This Town— That World

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS Primary election time, and not a card, a handbill, a newspaper advertisement; not a hand wrung till it aches, not a baby kissed nor a dollar spent. No promises, no "last appeals," no attacks made on the "scurrilous rumors" spread by the opposition.

But wait till November! These bright, sunny days have brought a recurrence of that annual ailment which affects some folks' vision. Met a man today so afflicted, and I was so "low" myself that I felt like singing out, "Signals—shift, or stand by for a collision!"

Having no requests for my Revised Compendium of Reasons Why the Bass Didn't Strike, I withhold further comment, merely mumble in my beard.

MYSTERY NO. 2 Last week reports of something, probably a baby, interred in a Toler Creek well under a pile of rocks brought a flurry of official action that determined the something was a cat. Monday came a call from the Cow Creek section that somebody had buried a child on the Cow-

SALARY ROW MARKS MEET

Fiscal Court Session Featured By Hassles; Earlier Orders Nulled

The Floyd fiscal court met Tuesday afternoon in one of its stormiest sessions, although the disagreements that arose were not among the members themselves as much as among others involved by the court's actions.

One of the big hassles arose when orders of the court at its April 29 meeting raising salaries of clerks in the County Clerk's office and that of Mrs. Lillie H. Parker, stenographer for County Judge Stumbo, were rescinded. This disagreement may continue for some time, it was indicated.

WRECK RE-ENACTMENT DRAMATIZES INQUIRY

FATHERS ASK BUS TRAGEDY REENACTMENT

Hearing Resumed Here After Recess; Varied Circumstances Cited

The most dramatic development of the court of inquiry proceedings in the investigation of the school bus tragedy near here came this morning (Thursday) with the re-enactment of the tragedy.

At the request of James B. Goble and Bill Darby, fathers of child-victims in the disaster, County Judge Stumbo ordered the re-enactment at the wreck scene. County Superintendent Virgil O. Turner made available a school bus of the same size and model as the ill-fated No. 27 which plunged into the river with its 27 occupants, the morning of Feb. 28. Every detail was planned to recreate as nearly as possible the conditions and circumstances attending the tragic event itself.

Former County Attorney W. Burchett, attorney for the family of John Alex Derossett, driver of the bus, was subpoenaed Wednesday as a witness. He testified that he and his two daughters followed a large transport truck to Knotley Hollow where the school bus stopped off the highway for passengers, that the transport pulled around and that he followed, thus preceding the school bus to the scene of the wreck and driving on to Prestonsburg.

Burchett said he did not see the wrecker of Donald L. Horn at Knotley Hollow where Horn testified he turned to go back down the highway and pull onto the road the truck of Banner Burchett which had run off the road and across the ditch.

He also said he saw the Burchett truck, that heard his daughters commented on its being across the road, and that he did not see either Bennie Blackburn or Joe Crum standing at or near the truck. The two men earlier had testified they were at the truck.

Driver of the transport truck will be brought here to testify as

CHANDLER HAS AID PROMISE

On Fishtrap Reservoir; Ellender Pledges Help Toward Second Project

Gov. A. B. Chandler was told Wednesday of last week by Senator Allen J. Ellender, of Louisiana, chairman of the public works subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Appropriations, that he would press for approval of $600,000 with which to make full engineering studies for Fishtrap reservoir on the Levisa Fork of Big Sandy river.

"If the committee will stand by me, I don't think we will have much difficulty getting the money for the Fishtrap studies," Ellender told Chandler. "I half-way promised the Kentucky senators last year that I would put that money in the appropriations bill."

Chandler, accompanied by Kentucky's Republican senators, John Sherman Cooper and Thurston E. Morton, appeared briefly before the subcommittee session attended by Ellender and William F. Knowland of California, the Republican leader of the Senate.

7-DAY TERM CONVICTS 39

Pleas of Guilty Get Defendants Off With Less Stiff Penalties

Quarterly court sessions during seven days of this month, ending with last Friday's work, resulted in 39 convictions.

Most of those convicted were charged with drunkenness and drunk driving, and in practically all of the cases the defendants entered pleas of guilty. One man, Willie Mitchell, who stood trial on a drunkenness charge drew a fine of $50 and a 10-day jail term as compared with the $10 fine and costs imposed on those who pleaded guilty.

Those who pleaded guilty to drunk driving charges were fined $100 and costs. They are John S. Ward, E. L. Duvall, Martin Hall, (who also was fined $5 and costs for having no operator's license), Ottaway Crider. Driver's licenses of Ward, Duvall and Crider were revoked, and it was noted on the court order book that Crider had no such license.

Fred Newsom was fined $25 and given a 30-day jail term for possessing intoxicants for sale. A selling charge against him was dismissed. Charges against Clarence Prater of possessing and selling liquor were dismissed on motion of the arresting officers.

Dismissed on motion of the County Attorney were charges of possessing liquor for the purpose of sale against James Newsome and Fred Hayes. The case against Newsome is subject to being re-docketed.

Those fined $10 and costs for drunkenness: Roy Salisbury, A. E. Call, Odus Hall, Nargie Riley, Fred Hayes, Kermit Keens, Harold Castle, Darb Parker, Andy Akers, Her-

2 WELL-KNOWN MEN ROAD TRAGEDY VICTIMS

Bodies of two well-known Floyd county men were found last week, hours after each had died alone in highway accidents.

Life of Joe H. Cooley, 49, Prestonsburg businessman, was claimed in an auto crash early Thursday morning at the Ball Alley curve in the southern limits of town, within half a mile of his home. His wrecked auto and body were found by a food service truck driver at about 5:30 a.m.

The car had left the highway in the apex of the curve and crashed into a drain basin where it was partially obscured from view. Mr. Cooley suffered a broken neck and a skull fracture.

COAL SLUMP NEAR BOTTOM

Is View of Operator; Union Meets In Floyd Ask Layoff At Mines

Although concern over coal prices was voiced here by United Mine Workers' officials who suggested last week that the truck mine operators should close shop and go fishing, a leading operator in this county said Monday that he believes the bottom has been reached in both demand for coal and the money it will bring.

"I begin to see light," he said. "No boom, but I think we are going to get more business."

A slight improvement in the number of days' work at some operations was noted last week, and the situation was about the same this week.

First of the UMWA meetings was held last Wednesday morning at the courthouse here. Sam Caddy, of Lexington, president of District 30, UMWA, first met with miners and small-mine operators. Later, he met with the operators alone, and it was then that he suggested that the operators "go fishing" till about July 1. This was construed as a plan to curtail production and bring prices up, but Virnus Isaacs, Topmost operator, arose to inquire what operators and miners would do about eating in the meantime.

Another meeting was held Saturday at Martin.

No apparent change in the work situation resulted from any of the meetings.

REGIONAL LIBRARY HAS SUCCESSFUL OPENING

Interest in public libraries reached a new peak in this section Saturday with the official opening of the five-county Eastern Kentucky Regional Library here. Despite competition of a circus in town, a rain-storm and the funeral of a well-known businessman, 363 visitors signed the guest book at the library door.

Visitors entering the library were greeted by hostesses from the Women's Clubs of Floyd county who served refreshments. Mrs. E. V. May planned and directed the hostess activities, and each visitor was made to feel at home in the friendly and cheerful crowd as he or she examined the several thousands of books among beautiful flowers sent by civic-minded business concerns and citizens.

Besides the enthusiastic out-pouring of Prestonsburg and Floyd county well-wishers, visitors came from Johnson, Morgan and the other member counties, Martin and Magoffin. Pike county, which does not have Bookmobile service, sent visitors, as did Laurel and Rowan counties.

GROUP WINDS UP BUSINESS

Committee Requests Motor Manufacturers For Disposal Intent

The Prestonsburg Schoolchildren Recovery committee, in its second meeting since the recovery of the body of Paulette Cline, last of the victims of the school bus tragedy of Feb. 28 to be found, continued with the business of winding up its affairs in a meeting held in the office of Mayor Bill Napier, Tuesday evening.

Although many final bills remained to be approved and paid, chief business of the group was the disposition of several outboard motors donated by manufacturers and stored at the army here, and the recognition of persons and firms who aided in the recovery effort.

All other equipment owned by the committee has been turned over to the newly-organized rescue squad of which County Judge Henry Stumbo is temporary chairman. The possibility is being explored by the recovery group to induce the manufacturers and dealers to give the motors to the rescue organization here.

Twenty motors on loan from the U. S. Coast Guard at St. Louis are still stored at the army. Since the value of the motors is great the committee has found it necessary to maintain day-and-night watchman service until the motors are picked up by the Coast Guard.

The problem of recognizing in some way the thousands of persons and the many firms, clubs and other organizations who assisted the committee in any outstanding way was discussed. Even a compilation of a tentative list was found to be a stupendous task but some progress was made. The matter will be advanced further at another meeting scheduled for Saturday evening.

PLAN GROUP TO BE NAMED

To Study Long-Range Improvements In City; Mayor Napier To Head

The City Council this week authorized Mayor Bill Napier to name a seven-member City Planning Commission to make long-range plans for the improvement of Prestonsburg.

The members will serve for six years. The mayor is an ex-officio member, leaving six to be named. Duties of the Commission will include the adoption of a master plan for the community, with help received from the State Planning Commission. This master plan would include zoning ordinances, neighborhood analyses and a major thoroughfare program.

Representatives of the Bell Engineering Company, Lexington, conferred with the Council on the possibility of sewer bonds being issued for piecemeal work in parts of town where such improvement is desired. Such bonds would be amortized by a connection fee charged those using the sewers.

POLICE SEEK INJURED MAN

Thief in Break Here Believed Badly Cut; TV's, Radios Taken

Prestonsburg police are looking for a thief with a severe cut. This is the man or boy, who stole two television sets and four or five radios from the Collins & Burke Furniture Company here, Tuesday night of last week.

That whoever broke into the store was severely cut, perhaps by glass which was broken out of the front door, was made plain by a quantity of blood inside the store and a trail of blood leading away from the building.

State Police Detective E. L. Cornett joined in the investigation last Wednesday. Several well-defined fingerprints were found, Chief of Police Epp Laferty said.

Two chairs were stolen from the porch of the Thomas Thompson home on Graham street, the same night the store was entered.

Elum Tuttle, 28, Succumbs Monday To Gunshot Wound

Elum Tuttle, 28, former Topmost man, suffered a fatal wound Monday when his gun discharged into his face as he started to leave his home at St. Mary's O. to shoot a groundhog.

Tuttle died at St. Mary's hospital shortly afterward. He was a son of Andrew and Annie Thornsburg Tuttle.

His wife, Cossie Thornsburg Tuttle, survives him, as do one son, Reggie Dean, of St. Mary's, and two daughters, Rexiel and Joan, both of home; five brothers, Hobert, Ephriam and Charles Edward, all of Topmost, Bill Ray and Ronnie, of St. Mary's; four sisters, Mrs. Audrey Slone, Topmost, Mrs. Ollie Dean Johnson, Kite, Mrs. Emma Jean Hall, Topmost and Nella Faye Tuttle, of St. Mary's.

The funeral was held Thursday at 10 a.m. at the Dry Creek Church and burial was made in the Dry Creek cemetery under the direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

ALUMNI GAME HERE FRIDAY

1958 Version of Cats To Face Grads In Test After Sporadic Practise

The annual alumni football will be played at 8 p.m. Friday at the Prestonsburg football field, Coach John Griggs announced this week.

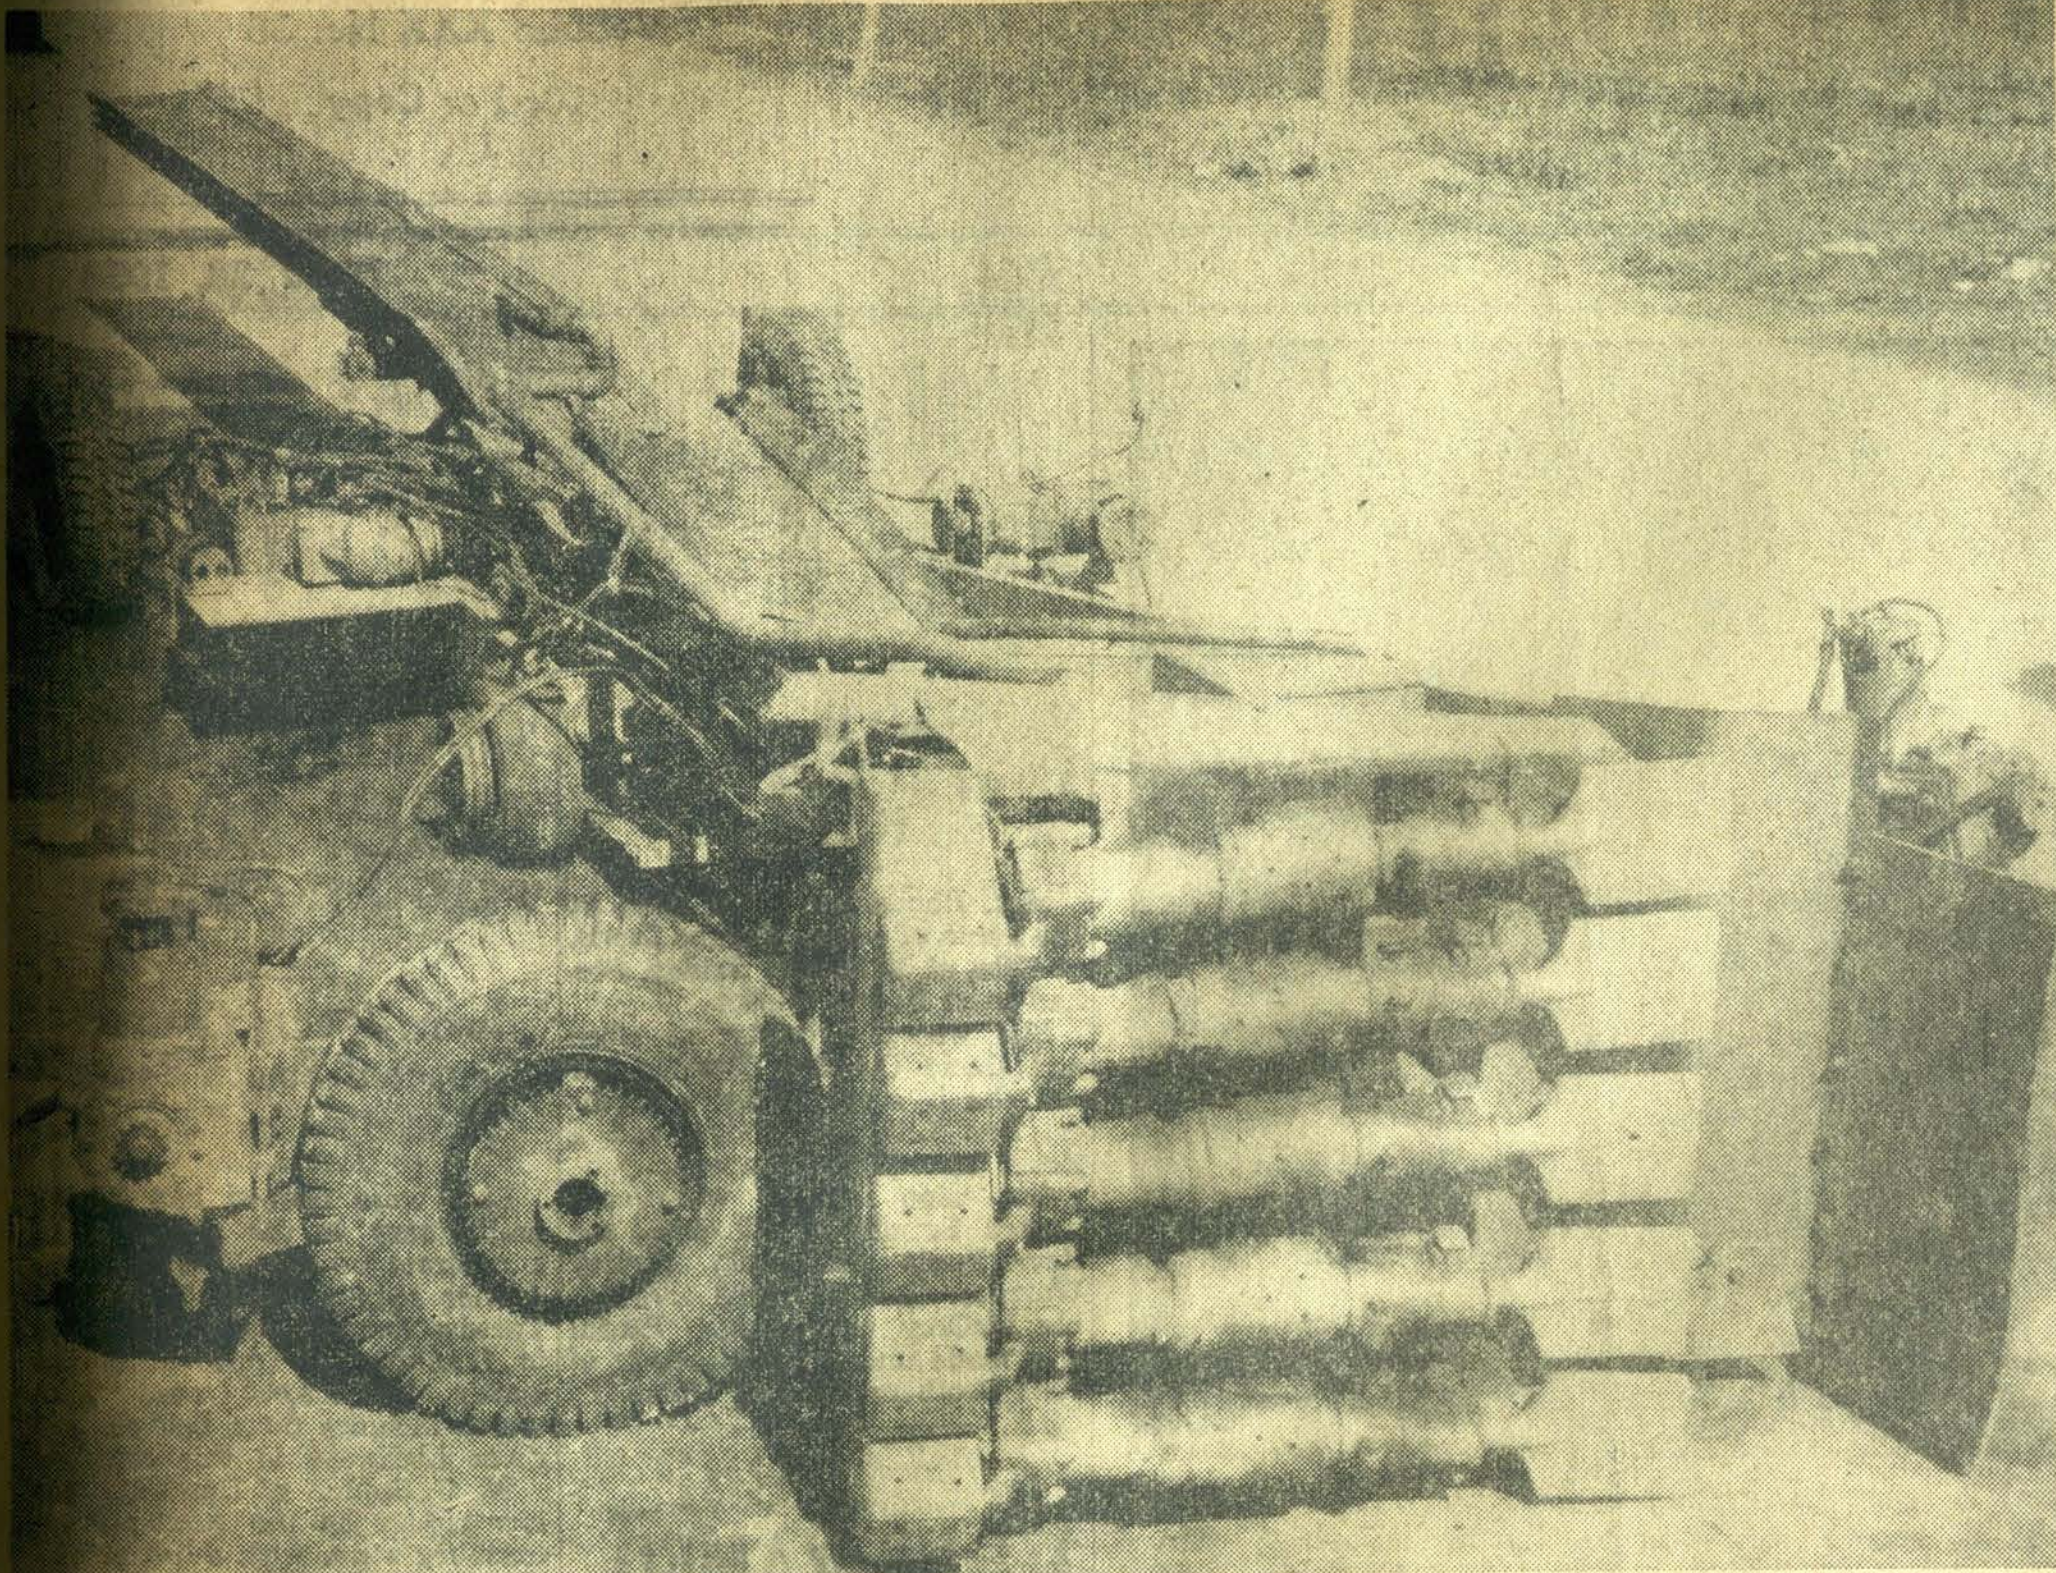

The game will end spring practice for the Prestonsburg Black Cats who have spent the last five weeks in intermittent practice.

Griggs said that bad weather conditions held practice up so badly that the annual spring training period was extended by two weeks.

The alumni will present a younger group who have, or soon will be, graduated from high school.

Heading the alumni are Bruce Howard, Morehead football candidate, Paul Philip Hughes, last year's quarterback, Joe Jack Harris, one of the leading ground-gainers on the 1957 Black Cat team.

Other alumni participating will be Wayne Dixon, Rudolph Allen, Bobby Gene Lucas, Glenn Anderson, Reuben Tackett, "Jeep" Alexander, Ed Ousley, and Walter Caudill.

Don't get struck by a keen idea of an invention. Don't—unless, of course, you're prepared to spend time in selling your brainchild. John Henry Osborne, of Martin, found the inventor's road a hard one. He has put together an amazingly simple machine which mining men agree, will perform wonders in a coal mine.

Osborne is now in his third year of labor on his machine since he first conceived the idea for its creation.

He calls the machine the "continuous mining machine." Because the machine will work continuously throughout a work day in producing coal of whatever size desired. A quick adjustment of the "bite" made into the coal will switch from egg-size coal to lump or slack or what will you.

Equipped with cutting heads, the machine operates on the jackhammer principle. In fact, it was by watching a jackhammer tear up a concrete roadway that the Martin man conceived the idea of such a coal-mining device.

Osborne's invention has several advantages over continuous mining machines now in use. Besides eliminating the dust problem and providing for the mining of coal in varying size lumps as desired, it's cheaper—far cheaper. The cheapest machine of the sort now on the market sells for around $38,000. The more versatile Osborne machine will sell for about $12,000.

The first model put into operation by Osborne consisted mainly of parts picked up at junkyards. "We thought it would mine less than half a ton of coal an hour—out you know what? It mined three to four tons."

Then a full-size machine was built. It was calculated to deliver eight tons an hour. It actually mined 24 tons an hour and would have produced more, only the conveyor device would not handle more than eight tons.

Now the Martin man proposes an entirely new machine, preserving only the principle followed in the first two. And this machine will be so equipped that it will mine and load 200 tons of coal a day. With this machine, Osborne maintains, it's easier to produce more coal than to hold its production down.

The machine can be swung from side to side in a half-circle. The cutting heads, composed of jackhammers which can be adjusted for any height coal-seam, peel off the coal at whatever penetrating depth preferred.

By the very nature of the jackhammers' cutting, it does not cause excessive dust as does blasting. If the machine catches on as expected, explosives dealers may be weeping.

The machine will mine—for the first time in history—a seam of coal which is called "nigger" coal due to the parting layer of slate or "bone" in the middle of the seam. Osborne said that the jackhammers can be spaced apart, cutting above and below the worthless seam, bring the usable coal onto the conveyor and out of the mine without mixing it with the worthless portion.

He said that it is a one-man-operated machine and that by the addition of a longer conveyor belt it is conceivable that man can mine coal deep within the earth by himself. He would need then only outside help.

Osborne believes that now he has a break since the Mountain Metal Company here has agreed to furnish all steel parts and labor for the machine. He lacks, he says, about $3,000 to buy the rest of the equipment.

Osborne says he has never met a man who does not believe his machine will work after he has seen it. But it is hard to talk of investments, he says, in times like these when you speak of putting your money into something which is not yet fully developed and on the market.

What are the possibilities of Osborne's machine? A revolutionary development for small mines whose owners cannot invest too heavily in machinery—and, he claims, a manufacturing business for him and his backers that is almost unlimited.

For, says the inventor of the machine, he already has a backlog of orders amounting to half a million dollars—if he can put one of his machines to work and keep it working for only one month.

Four to eight ounces of whiskey or four to eight bottles of beer cause an accident hazard figure about 10 times as high as when only one ounce or one bottle of beer has been absorbed by a potential driver.

to whom he saw at Knotley Hollow and the wreck scene, it was said.

The court of inquiry was adjourned last Thursday until this week. Woodrow W. Burchett, representing the Derossett family, said evidence gathered last week had not been reviewed. He said the testimony was massive and the court reporter had not had time to transcribe her notes.

Harry Ranier testified last Wednesday that the steering mechanism of the bus might have been affected by the impact against the wrecker of Donald Horn.

Ranier said that he believed that the bus did not have brakes at the time of impact. The bus was found, after pulled from the river, in third gear. Ranier said he thought that the bus driver attempted to gear the bus down as it approached the wrecker. This, he said, accounted for the loud roaring noise which Joe Crum and Bennie Blackburn say they heard.

"I don't think he had any control of the steering wheel after the crash," Ranier said. "The fender wrapped itself around the wheel, locking it. The boy had no chance," Ranier concluded.

A statement offered by state police that the brakes were examined and found to be in good condition was viewed by the court of inquiry. The examination was conducted by a Pikeville mechanic, Bobby Hall and Sgt. Billy Kiser, of the State Police.

Joe Hobson, representing the County Board of Education, asked why the County Board was not informed when the bus would be examined. State Police admitted they did not give such notice.

County Superintendent V. O. Turner denied statements published in the Courier-Journal that John Alex Derossett was suffering from a heart ailment and a statement purporting that Derossett's father had a history of heart trouble.

State Trooper Logan Watters said there was a possibility that the bus could not have been stopped, even if the bus had brakes after the impact. He said that there was nothing in his report to the state which would justify the story that the driver had three chances to prevent the bus from hitting the Horn wrecker.

Trooper Delmar Lafferty said, "I don't know whether he had one chance or a 100 chances to stop. If I had been the driver, and had survived the accident, then I could tell you." He told the court that he and Trooper Jennings arrived at the scene at 8:30 a.m., when they started their investigation which lasted seven days.

C. O. Williams, Boy Scout executive, told the court that the bus was over the embankment when he arrived. He said he helped in getting four or five out of the water.

Edna Madison, who lives across the river from Knotley Hollow, said she saw the bus roll down the river bank. She said that children were scrambling out of the bus as it went down the bank and while the bus was in the water. She said she immediately called for a bulldozer to pull the bus from the river.

Winston Dillon, 17, said, "I was looking at a green pickup truck sitting in the ditch and the next thing I knew we hit something. . . . He told the court he did not know what the bus had hit until he returned to the top of the bank."

Mrs. June Collins brought new evidence to the trial when she testified that Joe Crum moved his car after the accident had occurred. She said someone called her attention to it when he (Crum) moved his car. She told the court that he "brought his car back up there and got out . . . not too far below where the bus went over." She said she knows Joe Crum.

Commissioner of Public Safety Don Sturgill told the court "All I know about the accident was what people have told me." Sturgill appeared Tuesday for the first day of hearings but notified the court soon after it began that he had been called to Louisville.

Mont Collins, an employee of the Division of Forestry, said the car of Joe Crum was headed up-river when he arrived and later, was found heading down the river.

Donald Horn, recalled to testify, told the court he did not know his wrecker had been from 42 to 48 feet from the Banner Burchett truck at the time of impact with the bus. He said he had thought he was very near to it. Questioned as to why 10 to 15 foot of slack was found in the cable on his wrecker-winch, Horn said he customarily kept slack in the line. When told that he violated the law in pulling cars and trucks out of the ditch alone, Horn told the court that he performed the service "as a good neighbor and good business policy." He had said in earlier testimony that he pulled out an average of two cars a week and had already, by Wednesday of last week, pulled out two vehicles.

Other witnesses summoned were Nelson Baldrige, W. G. Powers, Joe Crum, Edna Blackburn, Worth Music, Donald Dillon, Trooper Billy Lykins, and Jennings, Willy Salisbury, Harvey Bays, John Hardy Jarvis, Marion Jarvis, Hanford Spears.

complement of 900 books was made in September of that year by former Governor Lawrence Weatherby to County Judge Henry Stumbo. The Library Board, in cooperation with the Floyd County chapter, Friends of Kentucky Libraries, headed by Mrs. R. V. May, assisted in the collection of several thousand books, which were processed and put into use. Civic and service organizations throughout the county helped in the collecting.

During the first two years of its operation, according to the board chairman, the Bookmobile's circulation in Floyd County reached 80,000. On two occasions the county library ran out of books and had to borrow books from the State Library Extension Division.

Because of this outstanding record of achievement, Governor Chandler last year directed the Library Extension Division to furnish the Floyd County Library Board with another Bookmobile, which had been discontinued in another county. This second Bookmobile later was replaced, through the efforts of Mrs. Barry Bingham, Louisville, with a new one, donated by Mrs. Albert Lasker.

Additional state funds were made available by the 1956 and 1958 Legislatures throughout the State to supplement County Bookmobiles. The Bookmobile circulation rate in Floyd county has passed 100,000 according to the Board chairman, Lon C. Hill.

Covington in 1847, had two leading educational institutions—the Western Theological College and Dr. Orr's Female Seminary. The Seminary stressed good manners and deportment, graduating the students by exacting a Victorian courtesy, with a low bow, not a nod as was the custom in those days.

It is thought that he was forced off the road by an unidentified car as he had driven approximately 85 feet at the edge of the highway before the earthen shoulder broke away.

A second tragedy was barely averted in efforts to recover the truck when a school-boy, Johnny Wright, who was sitting on a wrecker belonging to Charles May, jumped from the vehicle as it released itself and plunged over the same embankment. It required the services of a bulldozer to bring the wrecker and truck back to the highway.

Mr. James was a son of the late Cain James and Minty Endicott James, of Endicott. His wife, Pearl Setser James, survives. Two daughters, Mrs. Ruby Music, of East Point, and Mrs. Beatrice Hunt, in Michigan, survive. Surviving also are two brothers and a sister: Wm. (Coomie) James, of Ivel, Ezra James, of Endicott, and Mrs. Sue Sowder, Dayton, O. Seven grandchildren survive, one being a granddaughter, Vernadine James, whom he was rearing.

Funeral rites were conducted Sunday from the Freewill Baptist Church at Endicott of which he was a member, the Revs. Isaac Stratton, Wm. Amburgey and Henry Crider officiating. Burial was made in the James cemetery under the direction of Moore Funeral Home.

There were more national livestock events at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, during the last several years than at any other land grant school in the United States.

Funeral rites were conducted Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the Vogel-Day Methodist church at Harold, the Rev. R. L. Anderson, pastor of the Wilmore (Ky.) Methodist church, officiating. Burial was made in the Stumbo cemetery at Harold under the direction of Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

Active pallbearers were Ray Allen, Dr. Edward P. Leslie, Earle Martin, V. O. Turner, Carl Watson, Wm. Arrowood, Henry P. Scaif, Harold Stumbo and Dr. Jack Salisbury.

John Wesley James, 53, of Endicott, foreman for the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company, was killed early Thursday evening of last week on his way home when the truck he was driving left the road on the Cow Creek-Buffalo mountain and plunged 100 feet down the embankment.

The body was found next morning at 9 o'clock by two employees, who, concerned by his absence at work, went to his home on Buffalo Creek and, finding that he had not been at home that night, returned to search the roadside. He was lying in a jumble of rocks, having been thrown from the vehicle. He had suffered multiple fractures and other injuries.

General George Rogers Clark and a small band of pioneers landed on Corn Island in 1778. There, surrounded by savage Indians, they found food scarce and existence precarious. Christmas Day, they moved into a fort they had built on what is now the foot of 12th Street, Louisville.

170,000 Disabled Persons Receiving Insurance Checks

More than 170,000 severely disabled workers in communities all over the nation are now receiving social security disability insurance checks, Thomas B. Thompson, district manager of the Pikeville social security office announced.

But there are probably other eligible disabled workers, some of them no doubt living in Floyd county, who have not yet applied to their social security office for these benefits. Those who have been disabled for work for a long time must apply before June 30, Mr. Thompson pointed out, or they will lose their rights to these new benefit payments.

Any severely disabled person who has worked under social security for at least 5 years and who, because of his condition, does not expect to be able to work again, should get in touch with his social security office right away, the social security district manager said.

If he is between 50 and 65 years of age, he may be eligible for monthly disability insurance benefits. If he is under 50, he may be eligible to have his social security frozen to protect his own future right to disability payments, and also his family's rights to survivors insurance benefits.

To be eligible under these disability provisions, a disabled worker must meet the definition of "disability" in the social security law. He must also have social security credits for at least 5 out of the 10 years before he became disabled; at least a year and a half of the credit must have been earned in the three years just before the beginning of his "period of disability".

If a disabled person applies to his social security office before July 1, 1958, or if he has been disabled less than one year when he applies, his five years of social security credit must have been earned within the 10-year period ending with the calendar quarter in which he actually became disabled.

A person who applies on or after July 1, 1958 must meet those work requirements within a ten-year period ending no earlier than one year before the date of his application. In effect, this means that a worker who has been disabled for several years will not be able to meet the work requirements and therefore will not be able to qualify under the disability provisions if he does not make application to his social security office before July 1, 1958.

Census Collects Facts On Residence Histories

In addition to the usual questions about employment and unemployment in May, the Current Population Survey will collect information on the lifetime residence histories of persons 18 years old and over, and on the smoking habits of person 35 years of age and over, it was announced by Robert A. Yerkey supervisor of the U. S. Census Bureau's field office in Cincinnati, Ohio.

The inquiries on residence and smoking habits are being made by the Census Bureau at the request of the U. S. Public Health Service in connection with its study of national health problems.

The questions on residence will be asked of persons 18 years old and over who are members of the 35,000 families visited each month by Current Population Survey interviewers. The questions will cover place of birth and subsequent places of residence throughout the lifetime of persons interviewed and provide information as to types of places, such as urban and rural, in which people have lived. The inquiries on smoking will be asked of persons 35 years of age and over and cover the use of cigarettes, cigars, and pipes.

The regular monthly questions on employment and unemployment will provide the data for the Monthly Report on the Labor Force, which is employed as one of the indicators in feeling the economic pulse of the Nation. Because of the current economic situation, unusual interest attends the results of the May survey, which will be issued early in June.

The Current Population Survey will be conducted here and in 329 other areas of the country during the week of May 19. Information will be collected locally by Mrs. Wilma Taubee, of Malone, Ky.

Look what you've been missing if you haven't driven a 58 FORD

You just can't appreciate all the wonderful things that have been done to make driving more fun... until you've checked out in a shiny 58 Ford!

The fun begins with the simple act of getting into the car. Only "yesterday" it was stoop down or knock off your hat. Now that has been changed. There's room for you and your hat inside the 58 Ford.

Even before you start the engine, notice how much more you can see. Full-Circle visibility lets you see where you're going... see what's coming... see to park!

Now touch the starter. Observe how smoothly your engine idles. That's because each Ford engine is built with painstaking care. Each V-8 is electronically balanced while operating under its own power. No other car in Ford's field goes to such lengths to bring you an engine that will operate smoothly... dependably... efficiently. (If your pick is a thrifty Six, you can't buy a more powerful, more modern 6-cylinder passenger-car engine than Ford's 145-horsepower Mileage Maker Six.)

Ease down now on the throttle and you'll take off with all the dash and verve of a Thunderbird! For after all, the 58 Ford offers you the Thunderbird's own transmission and engine! Team Ford's Cruise-O-Matic Drive with a Thunderbird-powered V-8 engine, and save up to 15% on gasoline. It's like getting back 15¢ on every gas dollar!

Next hunt up the roughest roads you can find. Notice how bumps lose their bounce with Ford's softer-riding suspension system. Notice how Ford's exclusive Automatic Ride Control combines Angle-Poised Ball-Joint front suspension with long, tailored-to-weight rear springs so that you ride level... corner level... enjoy a "big car feel."

And Ford gives you more—much more in the way of riding comfort. Ford seats are wide—sofa-wide. You sit in a relaxed, natural position with Ford's Automatic Posture Control.

Always a leader in safety, Ford again has pioneered new features to protect you. New Safety-Twin taillights, for example, keep you safer because they give better warning to cars behind you. And only Ford offers you famous LifeGuard Design—the whole family of safety features designed to protect you should an accident occur.

Then there are the hidden values that are yours when you choose Ford. The car is put together with fine-car precision. The finish is durable enamel—baked enamel that helps Fords keep that new-car shine. On the inside, too, Ford cars give you more insulation than any other cars in Ford's field.

Why not discover all you've been missing if you haven't driven a 58 Ford? See your Ford Dealer and find out firsthand all the wonderful things that have happened to Fords. And remember: a comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail delivered prices shows that Ford is lowest priced of the "low-price three" in 17 out of 19 comparable models!

So why not make tomorrow your day to drive a Ford? The keys are waiting for you at your Ford Dealer's. See him and discover all the fun a Ford can be!

PROMOTE COLLEGE GAME
 The local Junior Chamber of Commerce is hard at work promoting a college basketball game for the new gym here next season.

Coach Robert Wilson of Kentucky Wesleyan College has assured the Jaycees that he will bring his team from Owensboro next season if the Jaycees can line up a major N.C.A.A. opponent. Wesleyan, which features Wayland's fabulous Kelly Coleman, has four of its starting five returning next year.

The most likely opponent for Wesleyan will come from the University of South Carolina, Morehead, Marshall or East Tennessee State College.

HIGH SCHOOL GOLF
 The Eastern Kentucky regional golf tournament for the area's high schools was held in Paintsville Wednesday, and the state high school tournament will be held on the Paintsville Country Club course next Tuesday and Wednesday. The Tigers are heavy favorites to cop this year's state title and if they do, it would be the first championship in the sport for an Eastern Kentucky school.

The Paintsville Country Club will hold its 18th annual invitational golf tournament, June 11-13.

RUMOR DEPARTMENT
 Several current rumors making the rounds in Floyd county indicate that a wholesale change will take place in the county's high school coaching personnel next season.

To date, only one coach has been hired by the Floyd County Board of Education and that was placing John G. Goble as head football coach at Wheelwright high.

Fires Killed 200 In Ky. Last Year, Fire Marshal Says

Fires killed 200 persons in Kentucky in 1957 and destroyed property valued at more than $14,000,000.

State Fire Marshal Ray Humkey says final reports of the Division of Fire Prevention in the Department of Public Safety indicate that deaths by fire jumped from 150 in 1956 to 200 in 1957.

"Fire took the lives of 42 children under 5 years of age, more than any other age group," Humkey said. "Most fires occurred between 4 and 5 p.m., with 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. ranking close second."

Emphasizing that 67 persons died when they were trapped in burning buildings, he said: "Electrical complications were the fire cause, accounting for 666 blazes."

The state fire division head added that 4,757 fires destroyed property valued at $14,229,210, during the 12-month period. He said this figure represents only insured losses reported to his office.

He said the Division of Fire Prevention conducted 14,865 inspections of public buildings, schools, hotels, hospitals. Field men of the division also inspected 20,000 liquefied petroleum gas installations and investigated 385 suspicious fires which were reported last year.

Division staff members conduct continual inspections of public buildings, annually, checking all schools in the state which have at least four rooms.

Statewide Forest Fire Protection Required By 1964

Frankfort, May 19 (Spl.)—Expansion of forest fire protection in Kentucky to make it statewide by 1964 will begin next Jan. 1.

A law adopted by the 1958 Legislature requires all counties to participate in the program. Under the old law, protection was given only to counties requesting it.

State Forestry Director Gene L. Butcher said the expansion will begin in heavily timbered counties having the greatest fire problems.

He said groups of such counties will be mapped out for the service. This will be more economical in putting up fire towers and in avoiding service in one or two counties surrounded for a year or so by unprotected counties, he explained.

Rate of expansion will depend upon funds becoming available. The new law retains the requirement that each county pay in the fire protection fund each year an amount equivalent to two cents an acre of privately owned timberland in the county. Counties acquire the money by taxing timberland owners. The rest of the fund comes from state and federal governments.

Forty-seven counties now participate in the program. They represent 59 percent of the State's 11,497 acres of timberland.

Earle Combs Named State's Banking Chief

A former New York Yankee baseball star who hit his first home run with Gov. A. B. Chandler on base is Kentucky's new banking commissioner.

Chandler named Earle Combs, of Richmond, to succeed S. Albert Phillips, who resigned as commissioner recently to become vice-president of the Louisville Trust Co.

The friendship of Chandler and Combs began in 1921, when Combs left his native Owsley county to play left field with a Lexington team on which Chandler was shortstop.

Combs later played with the Louisville Colonels before he joined Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and other stars on the Yankees. His life-time batting average was .325.

The new banking commissioner's starting salary is $10,500 a year, but will go up June 19 to $12,000 under a new salary scale adopted by the 1958 General Assembly.

Combs served about 10 years as president of the Peoples Bank at Paint Lick before he resigned last year. He is a director of the State Bank at Richmond.

UMWA SUES MINING FIRMS

Letcher, Harlan Mines Sued on Royalty Pay; U.S. Also Sues Four

Lexington, Ky., May 16—Trustees for the United Mine Workers welfare and retirement fund sued five Harlan and Letcher county coal-mining companies for a total of $393,377 Thursday.

John L. Lewis, Henry G. Schmidt, and Josephine Roche filed the suits in United States District Court.

The suits charge the mines failed to pay portions of the 40-cent-a-ton royalty the U.M.W. fund collects on mined coal.

The largest suit asked $209,010 from Imperial Harlan Coals, Inc., on coal mined from October 1, 1952, to April 30, 1958.

Harlan Everglow Coals, Inc., was sued for $73,313 on coal mined from January 16, 1956, to last April 30.

The other suits, covering the period from October 1, 1952, to last April 30, were against:

Mill Ridge Coal Company, Inc., Harlan County, for $71,946.

Yocum Creek Coal Company, Harlan County, for $7,681.

Premium Coals, Inc., Letcher County, for $29,426.

The government sued four Kentucky coal firms Friday for $8,487 under the Public Contracts Act.

The action, placed on the London docket of United States district court, asked damages for default failure of the defendants to abide by wage-and-hour specifications in supplying coal to the government in 1956-57.

Defendants named were Dixie Coal Company, Inc., Laurel County, $406,81; B. Kay hSelton, doing business as S. & W. HUGHES IN AIR FORCE

Vance AFB, Enid, Okla., May 1—Second Lt. John D. Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Hughes, of Prestonsburg, Ky., reported to Vance Air Force Base today for a five-month course in basic single-engine (jet) pilot training.

Upon successful completion of training in October he will be awarded the silver wings of an Air Force pilot. His training in T-33 aircraft will consist of transition, formation, instrument, navigation and night flying.

Lieutenant Hughes entered active Air Force duty in August 1957, after completing his studies at the University of Kentucky, at Lexington. He received his Air Force commission through the AFROTC program.

Prior to entering the pilot training course at Vance, Lieutenant Hughes completed primary training at Bartow Air Base, Fla.

STATE GOVERNMENT is losing a great potential of brains because many bright high school graduates lack the opportunity to attend college. So said Lt. Harry Lee Waterfield recently, adding: "We hope Kentucky's economic advance will permit us to close this gap soon."

He expressed hope that the Kentucky Congress of Parents Teachers will do all it can to interest young persons in entering not only the teaching but also the government profession.

How To Be Eligible For Social Security

To be eligible under the social security disability provisions you must be unable "to engage in any substantial gainful activity"; and furthermore, your inability to work must be expected to continue indefinitely. However, as Thomas B. Thompson, manager of the Pikeville Social Security district office, wants to emphasize this definition does not mean that you must be a "hopeless case" in order to qualify.

In fact, as part of the disability freeze program, the applicant's name is referred to the State Agency for Vocational Rehabilitation in the hope that the state's services may enable the disabled person to once again become self-supporting. If the claimant eventually obtains work under the State program, his disability benefits may continue for as long as a year after such employment begins.

This feature is in the law, Thompson states, because the Social Security Administration recognizes that work performance under such sheltered conditions may not prove that the claimant can compete on an equal basis in the regular labor market. In addition, it is realized that such employment for the disabled should be given a trial period to show whether it can be continued without detriment to health and to give the claimant time to adjust to what is probably a new kind of occupation.

HISTORICAL TRAIL

BUFFALO TRACE, a Kentucky trail first walked by pre-historical animals during the ice age, will be officially opened for Boy Scout hikers July 12.

The 27-mile stretch leads from Maysville to Blue Licks State Park. It is believed the animals trod it to get salt at Blue Licks. Later came Indians, exploring inland from the Ohio River, and then French explorer Rene LaSalle, Simon Kenton, Daniel Boone and George Roger Clark. The Boy Scout hike is sponsored by Simon Kenton Post, VFW, and the Sciota Council of Scouts.

FIRMNESS IMPROVED

Firmness and quality of canned and frozen red cherries were improved in tests by horticulturists at the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station working with the USDA Agricultural Research Service. They increased the drained weights of canned cherries by air-cooling, soaking in calcium solutions, and canning with dry sugar.

Gone Fishin'!

This "sign" of good times goes up more often at the Gillette home, because the Gillettes Live Better Electrically

Mr. Gillette and his son, Jay, get ready for the "big ones".

"It costs no more to live in a trouble-free all-electric home."

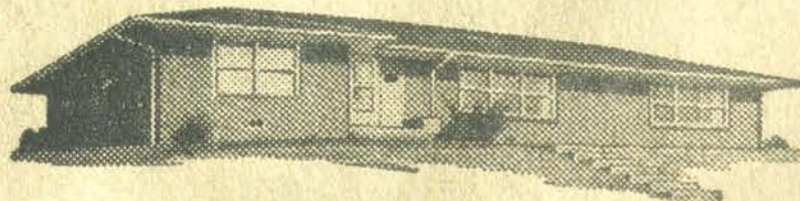

So says Fred J. Gillette, furniture store manager, speaking of his modern home... which is equipped with an electric heat pump, water heater, washer and dryer, dishwasher, disposal unit, range, refrigerator, freezer and many other electric appliances.

Mrs. Gillette says, "All of these make it possible for us to enjoy many of the comforts and conveniences other families don't have. They give us more free time for recreation and relaxation, church, PTA and club work. An electric can opener is about the only electric appliance we don't have, and we just recently heard about them."

"The heat pump is the finest heating and cooling system you can find," Mr. Gillette says. "It's years ahead of other systems. It's odorless, noiseless and perfectly clean. In the four years we have lived here, we haven't had to do any redecorating at all."

Mrs. Gillette and daughter Clara Ruth, 16, perform dozens of household chores the quicker, easier way... with time-saving electric appliances.

NINE GRANTS TO SENIORS

High School Seniors In Six-State Area Eligible for Scholarships

A total of nine college scholarships—two of them to be given in Kentucky—will be offered this fall by Southern States Cooperative in a six-state area to farm boys who are now high school seniors. Application for scholarships for this fall should be made by May 23.

The cooperative—one of the nation's largest regional farmer cooperatives—serves over 363,000 members in Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

The scholarships, worth $300 a year for a total of $1,200 for the four year college course, must be used at the land grant college in the state in which the winner resides. In Kentucky, this is the University of Kentucky.

Details on the Southern States Cooperative's College Scholarship committee.

There are some general conditions that must be met by a student receiving the Southern States scholarship:

- 1. He must be accepted by the admissions office of the university in the college of agriculture.
- 2. He must be a son of a member of Southern States Cooperative, excluding sons of employees and members of Southern States Board of Directors.
- 3. He must have completed not less than two years of active membership in a 4-H or an FFA chapter.
- 4. He must be a resident of the state in which the university he plans to attend is located.
- 5. For the present, at least, the scholarships will be limited to male students.
- 6. He must maintain a satisfactory scholastic level to hold the scholarship after the first year.

Two scholarships are offered annually by Southern States in Maryland, Kentucky and Virginia. One scholarship is provided each year in Delaware, West Virginia and Tennessee.

In the state where two scholarships are offered each year, one will go to an FFA member. Both awards, however, may be made to 4-H members if no FFA representative is available, or both may be made to FFA members if no suitable 4-H member is found.

Selections will alternate each year between 4-H and FFA members in those states where one scholarship is provided.

MASTER COMMISSIONER'S SALE FLOYD CIRCUIT COURT
Clifford Reynolds and W. M. Little Plaintiffs,
Vs: NOTICE OF SALE
Curley Moore and Eva Moore Defendants

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered and entered at the April term, 1958, in the above styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 26th day of May 1958, at 10 o'clock, A.M., same being the first day of the regular term of the Floyd County Court, upon a credit of six (6) months, the following described property, to-wit:

FARM NOTES

By ROBERT M. JONES
County Agricultural Agent

A change in regulations controlling farm housing loans has been made within the Farmers Home Administration. This change will make more farmers eligible for these loans. The purpose of this change is to speed up farm building construction and improvement and serve as an anti-recession measure.

In addition to major construction, funds are available for farm home modernization use such as adding bathroom and utility rooms, modernizing kitchens, and making other improvements to homes, as well as enlarging or remodeling farm service buildings. To be eligible for these low interest loans, applicant must:

- (1) Own a farm that is in production, and must plan to produce $400 worth of farm products.
- (2) Have sufficient farm and other income to pay farm operating and living expenses.
- (3) Be without sufficient resources on his own account to obtain credit needed to finance his housing needs.

Many farm families should consider the use of this service. Many will find it worthwhile to check into. For more information check with the Farmers Home Administration office in Paintsville, which serves this area, or come by the County Extension Office.

CORN

The variety of corn grown this year, will be most important. Due to wet weather, most of the corn will be planted late. The open-pollinated corn that is used in Floyd county is a late maturing corn. Most farmers have had the experience of wet sappy open-pollinated corn. By the time it is dry enough to plant corn the open-pollinated varieties will not have time to reach maturity.

Some of the hybrids are also late maturing but there are some good ones on the market that will mature in 100 days.

Before you buy seed corn check with the dealer and make sure you get a variety that matures in 100-115 days.

POTATOES

Two weeks ago when we had a few days of dry weather, most people were able to plant their potatoes. The potatoes are coming up now. The cool-wet weather that we are now experiencing is ideal for flea-beetles. These insects are small and black, about the size of a pin head. They are sucking insects, in that they suck the sap from the leaves. They leave small pin holes in the leaves. If the leaves are held up to the sun they can be easily seen. The flea-beetle will not kill plants but they will seriously decrease production.

To control these pests spray or dust with D.D.T. Be sure to cover the under side of the leaves. A second spray should be applied 10 days after the first.

ORDERING SHEEP
The time to order sheep is almost here. The orders must be made and a deposit made with the Sheep Committee before an order can be placed with a Western broker. Unless a carload can be made up here in the county, we can work with other counties in placing orders.

Any one interested in starting a sheep flock this year, should get in contact with us here in the Extension office as soon as possible.

SOIL TESTING

The soil testing laboratory is now in operation. It is not too late to test your corn ground, garden, tobacco or pasture land. There has been more soil samples tested this year than there were last year. This is a good indication that farmers are beginning to realize the value of a soil test.

Soils are as much different as people. Each soil is different and must be treated as to its needs if it is to produce profitably. The average soil in the county that has not been limed and fertilized will test strongly acid, very low in phosphorus, and low in potash. Without the addition of fertilizer this soil will not produce a money making crop. Test soil and buy only the plant food needed.

VEHICLES IN GOOD SHAPE

Over 95 per cent of the vehicles involved in accidents were in apparently good condition. More than 85 per cent of the fatal accidents came during clear weather, 79.6 per cent on dry roads. These facts emphasize the factor of driver responsibility.

Driver error, accounted for the vast majority of accidents, with excessive speeding being the greatest single error. A total of 13,200 died and 837,000 were injured in speeding accidents alone.

Given under my hand, this 5th day of May, 1958.

Old Newspaper Depicts Capital As Was In 1844

Some events of 1844 are presented in a yellowed copy of the Frankfort Commonwealth of July 2 of that year, owned by John Duvall, supervisor of benefits in the State Division of Unemployment Insurance.

Politically the Commonwealth, for many years one of the State's leading newspapers, was identified with the Whig party. Editor in 1844 was Thomas B. Stevenson, later editor and publisher of the Maysville Eagle. He declined appointment by President Buchanan as U. S. associate judge for New Mexico territory. Stevenson also was president of the Maysville and Big Sandy Railroad.

Editorially in 1844 the newspaper vigorously supported Whigs Henry Clay for president and William Owsley for governor of Kentucky. A brief item in the July 2 issue said Clay was a visitor in Frankfort on June 26, "in fine health and spirits."

Among many advertisements was one inserted by the medical department of Transylvania University.

Another advertiser was William H. Kendall, who kept a tavern at the corner of Broadway and Ann Streets, Frankfort. There patrons could obtain boarding and lodging for the year for $100, by the month for $10, by the week for $2.50, by the day for 80 cents. A single meal might be had for the magnificent sum of 25 cents.

Steamboats were plentiful on the Kentucky River in 1844, the newspaper showed. Among them was the "fine light draught" Little Ben Franklin, plying as a regular packet between Cincinnati and Frankfort. The packets Oliver Anderson, Tom Metcalfe and Bob Letcher plied between Frankfort and Louisville.

The Big Sandy Valley in Eastern Kentucky was the last section of the Commonwealth to experience Indian raids.

French Printer Initiates Honor to Unknown Soldier

The idea of honoring an Unknown Soldier originated with an obscure French printer, according to the May Reader's Digest. Francois Simon, of Rennes, France, made the suggestion after his own son was killed in battle in 1916. A French deputy took up the idea, newspapers pressed it, and France's Unknown Soldier, the first, was buried under the Arch de Triomphe in 1920. Britain and the United States picked up the idea later.

NEW CHEMICAL AIDS FARMER

New Discovery Defeats Principal Enemies of Agriculture in South

A new chemical has been developed which spells doom for many of the enemies of profitable farming.

Known as Amino Triazole, the chemical has been found to be a potent "one-shot" weapon against such toll-taking weeds as Johnson grass, quack grass, Canada Thistle and others which have plagued farmers throughout the country.

In addition, it has been found especially effective against poison ivy, milk weed, cattails and a number of deep-rooted perennial weeds, and its researchers say that Amino Triazole Weed-killer will solve many of the most serious weed problems which face farmers today.

The weedkiller is unique in its action in that it is absorbed by the plant foliage and translocated throughout the plant's system to give complete control—roots and top growth—many times in one application. After extensive evaluation, it is now being recommended by most states for the control of various perennial weeds.

Moreover, it has been found highly effective against Japanese honeysuckle, which threatens pine forests of states from Maryland to Georgia and prevents the normal regeneration and reestablishment of woodlands. The Forest Service, which has been conducting experiments with various chemical control methods in the Hitchiti Experimental Forest near Macon, Ga., since 1951, found only two of great promise of a high kill and one of these was Amino Triazole.

The chemical has been found efficient against paragrass along canal banks and in avocado and lime groves in Florida, against Bermuda and Johnson grass in sugar cane in Louisiana; against Johnson grass and Bermuda grass and as a defoliant in Georgia and other states. Quack grass has been controlled well where deep plowing follows spraying by about two weeks, and cultivation during the season is possible.

The weedkiller also has given 90 per cent or better control of Canada thistle, the No. 1 economic problem in corn fields in a number of areas. Amino Triazole should not be applied directly to crops. Spring applications can be made to actively growing weeds two weeks before plowing and planting. Summer and fall applications should be preceded by mowing or plowing under thistle plants.

Homemakers To Observe Home Demonstration Week

Kentucky joined other states in observing National Home Demonstration Week from May 4 to 10. More than 6½ million women took part in the national program to review past accomplishments and consider how they could help today's home make tomorrow's world better.

Home demonstration work is an educational program conducted cooperatively by the U. S. Department of Agriculture Extension Service and land-grant colleges, of which Kentucky is one. Its goal is to strengthen home and family life, provide opportunities for homemakers to learn and apply new information developed through home economics research, and to become more effective citizens in their communities, said Miss Viola Hansen, chairman of the Extension home economics program at the University of Kentucky.

Of direct assistance in the statewide program are six supervisors, 10 specialists, and 124 county home demonstration agents, all of whom are home economists.

Hundreds of volunteer leaders also give generously of their time and energy to further the program which has a membership of 27,000. It is estimated that housewives in about 250,000 homes in the state received this year information in feeding and clothing their families, in better management of their homes and in making them more attractive.

Do-it-yourself projects have long been popular in home demonstration work, making possible many things otherwise not attainable, said Miss Hansen.

For example, homemakers in 41 counties had some type of clothing construction; in eight counties, 1,600 women received information on wardrobe planning; homemakers in 17 counties profited financially and otherwise through millinery lessons; and in 30 counties women learned about financial planning and wise spending of money. Property rights and privileges aroused considerable interest among housewives and their husbands in 33 counties. Housing clinics with discussion on remodeling and building met many needs in 22 counties, while women in 66 counties refinished furniture, made draperies, slipcovers, lampshades and rugs. Basic meal planning and food preparation had excellent acceptance in 23 counties.

JOHNSON COUNTY BOY NEARS TRI-STATE SPELLING TITLE BUT TRIPS ON 'LEGITIMATE'

The standing odds against anybody except an Eastern Kentucky youngster winning the Tenth annual Tri-State Spelling contest sponsored by the Herald Dispatch at Huntington May 10, were six to one at the finals, for five of those left on the floor were from this area.

But the competition sprung a surprise in 10-year-old Rodger Cunningham, of Kenova, who caught the word, "legitimate," when James Fannin, of Johnson county, missed it, went on to spell, "enement," and won first place. Fannin had spelled himself into second place by downing Pat McGinnis, of Ashland, on the word, "dyspepsia."

Representing Floyd county at the regional bee were Helen Curnutte, of Auxier, who took first place in the contest here several weeks ago, and Donald Ward, of Bonanza,

Sun's Rays Supplies Hearing Aid Power

The sun's free and inexhaustible supply of energy is now available for the benefit of the nation's hard-of-hearing. Dr. C. L. Hutsinpiiler noted this today when he introduced Zenith Radio Corporation's new sun-powered eyeglass hearing aid.

In introducing the new hearing aid, which has been appropriately named the SOLARIS, Hutsinpiiler pointed out that it is the first eyeglass hearing aid to use the sun's rays as one of its sources of power. The new instrument utilizes Silicon cells of the same type used to power the radio transmitter in the Navy's Vanguard satellite which is now reporting back important scientific data as it orbits the earth.

The Agricultural Marketing Service estimates that about 12 cents of every dollar spent for food in this county goes for taxes. This 12 cents is added, it said, to the cost of processing and distributing food. The tax collector's share is a third of the portion of the food dollars farmers now get.

Take the wheel... get the Swept-Wing feel!

You spend a lot of time in your car—driving to work, shopping, taking trips. How your car rates on the road is important to you. So all we ask before you invest in a new car is this: Come in and take a "road rate" drive in a Swept-Wing 58

Dodge. Really compare it thoroughly on every count. We honestly believe it rides better, handles easier, responds quicker than any other car you've ever driven. But we'll leave the verdict entirely up to you. You be the judge.

YOU BE THE JUDGE! THINGS TO NOTICE IN THE SWEEP-WING 58:

The feel behind the wheel—You feel different because you sit differently. Low and snug and secure, completely in control, almost a part of the car.

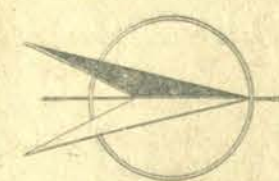

The ease of push-button driving—Once you try Dodge Push-Button TorqueFlite you'll never be happy with outmoded lever types. Ladies love it.

This power steering is different—No power steering is like Dodge power steering. It works full time, yet leaves you the feel of the road.

The view around you—The glass area is tremendous. The visibility is outstanding in every direction—front, sides, rear.

A ride that's a glide—There's no sway on curves, no dip at stops. Torsion-Aire is standard equipment, too.

Horsepower and stopping power—You get up to 320 hp. You get new-design Total-Contact Brakes.

Brucellosis Eradication Is Planned in Floyd-Co.; Dr. Singer Heads Meet

Dr. Robert Singer, state veterinarian, met with livestock leaders of the county at the courthouse here Friday at 7 p.m., to explain the state's brucellosis program. Four Kentucky counties have been declared practically free from brucellosis or Bang's disease, as it is sometimes called. It is planned to initiate a program in this county to eradicate the disease. Only blood-tests will determine if animal has Bang's, it is pointed out.

Testing for brucellosis here will be county-wide and will be at no cost to the farmers. The program here is endorsed by the local Farm Bureau and the newly-organized Livestock Improvement Association. Brucellosis causes loss of calves, temporary or permanent sterility, breaking up of purebred breeding lines and greater herd replacement cost, it was said by Robert M. Jones, county agent. The Extension Service man pointed out that the disease is the same as undulant fever in humans.

"The control of brucellosis can mean a lot to this county as it will increase cattle income and prevent undulant fever in our people," Jones added.

A follow-up meeting will be held here Saturday, May 31.

The tenor of their comments probably will be governed by the state of their digestions after they've finished eating their way from one end of Kentucky to the other. Public Should View Alcoholic As Ill Person

To arouse an interest in an alcoholism program is a difficult and frustrating endeavor. In spite of the enormous losses in time, manpower and ability by alcoholic personnel, many business executives refuse to admit the existence of the problem in their own organization.

Unquestionably a majority of the adult population of the United States uses beverage alcohol in some form. Out of the 65,000,000 who drink, 60,000,000 are normal drinkers. They have no alcoholic problem and are unable to understand the deviant behavior pattern of the 5,000,000 who are alcoholics. The 35,000,000 abstainers have no problem and look upon the alcoholic with disgust.

With this trend of thinking so prevalent, a concept that an alcoholic is a sick person and deserving of understanding and help has been slow in acceptance. No person deliberately sets out to become an alcoholic any more than one deliberately becomes a diabetic. In most any community, one will find a once highly respected professional man who has lost his practice through drinking or a once highly placed executive who has been let out by his company for the same reason. These people are victims of an insidious disease and were past help before they had any realization of what was happening.

The past decade has seen greater progress in understanding this problem than in the preceding 3,000 years. Alcoholics Anonymous blazed the trail by proving that in a majority of instances alcoholism was a disease rather than a lack of self control, that alcoholism could be arrested where the individual desired help.

Proceeding from this point, doctors, psychiatrists and sociologists are working on basic mental and physical therapies, which while still in early stages, offer hope of eventual solution.

The Kentucky Commission on Alcoholism does not expect to perform any miracles. It does hope to prove factually that the alcoholic is a sick person and that the alcoholic can be helped and is worth helping.
