SECOND READING

From time to time, as I read something I like, I mark striking sentences, sometimes make the most cryptic sort of notes. Months later, I have been known to pick up the same book again and find my hurried notes and markings more of a hindrance than a help as deciphering them almost have me wishing for a Rosetta Stone.

One I found last night, however, that wasn't so difficult. It read: "See pp. 690-691. . . a little more tired at close of day." I found the lines easily, and they are from Rollin John Wells' poem, "Growing Old":

A little more tired at close of day,
A little less anxious to have our way,
A little less ready to scold and blame,
A little more care of a brother's name;
And so we are nearing our journey's end,
When time and eternity meet and blend.

And I'm the guy who made the rule that poetry would be printed in these pages!

STOP THAT MAN!

We hear now of some "mad scientist" who says he will invent a machine which will pick up and recreate sounds and words made and spoken long ago. And since science already has done so many things I thought could not be done, I am not the one, I trow, to gain-say him. Truth of the matter is, I wouldn't be surprised if it isn't merely a matter of time and that we had better hurry before the Russians beat us to it.

Just imagine even a few of the possibilities of such a contrivance. It could, of course, be a boon to mankind, if used to bring back the great, dead voices of the past, their words that have gone into the void as deathless, endless sound, perhaps

HIGH SCHOOL TO GET HUGE HOLIDAY GIFT

If Prestonsburg high school doesn't get a Christmas gift in the biggest package yet, the gift will certainly arrive for New Year's.

It was the promise made this week when County Superintendent Virgil O. Turner commented on the progress made toward completion of the school's big $266,000 gymnasium.

All brick, concrete and roofing work is complete, and the structure from the exterior now looms up to make the school one of the largest and most modern educational plants in Eastern Kentucky.

Items of work yet to be done include flooring, painting of seats and lockers, and are already on the drawing board, and the work will be completed on, regardless of the weather conditions.

DEMOCRATIC STRENGTH EMPHASIZED BY VOTE

FINAL RESULT HINTED EARLY IN TABULATION

Senate, Dist. 4 Races Claim Most Interest; Count Ends Saturday

Overwhelmingly Democratic Floyd county remains just that—as last Tuesday's election of every Democratic candidate for State, county and district office attests.

After the first day's count ended last Wednesday night there remained little doubt of the election outcome, and decisiveness of the Democratic victory became more and more obvious as the tabulation continued. Only the Republican candidates for Jailer and County Clerk, V. A. Smiley and Joyce Short Allen, hung on within striking distance for any length of time, but when the counting ended Saturday afternoon the two Democratic incumbents, Jailer Prock Hayes and County Clerk DuRan Moore, had won by majorities of 2,570 and 1,195, respectively.

By Saturday main interest in the tabulation lay in the result of the special Senatorial election,

NO RECOUNT, MARTIN SAYS

Jerry F. Howell Winner In Senate 'Race to Wire'; Three-County Lead, 204

Last Tuesday's election was the last word on one of the most interesting political situations to arise in Floyd county where political history is marked by the unusual.

The finality of the vote count was emphasized this week by Commonwealth's Attorney Burnis Martin, one of the principals in the unusual campaign, when he announced that he would not ask a recount of the ballots, although he lost by only 204 votes in the race for State Senator in a district composed of three counties. The Senate seat at stake in the campaign was that made vacant by the death of Senator Doug Hays, of McDowell. The election was won by Jerry Fonce Howell, of Price, Democratic candidate for the office. Martin ran on the Right to Vote ticket.

The loser in the special election, which coincided with the date of the regular election but which required a separate ballot, said he lost votes in all three counties that would have been his, through the refusal of election commissioners to tally those ballots which had been voted with an X in the circle under the Democratic roster, then voted for him in the square opposite his name. No ballots thus marked were counted in either Knott or Martin county, he said. About 25 precincts had been counted before Floyd's election commissioners

BOARD TAKES LAND OPTION

To Award Contracts On Three Additions For Three Schools

Acceptance by the Floyd County Board of Education at its meeting last week of an option from Fred and Lora Conn of approximately half an acre of land was a step toward enlargement of the head of Prater Creek school and its grounds.

Contract may be awarded here Saturday for construction of a one-room addition to the school, with indoor toilets, County Superintendent Virgil O. Turner said. The addition will make the school a four-room structure. The land on option is available at $400.

Also scheduled for awarding to contract Saturday are two-room additions to the Drift and Harold schools. The additions will combine lunchroom facilities.

Insurance was issued on all steam boilers used in schools of the county. All these had recently been repaired and inspected.

Four teachers were employed by the Board at its recent meeting: Laura Virginia Roberts, to teach English, and Mrs. Katherine Wells, social studies and English, at Prestonsburg high school; Ruth H. Jones at the Branham's Creek school; Alma T. McKinney, Left Toler, and Mrs. Egle Martin, at McDowell consolidated school.

Mrs. Walter Honschell was employed as janitor at Wayland to replace Earl Martin who resigned, and Rex Meade was hired as bus driver at McDowell following the resignation of Delmer Hall.

Chairs for the Wheelwright school auditorium were purchased

RIVER SURVEY HIT BY DELAY

More Information Needed On Certain Basin Aspects, Persons Says in Letter

It was recently reported that the Big Sandy river basin survey has been further delayed.

A report from the U. S. Army engineers, which has been studying the matter for several years, was expected sometime this calendar year.

But in a letter to U. S. Rep. Elizabeth Kee, Gen. J. L. Person, assistant chief of engineers for Civil Work, said that additional information is required on certain aspects of project evaluations and the report has been returned to the Division Engineers at Cincinnati.

At stake in the final report will be the recommendations for the canalization of the Levisa and Tug forks of the Big Sandy river. Orders have gone out with the return of the report to speed up an interim report on flood control by the close of the calendar year with a final report at a later date to include navigation aspects.

"This," Gen. Person's letter said, "will permit processing a more adequate report on major flood control problems at an early date, and will avoid delaying submission of recommendations to Congress on this phase of the study until remaining problems can be fully and satisfactorily analyzed."

In his letter, Gen. Person pointed out that the authorized Fish-trap reservoir, and the Pound reservoir as a substitute for Clintwood were placed in active status in May as a result of studies for the survey report. Further action on the authorized but presently deferred Hays reservoir awaits completion of the survey investigation.

11-Year-Old Boy's Shot Kills Invading Mad Fox

A 11-year-old Cow Creek boy was confronted Sunday night with the problem of shooting a rabid fox without killing his dog with which the fox was fighting. And he did it in the best Eastern Kentucky marksmanship tradition.

The fox attacked the dog on the porch of the Kenneth Caldwell home after it had bitten another dog. Bill Frank, Caldwell's son, seized the family shotgun, bided his time and blazed away. The fox was a full-grown gray, and it is feared it may have bitten livestock in the community before invading the home.

AVERAGE CAR UPKEEP IN COUNTY IS $1,004

Special to The Times
NEW YORK, Nov. 14 — What price car ownership in Floyd county? According to the American Automobile Association, upkeep is, in the long run, a bigger item than initial cost.

For the average driver, running an average-price car and traveling an average amount, 10,000 miles a year, the cost of operation and maintenance comes to $1,004, says the AAA. This covers everything, including depreciation, insurance, repairs and fuel.

Applying these normal operating conditions to Floyd county, the annual outlay for the passenger cars registered locally was $4,890,000 in the past year.

Of the fixed expenses, depreciation is the heaviest. The AAA sets it at $514 a year per car. Next in line is insurance, which costs $193 for property damage and liability coverage ($25,000, $50,000) together with fire and theft protection. The remaining fixed expenses are for license and registration charges. No allowance is made for collision insurance, which many carry.

It adds up to $635 a year, or $1.74 a day. That is the amount an owner must pay whether or not he uses his car.

But as soon as he starts driving it he has, in addition variable costs represented by gasoline and oil, tires and maintenance. For our typical driver it amounts to $369, or 3.69 cents a mile.

2 SURRENDER ON ARMISTICE

AWOL Soldiers Give Up To Helpful Policeman Who Gave a 'Push'

Two a.w.o.l. soldiers picked Armistice Day as the occasion to end here their private skirmish with military authorities and the law.

The two, who were listed as William J. Simmons, of Arkansas, and Robert Ousley, of this county, asked Policeman Wesley Howard to help them push their car to get it started. He did so, and when the engine caught the young woman at the wheel drove away.

When the officer commented on her failure to stop and pick them up the two men, who were in civilian dress, said, "That's all right, chief. We're parole violators and a.w.o.l. and we want to give ourselves up. Can you take care of us?"

Howard replied that he could, and he did, lodging them in the county jail. He said the two men told him of having run afoul of the law in Rowan county and of having been paroled to the army from which they later took French leave. The woman driver has not been identified.

On the preceding day Jason Crace, of Prestonsburg, was arrested and jailed by Chief of Police Epp Lafferty as a.w.o.l.

Franky Jones was jailed Sunday on a breaking and entering charge by Policeman Troy Mullins, of Wayland. He is accused as an accomplice of Estill Stegall, who was jailed last week on a charge of breaking into Ray Long's store at Wayland. A warrant for the arrest of Burley Jacobs in the same case was issued by Police Judge Robert Hicks, of Wayland.

Miles Case was booked here Sunday by State Trooper Williamson on a drunk driving charge. Last week, Wilson Phillips and Charlie Sexton were jailed by State Trooper Jennings on similar charges. Chester Ratliff was booked on a charge of destroying private property.

UNITED FUEL WORKERS VOTE AGAINST STRIKE

Girl Sues for $20,000 As a Result of Injuries After Fall from Truck

The petition, prepared by the Prestonsburg law firm of Tackett & Tackett, alleges that last Dec. 6 the girl was permitted by Hamilton, driver of the truck, to ride on the running board and that as a result of Hamilton's negligence she fell beneath the truck, wheels of which passed across her legs. She claims she was crippled and permanently injured. The accident occurred near Melvin.

An additional $300 is asked to cover hospital expenses.

PANEL SEEKS OTHER STRIKE SETTLEMENT

Explosions Rend Lines Of Ky. West Virginia; Saturday Talk Slated

United Fuel Gas Company employees have voted by a 27-ballot margin to accept the new contract offered them, it was announced in Charleston, W. Va., Wednesday afternoon. Thus was averted a strike by its employee-members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers union.

Two explosions rent pipelines of the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company over the week-end, and the strike which has brought the company's operations to a standstill appeared no nearer settlement this week than when it began Oct. 19.

Company officials and representatives of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union met in Cleveland last week, and out of that meeting came the formation of a three-man panel whose duty is to attempt to find grounds for a settlement satisfactory to all parties to its dispute.

Company and union representatives met with the panel in Huntington, Tuesday, without apparent effect. Another meeting is scheduled for Saturday, it was said.

One of the week-end line blasts came Saturday night on the 16-inch line which twice earlier had been ruptured. This explosion tore out a section of pipe on the ridge between the College Farm of Johns Creek and McComas Branch, Pike county.

Another gas company was threatened with strike this week as a second poll of employees of the United Fuel Gas Company was due to be completed and tabulated Wednesday. The strike date could be Wednesday midnight, if the vote does not favor acceptance of the company's offer, or it might be deferred temporarily. An earlier poll failed to win acceptance of the wage increase offered. In that balloting the vote to strike was 304 to 17.

It was reported here this week that employees of the Columbian Gas Corp., which has its headquarters in Pikeville, have signed a new contract.

Kentucky West Virginia union employees will hold a meeting at Allen Saturday night, it was announced Wednesday.

Tents, Boats at Lake Due Out by Nov. 15th

Wayne Stumbo, manager of Dewey Lake State Park, said this week that tents along the lake and boats tied up in inlets must be moved by Nov. 15.

The level of the lake is now being lowered to five feet below the usual conservation stage maintained during the summer months.

BUCKHORN PARK REQUEST TWICE AMOUNT ASKED FOR DEWEY WORK

Although Buckhorn reservoir in Perry county has not been completed, already more than twice as much money for improvement of a state park there has been sought than has been mentioned for Dewey Lake State Park, according to a report from Frankfort.

For the Buckhorn park $350,000 has been mentioned for Dewey $150,000.

The report did not make clear who had done the asking for these and other parks, but it is surmised that these are tentative figures placed on expenditures at the several park sites.

Governor Chandler this week endorsed the "package-plan" expansion of state parks in principle, but said the problem is finding the money to finance it.

The Kentucky Parks Committee, whose members represent groups interested in the "package" asked Chandler to include about $2,000,000 in the 1958-60 general-fund budget for 10 parks.

"We will give as much money as we can afford," Chandler said, "I think it is a fine thing, but the problem is finding the money to do it."

Chandler said requests for legislative appropriations are exceeding money available.

And, he added, "the demand for services is great, the desire to pay for them is not."

Of the state-park plan, Chandler said he is anxious to improve parks for Kentuckians and out-of-state tourists. Kentucky, he added, realizes about $500,000,000 a year from the tourist trade.

Goal of the package plan is a state park within 60 miles of every Kentuckian. Three parks would be approved, and seven new ones developed.

Other parks and amounts requested for them are:

Falls of Rough, Breckinridge county, $250,000; Boonesboro, Madison county, $125,000; Greenbo, Grenup county, $150,000; Bunker

Hill, Pulaski county, $250,000; Pine Mountain, Bell county, $300,000; Kincaid, Pendleton county, $150,000; Old Kentucky Home, Bardonia, $125,000; Big Bone Lick, Boone county, $100,000.

The Governor again said he plans a $140,000,000 budget for 1957-58, including a $2,000,000 tax cut.

Of taxes raised by the 1956 Legislature, Chandler said they were "the only (campaign) promise I haven't kept. But they have been used for good purposes."

Chandler said defeat of the proposed constitutional amendment that would have provided for appointment of the superintendent of public instruction was "all right with me."

He said the amendment was submitted because school people wanted tenure for the superintendent. Approval of the amendment, Chandler said, would have taken power away from him.

"THEY'RE CATCHING ON, BUT THEY CAN'T CATCH UP." That's how lots of people feel about the "new 1958" cars that are trying to match the Dodge Swept-Wing look. These other cars have been lowered some, but still seem high and boxy by comparison. A few are "catching on" to fins, but they're years from "catching up." And the air suspension offered by some cars (at well over $100 extra) can't compare with the sway-free, dip-free ride of Dodge Torsion-Aire (standard equipment on all models). So on your way home from someone else's new car showing, stop in and compare it with Swept-Wing 58 by Dodge. You'll see what we mean.

An Appreciation

BY

Henry Stephens

The election is now over, and I wish to express my heartfelt appreciation for the loyal support given me by my many friends and relatives throughout Floyd County.
My greatest hope and ambition is to live long enough to repay my friends in my humble way for what they have done for me.

This election is the great climax in my political history, coming at a time when I needed your assistance most,
and I will always feel deeply indebted to each of you and I assure you that the time will never come when I will forget you.

After the Primary was over I was congratulated by David Martin, Jr., for the victory I had won over him and at the same time my present opponent, Dick Spurlock, did likewise in the Primary and I told him (Dick) then that I hoped that he would do the same thing in the November election and Mr. Spurlock did just that, and I wish to express my appreciation for his sportmanship and the manner in which he took his defeat.

I do not rejoice in the defeat of any man, but some must be losers and my greatest regret was that it had to be Dick instead of someone with whom I was not so well acquainted.

When I take office in January, you will find me on the job and any business you may have will receive my personal and prompt attention.

Here is hoping I will meet each of you in the future and greet you as I have in the past.

Respectfully yours,

Henry Stephens.

NAPIER THANKS VOTERS

To The People of Prestonsburg:

I wish to express, as earnestly as I may, my deep appreciation of the support given me in the recent election for the office of Mayor.

For my opponents I have no ill-will whatsoever, and I hope to be able to meet them, as in the past, as friends and to work with them and all others for the improvement of Prestonsburg. It is particularly gratifying to me that the campaign all of us conducted was without personal animosity and those things that create ill feelings rather than a spirit of cooperation.

Permit me again to make this promise: that I will work hard and do everything in my power to make Prestonsburg a better place for us all. With that purpose in mind I invite the cooperation of all our citizens.

Sincerely,
BILL NAPIER.

AUXILIARY MEETS

The Presbyterian Auxiliary met Nov. 5 at 8 p.m., at the church on Third street, with Mrs. Marvin Music, the president, presiding. The devotionals were conducted by Mrs. Music, who urged all members to avail themselves of the study course on Japan being taught by the Rev. Harold Dorsey at the Methodist Church on Monday evenings. Rev. Dorsey spent several weeks last summer in Japan and is well informed in customs and conditions in that land. Mrs. Ruby Lafferty, program leader, was assisted by Mrs. Ernest Osborne in presenting the topic, "Labor of Love." Mrs. Music told of her visit to her missionary friend, Miss Gladys J. Plekenpol, head of the Home of Neighborly Service in Denver, Colorado. Following the business session Mrs. Paul Bingham sang "Alone" accompanied by Mrs. E. R. Burke. Mrs. Mary Martha Williams and Miss Alma Collins, the hostesses, served refreshments to Mesdames Ernest Osborne, Marvin Music, Ruby Lafferty, E. R. Burke, Frank Layne, Ray Howard, Rainley White, Paul Bingham, Everett Sowards, Dorothy Cunningham, Misses Alma Collins, Mary Martha Williams, Mary E. Powers, Fanny Mae Howell. The December meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Marvin Music on North Lake Drive.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

Wells, of Paintsville, was honored Tuesday evening by a group of hostesses to a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Russell Hagewood on Arnold Avenue. The honoree received many useful gifts of silver, crystal, linens, china and miscellaneous items. Carnations and chrysanthemums were arranged throughout the reception rooms. Refreshments of punch, coffee, cakes, nuts and mints were served by the hostesses, Mesdames Woodrow Greenwade, Burl Spurlock, J. Y. Goble, Russell Hagewood, Arnold Clark, Montaine Clark, John Hensley, Marvin Alley, J. W. Miss Horn was the recipient of many personal items. She expressed her appreciation to the hostesses and attending friends for their gifts. The bride's table was beautiful with its appointments of white lace cloth, low-candelabra holding white candles flanking the centerpiece of white flowers. A miniature bride and groom on the table revealed the purpose of the occasion. A refreshment plate was served to Miss Horn. Mesdames Marvin Alley, Carl Horn, Keith Alley, J. W. Mrs. Johns, conservation chairman, reported that she had interviewed the district forestry agent in regard to building an amphitheater at Dewey Lake and the planting of trees at various places in the county. She was told the forester is having his first meeting at the courthouse, Nov. 14, and that he will bring these requests before the group for consideration. Mrs. Tom James reported that, due to illness, the Armistice Day radio broadcast had been postponed until Dec. 7 when a program on Pearl Harbor, will be given from the radio station.

ATTENDS SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION
Among the five thousand Sunday School enthusiasts attending the 12th annual National Sunday School Convention in Grand Rapids, Mich., October 30-31-November 1 was Miss Barbara Wysma of Salisburg. The three day sessions, held in Civic auditorium, majored in the practical. Eighty workshop sessions stressed the application of modern educational techniques and teaching tools to the Sunday School, and the convention agenda featured additional Seminars (on "Inductive Bible Study") and Institutes (three-session conferences on one topic). Unique feature of this year's convention was a demonstration of the famed "brainstorming" technique, developed in industry and secular education, as it can be used in the Sunday School situation.

The 58 FORD is here now...

there's nothing newer in the world

With all that's new for a world of difference

There's bold, new styling—new Interceptor V-8 Power—new Cruise-O-Matic Drive—new Ford-Aire Suspension! The 58 Ford is the only car ever to meet a world-wide test and win world-wide approval before its public premiere!

You could search the world over and never find a car to match this 58 Ford's new beauty... new power... new ride... all at the low Ford price. We know! We tried it!

In Paris... the most style-conscious fashion critics in the world had a deep, low bow for Ford's latest style creation. In the mighty Himalayas, Ford's new Interceptor V-8 engine with Precision Fuel Induction won the day!

Then there's nothing newer than the true air ride of Ford-Aire Suspension. It's like riding on a cloud! But, you don't have to go to foreign soil to drive this newest Ford. We'll gladly save you the trip. Come in today!

From London to Bangkok... the whole world loved it!

The 58 Ford stopped traffic in Trafalgar Square when it passed through on its round-the-world trip. And that was typical of the excitement this Ford caused in Paris... Rome... Athens... Istanbul... Calcutta... and Bangkok. For this Ford was proved around the world in the toughest "shakedown" cruise in history.

"THERE'S NOTHING NEWER IN THE WORLD OF STYLE!"

"THE WHOLE WORLD SEEMS SMALLER WITH FORD'S NEW INTERCEPTOR V-8 ENGINE!"

There's nothing newer in the world of fashion with Ford's deep-sculptured styling. From new Power-Flow hood to Safely-Twin taillights, Ford's world-ahead styling is a standstill! There's a new Slipstream roof... a new Sculptured rear deck that's out of this world.

You'll be ahead with Ford's new Interceptor V-8 and Precision Fuel Induction. Gives you up to 300 hp. Smoother power... more power... from less gas! The secret is Precision Fuel Induction, a new carburetion, fuel feeding, and combustion system.

You'll get up to 15% more gas savings with new Cruise-O-Matic Drive teamed with the new Interceptor V-8. New D1 position, used for normal driving, lets you move smoothly—with a touch of your toe—from solid-feeling take-offs right up to highway cruising speeds.

You'll ride on a cloud instead of a spring with Ford-Aire Suspension. This is the way you've dreamed of driving—floating on a bed of air. Four air pillows literally soak up any sign of a bump. Car relevels every time someone gets in or luggage is loaded.

You'll steer with a feather touch with Ford's new Magic-Circle Steering. Nothing rolls like a ball, and that's the secret of Ford's handling ease. Free-moving steel balls in the steering gear are virtually friction-free—give you the closest thing yet to power steering!

Your night driving is safer with Ford's Safety-Twin Headlights. You get safety you simply can't get with single lights... special light for high beam... special light for low. It's the biggest advance since the sealed-beam! It's high style, too.

Smooth as they come... speed as they go. The 58 Ford's 500-hp. 58 V-8 will take you away from the rest!

COME IN... SEE THE CAR THAT WAS PROVED AND APPROVED AROUND THE WORLD!

HUTSINPILLER DRUG

if your husband had to do this today...

...guess what he'd do tomorrow!

Men just don't know about some things—

For instance, hanging up the wash. Your husband may think it's easy. But let him try it a few times, and he'll soon start thinking about buying an electric clothes dryer.

You may need to explain to him how an electric clothes dryer is the answer to your wash-day burden. Tell him it eliminates backaches from carrying basketloads of heavy wet clothes and bending and stretching to hang each piece one at a time.

Explain to him that you can toss a washer load of clothes into an electric clothes dryer, and they'll come out fluffy dry and fresh. Many of the pieces will be so wrinkle-free they'll require no ironing.

When your husband considers all these advantages, we'll bet that you'll be the proud owner of an electric clothes dryer soon... and your whole family will be Living Better Electrically.

I wish to take this means of expressing to the voters of Magisterial District No. 4 my deepest thanks for their support of me in my race for the office of Magistrate. And, while I naturally am most grateful to my friends and relatives who worked in my behalf, I hold no ill feeling toward my opponent or those who supported him.

Now I face the problems of the office to which I was elected with the concern that I may be of service to my district and Floyd county. The election is over, there is work to be done, and my desire is to do the job right.

Thank you all.

"It is a good idea to be tested for diabetes every year," Dr. Hoffman said, "because often early detection can greatly simplify the medical problem that diabetes creates. In many cases simple control of the weight or diet may permit the victim to live a long, normal life.

"The average person has little to fear even if he has diabetes, so long as he is aware that he has it," Dr. Hoffman continued. "The unfortunate victims are those who may have the disease for a long time without knowing it. Obviously the earlier it is detected, the better."

An estimated 1,000,000 persons in the United States and 15,000 in Kentucky have undiscovered diabetes. It is to find these people so they may avail themselves of control measures, that the Kentucky State Medical Association has sponsored the detection drive each year since 1951.

MINE MYSTERY IN PIKE NEVER FULLY SOLVED

By GERALD GRIFFIN
(In The Courier-Journal)

Nobody paid much attention that October day in 1925 when two large wooden boxes marked "Mine Supplies" were delivered to a coal mine in the Pond Creek section of Pike County. No one had reason to.

The miners went about their work. The superintendent, William H. Turner, and a foreman named Brown stacked the boxes by a headhouse wall. They were about the same size as casings used in shipping coffins.

Now Turner often worked at night and retired to his room at home without disturbing his family. But when he failed to appear downstairs one morning, a few days after the boxes were delivered, his wife went to his room. He was not there. That was the beginning of a grisly mystery, as yet unsolved.

Here are the principals in this real-life crime story that shook the Big Sandy coal country 32 years ago:

The mine superintendent, Turner.

The foreman, Brown.

The superintendent's wife, Mrs. Margaret Turner.

The superintendent's sister, Mrs. Hattie May Farley, employed in a Detroit hospital.

An Austrian blacksmith, Joe Jack, Sr., father of Mrs. Turner.

The blacksmith's son, Joe Jack, Jr., a mine electrician.

The story began to develop when Mrs. Turner, worried about the absence of her husband, attempted to telephone the mine office. There was no answer. She sent her brother, young Joe, to the mine to see if anything had happened.

Something had happened there, Joe reported. There had been a mine explosion. Two mangled bodies were in the debris. They were identified as Turner and Brown from the clothing on them. Brown's silver watch was beneath one of the corpses. Young Joe advised his sister and Brown's kin not to look at the bodies; they were too badly disfigured. And so they were buried in a cemetery at nearby Matewan, W. Va.

The story might have ended there but for the life insurance.

Turner's life was insured for a large sum for a man in his position in that day. Insurance people became suspicious. Others began to whisper. Rumors began to fly. Somebody thought he had seen Turner and Brown catching a freight train after the mine explosion.

R. C. "Dick" Johnson, veteran insurance agent who still lives near Pikeville, recalls selling the policy to Turner. It was a $30,000 policy with a double-indemnity clause in case of accidental death. Johnson said the policy was made out to Turner's sister, Mrs. Farley, who collected the entire $60,000 from the New York Life Insurance Company. Turner's "widow" also collected on another $5,000 double-indemnity policy from the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Three months and 16 days after the bodies were discovered in the mine, the Pike County grand jury returned murder-conspiracy indictments against Turner, his wife, his sister and the two Joe Jacks. No indictment was returned against Brown.

Obviously, the grand jury didn't believe that Turner was dead.

The indictment, recognizing only one victim, charged that the accused, all related by blood or marriage, conspired "to murder an unknown man," and that the act was perpetrated "with a wire charged with a high voltage of electricity and by exploding dynamite, powder or other high explosives."

It went on to say that "an unknown man was blown to pieces and wounded upon the head, body, arms, limbs and person so that said unknown man did then and there die . . . against the peace and dignity of the Commonwealth of Kentucky."

One segment of the mystery was cleared up when it became established that neither of the two mangled bodies was that of Turner or Brown. The puzzle was, and is: whose bodies were they?

Rumors are still afloat that a couple of men in the area disappeared about that time and never were heard of again. But what about those oblong boxes stacked in the headhouse before anybody disappeared?

A few months after the explosion, Turner, who had returned to life, faced trial in the Pike Circuit Court. He drew a life sentence.

Then Joe Jack, Jr., received a similar sentence, but the Court of Appeals set it aside. None of the other defendants ever came to trial. Joe Jack, Sr., however, spent two years in jail before the untried charge against him was dismissed.

In a long-drawn-out series of trials, the younger Jack finally was acquitted by a Boyd County jury after being granted a change of venue in 1928. That trial was held at Catlettsburg. He was defended by Judge W. A. Daugherty, who still practices law in Pikeville.

After six years in prison, Turner was pardoned.

Turner, on one of his trips from prison to Pikeville when he appeared as a witness in the trial of Joe Jack, Jr., unburdened himself to Judge Daugherty. As the judge recalls, Turner was to pay Brown for his apparent demise. But there seems to have been a double-cross somewhere along the line.

The first flaw appeared when a man thought he had seen Turner and Brown hop that freight. He was correct. After boarding the train, the fugitives went to Detroit, Judge Daugherty said. Turner told him; there they conferred with Turner's sister. Then Turner hid out in New Mexico and Brown fled to Canada.

After a while, Turner told Judge Daugherty, he became worried about the insurance money collected by his sister, who had taken up residence in Coral Gables, Florida.

He went to see her there, he said, and she gave him $10,000, advising him to go to Austria, his wife's former home, where she would send him the rest of the money coming to him.

She already had turned over several thousand dollars to Turner's wife, who apparently never realized what was going on. All the time she thought her husband was dead. She had provided a big funeral for him.

Turner fled to Austria, but there he began to suspect that his wife's kinfolks were plotting to kill him. He decided to risk coming home. First, however, he made a mistake in writing a letter to his wife at Matewan, W. Va., just across Tug River from Kentucky, informing her of the date and place of his expected arrival.

Postal authorities seized upon that letter and notified the Pike County sheriff, John M. Johnson, who now operates a clothing store in Pikeville.

When the ship carrying Turner docked in New York harbor, Sheriff Johnson was on hand. So were the insurance agent, Dick Johnson; Deputy Sheriff Taylor Hatfield and the fugitive's wife.

Still believing him dead, her eyes almost popped out of her head when she saw him walking down the gangplank.

"My Lord, Bill, what have you done?" she exclaimed as she toppled over in a faint.

And so Bill Turner's long odyssey ended in the arms of the law.

Although Turner's sister was named in the Pike County indictment, she never faced trial. Nor was she ever arrested after taking refuge in Florida, although Kentucky Governor Edwin P. Morrow issued a requisition to the Governor of Florida seeking her extradition.

Harve Childers, who was a Pike County deputy sheriff under Johnson, recalls the case well. So does his wife Bessie, who was commissioned to go with her husband to Florida and bring Mrs. Farley back.

Chandler Names Group To Confer On Youth Fitness

Frankfort, Nov. 11 (Spl.) — Gov. A. B. Chandler has appointed a 15-member committee to plan a Governor's Conference on fitness of Kentucky youth.

Reason for the conference, Chandler said, is evidence that reveals "deficiencies in the fitness of Kentucky youth." Chandler added:

"The responsibility for action rests upon the agencies of the State and local governments, and the bulwarks of our free society, the family, the school and the church, as well as other dedicated groups and organizations. "The improvement of activities in this area should have central levels through all available channels of communications."

Named to the committee are: Dr. Robert R. Martin, State superintendent of public instruction, chairman; Don Bale, head of the bureau of instruction in the State Department of Education; J. Marvin Dodson, representing the Kentucky Education Association; Dr. Helen E. Frasure, State Department of Health; Richard Lee Gentry, Department of Education; O. H. Gunkler, Berea College; Dr. Ernest Joki, University of Kentucky; Earle D. Jones, Maysville; James B. Moore, Richmond; State High School Athletic Commissioner Ted Sanford, Lexington; Dr. Don Seaton, University of Kentucky track coach; Dr. Mary N. Smith, Beattyville, Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers; Ray Binford, Versailles; Dr. Ralph Angelucci, Lexington, and University of Kentucky Athletic Director Bernie A. Shively.

GEORGE ROGERS CLARK DIED POOR, FORGOTTEN

In the long panorama of history some figures attain prominence at an early age only to become overwhelmed by troubles and break under the strain of adversity as they grow older. George Rogers Clark, one of the important names in Kentucky and the nation's history, was one of these men.

Clark at the age of 35, in 1787, had occupied the principal forts of southern Illinois; had captured the British commander and the fort of Vincennes; had punished the Ohio Indians for their victory at Blue Licks and had established a base at Fort Nelson, now Louisville, from which he threatened the enemy as far north as Detroit. He was a brigadier-general with such captains as Boone, Kenton and Logan under his command and he even obtained a faithful financier who advanced funds to promote his campaigns.

Despite his fame, ominous clouds were to gather on the horizon for Clark. He could not escape the political schemes and intrigues which engulfed him. James Wilkinson defamed Clark as a military leader after which neither Virginia nor the United States would trust him fully. Seven years later, Clark was appointed leader of French forces in a planned march against New Orleans. When the action was denounced, Clark fled for his safety.

Years later, forgotten and in poverty, Clark wrote: "I have given the United States half the territory they possess and they suffer me to remain in poverty."

By a law of 1812, Virginia granted General Clark a sword and a pension of $400 a year but the land promised Clark was deeded to the federal government. In 1818, a second stroke of paralysis proved fatal to Clark in his home near Louisville. A small stone marks his grave in Louisville's Cave Hill Cemetery. Clark's heirs pressed claims against Virginia and received $22,000 in settlement. In 1928, the United States Congress appropriated funds for a memorial which stands at the entrance to Old Fort Harrod, Harrodsburg, with which Clark was closely associated.

Chandler Sets Farm-City Week

Gov. A. B. Chandler has proclaimed Nov. 22-28 Farm-City Week in Kentucky.

He urged Kentuckians "to cooperate with all urban and agricultural agencies promoting a better understanding of the interdependence of our rural and urban communities."

Chandler also requested mayors, other public officials, leaders of industry and civic groups to take part in the observance "in order to enlist the widest possible support and understanding of our people that the farm and city groups must have a close-working relationship and be partners in progress."

The proclamation said it is "desirable that the public understand the needs, problems and opportunities of the farm economy." Industry and labor, the proclamation added, "are dependent upon those living in rural areas for food and fibre as well as a rapidly expanding market for manufactured goods."

Also, said Chandler, "a better understanding of town and city problems by rural people is needed."

The program is sponsored in the state by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture.

Two Agencies To Assist Cities In War Survival

Frankfort, Nov. 11 (Sp.)—The State Department of Economic Development has announced it is participating with the Kentucky Division of Civil Defense in blue-printing an "operation survival" plan for key cities in the state.

Economic Commissioner George W. Hubble, Jr., said William M. Lyon, assistant director of research, is being loaned to the civil defense agency to work on the project.

The study is being undertaken as part of the National Civil Defense Program and will be under the supervision of Lt. Colonel Calvert P. Small, deputy director of the State Division of Civil Defense. The agency is headed by Maj. General J. S. Lindsey.

The objective of the study is to draw up plans for protecting the population and assuring shelter, food supply and other "minimum" essentials in the event of atomic-weapon attack on the United States.

As one of a study team, Lyon will have the job of making detailed inventory of natural resources and industrial services in nine "target areas" of the state. Lyon said these include Louisville, Lexington, Frankfort, Covington, Ashland, Henderson, Paducah, Hopkinsville and Ft. Campbell.

Interstate Commission Tentatively Accepts Breaks Park Bids

The Interstate Park Commission voted tentative acceptance Wednesday of a bid submitted by a Virginia firm for construction of roads, picnic areas, and guard-rails at the park.

The bid, $33,400, was submitted by Rogers Brothers Construction Company, Grundy, Va., last month, but the commission set it aside because of confusion in the specifications. The bid was $5,400 greater than the estimated cost.

The commission authorized Chairman K. J. Day to award the contract upon approval by the finance departments of Kentucky and Virginia.

The bid of Brown Construction Company, Whitesburg, Ky., for construction of a 30,000-gallon reservoir was also accepted pending approval by the two states.

Brown's bid was $58,738.44, compared with an estimated cost of $44,650.

MASTER COMMISSIONER'S SALE FLOYD CIRCUIT COURT

They live on a farm up a hollow at the foot of Bent Mountain between Pikeville and Williamson, W. Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Childers, armed with the Governor's requisition and a warrant charging Mrs. Farley with being an accessory before the fact of murder, made an unsuccessful trip to Tallahassee. For 10 days they stayed at the Florida capital seeking an interview with Governor Martin. They said he refused to grant the extradition papers. And, as far as they know, she still lives at Coral Gables, where she was when they went after her.

Of the other principal characters in the mystery, Joe Jack, Sr., went back to his home in Austria, where he died. His son, the electrician who supposedly set off the fake mine explosion, died in this country. Brown never showed up in this country again. Mrs. Turner remarked:

Standing to lose $70,000, the insurance companies finally recovered a goodly share of the money they paid out to the "heirs," according to Dick Johnson. The New York Life got back $28,000 from investments which Mrs. Farley had made in Florida, he said, and the Penn Mutual recovered $12,000 from Mrs. Turner, who bought a home in New Jersey, after her husband had returned from the dead.

But what about those boxes stored in the mine headhouse before the explosion?

They fit in with Judge Daugherty's early suspicion that nobody was killed in that mine blast. He got that idea when he learned that the mutilated bodies had been found on top of the rubble in the mine. Normally, workers killed under such circumstances are found buried far beneath the pile of coal and rock. And again, no blood had been splattered around; there were no particles of human flesh.

From information gleaned from Turner, Judge Daugherty became convinced that the bodies found in the mine were cadavers obtained from a hospital. Although they were found dressed in the clothes of Turner and Brown, Judge Daugherty said, they had been dead a long time before those two worthies were reported killed. He is convinced that the cadavers occupied those two big boxes marked "Mine Supplies" and stacked against the headhouse wall.

Turner never profited much from the bizarre venture. He was believed at first to have been blown up and killed. And, strangely enough, that's what is thought to have happened, eventually. But not in a coal mine.

After his release from prison, according to Judge Daugherty's best recollection, Turner got a job over in West Virginia operating a dinky engine and was killed when it exploded.

Tobacco Farmer Fined In U. S. District Court

Ledford DeHaven, of Dehart, Morgan county, pleaded guilty in U. S. District court at Jackson, November 4, to a charge of filing a false acreage report with the Morgan county ASC office on his 1954 burley tobacco crop, was fined $500 and costs.

In filing the acreage report he only reported one patch of tobacco containing .9 of an acre when he also had a hidden patch of .67 acres that he did not report. The U. S. district attorney in recommending the fine pointed out to the court that DeHaven had also filed an improper acreage report, acting in the capacity of farm reporter for the Morgan county ASC office, on the farms of Marshall and Beulah Gibson and Freelin Keeton.

SPURLOCK THANKS SUPPORTERS

I want to express my gratitude to each and every one who supported me in any way in my recent race for Circuit Court Clerk, and to the tabulators and election commissioners for their honest count and unbiased decision on questionable ballots. To those who supported and voted for my opponent, I assure you that I hold no malice toward you. Your right to vote is your privilege and should not be questioned by any one, and it definitely is not questioned by me.

I am still in the life insurance business and if I can be of any service to any of you, I shall appreciate it if you will let me know.

Sincerely yours,
RICHARD SPURLOCK.

CARD OF THANKS
We, the children of Leonard Jarrell, were very sorry to hear of the death of our grandmother, Mrs. Rebecca Derossset. We did not know of her death until the following week. We wonder why. We grieve her loss but we know she is happy, for she is with our grandfather, Tob Derossset, and three of her daughters, who left her to grieve for them, Julia Belle, Millie Jane Ousley and our own darling mother, Nettie Jarrell, whom we still mourn and will long for as long as we live. For all of you, our own brothers and sisters, we are very sorry, for we know what it means to give up a mother. May God be with you and bless you each and every one and may you some day meet her.

Census Bureau Collects Facts on Employment

Facts on employment and unemployment will be collected from a number of local families during the week of November 18 in the Current Population Survey, according to Supervisor Robert A. Yerkey, of the Census Bureau's regional office at Cincinnati, which will participate in the survey. Information collected locally is combined with facts obtained in other parts of the country to provide national statistics.

The Current Population Survey, conducted on a sample basis for more than a decade by the Census Bureau, provides up-to-date national estimates on employment and unemployment and also related population characteristics information such as the number of persons who are not working because they are in school, retired or unable to work; the availability of manpower for both defense and civilian production, and similar facts. Industry, labor and government are constantly using this information in planning various kinds of programs and in measuring the general level of business activity.

Current Population Survey information will be collected locally by Mrs. Wilma Taulbee, Malone, Ky.

BLOOD-STAINED KNIFE EARLY TRAGEDY RELIC

By Charles F. Hinds, Secretary-Treasurer, Kentucky Historical Society

A blood-stained case knife in the museum of the Old State House recalls a murder so premeditated and so cold-blooded that it is often referred to as "the Kentucky tragedy."

Jereboam O. Beauchamp arrived in Frankfort Nov. 6, 1825, after traveling four days by horseback from his home in Simpson county. He had a single, diabolical purpose in making the trip. He planned to murder Colonel Solomon P. Sharp, a respected citizen and a prominent "New Court" politician.

The time chosen for the bloody deed was after midnight on the morning of November 7. The place was the home of Colonel Sharp on Madison Street, just west of the Old Capitol. The murder weapon was a "butcher" knife. The motive was revenge.

The campaign for state offices in 1825 had been a particularly bitter one. Attention was centered on the race between Colonel Sharp and John J. Crittenden, an "Old Court" partisan. Colonel Sharp won the election by a narrow margin, but during the campaign, Sharp's political opponents publicly accused him of having seduced Ann Cook Beauchamp (before her marriage to Jereboam) and having fathered her still-born child. Jereboam and Ann Cook Beauchamp were especially incensed when a handbill was distributed by Sharp's opponents, publishing the colonel's alleged denial of paternity on the grounds that Mrs. Beauchamp's illegitimate child had been, not white, but mulatto.

Beauchamp summoned his victim to a side entrance which led to the apartment of Sharp and his wife, and before the colonel could defend himself, the assassin delivered the death blow just below the center of the stomach.

Beauchamp was tried and sentenced to death by hanging. Shortly before the hour of execution, however, he and his wife stabbed themselves. She died shortly thereafter, but her dying husband was rushed to the gallows and hung quickly before two companies of the Twenty-second Regiment and "a large assemblage of citizens and strangers."

The suicide weapon is the only physical object left to remind us of this famous tragedy, immortalized in fiction by such distinguished authors as Edgar Allan Poe and Robert Penn Warren.

SETSER'S TWENTY POINTS HELPS PIKEVILLE FROSH

Pikeville, Ky., Nov. 11 (Spl.)—Paul Setser, of Auxier, starting guard on the Pikeville College freshman basketball team, bucketed 20 points in his first college outing Saturday night, but gave up scoring honors to a teammate.

Basketball activity opened at Pikeville last week as the freshmen knocked off their first opponent, and the Pikeville Bears varsity prepared for its opener Friday night (Nov. 15) at home, and Saturday night's game at Wheelwright.

The Bears will entertain the Westinghouse Apprentice School quintet in a two-game stand, opening at 8:15 p.m. Friday at Pikeville and playing a second game at 8:15 the following evening in Wheelwright Memorial gymnasium. The two games will be the third double meeting between Pikeville and Westinghouse, each divided between the Pikeville floor and Wheelwright gym.

Beginning with a 90-88 squeaker at Wheelwright Nov. 20, 1953, the Bears have topped their Pennsylvania opponents in all four games of the series. They took an easier 72-61 decision on their own court the next night.

Pikeville's yearling basketball squad, under new Freshman Coach Woodrow Preston, lifted the lid on its 1956-57 season Saturday night at London, Ky., with a decisive 88-70 win over the Sue Bennett College Green Dragons.

The Dragons frequently opponents of the Pikeville Bears when Pikeville was a junior college, also were opening their season under a new coach, Noel "Sam" Kar, a former basketball star at Sue Bennett.

The Little Bears led by only nine points, 39-30, at halftime, but continued to pull away during the second half. Both teams opened their throttles after midgame, the Pikeville striplings doubled their half-time lead before the final horn.

George Carroll, basketball co-captain at Ashland (Ky.) Senior High School last year, led all scorers with 40 points for the Preston men. After he and Setser last year's cage captain at Auxier (Ky.) high school, dropped in 15 points each in the first half, Carroll began clicking consistently from his guard post for a 25-point second period. Setser took second scoring honors, totaling 20 points before leaving in the second half.

Donnie Layne, star at Pikeville College Academy, hit for 14 points, and Jay Dingess, of Warfield, got eight. With two points each were Ronnie Francisco, former HELLIER high school star; James Robinson, Norton, Va., and Ben Tackett, Portsmouth, Ohio.

The Pikeville Frosh were to entertain Union College's freshmen Tuesday night (Nov. 12) in the first game to be played on Pikeville's new hardwood.

Docks Offering More Services

Frankfort, Nov. 11 (Spl.) — A recent survey of Kentucky boat docks conducted by the State Department of Public Relations indicates the docks are providing more and more services for customers.

All the docks offer gasoline and bait and tackle. Many are providing motor repair service for boat owners.

Launching facilities for privately-owned craft are becoming more numerous and all of the docks rent fishing boats. The boat rental charge varies from $2 to $3 a day. A motor is available for approximately $5 a day.

In addition to regular fishing boats, many docks now offer such items as water skis, surfboards, sail boats and other equipment.

One dock on Lake Cumberland announced the fall and winter operation of a new enclosed, heated and bait fishing parlor for use when the weather is severe. The dock operator said, "It will be elaborate, lighted, insulated and extra comfortable with food, drinks and all kinds of bait available without leaving the parlor."

"Fishing wells installed in the floor of the parlor will be aerated and baited. Successful fishermen may have their catch cooked at the dock restaurant."

Information contained in the survey will be distributed by the Department of Public Relations to national travel editors.

P'BURG, PAINTSVILLE PLAN GAME SATURDAY

The final game of the 1957 high school football season in Eastern Kentucky will be staged here Saturday night — barring unforeseen complications—when the local Black Cats entertain the Paintsville Tigers.

Twice previously the game has been postponed as both schools and squads have been riddled by the current flu epidemic.

John Griggs' Prestonsburg eleven has copped five games in succession since losing to Jenkins and have an overall mark of 7-2 while Paintsville is 5-3. A win for either would make them an "A" team in the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference which uses the Dickinson System of rating in placing the teams at the end of the season.

Conference champion Jenkins finished its season with a perfect mark Friday night, blasting Northeastern Kentucky Mountain Conference victor Catlettsburg, 26-7, in Paintsville's seventh annual Big Sandy Bowl game.

Playing before the largest crowd in the history of the event, the Wildcats were no match for the speedier and heavier Cavaliers, one of the East Kentucky's all-time great prep teams.

The Letcher countians piled up a 26-0 lead and held Catlettsburg without a first down in the opening half and limited to four in the entire fray. They outshined the Gate Citizens 373 to 172 yards. Diminutive Gary Harrison, Jenkins' triple-threat halfback, thrilled the 5,500 fans with his all-round play and gained 195 yards of his team's total. The agile speedster scored two touchdowns, completed four passes and averaged 38 yards punting. His markers raised his season's output to 118 points.

Performing almost equally as well were quarterback Frank Hodges, halfback Charles Stofer and 215-pound fullback Billy Elkins. Hodges reeled off runs of 33 and 19 yards, Elkins jaunted 27 yards on one trek and tallied one six-pointer, Stofer tallied one from ten yards out.

Sub-tackle Kenneth England provided the biggest thrills for the capacity crowd with his extra-point booting. The 200-pound junior kicked a 40-yard point after touchdown after two previous tries of 9 and 25 yards were nullified by penalties. His first attempt, which traveled some 40 yards, hit a transformer and delayed the game some 15 minutes.

In other final games, Ashland's Tomcats belted Belfry, 34-13, in the Ashland Shrine game, and Louisa beat Wheelwright 26-7.

Kentucky's third-ranked team the Corbin Redhounds—overran Pikeville's Panthers, 63-7, as Harold Queary, the state's leading scorer with 184 points, scored 26 points. Quarterback Tony Latham pitched four touchdown passes to register 24 for the season.

SPORTS CHATTER

By GORDON MOORE

THE RECORD SPEAKS

Championship teams of the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference are proving to other conferences around Kentucky that their play is superior and their triumphs in the Paintsville's annual bowl fracas show just that.

In 1955 Pikeville met champion Harlan of the Cumberland Valley Conference, a team that sported a 10-0 record, and the Panthers bounced the Green Dragons from the state's elite with a 28-0 whitewashing.

Last year Paintsville, second team in the E.K.M.C., tangled, with undefeated Madison-Model, champion of the 16-team Central Kentucky Conference, and Paintsville promptly send the Blue-grassers home with a 20-0 setback.

Then last Friday Jenkins, present champ of the mountain loop, blasted N.E.K.C. champion Catlettsburg, 26-7, in a game even more lopsided than the score indicates.

HARRISON WINS AWARD

Gary Harrison, Jenkin's speedy halfback, was voted the outstanding player in the Jenkins-Catlettsburg fray last Friday. The diminutive speedster scored two touchdowns, completed four passes and did all the kicking for his team in addition to gaining 185 yards on the ground. He was the top scorer in the area for the season with 118 points.

CLARK SHINES

Veteran Betsy Layne forward Ray Clarke is maintaining last season's scoring pace in his team's first two basketball triumphs. The six-foot three-inch senior tossed in 28 and 29 points in Betsy Layne's 78-59 conquest of Wayland and a 66-55 win over Mullins.

MEET FRIDAY

Garrett and Wayland, arch cage rivals, meet Friday night in the Wayland gym. John Campbell's Garrett Blackdevils whipped Hindman, 71-63, last Saturday night for their second successive triumph.

Reminder Given State Hunters

Frankfort, Nov. 11 (Spl.)—Kentucky's waterfowl season opened Nov. 7 and will close Jan. 15. The State Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources had these reminders for hunters:

Shooting ends at sunset each day and the duck limit is four a day with a possession limit of eight after two or more hunting days.

The bag and possession of geese is five of which no more than two can be Canadas or their subspecies. Wood ducks may not be hunted.

All hunters must possess Federal duck stamps which may be obtained from any post office for $2.

Reports received from major waterfowl hunting areas in the State indicate a large population of ducks and geese has arrived with greater numbers expected as the weather becomes colder.

The Department announced the opening of the Ballard Waterfowl Refuge Nov. 20.

Bow-and-Arrow Hunting Season on Deer Starts

Frankfort, Nov. 11 (Spl.)—The second phase of the Kentucky bow-and-arrow deer hunting season which opened Nov. 8 will continue to Nov. 22 with hunting allowed in 10 counties, according to the State Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Hunting will be allowed in McCreary and Pulaski counties with the exception of the Beaver Creek-Management area, in Nelson and Bullitt counties except in Bernheim Forest and in Meade and Hardin counties except on the Fort Knox Military Reservations.

Hunting is county-wide in Trigg, Lyon, Caldwell and Christian counties.

The Department said during the recent two-week deer season just closed a total of 20 deer were killed on the hunting preserve in West Kentucky. Participating in the event were 465 hunters.

Almost all corn in France is fed to livestock. A few French restaurants serve corn "Mais a l'American", or corn-on-the-cob. But the French public still is reluctant to taste this American delicacy.

STRAWBERRIES

Make plans for mulching strawberry patches now. Plants should be mulched in December after we have a hard freeze and makes the plant dormant.

Mulching materials should be in the patch now. If you are going to use straw, soak it thoroughly with water, this will swell seeds and prevent sprouting. It requires 1½-2 tons of straw to properly mulch an acre. Sawdust or wood shaving can also be used. Disadvantages of sawdust is that it will blow off the patch, and will stick to the berries when they are picked wet. Mulch with ½ inch layer of sawdust over the complete patch.

Mulching protects crowns from winter kill and prevents heaving of plants. Other benefits received from mulching are holding back early blooming which is usually killed by late frost, conserved moisture and slow down weed growth. Berries are also cleaner and picking more pleasant on mulched berries.

PASTURE

Don't overgraze pasture now. The plants need enough leaves during the fall and winter to protect the crowns and to manufacture food for the roots. Even though pulling livestock off pasture early will mean feeding hay, you will be money ahead. It costs money to establish a good pasture.

If you have a straight fescue pasture, an application of ammonia nitrate now would increase growth, so that grazing could be continued up into the winter. 100 pounds of ammonia nitrate would be a suitable application for most fescue fields.

COMPOST

The gardener who needs organic matter to improve his soil, may want to consider making a compost pile. The leaves that are covering the lawn, and which most people are burning, would make ideal compost.

To make a compost pile, start by making a fenced in area about 10 feet across. Put in a layer of leaves 6-8 inches deep then apply a layer of fertilizer made by mixing ammonia nitrate 3 parts, super-phosphate 1 part and ground limestone 3 parts. Then add another layer of leaves, followed by another layer of fertilizer mixture. Continue this till you have a sufficient supply. The compost pile should be kept moist and stirred occasionally. Small amounts of fertile soil or animal manure added to the pile will hasten decomposition.

LAWN

Now is the time to fertilize your lawn. Use 15 pounds of a high grade fertilizer. Such a 5-10-10-, 5-10--15, or 6-12-12, per 1000 sq. ft. of lawn. This fertilizer will keep bluegrass green this winter and start it off early in spring. In March the lawn should receive another fertilizer application.

Our Community's Teachers

It is the teachers—not the textbooks, methods, or classrooms—which largely determine the quality of the educational program. It is the teacher who awakens joy in knowledge, who becomes an ideal for his pupils, who inspires their effort and encourages their achievement. The employment and retention of competent teachers, therefore, is an important concern of every citizen.

One of the critical problems in education today is a serious shortage of qualified teachers. Not only in science and mathematics but in other fields as well we simply do not have enough well-qualified teachers for the positions available. To solve the problem some communities are employing teachers whose preparation is mediocre. Others are increasing class size, often to the point where good teaching becomes impossible.

Public concern with this problem can be expressed in many ways. In the first place, young men and women who by ability and personality should develop into good teachers can be encouraged to enter teaching.

Each community can help the situation, also by retaining the good teachers it already has. Most teachers leave the profession reluctantly and would not do so if the compensation and working conditions in the school were even reasonably close to those offered in other occupations. The community that stands by while competing communities siphon off its best teachers may find it impossible to replace them.

Public understanding and appreciation are important to the retention of good teachers. Many excellent teachers have sought other employment because of an epidemic of irresponsible and unwarranted criticism. As President Eisenhower recently said, "Teachers need our active support and encouragement. They are doing the most necessary and exacting jobs in the land. They can do their best only as we show them our appreciation and offer them our help".

Ike Urges Prayers Thanksgiving Day

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower in his annual Thanksgiving Day proclamation today called on the American public to join with him November 28 in prayers of thanks "for our manifold blessings."

"Let the happiness which stems from family reunions on Thanksgiving Day be tempered with compassion and inspired by an active concern for those less fortunate in our own country and in other lands," the President said in his proclamation.
