This Town-- That World

THE YOUNG IDEA MEETS THE OLD

A 12-year-old and his favorite "square" recently engaged in a profound exchange of ideas. The drift of the conversation went something like this:

"You gotta two-barrel or a four-barrel or three two-barrels?"

"Um, Double-barrel."

"I got a double-barrel."

"That's why you got no power."

"Mine's full choke."

"Choke? -- I know about that, but still a four-barrel's got more zip."

"Two barrels or four barrels-- what's the difference about power. Never missed yet with mine-- I killed 'em."

"Killed? What did they give you?"

"Um-m. What's wrong with you, boy. Two-barrel, four-barrel -- one barrel gets the same results. The pump I had was better, but I sold it."

"Sold your pump, pop? How did it run without a pump?"

"The two eye each other, each imagining the other off running, with a guy waving a butterfly net in hot pursuit. Finally the old man has an idea that is little short of sheer inspiration."

"Son, let's start all over again; there seems to be a bit of confusion here. What's a two-barrel?"

"Of all the -- 'What's a two-barrel?' he says. Why, everybody knows that's a car with a two-barrel carburetor, father-mine."

"Pop does a fade-out by loading his double-barrel into his two-barrel and driving away to ponder these matters a few days in the wilderness."

COUNTY TOPS MILLION MARK IN SEEDLINGS

Cost-Sharing Is Spur To Reforestation Here; 3 Agencies Take Part

Floyd county landowners, after several years effort, have finally gone "over the top" on forest tree seedling planting.

Goal of the farmers has been one million seedlings set in a year, and this year 1,625,000 were ordered.

Contributing heavily to the success of the drive was the Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Committee's tree-planting practice. Under this plan the federal government cost-shared on the cost of the trees and planting. The Kentucky Division of Forestry will pay out $15,328 for this practice, according to Elder Goble, office manager.

Seedlings, a major part of them coming from the new state nursery in Morgan county, chiefly ordered through the ASC committee, totaled $58,000 and the remainder were cash sales to coal companies and other individuals. The state set approximately 20,000 in the Jenny Wiley State Park area.

Goble and L. R. Johnson, of the Soil Conservation Service, who assisted in the drive, noted this week that 282.5 acres of land have been approved for site preparation. Cost of site preparation, also a cost-share practice, will amount to $2,825.

One hundred twenty-four farmers made requests for cost-sharing on the tree practice, Goble said. Sharing in the effort to have one

Community Services For Eastertime Set By Ministers Here

The Prestonsburg Ministerial Association each year sponsors three community-wide services, at Thanksgiving and during Holy Week commemorating the crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus Christ. This week the Good Friday service will be held at the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church beginning at 1 p.m. Appropriate music will be provided by the high school choir and the sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Orin M. Simmerman, pastor of the First Methodist Church.

The Easter Sunrise Service will be conducted at 6:30 a.m., Sunday, at the Stratton Branch area on Dewey Lake, with ministers of the local churches participating. The sermon is to be delivered by the Rev. T. W. Chisholm, pastor of the Prestonsburg Presbyterian Church. If the weather should be bad, the service will be moved to the grade school auditorium at the same hour.

The ministers of Prestonsburg extend a cordial invitation to everyone in the community to attend these two special services.

BOARD POWER IS EXCEEDED

Authority To Employ Lies In Superintendent, Attorney-General Rules

The Attorney General's office said Monday in an opinion given Charles Clark, superintendent of Floyd County schools, that the Floyd County Board of Education exceeded its authority in hiring two shorthand reporters and a director of pupil personnel.

The opinion added that the county superintendent is the only person who may recommend appointments, promotions and transfers of county school employees.

The power to hire the stenographers and director of pupil personnel, the opinion said, is in the superintendent, subject to the approval of the Board of Education.

Eugene Conley, teacher at Martin high school, was named at a January meeting by a majority of the Board as the director of pupil personnel, whereupon he asked for a leave of absence. The Board's action, however, was enjoined, and the injunction was upheld by the Court of Appeals. Thereafter, Conley asked to be paid for the three days' teaching time lost.

Legality of the claim was one of the questions posed by Clark in asking the Attorney General's opinion. The Attorney General wrote that Conley is not entitled to the three days pay.

For stenographic work, Mrs. Mary Irene McIntosh filed a claim of $475.80; Mrs. Judith D. Archer, for $92.10.

GRAVE SHRINE LAND BOUGHT

Pioneer Wiley Cemetery To Be Developed, Told; Marker Committee Meets

The Jenny Wiley Grave Shrine, contemplated for several months by history and tourist-minded persons of the area, became a step nearer reality this week when the Division of Parks delivered a check for $500 to Ob Daniels, Johnson county landowner, for a parking lot area near the old pioneer Wiley cemetery.

Plans for the shrine were initiated last year when the General Assembly appropriated $1,000 for a memorial to Mrs. Wiley, Indian captive and early Floyd county settler. The lawmakers also provided a fund of $500 for fencing the site.

The actual site of the cemetery is on the land of Joe Stambaugh at River, Johnson county, but the parking lot is adjacent to the Stambaugh property. Plans conceive of a parking area on the highway, a walkway built of concrete to the foot of the cemetery hill and concrete steps up the hill.

Gov. Bert Combs appointed a committee of three persons last year to plan and design the memorial marker for Mrs. Wiley. The committee will meet this evening (Thursday) at Paintsville to finally adopt a marker. A local Paintsville committee composed of Herman Wheeler, W. A. Toney and Garland Rice assisted by the Harman's Station Chapter, Daughters of American Revolution has been working on the shrine promotion.

The Jenny Wiley Drama Association plans an outdoor drama based on the life of Mrs. Wiley to be written by Paul Green for presentation at the park here next year.

The committee named by the governor to design the marker is composed of Paul Jordan, Associated Press manager at Frankfort, Charles F. Hinds, director of Archives and Records, Frankfort, and Henry P. Sealf, of The Floyd County Times.

CANCER TOLL LOWER HERE

Forty Persons Victim In Floyd County In '60; April Is Control Month

(Special to The Times)

New York, March 21--Prospects for a reduction in the heavy toll taken by cancer each year in Floyd county are seen in the encouraging reports coming from the research laboratories.

The outlook for cancer patients who receive early and adequate treatment is better than it has been at any time and is improving steadily.

Even now, although the researchers have not yet attained the major breakthrough they have been seeking, it has become possible to save half of all cancer victims, states the American Cancer Society.

The subject is attracting special attention at this time because of the approach of April, designated Cancer Control Month.

Floyd county has been experiencing a somewhat lower rate of mortality from the disease than have most areas of the United States.

This is shown in the latest comparable figures, covering the entire country, released by the U. S. Public Health Service for the year ending January 1, 1959.

It attributes a total of 40 deaths of local residents in the year to cancer and other malignant growths. Not included are deaths locally of non-residents.

It represents a rate of 92 cancer deaths per 100,000 population in Floyd county, a lower rate than was reported for the United States as a whole, 148 per 100,000.

Although cancer holds its position as the nation's number two affliction, topped only by heart disease, it is showing a gradually

IMMUNIZATION NEED STRESSED BY DR. HALL

Disease may kill three times more human beings than would be claimed by bombs in a nuclear war, Dr. Russell L. Hall, Floyd county health doctor, told nurses in their regional meeting here last Thursday night.

He made the statement to emphasize the urgent need for more people to take advantage of the protection offered against disease by vaccines.

The "breakthrough" needed to effect more universal immunization lies largely in the hands of ministers, Dr. Hall said. Only a few church-people, he said, oppose use of such disease-preventives, yet there is a need for all ministers to urge on members of their congregations the importance of this protection for their children.

He pointed out that God-given sources for these vaccines have always been here on earth, all the years the many thousands of children were dying of diseases, but that all the prayers of bereaved parents could not make God break His natural law until man had worked and developed these materials into the needed vaccines.

"Then God answered their prayers. Less than 20 years ago, 20,000 children died in every year of whooping cough--last year, with the use of a vaccine, fewer than 350 died."

"Our ancestors had the good sense," the doctor said, "to believe that meeting their obligations here on earth was a necessary prerequisite to praying to God for help. Their prayers were like this: 'God, give us the chance to try. Here we have done all in our power to help ourselves. And God must have listened, else ours would not now be the greatest country on earth.'"

Of his belief that ministers are needed to encourage more universal use of vaccines for the prevention of disease, Dr. Hall said he is convinced most of them are aware of the truth of this. "But their work is concentrated on the souls of men; ours, on saving lives. That is why we see the light of this immunization problem first--not because we are smarter, but because it is our primary work."

School bus bodies for next year will continue to be bought by school districts on an individual basis, the State Board of Education decided.

The Board accepted the recommendations of Louis Vandell, director of pupil transportation, who said that as in previous years individual prices would be lower than those obtainable through a state pool.

The Board, beginning a three-day session, also saw a demonstration of a new teaching machine, a device which gives both questions and answers to the student who operates it.

The device is not yet in use in any Kentucky school.

The Board again approved a recommendation that individual school districts buy a total of 146 bus bodies for next year.

The bus chassis will be purchased through the state pool.

The state has rejected but body bids for the past four years, contending the same bodies are sold cheaper in other Southern states.

By 1970 we will have 26 million young people from 16 to 25 years old added to the labor force, and there will be more than seven million school drop-outs, the Kentucky legislator pointed out, stressing the need for broad legislation to further education, training and employment opportunities for young people. The problem is to-day made more serious by rapid technological change and serious unemployment.

"With the number of youngsters increasing so rapidly, and with so many school drop-outs, we are delinquent in our responsibility if we

WEBB FIRES FACTS BLAST

City Clean-Up Need Noted At CDC Meeting; Asks Building Removal

Don Webb, of the State Department of Economic Development, gave those attending last Wednesday's luncheon meeting of the Prestonsburg Community Development Council a point-blank blast of bald facts after inspecting the town.

Said Webb:

1. The courthouse restroom is "pathetic." He estimated a $500 repair bill would put it in reasonably good condition.

2. Prestonsburg's streets -- "mud and water all over the place." The lack of storm sewers, he added, is the probable cause of this condition.

3. Playground equipment at the grade school needs improvement, and the equipment on the playground made available by the Prestonsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce is in the same status.

Webb spoke plainly but in a spirit of helpfulness. He and others of his department have been coming here at regular intervals to talk and plan with the Community Development Council as it looks toward cleaning up and improving Prestonsburg.

He told the group that youngsters out of school this summer and with time on their hands will need employment advice and help. Churches in Louisa, he said, are taking the lead in lining up employment for students during the summer months.

Webb also said he has contacted the Pure Oil Company about the possibility of removing the old and now-unused service station building on U. S. 23, near Friend street, and that the company has expressed a desire to level the structure. The lease on the property has several months to run, however, and it is not known when the building can be moved or dismantled.

The Community Development Council moved to finance its operations, and a secretary and treasurer will be named shortly. One hundred dogwoods and flowering crabapples have been ordered from a nursery, and these will be made available to property-owners at cost as a part of the overall beautification program.

The Council meets each Wednesday at the Wise Restaurant, at 12:30 p.m.

Whisman Slated Speaker At Engineers' Meeting At Pikeville, Friday

John Whisman, executive director of the Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission, will be guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Big Sandy Chapter of Kentucky Society of Professional Engineers at Pikeville, Friday evening, it was announced this week by Eddie Worland, Prestonsburg, president of the local chapter.

Worland issued an invitation to all interested persons to hear Whisman who is one of the leading promoters of Eastern Kentucky Development. The meeting will be held at the Kentucky Power Company building at 7:30 p.m.

CRISP KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Car-Train Collision Claims Martin Native At Lima, Ohio, Friday

Robert Alton (Tony) Crisp, 30, plant employee at Beaver Dam, O., and a native of Martin, died instantly Friday from injuries sustained when his car and a train collided at a railway crossing at Lima, O.

He was driving alone when the accident occurred. He was killed by multiple skull fractures and other extensive injuries.

A graduate of Martin high school, he was graduated from Berea College, class of 1950. He had been employed by Ex-Cello Corporation, Lima, for seven years.

Mr. Crisp was a son of Robert Alton Crisp, Sr., and Jola Frazier Crisp, of Martin. His wife, Jettie Manning Crisp, survives, as also do four children, all at home: Jane Rae, Victoria Ann, Catherine Diana and Yvonne Nell. He also leaves two sisters, Alicia and Bonnie Jean, both at home.

Funeral rites were conducted Monday at 1 p.m. from the Martin Methodist Church, the Revs. Leroy Sanders, John P. Carr, Ron Lynch, and R. S. Derfield officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery at Martin, Hall Brothers Funeral Home directing.

Active pallbearers were Randall (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

PERKINS ASKS YOUTH CORPS

Employment, Training Envisioned for Youths In Rural, Urban Areas

Congressman Carl D. Perkins, Hindman, last week introduced for his bill (H.R. 3717) a Youth Conservation Agency to provide employment and training for young people in rural and urban areas. He spoke before a U. S. Department of Labor advisory committee on young workers and asked its members to make their views known to Secretary of Labor Goldberg.

By 1970 we will have 26 million young people from 16 to 25 years old added to the labor force, and there will be more than seven million school drop-outs, the Kentucky legislator pointed out, stressing the need for broad legislation to further education, training and employment opportunities for young people. BRANCH BANK OPENING TO MARK ANNIVERSARY

The Bank Josephine opened for business in Prestonsburg April 2, 1891, and it will celebrate its 70th anniversary Sunday with the formal opening of its new branch five-in bank at Allen.

The public has been invited to inspect the new banking facility and to be guests of the bank's officers, directors and employees from 3 to 6 p.m.

In operation since Nov. 18, last, and the first branch drive-in in the county, the Allen bank is one of the most modern in Eastern Kentucky. The new structure includes a lobby, two teller windows, two drive-in windows, vault space including 125 safety-deposit boxes and a manager's office. It is heated by heat pump and is completely air-conditioned.

Exterior of the bank building is of marble, with large window areas. It has solar screens of pierced concrete block and two large reinforced-concrete "parasols" to shelter the drive-in windows and lobby entrance. The building was designed by Ingram & Ingram, Louisville architects.

Cost of the banking structure exceeded $100,000, it was said. The parent bank was named for Mrs. Josephine D. Harkins, wife

Five Floyd Students At Morehead Injured In Auto Mishap Sunday

Five Morehead State College students, three from Floyd county, were injured in an early morning accident Sunday, when the car in which they were riding overturned on Kentucky Route 519, near Morehead.

Taken to King's Daughters hospital in Ashland were three occupants of the car which was driven by Roger Keith Johnson, of Virgie, who suffered minor injuries. They were William Randy Skaggs, 25, of Ashland, who suffered a fractured leg; Noah Collins, 20, of Printer, Ky., who was treated for facial lacerations and David R. (Dickie) Leslie, 22, of Prestonsburg, who suffered back injuries. The driver and another of the car's occupants, Norris Eugene Frazier, of Martin, who also suffered minor injuries, were not hospitalized.

The vehicle, traveling north at 1:45 a.m. failed to negotiate a curve. The car rolled onto its side. It traveled 39 feet before coming to rest on its wheels, police at Morehead said.

NEW TELEPHONE BUILDING COMPLETED

Pictured above is "The New Look" that will be presented soon to the telephone users of Floyd county, with the opening of the central office building which was recently completed on Westminster street here. The building is of modern design, with the newest equipment installed.

Byron Simpson, local Southern Bell manager, said the new building, which houses the equipment to handle telephone calls in the Floyd county area, will be in operation at 12:01 a.m., April 9.

Approximate cost of the lot, building, and equipment is $188,800.

"This is another step Southern Bell has taken in keeping pace with the economic development of Floyd county," Simpson said.

When and Where To Start?—Now and Here!

Those who should know tell us an encouraging story. They have told it and retold it till we believe it. They tell us of the unexcelled beauties of Eastern Kentucky's scenery and of the undeniable attraction this picturesque land will increasingly have for tourists as parks and other facilities are created and improved.

But—and we hear this, over and over again, too—Eastern Kentucky has before it a herculean labor of cleaning up its collective premises if the visitor to these parts is to see these natural beauties.

They say, in effect—"If you lift up your eyes to the hills, you see great beauty; if you let your glance drop to the roadsides and the lowland, you see what man has done to corrupt all this."

We hear from others, whose eyes, unaccustomed to all this, see the sordidness of the landscape as well as its beauty, that if Eastern Kentucky, Prestonsburg and Floyd county are to get their rightful share of the millions of dollars coming into Kentucky as a result of travel, there must be a lot of it to be done.

Then these questions naturally arise:

Are we satisfied to live in the midst of a dirty, dreary situation which we ourselves have created? Are we too lazy to do anything about it, even if we are not satisfied? Or will we, as other towns and areas have done, get down to cases and begin "dressing up" now to receive those who soon will come calling on us?

Some additions to the shameful accrual of waste and dirt could be prevented by law. Some eyesores could be eliminated by enforcement of existing statutes forbidding stream pollution and the wayside dumping of garbage and other wastes. Ramshackle structures may legally be levelled at the property-owner's expense, under certain conditions. Prestonsburg has the legal authority under an existing zoning ordinance to govern types and locations of buildings, but this applies only to the corporate limits of the town. Countywide zoning is necessary if effective legal controls are to be established in the move to tidy up and keep tidy the countryside. Countywide zoning may be years away.

For this reason the big clean-up job that must be done, if the county and its towns are to hold their own, not to mention advance, in the keen competition with other communities, is one which will depend upon the thinking and action of their individual citizens working together.

Scattered women's groups have already begun work. The Prestonsburg Community Development Council is planning and working to this end. A liberal sprinkling of civic-minded citizens is joining in this thinking. These people sincerely want to do something and to see something done. But the job has been postponed so long that more than a few clubs and a sprinkling of citizens will be needed. The entire populace will have to change its way of thinking and stir up some dust rather than kicking it up.

April is Clean-Up Month. Where to start? Any old place—almost any new place.

EVOLUTION FROM THE MONKEY'S VIEWPOINT

Three monkeys sat in a coconut tree. Discussing things as they're said to be. Said one to the others: "Now listen you two, There's a certain rumor that can't be true, That man descended from our noble race—"

The very ideal it's dire disgrace. No monkey ever deserted his wife, Starved her baby and ruined her life. And you've never known a mother monk

To leave her baby with others to bunk, Or pass them on from one to another 'Till they hardly know who is their mother. And another thing! You will never see

A monk build a fence 'round a coconut tree And let the coconuts go to waste, Forbidding all other monks to taste.

Why if I put a fence around this tree Starvation would force you to steal from me. Here's another thing a monk won't do,

Go out at night and get on a stew, Or use a gun or club or knife To take some other monkey's life.

Yes! Man descended, the onery cuss, But brother, he didn't descend from us."

PLANTINGS OF CORN

Lexington, Ky.—Kentucky farmers probably would increase corn yields per acre from 10 to 12 bushels if they would increase the "plant population" of their corn fields.

Highway Road Damages May Cost 11 Million, Maintenance Man Says

The ravages of winter include a near-record toll in damages to Kentucky highways.

The repair of pavements cracked by freezing weather and thawing will cost $11,080,170, a little less than the record damage of 1950, the Department of Highways reported today.

The cost would go higher, said W. W. Alcock, assistant maintenance director, if the spring is exceptionally wet.

Most of the past winter's damage was concentrated in Northern Kentucky, where hauling has stepped up because of interstate road construction, and in the southeastern region.

Engineers recalled that heavy snow caused the worst road damage in history in 1950, but no exact figure was available. Damage then was more centralized, most of it being in central and northern Kentucky.

In 1960, road damage exceeded $6 million. Alcock said this year's damage almost doubled because continuous rains prevented the repair of minor breaks in the pavement before they were made worse by moving traffic.

Seeping water, coupled with the pumping action of traffic, widens the cracks considerably unless road crews make repairs immediately, he explained.

Most of the near-record damage was caused in the past month. In late February, the Highway Department estimated the repair cost up to then at $2,737,000.

In the highway district with headquarters at Covington, road damage was placed at $2,750,000; at Jackson, $1,550,220, and at Pikeville, $1,444,000.

Damage in the other nine highway districts averaged about one-half million dollars a district, Alcock said.

The division headed by Maggard is responsible for processing bonus claims filed by veterans.

(No. 135 in a Series)

INDEPENDENCE DAY OUTING HALF A CENTURY AGO

The group photograph was usually the happy climax to an outing decades ago if a photographer was available. Preparations for the picture had to be made in advance to secure the services of a photographer for there were no candid cameras then.

Shown here is an Independence Day outing group at Dewey, on Johns Creek in 1911. The American flag was used as a background for the picture. Standing, left to right, are Sherrid Goble, Morgan Lawson, May Burchett, Frank Stratton, Josephine Setser, Henry Hyden, Annie Stratton, Roma Crider and Mintie Setser. Sitting, back row, are Boy Wells, Rosie Owens, Earl Mayo. Front row, sitting, are Okie Porter, Bill Stratton, Sofie Owens, and John Goble.

Dewey postoffice, now discontinued, was founded at the time of the Spanish-American War and was named by the Postoffice Department in honor of Commodore Dewey, victor at the Battle of Manila Bay.

The First National Bank presents these pictures of our past, trusting they will recall pleasant memories of our yesterdays.

KENTUCKY YOUTH ASSEMBLY HOLDS MOCK LEGISLATION

BY STEPHEN LEE BEST

Seventeen delegates from Prestonsburg high school attended the 17th annual meeting last week-end in Frankfort of the Kentucky Youth Assembly. Sponsored by the state Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A., the Assembly is a mock legislative session patterned after the working of the state government.

The delegates from Prestonsburg introduced three bills in the session, including one on state owned and operated liquor stores. This bill received wide publicity but was defeated by a very small margin. The Tri-Hi-Y and Y-Teen Clubs introduced two bills—one on free textbooks for high schools and another relating to a requirement that coroners in Kentucky have a medical degree. The free textbook bill was vetoed by the youth governor but the bill on coroners passed by a wide margin.

One of the major bills introduced was brought up by the Louisville delegation. This bill made segregation in Kentucky unlawful. There was considerable discussion on this bill but it passed by a fairly large margin.

Thursday night, the delegates heard an address by Lieutenant Governor Wilson Wyatt, and later in the evening attended a church service in which Carl Dixon, of Prestonsburg, sang "The Lord's Prayer." This song was interpreted by the rhythmic choir from the First Methodist Church of Prestonsburg.

Friday, the legislative sessions continued and various bills were discussed. Friday night, the delegates attended a banquet and heard an address on state development and the importance of education by Governor Bert T. Combs. After the address all delegates attended the Governor's Ball at which Lois Ann Combs, daughter of Governor Combs, presided. Saturday morning, the delegates met to vote on candidates for the cabinet for 1962. Susan Kline of Beechwood, was chosen speaker of the house; Vicki Bradford, of Paris, secretary of state; Robert Rich, Independence, governor for 1962; and Winston Miller, of Carmargo, lieutenant governor.

Delegates from Prestonsburg: Senate—Gerald Jones, Carl Dixon, Shirley Harmon, Rebecca Wright. House of Representatives—John Sutherland, Samuel Hatcher, Eddie Worland, Chuck Tackett, Stevie Stephens, Elizabeth Lynn Frazier, Arniea Clarke, Brenda Horne. Cabinet (1961)—Kay Ann Frazier, Dennis Stephens. Cabinet (1962)—Lynn Salisbury. Candidate—James McDonald. Press Representative—Stephen L. Best.

Adults accompanying the Prestonsburg delegation were Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Ratliff, Jr., Mrs. Kathryn S. Frazier.

Mrs. Lourena Johnson, Aged Weeksby Woman, Succumbs At McDowell

Mrs. Lourena Hall Johnson, 82, of Weeksby, was claimed at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday, at the McDowell Memorial hospital following an illness of two weeks.

Brothers and sisters surviving are Faro Hall, of Topmost, Willard Hall, of Wales, Mrs. Sarah Elliott, Matewan, West Virginia, and Mrs. Virgie Johnson, Weeksby.

Yancey Notes Training At Military Academy At Joint Club Meeting

Cadet George Yancey, of the U. S. Military Academy, West Point, New York, spoke before the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club and the Key Club last Thursday.

The speaker pointed out that 86% of all who gain admission to the Academy apply to members, of Congress, take tests and then are nominated on the basis of the tests, while the remaining 14% come from the armed services and are chosen wholly on qualities of leadership and educational qualifications.

At West Point, he said, the first summer is similar to the basic training period in the Army. The Academy is a four-year college, with military training added. The honor system, administered by upperclassmen and the cadets themselves, govern the student-body. All cadets must participate in one or more of the 16 sports offered at the Academy, he said. Military tactics are stressed each summer, and in their third year at the Point cadets spend the summer as assistant platoon leaders, actually dealing with troops.

The West Point graduate goes into the regular army as a second lieutenant.

In addition to work programs to conserve and develop the country's natural resources and recreational areas, Congressman Perkins' measure, now before the committee, on education and labor, includes urban work projects for youth, financial assistance to students to enable them to continue in school, and employment for young men and women who are not in school.

Secretary of Labor Goldberg earlier told members of the advisory group that the Department is "very much disturbed about the drop-outs that are taking place in the schools at an accelerated rate among the younger people." The basic reason is our economic situation, he said. The Secretary also expressed the Administration's concern about the problem of juvenile delinquency and the broader problem of the increasing crime rate taking place in the country. This, too, is closely linked with the current economic situation. "I am sure you will see the obvious relationship between the level of the economic health of the country and these problems you are dealing with," the Secretary added.

Certain GI insurance dividend and indemnity payments totalling $14,219,549 were made to veterans and their beneficiaries.

An average of 152 disabled veterans of World War II and the Korean conflict in Kentucky trained during the year under the vocational rehabilitation act to overcome the handicaps of their disabilities. They received $280,578 in subsistence, tuition, supplies and equipment.

An average of 4,253 veterans trained during the year under the World War II and Korean GI Bills. They received $5,517,116 in cash allowances.

These cash benefits and services included war orphans' educational allowances, hospitalization, loan guarantee, and direct loan programs, automobiles for certain disabled veterans, wheel chair homes for the seriously disabled, administrative costs and miscellaneous benefits, Owen added.

A still better result would be obtained, say the authorities, to the extent of an additional 85,000 lives saved a year in the United States, if people would take advantage of what science has to offer. They mean annual physical checkups for people over 35.

The form of the ailment most discussed in the last few years is lung cancer, which is now the leading cause of cancer death among men.

In Floyd county, in the year covered by the report, 22.5 percent of the cancer mortality was due to lung cancer, as against 13.9 percent nationally.

Stuttering Can Be Corrected, Says University Of Iowa Expert

More than a million people in the United States—seven out of every 1,000—suffer from the tensions and embarrassment of stuttering but in most cases the problem can be corrected. So reports Dr. Wendell Johnson in an April Reader's Digest article, "Stuttering Is an Avoidable Accident."

He became interested in the project in curing his own stuttering and is now professor of speech pathology and psychology at the University of Iowa. He is author of several books on the disorder, including "Stuttering and What You Can Do About It," just published by the University of Minnesota.

"The result of our studies," he writes, "now indicate that the onset of stuttering is an avoidable accident, and that it becomes a problem for a child only after someone else decides it is a problem. . . . We stress the importance of not making an issue of a child's repetitions and hesitations."

An adult, he says, can take comfort in the fact that the origin of his stuttering does not lie in any physical disability or family genes. Dr. Johnson recommends speech clinics for the adult stammerer.

"His handicap results from something he himself does—the forcing and straining to speak," writes Dr. Johnson, "and this can be overcome. The journey back from disfluent speech may take patience and long conscientious effort, but it is a road which I myself have traveled."

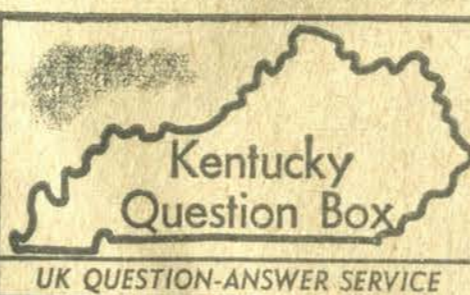

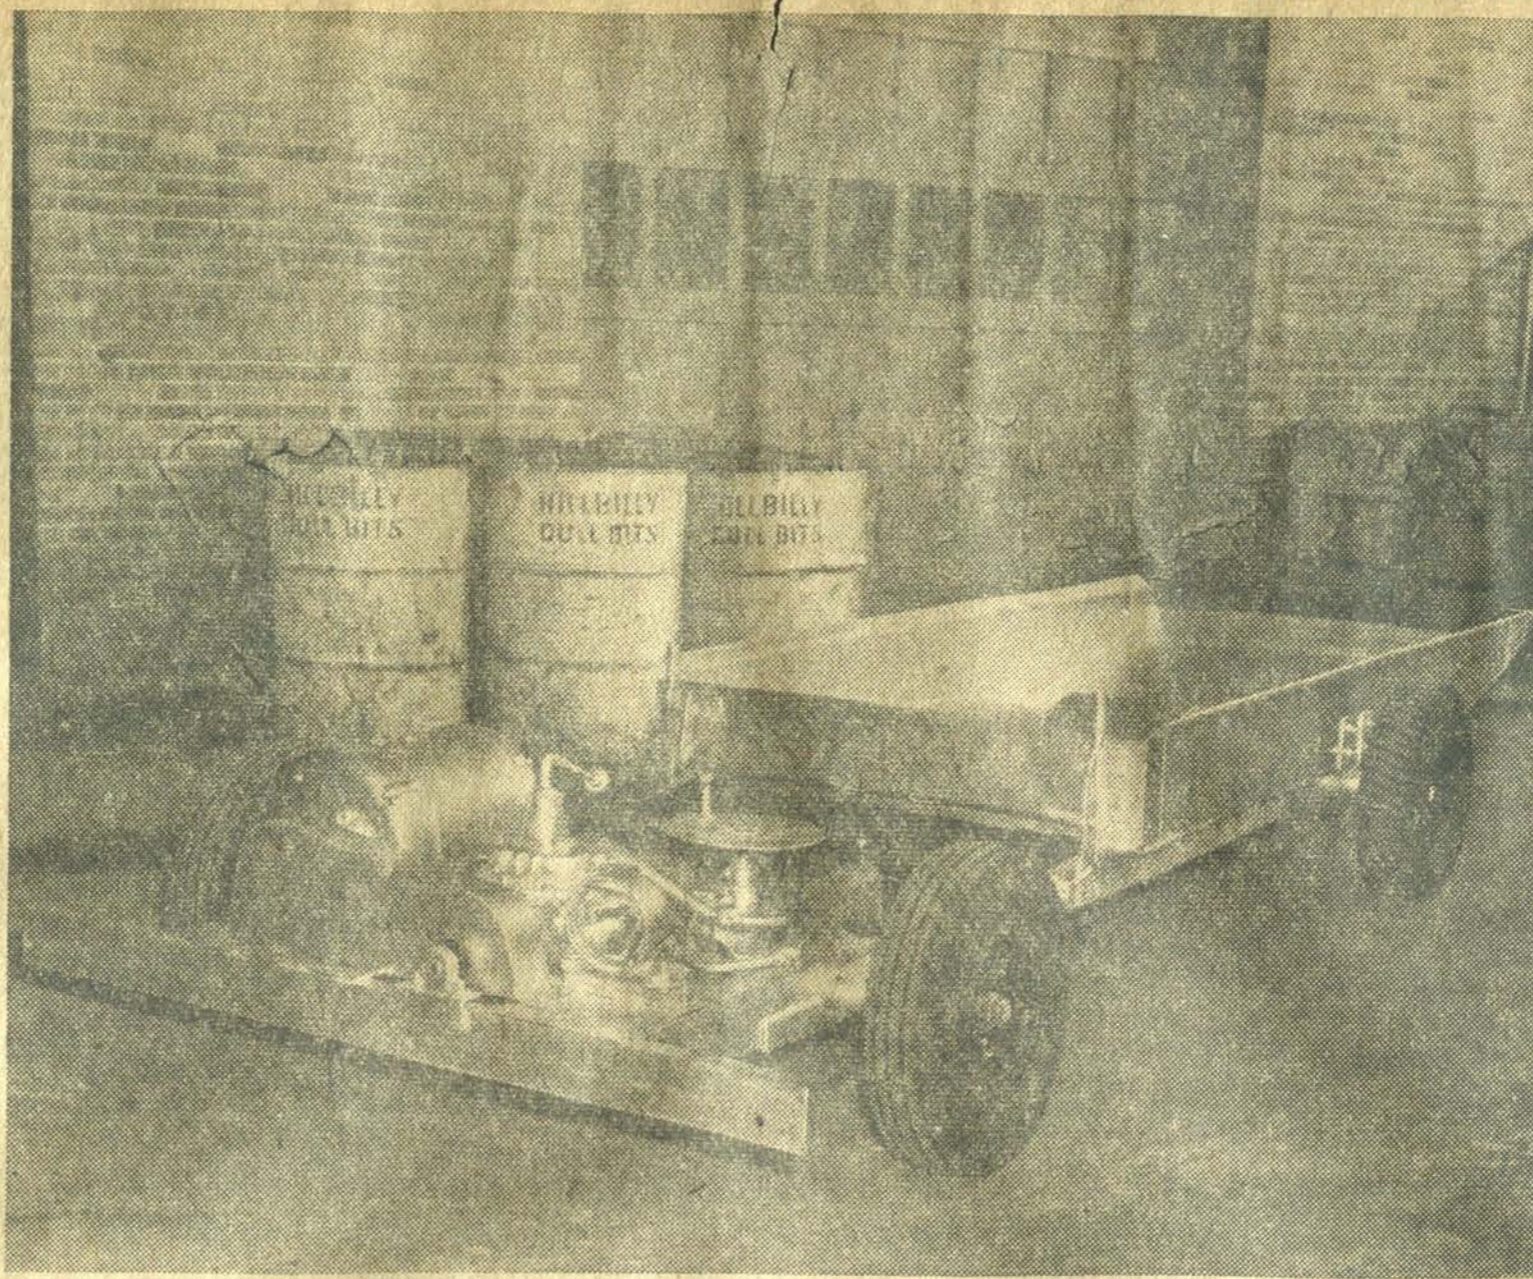

GARRETT

PASTOR IS HONORED

The Garrett Baptist Church had a Brotherhood supper Saturday night that turned into a surprise birthday party for the pastor, Russi Sloane. When he arrived at the church he was surprised when everyone started singing "Happy Birthday." The supper was served in the basement. At one end of the room over the table where the gifts and cake had been placed, was a chart made by Mrs. Shelby Draughn. Written in large black letters were the words, "Happy Birthday," and beneath that, in gold letters, "Brother Russi." She had also painted a spray of dogwood with a robin perched on a limb with a space underneath arranged for the guests to sign their names. Since it was the Easter season, Mrs. Draughn read the legend of the robin and the crucifixion. After the meal was served by women of the church and the gifts were opened, the Brotherhood held their meeting with Pivot Conley, of Hindman, as the speaker. Those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. Pivot Conley, Hindman, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pettrey, Prestonsburg, Mr. and Mrs. Mason Moore, Martin, Rev. Floyd Tisworth, Mousie, Mrs. Elizabeth Sloane, Larkslane, Arthur Haywood, Wayland, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Sloane, Mr. and Mrs. O. K. COAL BIT COMPANY DIVERSIFIES PRODUCTS

Was there a battle fought near Paintsville during the Civil War? —(Mrs. Joseph Pavlina, a reader of the Paintsville Herald).

Yes. On April 13, 1864, there was a brief skirmish at Paintsville between Union troops and Confederate raiders. The raiders were repulsed with few casualties.

What are the four most celebrated Kentucky feuds?—(A reader of the Hardin County Enterprise).

In naming the four most celebrated Kentucky feuds, the historian is embarrassed by his riches. Readers may contest the choice, but after due consideration the following four were chosen: The Hatfield-McCoy feud; the Tolliver-Martin-Logan feud in Rowan and Montgomery counties; the French-Eversole feud; and the Strong-Amis feud in Breathitt County.

What Rupp-coached team had the greatest winning percentage at UK?

The 1953-54 team stands as the best in this category in compiling a perfect record in 25 starts. Kentucky did not go to the NCAA that year.

What makes Kentucky important? I've heard that it was horses and beautiful women. —(Emily Hall, Bardstown).

It is true that Kentucky has long been noted for its fine horses and beautiful women. Other things for which Kentucky is widely known are its hospitality, coal, bluegrass, tobacco, whiskey, cooking, basketball, scenic wonders, and recreational facilities.

Ella Stewart Chullun for Representative Pledges Support of Weekly Paydays and Easier Eligibility For Old Aged

A representative in the legislature is one of a group of one hundred who make Kentucky's laws. One representative cannot do the job alone. She must vote for those bills which are in the best interest of the people she represents. She must convince a majority of the others that the laws she proposes would be good for the whole state. Therefore, I cannot promise for certain that I can pass any particular law. I can only tell you what I stand for and what I will work for when I am elected.

I have been concerned for some time with the problem of those who ask for old aged assistance, but are told that the earnings of their children must be considered in deciding whether the old aged person should have state aid. In most cases these children have their own financial problems—children of their own, mortgage payments, medical payments, and other pressing living costs. When I am elected, I hope to remedy this bad defect in the law. I look forward to our needy old aged receiving aid from the state so that they can live decently and not in a state of near poverty.

Another problem in our area which demands our attention is that of the weekly payday. Our coal miners are debt-ridden because the law allows a two-week payday. If the law required a payday every week, those who are fortunate enough to be employed could operate on a cash basis with merchants, and still have money in their pockets.

I hope you who are interested in looking to the solution of the many problems we face here in the coal mining area will watch this column. I can't solve them by myself. But I offer myself as one who is able, qualified and willing to try.

VOTE FOR ME NOW, I'LL VOTE FOR YOU IN THE LEGISLATURE.

Your friend,
ELLA STEWART CHULLUN

Many birds require special materials for their nests, reports the April Reader's Digest. The barn swallow limits himself by using clay and demands chicken feathers for warmth and decor. Some species are adaptable. A Wall Street pigeon used paper slips and rubber bands to make her nest.

Life expectancy in India is now 40 years instead of 32 as it was ten years ago, says the April Reader's Digest. The number of hospitals and dispensaries has increased from 8,860 in 1950-51 to 12,600. Ten years ago there were 30 medical colleges and 59,000 registered doctors. This year there will be 55 medical colleges and 84,000 doctors.

Squeeze as much water as possible from the blanket and pat between heavy turkish towels to remove excess moisture.

How is egg quality judged by those who grade eggs? Position of the yolk, condition of the thick and thin white, and size of the air cell show interior quality. A high quality egg has a high-standing yolk, well centered and banked on a thick white when broken into a flat plate. The shell should be clean, well-formed, and free of cracks or breaks.

We don't believe you gain anything at all by driving long distances to shop at BIG CITY stores. Our local sources have merchandise that's just as good and costs no more.

But merely for the sake of argument, suppose you do save a few dollars on a time-consuming trip many miles from home. And suppose you don't even count the cost of gasoline and oil, car wear, parking fees, etc. Forget, too, if you like, the hazards of driving in today's heavy highway and city traffic.

But don't overlook these things: What you buy here can be in your home in a few minutes—no waiting several days for delivery. And if the merchandise doesn't give full satisfaction, any needed service or adjustment of the purchase can be made without shipping the items back to the BIG CITY or being forced to make a second trip yourself.

Why drive scores of miles looking for trouble? Shop right around the corner and be safe and satisfied.

Former Pastor Here Named Kentucky Colonel By Governor Bert Combs

It's Colonel Gerstle M. Haggard, sub.
 He was Rev. Haggard when he was pastor of the First Methodist Church here several years ago. To his flock at Franklin (O.) First Methodist Church he is still Reverend but to Gov. Bert Combs and a few select friends he is now a Kentucky Colonel.

Ten years ago A. C. Carter heard Rev. Haggard express a wish to become a Kentucky Colonel. Carter kept the matter in mind but due to the exigencies of life postponed any action for years.

The minister adds the latest title to a lot of others. He was commissioned a Lieutenant Commander in the U. S. Navy in World War II, has degrees from schools in America and England, including an A.B. from Western State, graduate work at the University of Kentucky, University of Cincinnati and Boston, credentials from his participation in an International Relations Seminar in Europe, documents indicating completion of work in all branches of Masonry, both York and Scottish Rites.

Haggard wrote Henry H. Carter, Kentucky State Treasurer, whose kind offices were utilized by A. C. Carter to procure the Colonelcy after a decade of delay.

"I am a bred and born Kentuckian," Haggard wrote. "Remember Irvin Cobb's statement that if a man is from Kentucky he'll get around to telling you sooner or later; and if he isn't from Kentucky, well, don't embarrass him by asking and having him say no."

Rev. Haggard in a letter of appreciation to the Prestonsburg Carter, recalls his friendship with a Baptist minister in the area here.

"When I was there I got acquainted with a Baptist minister at the nearest coal camp church. I'm not sure of the name of the town or coal company but I think it was David. I think also that the church was a community church."

"What I want is a little pamphlet or tract which this minister put out on how he taught little children about Heaven. I thought it was such a fine approach at the time I saw it. I lost it and can't remember what it was or what his line of thought was. I think it had to do with training children for membership in the church, and maybe it was in a tract or pamphlet form. I do not remember the minister's name but he was in charge of the church. Maybe you can find out who the minister was in the '50's and trace what I want that way."

Recent correspondence between friends here and Rev. Haggard has renewed his acquaintance with Rev. J. E. Durham, of David, "who teaches little children about Heaven."

NATURE TRAILS

By RUFUS M. REED

THE BEAVER INDIANS

In Western Canada there lives a tribe of Indians called "The Beaver Indians," because of their fondness for the flesh and tails of beavers. Many Indian tribes considered the tails of beavers a rare delicacy. The Assiniboines Indians would broil beaver tails over hot coals until the scaly hide peeled off in blisters, revealing the white, solid meat. After the skin was removed, they roasted the meat on hot coals. Those who have eaten beaver tails claim the meat tastes like salt pork combined with finnan haddie.

"WHITE BRIDES OF THE SPRING"

I call the early-blooming sarvis trees "the white brides of the spring." Begin to look for them in sheerest white gowns around the latter part of March. I've seen gnarled old sarvis trees leaning precariously over a cliff, showing their white beauty when all the rest of the hill was still clothed in drab winter brown.

Most of the old deeds and patents of early days referred to this tree as "sarvis," when using it for a corner tree of land. Most botanists call it serviceberry tree, and some books call it "the shad bush," while some still call it "Juneberry," because its berries turn reddish-purple and ripen in June, and are among the earliest of all fruits to be found in the woods.

This tree was called "serviceberry" because it was always found in bloom about the time the old circuit riders made their annual rounds through the Appalachian Mountains in early spring, to hold funeral services for all the members of the circuit who had died during the past year. This beautiful white tree, symbolizing saintly chastity, could always be seen displaying its white petals like the big snowflakes of late March, and to the old devoted circuit riders the tree became a symbol of the saintly souls of the departed and was used to commemorate the services held in their honor; so they called it "serviceberry tree."

The reason it is sometimes called "shad bush," it was always beginning to whiten the mountain slopes about the time the shad fish made their spring pilgrimage up the fresh water streams to spawn.

To the Indians and the early settlers, the sarvis tree often provided an abundance of fruit for pies and "sarvis cobbles," as they were called. These were truly delicious and were served with sweet milk and sweetened with maple sugar.

The Indians always gathered the reddish-purple berries, so abundant in their day, and dried them. Then they pounded them to make large fruit cakes. Sometimes these "sarvis berry cakes" would weigh as much as fifteen pounds. They used these dried cakes to flavor stews and pemmican. Sarvis berries are the favorite fruits for squirrels and birds, and boys too who like to climb the trees along "about knee-deep in June," to feast on the wild, woody berries, which have the tang of the wild-flavored, leafy woods of June.

Some botanists call this tree, "downy serviceberry," since its leaves are downy. Each bloom has five long, slender petals like white, shreds of paper. The botanical name of this tree is Amelanchier arborea, and it sometimes grows 60 feet high; it loves rugged mountain land and seems to have a fondness for growing on top of old mountain sandstones. The leaves are ovate, about three inches long and finely toothed. The bark is dark gray, the trunk sometimes tall and slender, and when these tall ones bloom, they look like a white column standing amidst the winter-leafless trees of early spring.

I love to think of the sarvis trees as the white brides of the spring, because they appear in bridal gowns and are the first harbingers of the beauty soon to adorn our mountains.

THINK

Has your drivers license expired? Renew your license in your birth month only. Look at the top right hand corner of your license for year of expiration.

Why do so many people forget their birth month? If you knew how difficult it is to get a license you would keep them renewed in order to prevent being checked on the highway.

HAWKS WIN LITTLE LEAGUE

The Hawks, spurred by lanky David McMillen, won the Prestonsburg Little League basketball playoffs last week-end as they romped to their tenth consecutive win without a loss.

In the tournament play-offs, the Hawks bounced the Lakers, 21-13, and whipped the Knicks, 34-18, in the finals. The Knicks, tutored by Paul D. Wells and Paul Branham, downed the Nats, 26-19, in the other semi-final game.

Center David Miller tabbed 11 points in the Knick's win over the Nats, and Keith Griffith tallied 10. McMillen dropped in eight points in the Hawks' win over the Lakers.

In the championship game, McMillen tossed in 14 for the winners and David Miller was high for the Knicks with nine. Coaching the championship Hawks were Harry Burke, Herchell Tackett and Herbert Selisbury.

Bruce Belcher, Wheelwright cage ace, was named to the first all-state basketball team by the Lexington Herald, but was relegated to the second team on the Courier-Journal all-state team. Fifteenth regional players following Belcher in the order of votes received were: Floyd McCoy (Inez) and Bill Talant (Maytown) tie; Darrell Luxmore (Martin), Wilbur Preston (Meade Memorial), R. Thompson (Johns Creek), and Kenny Goble (Paintsville). Don Wallen, Wheelwright mentor, was eighth in the balloting for coach of the year honors.

Kelly Coleman, former Wayland all-state eger and now of the Baltimore Bullets, is interested in a high school basketball coaching position, any place in Kentucky.

SPORTS AFIELD

By TED KESTING

The woman who really has fishing instincts, who gets the right outfit and is taught to learn to use it properly, generally seems to show a very strong preference for the tackle says Jason Lucas, Angling Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. There is nothing of bull strength in casting or in playing a fish with it; it's all a matter of developing smooth, flowing rhythm. So it would appeal to women, who, whatever their faults, show none of the bull-in-a-china-shop tendencies that about all of us men at least sometimes do.

What fly rod does a man usually give his wife to learn with? Why, his own old discarded one, so heavy and clumsy, with such bad action, that he'd learned better than to try to use it any more. And then he's very likely to imply that she's pretty dumb not to do good casting with it!

What most men seemingly fail to realize is that the average woman is far weaker physically than the average man—she doesn't have much more than half his strength. So the fly rod just right for the man is almost sure to be just wrong for his wife.

What rod is right for her? One of seven feet six inches, with trout action, should suit her very well, regardless of whether she'll fish for small trout, bluegills or for the heaviest species.

If the woman is unusually small, around five feet, with less strength than average, she'd probably do best with a rod of seven feet, since it would let her cast more steadily without tiring.

Be sure to get nothing but a line of floating type. Almost the sole exception to this, the only place for a sinking line, is bottom fishing for steelhead in deep, heavy, West Coast rivers.

A level line, size C, seems to suit most for wet flies and bass bugs. For trout fishing, its best to get a double-taper HCH. This is meant for dry flies but works as well with wets. It's no good with bass bugs or other large stuff; the long front taper won't straighten properly on a cast.

For smaller wet flies only, a three-diameter (forward taper) with long front taper gives most distance. But a three-diameter should have a short front taper for bass bugs—and this will cast wet flies practically as far as the short-taper one, but isn't so good for dry flies. Get either type in GBF. Unless you mean to use dry flies a line of this last type is best for all-round use.

I need say little about the reel. Get a single-action, which is much lighter than an automatic, and which most experts prefer anyhow. Just be sure it's able to hold all your line without damaging it.

All good citizens agree that forest fires are a shameful waste, a national disgrace. Yet nine out of 10 are caused by someone's carelessness—someone who at other times is a law-abiding citizen. A cigarette tossed from a car window... an abandoned campfire... a trash fire that gets out of control...

There is tragedy enough in the forests and range lands destroyed. But forest fires do more than kill today's trees. They consume the little seedlings which would have been tomorrow's forests.

Our forests and woodlands are a priceless heritage. What heritage are you going to leave your grandchildren? Black, burned-over wastelands?

So please be careful this summer. Help protect tomorrow's forests for your grandchildren as well as today's timber for yourself.

MAYNARDS PIONEERED JOHNS-CR. WILDERNESS

BY R. B. MAYNARD

Some interesting Medieval history is revived as the Maynard generation is traced back to the conquest of England by William the Conqueror in the year of 1066. In the early 900's the Vikings or Norsemen, invaded France and colonized what is known as Normandy. In the year of 1066, William, Duke of Normandy known as William the Conqueror, crossed the English Channel with his Norman army and conquered England at the Battle of Hastings. As King, he ordered a census taken of all England, which was recorded in the famous Domesday Book. A few years ago, Winifred and Madge Maynard, made a trip to England and found in this book or an official copy of it, where the Maynards came into England with William the Conqueror. The older set of Maynards had the bold rugged features of the Vikings.

Late findings, among old records, show that William James Maynard came from England to Pennsylvania about 1750, then went to Hillsboro, North Carolina. Among his sons were Moses, Christopher Columbus, David, James, William and perhaps an Isaac. All these sons came to Pike county, Kentucky, as pioneers. This is verified by the census and marriage records of Pike and Floyd counties.

William James Maynard married Jennie Greenstreet. She migrated with her son, Christopher Columbus Maynard, in 1785, and settled on the Brushy Fork of Johns Creek, on what is now known as the J. M. Lowe farm in Pike county. She was buried on the point back of their wilderness home in 1847; her tombstone shows the date of her burial in what is now known as the Scott cemetery.

This Christopher Columbus Maynard, had two sons, James and Christopher (One Eyed Kitty). The old man Christopher went in later years to Indiana, to visit his brother Moses, and died and was buried there.

James Maynard, son of Christopher Columbus, went back to North Carolina, and married Rebecca Chapel in 1806. He went to housekeeping on Johns Creek between a cliff and a large rock that had broken loose and slid down the hill about fifteen feet. He enclosed each end of the gap with logs leaving a door in one end and covered it with riven boards. The first white child born on Brushy Creek, Christopher (Kit), was born in this crude home.

Only a few years ago, smoke signs could yet be seen on the face of the cliff and in working the county road that led through between the cliff and the rock, red burned dirt was recently uncovered where they kept a fire. This home was located immediately above where the county road now crosses Spunkum Branch and down the hill a few yards from where the Apple Orchard church now stands. The next year they built a two-story log house farther up the creek about 500 yards and moved into it. The Apple Orchard church of Regular Baptists was organized in this home in the year of 1858. James and Rebecca were the ancestors of a large generation, of whom the author of this sketch is one.

Christopher (One Eyed Kitty), son of Christopher, Sr., married Isabel Williamson, daughter of Benjamin Williamson, October 15, 1815. He later moved to Martin county, Kentucky, and patented a large tract of land. He too, is the ancestor of a large generation. Madge and Winifred Maynard, mentioned in the beginning of this article as helping to gather Maynard genealogical information, are his great-great granddaughters.

To go back to Christopher Columbus Maynard's other brothers—Moses Maynard, son of William James Maynard, married Sarah Greenstreet, and moved to the mouth of Raccoon Creek, sometime before 1823. Later he moved to Pond Creek and lived for some time on what is locally known as the John Taylor farm, below Stone, Kentucky, and then moved to Madison county, Indiana.

An article in the Louisville Courier-Journal, June 26, 1874, and on file in the Library of the University of Kentucky, describes an interview by one of their reporters with Moses Maynard, of Madison county, Indiana. In this review, Mose gives a brief history of his father, himself, his children and some of his relatives. He told the reporter that, while in North Carolina, British soldiers whipped his father because he wouldn't tell where Moses' brother was located. His brother, he stated, was a Colonial soldier under Washington. He didn't give his brother's name but it must have been Christopher Columbus Maynard, according to well-respected tradition among his branch of the Maynard family, was a soldier under Washington.

Mose, in this interview, stated that his children were: William, Julia, Betty, Richard, James, Jeney (Jenny), Barnabus, Christopher, John, Charity and Susie. Most of these stayed in Kentucky.

David Maynard, a son of William James Maynard, also came to Pike county and settled on the Burning Fork of Raccoon Creek. He was the foreparent of a large generation, many of whom live on Raccoon Creek today.

David Maynard was born in 1783, died at Zebulon, Kentucky, in 1881, and was buried just back of Highway 119, up from a concrete wall, across from the mouth of Burning Fork.

This the Maynards must have, as compared with early history, made the first permanent settlement in the Big Sandy valley. Harmon's Station near the mouth of Johns Creek, was built earlier, but was burned down by the Indians. According to a history of this section by Henry P. Sealf, the Leslies had settled at the mouth of Sycamore Fork of Johns Creek, about 1790. And the Maynards were surely just across the mountain, on the Brushy Fork of Johns Creek a few years ahead of them.

According to reliable information, as handed down from father to son, among Christopher Columbus Maynard's generation, James, Christopher's oldest son, was 12 years of age when they settled on Brushy Creek. The 1850 census of Pike county, shows that James was, at that time, 77 years of age. This would make the date of their settlement at 1785.

More Loan Fund Millions To Help College Students

Thousands of bright but broke young people are discovering that they can go to college on borrowed money, writes Don Wharton in an April Reader's Digest article, "New Ways to Finance a College Education." He describes it as one of the most far-reaching educational developments of our times.

Borrowing for higher education has grown from 13 million dollars in 1956 to an estimated 230 million dollars last year. In Indiana, the total lending to students was only $270,000 in 1956; last year it was more than three million dollars. Harvard lent $15,000 in 1947 to be repaid after graduation; this year the amount will be close to $500,000. Dr. W. W. Hill, Jr., of the College Life Insurance Co., predicts that in a decade the annual borrowing for higher education will exceed a billion dollars.

Under the 1958 National Defense Education Act, more than $70,000,000 has already been turned over to some 1300 colleges to lend to students. Since each college must put up $1 of its own funds for each $9 it gets from the government, 78 million dollars has been available from this source.

In 1956 Massachusetts created the Massachusetts Higher Education Assistance Corp., to which business corporations, individual and foundations have made substantial contributions. These funds guarantee 80 per cent of each loan made by a bank to a college student. By last December, 6,877 students had borrowed $4,175,000 from some 130 banks to attend more than 360 colleges.

A similar fund set up in New York state in 1958 has guaranteed 17,623 loans for a total of almost 11 million dollars. Maine and Rhode Island also have such funds, and enabling legislation has been enacted in Connecticut, Virginia, New Jersey and Indiana.

North Dakota makes loans to its high-school graduates attending colleges in that state; medical students may borrow a total of $5,000, other students $500 a year.

Mrs. Fred Hall was asked by Mrs. Ray Souleyrette, Floyd County Cancer chairman, to collect money in the three communities. Clubmembers voted to assist in the drive.

An invitation from the Drift Woman's Club was read by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Fred Hall, inviting the club for a dinner meeting April 18, with Mrs. Adron Doran, of Morehead, as guest speaker.

The officers presented by the nominating committee for the 1961-62 club year are: Mrs. Glenn Pack, president; Mrs. George Evans, vice-president; Mrs. Charles Hornsby, recording secretary; Mrs. Fred Hall, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Earl Castle, treasurer. The club voted unanimously for these officers.

JONES IS P.T.A. SPEAKER
The regular monthly meeting of the P.T.A. was held at the Ligon elementary school, March 13. The meeting was called by Mrs. Audrey Newsome, president, who introduced Roland Jones, guest speaker. Mr. Jones is a bookmobile driver. Through the combined efforts of Robert J. Funds will be expended from the P.T.A. treasury to purchase materials to make shelves for the library. When the meeting was opened for suggestions for raising P.T.A. funds, the motion was made to conduct weekly book parties. This motion passed and the first party was held on March 18.

Surplus food has been donated to the school to aid needy children who are unable to buy either their lunch or to bring it with them to school from home. The members agreed that the P.T.A. should purchase a hot plate on which to cook the food. The food will be prepared by volunteers from the P.T.A.

ATKINSON FAMILY

A manuscript in the possession of Mrs. Ruth D. Sowards, Prestonsburg, offers much information on the origins of the Atkinson family. The manuscript appears to be a copy, made by Eleanor B. Clay and Mrs. Sowards, of the original.

It follows:

"Thomas Atkinson's father and mother came from Ireland about 1753 or 1755, settled in Western Pennsylvania. Thomas was nine months old when he landed in America and had one sister, Patic. She is the only known relative.

"Thomas married Mary Ann Cracraft, of Red Stone Township, Fayette county, Pennsylvania. One of the first settlers in this township was George Cracraft and family. He came from Germany, had four sons and several daughters. Thomas and Mary Ann moved to Flat Creek in Virginia Territory (sic), later named Fayette county, one of the three original counties of Kentucky, later divided so that their home was in Bourbon county, that was divided and became Montgomery county and in 1811 Bath county was formed.

"Thomas Atkinson, owned two pieces of property, 200 acres and 182 1/2 acres. The 182 1/2 acres were deeded to him on the 7th of October, 1818, by Wilber Smith.

"John, their son, purchased all of this land except the widow's dower of 51 acres from the heirs. He made this purchase on January 22, 1820, for $600. The widow lived in an old house on the 51 acres with a slave girl her husband left her. She later lived in a room in her son John's yard.

"The Hughes Atkinson family of Owingsville, Kentucky, has this record. I copied from their records. They have a tomahawk that belonged to John Atkinson. It was understood John was captured by the Indians and adopted by a squaw when he was 15 or 16 years old. They finally gained enough confidence to allow him to hunt alone for days at a time and in this way he finally made his escape, reaching home safely, bringing his tomahawk with him. It has the initials 'F. S.' in gold letters on it. It must be either French or English in origin.

"The Atkinsons lived on Flat Creek in the Springfield neighborhood on land now owned by the Bigstaff heirs. George Hamilton and Mr. Lyons' grandmother, Mary Ann Cracraft Atkinson, had a silver hook and eye that the Atkinsons had which she wore on a scarlet cape.

An addendum to the manuscript is titled, "Tombstone Inscriptions in the Springfield Graveyard on Flat Creek, Bath county, Kentucky."

This genealogical information, gleaned from the ancient stones, follows:

John Atkinson, born February 5, 1788; died December 16, 1840. Sarah Atkinson, wife of John, born December 13, 1790; died April 5, 1853. Mary Ann Cracraft, wife of Thomas Atkinson, born May 24, 1760; died May 16, 1844.

Lucy, wife of William Sanford, born April 28, 1796; died December 9, 1851. William S. Atkinson, born May 1, 1800; died February 10, 1868. James S. Atkinson, born March 12, 1834; died April 30, 1864. Thomas Jefferson Atkinson, born November 4, 1814; died October 5, 1886.

Sarah E. Atkinson, born April 27, 1868; died April 18, 1869. Alice B. Atkinson, born September 1, 1872; died August 1, 1875. Thomas Atkinson, born March 18, 1754, died April 11, 1812.

IT TAKES MORE THAN COURAGE TO START ALL OVER

Where can you turn when everything you've known is gone? Disaster has come to you. It was always someone else before. But now it's you.

It takes all the strength a human being can muster to face the awful things a flood, an earthquake, a hurricane or tornado bring. And it takes more than courage to start all over.

It takes organization. It takes supplies.

It takes people prepared to go into action quickly. It takes great willingness of heart. It takes someone who cares.

Red Cross is all of these things. It's your hand reaching out to help, when you can't be there yourself.

Keep Red Cross strong to serve. Your help and every American's help is needed. This year, please be generous.
