This Town-- That World

No, Egbert, "retired" does not mean you're tired all over again.

THE ALIBI SEASON

The squirrel season has already produced more alibis than fishing can drum up with all 12 months of the year open to anglers. The Dewey Lake game refuge didn't come up to the expectations of many hunters, and you should have heard the reasons for their disappointment; Leaves too dry, no food for squirrels in those hills, more hunters than there were squirrels, the shells they make these days are no good, couldn't watch for squirrels for fear of stepping on a snake—everything but complaints about the water being too hot and too many boats on the lake.

All of which reminds me of the fellow I once knew who seldom brought in a squirrel but always had a story to tell of "hanging" them in trees and having to leave them behind, although his aim had been absolutely unerring. This continued so long they called the woods he hunted in "The Purified Forest."

LITTLE WONDER!

You wonder why farmers gripe and complain about everything from the signs to the weather, with choicest epithets reserved for high taxes and bad roads? Read what The Southwest Farm Journal quotes the president of the Rio Grande Valley (Texas) Farm Bureau as saying:

A cotton shirt costs more to be laundered one time than the farmer gets for all the cotton in it.

The cellophane bag containing carrots costs three times as much as the carrots in it.

HALE SEEKS COOPERATION On City Clean-Up Job; Financial Aid Needed To Continue Work, Said

Councilman Watt Hale, chairman of the Clean-Up committee of the Prestonsburg development program, said Tuesday that this phase of the community undertaking is already under way but that the cooperation of Prestonsburg's property-owners is badly needed.

The clean-up job began, as planned, at the Cliff bridge and is working toward the upper limits of town. Roadside debris and accumulations from vacant lots and side streets are claiming most attention. Hale said property-owners in the lower section of Prestonsburg where the city employees are now working have cooperated beautifully.

"But this cooperation must continue on the length of Prestonsburg," he said, "if our job is to be done as it should be done. We are operating on very limited finances, and public support with cash is needed."

He said individuals or firms who want to help the work financially should contact him, Lawrence Bray or Vinson Shepherd. The Councilman, who is serving without pay, also urged property-owners whose lots are now being cleaned up to try to keep them clean.

FLOYD COUNTY TEACHERS GET SALARY BOOST

$330-$930 Differential Spread Thru Seven Ranks By New Salary Schedule

The healthy influence of the revenue to be derived from the sales tax was reflected in the hefty raises accorded Floyd county teachers for the ensuing year. Increases in salary run from $330 in Rank VII to $930 in Rank I, according to the schedule presented to the teachers by County Superintendent Charles Clark at the meeting of consolidated teachers at Martin, Monday.

Teachers in Rank I with 46 hours above a Master's degree and no experience will receive $4,250 this year. With ten years experience added the teacher will be paid $4,600. Last year these teachers received $3,320 and with ten years experience, $3,670.

Increases were made on a differential basis to favor teachers who have earned the greatest number of credits. The differential was set up under provisions of the Minimum Foundation Law for Education enacted by the General Assembly in 1956.

The increases were spread into three categories, the $330 raise going to teachers in Rank VI and VII. Ranks IV and V received increases of $430 and Ranks I, II and III were given $930.

Experience is paid on a graduating scale as last year, it was noted from the schedule. Teachers in Rank VII will be paid for a maximum of three years; Rank VI, four years; Rank V, five years; Rank IV, six years; Rank III, eight years; and Ranks I and II, a maximum of ten years.

Salaries for last year and salaries for the present terms experience excluded are listed below with the 1959-1960 salaries given first for Grade A, top in that rank:

Rank I—$3,320, $4,250; Rank II—$3,650, $3,980; Rank III—$2,840, $3,770; Rank IV—$2,370, $2,800; Rank V—$2,115, $2,545; Rank VI—$1,865, $2,215; and Rank VII—$1,570, $1,900.

There is a difference as last year of $35 between the three classifications of the different ranks, depending upon the number of college hours each teacher has.

PICK MARTIN AS CHAIRMAN

Of Campaign Committee; Democrats Hold Meeting In Courthouse, Friday

State Senator Burnis Martin was named Democratic campaign chairman for Floyd county at a meeting of party members at the courthouse last Friday evening.

The meeting, called by County Chairman Edward B. Leslie, was attended by approximately 80 persons. No other work toward immediate organization was done, but Martin said this week he has contacted several Democratic leaders about serving in various posts.

One of his first official acts was to name a committee of high school principals, both Democrats and Republicans, to promote voter registration by the Sept. 10 deadline. "This is a non-partisan work in which we all can take part," Martin commented. He said he chose high school principals because they are interested in promoting the exercise of the ballot by all citizens, regardless of party affiliations.

Speakers at the meeting were Joe P. Tackett, Alex H. Spradlin and the campaign chairman, Mr. Martin.

HOUSE OKEHS SAFETY BILL

For Small Coal Mines; Exemption Is Removed In Safety Regulations

A bill bringing small coal mines under federal safety regulations for the first time was approved last Thursday by the House Labor committee.

The committee accepted a Senate-passed bill without change in hopes of completing Congressional action on it before the current session ends.

The measure would remove the existing provision under which mines employing fewer than 15 men are exempt from the safety regulations.

Those employing eight or fewer, however, would be given special appeal rights from a federal order closing a mine for safety reasons. (See Story No. 4, Page 7)

HEART DISEASE RATE HIGH IN FLOYD COUNTY

Special to The Times
New York, Aug. 25—Heart disease is found to be responsible for 39 per cent of all deaths in Floyd county.

The figure is given by the U. S. Public Health Service in its new annual report covering vital statistics in every section of the country. Locally, as in most areas, heart disease dwarfs all other diseases as a threat to life. The dramatic cures for which medical scientists have been searching for many years still elude them.

27 MACHINES ARRIVE HERE

For November Election; Stumbo Says Other Bids Were Received Too Late

Twenty-seven of the 35 voting machines ordered for Floyd county have arrived and are in storage here against the day of their first use in November, County Judge Henry Stumbo said this week. The remaining eight are expected shortly.

The machines were purchased from Shoup Electric Voting Machines by the Department of Revenue on the basis of previous correspondence with the Floyd fiscal court and county judge.

Two bids were received on supplying voting machines, and the Shoup machine was quoted at a price slightly higher than the other. The state held, however, that the counties were not required to buy from the lowest bidder.

County Judge Stumbo said this week that the Shoup machine was the only one ever demonstrated here to members of the court and that no information was at hand on the competing machine, Former State Senator Ollie Montgomery, representing Shoup, demonstrated his company's product here more than a year ago, and at that time the court tentatively contracted to buy several machines from him. The purchase order later was cancelled.

Judge Stumbo said he received from the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce a letter suggesting purchase of the machine produced by Shoup's competitor, since it is manufactured in Kentucky, but he said the letter was not received till after the Shoup machines had been bought.

Politicians and others acquainted with Floyd elections and voters are fearful that lack of acquaintance with the new device may cause some voters to fail to vote. Some of these expressed the hope one of the machines may be put into use for demonstration purposes at the courthouse, well ahead of the November election.

HEALTH DEPT. SETS CLOSING

Five-Day Week Planned To Eliminate Saturdays As Work Day, Announced

The Floyd County Health Department, last of the health departments in this area to remain open Saturday mornings, is going to a five-day week, closing its work-week at the end of the day on Friday.

The new closing time was adopted at the August 23 meeting here of the Floyd County Board of Health.

In the discussion of the new closing time it was pointed out that (1) state regulations require the office to remain open five days a week, as do state offices; (2) Floyd county's is the only health department in this area that is open on Saturday's, and (3) to keep the office open till noon on Saturday demands extra time of office personnel which must be given them on another day, with the result that a day's planned work during the week is lost.

For the present the health department has set aside Monday and Thursday afternoons for the convenience of teachers desiring physical examinations. The health department is urging all teachers who can do so to go to their private doctors for examinations and thus leave more time for the health department to render badly needed services to indigent and school children.

Another order of the health board called on Circuit Judge (See Story No. 5, Page 6)

However, they have scored partial victories and hope for bigger ones. Their recent successes include a way to prevent little strokes from developing into serious ones, progress in treating rheumatic heart disease and new anticoagulants for blood clots.

The 39 per cent mortality among Floyd county residents was somewhat lower than the 55 per cent average reported for the United States.

It was lower, also, than the 52.1 per cent rate in the East-South-Central states.

An indication of the size of the heart disease problem in the United States is given by the National Health Education Committee, which has been campaigning for bigger federal expenditures for general medical research. It states that only $400 million a year is spent that way, although disease and disability take an annual toll of $35 billion, or 88 times as much.

The cost to heart sufferers, in wages alone, is placed at $1 billion a year, based on a loss of over 69 million man-days.

In Floyd county, the number of deaths of local people from all causes during 1958, as shown in the new federal report, totaled 315, of which 123 were due to heart ailments. Excluded were deaths locally of non-residents.

The outstanding culprit was coronary heart disease, which took 52 lives in the year.

JOB ACCIDENT CLAIMS VET

Bud Kermit Hamilton, 27-year-old Korean War veteran, died by electrocution while working at Hite Wednesday morning.

Hamilton, a resident of Printer, was a contractor and was drilling in a septic tank at Hite, using a 110-volt drill. A short-circuit in the drill was blamed for his electrocution.

Besides his parents, he leaves his widow, Mrs. Eva Lawson Hamilton, three sons, Bud Hamilton, Jr., Jerry Daniel and Raymond Dwight Hamilton, and the following brothers and sisters: Frank Hamilton, Ypsilanti, Mich.; Jake Hamilton, Wayne, Mich.; Billy Edward Hamilton, Jacksonville, Fla.; Mrs. Ida Belle Charles, Zebulon, Ky.; Mrs. Hazel Sexton, Hueysville, Mich.; Bessie Elliott, Wyandotte, Mich.; Mrs. Tessie Hall, McDowell; Mrs. Edith Spurlock, Oak Hill, Ohio; Mrs. Arcolas Howell, Hi Hat, and Mrs. Ruth Porter, Ypsilanti, Michigan.

Mrs. Hamilton gave birth at Our Lady of the Way hospital, Martin, to a daughter this morning (Thursday), less than 24 hours after her husband's death.

The funeral, for which arrangements were incomplete Wednesday noon, will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday from the residence, and burial will be made in the family cemetery at Grethel, the Hall Brothers Funeral Home directing.

FREAK PLANT MISHAP FATAL

To Walter Newsome, 24, In Indiana; Funeral Rites Set, Friday

Explosion of an emery wheel cost the life late Monday afternoon of Walter Newsome, 24, former Ligon man as he was working in a Kendallville, Ind., industrial plant.

Newsome died almost instantly as a part of the wheel struck him on the head.

The victim was a son of Roosevelt Newsome and the late Mary Newsome. His father and his bride of 29 days, Mrs. Betty Jo Collins Newsome, survive, as do the following brothers and sisters: Emery and Bert Newsome, both of Ligon, Mrs. Virgie Collins, of Morgan county, and Mrs. Bertha Reynolds, of Ohio. He also leaves several half-brothers and half-sisters.

The body was returned to the home at Ligon of Emery Newsome where funeral rites will be conducted Friday at 10 a.m., by the Revs. Sam Adkins and Jerry Hall. Burial will be made in the new Hamilton cemetery on Tinker Fork under direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

ANNEXATION IS OPPOSED

By Dwale Residents; Allen Seeks Expansion Of Corporate Limits

A suit filed in circuit court last Thursday asks that the city of Allen be enjoined from annexing to its corporate limits an area which includes the unincorporated village of Dwale. The suit was in response to recent action taken by the city of Allen toward annexation.

One hundred sixty-four individuals and two industrial firms appear as plaintiffs in the suit seeking to forestall annexation. The firms are the C. & O. Railway Company and Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company. The railway company's line runs through both Allen and Dwale, and one of the gas company's major compressor stations is at Dwale.

The petition, which was prepared by Atty. C. Kilmer Combs, claims that more than 75 per cent of resident freeholders in the area intended to be annexed are opposed to annexation; that annexation of the area will not be for the interest of the city of Allen and will cause injury to persons owning real estate in the area. It also contends that the area sought to be added to Allen contains an industrial plant, is not compact and is not contiguous to the city of Allen.

NEWSOME DIES IN SLATEFALL

At Mine on Mud Creek Friday Morning; Rites Conducted At Graveside

Jay Lee Newsome, 43-year-old miner, was killed instantly Friday morning by a slatefall in the Clifford Reynolds Coal Company mine at Beaver, on Mud Creek. His head was crushed and he suffered internal injuries.

He was a son of the late Daniel and Rhodina Hamilton Newsome and was a native of the Craynor community. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Annie Newsome, four sons and six daughters: Clyde Newsome, Mrs. Phyllis Mitchell and Mrs. Madeline Mitchell, Clinton, Arnold, Neveline, Charlene, Ruthie and Emma Grace Newsome, all of Craynor. He also is survived by his step-mother, Mrs. Ruthie Newsome, and the following brothers and sisters: John C. Newsome, of McDowell, Chester Newsome, Mrs. Mary Alice McKinney and Mrs. Susan Howell, all of Craynor; Charles Newsome, of Beaver, Mrs. Dakota Hamilton, of Grethel, and Mrs. Shirley Mae Hamilton, of Teaberry.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday from the graveside in the Greenbury Hall cemetery at East McDowell by the Revs. Milford Adams, E. V. Hamilton, Luther Conn, Butler Howell and Mitchell Chaffins. Burial was directed by the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

KENNEDY'S CHURCH-STATE STAND TO BE EXPLAINED BY JAMES WINE

James W. Wine, former Pikeville attorney and onetime candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Seventh district congressional post, has taken on a big job.

He will direct a community relations division in the Democratic national campaign, and specifically his task will be to help combat problems encountered by Senator John F. Kennedy as a Roman Catholic seeking the office of President of the United States. His principal function will be to interpret to questioners the senator's position on the separation of church and state.

Before accepting the national campaign post Wine had to know one thing, he said recently, "I had to satisfy myself," he said, "that I could go back home to the Presbyterian Church in Pikeville, Ky., and answer the questions my friends would ask me."

"I knew how Jack Kennedy stood on the issue of separation of church and state from reading his statements. I knew how he stood on the question of public schools and spending money for church schools."

"But I wanted to hear him say it before I started out on this job. He said it to me in such a way that I have full confidence in his integrity of purpose."

'POPULATION' OF 1,500 IN TWO SCHOOLS HERE

Prestonsburg's school population this year is that of a sizeable town in itself as approximately 1,500 pupils registered for study at the grade and high schools.

As of Wednesday afternoon, 686 had registered at the high school, and this was four more than the total enrolled last year. The total is expected to exceed 700. The grade school enrollment figures were incomplete but at that time were around the 800 mark, which is a

TOLL ROAD IS SLATED

Winchester-Salyersville Section of New Highway Planned For Toll Traffic

The northern prong of the Bluegrass-to-the-Mountains highway planned by Gov. Bert Combs will probably be a toll road as far as Salyersville.

The Kentucky Turnpike Authority last Friday gave its approval to extending the toll section of the proposed highway beyond Campton to the Magoffin county-seat.

Original plans had called for collecting tolls only on a 43-mile, four-lane trunk route from Winchester to Campton. The new plan calls for tolls also on a two-lane northern arm from Campton to near Salyersville, an additional 32 miles.

The two-lane arm from Salyersville on to Prestonsburg and Pikeville will be a freeway, as will the entire southern arm from Campton to Whitesburg.

Continuation of the toll section to Salyersville was approved after feasibility studies indicated the extended project would result in more favorable terms on bonds which will finance the work.

An announcement on the authority's action said the financing for a toll road would assure earlier completion of the Campton-Salyersville section, and that it would be built to higher standards than would otherwise be the case.

Authorization was given for sale of $50 million to $60 million worth of bonds to finance the Winchester-Salyersville work.

Governor Combs, as chairman of the authority, was empowered to proceed with plans for sale of bonds, and the Highway Department was authorized to proceed with further design work and acquisition of rights, looking toward advertisement for construction bids.

Federal government participation in financing the freeway sections of the expressway will be sought. If approval is obtained, federal and state governments will share costs on a 50-50 basis.

The authority contracted with Allen & Company, New York, to assist in preparation of the bond-sale procedure. The firm also will be obligated to form an underwriting group to submit a bid for the bonds on October 1.

total slightly less than last year's. Each of the schools has 30 teachers, 11 of whom are new faculty-members or are teachers returning after absences.

Figures for the enrollment at the other consolidated schools of the county were unavailable this week, it was said at the attendance department of the county school system.

Miss Elsie Stephens, new principal of the grade school here, said enrollment at that school was held down this year by asking that pupils from other districts enroll in their home schools if those schools provide instruction for their grades. She said Superintendent Charles Clark had cooperated in this policy, thus preventing over-crowding of the school here.

As of Wednesday afternoon the enrollment at the high school was listed by Woodrow Allen, principal, as 250 freshmen, 165 sophomores, 155 juniors and 116 seniors. New faculty members, or teachers returning after an absence, are:

Cloyd Johnson, physics and chemistry; Mrs. Phyllis Hall, art; Wayne Wendell Ratliff, American history; Paul Hager, physical education and American history; Linda Sue Stephens, Spanish and English; Mrs. Virginia Turner, history; Delano Stumbo, commerce.

New grade school faculty members: Mrs. Anna Mellon, replacing Mrs. Barbara Carter who resigned; Mrs. Frankie S. Best, eighth grade; Mrs. Pauline Burchett, seventh grade; Mrs. Hope Spradlin, sixth grade.

FUND RAISING DRIVE SLATED

Kick-Off Dinner Planned To Feature Gov. Combs; WPRT Schedules Auction

Plans are under way for the annual fund-raising drive that is conducted each year at this time through the facilities of Radio Station WPRT.

The biggest attraction of the fund raising drive is the WPRT Radio Auction, which will begin with a kick-off dinner Monday, Sept. 19, with Gov. Bert Combs as guest-speaker. The auction will depend for success, as in the past, on the work of station personnel, generosity of merchants and others in the county who contribute items for auction.

More money has been raised each year than the year before. David Stephens, Jr., station manager of WPRT, said this week: "Each year we have added a new money raising project along with the auction. More people are helping, and the public is better informed as to the needs of the School for Retarded Children of Floyd county. It is a big job, and we have a lot of people who work like troopers so that the retarded children can be taught to help themselves."

The group-decided to call a general meet of Prestonsburg businessmen for Tuesday, Sept. 13, at 9 a.m. at the community room of the Municipal building. This meeting will work out details of the program to be initiated by a permanent organization planned to be set up that day.

"The projected meeting can result in the creation of an organization that will increase business here," Mitter pointed out. "This kind of an organization will fill a long-felt need."

DROP FUNDS FOR FISHTRAP

House-Senate Conferees Omit $300,000 Allocated For Construction Work

Senator John Sherman Cooper sees fiscal year 1961-62 as the earliest date funds for construction of the Fishtrap reservoir can be expected, he wrote The Times this week after House-Senate conferees had refused to approve the $300,000 voted earlier at the present session of Congress to begin work on the project.

Both Senator Cooper and Congressman Carl D. Perkins issued statements regarding the Fishtrap project which has been urged as vital to flood-control and other development of the Big Sandy valley.

Wrote Congressman Perkins: "As I understand, the House and Senate conferees removed all construction funds over the country on items that were not in the President's (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

FISCAL COURT REJECTS BIDS ON MACHINERY

County Attorney Says Bids Failed To Equal Original Arrangement

Neither of the bids submitted by three road machinery companies to supply Floyd county equipment for its road program under the new lease-purchase arrangement was accepted by the fiscal court at its meeting today (Thursday).

The bids were offered by Wayne Machinery Co., Rudd Construction Co. and Brandeis Machinery and Supply Company. County Attorney Robert S. Wellman recommended that the court reject the bids on the grounds that none of the bids received were substantially the same or more advantageous to Floyd county than the terms of the lease-purchase agreement previously negotiated.

The previous lease-purchase agreement was negotiated with Wayne whose machinery the county has been using on two road projects for more than a month. Wayne's bid of $73,601.40 was the same as the original price quoted to the county, but the bid failed to state the terms under which the machinery could be acquired.

What this delay in acquiring road machinery will do to the road construction work already begun is not known. The court will re-advertise for bids which will be opened at its October meeting.

Asked what the county will do for road machinery in the meantime, County Judge Henry Stumbo said, "We will use the machinery we have on hand from Wayne as long as they will let us keep it."

Advertising for bids on the machinery was required by the Attorney General following publication of a Courier-Journal news-story which pointed out that some counties had acquired machinery without advertising for bids. Under the contract with the state's Rural Highway Department the county acquires the machinery and is paid by the state for use of the equipment on rural roads. Money thus earned by the machinery is, in turn, paid as rental or for the purchase of the machinery.

BUSINESSMEN HOLD MEETING

Organization Planned In Prestonsburg; Mitter Named Temporary Head

Prestonsburg businessmen took the first step Tuesday morning to organize a Business Men's Association by holding a meeting at the Municipal building. Vance Mitter, department store manager, presided.

A temporary organizing committee was named with Mitter as chairman. Others selected on the committee were Dan Nessler, Bill Goebel, and Thomas Hereford. Another member of the committee will be appointed later, Mitter said.

The group-decided to call a general meet of Prestonsburg businessmen for Tuesday, Sept. 13, at 9 a.m. at the community room of the Municipal building. This meeting will work out details of the program to be initiated by a permanent organization planned to be set up that day.

"The projected meeting can result in the creation of an organization that will increase business here," Mitter pointed out. "This kind of an organization will fill a long-felt need."

MAY FAMILY
Mrs. Amy H. May, 1490 East 6th Street, Beaumont, California, writes an inquiry on the May family. She is particularly interested in one Jacob May.

"I know he had sixteen children. He died in Eaton, Ohio. I was told he was born there but after searching for several years I found he was born in Pike county, Ky. According to tax records some of his children were born and married there.

"His son, Allen May, is my husband's grandfather. I am not sure if he was born in Kentucky or Ohio. I have his war discharge papers. He was a private in Johnson's Company A, 130 Illinois Infantry, discharged August 30, 1865, after three years service.

"I know that the first May who came to America was John May, captain of a ship, landed in Virginia. I have found members of the family all over the United States and have obtained many of their records but just can't seem to get the record of Jacob straight."

Mrs. May sends along some genealogical charts, two of them have Jacob Mays listed as the heads of families. One Jacob has 16 children and the other has six.

Data on the Jacob May with the 16 children notes that he was listed in the Lincoln county tax records in 1800, that he married Isabella Estlin, died in 1858 and is buried in Washington Township, Preble county, Ohio. His wife is buried at Eaton, Preble county.

She lists four children of this union that she is apparently in doubt about. They are Jacob, James, John and Benjamin. These four are listed also in the Lincoln county tax records.

Others listed as the children of Jacob and Isabella Patton May are Oliver May; Martin May, a lawyer who died young; Allen May, born October 10, 1835, married Caroline Allen, January 20, 1859, died April 27, 1886; Ione May; Mary May, married Adison McCoy, March 24, 1831, at the home of David May in Pike county, Ky.; David May, married Claire Yost, March 3, 1864; Martha May, born January 11, 1845, in Preble county, Ohio, married Nelson Quinn, died January 13, 1912; Evaline May, born in Preble county, died in 1872; Amanda May, born in Preble county; Caroline May, born in Preble county, married James Kautz; Louisa May, born in Preble county; and Margaret May, also born in Preble county, married Richard Runyon.

The other Jacob May, who married Esther Bowers and was the father of six children, was born in 1773, married June 13, 1793. His children were Phoebe May, born March 9, 1794; Loise May, born Oct. 6, 1797; Mira May, born April 23, 1800; Mary May, born April 23, 1800, died same day; Jacob May, Jr., born Nov. 20, 1802; Sally May, born July 12, 1806.

My California correspondent lists a John May, married a Hersheberger. John was born in Kentucky. She lists four children of this John May: Jacob May, born 1802, married Mary P. Lynch, died 1858; Daniel May, born 1803, served in the War of 1812; John May, born 1821, unmarried and died 1854; William May.

As to the Adison McCoy and Mary A. May McCoy family she notes they were married at the home of David May, Pike county, Kentucky. David May lived on Shelby Creek. Although this Mary May was listed as the daughter of Jacob May and Isabella Patton, she thinks the possibility exists that Mary May McCoy was the daughter of David May.

MELLEN FAMILY
Marshall Sprague, 1523 Wood Avenue, Colorado Springs, Colo., writes about the Mellen and Clark family of Prestonsburg prior to the Civil War.

"I am the author of 'Money Mountain: The Story of Cripple Creek Gold,' and 'Massacre: The Tragedy at White River,' both published by Little Brown & Co. I am currently engaged on a history of Colorado Springs.

"Our town was founded by General William Jackson Palmer who married Queen Mellen on Nov. 7, 1870, in Flushing, Long Island.

"I have information indicating that Queen Mellen, the daughter of William Proctor Mellen, was born in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, in March, 1850. The date of her birth on her tombstone here is March 26, 1850; another source says that she was born on March 23, 1850, in Prestonsburg.

"Queen Mellen's mother may have been a lady by the name of Isabel Clark who was the daughter of Major Nathan Clark of the 5th U. S. Infantry. I wonder if there was a military post in Prestonsburg in the 1850's. It could be that Isabel Clark Mellen returned to her family in Prestonsburg for the birth of Queen. In that case the Nathan Clark family might be mentioned in your old directories."

Profits of the Mexican national lottery, first authorized by King Charles III, of Spain in 1770, are building modern hospitals and underwriting medical research in Mexico. Murray Teigh Bloom explains the lottery, which is much bigger than the Irish Sweepstakes, in a September Reader's Digest article titled, "Mexico Spins the Wheel of Fortune."

dent's budget. In other words, there are no construction funds for projects not approved by President Eisenhower's own Budget Bureau. Senator Robertson of Virginia, who was one of the conferees, made a vigorous fight to keep construction funds in the bill for Fishtrap but was unable to hold the $300,000 because there was no item in the President's budget.

"Two years ago the House Subcommittee on Appropriations, after an appeal from interested parties back home, made available $140,000 to commence the advanced planning on Fishtrap Reservoir even though there was nothing in the budget. This year we had $300,000 in the budget to complete the planning but we had nothing in the budget for construction in spite of the fact that the Army Engineers stated they could efficiently utilize $301,000. This means that we will be unable to get construction started on Fishtrap until the next fiscal year. I feel confident however that we will be able to obtain construction funds for this reservoir next year.

"We obtained $3,100,000 to continue the construction on the Pound or John Flanagan Reservoir. We also obtained $25,000 to commence the planning of the North Fork of Pound Reservoir which will afford flood control protection to the town of Pound and naturally will benefit the Big Sandy area. This reservoir will also be of immense recreational value to the City of Jenkins and surrounding communities.

Senator Cooper wrote:

"As you will remember, the House of Representatives failed to include construction money for Fishtrap Reservoir in their public works appropriation bill. When it came to the Senate we were able, thanks to the help of the delegation that came from the Big Sandy valley, to secure money to complete plans and specifications for the Fishtrap Reservoir and, most important, $300,000 to initiate construction. While this sum was small, it was important, because once appropriations are made to commence construction, then construction appropriations will follow year by year in ample amounts until the project is completed.

"Under the rules of the Senate and the House, when their bills differ, each body appoints conferees to meet and conciliate the differences between the two bills. Before the conference meeting, I had talked to our Senate conferees and also had advised Congressman Kirwan of Ohio, Chairman of the House Subcommittee on Public Works Appropriations, of our intense interest that the $300,000 for construction be maintained. The Senate members, including Senator Ellender of Louisiana, Senator Young of North Dakota, Senator Robertson of Virginia, Senator Dworshak of Idaho, and others, told me that they would do everything possible to maintain the $300,000. After the conference finished its work, these Senators told me that they had fought hard for Fishtrap, but Congressman Cannon of Missouri, who is Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, insisted that he could not accept construction for Fishtrap because the plans and specifications had not been wholly completed.

"Now I have this plan in mind. We have arranged a meeting with the Bureau of the Budget next Wednesday morning to request funds for Kentucky river projects for fiscal year 1962, at which the entire Kentucky Delegation will be present. As planning for Fishtrap will be completed before July 1, 1961, I shall request $5,000,000 for construction. In view of the fact that the Corps of Engineers has stated that it can undertake construction, and the Senate this year approved the beginning of construction, and in view of the fact that Congressman Cannon based his opposition upon the premise that planning was not completed which argument will now be removed, I have every confidence that we will be able to secure approval of the Bureau of the Budget. If we are given the larger amount for construction in 1961, this will more than catch up with the loss of $300,000 appropriated by the Senate this year."

T.B. ATTACK SET IN AREA

By State Health Group; Floyd Among 14 Counties To Receive Attention

Fourteen counties in Eastern Kentucky have been selected by the State Department of Health as the starting point for the state's tuberculosis campaign beginning Sept. 13.

Dr. Dorothy T. Magallon, director of the department's Division of Tuberculosis Control, said the counties, comprising the Fourth T.B. District, appear to be a "weak link" in the state's fight against T.B. The district has one of the highest T.B. concentrations in Kentucky, she added.

"The Floyd county work will be initiated in November. A mobile X-ray unit, accompanied by a doctor from the U. S. Public Health Service, will go into all communities of this and other counties of the region.

The counties are Lewis, Rowan, Pike, Menifee, Morgan, Magoffin, Floyd, Martin, Lawrence, Boyd, Greenup, Carter, Elliott and Johnson.

Recently high school seniors in three of the counties were given skin tests to get some indication of the amount of T.B. in the area. Dr. Magallon reported in an article in the Health Department Bulletin.

"The number of reactions (indicating a person has been infected with tuberculosis and the possibility of active disease requiring further tests to verify) was extremely high," Dr. Magallon said.

"In one county, 25 per cent of those tests showed reactions. This is even more serious when we consider that many young people in these counties are not enrolled in high school.

"The chances are that an even higher per cent of the out-of-school youth would react to the tuberculin (skin) test.

"In April, 1960, only three of the district's 14 counties had health officers and the number of private physicians was less than recommended. In fact, only two of the counties (Boyd and Pike) had what would be considered adequate coverage of private physicians."

X-rays indicate a bad problem in the district, Dr. Magallon said. One case of T.B. in each 1,000 X-rays points to a real problem in an area. Recently, 464 X-rays of persons in Morgan county disclosed four cases of the disease.

The anti-T.B. campaign is part of a nationwide program that grew out of the National Arden House conference on tuberculosis in New York last December.

The national average for newly reported cases of T.B. is 31.7 per 100,000 population. Kentucky, with 51.5 has the third highest T.B. rate in the nation.

The bouffant skirt was caught up on one side with a matching bow. She wore a matching headpiece with a short veil and carried a colonial bouquet of blue and white carnations with white satin ties and blue streamers.

Tommy Roberts was Mr. Mitchell's best man. David Carroll Childers was ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Gibson wore a silk dress of embroidered organza with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

At the reception following the ceremony the bride cut and served a three-tiered wedding cake. The table was arranged with a centerpiece of white mums, white carnations, baby's breath and plumosis. Those assisting were Mrs. Earl Bias, Mrs. Wayne Curry, Mrs. Jean Barker and Mrs. Paul Biggs.

Mrs. Mitchell is a graduate of Morehead State College and is employed as a teacher in Columbus. She formerly taught in the Floyd county school system.

Mr. Mitchell attended the Chicago Institute of Technology and is employed by the Federal Paper Corporation.

Can Prestonsburg Stand A 65-Cent Gas Rate?

If the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company succeeds in getting the Public Service Commission to approve a raise of 10 cents on each 1,000 cubic feet of gas supplied to Prestonsburg for resale to its citizens, gas consumers here will be paying at least 65 cents per thousand for their gas.

You are now paying 50 cents. DO YOU THINK YOU CAN STAND, OR SHOULD HAVE TO STAND, AN ADDITIONAL 15 OR 20 CENTS PER THOUSAND ON YOUR GAS BILLS?

We realize Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company renders a great service to the people but since Prestonsburg is in a depressed area and in the heart of the gas field we would like for the gas company to consider rates under the old contract.

Will you help us present the facts to the Public Service Commission? If you are interested in keeping your fuel costs down, or at least at their present level, high as they are, you as citizens should, individually and collectively, register your protests against this price increase.

VETERAN WASHINGTON SECRETARY COMMENDED BY SCIENTIST BUSH

BY HENRY P. SCALF

Many vivid memories remain with the countless thousands who swarmed into the national capital during the last war and served as typists, clerks and secretaries.

One, who came away after the Bomb fell on Hiroshima to carry with her unforgettable recollections of life at the nexus of the war effort, was Miss Ginevra Fields, a native of Betsy Layne.

To many Washington was just a job. To Miss Fields, eager and enthusiastic with a diploma from West Virginia Business College at Huntington, the capital was a challenge.

That she met the challenge and left with the respect and appreciation of the government is evidenced by a certificate bestowed by Dr. Vannevar Bush, nuclear scientist, and Dr. James B. Conant, former president of Harvard University and afterward Ambassador to Germany.

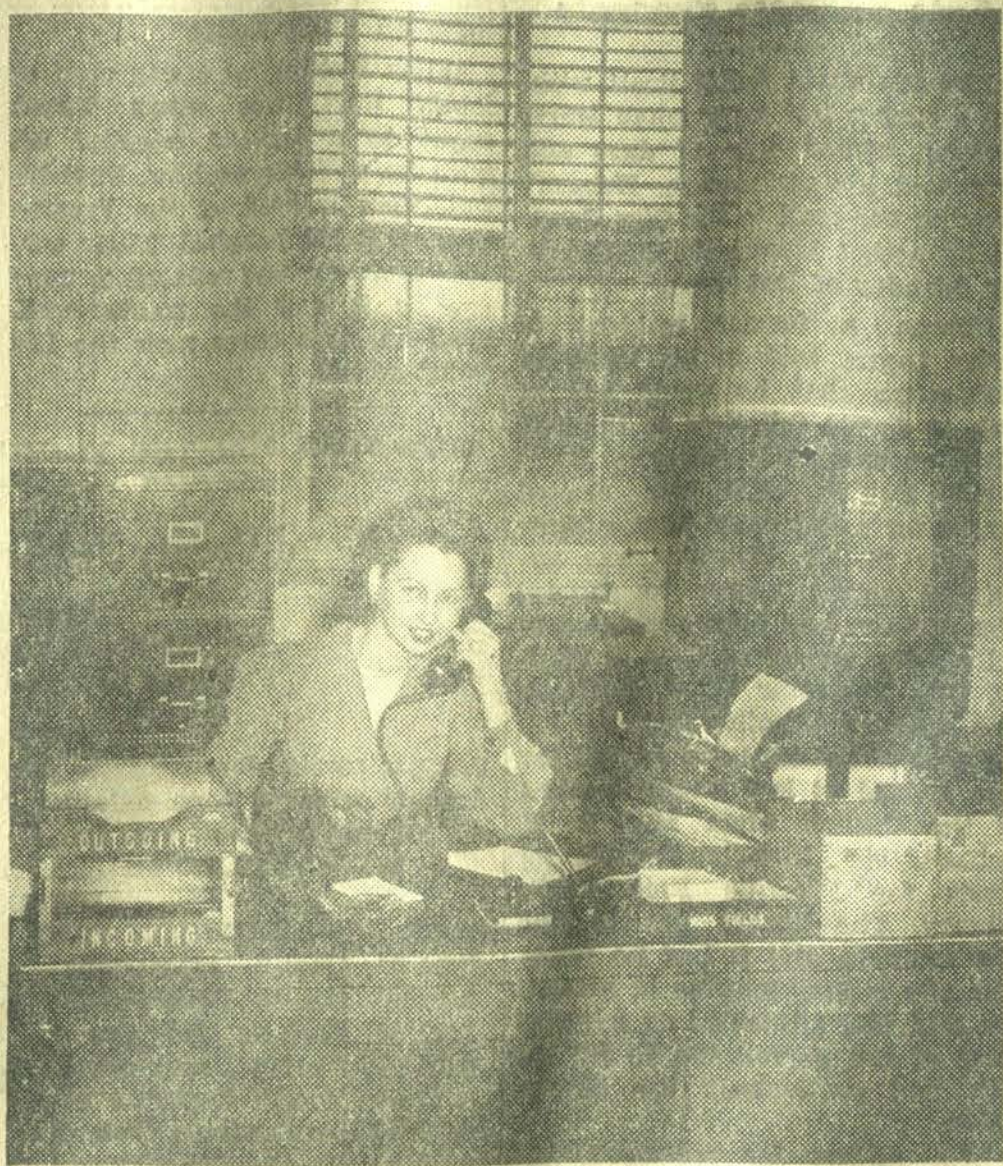

The bestowal of the certificate is one of the unforgettable memories. Bush gave it to her personally for she had served the Director of the Office of Scientific Research and Development with devotion. Proudly she read that she had contributed to the successful prosecution of the Second World War and that her government was awarding the certificate "in appreciation of effective service."

Now, after 16 years as a Washington and Baltimore secretary she is on vacation for awhile. She came back a few weeks ago to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fields, of Hurricane, W. Va. Mementos of the challenge at Washington were souvenirs from great men she carried home in her luggage. Bush autographed a copy of his book, "Endless Horizons," for her. She had assisted Orville H. Kneen, author of "Scientists Against Time," in the preparation of his volume and in appreciation he had given her his thanks and an autographed copy.

But memory is a two-way street and Miss Fields, who hadn't been in Floyd county for 28 years, found it so. Many babes in arms when she left at the age of ten to live with her parents in West Virginia were married or gone up north. She asked many questions while here, answered many more, never seemed to quite understand the wonder of so much change.

Relatives drove her to Betsy Layne to see the house where she was born or to Johns Creek to visit uncles and cousins. Memories, not of Washington, but of her first years in the Big Sandy flooded back. One was an event when others had to meet a challenge and she stood watching courage and heroism.

Miss Fields, her mother, grandmother and a little six-year-old brother, Eugene, walked down a winding path toward Johns Creek one day in early spring. The stream was a rising yellow flood, lapping at the edge of the "walk log" that served as a bridge. They started across, single file, balancing themselves above the surging water. Suddenly Eugene swayed and fell. The foaming stream swept him away.

Mrs. Truly Fields, although she couldn't swim, plunged into the icy stream after her son. The force of the water flung her around and she went down, up again, and finally clutching at an overhanging limb of a willow she cried to the grandmother, Angeline James, to save her child. Mrs. James rushed into the stream and as the current laved her face, seized the child. Extricating herself from the angry stream she brought him to shore. In the meantime the mother had climbed onto the bank and the two women, with only a hazy notion of first aid, went to work to give artificial respiration by means of a barrel.

The ten-year-old Ginevra watched as mother and grandmother fought for an hour to force the water out of his lungs. She remembers as if it were but yesterday the first jerky breath as life came back. Now a successful West Virginia businessman, Eugene Fields recalls humbly that he owes his life to two women, who, although they couldn't swim, braved flooded Johns Creek.

The Fields family moved to West Virginia the year after the accident and Ginevra was graduated from Champion Rose elementary school of Winfield county in 1938. She repeated the grade for she had to wait for a brother, Jerome, to graduate. The reason she did was that Hannan high school was nine miles from the Fields home and there were no buses, and they would attend together, Jerome and Ginevra entered Hannan high, making the trip on horseback.

She was 21 when, armed with the diploma from West Virginia Business College, she arrived in Washington. The government was putting scientists and administrators into a vast organization to create technological weapons of destruction. Miss Fields found a job with the OSRD, a branch of the National Defense Research committee.

Samuel Calloway, personal secretary to Bush was kind to her, named her "Gracie" Fields. She became friends with the Kneen family. There were times when she served as receptionist and she had as a part of her duties the job of escorting visiting VIP's around the office. These were great scientists, generals, inventors and admirals. She served coffee, tea or sometimes a bouillon to the English. One day she ran out of coffee and Bush gave her the pot. Embarrassed, she carried out onto the street, down two blocks in the hurrying mob to fill it at a restaurant.

As she rose in the office hierarchy she found herself entrusted with much memoranda, marked secret, confidential or restricted. Whenever it was necessary to relinquish one of these important papers to another desk she was given a receipt which she carefully filed. Sometimes she felt a bit silly as a man carefully accepted for a piece of paper at a desk only a few steps away back in a few minutes. Now, after The Bomb, she knows why. Many men would have killed her without compunction just for one peep at some of them.

Ginevra recalls how she had to dash around town in a chauffeured limousine to pick up plane reservations for the dignitaries. One day she got lost in the labyrinthine Pentagon and in her frustration had to put up with a young man who had more interest in a flirtation than he did in seeing her out. She escaped but the liveried chauffeur fumed with the delay.

One day Conant's secretary was absent and she was designated to fill in. All calls to the distinguished educator and diplomat went through her. On the telephone was one number she will never forget. It was that of President Truman's White House number.

The war years dragged on and the number of friends increased. (See Story No. 1, Page 6)

BOND ISSUE IS ENDORSED

By State Tourist Group;
Directors Hold Meeting
At Elkhorn City, Monday

The Eastern Kentucky Tourist Industries Council has endorsed the $100,000,000 roads and parks bond issue and the constitutional referendum. Both will be on the fall ballot.

Support for the two measures came during a general meeting of the council at Breaks Interstate Park near Elkhorn City, Monday.

Directors from most Eastern Kentucky counties attended. They elected Clinton Broadwater, Middlesboro postmaster, president, and T. E. Rogers, Pikeville, executive vice-president.

Broadwater, who promoted establishment of Cumberland Gap National Forest, replaces Ed Gabbard, of London, who resigned Monday after two years as president.

Gabbard is the superintendent of Levi Jackson State Park near London.

Broadwater appointed Dr. Al Callum, of Cumberland, as a council director. Dr. Callum is promoting an area of Pine Mountain as Kingdom Come State Park.

The membership also endorsed a project of woodlands improvements for state parks and approved a measure asking school superintendents to sponsor park and highway beautification.

John Whisman, executive director of the Eastern Kentucky Planning Commission, announced that the state has tentatively approved plans to publish a tourist brochure next spring. It will list tourist attractions in Eastern Kentucky.

The brochure, Whisman said, will be compiled from information provided by Tourist Industries Council directors in each Eastern Kentucky county. An inventory of tourist attractions, he said, will begin soon.

Whisman also announced that a pilot tourist-information center is being built in Pike county. He said he is hopeful that 30 more of these information centers will be completed by Eastern Kentucky communities within a year.

The project was among those recommended by the old Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission in its Action Program '60.

Whisman said the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce is considering expansion of its tourist promotion activities. He said the executive committee of the chamber would ask the board of directors at a meeting during the state fair to hire a tourist specialist.

A general discussion of the tourist industry preceded Monday's business session.

Kelly Day, Pikeville, suggested Eastern Kentucky communities should organize to attract tourists. Day said the region doesn't treat tourists with the courtesy it should.

He also commented that Eastern Kentuckians are not aware of the tourist attractions in their own counties.

"It's our own fault we aren't getting our share of the tourist business," Day said, noting that the average tourist spends $10 to $12 a day.

Mrs. Blake Pinson, operator of a hotel in Pikeville, suggested the need for "courtesy schools" in Eastern Kentucky. She said tourists tell her they are impressed with Kentucky's scenery, but speak of a need for more entertainment and recreation.

Broadwater said that while attendance at Cumberland Gap National Forest is 30 per cent ahead of last year, tourists aren't staying overnight.

Physicians, Veterinarians Schedule Louisville Meet To Discuss Common Ills

Physicians and veterinarians are getting together at Louisville, Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 7 and 8, to discuss diseases common to animals and man, according to R. L. Hectorne, D.V.M., Director of Veterinary Medicine, Kentucky State Department of Health.

Three Elections Slated To Change Constitution; Breathitt, Cook Explain

"Kentuckians must vote 'yes' November 8 and at two other elections to change the Constitution, and for the first time they will oversee the actual revision by TV, radio and newspaper," the co-chairman of the bi-partisan move for a convention call said recently.

Edward T. Breathitt, Democratic co-chairman, and Marlow Cook, Republican co-chairman, issued the statement pointing out that the November vote is only to call the convention to review the Constitution, not to change it.

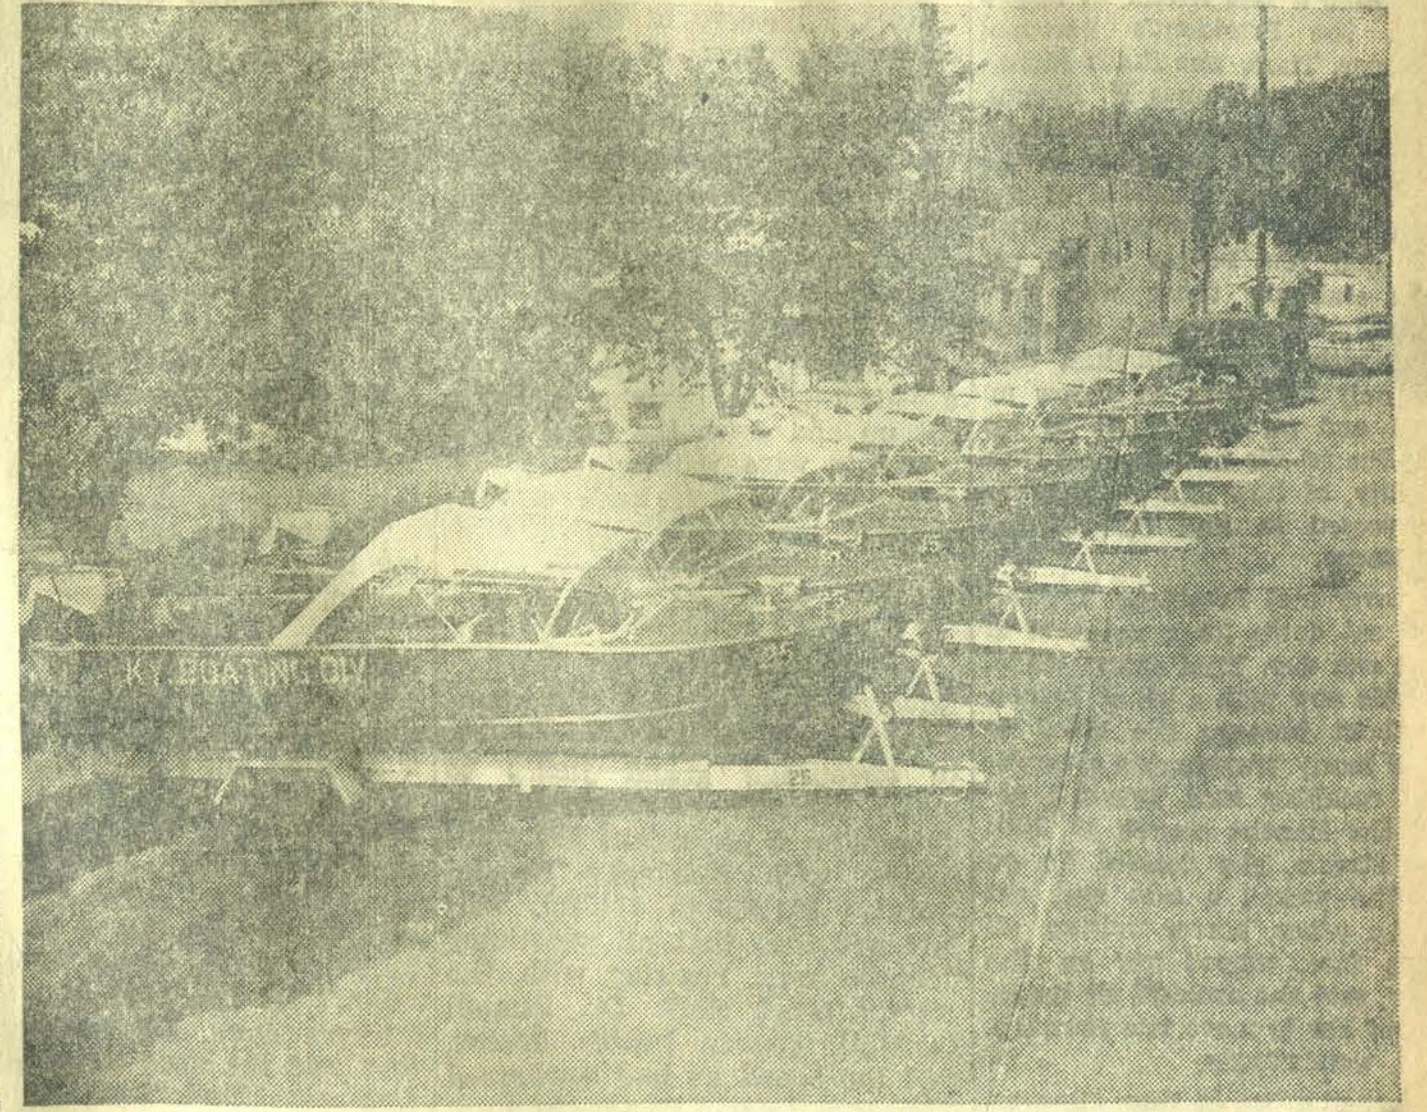

Then talking off the cuff, he pointed out that the people of the Commonwealth would actually oversee any constitution revision through the miracles of newspapers, television, and radio.

"Our talking points up to now has been that the voters would have ample safeguards against unwanted changes, because they would have to vote at three different elections and because only limited revision was possible," Breathitt said.

"The delegates are the representatives of the people of Kentucky," Cook said, "and they can be petitioned by individual Kentuckians and groups just as legislators can." Cook is a state representative from Louisville.

"Kentucky voters first will be called upon Nov. 8 to vote 'yes' for the proposed convention it-

"Boating Is Family Affair," Theme of Officers

Some of Kentucky's Division of Boating craft, ready for service. The boats are 17-foot aluminum boats, painted a fire-engine red and powered by a 4-cylinder, 75-horsepower outboard motor. They are equipped to render assistance to anyone in need and will patrol the lakes and rivers of the state. The men who will man them are fully-trained officers with full police powers to enforce boating rules and regulations. The Boating Division is a division of the Department of Public Safety. Glenn Lovern is the Commissioner, and Scott Barbour Director of the Boating Division.

With the theme of its enforcement program "Boating Is A Family Affair," the State Division of Boating has launched its first eight boats to help make boating in Kentucky safe for the boatman and his family.

The boats will be seen over the state and on the Ohio River and part of the Mississippi. Their purpose is to provide as much protection as possible against thoughtlessness and recklessness on the part of a few, that could jeopardize the safety and the fun of the greater majority.

Among acts which will bring to a boat operator censorship or possible arrest are speeding through congested areas, moorage areas, into harbors, near fishing boats, in narrow channels used by other small craft and close to or through swimming areas. Of course operation of a boat without numbers or certificate of registration are now as much a violation as operating a car without a license plate and a driver's license.

In promoting safety the Division has set up certain simple regulations. Boats under 26 feet must have a Coast Guard approved life preserver; cushion or ring buoy for everyone aboard; lights if operating at night, and if the boat has a deck 30 inches long, or longer, an approved fire extinguisher. It is not yet a requirement, but an anchor and anchor line and a paddle are recommended. Eventually they will be added to rules and regulations of the Division because a number of lives could have been saved this year had the boat in trouble had one or the other.

Owners of boats over 26 feet in length can follow recommendations as prescribed by the U. S. Coast Guard for their equipment and light requirements and they will then be conforming to state regulations.

All boats, mechanically powered, owned by persons living in Kentucky, or elsewhere, who use their boats principally on Kentucky waters, must be licensed by the state and display the number assigned them on each side of the bow of their boat. This is both a Federal law and a Kentucky law. The exceptions are documented vessels and vessels of government agencies.

WATCHMAN AT TWELVE says: "The Truth Shall Set You Free."

'SPEAKING WITH TONGUES' REGAINS DIGNITY IN MORE RESERVED SECTS

BY GEORGE CORNELL
Associated Press Religious Writer

A strange manifestation that amazed the church of old is amazing it again today.

The thing is called glossolalia, or "speaking with tongues."

Scriptural accounts of the process in ancient times have been an enigma to most Christians ever since. Generally only the highly demonstrative, pentecostal groups have claimed it still occurs. Others have been dubious.

But now it has broken out sporadically in the more reserved, traditional religious bodies, including the dignified Episcopal Church.

"It no longer is a phenomenon of some odd sect across the street—it is in our midst," says the Episcopal weekly, The Living Church. "It is being practiced by clergy and laity who have stature and good reputation in the church."

The Book of Acts says the curious ability first came to the despairing apostles at Pentecost, after Christ's departure, enabling them to enthrall multitudes from many lands with an unknown language that overcame speech differences.

"And they were all amazed, and marveled . . ." The current resurgence of glossolalia has been reported in several churches on the West Coast, in the Chicago area, and elsewhere. Chicago's Episcopal bishop, the Rt. Rev. Gerald Francis Burrill, has ordered an inquiry.

"The occurrence has a historical basis, and deserves real study whenever it arises," said the Rev. Bill W. Rodgers, of New York's General Theological Seminary. "It certainly happened in New Testament times, and it's not impossible now.

"It might be a means of deepened religious experience. I think if it develops in normal Christian worship and practice, it ought to be treated carefully and seriously, and not sloughed off."

"However, if it is provoked by some psychological trick, that's something else again."

There has been a widely skeptical, even derisive, attitude toward "speaking in tongues" in modern times. Consequently much of the recent activity has gone on quietly.

But in one instance, it touched off a furore—at St. Mark's Church, Van Nuys, Calif. There the rector, the Rev. Mr. Dennis J. Bennett, resigned under pressure after he and various members of the parish, through consultation, prayer, and experimentation, assertedly acquired the peculiar "gift of tongues."

Ordinarily glossolalia makes no sense whatever to listeners. It sounds like gibberish. But sometimes the speakers or others can interpret the sounds.

The Living Church comments that widespread re-emergence of the process would "jar against our aesthetic sense and some of our most strongly entrenched preconceptions," but adds:

"We know that neither our aesthetic preferences nor our preconceptions control God Almighty. And we know that we are members of a church that desperately needs jarring . . . We know of no more terrifying explosive for Him to use than a reinstitution of apostolic speaking in tongues."

She became a fast friend of Mabel Walker, the President's personal bookkeeper. There was Ruth Monahan, secretary to James F. Byrnes, often dubbed as assistant President. Miss Monahan had an office in the White House. The domicile of the president was surrounded with guards and few people could get through and only those who were authorized. Ginevra went so often to chat with Ruth Monahan that it was only necessary to throw up a hand and say, "I want to see Ruth." She recalls now, almost with incredulity, of how she so nonchalantly passed in and out of the White House.

She never met President Truman but she sat down for a moment in his seat one day. That story, which she recalls now with a bit of humor, came about because she liked to visit the many Washington churches. Not recalling that Truman attended the Baptist church at 16th and O streets, she decided to go there. She picked a seat and sat down. An usher, horror written all over his face, tapped her on the shoulder, said she couldn't sit there, and asked her to move two rows up. She did, wondering.

When they arose to sing, Ginevra peeped back discreetly. Harry Truman was sitting in the seat she had been requested to vacate. When the service drew within five minutes of closing, Truman and his shielding guards left as the congregation stood in deference to the head of the mightiest nation on earth.

The bomb fell, the war was over. Ginevra transferred from the disbanded scientific office to the Veterans Administration Regional Office at Baltimore. Here she stayed ten years, working for approximately 35 medical specialists. She was in demand for dictation on highly professional medical and psychiatric reports.

Sixteen and one-half years in government service is not a long time, measured in the years of a lifetime but it is long indeed when you accumulate more sick leave and less lost time than any other person in your capacity. For this she received a letter of commendation from Dr. Joseph A. Belz, assistant chief medical officer.

Ginevra has been enjoying her accumulated leave for the last few weeks, chiefly at Lake Washington, W. Va., and on flying trips over the country to visit her war time friends. She will reenter government service in the near future.

Wherever she goes, whatever she does, the memory of those hectic, challenging days at Washington will remain.

Who could ever forget appreciative superiors like James B. Conant and Vannevar Bush, of visits to the White House as if you were going across the street, the cherry blossoms in the visiting admirals, generals and VIP's in the office?

Who could ever forget humorous experiences like carrying a coffee pot up and down the street while scientists were waiting, or sitting down in the President's seat at church?

Edward P. Hill and Commonwealth's Attorney Hollie Conley to encourage grand juries to make periodic investigations to determine if physicians are complying with Kentucky revised statutes 311.550 to 311.620. This law provides that all practicing doctors must register with the county court clerk. Dr. Russell L. Hall, county health doctor, told the board he had confirmed reports that some doctors had not complied with the law. It was pointed that the migration of young practicing physicians into and from the county for very short periods of time could very easily result in some unqualified, unlicensed person coming into the county under false pretense and thus endanger the well-being of the lives of the people.

A third order directed that bids be sought on blacktop surfacing of the driveway and parking area around the Health Center building.

The Board of Health made as a part of its official record its appreciation of the splendid work Dr. Hall is doing as health doctor. Board members attending the meeting were Dr. George P. Archer, Dr. M. V. Wicker, Dr. C. L. Allen, County Judge Henry Stumbo, Mrs. Betty Wellman, Dr. Hall and M. V. Clark, his administrative assistant.

The label on a can of tomatoes costs more than the farmer gets for the contents of the can.

The man who unloads a carload of produce in New York City is paid more for his work than the farmer who produced what was in the car—and all the New York worker has invested is a union card signed by Jimmy Hoffa!

The same thoughtful person who sent me the foregoing also sends her "Rule for Courage:"

Face up to—or sit down on—anything that's frightening.

And another friend was given this, and we wonder why:

"Gossip is the art of saying nothing in a way that leaves nothing unsaid."

NOW—AND THEN

Did you ever hear anybody say something like this?—"That church is all right but I don't like so-and-so and maybe a few others who are in it. You know, the leopard doesn't change its spots, and these people haven't changed, either. They're too high-up for me—they've got no use for me, and I've got less for them."

Don't let this kind of bitterness get you down. It's nothing new; they said the same things about a man named Paul. "Look what he did to Christians and what he was up to at the very time he says he heard this voice! You think a man like that is really any different now? The leopard does not change his spots. And he's a Pharisee, besides, and they're too high and mighty for the likes of me and you. Paul, my eye!—he's the same old, bloody Saul operating under an alias!"

The lash and shipwreck and stoning and prison chains for Paul convinced some, but the hard of heart remained unconvinced. We shall not see the like of Paul again on this earth, but if we were a candidate for office we would not like to have every one of the other kind who is still around to be voting for the opposition.

LAWN CARE

September is the key month in caring for a lawn. What a home owner does in September largely determines what kind of lawn they will have in the spring.

Everyone interested in having a beautiful lawn, should sow bluegrass in September. This applies even though the lawn may already have a fine stand of bluegrass. September is also the best month to establish a new lawn.

The cool nights and warm days of September promote germination. The new plants become well established during the fall and winter, and are able to withstand next spring's drought and weed competition.

After seeding, fertilizer should be applied at rate of 15 pounds of 10-10-10, or other good fertilizer to each 1,000 square feet of lawn. This is at the rate of 700 pounds per acre. The same application should be given again in early March.

For more information on lawns ask for a copy of Extension Leaflet 172-A "The Lawn" at the Extension office or call TU 6-2668, Prestonsburg.

BEEF

There are several people planning to kill a beef this year, to put in a home freezer or a locker. There is one problem to watch for and that is wild onion flavored meat. Animals grazing a pasture where there are wild onions growing, will transfer the flavor to the meat. If beef animals are slaughtered with the onion flavor in the meat, the flavor will stay in the meat.

ALFALFA

The acreage of alfalfa is increasing each year in Floyd county. This is good, since hay is a limiting factor in cattle production in Eastern Kentucky. Alfalfa will produce more top quality hay per acre than any other plant.

Alfalfa will also last several years if properly managed. One important item to remember is don't cut alfalfa any later than September 10. If cut later, the roots will not have a chance to store up enough reserve strength to withstand winter killing.

Any alfalfa fields that were not top dressed during the year, should be fertilized with 0-20-20 at rate of 600 pounds per acre after last cutting.

September 20 should be the deadline for seeding alfalfa this fall. If seeded later, the plant may not get enough growth to withstand the winter.

Scout Leader Speaks At Recent Assembly Of District Scouters

Plans for the entertainment and instruction of several thousand of Eastern Kentuckians are near completion by the Labor Day Celebration committee of District 30, United Mine Workers of America.

The address of welcome will be delivered by William (Bill) Perkins, international representative of the Hazard office, U.M.W.A. The program will begin at 11 a.m.

Among the notables who will be present are Gov. Bert Combs and Lieutenant Governor Wilson Wyatt. The invocation will be pronounced by the Rev. A. C. Couch, of Carrs Fork, who is also President of Local Union 5532, U.M.W.A. Congressman Carl D. Perkins, of the Seventh district, will be present and, no doubt, will speak on the current activities of the present session of Congress, and will give a correct report on the latest laws and bill under consideration affecting Social Security.

Carson Hibbitts, president of district 30, Clarence Edward Beane, vice-president, and Matt Combs, secretary-treasurer, will play a prominent part in the program activities throughout the day-long program.

The traditional beauty contest has been an outstanding feature in the past and will be one of the day's highlights. Charles Ferguson, international union director of safety, will be the principal speaker.

HOBSON QUILTS MAYOR'S JOB

At Pikeville; Former Betsy Layne Man Says Auto Business Prevents

Pikeville again found itself without a mayor last week when Harry Hobson, named only 17 days ago, presented his resignation. Hobson's decision was read to the City Council by acting Mayor W. C. Hambley, Monday of last week.

Hobson, a former resident of Betsy Layne, said in his letter of resignation that he would not be able to devote full time to the job. He is an automobile dealer.

Bill Pauley, who was elected mayor for a four-year term, resigned July 27. Dr. Hambley was appointed acting mayor to succeed him. Hobson had been appointed to fill out the unexpired term of Pauley. City Treasurer W. J. Huffman also resigned effective Sept. 1.

Ghost of the repealed payroll tax was revived at last week's meeting of the Council when Mrs. R. H. Bobbitt, city librarian, asked for funds for Pikeville Free Public Library. The library has to find new quarters and it has no funds. The city is four months in arrears, she said. She advocated an adjusted form of the payroll tax to fill the city, and particularly the library, needs.

"I'm calling for money and I don't care how you get it," Mrs. Bobbitt said. "The only fair way is for everybody to pay according to his income."

The librarian said the institution would have to close unless immediate funds were made available. She was aided in her presentation at the Council by Dr. A. A. Page, president of Pikeville College.

No successor to Hobson was discussed at the last meeting of the Council but acting Mayor Hambley will serve until a successor is named, it was said.

BABE DIES

Donna Kay Smith, three-month-old daughter of Tyrone and Willa Jean Howard Smith, of Cromwell, Ind., died at 2 a.m., Monday. Besides the parents, a brother, Randy Lynn, at home, survives. Funeral services were held at 10 a.m., Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. Lula Howard at Garrett, the Rev. Jim Duff officiating. Burial was made in the Sexton cemetery at Hueysville under the direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Perry Countians Hurt In Crash Near Here

Two Perry countians, residents of the Blackey section who were en route home from Norfolk, Va., where they were employed, were injured shortly before Tuesday noon when their auto and a tractor-trailer collided on Little Paint.

Wiley Hatton, who was most seriously hurt, was taken Tuesday night to a Hazard hospital after both he and his nephew, Paul Hatton, were treated at the Prestonsburg General Hospital. Their car, a 1954 Mercury, was reduced to wreckage as it met the tractor-trailer, head-on, at a curve near the Little Paint school.

BABE DIES

Virgie Ray McKinney, nine-month-old son of Asa and Gilvie Tackett McKinney, of Craynor, died at 1:30 a.m., Tuesday, at St. Joseph's hospital, Lexington. Besides the parents, one sister, Glenda, survives. Funeral rites were held today (Thursday) at the home of Mrs. Lacy Tackett on Mink Branch of Big Mud Creek and burial was made in the Noah Newsome cemetery under the direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

EKMC READIES FOR SEASON

Clubs Schedule Action Friday; Paintsville Is Strong With Vets

The ten-team Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference will swing into the thick of the 1960 high school football season this Friday as all of the clubs are scheduled for action. M. C. Napier, Jenkins, Fleming-Neon, Whitesburg, and Wheelwright have already been involved in action, but the other five teams will hit the gridiron for the first time Friday.

Hazard, loop champions for the past two seasons, should be challenged by Pikeville and Fleming this season. Pikeville has a flock of veterans returning and Fleming looked very impressive in downing Whitesburg, 31-6, in its opening game two weeks ago.

Overall, the league will be fairly well balanced, with no team expecting a powerhouse. Whitesburg, Jenkins and Belfry are in a rebuilding program, while Prestonsburg and Elkhorn City, along with Wheelwright, have several lettermen.

Paintsville, now an independent school, is strong on veterans and will be in contention for the Class A, Region 3 playoffs. They have a top halfback in Mike Minix, a senior four-year regular, who tallied 195 points last season for a new school record.

Inside the loop other individual backfield standouts should be: Hazard's Darwin Turpin; Harlan Seals, Fleming-Neon; M. C. Napier's Jerry Brewer, the league's third scorer last season with 145 points; Perry Taylor, Wheelwright; Bill Baird, Pikeville; Dennis Stephens and Bobby Marshall, Prestonsburg, and Dickey Adams, of Fleming-Neon.

Lineamen expected to receive considerable attention are: Nile Bruce Horton, 6-4, 215-pound senior Fleming tackle, and his running mate, Bill Stambaugh, 6-3 215-pound junior; Lloyd Caudill, 210-pound Hazard junior; Harry Francis, 180-pound senior four-letterman guard at M. C. Napier; Paul "Red" Minix, 165-pound Prestonsburg senior; Bill Herald, 6-8, 240-pound Paintsville center, and George Elkins, 190-pound senior Jenkins tackle.

All of the loop's ten teams, except Elkhorn City, are Region 4, Class AA, teams under the Kentucky high school play-off system, and Hazard is the defending Region 4 champion in this class.

Thus far, Elkhorn City has not scheduled the necessary six games to be eligible for the league championship. M. C. Napier high school has a new field on which to play all of its home games, instead of using Hazard's field on off-nights, as it has done for the past four years. Fleming will delay the start of all its home games until 8:30 p.m. Whitesburg's coach, Ed Moore, is the league's veteran coach with nine years' experience. Pikeville's Bob Venters, Napier's Jerry Brewer, Bill Baird, of Pikeville, Harlan Seals, Fleming are returning members of last season's first and second all-conference teams. Jenkins and Fleming-Neon will play the majority of their home games on Saturday night. Fleming and Whitesburg will play twice during the season but only the October 15th meeting will count in the league. Hazard mentor Paul Wright is the only new head coach in the loop, although he served five years as assistant to Jim Caudill.

Owners of registered highway motor vehicles have until August 31, 1960, to file form 2290, "Federal Use Tax Return on Highway Motor Vehicles" for the tax year beginning July 1, 1960.

Paul (Red) Minix (30) and Dennis Stephens (33) will co-captain the 1960 Prestonsburg high school football team that opens the season in Wheelwright against the Trojans, Friday night at 8 p. m. in the Athletic Park.

Prisoner Escapes From Turnkey After Peace Bond Is Imposed

Howard Wheeler, a prisoner in the county jail on a breaking and entering charge, escaped custody Monday afternoon as he was being taken from the County Judge's office to the jail. He has not been recaptured.

Wheeler was being escorted by Ray Click, turnkey, when he suddenly made his break. He raced across Third street and Highland and took to the nearby hillside. The break was made shortly after Judge Stumbo had placed him under peace bond.

Donald Ray Mollett and John

Franklin Shepherd were jailed Friday by State Detective Chester D. Fetter and booked on breaking and entering charges in connection with the recent burglary of the W. A. Baldrige store on Little Paint. Detective Potter said a part of the merchandise taken from the store has been recovered in Martin county at the home of Mollett's uncle. The Martin county man told the detective he procured the items from Mollett and Shepherd, but the prisoners deny having had a part in the break.

Two recent liquor raids, hitherto unreported, are:

The Dewey Lake Improvement Association, Inc., near Lancer, by State Troopers Williams, Allen and Goble, with approximately 25 cases of beer and seven cases of whiskey confiscated. The warrant was for the association, and not for any individual. The association was fined $100 and costs by Magistrate Grover C. Holbrook.

Millard Little, arrested on Left Beaver Creek by Deputy Sheriffs Harold Johnson and James Hall and State Trooper Goble, with approximately 30 cases of beer being taken. He entered a plea of guilty to a charge of transporting alcoholic beverages and was fined $20 and sentenced to 30 days in jail by County Judge Stumbo. Little also was fined $10 on a reckless driving charge.

Others jailed here within the week:

Palmer Hall, drunk driving, arrested by Lieut. B. Lykins, of the State Police; James Shepherd, no operator's license, jailed by Deputy Sheriff H. Stone; Darb Shepherd, spreading false reports.

Prizes amounting to $2,150 will also be in the offering for field seed and grain, with cash and ribbons for the best bales of timothy, clover, alfalfa and lespedeza. #### OPEN FRIDAY NIGHT

Prestonsburg and Wheelwright will open Floyd county football play in the left Beaver community Friday night at 8. The winner automatically becomes county champion, since they are the only two Floyd schools having the sport.

Last season the local Black Cats copied a 32-0 decision, and this will be the second game of the season for the Trojans, who bowed 13-7 to Jenkins last Saturday night.

Other Friday games pit Jenkins at Hazard, Paintsville at Raceland, Belfry at Whitesburg, M. C. Napier at Leslie County. On Saturday night Fleming will seek its third victory after downing M. C. Napier, 12-0, last Saturday and Whitesburg, 31-6, two weeks ago.

Next Monday night (Labor Day) Wheelwright is host to Dilce Combs high of Perry county.

The Floyd County Coaches Association has voted to hold the annual Floyd County Pre-Season basketball tournament in Prestonsburg, November 29-30, December 1-2-3.

Pairings for the tournament have Wheelwright meeting Betsy Layne in the opening game of the lower bracket, Tuesday, November 29. Auxier will meet the victor of this game, Thursday, Dec. 1, at 7 p.m. In the other game of the lower round, Martin collides with Maytown at 8:30 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 1.

In the upper bracket, Garrett tangles with Prestonsburg on Wednesday, Nov. 30, at 7 p.m., and in the second game of the evening, Wayland squares off against McDowell, at 8:30 p.m. The semifinals will be held Friday, Dec. 2, at 7 and 8:30 p.m., and the finals on Saturday, Dec. 3, at 8:30 p.m.

Officials for the meet are Charles Hughes, Wayland, and Nelson Allen, Ashland. Official timer is Frank Heinze, Prestonsburg, and scorer is Tommy May, Harold.

Prestonsburg high school will stage an eight-team invitational high school basketball tournament, December 20, 21, 22 and 23. Teams under consideration for bids are: Martin, Wheelwright, Carr Creek, Breathitt County, Maysville, Clark County, Louisville St. Xavier and Monticello.

Wheelwright high will return to the Ashland Invitational tournament in late October. Don Wallen's quintet copped third place in last season's event.

Six of Floyd county's nine high schools will field track teams this spring. The county's own district meet is slated for Prestonsburg in May.

They would also be given the right to seek an independent mine inspection, which would have to concur with the federal inspector's findings before a closing order could take effect.

The legislation has encountered heavy opposition from many small-mine operators, who say they would have to shut down if required to install expensive safety devices.

It was approved by the House committee by voice vote with only dissent heard. Representative Peter Frelinghuysen (R, N. J.) objected that not enough study had been given to the possible economic effects of the bill.

"I don't want to see wholesale unemployment in an industry that is already having serious difficulties," he said.

"I would rather see wholesale unemployment than wholesale murder," replied Representative Elmer J. Holland (D, Pa.)

MILL OPERATORS MEET TO STUDY LUMBERING

Sawmill operators watch a lumber specialist demonstrate proper evaluation of a log before sawing at a clinic held at the Lelon Marcum mill near Allen recently.

Fifty Eastern Kentucky sawmill operators met at the mill site of Lelon Marcum on U.S. 23 north of Allen, Thursday of last week, to discuss the problems incident to lumber production. Many specialists from the University of Kentucky Extension Service and large milling operations attended.

The program got underway at 9:30 a.m., with a welcome by County Judge Henry Stumbo and an explanation of the purpose of the clinic by Robert Jones, county agent. The event was sponsored by the University of Kentucky.

H. H. Perkins, representative of the J. Walter Wright Lumber Co., of Pikeville and Bristol, Tenn., told the operators that inaccurately cut lumber loses much of its value to everyone. The manufacturing sawmill loses when it sells the lumber and large scale commercial buyers cannot resell miscut lumber because wood using industries in the furniture and other businesses can't use it, he added.

W. W. King, Tennessee Valley Authority, Morris, Tennessee, discussed, "Where Your Lumber Profits Go." Each log is an individual problem in sawing, he said. Logs were sawed at the Marcum mill to demonstrate points made by King.

Ray Boaz, of the Corley Mfg. Co., of Chattanooga, Tenn., talked on "Overcoming Mill Equipment and Machinery Problems." A summary of the day's program was given by James A. Newman, Extension Service forester, of the University of Kentucky.

Mill owners were present at the clinic from Floyd, Knott, Pike, Magoffin, Johnson and Estill counties.
Refreshments were served through the contributions of H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., and the East Kentucky Beverage Co.

Hinds Heads New Archives Job
At Frankfort; First For State

A new State Archives and Records
Service will enable the state to distribute about 30 per cent of government papers created each year.

The state, by proper management of public records being put into effect, will save valuable space in office buildings and realize an immediate saving of about $1,000,- 000, Charles F. Hinds, director of the new service, said recently.

When a new center for records is built, he added, an additional 25 per cent of paper work could be transferred there as documents for research by political scientists, historians and public administrators.

Finance Commissioner Robert
Matthews, Jr., said the Archives and Records Service has been attached temporarily to his department.

The service and an Archives and Records Commission were created by the 1958 Legislature. Chairman is Dr. Thomas D. Clark, head of the history department at the University of Kentucky.

The commission plans to shortly issue rules and regulations which will provide for most state departments of government an orderly system of retaining and disposing of records, Hinds is preparing schedules to permit various agencies to destroy automatically about 30 per cent of each year's paper work.

"The old concept of a state archives as a mere storage center for valuable historical documents has gone by the board," Hinds said.

"The new state archivists are trained . . . to take care of the tremendous volume of paper work in state government."

Kentucky is last among the states in care and preservation of valuable state documents, Hinds said, adding:

"State records are bulging at the seams of expensive state office buildings."

He said the Commonwealth is creating more records each year

first years of statehood.
For lack of a state archives, Hinds noted, all four of Kentucky's constitutions were found in 1924 to be the 1799 documents have been re-

The SUN
shines
BRIGHT

But wherever it shines . . . there are shadows.

Wherever there are golden opportunities there are also sombre tragedies. Some fail to grasp their blessings.

Ours is a nation which guarantees to every child the opportunity for religious training. Yet ours is a nation which smarts under the scourge of a moral disease — juvenile delinquency.

In blessing you with a son or daughter, God has entrusted to you a precious soul. You are required by law to give your child a secular education. But, despite the scourge of delinquency, a free nation must leave to your conscience the question of your child's moral and religious education.

God has blessed America. With a nearby Church ready and eager to provide Christian training for your child, and religious foundation for your family's life — the Sun shines bright. But there are shadows. You must decide!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

SANDY HOOK MAN TO DIE FOR MURDER OF FLORIDIAN

(Spencer was found guilty of first degree murder last Tuesday. Under Florida law the death sentence is mandatory.)

Emmett Spencer, the lanky Sandy Hook, Ky., wanderer whose jail-cell dreams started a nationwide body hunt that turned up four corpses, is not a murderer but a hero, his defense attorney said Aug. 20, in Miami, Fla.

Key West attorney Robert C. Youmans said he would attempt to prove that Spencer could not have committed the brutal hammer slaying of John T. Keen—because someone else killed Keen.

Keen, a 56-year-old Navy pipe fitter, was found beaten to death in his Key West cottage April 15, after his car—driven by Spencer—was wrecked in a wild police chase near Leesburgh, Fla.

Youmans promised he would show that Spencer—far from killing Keen—actually dealt deadly justice to the man who really committed the Key West murder.

Spencer, a 29-year-old ex-convict from Elliott county, went on trial at Key West Monday in the biggest murder case the Keys have seen in recent years.

"Emmett Spencer has furnished police information that has helped to solve several baffling crimes," his attorney said Saturday.

"We are pleading not guilty by reason of not being a principal. At most, he is merely a material witness in the Keen case."

"He has been telling police this for so long that he's blue in the face, but they have refused to believe him even though he has been right on the location of the bodies," Youmans said.

"Instead, every time he helps them to solve a mysterious killing, they turn around and charge him with the crime," Youmans said.

"But Spencer has never confessed to any murder, regardless of what the police say. What he did do was tell them he was involved in the killing of the actual murderer."

"The real secret of Keen's death was buried on Big Coppitt Key," Youmans said. He refused to elaborate.

"It was on Big Coppitt Key, 10 miles north of Key West, that police last month found the body of Leon Hammell, Jr.—after Spencer told them where to look."

"It would have been worth the police's effort to check out Hammell's place in all of this, but the prosecution has refused to see the case that way," Youmans said.

Spencer and two material witnesses have been held in a Key West jail for more than four months awaiting the trial.

The two witnesses—Mary Catherine Hampton, Spencer's teen-age girl friend who is also from Sandy Hook, and James Jobe, a 22-year-old Nova Scotia hitchhiker, were arrested along with Spencer after the Leesburgh shooting.

Later, while awaiting trial for the hammer murder of Keen, Spencer told police he had dreams which would solve several other killings, including those of:

Leon C. Hammell, Jr., a 45-year-old Jacksonville bartender whose body, Spencer said, was hidden on Big Coppitt Key.

Virginia Tomlinson, a 57-year-old Jacksonville seamstress, who reportedly had headed South with Hammell on a promise of marriage but died a violent death in Vero Beach, Fla.

Dr. John Hunt, the 37-year-old son of a Portland, Ore., minister, who was shot to death in Gooding county, Idaho.

In each case, Spencer's dream-born information proved to be true.

Woods-Schafer Marriage Solemnized At Xenoa, O.

Miss Phyllis Woods became the bride of Mr. Donald Schafer Saturday afternoon in a double ring ceremony performed at Evangelical United Brethren Church, Xenia, O., by Rev. C. W. Wion, pastor of the church at 1:30 o'clock.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shelly Woods, of Emma, Ky. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence G. Schafer, of 229 W. Third Street, Monroe, Ind., are parents of the bridegroom.

A program of traditional wedding music was presented at 1 o'clock by Herman Swadener, of Xenia, vocalist, and Mrs. Albert Schafer, of Urbana, organist.

Mrs. Delbert King, of Hanover, Ind., was matron of honor, and Miss Karen Funk, of Xenia, was bridesmaid. Flower girl and ring bearer were Debbie and Tommy Schafer, children of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Schafer, of Xenia.

The attendants wore identical gowns of nylon in shades of pink and blue, respectively. Lace bodice and bouffant skirt highlighted the dresses. They wore matching headbands and carried colonial bouquets of pink and white carnations. Debbie chose a pink nylon dress with full skirt and matching headband. She carried a basket of rose petals.

The bride appeared in a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle over taffeta featuring a Sabrina neckline. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held to a crown of sequins and pearls. She carried a white orchid with streamers of stephanotis on a white Bible.

Mr. Jack Schafer performed the duties of best man for his brother. Guests were escorted to their seats by James Sullivan and Robert Miller, of Xenia, and Al Schafer, of Urbana, cousin of the bridegroom.

The couple was honored at a reception in the church social rooms immediately following the ceremony. Hostesses were Mrs. Carolyn Schafer, Miss Mary Ann Wright, Miss Marlene Valentine, of Xenia, and Miss Linda McKean, of Monroe, Ind.

The new Mrs. Schafer wore a navy blue dress with bolero jacket and white accessories and a white orchid corsage for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, N. Y. They will reside at 805 N. Detroit St., Xenia, upon their return.

Mrs. Schafer is a graduate of Prestonsburg high school and Morehead State College and a teacher in the Beaver Creek School, Xenia, O.

Mr. Schafer, an alumnus of Xenia Central high school and University of Cincinnati, is employed at the Home Federal Saving and Loan Co.

CONCRETE is the pavement that is not flexible ....gives maximum strength with minimum thickness!

Interstate System highways like Kentucky's Route 65 pictured here call for a pavement that is solid and unyielding.

Kentucky's highway department chose concrete for this important stretch of Interstate System highway. Necessity for multiple strata construction of 2 to 3 times greater total depth was avoided.

Strength with minimum bulk is possible, of course, because concrete isn't flexible. It supports traffic loads like a beam. Pressures on the subgrade stay permanently within safe limits.

PORTLAND CEMENT ASSOCIATION

A national organization to improve and extend the uses of concrete

And concrete's design efficiency assures low maintenance costs in years ahead. In fact, maintenance costs will be as much as 75% lower than for asphalt. Only concrete enables engineers to design highways to last 50 years and more.

You can see why engineers and taxpayers agree that concrete is the preferred pavement for heavy-duty highways—especially on the new Interstate System.

Gasoline Tax Refund
Deadline Is Announced

Deadline for filing for refunds on gasoline is September 30, County Agent Robert Jones cautioned Floyd county farmers this week.

The refunds will cover federal taxes paid on gasoline used on farms for farming purposes during the period July 1, 1959 to June 30, 1960.

Jones noted that Federal Internal Revenue Service form 2240 must be used for the refund application. These forms are available at the office of the District Director of Internal Revenue, Louisville, Ky.

The federal tax on gasoline was increased from 3 cents to 4 cents per gallon October 1, 1959. If farmers bought and used gasoline for farming purposes before that date, the refund will be 3 cents a gallon. After October 1, 1959, the refund is 4 cents a gallon.

The refund form indicates that refund requests may have to be supported by records if the district director requests such verification.

Home Agent Explains
Poultry Preparation; Advises Selection Care

Poultry from your home freezer can have the same flavor, color and nutritive value as fresh poultry if you follow a few simple rules, says Miss Frances Howland, county home demonstration agent.

First, select only fresh, high quality poultry for freezing, she suggests. Take special care to keep the poultry meat and packaging materials clean; this helps prevent bacteria growth.

If you buy poultry in tray packs or wrapped in plastic film, remove this and rewrap before freezing. Use only moisture-vapor-resistant materials for wrapping poultry for the freezer. Rigid freezer containers with tight-fitting covers are best for cooked poultry dishes that contain sauce, gravy or both.

Force out as much air as possible when packaging poultry. However, dishes that contain some liquid need space at the top for expansion, reminds Miss Howland. Freeze poultry quickly at zero or below and hold this temperature during storage. Frozen foods lose quality quickly when freezer temperature rises above zero.

Even under the best storage conditions, poultry will keep only so long in the freezer, she points out. Keep a record of when poultry is put in the freezer and use it before the recommended period for storage ends. According to USDA's Agricultural Research Service food scientists, poultry should stay "high quality" for the following lengths of time, if properly frozen and stored.

Uncooked poultry: chicken — 12 months; turkey, duck, goose — 6 months; giblets—3 months. Cooked poultry: slices or pieces covered with broth or gravy—6 months, not covered with broth or gravy—1 month; sandwiches of poultry meat — 1 month; cooked poultry dishes—6 months; and fried chicken—three months.

CLARK MAKES POSITION CLEAR

I have argued with myself about whether I should publicly answer the article appearing in last week's Times headed by the phrase, "The $25,000.00 deal," and signed by four of the good people of the Rough & Tough school district. Since the statements in the article were so misleading, I feel compelled to make an answer.

Shortly after July 1, when I became superintendent, I received a resignation from the well qualified teacher who had been recommended and hired for the Rough & Tough school. There was another certified teacher who had been assigned to another school who would be closer to his home if he came to Rough & Tough. In line with our policy of making it as convenient for teachers as possible your superintendent recommended and the board hired (a unanimous vote) this certified teacher for Rough and Tough.

The next week I had a petition presented to me by Mr. Manuel which asked that a certain fine, young teacher, who, incidentally, was and still is an emergency teacher, be placed in their school and the certified teacher be moved. I explained that we were obeying the law when we placed certified teachers in all positions in preference to emergency teachers. Shortly after this date, the second certified teacher who had been hired for Rough & Tough resigned. We were further delayed in starting the school. This was only one of the ten or fifteen rural schools which we were unable to start for many valid reasons. We have employed another able teacher for the school and plan to start the school August 29th. We were just as concerned as the parents in Rough & Tough when we were unable to start the school because the rural children are just as valuable and deserving as any children anywhere. "Charles Clark was, and is, a country boy himself and he is proud of it."

In regard to people being hired to perform special functions: We feel that our children are worthy of the best and we fearlessly state that the services performed for our children and teachers shall be greatly increased. The talks we had with the delegations from Rough & Tough were very pleasant, not at all like the bitterness shown in their Times statement which makes us believe that perhaps some of the "old ring" did edit the statement and did throw in a few of their own ideas.

Under the Minimum Foundation Law money for salaries for teaching units or special units (supervisory) come to us only if we hire people for those jobs and if we don't fill those positions we lose the money. Are the people who wrote the article against greater safety, closer supervision and study of our transportation system? Oliver Allen, A.B., M.A., was hired by a vote of five board members (no old board—new board there). Walter Frasure, A.B., M.A., and Wayne Ratliff, A.B., M.A., are well educated and are top ranked people in their fields and if they took their regular raises guaranteed this year and next year they would make as much as the board gave them in contract salaries. Their employment was by a vote of five board members (no old board—new board there).

I asked the board for an order to permit us to advertise for materials to repair the old Prestonsburg building. The vote on this motion was five votes for to no votes against (no old board—new board here). In fact, at our last two meetings we have hired all emergency teachers, hired principals, let contract hauling contracts and done other business and on all motions the votes were unanimous. All board employment is done only on the superintendent's recommendation and we shall fearlessly make suggestions to the board if we feel that such actions will increase the opportunities for all of Floyd county's children, and the board, I am sure, will accept or reject the recommendations of the superintendent as they feel they should. "The Record" your superintendent is willing to stand on is the fact that schools are ready to start and all was accomplished without one vote being cast just to be against in the last two board meetings.

I am mad at no one and have no axes to grind. Ask Pauline Burchett, Walter Frasure, Paul Hager, Sherrill Frasure, Carl Horn, Gordon Moore, and others if my recommendations have been without malice and with the interest of children above personalities. There are positions for all well qualified Floyd countyans in the Floyd county system regardless of political affiliations, and I hope to use them. Please let's all join hands and make the Floyd county school system the brightest spot in Eastern Kentucky. Aren't our children worth more to us, —I have two of school age myself,—than the satisfaction of trying to out-manuever some group or faction?

CHARLES CLARK

P.S. All the larger schools have had assistant principals for years and there are really no "assistants to the assistants" but if the state paid most of the salaries for these people and we felt that schools would do a better job if they were employed, then we would give consideration to asking the board to approve such appointments, and we are sure the various board members would vote their conscience on that or any other matter.

ANSWERS TO YOUR TAX QUESTIONS BY WILLIAM E. SCENT KENTUCKY'S COMMISSIONER OF REVENUE

Q. If a person receives from the Department of Revenue a Retail Sales and Use Tax Return (Revenue Form 51A102) and he has no sales tax liability, should he file the return?

A. Yes. If the person thinks he is a consumer and not a retailer as defined in the law, he should mail the return along with a note explaining why he is not a retailer.

Q. What was the most common error in filing the first month's sales tax return?

A. Most errors were made apparently because of failure to follow instructions carefully before filing the return. Most errors involved "total receipts," "net receipts" and "taxable receipts." These are explained below.

Q. What is meant by "Total receipts?"

A. The amount to enter as total receipts should include all daily receipts (including all sales that are subject to the sales tax plus all sales that are not subject to the tax.) This amount entered as total receipts must also include all tax collected from the customers.

Q. Should cash received on account be included in total receipts?

A. This depends on the book-keeping system. If the permit holder uses the "cash" method, he will include all cash sales plus all cash collected on account during the month. If he uses the "accrual" method, he will include all cash sales plus all charge sales made during the month.

Q. Can a merchant keep the amount of sales tax he collects and remit this amount to the Department of Revenue without filling out the "Total receipts" and "Taxable receipts" lines on the Retail Sales and Use Tax Return?

A. No. To file his return properly, the permit holder will enter his total receipts for the month on line one of the tax return. This is to indicate all taxable sales, all non-taxable sales and all sales tax collected for the month. Non-taxable sales are deducted to determine "Net receipts."

Q. What is meant by "Net receipts?"

A. This is the amount remaining after all deductions have been taken from Total receipts. The deductions entered on line two of the return are to be itemized on the back of the return. They would include non-taxable sales made during the month plus other allowable deductions.

Q. What is meant by "Taxable receipts?"

A. This is the amount subject to the sales tax. Since the sales tax is included in the total receipts (explained above), it should be taken out before the three per cent tax rate is applied.

Please read the instructions carefully. A separate instruction sheet is mailed with the tax return sent to retailers the first of each month.

Three Scholarships At Morehead College Given To Floyd Women

Dr. Adron Doran, president of Morehead State College, announced this week that academic scholarships to Morehead have been granted to three Floyd county students who were graduated from high school last May. The scholarships, he said, were based on recommendation of the high school principal and an outstanding high school record made by each of the three.

Those granted scholarships are: Loyce Raye Hicks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hicks, of Hippo, a graduate of Maytown high school; Jackie R. Wicker, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Wicker, of Lackey, and a graduate of Wayland high school; Renessa Wicker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Crit Wicker, of Garrett, and a graduate of Garrett high school.

On high-quality plaid garment, the plaids will be matched at seams and center front or back openings. The plaids will be centered on the garment so there is an even appearance in such places as a skirt front or shirt collar.
