This Town— That World

WHO! The writer of this column is at the age when he would prefer to forget his birthdays. In this forgetting mood, we hasten to note here, lest we forget this, too, that next week The Floyd County Times will observe its 31st anniversary. Oh, brother! I feel like the distance runner who, after setting a new record, was asked by an interviewer if he had a statement to make. He did. And he drew in a long breath, gasped, and said, "Lordy!"

Some save for a rainy day but few anticipate the drouth that's worse.

ALL IN THE DAY'S WORK

The Prestonsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce has five members who also are volunteer members of the Prestonsburg Fire Department. When the fire whistle blows they get up and go, regardless of where they are, etcetera. Monday evening, while the Jaycees were in their regular meeting at the Wise Restaurant here, the fire siren sounded. Up sprang the five volunteers, to dash outside, leap into their cars and drive to the fire station.

En route, they met Fire Chief Henry Gray and the fire truck.

Five minutes after the siren had sounded the five Jaycees and other firemen were at the scene of the blaze—the same Wise Restaurant where they had been dining, only a few minutes earlier.

The fire had started in the restaurant kitchen, only a few feet and a wall beyond where the Jaycees were in meeting. The blaze had been extinguished but Carl Wise, owner of the restaurant, still was highly appreciative of the promptness with which his call was answered. —See Story No. 4, Page 6—

TENTATIVE OK GIVEN SEWERS

Commission Okeh Made On Condition City Begins Sewage Plant In 3 Years

The State Water Pollution Commission has conditionally granted Prestonsburg permission to proceed with any sewer project in its plan to serve sections without sewer service, Mayor Bill Napier said after returning here last week from Frankfort where he and others conferred with Commission members.

The condition exacted by the Commission is that the City Council adopt a resolution specifying that Prestonsburg will begin by September, 1961 work on a sewage disposal plant.

When proof of Prestonsburg's willingness to construct a sewage disposal plant is supplied the Commission, it was said, the work of supplying sewer service to Lancer, the Trimble Branch area and the Porter Addition will be authorized.

Prestonsburg already is operating, along with many other municipalities, on probation as the Pollution Commission makes increasingly strong demands for putting a halt to stream pollution. 12 CONVICTED, 7 FOR LIQUOR BY JURY HERE

Grand Jury Concludes Session Today; 2 Get One-Year Prison Terms

Seven of the dozen persons convicted in circuit court here since last Thursday morning were accused of offenses against the liquor laws, and of these seven all but two drew jail sentences.

The grand jury returned Monday for its last three days of work and will adjourn today (Thursday) after filing its final report with Circuit Judge Hill.

Convicted on charges of having liquor in their possession for purposes of sale were: Dave Hughes, second offense, given trial in absentia fined $40 and sentenced to jail 60 days, his $1,000 appearance bond forfeited; James Lucas, second offense, fined $60 and given a 60-day jail term, given trial in absentia, his $500 appearance bond forfeited; Harold Joseph, $20 and 60 days; Jim and Reba Blanton, $20 and 60 days. A second-offense case against Lucas was continued.

Hershell and Ralph Little were fined $50 on their plea of guilty to a charge of possessing liquor for beverage purposes.

Those convicted of possession for the purpose of selling are to execute $1,000 peace bond each, Judge Hill directed.

In connection with the trial Tuesday of Jim and Reba Blanton a witness, George Collins, was fined $10 and given a 24-hour jail term for contempt of court for his failure to answer to summons for trial of the case on the preceding day.

Heaviest fine levied during the week was that of Truby Ratliff for $150 on his plea of guilty to a charge of pointing a deadly weapon at another. An indictment accusing him of carrying a concealed deadly weapon was dismissed on the grounds that evidence was insufficient to convict.

Bob Gilstrap, who enjoyed only a few minutes' liberty after flight from the county jail a few months ago, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of unlawful escape from an officer, was given a one-year pen term but later was granted probation by Judge Hill for a two-year period. He was originally jailed in connection with alleged magazine subscription fraud but this charge was never pressed against him. A second man, Harlis Stone, drew a one-year pen term on his plea of guilty to a breaking and entering indictment. —See Story No. 3, Page 4—

RESCUE GROUP BUYS SURPLUS

Amphibious Equipment Features Purchases; Contributions Listed

The recent acquisition of equipment by the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad gives the organization a big boost in its plan to properly outfit itself. The purchases, consisting of several pieces of heavy equipment, were made from the Army surplus depot, Frankfort.

An amphibious truck, or "duck," originally costing the government $10,800, was bought for $250 and was given a trial run on Dewey Lake last Sunday. Purchases by the squad from Army surplus are legal since the newly-organized group is designated as an arm of Civil Defense.

Other pieces of equipment acquired from surplus Army stock are portable generators with floodlights, a two-ton truck, a trailer now rebuilt to accommodate boats, six walkie-talkies, blankets, stretchers and dragging equipment. Carter & Callahan Funeral Home gave the group last week a used panel truck. Donors of initial equipment are R. V. May Co., Princess Elkhorn Coal Company and others.

In appreciation of services rendered by the Prestonsburg group in the mid-August search for Debbie Ann Greenhill, Olive Hill child who strayed into the woods there and was lost for several days, Mayor J. A. Raybourn sent the organization checks totaling $154. "We realize this is only a small token compared to time and energies spent, but the people of Olive Hill will never forget your unselfishness and goodwill shown —See Story No. 6, Page 6—

Fire Chief Says Calls About Fires Interfere With Department Work

Fire Chief Henry Gray this week made an appeal to residents of Prestonsburg not to make telephone calls to the Fire Department for at least five minutes after the fire siren blows. "Calls start coming in so quickly after the alarm is given that we can't use the phone to notify some volunteer firemen who may not hear the whistle," Gray said. "It is very important that the Fire Department phone be kept open, at least for a few minutes."

POLICE FORCE UNDER ATTACK

Mayor Asks Shakeup; Chief Lafferty Claims Criticism Is Undeserved

New leadership and complete organization of the Prestonsburg police force was recommended to the City Council by Mayor Bill Napier at Monday evening's meeting of the Council.

The Council failed to take any action.

In a prepared statement which he caused to go into the city records Mayor Napier pointed to the "woeful lack of law enforcement in the city."

He pointed to the continuing activity of bootleggers, reckless speeding and even charges against a member of the police force. "Positive and immediate action by the City Council is necessary to clean up this bad situation," the Mayor added.

Commenting on the Mayor's statement to the Council, Chief of Police Epp Lafferty said:

"The Mayor is not giving us credit for what we do. It might interest him to know that this police force has made 75% more arrests than any other and that fines are up to 75% over any previous year. Three bootleggers we arrested were convicted the other day in circuit court and we have three more to try. Statements such as he has made hurt —See Story No. 5, Page 2—

LAY MINISTER, HEART VICTIM DURING FLOYD CHURCH SERVICE

James Hale, 65, lay minister of the Regular Baptist church, died Sunday, at 11 a.m., in the Spurlock Regular Baptist church at Dock a few minutes after he had been asked to preach. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Mr. Hale, upon being asked to preach, demurred, saying he would rather hear others. Suddenly he leaned against the Rev. Tack Hall who had just concluded a sermon, and expired.

He was an employee for several years of Stephens Elkhorn Coal Company, at Manton, and was approaching retirement. He was a prominent candidate for jailer of this county last year and was held in high esteem over a wide section. He had been a member of the Regular Baptist Church for 35 years.

AUTO MISHAP KILLS BRADLEY

U. S. Highway 23 Crash Near Paintsville Is Fatal To Former P'burg Man

Smith F. Bradley, Jr., 31 years old, of Paintsville, formerly of Prestonsburg, died at the Paintsville hospital at 6 a.m., Sunday three hours after his auto had crashed into a cliff on U. S. 23, near the "Narrows," a mile south of Paintsville.

He was driving toward Prestonsburg in heavy fog, it was said, and his car, after striking the hillside, hit a culvert and capsized on the highway. He suffered head and internal injuries.

A son of Smith F. and Violet Sturgill Bradley, of Prestonsburg, the victim was born at Garrett, this county. He was graduated from Prestonsburg high school, attended Morehead State College and was a World War II navy veteran. For several years he had been associated with his father and his brother, Charles E. Bradley, in the Bradley Drilling Company.

Mr. Bradley was married in 1951 to Miss Dorothy Sparks. She, his parents, his brother and one sister, Mrs. Carol June Strahan, survive. He was a nephew of Col. Ruby Bradley, the U. S. Army's most decorated nurse, who is now in charge of U. S. Army hospitals in Germany. —See Story No. 12, Page 6—

Wheelwright Kiwanians Sponsoring Kids Day At Ball Park, Saturday

A Kids Day program sponsored by the Beaver Valley Kiwanis Club in cooperation with Kiwanis International and the Floyd county schools will be held Saturday, September 20, at the Wheelwright ball park.

There will be 10 events for each grade group. Teachers of participating schools will receive full details in time to prepare for this program.

Transportation has been arranged for the children, and teachers will have a copy of bus schedules.

This year the Beaver Valley Kiwanis Club is sponsoring a bicycle race as a special event. This event is not a regular part of the Kids Day program, and therefore no school points will be given. However, the winner of the event will be awarded a prize.

Since the transportation of bicycles to the ball park will be difficult, the Kiwanis Club will furnish bicycles for the contestants this year. Any contestant may, however, use his own bike if he prefers.

X-RAY UNIT SLATED HERE

Mobile Outfit Schedules Floyd Tests, Oct. 21-31, Administrator Announces

The mobile chest X-ray unit which was made available to Kentucky health services by the Kentucky Elks will spend eight days in this county, beginning Oct. 21 and ending its work Oct. 31, it was announced this week by M. V. Clark, administrator of the Floyd County Health Department.

A crippled children's clinic under auspices of the Kentucky Crippled Children's Commission and the Health Department will be held here, Oct. 28.

New regulations will govern the X-ray clinics to be held at several places in the county next month, Mr. Clark said. One of these provides that persons under 20 years of age must first have had a skin test, and that test showing a positive reaction, before being eligible to a free X-ray examination. Those between the ages of 20 and 40 may receive X-rays tests every two years; Those over 40 may be tested by X-ray annually. Exceptions to these regulations, it was said, will be made only upon written recommendation of the family doctor of the person seeking X-ray examination. —See Story No. 10, Page 6—

$2,690,000-A-YEAR AID HELPS FIGHT RECESSION

State and federal agencies pumped $2,690,000 into the ailing Floyd county economy last year in the form of Social Security benefits, public assistance and unemployment insurance payments.

This amount, it is calculated, is equal to a plant payroll of 1,076 men at $2,500 per year or 538 men at $5,000 annually.

The figures, assembled from various state and federal sources, point to the heavy bolstering effect against the recession that the money afforded. Without these remittances it is conceivable that Floyd county would have found its economy reeling under the impact of depression equal to that of the early 30's.

Highest amount of money accrued to recipients of Social Security benefits for the aged survivors and the disabled workers. These benefits totaled $1,494,480 to workers at an average of $65 per month. Widows with two children received an average of $145 monthly and the maximum for a retired couple is $162.80 monthly. Old-age assistance, aid to dependent children and needy blind and assistance to partially and totally disabled amounted to approximately $820,740 last year. Unemployment insurance benefits paid Floyd countians during the 1957 calendar year totalled $374,819 but it was pointed out by Glenn Anderson, of the local office of Department of Economic Security, that for the fiscal year of 1957-1958, ending June 30, the amounts almost doubled, reaching $742,409. The percentage of 65-year-olds and older in Floyd county receiving old age, survivors and disability insurance was 68.5 while 35.9 per cent of the group, received old age assistance. While the total percentages here is 104.4, it was explained that many persons receive small amounts from both categories of benefits. —See Story No. 1, Page 5—

BELL ERECTS NEW BUILDING

Structure, Dial Equipment Costs $40,000 'Tis Said; December Change Planned

Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company announced this week that its new building at Allen is completed and the installation of new dial equipment there will begin soon.

H. D. Hayes, local telephone company manager, said that the new building and dial equipment will involve an outlay of about $40,000. This new equipment is modern and will provide improved telephone service to the community. He said that sufficient equipment will be installed to provide facilities for growth.

The new building and equipment will not be as susceptible to flood damage as the present central office building at Allen because the site of the new building was not under water during the 1957 flood.

The change-over to the new office has been tentatively set for December.

JURY STUDIES AUXIER CASE

Teen-Age Girl Mystery Unsolved By Authorities; Family Trio Testifies

An investigation by the Johnson county grand jury last week of the Rosella Auxier case failed to elicit sufficient information to warrant an indictment, it was learned here this week.

The 15-year-old Rosella was found in an abandoned shack here last Dec. 13, near death from freezing. Both legs later were amputated. She is now at her home, near East Point, after several months' treatment at Children's hospital, Louisville.

Rosella, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tobe Auxier, and others were questioned closely by the grand jury but none offered information of value.

A report received here said the girl claimed she procured a ride to Prestonsburg and walked into the dilapidated building by herself, remaining there in the near-zero weather. Investigators gave little credence to this statement. When found her stockings had been removed.

The East Point girl was missing five days.

COUNCIL ACTS AS JOB HERE STRIKEBOUND

State Of Emergency Declared; Connection Of Vital Sewers Made

A state of emergency was declared by the Prestonsburg City Council at its Monday night meeting as work on the flood control project here remained strike-stalled, and Mayor Bill Napier acted Tuesday morning to get started the connecting sewers considered necessary to carry away water in event of rain.

The action was taken because it was feared lack of sewer connections at the Court street-Lake Drive intersection might, in the event of rainfall, concentrate water there and create heavy property damage.

After Mayor Napier conferred with union workers, who have been on strike since last Tuesday morning, pointing to the danger of water damage, the employees agreed to connect the sewers without charge.

Meanwhile, the strike on all phases of the flood control project continues. The S. T. Kenyon Company insists it will not restore to work Roddy Stone, the AFL-CIO steward who was fired after an altercation with another employee. Workers at the same time, it was said, insist they will not resume work until he is re-employed.

"This could last six months," Mayor Napier quoted Col. H. J. —See Story No. 7, Page 4—

RADIO AUCTION SLATED FOR HELP OF RETARDED

Minor Pace, of Wheelwright, President of the Floyd County Council for Retarded Children, this week outlined plans for the second radio auction to be staged via WPRC, Prestonsburg, for the benefit of the work with retarded children in the county.

The auction, second such event to be staged in the county for this purpose, will be held Oct. 1, 2 and 3. Mrs. Dora Stephens, manager of the radio station, has been named coordinator of the auction.

Various business firms and individuals will contribute items of merchandise; these will be displayed in the windows of the donors, and bidders, aware that the amount of their offer will benefit the retarded children, will submit bids by telephone to the radio station. The station, in turn, announces the bidding and, finally the name of the successful bidder, after which the item will be delivered to his or her home and amount of the bid collected.

Highly successful last year when it was first undertaken, the auction, it is hoped, will raise approximately $8,000 to carry on the teaching or training of the retarded youngsters.

Mr. Pace was enthusiastic about the prospects of a profitable auction. "This means of raising funds has one great virtue: Everybody gains," he said.

Twenty-two children are benefiting from the retarded children program in this county, with the main school at Martin. A second class was begun last week in Prestonsburg.

Of the $3,500 raised in the county last year for the work, employees of the Inland Steel Company at Wheelwright subscribed $800. The WHAS Crusade for Children later made a substantial contribution.

Importance of the Crusade funds to the work in this county cannot be over-stressed, leaders in the movement to educate and train the retarded, say. "Without such help the work would not have been carried on in past years, and the Floyd Council still depends on the Crusade for help.

Child Crusade Program Offers Many Top Artists

Jimmy Nelson, one of America's top ventriloquists, and Gretchen Wyler, dancer-singer-comedienne of Broadway musicals and television, are among the stars who will appear on the 1958 "WHAS Crusade for Children," September 20 and 21.

Called the "finest ventriloquist to date" by the critic, Robert W. Dana, of the New York World-Telegram & Sun, and receiving similar accolades from other critics, Nelson achieved stardom as a regular for two years on "The Milton Berle Show," with Danny O'Day; Humphrey Higsby; and Farfel, the talking dog, in his company. Now a fourth member, Fatateeta, a fast-talking Egyptian cat, named after George Bernard Shaw's character in "Caesar and Cleopatra" has joined the clan.

Starring roles in "Guys and Dolls," "Damn Yankees," "Silk Stockings" and "Rumble" on Broadway brought Gretchen Wyler to national attention after she had appeared as understudy to the leading lady in "Where's Charley?" with Ray Bolger.

Numerous television appearances, including a regular role this summer on the Bob Crosby show, made her familiar to millions of television viewers. Gretchen has also appeared on a host of other top TV shows, in both variety and dramatic roles, including "The Ed Sullivan Show," "Phil Silvers Show," "Pantomime Quiz," and many others.

The 1958 "WHAS Crusade for Children" will raise funds for the expansion and improvement of services and facilities for the care and treatment of mentally and physically handicapped children of Kentucky and southern Indiana. Last year's WHAS Crusade raised $178,210, of which 163,716 was distributed among 35 agencies for handicapped children of the two states. The Floyd County Council for Retarded Children was one of the agencies to profit from funds thus raised.

the town, causes the people to lose confidence in their officers. He just seems to have it in for us. We can't satisfy him, no matter how hard we try."

The statement by the Mayor said, in part:

"Every person in this town, and most of the people in the surrounding area, knows that Prestonsburg's police force is inefficient and inadequate, to say the least. Our good, progressive citizens deserve better service and better protection than they are getting, and it is our duty as their duly elected officials to give it to them.

"You and everyone else know that the Mayor does not have the power or authority to clean up this mess. Only the members of City Council have this power. I hope and pray that you will see fit to discharge your responsibility by following my recommendation in this matter, for I am sure it will help our town to be a better and more wholesome place in which to live."

In other business transacted at the Council meeting Mrs. A. J. Archer, Jr., was named city tax collector to succeed the Rev. M. Robert Regan, who resigned. The Council heard a report on results of the conference with State Stream Pollution Commission officials, and discussed plans to do the most urgent sewer work first when final authorization of the projects is given.

Paper Told of Day Lincoln Shot But Read On — All about Grain-O

By QUENTIN ALLEN

April 15, 1865—that is the date of a copy of The New York Herald brought to this office by William B. Parker, of Prestonsburg.

To those who know their history, as I do not know mine, that was the day after the assassination of President Lincoln.

Dramatic, last-minute reports by Secretary of War Stanton from the President's bedside kept the nation on edge.

Secretary of State Seward received serious wounds at the hands of an assassin the same night. His son, Frederick, suffered wounds while attempting to restrain the assassin.

There were no delusions about the President's condition. "The President continues insensible and sinking," the paper fearfully reported.

J. Wilkes Booth was identified as one assassin, and the other, as of press time, had not been identified. The man, described as a desperado, was quoted as crying out a Virginia motto, "Sin Semper Tyrannis."

Other out-of-date news that historic day was the avowal of Jeff Davis, Confederate President, that the fall of Richmond, Va., was a blessing in disguise since it left the Rebel armies free to move from point to point.

The New York Herald's attitude towards Marse Jeff was similar to this day's joking motto of, "Save your Confederate Money, the South Will Rise Again."

South American news arrived in New York by letter. The latest then, as now, concerned the revolution in those parts. Steamships were big, and cottonpicking wasn't bad at that time.

People will be people, in their spiteful manner, never changing, though the products designed for their consumption often do change in the passing of time.

Passing of the years has reduced the bitterness of the Civil War as a dark age, but then people had an intensely personal problem. They were trying to rid themselves of the coffee habit. A familiar thing, isn't it?

Grain-O was the panacea. Brother, it restores health against that sinful stimulant, coffee, which, the paper's advertisement says, "... ruins the nerves with all the attendant horrors—loss of flesh, pallid complexion, trembling hands and limbs, indigestion, palpitating heart and a general feeling of lassitude and inability to cope with the everyday problems of life."

"And the prices! Never heard such. Two kinds of coffee users were depicted. Those who use the best, 40 cents, and the cheap variety, 15 to 25 cents. Grain-O, the ad cries triumphantly, sells for 15 cents!"

"To Live Long, Live Wisely; It is Wisdom to Drink Grain-O." Coffee was accused of causing sleepless nights and ravaging headaches. It spoils youths in the bud of life, more injurious than alcohol. Well-known brands such as Java and Mocha suffered from the Grain-O onslaught against the coffee world. Coffee kings in South America caught themselves pinching their backsides to determine if their fortunes were as bad as the ads painted them to be.

General Serman (after whom a tank was named) at the time the paper was printed had not reached Georgia, where fame awaited him. Jell-o, in all those delicious flavors, did not know Jack Benny, or even Don Wilson. Tea was advertised as anti-constipative. Grain-O said tea would kill you, after a time, of course.

By this particular issue, tea and coffee seem as dangerous as cancer. But it's all in the way you look at things, we suppose.

From all this smashing news about olden days, I am left with this haunting question: What did Grain-O taste like?

NOW QUALANTITY SAVINGS

Qualantity Savings is a philosophy of fairness, developed by The Family Fraternity ... a new rate structure that means real, not imaginary, dollar savings on life insurance protection. With Qualantity Savings, when the quantity of protection goes up, the rate per thousand goes down, and the quality of the life insurance protection is better than ever before ... with new, liberal accidental death benefits and other new features.

Here's how Qualantity Savings puts money in your pocket:
At age 30, for $2,000 whole life insurance, under the new rate structure, you save $3.89 per thousand over the annual rate for $1,000, a total savings of $7.78 per year. For $3,000 of exactly the same insurance, you save $5.19 per thousand ... $15.67 a year. With Qualantity Savings, by purchasing a $10,000 certificate you save $7.00 per thousand ... an annual saving of $70. For any and all kinds of term, whole life, limited payment, and endorsement coverages, similar savings apply. Your local Woodmen Representative will be happy to explain this new concept in life insurance to you.

SCALF WALKS INTO HOLDUP

Floyd Countian Arrives At Western Union Office As Robbery Being Staged

A Floyd county man walked into the Pascagoula, Miss., Western Union office August 18 and found himself in the midst of a holdup. Bailard Scalf, of Mare Creek, who was seeking employment in the Mississippi city got his anticipated money order but only after a lot of excitement punctuated by a wild ride in a Southern sheriff's car.

The Chronicle Star, Pascagoula newspaper, details the Floyd man's adventure.

Oscar Robinson, of Allen, who was also looking for work, went into a barbershop, while Scalf proceeded to Western Union. It was his second trip that day to await a wire. When he walked in a man was seemingly filling out a money-order at the counter but had a white piece of paper in his hand. The Floyd man thought he was a customer and stood waiting.

Scalf moved over toward the counter but suddenly the man he thought was a customer asked if he was an employee of Western Union. Scalf said, "No." "Then get round behind the counter," the heister said, quietly pulling a revolver from a jacket. Scalf complied by walking into the office where Katherine Roberts, 31, manager, unaware of what was going on, asked why he was behind the counter. She received no answer.

The holdup man pushed a Western Union message and the white piece of paper toward Miss Roberts. She gave the yellow paper back, remarking there was no address on it. She still held the white piece of paper in her hand.

"What about this other business?" her visitor asked. She became immobilized when she read the message. "Give me all your money and traveler's checks and don't call the law for five minutes." "I thought she would scream," Scalf said but she didn't. She took a paper bag proffered by the bandit and scooped $488 worth of checks and cash into it, pushed it over the counter to him. While this was taking place the bandit kept his hand in his jacket on the gun.

Backing out the door he told Scalf and Miss Roberts not to call the law for five minutes or he "would start throwing lead." He drove away in a 1955 Oldsmobile.

Miss Roberts tried to dial the police but failed. Scalf completed the call. When assistant Pascagoula police chief John Ledbetter arrived Scalf got in the cruiser with him and they drove away in the direction the bandit had taken. Scalf made notes of his description as they drove along. At the end of the city limits he transferred to a State Police car. They drove toward Ocean Springs, Miss., about 12 miles away. The patrolman kept radioing the description the Floyd man was giving.

"That was the wildest ride I ever took in my life," Scalf said. "I sat on the edge of the back seat as we went round curves faster than any man ever took them before."

In the meantime another State Policeman, Matt Cox, had heard of the robbery on the radio and was checking cars. The bandit came roaring along, saw the check point, turned off on Highway 90. Cox radioed another patrolman, Tom Galle, at Ocean Springs, who set up a roadblock and caught him. He offered no resistance. His capture was effected only 30 minutes after the holdup.

The bandit was Robert L. Groschupf, 27, Worcester, Mass., and the Olds he was driving had been stolen in Connecticut.

"You know I almost got in jail, too," Scalf said. "They wanted to hold me under bond as a material witness. I did a bit of begging and agreed to come back voluntarily for the trial."

Others convicted were: Fred Gibson, assault and battery, plea of guilty, $50 fine; Carl Reed, assault and battery, plea of guilty, $10 fine, 60-day jail term with credit given him for 40 days already spent in jail.

A large percentage of the cases called were continued. Several were dismissed, marked "evidence insufficient to convict" or "lack of evidence," follow: Carlos Edward Hall, deserting pregnant wife; Tommy Hughes, rape; Estill Stegall, Berlin Jacobs and Frank Jones, breaking and entering (a second identical charge against them continued; Jacobs already in the state reformatory); Amos Lee Duncan and Howard Hicks, knowingly receiving stolen property; Ed Wright, Jr., voluntary manslaughter; Curt Sizemore, grand larceny; J. R. Mullett, carrying a concealed deadly weapon; James Spears, carrying a concealed deadly weapon.

Dismissed, subject to being re-docketed: Azzie Newsome, rape; Palmer Newsome, breaking and entering.

Copies of the resolution adopted by the Council were sent to the contractor and the union. It, in effect, served notice on both that either or both might be held responsible in the event of property damage because of the work-stoppage.

Why a New Courthouse?

The Floyd fiscal court is right in its decision to let the people of the county decide if a new courthouse shall be built. The method which it has adopted leaves the matter up to the people who should be most concerned—the voters and taxpayers of Floyd county.

Any project that requires additional taxes always stands a chance of being unpopular. At the same time, every citizen must surely know by this time that public benefits and improvements can be had but that the bill for them must be paid.

It is estimated that a levy of less than 10 cents per $100 property evaluation will pay for a new courthouse over a period of forty years. That would be at most an additional tax of $1 for each $1,000 worth of property as it appears on the tax books.

Now, the question is simple: Is a new courthouse worth the building even at this low cost to the individual taxpayer? We think it is.

Our reason for thinking a new courthouse is needed is simple. It does not go into finances or into the necessity for additional office space, although there is a definite need for such room as records and business of the several offices grow in volume. Our reason is even more simple, more fundamental, than that.

We know that the present building will be used as long as it stands, and we think its condition is such that one day—tomorrow, next year or the year after that; when, we do not know—it will collapse. And we have the well-grounded fear that when that happens there may be a loss of human life so great that we all will be asking ourselves, "Why have a civilized people permitted such a death-trap to exist?"

It's that simple, our reasoning. When the present courthouse was repaired, some fifteen years ago, terrazzo, a permanent and very heavy floor, was laid over wood. The contractors on the project, we now learn, were unable to understand at the time why a floor so heavy was being laid on such a flimsy foundation. Since that time, the ground floors of the building have badly sagged. Work from time to time has been done to underpin them. On more than one occasion, at times when the courtroom on the floor above was jammed during murder trials or for other crowd-drawing events, genuine fear that that floor would collapse have been expressed.

The ancient wiring and plumbing could be repaired. So could the roof. Paint could hide the exterior ugliness. But those are items that are trivial beside the basic weaknesses of this structure which is visited by so many—by many, not of their own choosing—and which could be a death-trap.

That, then, is why we believe a new courthouse must be built and that as taxpayers we must be willing to pay to have the job done.

National T-V Course Scheduled On Science; Scientists Are Teachers

To provide high school science teachers throughout the country with an inexpensive, convenient opportunity to better their understanding of recent scientific progress, a nation-wide TV course in Atomic Age Physics will be presented over the National Broadcasting Company network for two semesters, beginning Oct. 6 and continuing through June 5. The program will be known as the "Conventional Classroom."

The course, to be offered for credit through the auspices of local colleges and universities, will be telecast from 6:30 to 7 a.m. (in each time zone) and Monday through Friday. This marks the first time in the history of mass communications that a course for college credit has been offered on a nation-wide basis.

The national teacher will be Dr. Harvey E. White, professor and vice-chairman of the department of physics at the University of California in Berkeley. Other internationally known scientists will serve as guest lecturers. Dr. White, a physics teacher for more than 30 years, has written five college texts. One of these, MODERN COLLEGE PHYSICS, is the most widely used book in its field in the United States. In addition to his teaching, Dr. White has served as an International Research Fellow in Berlin and has directed research for the National Defense Research Committee, the Office of Scientific Research and Development, and the Manhattan Project.

FOR the CHILDREN

You as a voter and patron of our school system will be hearing a lot during the weeks to follow about who I am favoring for Superintendent. You will also hear many rumors about who is to benefit if I am elected, or if my opponent is elected, or who will suffer, and so on. BUT I DOUBT IF YOU WILL HEAR FROM THESE SOURCES ONE WORD ABOUT THE SCHOOL CHILDREN OF THIS COUNTY AND WHAT WILL BE DONE IN THEIR BEHALF.

I hope that the people will agree with me that it is time some thinking is done in behalf of your children and mine and that the selfishness of those who seek power and influence and wealth at the expense of the youngsters must be thrown into the discard, where they belong, to make room for a plain, common-sense administration of our school system for the sole benefit of the boys and girls who go to school.

Let me say this:
I have not one relative in Educational District No. 1 where I am a candidate for Board Member, who is qualified or wants to teach school. I have nobody waiting for any snap jobs.

But I do have children, and their education and future welfare mean more to me than any Superintendent's office or any Board member's office. If I did not feel that I owe my children and yours the service I can render as a Board member, I would not be a candidate. Whatever I owe is due to children who are now in school or will be in school later, certainly not to any adult.

If I am elected, I propose to vote for those things that are right and just. I will not carry malice and the spirit of vengeance into Board meetings. I will get along with other board members as long as they do the right thing. BUT WHEN THEY PROPOSE THOSE THINGS THAT ARE NOT RIGHT I NOT ONLY WILL VOTE AGAINST THEM BUT I ALSO WILL CARRY MY FIGHT INTO THE OPEN, THROUGH THE COUNTY NEWSPAPER IF NECESSARY, AND LET YOU ALL IN ON WHATEVER SECRETS THERE MAY BE SHELTHERED BEHIND THOSE CLOSED DOORS.

It may be difficult for those who oppose me to understand my position—it may be difficult even for some of those who support me—but this is what I propose to do: To get a job done for those who have been forgotten and neglected—the school children of this county.

If you believe in a doctrine of this sort and have confidence in me that I will practise that doctrine that I preach, I ask that you get behind me, work for me and vote for me. So doing, you will win a victory for the children, not for me or for any other one man.

Sincerely,

Increased public assistance payments are scheduled for August in the amount of $131,227 for the remainder of the biennium, it was announced recently at Frankfort after an amendment to the Social Security Act was passed by Congress. Maximum benefits to those in the old-age, needy blind and disabled categories will rise from $58 to $65 monthly.

While unemployment insurance benefits in this county started leveling off in June the amount now being paid Floyd workers is still much higher than it was in June last year.

Pointing up the rise in unemployment benefits in several Eastern Kentucky counties are the comparative figures for the calendar year figures are given first and the fiscal year total last.

Harlan, $721,870, $1,223,845; Pike, $618,941, $1,469,621; Perry, $539,583, $728,588; Magoffin, $82,553, $121,042; Johnson, $126,694, $198,569; Martin, $18,331, $23,927; Morgan, $57,456, $109,830; Breathitt, $116,168, $136,005; Letcher, $245,583, $451,501; Leslie, $95,463, $133,244; Wolfe, $1,686, $5,148; Knott, $142,294, $214,291.

Floyd county's rise from the calendar year figure of $374,819 to $742,409 was one of the highest in the eastern section of the state.

Statistics are not available on the number of unemployed workers exhausting benefit payments but it was said the number was increasing while the number of applicants getting new jobs was also increasing.

required to have a sewage disposal plant was the engineering work done by the Bell Engineering Co., Lexington, when the new water plant was planned.

Cost of a sewage disposal plant here would be at least $500,000, it was estimated. Federal aid on such a project amounts to about 30 per cent of the plant cost but not to exceed $250,000.

There are at least four places in Prestonsburg, it was said recently, where raw sewage is emptying onto the surface of lots or land within the corporate limits of town. "What has spared this place an epidemic can't be explained," one prominent physician said. "We're sitting on a powder keg."

When, and if, a sewage disposal plant is built considerable work must be done to connect new and existing sewers and to route sewage via a main sewer into the plant.

Attending the Pollution Commission meeting at Prestonsburg representatives, in addition to Mayor Napier, were Councilman J. Y. Goble, J. M. Stumbo, Health Department sanitarian, and Mr. Finney, of the Bell Engineering Company.

Former Hindman Teacher, Author Succumbs, Aug. 25, In New Jersey; Was Known As 'Steel Trap Woman'

Miss Lucy Furman, Henderson (Ky.) author and Hindman teacher, died August 25 at the home of a nephew in Cranford, N. J. She had moved from Frankfort to the home of the relative there five years ago.

Widely known for her books on mountain subjects she was called "The Steel Trap Woman", because she waged a four-year campaign to outlaw the old type trap that caused needless cruelty to fur bearing animals.

Miss Lucy acquired her title when she began to lobby in Frankfort in 1934 against the common steel trap. Later she toured the state, urging women's groups to join the cause.

Early in the 1900's Miss Lucy went to Hindman Settlement School in Knott county. There while working in the fields, garden and orchards, she heard mountain boys tell of animals knowing off their legs to escape from steel traps.

In the 1920's she became ill and moved to Florida. In 1923 she wrote an article about the cruelty of steel traps for the Atlantic Monthly.

Its publication caused her to be made a vice-president of the Anti-Steel Trap League of Washington, D. C. She returned to Kentucky in 1934 and offered the first anti-steel-trap bill to the General Assembly.

It wasn't until 1938 that a law was passed, to take effect in 1940. A new type of trap had been devised, a chain-loop affair that secured an animal's leg but didn't hurt or maim him.

Miss Lucy then toured the state demonstrating the new kind of trap. She would even put her own hand in it to show that it didn't hurt.

Aside from her interest in animals, Miss Furman was widely known as an author. Among her works were "The Quare Women," "The Glass Window," and "Mothering on Perilous," all dealing with her experiences in the mountains.

She won the 1932 George Fort Milton Award, offered to the Southern woman writer who accomplished the most for her sex.

Miss Furman was an inveterate writer of letters to the editor of The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times. Excerpts from her letters follow:

"Women who desire furs should stop and think before buying. . . Any woman willing to wear furs aken by torture has lost all the finer attributes of womanhood."

"The sale of live chicks and lucks at Easter for children to own and to play with is a cruelty hat should not be countenanced. These little creatures, taken from the warmth of the brooder, usually die promptly from chilling all night; they are almost never properly watered and fed, and small children, having no knowledge of pain, squeeze them to death or carelessly trample on hem, or stick pins in their eyes."

A 1935 newspaper article about Miss Furman said, in part: "Quiet and gentle in demeanor, Miss Furman's blue eyes flash and her voice trembles with indignation as she displays the cruel saw-toothed steel traps she uses to illustrate her lectures."

TO THE PARENTS OF FLOYD COUNTY:

Ray Howard and John Hall are family men. They both have children in school. Their only interest in running for membership on the School Board is to improve the schools for all boys and girls. We ask you to please check the records of these men. They are forthright and honest, without any axes to grind. They are the type of men that we should encourage to be on the School Board.

Ray Howard and John Hall have a sound, feasible platform for improving our schools. A platform that is worthy of our support.

Mr. Howard and Mr. Hall will need our support if they are to win against a powerfully entrenched organization. However, we believe that a majority of the people are not satisfied with:

1. The present leadership of the school system—The welfare of the children should be first.
2. The way good teachers are being run out of the county or transferred far away from their homes.
3. The employment of dozens of maintenance men during election years.
4. The Superintendent of Schools raising his salary to over $10,000.00 per year, and at the same time not giving the teachers one cent increase in salary.

FOREST NOTES

By BILL MUSIC
District Forester

Have you noticed our mountains lately? The leaves are turning brown. Soon our hillsides will be a mass of purple, gold and scarlet. A master painter will have worked his magic in transforming the leaves into a riot of color that all people may enjoy freely.

Along with this beauty, all too often, comes a touch of sadness. Sadness that such beauty should be marred and destroyed by a carelessly discarded match, a camp fire left by a negligent camper or the many and various causes by which a spark becomes a raging forest fire.

The heavy foliage caused by the wet spring means that many more leaves are on the trees now ready to blanket the earth with a fertile, absorbent layer that can enrich the soil and help hold back the over supply of rainfall, but it also means fuel for a raging forest fire should a careless spark be applied.

Therefore let us pause to remember that our woodlands affect climate, furnish food and home for wild-life, act as barriers against destructive floods, protect and hold in store fertilizing rain and snow. Consider also that every leaf and clasping root, as well as fallen trunk and branch, may be regarded as a dam, hoarding the precious bounty of the storm clouds, and dispensing it in blessings to our lowlands, instead of allowing it to pour headlong in short-lived, devastating floods.

Ranger Roe Turner and Guard Oliver Hall of the Kentucky Division of Forestry urge everyone to exercise due care to prevent forest fires. Don't discard that match until you are sure it is out. Don't flip a lighted cigarette from your car. Be sure your camp fire is out. Use the good common sense that is yours to make sure our timberland continues to be a source of pleasure and beauty, continues to furnish our needs in the various wood using industries, continues to provide shelter and food for our wildlife and continues to act as a dam to prevent rapid run-off of flood waters.

Mr. Turner points out that letting these fires get started, even though it is unintentional, is a violation of the forest fire laws and the person responsible is subject to fines and imprisonment.

In addition to this, during the months of October, November and December in the Fall and March, April and May in the Spring, it is unlawful to burn any brush or other inflammable material capable of spreading fire, located in or within two hundred feet of any woodland or brushland, except between the hours of 4:30 p.m., and twelve o'clock midnight, and when the ground is covered with snow.

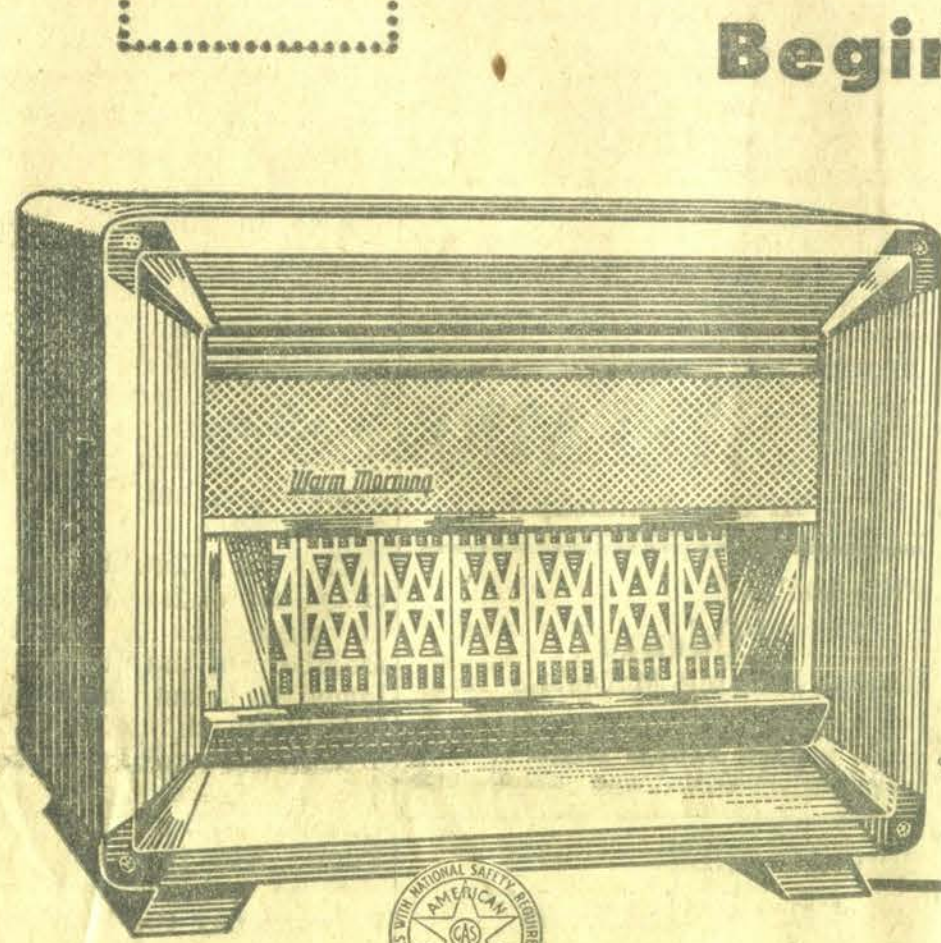

As citizens interested in the beauty and prosperity of our county it is our duty to join Smokey Bear's campaign to PREVENT FOREST FIRES.

WE PROTEST
Charlie Wiechers has filed an open complaint at the Dewey boat dock and has asked my help in getting something started. I join him gladly. Both of us are pretty hot about the matter. They don't have any place there for us to scale all those fish we haven't caught.

THE OLD MAN AND THE SEA

Fact of the matter is, this year has been so unproductive for me in my forays against the finny tribe that I could out-Hemingway with a yarn about the Old Man and the Lake. All the ingredients for the story are there. The old guy has gone out time after time, to return, empty-handed. Tried every trick he knows and most of those others tried to teach him. No result. Knows the fellows are saying, "He's had it—he can't catch fish, any more . . ." The skies lower, the very water takes on a cruel glint as he fishes, fishes, always looking for that big one that somehow eludes him . . . He so sorely needs that fish as proof that he hasn't lost his touch . . .

And then—Monday evening, it was—he lands him. And no shark is going to get this proof of his prowess. The Old Man will not go into port towing the skeleton of this big bass that is proof that he's a fisherman yet and for a' that . . .

No, because the Old Man gently returns this critter to the water. The confounded thing measured only 12—oops!—10 inches!

SOCIETY HITS MEDICAL PLAN

Pike Doctors Say They Will Oppose Candidates Opposing Choice Freedom

The Pike County Medical Society's action of going on record as opposed to any political candidate or candidates who are in favor of any medical-care program that denies the patient his free choice of physicians has not been under consideration by the Floyd County Medical Society, The Times was told this week.

In a resolution the Pike society said it:
"Expresses its wholehearted opposition to any political candidate who favors or endorses any medical-care program which denies the patient a free choice of physician.

"The County Medical Society wishes further to state that it has no desire to impede the evolution of medical science. However, we do not believe in revolution in medicine, which takes from Americans their constitutional rights and instead makes them captives of ideologies which will ultimately force them into political, social, and economic servitude.

"Freedom in America is often costly, but it is worth its every expense.

"It is inconceivable that any candidate seeking political office should deny voters the very right by which the candidate himself is elected. Keep America free."

The resolution is aimed at candidates unfriendly to proposed legislation to limit the powers of United Mine Workers of America medical administrators in Kentucky. Seven of the 10 comparatively new U.M.W. hospitals are in Eastern Kentucky. One of these is a 60-bed hospital in Pikeville, with nine resident doctors.

Also in Pikeville is the 160-bed Methodist hospital, with 15 doctors on its staff.

A bill sponsored by the Kentucky Medical Association, aimed at U.M.W. hospital policies, passed the Senate when introduced in the last session of the State Legislature, but died in a House committee.

The Pike County Medical Society contends that free choice of physicians is denied when members of the union are not allowed to select physicians black-listed by the U.M.W. hospital officials. Physicians approved by the union are paid from the U.M.W. Welfare and Retirement Fund. But if a union member chooses a black-listed physician he must pay the bill himself.

Two of the 15 Pikeville physicians are on the union's black-list, according to the County society. Four were at one time black-listed it was said here.
The U.M.W. welfare-fund last October changed its free-choice physician rights. It limited payments to physicians and hospitals on a necessary and essential basis.

It said many beneficiaries sent to hospitals did not need hospitalization and were kept longer than necessary.

AKERS NAMES FARM PLANS

Soil Bank Signup Dates Released by ASC Head; Two Plans Are Available

The signup in Floyd county for the 1959 Conservation Reserve of the Soil Bank will open September 1, at the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office in Prestonsburg, Chairman Daniel Akers announced today.

The first step in the signup is for the farmer who is interested in the program to come to the county office and request that annual rental payment rates be established for his farm.

At the same time, the farmer should bring with him information to be used by the County ASC Committee in establishing rates for his farm. The chief facts needed, Chairman Akers said, are acreages and yields of the three principal crops on the farm for the past two years and acreages for other land use on the farm.

The Conservation Reserve is the only Soil Bank program available for 1959. Under the program, farmers retire land from general crops for up to 10 years and devote the reserved acreage to land, water, or wildlife conservation practices. The government makes an annual rental payment for the land and will also share in the cost of establishing the conservation practices.

The average rental payment rate for Conservation Reserve land in Floyd county in the 1959 program is $12.50 per acre per year. Maximum payment rates will be higher for the most productive farms and lower for less productive farms.

For farmers who request it, the county committee will figure two sets of maximum annual rates, Chairman Akers said. One will apply if only part of the eligible acreage on a farm is placed in the Reserve. Another rate, 10 percent higher, will be available if all eligible land on a farm is put in the Reserve for at least 5 years.

After maximum rates have been determined for a farm, the farmer will have two weeks in which to decide on participation designate land for the Reserve, and apply for a contract. Land may be offered at less than the established maximum to increase the chance of acceptance in case there are insufficient funds to cover all offers.

The signup phase of the program closes October 10, and all requests for establishing farm rates must be received by that date, Chairman Akers said. The deadline for applying for contracts is October 24, 1958.

HUGHES STARS IN 1st GAME; LAUDED IN U.K. YEARBOOK

By QUENTIN ALLEN
University of Kentucky fans hereabouts are not only pleased but tickled to death over the performance of Lowell Hughes, U. K. quarterback, who contributed a great deal to finding the end of the Hawaii Rainbows, 51-0.
We are naturally prejudiced in favor of our football representative at U. K., and his performance is nothing to hide in the back closet. His running, passing and ball-handling were par-excellent.
But why go on? Let Ken Kuhn toss his bouquet of roses concerning Lowell. Says Kuhn in "Football Facts", informational booklet to sport writers across the Commonwealth:

"This level-headed, versatile performer as a sophomore starter and field general for the 1957 Wildcat aggregation displayed an experienced brand of play that has rarely if ever been surpassed by first year varsity men under the pressures that plagued Hughes. . . Followed in the footsteps of brother Delmar who was the Kentucky number-one signal caller only a year before. . . Lowell wound up the season as fourth best passer in the SEC on his 40 completions in 83 attempts good for 477 yards and a 48.2 percentage mark. . . His fine running ability was demonstrated by a net gain of 116 yards on 58 carries as a sophomore—a pretty fair mark for a quarterback. He is one of the team's outstanding defensive strategists. . . Especially good on pass defense as is borne out by the fact that he picked off three enemy passes last season and returned them for a total of 52 yards. . . Coach Collier is confident that Hughes will be a better man this year even though the pressure could be even greater due to the departure of veteran Kenny Robertson, the chief relief man last year, and the overall experience of the other quarterback candidates. . . He will no doubt handle the majority of kicking chores this year, including both punting and PAT's. . . Understudy to Michaels a year ago and responded to his predecessor's teaching by booting two of three extra points tried and posting a 40.5 punting average on two kicks. . . Started every game but one (Georgia) for a total playing time of 417 minutes and 36 seconds. . . Finished eleventh in SEC in individual total offense as he was credited with 563 yards. . . Sixth in conference in number of passes intercepted and was eighth on yards run back of interceptions. SEC's 20th leading scorer with 20 points. . . Intercepted two passes against Ole Miss as the Wildcats held the Rebs scoreless for over a half. . . Scored first Kentucky TD of the year on a six-yard run to paydirt against Florida. . . Had field day at the expense of Memphis State as he had a 64-yard TD run, which was the third longest in the SEC for the year and three two TD passes to end Jim Urbanik. . . Hughes scored on a 33-yard jaunt against Xavier. . . He was game's leading ground-gainer against both Memphis State and Xavier. . . Lowell was named to the Nashville Banner's All-SEC Sophomore team. One of the most widely-sought backfield prospects in the country as an All-American schoolboy record breaking quarterback. . . Highlight of three-game freshman career in '56 came as he tossed two touchdown passes in leading UK frosh to a 19-0 victory over arch-rival Tennessee frosh. . . Outstanding in both Blue-White games in which he has played. . . Rewrote all previous records at Prestonsburg High where he was grid All-Stater for two years and basketball All-State for one season. . . Also named to football All-South and three All-American selections. . . Ranked as one of the nation's 10 best prep passers. . . Possesses excellent speed as an all-around athlete to baseball and basketball. . . Last winter, he performed with UK's NCAA champion cage team as a guard."

It is hard to believe that Hazard is 34 points better than Prestonsburg, as indicated by the 40-6 score. It seems that the Prestonsburg was trying too hard and was pressing. One thing for sure; they never stopped trying. The Blackcats will win their share of games.

If you missed the Player-of-the-Week last week, then we repeat that it's Henry Hughes, who turned in a stellar game against Lexington Lafayette. Francis Store each week, awards this honor to an outstanding player.

Good Roundball Prospects—Pikeville, Martin, Oil Springs, and Prestonsburg. John Bill Trivette has material this year, and you know what John Bill can do—even when he hasn't good material. Denzil Halbert didn't lose anything and has developed more headaches for Floyd county coaches. The scoop is that a second-teamer has come along so far that the heretofore weak guard positions will be strong, at least by the middle of the season. And Oil Springs has its veterans back. They're tall, rough, and talented. Prestonsburg, under new Coach Bill Goebel, Jr., has most of its men back. Their big men, Harris and Gibson, are looking great. They both have developed "moves" to the basket. It should be an interesting season.

James Allen, Prestonsburg wingman on their double-wing formation, has hip troubles. A Lexington doctor diagnosed the ailment as the muscles growing too fast for the bones; in other words, Allen is musclebound. He prescribed that James take three or four times as much exercise as the other boys in loosening up in pre-game exercises.

Of the local athletes who have sparkled—let us name Willard Atkins, manager of the Beaver Valley Golf Course at Allen.

Atkins, a finished golfer product of many years on the Allen course, has the Beaver Valley golf record. He carded a 23 this year on a par-35 course.

Perhaps this sounds impossible. But for the little blockbuster who physically resembles Ben Hogan, it is not. Just the other day he turned in a near-impossible feat. He scored a hole in one on the par four, 250-yard No. 5.

He is an excellent golf teacher. A one-man maintenance force himself, Willard has kept the course in good condition throughout the rainy summer.

It seems that more and more Floyd countians are taking an interest in the Allen course. The revival of interest in golf has been a long time coming in this area.

The recent hurricane which hit Prestonsburg in the form of the Hazard Bulldogs has left football fans shaking in their boots. The game was billed as deciding the championship of the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference. If that is true, then Hazard is up and away the champ!

A.A. Is Called Best Resource For Alcoholics

By J. COLLIS RINGO,
Executive Director
Ky. Commission on Alcoholism
Alcoholics Anonymous, the greatest single resource available to help persons suffering from excessive drinking, is the most widely-advertised but one of the least understood organizations in existence.

Everybody has heard of Alcoholics Anonymous yet the average person has little knowledge of what A.A. is. "A religious sect . . . drunks . . . temperance fanatics . . . reformers . . . prohibitionists" . . . These are a few of the erroneous ideas widely held.

Alcoholics Anonymous is not a temperance group, its members do not want to dry up the world, it is not a reform movement. A.A. is a fellowship of men and women who belong to that six percent of our drinking population who suffer from either a mental or physical illness called alcoholism and who have arrested the illness. This fellowship has but one primary purpose: "To stay sober and help others achieve sobriety". Its membership is composed of Protestants, Catholics, Jews and Agnostics. Some have at one time been delinquents. Others have not lost jobs or families but have discovered earlier in their drinking careers that alcohol was for them, unmanageable. There are corporation presidents, college professors, doctors, lawyers, clerks, stenographers, janitors, bartenders, clergymen, actors, truck drivers, editors, broadcasters, wealthy housewives, and domestic servants, colonels and buck privates, salesmen and musicians in the ranks of Alcoholics Anonymous.

No person is ever solicited to join, no member ever "takes the pledge" or "swears off drinking." No membership rolls are kept, there are no officers, there are no fees or dues. Yet this unique organization is now estimated at more than 200,000 men and women who have come from varying degrees of excessive drinking to complete sobriety.

Why Alcoholics Anonymous works for these people nobody knows, but at least 50 percent of the excessive drinkers, no matter how bad off, who seek their help, achieve sobriety.

There are 60 Alcoholics Anonymous groups in Kentucky. A directory of these groups is on file at the office of the Kentucky Commission on Alcoholism at Frankfort.

Dickerson Wins Tourney; Burke, Hale Tie for 2nd

The Beaver Valley golf tournament was won last week by Fred Dickerson, of Prestonsburg, who finished four strokes in front of his nearest competitors.

The winning low-score was Dickerson's with 142 for 36 holes. Joe Burke, Prestonsburg, and Billy Cleo Hale, Martin, tied for second place with 146. Johnny Burke, Prestonsburg, came in fourth with a total of 153.

No. 4 was difficult for runners-up Burke and Hale. Burke hooked his drive out of bounds to take a 6 on the hole. Hale dubbed his drive here and fell behind.

HAZARD, BELFRY AT TOP IN FOOTBALL STANDINGS

Hazard and Belfry remain the only unbeaten high school football teams in Eastern Kentucky after Pikeville and Whitesburg suffered their first defeats over the week-end.

The Jenkins Cavaliers won their first game in four starts, Saturday night, by pasting Paintsville, 30-0, and in a non-league fray Fleming bowed, 25-13, to Lynch.

Ed Moore's Whitesburg Yellow-jackets were downed 25-7 by highly regarded Benham of the C. V. C., and Belfry copped the Pike county grid championship in rolling over Pikeville, 20-0.

Hazard's free-scoring Bulldogs moved into sole possession of the No. 1 spot in the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference by whipping Prestonsburg, 40-6.

Defending Jenkins had a rather easy time with the Paintsville Tigers as 225-pound senior full-back Tommy Brush and speedster Ross Chaney each scored two touchdowns.

The Hazard Bulldogs turned what was expected to be a close game into a rout by handing Prestonsburg its worst home defeat in the past ten years.

Jim Caudill's veteran unit surprised their most ardent supporters with an amazing display of power, speed and mid-season finesse in completely mastering the Black Cats.

Prestonsburg's first half mistakes played a major part in Hazard's 14-0 lead at the midway point. On the second play from scrimmage the Black Cats fumbled, and Ben Rose and Britt Handy recovered for the visitors.

In three plays, Astor Sizemore and Handy moved to the three and Sizemore scored with the game just three minutes old. Sizemore kicked the point after.

In the second period Prestonsburg failed on a 4th down, one-half yard gamble on their own 38, and the Bulldogs tallied six plays later with Sizemore moving in from the two and adding the point.

Six plays after the second kick-off, Hazard ran the margin to 21-0 when quarterback Ken Cobb hurled to fullback Phil Turner in a 40-yard scoring effort and Sizemore annexed the point after.

Senior Tackle Harmon Petry picked off James Allen's pass on his own 12 and sped 83 yards to paydirt to end Prestonsburg's only threat in the third frame. Cobb ran the count to 34-0 by going over from ten yards after Prestonsburg had fumbled on its own 39.

Sophomore fullback Dennis Stephens saved the Black Cats from a "whitewashing" with a 12-yard tally, climaxing a 60-yard march in the waning seconds.

With 39 seconds left in the fray, Sizemore, who thrilled the overflow crowd with his elusive treks, gathered in the leather on the kick-off and raced 65 yards for his third six-pointer.

SIGNED
 Kentucky Wesleyan College and Middle Tennessee State College have signed contracts with the Prestonsburg Junior Chamber of College to play a college basketball game in the new Prestonsburg gymnasium, Saturday, December 13. Wesleyan features Kelly Coleman, who needs no introduction to Floyd county cage fans, and who was the nation's sixth leading scorer as a freshman last season.

Middle Tennessee, situated at Murfreesburg, Tennessee, is tutored by Edd Diddle, Jr., son of Western's immortal cage coach, Ed Diddle.

Virtually every Floyd county basketball fan is expected to be on hand to watch the ex-Wayland star attempt to maintain his high school scoring pace, which included seven individual state tournament scoring marks and a record 68 points in one state tournament game. Kelly now weighs 219 pounds, his lowest playing weight in the past four years.

Hazard's Bulldogs now appear to be "in" as the '58 high school football champions of the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference following their easy triumph over Prestonsburg and Whitesburg's 25-7 loss to Benham.

Jim Caudill's eleven stands alone at the top of the league standings with a 3-0 mark and Belfry is next with a 1-0 mark. Belfry and Hazard do not play during the season; however, Hazard has yet to face Whitesburg, at home, September 26, and Fleming, also at home, on October 31. Neither is expected to upset the Perry countians.

Belfry must defeat Prestonsburg, Paintsville and Jenkins to be in the race.

RAMBLERS WIN
 Elkhorn City and Raceland started their tussle off with a bang last Friday night before the Ramblers finally won out, 28-19. On the opening kick-off Elkhorn City halfback Benny Davis grabbed the oval and sped 70 yards to score. Then on the ensuing kick-off, Raceland quarterback Scott Davidson raced 80 yards to knot the score with only 50 seconds gone in the game.

By scoring three touchdowns and four extra points against Prestonsburg, Hazard's flashy halfback, Astor Sizemore, increased his total to 61 points in three games.

M. C. Napier and Hazard, cross-town rivals, have moved their game to Thursday night, instead of Friday.

In Tuesday's state-wide high school football ratings, Hazard dropped from eighth to ninth after walloping Prestonsburg, 40-6. Prestonsburg dropped from 34th to 59th by virtue of its defeat, Jenkins, at 32nd, is the only other Eastern Kentucky team in the state's top 40 teams.

TRANSPORTING MINE EQUIPMENT TO JENKINS
 Several months before the railway spur was finished to the new town site of Jenkins the coal company, pushing hard to get its mines opened for the trains, hauled mine equipment, supplies and building materials over Pound Mountain, from Virginia, and from the town of Burdine, on the Kentucky River.

The road became a morass of mud across Pound Mountain and the company resorted to ox teams instead of mules. It is said that wagons returning empty across the mountain often had to wait for hours until the Jenkins-bound wagons had passed. Soon, however, the railway was extended to the head of Elkhorn Creek and the ox and mule trains across Pound Mountain were no more.

Shown in this 1916 picture is a teamster group hauling a mine cutting machine for the Consolidation Coal Company from Burdine. Drivers are Harve Helton, Matt Hurst and Burnis Rice, of Estill. Standing is Alex Roberts. Riding the horse is Superintendent S. E. Looney.

Ministers Are Cautioned Of Three Things To Do In Social Security Plan

Many ministers of the gospel will lose their rights to social security unless they do something about it before next April 15. Here's what they must do:

- (1) If they don't have a social security card, they should go to the Social Security office and get one.
- (2) Next go to the nearest Internal Revenue Office and ask for a waiver form.
- (3) Fill out this waiver form and leave it at the Internal Revenue Office.

If a minister takes these steps, and makes $400 or more in a year, his earnings will count toward old-age, survivors and disability insurance benefits.

This means that he and his dependents can get monthly benefit checks when he retires at age 65 or later. His family could get payments if he should die at any age. Also, if he becomes too disabled to do any more work he may be able to get monthly benefit checks starting at age 50.

THOMAS P. MAY OF PIKE COUNTY

On loan from Miss Margaret May, Prestonsburg teacher, is a copy of "In Memoriam, Thomas P. May, of Pike County". May died in 1910 and the newspaper story of his life and times reveals the striking contrast between the section at the time of his birth and his death at the end of the first decade of the twentieth century. He lived to see vast social and economic changes for he was 94 years of age when he died.

We quote at length from the newspaper story of his death

"Pikeville, Ky., Sept. 3—(Special)—There passed away Sunday, August 28, 1910, at his country home on Johns Creek, in this (Pike) county, Thomas P. May, the oldest citizen of the county at the time of his death. He was born August 3, 1816, on Robinson Creek, then Floyd, now in Pike county, twelve miles south of Pikeville, where his father, Thomas May, settled in 1813, and lived until his death September 3, 1867. Thomas P. May was the third of a family of thirteen children, all of whom lived to a great age. Thomas P. May, being the last survivor, who died in the house where he had lived continuously for sixty-three years. He was one of those pioneers who lived in two centuries and saw the former primitive methods of travel, locomotion and transportation give place to the present perfected ingenuity of man. He lived to learn that electric messages could be sent and man could sail through the air.

"Like ancient history is 1816. This is three years before the first ship crossed the ocean with the aid of steam. It was 1830 that work began in the United States on the first railroad built for the use of steam locomotives. The sewing machine had not been invented until long after. The tallow-dip and the pine knot were the means of furnishing artificial light for the use of the people of those early times. Not even 'standard' oil had made its appearance. The gas light and the electric light were many years off. The deadly automobile had not come on the stage to skid and turn turtle and kill its occupants by throwing them against a telegraph or telephone pole. People in New York could not talk to Chicago across the long stretch of country then. A wire could not be sent around the world in a few seconds. At that time the scream of the panther, the growl of the bear and the mountain lion and the whistle of the deer could be heard from the doors of the one-room log cabins as they roamed at will through the almost unbroken wilderness.

"Neighborhoods were far apart and often people had to travel several miles to a neighbor's house to borrow fire. Yes, there were no matches in those days; only the 'flint and punk,' when they could be obtained, were the means or instruments resorted to for producing fires. The buffalo and the Indian had just been driven out of the country westward a few hundred miles leaving their well-marked traces behind which could be seen for many years. The nearest store at which merchandise could be had was at the site of the present town of Louisa, seventy-five miles away. Salt for the family use was obtained at Goose Creek Salt Works in what is now Clay county, Kentucky, and transported on horseback over the mountains on roads that were 'bride paths,' often following the Indian and buffalo trails.

"Game of every kind was plentiful and was the principal source of the meat eaten by the settlers. His father, Thomas May, could stand in his cabin door and with his trusty flintlock, a necessary adjunct to every well-regulated household in those times—kill a three-slug buck for breakfast. What a transition in the lifetime of Thomas P. May! He lived to read of men, like birds, flying through the air; to see perfected the steam and electric railroads; ships like palaces plowing across the ocean with almost the speed of railroad trains, and news sent through space without a visible conductor. Few men, like him, have been permitted to witness, within a lifetime, the greatest progress and achievements in the arts, sciences, inventions, discoveries and developments, made in any age of the world.

He saw Halley's Comet twice in its seventy-five year swing through unknown space. He saw the expansion of the territory of the United States from a few states on the Atlantic to forty-eight extending to the Pacific and lived under the administration of twenty Presidents, including the year and a half of President Taft.

"Thomas May, the father of Thomas P., was born in the State of Virginia, February 2, 1787; came to Kentucky, married Dorcas Patton, of Floyd county, and settled on a farm on Robinson Creek, then in Floyd, as stated above. He was a poor man at the time of his marriage but by native industry and frugality accumulated quite a landed estate before his death. In the times in which he lived it was the fashion of big families and there were born to him and his good wife thirteen children, as follows: Daniel, born May 29, 1814; Reuben, born June 23, 1815; Thomas P., born August 3, 1816; Cynthia, born October 7, 1817; William J., born April 1, 1820; John, born June 3, 1821; Sally, born December 6, 1822; Henry, born March 2, 1824; Harvey, born April 27, 1825; Dorcas, born September 7, 1826; David, born February 3, 1828; Mary, born March 18, 1830. It will be noticed that with two exceptions, only a little more than a year elapsed between the births of these children and had Col. Roosevelt lived in that day and time no doubt he would have been 'delighted' with the effort of Thomas May to prevent race suicide.

"Three of the sons of Thomas May fought through the late Civil War, Reuben on the Federal side and Henry and David on the Confederate side. David was killed at the Battle of Cynthiana, Ky., June 12, 1864, leaving another large family. One of the daughters married James P. Marrs, a leading attorney of this place, formerly of Whitesburg, Ky., and who was Commonwealth's Attorney for six years in the district under the old system.

Several of the Mays were at different times members of the Senate and House of Representatives of Kentucky. The novelist, Louisa M. Alcott, of Massachusetts, was a relative of the May family. Thomas P. May was a local minister of the M.E. Church, South, of which church he had been a member since childhood. He was made a Master Mason in Zebulon Lodge, Prestonsburg, Ky., in 1857 and was the last surviving charter member of Thomas C. Cecil Lodge, No. 375, of Pikeville, chartered in 1860.

"He was buried in the family graveyard on Johns Creek, this county, August 29, 1910, by the Masonic order. At the time of his death Thomas P. May was living with his youngest son, William R. May, on the old homestead, which he had given to his son several years ago to care for and support him and his wife during the remainder of their lives. His wife was a Miss Lesley (Elizabeth M. Lesley) a member of a leading and pioneer family of Pike county, who preceded him to the grave some two or three years ago. A family of eight children were born into this union, five of whom, to wit, Cynthia, wife of U. K. Williams, of Pikeville; A. J. May, of Salem, Ore.; Florence Denton, Elizabeth Harvey and William R. May, of Pike county, survive him."

The In Memoriam was written by J. M. Robinson and was evidently first published in a Pikeville newspaper.

Mammoth Cave's Saltpetre Beds Helped Win War

Mammoth Cave played an important part in the war of 1812 as a source of saltpetre from which gunpowder was made.

England had placed a rigid embargo on all shipping to the United States. American forces thus suffered a severe shortage of gunpowder, because they were cut off from foreign supplies of saltpetre.

Mammoth Cave contained a large deposit of nitrous earth or "petre dirt," as it was called then. From this dirt saltpetre was extracted. Thousands and thousands of pounds were hauled from the cave across the country to Philadelphia by ox-cart and pack-mule or to New Orleans by barge.

The precious ore did much to save the young republic during those perilous years.

The nitrates in the cave earth originated from two sources: water charged with nitrogen compounds which drained into the cave and from the nitrification of bat guano (manure).

The first step in the process of extracting saltpetre was dumping the nitrous earth into large leaching vats, where it was saturated with water brought into the cave through pipelines made of hollow logs.

The solution of nitrates leached from this earth drained into wooden troughs and then into a large trough by gravity. From this a large wooden pump raised the solution into an elevated tank near the ceiling. From this tank it flowed by gravity to the entrance of the cave through another wooden pipeline.

On the surface the nitrate solution was boiled and the concentrate was then run through hoppers filled with wood ashes. It was then boiled a second time and cooled in wooden troughs. The resulting product was saltpetre.

What does a postman do when he isn't walking his mail route?

We don't know about all postmen, but Mr. D. J. "Demmie" Misco spends his days off walking—on the golf course, that is—or relaxing in his modern all-electric home.

"My job keeps me rushing here and there," Mr. Misco says, "so when I'm off duty I like plenty of time for golf, reading and resting. That's one reason we have an all-electric home—it makes many household jobs easier and faster and eliminates some altogether. And speaking of electric heat, it is a cleaner, steadier heat... and its individual room temperature controls make it perfect."

"With a family of five to care for," Mrs. Misco says, "I couldn't get along without my washer, dryer, range, freezer and other electrical appliances. These things make housework almost pleasant, and our electric heat adds so much to our comfort and convenience. There are no drafty halls or cold spots... it's healthier for the children."

Modern Families Everywhere
Are Living Better Electrically

Kentucky POWER COMPANY

Mr. and Mrs. Misco and their children—Deane, Jo, Susanne and Anne—live better in many ways in their modern all-electric home, and it's so economical, too. With all of their electric appliances—range, water heater, clothes-dryer, washer, and freezer—plus electric heating—the cost is only about $30 a month.

9,000 APPLICANTS RECEIVE AID TO DISABLED PERSONS

About 16,000 applications for aid to permanently and totally disabled persons have been considered during the past two years, Miss Ione Colyer, case supervisor for the Kentucky Division of Public Assistance, said.

About 9,000 applications have been approved, Miss Colyer said. The aid is Kentucky's newest category of public assistance, administered by the State Department of Economic Security.

From the first monthly payments in September, 1956, to those through June, 1958, more than $3 1/2 million was paid out in this aid, Miss Colyer said, adding that payments during July totaled $291,472.

That month the caseload numbered 7,569, she said, explaining that some of the 9,000 approved recipients died, some were transferred to old age assistance rolls, and others were cured of disability by treatment.

Obtaining medical examinations for applicants has been a major problem of the division's staff, Miss Colyer said.

A large number of younger applicants, Miss Colyer said, have impairments lasting since birth or early childhood and not treatable medically. Many other younger applicants can be treated and trained so that they may lead healthier, more normal lives, she added.

The program, Miss Colyer pointed out, puts great emphasis on rehabilitation.

A December, 1957, study shows that 20.4 percent of that month's case load was eligible because of mental deficiency.

Most adult applicants have never had adequate medical or dental care and the advantage of a public health program, Miss Colyer added.

A large member of applicants have suffered from malnutrition since childhood and this may be the underlying cause of many of the disabilities developed later in life, Miss Colyer said.

Uncle Sam is going to make it easier for millions of taxpayers to file their 1958 Federal income tax returns.

The card Form 1040A for 1958 filing has been revised to cover employees with incomes up to $10,000, Commissioner of Internal Revenue Russell C. Harrington announced today.

In previous years, this simple card form could be used only by employees with incomes under $5,000. The limit has been raised to $10,000 without sacrificing the simplicity which made the form so convenient for people who used it in prior years, Commissioner Harrington added.

The new card may be used by any individual with total income of less than $10,000, consisting of wages reported on Form W-2 and not more than $200 in dividends, interest, and wages not subject to withholding.

Husband and wife also may file a joint return on Form 1040A if their combined income does not exceed these limits, Mr. Harrington said and he added:

"By using Form 1040A, taxpayers automatically claim the standard 10 per cent deduction allowed by law for personal expenses such as contributions, interest payments, medical expenses, and the like. Taxpayers with allowable deductions for these items in excess of 10 percent of their income must use the regular Form 1040 if they wish to claim them."

For 1957, more than 14 million taxpayers filed Form 1040A. Internal Revenue estimates that as many as 31 million individuals could qualify and ease their tax filing chore by using the new Form 1040A for 1958.

Dangers of Radiation Greatly Overrated, Said

"Radiation sleuths" studying evidence sent in from 46 countries, have concluded after five years of study, that the danger of radioactive fallout from nuclear testing is greatly overrated, says the September Reader's Digest. The former Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, Admiral Lewis L. Strauss commented: "a person can experience a much greater increase in radiation by moving from sea level to a mile above sea level; or from a frame house to one of brick or stone."

ANCIENT SALAMIS IN CYPRUS

Salamis of Cyprus was named for the Island of Salamis by the prince of Greek archers. Teucer named the city after his island homeland off the coast of Attica. In the time of Paul, Salamis was located on the eastern shore of Cyprus. It was a great commercial center extending 12 miles in length and two miles wide. The world's largest forum also stood here. Paul and Barnabas sailed from Seleucia, Syria to the capacious and convenient port of Salamis on their first missionary journey. Seleucia was about one hundred miles away and could be seen on a clear day.

Paul preached in the synagogue of this city without realizing any real response, after which he and Barnabas moved across the island until they came to Paphos on the western shore. In

The Third Century a dreadful earthquake shook Salamis and completely destroyed the city; one half of it fell into the sea and the other half was buried in the sands. Some suppose this calamity came as a result of the city's failure to accept the apostle's message. The city was never restored but remains buried in the sands until this day.

Cyprus was the native land of Barnabas and Salamis was his city. Barnabas returned here on his second missionary journey, but it is unlikely that Paul ever did return. Tradition states that Barnabas was killed here during Nero's reign. His tomb was erected on the spot and may be seen today.

The story of Paul and Barnabas' visit to Salamis is found in the 13th Chapter of the Acts of the Apostles.

Anachronistic Fee System Gives $30,000 to $40,000 A Year

The anachronistic practice of paying local officials by fee instead of salary has created a gravy train which stretches from coast to coast, says an article in the October Reader's Digest.

In the article, "A National Scandal—the Fee System," Lawrence Lader points out that once a year, the tax collector for tiny Franklin borough, Pa., (population: 1200) strolls into the Bethlehem Steel Co. plant to pick up its tax check. That walk nets him close to $14,000. Lader terms Pennsylvania "the nation's outstanding fee paradise."

The manager of an auto-license branch office in Fort Wayne, Ind., grossed $102,482 last year from license and registration fees. The sheriff of Cochama County, Miss., listed a net income of $26,888. The probate judge of Hartford, Conn., netted $42,058 last year—which gave him an income larger than the Chief Justice of the United States. And one justice of the peace in Las Vegas, Nev., cleared $40,000 a year performing marriages.

Perhaps the cruelest application of the fee system, Lader writes, is in the payment of fees to sheriffs for feeding prisoners. At least half of our states still do this, despite campaigns against it by the American Prison Association and U. S. Bureau of Prisons.

The sheriff usually gets a daily fee of $1 to $2 per prisoner. In addition, the sheriff usually receives a "key fee"—50 cents to $1 for admitting each prisoner, and the same amount for releasing him again. This encourages a continuous round-up of vagrants and any other easy prey, regularly filling and emptying the jails, to collect the fees.

What is needed to correct the situation, writes Lader, is "bold legislative action, supported by leading officials, the press, citizens' groups and a concentrated explosion of public anger that will sweep away the corruption and injustice of the fee system in every state."

Keep Canned Foods Dry, Cool

Canned foods should be stored where they will be kept dry and cool. Dampness may corrode tin cans and metal lids of glass jars, and eventually cause leakage. Warmth may cause canned food to lose quality. Hot pipes behind a wall may make a shelf or closet too warm for storing food.

Nathan Bowman Stubblefield, 1860-1923, born in Colliway county, was credited with inventing the "wireless telephone" as early as 1892.
