PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

JULY 17, 1958

This Town— That World

Saw a television program, the other night, on which the women wore big hats and heavy veils draped over their faces. Cracked a panel member: "They're wearing the sack a little high this year, aren't they?"

SUGGESTION TO MOTORISTS:
When driving at night and another car approaches, dim your lights. If your lights fail to burn, bear down on your horn. If the latter fails, you might turn on your radio real loud or, better still, turn off into the nearest cornfield.

LOOKING FOR RELIEF
Fellow entered this office, the other mid-day, looking the worse for wear or maybe looking for that week-end he had lost. "So-and-So been around today?" he inquired.
"Told that he had not been around, the visitor remarked, "Shucks, I wanted to see that guy real bad." Then somebody asked why it was so important that he see this particular individual, and the hung-over one said, "It would help me. If I could see that fellow I wouldn't feel so sorry for myself."

THE WHOOP-AND-A-HOLLER SYSTEM
If this telephone service between Prestonsburg and Allen doesn't improve, I aim to organize the Whoop-and-a-Holler Telephone Company which will operate without sanction of the Public Service Commission or the aid of wires and batteries. We, the president, general manager and stockholders, will simply relay our messages by yelling from house to house—and don't think we can't do it. I have been giving some thought to using the Grapevine System instead of Southern Bell, but I find that the Grapevine is as badly overloaded as the Bell System.

CORRECTION
Having corrected enough confusion by the announcement that the squirrel season will open August 1, we hasten to correct the mistake. The season will not open till August 15—repeat, August 15.

4-H MEMEBRS AT FISHTRAP

Week's Activities Include Electronics, Home Nursing And Forest Fire Control

Four-Hers from Floyd, Pike, Johnson and Martin counties are enjoying a week of camping at Fishtrap this week. One hundred sixty-five club members are attending along with six leaders and seven agents.

This week activities include classes in forest fire control, electronics, home nursing and good grooming. There will be handicrafts, including basket weaving, leather work and making calf halters. The boys and girls will enjoy volleyball, archery, badminton, folk games and group singing.

Each night one of the counties are in charge of vesper services. Rev. Harold Dorsey spoke to the campers Tuesday night. Thursday night is set aside for parents and visitors. Anyone interested in the 4-H program is invited to attend. Supper is served at 6:00 p.m., at a nominal fee to anyone wishing to eat.

The group attending from Floyd county are:
Clara Ann Allen, Allen; Patsy Crisp, Allen; Jimmie Dillion,

SENATE GROUP VOTES DELAY OF MINE BILL

TRUCK MINES HAIL DECISION FOR HEARING

Cooper Bill Is Approved
By Senate Labor Group;
'Safety' Bill Amended

Small-mine operators and business heavily dependent on them in this section hailed the news received Wednesday that the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee decided this week that extensive hearings should be held before Congress considers subjecting small mining operations to the same federal safety rules governing larger mines.

In the meantime, however, even the small mines would be subject to closing by federal authorities if disaster seemed imminent.
The bill, as approved by the committee, was offered by Kentucky Republican John Sherman Cooper. His proposals were in the form of amendments that created a substitute for the original bill, introduced by Pennsylvania Democrat Joseph S. Clark.

Clark would have simply applied all federal mine-safety rules, including the closing down in event of imminent disaster, to all mines. Only mines with 15 or more employees are bound by the present law.

Cooper, who was charged by the United Mine Workers last week with blocking committee action on the Clark bill, and who denied the charge, proposed that the Bureau of Mine Safety:

1. Conduct hearings in each state that produced, as much as 2,000,000 tons of coal in 1955 or 1956, and also in Washington. State mine officials, employers, and employee representatives would testify.
  2. Prepare tables, by numbers, showing numbers of mines, states of employees, man-hours of work in both small and large mines, coal production by type of mine, fatalities and injuries by causes and type of mine, and violations of safety rules since 1948.
  3. Make a special study of roof fall accidents, and recommend ways to prevent them.
  4. Report on what has been done in an educational way to prevent mine accidents.
  5. Determine whether the same safety rules should apply to small mines as to the larger ones—with safety the main concern, but also taking into account the "economic effect on such (small) mines."
- The bureau would report back to the President, Department of the Interior and Congress by next

Preinduction Group Given Tests July 10

Four registrants of Selective Service Board No. 25 received notice of preinduction tests for July 10. Their names and addresses are:
Palmer McKenzie, Craynor, Randall Webb, Auxier; Lindsey Hall, Jr., Lookout, transferred to Local Board 82, Pikeville; Acie Dye, Orkney, transferred to Local Board 403; Dayton, Ohio.

BLUFF WORKS, THREE NABBED

Liquor Raids Staged
At Three Floyd Points;
Moonshine Still Taken

Deputy Sheriff Hershell Lester arrested Lloyd Kessner, cabdriver, here late Wednesday and confiscated the car and 24 half-pints of whiskey, gin and vodka.

In an affidavit to procure a warrant issued by the office of County Judge Henry Stumbo Deputy Sheriff Lester said he saw Kessner drive the liquor out of the car and put it in some weeds. Kessner drives a cab, he said, for Thomas Laferty.

Impoundment of the cab was in keeping with the policy of Sheriff Warrens to confiscate all vehicles in which intoxicants are being transported or from which they are sold.

Convinced that a Prestonsburg resident had bought whiskey at a service station here, Chief of Police Epp Lafferty and Policeman Wesley Howard staged a successful bluff Friday when it appeared impossible to produce a search warrant. When an attendant at the station denied selling whiskey—a purchase which the buyer also had previously denied—Lafferty announced he would "find out pretty soon."

Alarmed, those working at the service station began clearing the premises of intoxicants. Waiting for them was Howard.
Result: Sam Adkins, owner of the station, was arrested and under $1,000 bond on two counts, possession of whiskey for the purpose of sale and contributing to juvenile delinquency; Orville Harris was jailed on a possession charge, and Estill Joseph was placed under $1,000 bond on a charge of transporting alcoholic beverages for the purpose of sale.
Harris and the young grandson of Adkins were carrying the intoxicants into the dense undergrowth at the rear of the service station when they ran into the

COUPLE SUES FOR $196,559

Doctors and Nurses
Listed As Defendants
In Big Damage Suit

A suit filed by a Floyd county couple here Monday against the Prestonsburg General Hospital, Inc., one of its owners and two of its nurses, seeks to recover a total of $196,559.60. The action is one of the largest of its kind ever entered in circuit court here.

Mrs. Edith Blair, 39, who is joined by her husband, Earl, in the suit, alleges that she received a hypodermic injection at the hospital last November, that a sciatic nerve was permanently injured and that as a result her left leg, knee, ankle and foot were permanently and partially paralyzed. She also claims her leg has been disfigured as a consequence of the "shot" and that she is required to wear a cumbersome and unsightly orthopedic device.

Alleging carelessness and negligence, she names as co-defendants Dr. John G. Archer, Mrs. Maggie Ackerman, superintendent of nurses, and Betty Osborne, practical nurse. Mrs. Blair's petition claims the practical nurse administered the injection and that Dr. Archer failed to examine, diagnose and treat her condition properly, which would have minimized or eliminated the paralysis.

COMBS URGES CIVIL SERVICE

For State Employees;
System Would Prevent
Political Reprisals

"A civil service system for state employees would have saved the Commonwealth millions of dollars in road construction money alone," Bert Combs, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination said last week on his return to his newly opened headquarters in the Sheraton-Seelbach.
The former appellate court judge made his statement when he announced the first plank in his platform.
"Kentucky needs a civil service system not only to protect competent employees but also to save for the state the good employees who fear political reprisals when an administration changes," Combs declared.

He pointed out that the Kentucky highway construction system lags because the Highway Department lost many engineers when the present administration took office.
"In the meantime other states moved ahead of Kentucky, construction costs continued to mount, and—as a result—our state will have to pay more money for new highways," the Prestonsburg candidate said. "This is only a sample of the evils of the present system."
He also said that his proposed legislation, to be offered to the General Assembly when he becomes Governor, would ban compulsory political contributions.
"Right now," Combs said, "we have on the state payroll a collection gang whose job it is to see that state employees hand over a portion of their salaries each month. We can fire that gang, save the salaries, and apply the funds to the great needs in every corner of the commonwealth."

BOYS ATTEND BEREA DRAMA

Martin Camp Members
See Wilderness Road,
Visit Natural Bridge

Sixty-six youthful members of the Woodmen of the World and 12 car drivers from the Martin Camp which includes all of Floyd county attended a showing of Wilderness Road at Berea Friday evening. The trip, an all-expense paid one sponsored by the fraternal organization represented in this county by Ernest Turner, of Drift, was a continuation of camping and other outdoor activities of the order for young people.

While at Berea the youngsters were conducted on a tour of the college, slept in the dormitory, breakfasted in the college cafeteria and enjoyed a box supper in the Indian Fort Theatre.

An added feature of the outing

KIWANIS SPEAKER

ROBERT H. SOLOMONS III

STATE IS SET FOR ATOM AGE

Kiwanis Speaker Says
Kentucky Stands Next
To Florida In Readiness

Atomic plants are not in competition with Eastern Kentucky's coal fields, said Robert Solomons, III, director of the state's newly formed Nuclear Information Division here last week.

Solomon told the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club, meeting last Thursday at the B & W Cafe, that the coal industry supplies astronomical quantities of coal to the steam generating plants that provide electric power to the atomic plants at Paducah and Portsmouth. He estimated that by 1957 four times the present amount of electricity will be used. Solomon electrified that the state is not endeavoring to create competition for the Eastern Kentucky coal fields.

Kentucky is second only to Florida among the Southern states in preparation for the Atomic Age.

ELEVEN FINED WITHIN WEEK

Cheek Meted Heaviest For Drunken Driving;
7 Waive To Grand Jury

Eleven persons have been fined within the week in quarterly court here and seven others have waived their cases to the September grand jury's action. Most of those convicted were accused of drunkenness, and all but one, who was given trial in absentia, pleaded guilty.

Heaviest fines imposed were one of $100 and costs to Jimmie Earl Cheek, who was given trial on a drunk driving charge although he was not present for the hearing; and another of $25.50 and costs, assessed from Earl B. Brinkley, of West Virginia, who was arrested and charged with fishing with improper license. He held a Kentucky resident license, although a resident of West Virginia, Conservation Officer Raymond Copley said.

Elmer Greer who allegedly wrecked farm machinery of Homer Neely, was held to the grand jury on $1,000 bond on a hit-and-run and leaving the scene of an accident charge. The reckless driving count against him was dismissed on motion of the County Attorney. Russell Whitlock, driver of the "death car" in the July 4 hoax here in which a "bloody" arm hanging from the trunk of his car caused officers to chase him, was fined $10 and costs for breach of the peace. The disorderly conduct charge against him was dismissed on motion of the County Attorney.

Placed under bond for their grand jury appearance were:
Bennie Blackburn, possessing beer and possessing whiskey (separate cases), $1,000 each; Ed Eden, assault and battery with an auto, $500; Harmon Marshall, possessing moonshine, $1,000; Manis Fields, peace warrant, $500.

Cases dismissed:
Neb Conn, breaking and entering, mistake made in name; Curly Moore and Woodrow Patrick, peace warrant, lack of prosecution; Madison Hall, peace warrant, evidence heard, dismissed, reckless use of a deadly weapon charge dismissed on motion of County Attorney; Dexter Hamilton, and Billy Hinton peace warrants, on motion of prosecuting witnesses.

The jury failed to agree in the trial of Arthur Shepherd on a charge of possessing alcoholic beverages. The $1,000 bond of Jerry Mitchell, accused of conversion, was forfeited.

Clifford B. Latta served as judge pro-tem in the absence of County Judge Stumbo, July 9-13.

MARTIN MAY SEEK FUNDS

Meeting Held Last Week
On Urban Renewal Plan;
$500 Fund Is Subscribed

Spurred on by Prestonsburg's success in presenting an acceptable urban renewal and slum clearance project, the town of Martin last week took first steps toward similar improvement with the help of federal funds.

Approximately 50 citizens attended a meeting at the Martin theatre where Prestonsburg Mayor Bill Napier spoke and Clifford B. Latta, the Prestonsburg attorney who prepared the application for advance planning funds and of a grant from the Urban Renewal Administration for the work here, explained the several steps necessary to consideration.

Approximately $500 was subscribed at the meeting to employ attorneys in the preparation of an application and to handle the legal matters involved. A committee to select a project for the town of Martin was named, and it was said a Planning Commission such as that now in existence here will be created by the town of Martin.

Four members of the City Council and a liberal sprinkling of interested women attended the Martin gathering.

BUS, TRUCK COLLIDE, 13 PERSONS INJURED

Thirteen persons were treated for injuries following a truck-bus accident, Monday, one and one-half miles west of Martin on Ky. 80. A Wayland-bound bus belonging to the Allen Bus Lines and an empty coal truck driven by Paul Harris, 32, of Langley, collided at 3:15 p.m.

Twelve of the 13 injured have been discharged from hospitals. Only Mrs. Virgie Jarrell, 43, of Glo, is still in the Beaver Valley hospital suffering from lacerations. It was said by Dr. J. A. Stumbo that Mrs. Jarrell was a heart patient and was on her way to see him when injured. Her condition is not critical. Dr. Stumbo said.

State Police said that from their observation at the scene all but two of the passengers received Type A injuries which are classified as "open wounds and bleeding." Two others had no visible injuries but were taken to the hospital. Ezra Branham, 27, driver of the bus, was said to have been slightly injured but he

PLANS, STUDY GIVEN $16,171

Prestonsburg Allocated
Amount by URA; Napier
Announces Telegrams

Prestonsburg has been allocated the full $16,171 sought from the Urban Renewal Administration to study the project area and develop a sound renewal plan here, it was announced this week by Mayor Bill Napier. Mayor Napier and others received wires Monday from Senators John S. Cooper and Thruston B. Morton and Congressman Carl D. Perkins, telling of definite sums allocated.

At the same time, it was said, a capital grant reservation of $229,733 was made for the actual work to be done here. This amount is based on the premise that the development will include all work set out in the program submitted to the Administration. Whatever the completed project cost is, within the limits stated in the approval application, the federal government pays two-thirds of it.

Even if the project fails of completion, the city of Prestonsburg will not be liable for the $16,171 advanced for planning. The city's part of the overall cost will be financed, it is planned, by bonds to be amortized by parking meter receipts.

Mayor Napier emphasized this week that next Monday's meeting of the City Council is one which every business man should attend, and that the public in general is invited. Organization of a Chamber of Commerce and discussion of sewers are two items on the Council agenda for the evening. He also said a representative of the Water Pollution Commission will be at the meeting.

SUB-STANDARD CABINS FOR PARK DRAW FIRE

Osborne and Trimble
Named in 4 Lootings
Of Paintsville Firms

Billy Ray Osborne, one of the juveniles granted probation here after the Fountain Korner fire uncovered a series of breaks, is back in the toils of the law again, and with him this time is a former Prestonsburg radio disc jockey.

Osborne was captured the night of July 11 as he was leaving the Broadway Service Station, Paintsville, and he confessed to four Paintsville breaks starting with the night of June 29. John Trimble, Jr., the former "Jolly John" of Radio Station WDOC, admitted he had taken the Osborne boy in his car to the places that had been burglarized, County Judge Ward, of Johnson county, said.

Trimble was placed under $1,200 bond. Osborne also was released under bail.

In addition to the service station, places entered are Kay's Drive-In on U. S. 23 and a self-service machine of the Daniels Dairy, both looted June 29; and Chick's Drive-In, July 4. Judge Ward said a total of $52 was taken.

2 GROUPS SAY JACKSON PLAN NOT ADEQUATE

'Back-to-Nature' Cabins
For Jenny Wiley Park Hit;
Cottages, Dock in Plans

First-class housing such as is already supplied at other state parks, not the "back-to-nature" housing proposed by Conservation Commissioner Laban P. Jackson, were called for last week for Jenny Wiley State Park by the Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission and the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club.

The planning commission and the club went on record to that effect soon after the plan for low-cost cottages was devised by Jackson and approved by Governor Chandler.
The planning commission in a meeting at Hazard adopted resolutions which said in part: "We feel the park should have facilities comparable to those of other state parks." It also appointed a three-man committee to confer with Governor Chandler and Commissioner Jackson to ascertain if the announced plans cannot be altered.

The Jackson plan, was announced in a news-story written by Paul R. Jordan, of the Associated Press, formerly of Wayland, is:

"The construction of about eight cottages of a rustic type modeled after those at Yellowstone National Park; the occupants of the six or eight cottages to have the use of a central shower and toilet unit, the cottages to have kitchen and sleeping facilities.

Jordan quoted Jackson as saying: "By using our own materials and personnel, we can save money twice as far. I think this type of back-to-nature housing will work like a top, especially in Eastern Kentucky."

APPEAL HITS COURT ACTION

Wellman Attacks Move
To Fight Attorney Fee;
Predicts Added Expense

An appeal filed in circuit court here last Thursday with Floyd county and its county attorney, Robert S. Wellman, as plaintiffs, seeks to set aside and hold for naught the recent order of the Floyd fiscal court directing that steps be taken immediately to prevent the payment of the fee, or any part thereof, allowed Jesse K. Lewis in the collection of a Floyd County Good Government Taxpayers League suit against W. W. Burchett, former County Attorney.

The fiscal court at its July 7 meeting directed County Attorney Wellman to take action to prevent collection of the $12,354.68 fee allowed him, "or any part thereof," on the ground that it was exor-

BEETLES POSE THREAT TO EASTERN KENTUCKY

A lantern-like contrivance set up on the postoffice grounds here reminds Floyd county farmers that the Japanese, this time a beetle of voracious appetite and prolific reproductive inclinations, is spreading over four Kentucky counties one of them being near-by Pike.

The Japanese beetle has already made costly inroads in northeastern Pike county, since their appearance last summer. They made their invasion of this county in 1916. Jefferson county, the Covington section and Greenup county are infested.

Robert M. Jones, Floyd county agent, says no certain evidence of the beetle's invasion of this county has been offered except a tentative identification of one by J. B. Clarke, who operates a farm on Brandy. The lantern-like contrivance set up by the

Prestonsburg Firm 1957 Winner Of National Weldealer Award

The Lincoln Electric Company, Cleveland, O., has announced that the national Weldealer Award winner for 1957 is the R. V. May Company, Prestonsburg. The May firm is the first Kentucky winner of the annual award, and the story of its success as a dealer in Lincoln welders and welding supplies is the subject of an attractive eight-page brochure distributed by the company. The award was in recognition of "outstanding achievements in performance, cooperation, development and leadership."

The R. V. May Company, which has been in business here about 20 years, is now erecting a second building to supplement the present office and warehouse structure here. This new building will be used as a storeroom and the old structure will be converted to an oxygen pumping room. The building under construction will be 40 by 40 feet and of brick and block material.

Big Sandy Co-op Names Three Floyd Countians

The three men on the board of directors for this county of the Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperation Corporation were reelected at the annual meeting of members of the electric cooperative at Paintsville, Saturday.

William Hicks, of Hippo, defeated Ellis Sexton, 86 votes; Woodrow Bramham, of Auxier Road, defeated Virgil Smith, of Allen, 25 votes, and Ezra Calhoun was adjudged winner over Bill Wells, of Prestonsburg. Oran Hinkle is manager of the cooperative and it was indicated by scores this week that he would be named again by the directors to the job.

Harrodsburg Is City Of "Firsts"

By virtue of its distinction as the first permanent white settlement in Kentucky, Harrodsburg stands as a city of distinction, having accumulated many "firsts" in the state's history.

Some of the most outstanding events occurring in Harrodsburg are:

The first preacher in Kentucky was the Rev. Lythe of the Church of England. He came to Old Harrod in 1775 with Bible in one hand and axe in the other. He was known as the spiritual leader of the wilderness.

The first census in Kentucky was taken in 1777 at Harrodsburg. The population count at that time was 188.

The first road to be opened in Kentucky was from Harrodsburg to Boonesboro in the Fall of 1783. The first tax levied and collected by the court of Kentucky was by Lincoln County in 1783. Harrodsburg was the seat of government. A head tax of 10 pounds of tobacco per tithe was assessed.

The first militia in Kentucky was at Harrodsburg in 1777. Soon after, the fort was attacked by Indians. Gen. George Clark was Major in chief command of the local government.

The first horse races in the State took place in April, 1783 at Humble's Race Paths and on May 10, 1783 at Haggins' Race Paths at Harrodsburg. For betting, Hugh McGary, a prominent pioneer was tried and found guilty. The opinion of the court was the gentleman be "deemed an infamous gambler, and that he shall not be eligible to any office of trust or honor within the State."

Harrodsburg was also first in agriculture. The first corn raised in Kentucky was by James Harmon in 1774 in Harrodsburg's east end. In 1775, peach stones and apple seeds were planted and the first wheat was sown on four acres of land in 1776.

Mrs. Jane Coomes taught the first school in Fort Harrod in 1776 and the first practicing physician in Kentucky was Dr. Hart who settled in Harrodsburg in 1775.

When Lazarus Pays the Bill He's Not a Beggar

It is only natural that we of Eastern Kentucky should bristle at the statement attributed to Conservation Commissioner Laban P. Jackson by Floyd county's Paul R. Jordan, Associated Press writer. For Jordan quoted Mr. Jackson as commenting on his plans for low-cost "back-to-nature" housing at Jenny Wiley State Park in these words:

"I think this type of back-to-nature housing will work like a top, especially in Eastern Kentucky."

Why, pray, in Eastern Kentucky if not anywhere in Kentucky? What is there about the locale or the people that would cause Mr. Jackson to think this neglected state park of ours should have anything less than the high-standard cottages and cabins built by the state for other parks and enjoyed these many years by many thousands of Kentuckians and visitors from other states?

We accept, without further explanation, the statement that Mr. Jackson intended no insult. We base that conclusion on the premise that he is a man possessing commonsense.

The big hassle arose, full-panoplied, last weekend after Governor Chandler had approved about eight rustic-type cottages for Jenny Wiley State Park, with all the occupants of these cottages to use a common shower and toilet unit.

The Regional Planning Commission in a meeting at Hazard and the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club in its meeting last Thursday evening expressed discontent with any program that would result in the Floyd county park getting housing facilities below the high standard long prevailing at other state parks. Individual members of both groups—friends and foes of the state administration—objected to the inference that Eastern Kentucky "is nothing but a hillbilly area" and the sub-standard housing units would suffice here and not elsewhere.

Mr. Jackson's office now disclaims any intention of insulting Floyd county or Eastern Kentucky. It describes the hapless "quote" as "an unfortunate choice of words."

This newspaper does not want to go gunning for Mr. Jackson, simply because it is open season hereabouts on him. Rather, it would prefer to give him every possible benefit of doubt. It would prefer not to believe that as a state official or as a citizen of goodwill he would deliberately put the stamp of Step-Child more indelibly than ever on this section of the state. We even are willing to accept, until events and actions disillusion us, the statement made by his assistant, Mr. Ganter, that the same low-cost housing is envisioned for other state parks in the future.

Yet that does not erase the fact that these other parks already have been developed, that a uniformly high type of housing has been built in these and that, however economical any future additions to existing units may be, these more fortunate sites will still be far ahead of what Jenny Wiley State Park will have.

In the interest of this Eastern Kentucky park and better public relations all around we suggest that the state, first of all, erect a central lodge at the park, this lodge to be no better, no worse than those at other parks in the state system—and then to proceed with the low-cost housing units proposed by Mr. Jackson and approved by Governor Chandler.

Thus would be provided the finest accommodations at the lodge for those who demand such service and more economical facilities in the cabin-units for those who are not so extravagant or demanding.

Some have said that we, in the role of beggars, should not attempt the role of choosers. But it just happens, in this case, that Lazarus has for a long time now been providing a large part of the tax-monies which buy the crumbs that he begs.

Park Should Get Best Facilities

(The Lexington Herald)

Backed by the Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission, leaders of Eastern Kentucky interested in the proper development of Jenny Wiley State Park in Floyd county have voiced considerable objection to the plan announced by the state to provide "back-to-nature" housing at what formerly was called Dewey Lake State Park. We believe that a serious mistake will be made if cheap housing is placed at any site park.

The state announced recently that "back-to-nature" housing would be provided at the park with central bath and toilet facilities to accommodate six or more units. This system was provided in another of Kentucky's state parks several years ago, and abandoned as impractical. The tourist of today does not want to share bath facilities with others in the area, and the state would do better to cut down on the number of units and then see that each is comfortable, modern and with bath facilities in each unit.

Yellowstone National Park has provided some central-unit housing and reports received by the state indicate that the plan was suc-

TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Times:
Two decades ago an alcoholic appeared destined to an unremedial condition. Today, providing he has strict probity in his desire to stop drinking, he has an excellent chance to do so. This chance lies in, through, and by Alcoholics Anonymous and himself.

If he sincerely wishes to stop, he probably will attend a weekly club meeting. While there he will read the "steps" that lead to the final good, "But For the Grace of God—"

This is all perceptible. But there is something which transcends the imagination, imperceptible and inaudible. It is the propinquity of a higher power, giving light and hope to those who were once lost in a maelstrom of confusion.

Those who are striving to live decent lives should put the past aside. They must nonchalantly ignore the gossip of venomous tongues—consider it mere trivia from the rattle-brains of the idle. Many people are too ignorant to know that alcoholism is a disease; but, thanks to the AA and a Higher Power, it is a curable disease.

Are people interested in youth? I don't know. I hear them talking on the street corner discussing a topic which is a big one and current—juvenile delinquency. They talk of how to punish the delinquent, but think little about how to prevent delinquency.

And do they practise what they preach? I must say that 80 per cent of the time they do not. I also have heard my elderly friends say this, that the car with the loudest knock is in the worst shape. I use the following, perhaps true, perhaps fiction, to show how inconsistent their criticisms are:

One Friday night a group of teenagers got together for a peaceful fellowship period. The group had some music and were reasonably loud, so the neighbors complained about it. Exactly a week later, the same people were complaining about teenagers speeding among children at play. There is one thing certain—if they're having a little music and innocent fun, they're not speeding among children.

This is to ask all adults to support your nearest youth group not criticize it.

SUGGESTION
Now we've read the last word on this matter of law-enforcement. Wince Trimble, Sheriff of Johnson county, has been requested by the fiscal court to "cease and desist" from arresting and jailing so many of the folks.

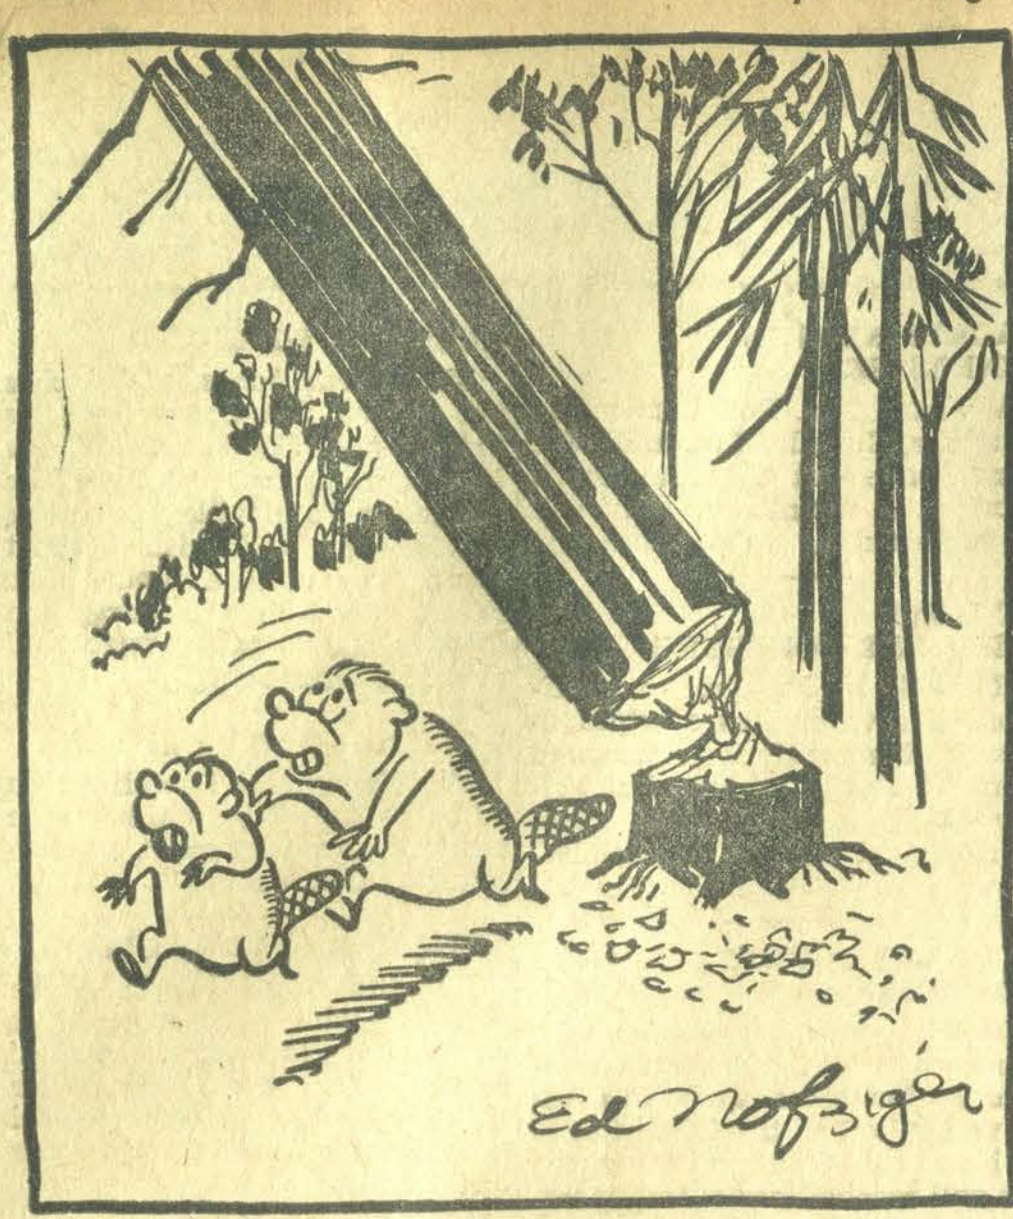

Sheriff Trimble should feel highly complimented. Johnson county should not. Any time a county is willing to sacrifice law-enforcement for the saving of a few dollars, somebody isn't thinking right.

If the fiscal court will provide one large, well-stocked rockpile and promptly at 8 a.m. each day hand each prisoner one heavy hammer with the order to repair to the aforesaid rockpile and there make little ones out of big ones until 5 that evening, with exactly one hour off for lunch, siesta or whatever they wish to call it—their troubles will be over. Sheriff Trimble can go ahead and do his duty, the jail can receive a hundred prisoners a day if it likes, and still the county will not have to board them. They'll pay off, execute bond or make a dash for liberty—anything, to get away from all that work.

Unionists Arrest Ex-Gov. Morehead For Criticism

By Charles F. Hinds
Secretary-Treasurer, Kentucky Historical Society

At Louisville in the dead of the night on September 19, 1861, ex-Governor Charles S. Morehead was arrested in his home and carried quickly by United States soldiers across the Ohio River into Union territory before a habeas corpus could be served. There he was placed on a special train for a long trip to Lafayette prison located in the harbor of New York City.

By his own account, thirty-eight prisoners were assigned a large, damp room and issued some half-rotten straw to put between themselves and the brick floor. There was just one drinking vessel for all the men, a dirty tin cup, into which water was poured which had been made more palatable by straining off the tadpoles.

The group protested their treatment to President Abraham Lincoln, and the men were transferred to Fort Warren in Boston Harbor, where they were placed without bedclothing or straw upon the bare floor.

What did Charles Morehead do to deserve the three and one-half months he served in prison? He was not sure. Perhaps it was because he had criticized publicly William H. Seward, Secretary of State, or maybe he was thought partly responsible for the invasion of Kentucky earlier in the month by Confederate troops under General Leonidas Polk.

Morehead was born in 1802 in Nelson county. He was a first cousin of Governor James T. Morehead of Kentucky and a second cousin of Governor John M. Morehead of North Carolina. After graduating with a LL.B. from Transylvania University in 1820, he practiced law in Christian and Franklin counties. From 1823 to 1854 he served in the Kentucky legislature and United States Congress and was Attorney General of Kentucky for a period of six years. In 1855 he was elected Governor on the anti-foreign American party ticket, but it is doubtful that he approved the "Bloody Monday" riot which took place in Louisville on election day.

He died in Greenville, Mississippi, in 1868, of causes, partly due to it was thought by some, to the imprisonment he suffered during the War in Union hands.

HEALTH NOTES

By Floyd County Health Department

ARE YOU POSITIVE?

"Cats can see in the dark." Do you believe that? Are you positive? Really, no animal can see in the pitch dark. But many people believe they can. What do you believe? What you see? What you hear? What "everybody" says? Do you try to find out for sure? Of course, many of the common beliefs, such as the one about cats, probably won't do you any harm. But some incorrect notions can harm you. Here's one you may have heard: "Tuberculosis is a disease of young people. Old people don't get TB." Do you believe that? Are you positive?

It doesn't care how old you are. The germs that cause TB are just as much at home in the lungs of a grandmother of 80 as a girl of 18. All they want is a chance—a person who is physically run down, who doesn't eat right, who doesn't get enough rest and sleep, perhaps someone weakened by another illness, or by a severe mental or emotional strain.

Many of us—about a third of the nation—have TB germs in our bodies. But most of us won't get tuberculosis because we keep well enough to hold the germs in check. Whatever your age, you should have a regular check-up to be sure you're in shape to fight off the attacks of TB germs, and other germs, too.

It's a good idea to find out whether you have TB germs in your body. Your doctor can give you a simple skin test that will tell the story. If your tuberculin test is positive, you'll be forewarned to take a little extra trouble to keep strong and healthy.

MILK-BORNE DISEASE

Milk-borne diseases are on the decline due to concerted community efforts to keep the milk supply safe. Pasteurization—the most effective single measure for insuring safe milk—has become widespread throughout our state.

Since the major proportion of all milk-borne diseases has been shown to be the result of unpasteurized milk this is an important advance. Many communities require pasteurization of all market milk. However, there are localities where pasteurization is not required. In those areas and in rural homes, people can safeguard their health and insure a safe milk supply by heat treating their raw milk.

Heat treatment kills the germs of such milk-borne diseases as typhoid fever, dysentery, diphtheria and undulant fever. Heat treatment, or home pasteurization, is a simple and inexpensive procedure. For the best methods to use in heat treating milk in the home, consult the Floyd County Health Department.

Herd of health dairy cows are also of basic importance to the maintenance of a safe milk supply. Cooperation of dairy farmers in Kentucky is necessary for the control of diseases communicable from cattle to men, such as bovine tuberculosis and brucellosis or Bang's disease, the cause of undulant fever.

In addition to the responsibility of the farmer, the consumer, too, has certain responsibilities for the maintenance of a safe milk supply. By demanding and using only pasteurized milk and by caring properly for the milk after it has been purchased, he can help protect his own health and that of his family.

If a consumer is careless, he may nullify all the various safety measures which have been employed to safeguard the milk until it reaches him.

Tidbits Of Kentucky Folklore

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

"LADIES FAIR"

Many literary critics love to make pronouncements on the crude taste of the folks and to tell how utterly democratic the great common people are. Such critics have definitely never lived among the folk or been of them. Nothing is more marked in folklore than the caste system, however much the actual practitioners of folklore may be democratic in their lives.

Let's take the ballad for an example. No matter how down-at-the-heel the singer may be, his songs deal with "ladies fair." Of course, one reason for this very phrase is that the ballad itself or the one imitated grew up in a time when ladies and lords were the ideal of everybody, no matter how far such heights may have been from achievement. The people who came to America, very few of them, lords and ladies, looked up to the real ones and usually molded their lives accordingly. Just as soon as an American acquired property, he set himself up as a newly-fledged gentleman, and, of necessity, his wife was a "lady fair." Needless to say, the ones who never rose to such heights in the colonies were always eager to establish themselves and a family name. The "lady fair" set the standard for conduct, for day-dreaming, for society here and, maybe, hereafter.

There is another even stronger reason for the ballads having so many fair and tender ladies: the folk, like Uncle Remus, love to picture an ideal world where the underlings can be great. Brer Rabbit may be weak, but he is more than a match for Brer Fox and the other critters hope to get by on strength; Brer Rabbit uses his laid and always arrives. Mere brute force just does not succeed in folk tales. The weakest younger son, often regarded as a moron by his folks, rescues his oppressed family and marries a princess. The quiet, inoffensive Cinderella, not the horsey half-sisters, catches the prince. And the most unpromising slave girl turns out to be a princess in disguise. The teller of such tales, strengthened by his knowledge of the Bible, hopes for a time when the race will not be to the swift or the contest to the strong.

Some years ago a very famous novelist wrote of the filthy language used in front of some poverty-stricken women. I just cannot imagine any such change in women of the lower order in the half century since I lived at Fidelity. No matter how the neighbors might regard a woman, she regarded herself as a lady—probably a lady fair—and expected to be treated as such. And I never knew a man, no matter how coarse or how drunk, who would use offensive language in the presence of any woman. To have done so would have subjected him to bitter criticism or even a good old-fashioned beating. Even though he may have used obscenity as a second language, he dropped his coarseness the moment a lady appeared. To my mind that is a good explanation of many of the endearing terms used in the ballads. Bad people, women as well as men, are presented as great mistakes. There runs through many of the ballads a "take warning and govern yourselves" attitude toward breaking moral laws. Though the story of departures from the straight and narrow may be told rather effectively, the listener never doubts that the purpose is to give fair warning to similar young things who are tempted to go astray.

The whole world loves to play-act. Imagine a world in which all novels, all moving pictures, all radios, all television, all stage shows were non-existent. Think how dull everything would be. Ballads grew up, doubtless, in a time when people had to entertain themselves beyond the pageantry of the church and the state. Tow easy it was, then, to turn to fair and tender ladies, lordly and gallant gentlemen, horses shod with gold front and "silver shod behind." If you are playing-like, why not go the whole hog? If you have never seen a queen, so what? Everybody has a license to imagine whatever queen he pleases. If lords and ladies ride by on horses shod with gold and silver, maybe the burden of earning a living can be a little easier after the daydream; maybe one can catch glimpses of a better time ahead when all will be lords and ladies and live in palaces rather than narrow hovels shared with the cow and the pig.

"LOST COMPARISONS"

Practically every day I am forced to explain a folk figure of speech that seems as plain to me as the nose on a man's face. You see, the younger generation do not know about things that we used to have as commonplace, everyday things. Why, only yesterday I had to take time out to explain why a person should be hit over the head with a soap paddle. I got the idea of his needing punishment, but "What is a soap paddle?" And then the whole solar system had to stop turning while I laboriously told about ash-hoppers, lye, lye soap, and all the whole annual soap-making, including the rather disreputable soap-paddle, certainly not a very soft or dainty thing to have laid across one's skull. Meanwhile, my original reference was lost; I do not remember even who deserved such a messy and severe punishment.

Every semester I teach, among other great American poems, Holmes' "Contentment," in which he enumerates the few things that he could be content with—things that would bring millions of dollars on the market. He wants a horse, not a fast one but one that can do smooth two-forty-five.

"Of course, for just a single spurt, Some seconds less would do no hurt."

Then, with whatever patience I can muster, I must explain that the slow jog-trot that Dr. Holmes wished was a world record for that time. Stares, grins, or even loud laughter may greet this astounding announcement. Why, with cars averaging a mile a minute on roads that specifically say no speed must exceed forty-five miles an hour, who would want to ride behind a horse lazing along at such a ridiculous gait? And just wait; when we get our new private jet, we'll show those old-timers, if any are still around, what speed is!

Again, just recently I wanted to say something about a small patch of ground and instantly thought that it was not much bigger than a saddle blanket. Now who today would know what that meant? I used it anyway and looked important while I explained the significance of the comparison. The person being addressed did not look impressed, for he remarked shortly afterward something about his Grandpa's forgetfulness and growing senility. I hope that nothing personal was intended. Ages ago in this column I remarked that if you would remember things accurately and, years later, tell him truthfully, nobody would believe a word you said.

Now, that soap-paddle reminds me of another useful comparison that is far beyond the understanding of the younger generation: "As big as a washing of soap." With mathematical meticulousness, some of my students want me to say just how big that would be, as if a mere measuring stick could tell. But all old-timers will recognize the appropriateness of such a figure and crave no further explanation. I would not be surprised if somebody took exception to another favorite of mine: "As big as a lump of coal."

The worst side of this comparison business is that we oldsters are put into our places as if we had outlived our usefulness. Some of us try to pick up the latest wisecrack on radio or television and throw that back at our younger accusers, but it seems to be a losing game. Those same younger people, however dumb they may be about such ordinary, though outdated, objects as soap-paddles, and lye soap, and fast horses, can beat us at our own game of using fresh, live comparisons. My sage advice—which I will probably not keep—is for us who are past fifty to remember horse-and-buggy days and the language of that time but to speak, as nearly as we can, the strange new language of the time of cars and airplanes and television and atom bombs. That is almost like expecting your having to stop your newfangled car to let a dinosaur plod its cumbersome way across the super-highway.

School Bus Tragedy, 1958
By Robert Samons
The school bus was traveling on Highway twenty three. Children having a lovely time, Happy as happy could be. But as the bus rounded a curve Traveling thru rain and snow, It struck a wrecker, then plunged into a raging stream below. The stream was full of recent rains, And flowed so swiftly by Parents, patiently waited and prayed That it would soon run dry. For many hours they waited there, But still the stream flowed on. And when they sadly turned away They knew their loved ones were gone. Parents we know, how you must feel For we too, lost a son. Not in this tragic school bus wreck, But in a different one. (11)

Research Studies Offer New Hope For Alcoholism

Ninety percent of every 100 who drink alcoholic beverages do not experience any difficulty with drinking. They are unable to understand why anybody should. The proven facts are that 1 of 9 who indulge become "problem drinkers." The problem drinker has unfortunate experiences from time to time but does not become a true alcoholic. One of 16 becomes a true alcoholic. Some students of the problem classify the problem drinker and the true alcoholic as one group.

While every alcoholic is a problem drinker, not every problem drinker is an alcoholic. The line of demarcation between the two is thin, so thin that many authorities refuse the distinction. The pre-alcoholic symptoms; viz: gross drinking behavior... blackouts... sneaking and gulping drinks... hangover, are symptoms shared by both, but the problem drinker does not reach the stage of compulsion.

The problem drinker retains some choice as to whether he will or will not drink. The true alcoholic has no choice. He MUST drink. Regardless of family, friends, business associates or church affiliation he drinks, tho he may not want to. This compulsion is the mark of the true alcoholic.

When past the pre-alcoholic stage he (or she) completely loses control. He cannot picture life without alcohol. Drinking becomes a basic necessity. He cannot face any situation without the fortification of alcohol.

Alcoholism is a disease. Whether it is a mental illness or a physical, metabolic illness, or a combination of both, is a subject for debate. The fundamental fact is the alcoholic is a desperately ill person who does not realize the seriousness of his condition. Prior to 1935 the alcoholic faced the alternative of an early death, commitment to a mental hospital or incarceration in a penal institution.

Today there is hope for the alcoholic. Successful rehabilitation programs are in operation. Research projects seeking further knowledge are being carried on in many colleges and universities. Industries are establishing programs within their organizations to help the alcoholic employee. The medical profession is re-examining methods of treatment, seeking new therapies.

Alcoholics Anonymous has been successful in helping 200,000 men and women achieve sobriety from varying degrees of alcoholism. When the public at large accepts the concept that the alcoholic is a sick person, not a moral degenerate, the stigma will be removed. This changed thinking will create an atmosphere more conducive to the alcoholic seeking help.

Mrs. Minta Allen, 88, Victim At Son's Home; Last Rites, Wednesday

Mrs. Minta Allen, widow of John Allen, died at 3 p.m., Sunday at the home of a son, Cliff Allen, near Sugar Loaf. She was 88 years old.

A daughter of Lackey and Peggy Justice Salisbury, she was a native of the Left Beaver Creek section of the county. She spent most of her life in Hueysville and vicinity. Her husband died in 1903, and for the last 15 years or more she had spent much of her time here and elsewhere in the county with her children. Mrs. Allen had been a member of the Church of Christ for 60 years.

Cause of her death was not stated. She suffered a broken hip three years ago but recovered from that injury. Three weeks ago, she sustained a broken leg in a fall at her son's home.

Surviving are the following children: D. M. Allen, of Hueysville; J. R. Allen, of Huntington, W. Va.; Cliff Allen, of Emma, John Allen, of Prestonsburg; Mrs. Frank Cooley and Mrs. Elizabeth Cadenhead, both of Wabasso, Fla., and Mrs. Van Shumate, of Wheelwright.

Funeral rites were conducted Wednesday afternoon from the Bosco Church of Christ, the Rev. L. B. Price officiating. Burial was made in the Allen family cemetery, near Sugar Loaf, under direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Advertising Head Named

The appointment of Charles W. Dinkins as director of advertising has been announced by David L. Francis, president of Princess Coal Sales Company, sales agents for Princess Elkhorn Coal Company of David and The Powellton Coal Company, of West Virginia. Mr. Dinkins will join the firm beginning Monday, July 14.

Dinkins will be in charge of all advertising on both the domestic and industrial coals, and will also serve as director of all sales promotion activities assisting Joseph E. Cooke, manager of sales.

Dinkins, a veteran of World War II, was formerly with the Cowles Broadcasting Company's Huntington Outlet, WHTN-Television and WSAZ Television in the position of promotion and publicity manager. He is a member of the Advertising Club of Huntington, Huntington Manufacturers Representatives Association, and various other civic and fraternal organizations.

He is a graduate of Marshall College, where he specialized in advertising and journalism. He attended the Ray-Vogue Schools of Advertising in Chicago, and later served as publicity director of the schools for a period of two years. He was publicity director for the 1955 United Fund campaign.

About 2,000,000 U. S. farm families derive all or part of their income from dairy cows. Dairying in Kentucky is second only to tobacco in farm cash income.

Kentucky is 13th in the nation in total milk produced. In average production per cow, however, it is 39th.

Grease spots on fine materials may be absorbed by dusting cornstarch or white talcum powder on the spot, letting it stand until the grease is absorbed before brushing it off. Or place the greased spot between two clean blotting papers and press lightly with a warm iron.

Commissioner Jackson also said the Floyd park project could mark the beginning of a statewide trend toward comfortable housing at a lower cost to park visitors. "In cutting our costs we can serve a greater majority of folks. The average tourist, you know, makes less than $7,000 a year," he added.

It was the statement imputed to Jackson to the effect that his "back-to-nature" housing "will work like a top, especially in Eastern Kentucky" as much as the fact that the cottages will not be up to the standard of other state parks that created the sharpest criticism.

One member of the Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission objected to the inference that Eastern Kentucky "was nothing but a hillbilly area."

"We've got first-class citizens and towns here like other cities," he commented.

Members of the commission are B. F. Reed, of Drift, John Whisman, Hazard, and Harry Laviers, of Paintsville.

The program announced by Mr. Jackson also included installation of a second boat dock on Dewey Lake, which is now under state control and included in the Jenny Wiley Park area. This dock, it was said, will be built in the upper reaches of the impoundment, probably at German.

The cottages and boat dock will cost an estimated $50,000, it was said.

The resolutions of the Kiwanis Club here were adopted only after considerable discussion.

The resolutions, copies of which were forwarded to Mr. Jackson and The Courier-Journal, said:

"The proposed construction of 'back-to-nature, rustic type of cottages' at Jenny Wiley State Park would be detrimental to the future growth of said park and is not commensurate with facilities provided for and planned at other park areas throughout the state . . . This club hereby goes on record as being opposed to the proposed construction work."

The Times could not reach Mr. Jackson at his Frankfort office, Monday, but Deputy Commissioner George Ganter described the objectionable statements ascribed to Jackson as "an unfortunate choice of words."

"Our reaction here," he said, "is this: The folks don't understand the type of cottage planned for the park. I consider myself, my wife and children pretty nice people, and last year we found those cabins at Yellowstone National Park delightful and to our liking. In fact, we stayed the maximum time anybody could, which is two days at one place because of the heavy demand for housing. Those cottages are the same type we had planned for Jenny Wiley Park."

Ganter described the future created by the Frankfort announcement as "something of a tempest in a teapot." He explained that the cottages planned for Jenny Wiley State Park are not to be rustic in the sense of being rough but will be "nice and comfortable" and that the same type is wanted in future building at other state parks.

Use of materials within the park and labor on force account would cut the cost of the cottages far below their normal cost of $6,500 he said. Less expensive buildings are desirable, Mr. Ganter explained, because of the high rates the state must charge for present park facilities and the complaints heard from the public about these high rates.

He said the cottages envisioned for the park would rent at about $7 a day.

Ganter said all the $450,000 now available to the Conservation Department's Division of Parks for improvements will be spent in Eastern Kentucky. The work planned toward comfortable housing at an estimated $50,000. He did not say where in Eastern Kentucky the remaining $400,000 would be spent.

He explained that the revenues from sale of bonds whose validity is being attacked by private hotel interests in Western Kentucky where other building is planned cannot be applied to Jenny Wiley State Park. The bonds will be sold for the improvement of the parks which are already established and which for that reason can afford the bond-buyer a definite idea of their ability to draw tourists and amortize the indebtedness he said.

The present plan for Jenny Wiley State Park, he added, would provide a nucleus which would establish attractiveness of the park to tourists, fishermen and others, and the demand for further housing would provide a basis for demanding and getting additional funds.

"Our present plan," Ganter concluded, "is to get the most done that is possible with what we have available."

April 1. Comments and recommendations from State mine officials also would be made at that time. Cooper said about 26 states, including Kentucky, would be affected by his proposal for full-scale hearings.

He said he felt all the facts and figures on the matter should be before Congress before it adopted a proposal such as Clark's.

Some small-mine owners, he added, have charged the Clark bill would drive them out of business. This deserves careful investigation, Cooper said.

The new committee bill provides that after a small mine is closed for safety reasons, a State inspector would be consulted to see if he agrees with the federal inspector's decision.

If the state man disagrees, a federal judge would name a third, independent inspector to give a decision.

The mine-owner still could appeal if the third inspector ruled for a shutdown.

They are known to feed on 280 different kinds of plants.

The beetles spread by natural flight, are carried on the winds, their eggs and larvae are floated along swollen streams, and many hitchhike rides in the grilles of motor vehicles.

But the invaders can be conquered, the experts say, by soil treatment with insecticide and by spraying DDT wettable powder and methoxychlor. The State Department of Entomology, hopes to spray the infested areas with DDT from an airplane if funds can be obtained for the project. This will cost between $8 and $9 an acre and thousands of acres in Pike county need spraying.

A bill was introduced in the last Kentucky Legislature to appropriate $25,000 to battle these beetles but it died in committee.

If control measures are not taken soon, a representative of the U. S. Department of Agriculture says the state will be placed under federal quarantine and no Kentucky farm products can be shipped out of the state without federal inspection, which would require expensive treatment of the products to meet inspection standards.

Japanese beetles, the female being larger than the male, are easy to identify. They have iridescent green heads and green and copper-colored wings with white specks at the lower wing covers. They are about the size of a potato bug, from a quarter to half an inch long.

bitant, Wellman refused to take the action, and Commonwealth's Attorney Hollie Conley was named by the court to carry out its orders.

The appeal filed by Wellman asks that the defendants, the fiscal court, County Judge Henry Stumbo and Magistrates Zeb Ousley, Johnnie Caudill and Fred Conn, be granted the opportunity of fighting payment of the fee but that they be granted such privilege only on the condition that the county judge and the three magistrates individually, and not Floyd county, assume the risk of expenses, penalties, interest and cost of such action.

Wellman's appeal petition contends the court and its members will lose their appeal from the order of Special Judge Lawrence F. Speckman fixing Lewis' fee at $12-354.68 and that such loss of the case would cost the county approximately $5,000 more than the fee fixed by Speckman. This added expense, it is contended, would accrue from interest at 6% per annum during the period of the appeal which Wellman says could reasonably be expected to be three to five years, plus costs, plus 10% damages when the Court of Appeals affirms the fee allowance, plus fees of attorneys heretofore hired and yet to be hired by the fiscal court.

The petition prepared by the county attorney says this is a gamble and a risk Floyd county cannot afford. It also claims the appeal proposed by the fiscal court will be futile for several reasons, some of which are:

The special attorney or attorneys hired by the fiscal court had not as of July 7 made any response to the motion of Lewis for an allowance of attorney fee, although due notice had been given; they did not introduce any evidence in opposition to the allowance, did not offer counter affidavits to evidence produced by Lewis, and did not object to his evidence; and four attorneys "or more" whose interests "were and still are adverse and hostile to that of Jesse K. Lewis" have failed to proceed further in appealing the allowance of the attorney fee.

Arguing along this line, the petition points out that, since the special judge who heard the original case and the Court of Appeals which affirmed his judgement held that members of the fiscal court were acting adversely to the interest of Floyd county "and in a fraudulent and collusive manner," it is a little late to contend that the fiscal court is now acting for the benefit of the county.

The Wellman appeal contends that the fiscal court voted its recent order at the urging of County Judge Stumbo whose interests and motives in making the order were purely personal, malicious and designed to affect a delay in concluding the litigation. It points out that a judgement of about $9,000 was gained against Judge Stumbo as a result of a Lewis-prosecuted suit.

County Attorney Wellman also points out that the Kentucky State Bar Association's professional standards require at least 40% in any cases taken by an attorney on a contingent basis to the Court of Appeals, except pauper cases. The fee allowed Lewis amounts to only approximately 4% more than the minimum fee thus established, it is claimed.

according to Solomon. In 1955 the Southern Governor's Conference requested the Southern Regional Education Board to hold an area-wide conference to deal with feasibility of united action in the South in the development of industrial opportunities through nuclear energy research and otherwise.

Later, the Regional Advisory Council was appointed and Governor Chandler, in 1957, appointed an eight-member Kentucky Advisory Committee on Nuclear Energy under the chairmanship of Dr. R. C. Ennsy, dean of the Speed Scientific School at the University of Louisville.

On Sept 20, 1957 the Nuclear Information Division was established, making Kentucky the first state to provide a separate agency under its economic development program for services in the nuclear field, Solomon said.

The functions of the agency are: (1) Strengthen Kentucky's efforts to bring desirable, new industry into the state by utilizing nuclear energy products and publicizing nuclear achievement and opportunities in Kentucky; (2) acquaint Kentucky's manufacturing industry and farmers with opportunities for new markets related to the atom, and keep them informed on developments in the nuclear field; (3) acquaint the general public and government, business and professional leaders with the basic facts on the application of nuclear energy; provide information and assistance to other agencies of the state and to industry and other private organizations.

Johnson said that the Committee has recommended a so-called model bill embracing nuclear energy legislation. The bill will provide a statutory framework for the state's nuclear energy program and allow for delegation of responsibilities to the various state agencies.

Sturgill Urges Truck Crackdown

Law enforcement agencies in Kentucky were asked to crackdown on truckers violating traffic laws by Don Sturgill, Commissioner of Public Safety.

In telegrams to State police posts, Sturgill said, "With vacationers presently crowding the highways to an extremely high peak, every violation of the traffic laws becomes much more serious than it normally would be, and this fact is especially true as it pertains to trucks."

Sturgill cited speeding and tailgating as the two most flagrant violations by truckers. He pointed out that seven persons have been killed and 16 injured in highway accidents involving trucks during a four-day period.

TOUGH COMPETITION

The boys from dairy farm at Kentucky village recently entered their registered Holstein cattle in the Shelby County Fair which the state gave to the federal government in 1879. The land adjoins Lock and Dam No. 4 on the Kentucky River. Its return is subject to Senate approval. A Kentucky Congressman argued: "the state gave the land to the United States and the United States should be just as charitable in turning it back."

Washington, July 2 — The bituminous coal industry said today it is "again faced with a fight for survival," and asked the Senate to restrict imports of residual fuel oil, crude petroleum and petroleum products.

SPAN OF LIFE IN FLOYD UP

1958 Life Expectancy Of Floyd County Child 20 Years Over Gramp's

Special to The Times

NEW YORK, June 25—The span of life for the average Floyd county resident is far greater today than it was for his forebears.

A child born at the present time locally has the prospect of 20.3 more years of life than did his grandparents when they were born.

A youth of 20, whose expectancy two generations ago would have been to reach age 62.7, can now look forward to age 72.3, or 9.6 additional years.

People who are at the age of 60 at the present time have the likelihood, on the average, of living to age 77.5, thanks to a bonus of 2.8 years tacked on to their span.

All of this has been made possible by the accomplishments of medical science, by the improvement in sanitation and by better living conditions generally.

Studies made by the National Office of Vital Statistics and others depict the progress made since 1900 in the United States toward a longer, healthier life. The gains vary from community to community, depending on local living standards and other environmental factors.

For any group of people, its median age is an indicator of the number of bonus years in store for it.

In Floyd county, at the present time, the median age of the population is given as 19.3 years, compared with 30.2 years for the nation as a whole.

At the local median age, the bonus amounts to 9.4 years per person, according to the Federal reports.

This median-age dividend, if applied across the board to all local residents, would give 405,000,000 as the number of additional years, superimposed on their former lifetime expectancy, to which the present population can now look forward.

Golden wedding anniversaries will be more common in the future, thanks to the greater longevity—barring divorce suits.—Ed. Insurance company figures show that the chances of a young couple living to celebrate the gala event are now 1 in 2, if they are 17 when the marry. When both are 25 at marriage, the chances are 1 in 4. At age of 31, it drops to 1 in 10.

For the average couple marrying today, the probability of surviving the 50 years is twice what it was in 1900.

Patton Slated Banquet Speaker At Paintsville

James L. Patton, head of the Bureau of Vocational Education Frankfort, will speak at a banquet in Paintsville, July 17, when the honored guest will be Miss Onie Hill, retiring shorthand instructor at Mayo State Vocational School.

The banquet, at the Paintsville Country Club, at 6:30 p.m., will climax other activities of the day at Mayo School and in Paintsville, to honor the retiring teacher, who has given practically a lifetime of dedicated service to the youth and people of Eastern Kentucky.

Others to appear on the program at the dinner will include: J. B. Wells, Jr., state commissioner of rural highways, former mayor of Paintsville, and a former student of Miss Hill; Professor George Butcher, retired educator and former teaching colleague of Miss Hill when she first taught at the old John C. C. Mayo College; Dr. Paul B. Hall, Paintsville surgeon and an alumnus of the John C. C. Mayo College and Escrom Chandler, Paintsville business man, who is a deacon and former Sunday School superintendent of the church Miss Hill has attended and in which she has taught Sunday School for many years.

Turkish Tobacco Crop Well Into Third Year

Eighteen farmers — including two from Indiana — this year are growing a crop of Turkish (aromatic) tobacco which will be sold this fall in Kentucky.

Ira Massie, Kentucky Extension Service tobacco specialist, said nine of the 16 Kentucky farmers grew the crop last year, and that both the Indiana growers, who market with the Kentuckians, also grew it in 1957. The seven remaining growers of the 1958 crop are new, he said. Eleven counties are represented, plus the one Indiana county.

Golden wedding anniversaries will be more common in the future, thanks to the greater longevity—barring divorce suits.—Ed. Insurance company figures show that the chances of a young couple living to celebrate the gala event are now 1 in 2, if they are 17 when the marry. Betsy Layne Home Ec Class Spends Summer On Chosen Projects

The Betsy Layne Home Economics students have been using some of their time this summer in carrying out interesting summer projects.

These projects are chosen by the students on the basis of their needs for the project, their ability and interest in carrying it out. The girls set up goals and worked out plans for the project they selected and are working this summer toward finishing their projects and reaching the goals they set for themselves. Many interesting projects have already been completed that represent the seven areas of home-making; child care, clothing, foods, health, housing, management and personal and family relationships.

This summer several wardrobes have been made more complete by dresses, skirts and blouses the girls have made. Cellar shelves display colorful rows of fruits and vegetables that have been canned and freezers are filling up with good things from the gardens. The interiors of several homes have had new paint jobs, with the girls working out color schemes and painting the rooms themselves and in some instances hanging new curtains that they have made. Some exteriors have been made more attractive by painting porches and lawn furniture and planting flower gardens. Here are signs that the girls are interested, are working and are certainly reaching their goals.

Sixty-two girls are working on summer projects and the ones that have completed theirs so far are: Mona Kay Bailey, Jean Beckelheimer, Anna Lee Burchett, Avonell Akers, Virginia Ethington, Peggy Ann Hunter, Linda Layne, Dotty Gay Nelson, Peggy Jean Osborn, Emma Louise Sizemore, Phyllis Spears, Rosemary Stratton, Lovie Stone, Judy Tackett, Patty Jo Tackett, Joyce Dillion, Velma Lou Kidd, Kathryn King, Peggy Lewis, Roberta Newsome, Catherine Parsons, Pearlene Stanley, Nell Stewart, Anzie Tackett, Vivian Walters, Louellen Adkins, Norma Jean Boyd, Palesteen Boyd, Joie Collins, Genivene Conn, Betty Lou Hall, Janice Hall, Sara Alice Hall, Naomi Hamilton, Eulaven Harvey, Wanda Ann Jones, Joyce Kiser, Priscilla Leedy, Lamona Sue Price, Georgia Rickman, June Trimble, Thelma Boyd, Reeda Case, Alma Conn, Dottie Sue Hall, Loretta Howell, Margaret Lois Mitchell, Roberta H. "Playing In The Dirt"

So far as I can now recall, no poet has ever written about the joys of playing in the dirt. Maybe poets feel that it is a bit too earthy—pardon such a poor pun—to write about crude joys like this. Only once do I recall having seen anything in print that adequately summed up the delights of living and playing in the dirt: in Blair Niles' poetic, memory-haunting book THE RIVERS OF AMERICA, there are passages that reawoke memories of my own childhood, a childhood in many ways similar to hers on the banks of the lordly James. It is a satisfaction to find that a genuine F. F. V., a famous one at that, found childhood joys and adult memories from playing in the dirt.

Mud pies were a part of playing in the dirt, though far from being the whole show. There are as many kinds of mud pies as there are kinds of dirt; choose your ingredients and make whatever kind you wish. My playmates and I also devised a kind of earthen pie that I have never read about elsewhere. Since my father was a doctor, there were always lots of metal boxes around. Some of these had nice square tops; others had round ones. We would find a place where there was no grass and the ground was firm and solid. We would press down on the box top until it had cut through the top layer of soil. Then we would carefully remove the cookie thus cut out and have as many and as fancy pies as you could want. I never yielded to my own best feelings and ate one of these, but some of them looked so realistic that I almost forgot that they were merely dirt.

Dirt—more specifically, dust—is the place to find doodlebugs. Though I have seen thousands of doodlebug holes, I was a mature man before I ever caught a doodlebug in the act of making his funnel shaped trap for ants and other small prey. The doodlebug settles down in the dry dust and turns around so fast that the dust particles fairly fly out in all directions. In a matter of seconds the funnel is made, the the doodlebug is ready to wait for his dinner. Of course, when we called up the doodlebugs, we got very dirty, but we got our bug, a short worm-like larva that was and is pretty inconsequential. We could have got him just as easily by scooping him up at the bottom of his trap, but no heretic in our part of the world ever allowed us to be so crude. We just had to go through the rhyme we used, meanwhile accidentally disarranging some of the dust particles and making the doodlebug think that dinner was ready. Dust out in the road is good for

RACHEL'S TOMB
Jacob was enroute from Bethel to Mamree in the South with his family to visit his aged father Isaac, living on the old homestead site of his father, Abraham. When near the little town Ephrath, which is Bethlehem, his wife Rachel gave birth to Benjamin, and died in travail. Jacob in precious devotion buried his beloved wife in that place and set up a marker, the identity of which has been preserved until this day. It is a shrine venerated by Jews, Moslems and Christians. It was here, long ago, that a very devoted, Old Testament couple came to the parting of the way. Jacob and Rachel from beginning to end, loved each other to a beautifully romantic degree. Rachel's distress over not being able to give Jacob children ended with the birth of Joseph. What could have been for her increased happiness in the birth of the second son, turned out to be her soul's parting.
But this Mother's Benoi (Son of Sorrow) became the Father's Benjamin (Son of his right arm or strength).

LITTLE LEAGUE TOURNEY

Area Four division of the Kentucky Little League Playoffs will begin in Pikeville next Monday at 5:30 with Prestonsburg's all-stars meeting a similar group of all-stars from that league.

Virgie will meet the winner of the Prestonsburg-Pikeville game on Tuesday at 5:30 in Pikeville.

Martin, winner of this area last year, will play in Area three in Hazard along with an all-star team from Hazard and Hyden.

Drift and Garrett are not eligible for the Little League playoffs since this is the first year their leagues have been organized.

The winners of Area 3 and Area 4 will meet July 25 at a site to be determined later by Frank Heinze, tournament director, and assistant District Representative.

The Prestonsburg all-star squad appears elsewhere on the sports page along with other details surrounding the Little League.

Coach John Griggs of the local high school will again coach the Kentucky All-Stars in the second annual Kiwanis Senior Football Bowl in Williamson, West Virginia, August 16th.

The squads will assemble in Williamson, August 4th to begin practice for the tilt. Thus far, Griggs has named six players to his squad. They are: James Dixon, Prestonsburg and all-E.K.M.C. center; James Hill, Fleming all-state fullback; Bill Hensley, Paintsville, all-E.K.M.C. tackle; Ireland Smith, Belfry end; Pete Miniard, Hazard guard and Roger Noble, M. C. Napier guard.

Griggs will name the remainder of his all-star squad within the next two weeks.

Sixteen teams began playing in the Kentucky State Amateur Semi-pro baseball tournament in Paintsville Tuesday morning.

With the great numbers of entries, state manager Ford Rerguson said that the double elimination affair would probably last two or three weeks.

Teams entered are: Wheelwright, Shelby, McCarr, Auxier, Lynch, Paintsville, West Liberty, Mt. Sterling, Fullerton, South Portsmouth, Munsfordville, Covington and two from Lexington.

Jim Barber, representing the local club, retained his championship in the amateur division of the Paintsville Invitational Gold tournament. Medalist Doug Miller, who fired a four under par 66 in the qualifying round, won the first flight by defeating Dr. Robert Hall 1 up on the 21st hole in possibly the best match of the entire tournament. Joe Burke, local slugger, won the 10th flight and coach Bill Goebel, Jr., was edged on the 20th hole in his bid for the championship of the 16th flight.

Gene Elder, Wheelwright pro, copped $50 prize money in winning the pro-am event along with amateurs Bob Hall, Jim Hall and Joe Red Ratliff.

Elder also picked up third place money in the pro division with six-over par, 146. Al Adkins, Ashland pro, won first place money.

Safety Department Notes Driving Rules On Curves and Hills

The Kentucky Department of Public Safety reminds you of these rules for driving on curves and hills:

It is extremely dangerous as well as unlawful to turn your car around on any curve, or near the crest of a hill unless your car can be seen for a distance of five hundred feet by other drivers approaching from any direction.

When approaching a curve or obstruction which prevents a clear view of the highway for a distance of 150 feet, you should give warning by sounding your horn.

Never pass another vehicle when approaching a curve or the crest of a hill where your view along the highway is obstructed. The yellow line painted in your lane should be your guide; don't cross it.

When traveling upon a down grade, it is unlawful to coast with the gears of your vehicle in neutral.

Fifth WHAS Crusade For Children Scheduled For September 20-21

The fifth annual WHAS Crusade for Children will be broadcast over WHAS Radio and WHAS-TV on September 20 and 21 this year, Victor A. Scholis, vice-president and director of WHAS, Inc., announced last week.

(The Crusade for Children annually contributes funds to the Floyd County Council for Retarded Children.)

Conducted to raise funds for the expansion and improvement of services and facilities for the care and treatment of all mentally and physically handicapped children of Kentucky and southern Indiana, the WHAS Crusade for Children will begin at 10:00 p.m. (C.D.T.), Saturday, September 20, at the Memorial Auditorium, and continue for sixteen and a half hours until 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

In making the announcement Scholis stated that the talent hunt was on for nationally prominent entertainers who will appear on the program. They will join the many local entertainers who participate in the Crusade, as well as the 1,000 volunteers needed to stage the fund raising project.

As in the past, he said, the ministers of the "Moral side of the News" radio panel have agreed to undertake the responsibility of distributing funds contributed through the Crusade to help the handicapped children.

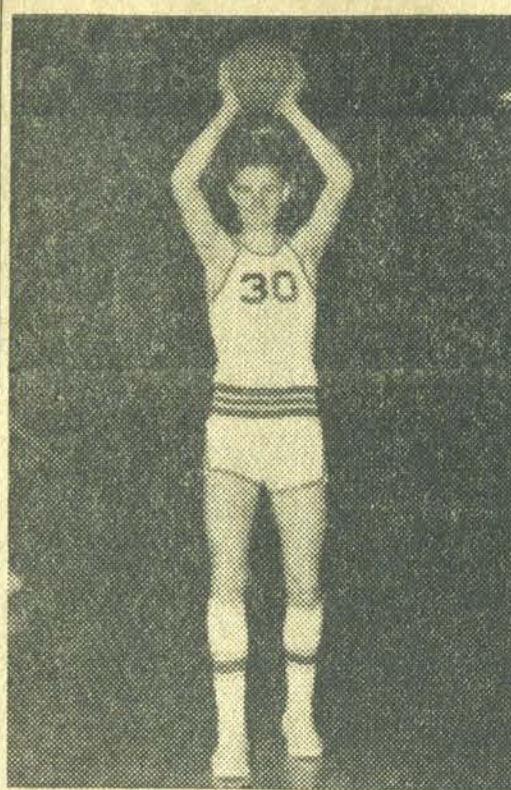

Through the generosity of the citizens of Kentucky and southern Indiana, the 1957 WHAS Crusade for Children resulted in thirty-five grants totaling $163,716 to handicapped children's agencies in the two states.

The July 1958 wheat parity price is $2.43 per bushel which is higher than the estimated parity price of $2.37 per bushel used to determine the minimum price in April 1957.

Ohio Basketball Star May Return To Martin For 1958-59 Net Play

If a former Martin youth gets his wishes, and it's a pretty sound bet that he will, Martin high school's may be the basketball team to watch when hardwood play is resumed next fall.

Incidentally, the youngster's name is Martin. He is Don Martin, who at 17 stands six feet six, and he would step into a Martin uniform as a seasoned veteran.

In fact, while playing the center position last season with the St. Mary's (Ohio) high school team, he picked up an imposing array of honors. He was named center on the second team of the Class AA All-Area team in Ohio, was picked on the Western Buckeye League's first team and received honorable mention by the United Press for the all-Ohio Class AA basketball team.

Martin, who is a son of Mrs. Mildred McGlothen Martin, of St. Mary's, and the late Sandy Martin, Jr., was named to the Western Buckeye League first team by the Toledo Blade and the Toledo Times. He is a junior.

SPORTS AFIELD

By TED KESTING

Catfish, with the exception of channel cats are not usually called game fish, but there are great numbers who thoroughly enjoy fishing for them, states Jason Lucas, Angling Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. Indeed, some men who are experts at catching bass prefer to spend most of their fishing time seeking cats.

Should these anglers be condemned as having poor sporting tastes? Are you wrong if you feel that way about it?

No! After all, you fish purely for pleasure, and if you get more fun from catching cats than from catching bass, why, catfish are certainly the better game fish for you. You're as entitled to your opinion on fishing as he is to his.

Catfish are quite widely distributed throughout the world and vary greatly in size. There's a European species, found in the Danube, that sometimes exceeds 13 feet in length. Then, there's a little brindled madtom of this country which doesn't grow longer than three inches or so.

In North America, there are said to be about 35 species. Oddly, none are native to the Pacific Slope, though some have been introduced there, thrived mightily, and now afford excellent fishing. However, there are only three species of general interest to fishermen in this country. These are blue catfish, channel cat and brown bullhead.

All types of tackle are used for the cats. A hand line will get as many as anything else—unless you're where you may hook a big one. There you will need a reel and plenty of line.

Here's a short list of catfish baits to get you started; frozen shrimp, chicken entrails, worms, liver, beef, doughballs and, of all things, soap. If you catch one on the last, be sure to clean him right away or the soap will spoil his taste.

In 1955 the average American consumed 700 pounds annually of dairy products.

7-1 RECORD PACES LEAGUE

Hard-Hitting Duet Of Beaver Creek Team Puts McDowell In Lead

The Floyd county high school league is currently being paced by McDowell, which has a won-lost percentage of .375 in compiling a 7-1 record.

The hard hitting of two young McDowell stickers has paced the Right Beaver team to the top rung with W. Clemons hitting .525 and R. Allen .520. Leading the league is A. Lawson, Martin shortstop, with .555.

Some of the League activities this year have been:

June 30, Drift, where Buck Ellis annexed a second win of the year in producing a fourth hit game. Ellis struck out nine while allowing only one base on balls. The loser was J. Ratcliff, of McDowell, who lost McDowell's first and only game of the season, 1-0.

July 1, Martin, where Ronald Shelton, pitched a no-hit game while allowing only two walks. Runs scored by McDowell were the result of M. Stumbo's double, R. Allen's homer, W. Tackett's single, a walk to Clemons, B. Brown's being hit with pitched ball and a wild throw. This was the Daredevils' third successive victory over Martin.

July 6, Betsy Layne, where eBetsy Layne was swamped, 18.5. J. Ratcliff evens his records at 1-1 with the victory over Betsy Layne. B. Brown collected a double and two singles. R. Allen had a perfect day at the plate with three for three.

Floyd County High School League standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.	GB
McDowell	7	1	.875	—
Maytown	5	3	.625	2
Martin	3	4	.428	3½
Betsy Layne	0	7	.000	6

A Pictorial Review of East Kentucky

(No. 2 In A Series)

PRESTONSBURG BAPTIST INSTITUTE CLASS 50 YEARS AGO

The Prestonsburg Baptist Institute, originally the Eastern Kentucky Normal College, was founded by Prof. Walter M. Byington in 1901. The building housing the institution was built in 1903 and five years later the school was sold to the Baptist Educational Society of Kentucky. The red brick structure was erected where the Prestonsburg grade school now stands.

A few identified in this picture of the first students after the school's purchase by the Baptists, are Mr. Benge, Oscar Murray, and Miss Ellison, teachers; Ralph Spradlin, E. R. Burke, Frank McGuire, Ella Harris, Alex M. Spradlin, Mary Archer, Florence Stephens, Susan Porter, Beatrice Adams, Lucille Mayo, Juda Alice Friend, Anna Harmon, Olga May and Elijah May.

Fifty years of progress since the first class of the Prestonsburg Baptist Institute studied has brought many changes in the life of the community, state and nation. The First National Bank, founded in 1904, has developed with the years into a financial institution with many and varied services to make it an integral part of the community's life.

An acreage reporter is visiting Floyd county farms to determine compliance with acreage allotments and Soil Bank agreements and contracts. Daniel Akers, chairman of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announced recently. Akers asked farmers to assist the reporter when he visits their farm.

Kentucky and the rest of the nation have approved marketing quotas for the 1959 wheat crop.

More than 83 percent of the nearly 200,000 farmers who voted in the U. S. approved the system, says the USDA. Kentucky's 980 voters went 96.5 percent in favor of the marketing controls.

BRANHAM FAMILY Mrs. Earle Stumbo has kindly handed this column data on the David Branham family of Pike county, the members of which were relatives of the Floyd county Branhams. David Branham was born about 1799, the place unknown although it was probably in Virginia. He married Elizabeth Little, daughter of Isaac Little of Virginia. His wife, the data notes, was a sister of William Little, Sr. Mrs. Branham was born about 1780. The date of her death is not noted but her husband died about 1848.

Branham moved to the mouth of the Kinney Branch of Shelby Creek, Pike county, about 1830. Here he reared nine children, three sons and six daughters: James, born 1804, died on Caney Creek, about 1870, married March 25, 1823, to Fanny Aldridge; William, born 1809, married June 19, 1828, Elizabeth Johnson; Sarah (Sally) born about 1808 or 1810, married May 12, 1825, William Robinson or Robertson; Nancy born 1811 married John Darnon; Mary (Polly) Elizabeth, born about 1816, married June 19, 1834, John Kinney or McKinney; David born 1819, married May 30, 1839, Catherine Kinney or McKinney; Uley, born August 1, 1820, married John H. (Dick) Branham, Feb. 17, 1843; Agatha, married Henry Hall, Jan. 2, 1840; Patsy, married Henry Newsom, Feb. 9, 1831.

Source of Mrs. Stumbo's information, it was noted on the genealogical sheet, were Myrtle Branham, 447 East First Avenue, Mesa, Arizona, J. J. Johnson, 718 Shelby Street, Frankfort, Ky., Floyd and Pike county marriage records and the 1850 Census.

MARTIN-TOLLIVER FEUD

Our frequent contributor, R. Lee Stewart, of Morehead, did a bit of reading at Morehead College recently and wrote a resume of what he had perused. It was on the Martin - Tolliver feud of Rowan county.

The Stewart manuscript follows: "The Martin - Tolliver - Logan feud, perhaps gave Kentucky officials more trouble than any of the other feuds that occurred in the State. It started at the August election, 1884, and ended with a battle in the streets of Morehead, June 22, 1887. The record states that during the nearly three years of the feud, 23 men were killed and 16 wounded.

"The trouble started over politics and soon developed into organized factions. On election day, which was Monday, August 4, 1884, in a street battle in Morehead, on the street West of the courthouse, when Solomon Bradley was killed, Ad Sizemore was knocked out and John Martin, was cut up, but recovered. One faction accused Floyd Tolliver of killing and wounding, while the other faction said that John Martin did it.

"On December 2, 1884, Floyd Tolliver was killed by John Martin in a barroom fight. Martin gave himself up to the authorities. To prevent mob violence, he was taken to Winchester. Six days after that, five men arrived at the Winchester jail with a forged order for his return to Morehead. Martin was turned over to them and when the train reached Farmers, it was boarded by a group of masked men, who riddled the handcuffed Martin with bullets.

"During the following months several others were killed or wounded from ambush. "Craig Tolliver, the leader of his faction, who was town marshal of Morehead at that time, took a gang to the home of Ben Martin, the father of John, who lived at Rodburn, two miles east of Morehead, in search of Cook Humphrey and Ben Rayburn, two Martin adherents, who were in the house. Mrs. Martin, whose husband and two sons had gone to Kansas after being threatened with death, was there with her four daughters.

"The Tollivers demanded the surrender of Humphrey and Rayburn. Since no warrant was

TERM DRAWS HIGH NUMBER

72 Of 469 Students At Pikeville College Are From Floyd County

Seventy-two Floyd county residents and several former Floyd countians are included in the record enrollment of 469 for the second five-week term of summer school at Pikeville College, it was reported this week.

The largest number previously registered for the second summer term was 373, enrolled a year ago, Dr. A. A. Page, college president, said. The present group, 23 per cent greater than last year's record attendance, took officials by surprise, despite the constant county-wide increase in college enrollments.

Eight Kentucky counties and five other states are represented in Pikeville's second summer of classes on all four college levels. The students range from entering freshmen who were graduated from high school only this year to seniors, several of whom expect to complete requirements for degrees this summer.

Represented also are Harlan, Johnson, Knott, Letcher, Magoffin, Perry and Pike counties, Kentucky, and the states of Florida, Indiana, Ohio, Virginia and West Virginia.

Floyd countians at Pikeville College include Joyce S. Allen, Prestonsburg; Cora P. Anderson, Amba; Michael T. Auxier, Emma; Ruth R. Bates, Wheelwright; Margorie J. Blair, Weeksbury; Richard L. Brashear, Manton; Goldia Burchett, Prestonsburg; Myrtle Burchett, Prestonsburg; Maxie S. Burke, Wheelwright; Jeannella D. Campbell, Weeksbury; Marybelle Caudill, Orkney; James E. Cline, Auxier; Margaret Collins, Prestonsburg; Hiram Couch, Wheelwright; Dimple R. Crawford, Hi Hat; Johnie W. Crider, Endicott; Bess Damron, Weeksbury; Mary Ann Daniels, Prestonsburg; Edna Davis, Pyramid; Donna J. DeRossett, East Point; Irene C. Dorsey, (Mrs. Harold W. Dorsey), Prestonsburg; Kelsa G. Elliott, Betsy Layne; Carolyn W. Ford, Prestonsburg; Aileen D. Fraley, Weeksbury; Adrianna Hayes Francis, Garrett; Delmar Frasure, Grethel, Edna B. Frazier, Weeksbury; Marielith J. Furman, Harold; Alka J. Grey, Allen; Frank G. Grey, Allen; Mary Auxier Hale, Prestonsburg; Nannie M. Hall, East McDowell.

Ousley, Hueysville; Herbert Prater, Prestonsburg; Sydney Ratliff, Langley; Arvernia Reed, Betsy Layne.

Leo Roberts, Amba; Judith L. Salisbury, Martin; Letha Mae Salisbury, Martin; Pet Salisbury, Hunter; Anna M. Shepherd, David; Martha Smith, Allen; Ruth T. Smith, Weeksbury; William R. Smith, Weeksbury; Judith G. Snodgrass, Allen; Mary M. Spradlin, Betsy Layne; Linda S. Stephens, Prestonsburg; Marie D. Stumbo, McDowell; Donna S. Taylor, Thomas; Ruby Taylor, Thomas; Elizabeth Laven Thomas, Allen; Lois Hughes Turner, Wayland; Elizabeth Sue Wells, Cliff; Helen Whitt, Harold, and Alice V. Williams, Betsy Layne.

Also enrolled at Pikeville are Hassie L. Little, Wales, Ky., a native of Wheelwright and a graduate of Wheelwright high school; Lucille S. McCoy, Pikeville, a McDowell high school graduate and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Sexton, Drift; Bobbie E. Stratton, Pikeville, an Ivel native and a Betsy Layne high alumnus; Marvin Rudy Wagner, Pikeville, also a graduate of Betsy Layne high school, and Gertrude C. Kendrick, Vansant, Va., a native of Woods, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clay, of Emma, and a Prestonsburg high school graduate.

Pikeville college's student body will be limited to some 500 regular students, beginning this fall, it was announced today.

Applications for places in this fall's freshman class have already exceeded the 225 which has been set as the maximum number of freshmen to be admitted, but not all the applications have been acted on yet, Dr. Page said. Limits to be set on other classes are 150 for sophomores, 90 for juniors and 50 for seniors.

The total of 515, only 14 greater than Pikeville's record registration of 471 last spring, will use to full capacity the college's classroom and dormitory facilities, it was said. The restriction will not apply to week-end teacher-training classes and summer courses, in which the large portion of those preparing to become fully-qualified teachers makes it possible to organize fuller classes in fewer subjects.

1/3 ON FARMS SURVEY NOTES

31 Percent Of Families In Kentucky Residents Of Farms, Breckman Says

Of Kentucky's 717,535 families, 225,430 — about 31 percent — live on farms, says the Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service. Of the total (717,535) there are 205,695 rural non-farm families and 286,410 urban, says Fred Brockman, family living specialist.

Here are some more facts brought out by the statistical survey:

Medium age of farm population is 24.5 years; farm families have an average of 4.14 persons; one out of six families are considered "broken" (through divorce, widowhood or separation) but one out of four urban families are broken.

Approximately 80 per cent of the farms are owned by the operator; only half the young farm families (under 35 years of age) are farm operators, and one-third of these own their own farms; 75 per cent of the farm operators are 55 years old or more.

More than 40 per cent of Kentucky's farm families now have off-farm employment, and one out of four farm wives are now working at jobs.

Two out of three adults have an 8th grade education or less, but 77 per cent of the state's farm population is in this group. About 27 per cent of the total population has received high school training, but only 18 per cent of farm people attended high school; seven percent of the total population attended college but only four per cent of the farm adult population. Females of all age levels average a year more of school than the males.

Three counties have a median of 9th grade educational level or higher; 10 have a level of less than 7th grade; while 64 run between the 7th and 8th grades, Brockman said.

Jones Resigns Pastorate Of W. P'burg Church; Vannucci Is Successor

The Rev. Ivan Jones, who has served the Assembly of God Church at West Prestonsburg for the past two years, resigned his pastorate here recently and has gone with Mrs. Jones and two children to Crofton, Ky., where he has accepted the ministry of a church.

The Rev. Lorrie Vannucci has accepted the call to the church at West Prestonsburg and will serve the Church Sunday with services on Wednesday and Friday evening when the Young People of the Church have their services. Rev. and Mrs. Vannucci have been living at Martin. He has been associated with the doctors at McDowell Memorial hospital and Mrs. Vannucci is bookkeeper at Our Lady of the Way hospital. Both are graduates of the Elam Bible School of New York.

ARMED FORCES GOBBLING UP VALUABLE LAND, WRITER WARNS

The armed forces are "gobbling up" valuable farm, oil and mineral land at an alarming rate, an article warns in the July Reader's Digest. In the article, "Do the Armed Forces Need a 35-Million-Acre Empire?" Charles Stevenson reports that the services now are in possession of 29 million acres, and demand six million more. Yet, he says, they acknowledge that at least 200 installations they now control are idle, and 7,500,000 acres they hold are no longer required.

Rep. Overton Brooks (D., La.) chairman of a committee which investigated, commented: "The basic trouble is that members of Congress aren't giving the time to analyze the legitimacy of the military's demands. Requests are described as so immediately essential that any delay will jeopardize our national safety." The American Farm Bureau Federation has protested some of the grabs, and the Secretary of Agriculture has added his voice to the appeals.

Here is a state-by-state rundown: California — the most popular state with the military. The services have put more than $2,500,000,000 into nearly 5,500,000 acres—an area larger than Connecticut, Delaware and Rhode Island combined. A tenth of all California skies are reserved for the military's exclusive use, while off the coast the services have blocked off another as big as the state itself. From there, submarines already are zipping missiles over the heavily populated coastline to land 100 miles inland.

Nevada—The Air Force has a bombing range, 135 miles long and 50 miles wide, adjacent to Las Vegas. Two-thirds of it is unused. The Navy demanded one of its own in northern Nevada. The area contained 35 ranches of from 200 to 19,000 acres, 22,400 head of cattle, 14,000 sheep and operating mines worth millions of dollars. Nevadans battled the invasion for three years, finally won a "compromise" giving the Navy more than 700,000 acres.

New Mexico—The services already held three million acres of missile range that cut a swath 30 by 100 miles from the Texas border north. Next the army moved in on an adjacent 470,000 acres of public property embracing some of the lushest grazing land in the state. Then, declaring that 21 adjacent ranch properties were essential, it ordered the ranchers to get out in 90 days. More seizures are contemplated, including one to put a vast missile range close to the main line of the Santa Fe Railroad.

Utah—The Navy demanded 128,000 state-owned acres of Great Salt Lake for a skip bombing range. The Air Force already had a 1,400,000 acre range, nearby, part of which it had not used for 15 years. It offered this to the Navy, but the Navy wanted none of it, until Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson turned on the pressure.

Louisiana—In 1956, the Navy seized 4337 acres of intensely cultivated land near New Iberia, for jet training. The owners resisted with shotguns for a while, but ultimately capitulated. Last fall, it developed that the jet base would be almost useless without a target area. Quietly, the Navy mapped out an additional 20-by-40 mile zone along the Gulf of Mexico which would doom three wildlife sanctuaries, eight oil and gas fields, seven communities, fishing grounds, rice fields and trapping lands. Then the Navy abruptly called off the entire jet program there. The base now is used for a kind of routine training which could be carried on at any of a dozen idle bases nearby.

Oklahoma—The Army has unveiled a program for taking over a minimum of 281,500 private acres for an expanded missile training center, destroying farms and ranches of nearly 1000 families, and wiping out 96 producing oil wells. Residents of four counties have banded together to oppose the move.

Virginia—In one stretch of Chesapeake Bay waterfront, a traditional vacation retreat, there are more than 50 military installations. last year, the Navy attack bombers mistook a bay lighthouse for their target and fired five-inch rockets through it. A crew at the Navy Ordnance Proving Ground on the Potomac below Washington fired a one-ton projectile at the middle of the river; it landed in a back yard at Erica, Va., missing five children. The Virginia legislature has adopted a resolution condemning the military efforts to pre-empt its shoreline.

FULL PROTECTION...

for WOMEN and GIRLS as well as men and boys!

Woodmen of the World life insurance certificates for women and girls include the same "plus" features as those for men and boys. Only the Family Fraternity offers women all these top values: Unlimited free treatment for pulmonary tuberculosis after one year's membership • Half the face value of basic life certificates to those totally disabled after one year's membership • No limitations on amounts of term protection • No restrictions because of pregnancy • The same rates as for men for special certificate features such as "waiver of payment."

Men, women, boys and girls may have Woodmen's safe, sound, legal reserve life insurance AT COST . . . plus a complete program of fraternal, civic, and social activities.
