burglar who broke into our house. Is this deductible? A. Yes, you may deduct the fair market value of this diamond ring and watch at the time of loss. However, if you received any insurance, the loss should be reduced by that payment.

Q. The monthly payment I make on my home includes some interest. May I deduct this? A. Yes, interest is deductible.

My Program If Elected County Judge

I will help the business people of this county and try to get new business, large or small, to locate in the county.

I promise the people that I will use all the power and energy I possess as County Judge to keep the people and business from being burdened with unnecessary taxes. Your tax money will be wisely spent.

I will call on the church people, Women's Clubs and other good organizations and people of the county to help me work out the problem of juvenile delinquency and under-privileged children. If we can make good citizens out of even 30% of these, we will be making a great contribution to humanity.

From time to time, as the campaign progresses, I will further detail my progress to the people.

UMW LEVIES ASSESSMENT

$10 Asked Per Member To Raise $2.4 Million; Heavy Expenses Cited

Washington, Jan. 16 — The United Mine Workers is levying a $10 assessment on each of its working coal-miner members to increase the union's treasury by an estimated $2,225,000. The union claims 225,000 working members.

The assessment was announced today in the union's newspaper, The Journal, in a statement by U.M.W. President John L. Lewis and other U.M.W. officers. They said the extra money is needed to meet "tremendous expenses" incurred in 1956.

The statement said the expenses included "litigation, settlement of lawsuits, the sustaining of the organizing campaigns . . . as well as the expenses incident to the holding of the last international convention, which expenses alone amounted to almost $500,000."

Five dollars of the assessment is to be collected on pay due for the last half of January, and the balance from pay due on work performed in the last half of February. Retired and other non-working members and members of the U. M. W.'s District 50, who are not coal miners, are exempt from the assessment.

"The assessment," Lewis told the U. M. W. membership, "is very small and actually amounts to less than one half day's pay. Considering the uses to which it will be put, it is fully justified."

The officers' statement said "uncertainty and dangers lie ahead. We cannot afford to take any chances with the future security and progress of our members and our organization."

"We need only look back on the history of our organization to determine what is in store for us."

Similar assessments have been levied in the past after the U.M.W. succeeded in negotiating industry-wide wage increases. The U. M. W. completed agreements last fall with both the bituminous and anthracite industries providing for $2-a-day wage increases.

The U.M.W. does not make public full financial data, but makes periodic reports to its members privately. The U. M. W. convention last fall was told the union's treasury had about $25,000,000 in cash assets, plus other substantial investments. This is exclusive of the U. M. W.'s multi-million-dollar welfare fund.

HEALTH NOTES

By Floyd County Health Department

Multiple sclerosis is a disease of the central nervous system. It attacks the protective covering or "insulation" of the nerves. This covering is called the myelin sheath. The disease usually attacks the spinal cord and the base of the brain. It is not a mental disease as it does not affect the mind of the diseased person.

The disease is progressive. It does not have any set pattern of development. During attacks of multiple sclerosis, damage may occur to any part of the central nervous system. The order in which the symptoms appear varies with each patient. The rate of development does also.

Multiple sclerosis is characterized by periods of variable lengths, some of them for years, in which the disease does not progress. Often the patient shows marked improvement between acute episodes. In other periods conditions become rapidly worse.

When patches of the myelin sheath are damaged, the ability of the nerve to carry messages is impaired. It may be completely destroyed. The patches are scattered throughout the central nervous system, impairing the activity of those parts of the body controlled by the damaged nerves.

Nerve tissue cannot renew itself and therefore the body cannot repair the damage caused by the disease. Although there is no known cure at the present time, the picture is not entirely hopeless. With proper treatment, many of the symptoms can be materially helped. Physical therapy, proper diet, and avoidance of emotional stress and over-fatigue are means by which the condition of patients is often improved, according to the Kentucky State Department of Health.

Frenchburg Payer Ceases Publication

Publication of the Menifee County News at Frenchburg was suspended with its Jan. 10 issue, it was announced by Eastern Kentucky Publishing Co., publishers of five other Eastern Kentucky newspapers.

Officials of the company said that lack of support by Frenchburg merchants, plus rising costs of materials and labor prompted the decision to halt publication of the seven-year-old newspaper.

In an editorial the publisher said: "The publisher saw the newspaper founded and has followed its course with a high degree of personal interest. Getting off to a shaky start, as is the case with most infant newspapers, the publisher had hopes of cooperation and support from local merchants in sufficient strength to make 'The Menifee County News one of Eastern Kentucky's finest weeklies."

"But this was not to be, and here is the final issue of Frenchburg's and Menifee County's home newspaper. Skyrocketing costs of materials and labor added their burdens and doomed the seven-year-old publication."

Send for Seedlings Now For Kentucky Reforesting

Slightly more than 8,000,000 seedlings are available now for Kentucky farmers for reforestation or erosion control work, says James Newman, Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service forester.

This is slightly higher than for 1956, Newman says; however, estimated demand for this year is 9,500,000 seedlings.

Newman noted some types of seedlings are in short supply. They are white pine and short-leaf pine; Scotch pine for Christmas tree plantings are scarce, too. All trees are priced at $7 per thousand except Scotch pine, $10 a thousand.

Place orders early, Newman advises; requests are approved in the order received by district foresters. See county agents, district foresters, or Soil Conservation Service technicians for proper type of seedlings. The minimum order is 100 trees, and seedlings bought must be used for reforestation or erosion control, none being allowed for shade or ornamental purposes.

Newman said shipments will start about Feb. 1 and conclude about April 1. Most trees are shipped to a central point in the county, although a few are sent parcel post on special request. It takes about 1,000 trees per acre when the seedlings are planted at 6-foot by 7-foot spacings.

Newman noted financial assistance may be possible by application through the county ASC office. Likewise, some of the trees probably will be distributed through the conservation reserve of the Soil Bank.

Twenty-four men and women from nine foreign countries spent about three months at the University of Kentucky the past year to observe agricultural Extension methods.

18.17 miles per gallon on North America's toughest truck run!

That's the gas mileage reported by the Cameo Carrier after covering the entire length of the Alcan Highway in less than 45 hours! All six new Task-Force trucks that made the run turned in top scores for performance and economy!

Supervised and certified by the AAA.

New Task-Force 57 Chevrolet Trucks

Six heavily loaded Chevy trucks ran all the way up the rugged Alcan Highway in less than 45 hours! That's cutting more than a full day off the normal running time! They ran right around the clock, stopping only to refuel.

But the important fact about this run was that it proved new Chevy trucks through and through. The Alcan Highway is a supreme test of every truck component. Engines had to prove their power up high-climbing grades and through washouts. Frames and suspensions flexed their muscles over axle-deep ruts and miles of pounding gravel. "And not a single truck turned back or dropped out due to mechanical failure," states the official AAA report of the test. Every model proved its over-all economy by its ironclad ability to stay on the job! Stop by; we'll talk about it.

Proved on the Alcan Highway Champs of every weight class!

Exams Scheduled For Candidates For Tax Office

Frankfort, Jan. 21 (Spl.) — Examinations of prospective candidates for county tax commissioner will be given in each Kentucky congressional district Feb. 5.

Revenue Commissioner J. E. Luckett said under Kentucky law no tax-commissioner candidate's name may be placed upon the ballot until he has been examined and qualified by the Department of Revenue. Persons passing the exams are given certificates of eligibility.

In addition to holding the certificate, a candidate must be at least 24 years of age at election time and must have been a Kentucky resident at least two years and a resident of the county and district in which he is running for at least a year, Luckett said.

He added that although law requires the tests be given in each congressional district, an applicant may take an exam at the location most convenient to him. Notices of exact time and location will be posted in court houses.

The examinations, beginning at 9:30 a.m., local time, will be conducted at Kenlake Hotel, Kentucky Lake; Owensboro senior high school; R.E.A. building, Glasgow; high school, Newport; Kentucky Utilities Co. auditorium, Lexington; Morehead State College; Hazard high school auditorium; Somerset high school library and Gardner Hall, University of Louisville, Louisville.

Sgt. Kendrick Arrives To Help At Air Base

Marine Corps Auxiliary Air Station, Beaufort, S. C. — Marine Staff Sergeant James W. Kendrick, of Prestonsburg, Ky., has arrived here to assist in activating the jet air base.

A construction program of over $35,000,000 is now in progress at this air station. The building program incorporates the construction of runways, hangars, barracks, mess halls, administration buildings, recreational facilities, a chapel, service clubs, and similar structures.

Since the construction phase is being accomplished by civilian contractors, Staff Sergeant Kendrick is one of the first Marines to be assigned duty at the Marine Corps' newest jet base. Staff Sergeant Kendrick's job is to help organize the Investigation Department. He and the relatively few Marines stationed here have the responsibility of getting every department activated and fully operational before the swift jet fighters and thousands of Marines start arriving in 1957.

Before entering the service in July, 1951, Staff Sergeant Kendrick attended Prestonsburg high school.

The new electric generating stations built on inland rivers in 1956 will each be an annual customer for 4,000,000 tons of coal, delivered by river barge.

Fund Has Sent 49 Young Doctors Into Rural Sections of Kentucky

The number of medical students helped by the Rural Kentucky Medical Scholarship Fund has reached 100.

Most of the others are still in medical school, military service, or taking graduate training.

The fund reporting these figures said loans to students have totaled $209,596. The fund was started in 1946.

Thirty-three fund recipients are now in practice in 19 counties. Sixteen have fulfilled their obligations in 15 counties and have moved to other places.

Most loans are for $800 a year. This is the equivalent of a year's tuition at the University of Louisville Medical School, where most of the fund recipients have studied. The student promises to practice a year in a rural section for every year of his loan. He begins repaying the loan three years after graduation, at 2 per cent interest.

However, doctors who locate in any of 10 counties where physicians are most needed are not required to repay their loans.

Under a 1956 act of the General Assembly, the tuition of students at the U. of L. Medical School also is refunded if they practice in one of the 10 needy counties.

The counties are Powell, Martin, Knott, Rockcastle, Magoffin, Elliott, Knox, Cumberland, Leslie, and Breathitt.

The tuition refund was provided as part of a contract giving the U. of L. Medical School up to $500,000 a year in state funds.

This a student can now get a total subsidy of about $7,000—$3,200 from the scholarship fund, $3,200 refund, and interest on the loan—if he practices in a critical area.

Under the refund plan, 50 per cent of the tuition is returned after the first year of practice, 30 per cent after the third.

The refunds are available no matter when the student was graduated from the Medical School, provided he goes to one of the 10 counties to practice after July 1, 1956.

Two graduates have taken advantage of the refund so far. They are Dr. Robert E. Cornett, Jackson, and Dr. J. W. Walker, Mount Vernon.

Dr. Cornett is also a fund recipient and has received the first Sears, Roebuck Foundation loan to be given in Kentucky to help set up medical practice. This loan was for $6,000.

Dr. C. C. Howard, Glasgow, chairman of the Rural Kentucky Medical Scholarship Fund trustees, stressed that rural communities have a great responsibility to help attract doctors.

If churches, schools and living conditions are not attractive to doctors and their families, the doctor shortage in those areas will not be solved, Dr. Howard said.

He gave his added information about the fund, which is sponsored by the Kentucky State Medical Association in co-operation with the U. of L. Medical School:

1. Dr. William Willard, dean of the new University of Kentucky Medical School, is a new trustee of the fund.

2. Private contributions to the fund now total about $170,000. In addition, the General Assembly last year granted $225,000 a year to the fund.

3. The added state aid, with two other factors—higher tuition fees in recent years and less need expected for doctors in the armed forces—means many more students annually may take advantage of the fund in the future.

4. Twenty-six students are getting fund loans this school year. Ten are freshmen, five sophomores, seven juniors, and four seniors. The loans total $20,900.

5. Ten fund recipients are now interning or taking residency training. Most of these will be in rural practice soon.

6. Of the 33 fund recipients now in rural areas, 12 have fulfilled their fund obligations and are continuing practice at the same locations.

7. The Kentucky Physicians Placement Service, also sponsored by the Kentucky Medical Association, is helping doctors locate in places where they are most needed and wanted.

Dr. Howard said students wanting fund help in the next school year should get in touch now with its executive secretary, J. P. Sanford, 627, S. Third, Louisville.

Public School History Written In KEA Pageant

Frankfort, Jan. 21 (Spl.) — The crusade of enlightening against the forces of ignorance provides the action in "The Opening Door," a pageant to be staged April 11 at Louisville's Freedom Hall to observe the Kentucky Education Association's 100th birthday.

The play by John Engle dramatizes the struggle of common school education in Kentucky against public apathy, bigotry and the selfish interests of a few citizens to attain its present ideal: "equal opportunity for every child."

With fictional characters representing historical ones so that sequence and emotional impact can be created by the dramatist, the production by Eben Henson, of Danville's Pioneer Playhouse, illustrates this theme, quoted from the play:

"Education is like a giant door that opens only when everyone is pushing against it. Even then, it opens very slowly... One thing is certain. It will never open for its own accord. Right now, we have a foot in the door. But ignorance is pushing just as hard on the other side."

Most of the play's action occurs in historical flashbacks from the period of the recent constitutional amendment to allow allocation of state school money to districts on the basis of student attendance.

The flashbacks dramatize campaigns for public schools against the feudal concept that only private academies to educate the aristocracy were needed; for a law that made the county the school unit rather than ever-changing, arbitrary district; for equal education for women and Negroes and the right of women to teach; for adequate local taxation for schools, and for elimination of the old system of distributing state school funds on the basis of the number of school-age children in a district.

The nucleus of the cast will be New York actors and actresses and the narrator will be a "top name" in the entertainment field. Some 50 supporting players will be recruited from amateur actors.

The nation's gigantic road-building program will create a market for an additional 2,500,000 tons of coal, to be used in production of such road building supplies as steel, cement and asphalt.
