This Town-- That World

Tuesday—in case you didn't know it—was the first day of Spring, tra-la.

UGH! One thing I hear, every time I listen to a visiting speaker, and that is: Your mountains are beautiful, but . . . the scenery in Eastern Kentucky is unsurpassed in the United States, but . . .

And that "but" is followed by the sad observation that man has messed up the landscape till a clean-up job must be done if the area is ever to be the scenic attraction it deserves to be.

Listening to such a talk recently, and agreeing with the speaker, I began dawning with the idea of a painting which might well delineate all this beauty and all this ugliness. (Why I thought of a painting, I cannot imagine, since the limit of my artistic ability is the drawing of a triangle.) Anyway, I came up with a picture which would look like this:

A bluebird in full-throated song, perched atop a scrap heap from the depths of which was crawling a huge and particularly repulsive rat.

A NEW NEW TESTAMENT

Every translation of the Bible draws plenty of criticism. That was the story with the Tynsdale, King James and later translations. It will be repeated, now that the New Testament section of The New English Bible has been published.

One was opposed to everything except the King James version, since my only interest in the Bible was in the majestic language of that translation. My criticism of other translations isn't so caustic, these days, but after reading excerpts from this New English Bible I can see where I might join the avil chorus.

Wheelwright Kiwanians Told Sales Tax Retention Important To Education

Gov. Bert T. Combs told the Beaver Valley Kiwanis Club at Wheelwright Monday evening that it is significant that states that have made the greatest progress in improving their educational systems have done so through sales tax financing.

The occasion was Charter Night and Ladies Night at the club and guests from many neighboring towns heard the guest speaker. Eighteen persons from Prestonsburg attended and the Governor was warmly greeted.

Combs said the state could not afford to have its sales tax "sabotaged" by tax exemptions in the next General Assembly.

He said 69.5 cents out of every sales tax dollar went to education, and that a curtailment of this revenue would cause serious harm to the public school system.

Combs said 37 states and the District of Columbia have a sales tax or its equivalent.

USDA OFFICIALS TALK FOOD STAMP PROGRAM

MID-JUNE SET FOR BEGINNING OF STAMP USE

6-Month Pilot Program To Test Value of Plan; Cooperation Need Told

U. S. Department of Agriculture representatives from Washington and Atlanta met here last Thursday morning with Floyd officials to do preliminary planning for the food stamp program which will be introduced in Floyd, one of seven pilot counties designated in the United States to try out the relief system urged by President Kennedy.

Recognizing difficulties to be encountered in making the change-over from direct food relief to the stamp system, as did county officials, the USDA representatives agreed that success of the new program will depend heavily upon the cooperation of the public and of retailers of foodstuffs.

The meeting initiated the weeks of intensive preparation necessary for the transition from one means of supplying relief commodities to the other. It is hoped that the stamp plan will be put into effect by mid-June, it was said.

Roughly, the plan is this:

1. In lieu of commodity food-stuffs for distribution, stamps will be sent to the county relief office, and these stamps will be distributed to relief clients on the basis of need. The county will be in the role of banker, maintaining a bookkeeping system which will not only show the value of stamps issued to each recipient but also daily balances of stamps and cash on hand.

Involved in this matter of records will be receipts of cash from some applicants who will be required to pay for stamps in an amount commensurate with what they have been spending in cash for foodstuffs not covered by the commodities issued them.

2. The county relief office will be charged with the responsibility of calculating the value of stamps needed to supply a family. The relief client upon receiving his stamps will be accepted as cash for foodstuffs purchased.

IMPOLITE EMPLOYEES SAID GUILTY OF THEFT

"You would not put up with an employee who steals from you, but if your employee meets a customer and shows no courtesy or interest he is stealing money from your business," Paul Hadley, general manager of Churchill Weavers, Berea, and special assistant to the Commissioner of Economic Development, told a group of Prestonsburg business people Tuesday evening at the "Courtesy School" held at the Wise Restaurant.

Emphasizing the point that a condition of employment should be that the workers be courteous, polite, give intelligent answers to questions from strangers and, above all, greet the visitor with a smile, Hadley cited examples of business successes built on this formula. "People are human—they like to be treated well, just as you do," he added.

The speaker explained that he was speaking only to owners of businesses rather than their employees, because the practice of courtesy must stem from the proprietors of businesses themselves, without whose urging their employees will not long remember or practice the principles he was teaching. "Plain friendliness — not exuberant, affected greetings — is what business people need to show."

A large part of Hadley's talk pertained to community development, since his appearance here was sponsored by the Prestonsburg Community Development Council and its committee on tourist information. As has every speaker who comes here, Mr. Hadley is a native of New York, —he pointed to the great natural beauties of Eastern Kentucky but added that man has messed it up and it needs cleaning up. He spoke of the pride Governor Combs has in this section and of the Governor's deep desire to see the things that mar its beauty removed.

John Randolph Clark, Age 63, Heart Victim At Charleston Hospital

John Randolph Clark, 63, of St. Albans, West Virginia, died of a heart attack last Thursday, a few minutes after having been admitted to a Charleston hospital. His passing came as a shock to his family and many friends here and in West Virginia.

Mr. Clark was a native of Lexington, Virginia, the son of Mrs. Ida Cato Clark, of St. Albans, and the late Emmett M. Clark. An engineer, he had been associated with the West Virginia Highway Commission for 30 years. He was married to the former Sallie Gatewood Ligon, of Prestonsburg, and they have one son and one daughter.

Surviving, besides his widow and mother, are his children, Yancey Ligon Clark, Staten Island, New York, and Mrs. Ben Ferguson, Jr., Prestonsburg, a sister, Mrs. M. I. Dunne, Cleveland, Ohio, and five grandchildren.

Funeral rites were conducted at 2 p. m., Monday, from St. Mark's Episcopal Church, St. Albans, the Rev. Marshall Bacon officiating. Burial was made in Cunningham Memorial Park, St. Albans.

Dr. Ginger's Letter Indicates Press Not Wanted When Group To Conduct Curriculum Study

"Freedom of the press policy under which they (newspapermen) operate" and the certainty that they would be "free to report and interpret anything they saw in their own way" may have prompted Lyman V. Ginger, chairman of the Governor's Commission on Public Education, to hint in a broad and obvious way recently that teachers visited by the Curriculum Study committee may exclude the press from the classroom.

"Superintendents of schools to be visited by the Curriculum Study committee" has been mimeographed and distributed to principals and teachers in areas where the group will visit. Copies of the Ginger letter were delivered to Floyd county teachers last week.

COURT RULES ORDERS VOID

Board Resolutions Reducing Maintenance, Clerks Held Invalid

Judge Edward P. Hill, Jr., ruled Tuesday, following two days of oral hearing in circuit court here, that the two recent orders of the Board of Education limiting the number of employees in the superintendent's office and in the maintenance department were invalid.

The two orders, voted recently by a 3-2 vote of the members, sought to limit the number of clerks in Superintendent Charles F. Clark's office to four and to reduce the number of maintenance employees to five. The orders were the subject of litigation instituted in two separate actions by Mrs. Lucille Herndon, et al, for the clerks and Glenn Stone, et al, for the maintenance workers.

The plaintiffs sought a restraining order against the Board, and this was granted by Hill, who enjoined the Board from carrying out the terms of the resolutions until June 30, end of the fiscal year. Terms of employment of all of the involved employees terminate then. Hill commented that the employees could only be removed for cause.

Eight witnesses appeared for the plaintiffs and three for the defendants. Joe Hobson represented the clerks and maintenance workers and W. W. Burchett represented the Board of Education.

Veterans Bonus Seen As "Shot in the Arm" For County's Doldrums

Come May, Floyd and other Kentucky counties are due for an economic "shot in the arm."

With all court protests out of the way, and the bonds to be sold this month, veterans are expected to begin receiving their state bonus checks in May. And to the estimated 6,420 Floyd county veterans will go a total of slightly more than $2,000,000.

It is estimated, also, that more than 90% of this money will be spent with retail merchants of the county.

Around 400,000 checks will eventually be mailed to Kentucky veterans or their survivors, and these will put into circulation a total of $137,000,000.

JONES KILLED IN ACCIDENT

On Lexington Road; Five Others Injured In Saturday Collision

One of nine persons killed in Kentucky highway tragedies last week-end was Tommy Jones, 28-year-old Morehead State College senior and a native of Bevinville, this county.

Jones, a veteran who was living at Morehead with his wife, the former Curley Howell, and three young daughters while attending college, was one of four passengers in an auto driven by Sam Caudill, 32, of Ashland, which was struck by another auto on New Circle Road, near the Young Drive-In, Lexington, at midnight Saturday. He died almost instantly of a skull fracture and crushed chest.

Caudill suffered a head injury and was reported in fair condition. Others in his auto who were injured were listed as Pauline Daugherty, 35, of Dayton, Ohio, broken wrist; Mrs. Clarence Tobin, 46, and Mrs. Carl Shiltz, 45, both of Dover, Ohio, cuts and bruises. William R. Crow, driver of the other car, and Warren Shockley, Jr., 17, of Lexington, suffered slight injuries. Two other youths in the Crow auto escaped injury.

Jones was a son of Bart and Hazel Hall Jones, of Bevinville, and was an Army veteran. He was a graduate of Wheelwright high school. Surviving, besides his parents and his widow, are his daughters, Jennifer, Tommie Annette and Sherry Lou, one brother, Monroe Jones, of Bevinville, and a sister, Mrs. Billie Jean Burkes, Xenia, Ohio.

The body was returned to the home of the parents, and funeral rites were conducted Tuesday morning from Joppa Regular Baptist Church at Melvin, the Revs. Jerry Hall, Charlie Jones, Henry Blair and Tilden Wright officiating. Burial in the Monroe Hall cemetery at Bevinville was under direction of the Merion & Call Funeral Home.

Active pallbearers were cousins of the victim.

WELLS HEADS SEAL DRIVE

Funds To Continue Crippled Children's Work in Kentucky

The Easter Seal sale and campaign for funds to continue the work of the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children began in this county March 6 and will continue through April 3, it was announced this week by J. C. Wells, Floyd chairman of the Easter Seal Appeal.

The Kentucky Society, now in its 38th year of service, provided a varied program of medical care, therapies, hospitalization, special education, and recreation for 4,175 Kentuckians last year. Of this number, 3,772 were children crippled by many causes.

The Society owns and operates six Easter Seal facilities in the state. They are: Cardinal Hill Convalescent Hospital and Cardinal Hill Nursery School, Lexington; Northern Kentucky Treatment Center and Opportunity School, Covington; West Kentucky Center for Handicapped Children, Paducah, and the Hearing and Speech Center, Louisville.

Last year, 212 patients at Cardinal Hill Hospital received 4,460 physical therapy treatments and 2,327 occupational therapy treatments. The center at Paducah provided therapies and classroom work for 287 western Kentucky children during 1960.

A total of 491 patients, including 383 children, received services at the Hearing and Speech Center, Louisville. In the north-

EVANS BUYS BLACK STAR

Former Producing Firm, Now Sales Organization, Holds Meeting This Week

The first sales meeting of the Black Star Coal Corporation since its purchase early this year by George E. Evans, Jr., Estill coal operator, was held at the Wise Restaurant here, Monday and Tuesday, with 29 representatives of Black Star and coal producers attending.

Black Star was originally a large producer of Harlan county coal but now is a coal sales organization with its main office in Louisville and branch offices in Chicago, Davenport, Iowa, Cincinnati and Detroit.

Mr. Evans is president of the corporation and also heads the Evans Elkhorn Coal Company, Inc. Ordinarily, sales meetings of the company are held in Louisville or Chicago, but the new owner decided that a meeting here would offer an advantage, since it would be in the producing field. Inspection of Evans Elkhorn and two other operations was made Monday.

"The coal business is terribly depressed at this time," Mr. Evans said. "But with some improvement in the economy we feel that our highly effective organization should be able to contribute to the economy of the Big Sandy valley."

The sales organization will promote the marketing of Big Sandy-Elkhorn coals.

When the Floyd man first purchased Black Star, W. W. Goldsmith, president of the Elkhorn Coal Corporation, announced that his company will welcome the opportunity to provide support from the 700,000,000 tons of its coal reserves.

Evans was joined at the meeting here by these representatives of the Black Star Coal Corporation: John E. Cooper, executive vice-president, Louisville; Harry King Brooking, Louisville, district manager; C. H. Elfer, Louisville, sales manager; H. E. Byrne, Chicago, mid-west sales manager; B. D. "Bernon" Martin, Cincinnati (formerly of Floyd county), assistant vice-president; C. H. Cox, Davenport, Iowa, western sales manager; J. I. Murdoch, Atlanta, Georgia, southeastern sales manager; Terrence P. Sullivan, Chicago, sales representative; R. L. Cooper, Columbus, Ohio, vice-president, sales; T. R. Hall, Cleveland, Ohio, district manager; E. E. Bostick, Nashville, Tennessee, southwestern sales manager; Warren C. Ratliff, Spartanburg, South Carolina, district manager.

From the Elk Horn Coal Corporation: N. D. Howard, Wayland, chief engineer, and Fred Hall, Wayland, assistant chief engineer.

COURT NAMES APRIL JURORS

Child Desertion Cases Feature Court Docket; Three Murder Cases Set

Of the 165 cases docketed for trial at the April term of the Floyd circuit court, 56 accuse defendants of child desertion and in 32 others the charge is either breaking and entering or grand larceny.

Forty-one of the cases — 16 of them for child desertion — are listed for hearing the first day of court, Monday, April 3. Many of these cases fall in the category of "not before the court," and some will be continued while others may be dismissed.

Later in the term, the three murder cases on the docket — none of them new — are slated for trial. Mrs. Cora Stone is slated for trial April 19; Arnold Mosley, April 20, and Mrs. Corby Francis, April 21. Two voluntary manslaughter trials are also docketed — Noah Hall, Jr., on April 12, and Radford K. Barnett, April 19. Both men are accused in automobile deaths.

Ten of the cases docketed allege liquor law violations. Names of 60 Floyd women and men were drawn this week for jury service during the annual court term. They are:

ACTION SPLITS UNDERWRITING AMONG FOUR

Building Talks Involve Members as Mud Cr. Job Fails To Gain Approval

The Floyd County Board of Education voted Saturday to cancel insurance held on the system's properties to become effective March 18 and to substitute new insurance provided by four underwriting agencies.

The original insurance, written by the Spurlin Insurance Agency and perhaps others, had been previously renewed but the board agreed with a memorandum submitted by Blaine R. Hall, of the Hall-Music Insurance Agency, Prestonsburg, that considerable savings could be effected by the new coverage.

Amounts suggested to be saved by Hall were $4,881.82 the first year and approximately $6,000 each year thereafter. Properties covered in Prestonsburg totaled $1,201,400 and outside of Prestonsburg, $2,973,900. The new insurance policies were written by Hall-Music, Big Sandy Insurance Agency, Snodgrass Insurance Agency and Layne & Layne. The three anti-administration Board members, Ray Howard, John G. Hall and Ross Cooley, voted for the new coverage and John M. Stumbo voted "No." Bill Blair abstained.

Near the end of the three-hour meeting held in the circuit courtroom with 14 spectators, Stumbo moved to advertise for construction of the proposed Big Mud Creek elementary school building. Hall quickly voiced objection on the ground that the building was not required by the state laws of the Division of Buildings and Grounds.

ADDED FUNDS FOR FISHTRAP

Seen by Cooper, Morton As Construction Needs Of Reservoir Widened

Senators John Sherman Cooper and Thurston B. Morton announced last Friday that they have advised by the U. S. Corps of Engineers that construction capability of Fishtrap reservoir has been increased from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 for the 1961 fiscal year.

Said the Senators in a telegram to the Times: "We are asking that the revised civil public works budget being prepared by the Administration consider this increased capability and recommend appropriating the maximum amount. We will request the Appropriations committees to approve the maximum."

Those familiar with President Kennedy's stand on such improvements agreed that chances are bright for the increased appropriation which would get the Big

Lawrence on Separation Of Church and State

David Lawrence, widely syndicated news analyst and newspaper columnist, apparently is having trouble forgiving John F. Kennedy for defeating Richard M. Nixon for the Presidency. His latest criticism of President Kennedy is the stand taken by the latter on the question of separation of church and state.

Mr. Lawrence criticizes the President because he has recognized the time-honored American principle of separation of church and state without going to the Attorney General for a legal opinion. One wonders why such an opinion only now becomes necessary, inasmuch as this principle has often been proclaimed, protested and maintained.

In support of his hair-splitting argument on the project, Mr. Lawrence quotes at length from an article written in 1949 by Arthur E. Sutherland, Jr., professor of constitutional law at Harvard Law School. Paragraphs from that article are reprinted here as evidence of the trivialities and sophistries Lawrence endorses in order to present a case against the President:

"The United States, by the expenditure of public funds, trains young men for the ministry in the doctrines of their chosen sects (the G. I. Bill of Rights). The states provide tax advantages for religious organizations. New York commands that school buses carry Catholic children to parochial schools.

"The coins and postage stamps bear reminders of the divinity. The government prints copies of the Declaration of Independence with its assertion as a self-evident truth that man's Creator endowed him with an inalienable right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

"The Governors of the states and the President of the United States issue proclamations urging that the people give thanks to God for many beneficences.

"Short of declaring all these to be unconstitutional, or to take refuge in the practical inability of enthusiastic adversaries to raise the question, the Supreme Court can only determine by some sort of rough justice which of these and many other like activities, state and federal, must stop because of the First Amendment and the Fourteenth . . .

"Bible reading in public schools continues to be required by statute in many states. School sessions are opened with prayers in a number of places. The invocation of a local minister is an important part of most graduation exercises, and, despite an occasional flurry of protests, songs with religious motifs are sung in the public schools at such festivals as Thanksgiving and Christmas."

We have only a passing acquaintance with the law, but we feel that our ignorance in that field has spared us the inability to see the forest for the trees; and for that reason we presume to comment, in particular, on one of the points here made and on others generally.

The G.I. Bill of Rights was conceived with the idea of helping young veterans procure the education which service in the armed forces denied them or interrupted when they were called to bear arms. It would be un-American and an obvious violation of individual liberty for the federal government to demand that its aid to veterans be made available only to those who would agree not to study religious doctrines in any school of their choice.

As to those paragraphs about coins and stamps bearing reminders of the divinity, about mention of the Creator, prayers and reading of the Bible, it would appear that the gentlemen have confused religion as relating to God with individual denominations, or the physical church. This nation needs a greater awareness of the God on whom the Pounding Fathers so heavily leaned. Certainly it does not need to revise its Constitution because its authors recognized their Creator. And such recognition of, and dependence upon, God certainly does not place the nation in the position of recognizing any religious group—any church, Protestant or Catholic—to the point of allying it with any church.

WHEELWRIGHT IMPRESSIVE

The Wheelwright high school Trojans in splendid fashion upheld the prestige of the 15th region last week in the state high school basketball tournament by finishing in third place.

This marked only the second time that a Floyd county school has advanced this far in the battle of the "Sweet Sixteen." Wayland won the third place trophy in 1956.

Don Wallen and his squad exhibited fine sportsmanship and talented play in winning three games and losing one in the four-day tournament.

Wheelwright gained many supporters and admirers by their conduct both off and on the court. Their manners were above reproach, and they won a host of friends.

Senior Bruce Belcher became the third Floyd countian to make the all-state basketball team. His 87 points for the tournament was the highest scored by any individual.

Seniors Forest Newsome, Perry Taylor, Major Hall, Kenny Walker and Jim Rose, a junior, gave a good account of themselves in passing off to Belcher and assisting his play.

Even though the Trojans lost to eventual champion Ashland, they made a very impressive showing in the 91-80 loss.

The finals of the Prestonsburg seventh and eighth grade league basketball tournament will be held at 7 p.m. tonight (Thursday) in the high school gym.

In the freshman league, play will begin Tuesday night, the semi-finals will be on Wednesday night and the finals on next Thursday night.

Within the next three weeks, Prestonsburg grade school, under the supervision of Paul Dean Wells, will hold an invitational grade school tournament in the local gym.

Food Industry Leaders
Confer On Stamp Plans;
Has Key Role, Davis Says

Fifteen of the nation's leading food industry executives met March 10 with U. S. Department of Agriculture officials to confer on food trade aspects of the eight pilot food stamp projects now being developed as part of the expanded food distribution activities for areas of maximum chronic unemployment.

Howard P. Davis, director of the Food Stamp Plan Development Group of the Agricultural Marketing Service, told the gathering that the food industry at all levels has a key role in the successful operation of any food stamp plan.

"While there are many knotty problems and numerous details to be worked out before the projects in any of the eight designated areas can be put into operation, we wanted to consult with you at this early stage so that we may make the program as effective as possible, yet at the same time as simple as possible," he said.

Discussions at the all-day meeting centered on mechanics of the projects as they may affect retailers and other segments of the food industry, methods of carrying out an educational program for food industry personnel, and the merchandising and promotion of foods in abundant supply.

Ella Stewart Chullun for Representative Pledges
Support of Weekly Paydays and Easier Eligibility For Old Aged

A representative in the legislature is one of a group of one hundred who make Kentucky's laws. One representative cannot do the job alone. She must vote for those bills which are in the best interest of the people she represents. She must convince a majority of the others that the laws she proposes would be good for the whole state. Therefore, I cannot promise for certain that I can pass any particular law. I can only tell you what I stand for and what I will work for when I am elected.

I have been concerned for some time with the problem of those who ask for old aged assistance, but are told that the earnings of their children must be considered in deciding whether the old aged person should have state aid. In most cases these children have their own financial problems—children of their own, mortgage payments, medical payments, and other pressing living costs. When I am elected, I hope to remedy this bad defect in the law. I look forward to our needy old aged receiving aid from the state so that they can live decently and not in a state of near poverty.

Another problem in our area which demands our attention is that of the weekly payday. Our coal miners are debt-ridden because the law allows a two-week payday. If the law required a payday every week, those who are fortunate enough to be employed could operate on a cash basis with merchants, and still have money in their pockets.

I hope you who are interested in looking to the solution of the many problems we face here in the coal mining area will watch this column. I can't solve them by myself. But I offer myself as one who is able, qualified and willing to try.

VOTE FOR ME NOW, I'LL VOTE FOR YOU IN THE LEGISLATURE

Your friend,
ELLA STEWART CHULLUN

(Pol. Adv.)

WHEELWRIGHT TROJANS MOVE TO SEMI-FINALS

Wheelwright high school's Trojans, champions of the 15th region, went all the way to the semi-finals in the state basketball tournament at Lexington last week-end, and succumbed then only to the Ashland Tomcats who wound up with the coveted title.

Ashland, big, fast and smooth-working, defeated the Floyd team by only 11 points, and that was the Cats' slimmest margin over any team they met in the tourney. Wheelwright defeated Breathitt County in the consolation round Saturday night, 72 to 56, and the Floyd county team was regarded by many veteran observers as the No. 2 team in the meet.

Breathitt County lost to Lexington Dunbar, the team which lost to Ashland in the championship round, on the strength of a last-second, desperation fling from mid-court.

The tournament was the last high school play for four of the five starters on the Wheelwright team—Hall, Taylor, Belcher and Newsome. Belcher won a coveted spot on the all-tournament team and was the high scorer of the meet.

INSTALL ALUMINUM SIDING NOW! Homeowners!
We solicit your aluminum siding business and can give you several reasons why you should give us your business.

1. We are not playing up the fact that our siding is made by Alcoa, Reynolds, Kaiser or any particular company, for we can get it from any of them.
2. We have no tricks or gimmicks to get you to answer our ad, for we have nothing to give away nor has anyone else that we know of.
3. We will not advertise "no money down" and then come into your home and ask you to give us a deposit on your order before we do your work.
4. We have aluminum siding jobs not too far from where you live and we welcome your inspection.
5. We have F. H. A. financing which is much lower in rates than other forms of financing. We ask no down payment, and you make regular monthly payments starting 30 days after your house is completed.
6. We are a local concern and we stand behind our work. Compare our prices, compare our work, compare our product, compare our finance plan with any other that has been quoted you and see if you don't feel that you will do better by trading at home.

Spend your money in Floyd County and Eastern Kentucky and help strengthen our already shaky economy.
Give us a call and let us come and give you a free estimate on aluminum siding for your home or business.

Sandy flood control project farther into construction this year.

The Fishtrap reservoir will be the largest of all impoundments, completed or planned, for the Big Sandy basin. The Corps of Engineers' district office in Huntington recently sought applications from attorneys as a land agent with offices in Pikeville is needed to handle acquisition of rights in the reservoir area.

Congressman Carl D. Perkins has introduced HR 5513 to supplement the existing watershed legislation and to give consideration to low-farm-income areas such as Eastern Kentucky and develop the water resources of such areas.

Under existing legislation not a watershed project has been initiated in Eastern Kentucky. Congressman Perkins hopes to relax requirements on the local community or governing unit to the point that watershed improvement in a section such as this will become a reality. Reforestation, dikes, dams and control of mine waters are other items of work envisioned in the Perkins bill. Federal participation to the extent of 75% of the cost is asked, with long-term federal loans to be made available for the local sponsor's portion of the cost.

Wrote Congressman Perkins to Secretary of Agriculture Freeman, asking consideration of his bill: "The area redevelopment bill, from a long-range viewpoint, will be of some assistance to Eastern Kentucky, but in my judgment will never develop the water resources in any respect. I think I could be extremely helpful to your designated representatives if they travelled throughout Eastern Kentucky with me and looked over some projects that have been turned down under the present watershed act. Some legislation similar to HR 5513 is necessary to have a watershed program in these areas."

County Judge Henry Stumbo, who presided at Thursday's meeting, said that Carl Horn, present director of the county relief program, will direct the stamp program. The county will be required to provide a relief office building here, a director and clerks. Branch offices to be open only on specified days will probably be established at central points in the county.

County Attorney Robert S. Wellman, one of those attending the conference, estimated the food stamp plan will save Floyd county at least $10,000 a year. The saving will result from elimination of food storage and heavy transportation costs, all of which has been borne by the county.

The food stamp plan is designed, it was explained, to make available to the needy a wider range of foodstuffs and at the same time to stimulate local retail business, since the stamps will have the full value of legal tender. Direct distribution of foodstuffs from government suppliers as in the past, has, in effect, competed with wholesalers and retailers, while the new system is designed to spur trade.

"Since the government has been distributing cheese we've just about gone out of the cheese business," one wholesaler was quoted as saying, this by way of illustrating the deterrent to trade resulting from direct commodity distribution. "With all the foodstuffs we have and all the need apparent, we feel we've just got to do more," Miss Isabelle Kelley, of the USDA food distribution division, Washington, D. C., said at the opening of the meeting.

The test of the new plan can be made in about six months, it is believed. U. S. Department of Agriculture representatives will be studying the effect of the program as it develops and is carried on in the county. A group will be working with retail merchants prior to initiation of the program, then will return later to study the economic effect. Families also will be interviewed in a study of family diets before and after the food stamp program goes into effect.

A survey team was scheduled to arrive here this week to study food-buying practices of relief clients. A study will be made later to ascertain what changes, if any, the stamp method has had on the kinds and quantities of foods bought. Mr. Dopson commented that the spirit of cooperation found here by him and others of the Department of Agriculture "is most encouraging." He and others stressed the point that such cooperation is of the utmost importance.

In addition to Miss Kelley and Mr. Dopson, USDA representatives attending the meeting were Russell H. James, area supervisor of the food distribution division, his assistant, Thomas J. Wilson, and Art Susott, chief of the marketing information division, all of the Atlanta area office; and Ray Doyle, Washington, D. C., of the food distribution division. Miss Nell Martin, supervisor of the Prestonsburg office, Department of Public Assistance, joined in the discussion of plans.

John D. Clark, 79, retired Maysville plant employee and native Floyd man, died Friday at his Maysville home after an illness of several months.

A son of the late Isaac Lee and Lethane Smiley Clark, he was a native of the Prater Creek section of the county. He first moved to Fleming county, where he was a farmer, and about 15 years ago to Maysville where he was employed by the Waid Manufacturing Company.

Mr. Clark was twice married—first, to Rebecca Hall, and after her death to Catharine Newsome, who survives. He leaves four sons and three daughters, Stalard Clark, of East McDowell, Waltham and Dempsey Clark, both of Maysville, Ismael Clark, Clarksville, O., Mrs. Macil Newsome, Muses Mill, Ky., Mrs. Fostena Orme, Lakeland, Fla., and Mrs. Rebecca Herbert, of Cincinnati. Two sisters, Mrs. Ben Akers, of Dana, and Mrs. Martha Wallen, of Banner, also survive.

Funeral rites were conducted at 1 p.m. Monday from the Old Beaver Regular Baptist Church at Minnie, the Revs. Henry King, Troy Nickles and McKinley Moore officiating. Burial was made in the Lucy Hall cemetery at McDowell under direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

3. Relief applicants who have some regular source of income will be charged for a part of the stamps received. For example, if an applicant has been spending of his own income $10 a week for foodstuffs not covered by the present food distribution program, he might be required to pay that amount in cash while receiving, say, $30 worth of stamps. Those having no income will not be required to pay any amount.

4. All relief recipients will be certified anew, with this work being done by the Public Assistance office here. Present records will be used in the study of needs and conditions affecting applicants.

Arvid Dopson, of the Atlanta area USDA office, is here now and will continue to work with Floyd retailer's officials and the public. Merchants will be contacted as to what may legally be purchased with the stamps.

The plan, as it now stands, is to restrict the handling of stamps after they leave the relief client's hands to the retailer himself, his wholesale supplier and banking institutions.

County Judge Henry Stumbo, who presided at Thursday's meeting, said that Carl Horn, present director of the county relief program, will direct the stamp program. The county will be required to provide a relief office building here, a director and clerks. the pleasant visit they had there. As a result, a $250,000 plant is being located there now, and it will employ more than 200 workers.

"You need to shake your people up a bit," he told the group. "You are not benefitting from what you have. You have a Governor, and he's from Prestonsburg. He's a man to be proud of. In Berea we would proclaim it to the world that the Governor of Kentucky was from our town . . . Bert Combs has stuck his neck out 15 miles for this community. He is literally putting many thousands of dollars into an investment to help this community. Are you going to take advantage of it?"

Mrs. R. V. May, president of the Community Development Council, presided at the meeting.

Superintendent Charles F. Clark there was a subsequent survey that provided for the school after the road situation was improved and replied to Howard when questioned as to how the Mud Creek building got priority, that when he became superintendent the site had been bought and planning far advanced. He noted that $33,000 had been spent on the proposed project.

Heated argument broke out between Hall, Howard and Stumbo. Stumbo said the state had approved the project and Clark interposed to add that the survey team said it was the best site in Eastern Kentucky. Howard argued that "first things must come first."

The Board chairman insisted the 1953 survey made no provision for the Big Mud Creek consolidation and that consolidations in other areas should have priority.

Stumbo asked Howard: "Are you trying to do the right thing?"

Howard replied, "I'm for the Big Mud Creek buildings but first things comes first." Stumbo then said, "You voted against buying the property."

Argument waxed stronger, with Clark asking Howard if he would go along on the project if the survey team scheduled here April 17 approved it. Howard said he would not until other things were done.

Stumbo then asked Howard what should be done with the school site if the building wasn't going to be built.

"You can plant it in corn," Howard said. Hall then introduced a motion to defer a vote and a parliamentary wrangle began as to which motion was to be voted on. Howard told the Board, "I'm not a lawyer. I don't want to get too involved here." Blair said, "Where's your lawyer? You hired one here."

Howard finally ruled that Stumbo's motion was to be voted on and it was defeated by a 3-2 vote. Hall then withdrew his motion, saying the vote made his a moot issue.

Other business transacted by the Board included these items:

1. Voted by a 3-2 vote to procure deeds on additional property adjacent to the Prestonsburg high school. The Board had previously voted to buy the tracts.

2. Discussed the installation of incinerators at the larger schools and voted to build them where necessary.

3. Accepted a report from the Garrett P-T-A that the group had approved the sale of candies in the school.

4. Discussed contract runs under consideration for readvertisement and heard Clifford Boyd, of the Kentucky Power Company, on a proposal to install outside school lights where needed.

5. Clark reported to the Board that the Kentucky Attorney-General's office had not replied to his inquiry as to whether or not to pay Eugene Conley for three days he allegedly didn't teach.

6. At the suggestion of Bill Blair, Joe Periano was added to the newly-named schoolbuilding site committee.

7. Clark was authorized to procure surplus foods for the four-room Ligon school. Blair said pupils there were attending school with no breakfast.

8. Ordered the principal and assistant principal of the Prestonsburg high school to report to the Board on the status of the athletic account.

9. James E. Goble submitted a deed for approval by the Division of Buildings and Ground for a tract of land needed at Cow Creek on which to locate a proposed elementary school.

10. Certain maintenance vehicles were released for use, a previously voted restraining order having limited the number to be used. The vote was unanimous.

U.S. FARM INCOME

United States farm operators' (excluding Alaska and Hawaii) realized net income from farming in 1960 was about three per cent above 1959. Realized net farm income, the standard measure of farm income available to farmers after paying production expenses, is now estimated at $11.6 billion for 1960. The increase of some $300 million from 1959 was due primarily to the larger volume of farm marketing in 1960.

Can you see, for instance, the need to change Matthew 5:15 to putting one's lamp "under the meal-tub?" Or Galatians 5:30 to "You can take it from me," or II Timothy 4:16 to "They left me in the lurch?"

This new version is being published, the translators say, to reduce the Bible to plain English, language which will stand unchanged in its meaning. But it has already failed in that endeavor. It speaks of "the last farthing," and before the new version could be printed the British government abolished that denomination.

Incidentally, "Thou wicked and slothful servant" appears in the new version as "You lazy rascal!"

John Warrix got even with me Tuesday for that item in last week's column by catching the six-point bass I had branded over at Dewey Lake.

One of my luckier and more affluent friends, Irvin Arrowood, takes time out to write from Ft. Pierce, Florida, to say the fishing is good and that the home he has bought has room enough for me "when you come to fish with us." But Irvin forgot the main thing—he didn't send me the fare.

FAMILY CAR IMPACT HITS

Floyd County; Figures Show 81 Cars To Family, Doubling '54 Statistics

(Special to The Times)
New York, March 13—The family car is having a growing impact on the Floyd county economy.

With each passing year, as the number of cars in local use increases, more money is spent for their purchase and maintenance, more people are employed in servicing them and further problems are created as roads get overcrowded and parking becomes more difficult.

Locally, all but a small proportion of families are automobile owners today, according to a nationwide study of car ownership in relation to population.

The figures show that, in Floyd county, there were 81 passenger cars in use per 100 households as of the early part of last year.

In 1954 there were only 46 cars per 100 households.

The findings are from a consumer markets study, covering the entire country, released by the Standard Rate and Data Service.

The rise in family car ownership is attributed to the fact that the automobile has become an indispensable part of modern living.

Also contributing to the growth in car ownership has been the rise in family income over the years.

The net result, in Floyd county, has been a gain of 31.4 per cent in passenger car registrations between 1954, when a previous survey was made, and 1960. The number of cars went from 5,600 to 7,360.

The mileage per car is just about under 10,000 a year. With the number of cars in Floyd county, local drivers are doing an estimated 74 million miles a year, on that basis.

CLUBWOMEN MODEL OWN CREATIONS

Blouses and belts, buttons and bows were on display as clubwomen of the Seventh district, Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, modelled their own creations at the Regional Library in Prestonsburg, March 3.

Mrs. James Donahoe, district contest chairman and a member of the Prestonsburg club, arranged the contest and presided at the style show.

First place went to Mrs. Clarence Turner, of the Drift Woman's Club. Her costume was made from a Vogue pattern created by a noted Parisian designer, Nina Ficca. It was made of a black and white shepherds check milliken fabric. The waist-length box jacket was topped by a stole of the same fabric, lined with red. Underneath the jacket was an all black blouse which, with the black and white skirt can be worn with the jacket. Mrs. Turner selected to wear with her costume a hall cloche hat in black and white straw, black patent accessories with the touch of red repeated in her jewelry.

Mrs. Arthur Bradbury's wrap-around dress of navy surah silk took second place. The straight dress, with a bloused bodice, was trimmed with a satin band running from the square neckline down the length of the dress. With it she wore a bandeau of violet velvet and navy accessories. Mrs. Bradbury is from the Wheelwright club.

The third place costume was made and modelled by Mrs. T. A. Combs, of the Allen-Martin club. It was a maternity, three-piece suit in light weight wool. The robin's egg blue skirt and long-length jacket covered a blue and white check over blouse which can be worn separately.

Other costumes modelled during the day included a pink brocaded nylon dress and jacket worn by Mrs. Ora Howard, the David Woman's Club. Of particular interest was the pink umbrella which Mrs. Howard carried. The handle was of gold and came originally from England some 200 years ago. Mrs. George Harp, of the Pikeville club, wore a cotton shirt waist dress in iridescent gold. Mrs. James Donahoe wore a navy blue linen sheath with a detachable roll collar at the neckline.

The winning costume will compete with other district winners for first place in the statewide contest. Judging will take place in Louisville, April 18. The first three winners will all be asked to model their outfits at the state convention of KFWC in Louisville, May 9-13.

Judges for the local contest were Miss Frances Howland and Miss Hazel Hill, Prestonsburg, and Mrs. Barry Theaker, Pikeville.

State Anti-Litter Law Assumes New Force

Frankfort, Ky., March 17 (Spl)—As a result of the clean-up and beautification program in Kentucky enforcement of the anti-litter law is assuming new force. The state anti-litter law, which has been on the books since 1954, was amended by the 1960 Legislature and calls for fines of not less than $25 nor more than $300 for highway littering.

Two men were recently arrested and fined $25 in Franklin county court. They were arrested for scattering between 100 and 300 paper towels along the four-lane Georgetown road in front of Franklin county high school. The papers were scattered along a stretch of road for about three-quarters of a mile.

Criminal Trial Commissioner Frank Dickey warned the men that should they be returned to his court on a similar charge, he would impose a stiffer sentence.

Has your drivers license expired? Renew your license in your birth month only. Look at the top right hand corner of your license for year of expiration.

Why do so many people forget their birth month? If you knew how difficult it is to get a license you would keep them renewed in order to prevent being checked on the highway.

SARDIS ASSOCIATION

"Before the War Between the States pioneer customs and conditions existed in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky and Western West Virginia," writes R. B. Maynard, our correspondent of Thomas, Pike county. "The New Salem Association of Regular Baptists covered a wide territory of this area. Her scattered churches were connected only by crude dirt roads and wilderness horse paths, usually winding across steep mountains and rendering it difficult for their delegates and other interested persons to assemble at any one place.

"In the year 1847 the New Salem Association decided and gave off an arm and organized the Mates Creek Association, which was named for Mates Creek in West Virginia and emptied into the Tug River at Matewan.

"Eleven years later the Apple Orchard Church was organized in the Mates Creek Association on the Brushy Fork of Johns Creek in Pike county. The history of the Apple Orchard Church is in great part the history of the Sardis Association for decisions by and at the Apple Orchard Church have settled the major questions that have arisen in that Association.

"The Apple Orchard Church yet retains the original Rules of Decorum and Articles of Faith on which she was organized and which were handed down to her from parent associations. The Big Branch and Southern Home churches of the Sardis Association have the same. Evidently no other Regular Baptist Church or association has these original Rules and Decorum and Articles of Faith.

"For a few years after the organization of the Apple Orchard Church all other Regular Baptist Churches and associations got together and adopted a more readable Articles of Faith. But as to the old Rules of Decorum they seem to be perfect.

"In the year 1892 the Apple Orchard Church record began showing a difference of doctrine among her members and the next year, 1893, they excluded some members for advocating what is known as Primitive Baptist doctrine. The majority of the churches of the Mates Creek Association went with the Primitive Baptist side, holding the name of Mates Creek Association.

"The Apple Orchard Church record of that year reads as follows: "The Apple Orchard Church, together with the body, decided to organize into an Association and an invitation was given to the Big Branch and Sardis churches (the Big Branch church is at Thomas, Ky., and the Sardis church is at Delbarton, West Virginia).

"And a Presbytery was chosen consisting of All Ward of Zion Association, T. T. Lane and T. P. Lowe, of the New Salem Association. This was the birth of the Sardis Association.

"Other evidence that the Sardis Association was organized of material from the Mates Creek Association is Article 14 of the 1941 minutes of the Sardis Association: "Ordered that we have printed in our minutes what we believe to be the Old Original Articles of Faith of the Burning Springs Association, then to the New Salem Association, from the New Salem Association to the Mates Creek Association and is now the Articles of Faith of the Apple Orchard Church of the Sardis Association."

Copies of the original Rules of Decorum of the Apple Orchard Church can be had by sending 20 cents to Mr. Maynard.

At hand is a copy of the Minutes of the Sixty-Seventh Annual Session of the Sardis Association of Regular Baptists, held at the Elk Fork Church, Delbarton, West Virginia, September 11, 12, 13, 1959. Copy of the minutes was given this column by Tom Robinson, of the Leannah Church, Pilgrim, Kentucky.

The minutes list 25 churches in Sardis Association two years ago and they were scattered over a wide area. Letters to sister associations were read and delegates appointed to them. These associations were New Salem, Union, Philadelphia Mud River, Northern New Salem, Indian Bottom and Friendship.

The 25 churches in the Sardis Association are Mt. Pleasant, Apple Orchard, E non, Rebecca, Bent Branch, Sardis, Big Branch, Mary Elizabeth, Bethany, Elk Fork, Pilgrim's Home, Salem, Sidney, Dix Fork, Narrows Branch, Leannah, Buck Creek, Tabitha, Little Rosa, Turkey Creek, Samaria, Rosa, Muncy Valley, Little Virgie and Southern Home.

The Association had 1,515 members in 1959. Elder Ester Hopkins was moderator.

LETTER FROM COLEMAN

A letter from J. Winston Coleman, Jr., "Squire" of Winburn Farm, Russell Cave Pike, Lexington, comments on his series of pictures in the Lexington Herald-Leader under the heading, "Historic Kentucky."

"For those who haven't seen the series, depicting early homes and churches of the state with a bit of their history, let me say, if you're interested in history you have missed a treat. The series has been running several months now.

"I believe I can keep the series going for three or four years, and maybe longer—if my energy holds out! There are a lot of places over the state that I have yet to visit and photograph.

"The old two-story log house of Green Jackson on Johns Creek looks very interesting and I would like to visit it and some others of its kind when I get up your way. I hope before the year is out that I can make such a trip.

"Seedtime on the Cumberland" is a dandy book and I have enjoyed it very much, especially one or two chapters on the early life of the region."

FOUR MEN OF THE CUMBERLANDS

Did you ever read how Dr. M. B. Taylor, Red Fox of the Cumberland, got out of Norton, Virginia, in an escape attempt to avoid the law in the Mullins Massacre at Pound Gap, Virginia?

The story is told in Four Men of the Cumberland, a pamphlet for sale by this columnist for $1 post-paid while they last.

Dr. Taylor had been hidden in the attic of his brother's home at Norton.

"In a few days Sylvan's brother, Johnny, came and then the next day a long box used to ship fruit trees in was brought to the Norton house. Sylvan told a few of the curious that he was shipping some things to Bluefield. In the night they brought the box down from the loft, gave him money, wrapped him in a quilt and stretched his long legs out in the box. Daylight came and the human freight was hauled to the Norton depot."

PERKINS DISCUSSES PHASES OF NEW FRONTIER PROGRAM

BY CONGRESSMAN CARL D. PERKINS

The New Frontier program may be considered as consisting of two plans. The first is a long-term plan based on the depressed areas bill. This is designed to improve the economy of certain areas such as Eastern Kentucky by developing transportation, soil and water conservation and educational facilities to a point where our economy may become more diversified by the establishment of new industries.

The second phase is more immediate. The 1958 depression which resulted in an unemployment figure of more than 4 1/2 million appeared to have ended in 1959, but unemployment refused to drop below the three million mark. The effect of this wide-spread unemployment began to show in early 1960 when business began a gradual decline. Early in 1961 the unemployment figure crossed the five million mark and is now approaching six million. It has become necessary to take action for immediate relief of this condition. The House has passed bills providing for extended unemployment insurance and the establishment of state programs for aid to the children of unemployed workers on the same basis as is now provided for the children of deceased and disabled workers. This program for dependent children will be jointly financed by the states and Federal government with the Federal appropriations providing approximately 75% of the cost in the state of Kentucky. It is estimated that 19,000 children of unemployed parents in Kentucky will be eligible for this program.

I have introduced a bill to establish a Youth Conservation Corps based on the experience of our CCC Camps in the mid-30's. This bill is receiving enthusiastic support and there appears to be an excellent chance for the passage of some type of legislation based on my own bill and that of Senator Humphrey that will not only be a great step for the unemployed youngsters but will also provide a program of lasting benefits for our forests and parks in Eastern Kentucky. Along with these programs, we must liberalize the veteran's home loan program in order to make it effective in rural areas.

Additional legislation to provide a sound conservation plan for the term insurance policies of veterans who are reaching the age where the increase in premium at the end of each five-year term has become prohibited. I have also introduced a bill to provide for a supplemental watershed program which will apply to Eastern Kentucky. The fact that of almost 300 watershed projects approved in the country, not one has been located in the eastern third of Kentucky which shows the need for the supplemental program. Such a program can readily be tied in with the CCC Camp program.

In addition to these emergency programs, the need for better educational facilities continues to grow. Current economic conditions make it essential that Federal aid to education be provided at the earliest possible date. With economic conditions such as they are, there is no realistic hope that the state and local governments can bring our educational programs into line with the current needs unless Federal aid is made available.

SOIL CONSERVATION

By L. R. JOHNSON

Charles Hackworth, of Middle Creek, installed 600 feet of tile two years ago. Hackworth likes to tell his neighbors of his success with his water problem. The field was so wet that no crop was profitable in this field. Plowing was difficult and only extremely dry years was pasture worth much. The tile did the job, yes it had to be put down three to four feet deep. The field is dry as most any field and can be used as land should be used.

The tile line empties into a desirable place and is used for livestock water.

Hackworth said that the branch where his livestock drank dried up last summer, but not so with his tile line. A nice stream of clear, cool, water empties into a trough for his livestock. He said that the new source of livestock water was worth a thousand dollars to him.

Visit him. He will be pleased to tell you about his soil and water conservation improvement.

PLANTING BARS

Tree planting bars are being furnished by the Board of Supervisors to everyone possible, who are planting trees. A better stand of trees will be assured by the use of the bars, and more than a thousand dollars can be saved in time and labor in Floyd county this season by the use of the tree planting bars.

Everyone is asked to return the bars as soon as convenient after the trees are set, so that the bars can be made available to those setting trees in 1962.

TREE PLANTING

Tree setting in Floyd county has reached all-time high this year. There have been 1,015,000 trees ordered to date. Several truck loads of trees have been delivered and many of the trees have been set.

The unusual interest and cooperation of all agencies and interested people have made it possible to increase the trees to be set in Floyd Soil Conservation District this season.

In a few years many of the old worn out fields covered with broom sedge will be green, winter as well as summer. One can begin to notice here and there already, areas that show new life.

TILING WET LAND

Tiling of the wet land in Floyd Soil Conservation District is still at a high level. Since 1951 there have been 450 fields or areas made more productive, look better, and can be cultivated with more ease.

This spring there are 18,000 feet of tile to be staked out and installed; this involves 32 farmers.

The tile lines are staked out by the Soil Conservation technicians. The location of the tile lines, the depth of the tile and the grade or fall given are very important.

If you have drainage problems or soil and water conservation problems, call on your Soil Conservation District supervisors: J. B. Clarke, Roy Denney, Milt Stanley, R. C. Barnett or Billy Merritt.

POINTED TOES STILL LEAD IN SPRING SHOE FASHIONS

What's the fashion picture in shoes this spring? Pointed toes are still the most popular style, with daytime pumps, spectators, daytime walkers, and wedge casuals in many different textures—smooth, grained, brushed, lustered, and patent leathers.

The only real shift from the pointed toe look is seen in some tailored shoes. The softened, square toe—a cross between the "snipped off" pointed toe of last season and the rounded toe—is found on suit and walking pumps and some spectator styles. But even with the square toe, the trim look is kept through use of supple, foot-hugging leathers, thinner heels, and much detailing.

For the first time in many years, two basic pump styles are popular. First is the long, sleek "dagger sheath" pump. For the woman who likes extreme simplicity, this style offers higher toplines, longer lasts, and sharper needle points. Second is the "opened-up" pump. Slits and cut-outs open up either the vamp or the sides, with sidelines cut lower. Many styles have curved lines which hug and flatter the foot.

CARE OF SLIP COVERS

Are you thinking about spring house cleaning? Here are some tips on slip cover care for this spring.

This is a good time to wash soiled slip covers that are made of washable material. Use lukewarm water and a mild soap. Damp dry the slip covers in an automatic dryer or on the clothesline.

The seams and flounce should be ironed on the wrong side. Other parts of the cover may go on the chair while still damp, as this helps the cover take the shape of the chair. If wrinkles appear after the cover has dried, they may be gone over with a steam iron or a regular iron.

A well-fitted slip cover that is placed on the chair with seams in the right position usually will not work out of place. Tightly-rolled magazines that have been tied at each end with a string can be wedged down into the space between the seat and back to help keep the cover in place.

When new slip covers are bought or made, you may want protectors exactly like to slip cover fabric. These may be placed on the back and arms and pinned to the chair to help keep the cover clean. Partial slip covers also can be made for the arms of a chair or couch; these can be corded and made to slip on and off for washing. You also can buy material to spray on a new cover to help it stay clean.

Stacked heels are popular in daytime and casual shoes in a variety of low to medium heights. Curved, shaped, or built-up, stacked heels look best with walking suits and spring separates. In general, the more pointed shapes look best on the higher, slimmer heels.

Tailored styles are featured by a large variety of spectators with new, trim detailing, use of contrasting leather textures and colors, and extended beveled soles. These extended soles are back in style again this year; they often are beveled (slanted) at the edge for neatness and style.

'CINDERELLA' MOREHEAD FIVE RELAXES AFTER NCAA PLAY

Morehead, Ky., March 23 — The Morehead State College campus has just about settled down following last week's trip to the NCAA tournament.

And what an experience it was as the fiery Eagles captured the hearts of the 45,000 fans who saw them play in three games of the tournament.

Not only did the young Eagles reach the NCAA tournament when they weren't scheduled to finish higher than fourth in the Ohio Valley Conference, but they picked up a great deal of national prestige by reaching the round of the nation's 16 best basketball teams.

The very fact that Morehead reached the NCAA tourney is an almost unbelievable story in itself. Bob Laughlin, who has been named "Coach of the Year" in the OVC, started the season with seven sophomores, two juniors and three seniors. Everyone agreed that he had the raw material but most observers said he was a year away.

During the first 10 games, Morehead looked like a sophomore-Junior dominated squad. But then Granny Williams and Henderson "Heckie" Thompson began running wild from their guard posts.

And 6-8 giants Ed Noe and Norman Pokley came into their own with able support from John Gibson and Arthur Cole. Playing with only one senior in the starting lineup, the young Eagles played as a team which just wouldn't give up.

The fans fell in love with them and the Eagles responded by turning a so-so beginning into a story-book finish as they closed with a flourish to tie for the OVC championship which necessitated a playoff.

Morehead edged Eastern Kentucky, 55-54, in the first game of the playoff and roared back to defeat a rested Western Kentucky, 80-74, for the playoff crown.

A weary but game group of youngsters downed Xavier University, 71-66, in the first round of the NCAA tourney and finally ran out of gas, losing to the mighty University of Kentucky, 71-54, after leading the Wildcats with two minutes remaining.

(In the game against U. K., Prestonsburg's John Gibson scored 14 points for Morehead.)

The U. K. loss ended the season for the Eagles but Morehead fans are already looking toward next season. Four of the five starters are returning — 6-8 Ed Noe, 6-8 Norman Pokley, 5-11 Granville Williams and 6-5 John Gibson — and there are four other good sophomores who will join the four. William Thompson, a great shooter who is the third Thompson brother to play for Morehead, will be the leading candidate for the guard berth vacated by his brother while Bert Greene, Don Martin and Tom Ellis have all progressed well.

Add to this the products of one of Morehead's best freshmen teams and things look exceedingly bright next year. The most likely youngsters to move up from the freshman team are: 6-4 Cecil Clair; 6-4 Bob Hoover; 6-0 Roy Ware; 6-1 Doug Stamper and 6-4 Steve Miller.

Morehead fans have the fever. They see another great team comparable to the 1955-56 and 56-57 NCAA teams on the horizon. And they may not be too far off.

Dr. Adron Doran, Morehead president says, "This year's team undoubtedly had more spirit, determination and courage than any team we have had. They are a great group of boys and we feel will ably represent Morehead State College next year."

OFFICIAL DUTY IS STRESSED

School Boards Group Told by Combs People Demanding Improvement

Frankfort, Ky., March 20 (Spl.) —Addressing the 25th annual meeting of the Kentucky School Boards Association in Lexington, Gov. Bert Combs last week emphasized the obligation of all public officials to conduct the affairs of government and public agencies with strict attention to the will of the public.

The Governor called special attention to the need to pay close attention to the administration of the public schools, "for the sake of the accomplishments of thousands of dedicated public school teachers and officials."

"Kentucky's people are determined to improve our entire educational system," he said. "They are providing the greatest outlay of money for this purpose in our entire history. It is to be expected that the whole school system is now, and will continue to be, under very close scrutiny. And this is just as it should be. People have the right to demand of us that their money be spent wisely and efficiently."

"It will not suffice for us, the state government and the school administrators, to wait for the public to call faults to our attention before we act," he asserted. "We are obligated to maintain a close watch on our operations. Any fault, any suspicion of maladministration and inefficiency should be tackled immediately and prompt remedial action should follow."

From their enthusiastic response it was obvious that the Governor had struck a responsive chord with his listeners.

Sports Afield

By TED KESTING

It has often been said that to be a successful angler one must have great patience. This statement is flatly contradicted by Jason Lucas, Angling Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. He says that a man should be impatient. Here's why.

An angler who spends hour upon hour fishing, perhaps without even a strike, does so because he enjoys being out there—it's probable, whether he realizes it or not, a love of nature that keeps him out. All of which isn't denying, of course, that he'll enjoy it all the more if he's getting a reasonable number of fish.

There is a saying among guides all over the country that, granting anywhere nearly equal skill, the man who stays out six hours will catch twice as many bass as one who stays out only three hours. In fact probably in the long run the six-hour man will get four or five times as many as the three-hour man. Why? Because often even the best angler, guide or amateur, will spend perhaps two or three hours catching his first bass of the day. That is, discovering in what sort of spots they're hitting that day, what lure and such things. Having found out the answers, he may pick up his limit of very nice bass in less than half an hour—and then keep on catching and releasing them, for sport.

It's in all this that his being impatient comes in so useful. He won't spend perhaps hours fishing fruitlessly where there are no fish, or at least no feeding fish, and he's unlikely to stick to one or two methods that are doing no good at the time; he'll try many methods.

Which means that for best results his impatience must be mixed with a strong bump of curiosity, a love of experimentation—and any one who hasn't got that can develop it easily if he tries. For he must have it if he's to be successful consistently, not merely when the fish happen to want one of the two or three methods he's been using.

What about the fact that, nearly everywhere, there are times when bass seem to feed little or not at all, when even the best angler can do no good?

That, really, is one of the main reasons why the good bass fishermen will stay out so long. Unless the fishing is exceptionally poor at the place, at least some fish are sure to feed sometime during the day. By staying out long enough, you're sure to be there when that happens, so you'll catch some if you're working things all right.

Tidbits Of Kentucky Folklore

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

GULLIBILITY

It used to be common for newspapers to print cartoons of country yokels at the county fair or else in the big city being taken in by the slick and sharp city slicker. That idea has come down even to our own times, when country or small-town people are accused of having paid small sums for the Empire State building. My favorite yarn of this kind is the stock one of the country rube who was counting the pigeons on the courthouse when he was interrupted by a city boy, who told him that it was illegal to do so and that the fine was a dollar for each pigeon counted. The yokel confessed to having counted three, paid his three dollars, and then went down the street laughing because he had beaten the letter of the law.

All of this sounds, and is, laughable. There have been times when some similar things may have taken place. Country rubes may have acquired title to several court-houses, for all I know. But here is the funny thing about our folk-lore, a funny thing that persists in spite of automobiles, radios, newspapers, high schools, and travel. Every town is the rendezvous for quacks who prey on the primitiveness of people. Before me as I write is an advertisement of a charlatan who is making plenty of money right now in my own town. She is the seventh child, so she says, for seven generations. I am the tenth child of a ninth child; so what? If I had all the records, I might be able to match her claim and more. But I am not running a fortunetelling game and have never capitalized on such things. When Owen Glendower boasted that he could call spirits from the vasty deep, Hotsup Percy said that he could do the same thing, "but would they come for me?" Another bit of folklore in this same advertisement says that the clairvoyant was born with a double veil. To most people that means nothing. Anatomically, that means that part of the membrane around a baby stuck to its face, giving rise in ancient as well as modern times to a belief that such a person was marked as a prophet. Frankly, I had never heard of a double veil before I read of Madame Whoosis and her great pretensions to wisdom. But to many people, right here in my own town, that will be the last word. To her trailer this night will flock all sorts of people, black and white, ignorant and semi-learned, and even a few of what we might with good grace call learned. Some will go for fun, just to find out how it feels to have a fortune told in a semi-lighted trailer; others will go in a half-bellef, a little fearful that there might be something in it all but afraid to be seen in broad-open daylight; most will swallow everything that it told in vague terms that might easily fit any human being since the world was made. But even the Greeks had a custom like this, for their sibyls, or prophetesses, made vague statements that had to be interpreted by attendant priests. Anyway, there will be a lot of puzzled people tomorrow in my town, people who are rejoicing at the prospect of a great success in love or marriage or business but who are afraid to trust too implicitly the wonderful promises made by the dark lady in the dimly-lighted trailer. And the same dark lady will probably be counting her easy dollars and devising more schemes to bring in the shekels. Who said that we used to be superstitious and gullible but have grown wiser? If I could find that boy who bought the county courthouse, I honestly think I would offer him double his money to let me in on his deal.

COLLEGES O.K. COMBS' PLAN

Program To Encourage Grads To Stay in State Developed by Governor

Frankfort, Ky., March 20 (Sp.)—Representatives of 16 Kentucky colleges and universities, meeting with Gov. Bert Combs last week, unanimously approved his program to encourage the state's college graduates to stay in Kentucky.

The program is designed to embrace all of Kentucky's institutions of higher learning, which last year granted degrees to 6,498 young men and women.

Governor Combs, deploring the loss of Kentucky-trained talent to other states, said that solution of the problem lies in achievement of a two-fold objective:

1. "To provide employment opportunities which will encourage Kentuckians to remain in Kentucky, and
2. "To encourage talented Kentuckians to seize opportunities at home and develop them for the benefit of themselves and their fellow citizens."

Representatives of the colleges, who will work with various state government departments, agreed to begin organizing the program in time to benefit graduates in the spring of 1962. It will include:

Publication of a directory of Kentucky college graduates and their qualifications; Publication of a list of employment opportunities available to graduates;

A promotional program, appealing particularly to prospective new industry, to show the extent of talented manpower in Kentucky;

Preparation of a uniform application form, providing full information on the qualifications, ambitions and background of each graduate.

Meanwhile, the colleges will work closely with the State Employment Service and other government agencies to help find jobs for 1961 graduates.

Every college has its own service to help graduates find jobs, but Lee Robertson, director of placement for Western Kentucky State College, said to his knowledge Governor Combs' program is the first effort to coordinate all college placement services on a statewide basis.

The new statewide program, the Governor said, "can have an important bearing on Kentucky's future development." He pointed out

Former Floyd Countian Credited With Saving The Lives of Three

An Enid, Oklahoma father and his two small children owe their lives to the fast thinking of a young floral designer, Walter Eugene Price, who is a native of Prestonsburg.

The three were pulled unconscious from their burning home early Sunday morning, March 5, and given artificial respiration until ambulances arrived to take them to the hospital where attendants say all will recover. The three are Robert Irvin, 30, his son, Billy, 2, and daughter Rhonda, 4.

Price was on his way to work when he spotted smoke coming from the house. He stopped and asked three spectators standing outside if there was any one in the house. They told him they didn't know. He then asked if they had tried to find out. They said they "had hollered in," but no one answered. Price then ran over, kicked in the door and started crawling toward the living room where he saw figures on the floor.

About then, the smoke was almost overwhelming him, so he broke out a window, then returned and carried the boy outside and began giving him artificial respiration. By then firemen arrived and two put on smoke masks and carried Mr. Irvin and little daughter outside. Price continued to help give first-aid to the trio until ambulances arrived and took them to the hospital. He then left the scene before any one knew who he was, but he was later contacted by reporters. Price told them he was on his way to arrange flowers for a funeral when he saw the house on fire. He was asked where he learned first-aid. He said his father was at one time a Red Cross instructor, and he had learned some first-aid while serving with the Air Force.

Price is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Price, of Johnson City, Tennessee. He is a graduate of East Tennessee State College Training School. He has many relatives living in Prestonsburg including his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sid Sutphin and Mrs. Sadie Price. He is married and is living in Enid, Oklahoma.

that Kentucky is now entering the era of its greatest economic development, and added, "We will need the best possible human resources to engineer and operate this development. It is natural that we should look first to our own universities and colleges for these brains."

SPRUNGING UP FOR SPRING takes in a lot of territory. Cleaning, painting, repair work around the house—just about all of us get the urge to perk up the place this time of year. I've noticed that usually the lady of the house will also want to redecorate—new color schemes, curtains, slipcovers, etc. If you ladies are making such changes in your home, I'd like to remind you that now would be the perfect time to install handy extensions—and what could be prettier than a Princess? You can match or harmonize with your new color scheme because Princess extensions come in many beautiful colors. Why not stop by our business office and pick a Princess phone in the color of your choice?

CHUCKLE, ANYONE? Thought you'd get a kick out of this little story I ran across the other day. A little boy called the operator every five minutes and asked the same question, "Please, Operator, what time is it?" Something about the boy's voice told the operator this was no childish prank. Finally she asked him to call his mother to the phone. "She can't come," he said. "My little sister swallowed a button this morning and my mother had to take her to the hospital. And she told me not to dare leave the house till twenty after eight. I looked and looked and honest, Operator, I don't see any twenty on that clock. And I'm afraid I'll miss my school bus." Happy ending is that the operator called the little boy at 8:20 and he met his bus.

BARGAIN HUNTING? Who isn't! Remember you get extra bargains on Long Distance calls after 6 p.m. weekdays and all day Sunday. So, enjoy the pleasure often of a telephone visit with friends or family out of town and call during bargain rate time.

NATURE TRAILS

By RUFUS M. REED

LET'S CONSERVE THE TOPSOIL

Did you ever stop to think there's only an average of six inches of topsoil left today, to stand between us and total starvation? When America was first discovered, the layer of topsoil averaged nine inches thick. We have lost three inches of good topsoil in the past three hundred years. At that rate, we are doomed to lose all our precious topsoil within the next 600 years, unless we take effective steps to save it.

Today the most serious problem facing us economically is the conservation of this thin layer of topsoil, in which all our crops are produced. Here are some facts about this that should make us all stop and ponder, and also try to find more ways of saving and building up our soil:—It takes nature 600 years to make one inch of good topsoil. It took nature about 4,000 years to build our protecting layer of topsoil. Today she is hindered in her soil-building processes; She uses trees, vegetation, weathering of rocks, lichens, insects and decay of plant life to build her soil. But our trees are being cut and removed so fast, nature doesn't have a chance to make much new soil. Every field that is cleared, every hillside farm left without plants and cover crops and trees, is fast eroding away. The soil will soon be completely gone. Crops cannot be grown in the sub-soil, for lack of humus. When the soil is worn down to the hardness of bone and rocks, and the yellow, flinty sub-soil is all that is left, then that soil is useless in producing any kind of crop.

So the great question facing us today is, how can we save our remaining six inches of good topsoil? Here is a problem that poses a challenge to every thinking American. We must have more reforestation on a vastly wider scale, and we must stop at once the total depletion of our forests. Not only will this destroy our soil, it will also bring about a serious water famine.

Trees act as shock-absorbers to cushion the impact of heavy rains on the soil. Their leaves filter and strain the rain and keep it from running off too fast. Also the trees lay down a thick layer of leaves each season, which acts like a sponge to absorb and hold the rainfall. Tree roots are like human fingers that rip the soil and hold it from washing down. Can we afford to keep on removing the trees from our forests at this present rate?

Reforestation is one answer to this problem of saving our soil. But we must do it faster and on a larger scope. It should be made compulsory on all owners of cleared mountain land not used for crops. All timber companies should be required to re-forest any area of land from which they have removed the trees. Can we afford to sit idly by and say, "Let the future generations worry about the loss of the top-soil?"

Can we afford to risk the chance of our future off-spring starving to death upon a planet that has been completely robbed of its productive layer of top-soil? I don't think we can!
