ROAD MISHAP KILLS SLONE

Veteran Found Dead Under Toppled Auto On Middle-Cr. Highway

Denver Slone, 29, Prestonsburg taxicab driver, was found dead on Middle Creek at 5:30 Monday morning, the victim of a highway tragedy which apparently had occurred several hours earlier.

His auto had left the curve, a short distance below the intersection of Ky. 114 with the David Road, and had toppled onto him. He was crushed internally. Slone apparently was driving up Middle Creek when the wreck occurred, and it is not known if there was any other person in the car.

A son of Allen Slone and the late Lizzie Hall Slone, the victim was an Army veteran of four years, was a member of the AMVETS at Martin and of Floyd Post, American Legion, here. He had lived in Prestonsburg and Lancer the past 10 years.

Surviving are his father, his step-mother, Mrs. Cora Ratliff Slone, and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. George Ford, James Edward, Joy Lee, Anna Rose, Gertie, Billie Jo and Forester Slone, all of Lancer, and Mrs. Verlie George, Forest, Ohio.

His funeral was conducted Wednesday afternoon from the home at Lancer of his father by the Rev. McKinley Moore, and burial was made in the Hall cemetery at McDowell under direction of the Carter & Callahan Funeral Home.

FLOOD CONTROL HOPES RISE AFTER HEARING

TALKS BASED ON SURVIVAL OF EAST KY.

Members of Committees, Others Are Sympathetic To Reservoir Projects

Eastern Kentucky's delegation attending last week's Congressional hearings on additional funds for Big Sandy flood control returned with hopes higher than at any time since the fight for upstream reservoirs was begun. This feeling of optimism resulted from (1) the preliminary work done by Senator John Sherman Cooper and Congressman William H. Natcher and Carl D. Perkins before the Kentuckians and Virginians interested in the projects ever arrived in Washington; and (2) the sympathetic attitude of members of both the House and Senate subcommittees.

Attending the hearings were the Rev. Harold W. Dorsey, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Prestonsburg, County Judge Henry Stumbo, County Attorney Robert S. Wellman, Mayor Bill Napier of Prestonsburg, and H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., of Prestonsburg. These were joined by a Virginia delegation headed by State Delegate Orbie Cantrell; George L. Ramey, head of the Mayo State Vocational School, Paintsville; J. S. Mosgrove, Pikeville, and a Louisiana delegation which was in Washington primarily to urge funds for repair of a lock and dam on the Big Sandy there.

Prior to the hearings, at a meeting arranged by Senators Cooper and Morton, those scheduled to testify for the Fishtrap and Pound reservoirs were briefed Monday night on the information to be supplied and the pleas to be made. "Survival" was adopted as the theme to be developed, and at Senator Cooper's suggestion those appearing before the subcommittee of the two houses prepared to present the argument that these flood control projects constitute a matter of life and death to the valley.

There they also heard from Senator Cooper a statement made by Senator A. W. Robertson (Va.), of the Senate Appropriations Committee, to the effect that if any appropriation comes out of committee it must include Pound and Fishtrap.

In the meeting Tuesday morning at Congressman Perkins' office with Congressman Natcher, Perkins and Pat Jennings (Va.) it was agreed to ask for a total of $994,000 to complete planning, $500,000 to start construction; and for Pound $2,500,000.

The Budget Bureau had earlier recommended $200,000 for Fishtrap reservoir planning, and the U. S. Corps of Army Engineers had said $300,000 could be used. The Corps of Engineers was contacted about raising the total planning funds to $494,000.

Appearing Tuesday afternoon before the House Appropriations subcommittee were Senator Cooper, Mr. See Story No. 6, Page 8

Elder Clabe Mosley, 102, Claimed; Simple Funeral, Homemade Coffin Requested By Revered Minister

Elder Clabe Mosley, 102-year-old Topmost minister, succumbed at the home there of a daughter, Mrs. Milly Hall, Friday at 1:10 a.m. A victim of the infirmities of age, he was ill but a short time.

Revered for his piety and a career of 72 years in the ministry, he requested that he be buried in a home-made casket he had constructed several years ago and that the offices of an undertaker be dispensed with. A sorrowing crowd of several hundred persons attended the funeral Saturday at the Dry Creek Regular Baptist church.

A member of the Regular Baptist church for 80 years, he served as pastor of the Caney church on Right Beaver Creek until his death. He spent his last years in meditation in a little building adjacent to his daughter's home. He preached hundreds of funerals and officiated at innumerable weddings for which he never made a charge.

His wife, Polly Terry Mosley, preceded him in death several years ago. Of their ten children, five, besides Mrs. Hall, survive:

Twelve Booked At Jail On 'Moonshine' Charges; 90 m.p.h. Speeder Nabbed

Eleven adults and a juvenile have been booked at the county jail since last Wednesday on charges of possessing moonshine whiskey. Deputy Sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis figured in all the arrests, with Deputy Sheriffs Paul Lucas and Harold Johnson assisting.

Booked on this charge were Ronnie Neeley, William Warrick, Frank Ratliff, Dayton Hall, Palmer Hall, Arthur Hall, Phillip Martin, Don Foster, Rex Cooley, Dick Martin and Harold Martin.

Dayton Hall also was accused of blocking the travel portion of a highway. Ralph Little was jailed last Wednesday by Deputies Lewis and Lucas, charged with speeding at 90 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone. Oscar Ratliff was jailed Monday on a child desertion charge.

JURY RETURNS 1 LIQUOR BILL

Situation Improved, Jury's Report Says; Trash Dumping Is Hit

Only one liquor law violation was called to the attention of the Floyd circuit court grand jury during its six days of work, and because of that the jury in its final report last Thursday to Circuit Judge Edward P. Hill expressed the belief that the liquor situation in the county is improved.

(Last week-end a dozen persons were jailed here on charges of drunkenness and possession of moonshine whiskey.)

The report, signed by Bert Colvin, foreman, also discussed physical condition of the county's public buildings, roadside garbage dumping, the need for detailed instructions to grand juries before they begin work and post-election grand jury probes of the handling of absentee ballots.

The report said the county jail building is in "very bad condition," adding that it could be improved "by the use of mops and water." The courthouse also is in bad condition and needs a clean-up, the jurors reported. The laundry room in the jail was considered a fire hazard, and the men's shower room needs repairs. Gas connections there are dangerous, the report said.

Although not recommending specific action, the jury commented that the public should take greater pride in highways and their premises than to dump trash on roads and adjacent property.

"We believe," the report continued, "that more specific instructions should be given the grand jury in references to its duties." It suggested, in view of the number of subpoenas procured for witnesses for little or no reason other than spite, that subpoenas should be issued only on request of officials or of members of the grand jury.

FLOYD GIRL NAMED IFYE

Berea College Senior To Visit Ireland; Trip Will Foster Friendship

Reba Joyce Salyers, of Eastern, and a senior at Berea College, will go to Ireland in June under the auspices of the International Farm Youth Exchange program.

Floyd county youth and leaders were liberal in assisting Miss Salyers to make the trip. They raised $825 by selling light bulbs, holding bake sales and talent shows to match an equal sum contributed by the National Committee on Boys and Girls. The girl's personal expenses of several hundred dollars will be borne by her close relatives.

Miss Salyers, who leaves Kentucky the first of June, is majoring in home economics. A 4-H Club member for nine years, she completed 36 projects, including clothing, food preparation, housekeeping, farm labor and junior leadership. She attended the 1953 National 4-H Congress as part of the special achievement program.

As a "grass-roots ambassador," she is the 39th Kentuckian since 1949 to visit another country as a member of the IFYE program. She will live with farm families in the host counties, taking part in their daily life, to foster friendship and understanding.

"When she returns home in November, she will be telling people here in the state about her experiences and the Irish way of life. Following the national plan, two exchanges from other countries will live with farm families in Kentucky this summer and fall," Robert Jones, Floyd County agent, says.

The IFYE program is a people-to-people exchange sponsored by the National 4-H Foundation and the Cooperative Extension Service. It is financed by voluntary contributions. Since the exchange began in 1948, more than 1,000 U.S. delegates have gone to some 60 countries, where almost 1,200 exchanges from other lands have visited the United States.

Clean-Up Day Slated In Prestonsburg, May 25, Mayor Napier Announces

The two-week period beginning next Monday and ending May 25 has been designated as Clean-Up in Prestonsburg.

The community clean-up operation was declared in a proclamation issued by Mayor Bill Napier, who said he has enlisted the aid of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club for the project, and he asked citizens to make it the most effective clean-up drive ever held here.

Noting that "a casual observation... indicates an ever-present need for a 'facelifting,'" the Mayor said city officials should assist property-owners in doing this badly needed work. The street and sanitation departments, he said, will assist by having a truck pick up debris at the curb in front of residences in Prestonsburg, Wednesday and Friday of each week from May 11 through May 25.

Crowned Festival Queen

Miss Teddy Allen, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Claude L. Allen and a senior at Maytown high school, won the title of Floyd County Music Festival Queen here Saturday. She won in competition with four other school queens: Eulah Jean Necessary, Wheelwright; Sue Joseph, Prestonsburg; Sandra Kaye Hall, McDowell; Mary Beth Sammons, Martin.

The music festival drew the usual large crowd, and the parade of school bands with the candidates for Festival Queen was witnessed by hundreds who lined the streets.

MAN INDICTED FOR SLAYING

Halo Man Is Accused In Son-In-Law's Death; 2 Named In WDOC Case

Kendall Griffith, Halo miner, remained in the county jail Tuesday after the grand jury last Thursday had voted a murder indictment against him and no bond for his release pending trial had been set. He is accused of the shotgun slaying at Bypro of his son-in-law, Dennis Ray Johnson, April 17.

The indictment brings to two the total of murder cases to be heard at the September criminal term of circuit court. The other is a year-old case.

A manslaughter indictment was returned against Bill Litton, of Manton, in the auto death of a two-year-old child there last week. He executed $2,000 bond.

Dave Stephens, radio station and dental laboratory owner here, and Alton Stephens were jointly named in an indictment accusing them of an attempt at arson in connection with an attempt to burn Radio Station WDOC here. Each was admitted to $2,000 bond.

Arwin Meade, of Ivel, was indicted on a charge of attempted arson during the first three days of the grand jury session. In a statement made following his arrest by state police detective C. D. Potter and others at the radio station Meade admitted he intended to burn the building and claimed Dave Stephens had promised to pay him for doing so. The grand jury minutes carried the annotation that Meade was to get $500 and that Alton Stephens was to be paid $100. The latter allegedly drove Meade to a point near the radio station and was to pick him up later in the night.

Dave Stephens in a recent statement denied any part in a plot to burn the radio station.

GULNARE MAN IS DROWNED

Sesco Thrown From Car Into Johns Creek; Lowe Escapes Careening Auto

Earsel SESCO, 23, of Gulnare, Pike county, was drowned in Johns Creek Saturday, April 25 when he and a companion fell into the creek from an automobile which had gone over an embankment and lodged against trees beside the stream.

The body of SESCO, an employee of the Kentucky and West Virginia Gas Company, was recovered by the Pikeville Emergency Rescue Squad at approximately 11 p.m. Saturday, about three hours after the accident.

State police said SESCO's companion, Robert Lowe, 26, also of Gulnare, managed to escape from the water. Their report indicated that he suffered cuts and bruises but was not hospitalized.

Another passenger, Harry Stevens, had been let out of the car just before the accident and about 100 yards from the scene of the mishap, Trooper Otis Cornett, of the Kentucky State Police reported.

State police said SESCO was driving the sedan which was going east on Kentucky highway 304 toward the main road from Pikeville to Williamson and ran off the road on a straight section and went over a 20-foot embankment about 5 miles west of Meta at approximately 8:20 p.m.

Cornett said he found no skid marks where the vehicle left the road. He added that the car lodged against trees at the edge of the water and that the door on the right flew open and both men were thrown into the creek which was about five feet deep at that point.

Cornett said Stevens, who heard the crash, was the first person to reach the scene.

It was said the cause of death was drowning. SESCO had suffered a head injury and chest injury and possibly had been knocked unconscious by the crash before he was thrown into the water.

SESCO, born in Pike county, was See Story No. 5, Page 4

ZONING PLAN AROUSES IRE

West Prestonsburg Citizens Dissatisfied With New Classification

The election is not the sole interest locally, it became evident Monday evening when the matter of zoning Prestonsburg was presented to the City Council.

A delegation of 100 or more West Prestonsburg citizens appeared at the meeting, some in protest against the proposed zoning ordinance, some seeking further information as to what zoning implies.

Biggest objection of West Prestonsburg residents to the proposed ordinance is the "light industry" classification planned for the community.

Action on the ordinance was postponed till May 21. Until that time a fuller study of the plan will be made.

On passage of a zoning ordinance depends Prestonsburg's hope of urban renewal, low-rent housing and any other project on which federal aid is available, it is explained.

Mayor Bill Napier said he met Sunday with West Prestonsburg citizens in an effort to reach an understanding on the plans for zoning.

The Council at Monday night's meeting enacted an ordinance closing the alley extending from Earl street, parallel with Lake Drive, to a point at the rear of the Music-Colvin Motor Company building. Mayor Napier said Winston Ford, Prestonsburg contractor who has purchased some of the property there, has agreed to drain the swampy area bordering on the alley, and that the result will be an appreciable improvement.

William J. (Big Bill) Turner, 81, County's Most Successful Trader Is Claimed At McDowell Hospital

William J. (Big Bill) Turner, the Drift man whose rise from life on a rough, mountain farm to become one of the largest landowners in Kentucky constitutes a success story of Horatio Alger type, died Monday night at the age of 81.

Mr. Turner died at the McDowell Memorial hospital after an illness of two and a half years. He had been seriously ill of a heart condition, with pneumonia complications, the last two weeks.

A son of John and Jimma Turner, he was born at Minnie, not far from Drift where he spent the most productive years of his business career. A giant of a man, he was known to most acquaintances as "Big Bill." Kindliness and friendliness were his marked characteristics.

Mr. Turner had little formal schooling, and he worked in hillside cornfields and in the log-woods before his fabulous career as a merchant, trader and reator began. He cut corn at the rate of 2 1/2 cents a shock. He cut timber for 50 cents a day. At this latter occupation he saved in two years $1 in cash and a seven-jewel Elgin watch.

With that small amount of cash and the watch he began as a trader. These he exchanged for a sway-backed mare, but other and better trades followed. By the time he was 26 he had saved a few hundred dollars.

UMWA AGREES TO ARMISTICE IN PICKETING

Boycott Hearing Is Set At NLRB Request, June 1; Hibbitts Awaits Study

The strife-torn Eastern Kentucky coal counties of Pike, Letcher, Knott and Perry continued quiet over the week-end and up until mid-week. Restraining influences were the National Guard and an agreed continuance of an injunction preventing mass picketing entered in the court of District Judge H. Church Ford at Jackson, Monday.

The National Guard was ordered out of the mine field Monday by Gov. A. B. Chandler and units began to withdraw Tuesday morning. The militia had been in the area nine days. The military arm of the state was moved into the coal fields after two men were killed, several tipplees were burned or blasted and threats were general from mass pickets of the United Mine Workers.

The National Labor Relations Board entered the wage controversy between the miners and non-union operators when it appeared that the wage protective clause of the union contract was a secondary boycott. This clause prohibits the purchase of non-union coal by ramp owners or coal buyers.

The NLRB was seeking to make the temporary restraining order of Judge Ford's a permanent one but at the hearing in Jackson an armistice was accepted by the UMWA and the NLRB agreed to wait until its own hearing June 1 at London.

The Jackson hearing opened with a proposal by union attorney Harrison Combs that Ford's restraining order be continued. Combs then raised two questions: whether the union could negotiate contracts with operators and whether peaceful picketing could be resumed.

The judge ruled, and the N.L.R.B. agreed, that the union could attempt negotiations, but the N.L.R.B. objected to picketing as long as the contract contained the protective wage clause. This clause—a major issue in the dispute that has idled some 7,000 men in five counties since mid-March—requires coal-loading-ramp operators to buy coal only from union mines.

Winthrop A. Johns, N.L.R.B. attorney from Washington, told the judge that the effect of picketing in this instance was a secondary boycott.

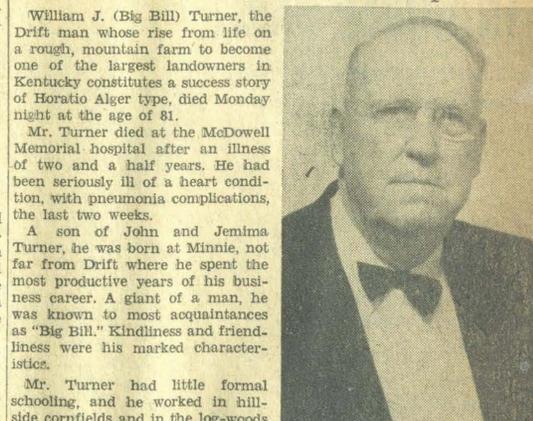

The judge resumed the hearing to say that he was not a finder of fact, but to determine if there is See Story No. 7, Page 3

FLOYD PROGRESS DATA GIVEN IN KY. REPORT

Results of compiling and tabulating "economic progress fact sheets" for Floyd and the other 119 counties of Kentucky were released this week by the Kentucky Department of Economic Development.

Economic Development Commissioner George W. Hubley, Jr., pointed out that in the periods covered, 71 counties reflected growth in manufacturing facilities, 28 showed population increases, 118 had gains in total personal income, employment was up in 91, and assessed valuation of property rose in 111.

Data for the survey was drawn from the development agency's files, from various state and federal sources, marketing publications, and industry reports, Hubley said. He added that where recent official figures are not yet available, informed estimates were used in an effort to make the survey as current as possible.

He married Cicely Robinette, and they moved to a Turkey Creek farm which they rented for $20 a year. Their furniture was home-made, but when they were ready to leave Turkey Creek he had saved enough to buy 149 acres on Sizemore Branch of Left Beaver Creek. Then began in earnest a business career of trading, buying, selling. Mr. Turner went into the store business at Drift. He invested his See Story No. 3, Page 7

Union Vice-President Endorses Doug Daniels

I, Jim Thornsbury, vice-president of UMW Local 5899 at Wheelwright, sincerely urge every miner to side with me in an effort to elect Doug Daniels for State Senator, Dist. 29.

I am 100% a union man and would certainly be the last person ever to recommend a person that didn't have our interest at heart. I know that Doug will do everything possible for the coal miners because his, Charlie Daniels, has been a miner for the past 37 years and is still mining on Beaver Creek in Floyd county.

Another reason I am urging you to vote for Doug Daniels is for the following needed legislation in addition to having one time been a card carrying UMW member of District 50.

1. He will introduce and support legislation to improve the present Workman's Compensation Law, and will do all in his power to see that labor gets its fair representation on the Workman's Compensation Board.

2. If any legislation be introduced in the Senate that will hurt or injure the medical care and pension program of the U.M. W. of A. he will do all in his power to see that it is not introduced or passed. He will be fighting against this kind of unfair legislation, and if elected, he promises that you will not have to spend money sending letters, telegrams, and representatives to Frankfort pleading for defeat of this kind of legislation.

3. He will earnestly support all legislation for the improvement of mine safety laws.

4. He will introduce and earnestly work for legislation for the improvement and extension of unemployed compensation benefits.

5. He will support all legislation for the improvement of welfare and public assistance laws.

6. He will fight against any attempt to introduce or pass a RIGHT TO WORK LAW.

A LETTER

To Caney Alumni and Friends

"How much do I owe you?" the just-married young man asked the preacher.

"Whatever you think it is worth," answered the preacher.

The young man looked at his bride, pondered the question a moment, then dug deeper into his pocket.

Forgive such a beginning—but it does pose an important question: HOW MUCH IS IT WORTH? Ponder this with me a moment.

Where in our lives have we received so much for so little—SHELTER, FOOD, INSTRUCTION, INSPIRATION? All of us are aware of the tremendous cost of the schooling we got elsewhere.

Where else have we seen a person willing to dedicate her entire life and labors to the betterment of an area? Mrs. Lloyd has done that despite painful, crippling illnesses.

Ponder seriously:
HOW MUCH WAS CANEY WORTH TO US?
HOW MUCH IS CANEY WORTH TO THE FINE YOUTH NOW ENROLLED?

MORE IMPORTANT, HOW MUCH WILL CANEY BE WORTH TO THE FINE MOUNTAIN YOUTH OF TOMORROW WHO LOOK TO CANEY, AS WE DID, FOR A START TOWARD A COLLEGE EDUCATION?

Your Caney Alumni Association set forth in 1954 with the project of building a much-needed dormitory, to be called Alumni Hall. A gracious $10,000 gift from an anonymous donor, liberal contributions from several alumni and friends of the school, diligence of past officers of the association, and the hard work and good management of Commodore Slone made possible the completion of Alumni Hall in the fall of 1958.

HOW GRATIFIED WERE MRS. LLOYD AND HER STAFF! Already in use for practically a full school year, the Alumni Hall is a great blessing to Caney. Think how many will benefit in the future.

In order to complete Alumni Hall, it was necessary for the association to obtain credit. Caney alumni are trusted people, and it is a miracle of good management that the association owes only about $8,500. ALL ALUMNI SHARE IN THIS DEBT!

BUT MRS. LLOYD HAS HAD TO BORROW FROM A BANK TO SATISFY ANXIOUS CREDITORS. SHE HAS FAITH THAT WE WILL MEET OUR OBLIGATION.

I prayerfully hope Caney will be flooded with contributions—OUR GIFTS OF OPPORTUNITY—from one dollar up . . . HOW MUCH IS IT WORTH?

SEND TO CANEY BUILDING FUND, PIPPA PASSES, PLEASE DO IT NOW, LEST WE FORGET. REMIND OTHER ALUMNI FRIENDS, LEST THEY FORGET. WE MUST ALL STRIVE TO PAY THIS DEBT IN MRS. LLOYD'S LIFETIME.

a reasonable probability that a secondary boycott exists.

"I don't want to take over the burden of the N.L.R.B., but I am enjoined to issue a restraining order and let the N.L.R.B. hear the case if there are reasonable grounds to believe that such an act exists," he said.

Combs then said the court acts on equitable principles and it is better to argue this case before the N.L.R.B.

Before the hearing ended, Combs read into the court record a letter mailed to officials and members of the union in District 30 by the district president, Carson Hibbitts, setting out the terms of the restraining order and urging full compliance. The judge commended Hibbitts for this action.

Hibbitts said later that the union was not the least bit downhearted and that it will comply with the injunction to the "letter."

But he said he would have to study it before commenting on whether picketing would resume. R. M. Johnson, a spokesman for mine operators, said operators were very pleased with the outcome of the hearing.

RULES FOR PARENTS

The Department of Economic Security offers these six rules for parents of teenagers: (1) Give children love. Parents' guidance and understanding are most crucial for adolescents. (2) Trust them—but not all their impulses. Help them keep away from difficult situations. (3) Set definite limits. Let them know just what they can and cannot do. (4) Encourage group dating. Parties at home are an ideal solution. (5) Help them develop interests other than dating—sports, hobbies, music. (6) Talk things out. It's natural for them to keep some attitudes from you, but let them know that you'll keep their confidence.

Local Man, Speaker

Coming to Princess Elkhorn in 1947 as chief electrician, Mr. Crace has waged a constant fight to improve personnel through training. The Mayo State Vocational School was early recognized as an excellent training center. Full use has been made of the school's training programs.

Many work methods and improvements have been made through experience and with the help of the Industrial Engineering Department. These will be outlined by Crace in his Cleveland talk.

Martin School Plans Original Art Exhibit

The Martin seventh and eighth grades will exhibit their original and creative art work May 14 in the Martin high school gym.

Total Personal Income: Up 7.2 per cent in the 1950-57 period, from $40,054,000 to $42,940,000, according to estimates of the University of Kentucky's Bureau of Business Research. Per capita income rose 31.2 per cent from $749 to $983 in the same period, the Bureau's figures show.

Employment: Total non-farm covered employment was down 39.6 per cent between September, 1950, and September, 1958, Department of Economic Security records revealed. The employment totals were 8,225 and 4,968, respectively, for the two periods. Manufacturing employment dropped two from the 1950 figure of 98.

Federal and state programs are of importance to the economic betterment of Floyd county. A partial list of such programs includes the following:

- 1. The Department of Economic Development is providing technical planning assistance to the planning commission of Prestonsburg. Projects in progress include preparation of a base map, existing land-use survey, and a zoning ordinance and map. State planning aid helps communities prepare for orderly growth, qualify for federal housing projects or urban-renewal programs, or not meet problems created by major highway developments.
2. The Department has cooperated with Prestonsburg in preparing and publishing a brochure detailing industrial and community resources as an aid in efforts to attract new industries.
3. In the last two fiscal years, the State Highway Department spent $2,712,000 on highway work in the county.
4. Floyd county is included in a special Department of Economic Development projects to increase timber sales.
5. With completion this year, the Prestonsburg local flood protection project cost is set at $356,000 in federal funds.
6. The state is building eight cottages and has improved locating facilities at Jenny Wiley State Park.
7. Continuing programs of state agencies are improving health conditions, conservation measures, and fish or wildlife resources.

Aid To East Kentucky Envisioned By Cooper From Supplemental Bill

A supplemental appropriation bill passed by the United States Senate last week may provide some relief for Eastern Kentucky's unemployment difficulties, Sen. John Sherman Cooper said in Washington, Monday.

The bill contains an item of $3 million for Forest Service work in areas "especially burdened unemployment."

If the new money added by the Senate is approved by the House, Cooper said, it will provide additional work and create new job opportunities in the Cumberland National Forest in Eastern Kentucky.

On the Senate floor, Sen. Cooper pointed out that many other existing government programs could be shaped to help distressed areas while working within the present framework and purposes.

This often could be done without new money or with relatively small additional amounts as contrasted with the high cost of relief-type programs which may be needed if this plan is not followed, he said.

Urging both Congress and the executive branch to examine all programs for ways to give increased help to areas of greatest need, Sen. Cooper said the action of the Senate Thursday was important because it "recognizes both the fact that some areas of our country need and deserve special attention at this time and that existing programs can quickly be shaped to help provide work, food and hope."

The Kentucky senator also disclosed that early this year he asked the White House to investigate the possibilities of this approach.

He said he hoped that Congress would pursue it in other fields as well as in the Forest Service work.

PASTURE, HAY CROPS NEEDS

Lexington, Ky.—Pasture and hay crops should get annual fertilizer applications according to soil tests, says Warren Thompson, UK Extension pasture specialist. That means that "just any fertilizer" will not do; rather, the fields get the plant food needed; and soil tests show this.

FROM THE WRATH TO COME!

The Combs-Wyatt Committee served notice on Waterfield supporters last week to flee from the WRATH to COME if COMBS is elected. Such a harsh threat has marks of HITLERISM or COMMUNISM, and if you don't do as they say, then look out, for THE BIG BAD WOLF will get you.

Who has ever seen the time in Floyd County when you could coerce people to bend to the whims of anyone? Waterfield is making no such demands and we believe if he did you would vote against him as you should against Combs for making such threats. How are we to continue as a Democracy if we are to submit to the dictation of the Combs clique and follow the demands of their bosses?

The Combs supporters do not even permit a person the right to think for himself. Some of the Combs crowd have become so arrogant they want to CRUSH all who do not agree with them. They say if you don't agree to their wishes then PACK UP YOUR OLD KIT BAG AND LEAVE THE COUNTY.

A lot of Combs supporters have gone so far as to abuse and insult people because of their support of Harry Lee Waterfield for Governor. They deny you have a moral right to vote for your choice. We say it is every person's privilege to vote for whom he pleases.

Take the case of Rev. Alex Stephens, an old man who has been preaching the United Baptist doctrine for more than 40 years. He was recently accosted and verbally abused on the streets of Prestonsburg by one..... a brother of....., because he was supporting Waterfield. Now what is wrong with.....? Well, he has a son....., who lost his job with the state and he is still very sore. What does..... want out of this campaign? Maybe to again name the people who work for the state, and maybe a high position for himself?

The readers of the Times saw a list of employees of Floyd County published just a short time ago, including Bill Cooley and others. Now why shouldn't they have a job as well as.....? WHAT KIND OF A LIST WOULD THEY HAVE IF BERT COMBS WERE ELECTED? You can bet they would have one, and no better than those who are working for the state now. When people seek revenge because they can't get all they want, what are we coming to?

This old Courthouse Gang that is fighting so hard to elect Bert Combs is on its last legs, this campaign is its last dying struggle. They see certain defeat square in the face and they are using every weapon, fair and foul, to try to hold back the tide of votes which will wipe out their power.

Do not fear their dire threats and vote for the candidate who will work for your best interests. This man is

Use Flyrod To Catch Bass

It's pretty safe to say that the flyrod will about invariably catch most bass on surface lures—it's the one type of fishing for which it's peculiarly suitable. This is partly because small flyrod poppers will get a lot of rather small bass that larger lures wouldn't—but they're big enough to be good sport, played with a flyrod; and at the same time you'll probably get as many larger ones as you would with anything else. However, if you prefer, you can do fine and have plenty of sport, with casting or spinning tackle.

E. J. W. Fennell, deputy commissioner for fire insurance in the State Department of Insurance, received this telegram, sent collect by his colleagues while attending a meeting at Hot Springs, Ark.:

"Once there were two weevils. One worked hard and prospered. The other was lazy and loafed his way through life, becoming a Deputy Fire Insurance Commissioner. As a consequence, he always remained the lesser of two weevils."

DISTRICT NEXT TUESDAY

The Floyd county district baseball tournament opens play next Tuesday morning at 10 in the Drift baseball park, with defending champion McDowell pitted against Martin.

In the second game of the day at 12:30 Auxier is matched against Betsy Layne, and in the day's final action at 3:00 p.m., Prestonsburg vies with Maytown.

The semi-finals will be staged at 12:30 and 3 p.m., Wednesday, and the finals at 1 p.m., Thursday.

Wheelwright, winner of its first four games, meets the McDowell-Martin victor in the first game Wednesday. Don Wallen's Maroons have toppled Betsy Layne 7-0 and 4-3, and Virgie, 7-0 and 7-6. Ronald Damron hurled a no-hitter in his first effort against Betsy Layne, as the Bobcats failed to hit a ball out of the infield and only two reached base via the walk route. He limited Virgie to two singles in shutting out Virgie 7-0, in winning his second game.

Auxier, sporting a 2-3 worksheet, has a fine pitcher in lefthander Archie Childers, who won a double-header on the same afternoon in downing Maytown, 10-1 and 10-3. The agile senior whiffed 20 batters in the twin bill, and gave one hit in the first game and three in the second tilt.

Auxier has lost 14-4, to Meade Memorial and to Bill Goebel's Prestonsburg Blackcats, 6-1 and 7-3.

One of the most unpopular laws ever passed in the United States will affect some 60,000 Kentuckians in 1960. That is the Bonner Boating Act which requires all owners of boats with motors of 10 horsepower or more to buy a $5 three-year license by April, 1960.

The eight members thus far named to the East-West All-Star basketball game in Prestonsburg, June 2, for the East team: are Bert Greene, Olive Hill; Emil Dixon, Pikeville; Julius Berry, Lexington; Dumbarr; Larry Back, Breathitt County; Bill Booth, Pikeville; Louis Stout, Cynthia; Harry D. Meek, Meade Memorial, and Richard Conley, Oil Springs. John Gibson, Prestonsburg, is expected to be named as the ninth member of the squad this week.

One of the aftermaths of a pleasant fishing trip is relating various experiences and big catches to local anglers with the same desires (our esteemed editor included).

With one such trip to many Florida waters last week, and several pictures as proof of limit catches, we would like to recommend one particular fishing camp and lake to Eastern Kentucky fishermen.

Arriving in Leesburg, Florida, last Monday morning, Russell May and I stopped off at the Piccola fishing resort, owned and operated by a native Kentuckian, Leon Isaacs, of Berea. Situated on the edge of Lake Griffin is this picturesque and well-equipped fishing camp, which is one of the finest yours truly has ever visited on many far-flung fishing expeditions. Everything—modern cottages, boats, motors, hospitalities, and fish—is available. The rates are very reasonable and a true Kentucky atmosphere prevails.

The lake, one of 1,400 named lakes in beautiful, orange-laden, Lee-county, abounds in large and smallmouth bass, crappie, bream, shellcrackers, mosquitoes, alligators and snakes. We decreased the bass population by 76 and left the alligators and snakes in their natural habitat, but brought home several visible proofs of the numerous mosquitoes.

The usual misfortunes that accompany a fishing trip were also prevalent, such as the big ones getting away, hanging in the snake-infested waterline, and being scared half to death by food-hungry alligators. Nothing can raise the hair on the back of your head, even if one's hairline is receding to the point of Editor Allen's, any quicker than have a six-foot alligator make a bee-line for your line at the break of dawn.

But now back to Dewey Lake, where even one little bass creates virtual mass hysteria among members of the Isaac Walton League.

SPORTS AFIELD

By TED KESTING

In the last couple of generations the black bass has become the American game fish, so much the favorite of our more serious anglers that his nearest finny competitors are no better than also-swams, says Jason Lucas, Angling Editor of Sports Afield magazine.

Practically every one of these serious anglers holds that it's more fun to catch one bass on a surface lure than at least two on an underwater. Some say they'd rather catch one on a topwater than ten on deep runners.

In the first place, just why is a topwater more sport to use than an underwater? It's partly because you see the strike—and, no matter how intently you've been watching for it, it always seems to come as a surprise to send a tingle along your spine. And it's partly because, as above everybody knows, a bass hooked on the surface generally fights near the surface, with some wild leaps to stir your blood, while one hooked in deep water generally fights there, which isn't so exciting.

We always hear a lot of the terrific splash a bass makes in striking a topwater. He certainly can do that—but he usually does it only about a third of the time. Another third, he'll come under it and suck it down as gently as a trout can take down a dry fly; if you're not watching closely you don't see it disappear.

The rest of the time he'll use a very odd strike all his own: he'll slip, comparatively quietly, from the water and high into the air some distance from the lure. Then his body curved, he'll come straight down on top of the thing with his mouth wide open. To us, this would seem like doing it the hard way, that it would be much easier for him to take it from below, but he probably has some good reason for it.

Where is surface fishing for bass most consistently successful?

In a cool, shallow river with a fairly strong current—which means that they're about sure to be smallmouths. Here, topwaters will practically always get some and will very often get most. Too, no other bass caught anywhere will, for their size, put up so game a fight.

Attorney General Rules
 Only One Ballot Box
 Is Legal in Primary

County court clerks must furnish only one ballot box for each precinct in primary elections, the Attorney General's office said Tuesday.

However, such a box must be of sufficient dimensions to contain all ballots cast, Assistant Attorney General Walter Herdman told W. P. Herbert, Maysville.
 Herbert, a Democratic election commissioner, wanted to know if clerks must provide separate boxes for Democratic and Republican votes in the primary May 26.

Before 1932, Herdman replied, state law provided for separate ballot boxes for each party, but, he added, this provision was repealed by amendment that year and separate boxes are no longer necessary.

WILL THREATS MAKE VOTES ? ?

Last week's paper carried an article by the Floyd County Combs-Wyatt Committee threatening people who do not support Bert Combs. It says Floyd county people have long memories and suggests that if they vote for Waterfield, vengeance will be laid on them and ON THEIR CHILDREN.

Our people DO have long memories. They know who helped them when they need help. They know who works for Floyd County's welfare. They remember those who slowed down the road building program here because they thought the finished roads would hurt Bert Combs' campaign.

Our people DO have long memories. They remember the Courthouse Gang's money scandals and the big Gas and Waterworks Deal, and they wonder at the STRANGE BED-FELLOWS WHO LEAD BERT COMBS' CAMPAIGN IN FLOYD COUNTY NOW.

What is the meaning of this threat to punish Waterfield supporters? Will lawyers refuse to take cases for people who vote for Waterfield? Will judges refuse them justice? Will elected officials, paid with tax money, refuse to serve those who vote against their "champion" Bert Combs?

Harry Lee Waterfield has pledged to reunite the Democratic Party in Kentucky, and to continue the progressive program of roads, schools, welfare, and medical assistance to ALL the people.

Floyd County will repudiate these threats of the scandal-ridden Courthouse Gang at the polls on May 26th and vote for HARRY LEE WATERFIELD FOR GOVERNOR.

Cantrell, Mr. Ramey, Mr. Mosgrove and the Rev. Dorsey. Congressman Michael J. Kirwan (Ohio) presided, with Congressman Clarence Cannon, chairman of the Appropriations committee, among those attending. Congressman Natcher presented the Kentucky picture as a whole, and Congressman Perkins spoke for Eastern Kentucky in particular.

Congressman Ben F. Jensen (Iowa) interrupted the House committee hearing at the conclusion of George L. Ramey's statement to say that in all the 17 years he had been a member of the committee he had never heard a plea as effective as the one Ramey had just made. Congressman Cannon reacted sympathetically to the Eastern Kentucky case as presented by the speakers.

"We're sympathetic with your problems," Senator Allen J. Ellender (La.) told the delegation Wednesday afternoon when the full delegation met in the Senate reception room with Senators Cooper, Ellender and Young, Senator McClellan (Ark. joined Ellender, Cooper and Robertson at the Senate sub-committee hearing. There Senators Cooper and Morton, Congressman Perkins, the Rev. Dorsey, Mr. Ramey, Mr. Mosgrove, and Robert Lee Bolen, director of flood control, Kentucky Department of Conservation, John D. Whisman, executive secretary of the Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission, and Mr. Cantrell testified.

For Kentucky projects a total of $66,000,000 is being sought. Cooper emphasized the point that of all the Kentucky projects the Fishtrap and Pound reservoirs are most important.

Describing the constant threat of flood, the Rev. Dorsey said of the Big Sandy region:

"The title of a song written from the lower Mississippi years ago becomes the cry and prayer of every man, woman and child, 'River, Stay 'Way from My Door.'"

"We are not blind beggars asking for a token or crumbs from the 'Budget Table' for 1959-60. We are true, honest, God-fearing, freedom-loving Americans, citizens and business men. We are seeking that which we cannot provide for ourselves," he added to the delegation theme of survival.

Judge Stumbo, County Attorney Wellman and others submitted prepared statements to the two sub-committees.

Mrs. May Appointed To Region 4 Groups, Girl Scouts, U. S. A.

Mrs. R. V. May, of Prestonsburg, was recently appointed to the Region IV committee of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A.

Her appointment was announced by Mrs. Ann Weaver, of Maumee, Ohio, who is the committee chairman. The regional committee is one which helps to set standards and policies for the Girl Scouts. It also serves as liaison between national headquarters and the local organizations.

"This honor which has come to Mrs. May, who is a member of the Sandy Valley Girl Scout Council, is a well deserved one," said Mrs. Weaver's announcement. She has been active with the local Girl Scouts since 1945, having served in many capacities, including chairman of the camp committee, chairman of staff and office committee and chairman of the membership-nominating committee. She has also been a troop extension study committee whose work resulted in the expansion of the Sandy Valley Council to include six additional counties.

Mrs. May is also very active in other phases of community service. She is in her second year as president of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club, is a Sunday School teacher and is active in all phases of work in her church.

She has two daughters, former Girl Scouts, one in college and one in law school and two sons now in grade school.

BUTLER'S BATTLE RECORD IN PUSH TOWARD ROME

COTTRELL WITH UNITS CUT OFF

After long weeks of anxious waiting the Yanks had begun their drive toward Rome. It was May 1944; the place, Anzio. The Veteran 34th "Red Bull" Division had penetrated the German defenses and now moved rapidly toward Lanuvio, a key town on the mountain overlooking all the vast expanses of the Anzio plain. In that Division were countless brave men—American youth who knew first hand the agonies and suffering that were the price of freedom. Among these was a young Kentuckian who had demonstrated an ability to stand under fire, without fear, and to lead his men courageously into the jaws of death. This man was Captain Ben J. Butler, the hero of Pantano, the leader of the first unit to cross the Volturno River, and the workhorse of the battle of the Cassino.

BEN BUTLER

Just before the drive at Anzio began he had been moved to the plans and training section of Regimental Headquarters. Here there was a much better chance of extending life expectancy. But the relative quietness of such a headquarters did not appeal to this Kentuckian. As the drive began he was with the front line elements where he could see first hand what the situation was. At night he rested but little, for then he could move more freely from unit to unit to discuss the next days battle with the commanders.

On the 27th of May the 2nd Battalion of the 168th Infantry had moved onto Gennaro Ridge. A unit on their right had not advanced as rapidly leaving a large ravine unprotected. This proved disastrous to the 2nd Battalion. The enemy sent a large force down this draw and cut off two companies and pinned down the other company with heavy fire.

The Battalion Commander was wounded and had to be evacuated. The Regimental Commander now sent Captain Butler to that unit to take command. The Captain knew the situation was desperate — two rifle companies would soon be lost if quick action was not taken. Upon arrival at the Battalion Command Post, he immediately organized the few men there into a combat patrol and they soon found themselves moving rapidly through the vineyards toward the trouble area.

On the way a few stragglers were found and they were added to the small band. Further on a platoon of a company of the 3rd Battalion was found dispersed in a draw. The Lieutenant in command did not know where his Company Commander was nor what he was supposed to be doing. Captain Butler quickly seized on this opportunity and added them to his hastily recruited patrol.

They were soon in contact with the enemy. Their mission was to cut a hole into the enemy line and release the two trapped companies. The positive and quick action of this group broke the German defenses. The Captain and his small band reached the two companies just in time for they were beginning to surrender.

Now began another serious task, that of reorganizing a unit whose morale had almost been destroyed. It was now late in the afternoon and counterattacks were sure to come at dusk. Without hesitation defensive positions were selected by Captain Butler and the men began to dig in. Next he plotted the defensive fires of the artillery and had them registered.

It was near dusk when another problem appeared. The First Battalion had launched an attack on Villa Crocetta on the left flank of the 2nd Battalion. It was now learned this attack had failed thereby leaving the left flank of the Second seriously exposed. The defenses would have to be shifted to meet this threat. This change would require the supreme in tact. The men were demoralized and exhausted but this must be done to protect their own lives and the lives of many others.

The shift was begun, but there was not the usual grumbling. The men had picked up the spirit of this courageous and energetic Kentuckian, who, even in the heat of battle, displayed a sense of humor equal to his sense of duty.

All night long the enemy probed these defenses but could not penetrate them. A "lost Battalion" had been saved. Another Kentuckian, Fred Cottrell, of Prestonsburg, knows this story full well—he was with the companies that were cut off!

And the Captain Butler of this story is the same Ben J. Butler who seeks to provide leadership for the people of Kentucky as Lieutenant Governor. He is currently the Commonwealth's Commissioner of Agriculture.

Civil Defense Continues 1959 Nuclear Alert

Frankfort, May 4 (Spl.) — The second phase of the national Civil Defense alert for 1959 will be conducted in Kentucky May 8-9.

Brigadier Gen. Jesse Lindsay, state CD administrator, said the exercise "will be played by hundreds of Kentuckians interested in improving the State's preparedness level against possible enemy nuclear attack."

On April 17, Lindsay said, mock weapons "blasted" Paducah, Lexington and Covington during phase one of the exercise, it is being assumed that these target cities, along with Frankfort, Louisville, Ashland and Henderson, are facing the problems of survival 14 days after an attack, Lindsay added.

He said department assigned emergency responsibilities by Gov. Chandler will participate in the exercise at the state CD control center at Bowman Field, Louisville.

CD units all over Kentucky will tackle special problems of supply and rationing of what food, clothing, medical supplies and gasoline would have remained in the state following April's mock enemy attack, Lindsay said, adding:

"It should give us an excellent basis for determining what stringent controls would need to be applied to assure the survival of all Kentuckians following the destruction of most of our large cities and much of our necessary supplies."

FOUR YEARS OF COMBS CRITICISM FOUR YEARS OF PERFORMANCE

For four long years Bert Combs' little band of Courthouse Drones in Prestonsburg have criticized every act of the Chandler-Waterfield Administration, despite the many valuable benefits which our people have received from this state administration.

In 1956 they clamored for more support for schools and teachers' salaries, then criticized the Administration for providing the tax money necessary to do the job. They yelled for more roads then tried to stop every local project they could while their state leaders tied up the Road Bond Issue sale in the courts for more than a year!

In 1957, following the big flood, they criticized the use of Highway equipment and personnel used to help the citizens clean up the mud and trash left by the high waters.

In 1958 they jeered and slandered Governor A. B. Chandler when he stood on the river bank and cried, as any mortal man would and did at the scene of the tragic school bus accident. Then they complained at his "high-handed waste of state money" when he used the National Guard forces so long to help find the bodies of the missing schoolchildren.

In 1959 when violence occurred in Eastern Kentucky's coal fields the Combs crowd kept crying for troops until they passed by the drug store in Prestonsburg on the way to Perry and Letcher counties. Then they cheered and shouted "Now, Bert will win."

This crowd of Drones would sacrifice the welfare of the people in Floyd county in order to gain a little political revenge.

Let's put the Drones to work or throw them out!

Vote for honesty, sincerity, and Constructive ability in STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

A Pictorial Review of East Kentucky

(No. 42 in a series)

Steamboat Pushes Barge Loaded with Staves on Big Sandy

Staves, for use in the cooperage business, were early products of the Big Sandy valley forests. Made from choice, large white oak trees, they were usually 18 to 36 inches long. The distillery interests bought vast quantities in this area around the turn of the twentieth century.

Stave bolts were made by splitting short "cuts" of white oak logs. These bolts were sold to buyers on the larger tributary streams of Big Sandy who floated them down to a mill where the staves were finished. Loaded on huge barges before the days of the railway, these staves were sold at Catlettsburg or Cincinnati.

The above picture shows a steamboat pushing a stave-loaded barge down the river. Taken in 1899, the photographer noted on the back of the picture that the craft contained 100,000 staves.

Exploitation of the vast timber resources of our area began to wane early in the century. New industrial frontiers, however, await the region and the First National Bank, organized in 1904 offers friendly and complete banking service.

Here are some facts I want you voters to know about me.

Some know me as "Little A" Slone, who is the son of Charley and Osie Slone and the grandson of old Uncle Allen Slone and Sadie Bradley.

I married Marie Skeans, the daughter of Taylor Skeans and Callie DeRossett, a granddaughter of George Skeans and Rhoda Hamilton.

My wife and I have operated a business here on Middle Creek for the past ten years. I'm sure a lot of people who don't know me have done business with my father, Charley Slone, who has been in the grocery business for 18 years.

I see a lot of teachers who remember Charley Slone who has taught school in Floyd county for 20 years. I find a great many people each day while campaigning who went to school to my father.

I have also been a teacher of Floyd county and for the last ten years have been employed with the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company at David. I am a United Mine Worker and treasurer of Local No. 7738 at David.

I have never in my life been in trouble. I have never been in jail in my life. I'm honest, sober and dependable and ask of you your support because I am qualified to do the job as State Representative.

Your Support will be Appreciated. (Pol. Adv.)

LISTEN TO YOUR CONSCIENCE

... AS THIS MAN DID

The man walked into Combs headquarters on Lake Drive, took a chair by a desk and asked the receptionist where he could find the Campaign Manager or any member of the publicity committee. He had a statement to make, he said.

Being introduced to a member of the Combs publicity staff the man began to talk, at first slowly but soon with an accelerated pace that bespeaks a man who has made a decision of weight and is anxious to unload his mind.

"Allow me to state that what I say here is for publication if you desire, and to be used in any way that will promote the candidacy of Bert Combs for Governor.

To begin, I was a supporter of Happy Chandler nearly four years ago. I became committed to Chandler before Bert Combs was mentioned for Governor and as my word has always been a bond, I continued to support Chandler, even though to do so was to fight our neighbor, Bert Combs.

"I was given a job under the Chandler Administration as a reward for turning on my own friends who were for Combs. My family had received a few favors from the present administration at Frankfort as I was considered one of the boys.

"Every man has, however, to reckon with his own conscience. I knew that the Chandler-Waterfield administration was loaded with corruption and graft, that a crew of Hatchet Men were wielding that weapon on upright citizens who were exercising their right to think and vote as they pleased. I saw tons of gravel piled beside the highway and the state road crew winking as it was hauled off by truckers to fix private driveways. I knew Jerry Roads were being built all over the state of Kentucky, many of them ending up to serve nobody but a crony of the Chandler-Waterfield Administration.

"A decent man doesn't sleep well when he supports a crowd like that because he gets the feeling that being one of the boys makes him an accomplice. He begins to weigh a few things beside his personal profit by being a Waterfield man and to consider his children, his neighbor's children and the future of his county and Eastern Kentucky.

"However, since I had begun to support Waterfield I did so in a sort of left-handed way, apologetically and quietly. Publicly, to many, I said I was neutral. I said this especially to a few in the courthouse who were pushing me to make a hard Waterfield fight. I refused for I was just as ashamed of the indefensible record of Chandler and Waterfield as they were.

"But over the head of every man who works for the state hangs The Axe. I was not loud enough in my praise for the clown Chandler and his puppet, Waterfield, and I was urged to dig into Bert Combs, to harass my neighbors who were fighting valiantly for the future of Eastern Kentucky. The axe was being drawn back to strike if I failed.

"It was then I remembered with pride that I am a Kentuckian, a Floyd countian, a mountain man. I want to stand up for Bert Combs and defy the axeman and all he can do.

"Now I can walk the road or street without apologizing for my actions. I will not need to plead neutrality at times or speak softly. I can look my friends in Floyd county squarely in the eyes."

Waterfield Undermines Miners

We are sore in the rib section from laughing at the attempts of candidate Waterfield to portray himself as a number one friend of labor for his bravery in subduing the Medical Bill (S.B. 208) in the 1958 Legislature.

This bill, if it had become law, would have closed the seven hospitals operated by the United Mine Workers in Eastern Kentucky. Supporters of the bill stated that its purpose was pure and noble—allow mine workers to have a free choice of physicians.

The real effect of the bill would have been to have allowed any fee padding doctor to overload the UMWA hospital plan with such exorbitant costs that the services would have dwindled from the sheer weight of them. UMWA leadership frankly stated the hospitals would be closed rather than suffer certain strangulation of the budget, which must be limited to honest, reasonable, fees from doctors.

While the bill did not come to a vote in the House of Representatives, it passed the Senate by a vote of 29 to 6! Who presided over the Senate? Lieutenant-Governor Harry Lee Waterfield! The Medical Bill had been brought out of committee and passed by such a large vote that anyone with an intelligence of an 8-year-old or above must know that Waterfield PASSED THE MEDICAL BILL IN THE SENATE !!! Although Waterfield had given his typical assurance that the bill was dead, it was suddenly brought to life—by him—and rushed to a vote...

A great deal of noise was made of the good turn performed for the Mine Workers. The result—in fact—was that in spite of Harry Lee Waterfield, the UMWA left the legislature exactly as they arrived.

Frankfort, May 4 (Spl.) — Levi Jackson Wilderness Road State Park will be the scene of "Russell Dyche Day" May 16 to honor first director of parks and editor emeritus of the London Sentinel-Echo.

Gov. Chandler will attend the program sponsored by the London-Laurel County Development Association as a tribute to Dyche's "continuous activities toward the betterment of London and Laurel county, his contribution of countless hours of time and generous gifts of money to that end."

Highlight of the program will be unveiling of a plaque naming the park's natural amphitheater after Dyche.

The civic association said Dyche was responsible for the development of Levi Jackson into one of the best parks in the state's system. He was editor of the London Sentinel-Echo for 50 years.

An unassuming little man of 48, he has volunteered to introduce the campaign into some of the most difficult areas it has entered.

Besides honorary doctorates from National Bible College, Wichita, Kans., and Chicago Evangelistic Institute, he earned the Th B. degree at Berean Bible Institute, Wichita. After serving churches in Arkansas, Texas, and Oklahoma, Dr. Davis came to his present post from Tupelo, Okla., in August, 1953.

Scarcely three and a half years later the Big Sandy went on its worst rampage of the 10th century, ruining the church and submerging the Davis home almost to the ceiling of the first floor. To this double blow the "little minister"—he's five feet, six inches tall—reacted with typical vigor, arranging loans that would enable Grace Baptist to start rebuilding at once, and "buying a little furniture and starting over again" with his home.

One thing he couldn't buy back and start again with was the collection of diplomas and certificates of degrees, from high school through the D. D., which hung proudly on his study wall before it was inundated.

Looking forward to better things rather than backward to worse, the growing little church, now numbering around 300, takes satisfaction from its sound financial status under the leadership of the pastor from the Southwest. In spite of the faltering economy all around, its Sunday offerings have continued to increase steadily through the period of Eastern Kentucky depression. And the little pastor, limping slightly from the effects of childhood polio, continues to carry a double load, tending his parish and working enthusiastically for the future of Pikeville College.

Howell's Answer TO KIWANIS CLUB LETTER

Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club
Prestonsburg, Kentucky

Attention: Messrs. Pete Jarvis, James R. Camicia and Homer Wright, Jr

Gentlemen:

I have your "open letter" of April 28, 1959 relative to the political advertisement which was carried in the April 23rd issue of the Floyd County Times under my signature.

I recognize the fact that the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club has a membership of highly capable and honorable men so, my first impression upon reading your letter was to apologize for any embarrassment that I might have caused the Club. This I now do. However, I cannot ignore a public letter that accuses me of making misleading and inaccurate statements. Instead of making the same charges against your leadership, I would rather think that you were misinformed.

I agree with your statement that the name Copperas Creek was never mentioned at any of your meetings which I attended. But, by the same token, neither were such names as Endicott, Wolf Creek and Rockcastle Creek mentioned. Yet these are names that you will hear about after the road is completed. As most of your club members probably know, a road was built from Buffalo to the mouth of Copperas Creek immediately after the construction of Dewey Dam. The road in question is merely an extension of this road in the direction of Martin county. And, for your further information, I would like to state that this extension follows a preliminary survey made by the Wetherby Administration and, regardless of accusations made by my political opponents, it is not a route dreamed up by me or the Chandler Administration. When you state in your letter that you have not in the past or expect in the future to endorse the expenditure of public funds for any project designed to benefit any individual or private interest you are implying that the Copperas Creek road is such a project. I resent the implication for a very good and simple reason. Is it not true.

I know further that a survey has been completed from Martin county to the lake at or near the mouth of Daniel's Creek. I have supported both roads and expect to continue to do so. If the leadership of your club opposes the Copperas Creek-Rockcastle Creek route, (mind you, I do not wish to imply that you oppose it) reasons for such opposition should be given the public.

It is interesting to note that three of the four projects mentioned in your letter are now active:

1. The first section of the road from the boat dock to the dam is now under construction; the other section is being surveyed.
2. The road from Cow Creek to German Bridge has been widened. The State plans to maintain the Boy Scout Camp Road.
3. As discussed above, the survey from Martin County to the immediate area of the dam has been completed.
4. You will recall that in our general discussion of plans for the improvement of the State Park that your club favored construction of cottages in the park area. I would like to point out to your club that eight such units are now under roof and will be ready for occupancy this summer.

I am a modest man. I would not want to deprive any individual of any credit that might be due him for the success of the above-mentioned projects. I believe, however, that you and your membership will agree with this statement: The above-mentioned projects comprise a program created primarily by your club. Through my efforts, more than any other single person, YOUR PROGRAM is fast becoming a reality.

Don't you think you have been a little unfair?

Sincerely,
JERRY F. HOWELL

Commission Plans Doctor's Seminar On Alcoholism

By J. CLIS RINGO, Executive Director Kentucky Commission on Alcoholism

Recognition of alcoholism as an illness in a true sense gained impetus at the Eight Annual Scientific Assembly of the Kentucky Chapter of the American Academy of General Practice in Louisville April 22, 23 and 24.

More than 300 Kentucky physicians attended this Academy. Twenty papers by outstanding specialists covering a wide range of diseases were represented. For the first time in history of this Assembly, papers on alcoholism assumed equal status with discussions on cancer, heart disease, thyroid disorders and other medical problems.

Dr. Ronald Brodie, Indianapolis, discussing the education many physicians had on the subject, said: "At the medical college I attended, when we came to the subject of alcoholism, our instructor said, 'Read this some time when convenient. Tomorrow we will take up the study of typhoid fever.'" Dr. Brodie continued, "In my active practice I have seen two cases of typhoid fever and hundreds of cases of alcoholism."

The Kentucky Commission on Alcoholism distributed a questionnaire to 100 doctors in attendance, seeking expression of opinion from members of the academy concerning advisability of a seminar on alcoholism limited to practicing physicians. Without exception, every physician who completed the questionnaire indicated approval of such a seminar and a willingness to attend. As a result of this small sampling, Dr. Louis M. Foltz, chairman of the commission, felt the questionnaire should be sent to all general practitioners in Kentucky. It is now being prepared. Through the cooperation of the Kentucky Medical Society, it will be circulated to every general practitioner in the Commonwealth. If the response is comparable to the response at the Academy meeting, this seminar will be held some time in 1959.

The fact that the family physician and/or the clergyman are most likely to be consulted first by individuals with a drinking problem is well established. A highly successful seminar on alcoholism limited to the clergy was held in Lexington in January, 1960. The proposed seminar for physicians will provide another beachhead in the battle to reduce the incidence of this third largest cause of death.

Martin Quits Whistling Alone And Joins The Courthouse Choir

Burnis Martin, the self-styled "Man who Walks Alone," has "gone to bed with the boys." He made his decision months ago when he joined the Courthouse Drones to get support in his race for State Senator.

A few years ago the "Man Who Walks Alone" was supporting a Taxpayers League and helping to start lawsuits to recover huge sums of money from his enemies, but now friends, the Courthouse Drones. Politics does make strange bed-fellows but there were never any as strange as these.

Martin supported Happy Chandler three and a half years ago for governor. He was a friend to the newly-elected Governor about as long as it took to hire and fire his brother at Dewey Lake State Park. He was Commonwealth's Attorney then, and being mad at Chandler and ambitious as Caesar, he took on Judge Hill for Circuit Judge. Every lawyer at the Prestonsburg bar united to defeat him.

Come fall and he tried again. He bolted the regular Democratic nominee for State Senator, ran under the device of his picture, captioned "The Right to Vote." Since as Martin said, the people had a right to vote.

He took a look at his face, Beat him in his hog-back race. He believes in the old adage, "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em." So he went to bed with the boys to further his race for State Senator. He's fooling nobody, not even the "boys at the courthouse" this time.

Martin, however, steadily and assiduously seeks the office of State Senator. He seems to have taken the advice of Davy Crockett, who made a speech one time at Little Rock, Arkansas, on how to win elections. The man in the coon-skin cap said:

"Get up on all occasions, and sometimes on no occasion at all and make longwinded speeches though they are composed of nothing more than wind—talk of your devotion to your country, your modesty and disinterestedness, or any such fanciful subject. Rail against taxes of all kinds, office holders and bad harvest weather; and wind up with a flourish . . . To be sure you run the risk of being considered a bladder of wind or an empty barrel, but never mind that, you will find enough of the same fraternity to put you in office."

Martin hopes the Courthouse Drones will put him in office.

A SURE LOSER!

CHANDLER AND WATERFIELD WON - LOST RECORD

LOST: JUNE SUTER: Chandler-Waterfield supported June Suter against Doris Owens for Clerk of Court of Appeals. Chandler said, "We will get rid of that old maid", but Doris Owens beat the Chandler-Waterfield man, June Suter, by the largest majority ever in a Democratic primary.

LOST: JOE BATES: Chandler-Waterfield supported Joe Bates against Earle Clements for the United States Senate. Chandler put the force of his administration against Earle Clements but Joe Bates LOST by over 82,000 votes in the Democratic primary.

LOST: NOBLE GREGORY: Chandler-Waterfield supported incumbent Noble Gregory for Congress in the First District (Harry Lee Waterfield district). This was the first time an incumbent Congressman had been defeated in a primary election.

LOST: COURT OF APPEALS: Chandler-Waterfield administration has tried to purge the Court of Appeals since they took office in 1955. They put out their chosen candidates against all members of the Court of Appeals but Chandler-Waterfield supported candidates LOST in all races for Court of Appeals.

WON: THRUSTON MORTON: The only race the Chandler-Waterfield gang has won was when they supported REPUBLICAN Thruston Morton in the General election against the Democratic nominee Earle Clements. Everybody knows of this unholy alliance the Chandler Administration has with the Republicans.

This is the WON-LOST record of the Chandler-Waterfield administration. The people of Kentucky have consistently beat every candidate Chandler-Waterfield has supported. The people of Kentucky are tired of government by Clown, Vengeance, and Deceit. The people are tired of payroll padding, highway scandals, Jerry Fonee Highways, and 2% assessments. The people are looking for honest, decent, progressive leadership. The people are going to put another LOST on the Chandler-Waterfield ledger by ELECTING BERT COMBS GOVERNOR and WILSON WYATT LT. Frankfort, May 4 — (Spl.)—Fred Cottrell, manager of the I. Richmond Store in Prestonsburg, has been appointed to the state advisory committee for Ben J. Butler, Butler, who is now Commissioner of Agriculture, is seeking the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor.

Cottrell has long been active in Prestonsburg and Floyd county affairs. He is a veteran of World War II where he served in the same company with Butler in the European theatre.

Cottrell made this comment upon the announcement of his support of Butler: "I first came to know Ben Butler during the years we were together in Italy. There Butler proved himself a leader and this fact was recognized by his government which awarded him some of its highest decorations. He is now a Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor. We, who know Butler so well, feel that the people of Kentucky could be just as proud of him today as we were when he led us through combat through his own exemplary bravery."

RULES FOR PARENTS
The Department of Economic Security offers these six rules for parents of teenagers: (1) Give children love. Parents' guidance and understanding are most crucial for adolescents. (2) Trust them—but not all their impulses. Help them keep away from difficult situations. (3) Set definite limits. Let them know just what they can and cannot do. (4) Encourage group dating. Parties at home are an ideal solution. (5) Help them develop interests other than dating—sports, hobbies, music. (6) Talk things out. It's natural for them to keep some attitudes from you, but let them know that you'll keep their confidence.

He is home in Heaven, dear ones; Oh, so happy and so bright! There is perfect joy and beauty in this ever lasting light.

All the pain and grief is over; Every restless tossing passed; He is now at Peace forever; Safely home in Heaven at last.

Did you wonder he so calmly Trod the valley of the shade? Oh! but Jesus' love illumined Every dark and fearful glade.

And he came himself to meet him In that way so hard to tread; And with Jesus' arms to lean on, Could he have one doubt or dread?

Then we must not grieve so sorely, For we love him dearly still; Try to look beyond earth's shadows, Pray to trust our fathers will.

There is work still waiting for us, So we must not idly stand; Do it now while life remaineth—We shall rest in Jesus land.

When that work is all completed, He will gently call us home; Oh, the rapture of that meeting, Oh, the joy to see us come!

In the James cemetery sweetly sleeping, Where the flowers gently wave, Lies our darling husband and Father, Whom we love, but could not save.

THE MEN WHO DO THE WORK AND The Men Who Do THE DIRTY WORK

It is good to see men get work in times like these. There is no disgrace attached to "weed-cutting" or to any other honest labor by which men earn bread for their wives, their children and themselves.

We wish every unemployed breadwinner could find work to do—even if it takes an election to provide that work.

But we do not think that man should be required to surrender his freedom as a Kentuckian and an American citizen in order to get such a job. The hunger of children does not depend upon how Daddy feels or votes in a political campaign.

As the election draws nearer, more and more men will be put to work. And there is no disgrace to swinging a tool on the highway—we repeat that.

The disgrace belongs to the man with the hatchet—the political Hatchet Man who goes around and lops off the payroll those who did not perform as trained seals and failed to respond to their master's every whim.

Watch them in action! Don't pass up any job opportunity—but hold on to your dearest possession, your rights as a free-born citizen of free America!

Letters of Pvt. William Jones

SCOUTING AND FORAGING

Corporal William Jones wrote Mary, his wife, Oct. 15, 1864, from Atlanta, and noted that he had been scouting and foraging.

"I returned last night from a four-day scout and foraging. We found on our return an ambulance full of mail that had been detained at Nashville on account of the road being cut. In that (ambulance) was five letters for your humble servant."

He details some of the cavalry's recent activities.

"We went on our last trip down on the other side of the Flat Shoals on South River about 20 miles from Atlanta and 20 from Covington. That is South East from Atlanta. We took our division of cavalry and 3 brigades of infantry and 5 hundred wagons. The cavalry stood picket while the infantry gathered corn. I suppose at the lowest calculation we brought away 15 thousand bushels and I should not be surprised if we go again after more. It hurts the Rebs and helps us. Me and Fill Mayer got two bags of sweet potatoes, half of them yams."

In the Oct. 15 letter was a poem his wife had clipped from the Missouri Democrat. It was composed by a soldier who was disillusioned by Gen. George B. McClellan's race for the presidency against Lincoln.

"Take off thy sword, McClellan,

Take off thy coat of blue;
Strip quickly from thy shoulders

Those Starry badges two;
You are no more a soldier,
You've changed your base again . . ."

The poem reflected the heat of the presidential campaign of 1864 and was typical of the opprobrium under which McClellan campaigned on a peace platform.

Oct. 25, 1864, from "Camp of 7th OVC, Atlanta." Jones wrote his first letter to his sister, Emma.

"My Dear Sister Emma. Having never addressed a letter to you I came to the conclusion that I owed you one for your kindness in many respects and above all your loyalty to the government that I fight for. You deserve more than a passing notice, surrounded as you are by the Butternut faction of Campbell county for your associates generally are of that class and it is a wonder to me that you have not been drawn in their meshes.

"I have long since come to the conclusion that a sympathizer with the Rebellion in the North is two-fold worse than a Rebel in arms for they do more harm. There is but two sides to the question: Either put down the Rebellion or let it put us down and thank fortune the former is about accomplished. It has been at a great sacrifice of valuable life and limb but there can be no sacrifice too great if necessary to uphold a government like ours. What the Rebels have to hold on to now I can't see. They must know they are completely used up."

He thought the fighting in his area about over and said their activities would be limited to clearing out guerrillas.

W Wright Woman's Club Sponsors Benefit Bowling

The Wheelwright bowling alley was a busy place Sunday with three bowling leagues participating in March of Dimes matches. John Rupe and Steve Benedict, operator of the bowling alley, gave full support to the event, donating the use of the alleys for the full day.

The matches started at 12:30 p.m. and it was 8:30 p.m. before the pins stopped falling.

Emmuel Phillips was high for the three lines, having a grand total of 547 pins. Nell Logan was high woman bowler for the three lines with 482 pins. Manis Crawford had the high single game for the men with a 200, and women's high single game was rolled by Myrtle Blair with 181.

In addition to each player paying for his bowling, a red pin was set up each time and if the bowler left it up he paid a dime. Mary Carol Damron contributed most to this fund.

At the close of play it was found that the day's receipts were $52.20.

The Woman's Club wishes to thank all who helped make this function a big success and especially Mr. Rupe and Mr. Benedict.

The polio drive in Wheelwright was sponsored by the Inland Foreman's Club, with Willie Rainey and President Olney Collins, in charge. They submitted the following report at the close of their drive:

Employees contribution $898.00; high school Key Club, $84.15; Courts of Calantha Lodge, $25.00; Wheelwright Woman's Club (bowling match) $52.20; Clark's Laundry and Cleaners, $23.80; collection boxes, $56.24—Total, $1,139.39.

DOWER SERVES

Camp Lejeune, N. C. — Marine Pfc. William L. Dower, son of Mrs. Malachi Nood, of Wheelwright, Ky., is serving with the First Battalion, Sixth Marine Regiment, which returned to Camp Lejeune, N. C., April 27 following six weeks of intensive training at Vieques, Puerto Rico.

The training, termed Brigadex-2-59, consisted of amphibious landings using troop-carrying helicopters. Mortar, tank and heavy machine gun units provided support for the reinforced battalion as they proceeded to set up operations on the island in early March.

The Battalion is a unit of the Second Marine Division based at Camp Lejeune.

An old rule among Kentucky pioneers when fighting Indians was, "Every man to his tree."

FLOYD EDUCATIONAL LEADER ENDORSES COMBS PROGRAM

As a Floyd Countian interested in good government, and especially interested in a state program of education for the increase of teachers' salaries and betterment of schools, I feel that I should take a positive stand in the present campaign for the nomination of Governor at the May primary.

I have examined the record of Bert T. Combs and Harry Lee Waterfield with respect to education.

In the field of education, a total of 44 bills have become law during the 1938, 40, 42, and 50 sessions of the House of Representatives of which Mr. Waterfield was a member. Of these 44 laws pertaining to education Mr. Waterfield who claims to have been a leader in this field, introduced not a single one!

At the 1950 session, Waterfield voted against a bill permitting a public vote on raising revenue for school building purposes. He also voted against a bill, the effect of which was to give school boards an opportunity to assist the Tax Commissioner in equalizing assessments. Both became law against his opposition.

In 1942, Mr. Waterfield, who says he has never cast a single vote against education, voted AGAINST a bill, which failed to become law, designed to extend the free text-book program to high schools, subject to the approval of the State Board of Education. Further, the present administration, of which Mr. Waterfield is a part and parcel, has failed to provide sufficient funds for the free text-book program, as provided by law, and has failed to supply sufficient funds for our poor children to have preventive polio shots.

Bert Combs is a native of Floyd County, whose children attend Floyd county schools. Bert Combs has in the past shown his interest in education, and now pledges a program of school building and repair, and to increase teachers' salaries.

Therefore, for these and other reasons, I extend my wholehearted support to the nomination of Bert Combs as Governor at the May 26, 1959 Democratic Primary.

Some Straight Talk About Campaign Issues

Let Combs and Wyatt and their hatchet men — Earle Chester Clements and the editorial writers of the Louisville Courier-Journal — fume and fuss about posters and such things. The plain truth is, as most of us know, they're hard pressed to find any issue to run on.

They can't begin to approach Harry Lee Waterfield's superior qualifications, experience and record. And when they snipe at the present State Administration's accomplishments in education and road-building, they're flying low and crazy.

Every parent and teacher in this county should know by this time how much our schools are benefiting from the "Foundation Program", financed for the first time in 1956. Our schools today are receiving many thousands of dollars more in State funds than ever before.

Some of us may be a mite disgruntled that roads are not being built as fast as we'd like. But it's plumb ridiculous of Bert Combs and his "team" to try to belittle the State's new highway program. It's just the biggest thing Kentucky has ever witnessed. After two years of intensive planning and engineering, the vast 12-year program approached the letting and construction stage. Last year, for example — and this was really the first big year of the program — the State let more than $114 million of contracts. This was nearly triple the average of the years from 1951 through 1956. And mind you, this road program is just beginning to roll.

We could go on — and talk about the Administration's accomplishments in such other fields as health services, agriculture, parks development and industrial promotion. But most of you should know the facts pretty well. The only thing we have to guard against — to keep us from voting the wrong way — is the effort of the opposition to inflame prejudices and steal our votes with mean and petty talk about Harry Lee and the present Administration. Think before you vote in the Democratic Primary — May 26.

THINK BEFORE YOU VOTE—YOUR DECISION IS BOUND TO BE

HOWELL GETS A $25,000 ROAD . . . HUNGRY PEOPLE GET NOTHING

Last week Chandler man, Jerry Fonce Howell, wrote an article in the Floyd County Times trying to defend the Copperas Creek road on Johns Creek. It was an article of deceit and the people know it.

This road costs $25,000.00 and there is not a single house on the road except a house owned by Jerry Fonce Howell. Not a single person can profit by this road except Jerry Fonce Howell because he owns the land the road leads to. Is he going to sell this land to the state at a big price? Is this the great Road Building program the Chandler-Waterfield people all talk about? Did you have a $25,000.00 road built up your creek this year?

Jerry Fonce Howell also wrote that the Kiwanis Club of Prestonsburg requested that the Copperas Creek road be built. The Kiwanis Club denies this and in a letter in this paper so states. Of course Jerry Fonce Howell knew this when he wrote the article but this kind of deceit is typical of the Chandler-Waterfield gang and Jerry Fonce Howell is a ring leader of the Chandler-Waterfield gang. He knows how to deceive! Senator Howell, are you trying to cover up your scandal by deceit.

Jerry Fonce Howell is now working in state Headquarters for Waterfield and why not? He gets the gravy from that bunch but the people of Floyd county get nothing but mud-holes and Chandler promises.

If Jerry Fonce Howell is so concerned about the people of Floyd County why didn't he get the Chandler-Waterfield administration to extend unemployment compensation 13 weeks? If he got a $25,000.00 road built why not pay the unemployed of our section their compensation? Is it because all the money is going to build Jerry Roads while hundreds of our people are unemployed and children are going hungry?

Bert Combs will put an end to this kind of business when he is elected Governor. Jerry Howell and the rest of the Chandler-Waterfield gang will be put out of power and the people will be given good, honest, progressive government.

Bert Combs is a Floyd county man who knows our problems and Floyd countians are overwhelming supporting Bert Combs. It is easy to see why Jerry Fonce Howell and a few job-holders are supporting a man who lives 550 miles from Floyd county for when you are getting the gravy it's hard to break away.

Every man must live with his own conscience. Jerry Fonce Howell knows best how he can live with his after he deserted his own people to profit personally by his association with the Chandler-Waterfield Administration. He knows how he can justify himself, if it is possible to do so, after seeking to mislead the voters by such deceit through misstatements and inference in his full page advertisement.

As for us we are loyal to the people of Floyd county, to Bert Combs who is our neighbor and champion and above all, by supporting a Floyd county man we are loyal to ourselves.

PUBLIC CAN CALL HALT TO OBSCENITY BY MAIL

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield maintains that the American public can halt the nation's half-billion-dollar a year traffic in mail order obscenity.

Appealing for public support in his intensified war on "barons of obscenity who are brazenly violating our homes and soliciting our children," the Postmaster General said, "the people themselves hold the final answer because they can put these filth merchants out of business."

Mr. Summerfield suggested these steps if obscene mail, or advertisements soliciting its sale, appears unordered in your home mail box:

1. Save all materials received, including the envelopes and all enclosures.

2. Report the matter immediately to your local Postmaster and turn the materials over to him. (You may mail in your complaint and testify if criminal action should be necessary.)

Mr. Summerfield said public cooperation at this time is particularly important because the federal government is armed with new law which makes it possible to prosecute mail order filth dealers in local area courts.

Formerly, they could be prosecuted only at the point of origin of this material—usually a few big cities where obscene mail dealers have taken sanctuary behind legal technicalities and liberal court interpretations of what is obscene.

Now, under the new law, distributors of obscenity can be prosecuted in the communities where the material is received and where the damage is done, Mr. Summerfield explained.

FOR LABOR

BERT COMBS is the only candidate for Governor who has said he is unequivocally AGAINST RIGHT-TO-WORK LAW. He has pledged a "genuine Working Program" to bring new business into Kentucky and provide more jobs for the state's labor forces.

"You may rest assured that leaders of organized labor know whereof they speak. They know that my record justifies the endorsement of organized labor and that my opponent's record does not."

Campbell Tells Club Of Credit Importance To Nation's Business

At one or more stages, from raw material to consumption by the ultimate consumer, bank credit is essential to the carrying on of American business, according to Wesley Campbell, Cashier of the First Guaranty Bank, Martin.

Speaking before the Kiwanis Club of Martin, April 28, Mr. Campbell added: "It is estimated that as much as 90 per cent of all business transactions involve the use of bank credit."

"While there are many ramifications to the process known as credit, we can briefly summarize all of them by stating that the banker is interested in the three C's—Character, Capacity, and Collateral. Whether the loan is to a large corporation for the purpose of buying raw materials for manufacture, or is merely a comparatively small personal loan to an individual for the purpose of paying some bills, the banker is always interested in these three fundamentals."

"The final phase of bank credit is the effect the granting of the credit has upon the community as a whole," the speaker emphasized.

again... I have done my duty as well as my judgment and capacity allowed of and I have a lodestone that calls me home. But for her I would have reenlisted until everything in the shape of a Rebel was cleaned out from the face of the United States."

"When this cruel war is over and all the Rebels have bit the dust or learned to behave themselves and you are so fortunate as to get married to some nice young man I will put my best bib and tucker on and dance my best licks at your wedding."

Under the same date of Oct. 25 Jones wrote his wife.

"I returned yesterday from another foraging excursion. We were out near Covington, Ga. We found a lot of a thousand acres of corn that had been planted by the Rebel army for their own use. We thought we would do them a good turn and gather it for them. We brought in 750 wagons loaded with corn besides a number of cattle hogs and sheep."

"There is one thing connected with our foraging that I am sorry to see. That is the pillaging or stealing by our soldiers from poor families. Although their husbands and brothers may be in the Rebel army it is no sign they should starve. It is forbidden by our officers but not looked into as it should be. The country is full of women and children and I have no doubt many of them will die of hunger this winter."

"Next Monday I shall have only 10 months to stay and I count the time now with a great deal of anxiety although I do not think I will have to serve that long."

"We had an election in our regiment of the Ohio troops on the 11th which resulted in 127 votes for the Union candidates and 17 votes for the Democrat. You can tell those Copperheads that all that were eligible to a vote had the privilege. I have no doubt that on the 8th of November Old Abe will be elected by the largest majority ever given in the United States which will be a worse blow to the Rebs than a big defeat in battle. I do not know that I will get to vote. I have not heard whether the State of Kentucky has passed a law allowing her soldiers in the field a vote or not. If I do have a vote I shall vote for the Rail Splitter, thinking that I would be doing God's service in putting down the Rebellion."

"They may call me Abolitionist, or what they please, there is one thing—I do not associate with Niggers. The majority of those that voted the Democrat ticket in Company A I have seen playing cards with the Nigger servant of Cap't Green's and I have even heard these same persons preaching Negro equality against the Lincolnites."

"You ask me if Cap't Green is my officer. Yes, he is but him and me do not hit it very well. He attempted to appropriate a captured mule to his own use and I reported him and had it branded U. S. That stopped him from selling it. I have no faith in him as a gentlemen and therefore have nothing to do with him outside of my duty."

THE COURT OF APPEALS LABOR RECORD OF BERT COMBS

Bert Combs served as a judge on the Court of Appeals from April 23, 1951 to February 1, 1955. During that time some 20 to 30 cases on labor relations came to the Court's attention for Appellate review. Many of these involved making decisions on purely technical points of legal procedure; others presented serious labor management problems. Seven of the more important are in this report:

In 1951, in the case of FORD MOTOR vs. UNEMPLOYMENT COMMISSION, the Court was called upon to decide whether or not Ford employees could draw their employment benefits but interpreting the word "establishment." The court held that a strike in one plant — or "establishment" of a manufacturer which necessarily closed down operations in another plant — because of the strike — did not prevent an unemployed worker in the second plant from receiving his unemployment compensation. Judge Bert Combs supported this court opinion for the workers.

In the same year, in the case of BROADWAY & FOURTH AVENUE REALTY CO. vs. HOTEL & RESTAURANT EMPLOYEES LOCAL 181, the Court held that the local union could peacefully picket the realty company. (This was the famous Brown and Kentucky Hotel Strike!) Judge Bert Combs supported this opinion!

In WHITT vs. STEPHENS (1951) the Court held that members of a union could peacefully picket a coal mine employing non-union men. Bert Combs supported this opinion.

In the 1954 case of PAINTERS LOCAL NO. 500 vs. WISE, the Court had this problem: Wise had won a judgment in the lower court for $5,000 against the Paducah Central Labor Union. The CLU didn't have the money to pay off. Wise then joined the Painters Union in Paducah in the suit because the Painters was affiliated with the Central Labor Union and had $5,000. The Court of Appeals held that the Painters Local was NOT SUBJECT to the claim of Wise against the Paducah Central Labor Union. This was a vital decision to the Kentucky union movement, as it could have wrecked every city central body and building trades council and joint board in our state if affiliates could be held financially responsible in court suits. Bert Combs backed labor in this decision in our favor.

BERT COMBS

In the 1952 case of SMITH vs. HILLERICH & BRADSBY, four members of the Steelworkers Local 3931 had been fired for—as the company claimed—a "wildcat" strike. The union took the firing up as a grievance and finally to an arbitrator, who ruled the men had been wrongfully discharged and ordered the company to re-hire them. The company refused. The men brought suit and lost in the lower court. They appealed to the Court of Appeals, where Bert Combs sat as one of the judges. The Court of Appeals reversed the lower court and reinstated the arbitrator's order and directed the company to re-hire the men, as ordered by the arbitrator. Bert Combs concurred, for the men.

In 1953, in the case of MEAT CUTTERS LOCAL NO. 227 vs. PURNELL SAUSAGE CO. the ONLY QUESTION before the Court was whether any injunction already issued by the Circuit Court should be extended to prevent the Butchers local from persuading customers not to trade with the Sausage Co., since IT WAS NON-UNION. BERT COMBS WROTE THE DECISION IN THIS CASE, AGREED UPON BY THE COURT, HOLDING FOR THE UNION THAT THE INJUNCTION WOULD NOT BE EXTENDED.

No Judge of the Court of Appeals has stood more courageously for working people than did Bert Combs in the case of MIDDLEKAMP vs. WILLIS. The Commissioner of Industrial Relations had, by order, set a minimum wage for females and minor employees in the Hotel and Restaurant Industry. After a hearing the lower court (Circuit Court) sustained the orders of the Commissioner thereby raising the minimum wage law for that industry in Kentucky. The Hotel & Restaurant Association took the case to the Court of Appeals and had the proposed better minimum wages cut to ribbons by a cruel, anti-labor decision. BERT COMBS VIGOROUSLY OPPOSED THIS BAD DECISION AND WROTE A STRONG DISSENTING OPINION, DISAGREEING WITH ALL OTHER JUDGES ON THE COURT.
