

This Town— That World

UP IN SMOKE THEY GO

If you have trouble defining the word, "frustration," just take a look this week at the face of a Floyd countian who has planted trees, dreaming of the day when his work would stand in the form of tall, growing trees and become a part of a great area reforestation program. His face will spell out "frustration," and perhaps a few other things for you. For he has just seen his dreams become more elusive than smoke-dreams. They've just gone up in flame and smoke as forest fires ravaged the county.

IN THE MAIL

Once in a while, we get a communication from somebody who have never heard of, and most of the time we are not certain what inspired such a statement. The following is from a Mr. William R. Sullivan, 1116 S. Flower, Los Angeles 15, Calif., and, although we wonder why he wrote us, we are not inclined to dispute what he has to say:

"This world does not have an unlimited amount of space for an unlimited amount of people. The laws of nature have a statute of limitation, and for those who choose to ignore them they have their penalties to pay."

TRUE

The human mind is flexible but not elastic, the NEWSLETTER of the Floyd County Library reminds us in saying:

"Once a mind, young or old, is stretched by an idea, it never returns to its same, old size."

I doubt if it is necessary to add that an expanded mind does not result in a swelled head.

A JOB WELL DONE

Incidentally, this NEWSLETTER here referred to is an excellent job, and we are pleased to learn that it—See Story No. 6, Page 4—

EARTH FILL WORK ENDING

Flood Protection Seen For Prestonsburg Soon; Project Is 60% Complete

"Give us one more week of good weather, and we will have the earth fill across Trimble Branch at Second street to the point where Prestonsburg can be protected against a flood such as last year's," Gaylord Robinette, resident inspector, U. S. Corps of Engineers, said, this week of the flood control work under way here.

Such protection would be afforded by emergency pumping installations located behind the fill.

Better weather brought increased activity, and the overall flood protection project is considered about 60% complete. Two strikes have slowed operations, however, during the last few days. One work-stoppage came over a dispute relating to subcontracting of earth-moving; another, when a wiring contract was sub-let. The earthmoving dispute has been settled, however, and the Porter Construction Co., of Allen, has five trucks moving earth to the fill.

As of Jan. 1, work-stoppages and bad weather had cost the contractor on the project, the S. T. Kenyon Company, about 90 days' time, it was said.

Besides the fill and electrical work, principal items to be completed are the setting of forms for the top pour of concrete on the Trimble Branch gateway; two pours of concrete foundation work for the pump station, then brick work, wiring and other construction on the pump station building.

FOREST FIRES CREATE HEAVY LOSS IN FLOYD

TRASH BLAZES CAUSE SPREAD TO WOODLAND

Old Home, Much Timber Burned As Firefighters Unable to Meet Crisis

Forest fires burning rampant this week over hundreds of acres of grass and timberlands in Floyd county, prompted the Division of Forestry to appeal to farmers, gardeners and landowners to stop burning trash until the weather improves.

Sixteen fires, all of them caused by trash burners, were raging Tuesday, and it was noted that there was no improvement Wednesday. One fire, between Allen and Prestonsburg burned over nearly 600 acres by Tuesday evening.

Forest fires were taking their toll in houses and barns, it was said by the Division of Forestry. The old home of Rev. Aquilla Harman, on Mare Creek, furnished with antiques and household tools of early days and preserved by the family, fell victim to flames escaping from a burning garden Tuesday afternoon. Two barns and a home in Magoffin county were destroyed, first of the week.

Magoffin county is as hard hit as this county, according to Clive Akers, of the Forestry Division. Harlan county, where a great number of unemployed miners are clearing land and burning trash, had eight fires this week, with three suppressed and another still burning.

"The forest fire situation has taken a critical turn," Bill Music, of Perpsburg, district forester, said in a statement to the public this week. "There are more fires than we have men to cover. These fires are caused by careless burners. We appeal to all citizens to do no more burning until weather conditions permit."

Akers noted that the Division had ten crews fighting fires Wednesday and that not enough men were available to suppress all of the fires quickly. High winds were whipping nearly all debris fires into the woodlands, he added. Several arrests have been made for violation of the forestry laws.

Music, in his public appeal this week, noted that these spring fires had already destroyed thousands of dollars worth of timber and grass.

"This is a needless waste of our resources and our dollars," he continued. Homes and lives are endangered. The home of Sisco Holbrook, of Cutino, Magoffin county, along with two barns were burned Tuesday in a forest fire blaze.

"All of this is a result of carelessness on the part of good citizens who regret this destruction. This regret will not reforest our bare hillsides."

NOSTALGIC MEMORIES RECALLED OF OLD VIRGINIA SCHOOL PATH

By JUDGE E. J. SUTHERLAND
(In The Dickensonian, Clintwood, Va.)

The Old School Path is a mile long. It leads from my native Mountain home to Sulphur Spring school on Frying Pan Creek. No other home is on this path, and it is flanked on either side by the forest for most of its length. In summertime it is canopied with green boughs of over-hanging trees, and in wintertime it is exposed to the snow and the winds that howl in the bare branches of shivering trees.

The last time I traveled this old path was on Sunday, November 30, 1958, when Hetty and I parked our car at the school house and climbed slowly eastward up the heavy slope toward Fairview, stopping now and then to pick the tasty tea berries or just to gaze upward at the blue, blue sky. It was clear and cold with a morning reading of 15 above. The sun bravely fought the morning mists, and made the climb pleasant. Snow still lay in spots on the ground and leaves along the north of the hills.

Burial Fund Officials Sue To Recover $623; Accuse Ex-Treasurer

Suit to recover $623.07 allegedly misappropriated from the treasury of a Floyd county miners' burial fund was filed in circuit court, Tuesday, by Orbie Hamilton, secretary-treasurer of the fund, and its committee members, Walker Moore and Richard Stumbo.

Their petition, which was prepared by Atty. W. W. Burchett, alleges that during the year preceding Aug. 11, 1956 Hobert Pack, then secretary-treasurer of the burial fund of Local Union 7078, misappropriated and used for his own purposes the amount for which they sue. Pack's surety, the National Surety Company, is named as co-defendant in the action.

MINE TENSION MOUNTS IN AREA DURING WEEK

The tempo of events in the contract dispute between miners and truck mine operators of Eastern Kentucky increased this week but with only a demonstration of force and no violence on the part of the workers.

Governor Chandler refused to send the National Guard to troubled Letcher county but did alert that military organization Tuesday after it was necessary for State Police to hold 1,000 pickets at bay with shotguns and machine guns at a loading ramp

AREA AID BILL VIEWED DIMLY

Whisman, Reed Think Only Fringe Benefits To Accrue Under Plans

The area-redevelopment bill providing $389,500,000 for aid to economically-depressed sections will be of little assistance to Eastern Kentucky, it is being said by persons familiar with problems of the region.

John Whisman, executive director of the Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission, headed by B. F. Reed, of Drift, voiced this feeling this week. He thinks only a few towns at the outer edges of the mountains would benefit from the loans and grants authorized in the bill that passed the Senate Monday.

The reason, he said, is that mountainous Eastern Kentucky could not compete with other labor-surplus areas having a greater potential for industry. —See Story No. 7, Page 6—

Rev. Wallace To Preach

The First Church of God, North Prestonsburg, has scheduled a revival to start March 30 and end April 5. Rev. Eugene Wallace, Middletown, O., will conduct the services, it was announced this week by Rev. Moses Kitchen, pastor.

Services will be held daily, starting at 7:30 p.m. Special singing is planned for the revival and the public is cordially invited to attend, Rev. Kitchen said.

ANNUAL MUSIC FEST IS SET

Regional Meet Scheduled At Pikeville; Saturday's Events To Feature Bands

The Pikeville Regional Music Festival, an annual event of schools in this area, will be held Wednesday through Saturday of next week. More than 1,000 musical presentations will feature the festival, sponsored by Pikeville College.

The festival will be much larger this year, according to Jesse Elliott, Floyd county director of music. One feature of the Pikeville meet will be a 100-piece All-Festival band, he added.

Six Floyd county high schools will hold rehearsals at Martin, Friday, it was announced. This—See Story No. 4, Page 5—

VOTE RIGHT LOST, SAID

Attorney-General Rules Party Change Invalidates May Primary Franchise

The attorney general's office warned again Wednesday that voters who change their party affiliation after the November election are not entitled to vote in this May's primary.

Attorney General Joe M. Ferguson said his office has been receiving numerous queries on the subject.

In an opinion to Shelby County Clerk C. P. Nash, First Assistant Attorney General Walter C. Herdman outlined the correct procedure to follow for voters who change their affiliation.

Kentucky law requires the clerk to note on the voter's registration record the date on which the voter applies for a change in his party affiliation, Herdman said.

"It also follows . . . that the clerk is required to deliver to the precinct election clerk of each precinct a typewritten list of those voters who are duly registered and entitled to vote in the election."

Herdman said the clerk could withdraw the registration cards of those who changed parties and withhold them until after the primary.

Or, the clerk simply would not certify the disqualified voters' names to the precincts.

"Regardless of whether or not the clerk withholds the registration cards, he is, of course, forbidden from listing such disqualified voters on the lists sent to the various precincts," Herdman said.

A clerk is subject to a fine of not less than $10 or more than $100 for each offense committed in connection with his failure to perform any of his election duties, Herdman added.

The opinion also pointed out that purgation boards are given authority to remove registration cards of disqualified voters in the primary and place the cards in a suspended file until they again become eligible to vote.

Akers Reminds Producers Of Wool That Documents Require Adequate Data

Chairman Daniel Akers of the Floyd County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office reminds wool producers to be sure that the sales documents they have received for selling wool during the past year contain all the information required under the wool incentive program.

It is particularly important, Akers says, that the sales documents show the true net sales proceeds including deductions made for freight and other marketing charges. The county ASC office where the program is administered has the authority to adjust sales proceeds when—See Story No. 9, Page 4—

AUTO MISHAP CLAIMS FOUR

Daughter of Floyd Man, Three Others, Victims In Johns Creek Accident

Four Pike county high school students, one of them the daughter of a Floyd native, were killed about 9:15 p.m. Saturday when an auto left U. S. 119 on a Town Mountain curve, about three miles from Pikeville, and hurtled 210 feet into a gulley.

The dead: Joan Spears, 14, high school freshman, and a daughter of John Worth (Bub) Spears and Lucy May Spears, of Kimper, Pike county. (Her father is a native of the Johns Creek section of this county and is a son of the late Walker Spears).

Lydia Jane May, 16, junior in high school and a daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Edwin T. May, of Kimper.

Rola Mae Mosley, 16, also a junior in school, and the daughter of Roland and Romah Williams Mosley. Her mother is a teacher at Kimper.

Larry Neale Dotson, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl B. Dotson, of Phelps.

The three girls, it was said, were second cousins.

The lone survivor was 17-year-old Marvin Conn, of Phelps.

Young Dotson who had graduated from Phelps high school, was driver of the car, a new sports model Chevrolet coupe.

The five had attended a Future Homemakers of America party at Johns Creek high school and were driving toward Pikeville at the time of the tragedy. —See Story No. 3, Page 3—

STATE TO GET COURT'S HELP

Magistrates May Convey Titles To County System For Force Account Jobs

The state will receive the full cooperation of the Floyd fiscal court on any and all force account roads that may be improved or built in the county.

This cooperation was assured last week when at the recommendation of County Judge Henry Stumbo the court unanimously adopted Magistrate Grover Holbrook's motion providing that all county roads may be conveyed to the state for force account projects. The court order also provided that each magistrate is authorized to sign a blanket deed for such roads in his district, conveying the roads to the state for force account work.

"We want to make sure there's no delay on our part on roads," Judge Stumbo later commented. At Tuesday's fiscal court meeting 12,846 persons were certified as eligible to receive surplus foodstuffs in this county. This number represents an increase of approximately 1,800 since December and about 3,000 in the last six months. The number certified for food relief by magisterial districts follows:

District 1—3,565; No. 2—2,950; No. 3—3,037; No. 4—3,294.

The court last week, on motion of Magistrate Johnnie Caudill, directed the County Clerk to notify Hollie Conley, W. W. Cooley, Gorman Collins and DuRan Moore to meet with the fiscal court, March 30, on the matter of making settlements.

Easter Seal Drive Contributions $444.50

Contributions totaling $444.50 have been received to date during the opening days of the 1959 Easter Seal campaign in Floyd county, according to George E. Evans, Jr., chairman of the local drive.

This report represents contributions received by mail.

Contributions to the campaign, which closes March 29, may be sent to Mrs. Elizabeth R. Martin, Treasurer, Floyd County Crippled Children Committee, Wayland.

"We need to reach more of Kentucky's 18,000 physically handicapped youngsters," Mr. Evans said.

MARTIN TAKEN TO CALIFORNIA

Will Face Check Charges; Robbery, Whiskey Feature Week's Arrest Reason's

Ronald P. Martin, who was jailed here two weeks ago by State Trooper Wright, was released Friday to California authorities who said here that Martin is wanted as a material witness in one murder case and possibly in a second, in addition to the fraudulent check charge against him in California.

Others jailed within the week and charges lodged against them: Minnie Horn, robbery, arrested by Deputy Sheriff Lonnie Herald; Bill Davis, drunk driving, and John W. Sullivan, possessing moonshine whiskey, both arrested by Deputy Sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis; Ted Thompson, breaking and entering a shoe shop, jailed by Policeman Herschel Hitchcock, of Wheelwright; Dick Burchett, possessing moonshine whiskey, booked by Deputy Sheriff A. Spradlin and Lonnie Herald; Howard Perry, possessing moonshine, arrested by Chief of Police Epp Lafferty and Policeman Wesley Howard; Harold Jarvis, grand larceny, booked by Policeman Frank Crum, of Allen; Kirby B. Smith and Charles Thomas, arrested by Conservation Officer Don Meade on charges of fishing without license.

ALLEN-MARTIN CHURCHES PLAN EASTER SERVICE

Four churches of the Allen-Martin communities will participate in Easter sunrise services at the Almar Drive-In Theatre, near Allen, at 6 o'clock Sunday, it is announced. The message will be delivered by John Paul Billiter, pastor of the Martin Church of Christ.

Health Department To Close Four Days

The Floyd County Health Department will be closed from Monday through Friday of next week, it was announced by Montain Clark, health administrator. The office will reopen Saturday morning as usual, he said.

The entire personnel of the office here will be attending the annual Kentucky Public Health Association meeting at Louisville, Clarke said. This meet will be held Tuesday through Thursday.

Two Veteran United Fuel Employees Retire Following Decades Of Work

FED ALLEN

RILEY HALL

Two veteran employees of the United Fuel Gas Company will retire April 1, the company announced this week. They are Riley Hall, of Allen, and Fred Allen, of Hunter.

Hall, a well tender, has worked out of the company's southern production division headquarters at Prestonsburg. He was first employed by the company in 1927, when he became a line-walker. For 15 years he patrolled company lines to detect leaks. Still later, he was classified as a roostabout.

Before joining United Fuel, Allen was a tippie foreman for the Beaver Mining Company of Drift, Ky. His hobbies have been farming and the raising of thoroughbred hogs. He was a private first class, infantry, in the Army during World War I. He plans to retire to his 30-acre farm and do some light gardening.

Home Preserved By Harman Family Destroyed By Field Fire Tuesday

The old home of Rev. Aquilla and Cynthia Stratton Harman, of Mare Creek, was destroyed by a grass-field fire Tuesday, despite all efforts of neighbors to save the historic house. The home built in 1848, was still furnished as it was a half century ago and was preserved by the Harman family.

This was the second old home on Mare Creek to fall victim to fire in recent months. An old home, within sight of the Harman house, built by Thomas and Frances Stratton Crum, about 80 years ago burned in the winter. It was occupied by Deputy Sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis. Loss of the Crum house was attributed to view and points beyond kept it in worn slick condition and free of entangling bushes. It was all right for moccasins, boots, homemade shoes and walking shoes, but it would be sudden death for high-heeled shoes. Of course much of the travel over it was by bare feet.

At least a hundred school children have trod this path to school, and hundreds of other people have used it to attend church, speakings and elections at Sulphur Springs. I used it for school purposes for fifteen years. It was our principal path to the outside world. It had to the public road on Frying Pan and to two neighboring post-offices, and several mills where our corn, wheat, rye and buckwheat were ground for family use.

At first the path lay under the boughs of giant trees, but in 1928 these large trees were felled and taken out by lumbermen, so now there are only small trees and saplings, brush and briars, that choke the pathway. —See Story No. 5, Page 4—

Prestonsburg Minister Points To Coal Reserve Of Depressed Section

Floyd county and Eastern Kentucky make a mistake when they try to sell themselves as a depressed area, argued the Rev. Harold W. Dorsey, pastor of the First Methodist Church here, in a talk last Thursday evening before the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club.

"We should think beyond commodities," he maintained. Instead, he added, the area should be considered as a hope of flood control and by such protection the affording of industrial sites free of flood threat.

"Be proud that you are from Prestonsburg and Floyd county," he told the Kiwanians. The minister reminded his hearers that the potential here has barely been tapped, that only 3% of the available coal has been mined.

MOVE TO ASHLAND

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Saunders, who have been residing in Francis Court for the past year, moved last week to Ashland, where Mr. Saunders has been promoted to manager of the Peoples Finance Company. He was manager of the Peoples Finance Company here before going to the Ashland office. Jim Blackburn is associated in that capacity with the local office now.

"As to the reason for these charges and the persons responsible for them," Stephens continued, "I feel that these charges are not being made to hurt me personally but to bring bad publicity to Radio Station WPRET. I also feel that it is a sad thing that within the United States of America a person cannot carry on their own business without being subjected to personal threats and libelous charges."

Detective Sgt. Potter said that he and Sgt. Kiser were inside the radio station and that two other members of the State Police were outside when Meade appeared there Sunday morning. He said his first knowledge of Meade's presence came when gasoline was poured through a vent at a rear door onto his leg.

When first arrested, Meade denied any intention to burn the building, Potter said, and demanded that he be given a lie detector test. The test was arranged for that day, Sunday, in Frankfort, and the prisoner was taken there. At Frankfort, however, he said, Meade changed his mind and made a confession which was recorded by Sgt. Harry Robertson.

Sgt. Potter said he watched Meade hide the gasoline on the night of March 4. "I could have arrested him then, but waited to try to find what was back of it," Potter said. He added that he and others of the State Police have had the radio station under surveillance, spending several nights there, during recent weeks.

In his signed statement Meade admitted to the attempt to burn the radio station. He said that Dave Stephens promised him $500 to burn the station, payment to be made "any time in three or four days after the fire, whichever was convenient for him." The Prestonsburg man, he added under questioning, approached him about a month and a half ago. Meade said he asked why not dynamite the station and that Stephens said, "No, I want it burned."

Asked if he attempted to burn the radio installation the night of March 4, Meade said, "Not necessarily burn it, just looking it over, carrying the gasoline over." He had bought a gallon and a half of gasoline at the Standard Oil station, opposite the Strand Theatre here, he said, adding that his brother-in-law, Alton Stephens, was with him at the time. The statement said Alton Stephens drove Meade to a point near the Cliff bridge, and that Meade carried the gasoline in a gallon jug and a half-gallon fruit jar and hid it in a fence row. He had promised to pay Alton Stephens for taking him there, he said. His brother-in-law was to pick him up again, later in the night, according to the confession.

Meade's statement said he saw Dave Stephens last Friday and that Stephens told him, "The quicker you get it done, the quicker you get your money."

It was said that the auto, driven at high speed, had passed another car before reaching the curve near the foot of the mountain. It left the right side of the road and hurtled through the air to splinter a telephone pole 60 feet below and 210 feet south of the point where it left the highway.

The three girls died almost instantly. Young Dotson was dead on arrival at a Pikeville hospital. Surviving Miss Spears, in addition to her parents, are a sister, Norma Spears, and two brothers, Bobby and John Worth Spears, II. Her funeral was conducted Tuesday from the residence at Kimber, the Rev. Harold W. Dorsey, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Prestonsburg, officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery under direction of the J. W. Call & Son Funeral Home.

Pallbearers at her funeral were schoolmates at Johns Creek high school.

As I plodded up the path that Sunday morning, many memories of olden days came thronging to my mind. Most of them were happy and humorous. Every bend in the path brought new recollections. Rocks, trees and rills were precious to my sight. They were living realities to me—a shining part of my youth.

I believe some of these incidents will be of interest to others who may have had similar experiences in their youth—probably more exciting, but not less revealing of true life in the mountains.

Beginning at the school house and proceeding along the path up the hill, here are some of the interesting incidents which have occurred. Because of lack of space many other incidents are omitted from this article.

As we started up the hill when school was dismissed one afternoon, some other students who were sore at us, rained a volley of rocks at us. Brother Lee started after them, but the teacher came out of the house and stopped the impending battle.

On one of my vacation trips home from school in Chattanooga my brother Troy, age twelve, met me at the school house. I had come the fifteen miles from the railroad at Cleveland on a wagon, and was walking the last mile up the Old School Path to my father's home, Troy trotting ahead of me. About two hundred yards up, at my slow pace, I found him sitting on a log waiting for me. Thrice this happened, then in disgust he said: "Eli, have you forgotten how to climb a hill?"

A little further up we passed the spot where I sat on a pine log resting and waiting for my students to appear in their chase when I, in accordance with local custom, refused to "treat" them just before Christmas in 1903. They had chased me several miles through the wooded hills around the school house and I had given them the slip, using the time won in this maneuver to catch my breath. After the fun of the chase, I of course "treated," having already had the candy hidden from prying eyes as was also the custom.

As long as I can remember a great number of service ("sarvice") bushes grew along the school path. In 1928 Ritzer Lumber Company established a logging camp a short distance down stream. That fall I went up the path and to my horror found all the service bushes had been cut down. There had been a bountiful supply of services that year and I was informed that the loggers had cut the bushes in order to get the berries easily and quickly. They expected their camp to be moved to another location soon and were not interested in future berry pickers.

We are now getting to the third step in the path, "step" meaning a level spot in the crest of the rising ridge. Here two incidents happened. In the spring while the leaves were off and the sap began to rise, we could look from this point westward at night and see the glare of the fire in Tide Rasmick's sugar-orchard near the head of Breeding Branch. Each spring he boiled the sugar-sap in open vats on rock-and-clay furnaces in the orchard. I went there often to "sugar stir-offs."

Late one afternoon as I trotted along the level stretch a "possum waddled across the path in front of me. I dropped by books and sprang after it through the bushes and suddenly I found myself on the precipice of a twenty-foot cliff. Grabbing a sapling I swung around and avoided a fall over the cliff. Then I dashed around the edge of the cliff and found Mr. Possum waving his paws aimlessly in the air. The wind had been knocked out of him in his desperate leap for life.

Two hundred yards further up the path leaves the crest of the ridge and swings around the hillside below a large overhanging cliff. We have always called this the "Rock House." A half dozen riders and their mounts could comfortably shelter from a storm in its cavernous depths. I have sheltered there many times. In the path just below the Rock House one day I found four small rattlesnakes squirming in confusion. I killed them quickly and hastened up the path, expecting the parents of the "babies in the woods" to leap upon me at any moment from the shacking bushes along the way to avenge the slaughter of their young.

Now we pass the "Lower Bars" (no longer there), which marked the mid-point in the school path, and also the most western limits of the cleared fields around Fairview. I have hoed corn and otherwise labored many years in this old field—no longer a cleared field, for its cultivation has been long abandoned and it has grown up into a thicket of greenbriars and young trees, some of the trees now being two feet in diameter. Here we reach the crest of the first hill, and the path runs a hundred yards on the level. This spot can be seen clearly from Fairview in the winter-time. One morning we heard someone singing and whooping it up in that direction. Rushing to the door and looking toward the Lower Field we youngsters saw two rather large men galloping their mules along the level spot, one of them shouting to the top of his voice. The boisterous one was alternately waving his hat and slapping his mule with the hat to hasten its gait. As they came closer we recognized them as two well-known neighbors, Zach Sutherland and his cousin John Henry Sutherland. They soon informed Dad that one of John Hen's daughters was to be married and he wanted Dad to perform the ceremony tomorrow. With a happy smile he admitted that he was beginning the celebration a little early.

The path slopes around the hillside and reaches Grundy Branch at the Middle Bars. For many years this was the "milk-gap" where the cows, pastured in the Lower Field, came at milking-time for their special food and to suckle their calves. I had many a desperate tussle there while forcibly removing the reluctant calves from the side of their mothers and putting them "behind bars." We school children had to be careful in going through these bars, for to leave them down would mean no milk or butter on the table and for our school lunches. One Saturday as a lad I walked up this path, at the head of several riders, and my main job was to let down and put up the three sets of bars for the riders. Among these horse-back riders was Elder Meredith Martin, a jolly, friendly man. As we approached the Middle Bars, he said to me: "Sonny, will your mother have greens for dinner?" I looked at him questionably and replied: "No, we don't have any." When dinner was ready the preachers and other visitors filled up the seats around the long table, groaning under the weight of the best food the farm and store could provide. It was the invariable custom that children waited until all visitors had eaten. I stood in the kitchen door and listened to the tabletalk, hungrily watching the "first table" demolish and hide the most appetizing food on the table. As he sat down, Elder Martin viewed the various dishes and ejaculated in a happy manner: "Huh, Sister Sutherland, you do have greens—a monstrous big dish of the finest I ever saw!" looking around he shouted: "Where is that boy that said you didn't have greens?" I ducked out of sight in embarrassment. It turned out that what he called "greens" we had always called "sallet."

The head of Grundy Branch lay in a little flat basin, which had been cleared long before I can remember. The path led from the middle Bars up the opposite slope and along a ridge to the house. We went barefoot to school, and early frosts often caught us without shoes. Yet we went to school just the same, hustling to keep our feet warm. Mornings the frost lay longer in the little basin, before the sun reached it. The cattle lay at night along the crest of this ridge, and we often made them get up as we passed so we could stop a moment and warm our bare feet in their erstwhile beds before plunging into the frost.

Fifty years ago, and later, huge chestnut trees grew beside our school path along the little ridge. They bore fine chestnuts in profusion. One of our greatest childhood delights was to gather and eat these delicious nuts. When the first frost burst the chestnut burrs in October, we bounced out of our warm beds before daylight and rushed to the chestnut orchard to beat the hogs there. They knew where the best chestnuts were and made it miserable for late-rising and hungry children. Thus we had plenty of chestnuts to take to school or for roasting in the hot coals around the blazing hearth at night.

These and many, many more heart-warming experiences we had on The Old School Path.

The path is fast filling up with briars and bushes. The time may come when it will be used again, but other and better roads are being built. The beauty of the woods, hills and vales is being shattered before the remorseless and selfish rush of grasping industry. The feet of the future will not need this path to give joy, strength and happiness to the few school youths who may inhabit these lovely hills in days to come.

So—a long farewell to the old school path.

OLDTIMER RETURNS

This one has been the rounds but has been so long away from us that a new generation may have grown up and not heard it:

A man who sometimes took a short cut through a cemetery late at night to get from the bus line to his house fell into a freshly dug grave that had been prepared for a service the next day. The man jumped and clambered up the sides, but couldn't get out. Resignedly, he huddled in a corner and pulled his hat down and his coat collar up to fend-off the rain and the cold.

Soon he heard footsteps. He started to cry out, but stopped—realizing that a sudden cry would probably give the approaching person heart failure. There was a sudden pop as the approaching man toppled into the grave. Thinking he was alone, the new-comer tried to jump out of the grave. The first man in finally called out, "You can't jump out of here!" But he did!

Plain talk to the man who thinks "all cars are built alike today"

J. EMMET JUDGE

"The one thing we know car buyers want above all in an automobile is quality. Yet many people assume that all cars today are pretty much the same in this respect.

This is far from being the case. I can name at least 30 basic differences in the design of our '59 Mercury. Naturally, we feel these differences make Mercury a better car. For example:

EXTRA STRENGTH STARTS WITH THE FRAME The backbone of every Mercury is the frame. We use a heavy box-type construction—the heaviest in the industry. Competitors use frames that are up to 125 pounds lighter.

WE BUILD QUALITY YOU CAN SEE Compare the way Mercury builds engine hoods. Most competitive cars use what is known as a single-panel construction. This type of hood can be twisted and turned with the slightest pressure—often flutters and vibrates when the car is in motion. At Mercury, on the other hand, we use a double-panel construction—two layers of steel with the insulation sandwiched in between. Not only is Mercury's hood more rigid, but it looks better.

...AND EVERY TIME YOU TAKE THE WHEEL All 1959 Mercurys have a flexible coupling installed in the steering system.

This acts as an insulator—absorbs road shocks that would otherwise travel up to the steering wheel. Mercury, unlike some cars, gives you this with either manual or power steering.

WE HAVE PLENTY OF PROOF THAT THIS IS THE BEST-BUILT CAR IN AMERICA TODAY We know it is the greatest Mercury ever designed and built. Never in Mercury's 20-year history have we had so much value in the product itself. Mercury has advantages everywhere over competition. The four described on this page are only typical. In future messages I'll tell you about dozens more—in styling, comfort, in everything you want in a car."

Mrs. Arminta Laven, 89, died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Joan May, of Allen, Friday. She had been ill for an extended period. Mrs. Laven was a daughter of James and Elizabeth Stuchfield Banks. Her husband, George Laven, preceded her in death. Surviving, besides Mrs. May, is another daughter, Mrs. Sallie Bingham, of Stone, Pike county. Two brothers, Alex and Ed Banks, both of Waterman, survive, as do eight grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. Funeral services were conducted at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Allen Methodist church, the Revs. Roy Sanders, John P. Carr and Charles Lake officiating. Burial was made in the May cemetery at Allen under the direction of Moore Funeral Home.

Tuesday, Carson Hibbits accepted Chandler's offer to act as a mediator between the miners and operators. Hibbits assured the governor that there will be no further demonstrations of force. Chandler stated that the alert to the National Guard was not a threat but that it will stand. He was being advised on the situation in the coal fields by Commissioner of Safety Don Sturgill. Sturgill, in speaking of the incidents last week at the mines of Roland Price at Colson said, "It was touch and go. A lot of people could have been killed." His estimate of the situation was challenged by Deputy Sheriff Jim Short. "The pickets were a pretty decent bunch of guys," he said. "There wasn't any trouble. They just went down there and they shut down the tippie. There wasn't any violence." Price, who never has had a union contract, suspended operations for the day but said the mine would reopen Wednesday. He said 200 to 300 pickets broke away from the main group, crossed a cornfield, and advanced toward the tippie yelling: "We're going to get you." Price said the pickets finally halted after a conference with two union officials, Matt Combs and Joe Davis. Four men were injured last week when pickets stoned Price's men while they were working. Chandler ordered the National Guard to the coal fields on May 13, 1959, during a strike in Harlan and adjoining areas. They remained there most of the summer. Price's version of the incident was contained in a statement issued at Whitesburg. It said: "The Camp Fork Coal Company resumed normal operations this morning. Several hours later, 90 cars from the upper part of the county and 120 cars from Perry county converged on the tippie. There were about 1,200 men in the group. "Shortly afterwards, Don Sturgill, State public safety commissioner, arrived with Matt Combs and Joe Davis, officials of the U.M.W. "Sturgill said he had come with the officials to exhaust every means possible to avert bloodshed. "He also stated it was his duty and that of State police to protect us and our property as it was his duty to protect the union men if they were unlawfully attacked. "At this point, 200 to 300 pickets broke from the main highway, crossed a cornfield, and waded through a creek yelling, 'We're going to get you.' "They approached to within 10 yards of the tippie, on an embankment, and then crossed. "After 20 minutes of talk by Combs and Davis, the pickets returned to the highway. "Mr. Combs then asked us to discontinue work because the men are wild and I don't know what they're going to do." "I replied that we did not ask Mr. Combs to lead the men to the property." Price said he decided to discontinue operations "to avert any bloodshed." "To correct evils, great and small, which spring from want of sympathy, is one of the highest functions of civilization."—Abraham Lincoln.

4-H Club Council Aids Fund Drive For IFYE

The Floyd county 4-H Club Council is sponsoring a light bulb sale campaign to raise money to finance the International Farm Youth Exchange trip awarded to Miss Reba Joyce Salyers. The light bulbs will be sold by 4-H Club members, throughout the county. This sale will give each of 1,300 4-H members an opportunity to assist Miss Salyers' scheduled trip to Ireland. A package contains one 150 watt, one 100 watt and two 60 watt bulbs per bag and sells for $1. The Kentucky Power Company donated the 150 watt bulbs. Only through their support is this project possible. Many organizations and clubs are working to help make the trip possible. The Floyd County Farm Bureau donated $50; V. F. W., $20; Drift Woman's Club $10; Soil Conservation District, $10; Individuals contributing are James Hicks, $25; Dixie Higgins, former Home Agent of Floyd county, $56; Maytown school teachers $36.25; Dayton Howard, $1, and Lizzie Carr, $5. The Maytown 4-H members and the 4-H Council held a bake sale and passed a sheet at ball games and raised $87.31. The Maytown and Wayland-Lackey-Garrett Women Clubs are working on projects to help raise the $825, needed to finance the trip. "An International Farm Youth Exchange (IFYE) trip is the highest award a 4-H member can receive," the Extension Service says. Only a very small percent ever obtain such an honor. Miss Salyers will represent Floyd county on her visit to Ireland. This exchange of young people determines the opinion many people in foreign countries have of the Americans. Floyd county is sending one of its outstanding young citizens. The support of the people of Floyd county is needed. If you wish to make a contribution, send check payable to Reba Joyce Salyers' Fund, or Mrs. Fletcher Gayheart, secretary of 4-H Club Council, at Eastern."

Garrett Baldrige, 89, Victim At Paintsville; In Ill Health A Year

Garrett Baldrige, 83, of the Abbott Creek section, died at 3:30 a.m. Friday at the Paintsville hospital. He had been in ill health for a year. Mr. Baldrige, a native of Abbott Creek, was the son of Billy Baldrige and Peggy Patrick Baldrige. He was a farmer and member of the Freewill Baptist church. He is survived by his wife, Cora Anderson Baldrige, and the following sons and daughters: Ernest Baldrige, of Abbott Creek, Lee Baldrige, Findlay, O., Mrs. Myrtle Grazer, Westminster, O., Mrs. Grace Neeley, Carey, O., Mrs. Pearl Coburn, also of Findlay. One sister, Mrs. Mollie Stone, of Indianapolis, Ind., survives, as do 23 grandchildren and 25 great-grandchildren. Funeral rites were conducted Sunday, from the Bonanza Freewill Baptist Church, the Revs. Charlie Lemaster and Moses Kitchen officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery under the direction of Carter & Callihan Funeral Home. meeting, starting at 8:30 a.m., is designed as a final critical study of the work of the Floyd entrants. Elwood Smith, an assistant from the Pikeville College music department, will judge the Martin rehearsals. Seventy solos, both vocal and instrumental, and 33 ensembles will be criticized at Martin. Entering the pre-festival meet at Martin will be Wheelwright, Martin, Maytown, Wayland, Prestonsburg and McDowell high schools. Climax of the festival will be reached Saturday afternoon and evening when an all-festival band will hold a rehearsal at 1:30 at the college gymnasium, to be succeeded by an all-festival chorus rehearsal at 3:15. Closing the festival will be a band and chorus concert at 7 o'clock. All three events will be held at the gym. The regional festival is divided into 22 separate departments for presentation. First of these, the woodwind and brass solo section, to be held at the Academy building of the college, starts at 6:30 p.m., Wednesday. Judges are Dr. J. E. Duncan and Leslie Woolflin under the chairmanship of Elwood Smith. Thursday morning at Wickham Chapel piano solos and duets will be presented. Howard Karp will judge these presentations. This event is under the chairmanship of Smith and Mrs. Quentin Allen. At the same hour, in the college gym baton twirling solos and baton twirling ensembles will be offered under the chairmanship of Elliott, Dr. Duncan and Woolflin are scheduled as judges. Woodwind and brass solos will be held Thursday afternoon in the Academy building. Mrs. Carl Hatcher is chairman of this meet and Duncan and Woolflin are judges. The day's activity will close with an all-festival band rehearsal, 7 to 9 o'clock. The offerings of the festival will increase Friday, beginning at Wickham Chapel at 9 o'clock with girls trios. Other events of the day at the chapel are girl, mixed and male quartets and miscellaneous vocal ensembles. Mrs. Allen and Smith are chairmen of the chapel contests, with James Van Peursem as judge. An all-festival chorus rehearsal will be held Friday from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. at the chapel. Other events of Friday and Saturday, follow: Friday morning at the Academy building, woodwind and brass ensembles under the chairmanship of Elliott with Duncan and Woolflin as judges. A boys, girls and mixed choruses will be presented Friday afternoon at Wickham Chapel, with Annette Smith as chairman and Van Peursem as judge. Brass solos and woodwind ensembles are also scheduled for Friday afternoon at the Academy with Elliott as chairman and Duncan and Woolflin as judges. Saturday events begin with soprano solos at Wickham chapel at 9 a.m. Also slated for presentation at the chapel Saturday morning are mezzo soprano, contralto and baritone solos. Annette Smith serves as chairman and Van Peursem as judges. Nine high school bands will play Saturday afternoon at the Pikeville high school auditorium followed by instrumental students conducting.

FROM ONE WHO KNOWS BERT COMBS BEST
The statement by Harry Lee Waterfield to the effect that Bert Combs is least liked by the people who know him best causes me to make a statement of my own. I have known Bert Combs ever since he came to Floyd county, I have watched his personal conduct, his relationships with others and his unassuming gentlemanliness, and I want to say that he is a man who holds my utmost respect. I am a Republican, I have no prospect of any state job, do not want one, have not asked for one and will not make any such request. Moreover, this statement is unsolicited. I make it because I resent an unjustified personal attack on a man who is my friend and who, as far as I know, has little capacity to hate anybody.

James R. Worland, 72,
Dies At Hospital Here

James Robert Worland, 72 years old, well-known Prestonsburg man, died at 8:15 p.m. Sunday at the Prestonsburg General Hospital of a heart condition from which he had suffered for several months.

A native of Leets, Ind., Mr. Worland was a son of Francis E. and Elizabeth Jane Worland. He came to Kentucky in 1920 as superintendent of the Consolidation Coal Company at Van Lear. In 1927 he went to Belfry as superintendent of Fordson Coal Company mines, remaining in that capacity till 1938 when he came to Prestonsburg. Here, he operated the Prestonsburg Electric Company, later was with the York Furniture Company appliance department and more recently operated his own repair business and store.

He was a member of the Free-will Baptist Church here and of the Van Lear Masonic Lodge. Of his first marriage, to Pansy Rose Roberson, who died in 1945, three sons survive: Edward Worland, of Prestonsburg, Robert C. (Jack) Worland, Handley, W. Va., and Clifford K. (Barney) Worland, Augusta, Ga. His second wife, Mrs. Sylvia Hunt Varney Worland, survives as do his three step-daughters, Mrs. John Shopper, Wellington, Ill., Mrs. Jean Madden, Summerfield, N. J., and Mrs. Joyce Ratliff, Prestonsburg. He also leaves two brothers, J. A. Worland, Indianapolis, Ind., and Frank Worland, Bellvue, Ky.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon from the First Methodist Church here, the pastor, the Rev. Harold W. Dorsey, officiating. Burial was made in the Banner May cemetery, near Allen, under direction of the Carter and Callihan Funeral Home. Graveside rites were conducted by the Zebulon Masonic Lodge.

Pallbearers were members of Zebulon Lodge: W. W. Wallen, Richard Spurlock, Robert L. Burchett, Virgil Gidiffith, William Arrowood, W. A. Rose, W. E. Hunt and Don Sullivan.

The bill, which now goes to the House, would set up a multimillion-dollar fund for loans for re-development projects and public facilities in industrial and rural areas.

The measure would provide, too, $75,000,000 for grants for public facilities in areas that could not handle loans; $10,000,000 for subsistence to unemployed workers while they train for new jobs, and $4,500,000 for drawing up plans.

An area-redevelopment administration would carry out the program.

Whisman emphasized that he and the planning commission favor final passage of the re-development bill.

But, he said, only such towns as Paintsville, London, Morehead, Middlesboro, Pineville, and Ashland could qualify for small loans and grants since they now have industrial sites and rail service.

Towns like Harlan, Hazard, and Pikeville, would be left out, Whisman said, because they are "less likely to be able to compete with other parts of the country even though they can qualify for such aid."

Whisman did not name Prestonsburg either as potentially eligible or ineligible for assistance under the Senate bill.

Whisman said Eastern Kentucky would benefit mostly from the $100,000,000 for projects in rural areas.

"This is aimed at our kind of area since we have not only unemployment but also underemployment," he explained.

Whisman said the $75,000,000 for outright grants would put the Eastern Kentucky communities into a position to match other federal aid for such public facilities as water and sewage plants.

Whisman said he expected Kentucky would share equally in the funds calling for technical assistance and subsistence for vocational training.

The planning commission chairman, B. F. Reed, expressed gratification at passage of the bill, but said he was concerned at the small majority.

"We hope the bill will become law in this session of Congress because we feel its the first step in creating an agency that can treat our needs," Reed said.

Telephone Talk

by
H. D. HAYES
Your Telephone Manager

"PISTOLS" FOR GOOD HOUSEKEEPING. There's a newly-developed cleaning "pistol" which comes in mighty handy in keeping your telephone service dependable. Developed by Bell Labs, it prevents harmful dust and film from accumulating on dial equipment. The trigger on the handle shoots out a stream of cleaning fluid. On the end of the pistol are special velvet scrubbing pads that get dial switches clean as a whistle. We clean the equipment in other ways, too. Even with vacuum cleaners! Good housekeeping on our part means good, dependable service for you!

MY WIFE TELLS ME spring cleaning is near at hand. And she suggests that, when it comes to the final touch, there's nothing smarter than colorful extension phones where you need them. You can choose from many lovely shades. Select them to blend with the color scheme of den, bedroom, patio and kitchen! The cost? Only a few cents a day, and I'll bet you'll find extension phones more than pay for themselves in comfort and convenience. Better make yours the "well-telephoned home." Just give us a ring, and we'll put them in!

AND WHILE YOU'RE AT IT, why not let Long Distance help you "clean up" some of that correspondence that's been stacking up all year. Instead of worrying with those long overdue letters to relatives, friends, even business associates, just pick up your phone. Long Distance gets the job done in a hurry! Costs so little, too, for the pleasure and results it brings. It's always cheaper to call Station-to-Station—and you get a special bargain after 6 P.M. and all day on Sunday. So "clean up" that memo pad right away—by Long Distance!

Tidbits Of Kentucky Folklore

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.
Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

"PAYING THE DOCTOR"

My father, the country doctor, could say that some of those same quilts are still around. They were a part of our rearing of our two children and getting them started out into life, the same strange old cycle that makes a genuine home. But quilts, like strength and patience and other valuable things, wear out, leaving only a memory.

On a slightly higher level of paying debts, one man paid a big bill by delivering to Father a huge wild cherry chest of drawers, a piece of furniture that looked tacky to me as a child, today worth a good big part of its weight in gold or any other money. On the mantel of my study sits the old Seth Thomas clock that Father acquired in this same way when he was a very young doctor, away back in the 1870's; the clock has long been silent, for even Seth Thomas did not make works that never wore out. After all, the clock, already upwards of thirty years old when it became a part of the Wilson household, is now long past a century old. Even Holmes' "one-hoss shay" lasted only a hundred years. But the wood of the old clock, protected for more than half of its life by innumerable layers of paint and varnish, waited its day of triumph, when a skilled neighbor removed the paint and showed me what a priceless jewel that old timepiece was and is, whether it can keep time or not.

Besides these two pieces of furniture, there were other things, somewhat the worse for wear or even broken down, that came to us on Father's bills: a complete set of blacksmith tools, a one-rocker rocking chair, a bushel splint basket, besides such stuff as smoked sausage, middling, bushels of potatoes, sacks of cabbage. Barter was the basis of much of the country doctor's life: he had the pills, the others had the ills; and our house was a sort of museum of what the others did not need or want.

Former Halo Resident Dies of Heart Attack

Kermit Rolan Ramey, 46, of Eaton Rapids, Mich., but formerly of Halo, this county, died at 9 a.m., March 14 at Mason, Mich., of a heart attack. A native of Pike county, he had lived at Eaton Rapids seven years.

Mr. Ramey was a son of the late Smith and Belle McCoy Ramey and the husband of Maggie Copeland Ramey who survives. He was a farmer and former miner.

Surviving sons and a step-daughter are Milton, Kermit, Jr., Chester and Paul Ramey, all of Eaton Rapids, and Mrs. Cora Branham, of Halo. Six grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m. Wednesday from the home of Mrs. Branham, the Revs. Tom Stone, George Cook and Oliver Meade officiating. Burial was made in the Seland Cook cemetery on Frozen Creek under the direction of Call Funeral Home of Wheelwright.

Howard, Floyd Native Victim At 86 in Pike

INEZ 'DRIFTER' CHANGES MIND ABOUT KILLING THE PRESIDENT

A 39-year-old former Martin county man accused of "repeated threats" to kill President Eisenhower has apparently changed his mind.

"Just say I hope his health and golf game improve," Sam Stepp said this week at Jefferson county jail, Louisville.

Stepp, serving out two $10 fines imposed in police court a week ago, was the subject of a Secret Service report to a House appropriations subcommittee at Washington Monday.

Secret Service men told the committee they had been worrying three years about a "hard-drinking drifter who has made repeated threats" to shoot the President.

Stepp wasn't mentioned by name. His case was related to the subcommittee in describing how Secret Service agents protect the President and the Vice-President. Stepp, who gives his address as "the four winds" and Inez, Ky., was arrested at 2 a.m., March 11 in a Louisville restaurant. He had refused to leave the restaurant at closing time, police said, and was charged with loitering and public drunkenness. Later that morning he was fined $10 on each of the two charges.

In 1956 Stepp was given a six-month sentence at Denver for saving in a hotel bar that he had "a .30.30 rifle bullet" for the President.

Stepp has also been arrested in Baltimore and Cleveland, according to the Secret Service.

Stepp said this week he knew the President as a lieutenant colonel at Fort Lewis, Wash., about 17 or 18 years ago, "but I doubt if he remembers me."

He refused to give a reason for his threats.

"I think I've made my point now. You can say I'm going back to Inez and let him (the President) alone," Stepp said.

He denied he was an alcoholic, as reported at Washington, but admitted he was somewhat of a traveler. He said he does odd jobs while roaming the country.

The secret Service report said the man first came to the service's attention in 1953, when he called at the Treasury and complained he had been given a dishonorable military discharge.

The report was given by U. E. Baughman, Secret Service chief, who said his new budget included funds for 16 additional agents to guard President Eisenhower and Vice-President Nixon.

JAMES SHANNON LAYNE, EARLY BIG SANDY SETTLER

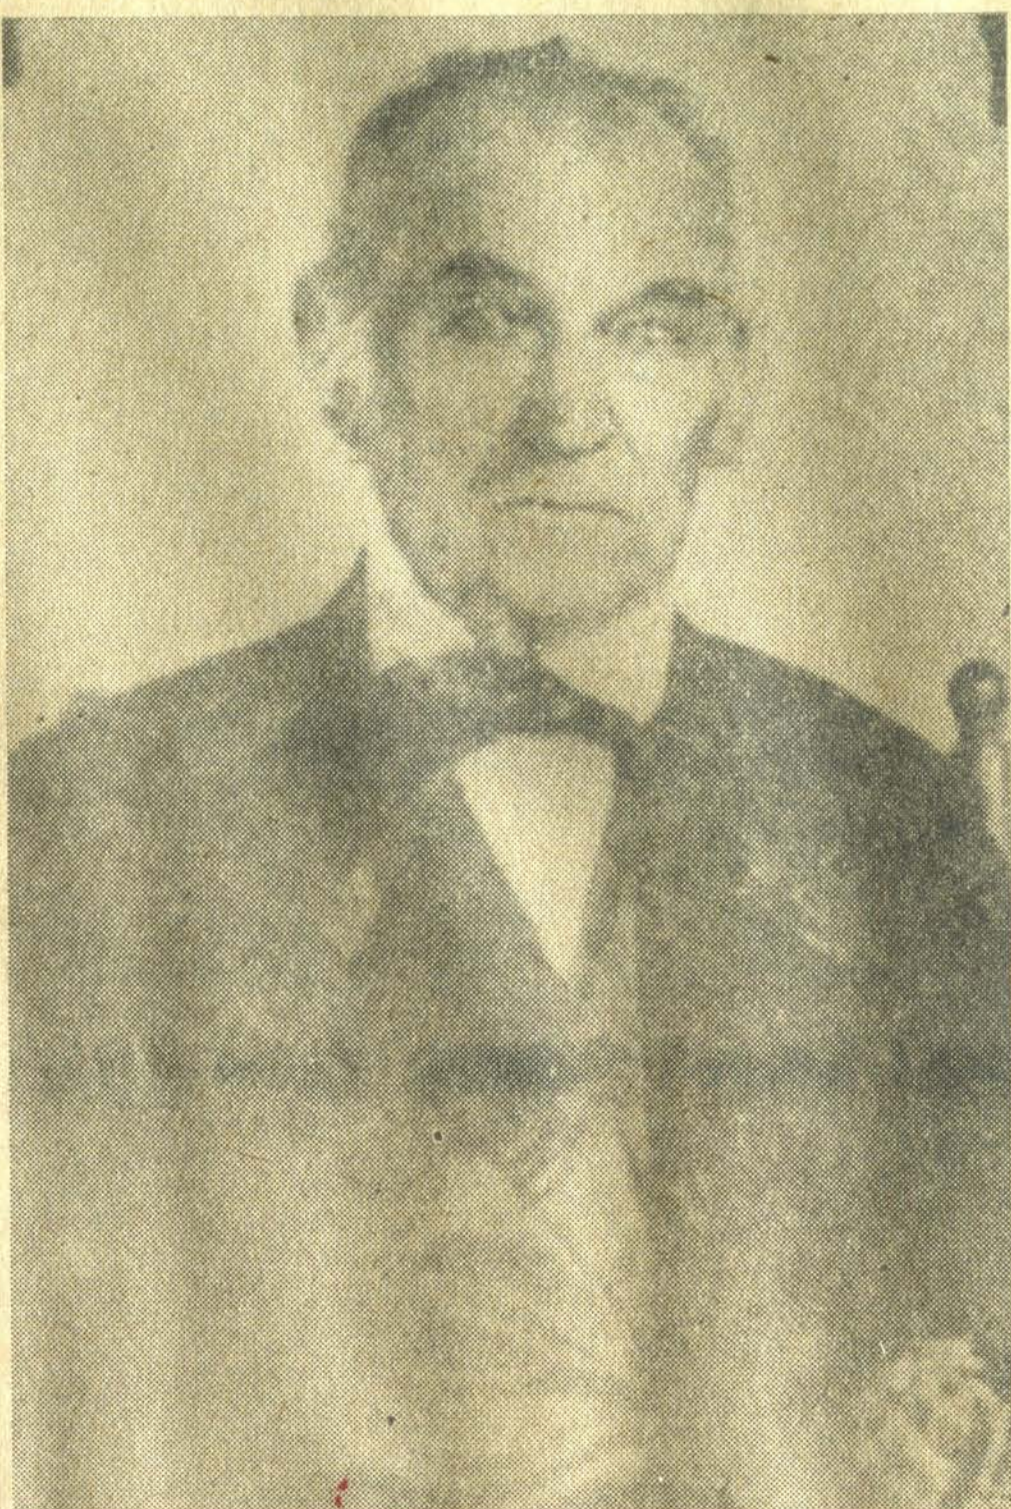

James Shannon Layne, of Amherst county, Virginia, founded the Layne settlement in Southern Floyd county. A son of the Revolutionary War soldier, William Laine (Layne), he was born 1781 and married Katy Hager, daughter of the Hessian soldier, John Hager. The Hessians deserted his British masters and served with the colonial troops in the cause of freedom and afterward settled in the Big Sandy Valley.

Layne's home at the present Betsy Layne, then Laynesville, was one of the finest in a vast section and was the center of social life for miles around. He conducted one of the valley's largest stores, established the postoffice of Laynesville and operated one of the first flour mills near the present Betsy Layne highway bridge.

Layne was a prominent Unionist in the Civil War and a son, Judge Lindsay Layne, served as quartermaster in the 39th Kentucky Mounted Infantry Regiment. The town of Betsy Layne was named for his daughter-in-law, Elizabeth Johns Layne, wife of Tandy Middleton Layne, who lived at the present Justell postoffice.

James S. Layne, died in 1871 and is buried in the old family cemetery near the town he founded.

At his death he was possessed of a large estate in land, one of the largest in the valley.

A HALF TRUTH...

IS THE WORST SORT OF LIE...

ONLY THE WHOLE TRUTH IS HONEST!

The Combs-Wyatt Campaign Committee, in the last week's issue of the Times, accuse the Waterfield supporters of falsehood in regard to the Bobby J. Meade letter published in this newspaper on March 12, 1959.

I now have the original letter in my possession. It is dated February 5, 1959, from Bypro, Kentucky; it is written and signed by Bobby J. Meade in his own handwriting. I also have a registered letter from Mrs. Frank Meade from Bypro, Ky., and dated March 18, 1959, which threatens to bring suit against anyone who republishes her son's letter in the newspaper or on handbills. I will be glad to show these letters to any person who doubts the truth of the above statements.

State Representative Ann B. Hall brought Mrs. Meade and Bobby J. Meade to me on the street in Prestonsburg on Saturday, March 14, 1959, and requested me to not make handbills of Bobby's letter because it might "hurt" the boy about getting a job in Washington, and "might" knock him out of an appointment to West Point. Out of respect for Mrs. Meade's wishes, I assured them that I would do nothing to further publicize the boy's letter. At that time I asked Ann B. Hall if she was pressuring these people by holding over their heads the promise of a job in Washington and an appointment to West Point in order to get them on the Combs side. Ann B. Hall denied that this was the case. I told them I was suspicious of the Hall woman's motives. Now I am convinced that the Combs crowd, using Ann B. Hall as their tool, have deceived these people with promises they do not intend to fulfill. I hope I am wrong, and if and when the boy does get the job and the appointment to West Point, I will be glad to publicly admit I was wrong.

I trust that this statement will set straight for once and for all the WHOLE truth about the Bobby J. Meade Letter.

Delegates From Floyd Among Those Attending W.O.W. State Meeting

Delegates from this county to the Kentucky Head Camp convention of Woodmen of the World, Sunday and Monday, at the Sheraton-Seelbach hotel in Louisville were James E. Allen, of Langley, Olin Elliott, of Allen, and Roy B. Gearheart, of Hueysville. It was announced this week by W. M. Martin, secretary of the Martin Woodmen camp.

More than 140 delegates and officers representing some 16,000 Kentucky members of the fraternal organization attended.

Speakers included Howard M. Lundgren, national president; Max B. Hurt, executive vice-president for field and membership, all of Omaha, Neb.

A feature of the convention was the presentation of a cash contribution by the Head Camp to the Kentuckiana chapter, Kentucky Hemophilic Foundation. It was the first contribution to the chapter, which just has been organized. The presentation was made by Hurt Tuesday morning.

Another "first" for this convention are women delegates representing Women of Woodcraft, organized by the Society since the last biennial convention. The program included a luncheon and other special events for the women delegates. The luncheon, Monday, honored Miss Lucy Foraker, Omaha, one of the Society's fraternal organizers. The local Woodmen Court No. 753 was represented by Mrs. Violet Allen, of Langley.

Mayor Bruce Hobbittzell and Judge Charles A. Walter, past consul commander, Camp 14, Louisville, on behalf of local Woodmen, welcomed the delegates at the opening session Monday morning. Responses were by the Hon. Pat McCuiston, Trenton, and the Hon. Thomas Hines, Bowling Green.

The convention banquet that evening was highlighted by President Lundgren's address. Following the banquet, the Protection Degree was exemplified by the State Champion Madisonville degree team and officers.

Other convention highlights included election and installation of new Head Camp officers, with President Lundgren the installing officers, Tuesday morning; election of delegates to the national convention in Minneapolis, July 20-23; the report of President Lundgren on the Society's activities and progress in the past biennium; and reports by delegates on the many fraternal and civic services performed by the Woodmen camps and courts in Kentucky the past two years.

J. B. Blalock, of Louisville, east Kentucky state manager, and Buford Hurt, of Murray, west Kentucky state manager, assisted in the coordination of convention arrangements.

Surviving daughters are Mrs. Ellen Hays and Mrs. Jack Cooley, both of Allen, and Mrs. Exie Martin of Mousie.

Funeral rites were conducted at 2 p.m. Saturday from the Allen Baptist church, the Revs. Rush Stone and Eugene Reece officiating. Burial was made in the Mayo cemetery at Martin under the direction of Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

Fishbein in Talk Here Says Nations Not To War Over Dispute in Berlin

Harold J. Fishbein, lecturer and former UNRRA representative from the United States in charge of displaced persons in Germany, made the prediction before the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club recently that Russia and the Western world will not go to war over Germany.

First of all, he pointed out, the gain for either side would not be worth it. And, in a final decision, he added, England will drop out of contention rather than invite the danger of hydrogen bomb attack on its island homeland.

Khrushchev is by turns threatening, then cajoling, creating confusion—all in an effort to gain prestige at a Summit conference when it is held, he said.

Mr. Fishbein's talk, which held the complete attention of club members, also included a discussion of the trouble encountered in Germany with Occupation currency after close of the war.

The speaker is a brother of Dr. Morris Fishbein, former editor of the American Medical Association Journal.

Forced Treatment Of Alcoholics Proves Of Value

By J. Collis Ringo, Executive Director Kentucky Commission on Alcoholism

For a long time it was generally believed that to force alcoholics into therapy against their wills produced only vigorous rebellion. Some change in this view is becoming apparent in various quarters.

Texas has four alcoholic treatment wards operated by the Texas Department of Mental Health in cooperation with the Commission on Alcoholism. These wards, segregated units in state hospitals, accept alcoholics for treatment on both voluntary and involuntary commitments. After two years of operation, an evaluation of results disclosed that a large percentage of involuntary patients had been benefited by treatment. The percentage difference of recoveries between voluntary and involuntary patients was negligible.

Indiana has one alcoholic treatment ward operated by the department of mental health where, under the law, all patients must be voluntarily committed. In actual practice, a large number of patients have been given the choice by court officials of a jail sentence or hospital commitment. Naturally they chose the latter.

All the four alcoholic wards in Texas and the one in Indiana employ a recovered alcoholic as counselor. Repeated checks show that patients who embraced Alcoholics Anonymous membership make up the majority of recoveries effected. The results in these states offer evidence that A. A. can be used in a psychiatric setting to advantage.

Dr. H. L. McPheeters, commissioner of mental health for Kentucky, an outstanding authority in this field, authorized the establishment of a pilot operation at Western State Hospital at Hopkinsville. Through his leadership, the 1958 session of the Kentucky Legislature passed a new commitment law, committing alcoholics either by voluntary or involuntary means. Without the appropriation of any additional funds and using the skills already available in the hospital, the ward was opened. Early checks on discharged patients show favorable results. The hospital authorities permit Alcoholics Anonymous groups in the area to hold weekly meetings in the ward and allow patients to attend A. A. meetings in downtown Hopkinsville. Modern medical treatment combined with advanced therapeutic practices are available at Western State Hospital.

This is a pilot operation. It has had a capacity patient load since opening and now has a waiting list. It is hoped the success of this operation will create support for appropriation large enough to expand and refine this program.

NOTICE

The Floyd County Board of Education will receive bids from prospective purchasers of the Simpson Branch school building separately, and also on the Simpson Branch school grounds separately, at its April 7, 1959 meeting. Each bid should be placed in an envelope marked, "Simpson Branch School," and presented to the office of the Superintendent, on or before 1 p.m., April 7. The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

CLUB HELPS RED CROSS DRIVE
Mrs. George Evans, Mrs. J. T. Spillman, Mrs. Gordon Collins and Mrs. Richard Vinson were co-hostesses, serving a luncheon at the club house to the members of the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club, Monday.

Mrs. L. B. Preece, president presided at the business session. The Red Cross drive was discussed, and the club voted $10.00 to start the drive for Lackey-Garrett-Wayland. Mrs. George Evans and Mrs. Crit Wells volunteered to solicit funds from the communities. The club voted $5.00 for the Reba Joyce Salyers fund; $2.00 for the Greek project, and $2.00 for the crippled children fund.

Mrs. N. D. Howard was appointed chairman of the flower show which will be sponsored by the club, May 10, at Wayland under the supervision of Mrs. R. H. Messer.

The clean-up campaign for the three communities was discussed, and the members voted to have the State Highway Department contacted and to ask it for "No Dumping" signs to be placed on Ky. 7 below Estill as one of the first steps to start the project. Barrels are also to be painted to be used for trash cans and placed at various places.

The nominating committee, Messdames Harry Sherman, George Evans, M. M. Collins, presented the following officers for 1959-'60: Mrs. L. B. Price, president; Mrs. J. T. Spillman, vice-president; Mrs. Charles Hornsby, recording secretary; Mrs. S. M. Martin, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Glen Pack, treasurer; Mrs. Crit Wells, building fund treasurer.

Plans were completed for the club members to serve dinner, Thursday, March 26, for the Scottish Rites and guests, at the club house.

Members attending the club meeting were Messdames Earl Castle, J. E. Miller, L. B. Price, S. M. Martin, M. M. Collins, Harry Sherman, W. T. Hatcher, Fred Hall, N. D. Howard, Charles Collins, Debert Sloane, John Reed, F. E. Totter, George Evans, J. T. Spillman, Richard Vinson, Gordon Collins, Crit Wells, Glen Pack, and guest Mrs. Estil Hyden, of Prestonsburg.

The next meeting will be a sewing meeting, April 1, -0 a.m.

Lackey-Garrett-Wayland

CHERRY SURPRISE CAKE

Here is a cake recipe that rates with everyone:
2 cups sifted enriched self rising flour,
1 1/2 cups sugar,
1/2 cup shortening
3/4 to 1 cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla
3 egg whites and
1 cup drained, sour, pitted cherries.

Preheat oven to 350 degree F. Sift together flour and sugar, add shortening and milk, beat two minutes at medium speed on electric mixer or 300 strokes by hand, add vanilla extract and egg whites, beat two minutes or 300 strokes longer, fold in cherries, and bake in two greased floured 8 inch pans for 30 to 35 minutes.

FROSTING

1 1/2 cups sugar,
6 tablespoons cherry juice,
1 tablespoon corn syrup,
2 egg whites,
1 tsp. vanilla, and
Few drops red food coloring.
Combine all ingredients except vanilla extract and red food coloring in top of double boiler.
Mix well. Place over boiling water. Beat constantly with rotary beater until mixture holds its shape. Remove from heat, add vanilla and red food coloring. Beat until cool. Frost top and sides of cake.

WILLIAMSON SERVES

FUERTO RICO — Franklin D. Williamson, yeoman third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Williamson, of Drift, Ky., serving with amphibious squadron 10, departed Norfolk, Va., March 3 to participate in "Brigadelex 2-59" which is the second in a series of amphibious exercises and assault landings at Vieques Island, Puerto Rico.

A three-day visit will be made to Guantanamo Bay, for routine supply during March 15-17. This will be followed by an amphibious assault on Onslow Beach at camp Lejeune, N. C., on March 21, bringing to a close this second phase of the exercise. The ships will then return to Norfolk.

Dotted lines show conventional wheel positions. Pontiac's wheels are five inches farther apart. This widens the stance, not the car. Pontiac hugs tighter on curves and corners. Sway and lean are considerably reduced, ride is smoother, balanced, steadier.

Slide in behind the controls of this gorgeous automobile, pull away and feel what happens—or doesn't happen—at the first curve or corner. Less lean. Less sway. Wide-Track Wheel design is the reason. No other car, only Pontiac, has it. The wheels are five inches farther apart. This widens the stance but not the car. You're steadier, balanced, more secure. Narrow track cars can't match it. This is a big year for Pontiac—with many more to come. It can be your big year, too. Get a bright new Wide-Track Pontiac from a dealer and take it out for a drive today.

Howard Keith Barts, Former Band Director Here, Heart Victim

Howard Keith Barts, 36, band director at Prestonsburg high school from 1952 through 1955, and later band director at Pikeville high school for two years, died of a heart attack last Sunday, at his home in Rochester, Indiana. At the time of his death, he was manager of a Rochester wholesale grocery which is owned by his father.

Mr. Barts is survived by his parents, several brothers and sisters, an infant son, Charles Keith, and his wife, Vada, who, prior to her marriage to Mr. Barts about 15 years ago, was Miss Vada Reffitt. Mrs. Barts was born and reared near Goodloe, this county, and for several years prior to her marriage to Mr. Barts was a teacher at Maytown and in various other schools of this county. She was a teacher in Prestonsburg grade school when Mr. Barts was band director here.

About 1850, Henry Clay, riding from his home near Lexington to speak to the mountain people, halted at Cumberland Gap. Someone asked him why he lingered. "I am listening," he said, "to the tread of the coming millions to Kentucky."

Lincoln Saved From Drowning By Boy Friend

Two boys, Austin Gollagher and Abraham Lincoln, were playmates in Hardin (now LaRue) county, Kentucky.

One became immortal as President of the United States, leader of his nation during the War Between the States and the Great Emancipator. The other remained in Kentucky and brought hushed silence upon many an audience as he told how he had saved President Lincoln from drowning when Gollagher was nine years old and Lincoln younger.

The incident took place in 1815, the year before the Lincolns moved from Kentucky to Indiana. The family lived on the Knob Creek farm. The Gollaghers lived up the creek a short distance. The boys' mothers had warned them not to get their clothes dirty or to cross the creek.

But the youngsters had never seen things look so beautiful on the other side. They reached a spot where a footlog lay across a deep hole in the creek.

Young Lincoln feared he couldn't walk the log, but Gollagher insisted it was easy. A moment later he was sorry, for he saw Lincoln on the log swaying back and forth. Abe finally slipped off the log and disappeared in the whirling green water.

Gollagher, bearing a long pole, ran into the water up to his shoulders. As Abe bobbed to the surface, he was able to grasp the pole and Gollagher pulled him to the bank. Abe was limber and his eyes half closed. Gollagher thought he was dead and flung him around by the heels until young Lincoln was spitting water.

Years later, two LaRue county men were in Washington and called upon President Lincoln.

"How is my old friend, Austin Gollagher?" Lincoln asked them. "Tell him that I would like to send money to pay his fare here to visit me."

But Gollagher turned down the offer, because he was "scared to ride on one of them trains."

DOWER IN TRAINING

Puerto Rico — Marine Pfc. William L. Dower, son of Mrs. M. Nood, of Wheelwright, Ky., is undergoing infantry training on Vieques Island, Puerto Rico, with the First Battalion of the Sixth Regiment, a unit of the Second Marine Division from Camp Lejeune, N. C. The 2,000 Marines left Morehead City, N. C., March 4, aboard Navy ships and made their initial landing on March 9.

Upon completion of the Caribbean island maneuvers, the Marines boarded the ships, which stopped at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, March 15-17, for a supply pickup.

Climaxing the exercise, named "Brizadelex 2-59", will be an amphibious assault landing on Onslow Beach, N. C., on March 21. The Marines will then return to Camp Lejeune.

GANDERTOWN

A section of Bloomfield was once known as Gandertown, because in early days the young men there indulged in gander pulling. A post set in the ground had a revolving crossbar from which a gander with soaped neck was suspended by the feet. Young horsemen rode at full speed past the post and attempted to seize the gander's neck as they went by. The prize was awarded to the contestant who succeeded in jerking off the head.

HARRY LEE WATERFIELD'S PLEDGE TO THE LABORING MEN OF KENTUCKY

During the past few days there have been many malicious rumors circulated among the working men in Kentucky designed to confuse the fact that I am now, and that I have always been, a staunch friend to labor.

The biggest current rumor is that I am a supporter of Right-to-Work legislation. THIS IS A LIE. Anyone who knows much about Kentucky legislation knows that I used my influence as Lieutenant Governor and President of the Kentucky Senate during the 1958 session of the General Assembly to defeat Right-To-Work legislation.

For almost 20 years I have voted for that legislation which would be helpful to the working man in Kentucky. I have been vigorous during all those years in my opposition to anti-labor legislation. No man in Kentucky has a stronger pro-labor record than I, and no man has fought harder to safeguard labor's real interests.

My full record on ALL labor legislation during my service in the legislature from 1938 to the present confirm this statement. I urge all persons who have any questions at all concerning my stand on labor to carefully study my record.

Meanwhile, I wish to answer the malicious rumors being circulated by repeating that I am NOT a supporter of Right-To-Work legislation. I do NOT now and I have NEVER recommended a referendum on Right-To-Work. If a Right-To-Work bill is authorized during my term as Governor, I will use my full influence as Chief Executive to bring about defeat of that legislation.

"I am the only candidate who backs his pledge with a record of performance for labor."

Capitol Notebook

Kentucky Civil Defense reports that radiation detection instrument kits have been distributed to 103 high schools in the state, with schools and colleges receiving 154 additional kits. Thus, says CD, will the entire state—through high schools and colleges—have excellent capability of detecting radioactive fallout should a nuclear attack occur.

Preparedness is the theme of CD. As the slogan on its literature proclaims, "It wasn't raining when Noah built the ark."

FRANKLY SPEAKING
Bill Frank, columnist for the Wilmington, Del., Morning News, had this to say recently.

Last night, W. L. Knight, deputy commissioner, Department of Public Relations for the state of Kentucky, spoke at the travel forum sponsored by the News-Journal papers.

He told us all about the beauties and grandeur of Kentucky. I was reminded of something that happened 175 years ago!

A Wilmington school teacher, John Filson, got tired of heckling kids into submission. He packed up and took off for the wilderness—Kentucky country.

He met Dan'l Boone and the other pioneers. School teacher Filson wrote a history of the country, told of its beauties and charm, and also gave a biography of Dan'l Boone.

Filson came back to Wilmington with his manuscript. It was published . . . The book was the first travel guide for Kentucky. Today the book is worth at least $3,000-$4,000 if it has the original map of Kentucky!

Quite appropriate for the present day Kentucky man to come to Wilmington, the place where the first glowing blurb about the Bluegrass State was published.

TRAFFIC SAFETY
One indication of the effectiveness of Kentucky's intensified traffic safety program is the downward trend in the state's automobile death rate per 100 million vehicle miles. The rate was 8.9 in 1955, dropped to 7.7 in 1957 and to 6.9 for the first six months of 1958.

"Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith, let us, to the end, dare to do our duty as we understand it."—Abraham Lincoln.

These youngsters are learning to climb stairs and are helped by trained physical therapists. Physical therapy helps rebuild crippled bodies and forms an important part of the statewide program being carried on by the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children.

Purple Martin, A Popular Bird

By RUFUS M. REED

Purple martins are perhaps the most popular of all the birds with our farmers and a majority of them erect poles with a box to house them. Quite a few farmers build fancy and elaborate boxes with compartments for housing a whole colony of martins. Many point their boxes in attractive colors, like blue, pink or green, all of which are appropriate. However, martins are not overly particular as to the appearance of their future home and will build just as readily in a gourd hung on a pole, or in a wooden tub with a roof and doors.

The Indians loved the martins and always kept gourd houses for them to rear their families. Most every negro cabin down south has a gourd hung on a pole out front for the martins to build.

Martins are highly valuable birds. They drive away crows and hawks that come to raid the poultry yard. They are also useful around the garden and their food mainly consists of beetles, bugs, wasps, boll-weevils, nut weevils, moths and grasshoppers. They take most of their foods on the wing and are swift and expert fliers.

Just why the books call them "purple martins" is hard to say. There is no purple color about a martin. The male is a glossy metallic blue; his wings and tail are sooty black, his eyes brown. The female is a dull metallic blue; with a grayish breast and belly, streaked faintly with black. Some people call these birds, "house martins," since they are always found about farm houses. They belong to the Swallow Family. Their tails are forked, like the tail of the barn swallow.

Martins are also very intelligent birds. They have come to depend entirely upon their human friends for their homes. In ancient times, they built their nests in hollow trees. But now they almost entirely depend upon boxes made by their human friends. Now and then a colony of martins will be found occupying a tower or a belfry. Last summer, I saw hundreds of them making their home in the tower of the courthouse at Booneville, county seat of Owsley county.

Martins are not only useful but interesting to study. They will be coming back to our region any time between March 25th and April 5, and then is the time to get your box ready. Martins spend their winters in Brazil, Venezuela and other South American countries.

Your martin box should be fixed firmly on a pole about twenty feet long, and placed in an open area, as they do not like a box too close to trees or buildings. If your cats are fond of birds, it's a wise thing to place a guard on the pole to prevent the cat from climbing it to catch the birds. Cats are hungry for the delicacy of bird meat in the spring and will often sneak up the pole to catch the mother martin while she is incubating the eggs. She lays from four to six pure white eggs.

Blacksnakes are also mortal enemies of martins and will climb the pole to swallow the young alive! One should keep a sharp watch for snakes when the young martins hatch out, for snakes also are on the watch from some hidden retreat and they know precisely when to make the raid to get the young, which they swallow greedily and digest at leisure.

Martins build their nests of sticks, woody stems of weeds, feathers, grass and mud. Sometimes starlings will drive them away and take possession of their box.

Martins keep plenty of good cheer about the yard with their chatter and constant "talking." They sometimes "preach" and emphasize a point by popping their bills. If you can get a family of martins about the yard, you will have valuable friends that are most interesting to watch and they will afford you much amusement during the long summer days.

When the martins begin to return in late March or early April, I always think of a story one of my neighbor ladies told me. She loved martins and always kept a box for them. Her old tawny tomcat loved them too—as a delicacy! One morning he sneaked out around daylight and caught one of the grown martins out of the box. The lady heard its cries and dashed out. The cat leaped down from the pole and she tried to make him drop it. But he was ravenous for meat. He hit a bee line for the nearby woods, with the screaming martin in his mouth. The lady said its scream of terrors were so much like those of a frightened human, they haunted her for days afterward, and when she'd lie down at night, she could hear the martin's screams ringing in her ears!

TOURISM HEAD URGES ACTION

Tourist Attractions Promoted On Highways Leading To New Park

The Commission on Tourist Promotion was still seeking this week to induce this county to take action on tourist promotion. A letter from Ed Easterly, Frankfort, to The Times, noted that he and George Ganter, executive director of the tourist promotion group, believed the communities on U. S. 23, 119 and 25 leading to Cumberland Gap National Park have an unusual opportunity.

The Cumberland Gap park will be formally dedicated July 4 and President Eisenhower has been invited to speak at the ceremonies. The tourist commission is promoting a series of attractions at several Eastern Kentucky towns to precede the main event at Cumberland Gap.

The Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club recently pledged its efforts to assist in any attraction the town wanted to promote. Easterly, who is editor of the Commonwealth Magazine, thinks that historical pageants are highly attractive to tourists. Several in this area have suggested a pageant depicting the Jenny Wiley Indian captivity.

"We are concentrating our efforts on helping all of these communities obtain the maximum revenue from travelers enroute to the dedication," Easterly wrote.

"We hope that every community will pick out one or more tourist attraction, then advertise and promote them to the best of their ability so that tourists traveling through the community will be induced to stop for a few hours or perhaps overnight.

"The first requisite, of course, is for the community to take the initiative and come forward with projects which will be attractive to travelers. Mr. Ganter and I then will step in to do this:

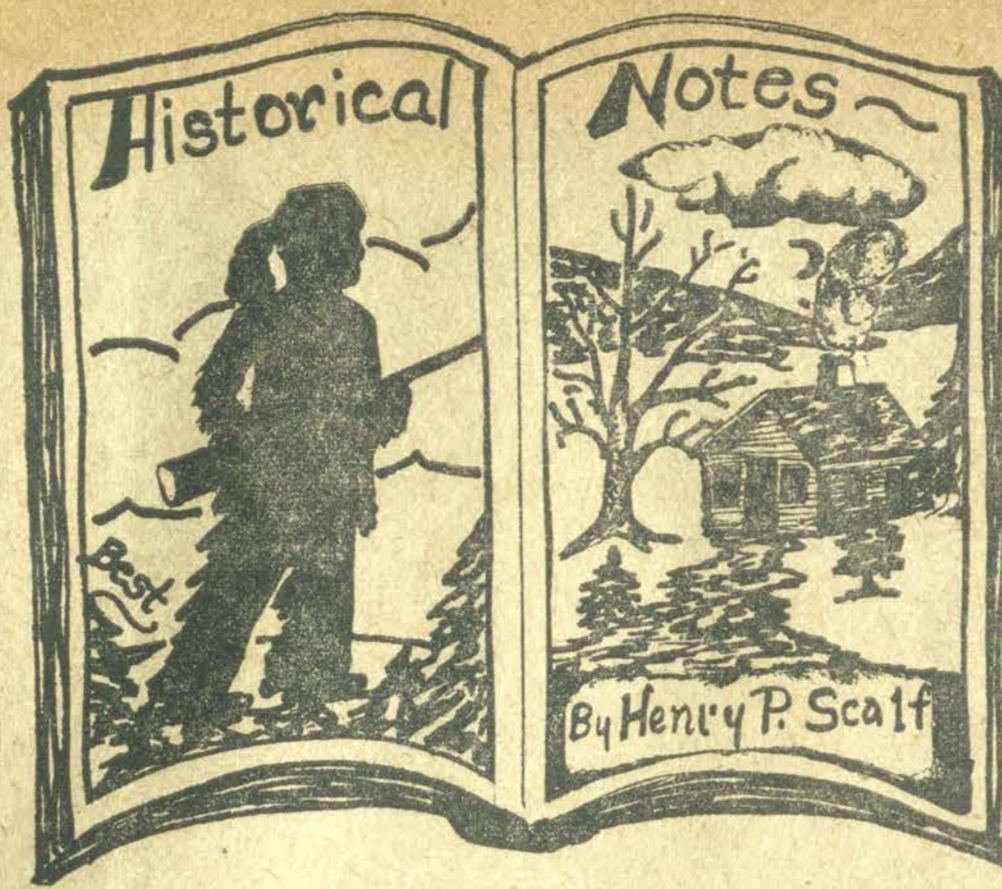

"1. Help the community decide on an attraction or attractions which are most likely to attract the tourist's interest and to cause him to stop, and

"2. Advertise the community and its attractions in our publicity and advertising.

"This publicity and advertising will be on a nation-wide basis but will be directed to the particular attention of vacationers and other tourists in states immediately north of us, such as Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin.

"You can readily see how any community stands to benefit, in the week preceding the dedication, if it would go just so far as to advertise even a local park where travelers could stop and enjoy a picnic lunch.

"We believe, therefore, that Prestonsburg and Floyd County stand to benefit from anything which you and your newspaper could do to encourage your citizens to come up as quickly as possible with a project which would fit into our tourist promotion program.

Letters of Pvt. William Jones

THE DRAFT AND BUTTERNUTS

Since mails were being facilitated much better in the Kentucky area for war and Rebels were far away, William Jones wrote often to his wife, Mary, at Dale, Campbell county, Kentucky.

Most of the letters now were of a personal nature but all were revealing of his desire to see the war ended. In a letter, May 11, 1864, he jibed at an Aunt Mary, probably his wife's aunt:

"Aunt Mary wants the Rebels whipped so as to bring down the price of calico but I have other reasons. I would not care if calico was a dollar a yard if this war was over."

Four days later, May 15, he was so elated with news of Grant's success that he hurried to write his wife although he was certain she had read the news.

"It is now Sunday, one o'clock. I had just washed myself and put on clean clothes, a white shirt, and was about to set down to write you when we were called to headquarters to hear the telegraph report read announcing our success, both in Virginia and Georgia.

"Sherman has compelled Johnson to evacuate Dalton and some of our army is in his rear. Thomas took 5,000 prisoners, so I think Johnston is in a bad row of stumps." He detailed other news, most of it garbled soldiers' talk and stated that the regiment was beginning to get horses. He was anxious to learn how the draft was taking men back home.

Since neither Jones nor his wife were ever sure that either were receiving all the letters written to each other they worked out a number system. At the top of each letter was placed a numeral and if the sequence was broken it meant a letter had gone astray. The letter of May 19, 1864 from Nicholasville, was No. 5. He noted that "I received your letter No. 3 on Tuesday."

He was writing on the day of the Campbell county draft and was anxious to know if it caught Al, a relative, probably his wife's brother.

He reproved Mary for working for Al in the bean field, saying "I think I can keep you without you slaving yourself. When my wages for soldiering won't do it I will resign and start something else."

Letter No. 6 from Nicholasville, May 22, was on an optimistic note about the successes of Grant in Virginia and Sherman's drive through Georgia. He noted the result of the Campbell county draft in the papers and saw his own name. Al was not drafted but two of the name of Phillips were.

Letter No. 7, Nicholasville, May 29, 1864, reveals a bit of the strain both were under by his continued absence. Too, Mary was from an excellent family of some wealth and education and some of them, Caroline, whoever she was, was inclined to make remarks about a soldier's wife. Mrs. Jones replied to the relative Caroline in no uncertain words and sent her husband a copy.

"Caroline has high notions and I love to cut her feathers," Jones wrote Mary, "for oddfish aristocracy I do despise."

Mary had probably written him the most discouraged letter while he was in the army for he tried by a long missive to cheer her up. He had faith in the ultimate outcome of the struggle whether she did or not. A great rebellion could not easily be put down when the enemy were men with courage.

"I do not see any signs of our leaving here. We have nothing but our horses and sabers. I suppose you have seen that there is talk of Morgan making a raid in this state. I have no faith in the report nor

SPRAYS FOR HOME ORCHARDS

The dormant spray for peaches and apples should be applied as soon as possible since these sprays need to be applied before the spring growth starts.

For peaches the bordeaux mixture is effective in controlling the leaf curl and red mite eggs, but where the scale is also a problem it is recommended that a 3% oil emulsion be combined with the bordeaux mixture or ferbam to control both scale and leaf curl.

The apple trees should be sprayed with a dormant spray of 3% oil emulsion in the dormant or delayed dormant stage. A dinitro material added to dormant oil spray will also control rosy aphid eggs. (Use all dinitro combinations before growth starts.)

After buying your spray chemicals be sure to read the label directions carefully before applying the sprays. The label tells what precautions to take to protect yourself and it tells not only when to spray, but also when not to spray.

LONESOME TRAIL TO THE JERRY FONCE PINES

The well-graded, well-drained and well-graveled road built by the state to the tree farm of Jerry Fonce Howell on Copperas Creek of Johns Creek serves nobody but the owner himself. The state furnished Howell, assistant state organizational chairman for Harry Lee Waterfield, approximately 25,000 chiefly pines. He was reimbursed for the trees and labor. Then the state built a road to the isolated tree farm at a cost of $18,000 to the taxpayers.

Floyd county taxpayers are interested in good roads for residents along muddy trails. The county needs roads to extend the service of school buses for their children. It DOES NOT need roads built at tremendous expense to benefit nobody but a big Waterfield politician. We need no more roads to lonesome pines.

Bert Combs and Wilson Wyatt will restore honesty and integrity to the government of Kentucky.

When you buy from your hometown merchants you get:

- HONEST VALUES
- AMPLE SELECTION
- INSTANT DELIVERY, SERVICE AND ADJUSTMENT
- MORE PERSONAL AND FRIENDLIER TREATMENT
- SAVING OF TIME
- RELIEF FROM COSTLY TRAVEL
- FREEDOM FROM ROAD HAZARDS
- ELIMINATION OF COSTLY PARKING PROBLEMS
- AVOIDANCE OF JOSTLING CROWDS
- THE CHANCE TO BUILD A BETTER COMMUNITY BY PUTTING YOUR DOLLARS TO WORK HERE

We don't believe you gain anything at all by driving long distances to shop at BIG CITY stores. Our local sources have merchandise that's just as good and costs no more.

But merely for the sake of argument, suppose you do save a few dollars on a time-consuming trip many miles from home. And suppose you don't even count the cost of gasoline and oil, car wear, parking fees, etc. Forget, too, if you like, the hazards of driving in today's heavy highway and city traffic.

But don't overlook these things; What you buy here can be in your home in a few minutes—no waiting several days for delivery. And if the merchandise doesn't give full satisfaction, any needed service or adjustment of the purchase can be made without shipping the items back to the BIG CITY or being forced to make a second trip yourself.

Why drive scores of miles looking for trouble? Shop right around the corner and be safe and satisfied.

CLUB ORGANIZED

The Harold Homemakers Club was organized Feb. 6 at the Harold lunch room with the Home Demonstration Agent Miss Frances Howland, assisting. Officers elected were president, Mrs. Norman Sturgill; vice-president, Mrs. Ted Stumbo; secretary, Mrs. Fred Hale; treasurer, Mrs. Milford Tackett. Twelve members were present. March 17 at 10 a. m., the first business meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Grace Sturgill with the President, Mrs. Norman Sturgill presiding. The meeting was opened with scripture reading and prayer. The lesson was, "Home Accessories," given by Mrs. Edgar Howell. Miss Howland explained to the group the purpose of the Homemakers Club. A lunch of salad, cake, sandwiches and coffee was served by Mrs. Grace Sturgill. The next meeting will be held April 21, at 10 a. m., at the Harold lunch room. Each member will bring a covered dish of her own choosing. The meeting closed with members repeating together the Lord's Prayer. Old members other than the officers present were: Mrs. Will Cecil, Mrs. Verniece Hall, Mrs. Bert Cecil, Mrs. John Stumbo, Mrs. A. K. Robinette, Mrs. Bill Stumbo, Mrs. Edgar Howell, and Mrs. Grace Sturgill. New members are: Mrs. Dave Hatcher, Mrs. Willie Steele, Mrs. C. L. Mrs. Hall Elected Auxiliary President

The Johnson-Magoffin-Floyd County Medical Auxiliary held a luncheon meeting at the Paintsville Country Club, Thursday of last week. All the officers of last year were re-elected. These are Mrs. R. A. Hall, president, Mrs. Lloyd Hall, treasurer, and Mrs. A. B. Carter, secretary. Mrs. George Archer was named to represent the Auxiliary at the American Medical Association convention at New York, in June.

Present at the meet were Messdames W. M. Keith, P. B. Hall, Lloyd Hall, R. A. Hall and A. B. Carter.

ALL MEN EQUAL

"I believe the declaration that 'all men are created equal' is the great fundamental principle upon which our free institutions rest."—Abraham Lincoln.

Miss Gorman, Mr Martin Wed

The marriage of Miss Margaret Elizabeth Gorman, daughter of Mrs. Perry Francis Gorman and the late Mr. Gorman, of Hazard, to Shirley Roger Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Martin, Sr., of Wayland, was solemnized at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Feb. 28 at the First Christian Church, Hazard, Ky.

Officiating at the ceremony were the Rev. Winn T. Barr and the Rev. E. Tipton Carroll.

The vows were exchanged before a background of emerald foliage interspersed with lighted white tapers and crystal snadragons in wrought iron stands.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. W. J. Copeland, organist and Mrs. Duard Hancock, vocalist who sang "At Dawning," "I Love Thee," "Calm as the Night" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Dewey Daniel, wore a gown of white peau-de-faille designed with a sculptured bodice, corded oval neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. A self bow and pearl embroidered Alencon lace embellished the bodice and waistline. The open pleated skirt swept into a chapel train. Her lace bonnet was crested with pearlized orange blossoms and held a double-tiered veil of illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white camellias and stephanotis tied with white satin streamers.

Maid of honor was Miss Susan Daniel, of Lexington, cousin of the bride. She wore a ballerina-length dress of emerald green chiffon fashioned with a shirred bodice and off-shoulder neckline. The bodice was inset with bands of velvet which terminated in a bow extending to the hemline of the full skirt. Her headpiece was of matching velvet and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink camellias and pink hyacinth loops.

Mrs. William Dewey Gorman, sister-in-law of the bride was matron of honor and was dressed like that of the maid of honor and carried identical flowers.

The flower girl, Mary Suzanne Gorman, niece of the bride, wore a ballerina length dress of pink lace fashioned with a fitted bodice and full ruffled skirt. She carried a white lace basket filled with rose petals.

Blaine C. Martin, Beattyville, served his brother as best man. Groomsman included Joe Pat Gorman, Lexington, twin brother of the bride, Eugene Martin, Lyndon, Ohio, George Martin Hamilton, Ohio, and Walter Martin, Jr., South Salem, Ohio, all brothers of the groom.

The mother of the bride chose for her daughter's wedding a street-length dress of rose lace with matching accessories and wore a white camellia corsage.

The groom's mother wore a street-length dress of moss green lace with matching accessories and her corsage was a white camellia.

The reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Daniel was held at La Citadelle immediately following the ceremony.

FOR STATE EMPLOYEES

- What has happened to Happy (not so Happy now) and Harry Lee's big "slush" fund?
- Do the state employees who contribute 2% (and more) of their state pay checks know where the money is going?
- Have you seen any of this money coming back into the precincts to be used in the campaign?
- Is the money really going to be used in the campaign or are some of the boys going to retire at the expense of the little fellow who, in some cases, must deprive his family of necessities, in order to pay the 2%?
- Is it true that the money was taken to Cuba for "safekeeping" and if so, safekeeping for whom? Combs and Waterfield aren't on the ballot in Cuba.
- When will the boys be around for another assessment?
- How much more can you afford to give?
- If you do give, will you know where the money is going?
- Is it true that the higher-ups feel that Waterfield is already beaten and that they want to be "well heeled" when they go out?
- Are Clive Akers, Alex Davidson, Fred Dickerson and Bill Cooley still coming across with their 2%, or have they seen the handwriting on the wall?

EACH ONE OF THESE QUESTIONS IS WORTH $100,000. HOW MUCH LONGER ARE YOU STATE EMPLOYEES GOING TO WORK TO MAKE A FEW INDIVIDUALS INDEPENDENTLY RICH?

E.K.M.C. MEET THURSDAY

The ten-team, four-sport Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference will hold its regular spring meeting in Pikeville at 1 p.m., Thursday afternoon.

Officers for the coming year will be elected, the 1959 basketball champion will be awarded on the basis of play within the league and an all-conference basketball team will be selected.

Next season, the loop will return to a three-day basketball tournament to pick a cage champ. Also on Thursday's agenda is the scheduling of the annual track meet and baseball tournament.

IT'S BASEBALL TIME

The Mountain Valley Baseball League will have its reorganizational meeting Sunday, March 29, at 1:30 p.m., in the Prestonsburg high school gymnasium. The meeting will be conducted to make plans for the coming season.

Don Sullivan, secretary of the loop, said that many Eastern Kentucky communities have indicated an interest in joining the league, but desire to play only on Sunday.

Last season, the league had six teams and played an 38-game schedule.

At Sunday's meeting, new officers for the league will be elected, umpires assigned, schedules made and the 1959 rules discussed.

P'BURG RATES HIGH

The football officials' ratings on sportsmanship of Prestonsburg high during the 1958 high school football season showed that the school was far better than average.

The coach was given 30 excellent and 5 good ratings; other school officials, 32 excellent, 3 good; the crowd, 25 excellent, 9 good, and 1 fair; the team, 24 excellent, 10 good and 1 fair.

Wheelwright high school, under the same ratings, was tabbed as follows: Coach, 20 excellent, 5 good; other school officials, 23 excellent, 2 good; crowd, 20 excellent, 4 good, 1 fair; team, 18 excellent, 4 good, and 3 fair.

TWO WOULD SUCCEED WILLIAMSON

Thus far, two candidates have announced for the position of Kentucky High School Athletic Association Board of Control member from the 15th and 16th regions.

Oran Teater, superintendent of Paintsville city schools, and president of the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference, and Oscar Bush, Betsy Layne high school teacher, are seeking the position now held by Russell Williamson, Inez high school principal. Williamson, who is now president of the Board and serving his second term, cannot succeed himself.

FLOYD TO BE REPRESENTED IN ANNUAL SPEECH FESTIVAL

Pikeville, Ky., March 24—Two high-school debate teams, one public-speaking contestant and other students to represent Eastern Kentucky in the State Speech Festival next month will be chosen this week-end at Pikeville College.

The annual Pikeville Regional Speech Festival, opening this evening (Thursday) with elimination debates, will continue through noon Saturday, Dr. A. A. Page, college president and festival manager, said. Some 300 students, representing 19 high schools in six Eastern Kentucky counties, will take part in the meet's dozen events.

Nearly 50 are members of the 11 debate teams entered, two of which will be qualified for state action after all have taken part in several elimination rounds. The champion of the 19 public-speaking entrants also will become eligible for the state festival April 13-15 at Lexington, as will all other entrants who are rated superior, and possibly a few ranked excellent, by the meet's judges.

The board of five judges for the Pikeville talkfest will be chosen by the University of Kentucky from its staff of judges, Dr. Page said. They will criticize performances in oratory discussion, expository-prose reading, dramatic reading, monologues, poetry reading, extemporaneous speaking, and radio speaking, as well as prose and poetry reading for junior-high-school students.

Representing Floyd, Harlan, Johnson, Knott, Perry, and Pike counties, the entrants are from Belfry, Benham, Dorton, Elkhorn City, Feds Creek, Hazard, Hellier, Hindman, Johns Creek, Lynch Main Street, Mullins, M. C. Napier, Paintsville, Phelps, Pikeville, Prestonsburg, Virgie, Wheelwright, and Whitesburg high schools.

Sessions on Thursday and Friday evenings will be held in Pikeville's administration building. Remainder of the festival will take place at the Pikeville College Training School on College Street, Pikeville.

Marshall College Prexy Beaver Valley Speaker At Anniversary Fete

The Beaver Valley Kiwanis Club at its ninth anniversary meeting Monday evening had as principal speaker Dr. Stewart H. Smith, president of the Marshall College, Huntington, West Virginia.

Dr. Smith used as his topic, "What Makes Kiwanis Click?" Pointing out that it is well to remind ourselves of the real objectives of the organization, he said that the world is much better because of service clubs. He said that Kiwanis makes a better community, a better state and a better country.

He expressed the feeling that the greatness of this country is due to the many volunteer services that our people render each other, particularly the services that expect no award or reward and going beyond what is expected, such as going the second mile when only the first is required.

The club had as guests the wives of many of the members, several members of the Kiwanis Clubs of Martin, Prestonsburg and Pikeville. The wives of the Martin members also accompanied them.

The Beaver Valley Kiwanis Club will have its regular 6:30 p.m. meeting next Monday at the new Drift Cafeteria, Drift, Ky.

Five Pikeville College Players Are On K.I.A.C. All-Star Teams

Pikeville, Ky., Mar. 24—Five stalwarts of the Pikeville College Bears are members of the first and second ten-man squads of all-Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Association players.

The first team and a ten-man list of alternates were chosen by K.I.A.C. representatives at their annual spring business meeting last week in Lexington. In the election of officers, Ralph T. Kilgore, Pikeville's business manager, was named secretary-treasurer of the conference for a one-year term.

Donnis Butcher, freshman guard-forward from Williamsport, and Pikeville's leading scorer last season with 21.5 average, is one of the two Bears placed on the first team. The other is Garrett Mullins, of Pikeville, 6-6 senior forward who completed his eligibility as the Bears' season closed. Mullins, averaging 16.2 points per game for second spot among Pikeville's scorers, also was the team's leading rebounder, grabbing 507 rebounds during the season for an average of 14.5 per game.

Named to the all-K.I.A.C. honorable mention list were three sophomores, each of whom averaged from 12 to 15 points per game. They are pivot-man Vern Woods, Dayton, Ohio; forward Paul Setser, Auxier, and guard George Carroll, of Ashland.

Others on the all-K.I.A.C. team are Conky Withrow, Georgetown; Bill Kazee, Centre; Jennis Stidham, Transylvania; Rudy Montgomery, Bellarmine; James Dixon and Everett Varney, Berea; Bob Velten, Villa Madonna and Don Turner, Union. Also receiving honorable mention were Charles Grote and Jack Williams, Georgetown; Art Lanham, Bellarmine; and Dennis Creech, Transylvania.

State VFW Slates Three-Day Meeting At Hazard, April 3-5

Annual spring conference of the Department of Kentucky, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be held April 3, 4 and 5 at Hazard. Host for the Conference is the Oliver Hazard Perry Post No. 7387, Hazard.

Representing the national organization at the conference will be the V. F. W. national senior vice commander-in-chief, Louis G. Feldmann, Hazleton, Pa.
