This Town-- That World

As I sit here pondering an opening paragraph for this column, the writing of which I have, as usual, postponed till it will not wait any longer, I am reminded of the difference between a depressed area and a distressed area. A depressed area, my informant says, is one where you're depressed on payday. In the other you're distressed the rest of the week.

LET 'EM RUN, SEZ I

A friend sought to cheer me up this week by remarking that the walleye are ready to make their run at Cumberland. But no soap, I reply: "Let 'em run till their tongues hang out—I ain't goin'!" I may have recounted an experience of a few years back on one of these so-called walleye runs. If I didn't I'll spare you now. Anyway, it was the most wretched, miserable flop yours truly has ever had anything to do with, and yours truly has had his part of them. That's the main reason I shall not give the elements, Dame Luck and a couple of other unknowns another whack at me.

Which brings us to the question of the hour: Do we grow older and wiser, or do we grow older and more chicken?

THE CURE

A health column, which I occasionally glance at to see how well I'm doing, notes that nail-biting is a sign of tension, an inward fretting. A sufferer asks the eminent pill dispenser what to do? I can answer that one. I was an industrious nail-biter until a few years ago, and even my wife could not persuade me to renounce this accomplishment. But I no longer bite my nails. I got a loose upper plate.

BOARD VOTES TO BUY P'BURG COW CR. LAND

BUYS DEPEND ON APPROVAL AFTER STUDY

Accountants Employed For Four-Year Audit; Building Plans Talked

The Floyd County Board of Education, in a marathon meet Saturday, heard a report from Byron Nunery, its agent, that additional property sought for expansion of the Prestonsburg high school grounds will cost $39,000. Nunery had procured options, as directed by the board, on the properties of Walter Mann, J. O. Webb and Janice Sue Whitten.

Sites for the proposed Cow Creek elementary school building were optioned by Nunery for the Board at $17,988. Properties upon which options were procured were that of James B. Goble and Bradis Goble. The Board resolved to buy the various properties subject to the approval after a state building needs survey is made.

Other business transacted by the Board in a seven-hour meeting follows:

1. A representative of Bandy, Adams & Smith, accountants, offered to audit the books of the county school system for the last four years for an approximate $6,000. This was based upon an estimate of $50 to $70 per year for each school and $300 for the Board records. The firm was employed to be paid from the 1961-62 budget or if the money is available, from current funds.

2. Clifford Boyd, of Kentucky West Virginia Power Company, discussed the installation of outdoor lights at various high schools. He said that these lights would be billed at $3 each, monthly.

3. Reports were received from the several high school Parent-Teacher Associations in the county approving the reopening of confectionery sales in the schools. It was decided that upon an official notice of the local P.-T.A.'s of their affirmative action that the sale of confectioneries could be resumed.

4. Superintendent Charles Clark submitted certain information on the school system as directed by the Board at a previous meeting.

5. Superintendent Clark suggested to the Board that the proposed building program be held up until after the state makes a survey here, April 17-18-19. Chairman Ray Howard commented that there

TWO RECOVER ON DRIFT JOB

Moore, Conley Awarded $10,180 by High Court Against Harlan Builder

County Clerk DuRan Moore and Commonwealth's Attorney Hollie Conley last Friday won in the Court of Appeals their suit to recover from the Tri-State Developers and its president, State Senator Nick Johnson, of Harlan, for failure to complete four buildings at Drift before a contracted deadline.

The Appellate Court upheld the judgment of the Floyd circuit court granting the two Floyd officials $10,180 which they claimed they spent in excess of the original contract price after they assumed completion of the work on the buildings, but it disallowed from that total a $1,000 supervisory charge and interest on borrowed money.

The ruling did not give the amount of the judgment. Moore and Conley sued the Harlan senator for breach of contract in the building of four prefabricated residences for occupancy by doctors on the staff of the McDowell Memorial hospital.

The contract, signed by Moore, Conley, and an agent of Tri-State, Ray Richmond, said the houses would be built by April 1, 1956, at a total construction cost of $45,400. Johnson denied knowledge of the contract, but agreed to see that the job was finished to preserve Tri-State's business reputation.

The job was still unfinished by May 15, 1956, however, and Moore and Conley assumed control and completed the project about June 15, 1956.

Floyd circuit court granted them a judgment of $10,180, representing the amounts they spent in excess of the original contract price.

Man Pleads Guilty To Idle Pay Charge

Richard D. Sammons, of Martin, pleaded guilty here last week to a charge of receiving unearned unemployment benefits and was fined $50 and costs by County Judge Henry Stumbo. Three other warrants were dismissed after he had agreed to repay $84 overpayment made to him.

It was alleged that Sammons had been employed by the Lee Coal Co., Martin, during the period, April-July, 1960, and during that time claimed unemployment benefits.

FB NAMES HACKWORTH

To Succeed Henry Hale As President; Neeley Notes Group's Program

Troy Hackworth, vice-president of the Floyd County Farm Bureau, was named to succeed Henry C. Hale as president at a meeting held at the courthouse Saturday evening.

Hale, who had been head of the organization since its founding in 1955, resigned as the by-laws of the Bureau forbids any officer to become a candidate for office. He is a candidate for Sheriff.

Homer Neeley, secretary of the farmers' group, pointed out that the organization now has a membership of 575, slightly less than last year. He attributes this falling off in membership to the increase in dues but is optimistic as to the future growth of the organization.

Thirty-five head of purebred cattle have been bought and distributed among Bureau members in the last five years, Neeley noted. Also six purebred bulls were purchased and rotated on Bureau farms.

Other programs promoted by the Bureau in the last five years for the benefit of farmers or their families is a pig-chain, 4-H Club work and cooperation in Extension Service activities. In addition the Bureau has contributed heavily to promoting the annual Floyd county fair.

Neeley noted that the Bureau meets the fourth Saturday in each month at the courthouse and, besides urging all members to be present, invites the general public to attend.

Moore Funeral Home To Continue Operation

It was announced this week, following the death of Franklin Moore, that the Moore Funeral Home will continue operation. Mr. Moore was manager and part-owner of the business.

Three Years After...

TRAGEDY IS REPEATED AT BUS WRECK SCENE

Daniel Boone Arnett, well-known Abbott Creek man, died last Thursday afternoon in an automobile wreck which saw his auto plunge into the Big Sandy river within 200 yards of the scene of the 1958 school bus tragedy.

The wreck, which quickly attracted scores of cars and a crowd reminiscent of the scene during the search for the missing school bus, occurred on the third anniversary of the raising of the school bus from the river.

The wreck which claimed Mr. Arnett's life is believed to have resulted from a heart attack. He was driving alone at the time, had driven some distance beyond Knotley Hollow, had turned and was returning toward Prestonsburg when a motorist following him saw him suddenly slump over the wheel. The car veered toward the motel grounds of Tom Burchett, then cut back and was never righted as it rolled, unbraked, toward the bank. The auto landed in the rain-swollen river, on its side, but did not travel far enough to become completely submerged.

Tom Burchett tied a heavy rope to the auto and within a few minutes spectators pulling at the rope

The architects, McCloney, Tune & Clark, of Lexington, have a representative in Atlanta this week.

Appraisal of property as a site for the project also has been made and sent to Atlanta for approval by the federal agency, Hobson said.

ROAD, BRIDGE BIDS ASKED

Road Completion Seen By New Construction From Van Lear To Dam

The State Department of Highways last week asked bids on construction of an additional 5.42 miles of the Prestonsburg-Auxier-Pointsville highway and on the building of a bridge across the Big Sandy near Hager Hill. Bids will be opened March 17.

The stretch of new road planned for construction will extend from the end of the present highway, across the river from Auxier, and will follow the east side of the river to West Van Lear.

The bids asked for March 17 also include a bridge across Johns Creek, and so is envisioned the completion of the entire highway from Turner Branch, near West Van Lear, to Prestonsburg. This span will connect the new highway with the present road from Van Lear up Johns Creek to Dewey Lake.

Contract already has been awarded on the bridge spanning the river at Auxier and connecting that town with the new river route.

Only grade and drain construction are presently asked on the 5.42-mile sector of the Prestonsburg-Pointsville highway. The contract from Prestonsburg to Auxier called for surfacing also, but that part of the highway has been marred by serious breaks in the road-bed since its completion last year. It is not known how long the new section of road will remain unsurfaced.

Construction of the Auxier-West Van Lear link of the road and the three bridges, plus work on the scenic route from Goble Branch to Stratton Branch on Dewey Lake and anticipated work on the Prestonsburg end of the Eastern Kentucky Turnpike will bring the heaviest volume of road-building in this area's history, and all this is expected to be under way this summer.

BREAK JOB JAILS TWO

Foodstuffs, Cigarettes Recovered by Policemen In Fannin Store Robbery

Frank Green and Joe Wheeler Hyden, of Middle Creek, were jailed here Sunday by Prestonsburg police on a breaking and entering charge in connection with the looting Saturday night of Fannin's Store at West Prestonsburg.

Chief of Police Bill Potter said 20 cartons of cigarettes and a quantity of foodstuffs taken from the store were found beneath the floor of a deserted house near West Prestonsburg. The jacket of one of the two accused was found thrown over the loot.

Entrance to the store was effected by breaking the glass of a front door and by prying the door open.

POWER LINE KILLS ISAAC

At Accident Scene; Victim Was Directing Traffic When Stricken

An automobile wreck at Bevensville which injured two men indirectly led to the death shortly after noon Saturday of Virgil Isaac, 33-year-old miner, by electrocution.

STAMPS TEST IS EXPECTED BY JUNE 1st

Early Meeting Planned Here; Governor Combs Confers with Kennedy

Floyd county has been selected as one of eight pilot counties in the United States to test the effectiveness of President Kennedy's food stamp plan in the administering of food-relief to the needy, it was announced Tuesday by Governor Combs and Commissioner of Agriculture Beauchamp.

Governor Combs told The Times that Kentucky, West Virginia and Pennsylvania have been allotted one such county each. The food-stamp program is expected to be instituted in the eight counties of the country about June 1.

Under the stamp plan relief beneficiaries will be issued stamps which may be traded for foodstuffs rather than receiving commodities directly as at present.

Art Susott, information officer of the USDA in Atlanta, told The Times Wednesday, that personnel from the Atlanta regional office will work with state and local officials to set the program up. He advised that he would be in Prestonsburg in the near future.

Many details of the program remain to be worked out, Susott said, but it is planned to make this program much simpler than the complex one tried a few years ago on a pilot basis. Everything should be worked out by June 1, he said. Only one book of stamps will be used, not two sets of stamps as generally supposed.

 Susott said that before the plan is initiated it will be discussed with merchants in an attempt to secure their cooperation.

Governor Combs and Senator Cooper met Wednesday with President Kennedy in a discussion of depressed area problems, and the two are expected to urge a more definite relief program than is provided in the Douglas bill. Cooper is expected to introduce a depressed-areas bill of his own.

Huddleston Renounces Vet Bonus Case Appeal; Bond Sale Way Paved

Frankfort, Ky., March 3 (Spl.)—Attorney Paul Huddleston yesterday filed with the Court of Appeals renunciation of all rights to appeal the veterans bonus case of the Bowling Green doctors to the U. S. Supreme Court.

This, he said, definitely terminates the litigation. Governor Combs said, "I consider today's action as removal of the last legal obstacle to sale of the bonus bonds."

"We already had taken preliminary steps to sell the bonds. I feel today's developments will have a beneficial effect on prospective buyers of the bonds."

The Governor said further he is hopeful that "we can start mailing bonus checks in April." He added, "I think it is safe to say that half or more than half of the bonuses can be paid this year."

More than 250,000 applications for the bonus have been received. About 200,000 additional applications are expected. Gen. A. Y. Lloyd's Veterans Division has processed more than 50,000.

The average bonus is estimated at $323. The size of the bond issue is estimated at $139 million.

RIVALRY CLASH AGAIN

Wheelwright and Martin, arch-rival Floyd county basketball powers, will meet again Thursday night on the same floor, but this time the loser will fall by the way-side for the 1960-61 basketball season.

Only this past Saturday night, the third-ranked Trojans bounced Martin 59-58 in the finals of the 58th district high school basketball tournament and both teams advanced to the regional tournament on the Prestonsburg floor, which was also the scene of last week's district tournament.

One of the officials who worked the district tournament will also return for the 15th region action. Martin led 31-28 at halftime and the score was deadlocked at 43-43 at the beginning of the fourth period, then in a sea-saw final eight minutes, the Trojans emerged victorious in the final 45 seconds.

Thursday's winner will advance to Friday's semi-finals and meet the Oil Springs-Meade Memorial victor.

Don Wallen's Left Beaver school is 25-3 for the season against some of the state's leading teams while the Purple Flash have a respectable 22-13 record.

The eventual winner of the 15th regional tournament Saturday night will clash with the winner of the 13th region (Lone Jack, Bell County, and Harlan, co-favorites) Thursday night at 9:15 in the first round of the state high school basketball tournament in Memorial Coliseum, Lexington.

The first high school football coaching clinic in the history of the four-sport Eastern Kentucky

Mountain Conference will be held in Hazard's Memorial gymnasium, Friday, March 24. All coaches from the Mountain loop and the Central Kentucky area are invited.

Hazard school officials have lined up an array of successful coaches for the clinic. Included are Walter Green, Corbin high school football coach, speaking on defense; Phil "Duke" Owens, Mt. Sterling high school, backfield play and pass offense; Morehead State College head football coach, Guy Penny, the popular "wing-T" offense.

A basketball clinic is being planned for Saturday morning in conjunction with the football clinic.

Coach Blanton Collier and his University of Kentucky staff will conduct a football clinic in Ashland, March 25, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The clinic is sponsored by the Eastern Kentucky Education Association and will be held at the new Crabbe school, located at 17th street and Central avenue.

The Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club will meet the Key Club, Monday night, March 13, at 7:30, in the Prestonsburg field house.

The Kiwanis Club, featuring Bob "Will the Still" Wellman, Sgt. "Bevo" Craft, Earl "Goose" McDonald, and Huck "Sweetwater" Francis, will have a definite height advantage, but the Key clubbers are more agile and will probably run the "old men" down with their tremendous fast break.

Proceeds will go to the Key Club for the reinstatement of their charter.

District Music Contest Is Held At Pikeville; Collins Awarded First

The music of trumpets, clarinets and saxophones filled the air Saturday as young people participated in the Seventh district Music Contest which is sponsored by the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs.

Chairman in charge of arrangements for the contest was Mrs. David Reed, of the Langley-Maytown Club, who is vice-governor of the Seventh district. Contestants were students of the Eighth through the 12th grades and each one was sponsored by his or her local Woman's Club. This year the contest was open only to instrumentalists.

Winners in the contest included Ellsworth Collins, Jr., Wheelwright, who was awarded first prize. Young Collins, a 17-year-old senior at Wheelwright high school, plays the trumpet. He was sponsored by the Wheelwright Woman's Club, of which Mrs. Herbert Gillis is president. He will participate in the tri-state contest to be held in Louisville in May. Second place went to Gene Coburn, who was sponsored by the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Club. Third place was a tie and went to Mike Patrick, sponsored by the Magoffin County Woman's Club, of Salyersville, and to Judy Raliff, sponsored by the Drift Woman's Club.

Mrs. R. V. May, governor of the Seventh district, reminded the participants that next year's contest will be open only to pianists, and urged the clubwomen present to encourage young pianists in their communities to prepare for that date.

Judges were William Hunter, director of music at Pikeville College, where the contest was held; Alex Johnson, professor of mathematics at Pikeville and an expert flutist; and Jesse Elliott, director of music at Mullins high school and a long-time friend and mentor of young musicians in Eastern Kentucky.

NATURE TRAILS

BY RUFUS M. REED

ANTS, THE SCIENTIST'S THERMOMETER.

Scientists have studied the speed at which the ant crawls and have learned how to gauge the temperature with fair accuracy. They found that ants react to every slight change of the temperature. On a cool day, when the temperature hovers around 50 degrees, the ant crawls at a rate of only fifty-two feet per hour. But if the temperature jumps to 100 degrees, the ant will do a fast 780 feet per hour! As the temperature rises, the faster crawls the ant! By timing the speed of ants, scientists worked out a table that enables them to read the temperature within one degree!

THE REMARKABLE TEASEL, OR "DEVILS HORNS."

There is a plant common to our region, which has such a frightful appearance when its flower heads are fully formed, many people call it "devils horns." Yet it is one of the most useful in the world!

One may often see it growing in waste places along the roadside, and in late summer, it forms oval-shaped flower heads two or three inches long, which bear pretty pale violet or lilac flowers. These heads have long bracts around them, which stick up like pictures of the devil's horns! The flower heads are composed of rows of stiff, sharp spines, which are so formidable, they defy beasts to bother them, or man to touch. But men cut them off by the stems, dry them thoroughly, split them down the middle and use them in the manufacture of fine woollens, broadcloth, blankets, and the like. They are used with their sharp spines to raise the "nap" on cloth. No inventor has yet been able to produce any mechanical device that can do this work as well as the spiny heads of teasel. Some call this plant, "the card teasel" because old-timers used it to card wool. Some also call it "fuller's teasel." When the heads are dried and split open, the halves are attached to rotating cylinders and used in perfecting the cloth and to give it luster. Teasel belongs in a family of its own, The Teasel Family, which botanists call Dipsacaceae.

TWINS DIE

Gregory Dean Tackett, one day old son of Billy Jean Chaffins Tackett, of McDowell, died Wednesday of last week and his twin brother, Rony D. was claimed two days later. They were the only children. Rites for Gregory were conducted Thursday of last week at 10 a.m. at the home and services for Rony D. were held Saturday. Burial was made in the family cemetery at Minnie under the direction of Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

THE MIGHTY UNSEEN WORLD OF NATURE.

The unseen world of nature is greater than the world of things we can see. This world is made up of one-celled animals that literally fill the earth. They are called Protozoa and they live in the air, on the land and in the sea. Their number is so great no human mind could possibly conceive of it. They are believed to hold the key to the riddle of the beginnings of all life, and their name means "the first, or original animal." They are so small they must be studied with a microscope. Their work is so important the earth could not long exist without them. They have lived in the oceans for millions of years and have died and settled down to form the ocean floor, or "ooze." They are so numerous in the ocean, they furnish food to giant whales and other forms of marine life. Some of these tiny, one-celled animals have shells, which have helped to form much of the rock strata of the earth. Others, the foraminifers, have shells like chalk and have formed the chalk cliffs of England. These Protozoa also act as scavengers to devour dead life forms and help keep the earth clean. Their silent, unseen work goes on and on but we are seldom aware of it. They can eat food by wrapping around it and absorbing it. And they walk! They can project a part of their tiny body and move toward this. Some have flagella that help them in locomotion; others have cilia to help them move in air or water.

Some are so much like microscopic plants even the scientists hesitate between calling them plants or animals. Many have green chlorophyll in their bodies, such as Volvox, and they can make their own food! The green Volvox congregate together and form a ball, which moves about when the members of the colony whip the water with their flagella.

While these microscopic animals render a great service to man and his planet, they also destroy man by causing serious disease. Then we become painfully aware of them and must seek stern measures for fighting them. Then we call them "germs," or microbes. Some protozoa, called amoebas, invade the intestines of man and animals and cause the dangerous disease known as

CAMP BINGHAM

Lexington, Ky.—Some reports, in connection with the drive for a new 4-H camp in Extension District IV, in north-central Kentucky, have given the impression that Camp Bingham in Washington county is to be discontinued. This impression, says George Corder, chairman of 4-H Club Programs at the University of Kentucky, is entirely false. Camp Bingham will continue to operate at full capacity each year.

Caney Student's Poem Slated for Publication In Kentucky Farm Mag

Billy Paul Coburn, a student at Caney Junior College, has had his poem, "Feud," accepted for publication in "The Kentucky Farm Journal." Phillip Couch, Alton Corbett, and Terry Conley, also students at Caney College, have poems published in a nationwide collegiate literary magazine. Coburn, Couch and Conley are on the editorial board of "The Pinpoint," the Caney College magazine.

"The Pinpoint" was organized this year to stimulate creative writing among Caney students. Poems, short stories, essays and art work are contributed by the students. The editorial board, all members of which are selected from interested students, reads and selects the material to be published. The first edition of "The Pinpoint" will be printed in a few weeks. Faculty advisor for the magazine is James Hunter Herr, head of the department of English.

SWIFT'S SILVER MINE

R. B. Maynard, of Heenon, Pike county, interesting raconteur of legends of our yesterdays, writes of Swift and his fabied cache of silver.

"In the year 1840, the parents of my grandmother, Martha Ann Tummlre Maynard, lived near where Dewey Dam spans Johns Creek. At this time grandmother was about 12 years of age. She later married Jared Maynard, of Brushy Creek, Pike county. "While she was residing with her parents on lower Johns Creek, she was wont to relate, two men came up the valley one day leading an old blind man who said afterward his name was Swift. They passed her home, went on up the creek and were gone for hours, then came back and passed down the creek again. Soon they returned, passed by the home going up the valley again.

"Following several repetitions of this unusual action, they stopped at her home and related a strange story.

"Years and years before, while the Eastern Kentucky wilderness was yet undisturbed by white man, John Swift, Shadrach Jefferson and Jonathan Mundy entered this primeval quietness and somewhere in what was later known as Johnson county, mined, molded and loaded on horses heavy loads of silver money. They started back to their homes in North Carolina. Intending to travel up the Levisa River, they were attacked by Indians and had to alter their course and go up Johns Creek.

"They went up Johns Creek to a large left-hand fork, up it two miles to another left hand fork, up this to a low gap in the mountain. Here one stream flowed east, another west. At the east base of the mountain was a spring of water and here they camped for the night.

"During the night Mundy's horse got loose and strayed away. Next morning Mundy pleaded with them to divide his load between them and carry it on their horses for him. He said he would walk. They killed Mundy and buried his money in the low gap between two trees. Mundy's fierce dog remained with his master.

"Swift and Jefferson made their way back to civilization. Jefferson took pneumonia and died. Swift went blind.

"Swift, on nearing the century mark, persuaded two men to come back to Kentucky with him to get the money hidden in the low gap. "Grandmother Maynard always said Swift was superstitious and spooky, would often warn the others to mind Mundy's dog.

"They would go up Johns Creek several miles and Swift would say: "We have gone too far." Then they would go back down the creek and start again, hoping to get straightened out but they never could. And as far as is known at present, the money was left to the secrecy of its resting place between the two trees."

Mr. Maynard, after this recalling of an old legend, writes of his grandmother:

"My grandmother, Martha Ann Tummlre Maynard, was born in the Blue Ridge Mountains, enroute to Big Mud Creek where the family settled for awhile. They later moved to the Sol McGuire farm on lower Johns Creek. I remember a dramatic, intriguing story of her pioneer life. Her mother was a Setser, a sister to Adam Setser, the ancestor of the Floyd county Setzers."

(Since you have favored us with the highly interesting Swift legend, Mr. Maynard, why not contribute the story of Martha Ann Tummlre Maynard? We are sure the readers would like it.)

Miss Hansen has come from similar work in North Carolina to assist Caney Creek Community Center this winter in its Christmas pretties project and in its office work. Army Enlistment Rate Shows Big Gain, Report

It was announced last week by Col. Fred J. Martineau, commanding officer, headquarters Second US Army Recruiting District, that the US Army enlistment rate in the Second Army area has shown a marked increase over 1960. The total enlistments in the seven-state area thus far show a 12% increase over those of FY 60.

Sgt. Marvin E. Craft, local Army recruiter, indicated that the reason behind the current upsurge in enlistments is the Army's long range planning. The institution of the Army's Choice NOT Chance-Guarantee program over a year and a half ago, is now paying big dividends. This program, designed to provide an enlistee with the career training of his choice has worked so successfully that educators, industrialists and other community leaders are now recommending that young men interested in a profession get their career training in the Army.

were already surveys in detail in the superintendent's office and said that the proposed Big Mud Creek building was not in these reports. Board Member John M. Stumbo insisted it was in the survey reports.

"The picture has changed much since '53," Clark said. "There's been a lot of building since then. Because of population changes we want to spend wisely."

6. The Board voted, 3 to 2, to name a site committee on the proposed new buildings in the system. These are Howard, Clark, W. J. Reynolds, Jr., Fairis Johnson, and George Lee Shannon.

7. Oliver Allen, director of transportation, reported on contract transportation of pupils in certain areas.

8. Considerable discussion arose over whether to pay Eugene Conley for two days school not taught immediately after he was named director of personnel in January. It was voted to write the Attorney General and to act on his advice in April.

9. Arch Seamon, of Pet Milk Company, submitted a bill and asked payment on two delinquent accounts of Gayheart and Upper Jack's Creek schools. His company was not named by recent Board action as a milk supplier.

10. Byron Thompson, representative of the principals' choice of lunchroom cooks to expedite bookkeeping. The Board deferred action.

21. Discussion arose over the values of coal and gas heating at Allen and the Board's previous vote to continue with gas was reaffirmed. The vote was four to one, with Stumbo the dissenting vote. The equipment ordered under the original order to convert to coal was ordered returned.

22. Voted to pay Mary Irene McIntosh $475.80 and Judith D. Archer $92.10 for stenographic service. Howard, Hall and Cooley voted for the payments, Stumbo opposed and Blair abstained.

23. Bills from Woodrow Burchett for $125 for legal service and Joe Hobson for $250 were discussed. Howard asked for a motion but none being forthcoming, Supt. Clark requested: "Tell me what to do." The Board voted to defer payment.

24. Accepted the high bid of $1,651 from Mitchell Dotson for the school system's bulldozer, and the Bryant Branch school building and grounds were awarded to a purchaser on his high bid of $1,630.

25. Lee Shannon was employed as architect on the projected vocational school building at Garth. The former colored school building at Weeksbury, in disuse since integration, was leased to the Weeksbury P-T.A. for Boy Scout purposes.

26. Betty Stephens, secretary of the Twenty-Year Teachers Club, appeared before the Board to ask the Board to authorize 30, 40 and 50-year service pins. It was voted unanimously.

11. It was unanimously voted to require principals to issue financial statements on all monies received and spent, with the exception of lunchroom operation.

12. It was voted to pay Chrisman & Miller, architects, $7,416 as 60 per cent of the firm's six per cent fee on the Big Mud Creek elementary school building. It was ordered by a 3-2 vote that the architects proceed no further on the project.

13. Unanimously voted to accept the resignation of Angie D. Harmon and named several substitute emergency teachers.

14. Ordered that the Kentucky Department of Education and the board advertise for the purchase of four 60-passenger and one 66 passenger buses, the lowest bids and best bids to be accepted.

15. Rented the Cold Springs Regular Baptist Church for school use, accepted a check for $160 from Joe Roberts for damage done to a school bus in a collision; voted to accept a federal appropriation of $250 to build a sample fall-out shelter at the vocational school.

16. Superintendent Clark recommended Has Stone as janitor of the Martin high school to succeed the present janitor, who resigned. The Board split on this recommendation by three "no" and two "yes" votes.

17. Voted unanimously to raise the amount allocated to classroom supplies to $50 per room for next year.

18. Ordered the pupils of the Lick Fork school, which burned recently, transferred to the Bosco grade school. Gene Adkins, of the Kentucky Department of Education, told the Board that the store building heretofore authorized for use by the Board would not meet minimum standards. This had been a matter of contention by the Board members and Superintendent Clark for several weeks. Board Member Ross Cooley moved to rescind the order authorizing the use of the store building and that the pupils be taught at Bosco. It was voted unanimously.

19. The Board voted unanimously to adopt an adult education program as outlined by Assistant Superintendent Walter Frasure.

20. Clark asked the Board to ratify the principals' choice of lunchroom cooks to expedite bookkeeping. The Board deferred action.

DEPRESSED AREA PROGRAM PROPOSED BY GOV. COMBS

Frankfort, Ky., March 9 — Gov. Bert Combs this week proposed to Congress a nine-point program of additional aid to depressed areas and relief of unemployment.

Testifying before a subcommittee of the House Banking and Currency Committee in Washington, the Governor urged passage of President Kennedy's depressed-areas bill. The bill, he said, "is, in my opinion, a necessary and effective part of the solution of the nation's economic problem. But I think it is only part of the program needed."

Combs outlined additional executive orders and legislation which he said are: "required to meet this need for basic development in certain areas:"

1. A special inter-regional highway building program.
2. New water development projects for depressed areas and a speed-up of spending for all Federal projects already authorized.
3. In depressed areas where the income level is low, a lowering of local contributions to such programs as housing, stream pollution and building of community facilities.

CARTOGRAPHY

A new preacher—may his tribe increase!—came to town recently, and he has been working diligently, seeking out the members of his flock. The lack of house numbers plagued him, and finally a map of the town was produced by some of the fellows who wanted to be helpful.

The map required considerable explaining, and some of it ran like this:

"That's Over in the Bottom," it was explained as the pencil pointed to West Prestonsburg. "And here," pointing to the Porter Addition, "is Down in the Bottom." Then up to Lancer—"And that is Up in the Bottom."

The preacher may by this time be in the market for a compass.

LEAVES "WEAKLY" FIELD

Every daily newspaperman thinks he wants a weekly newspaper—if he hasn't had one. We read now about one Roy Steinfurt, a former reporter for The Courier-Journal, who entertained dreams of being his own boss, writing as he pleased, working when he pleased, fishing when his wife would let him. So he bought himself a 95-year-old weekly out in La Grange, Illinois. That was in October, 1953.

Last week the disillusioned Mr. Steinfurt sold the aforesaid 95-year-old "weakly" to an innocent named W. Emerson Jones.

Where is Mr. Steinfurt going? Back to daily newspaper work for the Associated Press, of course.

KOREA—"END OF THE LINE;" AN APPEAL FOR HELP

We have a letter from Lowell Osborne, a former Floyd County Times newsboy who now is with the Air Force in Korea. He offers to pay for the space but we are glad to give it to him as we publish his appeal, in part:

"... Being from a depressed part of Kentucky and having experienced how bad things are back there, I would say that people back there can be thankful that they have so much... What I want to do is try and get a few of the organizations in and around Floyd county to have some kind of fund drive or campaign to raise clothes for the needy in the vicinity of Kusanan City, Korea. I remember, years back, the VFW, Kiwanis, Boy and Girl Scouts, and Eastern Star used to collect old clothing for the needy around Floyd county but since I am not trying to solicit their services to take clothes off the folks' backs around home I would still appreciate all the assistance some of these organizations would give these few orphanages that are around Kusanan City. These orphanages are supported mainly from G.I.'s stationed here in Korea and all denominations of the churches back home.

"I was formerly of Wheelwright, prior to being re-assigned overseas in April, 1957, and have seen how low the living standards are in different parts of Asia but when I got to Korea that was the end of the line, I couldn't possibly find any other place that needs assistance so bad as this. This will no doubt look like some Korean is trying to make a fast buck, but just to be sure that they don't, the orphanages are administered by the Presbyterian Church and the Catholic Mission to Korea.

"The address to send the clothing to is: Commander, Detachment No. 1, 3rd Bombardment Wing, APO 64, San Francisco, California."

He adds that clothing for children, ages 2 through 14, is needed.

LUMBER INDUSTRY CHANGES ADVOCATED BY SPECIALIST

BY NEVILLE SHACKELFORD
Quicksand, Ky.—If Eastern Kentuckians are ever to realize more than mediocre profits from their timber resources some way must be found to modify present methods of processing and marketing.

That is the conclusion reached by Gilbert E. Brown, a noted authority on timber, timber processing and marketing.

Employed by the UK Eastern Kentucky Resources Development Program as a forestry consultant, Brown based his conclusion on first hand observations while traveling over the area and on conversations with sawmill operators, timberland owners, and businessmen.

Brown intimated that due to the fact he had made only a cursory examination of the forestry situation here, he was not prepared to offer any definite solutions. He did say, however, one of the first steps to be taken to assure a greater return from lumber would be the construction of more dry kilns in the area.

Eastern Kentucky is largely a hardwood country, and Brown said before anybody can do anything with hardwood lumber, it must be dried. At present, due to the lack of kilns, the lumber must be shipped out of the area, dried, and then shipped back, if to be used in the area.

"That means," he said, "a great loss in profit to the man who owns the timber and the man who saws—and a much higher price to the man who has to buy it back when he goes to build a house."

Brown suggested that sawmill owners could band together and construct a community kiln to dry their own lumber. The price of a kiln is not prohibitive, he said, and even if they cannot sell all this dried lumber at home, they can save on freight rates and get a higher price for it when shipped away.

Brown said Eastern Kentuckians can hardly expect outside timber interests to come here and build a kiln or any kind of a factory or plant using wood products. "As the situation now stands," he said, "the outside interests are getting the timber anyway and at just about their own price. They are very well satisfied to let the matter stand as is."

On this matter of new plants or factories to turn out products of wood, Brown said it appeared to him that they must come from within instead of from without. He suggested small factories which could easily be financed locally and turn out such items as whatnot shelves, stepladders, stair steps, door sills, upholstered furniture parts, and many other smaller items which are in much demand. Machinery for making such items wouldn't cost much more than an ordinary sawmill but could have a decided impact on the economy of a community.

New S.S. Regulations Explained By Morris; More People To Benefit

"Beginning in 1961, an additional 450,000 people will be able to draw some social security monthly benefits while they are working," James A. Morris, Field Representative for the Prestonsburg area said today.

Morris pointed out that a provision of the new social security amendments changes the rules for determining how earnings from work affect a person's right to receive monthly benefits. He explained further that the following rules remain unchanged:

1. Anyone earning $1,200 or less during a year will still be entitled to receive his full social security check for every month of the year;
2. Anyone who has reached his 72nd birthday will still be able to receive his full social security check for every month no matter how much he works and how much he earns;
3. A person will not have deduction from his social security check for any month that his earnings as an employee are $100 or less or, if he is self-employed, for any month that he does not do substantial work in his business.

The change made by the recent amendments affects the social security beneficiary whose earnings from employment or self-employment go over $1,200 a year, Mr. Morris explained. For earnings from $1,200 to $1,500 he will give up $1.00 in social security benefits for each $2.00 of earnings. For any earnings over $1,500 he will give up $1.00 of social security benefits for every $1.00 of earnings. Under the old rule, which remains in effect until the end of 1960, a person is required to give up his entire monthly social security check for every $80 or part of $80 by which his earnings go over $1,200 a beneficiary. "The change in the new law eliminates the possibility that a person may lose considerably more in social security than he earns from his work—a possibility that existed under the old law," Mr. Morris said.

Mr. Morris further stated that there are 11.1 million people of 65 years of age or over who are either receiving regular monthly benefits or would be receiving them if the family breadwinner was not working. Of these, about two million will be affected by the change in the law on the payment of social security checks to people who are working. 1.4 million of them have not applied for payments because they are making over $2,080 a year, the annual earnings figure that generally prevents a person from receiving any social security checks under the law.

Morris advised that anyone who may be eligible for social security benefits but who has not yet made a claim for them because he is working, should call at the social security office to inquire about the effect of the new change on his rights.

James A. Morris is in Prestonsburg each Tuesday between the hours of 9:30 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. at the Employment Office, to assist in matters pertaining to social security.

BOARD COST ON GYM TOLD

Tax Revenues Here
Fall Short of Annual
Needs To Pay Debt

In a discussion at a joint meeting of the Floyd County Educational Advisory committee with members of the Board of Education at Allen recently, Wayne Ratliff disclosed several salient facts about the complicated financial set-up of the county school system.

In explaining school construction costs, he commented that this year there is an allocation of $600 per classroom for construction but that part of it is already pledged for past construction. Prestonsburg's tax levy for retirement of the high school gymnasium is insufficient, Ratliff said.

The gym, for which $260,000 worth of four per cent bonds were issued four years ago to defray construction cost, was originally conceived by its promoters as an obligation of the city taxpayers.

Litigation and the merger agreement between the city and county school systems finally named a 30 cent tax rate to amortize the bonds in 25 years, or in 1979. Prestonsburg voters approved the levying of a rate from five to 30 cents.

However, it is now learned, city taxpayers are not producing the annual amount necessary to retire the bonds and pay interest. The Floyd County Board of Education is paying an average 39 per cent of the bond retirement.

For instance, in the 1959-60 fiscal year, the city taxpayers paid $11,249.45 but this was $7,018.05 short so the Board of Education paid it. In the last four years $73,970 has been applied on the bonds, the city taxpayers contributing $45,471.55 and the Board $28,498.45.

This situation is expected to continue, according to Wayne Ratliff, assistant county superintendent in charge of finances. Unless Prestonsburg has an increase in taxable wealth, in the form of industry or something else, the 30-cent per hundred tax rate will not produce enough annually to retire the bonds.

In addition to this 39 per cent contribution to the cost of the gymnasium the Board of Education inherited at merger an obligation of $22,000 on the Prestonsburg grade school.

However, Ratliff pointed out, the gym and grade school are both properties of the whole school system and the amount paid or to be paid is a disbursement for what it owes.

Paintsville City Expert Dumfounds Engineers, Others By Municipal Information

(In The Courier-Journal)
Paintsville, Ky., Feb. 24 — City Clerk Freda Stapleton is a woman who leaves engineers, fiscal experts and city planners dumfounded.

She provides answers to questions about city affairs that visiting specialists expect from the mayor or City Councilmen here.

Like the other day:
"The foreman of a firm installing new sewers here phoned and asked to speak to someone who could tell him the location of a lateral," said Freda.

"You could tell he had doubts about a woman knowing anything about sewers. But, anyway, I got out the sewer maps and told him where to dig for the lateral. Well, he dug for three days and never found it and kept phoning me back to make sure I knew what I was talking about."

"Finally on the fourth day, they located the lateral and he phoned to apologize. His men hadn't followed directions. They'd been digging in the wrong place."

Keeping tab of sewers and laterals has been only part of Miss Stapleton's work as city clerk here the past 14 years.

"I don't know how the city would get along without her," said Mayor R. B. Preston. "Every department and every one in town comes to her with their problems."

Former Mayor J. B. Wells credits Miss Stapleton with revising the city's bookkeeping.

"Paintsville didn't have a uniform bookkeeping system when we hired her," Wells said. "She put in one and it has been copied by several other Eastern Kentucky cities."

Wells thought so much of Miss Stapleton's work while he was Mayor that he tried to hire her away from the city when he was appointed rural highway commissioner in 1955.

"I told every one she made an excellent mayor and I wanted to see what kind of rural highway commissioner she'd make."

Although Freda took the post of city clerk here on a temporary basis, she now is a full-time employee, and one that Mayor Preston regards as indispensable.

Freda had tuberculosis for 12 years and was confined to bed for seven of those years before she joined the city. She now is an arrested case.

"I like trying to help people solve their problems more than anything else," she explained. Before she became ill, she was a social worker with the state. She was hired as clerk by former Mayor Escorn Chandler.

Besides posting the city records, she serves as an unofficial city manager.

She prepares the city tax books, handles all complaints, assigns work to the various municipal departments, and attends all Council meetings. She also prepares the city budget and is a member of the Planning and Zoning Council.

"She's an expert on balancing the budget," said Mayor Preston. "She's soft-spoken and reared and Freda's outstanding attribute is her ability to handle people. Preston and Wells agreed."

"She has the knack of keeping every one on an even keel," Wells said. He regards her as one of the best of administrators.

"She knows more about city government," he said, "than every one else in town put together."

Except for parking-ticket complaints, Freda finds her work with people no problem.

"The usual gripe about parking meters," she laughed, "is that we shouldn't have them in the first place."

A native of Johnson county, Freda lives with her mother in a small residence two doors from City Hall.

For recreation she fishes at Dewey Lake.

"I like to read," she said, "but mostly the city is my hobby."

Your Telephone Manager

SOMETHING NEW — Prestonsburg and Floyd County will have a change in their telephone system on Sunday, April 9, 1961, at 12:01 a.m., but the change will not be noticed by the telephone users.

All telephone calls after April 9th will be handled through the new telephone building on Westminster street. This change affords a larger capacity for telephone lines and long distance calls, with plenty of room for expansion.

Pay station telephones will also get a new look. After the April 9th date, to make a call from a pay station, you will deposit your dime to get dial tone, rather than dial your number and deposit your dime after the party answers.

Be sure to consult your directory before dialing, and always wait for dial tone. These two tips will save you a lot of time, and will keep your neighbor from getting a wrong number call.

AROUND THE WORLD IN 90 MINUTES—One of three men—no one knows which—will be the first American to travel in outer space. Strapped into a cone-shaped capsule, he will be rocketed 120 miles into a world, which no living man has ever seen. After three 90-minute global orbits, he will return to earth. When this historic trip takes place, this "man in space" will rely on communication systems designed by Bell Laboratories and Western Electric scientists. Bell System research, which developed this communications system, has helped make it possible for us to provide you with the finest telephone service in the world.

ANSWERS TO YOUR TAX QUESTIONS BY WILLIAM E. SCENT KENTUCKY'S COMMISSIONER OF REVENUE

Q. How is Kentucky income tax computed?
A. If your adjusted gross income is $5,500 or less, and you do not itemize deductions, you must use the tax table to compute your tax. A tax table is provided with each form. If your adjusted gross income is over $5,500, or if you itemize deductions, you must compute your tax on page 2 of your tax return in the section entitled "Tax Computation."

Q. Does the tax table include the standard deduction?
A. Yes. The tax table enables you to arrive at the "tax due" with very little mathematical computation. The standard deduction, number of tax credits, tax rate and the surtax are included in the table.

Q. What is the Kentucky Individual Tax rate?
A. The rate varies with the amount of net income. For the first $3,000 of net income the tax rate is two per cent; for the next $1,000 the rate is three per cent; for the next $1,000 the rate is four per cent; for the next $3,000 the rate is five per cent; for net income in excess of $8,000 the rate is six per cent. After computing the tax, the surtax must be added.

Q. What is the surtax?
A. The surtax is a tax based on the normal income tax due.
Q. What is the surtax rate?
A. On the first $25 normal tax

Three from County On U.K. Dean's List With "A" Standings

Miss Anneta Handshoe, daughter of Samuel Handshoe, Hueysville, and a graduate of Garrett high school; Mrs. Judith Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Salisbury, of Martin, a graduate of Martin high school; Miss Rose Worland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Worland, Prestonsburg. She is a graduate of Prestonsburg high school.

To earn a place on the Dean's List, a student must have a grade average of -A, or better, on all classwork of the previous semester. All three young women made perfect A standings in all their classes.

Ella Stewart Chullun Announces For Representative

In announcing my candidacy for Representative of the 97th Legislative District, it is my intention to win, and to serve Floyd County in Frankfort.

1. I announce upon the strength of my many friends and relatives. I am the daughter of Cinda Hall Stewart and the late Lee Stewart, of Melvin, Ky., and as such I am related by blood through the Stewarts, Triplets, Halls, Turners, Stumbos and Gearharts, and by marriage to the McCowns, Tacketts, Moores, Vincents, Evans, Mills, Rowes, Hopkins and others.

2. I announce because, living at Melvin in the center of the district, and married to a coal miner, Johnie Chullun, I understand the problems of this district, which extends down Left Beaver through Arkansas, and which extends through the Mud country, goes down through Harold, Betsy Layne and on to the outskirts of Allen.

3. I announce because, as a mother of three, with two children already in school, I am highly interested in the future of education in our county. I live in an area of pitiful depression, and understand the problems of the unemployed, the old aged, the needy blind and dependent children.

4. I announce because I do not intend to be the tool of any special interest group, nor do I intend to vote blindly for administration supported bills which do not meet the needs of my neighbors.

5. I announce because I want to help take the sales tax off food, clothing and medicine.

6. I announce because, as the wife of a veteran, I feel that the veterans are entitled to the maximum $300.00 and $500.00 bonus for which the people voted.

7. I announce because I am interested in better paid teachers and their retirement rights.

8. I announce because I want to help the dear and beloved coal miner, and other people of the working class, who earn their living by the sweat of their brow.

My dear friends, please give me your support and I shall give you mine, because I truly understand your needs.

W'WRIGHT FIVE EDGES MARTIN HI FOR TITLE

The wide-open 15th regional high school basketball tournament now under way here in the local gymnasium will continue play Thursday night as Floyd county rivals Wheelwright and Martin meet again in the Thursday night game at 8:45.

Paintsville and Virgie were placed in the upper bracket "through luck of the draw" and Wheelwright and Meade Memorial were pitted in the lower round.

Paintsville met Ezel last night and Virgie battled Oil Springs in the Wednesday night opening games.

Thursday's opening session at 7 p.m. has Oil Springs (22-6) and winner of the 60th district, battling Meade Memorial (26-6) winner of the 59th district. They met once during the regular season and Wendell Wallen's quintet copped a ten-point win.

In the finale of the first round, Wheelwright (25-3) and Martin (22-13) will play a rematch of their 58th district tournament battle which the Trojans won 59-56, on the neutral Prestonsburg floor last Saturday night.

Every team in the eight team field has won 20 or more games and between the fans favorites Meade Memorial and Wheelwright, Wendell Wallen's Johnson countians lost a 93-67 routing to Wheelwright on February 16, in this same gymnasium.

Meade Memorial is the defending regional champion and Wheelwright lost to the Red Devils in the semi-finals of last season's event.

Recapping the districts: Wheelwright—third ranked team in Kentucky—had close calls in every game in winning the 58th and successfully retaining their district crown. In a slow-down first game contest, the Trojans won out 28-22 over the Garrett Black Devils.

Then in the semi-final contest a fighting Maytown band led almost certain victory escape their grasp by losing a 61-58 command with only eight seconds left to play.

Perry Taylor was fouled on a driving crisp and calmly sank a charity toss with one second left to send the game into an extra period and the Trojans won out 70-64, as Maytown had earlier lost two starters via the foul route.

In the hectic final game, Don Wallen's charges broke a 43-43 third period deadlock to out point Martin, 16-13, in the final canto for a 59-56 win. Denzil Halbert's Purple Flash had led 31-28 at half-time. Senior guard Forest Newsome sparked the winners with 25 points and Darrell Luxmore and Bobby Marshall had 18 and 16 for the losers.

Named to the all district team were: Paul Daniels, Auxier; Roy Prater, Prestonsburg; Darrell Luxmore, Martin; Bill Tallent, Maytown; Jimmy Chaffins and Don Vanderpool, Garrett; Gary Branham and Jackie Stanford, Wayland; Ernest Adkins, Betsy Layne; David Turner, McDowell; and Jim Rose and Bruce Belcher, Wheelwright.

Oil Springs successfully retained the five team 60th district crown with a final game 54-36 conquest of Ezel. The Springers whalloped Morgan County, 93-53, in the semi-final fray and Ezel won its way into the finals with a first round victory over Sandy Hook, 51-49, and conquered Salyersville, 63-31, in the semi-finals.

Meade Memorial, the only team to beat Paintsville at home twice this season belted the Tigers 49-45 in holding their district title in the 59th. Meade had a close call in edging Inez 56-53 in the final 30 seconds of a hard-fought semi-final game.

Billy Rae Cassidy's Tigers had a easier time gaining the final round with an open game 99-57 rout of Louisa and a 72-51 triumph over Warfield in the semi-finals.

Selected to the all-district team were: Floyd McCoy, Inez; Eddie McKenzie, Flat Gap; Kenny Goble, Paintsville; Dorsey Fields, Warfield; Johnny Skaggs, Blaine; Wilbur Preston, Meade Memorial; Larry Sturgill, Meade Memorial; Charles Six, Warfield; Phillip Mos-

V.P.I. Team Counting Heavily on Bob Vicars, Four Other Freshmen

Bob Vicars, who starred last year for the Wheelwright high school Trojans, is one of four freshmen on whom Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Virginia, is counting for better basketball days.

Named with Vicars are Howard Pardue, Frankie Alvis and Barry Benfield. Says the V.P.I. school newspaper:

"... this quartet of performers has shouldered most of the burden and can be counted on to carry the load in the future."

Of Vicars the newspaper said: "Vicars is a 6-4 fun-loving man who has played at both guard and forward for Coach Bill Matthews, and who has showed up well in both capacities. Vicars owns a scoring record averaging in double figures and has proven he can sprag for rebounds and perform ball-handling chores with the most admirable results."

Pikeville College Bears Without Setser Defeated By Narrowest of Margins

Pikeville, Ky., March 6 (Spl.)—The Pikeville College Bears wrapped up the basketball season and put it to bed in thrilling style Saturday, falling 72-70 to Georgetown College because of a disallowed field goal in the closing seconds.

The game was played in Transylvania's gymnasium in Lexington.

The basket, Ronnie Francisco's second on only two attempts, came on a jump shot from the center stripe. The shot was described by a play-by-play announcer for a Pikeville radio station, on the scene, an instant before the horn was clearly heard to go off.

According to other responsible persons present, neither official signaled that the basket was good or bad, but referee Humzey Yessin ran to the timer and asked his opinion. On his judgment that the goal didn't count, Yessin awarded the victory to Georgetown.

The game was the final of Kentucky's elaborate four-team playoff to determine the champion of the 24th District of the NATA, and was to select a participant in the annual NATA tournament. As a result of the referee's action, the Georgetown Tigers will attend the national tourney instead of Pikeville's Bears.

The Bruins qualified for the meeting with Georgetown Thursday by downing the Transylvania Pioneers, 71-62, also on Transy's floor, while the Tigers were measuring Villa Madonna 82-70 at Covington.

John Will Hunt provided the brightest spot in Saturday's picture, taking over ailing Paul Setser's starting role and scoring 14 points while fouling only once. Dennis Butcher, after an off night at Transylvania, was back in form, notching 31 points to lead all scorers with 12 of 18 shots from the field and seven of 10 from the line.

He also hauled down a dozen rebounds, and led the squad in assists again with five.

Setser, stricken with an attack described as blood poisoning late Thursday night, was hospitalized the next day, but returned to Pikeville with the team Sunday. He was forbidden by physicians to play in Saturday night's game.

Butcher scored 10 of Pikeville's first 12 points against the Tigers, and gave the Bears a 10-9 lead which they held for almost the entire first half. They pulled to their longest advantage, 27-19, about midway of the period.

Georgetown led through the second stanza by as much as nine points, until Hunt dropped in two free throws to produce the game's seventh tie, 70-70, with 16 seconds on the clock. After waiting for the last shot, Dick Vories hit a jumper with five seconds to go.

The ball was passed in to Francisco, who shot from the center line and hit, but the goal was not allowed.

Four seniors, three starters and a reserve, saw their college basketball careers end with the loss. Setser, Vern Woods, who reaped 17 points and pulled down 12 rebounds; Everett Horn, who was held to two points on one of five field attempts, and George Carroll, who played briefly without scoring, closed out their college play.

Pete Campbell hit only two of nine efforts from the field to total four points. Francisco bagged two points in brief action, sinking his only field shot before the game-ending attempt.

Enforcement Progress Noted By Commissioner In Wildlife Program

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 27—Much progress has been made in the Law Enforcement Division of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources in the past ten years, Minor Clark, commissioner of the Department, revealed today in pointing out that records show that two and one-half times as many licenses were checked last year as for 10 years ago and that the arrest number almost doubled in that period of time.

Actually, Commissioner Clark said, the records show that this great increase in contacts and arrests was brought about by fewer men, using a reduced travel budget, and covering a greater area than the men in 1950.

In 1950 there were 121 conservation officers on the payroll as compared to 115 who worked last year, and in breaking down the reports for the two years Clark cited 3,233 arrests made last year as compared to 2,264 who were arrested in 1950. He declared that the average number of arrests for 1960 per man was about 28 while for the 12 months of 1950, the average arrest was about 18 per man. Further, he pointed out, almost two and one-half times as many licenses were checked in 1960 as in 1950. The most recent record shows that 206,081 fishermen and hunters were checked, or an average of about 1,786 per man, while for 1950 there were 87,712 licenses checked, or an average per man of about 724.

A trend that is particularly pleasing to the Department and to the sportsmen of Kentucky, Frank Phipps, director of Law Enforcement, said, is revealed by the comparison of court action in 1950 and ten years later. Of the 2,264 cases taken before the courts of the Commonwealth in 1950, 410 cases were lost, for a conviction percentage of slightly more than 81, while for 1960, of the 3,233 cases tried, only 348 cases were on the negative side. This conviction percentage is slightly above 88, an all time high in that respect for Kentucky.

This trend, Phipps said, reveals the sympathetic attitude of public officials as concerns game law violations, and also shows that arrests are now made only when the Conservation Officer believes he has a valid case against the person accused. Since 1950, Phipps continued, the courts have been increasingly sympathetic towards the enforcement division of the Department and clearly shows that the vast majority of the people of the Commonwealth are vitally interested in protection of their game and fish supply.

FISHING

The trouble with bait is that little fish like it as well as lunkers. Here's a way to sneak it by the small fry before they have a chance to steal it. When using a mayfly larvae or similar bait, you can get it to deep water fast by hanging a fence staple on the hook. This protects the bait and a slight jerk will dislodge it when you're down where the big ones hang out.

This one's for eel fishermen. Eels are slippery and tough to unhook. Here's how. Take a regular metal bucket and run a wire across the top attaching it to the bases of the handle. Hold your eel above the bucket. When its tail touches the wire it will wrap around and hold tight. Thus, the eel will help you get out the hook. How do you get the eel loose? Just let go. He'll drop into the bucket.

HUNTING

If your duck decoys are all banged up a coat of paint will make them more attractive—to you if not the ducks. Here's the tip. While the paint is still wet, brush in a small amount of powdered pumice stone. The pumice stone will absorb any glare from the new paint. Now the stools will attract ducks as well as people.

How many running deer have you shot at and missed? Next time you see one speeding across an open field, hold your fire. When the deer gets to the edge he will pause just before entering the cover. Then your shot will be at a standing target—no excuse for a miss.

Baptist Youth League Is Organized; Regional Churches Participate

The Baptist Youth League was organized at a meeting held February 17, at the McDowell Baptist Chapel, to provide a supervised sports program for the young people who attend the member churches.

The Youth League sponsors a basketball schedule in the winter and a baseball schedule during the summer.

The basketball program consists of a junior division for boys from 9 to 13 and a senior division for boys, ages 14 to 18.

The participating churches are Grethel Baptist Church, First Baptist Church of Martin, Lambert Baptist Mission, First Baptist Church of Mousie, McDowell Baptist Church, Wheelwright Friendship Methodist and Baptist Church, The Betsy Layne Baptist Church, and the First Baptist Church of Wheelwright.

A league tournament will be held April 14, 15, 21 and 22, at the Wheelwright gym. Trophies will be awarded to the winners, and key-chain basketballs will be presented to all-star players selected in each division.

8. ELIMINATION OF COSTLY PARKING PROBLEMS
9. AVOIDANCE OF JOSTLING CROWDS
10. THE CHANCE TO BUILD A BETTER COMMUNITY BY PUTTING YOUR DOLLARS TO WORK HERE

We don't believe you gain anything at all by driving long distances to shop at BIG CITY stores. Our local sources have merchandise that's just as good and costs no more.

But merely for the sake of argument, suppose you do save a few dollars on a time-consuming trip many miles from home. And suppose you don't even count the cost of gasoline and oil, car wear, parking fees, etc. Forget, too, if you like, the hazards of driving in today's heavy highway and city traffic.

But don't overlook these things: What you buy here can be in your home in a few minutes—no waiting several days for delivery. And if the merchandise doesn't give full satisfaction, any needed service or adjustment of the purchase can be made without shipping the items back to the BIG CITY or being forced to make a second trip yourself.

Why drive scores of miles looking for trouble? Shop right around the corner and be safe and satisfied.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means of expressing our sincere thanks and appreciation to every one who in any way assisted us upon the death of our beloved husband and brother, Homer Wicker. We are grateful to the many friends and relatives who sent food and for the beautiful flowers, and the friends who called at the home to be with us; and to the Turner & Ryan Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

Caney College Director Attends Washington Meet

William Hayes, director of Caney Junior College, for the first time attended the American Association of Junior Colleges in Washington, D. C., March 1-3, in this new capacity. He has attended such conferences previously as a delegate of Mrs. Alice Lloyd, now retired to emeritus status.

The Washington meeting provides a staff of experts in fields ranging from curriculum to fund-raising, in a very practical arrangement for individual advice for each college head.

Mr. Hayes expects to initiate a palms-out policy in approaching some financial friends of Caney Junior College in the Washington area.

INFORMATION For VETERANS

Here are authoritative answers from the Veterans Administration to questions of interest to veterans and their dependents:

Q. In a medical emergency, how should one go about getting a veteran admitted to a nearby VA hospital and getting an ambulance to take him to the hospital at Government expense?

A. The veteran's private physician should telephone the hospital and discuss the veteran's condition with the admitting physician of the hospital.

Q. I am the unmarried widow of a World War II veteran who never used his home loan guaranty benefits. Is it true, as I've been told, that I may be eligible to apply for VA guaranty on a home loan?

A. An unmarried widow of a World War II or Korean Conflict veteran is eligible for this benefit only if her husband died in service, or following separation from service, he died of a service-connected disability.

Q. I am a Korean veteran and have recently become unemployed. Am I still eligible for unemployment compensation, and if so, how much?

A. States vary on the rate of payment and on the length of time, following discharge from service, that military service will be included in the "base period" in establishing eligibility. Contact your nearest State Employment Service office. Take along your separation papers, Social Security card and a record of employment, both before and after military service.

Q. Can I be admitted to a VA domiciliary on short notice?

A. The veteran should not go to a VA domiciliary expecting to be admitted. The veteran should not be sent or taken to a domiciliary until prior approval for his admission has been received.

Kentucky's 80,000 4-H Club members will join other 4-H'ers throughout the U. S. in telling the world about their organization March 4-11. This is National 4-H Club Week—and the theme of the observation is "Learn—Live—Serve Through 4-H."

MERIT SCHOLARSHIP TEST SCHEDULED HERE, SAID

Twenty-five students at Prestonsburg high school plan to take the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test, Woodrow Allen, principal, announced this week. The test will be administered at the high school at 9 a.m., Tuesday, March 7. All students who wish to be considered for Merit Scholarships to be awarded in 1962 must take the test at that time.

The qualifying test is a three-hour examination of educational development. The test is the first step in the seventh annual competition for four-year Merit Scholarships provided by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation and by sponsoring corporations, foundations, associations and individuals.

The scores of students who take the test on March 7 will be reported to their school before the end of the spring semester in time for use by class advisers. The scores are used in many high schools to help students make decisions about college attendance and field of study. Many students who do not expect to win a scholarship take the test in order to learn more about their individual strengths and weaknesses in the areas measured by the test.

Some 10,000 semi-finalists, the highest scorers in each state, will be named early next fall. Names of semi-finalists are published in a booklet which is distributed to all colleges and to other sources of financial aid for undergraduates. Further, their names and test scores are sent on cards to the colleges they express an interest in attending as their first or second choices. The order of preference is not shown.

Each semi-finalist will be asked to take a second examination. Those who repeat their high performance will become finalists in the Merit Program. Winners of Merit Scholarships will be selected from the finalist group on the basis of school records and recommendations, test scores, extracurricular activities, leadership ability, and accomplishments outside the classroom. Each finalist is awarded a Certificate of Merit attesting to his outstanding performance.

The scholarship stipends are based upon financial need. The minimum award is $100 and the maximum is $1,500. The average stipend awarded to freshman Merit Scholars in 1960 was $827. Each scholarship constitutes a form of "educational insurance," since the stipend may be increased at any time if the student's financial situation changes during the four-year term of the scholarship. Supplementary grants are usually made to the colleges which the scholars attend.

An additional 25,000 students, selected on a national basis, receive Letters of Commendation for their high performance on the qualifying test. These students are considered for special awards made through the Merit Corporation, and their names and test scores are also sent to their first and second choice colleges.

New Faculty Houses Are Added At Caney

Pippa Passes, Ky. — Two new faculty houses, modern, stone-facaded, and with the most modern in roofs, have been added to the Caney campus, and Alumni Dormitory dramatically states a new interest in attractive building.

Formerly, 15 fireplaces belched smoke from eight chimneys and puffed a spate of soot and cinders onto the indented pine floors. Picturesque but not safe.

Now it has two floors, and with the fireproof hallways, firedoors, and gas furnace (not to speak of the cut-stone foundation and new joists that undergird the structure) the dormitory has become comfortable and safe. It no longer uses the chimneys.

J. Commodore Stone is the man who designs Caney's new buildings of stone and exposed timbers, — "studiously rough, but not accidentally shabby." He is now "building for permanence," as he works, afternoons and teaches architectural drawing in the mornings.

HI HAT

During the past week, the Clear Creek P.T.A. had several fund-raising projects under way, including a bake sale, ruck parties and the sale of greeting cards.

Several P.T.A. members attended the open meeting of the Board of Education, February 25, and were very pleased with the unanimous decision of the board to purchase the property for the lunchroom which they had been needing for so long.

Miss Edna Aders was home during the week-end visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Aders. Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Wallen, Danny and Ronny, went to Hazard, Friday night, to attend the basketball game between Hazard and the Wheelwright Trojans.

Friends of Gladys Newman are very sorry that she is still having to remain in the hospital, but are glad that she is feeling better and hope to see her home soon.

We are very glad to hear that Lora Moore, who is in the hospital in Ashland, is feeling much better.

Mrs. Haley Jones, who is in the McDowell hospital, is reported to be recovering nicely from a broken hip which she received in a fall.

Tidbits Of Kentucky Folklore

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

"FROG HOUSES"

In the summer of 1960, when my little Oregon granddaughter was visiting us, I taught her how to make a frog house. She was playing in the sandpile that we keep for visiting grandchildren and seemed to have tired of the usual castles and similar things that sand can make. I told her to take off her sandal and put her foot down on the moist sand; then she and I carefully raked sand around the small foot, pressed the sand tightly, and when the foot was withdrawn, there was still the little roofed-over hole that we children at Fidelity, in another century, called a "frog house." For several days there were other frog houses made in that sand pile; I hope that the little girl will properly instruct the faraway Oregonians in this old Kentucky bit of child art.

Sometimes I am afraid that the younger generation will be so afraid of dirt that they will fail to learn a lot of things that ignorant—but well-taught—children of my time knew. It is stylish, of course, to go barefooted on a sea or river beach; that is fine. But we had no beach very near, and young toes will not always remain young. Every road, and the garden, and the tobacco patch, and the truck patch, and other places had loose dirt, especially made to play in. I believe I liked the finely powdered dirt of the country road best, especially if it lay close enough to a mudhole or a running stream for me to get a little water to help in my architectural designs. A country road, then, is the best of all places to make a frog house; I know, for I have made many a one in the fine dirt there. When the dust is especially well-sifted, there is another trick that I knew how to work. Get a bottle or jug and drag it, zigzag, across a road of such dust and wait to hear the neighbors tell of the whopping-big snake that has been crawling around. I had practically forgotten this annual fooling the other folks until some years ago when my camping companion and I were out exploring some famous places where the father of a great national character had had his still, nearly a century ago. There, where the still used to be in the fine dust was an actual snake track, no better and no worse than the ones we used to make in the roads at Fidelity. The only difference, however, was that the snake that made the track was in plain view, a spreading adder, putting on his act to scare us to death. What I wouldn't have given to have some of the kids from Fidelity there, in all their old-age arthritis or miseries, to share with me the joy of having been a country boy and of having made a snake track equal to the real McCoy.

Going barefooted is incomplete without mud. And this same dust in the country road—as well as in all the other places I have mentioned—is the best kind to squish between bare toes, provided no piece of civilized glass or primitive flint has found its way into the dust ahead of you. But that is not to be compared with the many, many cuts and scratches that a fellow would get from walking through a freshly-cut wheat field. If your feet were still pretty tender from their being encased all winter in home-knit stockings and brogan shoes, stubbles are a real misery; but, after such a harrowing experience, it is pure joy to get to the dusty road on the other side of the stubblefield and wade soft dust for a while. The same dust turned into mud is almost as good a healing balm for scratches as toes.

Long before road building became such an art, we Fidelity children were adept at construction of roadbeds, which we called "levees," as they were the only elevated roads that we knew anything about. Blood River bottom has a wide overflow area; to get out to the county seat, it was necessary to go across that bottom. Early in the history of the Fidelity area a small fill was made across the more marshy parts of the bottom road. From time to time that beginning was added to until it took a big rise of the stream to get "over the levee." Our middle-of-the-road levees were of short duration, but we worked at them as if they would outlast us all. "Give a man a horse he can ride," says a song once popular; "Give a boy a dusty or muddy roadway" might be my version of how to attain happiness.

CLUBS PLAN OBSERVANCE

4-H Members Schedule National Club Week; Floyd Has 48 Groups

Kentucky's 4-H Club members—about 80,000 of them—will help tell the world about 4-H Club work March 4-11. More than 2,302,000 4-H boys and girls in all 50 states and Puerto Rico will observe National 4-H Club Week at that time.

Kentucky's 4-H'ers belong to about 2,260 local clubs over the state in both rural and urban areas. Nationally, about 94,200 clubs make up the 4-H organization. At last report, these boys and girls, who are from 10 to 21 years of age, have completed nearly five million projects in a single year of club work.

What do 4-H members do? They carry on many different projects in farming, homemaking, personal development, community service, and other activities. They apply the latest research in these areas, learning "why" as well as "how" in what they do. They enjoy play and recreation as well as work. Character development and good citizenship are their main goals.

The Federal Cooperative Extension Service, the state land-grant colleges, and county Extension agents give leadership to the 4-H program. About 302,500 adults serve as voluntary 4-H leaders in local clubs throughout the nation; they attend club meetings, visit members to note project progress, and offer suggestions when needed. Kentucky has 12,500 of these local leaders as well as 1,550 older 4-H'ers who assist as junior leaders. Junior leaders all over the country number 109,800.

Floyd county has forty-eight clubs this year with an enrollment of 1,587 club members. These clubs are organized in most of the sections of the county. Some of the major county wide activities and events held each year are: county talent show, rally day, camp, achievement night.

NATIONAL EGG MONTH

How many different ways can you think of to cook an egg? Fried, scrambled, poached, baked, cooked in the shell, made into a simple omelet—these are only a few of the ways to cook the versatile egg. Combined with other ingredients, eggs can be served in hundreds of ways.

This is National Egg Month and, during March, you'll be hearing much about eggs. What better time to serve lots of eggs to your family? Right now, eggs are plentiful, because egg production increases this time of year. And eggs are tasty and good for you at any time of year.

For good results with egg storage and cooking, always store eggs in the refrigerator—small tip down. Take only the number of eggs needed from the refrigerator at one time. Eggs beat up fast to larger volume and yolks separate from whites easier when the eggs are at room temperature; so take the eggs out of the refrigerator about 45 minutes before you intend to use them.

When you combine eggs and hot mixtures, such as in custards, cream fillings, souffles, etc., pour the hot mixture into the beaten egg, stirring or beating constantly.

Store leftover whites in a tightly covered jar in the refrigerator; they may be held a week or 10 days this way. Store leftover yolks under water in a covered jar in the refrigerator; they will keep two or three days. Or you might hard cook the yolks and use them later in salads, sandwiches, scalloped dishes, etc.

Eggs serve several different purposes in cookery. Eggs thicken, as in custards and puddings; leaven to include air, as in cakes; coat as in breaded meats; garnish as in canapes, salads and soups; bind, as in meat loaves and croquettes; emulsify, as in salad dressings and cream puffs; and add color, richness and flavor to individual dishes.
