

THURSDAY

This Town-- That World

It takes money to make the wheels go round, oats to make the old mare go, and tax payments to make the eagle scream. So we worked, July 4, trying to make enough to help the eagle.

DEPENDENCE DAY

Monday was Independence Day, a time when millions of Americans celebrate and some make battle noises with firecrackers. A great day, and we are all for it. A great day, July 4, 1776 was, and it should be commemorated as long as the nation lasts.

But there was another day observed, the year before that first Independence Day, that was important and which should have a place in American life, although few have ever heard of it (including yours truly until only recently).

This was what might have been called Dependence Day. On June 12, 1775, the Continental Congress issued a declaration that became known as a "Declaration of Dependence on God." It reads, in part:

"This Congress... do earnestly recommend that Thursday, the twentieth day of July next, be observed by the inhabitants of all the English colonies on this Continent as a day of public humiliation, fasting, and prayer; that we may, with united hearts and voices, unfeignedly confess and deplore our many sins, and offer up our joint supplications to the all-wise, omnipotent, and merciful Disposer of all events; humbly beseeching Him to forgive our iniquities, and remove our present calamities..."

And so America depended, and the "present calamities" were indeed removed. But came the time when the nation feared the name of God would offend Russia and perhaps other unbelieving peoples. In one state (California) today mention of the name of God is not permitted in the public schools, and in one school there the librarian was instructed to remove those books which made such mention. ROADBUILDING PROGRAM SET

Machinery Arriving This Week; Burchett Named Road Foreman

The $73,601.40 worth of new machinery leased by the Floyd fiscal court for use in a wide-scale rural roadbuilding program in the county began arriving this week, and with the appointment of a road foreman work was slated to begin soon.

Glenn C. Burchett, former District 1 magistrate and until recently trial commissioner in the County Judge's office, was employed by the court last week as foreman at a salary of $250 a month.

It is presently planned to operate two road projects at a time so that all machinery on hand may be kept in operation, it was said. Machinery operators had not been hired this week.

The fiscal court approved the county budget and also the budget of the Floyd County Board of Education. The court extended the deadline for procuring occupational licenses (softdrink, cigarettes, etc.) till July 16. After that date a penalty will be charged vendors of such items.

The court last Thursday approved the contract with the state and its Division of Rural Highways. The state, under terms of the pact, will pay the county rental on the machinery. The county leased the machinery with option to buy.

POLL SITES CUT TO 34 BY STUMBO

Reduction of Number Effect of Installation Of Voting Machines

Preparing for the use of voting machines at the November election this year, County Judge Henry Stumbo last week effected the consolidation of precincts, reducing the number from 61 to 34.

Although the voting machines, an innovation to this county, will be required for the voting for Presidential electors and members of Congress, the old method of voting by ballot will be necessary for the school election in Educational Divisions 3, 4 and 5. This situation is created by the consolidation into one precinct of two or more precincts, one of which may be in one educational division, with another part of the new precinct in another division.

Judge Stumbo's order provides that the new precinct arrangement shall not affect the boundaries of the educational divisions. The precinct consolidation may require a new districting of educational divisions later, it was predicted.

Twelve precincts are in Magisterial District 1 under the new arrangement, six in No. 2, nine in No. 3 and seven in No. 4. Judge Stumbo avoided uniting precincts from different Magisterial districts. Boundaries of nine precincts—Prestonsburg No. 1, Richmond, Porter, Auxier, Maytown, Gearheart, Toler, Mouth of Mud and Ivel—stand unchanged.

The new precinct lineup follows, with the name of the consolidated precincts appearing in parentheses: Magisterial District No. 1

Prestonsburg No. 1 (unchanged); Prestonsburg No. 2 (No. 2 and Trimble Branch); Depot (Depot and Spurlock); Richmond (unchanged); Cliff (Cliff and Little Point); Porter (unchanged); Auxier (unchanged); Middle Creek (Middle Creek, Jack Allen and David); Cow Creek (Cow Creek and Johns Creek); Mouth Beaver (Mouth Beaver and New Allen); Jim Banks (Jim Banks and Dwale); Rough & Tough (Rough & Tough and Abbott).

John Possum (John Possum and Kennedy); Maytown (unchanged); Bosco (Bosco and Northern); Garrett (Rook Fork and Garrett); Lackey (Estill and Lackey); Wayland (Haymond and Wayland). Magisterial District 3

RECC MEETING IS SCHEDULED

At Paintsville, July 18; Beauty Show, Acrobatics To Feature Annual Event

Annual meeting and farm show of the Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative will be held July 18, in Paintsville, Oran Hinkle, co-op manager, said this week.

The four-hour program will consist of entertainment by professional performers, a beauty contest, awards of free prizes, a business meeting and two dramatic presentations dealing with the progress of rural electricity and electrical safety.

Local beauties, 16 to 23 years of age, previously unmarried and members of co-op consumers' families, are eligible to compete in the beauty contest.

The young lady selected by the judges will be crowned "Miss Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative of 1960." She will also represent Big Sandy RECC in the annual state beauty contest which will be held in Louisville at the Kentucky State Fair and Exposition Center, September 14.

Applications for the beauty contest may be obtained from the Big Sandy RECC office at Paintsville. Visitors, in addition to members, are invited to attend the show and will be entertained by five professional acts. These include witty Tommy Windsor whose pitchman's act extolls the powers of his Snake Oil and Indian Elixir; the Julindas, an acrobatic family of incomparable skill; Cliff Berry, a talented singer, dancer and juggler who is accompanied by his beautiful wife, Karen; Bill DeMar, ventriloquist and comedian; and his sidekick, Chuck Norwood; and Dottie and Joe Stanford, a pair of superb ballroom dancers.

Ken White, master of the keyboard, will create a showtime atmosphere with his organ music.

Indian Drums Beat as Scouts' Order of Arrow Adds 'Braves'

The drum beats resounded over Dewey Lake, the camp fires were lighted, the peace pipe was smoked, the prayer was chanted, and the dances began in honor of "those who could give of themselves in service of others."

The white man was still learning from one of the earliest Americans, the Delaware Indians, at Camp Shawnee on Dewey Lake, Thursday night when the Boy Scouts of Lonesome Pine Council gathered to perpetuate the brotherhood of cheerful service.

Honored before an audience of more than 300 relatives and friends were candidates for Ordeal Scouting and the brotherhood of Tomahawk Lodge of the Order of the Arrow.

The Scouts, collected from the Lonesome Pine Council area of Eastern Kentucky and five counties of Virginia, were dressed as Delawares, with head dress, their faces painted and with tomahawks, bows and arrows in hand. There was the male tribal group, the Lodge Chief, the Chapter Chief, the Medicine Man, the Braves. Ceremonies were held at the athletic field where approximately 250 Scouts gathered in a circle around two camp fires.

Bill Allen, the Lodge Chief and son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Allen, of Prestonsburg, said that the boys selected to be Ordeal Scouts, were required to be First Class Scouts, at least 14 years old, a Scout camper who had spent ten nights of camping. He emphasized that only one boy for every 10 is selected for the honor. Bill May, Chapter Chief, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. May, Jr., of Prestonsburg, was chosen to tap out the candidates for Ordeal Scouting.

The Ordeal Scouts, Allen said, must serve one year of satisfactory and cheerful service to become eligible for the brotherhood of Tomahawk Lodge. Tomahawk Lodge is part of the Order of Arrow and there are three lodges in the Lonesome Pine Council, each functioning as a separate tribe, according to Allen.

DORSEY GOES TO PIKEVILLE

Paintsville Pastor Is Transferred Here By 104th Annual Meet

Dr. Harold W. Dorsey last Sunday concluded his seven-year pastorate of the First Methodist Church here, and next Sunday will begin the pastorate of the Pikeville Methodist Church. At the same time the Rev. Orin M. Simmerman, Sr., will assume his duties as pastor here.

The pastorate changes were made at the 104th annual meeting of the Kentucky Methodist Conference in Lexington last week. Three hundred twelve ministers were appointed to serve Kentucky churches, and 124 of these received new assignments.

The Rev. Simmerman was transferred from the First Methodist Church, Paintsville, to the Prestonsburg church, and the Rev. W. H. Smith, a former pastor here, was assigned to the Paintsville church.

The Rev. Dorsey, who has active-ly supported civic programs, particularly the fight for Big Sandy River flood control, commented that, assigned to Pikeville, he will still be able to work for river improvement and the economic betterment of the area.

He was named chairman of the Conference board of ministerial training and qualifications. The Rev. Charles S. Perry, of Paintsville, was also named to the board. (See Story No. 7, Page 6)

Martin Gets Go-Ahead On Urban Renewal Job Covering 6-Acre Area

Telegrams received today (Thursday) from Congressman Carl D. Perkins and Senators John Sherman Cooper and Thurston B. Morton announce that the town of Martin has been authorized by the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency to begin actual construction of its six-acre "Town Center" urban renewal project.

The urban renewal project will be developed with the aid of a $217,752 federal loan and a $114,665 capital grant. The federal grant covers two-thirds of the $213,922 estimated net cost of the project. This includes funds for helping relocate displaced residents.

After clearance of the area to be improved it will be put to residential, commercial and institutional use, with off-street parking.

A pow-wow between Medicine Man David Webb, West Van Lear, Lodge Chief Bill Allen, Prestonsburg, and Tribe Chief Roger Dixon, Paintsville, preceded the Tapping Out ceremonies to choose fellow Scouts to the brotherhood of "cheerful service."

SCOUT POOL IS CLOSED

On Dewey Lake, Friday; Dysentery Named Cause By Health Department

The swimming pool at Camp Shawnee, Dewey Lake encampment for Lonesome Pine Council, Boy Scouts of America, was closed last Friday on order of the Floyd county Health Department after a reported 43 Scouts had become ill of dysentery.

The drinking water supply later was found to be contaminated, and unless immediate action is taken to correct the situation the entire camp will be closed, said Dr. Russell L. Hall, county health doctor.

It was reported here Wednesday, however, that a system of post-chlorination of the drinking water supply is being installed. Heretofore, only pre-chlorination of drinking water has been done, and this process is wholly insufficient to render the water safe, it was said.

"No movement is better for boys than Scouting, and nobody likes the Boy Scouts more than I do," Dr. Hall commented on the action already taken and on further moves that may be made. "But we have a duty to the parents of these kids and to the children themselves that supersedes all other considerations."

The dysentery outbreak was first reported last Thursday to the health department, Dr. Hall and M. V. Clark, health department administrator, said. Two youths from West Virginia arrived at the camp Sunday, became ill of dysentery. By Thursday, more than 40 had contracted the ailment. (See Story No. 4, Page 6)

CARL CORBIN HEART VICTIM

Prestonsburg Engineer Succumbs While Visiting Home In West Virginia

Funeral of Carl Huffman Corbin, 59, well-known Prestonsburg mining engineer who died June 25, at an Elkins, W. Va., hospital, was conducted Tuesday of last week from the Lohr Funeral Home chapel in Elkins. Burial was made in the I.O.O.F. cemetery there.

Mr. Corbin, who had been engineer and land agent here for years for the Beaver Creek Consolidated Coal Company division of the National Mines Corporation, was stricken by a heart attack while at his home at Beverly, W. Va., at 3 a.m., on the day of his passing. He died 15 minutes after arrival at the Elkins hospital. He had suffered from a heart condition the last three years.

A native of Whitmer, W. Va., he came to the Big Sandy section about 1923 as a mining engineer with a mine at Henry Clay and later was associated with the Piney Elkhorn Coal Company at Weeksburg, coming to Prestonsburg April 1, 1927. He was a former City Councilman here, a member of the (See Story No. 8, Page 5)

FREIGHT RATE CUT IS MADE

$2 Reduction Per Ton To Help East Ky. Coal In Southern Market

What may be the initial breakthrough to lower freight rates for coal from this area going to southern markets was the recent decision of two regional railways to cut the coal tariff 20 cents per ton to three plants of a North Carolina power company.

Announcement of the reduction was made in Huntington, Wednesday. The two railroads are the Norfolk & Western and the Chesapeake & Ohio. The reduced rates will go to the Duke Power Company, a major consumer of coal, and will apply only to Southern West Virginia and Eastern Kentucky mines. (See Story No. 9, Page 6)

FLOYD IS HIGH IN HEPATITIS

U. S. Health Service Names Eight Counties With High Case Number

Floyd county is one of the hardest hit in the state by infectious hepatitis, according to the United States Public Health Service. This county is one of eight in Kentucky with more than 50 current cases, it was announced Wednesday.

The number of cases is the highest in a decade and perhaps in the state's history. Twelve persons have died in the state this year, most of them elderly people. In Floyd county, however, the disease has been of a "mild" type.

So far, 1,148 cases have been reported in Kentucky this year, more than double the number at this time last year. Last year's total of 1,262 cases with 16 deaths was the worst in at least 10 years. The disease is carried by sewage and personal contact.

J. Clifford Todd, state specialist for epidemic diseases, said nearly every outbreak investigated in Kentucky recently has been traced "to sewage problems or contaminated water." (The swimming pool at Camp Shawnee on Dewey Lake being used by the Boy Scouts in their annual encampment was closed this week due to an outbreak of dysentery. See other story.)

Todd said there is no treatment for the disease except rest and proper diet.

THREE SUITS ASK $90,000

Hospital Is Named In Fairchild Death; State Detective Sued

Three suits filed in circuit court here last week ask a total of $90,000 damages.

One of the suits names the McDowell Memorial hospital, and the plaintiff, Mrs. Rena Fairchild, seeks to recover $50,000 in the death of her husband, Den D. Fairchild. In the other two, Donald Spears and his brother Burnis, a minor, ask $40,000 damages of State Detective Chester D. Potter and others for alleged false arrest and imprisonment.

Mrs. Fairchild alleges in her petition that on or about March 18 her husband entered the hospital for examination and treatment and that when he started to leave to return home one of the nurses insisted that he sit in an invalid's chair and permit her to wheel him out to the car. Fairchild insisted he could walk to his car, since he walked into the hospital, the petition alleges, but the nurse prevailed on him and in wheeling him outside "carelessly and negligently wheeled the chair against the edge of a thick rubber mat." The chair stopped suddenly, and Fairchild headed out onto the hospital floor, Mrs. Fairchild contends. (See Story No. 10, Page 6)

HOSPITAL-MED BENEFITS CUT

By United Mine Workers; New Regulations Listed As Effective, July 8

Bituminous coal miners will be cut off from hospital-medical and death benefits after being unemployed for a year under new eligibility rules announced Friday.

The United Mine Workers Union Welfare and Retirement Fund published the new regulations in the union newspaper, The United Mine Workers Journal. They are effective Friday.

The notice was signed by Miss Josephine Roche, director of the fund.

Union President Emeritus John L. Lewis and Henry G. Schmidt, president of the North American Coal Company, are on the three-member board of trustees which approved the cutbacks.

The rules also state that miners will lose eligibility to hospital-medical benefits and to death benefits, payable to their survivors, when the miners become "self-employed or in any way connected with the ownership, operation, or management of a mine." This latter rule reportedly was directed at discouraging individual miners or groups of miners from leasing coal holdings for production themselves. It has been a long-time U.M.W. policy to discourage such "dog hole" production and concentrate mining (See Story No. 11, Page 4)

Magoffin Men Are Fined, Third Arrested In Theft Of Swan On Dewey Lake

Theft of a swan from Dewey Lake has already cost two Magoffin county men a total of $75, and when a third man is arrested the bit of "fowl play" will become even costlier.

The swan was chased and captured near the boat dock on Sunday, June 26. Two days later Conservation Officer Raymond Copley arrested William Lovely and Morteran Oney, both of Salyersville, and recovered the swan which now glides as gracefully as ever along the lake shores. The two were fined $37.50 each.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of a third man, Charlie Trusty, also of the Salyersville vicinity. One of the two swans released at the lake is still missing, but the Salyersville men are not implicated in its disappearance. Copley said theft of a swan constitutes a federal offense and that the mere fining of the Magoffin countians constituted an act of leniency.

The two arrested said they were drinking and that the escapade developed from a dare.

WIDOW'S BOND SET AT $5,000

Three Youths Jailed For Copper Wire Theft; Coal Company Is Victim

Mrs. Cora Ratliff Stone, widow of Allen Stone, was placed under $5,000 bond Wednesday morning after a warrant naming her as the slayer of her husband had been issued by the County Judge's office. The warrant was sworn out by Deputy Sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis.

Stone died June 17, several days after having been wounded at his home near Sugar Loaf, south of here. Mrs. Stone has indicated the shooting was accidental.

Three Mud Creek youths were charged this week with grand larceny in connection with June 21 and June 27 thefts of costly copper trolley wire from the Hi Hat Elkhorn Coal Company.

Charged were Wilbur Lee Hamilton, 20, and two juvenile companions, according to Deputy Sheriff Harold Johnson. Johnson said the youths had sold wire to the Mountain Metal Company here.

The wire was valued at $350. Hamilton and one of the juveniles were being held Wednesday at the county jail.

MORE PROMPT PAY FOR TEACHERS IN NEW SUPERINTENDENT'S PLANS

Prompt payment of teachers' salaries, encouragement of a teachers' organization, a strong building program and an improved academic program—these were items discussed by Charles Clark, new superintendent of Floyd schools, in a statement released soon after he had assumed office.

The prepared statement was addressed to the teachers and to the taxpayers of the county.

Clark said he spent Friday, his first day in office, exploring the possibility of paying teachers' salaries "in such a manner as to permit them to meet their obligations without discounting or borrowing money." He added that his contacts with other school systems have been encouraging and that "we are determined to succeed in improving the system of paying, even if we have to contact every superintendent in Kentucky to find out how it might be done."

"We expect to work closely with the teacher organization," Clark said, pointing out that this is needed to have a better school system, which includes better teaching. "The president of the Floyd County Teachers' Association has already, on my suggestion, appointed a committee to work with us in formulating a budget which will insure the best return for our tax dollar," his statement added.

"Placement of teachers before July 1, 1960," he pointed out, "was not our responsibility but placement after that date will be on our shoulders." Clark also said he has made a firm resolution to visit as many classrooms as possible during each year of his term to encourage teachers in their work.

The superintendent's statement of intentions as pertaining to the taxpayers promised a close study of every department of the school system in search of greater efficiency. "We want to take a good look at the transportation system," he said.

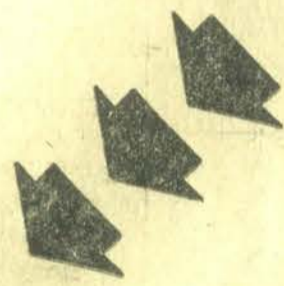

Charles F. Clark, new superintendent of Floyd schools, as he took the oath of office last Friday morning. The oath was administered by Mrs. Lucille M. Herndon.

Clark also announced that he would ask the board of education to approve the Prestonsburg P-T-A project which calls for the board to spend $9,500 to more than $30,000 to be raised by the P-T-A for an athletic field at the high school here. This approval, he said, would be asked "in the same spirit we would ask them to approve any worthy endeavor." Turning to the academic program, the superintendent said: "We believe that by putting the emphasis on strong subjects for those with (See Story No. 1, Page 5)

SAVE...

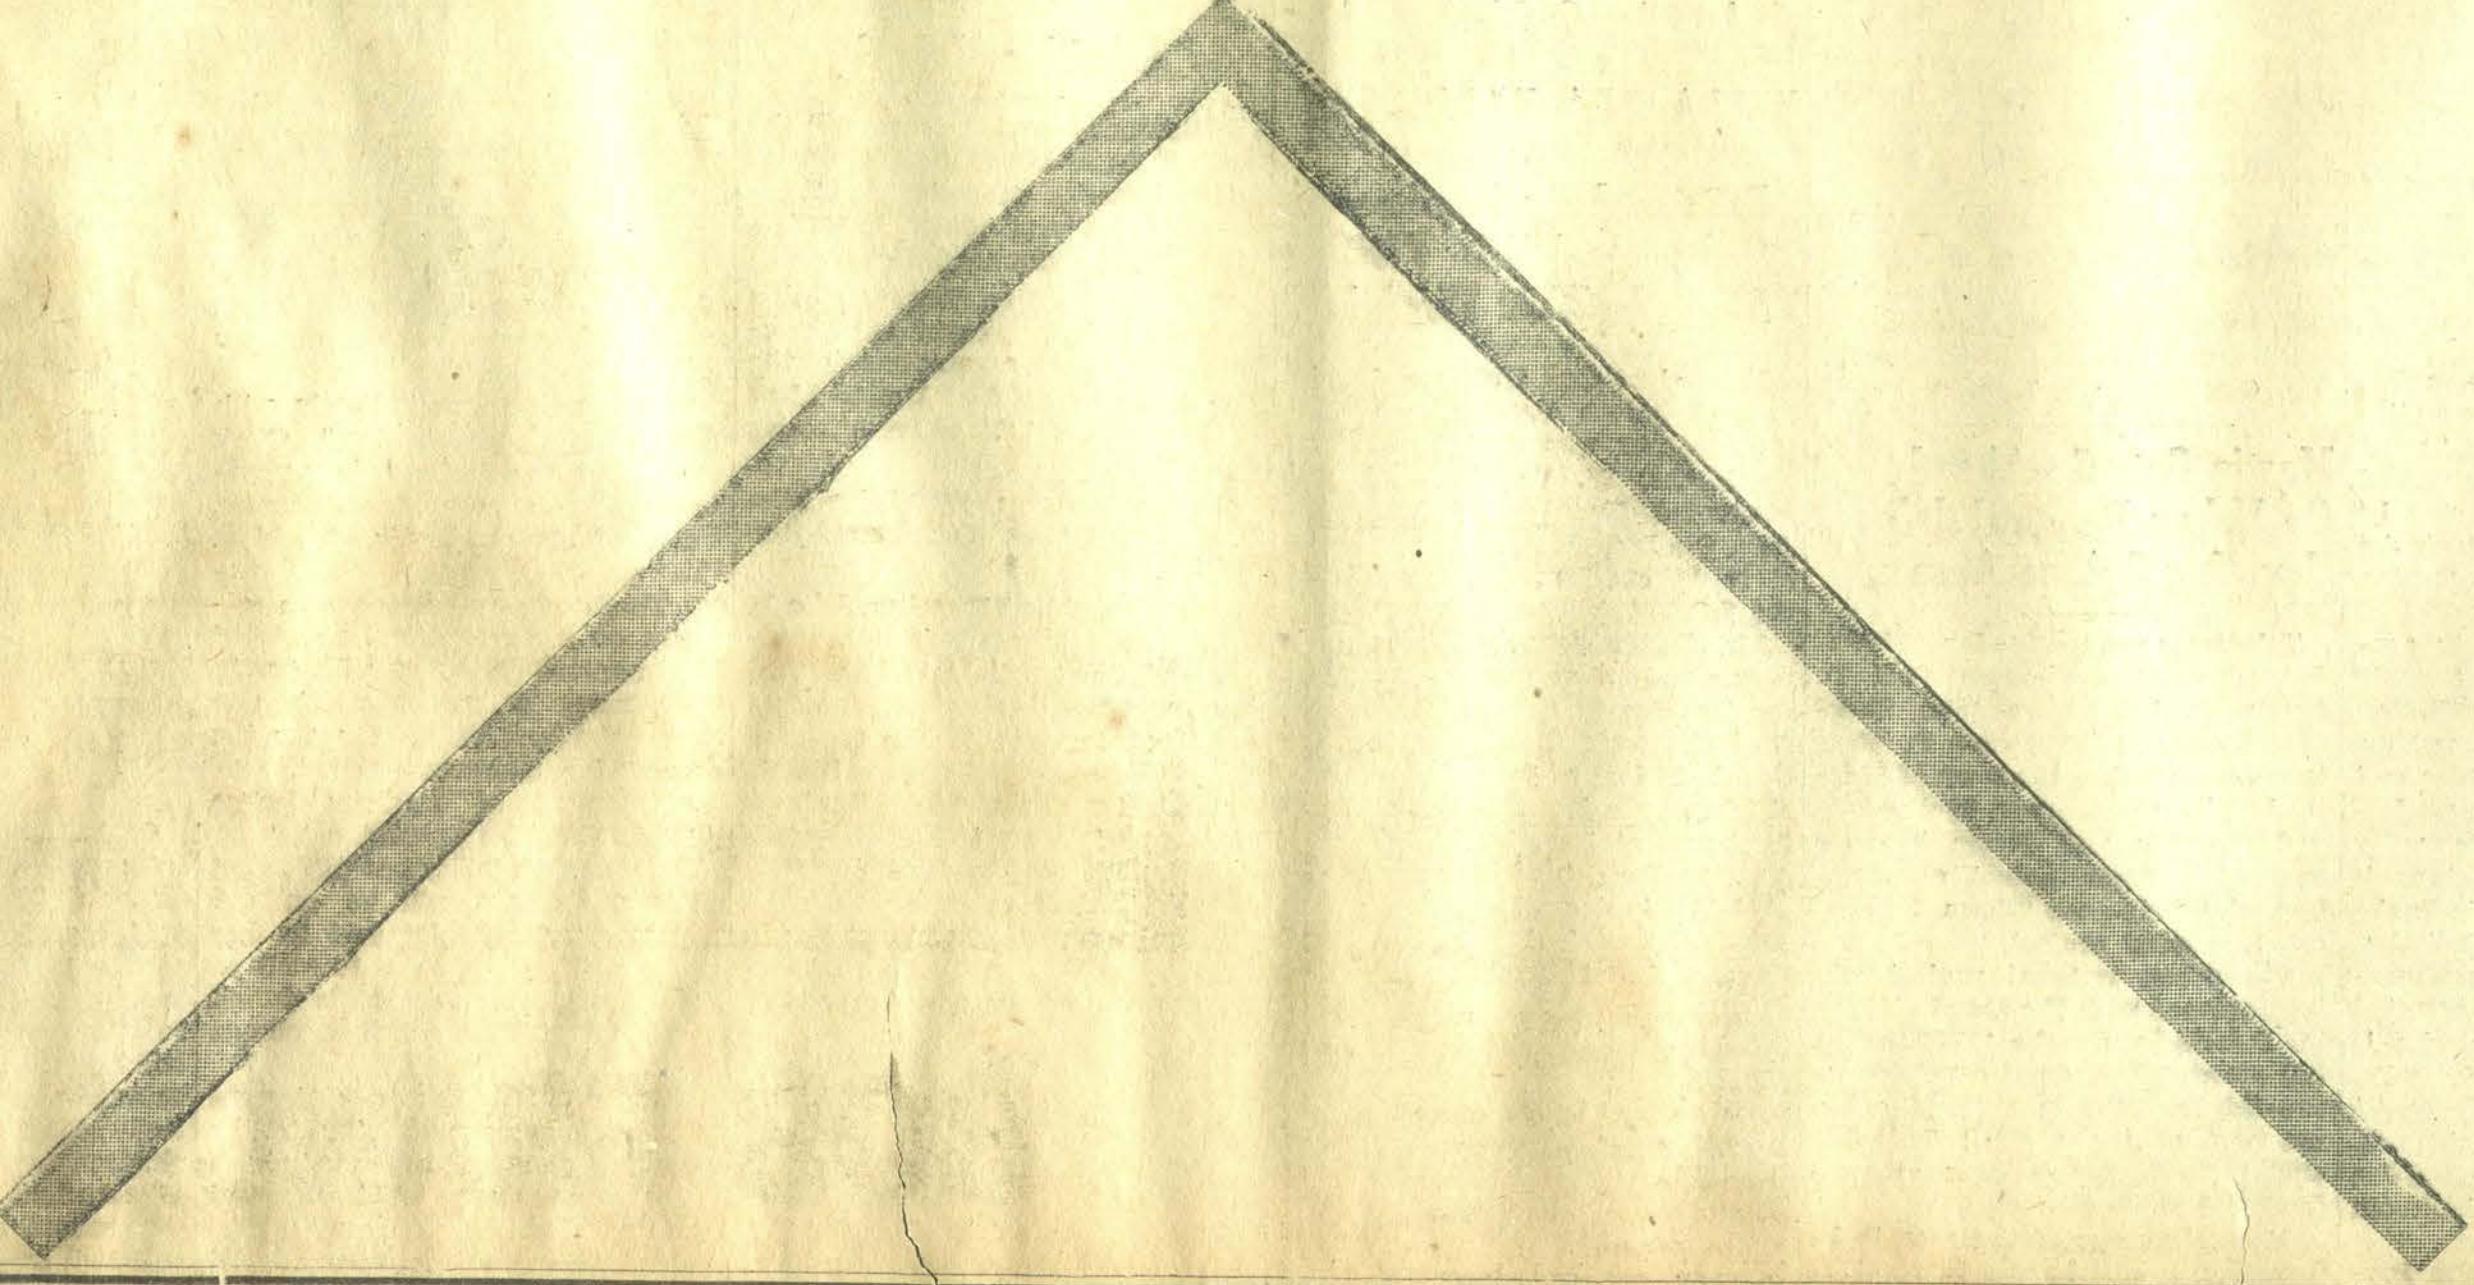

This Month Only!

Because The Times did not notify its subscribers of the 3% sales-usage tax on in-Kentucky subscriptions in time for them to renew before the effective date of the tax on July 1, we are bearing the tax ourselves through the month of July. (The truth is, we did not know till too late that subscriptions are taxable.)

Beginning August 1, we will be obliged to add the tax. That means that subscribers in Kentucky will pay $3.09 a year for The Times on and after that date. Out-of-state subscriptions, which are $4 a year, are not affected by the tax.

On that date we also will cancel all subscriptions that are in arrears more than one month. This is an absolute necessity because of the increasing cost of newsprint and newspaper production.

We May Be "Head Griper"

Rumblings have been heard from boat-owners already as the new boating law makes requirements that cause some inconvenience and a little expense.

We have as little taste for extra expense and trouble as anybody, but we will welcome the day when this law really gets into effect and results in some action being taken against reckless boat operators.

Dewey Lake, which at its widest point has an expanse of only a few hundred yards, is overrun by large craft driven by powerful motors. These in themselves are not bad, but their reckless operation, particularly on a small body of water, constitutes a threat to human life.

Perhaps we are being over-optimistic, but we can at least hope that Dewey Lake and other impoundments and waterways will under the new law be conscientiously policed to safeguard lives of the innocent from the crazy capers of the thoughtless, reckless or the plain drunk. (There is some drinking on Dewey Lake than many realize.) A little effort could also protect the lives of those who are thoughtless, reckless or intoxicated.

If the new boating law does not promote safety, protect lives and give even the slowest boater a chance for personal safety and enjoyment of his time outdoors, then will be the time for griping—and we will be Head Griper.

rescinding the previous order need clarification but that also would be needed a ruling from the Federal Deposit Corporation under which both banks operate. He contended the scholarship plan is equivalent to paying interest on a checking account.

Board Member Ray Howard then introduced a motion to accept the proposal, subject to its being declared legal, and John G. Hall seconded it. Followed a period of balloting among the other three members of the board, with Chairman John Stumbo being the only definite vote counted against the proposal. Mrs. Ethel Osborne and John Campbell demurred about voting against it but asked that a decision be deferred till legality of the First National proposal be determined and "to give the Bank Josephine a chance."

Spurlock remarked that he had never been given such consideration.

Finally, the Howard motion lost, 3-2, and Campbell's motion to wait till the next regular or special meeting of the board, the legality of the matter meanwhile to be tested, and at this next meeting — possibly around July 15—let both banks be represented at the meeting and a decision made.

The vote for a delay was finally made unanimous.

The athletic field program now is in the hands of the Prestonsburg high school P-T.A. Inc., which soon will initiate a drive to sell Youth Confidence Bonds and Certificates to raise the $30,500 needed exclusive of the board's contribution.

Said Byron M. Thompson, chairman of the P-T.A. committee which has been working for several months on the plan:

"I feel that the action of the Board and the Superintendent in approving the proposal was one of the finest exhibitions of straightforward interest in education in Floyd county. There was nothing about this of politics or prejudice or any of these other things that so often hurt. They are to be congratulated individually and collectively for their action. They gave us exactly what we asked for."

Thompson said the next step is to have detailed plans for the field completed by G. L. Shannon, architect, get these plans approved by the State Department of Education, then proceed with the work of raising the money needed. He told of the interest expressed by many individuals—some of whom live outside the Prestonsburg high school area—and of pledges of support he already has received.

Walter Mann objected to the athletic field on the ground that it will put his property on a dead-end street. He offered to buy a five-foot strip of land from the board but drew no reply.

The Youth Confidence Bonds to be offered would be retired over a period of 10 years, with the P-T.A. group operating two concession stands at the athletic field, staging "bowl" football games and other benefits. The board of education responsibility ends with its contribution.

Ex-Superintendent Virgil O. Turner was employed at Tuesday's meeting as materials specialist at a salary equal to that of a high school principal. His employment was opposed by Howard and Hall.

The board authorized Mrs. Margaret Spradlin to go to Lexington to study the Fayette county teacher pay system on a 10-month basis.

Romeyn C. Dyer, of Allen, was the low bidder on the repair of the Melvin school, and Steiner & Company, Huntington, W. Va., submitted the low bid on six 60-passenger school bus bodies. The Mountain Supply Company was low on all paint bids.

Mrs. Nancy Hodge resigned as teacher of the Rough & Tough school, and so did Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cook as teachers at Wheelwright high. A leave of absence was granted Wilbur Jamerson and Earl Hall, teachers. Arthur Bays was employed as janitor at Lackey and Cecil Burke Hall as bus driver at Betsy Layne.

The ceremony held the crowd in suspense as it awaited the Ordeal of the Tapping Ceremony. The Omaha tribal prayer was sung in darkness and the pipes of the council were lighted. Then two campfires burst into flame and the Eagle Dance, Hoop Dance, Dog Dance, and the Rattle Dance followed. In between, the story of the Indian nation, the Delawares, was narrated, relating how Indian youth had rendered cheerful service in saving their people from disaster.

Allen said it was the spirit of such an example of unselfish services that brought about the ceremonies. He said that the tapping of the boys was performed in three taps, symbolic of the three parts of the Scout Promise. The Scouts who stood in the light of the campfires did not know who would be selected for the honors. They were selected from each troop by secret vote counted by a committee of the Order of Arrow.

Allen said that the boys selected must subordinate the appetites of the body to the high purpose of the spirit, spend the night sleeping under the heavens, and use meager fare and eat only what was given him by the Ordeal Master, pay strict obedience to spend the following 24 hours in silence and arduous toil.

Twenty-three Scouts were tapped out for Ordeal Scouting as honor campers and 11 were selected for the brotherhood of Tomahawk Lodge.

Clifford Judd, lodge adviser, explained the brotherhood of cheerful service in telling the Delaware Indian legend.

Those tapped out for Tomahawk Lodge, the Order of Arrow, were: James Fisher, Norton, Va.; William Hurt, Jr., James Hurt, Lucien Meade and Tony Robinette, all of Pikeville; Ronald Blair, James Ward and Billy Deskins, all of West Van Lear.

The 23 Ordeal Scouts tapped out were:

Alex Bailey, Dennis Gibson, Gary Ousley and Paul Patton, all of Langley; William Bartley, Wheelwright; B. P. Allison, Whitesburg; Richard Joyce, Charles Arnett and Jimmy Cox, all of Keokee, Va.; Richard Titlow, Kenneth Ray Jennings, Allen Preston, Harold Mouser and Michael Burke, all of West Van Lear; Ray Burton, Van Lear; Deaton Smith, Jr., and James Holcomb, Jr., both of Norton, Va.; Joel Bowles, Donald Robinson, Gene Combs, Richard Wells and Larry Pinson, all of Pikeville; R. D. Smith, Sr., committeeman from Norton, Va.

Mrs. Kate A. Clark, 86, Of Mare Creek, Claimed; Was Former Postmaster

Mrs. Kate Adkins Clark, 86, of Mare Creek, was claimed at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, Saturday, at 5 p.m., following an illness of several months.

Mrs. Clark was a widow of the late J. C. Clark and a daughter of Wilburn and Margaret Wolfe Adkins.

For 18 years Mrs. Clark served as postmaster at the now discontinued postoffice of Wonder on Buffalo Creek and operated a general merchandise store at Wonder and at Mare Creek. She was a member of the Free Will Baptist church for 42 years.

Surviving is a son, Ballard Clark, and two sisters, Mrs. Vivian Blackburn and Mrs. Nora Maynard, all of Mare Creek. Surviving is a brother, Dick Adkins, of Amba, nine grandchildren, 16 great-grandchildren and 19 great-great-grandchildren.

as much as possible in the larger, more permanent mining operations.

Another new eligibility rule relates to pensions. It provides that no mine employment service can be credited toward pensions during the period a miner may be self-employed or in any way connected with the ownership, operation, or management of a mine.

There was no immediate estimate on how many miners would be cut off from benefits either by reason of being unemployed for a year or because of engagement in the "dog hole" operations. The welfare fund declined to make any immediate comment.

One factor that may have entered into the policy changes is that unemployed miners sometimes have been reluctant to accept other jobs while they still had medical-hospital care protection from the miners' fund. On being cut off from such benefits they may be more willing to accept other jobs.

The fund reported a year ago that it had reserves of $134,531,995. But it had to dip into reserves for about $11,000,000 in the preceding year because benefits exceeded income from a royalty on each ton of coal produced.

Miss Roche said in a statement that the changes were made to ensure sound administration of the trust. She said the welfare fund still has the most liberal benefits of any known plan of its kind and benefits nearly 750,000 persons.

Pianist For Liberatec

Daniel Craig Greer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Greer, of Wheelwright, has been selected to play, Sept. 9, 10 and 11, with Liberatec in the first Piano Festival to be held at the Kentucky State Fair.

Fifty young Kentuckians were chosen to appear with Liberatec in two performances daily during the three-day period. The famous pianist will perch on the summit of a three-tiered stage in Freedom Hall, with the youngsters arranged in tiers below him.

Daniel auditioned before judge Werner Zepernick, of Nashville, Tenn., in Richmond, Ky., June 17, with high hopes of appearing in the State Fair's "Piano Spectacular." He received a near-superior rating, and will play third piano. He is 14 years old and is the piano student of Arnold Weber, of Pikeville.

Small Lakes Planned To Make State Ideal Tourist, Fishing Area

With the designation of a low-bid contractor to build 210-acre Kincaid Lake in Pendleton county the state initiated a program to dot Kentucky with numerous small lakes as a boon to fisherman and tourists.

The projects will have funds of $1,000,000 the next biennium appropriated by the recent Legislature from the sales tax revenue. Kincaid Lake will cost $113,062.40.

Minor Clark, commissioner of Fish and Wildlife Resources, said the building of Kincaid Lake dam in northern Kentucky will be followed by numerous other projects in what is expected to be "the greatest lake-building program in Kentucky's history."

The dam will be 500 feet long and 62 feet high and will back water for five miles on Kincaid Creek and its tributaries.

Clark said a day park, swimming area and boat dock will be built.

"All sections of the state, especially Eastern Kentucky," Clark said, "should receive major benefits from the lake building program both economically and from a recreational standpoint."

"The over-all program is now being devised and soon new lakes will dot the landscape of Kentucky, to be a boon to fishermen as well as tourists and to furnish water in areas which are badly in need of sufficient water facilities."

The Department of Highways and the Department of Conservation are cooperating with the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources in the lake construction program.

"Home—The Hub of Good Citizenship" will be the theme of the national meeting.

Phone Numbers Change Set For Four Towns, Manager Simpson Says

Telephone numbers in Prestonsburg, Allen, Martin, McDowell and Wayland will be partially changed next year, it was announced this week.

Southern Bell Manager Byron Simpson said that all numbers in Floyd county will have seven numerals rather than the present name and five numbers.

He said the change will mean only that numerals will be substituted for the two letters now in front of all telephone numbers, and that the last five numerals will remain the same.

Why all numerals instead of two letters and five numerals? "For one thing," said Simpson, "the all-numeral calling system will make possible many more number combinations, and this is important for future growth. At present, there are many combinations which are not suitable because no easily understood central office name can be made from them. There are 800 combinations available using all numerals compared with about 540 using central office names."

Another reason, Simpson said, is that the new numbering system is necessary for Floyd county to participate eventually in the nationwide direct distance dialing network which will allow telephone users to dial their own long distance calls.

Yet another reason is that the new numbering system is better for direct distance calls, since many central office names in distant points are unfamiliar or easily misspelled.

The use of all numerals will also reduce errors in dialing and wrong numbers, Simpson said. He pointed out that extensive experiments and actual usage by telephone users have shown the all-numeral system to be faster and more accurate. People like it better because it does away with misspelled central office names and confusion between the letter "O" and the cipher zero, and between the letter "I" and the numeral "1."

The new system using seven numerals will be used throughout the United States, Simpson said.

Some examples of what your new number will look like is as follows: Prestonsburg TU 6-9000 will be 886-9000; Allen TR 4-9000 will be 874-9000; Martin BU 5-9000 will be 285-000; McDowell FR 7-9000 will be 377-9000; Wayland EL 8-9000 will be 358-9000.

This places mines in the two regions in a better competitive position with operators in Western Kentucky, it was noted. Mines in that part of Kentucky have enjoyed a lucrative trade with southern consumers for a long time.

The three North Carolina plants of the power firm will consume about 750,000 tons annually, it was announced by Clyde B. Pinson, Republican nominee for Congress at Huntington. He has been active for years in seeking a rate reduction to southern markets. Duke Power prefers Southern West Virginia and East Kentucky coal but bought from Western Kentucky purely on the basis of the preferred freight rate, he said. The new rate goes into effect Monday, the day that miners return from their annual vacation.

The swimming pool was closed the following day. Samples of the water from the pool, from the lake and from the drinking water reservoir were sent to the State Health Department laboratories at Frankfort. The drinking water was reported contaminated but no bacteria count was given. The water sample from the lake showed a 11,000 bacteria count per cc. Dr. Hall said a count of more than 1,000 is cause for action.

The sample from the swimming pool itself yielded a count of 110,000 per cc. The water used in the pool is untreated and is pumped from the lake. The health department officials warned the public against drinking from the lake. The high bacteria count is definite proof of fecal discharges entering the impoundment.

There are 243 homes in a distance of 10 miles above the Scout camp. Dr. Hall said, and he estimates that these represent a population in that part of the Johns Creek watershed of more than 1,000 persons. An engineer of the State Health Department is expected to arrive here this week to confer with Scout officials and the health department about work needed to be done before the swimming pool is reopened. The situation arising at Camp Shawnee has health authorities wondering about the water at the Stratton Branch swimming area. Some homes are located farther up Stratton Branch, on private property, and it is feared that area may be contaminated.

After arriving home, plaintiff says, her husband suffered intense pain and was returned to the hospital. He was received by a Dr. Williams as the doctor in charge at that time, according to her complaint, and the doctor refused to treat or to examine him and told those with Fairchild to take him home. He later was taken to the Prestonsburg General Hospital, where he died. Mrs. Fairchild claims the cause of her husband's death was the direct or proximate result of the injury sustained in the fall from the chair and the failure of the doctor to administer medical treatment. Her petition was filed by Atty. J. B. Clarke.

The Spears brothers name with Potter as co-defendants Joe, David, Reffer and Albert Justice and the Western Casualty & Surety Company. Their separate petitions, prepared by the law firm of Tackett & Tackett, say they were arrested July 10, last, and jailed at Pikeville on a charge of breaking and entering. They were indicted and given trial and were held not guilty.

Both allege false arrest, imprisonment and public trial, and claim they have suffered and still suffer great humiliation and embarrassment and that the stigma, "jail-bird," will remain with them throughout life. Each asks $20,000 damages.

A fourth suit, filed by Tuley Salisbury against Deputy Sheriff Harold Johnson and the Fidelity & Deposit Company, Johnson's surety, claims he was wrongfully arrested June 30, 1959, by the officer, that Johnson took charge of his truck and left it unguarded for a day and night. The contents were lost, destroyed, or stolen, Salisbury claims. He listed some of the missing items as fishing equipment, an electric drill, a tire and wheel, a folding cot, radio, etc. The amount sought is $598.80.

SALES TAX TO PROVIDE HEFTY TEACHERS' PAY

Kentucky's more than 24,000 elementary and secondary school teachers will receive pay increases totaling over $22 million for the forthcoming school year.

Wendell P. Butler, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, said:

"The state's new revenue program derived in part from the new sales tax, will provide $91,231,000 for teachers' salaries during the 1960-61 school year." This compares with $68,461,000 received in 1959-60.

The average increase for teachers holding at least an AB degree will range from $600 to $900 said Butler, although "pay increases may be greater in some districts and less in others."

"The pay increases are already having an effect," said Butler. "Superintendent from throughout the state are reporting that they are receiving applications from more qualified teachers than at any time in the past."

Butler added, "The quality of instruction in our schools will greatly benefit from the new revenue program as we will be able to keep highly qualified teachers who in past years have gone to neighboring states where pay increments have been greater."

The state funds for teachers' salaries are allocated to the districts through the Foundation Program which sets up seven training and salary ranks. The ranks with required salary levels are:

- Rank I—Master's Degree plus 24 additional college hours—$4,400.
- Rank II—Master's Degree—$4,100.
- Rank III—Bachelor of Arts of Science Degree—$3,800.
- Rank IV—Ninety-six to 128 semester hours work—$2,800.
- Rank V—Sixty-four to 95 semester hours work—$2,500.
- Rank VI—Thirty-two to 63 semester hours work—$2,100.
- Rank VII—Fewer than thirty-two semester hours work—$1,800.

In 1961-62, teachers with degrees will receive an average pay increase of $200 as a result of the new revenue program, and teachers without degrees will receive an average pay increment of $100.

More than 1,200,000 new textbooks will be purchased for free distribution to the public elementary school children of Kentucky during the forthcoming school year.

Butler said that in the 1960-61 school year "an estimated $2,300,000 will be provided the local school districts for free textbooks by the state's new revenue program, derived in part from the new sales tax."

Local school districts received $1,275,000 in state funds for textbooks in 1959-60.

"We hope to make up the present shortage of 1,500,000 books in three years," said Butler, "enabling us to provide every school child in Kentucky with the desired number of textbooks."

"Many of the 1,200,000 new textbooks which will be purchased in 1960-61 will simply replace old, worn-out books. Thus we anticipate that with the additional revenue of more than a million dollars a year, it will be at least three years until we can eliminate the 1,500,000 textbook shortage."

Butler also pointed out that the new revenue program will provide $540,000 in 1960-61 for public high school free textbooks. This will be the first time Kentucky high schools have received state funds for textbooks.

He estimated that the $540,000 will buy approximately one-fourth of the textbooks used at the high school level.

Reasons for the textbook shortage in addition to the previous lack of funds are: increased pupil enrollments; advances in textbook prices and broadening of the curriculum.

The new revenue program will in 1961-62 provide $2,300,000 for elementary textbook purchases and $550,000 for high school textbook purchases.

Subscription Rate
In State To Remain
At $3 Till August

The Kentucky sales tax, which went into effect last Friday, will apply to subscriptions and job printing. Advertising is exempt from the tax.

Because The Times failed to notify subscribers of the tax on subscriptions, it will continue the subscription rate in Kentucky at $3 a year until August 1. On and after August 1, however, the tax will be charged.

There is no sales tax on subscriptions mailed outside Kentucky. The rate per year for out-of-state subscribers is $4.

Milk Is A Bargain
In June or Anytime

Looking for a food bargain? Buy milk. June is Dairy Month and the time of peak dairy production; but, in terms of food value, milk is one of our least expensive foods all year 'round.

According to a study made a few years ago, 18 to 20 percent of the family food budget is spent for milk and milk products. Yet this money spent for milk buys 23-26 percent of the calories, 40-45 percent of the protein, 75-84 percent of the calcium, 59-76 percent of the riboflavin, 35-39 percent of the vitamin A, 18-19 percent of the thiamin, and 5-6 percent of the iron and niacin that your family needs each day.

The price of milk is the lowest ever, too—if measured by how much milk today's wages will buy. Back in 1890, to make enough money to buy a quart of milk at 8.8 cents, a factory worker had to work 26 minutes. But in 1959, less than seven minutes of work would buy a quart of milk at 25.2 cents.

You get more for your money when you buy milk today. Pasteurization and refrigeration assures you high quality and good flavor in almost any milk you buy. When you buy milk, less than half of your money goes to the farmer; the rest goes to pay for the processes necessary to get the milk from the farm to you—how, where and when you want it.

Insecticides Are Useful
Only When Used Safely,
Extension Service Notes

Insects outnumber humans 500,000 to 1. Imagine having to cope with 500,000 "bugs" all by yourself and you can appreciate the value of modern insecticides that clear your home of pesky insects. Yet these chemicals themselves can be dangerous unless used correctly, warns Frances Stallard, University of Kentucky Extension specialist in home management.

Insecticides are sold under various trade names and contain such chemicals as Chlordane, DDT, Malathion, Lindane, and Dieldrin. You can buy insecticides in sprays, dusts, bombs, and baits. Most of them are poisonous, so be sure to read and follow directions on all insecticide container labels for successful insect control and for your health and safety.

Miss Stallard gives some rules for safe use of insecticides.

Keep insecticides out of reach of children and pets. Baits are especially dangerous; the safest method is not to use baits at all, since they are not as effective as sprays. Keep children and pets off a sprayed surface until it is dry. If a child's blanket or clothing has been treated with moth preventive for storage, be sure they are washed or drycleaned before the baby uses them again.

Do not contaminate food, dishes or kitchen utensils when applying insecticides. Do not store insecticides with food supplies; always make sure insecticide containers are plainly labeled.

Be careful not to breathe in mist from a spray or dust. Don't spray out into a room, but confine spraying to the area around baseboards, door sills, window frames, etc. Insecticides can be painted on with a one-inch paint brush to avoid the mist from sprays.

Do not spray oil-base insecticides near an open flame, sparks or electrical circuits.

TOBACCO-INSECT RESISTANCE

The long-time breeding program undertaken a few years ago by the University of Kentucky Experiment Station's entomology department to attempt development of insect-resistant tobaccos is progressing. But, says Richard Thurston, researcher, the process is slow and it will be a "good many years" before it can be determined how successful it is.

WORLD'S BIGGEST AUGER IN USE BY RANIER IN KNOTT MINING JOB

By GORDON MOORE

A new type of mining, using one of the largest machines ever built, is revitalizing the coal fields of Eastern Kentucky.

In a remote area 2,500 feet above sea level on a ridge near the Knott-Perry county line at the head of Yellow Creek, is a vast strip and auger mine facility. The operation is 15 miles from Hazard.

This is happening in an area where deep mining has always prevailed, where 10 to 20 years ago roads and equipment now used were unthought of.

The area is experiencing a re-birth of the coal industry since the deep, underground coal was removed years ago. It is looking to the future with a planned program of reclamation. Fruit trees, scenic beauty, lumbering and other benefits are being derived after the coal has been eaten from this heretofore dormant field.

It's almost impossible to visualize a huge truck coming down a 10-degree slope loaded with tons of coal. Its contents were loaded in two minutes and 47 seconds by the world's largest coal auger.

It's hard to conceive the excessive tonnage of coal hauled five miles from the stripping and augering operation to a loading tippie at the head of Yellow Creek.

It's equally hard to comprehend the task of building a 60-foot graded highway for five miles in this hazardous, mountainous terrain.

This operation began last November under the capable supervision of Harry R. Ranier, Prestonsburg contractor, who has gained fame with his giant pipe-laying feats in the mountains of Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia.

This was new to Ranier, who had just finished a 32-mile pipe-line from Kentucky to West Virginia, acclaimed one of the major projects to be undertaken in this section.

Throughout the vicious winter, sometimes in as much as 12 inches of snow, Ranier moved his equipment and a crew of 30 men to begin the arduous task of building a road up the mountain and then around the ridge. On this project was much of Ranier's standard equipment, but many new pieces were needed. In constant use are four D-bulldozers, one large shovel, one 14 caterpillar-grader and other smaller dozers and trucks.

By mid-April the road was in condition to move in equipment necessary to conduct the mining operation. But even now, the huge grader makes at least two trips a day over the road to keep it passable for big trucks which make eight to 10 trips daily around, up and down the mountain.

The same equipment is used in "facing" the mountain. In a typical eight-hour day 15,000 to 20,000 yards of dirt will be moved. "Facing" is the term given to sloping the ground above the coal so the augers can move close enough to bore into the coal seam.

After the facing is completed, two 60-ton augers, each cutting 48-inches and capable of loading 300 tons of coal per hour, move in and start to work in the eight to 10-foot seam of top level coal.

Only recently Ranier and R. H. "Dick" Kelley, Hazard mining engineer and project supervisor, put into operation the world's largest auger. It weighs 90 tons, cuts an 84-inch swipe and bores 212 feet into the coal seam. Its capacity is 600 tons per hour.

This giant machine was designed and constructed by the Compton Company, of Clarksburg, with Kelley's suggestions and ideas going into it.

Kelley, who has spent a number of years in the coal business, is striving to fully revive the "dead" Hazard coal field. He is a man with ideas, devoted to the coal industry. He operates with a view to reclaiming the land. He visualizes hundreds of thousands of fruit trees. Reclamation may help to aid the unemployed in Perry and adjoining counties.

The auger, largest ever constructed, has an intricate system of hydraulic jacks and lifts. It propels itself around the mountain. It has seven, 30-foot bits, and a two-foot head.

Once a bit is extended into the coal seam, a lift lowers another bit from the side of the machine which is attached to the first bit until the 212-foot reach is affected.

The depth of the coal seam usually varies from 90 to 200 feet. Kelley estimates there is enough number nine top level coal in this section to keep the operation going for the next 9½ years.

A huge shovel also plays a major part in the project as it is used to strip the coal before the auger moves in and afterwards to clean-up. The stripped coal is blended with the augered coal to maintain a high-quality product. It is possible for this machine to load 2,500 tons of coal per day.

Once the coal has been loaded and the operation moves further around the ridge and into the coves Ranier's crew refills the holes left by the augers. Grass and fruit trees are planted to cover the mining scars.

There is little doubt, once the clean-up operation is finished the entire area could become spotted with mountain-top resorts, game preserves, grazing land, orchards, and timber land. The road is there, the natural beauty is there and the sloped side of the road is a natural fire barrier.

Visitors are welcome, and coal men from surrounding states are flocking in to watch this colossal project.

Owingsville Pastor Honored By Magazine; Receives Scholarship

Rev. George C. Frey, Owingsville, Ky., has been named "Rural Minister of the Year" in Kentucky by The Progressive Farmer magazine and Emory University School of Theology. He has been minister of the Owingsville Christian Church since 1927.

In connection with this honor he received a scholarship to the Town and Country section of the Church and Community Workshop at Emory University, Ga., June 21-July 7. To many people Rev. Frey is the "spiritual father" of Bath county. He is known for his promotion of Rural Life Sunday in the Owingsville area. For 20 years he held Sunday and mid-week services at Slate Valley Church in this county.

In 1933, Rev. Frey was named Rural Minister of the Year by the Disciples of Christ in Portland, Oregon. He is an active gardener, and during the war he headed a county garden committee to assist people in food production.

Rev. Frey has brought into the church many people who once turned away from it. Eighty per cent of the members of the Owingsville church once spurned membership, say Bath county sources.

PAINTSVILLE GOLF TOURNAMENT THIS WEEK-END

The 19th annual Paintsville Pro-Amateur golf tournament will be staged this week-end with some 275 golfers from three states expected to compete for prizes.

In size, the Paintsville affair is the biggest golfing event in Eastern Kentucky and the field annually out-numbers the Kentucky state amateur tournament.

Qualifying rounds may be played anytime this week through Friday. However, all scores must be in by 6 p.m., Friday evening, when the qualifiers will be paired in flights. There will be sixteen golfers in the championship flight and eight in all others.

Following the qualifying rounds all play will be match play with the lower flights playing their first round Saturday and the semi-finals and finals on Sunday.

The championship flight of 16 players will play their first and second rounds on Saturday and their semi-finals and finals on Sunday.

Turning to the play for professionals, there will be a 36-hole tournament for the pros, with 18 holes on Saturday and the second 18 on Sunday. There is $200 in prize money for the pros and an additional $50 for the pros and a prize for the amateurs in the pro-amateur tournament (one pro and three amateurs), which must be played on Friday.

Prizes will be awarded to the medalist and to the winner and runner-up in all flights. There will be no consolation matches in any flights.

Dr. Paul B. Hall, Paintsville, one of Kentucky's leading golf enthusiasts, said today that the course is in excellent condition and that the country club has all the necessary facilities to insure visiting linkmen of a comfortable stay.

Friday night the club will serve a chicken dinner to the contestants and on Saturday night will be the annual dinner-dance.

The Paintsville course is one of the finest and most beautiful 18 hole courses in the South. It features play up the hollows, across the Big Sandy River, over three lakes and numerous hazards of sand traps and bunkers.

Over-all yardage for the par 70 course is 6,176 yards. The back nine, which was the last addition to the course, is complete in every aspect with some of the best greens in the nation.

Lowell Hughes Awarded
Baseball Letter At UK;
Closes Collegiate Work

Special to The Times
Lexington, Ky. — Lowell Hughes, versatile University of Kentucky athlete for the past four years, has been awarded a baseball letter for play with the high-ranking 1960 Wildcats—his sixth varsity letter in three sports.

The former Prestonsburg high school sensation closed out his collegiate career with three football, two baseball and one basketball monogram to make for the even half-dozen.

Although unable to regain the form that made him a feared 302 hitter two seasons ago, Hughes developed into a creditable first-baseman for Coach Harry Lancaster's crew. A second-baseman as a sophomore, Hughes missed diamond action in '59 due to a leg injury and was introduced to the first base position when the team lacked someone for that spot this spring.

He ended the campaign as the squad's second-ranking fielder and had one of the better first base fielding averages in the school's history. An average of .163 was brightened by the fact that half of his hits were for extra bases, including three home runs. The graduated senior had 12 runs-batted-in.

The baseballers turned in an 18-8 record for the second straight year and finished third in the Southeastern Conference Eastern Division.

Six University of Kentucky spring teams combined to enjoy one of the most prosperous seasons in the school's athletic history. The '66 squads achieved 47 wins and a tie in 77 starts for a .617 percentage. Last year, the same six teams finished at .597 on 46 wins and 31 losses.

However, the winning percentage for all 14 university squads in the 1959-60 school year was .619 on a combined record of 101-62-1—a slight drop from last year's .664 mark based on a 160-50-2 record.

Twelve Floyd Students
On Pikeville College's Spring Term Honor List

Pikeville College's spring-semester honor roll of full-time students, listing exactly 100 whose grades for the last term averaged at least 2.00 (quality credits per semester hour), or B, was announced this week.

Included are 12 Floyd countians. Named are 27 freshmen, 20 sophomores, 18 juniors and 35 seniors of the 430 who took full-time work at Pikeville last spring. They represent 10 Kentucky counties—Floyd, Harlan, Johnson, Knott, Leslie, Letcher, Martin, Montgomery, Morgan and Pike—and the states of Arkansas, Georgia, Ohio, Virginia and West Virginia.

The Floyd countians on Pikeville's honor roll are seniors Michael T. Auxier, Emma; Toby Ann Bussey, Prestonsburg; Sam Martin, Jr., McDowell, and Hope Spradlin, Prestonsburg; juniors Lois Allen, Martin; Herschel Flanery, Harold; Nadine Hall, Orkney, and Paul D. Stepp, Prestonsburg; sophomores Webble Blevins, Langley; Wendell Lee Martin, Lancer, and Raymond D. Wells, Emma; and freshman Ray Jones, Bevinville.

Boat Owners
Have Three Weeks
To Register

Frankfort, July 5—Boat owners in Kentucky are expected to have only three weeks in which to complete boat registration before the August 1 deadline.

Scott Barbour, director of the Division of Boating, said boat registration blanks should be in all Circuit Court Clerk offices by July 5. Barbour estimated that between 65,000 and 70,000 boats will be registered during this period.

The biggest snag in the boat registration program will be a lack of bills of sale by persons registering their boats, he said.

"The boat owner who does not have a bill of sale may obtain the equivalent of one from us," he said, "by giving the Circuit Court clerk all the information available on his boat."

"This includes a description of the type boat it is, serial number, length overall, beam (extreme breadth), height, draft, maximum capacity, type of hull material, date of purchase and delivery date," Barbour said.

Every boat must be registered, even though it may already have a number issued by the Coast Guard, Barbour emphasized. Entirely new numbers will be issued. No matter how many times the boat changes hands, the number will remain the same as long as the boat floats, he said.

Registration fee for Kentucky boats will be $3 for boats up to 16 feet, $5 for those 16 to 28, $8 for those 28 to 40, and $10 for those over 40 and all inboards, plus an added fee of 50 cents for the clerk.

BATTLE OF HALF MOUNT OR PUNCHEON, APRIL 14, 1864

The Battle of Half Mount, or as it is sometimes called, the Battle of Punccheon, was fought between a brigade of Confederates commanded by Col. Ezekiel F. Clay and a pursuing Union force led by Col. G. W. Gallup, of Louisa. Site of the battle was near the Meadows of Licking, under the shadow of Half Mount, a few miles from Royalton, Kentucky, on the Licking River.

Col. Clay was shot in the head and lost his eyesight. Several Unionists claimed credit for wounding and capturing the Confederate leader. This fight was the last of any importance in Eastern Kentucky during the Civil War and peace soon returned to the strife-torn region. A winding road now crosses the frowning mountain that once looked down on embattled Americans.

The First National Bank presents these pictures of our historic region as a bit of its friendly service with the hope they will contribute to your understanding of our historic heritage.

But don't overlook these things: What you buy here can be in your home in a few minutes—no waiting several days for delivery. And if the merchandise doesn't give full satisfaction, any needed service or adjustment of the purchase can be made without shipping the items back to the BIG CITY or being forced to make a second trip yourself.

Tidbits Of Kentucky Folklore

THEY SPEECH BETRAYETH THEE

Through many years I have studied and taught language and have always been interested in local speech or dialect. Probably nothing has been more discussed and less understood than the actual differences between the speech of one area and another. Casual observers often believe themselves able to tell, like the professor in Shaw's "Pygmalion," just where someone has come from. Most of such wisecracks are to be trusted only as far as you could throw the proverbial bull by the tail.

There is no Kentucky speech as such. Whoever thought so should travel around a bit, and he would find many species of language here. There are a few areas that are distinctive, but no single one of them is large. Some months back I discussed the "Island of the Old South," the area in Logan, Christian and Todd counties that really speaks a broad Southern, as broad as that of Georgia. No other single area does this, however; in fact, Southern in its true form is rare elsewhere in Kentucky and is largely a matter of an individual or a family. The rest of the people in the state speak various sorts of Middle Western and leftovers. Most of us speak Middle Western, with a few words and expressions from Southern, like "you-all," "reckon," "carry," etc. Our tones, though, are rarely Southern; our r's even more rarely so.

A large part of the state, and not the mountains alone, speaks a variety of English that is decidedly a left-over from older times. People who have investigated this speech in our mountains naturally conclude that only there does this Elizabethan vocabulary, and, often, tones, survive. Nearly every county in which I have visited has some of these same left-overs, varying from a very few to a large vocabulary. It has been the custom for younger people to sneer at this speech not aware that it bears the same relation to our present-day speech that antique furniture does to our latest models. Only a scholar can appreciate the flavor of this true-blue English dialect.

Much is made by some people of our dropping our r's. Frankly, most Kentuckians do not drop r's. On the contrary, they add them more often than they drop them. The people who talk genuinely Southern do soften their r's, but educated and illiterate people in general keep them. Words ending in vowels quite often add an r. Ida, Ada, Emma, fellow, pillow—many, many times they appear as if spelled Ider, Emmer, Ader, fellor, piller. And they are only a few of the many words that acquire an r. In western and southwestern Kentucky, with the exception of the region already de-

ALLEN FAMILY

Mrs. Irma Wicker Haney, of Hodgenville, Ky., contributes a letter she received from Mrs. LaVerne R. Crandell, Snowflake, Ariz. It follows:

"A few weeks ago Genealogical News Letter sent me your name as one interested in Allen families of North Carolina. I hope you are working on the same Allen line I am interested in. Perhaps we may be able to help each other.

"I am seeking the birthplace and parentage of Samuel Allen, born Dec. 30, 1756. He may have been an only child as far as we can find out. He was a Revolutionary War veteran—enlisted in the militia at Bedford Court House, Virginia, in Captain Davis Grissom's Company, Colonel Jefferson's Regiment. In July, 1782, he enlisted for a third term of duty of 18 months but his mother took seriously ill and he paid Robert Childress to substitute for him in finishing out his term of duty.

"Before his third enlistment he moved from Virginia to North Carolina, Samuel married Nancy Eastler, August 27, 1782, of Orange county, North Carolina.

"Children of Samuel and Nancy were: John, born 1783, m. Rachel McDonald; Frances (Franky), born 1788, m. Martha Harris; Samuel, Dick; Rial, born 1788, m. Margaret Moore Evans; David, born 1788, m. Martha Harris; Samuel, born 1799 (?), m. Nancy Spears.

"About 1783 Samuel Allen and his family together with the families of Adams, Easter, Warren, Evans and others left Chester county, South Carolina, and went north to Kentucky where he settled on a beautiful stream. He tilled the soil and raised thoroughbred cattle and horses. This was about nine miles from Somerset, Pulaski county, Ky.

"He applied for a war pension when he was 72 years old in Pulaski county. Samuel's son Rial is my line; Samuel Allen, Rial Allen, Lewis Allen, Tabitha Jane Allen (my grandmother), Melvina Elizabeth Freeman (my mother)."

ANENT MRS. WILEY

The following letter from Sigfus Olafson, 81 Chatsworth Avenue, Larchmont, New York, dated June 24, is self-explanatory.

"I have just read in the West Virginia Hillbilly an article by Gordon Moore, probably a reprint from the Huntington Herald-Advertiser, what you are doing about reviving the memory of Jenny Wiley. I lived in West Virginia many years, was interested in local history, and this reminds me of something I ran across which has a slight bearing on Jenny Wiley.

"About 1770, at any rate it was before Lord Dunmore's War, a survey was made for some Virginians which began at the Ohio and extended up the easterly side of Sandy River to a stream called War Creek in the survey. Dunmore's War started soon afterward and the American Revolution just after that and with it more Indian troubles which continued into the 1790's, so it was more than 20 years before the owners, tried to take possession of it. By that time a few venturesome settlers had come in and acquired land on Sandy and Tug Fork. The creeks had new names and no one knew where War Creek was. The owners of this survey claimed it was Big Pigeon Creek in Mingo county and that it had formerly been known by that name, while the owners of land in that section claimed it was a stream much farther down that entered Big Sandy within present Wayne county. The dispute resulted in litigation and was tried in the United States District Court at Lewisburg, West Virginia, and a number of depositions were taken from the early settlers and offered in evidence.

"Many years ago there was a County Clerk of Cabell county who was interested in things like that, whose name I do not now recall. He had copied some of these depositions, typed them, and pasted them on the inside covers of some of the county record books, either an early deed or surveyor's book, which is where I saw them. Probably they are still there.

"I recall that one witness in his testimony identified a certain date by saying he was then at Vancouver's trading post and it was the year they found Jenny Wiley and brought her there. This testimony was given in 1816 so it was well within her lifetime. The story as I have heard it is that after she made her escape she met or was found by some white men on the stream in Wayne county still called Jenny's Creek, who took her to safety. At any rate she was associated with this creek in some way because it has borne her name ever since this episode.

I have seen in the records of the late 1700's a few references to Vancouver's trading post but not being very familiar with the area or its local history its location is not clear to me, though I get the impression that it was at or near the forks of Sandy, in the vicinity of Ft. Gay, West Virginia, or Louisa, Ky. It is described as being on Sandy."

AREA SCOUT STUDIES MADE BY UNIVERSITY

The needs, concerns, activities, interests, and organizational memberships of 11-to-13-year-old boys are revealed in a preliminary report received by the Lonesome Pine Council, Boy Scouts of America, from the national office of the organization. Byron F. Pennebaker, Scout executive of the council, told of some of the findings.

The study was recently completed for the Boy Scouts of America by the Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan. The findings are based upon individual interviews conducted by trained adult interviewers with 1,435 (11-13 year old boys) selected from all over the United States by probability sampling methods.

The Boy Scouts of America sought to learn all it could through this process. This is a companion study to one conducted for them by the same research organization five years ago dealing with 14, 15, and 16-year-old boys.

"These are in a sense the 'summit years' of being a boy. They are generally full of activity and fun and come just before the tensions and complexities of adolescence.

Some of the study's findings? Forty-one per cent do not belong to any organized club or group such as the Boy Scouts, Y.M.C.A., church, or school clubs.

Fifty-six per cent do not belong to any kind of organized athletic team or program.

Those living in big cities and rural areas are least likely to belong to club groups. Those who live in small cities are those most likely to belong to club groups.

Among the boys interviewed, 25 per cent are Boy Scouts.

Forty-four per cent belong to national activity clubs including Boy Scouts.

Eighteen per cent belong to school clubs, 18 per cent to church clubs, and 4 per cent to other clubs.

Activities for their own sake and experimentation with new activities are clearly strong needs for this age.

Out of 38 typical activities, less than 50 per cent of the boys have experienced only 11 of the activities.

Among all who participated, the level of expressed enjoyment is exceedingly high. Only gardening drops below 80 per cent and that to only 70 per cent.

Even for those activities actually experienced by very few 11-13 year olds, such as water skiing (9 per cent), sailing (12 per cent), and skin diving (13 per cent), the proportion who have participated and liked the activity plus those who think they would like it (if they had a chance) brings water skiing to 64 per cent, sailing to 71 per cent, and skin diving to 65 per cent.

Sixty-five per cent are concerned, or worry, about achievement, about "passing" or making the grade. This is true, despite the fact that 66 per cent of them spend less than one hour per day on homework.

In contrast, 90 per cent of them spend one hour or more per day watching television and 41 per cent confess to three or more hours at the TV set.

Fifty-four per cent have some ways of earning some money—not allowance—in or outside the family, but for 70 per cent of these, this requires six or less hours per week.

As they dream about their future adult occupations, one sees more clearly the extent of unreality in their expectations.

Sixty-three per cent plan (now) to be professional men, with engineers, doctors and scientists leading the parade; 12 per cent to be professional athletes and players; 5 per cent plan to be business men.

They are heavily dependent upon their families.

When they grow up, 53 per cent want to be like some relative or member of their immediate family.

Thirty-four per cent pick their own father as the image; 12 per cent pick sports, TV, or movie stars, and 9 per cent pick popular heroes.

BOYD COUNTY CITY RAPPED

Utility Representative Charges City Clean-Up Desired By Industry

Rufus P. Thomas, Ashland, industrial representative of the Kentucky Power Company, revealed Tuesday at Catlettsburg that two major plants are scheduled for construction in the Big Sandy valley but at the same time he told community leaders that Catlettsburg needed cleaning up.

"I am ashamed to bring visiting industrialists through parts of your city."

Within the next five years, Thomas said, there will be two big new plants on the Big Sandy between the $29,000,000 Kentucky Power plant and the $4,500,000 Pittsburgh Chemical Company project.

Kentucky Power plans to start construction of its plant near Fallsburg soon, while Pittsburgh Chemical already has started.

Thomas added that industrial development in the tri-state area of Kentucky, West Virginia and Ohio will have a tendency to take care of itself. He said parts of the city's business district were a blight on the tri-state area.

Thomas declined to elaborate on what the other plants would be, but indicated they would employ thousands.

Citing Hazard as an example of a city that has improved itself through modernization, Thomas recommended Catlettsburg start a main-street renovation program.

He also urged that the city improve the caliber of its public schools.

Harold Freedman, Catlettsburg Chamber of Commerce president, said a committee was being named to make a survey of the business district and recommendations toward improving its appearance.

Thomas said Catlettsburg is the geographical center of the tri-state area of Kentucky, Ohio and West Virginia, and because of its location at the mouth of the Big Sandy, has great potential as a business center.

White Summer Garments Need Special Attention

White—in a variety of fabrics for all ages and at all price levels is much in fashion this summer. But the old-time method of washing in hot water, bleaching and hanging in the sun may not be the way to keep today's fabrics white.

Clean white garments promptly and often. The longer the soil remains, the more difficult it is to remove. Follow the care directions on the hang-tag (be sure to keep hang-tags from new garments until you are familiar with the recommendations).

Many of today's white cottons and blends are treated with a resin finish to make them more wrinkle-resistant and easier to iron. Some of these finishes turn yellow when a chlorine bleach is used. If the label doesn't give information on this, it is safer not to use a chlorine bleach.

High temperatures—hanging in very hot sunshine, tumbling in a dryer on "hot" setting, or pressing with a hot iron—also may cause yellowing of white fabrics treated with a resin finish.

Wash white garments separately. The synthetics (nylon, orlon, arnel, dacron) or blends of these, especially, pick up soil and die easily from other garments. Colored trimmings may run on the white in washing, too. If you wash them, use warm water and a mild soap or detergent; do not soak.

Before trying to remove a spot from a white garment, check the effect of the spot remover on a hidden area of the fabric, such as a seam or facing, spot removers sometimes yellow white garments.

MOUNTAIN DISTRICTS LOSE IN POPULATION

Although Kentucky gained 78,242 people in the last ten years, according to preliminary figures released by the Census Department two of the state's eight Congressional districts lost heavily. Losing were the Seventh and Eighth districts in the eastern mountain region.

Losing heaviest in the decennial enumeration of people was the Seventh district composed of 20 counties. Only two counties, Rowan and Boyd, registered gains. In Rowan there was only an insignificant gain of 26 persons. Industrial Boyd county increased 1,594. Loss to the district was 69,380 persons; a decline from 497,180 to 417,800 people.

Heaviest number of losses in the Seventh district were in the counties of Floyd, Bell, Letcher, Perry and Pike. Floyd lost 12,017 and Pike's population declined 14,253.

The Eighth Congressional district, composed of 17 Southeastern Kentucky counties, lost 89,455 in population. All counties in the political subdivision lost. Population declined from 399,490 in 1950 to 310,035 in the recent enumeration. Bell county lost 24,109 and Harlan 20,986. Many other counties in the district with smaller populations had high percentage losses.

Highest gains in Congressional district gains went to the First and Third districts.

The nation's population now stands at 179,500,000 according to tentative figures of the Census Department. Only three states and the District of Columbia failed to chalk up gains. States failing to gain were Arkansas, Mississippi and West Virginia. The latter state lost 7.8 per cent of its population and Mississippi declined 7.2 per cent. Mississippi's decline was only .8 of one per cent. Remaining to be tabulated are members of the armed forces overseas and persons failed to be reached at home when the enumerators called.
