

THURSDAY

PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

APRIL 20, 1961

This Town-- That World

The sun shines bright on our old Kentucky home -- when it isn't cloudy.

Imagine an income tax deadline while the snow is yet flying!

WHERE WERE THE NICE FOLKS?

The movies have confirmed the adage, "Virtue is its own reward." The Oscar awards this year went to Liz Taylor who played the role of a call girl; Burt Lancaster, who enacted the role of a libertine who acted as a preacher, and Shirley Jones who appeared with Lancaster as "Elmer Gantry" as a hardboiled saint.

Let's wonder what Hollywood is coming to, let the great American public take a look at itself and then do its wondering. Hollywood enters to the public and its appetites. And what an appetite! -- only for those movies which portray the seamstress side of life, only those books which use short, lively words and portray life as revolving around sex.

Indeed the fellow who said this will be known as the Age of Shoddyism spake a mouthful.

IN JERUSALEM

Only now is being completed what might well be called The Irony of the Ages. The story began almost 2,000 years ago when Jesus Christ, who came in mercy to save, was tried, convicted and crucified within a period of about 12 hours. Now, in the same city, Jerusalem, a man named Adolf Eichmann, who tortured and killed, or caused to be killed, hundreds of thousands of human beings, is on trial, full-dress trial, attorneys, witnesses and all, with every safeguard being taken to see that this criminal will get a fair hearing. And the Jewish tribunal this time will require months, not hours, to reach a verdict. (See Story No. 4, Page 6)

FLOYD STUDENTS WIN MUSIC FEST RATINGS

Special to The Times

Pikeville, Ky., April 17 (Spl.) -- Students from half a dozen Floyd county high schools won high ratings last week at Pikeville College in the largest Pikeville regional music festival ever held.

Some 1,400 high school students from five Eastern Kentucky counties took part in the festival, which continued from Wednesday evening till Saturday. Around 700 students made up the 22 choruses which performed for the judges, and the 15 bands included 650, with a few duplications, it was said.

Saturday's closing concert featured the largest all-festival band and all-festival chorus ever organized here, with more than 150 in the massed band and more than 120 in the combined chorus.

Solo performances by 13 Floyd county students earned the cherished "division I" rating in various events, and the highest mark went also to 15 groups which together total 324. The largest groups which placed in Division I were Wheelwright's 65-piece band, Maytown's chorus of 26 boys, and Prestonsburg's 31-voice girls' choir, 80-girl chorus, and mixed chorus of 75 voices.

The second rating, Division II, was won by 25 solos by Floyd county students and 26 groups of Floyd counties totaling 615. Rated in this group were Maytown's girls' chorus; mixed choruses from McDowell, Wheelwright, Maytown, Betsy Layne and Martin and from McDowell junior high school, and the Betsy Layne, Maytown and Prestonsburg bands.

NEW FORMULA TO CUT FLOYD FUNDS, BELIEF

THIS COUNTY, CLAY LISTED AS FAVORED

Combs, Ward Announce New Rural Road Funds Apportionment System

Governor Bert Combs and Highway Commissioner Henry Ward last week announced a new formula for the allotment of rural road funds, the result of which is viewed as meaning to Floyd county a cut in the funds previously allotted by the present state administration.

Floyd and Clay counties have been cited recently by The Louisville Times and The Courier-Journal as having been highly favored by the Combs administration, and Rural Highway Commissioner T. R. Marcum, of Clay county, has been under fire.

Future allotments will be made on this formula:

After division of one fifth of available funds equally among the 120 counties, one fifth will be distributed on a basis of rural population of the various counties, one fifth on a basis of rural-road mileage, and two fifths on a basis of rural area.

The following is, in part, the story written by Klye Vance for The Courier-Journal after the new apportionment system was announced in Frankfort:

Combs and Ward also released tables which show how political favoritism has been the overriding factor in allotting money to the counties during four years of (See Story No. 5, Page 2)

SURVEY TEAM VIEWS NEEDS

Of Floyd School System; Proposed Building Plans Studied by 3-Man Group

The survey team of the Department of Education, Frankfort, which arrived here Monday completed its look at building needs in the county school system Wednesday. The team and several advisers held a conference that afternoon at the office of the county superintendent of schools to discuss their findings.

Representing the Department of Education on the team were Gene Gentry, department supervisor of Floyd and Pike counties; Gene Adkins, of the Division of Buildings and Grounds, and Earl Adams, area supervisor. Touring with the team were Superintendent Charles F. Clark, Wayne Radloff, Herbert Proter, Joe Perrino, W. J. Reynolds, Jr., Paris Johnson and Board Chairman Ray Howard.

The team will make recommendations soon, it is said. To arrive at final conclusions on the consolidation and building needs of the county, the three-man group will study enrollment trends, transportation facilities, population shifts, present facilities and a long-range economic view of the county.

The team was invited here several months ago by Superintendent Clark and asked to bring a 1953 survey up to date. The Board of Education proposed a few weeks ago a county-wide building program.

Monday, the group with several in attendance, reviewed statistical and other information in the office of the superintendent and Tuesday toured the Middle Creek and Right Beaver Creek sections. Wednesday, the team viewed the needs of Left Beaver Creek, Big Mud Creek and the river section.

It is said there will be no indication of the team's findings until it has studied all available information.

The team held a radio panel discussion Wednesday morning with local educators and others interested in the educational program.

WOMAN GETS 2-YEAR TERM

Mrs. Slone Is Convicted In Slaying of Husband; Hall Draws Five Years

The first of three murder trials scheduled for the current term of the Floyd circuit court ended last Thursday in the conviction of Mrs. Cora Ratliff Slone in the fatal shooting of her husband, Allen Slone, at their home a few miles from here. The jury set her term at two years.

Mrs. Slone has asked for a new trial, and, failing that, will seek from the Court of Appeals a reversal of the verdict.

Also convicted last week was Noah Hall, Jr., who was given a five-year term upon his conviction on a voluntary manslaughter charge in the fatal injury by his car of eight-year-old Douglas Newsome at Teaberry.

The Commonwealth's case against Mrs. Slone was based largely on the testimony of James Slone, son of the slain man, and James Kendrick, each of whom claimed to have received from the wounded man a verbal "deathbed statement" on separate occasions. James Slone testified that the Sunday following the shooting, his father told him that he and Mrs. Slone had argued over other work. (See Story No. 7, Page 6)

Nationally Known Evangelist Coming To Baptist Church

First Convention Held At Cow Creek Church; Officers Are Elected

The Floyd County Singers Association, organized Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ballard Whitaker, of Auxier, held its first convention Sunday at the Cow Creek Free Will Baptist Church.

The organization, first of its kind in the county, plans to serve as a medium to get vocal groups together from different sections. Rev. John Conley, Free Will Baptist minister, Prestonsburg, was named chairman and Kermit Preston, Paintsville, co-chairman.

The group will hold its next convention Saturday evening, May 13, at the Knotley Hollow Free Will Baptist Church. Rev. Conley and the other officers are urging all vocal groups in the area to attend. Groups from all denominations are invited.

Elected to the business committee at the organizational meeting were Paris Goble, Russell Blackburn, Brazton Thompson, Charles Named registrars and receptionists are Delores Harris, of Auxier, and Jeff Wells and Paul Daniels. Terry Lynn Blackburn, of Emma, George Reynolds, of Auxier, was selected as treasurer.

The business committee will hold its first meeting at Auxier, May 5, it was said.

CLEAN COUNTY DRIVE STARTS

Allen Meeting Discusses Garbage Disposal, Waste Collections In Floyd

Although cold, rainy weather, with some snow mixed in, reduced outdoor work to a minimum and delayed the full-scale clean-up work scheduled in Prestonsburg and other Floyd communities, a start was made Saturday and during succeeding days the work continued when possible.

The drive will continue till May 15.

Further planning of the county-wide campaign was made at a meeting held at Allen last Thursday night, with every area of the county represented except Auxier. Disposal of garbage and other waste collections was considered a necessity if the county is to do an effective cleanup job, and a committee was named to look into possible sites for dumps.

The dumps would be similar to those used by Prestonsburg and Drift, with waste dumped into pits which would be periodically covered over. County Judge Henry Stumbo told the gathering machinery would be made available for excavation of pits and building access roads to the sites.

The committee named by Mrs. W. L. Reed, county cleanup chairman, is composed of Paul Gearheart, Jack Branham, Charles Hopkins, Ralph Moore, Mrs. Noah Howard, Mrs. L. B. Price, Dave Flanery and Forrest Johnson.

Mrs. John P. Sammons, of Martin, and Mrs. R. V. May, of Prestonsburg, told the gathering of plans and work in their respective communities. Others who spoke were Clem Martin, of the county school system, and Mrs. Regina B. Mayo who spoke from the health point of view.

CAUBLE TELLS PLAY EFFECT

Head of Bardstown Play Is Kiwanis Club Speaker; Group Tours Wiley Park

John R. Cauble, general manager of the outdoor drama, Stephen Foster Story, at Bardstown, told the Prestonsburg Kiwanians Thursday evening of last week, of the advantages the town would reap from the presentation of an outdoor play in Jenny Wiley State Park.

Tourists will bring in new money, he said, and bank deposits from local businesses will go up immediately. He said that experience at Bardstown had been increased business for hotels, motels, gasoline service stations, merchants and others.

The proposed drama here, based upon the Indian captivity of Jenny Wiley, would bring fine publicity for the park. The increased number of tourists would materially aid business in the region.

Cauble, Chalmers Fraizer, president of the Jenny Wiley Drama Association, and Edward Music, a member of the board of directors, toured the park before the Kiwanis meeting.

"I am impressed with your park and the facilities here are second to none," he said. He noted the park area would have diversified entertainment -- golfing, boating, skiing, and adjacent to the park will be two fine bowling alleys. "Your set up here is ideal for the successful presentation of a drama," he added.

The meeting was attended by approximately 100 Kiwanians and their guests. Fraizer noted this week that the Association will soon initiate a drive for working capital for the drama. (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

FRIEND OF POWERS FAMILY TELLS OF TRIP TO MOSCOW

Sol Cury, the man who accompanied the parents of Francis Powers from Pound, Va., to Russia for the trial of their fier-son, was guest-speaker at the April 10 meeting of the Beaver Valley Kiwanis Club at Wheelwright.

Cury stressed two things which were not clearly defined in news reports: that Powers did exactly what he was told to do by the State Department in the event that he went down over Russia, and that the Russians did not shoot down the V-2 at 70,000 feet altitude. The plane suffered a flame-out and lost altitude to 30,000 feet, Cury said he learned. Powers had radioed his base that he was ditching the plane.

The speaker said expenses of the trip to Russia were financed by Life Magazine. While in Russia the Powers family and party were housed at one of Moscow's finest hotels, occupying the same suite assigned to Vice President Nixon on his visit there. Mr. Cury said they were treated like royalty. He expressed the opinion that the United States was on trial, rather than Francis Powers.

ADULT PROGRAM HEAD STUDIES CLASSES HERE

C. F. Isham, coordinator of Educational Service Rural Development program of the Department of Education, Frankfort, visited the rapidly burgeoning adult education classes in this county early this month to see for himself what he later described as "one of the best adult programs anywhere."

Isham found classes going at Garrett, Wayland, Prestonsburg high and grade schools, Martin, McDowell and Wheelwright high schools. Approximately 300 students are studying under the direction of certified teachers.

Isham made the tour with Walter Frasure, assistant county superintendent, who is in charge of the local program.

At one school the teacher had asked her "pupils" to write a brief autobiography and explain why they were pursuing education at this late date. One excerpt, shown Isham, was typical of many.

"I am married and the mother of nine children," a woman wrote. I was orphaned at the age of 12 by the death of my mother. I am the oldest of four girls and it was necessary for me to assume the role of mother so I had to discontinue school attendance.

"My main ambition," the student continued, "is to finish high school and go into the field of practical nursing of which I am very fond. I have a very comfortable home but would like to improve it and have better things in life for my children than I had in my childhood."

This urge to improve themselves culturally and materially was reflected in many other autobiographies collected by the teacher.

One elderly woman wrote the fact she did not have a high school diploma was a source of embarrassment to her and she wanted to earn one now.

"Just how much a high school diploma would mean to me now remains to be seen," she wrote, "but the satisfaction and enjoyment of having actually completed high school has in itself an appealing tone."

An elderly miner said that when he quit school in the seventh grade and went to work in the mines was his biggest mistake. Another woman said, "I want to go on and get an education so I can get a job and raise my children."

Classes are now in session each week at Garrett where typing, shorthand and art are taught. Typing and English are taught at Wayland.

Typing seems to be a favorite subject for it is taught with good attendance in classes also at Prestonsburg high school, Martin, McDowell and Wheelwright. (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

JOB DEMANDS CAUSE SUSPENSION OF WORK

Coin Collecting Subject Of New Library Volumes

The coin-collecting fad is reflected in two new books received by the Regional Library here, according to Homer L. Hall, librarian. The volumes, received from Library Extension Division, Frankfort, are "Simplified Guide to Collecting American Paper Money," and "Nails to Nickels--The Story of American Coins."

New books on the Civil War continue to arrive, too. One is "Compact History of the Civil War," suitable for general reading.

USDA STUDIES PLAN EFFECT

Food Stamp Program Impact on Business, Needy's Diet, Surveyed

The effect the food-stamp program of relief to the needy will have on Floyd business and on the diet of relief beneficiaries will be known as the result of a survey now under way in the county and one which will be taken next September to establish a basis of comparison.

The survey began Monday under the supervision of Michael Van Dress, of the marketing division, Agricultural Marketing Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. Spot checks are being made at 52 retail stores in all parts of the county by a survey team of three workers.

All retailers of foodstuffs will be eligible to participate in the food-stamp program, it was pointed out by Mr. Van Dress, but the survey is confined to sampling the volume of food-buying rather than a study of every individual store's business.

Data being accumulated includes the number of customer transactions and the total monetary value of sales, the latter being broken down as to sales in the meat and produce departments. The food-stamp program is scheduled to begin in Floyd, one of the pilot counties in the United States and the only such test county in Kentucky, in June. The team will return in September to make the same study at the same stores, and the comparison of data gathered on the two separate occasions is expected to supply a clear picture of the economic benefits of the stamp system as well as the dietary improvements which should result.

Mr. Van Dress said the cooperation of retailers contacted has been "wonderful."

The stamps will be issued in denominations of 25 cents and $1, it was said last week.

BRIDGE JOBS, ROAD GRADING STOP TUESDAY

150 Job-Seekers Demand Work in Johnson County, Is Report Heard Here

First work on bridges and on the highway itself from Auxier to Van Lear was begun this week, only to be suspended abruptly by threatening actions of Johnson county men demanding employment on the projects.

It was reported here that upwards of 150 men appeared at the site of the bridge to be constructed across the Big Sandy, near Van Lear, and demanded that they be given work.

Mattling Brothers Construction Company, contractor on the overall project, said only six of the men had signed applications for employment. A spokesman for the company added that while it was the policy of the company to hire as many local people as possible, a nucleus of skilled bridge-builders is necessary, and it will be impossible to give everybody jobs.

From this source it was learned that if the men seeking employment refuse to go through regular employment channels and continue to congregate and impede work, a court injunction will be asked.

It was said here that culvert work at the Auxier bridge site and some form work at the Van Lear span location had been begun by Mattling Brothers when the interruption came. Also suspended was grade and drain work begun by the Kentucky Road Oiling Company, sub-contractor. (See Story No. 3, Page 6)

A total of $3,000 has been awarded to customers in the Treasure Chest Project initiated here in October. The Association will continue the project with an award of $100 Saturday afternoon.

The awards have been made continuously since the promotion started. The award on Christmas Eve was for $500. Persons from all sections of the county have been awarded the regular weekly $100, it is noted. Since the project has won such wide acceptance, it is planned to continue it.

the Chandler Administration and the first full year of the Combs Administration.

Each administration has rewarded the home counties of influential state officials, local leaders with Frankfort connections and legislative friends.

Outstanding examples of favoritism during former Governor A. B. Chandler's term are found in the home counties of Lieutenant-Governor Harry Lee Waterfield and Rural Highway Commissioner J. B. Wells.

Equally obvious during the first year of the Combs Administration are the cases of the home counties of Combs himself and his rural-highway commissioner, T. R. Marcum.

Yields $18,000,000
The rural-secondary fund is used to build farm-to-market roads. It is made up of money collected from two cents of the state's 7-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax. The tax yields about $18,000,000 a year.

Neither Chandler nor Combs has given recognition to the counties determined to be most deserving under the formula for distributing a $5,000,000 fund appropriated directly to the counties.

Chandler's top 10, in order, were Johnson, home of Wells; Pike, Hickman, home of Waterfield; Jefferson, Knott, Graves, home of Chandler friend Willie Foster; Warren, Adair, home of Chandler friend Pete Walker; Christian, home of Chandler's champion in the Legislature, State Senator Frank Bassett, and Hardin.

Combs' top 10, in order, are Clay, home of Marcum and native county of Combs; Jefferson, Pike, Logan, home of Agriculture Commissioner Emerson "Doc" Beauchamp; Laurel, Floyd, present home of Combs; Kenton, Knott, Breathitt and Leslie.

As shown, Chandler favored three mountain counties and Combs, a native of the mountains, favors seven.

The tables show that 47 counties are allotted more this year than they received on the average during the four preceding fiscal years of the Chandler Administration.

The 15 biggest gainers are Clay, up $259,055; Logan, $271,531; Laurel, $227,613; Clark, $221,421; Kenton, $203,695; Jefferson, $196,384; Woodford, $184,515; Jessamine, $167,207; Leslie, $162,373; Floyd, $154,150; Breathitt, $153,687; Jackson, $148,842; Knox, $124,596; Rockcastle, $115,866, and Spencer, $106,793.

Smaller allotments are assigned to 73 counties than the average amounts they received from Chandler. The leading 15 are Hickman, down $243,005; Johnson, $177,812; Adair, $128,397; Barren, $125,850; Breckinridge, $115,225; Mason, $114,500; Greenup, $101,002; Bath, $97,123; Fayette, $96,284; Ohio, $94,945; Oldham, $86,315; Henry, $84,597, and Hopkins, $84,208.

Combs took note of the political implications connected with arbitrary distribution.

"Almost invariably," he said, "the person who makes the allocation is charged with favoritism toward his home county or community. . . . The Governor is charged with favoring the section from which he comes. For example, Weatherby (former Governor Lawrence Weatherby) was charged with favoring Jefferson county and Chandler with favoring Woodford county, I am being charged, at least by implication, of favoring Eastern Kentucky."

Awards Defended
Combs defended the bigger awards of the mountain counties, pointing out that they have been designated as depressed areas, they are the biggest counties, and their need for rural highways is among the greatest.

Ward said: "Whether the apportionments have been made (by the Combs Administration) are equitable is a matter of opinion. It is my personal opinion that the Department of Highways under this Administration does not have the obligation to correct all the faults of the past. It cannot compensate for all the inequities of 12 years of this program. By the same token, it cannot justify any new inequities by pointing out mistakes of prior administrations."

Mrs. Milly D. Huff, 39, of Langley, died at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, Thursday of last week. She had been in failing health for two years.

ROBERTA F. FUGATE MAKES STATEMENT

During my campaign for Representative, I have traveled into every area of the 97th Legislative District, visiting with many hundreds of people. As a result of my visits with the wonderful people here I feel that Floyd county and Eastern Kentucky deserve the best.

If you wonderful people here see fit to select me as your Representative, so long as God gives me strength to talk and work, I promise to fight for things beneficial to Floyd county and to strive to abolish those steps taken which are not profitable to us.

The rumors being spread by my opponents that I am withdrawing from the race are FALSE. I cannot sacrifice the confidence and support pledged to me by the hundreds of people here for the promises of a few selfish people who seek revenge and strive for dictatorial power,—among those whom I love and want to live. Give me the opportunity and privilege of striving to make my dreams for a greater Kentucky, especially Floyd county, come true—dreams that will never materialize if our people keep resting our case in the hands of people not capable through qualification, selfish through partiality, unobservant of the necessities for our people, or biased by things that would surely do harm to all of us.

Now I ask you people of the 97th Legislative District to consider my message, because to you people it is most important to have a Representative in Frankfort who is capable of working for your interests and convinced that the people want the best.

- I graduated from Caney Junior College.
- I graduated from Morehead State College.
- I hold an A.B. degree.
- I have 10 years' teaching experience in Floyd county schools.
- I am a member of the Order of Eastern Star.
- I now am Democratic chairwoman of Floyd county.
- Remember, if you care enough, I'll do my very best.

Thank you,
ROBERTA F. FUGATE

Career Shoppers Urged To Seek Army Enlistment

Career-shoppers seeking a profession with unlimited opportunities for advancement should look into the modern Army's program.

Whether young men and women work in leadership and command capacities or in some specialized field, career planning and the Army school program go hand in hand.

Specialist training courses, Non-commissioned Officer Academies, Leadership and Officer Candidate Schools provide for rapid promotion of competent men and women.

Promotions bring pay raises in addition to regular grade increments. Army personnel may also qualify for proficiency, foreign service and hazardous duty pay.

An Army career is a planned career: schooling, promotion, salary increases. For details on your advancement opportunities in the U. S. Army, see your local recruiter at the Postoffice, Prestonsburg.

Automation Alternative Is Stagnation, Camicia Tells Safety Council

"The only alternative to automation is stagnation," N. T. Camicia, vice-president of operations of Island Creek Coal Company, told the West Virginia Safety Council at its meeting in Charleston Tuesday.

Speaking on the subject of automation in the mining industry, Mr. Camicia said, "Stagnation, as contrasted to automation, can only mean the slow but sure death of an industry. The only prevention for stagnation is continual progress. Automation in some form," he said, "has been the source of progress since the world began." Referring specifically to the coal industry, Mr. Camicia added that in the interest of continued improvement in safety, productivity, and profitable survival, automation must remain the prime source of progress.

In reviewing the more recent history of automation in the coal industry, Mr. Camicia stated, "The years prior to 1935 can be called the pick and shovel period, and it was not until the mid-thirties that any major steps were taken by the industry toward automation."

"This development," he continued, "was not an overnight whirlwind, but automation breakthroughs during the past ten years have been at such tempo that today's machinery, regarded by many as the peak of perfection, will probably be obsolete within the next two or three years."

"The coal industry," Mr. Camicia said, "was forced to automate in order to survive. Faced with an 85 per cent increase in basic wages of union miners since 1946, and a decline of more than 15 per cent in market prices since 1948, and the loss of certain markets to oil and gas and imported residual oil, the industry, without automation, would have been bankrupt. Further," he continued, "railroads and other industries supporting the mining, transporting, and distributing of coal would have been laid idle, and the security and welfare of our State and Nation, already threatened because of depressed conditions in coal, would have been in great peril."

Mr. Camicia said, "In addition to the problems confronting the union mines through higher labor costs, welfare fund payments, vacation pay, and shrinking markets, automation is the only means by which the union operations, faced with a basic daily wage of $32 including fringe benefits, can today compete with expanding production from the increasing number of non-union mines."

Spring Council Meet Held by Girl Scouts; Awards Are Presented

Prestonsburg high school cafeteria was the scene of the Girl Scout Spring Council meeting, March 21. Several troop leaders were guests of their districts.

Mrs. Edward Hill, Council president, recognized Mrs. R. V. May, member of Region IV Selections committee and expressed her appreciation for the honor Mrs. May's appointment brought to Girl Scouting.

Among the service awards presented were two fifteen year pins received by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bradbury, Wheelwright, for their long and untiring efforts in the interest of Girl Scouting.

The highest award given in Girl Scouting and presented annually to the individual who has rendered the most outstanding service to Girl Scouting during the year was awarded to Mrs. Minor Pace, Wheelwright, immediate past president of the council. The progress of the council under her leadership was noted and her years of efficient and faithful service were recognized.

Sixty persons attended the dinner representing Williamson, West Virginia, Whitesburg, Pikeville, Wheelwright, Prestonsburg, and Paintsville.

Mrs. Strahan Wound Said Accidental

The bullet, fired from a heavy calibre rifle, struck her in the hip but did not inflict a serious wound.

"When people come in here and note the skills of the people they will know that these are intelligent people with skills that can be utilized in industry," he said. It would lure plant owners, he pointed out.

He discussed the marketing problems of souvenirs. Advocating cheap souvenirs, not high-priced craftsmanship, he said there was a tremendous marketing potential in Kentucky alone.

"The souvenir business in Kentucky warrants every bit of effort we can put into it," he added.

When Equity Is Not Justice

The Louisville Times and The Courier-Journal, apparently tipped off to the fact that a few Mountain counties at last are getting better than an even break from the state administration in its distribution of rural highway funds, have succeeded in getting Governor Combs and Highway Commissioner Ward to develop a new "formula" for rural roads.

This newspaper cannot with either good grace or conscience condemn any move toward more equitable handling of public funds and further elimination of politics from the Department of Highways. Yet we cannot but wonder how Johnson county could benefit by more than a million dollars' worth of rural road-building during four years of the Chandler administration and how the unusual activity there could escape the eagle eyes of the Louisville press.

The formula devised does not take into consideration the fact that mountain roads require thousands of dollars more per mile than roads in Jefferson county, for instance.

It does not consider the hundreds of creeks and hollows in the mountains which have no roads worthy of the name, forgotten, neglected places only now beginning to be remembered, places which may continue to suffer under the new formula, and which have every chance of being forgotten by future state administrations.

It makes no provision for evening the score for those counties whose needs are great, counties which have patiently suffered while others benefited.

Justice is a hard thing to come by after generations of injustices. An equitable, non-political distribution of rural highway funds and all other funds is worth working for, but this cannot, by the very nature of things, work justly for those areas which have never known justice.

STRAWBERRIES Eastern Kentucky is expanding its strawberry acreage this year. Thirteen counties are setting 150 acres. Ten of these counties are planning to sell the majority of the berries to the processing plant to be located in Prestonsburg. The other counties sell on the hunting-market. The counties setting strawberries and the number of plants purchased from the Allen Plant Farm in Maryland are: Elliott, 16,000 plants; Rowan, 63,200; Greenup, 84,200; Lawrence, 27,500; Pike, 25,000; Morgan, 18,400; Mingo, 31,500; Martin, 30,600; Breathitt, 10,500; Knott, 11,000; Letcher, 10,050 and Floyd, 153,050. In addition to the above, many farmers in each county ordered their own plants. The total acreage set will probably be 175 acres.

Floyd county is setting a total of 42 acres. This is short of our goal by 18 acres. Many farmers wanted to wait and see how the others did, before they would set any berries. If everyone had this attitude there would never be anything new tried.

The weather has been against the project for the last three months. Very few growers were able to get the ground prepared and have their berries set. Most growers have their berries set. Most are waiting for favorable weather.

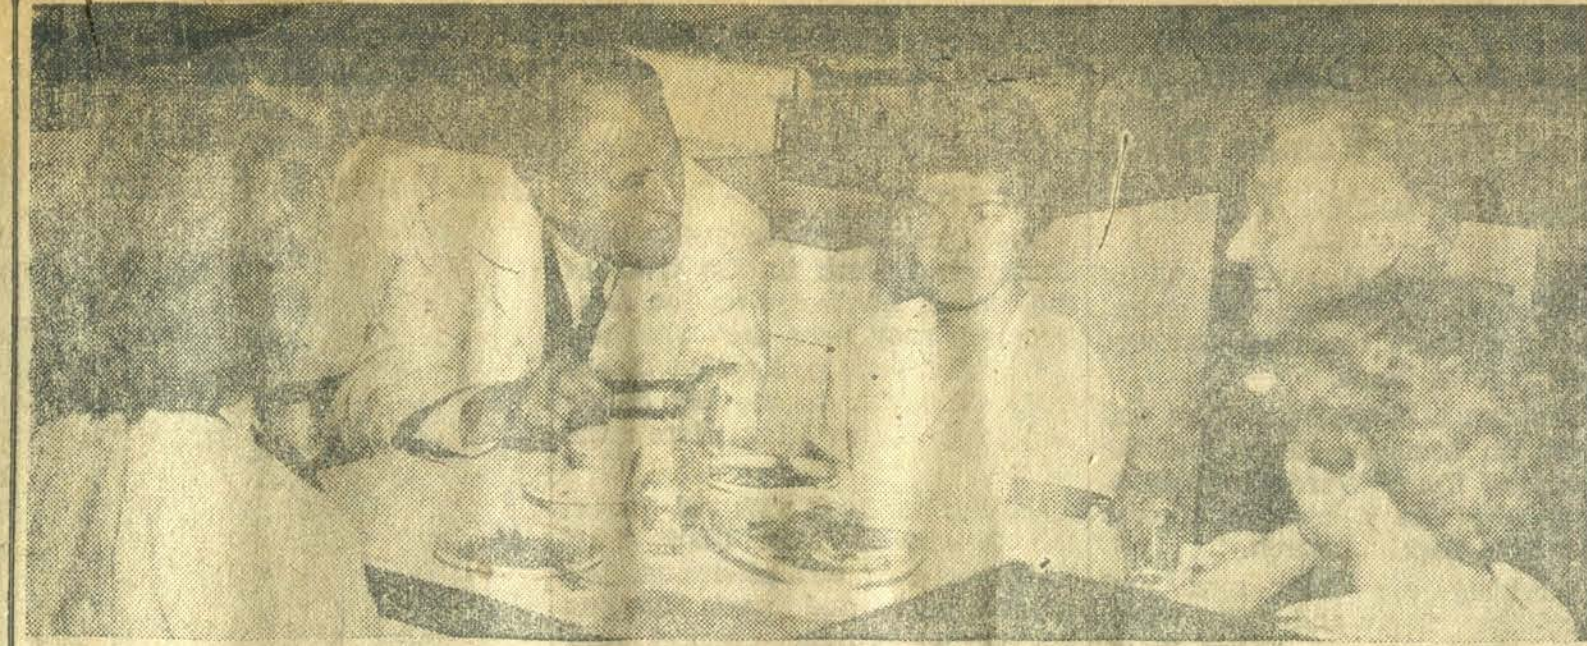

GRAPES The time to control black rot in grapes begins now. A first spray should be put on when new growth is one inch long. A second when the first blooms appear and a third when blooms are finished. A fourth spraying has finished. Ferban, two level tablespoons per gallon of water. There is a trick in mixing Ferban with water. First, thoroughly mix a small amount of water with Ferban, making a smooth paste then add the rest of the water to the Ferban paste.

LAWN WEED CONTROL Seems "there is no rest for the wicked." If we have a lawn we have weeds. The main problem is how to control lawn weeds so we will not have too many of them. First,

FISH STORY

Mrs. Dick Clark was pretty busy fishing last week in the river at the rear of her home on the Auxier road, near here, and what she did confirms my notion that maybe I should return to the Big Sandy and forget these lakes. Here's the story:

Baiting her hook with red worms, the 68-year-old Mrs. Clark "set" her cane pole one afternoon, left it overnight, and next morning landed a 14-inch channel cat. Repeating the procedure that afternoon, she had quite a tussle next morning with a 22-inch channel cat. Re-baiting, she returned to the old fishin' hole next morning, this time hauling out an 18-inch cat-fish.

The next day's catch depended on this 18-incher. She put the fish on a stringer and hooked the stringer over a loop of heavy wire while she fished a bit longer. A noise attracted her attention, and she glanced around just in time to see the end of the stringer edging off the bank into the water. Finally shaking off her disappointment, Mrs. Clark baited her hook and left it to wait as before for a hungry fish.

Next morning, she found the line taut and the pole bending. Then began the maneuvering to land the catch, and land it she did—the cat-fish she had caught the preceding day, with the stringer still in his mouth.

Oh, me! Why don't things such as this happen to me?

Drift Woman's Club Observes Anniversary; Mrs. Doran Is Speaker

The Drift Woman's Club was hostess to a dinner in celebration, April 10, of its 10th anniversary. Mrs. Adron Doran, of Morehead, second vice-president of the Kentucky Federation of Woman's Clubs, Mrs. R. V. May, Prestonsburg, Seventh district governor, and members of the Garrett-Lackey-Wayland and Allen-Martin Woman's Clubs were guests.

Mrs. May introduced Mrs. Doran, speaker of the evening. Mrs. Doran, a talented musician and widely known social and civic leader, spoke on "Women in a Democracy."

"Today's woman," she declared, "should make the most of her age-old duty to be attractive, interesting and of value to others. Charm and Federation are sound investments. . . If we are not fortunate enough to be reared in an atmosphere of affluence, intellect and attainment, we must learn to create an admiration of culture in order that our children may enjoy better and greater things than we have been privileged to have."

Mrs. Rebecca Reed presided at the meeting. At the speaker's table the centerpiece consisted of a large decorated cake with 10 red candles. Red carnations carried out the Club's colors. The present president, Mrs. Reed, presented carnation corsages to the past presidents, Mrs. Helen Ankrom, Miss Ruby Akers, Mrs. Anna Sue Stumbo and Mrs. Ann Showers.

Mrs. Ankrom, first president of the Club, gave a brief history of the club, mentioning a few of the major projects—the Youth Center, the vitamin program in Drift and McDowell schools, community improvement, the clean-up campaign, Career Day and many others that have been rewarding and made possible by the cooperation of the people in Drift and McDowell.

Another highlight of the meeting was the greeting of the following charter members: Miss Ruby Akers, Mrs. Helen Ankrom, Mrs. Sophia Cahill, Mrs. Audrey Hall, Mrs. Peg Hewlett, Mrs. Mary Martin, Mrs. Reba Martin, Mrs. Violet Moore, Mrs. Ann Showers, Mrs. Anna Sue Stumbo, Mrs. Vada Reed and Mrs. Rebecca Reed. Members and guests were: Mrs. Chadie Cochran, Mrs. Cecilia Little, Mrs. Nora Martin, Mrs. Sally Miller, Mrs. Maxine Reitz, Mrs. Irene Turner, Mrs. Nannie Hall and Mrs. Belle Turner.

men, that Mrs. Slone was jealous. He quoted his father as saying Mrs. Slone gained possession of his gun to prevent him from leaving and that as he sat in the bedroom of their home, putting on his shoes, she shot him. Kendrick's testimony was of the same pattern.

Kendrick and his wife and James Slone also told of stopping at the Allen Slone home, prior to the shooting, and of finding Allen Slone's clothing packed and of hearing Mrs. Slone say she would kill him if he did not change his ways.

Mrs. Slone contended the bullet which struck her husband was accidentally fired. She testified her husband became critical of her after hearing her talk to a woman who stopped to buy a pack of cigarettes after they had locked up their place for the day. When he began dressing to go out, she said she got his gun, knowing he would not leave unarmed. When he asked for the weapon and was refused it, she said, he picked up a Boy Scout axe, backed her up to the upstairs room of the home which opens onto a stairway, then threw the axe, striking her on her mouth. Mrs. Slone added that he followed her, that they tussled for possession of the gun and that it was accidentally discharged.

Two shots were fired, one bullet taking effect in Slone's body.

The defense pointed out that the marks of bullets were in the sun room of the house, not in the bedroom where the Commonwealth testimony claimed Slone sat when the shooting took place. It also pointed out that both Commonwealth's Attorney Hollie Conley and County Attorney Robert S. Wellman had sought to procure from the wounded man a statement relating to the shooting but failed.

Mrs. Slone said, following the trial, that she wants to submit to a lie detector test and that she would challenge Slone and Kendrick to take the same test.

In the trial of Hall in the death of the Newsome boy Commonwealth testimony claimed Hall was drunk at the time and was under the influence of alcohol when taken to a hospital after the tragedy. Testimony that he had run two others off the road, shortly before the child was hit, was heard. This testimony said the boy was playing, nine feet off the blacktop, when hit.

Hall admitted he had had two drinks early in the morning. The boy was hit, late in the afternoon. He said his car "shimmied," and that something went wrong with the mechanism.

Three others have been convicted within the week: Harrison Reed, breaking and entering, one year; Herbert Lewis, drunkenness, $10 fine and costs; James Justice, carrying a concealed deadly weapon, two years on his plea of guilty.

Paul Mullett won an acquittal on his trial on a charge of carrying a concealed deadly weapon. The same verdict was given at conclusion of the trial of James and Edmond Watkins on a charge of cruelty to an animal, and of Dayton Joseph on a charge of possessing intoxicating beverages for the purpose of sale.

The child desertion trial of Tommy Burke resulted in a "hung" jury. The one-year term given Arnie Meade for attempted arson was probated.

According to UK's Registrar's office, the University has awarded 35,476 degrees since its founding in 1865.

Get Floyd County Moving Ahead!

COUNTY ATTORNEY

When I announced my candidacy for County Attorney, I did so with the thought in mind that I want to do the best job I can to help Floyd county and its people.

I was born and reared in Floyd county. I have lived here all my life and want to see Floyd county get its fair share of the things that make for progress.

I have an abiding faith in the future of Floyd county and want to see it move ahead. I feel this can be done by hard work, active leadership and friendly co-operation.

The County Attorney's office is a most important position in getting this job done. The County Attorney must help get better roads, better schools, provide for better law enforcement, keep the fiscal affairs in balance, and help the people by giving friendly, sound advice on their many problems. This can be done, it must!

I promise you that when elected I will give my full measure of effort in making you a friendly, active, hard-working County Attorney. I ask for your vote and support. Together we can get Floyd county moving ahead in the right direction.

INSIDE THE GATE
I wonder if they rang the bells For her inside the gate And if the angels rushed to tell The many friends who wait. Were they anxious that she see The shining Jasper wall, The golden streets, the crystal stream, The splendor of it all?

I wonder if she has received Her mansion and reward And if her voice already blends In praises to her Lord. Or if they gently bade her rest Beside a golden stair, Knowing she would think it best To wait till we are there.

Our Survival Depends On Preparedness, Said

How safe are we from enemy attack?

Officials of the Office of Civil Defense Mobilization say that in the event of an atomic attack our survival will depend on the extent of our preparedness as a nation—and as individuals. The Southern Bell Telephone Company, which plays a major role in civil defense through communications, is now attempting to help employees survive at home, according to Byron Simpson, manager for the telephone company here.

Mr. Simpson says all telephone company employees here, as well as throughout the state, have been given a complete "family and home survival kit" by the company. While officials at Southern Bell believe we are much safer than most people think, they firmly believe that the best defense against a sneak attack is preparedness.

Southern Bell officials believe that all industry should shoulder part of the burden of civil defense by setting up its own mutual aid plan. In cooperation with civil defense authorities, the telephone company has taken the lead in establishment of an aid pack for its employees and their families. Simpson pointed out that in any disaster plan it is necessary that everyone knows exactly what is expected of him during the emergency.

CLUB INSTALLS OFFICERS

The David Woman's Club held its April meeting at the clubhouse, April 14. This was the annual installation dinner meeting.

A buffet dinner was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Ora Howard, Mrs. Pete Capell, Mrs. Otis Bussey and Mrs. Virgil Howard.

Guests for the evening were Mrs. R. V. May and Mrs. Burl Spurlock of Prestonsburg. After dinner, Mrs. May spoke on the Federation of Women's Clubs. She mentioned several worthwhile projects of local and neighboring clubs in the Seventh district.

Mrs. May then installed the following officers: Mrs. Courtland Dahlin, president; Mrs. James Camicia, first vice-president; Mrs. Francis Harmon, second vice-president; Mrs. Bill May, recording secretary, and Mrs. Odell Cavins, corresponding secretary.

Following the installation ceremony, there was a short business meeting. Plans were made for sending delegates to the state convention in Louisville in May.

The Kentucky Heart Association says that three out of four persons who recover from a first heart attack are able to return to work.

Kentucky Life Museum Seeks Antique Tools; Expect Many Tourists

Did any of your ancestors use a cooper's or a shipwright's adze? Were any "practicing" cobblers, harnessmakers or printers?

If so, you may be of help to the University of Kentucky's Kentucky Life Museum. It is called Wave-land and is on the Higbee Mill pike in Lexington.

Here's how, says Floyd County Agent Robert Jones: The museum is expanding its exhibit space and needs antique tools (especially homemade) and articles for the new sections.

The adzes, for instance, are needed for an exhibit workshop area. Also sought are a carpenter's bench (antique), and benches used by harnessmakers and cobblers. All these items should be from the early Kentucky period.

The museum needs, too, furniture and utensils typical of that used by slaves in plantation slave quarters. One of the "new" sections to be opened is a slave-quarter room, says Dr. Hamilton Tapp, director.

Rare antique farm implements of any type are sought, too. And he is particularly interested in getting any items used in early Kentucky print shops. The museum has an antique press.

Two china dolls representative of Kentucky before the war are prime items on the acquisition ledger, Jones says. The museum is willing to accept such dolls on loan if the donor so desires.

The museum also is expanding its military relics room.

Heart and blood vessel diseases account for the loss of nearly 70,000,000 work days yearly by American labor.

Maggard-Carothers Vows Said

The marriage of Charlotte Annie Maggard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Arnold Maggard, of Lexington, and James Harry Carothers, Jr., Lexington, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Harry Carothers, Sr., Nashville, Tennessee, was solemnized at 2:30 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, April 8, in the Park Methodist Church. The Rev. C. Nevil White officiated at the double-blessing ceremony, and a program of wedding music was presented by John Collins, organist.

The bride wore a full-length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle made with a scalloped sweetheart neckline, long pointed sleeves and empire waist line. Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a Swiss crown. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid and stephanotis.

Mrs. Herman Butler was matron-of-honor. She wore a violet silk organza sheath with an over-skirt of matching material. Her head-dress was of violet nylon tulle. The bridesmaids were Doris Ann Maggard and Linda Sue Maggard, sisters of the bride, who wore similar frocks of orchid silk organza. They carried French bouquets of roses and carnations.

Linda Gail Goad, cousin of the groom, was the flower girl. She wore a full-skirted dress of orchid silk organza and carried a basket of rose petals topped by a nosegay of rosebuds.

Richard Dean Maggard, brother of the bride, was the ringbearer. Serving as best man was Davey Whitmore, Nashville, Tennessee.

The guests were seated by Paul Nelson Maggard and Larry Maggard, brothers of the bride, Jerry Gale Bridges, Lexington, Fred Zapp, Jr., Nashville, Jerry Baxter, Nashville, and Billy Dean Stanley, Bowling Green.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the church parlor.

After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will live at 1665 Maywick Drive, Lexington.

The bride is a graduate of Bowling Green College of Commerce and is an accountant at the University of Kentucky.

The groom is also a graduate of Bowling Green College of Commerce and is employed as an auditor for the Kentucky Department of Revenue, Frankfort.

Social Security Laws Explained by Morris; More Earnings Allowed

Starting with this year, a person can earn more money and still be paid some social security benefits, according to James A. Morris, field representative of the Pikeville Social Security office.

There is no change in the part of the law allowing a person to receive all 12 of his monthly benefits if he earns $1,200 or less during that year. The change in the law has to do with earnings over $1,200 a year. For that first $300 of earnings over $1,200 the total family benefits for the year are reduced by $1 for each $2 of earnings. For every $1 of earnings over $1,500 for the year, the total family benefits for the year are reduced by $1. However, regardless of the total earnings during the year, benefits are payable for any month in which the person does not render substantial services as a self-employed person. Also, the full monthly benefits are payable starting with the month in which the wage or self-employed person is age 72 regardless of the earnings.

An example might illustrate the new provisions. A man under age 72 and his wife are eligible for $165 per month old-age insurance benefits or a yearly total of $1,980. The man works eight months during 1961 for $250 per month, for total earnings during the year of $2,000. For the first $300 of earnings over the $1,200, benefits to the man and wife of $150 would not be payable. For the earnings over $1,500, another $500 in benefits would not be payable. Therefore, even though the man earned $2,000 during the year, he and his wife would still be eligible for $1,330 in social security benefits. Under the law in effect before 1961, only $660 in benefits would have been payable in this case.

Should anyone have questions about this phase of the social security program, it is suggested that they contact the Pikeville Social Security office, at Second and Division streets, Pikeville.

ALL LIFE IS DEPENDENT UPON SIX INCHES OF EARTH!

The land we live on is covered by six inches of rich top soil. Without it, all life would cease—Nature's bountiful gifts of water, woodland and farmland become wasteland!

Fire, flood, drought and improper planting can all lead to soil erosion. It is up to each of us to protect against these hazards. Follow the rules of fire safety; aid in flood and water control programs; and if you farm, be sure to follow scientific soil-preservation programs.

A rich, abundant life is stored in the good earth and soil conservation will make Floyd County farms yield more bountifully.

Capital and Surplus, $600,000

Rich, Nutritious Diet Enjoyed by Americans; Grain Surplus Heavy

Lexington, Ky.—We in the U.S.A. enjoy the lowest real food costs—in terms of hours of work required—of any people in the world. And we have one of the richest and most nutritious diets.

How did we achieve this bountiful supply of high quality food? An important factor has been that U. S. farmers have adopted new practices and scientific methods rapidly. For example, at the beginning of the past decade, each farm worker produced enough food, fiber and tobacco to supply himself and 14 other people. By the end of the decade, he produced enough for himself and 23 other people.

Yet farmers have not shared in the benefits of their own productivity. While other incomes have risen, farm incomes have gone down. The American people can eat just so much food and wear just so much clothing—and demand has not kept pace with the farmers' efficiency. Farmers have been coming in for sharp criticism from the general public—largely because of the "surplus problem."

One of the most burdensome of the surpluses is grain. So, as the first step to getting agriculture back on a healthy footing, Congress recently approved an emergency feed grain program. This is a voluntary program designed to help farmers adjust feed grain production to actual needs.

Here's how the program works: Farmers who wish to take part in the program reduce their corn and grain sorghum acreage from the 1959-60 base for these crops. Those who make the reductions will receive payments for diverting the former corn or grain sorghum acreage to conservation uses. They will be paid with Government-owned surplus grain which they can use or sell.

The new feed grain program should cut down the surplus; save money for the taxpayer on surplus grain storage costs; reimburse the farmer for the income he would otherwise lose if he stopped growing these grains; and conserve farm land for future production when it is needed.

Hams labeled "fully-cooked" can be served cold without cooking or reheated—about 10 minutes per pound at 325 degrees to improve flavor. "Cook-before-eating" hams need more cooking before they are served—about 20 minutes per pound at 325 degrees, bringing the internal heat to 160 degrees if a meat thermometer is used.

When someone mentions Rural Electric Co-ops...

what's the first thing you think of?

Let's guess. "Electricity for the farmer is paid for by the government."

Were we right? That's a common conception of rural electricity... and it's also a very wrong one. Rural electricity is not government supported.

1935 Kentucky's rural electric co-ops are completely owned, maintained and managed by their user-members. They were developed about 25 years ago to bring low-cost electric power to rural areas. When the cooperatives were first developed their members borrowed money from the Rural Electrification Administration... money which must be repaid with interest! Rural electric co-ops do not lean on the government for support... they help support the government through the taxes they pay. Rural electric co-ops are among Kentucky's largest privately-owned tax-paying corporations.

Kentucky's farmers originally built their rural cooperatives for one purpose only... to get the electric power they could not buy elsewhere! Out of their cooperation has grown a force powerful enough to keep Kentucky's prosperity growing.

Caney Jr. College Director Speaker at Club Meeting

Pippa Passes, Ky.—Caney Junior College Director William Hayes spoke Monday night to the Wheelwright Women's Club in the Community Hall at Wheelwright on the subject, "Education and the Mountain Youth."

Mr. Hayes said that learning, much or small, is valuable if the life it serves is valuable. In the mountains, education is particularly a blessing because lives have such a willingness to be touched, enlarged, made efficient.

Our society is in some danger, Mr. Hayes believes, of defining education according to a far-off truth it aims at, rather than according to the men and women in which it realizes itself.

"Education is people-soluble; is valuable if it serves the needs of people; is valuable in its countless varieties, because these all serve the needs of real lives," he declared.

Queen Gertrude is played by Sarah Jones, of Hindman; Horatio is James Back, of Blackey.

Other characters are: Poionius, J. C. Ross, of Price; Ophelia, Pauline Deaton, of Fusonia; Laertes, Leonard Gibson, of Maytown; Marcellus and Bernardo, Roger Hughes and Stan Robertson; Players and Grevediggers, John R. Smith, of Littcarr; Sherrill Callahan, of Wayland, and Bradford Handshoe, of Hueysville; Rosencrantz and Guildenstern, Bill Caudill and Alton Cornett, of Blackey. The Ghost of Hamlet's Father is played by Daniel Scott Cornett, of Sassafras.

Paul Hunter, of Mousie, is in charge of the lights; Samuel Slone, Pippa Passes, is the assistant director. The play is directed by James Hunter Herr, instructor of English and Dramatics at Caney Junior College.

The public is invited. There is no charge.

NATURE TRAILS

By RUFUS M. REED

FLYING ANIMALS

There are a few animals that have developed the ability to fly or glide. Some have wings, or wing-like appendages. One of these is the little flying squirrel, which is nature's first parachutist. This squirrel was making jumps from the trees long before man invented the parachute.

The squirrel often makes a parachute jump of over one hundred feet. It leaps far out and down, then makes a sudden glide upwards and lands on a tree. Folds of skin, stretching between its legs, act as a parachute to check its fall and enable it to glide. Unlike the gray squirrel, this tiny animal does its prowling at night.

It is fond of living in hollow beeches, and likes to eat the nuts. It also feeds on acorns, leaf buds, nuts of all kinds, and sometimes it eats bird's eggs. While this is bad, the flying squirrel has some good traits. It will risk its life to save its young ones.

Once I saw a fire in a dead tree, in which a flying squirrel's family lived. When the mother squirrel realized her babies were in great danger of being consumed, she flew to the rescue. She carried them one at a time, holding each in her mouth, while she parachuted to safety. By the time she got to the last one, the stub was a flaming inferno, but she dashed through the fire, grabbed her baby and glided with it to safety. Ever since then, I have had a great admiration for the courage of the flying squirrel. These little animals may often be heard chattering and playing in the trees at night.

A rush of power— in the hush of luxury

Just toe the pedal and off you go. Instantly. Without strain. Swift as a bird. And as the miles fly by, suddenly you sense the luxurious silence of Buick's great new Wildcat V-8. Realize it whispers as softly at expressway speed as it does at 30. Because it's been streamlined—inside and out—to give you more go (but on less gas!). And it's teamed up with a new, trigger-quick Turbine Drive (at no extra cost!) that's smoother and quieter than ever.

But Buick pampers you in other ways, too. With lavish room for heads, shoulders and legs. Wider doors and flatter floors. Deeper, softer seats. Body by Fisher. The elegant Clean Look of Action. Sound like your type? See your Buick Dealer today.

HOMOGENIZED MILK

For most uses, homogenized milk may be used in the same way as milk that has not been homogenized. But, in some cooked dishes, using homogenized milk changes the texture of the food and even the cooking time. Homogenized milk in soups, sauces, gravies, scalloped potatoes, cooked cereals and custards may curdle; and it tends to make cornstarch pudding granular. Using homogenized milk in baked and stirred custards lengthens cooking time by 15 to 20 minutes because it makes a custard that heat penetrates more slowly.

HITCHENS COAL COMPANY

One day early in September, 1908, Alec Hunt, a miner, walked up to the pay window of the Hitchens Coal Company near the present Harold, then Laynesville, and drew his wages for the month of August. He was given a small envelope that contained a state-ment and $40.42 in cash.

He glanced hastily at the num-ber of cars listed. He had loaded 239 one-ton cars at 30 cents per car, totaling $71.70. Listed under this were the deductions: Black-smith, 50 cents, doctor, $1.00, oil, $1.40, powder, $21.00 and store, $7.38. Deductions totaled $31.28, leaving the amount he was being paid.

Back behind that pay slip was the whole month of August in which he had labored to scoop up enough coal to fill 239 cars. The doctor paid was probably Dr. Miller, who died a few years ago in Oregon, or perhaps the late Dr. Steven Loar who also died a few months ago in Oregon. We do not know.

The oil charged to Hunt was actually kerosene that he used in the old type miners' lamp. It held a jill of kerosene and burned with great wreaths of smoke from a big cotton wick. This type of lamp was used by miners until the car-bide lamp was invented.

The statement was found by Carada Hunt, grandson of Alec, in an old trunk and he notes that his grandfather was inclined to talk about the hard work of drill-ing holes in the face of the coal preparatory to blasting it down. Drilling, or "boring" as it was called then, was done with a "breast" augur, with full utiliza-tion of the hands, back and legs. Sometimes you didn't have enough muscles and another miner would back up against you, back to back, and both would push. Thus the helper became known as the "back hand."

The Hitchens Coal Company used mules to pull the loaded cars out of the mines, and blasted the coal down by the now outlawed black or loose powder. Drivers of the mules were usually boys for there were no child labor laws then.

It is now 52 years since Alec Hunt drew his wages on the state-ment found recently by his grandson. A lot of history, social, economic and technological has been written in that half a cen-tury of mining.

JENNY WILEY

A letter from Mrs. Arthur Schafer, 771 N. W. 9th Court, Homestead, Fla., advises that she is a descendant of Mrs. Jenny Wiley. She seeks more informa-tion on her ancestress.

"I am the great-great-great granddaughter of Jenny Wiley, my mother and father both hav-ing descended from Jenny. They are cousins six or seven times re-moved. I have for sometime searched for information con-cerning her but without a great deal of success. . . I have an ac-count written by my mother of the story as it was handed down through each generation but it is void of all dates, and in many cases the locations are vague. I would like to know the dates of her life span, approximate time she was captured."

Mrs. Schafer learned of the project now a-borning here to present a play based on the life of Mrs. Wiley from Hillbilly Mag-azine and an unnamed camping magazine. Mrs. Schafer wrote Jim Comstock, editor of Hillbilly and attached a copy to her letter to this column.

We excerpt from her letter to Comstock:

"My reason for writing: I am the great, great, great grand-daughter of Jenny Wiley, as well as her namesake, and have been engaged in a search for a long time for any and all information

I could gather about her, without a great deal of success. My father, Richard Charles Mitchell, Sr., and my mother, Georgia Ellen Fergu-son Mitchell, are both descended from Jenny Wiley, being cousins about 6 or 7 times removed. Before I was born, mother did quite a lot of research and poetized her research together with the legend of Jenny that had been handed down by word of mouth through each generation. Her treatise be-gins with the immigration of Jen-ny and her family to these shores, her marriage to Thomas Wiley, her capture, her return. There is much contained in the account, but there is also a great deal mis-sing—dates (her life span), loca-tions of her home (I have been told the original homestead is still standing on Walker's Creek in, I believe, McDowell County, but I am not sure of the location.) Being so far removed from West Virginia, I am somewhat handi-capped in my search for informa-tion."

STAPP FAMILY

A follow-up letter from an initial inquiry from Mrs. Elizabeth Wooten, 707 W. Beacon Rd., Lake-land, Fla., give information on her branch of the Stepp family tree.

She is a descendant of Moses Stepp (1735-1855), South Carolina Revolutionary War soldier who died in the present Martin county, Ky. He lies buried on the Pigeon Roost Fork of Wolf Creek, a few miles from Warfield.

Mrs. Wooten's letter is excerpted:

"Aunt Dolly Stepp, daughter of Aaron and Parle Jane Stepp, were helping me with the Stepp genealogy but she died in 1948 and I had given up until I met Joy Sparks, who encouraged me to try again. . . I remember my great-grandmother, Parle Jane Stepp, but am not certain the year she died.

"Aunt Dolly Stepp said her father Aaron was the son of Thomas, who was the son of Moses."

Youth Rally Here Slated Saturday

Youth from the churches of En-terprise Association of Baptists will gather for a rally at Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, Saturday night at 7 o'clock. The program will feature music by Evangelist Elmer Piper who will be preaching in re-vival services at the First Baptist Church, Paintsville, next week and his brother, Evangelist Bill Piper, revivalist at the local Baptist Church next week. An invitation is extended to all youth of the area to attend the rally.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means of expressing our deepest appreciation to our relatives and friends for their many acts of kindness shown to us at the passing of our loving father and husband, Especially do we want to thank the Revs. Roy Benton and Ray White for their words of com-fort and to all who sent flowers and food, and to the Carter & Cal-lahan Funeral Home for its effi-cient service.
