Anybody for a Caribbean cruise?

CONFUSIN' BUT NOT AMUSIN'

This is an unusual situation, down here in Venezuela. The Vice President of the United States goes on a goodwill mission and the armed forces have to be called out. The same Mr. Nixon could go to Moscow and be well-received, but in our own hemisphere he is rotten-egged by Communists and fellow-travelers.

A very unusual situation. We would not suggest that our representative turn tail and run, especially since the missus is along, but strikes us that it would be cheaper for him to come on home than for the U. S. to send men and arms to enforce our status of Good Neighbor.

Incidentally, how many friends have our billions made for us?

THIS IS DISCONCERTING

Ever look at one of your grandchildren as he or she looks at you and try to arrive at some conclusion as to what said youngster thinks of you? Well, I did, and what I came up with wasn't complimentary to me. Somehow I couldn't get away from the idea that the boy was thinking, "Well, you old fossil, why stare at me?—go, take a look in the mirror."

VISIT THE LIBRARY OPENING

Do you like books or want others to become fond of them? Then take time out to see what is being done here to take more books to the people. Visit the Regional Library in the old high school building here at its official opening Saturday.

Here is a project with which none of us can pick a fight. Great strides already have been made toward

2 NOTABLES TO SPEAK AT '58 HALL OF FAME

COL. BARNEY OLDFIELD

Two nationally known figures—Col. Barney Oldfield and DelVina Wheelon—will be guest-speakers at the 1958 Floyd County Hall of Fame which will be held here, June 7-8, it was announced last week.

The June 7 portion of the event will include the Hall of Fame banquet at the B & W Cafe here, Mrs. Charlotte Martin, of Martin, said.

Col. Oldfield and Mrs. Wheelon will speak at the Sunday afternoon program. Because of their prominence and the national defense nature of their talks, a large gathering representing all civic organizations and other groups in the county are expected to attend.

24 WITNESSES TESTIFY HERE; PUPILS CALLED

Stumbo Hears Testimony On Causes Of Bus Wreck; Wrecker Driver Quizzed

Twenty-four witnesses—15 school children and nine adults—testified here Tuesday at the court of inquiry held by County Judge Henry Stumbo to investigate the cause of the school bus tragedy which claimed 27 lives near Lancer, Feb. 28.

The first to testify was Donald L. (Dootney) Horn whose wrecker figured in the tragedy. He told of driving south (upriver) on U. S. 23 past the spot where Banner Burchett's pickup truck had crossed the ditchline and come to a halt off the highway, near the cliff, of inquiring whose truck it was and of telling Bennie Blackburn, who lives at the tragedy scene, he would drive on up the road and come back to pull the truck back onto the highway.

Horn said he turned at Knotley Hollow almost at the same time the school bus pulled off the road, drove past it and back to the truck. He said he saw the bus following, about 150 feet behind him, that he had slowed down to 10 to 15 miles per hour and had given a hand signal and that he believed he had started to pull off the road at the time his wrecker was hit by the bus. He said he had made certain the road was clear for the bus to go around him.

He added that after having been hit his truck traveled 60 feet, 5 inches before he could stop it. Then, he said, he heard somebody say the school bus had gone into the river and that he rushed over the bank to do what he could to help. Horn said "the biggest part of the bus had submerged" and that he jumped into the river and swam 15 or 20 feet to the rear of the bus where he helped the children, some of whom already were in the water. He claimed he heard the roar of a motor before the bus struck his wrecker and that it sounded "like the gas was wide open."

Horn admitted that he had driven more than 40 feet past the truck which he proposed to pull across the ditchline onto the highway. He denied that he was backing the wrecker when it was hit.

Fluoride Authorization For Water System Here Requires More Approvals

Although the City Council has enacted and published an ordinance authorizing Dick Davis, superintendent of the Prestonsburg Water System, to add fluoride as a tooth preservative to the water supply here, fluoridation will not be undertaken till certain other authorization is granted, Mr. Davis said Tuesday.

Needed before fluoride is added is consent of the Floyd County Dental and Medical Societies, it was said. The fluoridation process authorized by the Council already has been approved by the State Board of Health.

FLOOD CONTROL PLAN GETS EMERGENCY TEST

Prestonsburg last week got a preview a year ahead of time of the flood control installations on which construction is now barely started, and the critics' reports are good.

In fact, as a result of an improvisation of the "floodwall" that is planned, Prestonsburg escaped at least a foot of water that otherwise would have flooded its streets and invaded many business houses and homes that escaped the water.

When word came from the Weather Bureau that the flood here was expected to rise within three feet of the destructive 1957 level, businessmen and homeowners began evacuating their belongings to the safety of higher ground. And while this was going on Gaylord Robinette, resident inspector on the local flood control project, representing the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, conceived the idea of plugging the culvert beneath the Second street fill through which the Big Sandy rises into Prestonsburg and of handling water accumulating on the Prestonsburg side of the fill by means of pumps.

This is the plan devised for flood control here in its simplest form—to hold out the river and pump and water accumulating behind the barrier. These must be ready for use. Don S. Sturgill, director of State Police, was here and he requisitioned heavy pumps, these to be flown here via helicopter. But the copier pilot on arriving reported that the pumps were too heavy. After that, it was reported that the pumps were en route to Prestonsburg via state truck. Still they did not arrive.

Finally, pumps were sent here by the Corps of Engineers from the big Greenup dam operations.

National Guard trucks and bulldozer and some equipment of the Ranier Construction and the Burchett Trucking Company went into operation. Approximately 150 yards of earth were

3 IN FAMILY AUTO VICTIMS

Rev. Compton and Wife, Son Victims Of Wreck At Abingdon, Virginia

Three members of a former Floyd family met death on a Virginia highway when their auto wrecked on Route 19, a mile north of Abingdon, Sunday morning as they were returning from a visit in this county to their home in Rising Sun, Maryland.

Killed almost instantly were the Rev. Otto Compton, 45, and his wife, Mrs. Mattie Bentley Compton, 45. Their son, Kenneth Arnold, 10, who was riding in the front seat with them, died at Johnson Memorial hospital, Abingdon, early Monday night.

Two other sons of the Comptons, Charles Amos Compton, of Beaver, and Freddie Cline Compton, of Rising Sun, Md., and Mrs. Bellene Compton, wife of Charles Amos, all of whom occupied the rear seat of the auto, escaped

MYSTERY OF AFTER-MIDNIGHT FILLING OF OLD WELL POSES TOUGH PROBLEM FOR OFFICERS

Floyd officers delved Tuesday into what had the makings of a first-class mystery.

They were seeking to determine why a well was filled with rock by night and what was at the bottom of that well, if anything.

Sheriff Hershell Warrens and his deputies took action after residents of the Toler Creek section expressed deep concern about an old, deserted well having been filled with stones around 2 a.m., Saturday. A truck was heard at the well, which had been abandoned since the school it served had burned. The rocks were hauled there. Where they came from had not been determined. The well-box, which had been locked, was torn down.

What residents of the area wanted to know was, why was the well filled and in the small hours of night? And what was at the bottom of that well?

So impertuned, the officers pumped the well dry, removed the rocks. All they found was a dead cat. But the reason for the nocturnal filling of the well still is unexplained.

Perhaps it was just another way of burying a cat.

Drunk Driver Meted Stiff Sentence Here; Other Arrests Listed

E. L. Duvall, who was booked at the jail here Saturday by Deputy Sheriff Earl Warrens on a drunk driving charge, was fined $100 and costs by County Judge Henry Stumbo.

Others arrested for drunk driving were Ramon Davis, who also was booked for possession of moonshine whiskey, and James K. Hall. Bill Goble, Jr., was charged by State Troopers Wright and Williamson with driving on the wrong side of the road and with failure to have operator's license in his possession.

Jailed within the week on other charges were:

Thelma Jenkins, contributing to juvenile delinquency; Paul Willis Johnson, breaking and entering; Arthur Dudley, carrying concealed deadly weapon and having beer in possession; D. B. Howard and Merlin Hall, possessing moonshine; James Blackburn, child desertion.

SQUIRES' PAY BIG QUESTION

State Refuses Approval Of Budgets That Provide Salaries For Magistrates

Will magistrates in Kentucky be permitted to vote themselves salaries for their services as trial judges of criminal cases in which they are forbidden to serve as fee-paid officials?

That question looms large in all Kentucky counties as the state is refusing to approve amendments to county budgets providing funds for such pay of magistrates' salaries. An Appellate Court decision may give the final answer.

Floyd county has not yet budgeted magistrate's pay although the fiscal court has voted each of the four magistrates salaries of $200 a month.

Because of the plan adopted for magistrates in this county to hear criminal cases as salary-paid officials, no action has been taken on the request of County Judge Henry Stumbo for a trial judge to relieve him of much of the office detail which has flooded his office since magistrates have been prohibited from criminal trial work.

James E. Luckett, commissioner of revenue, said last Thursday that the policy of "no approval" of county budgets was adopted pending the outcome of two lawsuits testing the 1953 act permitting magistrates to vote themselves salaries for trying criminal cases.

SCHOOLS PLAN FINAL EVENTS

Prestonsburg Hi, Last To Close As Time Lost As Result Of Tragedy

Beginning late this month and continuing on well into June, Floyd county's major schools have scheduled a round of events which are to be climaxed in each by graduation exercises.

The last school in the county to have its commencement will be Prestonsburg high because of the time lost following the school bus tragedy and while the school itself was occupied by the Kentucky National Guard.

The calendar of events, as released by the office of County Superintendent Virgil O. Turner, follows for each of the schools:

Bituminous Coal Ass'n Selects Pikeville Man As Executive Secretary

Edward G. Fox, president of the Bituminous Coal Operators' Association, announced Tuesday the appointment of C. W. Davis, of Pikeville, Mr. Davis has been secretary of the Association.

Known in the industry as "Bill", Mr. Davis has been secretary of the Big Sandy Elkhorn Coal Operators Association since 1952. He will take office June 1, succeeding Daniel W. Cannon who recently resigned to join the National Association of Manufacturers' staff in New York.

Except for four years with the Field Artillery (1941-45), Mr. Davis has worked in and around the mines since his graduation from high school. Born in Anderson County, Tenn., in 1917, he went into the mines in Campbell County, Tenn., in 1934 and dug coal for three years. Before going into the Army, he held various mine store and clerical jobs. While studying at the University of Tennessee he worked part-time with the Southern Appalachian Coal Operators Association in Knoxville, and after graduating with a Bachelor of Laws Degree in 1948 worked full time with the same association until he took his present position.

Mr. Davis is married and has two children.

GROUP PLANS FINAL MEET

Rescue Squad To Receive Much Equipment Given For Search of River

The Prestonsburg Schoolchildren Recovery Committee, in a move to wind up its operations after the discovery of the body of Paulette Cline who was lost in the tragedy of Feb. 28, voted Monday noon to donate most of its surplus equipment to the newly-organized Floyd County Rescue Squad. Graham Burchett, director of operations, will return much equipment to the manufacturers who gave it as stipulated at the time it was acquired.

Burchett issued an appeal this week to persons who have rain suits, miners' safety lamps, life jackets and any other equipment belonging to the recovery group to return it to the army here. He pointed out that this equipment will be turned over to the Rescue Squad.

A recapitulation of the outboard motors donated to the Recovery committee since it started operations shows that the following were contributed without charge: Four Scott-Atwaters, three Evinrudes, two Johnsons, three Buccaners, one Oliver and one Mercury. One Scott-Atwater was lost in the river at Bull Creek. Six motors were purchased through County Judge Hen-

CLINE CHILD LAST VICTIM TO BE FOUND

Nat'l Guardsmen Leave, All Quiet on the River After Search of 71 Days

The long search for the 27 who lost their lives near Lancer Feb. 28 in the nation's worst school bus tragedy ended Saturday—71 days after it began—in the recovery of the last of the victims, nine-year-old Paulette Cline.

Her funeral from the Moore Funeral Home here Monday afternoon was one of the last, sombre events that began with the plunge of the school bus with its cargo of children and driver into the Big Sandy.

Remaining behind for a last detail of clean-up work were 10 members of the Kentucky National Guard. They left Prestonsburg Tuesday. At one time 500 guardsmen were stationed here to help in the recovery operations. Scene of the tragedy, which for more than two months has drawn thousands of the curious as well as those who sought to be of help, was deserted Saturday night, for the first time since early March, the National Guard's 88-million-candlepower searchlights at the West Prestonsburg bridge did not probe the river.

The body of the last victim was found about 5:30 p.m., Saturday, near the bridge across the Big Sandy at Cliff by Billy Banks, 23, and Jarles Caudill, 27, both of Auxier. Banks, who was recently discharged after Army service, and Caudill, who had returned to this county from Okinawa, announced they will share the $1,000 paid by the School Bus Recovery Committee and the Floyd County Board of Education.

One of those assisting the Auxier men in recovering the child's body was Jones Kerr, the Paris, Ky. man who earlier had helped find two of the victims.

The School Bus Disaster Committee raised through public contributions from a wide section of the country approximately $55,000. This fund has provided a $1,000 funeral for each bus victim and where a reward was claimed by those finding victims has paid half of the $1,000 offered for each body. The remainder of the fund will be divided equally among the bereaved families, Eurl Spurlock chairman, said.

Of the 27 who lost their lives in the disaster, 14 were found in the school bus when it was removed from the river, March 2. Among these was Sandra Faye Cline, 8, sister of Paulette.

This was the scene last Thursday as the fight to keep the Big Sandy out of the First National Bank here succeeded with the aid of sandbags and pumps. Next day, the bank and other nearby places of business were ready to resume work.

In Appreciation

The curtain rang down Saturday on the last scene of the continuing drama, The Tragedy of the River, with the recovery of the last body of the twenty-seven who rode a school bus to their deaths last February 28.

The long search has ended, the river no longer holds its victims, the lights no longer probe the nights along the stream, the searchers have ended their work. And something of the pall of tragedy has lifted.

Now time is left to do its healing, merciful work. This was tragedy that needs no work of the imagination to convert into legend. A sizeable volume could be written about the event itself and all the hundreds of subsequent incidents, about the heroic parents, about the unselfishness of many, the service to others that was given so freely.

But The Times makes no effort to give credit to all who deserve credit, for this is an impossible assignment. No honor roll we would attempt could conceivably be complete. And there is an honor roll—but it will not be written, it must exist in the memories of those who recognize and honor unselfish service.

Floyd county conducted itself admirably during and after the tragedy. Those of our homefolk who did so much are known to, and appreciated by, us all. Then there were those others, those strangers to the children and the bus driver who died, and to their families, who also served. We think of the Kentucky National Guard and the readiness of Governor Chandler to maintain this large body of men here to help during the long weeks of the recovery operations. And, too, of the rescue squads from Morristown, Lafollette, Greenville and Knoxville, Tennessee. And of Jones Kerr, the man from Paris, Ky., who left his business and family to help so effectively and unselfishly and so long.

One thinks of those fathers of the bus victims who searched the river, day after day; one thinks of many, and will think at odd moments of many more.

And when you think of all you can recall and try to express to them your appreciation, you find that such an effort is wholly futile.

For—it may be a trite expression, but none other will suffice—words fail to express appreciation such as we feel and owe to so many.

Not Dead Pigeons—We're Sitting Ducks

Somebody has said, "Without reservoirs to hold back Big Sandy floods, we are dead pigeons."

Wrong. The better figure would be, "We're sitting ducks," since pigeons do not take to water and ducks do—and water is what we will have in the wrong quantities and at the wrong time as long as we of the Big Sandy are at the mercy of whimsical nature.

Little more than a year ago Eastern Kentucky underwent trial by water such as it had never before experienced and such as few river basins in the country had ever seen. There was suffering and desperation. Those who saw businesses and homes flooded to the roofs, the work of years wiped out, in some cases the hopes of the future erased, thought then that, surely, flood control measures could not be delayed much longer. And so it was that they found new hope.

But since those dark days only one reservoir has reached even the embryo stage. The Pound reservoir is barely on the drawing boards. Fishtrap and Haysi were discussed in Washington and up and down this flood-tortured valley last week. Talked. Nothing more.

What will be done? We can only hope. We will become more hopeful when we learn that the needs of our distressed people cry out more loudly and are more clearly heard in Washington than the tinkle of treasury coins.

EXPRESSION OF THANKS

We wish to thank all those who have contributed to the lessening of our sorrow in the recent bus tragedy in which we lost our three dear children. We are grateful for the prayers, the words of encouragement and comfort, the food given, the floral offerings, for the contributions made to the Recovery Committee which we requested instead of flowers for our little daughter; and to the very wonderful people who helped in the recovery of our children from the river. We remember always with deep gratitude all these, and also all the officiating ministers and the Carter & Callihan Funeral Home for its efficient service. Especially do we thank Boy Scout Troop No. 56 of Allen and Scoutmaster Don Martin for their participation at the funerals.

CHURCH MUSIC

We here in Floyd county are lucky to have the musical talent that we have. We have been talking to the ministers of the different churches and they are in agreement that each church should have its own orchestra. The good Lord gave us this talent, so why not pay him back with music?

We are sadly lacking in string instruments, violins, violas, cellos and basses. We are of the opinion that a class can be started and developed to supply this need.

Any girl or boy who desires to learn this instrument (violin) please contact your Pastor.

To start with, those wishing this instruction will study in class form. (Adv. 1t.)

OPEN HOUSE DRAWS 3,000

At McDowell Hospital; Caddy, Featured Speaker On Hospitality Occasion

Three thousand persons, including doctors, technicians and specialists from many allied fields attended the open house held by the Miners Memorial hospital at McDowell Sunday. It was the first instance, according to Harold Parks, administrator, that any medical institution ever completely threw open the doors of all departments, particularly that of surgery and obstetrics, to the public.

The open house in observance of National Hospital Week, was planned for several weeks. Guided tours, with one attendant in charge of 15 to 20 persons, were started every 15 minutes. The entire hospital facilities, including demonstrations and exhibits, in all departments were viewed by the general public, between 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Featured speaker of the occasion was Sam Caddy, of Lexington, president of District 20 of the United Mine Workers. Caddy accepted a flag unit for the hospital from the Wheelwright local of the miners and a plaque, commemorating the installation of the flag, was erected. Representatives from the other nine of the miners' hospital chain in the region and other hospitals were present at the all-day affair.

"There was an amazing number of high school pupils present who were interested in some phase of hospital administration or medical work," said Willis Todd, M. T., who assisted in the public relations work. "The open house was designed to be entertaining as well as educational," he added.

Bob Hicks, in town from Wayland, wondered if my desk was in its usual state or fix. I regret to say, I could not report any improvement in recent months. Which reminds me that, paving around, I found, this very day, a piece of note paper on which was written in a code I am unable to decipher, even if it was in my own hand, these notes:

"fd. may up 2 mil. Ash gets hlp."
If the OWI or any other agency can crack that one, I'll appreciate the favor. It doubtless meant something at some time to somebody, perhaps even to me.

with minor injuries. The Comptons had attended church services at Teaberry, the preceding day. The husband and father was a minister of the Regular Baptist Church. Cause of the tragedy has not been established. The car left the highway, plunged eight feet over an embankment and rammed its radiator into a driveway. Front section of the car folded, accordion-like, and doors of the auto were jammed, requiring the services of the Washington county rescue squad, armed with hydraulic jacks, for the removal of the dead and injured. It was established that the driver was not speeding.

The minister, a veteran of World War II, was employed by General Motors at Wilmington, Delaware, while his wife was a canning factory employe in Rising Sun.

Their surviving children, in addition to those in the car with them, are Mrs. Ramona Harris, Comas Russell, Leonard Matthew, Ira Daniel and Alfreda Compton, all of Rising Sun, and Mrs. Avenella Kiser, of Beaver.

Mr. Compton is survived by his mother, Mrs. Geneva Compton West, of Pikeville, one brother, Johnny Compton, of Lexington, three sisters, Mrs. Glossie Mitchell, Wales, Ky., Mrs. Sophia Damron, Penny, Ky., and Mrs. Sadie Compton, of Martin. Three half brothers also survive: George F. Compton, Minneapolis, Minn., Ralph Compton, of Chicago, and Henry Compton, of Arkansas Creek, this county.

His wife was a daughter of the late John and Sue Bryant Bentley. Besides her children, she leaves one brother, Lee Bentley, Knob Noster, Mo., and two sisters, Mrs. Emma Younce, of Knob Noster, and Mrs. Lula Bryant, Yeager, Ky. She was a member of the Regular Baptist Church.

Funeral rites for the victims were conducted Wednesday from the home at Beaver of the Comptons' daughter, Mrs. Kiser, the Revs. Butler Howell, Hershell Hamilton, Evan Hamilton, and Bill Martin officiating. They were buried in the Newsom cemetery on Robinson Creek, under the direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Mrs. Rebecca J. Parrott, Age 76, of Prestonsburg, Is Victim At Beaver, O.

Bennie Blackburn said he watched Horn drive up the road but that Horn did not turn his wrecker at the Burchett motel and that he did not see him turn at Knotley Hollow, a short distance further south. He said Horn was "driving real slow, just creeping along," when he was hit. He said Horn was already in the water when he got there and that they worked together in the rescue of children. He claimed the bus did not slow down or pull into the left lane to pass the wrecker. He also testified that the emergency door was banging alternately open and shut as it went down the embankment to the river.

Joe Crum, whose car, parked near the end of Blackburn's trailer-home, was grazed by the bus as it rolled toward the edge of the bank, said it was apparent the brakes of the bus were not applied before it struck the wrecker. He estimated the bus speed at 35 miles an hour.

Allen "Atch" Hyden, mechanic for United Fuel Gas Company, told of several things that could have resulted in the tragedy and added that condition of the brakes could not be told after the front axle was pulled off in removing the bus from the river.

Hyden also said he saw skid marks for a distance of five to eight feet on the highway made by dual tires and that these marks followed the route he was told the bus took toward the river. This statement was corroborated by Albert Lafferty.

James Green, chairman of the Floyd County Board of Education, testified that, shortly after the tragedy, Horn told him he was backing his wrecker at a speed of about 10 miles an hour.

Of the 21 children who escaped death, 15 were called as witnesses Tuesday. Three of these said they saw the wrecker pass the bus. The others either said they did not see the wrecker pass or did not recall seeing it. Vivian Carol Kendrick, 15, said the bus pulled off the highway to receive passengers at Knotley Hollow and that the wrecker passed at that time.

Dennis Ousley, 14, estimated that the wrecker was about 10 feet in front of the bus when he saw it. He recalled that he stood up, saw the wrecker in the path of the bus, sat back down and then "felt a sharp hit just before the bus went over the hill." He added that the next thing he knew he was in the water. He had leaped out the rear door of the bus which another boy had opened.

The hearing continued on into Wednesday.

Pupils who were heard Tuesday, besides Dennis Ousley, were Mary Lou Roberts, Ezelle Pennington, Malta Wallen, Vivian Carol Kendrick, Lou Ann Jervis, Martha Otis Burchett, Janice Blackburn, Barbara Collins, David Wright, William Leedy, Jerry Mayo Leslie, Jeff David Gunnell, Otis Ray Sisco, Isaac Vanderpool.

Attorneys taking part in the hearing are County Attorney Robert S. Wellman, Commonwealth's Attorney Hollie Conley, Joe Hobson, attorney for the Floyd County Board of Education, and former County Attorney Woodrow Burchett. Burchett has been retained by the family of the bus driver, John Alex Derossset.

Individuals honored were David Hereford, key man award; Byron Thompson, outstanding member of swimming pool committee and exhausted rooster award; Gordon Moore, publicity award; Charles Spradlin, radio publicity award; John Heinze, social chairman award; Charles J. McNally, teen-age Road-e-o award; Roy Ramey, outstanding secretary; John Griggs, voice of democracy program; Barkley Sturgill, awards committee; Frank Heinze, flood survey; Joe Hal, football program; Paul Hamer, civic improvements; Bob Burchett, outstanding new member in 1957; Don Sullivan, junior golf tournament award; Homer Wright, Boss award; radio stations WPRT and DWOC and The Floyd County Times, recognition and appreciation of services.

Hardin presided at the installation and presented the president's report for the past year which summarized Jaycee activities. He said that after last year's tragic flood members of the Jaycees went into 95% of Prestonsburg homes, revealing, he said, that $6,211,111 was suffered in flood damage. This survey, he said, played a part in obtaining the flood wall and is hoped to be instrumental in the building of Fishtrap and Pound reservoirs.

He cited the Teen-age Road-e-o, a safe driving program, Voice of Democracy speech contest, the junior golf tournament, contributions to the Cameron Relief Fund, and the high school football program.

Hardin said that the Courier-Journal commented that the program compiled by the Jaycees was the best in the state. He said that the Jaycees continued a program which they inaugurated three years ago and that is the presentation of the Rutherford-Salyers Award to the most outstanding senior athlete. The Jaycees backed unanimously the bond issue for the swimming pool which fell short of its two-third majority by only 53 votes. The cake sale followed about Christmas, then the sponsoring of District and regional basketball tournament. He said that the club works not only as a Junior Chamber of Commerce but also as a Chamber of Commerce in that it has made all sorts of accommodations for tourists and answered all Chamber of Commerce correspondence.

New officers are Frank Heinze, president; David Hereford, vice-president; Robert Burchett, secretary; Paul Hamer, treasurer. Guests were Jim Justice, Burlin Coleman and Dr. Orville Clark, all of Pikeville; Marshal Brown, Ray Cornett, and Ike Ritchie, all of Hazard; Joe Leone, state president, and Jim Gray, president of the Frankfort Jaycees. Heinze presented past president pins to John Hardin, Russell May, John G. Heinze, Gordon Moore, and Barkley Sturgill.

moved and dumped at the edge of the fill, directly above the culvert. This kept sliding down as the river rose, taking brush with it and packing into the opening, with pressure from the river making the "flood wall" more adamant.

By 10 o'clock Wednesday night the culvert was plugged, the pumps were in operation—and the river continued to rise on the river side of the culvert but the water came to a standstill behind the fill.

As the water receded in the river the level diminished far more slowly behind the fill, and when pressure on the earthen "plug" ceased from the river the force of the water from behind the culvert flopped the plug out about 2 a.m., Friday.

By daybreak the water had left the town. Then began the clean-up job and the long day of restoring things to normal inside business offices, stores, the bank and homes.

IN MEMORIAM

As I sit here in this room, John Alex, I can look from one window and see your resting place, and from my other window I can see the home you loved so much, John Alex, they say it has been ten weeks since you were taken from us. But to me it was only yesterday that you said, "Hello, Clara Lou."

My mind keeps drifting back to days in the past. When we were small, you, Bryant, Gerald and I, how we played there beside the house while Mother baked us cookies. We were so happy. I remember our birthdays, yours and mine most. We always celebrated ours together. Your twenty-seventh birthday you were under the cold, muddy river, but we didn't forget.

Then our school days. You fought my battles for me, and I yours. You were always so good and humble. You didn't care what anybody said to you, so long as they left me alone.

Then the ten years there in the store, where we had such a happy life with all our friends. We were just one big, happy family.

John Alex, I think that somewhere up there you are looking out over us now, and rejoicing because you are in such a beautiful place, with the other children, and you are all so happy. But, Brother, we miss you so much. Daddy, Mother, Bryant, Gerald, Doug, and I sit in the living room every night now. Our friends and your friends have showed us so much kindness, but we are all so sad, one trying not to let the other know. I keep listening for you in the kitchen, popping corn or making popcorn balls, and then it dawns on me that you will never walk into this room again.

John Alex, you were such a good boy that sometimes it is hard for me to understand why you were taken from us. But you wouldn't want me to feel this way. Like you always said, that for every one bad person there are twenty good ones. Brother, you were the apple of Daddy's eye, Mother's pride and joy, and our big brother. You were always so proud of Daddy and you were so much like him.

John Alex, you wouldn't want me to say this but I must. I wonder if Don S. Sturgill has any sons, and if so, could they be as proud of their Dad as you were of ours, and could he be as proud of them as Dad was of you. I wonder if Mr. Hoffman, the well-dressed stranger, can sleep nights. I don't think that I could. May God forgive those mechanics. May they never forget.

John Alex, we miss you but we are proud of you. You died for the children and you would have wanted it that way. If you had not held the brake as you did, clear into the river, the children would not have gotten out. Everything was against you there in the road that morning. Most of all the big wrecker. I try not to feel bitter toward them. It must have been in God's plan to take you and leave those children to tell the truth.

Brother, I mourn for you, Gerald and Bryant are lost without you, Mother's heart aches for you, and Daddy has no will to go on without you.

In Loving Memory of My Brother, Till We Meet Beyond the River That Is Called The Sweet Forever.

LEADERS URGE IMPOUNDMENT

Dorsey, Mosgrove, Ramey Tell Congressmen Need Of Flood Curtailment

Spokesmen for Big Sandy were unanimous last week in hearings before Congressional committees that the destiny of the valley depends upon the curtailment of seasonal floods by the construction of reservoirs in the headstreams of the river.

All who entered or delivered statements on the appeal for funds to advance planning on Fishtrap reservoir also agreed that the people of this section are approaching defeat in the periodic struggle to live in a valley beset with floods.

"Never did we dream that we would have to plead as a beaten people," said J. H. Mosgrove, president of the Pike County Chamber of Commerce. "We are not asking for fishing lakes or recreation areas. We feel that no projects could be more justifiable than ours when our very existence depends upon flood protection."

Mosgrove's expressions were echoed by Rev. Harold W. Dorsey, pastor of the First Methodist church here, who said, "We do not want to be counted a disaster and relief county. The people of our county are proud and individualistic. This help is requested only for the purpose of helping us to help ourselves."

Mayor Bill Napier, in a statement filed with the Congressional group holding appropriations hearings, agreed with Dorsey and Mosgrove. "We are desperate," he said. "We need your help—not for relief but to build a foundation whereon the citizens of my city and county can build a strong economy."

George L. Ramey, Paintsville, director of Johnson County Flood Control Association, submitted an economic analysis of the Big Sandy that exhibited revealing figures. The flood plain of the Big Sandy is 1,100 feet at Pikeville and averages 1,300 feet from Pikeville to Louisa. He spoke of the high population concentration in the valley, pointed out that the valley has 100 people per square mile but that if only the areas suitable for farming or houses were considered the population would be 700 per square mile. This is nearly ten times the Kentucky average of 73.9 and 14 times the average of density of the United States.

Ramey asserted that before the 1937 flood a match factory had completed plans to come to Paintsville and that Mayo Vocational School, of which he is head, was preparing to train the operatives. "The flood came and the match factory went elsewhere," he added.

Dorsey touched upon a little discussed side effect the river has upon the residents of the valley. "The people of America cannot realize the emotional, economic and social change that this river has caused," he told the Congressmen. He spoke of a mother who had lost her store last year in the flood and her children in a river tragedy this year when the water was high. She looked at the river and said, "I hate that river."

Dorsey added that the stream, though, could be a thing of beauty and of economic value. It could be a source of power for industry, a thing of beauty for tourists. "When one considers the need for improvement in Eastern Kentucky, and the need for some psychological and emotional solace, it seems that $140,000 asked for the planning of Fishtrap Reservoir during 1958 is almost a farce."

Mosgrove added to his statement a calculation of a certified accountant of Pikeville that the federal government lost $12,000,000 alone in taxes last year due to deductions of flood losses.

Col. Smithers, head of the Corps of Engineers at Cincinnati, told the Congressmen that if we had had the Fishtrap and Pound River reservoirs in January 1957, the water crest at Prestonsburg would have been 14 feet less. He offered figures to prove it.

Congressman Carl D. Perkins, of Hindman, in a letter to President Eisenhower Thursday of last week requested hurry-up planning on Fishtrap and urged the appropriation of $450,000 for the work. Perkins pointed out to the President that the two impoundments would cost only an estimated $37,600,000 while the cost of the flood in January last year exceeded $40,000,000.

SEA OFFERS HELP, MAYOR ANNOUNCES

Mayor Bill Napier said this week that the Small Business Administration has offered to send a representative here to help if help is needed as a result of flood damage suffered last week.

If such help is needed, the Mayor suggested that prospective applicants for loans should contact him.

Dave M. Magill, state local-finance officer for the department, said he had rejected every budget amendment that had come to his desk, and informed several other counties by telephone of the policy. Rejections total 10 or 12, he said.

Counties are required to submit their annual budgets to the Department of Revenue for approval. The aim is to ensure balanced budgets. Budgets for this fiscal year were approved in May and June of 1957, and major revisions must be submitted as amendments.

The bill permitting magistrates to vote themselves salaries became law March 28. It carried an emergency clause, and thereby became law the day Governor Chandler signed it.

Last year the Court of Appeals ruled that magistrates cannot try criminal cases because, under the fee system, they had a financial interest in convictions. The effective date was set as January 6, the day magistrates elected in November, 1957, assumed office for the 1958-62 term.

The 1958 Legislature then passed the salary bill designed to restore magistrates to jurisdiction of criminal cases. In counties with population up to 30,000, the salary was set at not more than $100 each; from 30,000 to 60,000 population, not more than $200 a month each; from 60,000 to 25,000 population, not more than $300 a month each.

There are 769 magistrates in Kentucky. Along with the county judge, they comprise the fiscal courts of 110 counties. (Commissioners and the judge comprise the court in the remaining 10 counties.)

Several fiscal courts voted themselves salaries shortly after the new law was signed. Harlan County Attorney Cawood Smith filed a suit against action of the Harlan magistrates in voting themselves $250 a month. And W. D. Bratcher, Greenville, filed a similar suit against Muhlenberg county magistrates paying themselves $200 a month.

Both suits raise this same basic question: Can the pay of magistrates be raised when the Constitution forbids an increase to elected officials during the term of office. The pay for magistrates who took office January 6 was $15 a day for the days served as members of the fiscal court. Before the adverse ruling of the Court of Appeals, magistrates supplemented this pay with fees from criminal cases they tried.

North on Lake Drive, the Dairy Queen and the Master Service Station were flooded, as was the Black Cat Drive-In, still farther North.

At Martin business houses on the lower side of Highway 80 and several residences in the "Bralley Camp" area were flooded. Furnishings and belongings in stores and homes there also were packed away, high and dry, as the big rise was expected.

Traffic was at a standstill late Wednesday and most of the day Thursday as U. S. 23 was blocked at several points and the water cut Ky. 80 near Martin, roads leading from Prestonsburg and Paintsville to Salyersville and from Paintsville to Inez.

Schools here did not reopen till Friday, and at Allen and Cow Creek till Monday. Gates of Dewey dam were completely closed to save Paintsville some of the expected hard blow, and Dewey Lake still was about 15 feet above conservation pool Tuesday. The restaurant at the boat dock rode high but was anchored by the cantilever device which will return it to its foundation as the water subsides. The dock there is not accessible by auto.

But for the heavy foliage and lush growth of grass of an unusually wet spring, the flood might have been much worse, observers say.

The story at Pikeville and Paintsville was much the same as that in Floyd towns—high waters, damage, inconveniences, long hours of anxiety, but nothing so bad as had been feared and even predicted.

two nationally televised shows, the well-known "This Is Your Life" and "You Bet Your Life."

Mrs. Wheelon, a onetime Powers model and Kentucky horsewoman, is known to radio listeners as DelVina. She won McCall's magazine's Golden Mike Award in 1956 for her 26-week radio series, "Women in the Air Age," and her latest series, "The Atom and You," has already drawn glowing praise as it is heard on 150 stations in the United States and in Europe by transcription.

DelVina became the first woman passenger in a plane as it broke the sound barrier, was the first woman in America to be officially dubbed a "jet jockey," and is America's first "Supersonic Sweetheart", a title conferred on her during her Air Force Association appearance where she became the first woman to be honored by the AFA with the Citation of Honor.

Three new members, one man, one woman and one young person will be named to the Hall of Fame by a new secret committee. This feature is part of the program Sunday afternoon. All meetings will be broadcast over Radio Station WDOC.

Among those who have worked hard each year to promote the event are: Mrs. Robert Martin, of Martin, recording secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Winnie P. Johns, book of archives; Henry P. Scaif, historian; Chalmers Frazier, acting president; Mrs. E. R. May and others.

Disaster-ridden Floyd county now lives with its memories.

Greenup, seat of Greenup county, was named for Christopher Greenup, governor of Kentucky (1804-1808.) The town was known as Greensburg until 1872 where the name was changed to avoid confusion with Greensburg in Green county.

Named for Richard Hawes, Hawesville, seat of Hancock County, was named for Richard Hawes, who owned the land on which the town site was platted. The county bears the name of John Hancock, president of the Continental Congress from 1775-1777.

DAVID

CLUB IN MONTHLY MEET

The David Woman's Club met for the May meeting at the home of Mrs. Oliver Marshall. Thirty-two members were present.

Mrs. Lon Hill, Civilian Defense chairman, reported plans for having each member prepare a "security shelf" for the home.

Plans were made to send five members to the national convention in Detroit in June. Those attending will be Mrs. Pete Capelli, Mrs. Francis Harmon, Mrs. Dawson Bussey, Mrs. Ora Howard and Mrs. Lili Mae Price. They will fly to Detroit.

Mrs. Jane Wallace, of Prestonsburg, presented a very informative program on nursing. The club had invited as special guests a group of teenage girls interested in nursing. Mrs. Wallace ended her program with a question-and-answer period.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Oliver Marshall, Mrs. Tom Cole and Mrs. Gene Wells.

BARKLEY BUST DEDICATED

Senator Cooper and Mrs. Barkley at last Tuesday's ceremony dedicating the bust of former Vice-President Barkley.

In a moving ceremony just off the floor of the Senate where he served his state and country for so many years, a marble bust of Alben Barkley was unveiled April 29 by Mrs. Barkley. Attending the dedication were many of the beloved "Veep's" friends from Kentucky and from the national scene, as well as the state's Congressional delegation and his colleagues from the Senate itself, which suspended its proceedings for the event.

In his remarks honoring the Vice President, Kentucky's John Sherman Cooper said: "The quality that made him beloved in his own state was the fact that he never forgot the land and the people from which he sprang. His humanity and his humor, his humility and his perseverance, made them know that he was one with them—that he understood them, their problems, and their aspirations." "This understanding of people, and this faith in people, were the bedrock of his political philosophy," said Cooper. "He could say with Lincoln, 'Why should there not be a patient confidence in the ultimate justice of the people? Is there any better, or equal hope, in the world? ... He was a man ... We shall not look upon his like again.'"

College Announces Abbreviated Course In Nurses' Training

Pikeville, Ky., May 6 (Spl.)—A two-year program of nurses' training, said to be the first of its kind ever offered in Kentucky, will be opened in September at Pikeville College.

"The development of the two-year course by pioneers in nursing education in other states offers Pikeville a chance to help relieve a serious shortage of registered nurses in this area," Dr. A. A. Page, college president, commented today in making the announcement.

Lasting about 22 months instead of the usual three years, the nurses' course will include English, Bible, psychology, and science courses in the college. Classes in the Fundamentals of Nursing and in Clinical Nursing, to be taught at the Pikeville Methodist hospital, make up 44 semester hours of the program's 70 hours of credit.

The condensed course, approved for trial by the Kentucky State Board of Nurse Examiners and Nurse Registration, has been used successfully in Virginia, New York, Michigan, Utah, and elsewhere. Dr. Page said. Students completing it successfully will be eligible to take the Kentucky State Board examination to become registered nurses.

A maximum of 10 students each year will be accepted in the new program, which will be directed by Doris E. Carey, R. N., M. P. H., (213 Main St.), Wilmore, Ky.

Graduation from an accredited high school, with a C average in grades and the recommendation of the principal, will be required for admission to Pikeville's new nursing course, Dr. Page said. Candidates accepted will be selected by personal interview at the college.

Applications for places in the class entering in September, 1958, now are being received. The first entrants may expect to become registered nurses by 1960, it was said.

KOREAN STUDENT KIN ASKS SLAYER MERCY

Philadelphia, May 2 — The parents of a slain Korean student at the University of Pennsylvania asked mercy Friday for the teenage gang that committed the crime, called one of the most shocking in the city's history.

An appeal for "the most lenient treatment possible within the laws of your government" was dispatched from Pusan, South Korea, by the parents of Oh In Ho, 26-year-old graduate student, who was killed last Friday by hoodlums on the prowl for money to go to a dance.

The parents said they would set up a fund "to be used for religious, educational, vocational, and social guidance of the boys when they are released."

District Attorney Victor H. Blanc said:

"This is a beautiful gesture and I can well understand the motives that prompted it, but they have no conception of what we are up against."

"We have a problem in our city and the first interest of my office must be in the safety and the future of the people of Philadelphia. We cannot pussyfoot; we cannot go easy with these hoodlums who commit adult crimes."

"Every one of the accused will be indicted for murder and ... the death penalty will be sought for each of them."

An uncle of the victim, On Ki Hyound, dean of the Pusan branch of Yonsei University, joined with the parents in sending copies of the petition to the court, Mayor Richardson Dilworth, the president of the University of Pennsylvania, and the director of the Red Cross in Philadelphia.

Dilworth, attending Oh's funeral Monday, broke down and wept, saying that he was ashamed for the city that so dreadful a crime should have been committed here.

Eleven Negroes, ranging in age from 15 to 19, are being held for the grand jury on homicide charges. They are accused of setting upon Oh as he was about to mail a letter near Penn campus, beating him to death with a blackjack and pop bottles.

Oh's parents, Presbyterians, said in their petition:

"We hope you can spare a piece of land in your country and bury our boy there, for your land is part of the homeland of Christians and people of democratic society."

"Thus we will remember your people and you remember our people and both you and we will more vitally sense an obligation for better guidance of juvenile delinquents whose souls are unsaved and whose human nature is paralyzed. We hope in this way to make his tomb a monument which will call attention of people to this cause."

IDLE WORKER RISE NOTED

Economic Picture Darker Now Than in Early 1930's Commissioner Announces

Kentucky's unemployment picture is the worst since the "darker days of the depression in the early '30's," Economic Security Commissioner Vego Barnes says. The continued rise of idle workers, he said, is "cause for concern."

"It should have been the other way around on a seasonal basis. Our unemployment dropped in April last year," he said.

Barnes released figures Wednesday showing unemployment insurance payments jumped more than one million dollars from March to April. The number of persons receiving unemployment insurance in the state nearly doubled from last April to this April.

March payments totaled $4,932,876, Barnes said, while payments last month were $6,118,119. "Our unemployment picture now is worse than it has been any time since the insurance program was started," he said. "This means it is worse than it has been since the darker days of the depression in the early '30's."

The report showed the average weekly number of persons getting jobless paychecks a year ago in April was 37,688. But that figure jumped to 65,599 last month. There was an increase of nearly 10,000 persons on benefit rolls from the month before.

Barnes said even this is not the true unemployment picture. To get it, he said, "you would have to double the 65,599 figure."

He estimated there are 40,000 idle workers who don't qualify for insurance payments and there are "thousands of young people who haven't found jobs yet and other thousands who have lost their jobs in other states and have returned to their homes in Kentucky."

Barnes said the trust fund from which benefit checks are paid is sound, but a desperate situation could develop unless an improvement comes soon.

"We would get worried only if the present trend should continue another year without prospects for improvements," he said.

The Brandy Keg 4-H Club received the Kentucky Power Company's second place award of $5.00 recently for its work. Presenting the check is Clifford Boyd, sales representative. Others shown are Patty Harris, Thelma Jean Spears, Earlene Spears, Ernestine Ratliff, Fanny Harris and Mrs. Opal May, club leader.

THIS IS CRAZY, MAN-- BUT SO WAS THE GAME

By QUENTIN ALLEN

A raging battle of two hardwood giants was not settled as they gallantly fought themselves into exhaustion when the Kiwanis Die-Hards last Tuesday night tied the Jaycee Slash-throats, 136-136—as both teams connived in doctoring the score-book and paying the referees.

The contest, played for the benefit of the Junior and Senior classes of Prestonsburg high school, was hilarious in its seriousness and boring in its comic ineptness as players for both teams fell frequently in gasping fits on the floor after running the length of the basketball court at a donkey trot.

The fray started with C. J. McNally, Jaycee muscle man, hitting a two-handed leaping hook from 90 feet out. Johnny (Red Noggin) Heinze promptly dispatched McNally, his own team-mate, with a startling left smash which left fight fans agasp. He later said, "I'm the shotgun of this outfit."

It was true, he was carrying a .12 gauge.

Don (Lotus Blossom) Sullivan came back for the Kiwanis after a session with Amos Gray's resuscitator in plunking a one-handed driving shot which toppled 10 Jaycee players who attempted to gang tackle Sullivan. The Kiwanis brought baseball bats and gloves and had momentarily fallen into the delusion that it was a baseball game. Kiwanis president Jim (Dirty Player) Camicia was found preparing a spit ball when referees Johnny Ellis and Adrian Blackburn sent for county officials to give him a hearing.

The halftime score stood at 48-32 in favor of the Kiwanis. Thurman Hughes displayed fine speed in dunking seven consecutive goals. This was performed at halftime while Hughes used a Pontiac Bonnierville and a seven-foot ladder. The goals counted, although the Jaycees, bad sports that they were, contested the legality of the points.

The Kiwanis went on a note to the First National Bank, paid the referees, and the prison-shirted men counted them good. A Jaycee wife was heard in the stands making small sounds of revulsion for the referees.

Spectators began kicking each other's shins when Ollie (Slim) Robinson started the second half for the Kiwanis. Cutting a lithe figure on the floor, he knifed between Jaycee defenders for a thirty-five yard run without one dribble to score on a backhanded knee-knocker double entree shot. The ball, in its flight to the goal, bounced off several beefy spectators who challenged Robinson to a hog-calling duel. Robinson—later rebounding off the floor superbly—ran through the dressing room like a Western Union messenger, sneaked in the side door for several scintillating goals which brought the crowd hissing to its feet.

Matters were evened up when Frank (Jaycee president) Heinze plopped in several fine shots and John (Little Abner) Hardin cracked John (Tarzan) Griggs in the jaw with a superb right punch. Griggs had accounted for several fine flying tackles which had prevented Jaycee scores at the last second. The contest ended with an empty gym at 2 a.m. with both sides goodnaturedly beating each other with blackjacks. Referees Ellis and Blackburn plus Martha and Sally Burchett, Betty Gail Hagewood, Marty May, and Judy Howard, joined the contest and played for several hours. The girls scratched several opposing players' faces, which made them very effective.

handicapped in Tuesday's game after accidentally hitting his head against the goal while showing a team mate, Tom (Doubting Thomas) Hereford, that he could touch the top of the backboard . . . The opposition thought they should have let DuRan Moore play longer . . . Everyone missed the fine playing of Gordon (Red) Moore, diminutive Jaycee ball-hawk . . . Blackburn, referee, was voted the game's outstanding player. Referee Ellis was a close second . . . Adolph (Jim May) Rupp, the man with the black umbrella, had several fine fits of anger, which amused the spectators . . . Amos Gray and his firemen stood by to catch fallen and staggering stars . . . Dirty trick of the night occurred when Johnny (Low-Down) Heinze tricked his brother-in-law, Quentin (Empty-Headed) Allen into throwing a pass to him. He wasn't on Allen's side. Allen retaliated by beating the floor and staring in a fixed manner . . . Homer Wright was a jewel in his costume which resembled moutch-oe French Lord Faunteroy with thinning thatch . . .

Many Youngsters Request Supervised Pony League; Recreation Lack Cited

Approximately 25 youngsters called on Prestonsburg parents last week in the name of baseball.

The youngsters, who confess to ages of 13 to 16, have said that they want a part in the baseball program. They propose a Pony League, supervised by adults.

Several of the youngsters said that they are too young to work and too old to play. They cited the lack of recreational facilities as the reason they are "too old" to play.

"Sure, we'd like to play baseball, but there's no baseball for us. People think Little Leaguers are the only ones who like baseball. Now that I'm past the Little League, I guess people don't expect me to like baseball any more."

These youngsters don't like time hanging for their hands. They are active. They hitch-hike to Paintsville for swimming, stand on street corners for recreation in Prestonsburg.

And a little red-head who stood around swinging an imaginary bat said, "Why we're so willing to play, we'll even skip uniforms. Don't want nothing fancy. Just a bat and ball and maybe a few bases."

When The Fishing Was Good

Conservation Officer Urges Boating Care

Conservation Officer Raymond Copley has issued a special appeal to Floyd county fishermen to "use common sense afloat."

Copley, looking to a big vacationing and fishing year, said more people will be taking to the waterways of Kentucky this year than ever before. "There will be more people, and we're afraid, more accidents, unless everyone uses common sense afloat", Copley said.

Statisticians estimate 35 persons will die in boating accidents in Kentucky during the 1958 season. Hoping to cut that estimate, Copley issued these eight rules for staying alive on Kentucky waters this summer:

- (1) Know your boat—every boat has its limitation. Learn what you can expect from your boat.
- (2) Balance your load—distribute weight evenly in the boat, from side to side and from bow to stern.
- (3) Watch the weather—head for shore before a storm breaks. If caught out, seat passengers on the floor.
- (4) Keep low—and step in the center when boarding or changing seats.
- (5) Head into waves—if waves are high, head your boat at an angle towards the waves at a slow speed.
- (6) Use the right motor—too much power can damage your boat, may even swamp it. Look for OBC recommended horsepower power plate.
- (7) Don't overload—seats do not indicate capacity. Two or three adults may be a full load under many conditions.
- (8) Avoid sharp turns—fast, short turns are hard on equipment and sometimes people. Take it easy.

STATE TRACK MEET

The eyes of Eastern Kentucky high school track followers will center this week-end on Lexington where the state high school track meet will be held.

Holding the center of attention is Flat Gap's Hayes Castle, a 16-year-old freshman distance runner.

The agile speedster set two new regional track marks last Friday in Elkhorn City and in so doing bettered the state high school record in the mile run and 880-yard run.

The present state record for the mile is 4:33.8 and Castle's time was 4:31 in the regional or 2.7 seconds better than the state record. In the half-mile or 880-yard run, he sped the distance of 1:55 or 6.1 seconds faster than the present state mark.

Paintsville's half-mile relay team of J. Wells, R. Wiley, M. Kelley, and M. Minix should make a good showing in the state meet after winning the regional in the impressive time of 1:33 only eight-tenths of a second over the present state record.

NEW COACHES

Three University of Kentucky athletes will move into head coaching positions in Eastern Kentucky high schools next season. LAST P.-T.A. MEET OF YEAR

The last meeting of this year for the Wheelwright P.-T.A. was held at the Wheelwright high school cafeteria. An appetizing array of foods was brought by the members for a pot-luck supper.

The retiring president, Elmer Ferguson, thanked his officers for their help and good work during the year and agreed that Boone Hall, the principal, really did need some of the things he asked for and got. In answer, Mr. Hall thanked and praised the P.-T.A. for its help and cooperation with the school.

Wayne Ratliff, county school supervisor, was present and was, as usual, very welcome to the meeting. After a few comments he installed the new officers for the next school year. The officers are: President, Landon Rowe; vice-president, James O. (Bill) Harris; secretary, Mrs. Belle Stevens, and re-elected treasurer, Steve Clark.

The rollcall for most parents present representing the grade school brought a three-way tie between Mrs. Boone Hall, Mrs. Greta Osborne and Mrs. Newman. Ollie Slone by a very close margin won for the high school.

Most of our mail, at the beginning of January, is full of good cheer about the New Year. But our soaring good spirits about 1958 were rather dampened by a letter from a journalism student who wrote to ask, "Are the country weeklies of America doomed?"

He said he had been assigned a research paper on that theme and would like any information obtainable on the subject. He said that he was to attack the subject from the standpoint of country weeklies being forced out of business by larger metropolitan dailies.

After carefully considering his question, we wrote the following reply:

"Dear Sir:

"Aside from the eventuality of possible attack by fearful weapons, we would say that the continuation of country weeklies is one of the few things we can count upon in this troubled world. As for being forced out of business by metropolitan dailies—it might be well for those dailies to look to their laurels. For if the Davids and Goliath of the newspaper business ever came to swords points, we would put our money on the Davids.

"Instead of using such a doleful title for your research paper, we would suggest that you ask your professor if you can change the title to, "The Golden Age of the Country Newspaper." Then you might include some of the following points in your thesis:

"1. The biggest and most prosperous weekly newspapers are published in the shadow of our nation's biggest cities—New York, Chicago, Los Angeles. No signs of 'doom' there.

"2. People who read metropolitan dailies do so for national and international news, details of the murders and scandals of prominent people, and to keep up on the 'funnies'. Those same people, if they live in a country or suburban town, read their country weekly for news about their personal friends, local developments affecting their own

Kentucky's 1957 Income Down Only One Per Cent

Lexington, Ky. — Kentucky's realized net income for 1957 was down only 1 per cent from the 1956 figure, the Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service said this week, in commenting on statistics released nationally on state incomes.

About half the 48 states in the U. S. also showed an increase, or no significant change, the report says further.

Adjoining states, however, showed varied figures for the period. Tennessee and Missouri both were down 11 per cent from 1956; Illinois, down 4 per cent; Indiana up 2 percent; Ohio down 5 percent; West Virginia down 1 per cent; and Virginia, down 12 per cent.

Where increases in realized net income per farm were recorded, it usually was attributable to increased cash receipts for livestock, poultry, or livestock and poultry products.

Ray Moore, new Chicago White Sox pitcher, relieved in only one game for Baltimore in 1957. Sox manager Al Lopez plans to use him in relief this year.

families, editorials written by a man they know personally, political news about their own town, school news about the very schools their own children attend, and advertisements of the stores right in their own shopping area. Given a choice of one paper or the other, which do you think they would feel they have to read? Sure, they want to know the 'big news'—but they could get that, if necessary, from TV and radio. Where else but in their hometown paper could they get the news of the people who really mean something to them and of the community in which they live and pay taxes?

"3. Come depression or prosperity, the merchants in small towns will continue to support their local weekly because it is their only sure way of bringing in customers. Poor business in cities has forced many a daily to the wall, but respected weeklies have survived every crisis which ever hit this country.

"4. Increases in population, coupled with decentralization of industry, means bigger small towns—more people living in the suburbs and the country. Circulation increases are the order of the day for country weeklies, while many big city papers are having a tough time to keep even.

"5. More and more weeklies are being published successfully right in the heart of the metropolitan cities to fill the insatiable demand of people for local neighborhood news and advertisements of neighborhood stores.

"These are but a few of the reasons why we see the 'golden age' of weeklies on the horizon. "We do not anticipate that there will ever be any 'survival of the fittest' contest between weeklies and metropolitan dailies. Each serves an important and very different function in our society. But if a decision ever had to be made—if 'doom' for one or the other was at stake—we believe the humble weekly would come out victorious."

Bland Ballard Hated Indians

Bland Ballard came to the Kentucky frontier 12 years later than Boone, but few of the pioneers fought to clear the state of Indians as vigorously as did Ballard.

Daniel Boone could be peaceful and genuinely friendly with Indians. He killed them when it was impossible to do otherwise, but he never bragged about it. When questioned about Indians he had killed, Boone, according to those who knew him, replied in the following various way: "As I was looking at the fellow, he tumbled into the river, and I saw him no more." "I heard a gun crack, and I thought it was mine." "Sounded like Tick-Licker (his favorite rifle now owned by the Kentucky Historical Society)." "They tumbled into the water, and I never saw them any more." "While I looked at them, they fell down and never crossed my path again."

Ballard, on the other hand, is reported to have boasted of having killed six Indians one morning before breakfast and then followed this statement with the apology that it wasn't a very good morning, however, for the business.

One morning while on scouting duty for George Rogers Clark, Ballard spotted a canoe on the Ohio River which contained three unsuspecting Indians. He killed them with professional-like precision, one by one. Another time, he shot an Indian, who had just scalped a camp guard. Not content with merely pursuing and killing the Indian, Ballard returned triumphantly to his friends, carrying in his hands the still-dripping scalps.

Once when his horse was stolen by three Indians, Ballard took a short cut and headed off the thieves. From ambush, the Indian riding the horse was shot, causing the frightened animal to bolt. Ballard leaped on the galloping horse as it went by and made good his escape.

In 1853 the old pioneer lay dying at the age of 92. An Indian came to his house, begging for food. Before Mrs. Ballard could persuade the Indian of the danger of his mission, the aged man suddenly raised himself out of bed, grabbed for his rifle, and shouted: "I smell an Indian."

Just as the unlucky redskin cleared the fence, Ballard got off his first shot, splitting the top rail, one of the few times in his life that Bland Ballard's aim was too low.

BRANHAM IS GRADUATED

MUNICH, GERMANY—Sgt. Branham, son of Joe Branham, Dwaile, Ky., recently was graduated from the Seventh Army Non-Commissioned Officer Academy in Munich, Germany.

Sergeant Branham, whose mother, Mrs. Cora Mills, lives on Route 2, Gray, is regularly assigned as a squad leader in Company B of the 8th Division's 46th Infantry in Kireh-Goens, Germany. He arrived overseas in April 1957 from an assignment at Fort Knox. Branham entered the Army in 1952 and is a holder of the Combat Infantryman Badge.

The 25-year-old sergeant was formerly employed by the Kaiser-Fraser Corporation, Ypsilanti, Mich. His wife, Marie, is with him in Germany.

Pike College Man Charged With Murder In Slaying Of Associate Workman

A Pikeville College freshman who worked as a night watchman for an automobile service was charged with murder in the fatal shooting recently of a fellow employee.

Sheriff Moss Keesee and state police said Howard G. West, 23-year-old Army veteran and father of a 2-year-old girl, admitted in an oral statement that he killed Freddie Gene Clark, 24. The shooting, with a 22-caliber pistol that West used in connection with his duties as watchman at Hall's Wrecker Service, followed a fight between the two men, Keesee said.

Clark was married and the father of a boy and a girl. He normally worked at the company's junk yard during the daytime but was in charge in the absence of proprietor Bobby Hall, Keesee said Hall explained.

There had been some friction between West and Clark last fall, Hall said. He reported that West resented Clark's supervision, but he, Hall, said he made it clear that Clark was in charge in his absence and the owner said he thought the two employees had settled their differences.

Hall told officers he and Ed Justice of Pikeville witnessed the shooting in the junk yard about 6 p.m. He said they saw Clark and West scuffling and at first thought it was a friendly match. Hall said he separated the two on learning differently. West fired after they were separated, Keesee quoted the owner as saying.

Clark ran or staggered about 20 feet, collapsed, and died with a bullet wound in the chest.

In his tape-recorded statement, the sheriff said, West related this sequence of events:

He was driving along a road near the establishment about 5:30 p.m. when he passed Clark, who was crossing the road to his own yard's junked car lots. He looked back over his shoulder, noted that Clark had an angry expression and thought that perhaps he had splashed Clark when one of the wheels of his car hit a water-filled hole in the pavement.

Some minutes later Clark arrived back at the yard. His clothes were dry and West did not offer an apology. They went about their business and in a few minutes Clark struck at him muttering something West did not understand. West had a lug wrench in his pocket, along with the pistol. He struck at Clark after Clark said something which sounded like: "I'll teach you to try to run over me."

He said he had been clinging to Clark in an effort to keep Clark from hitting him.

West gave his height as 5 feet 10 inches and his weight as about 130. Commonwealth's Attorney Kelsey E. Friend said Clark weighed about 175 pounds and was 5 feet, 11 inches tall.

Keesee said there was lacerations on the heads of both men.

West said he did not remember firing the pistol and his statement made no mention of Hall's separating him and Clark. He said he thought both men were on their feet when the shot was fired.

West was jailed without bond pending a hearing. No date was set.

Three-Short Treatment Needed On Strawberries

LEXINGTON, Ky. — A three-shot treatment of insecticides is needed right now on strawberry fields, says J. G. Rodriguez, Kentucky Experiment Station entomologist.

The recommended treatment is for plants in the "early bloom" stage, he said.

Insects to be protected against are the cat-facing bugs, strawberry weevils, mites, aphids, crown borers and in some cases, the leaf-roller. A special insecticide is suggested for the leaf-rollers if strawberry raisers have experienced trouble with them previously.

Here are the materials:

DUST: 4 5-percent Malathion dust, a 5-percent DDT dust and a 7.5-percent Captain dust. Combine these three and apply at 40 pounds per acre. Generally the preparation sold commercially as "strawberry dusts" will contain Malathion and DDT in combination, Rodriguez said.

SPRAYS: Take 100 gallons of water and add the following to it in these proportions: Four pounds of 25-per cent Malathion wettable powder; two pounds of 50-percent DDT wettable powder; and five pounds of 5-0-per cent Captain wettable powder. This 100-gallon spray mixture will cover an acre.

The DDT and Malathion control insects; the Captain is a fungicide to control harvest rots, etc.

If growers have been troubled previously by the leaf-roller, add two pounds of the 50-percent TDE wettable powder to the Malathion-DDT-Captain mixture described above.

7 Million Dollar Topo Map Covers Commonwealth

Kentucky is celebrating completion of a seven million dollar mapping program which has placed the Bluegrass state ahead of all others as the best-mapped in the nation.

The Kentucky topographic map, prepared by the Economic Development Department on a matching-and basis with the U. S. Geological Survey, consists of 765 quadrangles to cover the state's 40,395 square miles. The quadrangles are large-scale, general purpose maps, each showing a relatively small area on a sheet 22 by 27 inches.

Each sheet covers about 59 square miles at a scale of 2,000 feet to the inch. Contour intervals are 10 to 20 feet generally and 40 feet in rugged sections of East Kentucky.

Aerial photography was used to nap all areas. In some flat sections, plane-table surveying also was used. Photography is the first step from which topographic manuscripts are taken.

The manuscript is carefully checked in the field and, from this copy, a preliminary sheet is made. This is followed by a proof, or composite, and then the final edition of the map is printed in five colors. It requires three years to make a topographic map.

Mrs. Carre A. Allen, map librarian for the department, says the maps are of no value unless used by Kentuckians. She says they are sent to state agencies, legislators, county officials, colleges, public libraries and private organizations and individuals. She says technical users of the maps include highway and consulting engineers, geologists, oil and communications companies.

Mrs. Allen lists some other users and purposes:

Ministers taking church census; hikers, planning routes to avoid hills; cemetery companies, studying topography of land for graveyard additions; trainers of racing pigeons to locate valleys where wind velocity is great; boat captains, needing navigation charts of Kentucky waterways; sportsmen, determining fishing areas; dog kennel owners, locating training grounds for dogs; archaeologists, locating and exploring Indian mounds; Kentucky Health Department, exploring areas where salt-marsh mosquitos breed.

Aerial photographs taken in conjunction with the maps have been used on television programs to show where fish are biting and by "revenueurs" in locating stils.

The department also prepares special purpose maps. These include maps of gas and oil pipelines, railroads, communication, forests, geologic regions, industries, retail market areas, utilities, streams of Kentucky, and land areas and their potential use.

DOGS RECEIVE RABIES SERUM

899 Dgs Vaccinated In Series of Clinics; Health Dep't Sponsors

Eight hundred ninety-nine dogs were given anti-rabies serum by Dr. Beecher Scutchfield, of Martin, in a series of dog clinics in this county extending over a period of 18 days, it was said this week by M. V. Clark, health administrator. The program is a continuation of a move beginning three years ago to vaccinate all dogs in this county if possible, it was said.

Copies of the vaccination certificates were filed with the Floyd County Health Department where they are open to public inspection, Clark said.

"At the present time our biggest concern is with the stray dogs that have no owners," Clark continued. "Under the present state dog law the Fiscal Court appoints a dog warden and his duty is to see that dog tags are made available to the people and the dog warden is supposed to be responsible for maintaining a county dog pound, collecting and keeping stray dogs and after a reasonable length of time if ownership is not established destroying or disposing of them."

"The Health Department has the responsibility of seeing that anti-rabies treatment, by a licensed veterinarian, for every dog is obtained by his owner. We have in the past three years held numerous clinics with a licensed veterinarian in charge of each. We plan to continue this practice. We believe that if and when the stray dogs are gotten under control at least 75% of the people will voluntarily have their dogs treated and lend their moral support to the health department in the compulsory enforcement against the other 25%."

"As to how many or what per cent of this county's people would like to see the dog law enforced in its entirety—complete control of stray dogs and compulsory vaccination of all with established ownership is unknown. It is believed that a majority of the people want this enforcement and that somehow they should make their desire publicly known. It is believed that complete enforcement will come when county officials are sure that a majority of the people are behind its enforcement."

"Another series of Anti-Rabies Clinics will be planned and sponsored by the health department later in the summer or early fall," Clark concluded.

Capitol Notebook

Kentucky's Capitol building frequently called the Nation's most beautiful by visitors from far and near, has had its usual Spring throngs the last two weeks, highlighted by the annual Youth Assembly, which also gave a good play to Frankfort's hotels, motels and homes. Kentucky's future is bright, if these alert, intelligent, eager to learn young folk who graced this scene of practice at running the State retain their interest in government and enlarge upon their knowledge as they mature.

EDITOR RECOVERING

Last week's Notebook was missing from news sent the Kentucky press because of its editor, Brown Lee Yates, having an emergency appendectomy. Brownie is OK again, tho at home recuperating; so this Notebook has been compiled by co-staffers.

KNOWLEDGE IS REWARDING

The Iowa Association of Insurance Agents, recently took advantage of knowledge and skill of a Kentuckian and entered into a contract with Vernon Rooks, Frankfort newspaper publisher, insurance department examiner and gentlemen of parts (whose home originally was in the Purchase area) to write for that state an insurance manual, like one he prepared in 1956 for Commissioner C. P. Thurman's Kentucky Department of Insurance. The contract provides for Vernon to revise the manual annually, for 10 years. Mr. Rooks has had more than 18 years' experience with the Kentucky Department of Insurance.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT

The number of Kentucky high school students studying general mathematics and general science compares favorably with nationwide percentages. A report by Bureau of Instruction, Department of Education shows 88.4 per cent of Kentucky high schools offer ninth-grade general science. The national average is 85.3 per cent. Sixteen counties have from 61 to 75 per cent of their students enrolled in science courses. The report also shows only 16 per cent of State schools offer 12th grade physics while nationally the percentage is 25.

INDUSTRIAL NOTE

Paintsville Man Jailed At Pt. Pleasant, W. Va. In $5,000.00 Robbery

Jailed at Pt. Pleasant, W. Va., early May 4 were three men, one of whom was Chalmers May, 30, of Paintsville, after they allegedly had robbed a safe of $4,000 to $5,000. His accomplices were listed as Leslie Henson, 43, of Ashland, and H. M. Parsons, 40, of Huntington.

Patrolman Rancel Jividen and his partner, W. E. Spence, were making a routine check near the Broughton Dairy in Parkersburg when Jividen noticed a suspicious-looking car.

After an investigation, the officers called Richard Jackson, let the officers inside the building. They found the safe had been opened.

The trio searched the building and reported discovering the two Kentucky men, May and Henson, hiding inside. A bag containing $4,000 to $5,000 was reported found near May's hiding place.

Parsons was arrested later in Huntington after the car first spotted by Officer Jividen was traced to him.

Million-Dollar Suit Of Radio Station Here Dismissed At Pikeville

A million-dollar suit filed in U. S. district court by radio station WPRT here against an Illinois firm was dismissed May 7 by U. S. District Judge Mac Swinford at Pikeville.

The dismissal came on motion of attorneys for Stephens Industries, Inc., operators of the station, which had sued the Gates Corporation, of Quincy, Illinois.

The station had sought the money as compensation for an alleged loss of income as a result of being unable to broadcast at 5,000 watts on equipment supplied by, but later returned to, Gates.

During a previous session of court, Judge Swinford ordered the equipment costing $17,000 returned to the Illinois firm after Stephens had sued for alleged breach of warranty. Gates also went to court to recover $12,000 which it claimed was due on the purchase of the equipment.
