This Town— That World

A question asked hereabouts: "Is Dewey Lake State Park one of the projects that has been parked?"

Any time you get the idea that you have developed a sixth sense, have become clairvoyant and can read folks' minds, try running for office.

LOST AND FOUND

We hope to get off the subject of politics before long, but we must tell you that Newt May's boat was stolen early in the vote-count last week, then returned before the count was completed. The best some of the boys have been able to figure this one out is, some candidate got discouraged early and decided to get an early start for Salt River, then learned on the way, maybe, that his prospects had brightened up, and so decided to bring the boat back and see how things worked out.

ONE FOR DOC

One ballot about which there isn't much secrecy is Fred Blackburn's at Burton precinct. He voted it by write-in—and would like for others to know how he voted it—for Dr. W. D. Osborne for County Judge on the Republican ticket.

CITY COUNCIL ACCEPTS SIX SUGGESTIONS

Junior Woman's Club Asks Arrest and Fine For Traffic Violators

A delegation of 15 members of the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club presented to the City Council at its Monday night meeting a petition bearing the names of 100 Prestonsburg residents and calling for strict enforcement of traffic laws here.

Six recommendations submitted by the club representatives were adopted by vote of the Council. The representatives were asked to return for a second meeting with the Council Tuesday night when it was hoped Prestonsburg's Police Judge, the County Judge and the Magistrate from this district could be present.

Recommendations made and accepted follow:

- 1. Employ sufficient police to patrol all streets.
2. Arrest and fine violators.
3. Use such fines for the improvement and maintenance of the police force.
4. Ask the Kentucky State Police to cooperate in all ways possible to maintain law and order here.

5. Ask the State Police to return to Prestonsburg and assist in law enforcement.
6. Mark school zone areas with conspicuous signs.

The Council demurred at only the first of these recommendations, pointing out that the city's finances will not permit the employment of additional policemen.

The Junior Woman's Club petition the City Council of Prestonsburg for better laws concerning traffic and for the absolute enforcement of such laws; for proper signals, signs and lights; for

Farm, Home Field Day Scheduled on July 31; Finances Are Discussed

The Floyd county Farm Advisory Committee met at the Prestonsburg high school building Friday evening to discuss problems of finance and the general agricultural program for this year. It was this second meeting of the year.

It was voted to hold the Farm and Home Field Day at the farm of Virgil Smith at Allen. Date of the meeting of farmers and families at the Smith farm was set for July 31. The meeting is rotated each year by the committee.

Problems discussed were the rural development program now being pushed by the State Extension Service and fiscal needs of the local office for the next fiscal year beginning July 1.

Besides several farmers, all Extension personnel attended the meet of the advisory group.

GIRL SCOUTS IN RALLY DAY

188 Participate in Events Held Saturday; 4 Troops Win At Camp Chatterawha

One hundred eighty-eight Brownies, and Intermediates and Senior Girl Scouts attended the annual Sandy Valley Girl Scout Council rally day held at Camp Chatterawha Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The girls and 47 adults came from Prestonsburg, Paintsville, West Van Lear, David, Wheelwright and Pikeville. Highlights of the program were the displays made by troops of their activities and handicrafts made during the past year. The program was under the direction of Mrs. Russell L. Hall, of Wheelwright.

The program opened with a flag ceremony followed by activities for the different scouting levels. Brownies had a game-time under the direction of Mrs. Russell Preston, of Paintsville. Intermediates and Seniors had nature hikes under the direction of Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Sarah McQueen, of Wheelwright. Paintsville Intermediate Troop 25 and Pikeville Troop 9 tied for first place in the nature hike, with second place going to Pikeville Troop 19.

First prize in the Brownie exhibits went to Troop 15 of Prestonsburg. Wheelwright Troop 10 won second. In the Intermediate group, Wheelwright Troop 16 won first and the Wheelwright Troop 33 won second place. A "Singspiration" was held by Mrs. Chalmers Frazier of Prestonsburg, and a skit on camping was presented by some Intermediate Scouts under the direction of Mrs. B. P. Bogardus.

SUIT WOULD ENJOIN UNION Pipeline Firm Claims UDC Halts Operation, Asks $35,000 Damages

A suit to restrain members and representatives of a United Construction Workers local from interfering with work on a 12-inch pipeline project from Warco to Boldman except for peaceful picketing and to collect $35,000 damages from them was filed in circuit court Saturday by the Jackson Pipeline Construction Company, contractor on the job.

The original action, which was prepared by C. Kilmer Combs, Prestonsburg attorney, named as defendants the United Construction Workers, District 50, UCW, Clyde C. Spence, Bill Hall, Jr., Rual V. Mullins and Leo Roberts, individually and as members and representatives of the union and all its members. An amended petition filed two days later added to the list of defendants Virgil A. MAN INJURED, SHOP INVADED

Flight from Trooper Results in Smashup; Road Worker Is Hurt

Agna Jones, of Lackey, is in a Lexington hospital suffering from multiple injuries received when he fled in his auto from a pursuing State Police trooper shortly after midnight Sunday. The race began on Jones Fork near the old Stumbo Memorial hospital when the trooper sought to intercept Jones.

The fleeing man crashed his car into Gypsy's Dress Shop at Garrett, rolled back onto the highway into the pathway of the trooper's car. Jones suffered a broken arm, eye injuries and lacerations of the legs. His car was demolished.

He was removed to the Lexington hospital where he will be treated by his brother, Dr. Warren Jones, now practicing in New York City. He will recover, it was said.

Sunday's crash was the second time the Garrett dress shop has been invaded by a speeding auto.

A state police cruiser driven by Trooper James Barnett, 21, struck a 20-year-old State Highway Department employee near Pikeville Tuesday.

Edgar Osborne, of Virgie, was admitted to a Pikeville hospital, and his doctor said he suffered a broken leg, but was otherwise in good condition.

A state police spokesman said Barnett was on routine highway patrol duty, following about 20 feet behind a bus, when he came upon a construction area where Osborn was working as a flagman.

"There was so much dust that the trooper didn't see Osborn in time," the spokesman said, and the cruiser struck both the flagman and a grader. Excessive speed was not involved, he said.

Riding with Barnett were Arthur Hardy, 22, and Cadet Trooper Floyd Frazier, 23. All three are attached to Pikeville. Hardy and Frazier were admitted to the hospital, but were said to be only slightly injured.

MARTIN TELLS OF PROGRESS

State Superintendent, Banquet Speaker Here, Sounds Warning Note

Members of the Floyd County Hall of Fame and guests, about 60 in all, heard Dr. Robert R. Martin, state superintendent of public instruction in an address here last Saturday evening discuss Kentucky's advances in education, future work and those things to guard against.

The occasion was the banquet at the grade school cafeteria as a prelude to Sunday's Hall of Fame ceremony.

Dr. Martin was introduced by Chalmers H. Frazier, principal of the grade school, who acted as toastmaster at the banquet and later presided at the Hall of Fame gathering on Sunday.

"We possibly oversold the Minimum Foundation program in presenting it to the people for a vote," Dr. Martin frankly admitted, "but it has meant steps forward. This program has put a sound base under our schools, and already it has meant more teachers, more classrooms and better transportation for our children."

There, however, are certain things Kentucky must watch as the program develops, Dr. Martin said.

1. The Foundation Program is a dynamic, not a static thing. More teachers will return to school to improve their training.

David H. Hatcher, retired Floyd county attorney, died shortly after noon last Wednesday at the age of 75 at the Methodist hospital, Pikeville, following a five-month illness of diabetes.

Five Men Inducted By Draft Board Here

Five men left here Monday for induction in the armed services, according to Mrs. Lydia Porter, clerk of Local Board No. 25.

They were Paul Edward Tittman, Wayland, Menifee Hale, of Cliff, Billy Jean Reynolds, of Ligon, Floyd Hall, of Bonanza, and Willard Raymond Newman, of Hi Hat.

Absentee Ballot Count May Decide Tight Races

Three Democratic nominations to county office could be decided by the count of absentee ballots, so slim are the margins of the leaders.

Tightest race of all is that for the Magisterial nomination in District 1 where Grover C. Holbrook, incumbent, held at the end of the precinct tabulation a one-vote (776 to 775) edge over James Wesley Howard.

Tensest race of all, however, is the County Clerk's battle-to-the-wire finish between DuRan Moore, incumbent, and Banner Meade. The latter holds a lead of 95 votes on the basis of the unofficial precinct tabulation, but count of the absentee votes could reverse the situation. Meade enjoined the election commission Monday morning from tabulating the absentee returns, and not till a special judge arrives here today (Thursday) will any of the tight races be decided, if even then.

The third Democratic race which could upset a present lead is that between Hershell Warrens and Troy B. Sturgill for Sheriff. Warrens holds a 175-vote lead with the absentees yet to be tabulated.

An analysis of the voting by magisterial districts discloses that Meade in the County Clerk's race picked up his lead in Districts 3 and 4 after both he and Moore had trailed Ray Howard in Dis-

BOARD BUYS 5 NEW BUSES

Bid Prices Are Accepted On Transportation Units; Farm Group Requests Aid

The Floyd County Board of Education in its Tuesday meeting accepted the low bid of Floyd Motor Company on the chassis for each of five school buses at a total of $16,156.25. Low bid to supply Bluebird bodies was submitted by School Service Company, of Frankfort, the figure being $110,280. Four of the buses are 60-passenger and one 66-passenger.

Successful tire bids were submitted by Marvin Music, Gulf Oil products distributor, Prestonsburg, and low bid to supply grease and oil products was offered by Standard Oil Company, of Allen.

The Farm Advisory committee of the Extension Service appeared before the board to request an appropriation of $1,200 this coming fiscal year to supplement the regular Fiscal Court allotment. Robert M. Jones said this requested amount from the school system would go to defraying office expenses, assisting on the salary of one of the assistant agents. He pointed out that the adjoining school systems of Pike, Magoffin and others of this area contribute to the Extension Service budget. The Board deferred decision on the matter.

SAFETY GROUP IS ORGANIZED

Control Representative Holds Courthouse Meet To Initiate Program

A Floyd County Safety Council was organized at the courthouse here last week by Frank O. Parker, field representative of the Division of Accident Control of the state Department of Public Safety. Dr. Edward B. Leslie was named temporary chairman.

Major objectives of the organization, according to Parker, who supervises the safety program over a 30-county area in this section, is "to make every man, woman and child conscious of safety and encourage them to do something about it."

"The safety problem close to the home is the most understandable," Parker told the group. "To us it is the problem in which we are interested mostly and which we may usually do the most about."

The Division of Accident Control is currently engaged in a campaign to set up a Safety Council in every county in the state and the Floyd meeting was the culmination of exploratory work done here by Parker several weeks ago.

The Division of Accident Control is currently engaged in a campaign to set up a Safety Council in every county in the state and the Floyd meeting was the culmination of exploratory work done here by Parker several weeks ago.

The Sheriff's race Sturgill polled leads over Warrens in Districts 1 and 4, with Warrens carrying Districts 2 and 3. Mingled in between were David B. Leslie and Amos Gray with strong voting support, and both figured heavily in the decision. The vote by districts between Sturgill and Warrens: District 1—Sturgill, 930; Warrens, 789. District 2—Sturgill, 422; Warrens, 876. District 3—Sturgill, 1,075; Warrens, 1,164. District 4—Sturgill, 578; Warrens, 350.

Circuit Judge Edward P. Hill took a lead with the count of District No. 1 and was never headed, in a tight race with his opponent, Commonwealth's Attorney Burns Martin. His lead with the absentees uncounted stands at 569 votes.

The ballot count was not completed till late Saturday afternoon. In his petition for injunction to restrain the election commissioners, Sheriff Gorman Collins, Woodrow Fitzpatrick and W. B. Boyd, from counting the absentee

HEARING SET FOR PRIMARY BALLOT CASE

Special Judge Slated To Arrive Thursday; Irregularities Alleged

Floyd county's primary election in one or more races yet remains to be decided by final count of the absentee vote, and it was this balloting of absentees that saw the first court action taken as a sequel to the May 28 voting.

With a lead of 95 votes in the race for the Democratic nomination for County Clerk after the returns from the 61 precincts had been tabulated, A. B. Meade, of Prestonsburg, filed a petition for an injunction to halt the count planned for Monday morning of the absentee vote. He alleged that the runner-up on the face of the precinct returns, DuRan Moore, incumbent, had benefitted from irregularities in the absentee voting.

Not till a special judge appointed by the Court of Appeals arrives here today (Thursday) and makes a decision in the case will the final results be known.

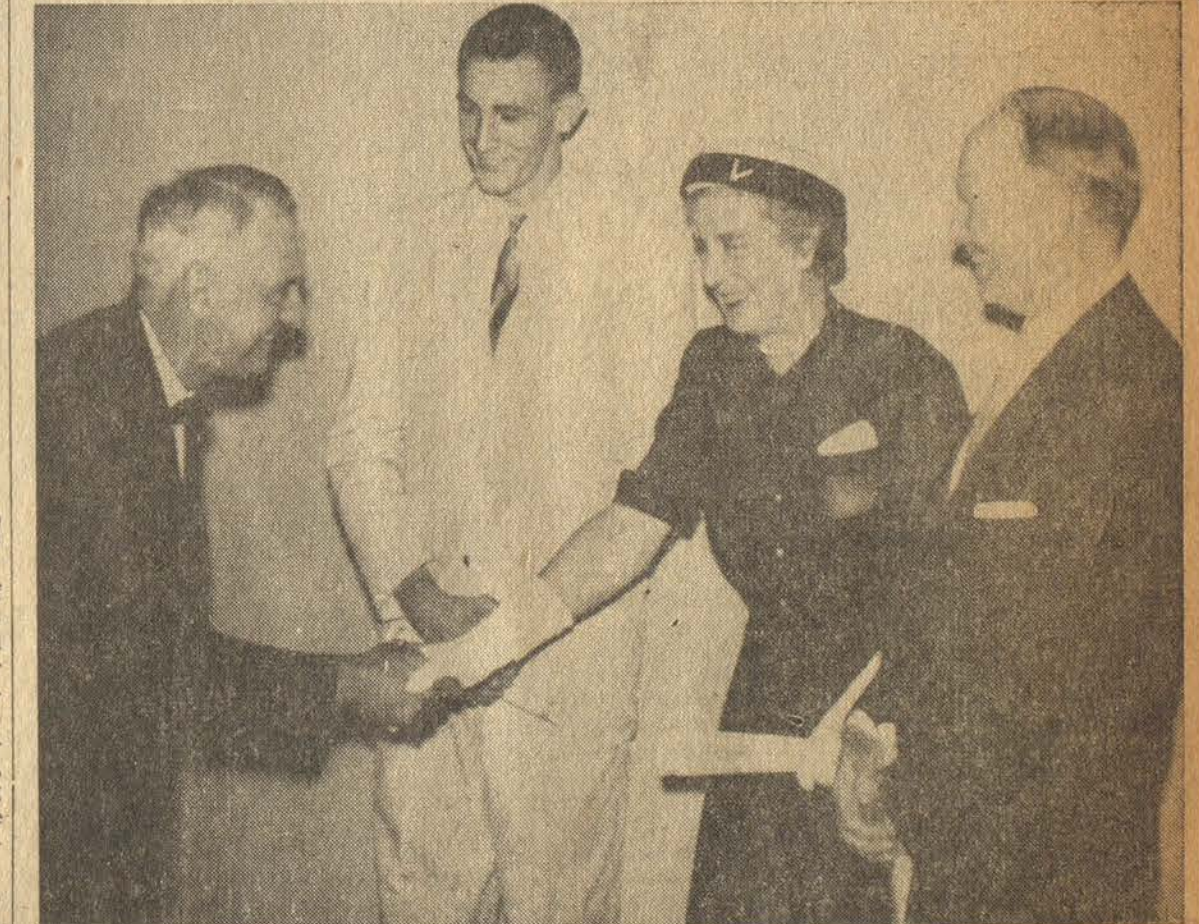

Most attorneys here hold that the questioned ballots will be counted and that a contest proceeding is Meade's only relief if he loses in that final count. A constitutional question may be raised at the hearing, it was said, with Mr. Meade's attorneys assailing the validity of the absentee voting law, since it gives a County Clerk running for re-election the status of presiding alone as an election officer in the handling of absentee ballots.

The ballot count was not completed till late Saturday afternoon.

In his petition for injunction to restrain the election commissioners, Sheriff Gorman Collins, Woodrow Fitzpatrick and W. B. Boyd, from counting the absentee Spence, who is named in the petition as chief agent in Eastern Kentucky for U.C.W., has organized a local union of the U.C.W. in this county, and the plaintiff claims that he, other defendants and members of the union have picketed its operation ever since the local was organized. The construction company contends it is working under a contract with the American Federation of Labor but that defendants claim they and they alone are entitled to represent employees of the company. This part of the petition alleges that the defendants are attempting by force and intimidation to compel the company to repudiate its contract with AFL and to coerce AFL employees to quit that union and join the local union organized by defendants.

Plaintiff says it is willing for jurisdiction rights between the two unions to be established according to law but that cannot recognize the United Construction Workers in preference to a recognized union under its contract with AFL, since to do so would prevent completion of the work and cause "great injury to it and to its regular employees."

The company alleges in its petition that defendants, together with others and with the intention of damaging and destroying plaintiff's business, have on numerous occasions brought large numbers of men to the scene of the pipeline construction. "These gangs of men," the petition continues, "congregated there became boisterous, caused disturbances, molested, threatened, coerced, intimidated and used vile language against plaintiff's officers and AFL employees. . . . As a direct result thereof, plaintiff has been unable to conduct its operations, continue its work or preserve its business for a period of ten days."

Plaintiff claims its business has been almost wholly destroyed and that it has suffered damage in the amount of not less than $3,500 a day, or a total of $95,000. Besides suing for this amount, it asks the court to enjoin defendants and all working with them from entering on the property of the plaintiff, threatening or coercing employees, and from coming about or in the vicinity of the premises where the plaintiff is working, except for a reasonable number of peaceful pickets.

ballots, Meade, himself a former County Clerk and Sheriff, alleged: 1. That in all cases where voters appeared before the County Clerk and his chief deputy to apply for absentee ballot the clerk or his deputy electioneer with the voter while the ballot was being prepared and delivered to him; that the clerk or his deputy would watch the voter vote and would examine it before it was placed in the envelope, and that voters were assisted in marking their ballots.

2. That in a great number of instances the County Clerk took ballots out into the county and had them voted by absentees, old people and those who were so infirm they were unable to be at the election, and that he superintended the voting, looking at the ballots.

3. That in many instances the County Clerk sent people to other states where absentee voters lived and electioneered with them and caused them to be sent ballots, and had someone to superintend the voting, to look at the ballots while they were being voted and then to send them by mail to the Clerk.

4. That all such ballots, except about 15, were procured to be placed therein by the unlawful, fraudulent and scheming design and electioneering of the Clerk and his deputies, and that all of these ballots, except about 15, were voted by persons who did not intend to be away from their precincts on the day of the election.

5. That County Clerk Moore in the taking of absentee votes acted as clerk of an election and took said votes openly for him without anyone being present.

It also was alleged that many ballots were mailed before proper application was made, and that the Clerk and his deputies took applications to the county for execution and the marking of ballots in their presence. Many applications and ballots were also sent to other states, Meade claimed.

The petition filed by Mr. Meade was prepared by C. P. Stephens and J. B. Clarke, Prestonsburg attorneys.

coach at Auxier high school. A son of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Wallace, of Mare Creek, the elongated, unassuming athlete is a namesake of Grady Sellards. The Wallaces at one time lived on the Buffalo Creek farm of Mr. Sellards' parents. The Hall of Fame meeting, however, was the occasion of the first meeting of Mr. Sellards and the younger Wallace.

Chalmer H. Frazier, president of the new Floyd County Historical Society, presided at the Hall of Fame ceremonies, held in the grade school auditorium. Vocal music was provided by the widely known Patsy Teen-Agers, directed by Mrs. Chalmer H. Frazier, and the invocation and benediction were said by the Rev. J. Baldwin Stiltz, pastor of the Community Methodist Church, Prestonsburg.

The speaker for the occasion was Dr. Thomas D. Clark, of the University of Kentucky faculty and well-known historian and author. Dr. Clark gave his unqualified approval of the idea of a Hall of Fame to honor those who have brought honor to their county.

"I think it is a very fine thing for a community to stop and take stock of its human resources," he said at the outset of a thoughtful and scholarly address. "Human beings are important. I think the American people need to stop often and give some thought to the value of the individual."

By way of emphasis he referred to those countries where the individuals who have meant much to Kentucky—Boone, Kenton, others.

Of all the Kentuckians who stand out in his esteem, the speaker declared, the two who stand at the top are Henry Clay and Dr. Ephraim McDowell. A close third, he added, would be Thomas Hunt Morgan, the scientist-nephew of John Hunt Morgan, famed Confederate raider.

"I think Kentucky has produced more brilliant sons than Clay," Dr. Clark said, quoting from a letter written by Clay in which Clay pointed out that he did not have an original or deeply perceptive mind. "But," the speaker added, "The rewards of his service and the place he gained in history are perhaps greater and far more important than those gained by many who have gone to the White House."

Speaking of Dr. McDowell, the pioneer physician who performed the first ovariectomy, he added, "If I were to choose the one human act in Kentucky history that deserves credit above all others, I would choose that quiet act of Ephraim McDowell's."

This is a changing world, and changes must come, even if they are "fearsome and awesome things," the speaker said. Of the A-bomb, he said, "Why go to the trouble of saving civilization if what you save is a maimed, crippled, sterile population? Still, I am not a pessimist. I believe changes will be made, and for the better . . . I hope this is not just wishful thinking," he remarked as an afterthought.

Industry is coming to Kentucky and it must come, to stop the outward flow of human resources. Dr. Clark said, "I don't know if industry will make the people any happier, but it is necessary. The democratic system means that the individual is important and that the individual stands out. Kentucky faces this problem with its youth and its communities."

He added that each community needs to improve its educational and cultural facilities, and that its teachers must be retained at all costs. Where such facilities are lacking industry will not locate, he pointed out.

The Rev. Jean S. Milner, for the past 36 years pastor of Second Presbyterian Church, Indianapolis—a pulpit once occupied by Henry Ward Beecher—surveyed his long ministry at last week's commencement exercises held at Fourth Ave. Presbyterian Church, Louisville.

From "just an average ministry, serving average churches," he told the 39 graduates of several things "I have learned."
"I have learned that the Christian ministry is far happier, far fuller than I could possibly have anticipated. . . . If I were 23 tonight—instead of 63—without a moment's hesitation I would choose again this work to which you have dedicated your life."

He said he had learned, too, to "respect more deeply some of the salient features of the ancient orthodoxy of our faith."

When he was in seminary, doctrines such as the innate depravity of man, the utter helplessness of man, and his need for the grace of God, Mr. Milner said, "seemed a bit farfetched, overdrawn, and unrealistic. But two world wars and their aftermath taught me to see man's real dilemma."

necessary men and vehicles to curtail violation of speed limits, and to prohibit excessive speeding and reckless driving through our streets, inasmuch as we believe our school children are endangered when going to and from school. We propose crosswalks to be placed at certain designated spots and that they be observed. It is our firm opinion that all of these things can and must be done to make our town a better place in which to live."

Councilman C. W. May said the blame for the situation here—one which is marked by broken speed limits and reckless driving—lies with the Council, inasmuch as the law has not been enforced. During the discussion the Council was told that the police car was seen at the Drive-In Theater here last Sunday night.

Other business of the meeting included employment of Joe Jack Harris for $60 a month to work four hours a day in conducting the Little League baseball program here and an agreement to pay $50 a month to work on the garbage truck.

the road and back alley turned up first on our premises more than a year ago. At the time he was down to the whisper of a purr, his coat was the worse for lack of hair, and one eye was missing. But the youngsters saw he had possibilities though they haven't yet listed or even hinted at what they may be—and laid out for him about the best we had.

The nomad gorged himself regularly and, relaxing luxuriously, gave all indications that at last he had found a place whereat he calculated to settle down and spend his declining years. But, after two or three months of sedate living, the cat disappeared overnight. His disappearance threw certain neighborhood dogs into disrepute with the youngsters, but there was no proof of foul play, and so at length a circulating cocker spaniel, a canary, a rabbit that almost brought the health department down on us and finally a turtle took the place of the cat, in that order.

Then the other day there emerged from the woods back of the house this same one-eyed tom-cat, again in a sad state of disrepair. It took a bit of coaxing, but he finally condescended to come in and lap up a saucer of milk, even if he did appear to have lost the eating habit.

But this time our wandering minstrel of the caterwaul didn't even stay an hour. Having licked the platter clean, he disappeared.

Why he left in the first place, or came back in the next, I do not know. It may be that he left after this last call because we refused him the best bed in the house.

TALE WITH A MORAL

The story is told of the African king who learned that a neighboring tribe had designs on his golden throne and was heading in his direction. So he had his subjects tote the heavy throne up into the loft of his grass hut and there hide it with the necklace of human teeth and other valuables he had accumulated. This really is a story of tragedy, for that night while his majesty slept the floor of the loft gave way and the throne plunked down squarely onto the royal head, resulting in the coroner giving with the verdict that he died in his sleep.

The moral of this story, if any, we are told, is, People who live in grass houses shouldn't stow thrones.

Greatness Is Never Achieved Suddenly!

It has long been true, in the affairs of men, that only time can confirm the gift of greatness.

Artist, statesman, writer, craftsman—each must await the years for the maturity of his talent and for the verdict of his judges.

And as it is in the affairs of men, so it is in the world of commerce. Nothing great was ever created suddenly—whether the product be that of an individual or of an organization.

Here, most certainly, is the very genesis of the unique position which Cadillac currently occupies in the hearts and minds of the world's motorists.

Since the first Cadillac car made its appearance more than fifty-five years ago, it has always been created to a single objective: to make it as fine a motor car as it is possible to produce.

And, without question, the mission and the accomplishment have been one and the same.

The goodness of Cadillac has, in fact, been so apparent over that lengthy span that the Cadillac name stands today as an accepted synonym for quality wherever highways exist.

The pretenders have come—and they have gone. For time is an exacting taskmaster—and only the principles that have created the great Cadillac car and only the devotion that has given it being have been equal to the challenge.

Never has this fact been more deeply etched in the public consciousness than it is during the present automotive year.

If you have yet to take the wheel of a 1957 Cadillac, you should hesitate no longer to visit your authorized Cadillac dealer.

Waiting for you in his showroom is proof beyond doubt that Cadillac is—in fact as in reputation—the Standard of the World!

Kentucky Asks Vejar Suspension

Louisville, Ky. — The state boxing commission has asked the National Boxing Assn. to suspend Chico Vejar and his manager until they fulfill an engagement here.

The action was prompted by a complaint from Promoter Bill King, who had scheduled a match here between Vejar and Sherman Williams, local heavyweight, June 10.

Prestonsburg Student Awarded Education Loan From Scholarship Fund

Adrian N. Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Collins, of Prestonsburg, is one of 17 young Kentuckians for whom the Rural Medical Scholarship Fund has approved loans for their first year of medical education under the plan.

Under the requirements of the fund, students granted loans of $900 a year must promise to practice after graduation in rural Kentucky.

Those who practice in any of 10 "critical" counties will not have to repay their loans and may obtain free tuition from the state if they attend the University of Louisville medical school.

The "critical" counties — or those which head the list of those with a shortage of doctors — include Jackson, Powell, Martin, Knott, Magoffin, Elliott, Knox, Cumberland, Leslie and Breathitt.

Cincinnati Bowler Hits '300' Jackpot

Bob Burns, 31-year-old Cincinnati bowler, produced the city's fourth sanctioned perfect game of the season there Friday evening, May 16, while bowling with Midwest Textile in the Credit Men's League at Mergard's Twentieth Century Lanes. This record he credits to his wife, the former Anna Lou Rorer, of Prestonsburg. She had taken the family car and with it his bowling equipment.

Burns picked up an alley ball with little hope of success and began racking up strikes. For the record he made the first 300 score in the 20-year history of the Walnut Hills establishment.

Rolling with a strange ball and wearing a pair of rental bowling shoes. Burns tossed 12 beautiful strikes in his opening game to pick up something like $800 in cash and numerous other awards from the American Bowling Association, the Cincinnati Bowling Association and the Greater Cincinnati Bowling Proprietors' Association.

Burns who had games of 155 and 172 after the 300 opener, said: "I can thank my wife for the perfect game. She used the car last night and I neglected to remove my bowling equipment from the trunk before she drove away. I didn't feel like bowling after that happened. I had little hope of shooting a 200 game without my own ball and shoes. I just picked up an alley ball and threw. After I racked up seven straight strikes, I figured I had a good chance to go all the way. I kept hitting my spot on alleys 13-14 and the pins continued to fall. My last four strikes were solid 1-3 pocket hits. I'm not complaining a bit. My wife wanted the car and I rolled a perfect game, so we're both satisfied."

Gardeners should be concerned now with three phases of production—mulching, side-dressing with fertilizer, and succession planting—says Clyde Singletary, University of Kentucky Experiment Station horticulturist.

Mulching conserves moisture and aids in weed control, stimulates growth by making fertilizer more quickly available, keeps the soil at a more even temperature and keeps such fruits as strawberries and tomatoes off the ground. Mulching materials include black plastic, straw, sawdust, leaves and water-proof paper.

In side-dressing, nitrogen is the most important element. Use ammonium nitrate or nitrate of soda. All the vegetable plant needs should not be applied at planting time as they will give too much nitrogen at one time. Split the nitrogen requirements between planting and side-dressing time.

Tomatoes, beans, sweet corn, potatoes and other garden crops should get side-dressing in early June, generally. Use about 150 lbs. of ammonium nitrate per acre; this is equivalent to about 3 cups for each 100 row feet. Double the amount is using nitrate of soda.

Succession planting involves having a regular supply of vegetables without a surplus at any one time, Singletary says. Plant at regular intervals to do this.

PRESTONSBURG TOLL BRIDGE

The Prestonsburg toll bridge was erected in 1907 by a stock company chiefly initiated by the brothers, A. J. and W. H. May, Prestonsburg attorneys. Other stockholders were R. E. Stanley and J. M. (Bartee) Weddington, one time officers of the First National Bank and two Pikeville businessmen, Fon and Lon Rodgers. Andy Stephens served as chief toll collector for years.

The bridge connected Prestonsburg and the railway station on the west side of the river and served the public until the bridge across Big Sandy at the mouth of Middle Creek was built. It was torn down in the mid-thirties.

Shown in the picture, with foot on block and near the old First National Bank now the Municipal building, is Beverly C. May who served Floyd as County Judge.

The First National Bank, organized in 1904, was three years old when the Prestonsburg toll bridge was erected.

D. BOONE FIRST SAW KENTUCKY LEVELS

By Charles F. Hinds
Secretary-Treasurer Kentucky Historical Society

Frankfort, June 5 — June 7 is Boone Day at the State capital. On that day, members and guests of the Kentucky Historical Society will gather in the Old State House to commemorate the month and day that Daniel Boone first spied "the beautiful levels of Kentucky" from the heights of Pilot Knob in Powell County.

As early as 1750 Christopher Gist, John Findley, and others were descending the Ohio River to Kentucky and were becoming acquainted with the central region of that state. Simultaneously, Thomas Walker, surveyors, and hunters were exploring eastern Kentucky by way of Cumberland Gap. Those who had come through the gap were less impressed with possibilities of settlement than they were with the wild game in the forested hills and mountains. Walker, representing the Loyal Land Company, had returned home depressed because he had found little land suitable for speculation.

Boone, living in North Carolina, had heard the Walker story, but he had the advantage of being acquainted with John Findley, Christopher and Nathaniel Gist, and perhaps others who had gone to Kentucky by the river route. He was determined to visit central Kentucky where games were more plentiful and settlement more desirable.

Corn Nitrogen Needs Listed by Specialist

Nitrogen needs of corn vary according to soil in which the crop is grown and on fertilization practices, says George Corder, University of Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service specialist.

If corn follows a legume crop which has been plowed down, 30 to 50 pounds of actual nitrogen (100 to 150 pounds of ammonium nitrate or its equivalent) should be applied for yields of 70 bushels or higher. If the crop does not follow a legume, 60 to 100 pounds of actual nitrogen should be applied for such yields.

If the soil is silt or clay loam, all the nitrogen can be applied at planting time with as good results as smaller applications at planting and in side-dressing operations later.

If the soil is sandy, it will pay to apply the smaller amount (30 lbs. of nitrogen) at seeding and the remainder in side-dressing. Corder says. All the nitrogen can be side-dressed if the corn follows a legume, plowed under.

If the recommended amount of nitrogen was not applied at planting time on silt or clay-loam soils, it should be side-dressed. Corder says.

TIMES WANT ADS PAY— TRY THEM TODAY!

In 1767 Boone with a companion or two reached the present site of Prestonsburg before a snow storm and seemingly interminable hills forced the hunters to turn back.

One day in 1967, however, John Findley turned up at Boone's cabin in the Yadkin Valley with a pedler's pack of wares and a never ending supply of yarns about the level country which he had revisited as recently as 1767.

By the first of May, Findley, Boone, and four others left for a hunting and exploring trip into Kentucky. Early in June, the party went into a camp near the boundary between the knobs and the Bluegrass. On June 7 Findley fulfilled a promise to Boone and pointed out the summit of Pilot Knob from where the latter could first glimpse the land of paradise. Boone climbed the hill alone; and thus was central Kentucky dramatized for settlement by way of Cumberland Gap.

"We Were Amazed"

Says CAR LIFE,
The Family Auto Magazine

We were amazed as we drove the Special four-door hardtop, to find that an automobile could be completely changed yet retain so much of its former appearance and character. The 1957 models have all the familiar, solid Buick virtues.

THE ABOVE brief clipping tells you worlds about the '57 Buick.

It tells you we went all out to make this car completely new—yet we didn't sacrifice a single Buick virtue.

So you still get that unmistakable Buick styling.

You still get that big-car room and comfort and that solid Buick quality.

But you also get so complete a change in the vitals of this car that the driving of it is a wondrous new experience.

You get a brilliant brand of performance that's different from anything else that goes on four wheels.

Words won't describe it. Telling you there's an all-new engine, an instant new Dynaflo,* a completely new power train—none of that will convey this news to you.

What you have to do is get in this car and drive it. Drive it around the block, through town, out on the highway. Actually feel what happens when you press the gas pedal, turn the steering wheel, touch those powerful new brakes.

Then—and not till then—will you know why folks call this "the dream car to drive."

The best advice we can give you, by far, is this: Ask your dealer for a trial run today.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special. Safety-Buzzer is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

College Board Approves New Building Proposals; Fall Construction, Hope

Pikeville, Ky., June 3 (Sp.)—Pikeville College's Board of Trustees has approved preliminary plans for the college's proposed chapel-science building, it was announced today.

Norman Chrisman, Jr., of the firm of John T. Gillis and Associates, Lexington, is to proceed with work on the chapel section of the building. He was instructed to complete construction drawings and specifications in the hope that construction may begin this fall, is possible, Dr. A. A. Page, college president, said.

The proposed chapel, one story high at the front and five at the rear, is to stand on a steep hillside facing the college's principal buildings across Sycamore Street in Pikeville. The building, covering 9800 square feet of ground will have 31,600 square feet of usable floor space. Estimated cost is $375,000.

With a stage 24 x 54 feet, the entire chapel will occupy three stories of the building. It will seat 800, including 240 in the street-level balcony and 500 on the main floor below.

Beneath the chapel is to be a lecture-recital hall, seating 105, with a stage 19 x 26 feet. It will be surrounded by small studios and music-practice rooms. The lowest floor of the building will provide an entrance foyer, storage rooms, and a landing for a proposed elevator to carry freight to the level of the chapel stage.

The 1957 Michigan State Relays attracted more than 300 athletes from 19 colleges and universities.

Denver golfers paid $118,060.23 in green fees to local courses during the last three years.

Storage life of fruits and vegetables can be prolonged by use of newly developed atomic radiation methods.

CAPITOL NOTEBOOK

Frankfort, June 5 — A Boy Scouts of America troupe recently was installed at Central State hospital near Louisville.

The troupe is the first Boy Scout group in the mental hospital's history.

Conversation between two Kentucky authors:

A Warning

Dr. Walter Fox, acting superintendent of Central State hospital, has pointed out that one third of the patients now admitted to the institution are over 65 and 28 percent of the hospital population are above that age. Yet, in Kentucky as a whole, only eight percent are that old, he added.

Dr. Fox says 65 per cent of the old people in the mental hospitals do not need to remain there after initial treatment and suggests they might be sent to nursing homes.

Dr. Russell E. Teague, state health commissioner, has sounded a warning to operators of nursing homes that do not meet standards.

"During the nearly five years these standards have been in effect many nursing homes have made full compliance," Dr. Teague says. But he added that an indefinite number have made no effort to meet minimum standards.

He said the State intends to clamp down on such homes.

MOBILE LAB.

The state Agriculture Department's livestock sanitation division has a mobile bang's testing laboratory. It is housed in a trailer pulled by a pickup truck. The unit now is in Adair county assisting in that county's effort to become one of the first "certified modified brucellosis free" areas. The lab is staffed by Dr. Paul Woodall and Paul Haney. It will operate in a community several weeks at a time and is equipped to extract blood from an animal and run tests on the sample.

Grant Beaver Decorates War Graves 57th Year

Pt. Pleasant, W. Va. — Grant Beaver, 90, never a soldier himself, Thursday placed flags on the graves of all the war dead at nearby Leon Cemetery, a task he has been performing every Memorial day since 1901.

He carefully put the flags on 36 graves, including that of his nephew, Carlross Crookhan, the only Korean conflict casualty buried there.

Then he decorated with flowers the graves of his wife and son.

There were six soldiers buried at the little cemetery overlooking the Kanawha River in 1901. Now the 36 graves hold the victims of five wars.

Aged Cynthia Woman Observes 104th Birthday

CYNTHIANA, KY.—Mrs. Eliza Ann Rogers, a patient at Collins Nursing Home, quietly celebrated her 104th birthday last Thursday. Mrs. Rogers is the oldest native of Harrison county as well as the oldest member of the Cynthia Christian Church. She has been in declining health for the past two months, but is still a most remarkable woman.

At 97, Mrs. Rogers lived in an upstairs apartment and shopped and cooked for herself, but moved the next year when her son, Orrie Rogers, told her that it was too too hard on him to climb the stairs to visit with her.

Mrs. Rogers has lived at the nursing home for the past three years.

Her son is now past 85. She also has one daughter, Mrs. Elzie Whitaker, of Harrison county; 7 grandchildren, 17 great-grandchildren and 17 great-great-grandchildren; 3 half-brothers and 2 half-sisters.

Mrs. Rogers has been a widow for over 40 years.

The two age groups that have the poorest diets are adolescents and adults more than 50 years old, says the USDA.

MAY BOOK COMMENDED BY DIGEST CONSULTANT

Among the many educators or writers commending the book, A Teacher Views the School Crisis, by Wilma G. May, former Floyd Teacher, is Frances V. Rummell, education consultant of the Reader's Digest.

"I savored every word of A Teacher Views the School Crisis, with admiration," the Digest writer and advisor writes. "I hope its message is as widely read as it deserves to be. The world needs many more with the heart and spirit of the author."

Mrs. Rummell, an author of national note on educational subjects, has been writing on educational subjects for years, and is currently engaged in a book disclosing the weaknesses of the modern school program.

One favorable comment, out of the many by prominent newspapers, is that of the Los Angeles (Cal.) Times:

"Many years of teaching lie back of this writer's observations on standards, grading, disciplining, methods and parental responsibility. Members of the P.T.A. as well as teachers will find here a general discussion of problems faced throughout the nation."

Typical comments from writers in the religious field or from church institutions is that of Sihal Brame Townsend, of the New Orleans (La.) Baptist Theological Seminary:

"I agree with the author 100 percent and was especially glad to see the emphasis of the closing chapter."

Other endorsements of A Teacher Views the School Crisis, picked at random from favorable critics over the country, follow:

"Whether you are a member of the 'Old Guard,' or an ardent disciple of John Dewey, who started the whole principle of progressive education, read Mrs. May's book, A Teacher Views the School Crisis. It will give you something to think about—and talk about—for a long time to come."—Mabel Donovan, State Times, Jackson, Mississippi.

"Where are books in the modern home? Is another lament of Mrs. May. It has been the fashion in late years to dispense with bookshelves. If books are not made available and children encouraged and guided in reading, all the blame cannot be placed at the school doorstep. There must be support between parents and their children!"

Mrs. May is firm in her view that so-called "modern" educational methods have been, for the most part, a failure. Responsibility for young people today who are unable to read with facility or compute figures with accuracy must be placed squarely on the streamlined (and slipshod) educational system. What has stirred Mrs. May to write this book also provoked Rudolph Flesch, for another, to author his revealing, Why Johnny Can't Read.

Mrs. May is not one to hurl anathemas and scribble diatribes without offering some very workable solutions, found in her last chapter. —(The General Federation Clubwoman, Washington, by Mary McGinn Taylor).

"The book is well written, so interesting that even a layman like me wanted to keep on keeping on till the last line was reached. Its statements are so convincing, backed up by such positive proof that I don't see how anyone could put up a successful contradiction. The book is a most valuable contribution and I predict it will be one of the best sellers. My niece read it and said, 'I enjoyed it, and Mrs. May is right in every one of her statements. I agree with her in every statement, and I have three boys in school.'—Dr. E. E. Lee, retired BTU field secretary, Southern Baptist Convention, Covington, Georgia.

TROUT SAYS CHANGES ARE NEEDED IN ABSENTEE VOTING LEGISLATION

By ALLAN M. TROUT
(In The Courier-Journal)

Frankfort, Ky., June 1 — The time is probably right and experience certainly suggests that the 1958 Legislature ought to re-examine the absentee-voting law in the light of loose practices that are of legal record.

There is too much here for there not to be some fire.

On May 21, a Muhlenberg County grand jury ended an investigation of absentee balloting for the primary a week later. The grand jury reported it found no irregularities. Yet local reports to the contrary had reached such volume that Circuit Judge Arthur T. Her assigned the inquiry to his panel in special instructions.

The unrest in Muhlenberg county stemmed from the fact that 144 more had cast absentee ballots than did in the presidential election last year.

There is now pending in the Court of Appeals a 1956 School Board contest from Letcher county. The issue here is whether or not corruption in absentee voting warrants complete disregard of all the absentee ballots cast.

A similar case came to the high court from Green county, after the county election of 1953. With the absentee ballots counted, Willie Warren, Republican, won the race for sheriff by 137 votes. Paul Rayburn, the Democrat, contested. Both courts threw out all the absentee ballots, giving Rayburn the election by 28 votes.

The County Clerk, by law, administers absentee voting. There already is enough legal literature in the Letcher and Green cases to suggest:

1. The 1946 law was drawn with bonafide absentee voting in mind; that is, members of the armed forces, Kentuckians away from home for extended periods, and the like. The law did not foresee that substantial numbers would vote in the County Clerk's office under the flimsy pretext of being away from home on election day.

2. The law is workable only if we assume County Clerks to be selfless servants of the public, well grounded in the law and unyielding sticklers for nonpartisan adherence to it.

3. Even if the County Clerk operates within both the spirit and letter of the law, he enjoys a marked advantage, not only for his political friends, but in his own races for re-election.

4. But when the clerk leaves the law, and operates entirely by ear, the potential for corruption becomes great enough to endanger freedom of the election and, indeed, may disenfranchise a majority of the valid voters in some races.

It is general knowledge in political circles throughout Kentucky that the general practice is for self-proclaimed absentee voters to cast their ballots in the clerk's office. The clerk, being in control of the apparatus, is in position to influence it for himself, if he is running for re-election, or if not, for others he wants to elect.

Moreover, the clerk is in better position than other county officials when it comes to soliciting absentee votes. While his opponents are out on a door-to-door canvass, the clerk can merely watch the stream of the public in front of him, speak to those he thinks might be away on election day, and gather their actual votes into his fold long before the election.

The specific examples that follow are taken from court records in the contests in Letcher and Green counties. Neither of the County Clerks, however, was a party to the litigation, nor was either of them under charges or indictment.

According to the count in Letcher county, including absentee ballots, Wallace Kincer defeated Alvin Holbrook for the School Board by 800 to 792 votes.

Holbrook contested on the ground that County Clerk Charlie Wright's handling of absentee ballots was so irregular that all these ballots ought to be thrown out.

Special Judge Ray O. Shehan, Harlan, sitting in Letcher Circuit Court, upheld Holbrook's position on February 20. This gave the election to Holbrook by 800 to 792.

Kincer appealed to the Court of Appeals, where the case now rests. The following extracts are from testimony to be found in the record of the case sent to Frankfort.

The County Clerk was for Kincer. Of the 52 absentee ballots in that race, Kincer got 34, Holbrook 18.

The absentee ballot box, contrary to law, was prepared, out of the presence of three County election commissioners. The clerk testified Harry L. Moore, the Republican commissioner, was present, but Moore denied it.

The clerk, contrary to law, had all three keys to this box until four days before the election.

The box, contrary to law, rested in a room to which the public had access. Part of a political advertisement and two ballots without outer envelopes were found in it when the box was opened for the count.

At least 60 of the outer envelopes were unsealed, contrary to law.

The County clerk's political record in absentee voting of past elections were reviewed in the brief filed before the Court of Appeals by Holbrook's attorneys, Bert T. Combs, Prestonsburg, and Harry M. Caudill, Whitesburg. The review follows:

"The results of previous elections give rise to the reasonable inference that something is amiss in Letcher county insofar as absentee voting is concerned.

"In 1953, Charlie Wright ran as the incumbent clerk against Carl Napier in the Democratic primary. Wright received 72 votes, Napier none.

"In the general election that year, Charlie Wright supported Carl D. Perkins for Congress. Mr. Perkins received 16 votes and his opponent received none.

"In the general election of 1954, Charlie Wright supported Daniel W. Johnson for member of the Board of Education. Mr. Johnson received 30 votes and his opponent received 4.

"In the primary of 1955, Charlie Wright supported Bert T. Combs for Governor. Mr. Combs received 149 absentee votes and his opponent, Chandler, received 13.

"In the primary of 1956, Charlie Wright again supported Carl D. Perkins for Congress. Mr. Perkins received 19 votes while his opponent, Ervin Pruitt, received 3 and George Glenn Hatcher received none.

The results of these elections are so absurdly lopsided as to shock the conscience and give rise to a suspicion that they could not have happened without some kind of bad faith and misconduct." Combs and Caudill continued, in their brief, with these general charges against the absentee-voting law:

"It is common practice in many counties for a person with the 'know how' to obtain for the candidate of his choice 100 or more absentee votes from persons who have migrated to Ohio, Michigan, or Tennessee.

"Moreover, it would be perfectly possible under the present law for half a county to vote by absentee ballot if the people so desired. Any one could, with complete safety, make an affidavit that he expected to be absent from the county election day.

"Many of the smart boys have already discovered that the safest and surest way to get a floater is to vote him by absentee ballot. We predict that if this law is allowed to stand, the time-honored practice of taking care of floaters on election day will become a lost art . . .

The absentee-voting law as written by the General Assembly is full of ambiguities. It has loopholes big enough for a full-grown steer to jump through.

"It is difficult enough when administered in strict keeping with the language of the statute. It becomes an impossible piece of legislation if election commissioners and County clerks are allowed to annex various unwritten amendments to it through custom and practice."

Virtually the same theme of shocked indignation runs through legal literature of the Green county, contest, as written by Green Circuit Court and Commissioner Robert K. Cullen and Judge W. H. Spragens of the Court of Appeals.

Carl Wade, the Republican County clerk, was running for reelection in 1953. His Democratic opponent got two-fifths of the votes cast at the November polling places, but got fewer than one hundredth of the absentee ballots. Rayburn, the Democratic candidate for Sheriff carried election day polling by 137 votes. But he received fewer than one tenth of the absentee ballots—16 to 181—thereby giving the election to Warren by 137 votes.

The testimony showed that the County clerk kept his absentee ballots in a pasteboard candy box, instead of in a locked ballot box. It showed further:

All but 17 of the absentee ballots were voted in the clerk's office. The clerk mailed ballots to three voters on the request of candidate Warren and Boyce Milby.

When the absentee voters wrote for an application for ballots, the clerk sent them ballots along with the blank application forms.

The clerk did not provide outer envelopes for absentee ballots; nor did he note the day and hour he received the voted ballots, except in three or four cases.

On at least one occasion, the clerk examined all the ballots in his pasteboard box.

The clerk did not provide outer envelopes for absentee ballots. Judge Spragen wrote, and Commissioner Cullen concurred: "If the election of contestee (Warren) is upheld, it would be an invitation to every County Clerk in the state to adopt his own method of procedure in the conduct of absentee voting, and would open wide the door to fraudulent practices."

It was in another passage of his opinion, however, that Judge Spragens laid his finger on the apple in the law that first started to rot.

He made the point that a candidate for public office cannot, under the law, serve as a precinct officer on election day. Nor, he said, does any one of the four precinct officers have exclusive control of the election-day apparatus in his precinct.

But the County Clerk who is a candidate for re-election, Judge Spragens went on, serves as the equivalent of a precinct officer in his own election. Moreover, he is not flanked by three others with equal authority. He is in exclusive control of the apparatus for absentee voting, not only in his own precinct, but in every precinct of the county.

In many counties, the volume of absentee voting has reached, or exceeded, the normal turnout of one full precinct. It is small wonder, then, that more and more close races are not decided until the absentee ballots are counted.

SCHOOL BILL WOULD ALLOT STATE $7,726,000 PER YEAR

House Group Announces Tentative Figures Under $1,500,000,000 U.S.-Aid Proposal

Kentucky would receive $7,726,000 a year in tentative allotments under a proposed school-construction bill that would provide a five-year, $1,500,000,000 program of federal aid.

The figure was announced by the House Education Committee in a list of tentative allotments for each state.

Half the $300,000,000 a year authorized by the committee's bill would be allotted on the basis of school-age population (ages 5 to 17 inclusive).

The remaining half would be allotted on the basis of relative average State income for each child of school-age and school-age population.

Kentucky's annual total would include $3,119,400 on the basis school-age-population basis and $4,607,000 on the income basis.

The share of each state may be modified if the state falls below the national average both in the proportion of its income spent for public education and the amount spent for each public-school child. The total amount of such reductions would then be divided up proportionately among the other states.

The Kentucky figures do not reflect any changes that may be made on the basis of the modification provisions.

The Education Committee figures came in a formal report on the bill. The report was sent to the House Rules committee, which will consider whether to clear the measure for action by the House. In view of the economy drive, there was strong doubt such a program would be approved this year.

Oil Producers Seek 4-Cent Price Raise

Washington, June 4 — The Independent Petroleum Association of America Friday called for a 4-cents-a-barrel increase in crude oil prices in the wake of a 6 per cent wage raise being granted generally in the oil industry.

The present average wholesale price in the United States is $3.17. The association represents 12,000 domestic oil and natural gas producers.

It spearheaded a successful drive for increased crude oil prices last year after oil workers won a 17-cent-an-hour raise.

Take a REAL Look at WHAT FOREST FIRES COST YOU!

1. TIMBER? Of course, this is a major loss. And last year alone almost 10 million acres were burned—an area larger than the states of Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island combined—comprising enough board feet of lumber to build 50,000 five-room homes!

3. DOLLARS? It costs money to fight fires—especially those in remote areas. Last year the nation had to spend 70 million dollars to fight forest fires—9 out of 10 of which were preventable.

5. THE CAUSE? 9 out of 10 forest fires—and last year we had an average of nearly 300 per day—are started by well-meaning but careless people who just plain didn't think. So please—any time you're out of doors, be extra careful with matches, smokes—any fire. Use your ash tray when driving. Drown your fire when camping. Make sure every spark is out—dead out!

2. WATER? Yes, surprising as it may seem, forest fires destroy water! Tree leaves and natural humus of the forest act as sponges, soaking up water and releasing it gradually. In burned areas, most of the water is lost in flood runoff—endangering property and lives.

4. RECREATION? Forest fires blacken our landscapes, clog and pollute good fishing streams, kill off wildlife and ruin beautiful vacation spots.

Remember—Only you can

"BRAHMS AT FIDELITY"

A few springs ago, when I spoke at the commencement at Fidelity High School, I was agreeably surprised to hear excellent renditions of Brahms and Handel, right at my own little corner of the world. I was told that the numbers I heard had rated high in local, regional, and state contests. All the time the music was going on, I was sitting on the stage, awaiting my part of the program and rejoicing that my own little village could hold up its head with the centers of population and could do this music as well as the best. That may seem strange to you; why shouldn't Fidelity do classic music if it wanted to? You are right, of course, but you forget how far Brahms and Handel and the rest were from the Fidelity I knew. We could have enjoyed any of them if they had been brought to us; they just weren't, and we had to put up with whatever we could get. We forget sometimes how hungry we might have been for the very things that so satisfy us in classic music; since we had never heard such, we did not exactly know the nature of our hunger, but the hunger itself was there.

I am just back from another commencement round in the same general area and am congratulating myself on having heard some more excellent music sung by country children rendered so well that I believe that even a music critic would have applauded. As I so often tell my students, particularly the ones who imagine that they are too dumb to enjoy the best music, these country children to the end of their days will remember how they dressed up in their formals and sang real music, music that took the top rating of sophisticated critics from great colleges and great musical organizations. No amount of mere cheapness will ever quite displace this great experience.

Now we had music at Fidelity, some of it pretty good. Our voices were pretty harsh, but our spirits were willing. We did not sing pianissimo; when we sang, we literally raised the roof. Some of us stayed on the time, but everybody was expected to raise his voice in song. Out of the miscellaneous music education that we were getting, pretty badly scrambled education, some genuine values ultimately became evident. Those old church hymns, however poorly rendered, sank their message into our hearts, in stately, dignified tunes. Ballads, transmitted orally from the Old Country, made their mark, too. They tied us, unconsciously, with days long gone, with knights and ladies fair, with "old, unhappy, far-off things and battles long ago." Nobody seemed to know that there was any special worth in ballads themselves; we just liked them and listened for the hundredth time of the same ones, year after year, as much impressed with "hard-hearted Barbary Allen" on the hundredth singing of the song as on the first. And there drifted into our corner of the universe popular songs, usually some time after they had

Control Measures Listed For Strawberry Leaf-Roll

The strawberry leaf-roller insect has appeared in some Kentucky strawberry patches and control measures should be taken in the near future, says J. G. Rodriguez, UK Experiment Station entomologist.

The leaf-roller is most abundant in new patches and in patches where insecticides have not been used for control of other pests, he says.

Hit the leaf-roller after harvesting is completed, but before renovation of the patches, Rodriguez says. Use the material TDE, using two pounds of the 50-percent wettable powder in 100 gallons of water per acre.

FARM NOTES
By ROBERT M. JONES

STRAWBERRIES
The local market for strawberries this year has again been above expectations. Most all berries sold locally have been of high quality. Growers have learned that a top quality product is easy to sell at a fair price. The housewife of Floyd county is demanding a high quality product and is willing to pay more for it.

Due to the small number of strawberries being shipped from Floyd and Pike counties, the East Kentucky Strawberry Association has stopped running a "pick up" truck. This doesn't mean that growers can't ship their berries, but they will have to deliver them to Paintsville.

Except for a few days during the rain, when berries were of low quality and market demand was light, berry prices have held up well. Most berries are now being sold direct to buyers, bypassing the broker.

Outlook for next year is improving. Some of the other states have very poor quality berries this year and are plowing some under. This, on top of smaller average set the last two years, should make a strong market next year.

With this situation, every grower should continue to take care of his patch after harvest and try and get as much production as possible next year.

The Floyd County Sheep Association handled the order of a carload of white face yearling ewes from Texas. The car was delivered last mid-week. Those who saw these ewes thought they were the best that has been delivered.

The car load was divided among farmers from Rowan, Carter, Johnson, Magoffin and Floyd counties. G. S. Martin and John Wells of Floyd county bought sheep from this car.

GARDENS
During this wet, cool weather insects are very active in the garden. These insects will cause a lot of damage unless controlled. There are several sprays on the market that will do the job.

One of the best and safest materials on the market is methoxychlor, followed closely by Malathion. These two will kill the majority of insects that cause any trouble. Both are available as a dust or wettable spray. Vegetables should be sprayed every week to 10 days to get good results.

DDT which is a very good insecticide has one fault in that it will leave a residual affect on the vegetables for about three weeks. Vegetables eaten in less time after being sprayed with DDT may cause illness. DDT is all right to use on potatoes or any other vegetable before it sets fruit.

Start spraying tomatoes for blight as soon as they start putting out bloom pods. Use either a zinc or copper compound alternating with captan. These materials are sold under various company names. The label will tell what the spray is made of. Be sure to read the label and follow directions carefully.

LOCUSTS
The big locust year is here. They are singing a song throughout the country. Contrary to a popular belief, they are not poisonous. Their damage is done to small trees and shrubs by laying eggs in the tips of branches. Later on, these branches die and on small trees this may cause the entire tree to die. Valuable trees and shrubs should be covered with cheese cloth if locusts are attacking it. Sometime a spraying of DDT has been found helpful.

On busy spring days, it is a good idea to have a gelatin salad in the refrigerator, ready to serve on short notice.

Driver violations account for four out of five fatalities in traffic accidents, says the National Safety Council.

Records show that in 1955, artificially sired daughters in Kentucky dairy herds averaged 9,967 pounds of milk and 399 pounds of butterfat, compared to the all-Kentucky dairy average of 4,420 pounds of milk and 149 pounds of butterfat.

COUNTY HIGH IN EARNINGS

Net Income of Floyd Set
At $31,069,000 for '56,
Sales Management Shows

Floyd county is rated high as a market on the basis of its business activity in the past year. Its strength was shown in high employment and income and in large-scale buying in the local retail stores.

The findings are contained in Sales Management's new, copyrighted survey of buying power, which gives comparable performance figures for every section of the country.

Large-scale spending by residents of Floyd county was a bright spot in the business picture. Purchases in the local retail stores added up to a noteworthy $16,627,000.

For most retail lines it was a prosperous year. Nondurable goods turned in the best performance, a raise of six percent. Durables, however, fell two percent below the record set in 1955. The slump in new car sales had a lot to do with it.

The ability to spend more, in Floyd county, stemmed from better earnings. The survey shows that the total disposable income locally, after taxes, amounted to $31,069,000. Arithmetically, dividing the income by the number of families, it came to a net of $3,613 per family, compared with $3,492 the year before.

The relationship between the amount of business being done in any one community and its full capacity is shown in the study through a "buying power index." This is a weighted figure which takes into account such factors as population, disposable income and buying volume. It rates Floyd county as able to account for 0.128 percent of the nation's retail business. Since a smaller amount was done last year, 0.086 percent, it concludes that the full sales potential has not yet been reached.

In almost every direction, growth seems to be the watchword of the day. With populations expanding rapidly, with real income rising and with our national production of goods increasing, people now can buy more than they could a few years back.

Louisville's average family income last year was $5,982 but if you think the Falls City is the state's richest in average income you're wrong. Harlan had the highest average with $7,780 per family. Pikeville ranked third in the state with $6,397.

The high earnings of the towns of Harlan and Pikeville do not include the probable lower rural incomes of the counties.
