THURSDAY

This Town-- That World

ENJOY WHILE YOU MAY
We're not urging that the whole population take to the highways, leave home and go vagabonding all over, but any person who falls to get out and see the kaleidoscope of beauty that garbs the countryside, these October days, is missing an art exhibit which only the Great Master could paint.

That reminds me of the statement made, a number of years ago, by Irvin S. Cobb, the Kentucky writer and lecturer who added much to the humor of our land, Speaking on Derby eve, Cobb said, "If you haven't been to the Derby, you ain't been nowhere, brother, and you ain't seen nothin'."

THE EPITAPH

It was Cobb who told in his inimitable, woezy, soft-Southern style, a story which has stuck with me all these years. I may have recounted it here before—it becomes increasingly difficult to recall what I have printed or not printed after more than 30 years of this business; so bear with me as I recount it out of the recesses of a fickle memory.

It was the story of a small town doctor, a Dr. Jones. An old fellow who was on the uncouth side in dress and general appearance, who drank some and used language on occasion that wasn't exactly proper. He didn't call on many patients who could pay, for these called a doctor who was more respectable. To him came the down-and-outers, the drunks, the loafers, the outcasts.

These climbed, if they were sober enough, a rickety flight of wooden steps outside a two-story building to reach the doctor's office. The only sign marking his office was a wooden shingle bearing the name of the doctor.

2 FLOYD MEN STUDY PLANS

Fallout Protection Scheduled for Study By Architect-Engineers

Prestonsburg, and Thomas S. Combs, of Langley, are among the Kentucky architect-engineers participating in a program sponsored by the Office of Civilian Defense Mobilization to provide protection to Kentuckians from radiation fallout.

The program, which will be carried out by the U. S. Corps of Army Engineers and the Navy Bureau of Docks and Yards, will send architect-engineers who are specially trained for the undertaking into all parts of the state to search out public fallout shelters with a minimum capacity of 50 persons.

Buildings which can be remodeled, abandoned mines, caves and tunnels will be considered as shelters, Mr. Shannon said here this week. The survey of potential shelters is to be completed by December, 1962. It will cover rural as well as urban areas of the state.

The Floyd county men recently completed a two-day orientation course conducted at Louisville, and will go November 20 to Ft. Belvoir, Virginia, for a two-week training course in radiation shielding analysis of buildings.

Kentucky, it was said, will be divided into 15 areas, each of which will have a population of approximately 200,000.

COMBS, OFFICIAL STAFF SET UP OFFICES HERE

PUBLIC MAY TALK VIEWS DURING DAY

Seat of Government Here for First Time; Luncheon Is Planned

Prestonsburg this morning (Thursday) became the temporary seat of Kentucky government for the first time in its 160-year history as Gov. Bert Combs and staff set up his office here for the day.

Until 4 p.m. Governor Combs not only will make executive decisions and transact the business of state government from his office in the Department of Economic Security building on North Lake Drive but also will meet all visitors for an exchange of views as to needs of the section and the state and methods of meeting such problems.

Governor Combs comes back to Prestonsburg, where he practiced law and served as a city and district official before entering state politics, in a continuance of his program of taking state government to the people, an innovation in the administration of state affairs. It will be the 14th in the series of appearances he began in August, 1960.

Residents of the area may call on the Governor here during the day without prior appointment.

Coming here with him are representatives of at least six departments. Among these are the departments of Economic Security, Highways, Economic Development, Parks, Personnel and Public Information.

The day will not greatly differ from other days in the Governor's routine, except that he will be meeting more people whom he has long known. He will interrupt his schedule to attend a luncheon scheduled in his honor at the Wise Restaurant, near the location of his temporary office.

Governor Combs and staff will fly to a nearby airfield, drive here for the day, then return to Frankfort by plane late this afternoon.

HACKWORTH TO AID ASTRONAUT TRAINING

A Floyd county native will assist in the training of future astronauts at Cape Canaveral, Florida, it was announced recently.

The new instructor assigned to Cape Canaveral is Capt. Robie Hackworth, who currently is physiological training officer at Langley Air Force Base, Virginia.

The 30-year-old Hackworth, son of Mrs. Alice Hackworth and the late Harry Hackworth, has more than 1,650 hours in jet aircraft. He will report to the giant altitude chamber facilities at the Florida missile base, Nov. 15. Capt. Hackworth's new mission involves the administrative and technical responsibilities of the high altitude chamber program for training future space pilots.

A graduate of Prestonsburg high school and a chemistry major at the University of Kentucky, Hackworth entered the Air Force in 1953.

Of Capt. Hackworth, his work in the Air Force and of his new assignment Virginia Biggins wrote recently in The Newport (Va.) News:

He will not be a stranger to the nation's seven astronauts. In fact, they too have received altitude chamber check-out courses from him. All pilots and crews are required to be current in the physiological trainer. Those flying high altitudes must participate in the training classes more often than others.

Pilots and crews who pass through the altitude chamber program at the local base will truly miss Captain Hackworth. His teachings on procedures for safe

Advertising Date Set On Low-Rent Housing, Director Is Notified

Final documents for the Prestonsburg low-rent housing project were not received by the Atlanta regional office of the Public Housing Administration till September 14, and so the operations schedule has been extended, Joe Hobson, executive director of the Prestonsburg Municipal Housing Commission, has been notified.

A. R. Hanson, director of the regional office, set this new schedule:

January 4, approval of plans; January 19, advertising for bids; February 20, opening of bids.

In his letter to Hobson the regional director commented on a letter from the architect, saying: "There is no reason for taking three months to prepare the preliminary drawings and specifications and a cost estimate." He said the six-month schedule for this schedule for this work already has expired.

COUNCIL RECOMMENDS SCHOOL SUGGESTIONS

The regular quarterly meeting of the Citizens Educational Council was held at the Allen grade school, Thursday evening of last week.

Chief business of the group, formed several months ago to promote a better educational program, was the consideration of recommendations made by the health and safety committee, headed by Dr. Russell Hall, chairman.

Of timely interest in the recommendations was support offered by the Council to the proposed library tax to be voted on November 7.

H. O. Zimmerman, president of the Council, announced his intention to retire as he will also retire as manager of coal properties of Inland Steel Company at Wheelwright. Zimmerman's retirement will become effective December 1, he told the Allen meeting.

The recommendations made by the health and safety committee were unanimously adopted. They follow:

"1. That a study be conducted to determine the progress made on the recommendations of the health and safety committee which were adopted by the CEC at the July meeting, this study to be conducted by the personnel of the county health department and to include any other corrections needed. A full report is to be transmitted to the Council secretary by November 19.

"2. That advice of automotive experts be obtained on the need (if any) of improving the standard-type school bus, this to include recommendations as to the feasibility of wrap-around bumpers similar to those used on interurban busses and tandem master-cylinders for braking to insure against brake grabbing or failure.

"3. That all school bus drivers be given an examination by the State Police prior to the beginning of each school year.

"4. That the Council actively support passage of the Regional Library tax to be placed before the voters next month."

A nominating committee, composed of Joe Perrino, Mrs. Regina Mayo and W. J. Reynolds, Jr., was named by Zimmerman.

The retiring Council chairman expressed pleasure at having an opportunity to serve in the effort to promote a better educational system in the county and said that, although he will not be a resident (See Story No. 4, Page 8)

Mr. Isaacs was a son of Rev. Jonah Isaacs, who survives, and the late Mrs. Elizabeth Hall Isaacs. His widow, Edith Reynolds Isaacs, survives. Surviving children are Leon, Leno, Palestine, Norma Jean and Rita Irene, all at home. Surviving brothers and sisters are Evan Isaacs, and Milford Isaacs, both of Teaberry; Reuben Isaacs, Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Mary Reynolds, Crown City, Ohio, and Mrs. Martha Hall, Worthington, Ky.

GOBLE WINS JAILER SUIT

Democratic Nomination Awarded by Judge Neal; Hale May Seek Reversal

Dan Goble, of Prestonsburg, Monday was declared by Special Judge Sidney B. Neal, of Owensboro, the Democratic nominee for Jailer of Floyd county.

The decision was made in conclusion of the contest suit filed by Lawrence Hale, who on the face of the election commissioners' certification lost the election to Goble by two votes in the tightest race ever staged in this county for a county office.

The plaintiff may seek a reversal of Judge Neal's decision from the Court of Appeals. Mr. Goble's name goes on the November 7 ballot, however, as the Democratic nominee.

Goble was awarded the nomination by Judge Neal last Saturday, but the final order in the case was not entered till Monday after a further discussion of the testimony and the law involved.

Neal held that out of all the ill-mary, Goble received only three of them while Hale received 27, legal votes cast at the May 23 privileging Goble the nomination by a majority of 26 votes. He held that all votes cast after the 5 p.m. closing hour were illegal.

In his findings of fact Neal held that:

1. The proof is insufficient to establish any guilt on the part of Lawrence Hale of having violated the Corrupt Practices Act.

2. The acts and conduct of the election commissioners and Kathleen Moore, deputy county clerk, in the opening of the absentee outer and inner envelopes, the counting and certifying of such votes constituted a substantial compliance with the law.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD IN CAR

Body of May Clifton Discovered by Son, 11; Poisoning Is Indicated

An autopsy was ordered Tuesday in an effort to determine the cause of the death of 41-year-old May Clifton, whose body was found early that morning in her parked car, near her home in the vicinity of the Bald Alley curve here.

The woman's body was discovered by her 11-year-old son, Henry, about 6 a.m. When he failed to arouse his mother, he called a neighbor who in turn notified the police.

Dr. E. T. Thorsness, Pikeville pathologist, performed the autopsy at Pikeville. He was later quoted as making an unofficial statement to the effect that evidences of strychnine were found in the body. Coroner James J. Carter and State Detective Chester D. Potter said they found in the car a partially empty vial of the poison and an empty soft drink bottle. They added that there was no evidence of foul play.

It was said that the victim had been sleeping in her car for several nights. The home which she had been occupying with her sister, Mrs. Sallie Miller, is on the hillside overlooking the place where the car was parked.

The victim was a daughter of Mrs. Cissie Sammons Clifton, of Prestonsburg, and the late George Clifton. She is survived by her mother, four children, Marion, Henry, Ethel and Janet Clifton, all at home; three brothers and one sister, Bob Clifton, of Water Gap, Mrs. Sallie Miller and Bill Clifton, both of Prestonsburg, and Marion Clifton whose address is unavailable.

Funeral rites will be conducted at 2 p.m. today (Thursday) from the chapel of the Floyd Funeral Home by the Rev. John Conley, and burial will be made in the Bingham cemetery on the Auxier road.

CHILD DIES

Billy Ray Harmon, nine-year-old son of Clyde and Anna Lee Hackworth Harmon, of Bonanza, died at the Prestonsburg General hospital, Thursday of last week. Besides the parents, a brother, Clyde Randall, survives. Funeral services were conducted at 1 p.m., Saturday, at the Bonanza Free Will Baptist Church, the Rev. Charlie LeMaster officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery at Bonanza under the direction of Floyd Funeral Home.

BALLOT PRINT JOB STARTED

Judge Directs Clerk Proceed With Printing Of 5-Town Paper Ballots

Ballot-printing finally got under way this week in preparation for the November 7 election after delays caused by an election contest suit and other legal skirmishing.

Decision Monday of the contest suit challenging the Democratic nomination of Dan Goble for Jailer was the cue for the County Clerk to order the preparation of the voting machine ballot for the county election.

A Court of Appeals decision upholding the opinion of Circuit Judge Edward P. Hill also directed the County Clerk to proceed with the printing of paper ballots for municipal elections to be held in five Floyd towns. The high court concurred with Judge Hill in ruling that a slate of candidates at Martin are not eligible to a place on the ballot because their declaration petition did not bear the names of at least 20 unchallenged petitioners. At the same time this opinion held that paper ballots are legal for city elections where city boundaries are not coextensive with precincts served by voting machines.

The printing of paper ballots makes possible a write-in vote at Martin, it was said.

Paper ballots were also authorized for the city elections in Prestonsburg, Allen, Wayland and Wheelwright.

Another court action, that of Gorman Collins, Republican candidate for County Judge, seeking a mandatory injunction to require the County Clerk to print ballots in sufficient number to give all qualified voters an opportunity to vote was dismissed last week by Circuit Judge Hill. The Floyd fiscal court already has purchased four extra voting machines, and it was said Tuesday that court action will be filed to require the County Clerk to place these in the largest voting precincts in the county.

Use of voting machines and paper ballots in the same precinct and of an extra voting machine in four precincts may tax the resources of the four election officials assigned each precinct, some observers say. Others conjecture about the additional cost of employing tabulators and guards of the printed ballots.

Because of the late conclusion of the contest case and delayed printing of city ballots, no absentee ballots had been mailed as of Tuesday, the Clerk's office said.

HIGHWAY, BRIDGE BIDS SCHEDULED BY STATE

State Offers To Buy Pumps for Flood-Gate To Prevent Pondage Area

The Kentucky Department of Highways has agreed to purchase one or more pumps to make unnecessary a pondage area on either side of the highway in the vicinity of the flood-gate pumping station here, it was learned a few days ago.

Purchase of additional pumping equipment will save the state the cost of pondage area purchases and also eliminate accretions of sewage and other settlements left after the ponds created upon closing of the flood-gate are emptied, it is said.

Without one or more additional pumps, pondage area rights would be purchased, since the two pumps now ready for operation will not (See Story No. 5, Page 3)

HALL TELLS EXAM PLANS

First Grade Students To Receive Physicals; Urged by Citizens Group

Dr. Russell L. Hall, health officer of the Floyd County Health Department, told this week of plans for physical examination of all first-grade pupils in the county school system. At the same time he pointed to reasons why those in other grades cannot be examined.

Writing to a teacher to explain why fifth-grade pupils had not been examined, he said in part:

... it would be impossible for our department and the private physicians combined to do all the first, fifth and ninth grade examinations in Floyd county each year.

"We have discussed this matter with representatives of the county educational system and agreed that we would put all our effort on examining first-graders only. We intend to do as many of the first-graders as we possibly can and will be glad to aid in examining and making recommendations on behalf of any other school child, regardless of grade, that the teacher thinks has a physical defect."

This policy, Dr. Hall said, was adopted by the Citizens Educational Council at its July meeting.

THREE-MILE ADVERTISING IS ANNOUNCED

Huge Turnpike Work Described in Story; Letting Set, November 9

The Kentucky Department of Highways last Friday called for bids on a three-mile section of the Eastern Kentucky Turnpike from Prestonsburg to a point near the intersection of the David road with the Prestonsburg-Salyersville highway.

At the same time it was announced that bids will be sought on construction of a four-lane bridge crossing the Big Sandy here as a part of the big road project.

The road construction project is being advertised in The Times this week. Bids are to be opened November 9. Contractors are being asked to bid on grade, drain and incidental construction of the route.

It is estimated that the 20-mile section of the highway from Salyersville to Prestonsburg will cost $11.5 million.

Right-of-way for the Prestonsburg-Middle Creek sector has either been purchased or condemnation suits have been filed.

Major operations on the Prestonsburg end of the road may not come till next spring, but fair autumn weather could hasten the beginning of construction on both highway and bridge.

Thus will be started from the Floyd end of the monumental road-building project a phase of wide-scale operations which have interested observers. Of this overall effort Malcolm Patterson, assistant state (See Story No. 2, Page 3)

Class of Instruction Set for Poll Officers

A school of instruction for election officers who will be charged with the operation and supervision of voting machines at the November 7 polls will be held from 10 a. m. till 2 p.m. Saturday at the Coal Bit Mining Equipment Company here, it was announced Wednesday.

Election commissioners emphasized the point that attendance of the election officers is necessary.

GAS FIRM WORKERS ARE RECOGNIZED

John W. Graham, of Prestonsburg, and William H. Howell and Ranel Roberts, both of Harold, were among six natural gas company employees of this area who were presented engraved gold watches and service emblems October 19 at a luncheon here to honor them for having completed 25 years of service. Mr. Graham and Mr. Howell are employed by United Fuel Gas Company and Mr. Roberts is employed by Atlantic Seaboard Corporation.

Six Eastern Kentucky natural gas workers were presented engraved gold watches and service emblems at a luncheon last Thursday at the Wise Restaurant here for completing 25 years' service with their companies.

The honorees were Joseph A. Fletcher, Inez, John W. Graham, Prestonsburg; William H. Howell, Harold, and Glen A. Ruble, Kermit, employees of United Fuel Gas Company, and Trimble Ratliff, Pikeville, and Ranel Roberts, Harold, employees of Atlantic Seaboard Corporation.

The luncheon was held for all employees having 25 or more years of service with Atlantic Seaboard, Kentucky Gas Transmission or United Fuel. James S. Phillips, president of the three firms, presented the awards.

The Rev. Harold C. Dicks, pastor of the Arnold Avenue Church of Christ, Prestonsburg, gave the invocation and Woodrow W. Burchett, member of the Kentucky Public Service Commission, was the guest speaker. Entertainment was provided by a quartet of gas company employees.

In addition to the watch recipients, eight other employees were honored for completing 40, 35 and 30 years' service. Except for those identified "Kentucky Gas Transmission," all are employed by United Fuel.

35 Years—Ked Davis, Clifford; Orvil R. Drake and Cyril Price, both of Langley; Hallie H. Moore, Means, Kentucky Gas Transmission.

30 Years—Walter Clark, Pikeville; Claude P. Hagans, Martin, and W. G. Stiles, Prestonsburg.

The three companies which held the luncheon are members of the Charleston Group Companies of the Columbia Gas System. The Prestonsburg luncheon was one of five being held in the Group's four-state operating territory to honor its veterans. Approximately 45 veterans plus several company executives attended the Prestonsburg luncheon.

I offer you the qualifications of a man with mature judgment, who will approach the job as Magistrate with dedication to your needs. I pledge, as I did in the Primary, to work hard to get for you an extension of roads wherever needed and to cooperate wholeheartedly in a good road program.

My opponents in the Primary were men who fought a clean race and their pledges of support are appreciated. To my opponent in this, the final race, I hold no ill will. The people will choose between us and I urge that you weigh your interests, not ours.

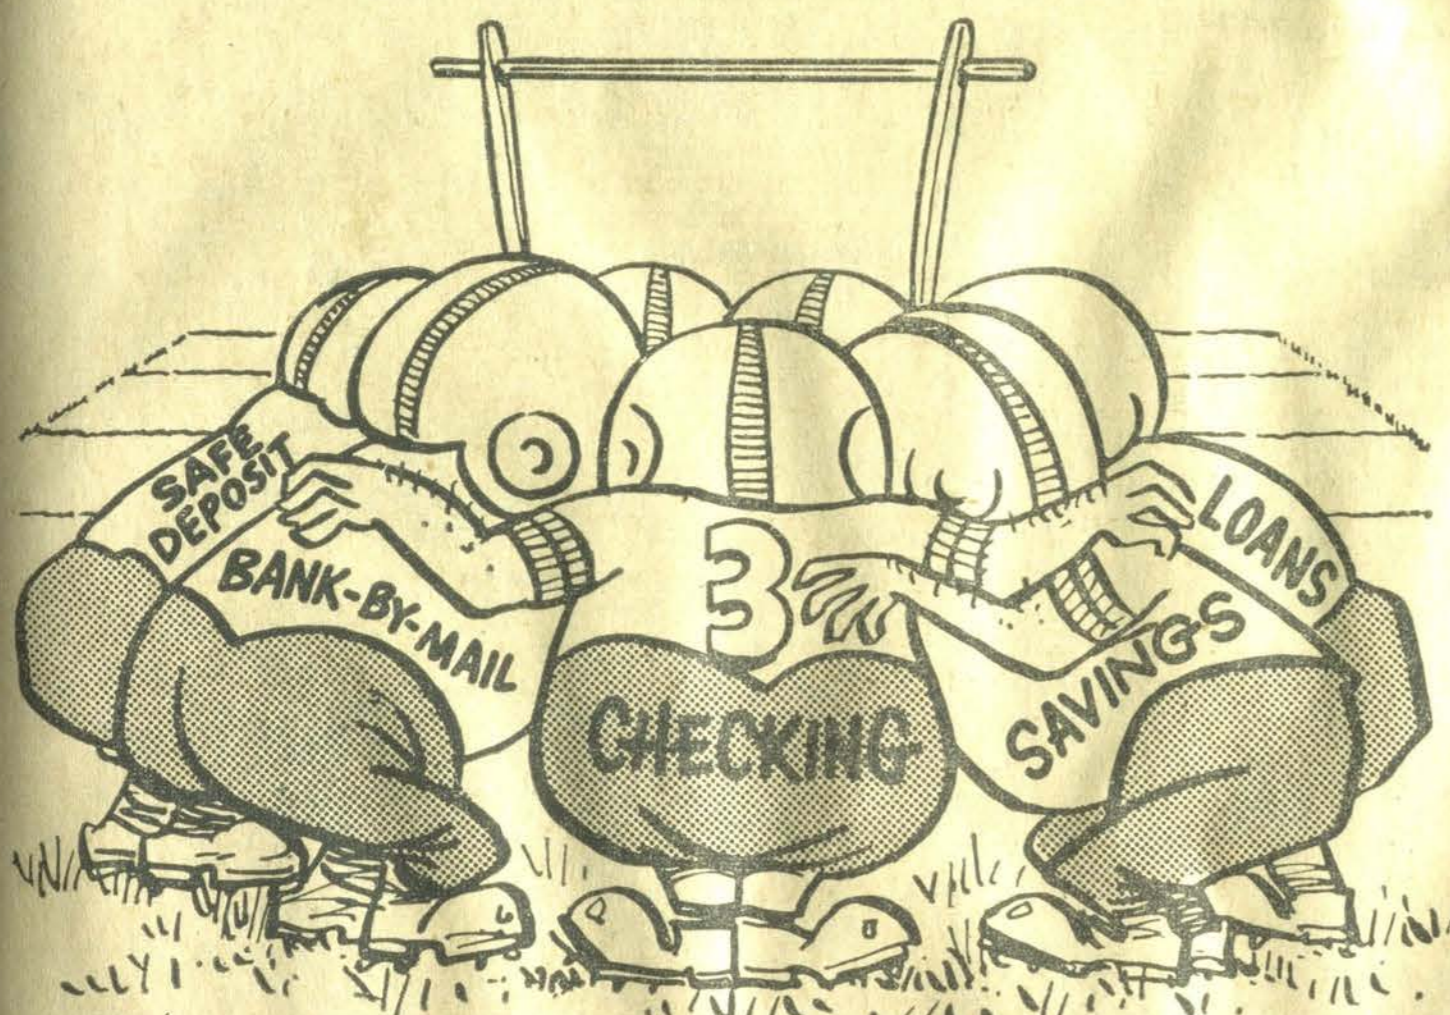

If elected, I pledge not only four years of hard work on the road program but an administration of the office based upon justice, understanding and good-will to my fellow man. To do less would make me untrue to myself.

CHURCH-OWNED BUSINESSES TAX FREE, ARTICLE NOTES

Tax-free church-owned business enterprises are increasing so rapidly that they have become a matter of concern to church leaders. So reveals Orland K. Armstrong, former Missouri Congressman, in a nation-wide study in the November Reader's Digest titled, "Should Churches Be Exempt from Business Taxes?"

"I found," he writes, "that many religious denominations and their subordinate agencies have gone into competitive profit-making businesses on a large scale. The churches own radio stations, hotels, office buildings, parking lots, bakeries, warehouses, they do contract printing, invest in stocks and bonds, and speculate in real estate. Yet they pay no federal taxes on these outside business activities, and usually they pay few state and local taxes."

The article from Christianity Today, cites enterprises and real estate ventures of Baptist, Catholic, Methodist, Mormon, Presbyterian, Seventh Day Adventist and other religious interests and suggests that "a fair solution to the tangled problem" is to be found in determining taxation on the basis of the actual use of property.

Baptist leaders and also the Rev. Robert E. Van Deusen, a prominent Lutheran of Washington, D. C., believe earnings from businesses which have no direct connection with religious purposes should pay income taxes, regardless of how the income is used.

"While we of the churches insist upon tax exemption for our exclusively religious activities," says the Reverend Van Deusen, "we should willingly pay our share of taxes when we get into profitable businesses."

Surviving sons, besides John M., of Garth, are Bancroft Osborne, of Harold, and A. B. Osborne, Jr., Chicago, Illinois. Eight grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren survive.

editor of The Lexington Herald, wrote Sunday as follows:

From the air, it resembles a tan-colored ribbon a child might have strewn across a rumpled forest-green blanket on his bed.

The ribbon seen from a plane, though, is the route of the $39 million Eastern Kentucky Turnpike, now consisting mainly of bare earth being graded.

It threads its way through rolling Blue Grass farm land, where many fields still are green, and hill country and mountains, whose trees gradually are taking on their red, golden and brown fall colorings.

Here and there rock formations are being blasted. The rock is hauled away to fill ravines and valleys. Giant earth-moving machines, viewed from the air, appear to be the size of ants. And, as the plane wings along the route, every so often bridges being built come into view.

Working Night and Day There has been work by day and by night to hurry along the construction. An estimated 650 men and 350 pieces of equipment have been on the job.

This time next year, if all goes well, the toll road launched by Governor Bert Combs' administration, will be finished and opened for traffic—a year ahead of the original schedule. Officials have expressed hope that within six years, if money is available, a network of modern highways will extend through Eastern Kentucky.

Last Wednesday, the governor and other state officials took a group of newsmen on an air tour of the 43-mile four-lane project, running between Winchester and Campton, and some of its proposed extension routes. The group traveled in three state planes.

Combs called the turnpike the biggest single road-building undertaking "at any one time" in the history of Kentucky. He declared he hopes to cut the ribbon opening the toll road "before the snow flies" next fall.

Snow fell as he and other officials broke ground for the turnpike not too many months ago, after bonds were sold to finance the project. The Kentucky Turnpike between Louisville and Elizabethtown, built during the administration of former Governor Lawrence W. Weatherby, is 40 miles long.

Combs, Highway Commissioner Henry Ward and Director L. Felix Joyner of the Kentucky Turnpike Authority joined in praising contractors for what they termed "remarkable" progress in work on the Eastern Kentucky Turnpike. The contractors were reported on or ahead of their work schedules.

Final paving contracts are to be let in time for this work to get under way next spring, Ward said.

Combs and Ward, at a news conference, here during the air tour, described the toll road as an important part of Kentucky's expanding highway network. They expressed enthusiasm about its prospects of helping to develop Eastern Kentucky by providing a road link with Central Kentucky.

The Eastern Kentucky Turnpike, the 700-mile interstate system of free superhighways in Kentucky, the proposed 120-mile Western Kentucky toll road and other mainline arteries ultimately will provide the state with an outstanding network of roads, officials said.

The first contract for a portion of the Western Kentucky Turnpike was awarded this week. This road is to extend from Elizabethtown, southern end of the Kentucky Turnpike, to Princeton.

The $39 million price tag put on the Winchester-Campton toll road includes costs for right-of-way, construction, consultants' fees, design and bond costs.

Plans are being drafted for a two-lane extension of the toll road from Campton to Salyersville, estimated to cost $28 million for the 33-mile stretch. Bonds have not been sold for this link. Ward explained that, ahead of this project, bonds were sold for the Western Kentucky Turnpike so it could get under way as soon as possible because of the need for it.

Two-lane freeways extending from the Eastern Kentucky toll road are planned between Salyersville and Prestonsburg, a 20-mile section estimated to cost about $11.5 million, and between Prestonsburg and Pikeville, a 30-mile stretch on which cost estimates are not available, officials said.

Another arm of two-lane freeways extending from Campton will include about 49 miles between the Wolfe county seat and Hazard at an estimated cost of $23.5 million, and the 23-mile section between Hazard and Whitesburg on which cost estimates are not available.

Ward explained the freeway sections would be brought up to modern two-lane standards in "piece-meal" fashion as money is available, the worst sections being improved first. Some sections already have been brought up to such standards in this and past years.

These two-lane sections are federal-aid highways upon which the state and federal governments share equally the costs.

The toll road and its proposed freeway extensions total about 200 miles.

Combs and Ward said they hoped to go as far as possible during the present administration on the freeway extensions and other road improvements in Eastern Kentucky, depending upon the availability of funds.

It also is hoped, Ward said, that enough progress will be made during this administration that the succeeding administration would go ahead with the program and bring it to completion.

Improvements also are under way on U. S. 23 and U. S. 119 in Eastern Kentucky, some started before the present administration. And, Ward expressed hope to carry on toward ultimate improvement, at least during the next administration, of all of U. S. 23 between Portsmouth, Ohio, Prestonsburg, Pikeville and the Virginia line and the connecting U. S. 119 at Jenkins, extending through Harlan and Bell counties to Pineville, and U. S. 25-E from Pineville to Mid-dlesboro and Corbin to provide a link with proposed Interstate 75.

Combs pointed out he had commitments for improvements between Prestonsburg, his home town, and Pikeville, and between Hazard, and Whitesburg, to eliminate some of the poorer sections of present roads, to meet needs and demonstrate to residents that these sections were in the overall turnpike-extension plans.

As Ward announced would be done, during the recent Governor's Tour in Eastern Kentucky, the State Highway Department Friday called for bids to be opened November 10 on a three-mile section at Prestonsburg, including a four-lane bridge over the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River to replace the present West Prestonsburg bridge. The project, included in the freeway extensions planned for the toll road, would involve new construction on the Prestonsburg-Salyersville road.

Bids also were asked on another project, in the Campton-Hazard leg of the freeway, for a three-fourth mile section from the east end of the toll road to Ky. 15 at Campton.

A $1,373,045 contract for grade and drain already has been let on the Campton-Hazard extension, from one mile north of Jackson to Van Cleve, a distance of 6.89 miles. C. D. Jewett, Winchester contractor, has this job.

Wick Barnett, engineer supervising construction of the Eastern Kentucky toll road, said its design was virtually identical with super-highway standards of the interstate system.

There will be two 12-foot traffic lanes on each side of a median strip which will average 16 feet in width. Between the traffic lanes and the median will be 10-foot shoulders on each side as well as 12-foot shoulders on the outside of the four-lane highway. The shoulders will be bituminous-treated. The main four lanes will be of cement concrete.

Near Winchester, the turnpike will connect with the nearly completed section of Interstate 64, which runs from Winchester to beyond Mt. Sterling, roughly parallel to U. S. 60.

On the four-lane Winchester to Campton section, interchanges will be located at the intersection with I-64 near Winchester and at Waltersville, Clay City, Stanton, Slade, Pine Ridge and near Campton. Toll stations for this section will be at Waltersville, Slade and Campton.

The Slade toll collection station and interchange are at the junction of Ky. 77, providing access to Natural Bridge State Park.

On the Winchester-Campton section, work is under way on six grade and drain contracts and on three "package deal" contracts covering grade, drain and paving. The paving contract—which Ward said would be let so contractors could stockpile material and have equipment ready to start work next spring—will cover the sections on which grade and drain alone is being done.

The grade and drain contracts on which work is being done are:

From I-64 near Winchester to the Miller-Hunt Road in Clark county, 4.202 miles, Codell Construction Co., Winchester, $1,239,514;

From Miller-Hunt Road to Indian Fields Road in Clark county, 6.345 miles, R. C. Durr Co., Independence, $1,275,061;

From Indian Fields Road to Waltersville, Powell county, 5.369 miles, S. J. Groves Co., Minneapolis, Minnesota, $1,397,190;

From Waltersville to point near Clay City, 3.181 miles, R. C. Durr, $1,306,067;

From Clay City to Stanton to Rosslyn, 5.497 miles, Talbott Construction Co., Winchester, $1,885,625;

From Rosslyn to Bowen, 3.655 miles, J. C. Codell Co., Winchester, $1,518,270.

Grade, drain and surfacing contracts on which work is being done are:

From Bowden to Slade, 4.577 miles, Ralph Myers Contracting Corp., Salem, Ind., $3,522,303;

From Slade to Pine Ridge, Wolfe county, 4.391 miles, Codell Construction Co., $3,618,528;

From Pine Ridge to Campton, 10.217 miles, Ralph Myers Construction Corp., $4,229,304.

Various phases of work are being done by sub-contractors.

TO THE VOTERS OF FLOYD COUNTY:

Recently my attention has been called to the fact that my opponent is circulating a handbill concerning the Floyd County Water & Gas Case. I have read the handbill and I feel that your Former Sheriff is making an attempt to mislead you again.

During the past year the "Bondholders" filed a motion in the United States District Court for a 23% rate increase. A hearing was held in Lexington, Kentucky, and Federal Judge Mac Swinford referred the matter to The Kentucky Public Service Commission, which was a favorable decision for the consumers. This hearing was attended by Robert Wellman, Harold Stumbo, and myself. I employed Harold Stumbo to assist Mr. Wellman in an effort to persuade the Federal Judge not to increase the rates. The last hearing was held in Pikeville, Ky., and Harold Stumbo was present representing me, and the consumers. Judge Swinford refused to authorize the rate increase.

My Opponent has been making remarks about me throughout the county, but he fails to mention one important factor which the voters of Floyd county, Kentucky, should know. One of the sellers of The Glo Water and Gas System was my opponent's brother-in-law. If anyone made any money from this transaction, then my opponent's brother-in-law should be able to give the voters of this county the names of the persons involved.

My opponent has attempted to degrade and humiliate me, but he does not tell you about the way he enforced the law for four years. The voters of Floyd county remember the conduct of the Sheriff's office during the four years my opponent was Sheriff.

My opponent has filed a suit against me and the Fiscal Court, which the Circuit Judge dismissed. Vilification and personal abuse such as has been heaped on me is not the proper way to conduct a campaign. I feel that the voters of Floyd county know that I have made every effort to do a good job as County Judge of Floyd county.

I challenge any person to say truthfully that I have ever been impatient with or unkind to any man, woman or child coming to my office, or to say that I have ever used profanity in their presence. My friendship does not spring up only every four years.

Welcome, Governor Combs!

The Floyd County Times is pleased to have the county's most distinguished citizen, Governor Bert T. Combs, return today to make 161-year-old Prestonsburg the state's temporary seat of government.

Governor Combs comes home at a propitious moment. Only this week came word that a contract will be awarded early next month on a four-lane bridge across the Big Sandy River here and on a three-mile sector of highway up Middle Creek which is to be a part of the gigantic Eastern Kentucky Turnpike undertaking.

It has been said, we hear, that this is the highway that "goes nowhere." Now that the work is ready to begin in Floyd county, we who live here and have all our material hopes, even our fears, grounded here, are pretty well convinced this road is going Somewhere.

Governor Combs and his staff come to Floyd county at a time when work already under way represents an outlay of millions: Two roads under construction at Jenny Wiley State Park, a 35-room lodge and a golf course a-building there; smaller road-building projects under way elsewhere, not to mention others planned.

A Governor and the resources of the state cannot make an Eden of any county, nor can they or even the federal government cure all the economic ailments. But they can try, and they do try. And what they do provides a psychological "lift," the value of which cannot be measured in dollars and cents.

Governor Combs comes here, inviting ordinary Joes such as you and I to drop into his office and discuss with him our problems and what we think are his. This is the spirit of goodwill in action. We admire the man for his fortitude, for even at this distance we can realize that not all such experiences are pleasant for him.

Then the least we can say to the Governor and his staff is—"Welcome to Prestonsburg!"

I refer to MANUSCRIPTS. It deals with old manuscripts, autographs, historical papers, etcetera. I hope that among our young people and young married groups can be found those who will perhaps form a MANUSCRIPTS Society and aid in the preservation of valuable records, papers and books.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club met at the club-house Monday evening, October 16. The vice-president, Mrs. George E. Evans, presided in the absence of Mrs. Glenn Pack, president. The devotional was given by Francis Duffell.

Mrs. Ellen Hornsby reported on the Seventh district meeting held at Prestonsburg. Many compliments were paid to the Prestonsburg Woman's Club for a good meeting.

At the business session the club voted to give $5 to each of the schools, Wayland and Garrett, to be used in the art classes for supplies.

Mrs. Ellen Hornsby, chairman of the quilt-making, announced that the quilt top the clubmembers have been sewing on had been finished and that the club is open for orders. The club voted to stress the drive for safety belts for motorists. A letter was read by Mrs. Evans from the Eighth district, announcing Mrs. Adron Doran as a candidate for K.F.W.C. president.

Plans were made to entertain daughter clubs, November 9. The Wheelwright, Allen-Martin, Salyersville and our "granddaughter club," Drift, will be invited.

The club voted to put its meeting dates on the birth-dated calendar of the Wayland Methodist Church. Mrs. Crit Wells announced that 100 pounds of pecans from the south had arrived, and were on sale.

Mrs. Eugene Mullins, program chairman for the evening, gave an interesting program on "The American Home." She presented Mrs. E. H. Messer, who demonstrated two beautiful flour arrangements for the home.

The hostesses, Mrs. Bert Stapleton, Mrs. Charles Collins and Mrs. George E. Evans, served pie and coffee to 20 members.

Since entering the service in May 1953, he has attended various service schools, including the primary flight training class, the basic instructor pilots course, and the physiological training officer course.

At one time, he was a jet all-weather interceptor pilot with a squadron of the Air Defense Command where he flew the F86D fighter aircraft. He has served as a jet instructor and a jet engineering specialist.

In 1958, Hackworth decided to go back to school and study for a medical degree, but after one year on the "outside" he returned to the Air Force and the physiological training program.

He also has a little sideline hobby. He invents. Recently at the request of the TAC Surgeon he devised and built a gadget to demonstrate physical troubles encountered from lack of proper pressurization in high flying aircraft.

He uses the invention as a teaching aid in the Langley altitude chamber courses. Theory for the visual teaching aid is based on overcompression treatment for the altitude "bends."

Hackworth bases his overcompression treatment for "bends" patients on the simple law of gases. His invention shows the student that nitrogen bubbles developing within the body after a plane leaves sea level do not necessarily decrease when the aircraft comes back to earth. The delayed reaction of these bubbles could mean death for the flier hours after he is on the ground.

Air Force men viewing the teaching aid for the first time will see it as a small plastic chamber with two threads dangling in the center. Human fluid is used in the actual test, and with the aid of vacuum and pressure equipment, the instructor can simulate a typical decompression as well as the overcompression treatment.

The chamber is so small that it is displayed via a 35 millimeter lens. The thread, incidentally, is used as a trap to catch the bubbles so viewers can watch them grow.

The lesson taught via the visual aid actually stresses that one should not fly at high altitudes for prolonged periods if pressurization systems in the aircraft are not working properly. The teaching methods have recently been filmed so that other areas may benefit from the outstanding work in the physiological field.

X-15 TO GO FOR RECORD SOON Edwards Air Force Base, Cal., Oct. 20—Air Force Major Bob White will try to push the X-15 rocket plane to its maximum speed of more than 4,000 miles an hour within the next few days, the United States Space Agency said Friday.

Students were asked to return a little early last Sunday for some room assignments, William Hayes, director of the college reported.

In a statement released this week to press and radio the college spokesman said: "School officials express great appreciation for the helpfulness of the community and of neighboring school people who lent their influence to calm understanding and settlement.

Particularly the college is grateful to three local high school teachers who have offered their services in some courses: Darrell Smith, of Hindman, in chemistry; Luther Ritchie, of Carr Creek, in botany; Miss Lelah Combs, of Martin high school, in art."

Instructors in these subjects reported recently when given an opportunity to do so at a joint meeting of the college faculty and the board of trustees.

WHAT WOULD SERVE THE MOUNTAINS MORE THAN THIS?

(An editorial in The Licking Valley Courier, West Liberty, Ky.)

What could help the Mountains more than a four-year college right in the middle of East Kentucky, accessible to the average Mountain boy and girl, both geographically and financially, and headed by a devoted Mountain educator, like... well say, James Patton?

Such a setup would do more to solve the problems of East Kentucky than anything we can think of.

Why did we mention James Patton? Well, it would not necessarily have to be James Patton, but at least one of his caliber and devotion in helping mountain youth get an education. James Patton, native of Magoffin, former principal of Salyersville High School and former director of Mayo Vocational School, and now Assistant State Superintendent. Tops in all, but more particularly devoted to the Mountains and their young people and possessing a first-hand understanding of their needs, their fears, their desires, and their ambitions—and above all, devoted to helping them get an education, either academic or vocational.

And we said "accessible to the average Mountain boy and girl, both geographically and financially." This is of prime importance. It matters not how many million dollars the State Colleges get, or how fine they are, if a Mountain youth can't get to them, it profits him nothing; for he still has no choice but to go to industrial centers to work, untrained, or join the Army. And Kentucky thus loses some more of its finest potential, for if he commences factory work or joins the armed forces, it's likely he will not have a chance to pursue higher education later, particularly if he or she has married in the meantime.

A four-year college right in the middle of the Mountains, and with ample dormitories and at rates Mountain boys and girls can afford—that's the need of a third of Kentucky's high school graduates, the third who graduate from Mountain high schools. For a fourth of Kentucky's population lives in the Mountains and graduates nearly a third of the State's high school seniors. Somewhat of a record. But then the Mountain population consists of the young and the very old—the rest, or many of them, have emigrated or are temporarily away working, or in the Army.

And wouldn't a mountain college, state and federally supported, do a better job directing the many special agencies that work in Mountain counties, rather than having them directed from the Bluegrass? Such as the many new programs set up to assist Mountain people to learn how to make a better living.

A Mountain college, headed by a Mountain faculty that knows Mountain problems, would do a better job directing Mountain programs.

If this be sacrilege to the Council of Higher Education, then have them think of making every countyseat high school in the Mountains a 14-grade high school, the last two grades being the first two years of accredited college work.

That way, rural youth could ride regular school buses to the countyseat and get two years of college work. Of course, competent professors would be needed to staff the 13th and 14th grades; more classrooms also would be needed and more buses. But the Federal and State governments are pouring more millions into higher education anyway, and the added millions now profit but few Mountain boys and girls, because only a few of them have the means to attend college.

And there would be enough college professors to staff countyseat college courses, for these hills have many natives who now are serving on college faculties in other states who would like to return to Kentucky.

The great need for Mountain youth is for higher academic training available to them both geographically and financially.

For remember there's not a state-supported academic college in all the Mountains south of Morehead to Virginia and east of Richmond to West Virginia. A fourth of Kentucky lives here.

A college in the Mountains would not reduce benefits provided by Morehead or Richmond or Pikeville, or Berea or U.K. They have all the students now that they can crowd into dormitories and class rooms. When building more dormitories and class rooms, why not build them where they would serve a now-neglected populace?

Caney Classes Resumed As Disturbance Quiets; Instructors Volunteer

Caney Junior College at Pippa Passes resumed regular classwork Monday, the disturbance marked by the walkout of students last week having been quieted by a school recess of a few days.

Students were asked to return a little early last Sunday for some room assignments, William Hayes, director of the college reported.

In a statement released this week to press and radio the college spokesman said: "School officials express great appreciation for the helpfulness of the community and of neighboring school people who lent their influence to calm understanding and settlement.

Buying Demonstrations Scheduled In November By Extension Service

Beginning the first week in November, there will be several food buying demonstrations given in the county, it is announced. This is for the purpose of informing families how to use their money to the best advantage, it was said.

These demonstrations will be given by the University of Kentucky Extension Service in cooperation with the food stamp program in Floyd county, according to Frances Pitts, home demonstration agent and Arvid Dopson, USDA representative supervising the pilot project in Floyd county.

To keep this program running smoothly, it's important that each family participating, be present for these demonstrations in the local communities.

Further announcement will be made by mail and radio.

The Garrett Parent-Teacher Association will hold its regular semi-monthly meeting tonight (Thursday) at 7 o'clock. Charles Hornsby, president, will preside over the business session which is expected to be mostly planning for the annual Halloween carnival that the group is sponsoring Monday night, October 31. All parents and teachers should make a special effort to attend this meeting and offer their help and support, since the carnival serves the school and community jointly.

At the group's last meeting, October 12, the members voted to purchase 20 dictionaries for Mrs. Leona Fouts' English classes and to pay the required down payment on an oven for the lunchroom. The latter amount will be approximately $200. Mr. Hornsby named John Calvin Martin to head the Ways and Means committee. Roberta Sloan and Alen Turner to lead the entertainment and Leona Prater the refreshments committees.

100 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Civil War in Kentucky

By JOE JORDAN (Kentucky Civil War Commission)

The first Civil War engagement on Kentucky soil that was important enough to be designated a battle was fought 100 years ago this week at Camp Wildcat in Laurel county, a strong position on Wildcat Mountain which had been seized by Col. Theo T. Garrard's Seventh Kentucky (Union) Infantry Regiment, supported by a detachment of Col. Frank Wolford's First Kentucky (Union) Cavalry. In a heavily wooded country of ridges and gorges, it would be difficult to attack and it commanded the junction of three roads which ran respectively to Richmond, Mt. Vernon and London.

Brig. Gen. George H. Thomas, U. S. Regular Army officer, had relieved Brig. Gen. William Nelson at Camp Dick Robinson and it was Thomas who had sent Garrard beyond the Rockcastle River to establish Camp Wildcat and oppose any advance by Confederate forces under Brig. Gen. Felix K. Zollicoffer, who had come from East Tennessee through Cumberland Gap into Kentucky in September.

On October 17, Garrard had sent word to Thomas that Zollicoffer was advancing in force, and had asked for reinforcements. Thomas sent Brig. Gen. Albin Francisco Schoepf to his aid with the 33rd Indiana, the 17th Ohio, the 14th Ohio, a battery of artillery, the rest of Col. Wolford's cavalry and two Tennessee Union regiments. Schoepf was a Hungarian, a graduate of the Vienna Military Academy, who after being on the wrong side in 1848 troubles in Hungary had gone to Turkey, where he fought with and instructed the Ottoman Army, later emigrating to the United States.

Zollicoffer reached Camp Wildcat on October 21 with two regiments, and attacked Garrard. Schoepf arrived in time to help repulse the Confederates. Zollicoffer retired, apparently satisfied with developing Garrard's force. Schoepf moved forward in pursuit but was stopped at London by an order from Brig. Gen. William T. Sherman's headquarters at Louisville.

The Battle of Camp Wildcat (by some called the Battle of Rockcastle Hills) was a minor affair. The Confederates lost 30 killed and about 100 wounded. The Federal troops, fighting on the defensive in a strong position, lost only four killed and 18 wounded. Since Zollicoffer had brought with him only two regiments and upon being repulsed had fallen back upon a larger Confederate force under Major Gen. George B. Crittenden, the threat to the Union Army remained, and it was apparent to Thomas and Sherman that Zollicoffer had been sent merely to probe Union strength. Thus the Camp Wildcat engagement was not decisive of anything and both sides realized that a real test of strength in southeastern Kentucky was yet to come.

Gen. Thomas was an ardent advocate of a Union invasion of East Tennessee, a section strongly Unionist in sympathy. However, he lacked equipment and transportation. Content with repulsing Zollicoffer, he bided his time.

The Kentucky Department of Public Safety reminds drivers that whenever a school bus stops on the highway to take on or discharge passengers, all other vehicles on that road must halt too. This law applies to vehicles approaching the standing bus from either direction, and is in force on both two-lane and multi-lane roads, whether or not there is a dividing strip.

HAZARD NEARS TITLE IN EASTERN LOOP

Hazard and Fleming-Neon will settle the high school football race in Neon, Friday night, when the two teams battle for the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference and the District 2 championships.

Considerable luster was taken from the game Saturday night as Jack Hall's Pirates dropped their first game in eight starts to Everts, a non-league and regional foe.

Fleming rolled to a 13-0 half-time margin, then virtually quit as the Wild Cats tallied three touchdowns in the final half to post a 20-13 victory.

Belfry's Pirates stayed in contention for second place in both races as they blasted Jenkins, 33-0. The Pirates are 5-1 in the conference and 4-1 in the regional standings. Jenkins, in losing, is now out of contention.

All of last Friday's games were played in a constant downpour of rain and Saturday night's were no better, although no rain fell on the mud-soaked gridirons.

Whitesburg downed Prestonsburg, 19-6, in a sea of mud before some 100 brave fans. Hazard had no trouble with Leslie County, 32-6; Wheelwright and Mt. Sterling Duries deadlocked, 0-0; Middletown tripped M. C. Napier, 33-0; Pikeville routed Elkhorn City, 40-0, and M. M. I. won over Paintsville, 20-0.

Butch Green, the area's leading scorer, played only seven minutes as Hazard used its entire squad in downing undermanned Leslie County. Green, only a sophomore, took the opening kickoff and sped 93 yards for his 21st touchdown in the state in scoring.

Art Smith, with two touchdowns and one extra point, paced the detts of M. M. I. past Paintsville in another mud-soaked fray. Smith scored from the 11 and one-yard stripes and Don Miller tallied the other on a six-yard run.

Harlem Hoboes To Play Indianapolis Clowns Here

New York Harlem Hoboes often bill themselves as "Independent Basketball Champions of the Nation," and the team usually has an annual won and lost record to support that claim. The famous Hoboes will invade the Prestonsburg high school fieldhouse, Wednesday, November 15, to take on the Indianapolis Clowns. Game time is at 8 p.m.

When James Austin organized the popular vagabond team, he wanted something more than just another cage team playing comic basketball. Evidently, a successful solution was found, for during the 1960-1961 season the Hoboes won 94 games and lost only six while playing against some of the nation's leading semi-pro and independent teams.

The Hoboes 1961 personnel is one of the best in the team's long history and is led by clown prince Raz Henderson, playmaker deluxe from Washington, D. C. Besides being a natural comedian Raz is one of the team's most proficient scorers, averaging 27 points per game. Other outstanding players are: Leroy Matthews, 6 ft. 6-in. forward from New York City; Tony Brooks (6-7), also from New York; George Crowder, 6-8 center from Philadelphia; Billy "The Kid" Jones, stellar forward from Newark, New Jersey, and Perry Warren, guard from Alabama State College.

November Food Guide Released; Buyers Urged To Choose from Lists

Turkeys and cranberries—two traditional Thanksgiving foods—are among the plentiful foods listed in the U. S. Department of Agriculture's November food guide for Floyd county, grocers participating in the pilot food stamp program.

The monthly food guide is a special service for food distributors in food stamp project areas, according to Arvid Dopson, USDA's representative supervising the pilot project in Floyd county.

The foods listed in the food guide are recommended to stamp coupon recipients as "wise buys" of the month. By buying those foods listed in the guide, the shopper will stretch her food stamp buying power.

In addition to turkeys and cranberries, other plentiful foods listed in the November food guide are apples, cabbage, pork, potatoes, dry beans, dry peas, and lard and shortenings. Other nutritional foods which will be good buys during November are evaporated milk, carrots, squash, pumpkins, hominy grits and cornmeal.

The list of foods recommended in the monthly food guide contains the best buys within the four basic food groups—meats, milk and dairy products, fruits and vegetables, and breads and cereals. Servings from each of these four food groups daily will insure more adequate nutrition.

What's Going On FISH & WILDLIFE
by MINOR CLARK, Commissioner
Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources

Publicity on any hunting season would be incomplete without a stern reminder to hunters to be careful with their firearms; to avoid accidents; to protect themselves and others while enjoying a hunt.

Perhaps, too great an emphasis is placed on harvesting game and maybe that is the reason for the great number of hunting accidents that occur each year. But, on the other hand, maybe the increased number of accidents is a result of the greater number of participants and not of negligence on the part of the hunters. The number of auto accidents increases steadily year by year and that is largely due to the fact that more autos are in use. So, maybe the hunters of today are just as careful as those of past years, and accidents are the result of overcrowding in the field. Maybe this is correct, but I doubt it.

I suspect that accidents still are the result of the unthinking hunter; the fellow who is hell-bent on getting his limit of game regardless of the results attendant thereto. I suspect that many accidents also result from the fact that novices are allowed to go into the field with rifles or shotguns about which they know little or nothing other than that they'll fire, provided ammunition is placed in the right place, the hammer is cocked and the trigger pulled. These two things, I believe, are responsible for a greater number of hunting accidents than all others combined.

Now, let's analyze these two faults that are so often found among hunters. On the one hand we find the fellow who looks up on hunting as a challenge. He

Local Churchwomen Hold Meeting Here

The Prestonsburg Council of Church Women met last Wednesday, at the First Methodist Church. The meeting opened with a song and prayer. Minutes were approved for the August meeting, installation service and the executive board meeting. The treasurer, Mrs. Joe Arnett, reported a balance in the treasury of $133.

There was a general discussion about further financing of the Prayer Room for the Prestonsburg General Hospital. The members voted to add $75 to the $50 already slated for furnishing the room. Since all of the county would benefit from this project, it was suggested that any resident of the county who would like to contribute should send donations to Mrs. Joe Arnett, Treasurer, Box 131, West Prestonsburg. The remainder necessary to complete the Prayer Room is approximately $400. An amendment to the constitution had its first reading.

The next general meeting will be held the third Wednesday in January at the Arnold Avenue Church of Christ at 1:30 p.m.

A pledge to the flag led by Mrs. Marvin Music, first vice-president of the Prestonsburg club, and the singing of "America," followed by the invocation by the Rev. Orin Simmerman, pastor of First Methodist Church, were the first items of business. A cordial welcome was given the members and guests by Mrs. Burl Spurlock, president of the hostess club, and the response was made by Mrs. John Hall, of the Allen-Martin club.

Mrs. May then recognized the following state officers: Mrs. C. E. Morgan, Leitchfield, state president; Mrs. L. T. Follett, Mt. Sterling, fourth vice-president, K. F. W. C.; Mrs. George Cohen, Mt. Sterling, chairman of the committee on Resolutions; Mrs. Nicholas Bachert, chairman of the Vogue Fashion Contest, and Mrs. Arthur Bradbury, Wheelwright, chairman of U. S. Saving Bonds.

Mrs. May gave her report on her tenure of office as seventh district governor. A few items of interest from her report included an award for the largest percentage of honor clubs in the state for the year 1959-1960; also outstanding work done by the different clubs in the field of education, library, youth work, spiritual values and particularly the Governor's beautification program.

Followed an address by Mrs. C. B. Morgan, state president, who spoke of the club woman's place in the world today. She also stressed the sponsoring of seat belts for passenger cars and the control of uterine cancer. Both projects are stressed by the National Federation.

Two other interesting features of the morning session were the presentation of the boys' chorus of the Prestonsburg grade school, under the direction of Mrs. Chalmer Frazier, and a talk by Mrs. J. D. Adams, of Prestonsburg, on the subject of uterine cancer. A question-and-answer period followed.

At the close of the morning session a motorcade was formed. Traveling by way of the scenic lake drive to the Paintsville Country Club, members and guests were served a buffet luncheon there.

At the beginning of the afternoon session Mrs. W. A. Rose, of the music committee of the Prestonsburg club, presented Mrs. Ira McMillen who sang two selections. She was accompanied by Mrs. Joe Buchanan. Minutes of the morning session were read by Mrs. Zella Archer, acting secretary, after which Mrs. May asked for reports from the various clubs. These were given in the form of skits. The Jenkins Woman's Civic Club received the award for the best skit. Prestonsburg placed second and Wheelwright, third.

A door prize of two automobile seat-belts was won by Mrs. E. P. Hill, Jr. The award for best attendance was won by the Jenkins Club. An invitation for the 1962 meeting was extended by the Pikeville club.

Installation of these new officers was made by Mrs. C. B. Morgan, state president.

Preceding the morning session a coffee was held at the home of Mrs. J. H. Keenon for members and guests by the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club.

WE NEED GOOD DEPUTIES

Have you ever thought about the qualifications of a deputy sheriff?

I am listing my idea of what a deputy sheriff should do, how he should act toward others and what is expected of him. I believe that you who want honest law enforcement and protection for your homes, families, schools and churches have the same idea.

See if this is not your idea, too.

A deputy should be sober, settled, courteous, cheerful and a law-abiding citizen who believes in the enforcement of law and who is not a law violator himself.

Our people have no respect for officers who themselves violate the law but our people have great respect for officers who are sober and honest in the enforcement of the law.

A deputy should treat all persons in all walks of life, rich or poor, regardless of creed or color with courtesy and should remember that he, the deputy, is the servant of the people.

A deputy must not undertake to settle cases out of court. Neither should he under any circumstances violate his oath of office to uphold the law by accepting bribes in the form of money, gifts or favors.

It is the duty of a Sheriff or any of his deputies to serve all papers and make returns on them as quickly as possible. This includes warrants, writs of delivery, summons, executions and notices.

It is the duty of the Sheriff and his deputies to visit our churches, schools and public gatherings regularly and to keep order at all times.

A deputy should be in uniform at all times and should wear identification as a deputy at all times.

A deputy should not be a "show-off" just because he is a deputy sheriff.

Deputies should patrol our roads regularly to safeguard our people who use them going to school, church, work or home.

I BELIEVE I HAVE DESCRIBED THE TYPE OF MEN YOU WANT AS DEPUTY SHERIFFS.

I PROMISE YOU THAT THIS IS THE TYPE OF MEN I WILL HIRE AS DEPUTIES, BUT I NEED YOUR HELP NOW AND IF ELECTED WILL NEED YOUR HELP IN SELECTING THE TYPE OF DEPUTIES DESCRIBED ABOVE.

I WILL NEED YOUR VOTE AND SUPPORT AND THE VOTES AND SUPPORT OF YOUR FRIENDS IF I AM ELECTED AND PLACED IN A POSITION WHERE I CAN HIRE THIS TYPE OF MEN AS YOUR LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICERS.

PLEASE TELL YOUR FRIENDS ABOUT THIS AND ASK THEM TO HELP ME. PLEASE KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK IN MY BEHALF.

Woman's Club Supports Proposed Library Levy; Statement Notes Reasons

The Prestonsburg Woman's Club issued a statement this week urging voters to support the proposed tax to insure continuance of the present regional and county library facilities.

The statement follows: "This vote is necessary because the state told the library board that to keep the regional and county library, the bookmobiles, and the books Floyd county must vote a tax November 7. If we win, we keep it all and receive additional state income. If the vote for the library and bookmobile fails, it will go to another section of the state ready for a regional library.

"As citizens of Floyd county we earnestly recommend that every voter who cares for the welfare of our children remember to look on the voting machine for the ballot and vote 'yes' for the library and bookmobile. The question will in effect say: 'Are you in favor of establishing a Floyd County Library district with a levy of 5c per $100 property assessment?' This levy will amount to only 25c on property assessed at $500, and 20c on property assessed at $400. A 'yes' vote is a vote to keep in Floyd county a public service institution that has by its service to all men, women and children earned the respect and appreciation it deserves. To parents and relatives of children who have read actually dozens of these library and bookmobile books we ask, 'Where else could your child have found these books?'"

LOSS STORY CHALLENGED

Tax Commission Member Denies Revenue Decline Chargeable Her Group

Mrs. Ann B. Hall, former State Representative from this county and now a member of the Kentucky Tax Commission, this week took sharp issue with the statement made by County Superintendent Charles Clark and Assistant Superintendent Wayne Ratliff to the effect that $15,000 had been lost to the school budget because of franchise assessment reductions made by the Tax Commission.

Mrs. Hall, who is the only woman ever to serve on the State Tax Commission, referred to The Floyd County Times' news-story quoting the two school officials as saying the loss resulted from a million-dollar decrease in the franchise assessment of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company and the United Fuel Gas Company.

Explaining that the Department of Revenue makes franchise assessments and that the State Tax Commission never sees such an assessment unless it is appealed, she said:

"Unfortunately, this was an inappropriate, ill-informed and inaccurate report. This is my recommendation: that Superintendent Clark and Assistant Superintendent Ratliff inform themselves of the tax structure and procedure in assessing and collecting taxes.

"The Kentucky revised statutes (KRS 138.180) would serve the purpose.

"If they had bothered to check these statutes prior to the issuance of this inaccurate statement they would have discovered that the Kentucky Tax Commission has nothing whatsoever to do with the assessment of franchises. The statutes provide the procedure for any assessment coming before the Kentucky Tax Commission. I think it is important to point out that neither the Superintendent or Assistant Superintendent bothered to make an appeal to the Kentucky Tax Commission on this matter. Therefore, the Tax Commission had no jurisdiction over the matter whatsoever."

James Bud Crum, 50, Of Martin, Is Victim Enroute To Hospital

James Bud Crum, 50, of Arkansas Creek, was dead on arrival at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, at 6:30 p.m., Sunday. Death was due to a heart condition.

Mr. Crum was a disabled miner and had been seriously ill two weeks. He was a son of Dave Crum, of Martin, and the late Virgie Spears Crum.

Surviving is his widow, Arabelle Prater Crum, and the following sons and daughters: Charles David Crum, Coalinga, California, James Russell Crum, Ronnie Crum and Miss Ola Jean Crum, all of Martin, Larry Crum, and Don Crum, both of Manton. Surviving are two stepsons, Glenn Rose, Ashland, and Benny Ray Rose, Jefferson, Ohio. Surviving brothers and sisters are Orville Crum, Mrs. Dakota Conn, Mrs. Edna Layne, all of Martin, Ruford Crum, Coalinga, California, Mrs. Mary Adkins and Mrs. Cora Belle Adkins, both of Marshall, Michigan.

Funeral rites were conducted at 10 a.m., Wednesday, from the home on Arkansas Creek, the Revs. Bill Amburgey and others officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery under the direction of Turner-Ryan Funeral Home.

THE FAMILY

AID TO CHILDREN PROGRAM SWELLING RELIEF ROLLS

The federal government's well-intended Aid to Dependent Children program has become "a tragic moral and economic problem of the first magnitude," writes Charles Stevenson in the November Reader's Digest.

He summarizes coast-to-coast interviews with welfare workers and four-state government investigations in a lengthy article "Children Without Fathers," subtitled "The Shocking Truth About the Aid to Dependent Children Welfare Program."

"It can only be concluded," he charges, "that the federal subsidized ADC relief rolls are contributing to debauchery and fostering a demoralizing dependency on government handouts."

Investigations in California, New Jersey, Wisconsin and Illinois turned up shocking conditions. In California, ADC supports 70,000 illegitimate children, of whom 26,000 were conceived while their mothers were collecting for older children. In Chicago, seven out of ten ADC families collect for illegitimates.

In Washington, D. C., a mother sent her seven children to beg in the streets while she used ADC checks to buy steak for her paramour. The Wisconsin legislature found ADC money was being squandered in taverns. A San Diego jeweler protested that one woman had bought three watches with ADC checks. But it is impossible to put any strings on how the money is to be spent. Federal rules say it is each recipient's right to do anything she wishes with it—even if the children grow up hungry in filthy, immoral homes.

One reason the program is self-perpetuating, Stevenson writes, is because those getting it are barred from trying to improve their condition. A boy may not deliver newspapers after school or take a summer job; any money he earns will be deducted from his mother's ADC check.

Mr. Fain has been assistant administrator at the Williamson Memorial Medical Center, one of the larger units in the Hospital Association's system. He succeeds Harold Parks, who has been named administrator of the Richland Memorial hospital at Olney, Ill.

A native of Winona, Fayette county, West Virginia, Mr. Fain spent his early years in coal mining communities of Greenbrier county, West Va. He was graduated from Rainelle, West Va., High School and New River State College, now the West Virginia Institute of Technology, at Montgomery, West Virginia. He also attended Capitol City Commerce College at Charleston, West Va. During high school summers he worked at the Imperial Smokeless Coal Company, laying track and setting timbers.

He holds a reserve commission as captain in the Medical Service Corps of the United States Army. During World War II, he served in the Panama Canal Zone, Guatemala, Central America, Hawaii and Japan.

Mr. Fain was employed by the Appalachian Electric Power Company in Charleston and by the Monarch Life Insurance Company before joining the Miners Memorial Hospital Association on November 14, 1955, as administrative assistant at the Middlesboro Memorial hospital. After serving briefly in the personnel office of the MMHA in Williamson, he was made assistant administrator at the Williamson hospital center.

He is married to the former Mary Gladys Dean of Gassaway, West Va., and they are the parents of four children.

words, "Dr. Jones—His Office Upstairs." As the years passed, the sign at the foot of the stairway grew more decrepit, the paint faded and the sign itself banged wildly in the wind.

But the old doctor went his way, receiving the misfits and driving his ancient nag hitched to a dilapidated buggy on long trips into the countryside to make calls the other doctor in the town refused to make. Then, one wintry night when the doctor took along some spirits to keep him warm, death came to the old derelict. He was found next morning, frozen stiff.

Came the time for his funeral, and all the rag-tag of the town went out to the briar-covered graveyard outside town, trooping behind the coffin as it was driven in a wagon by a colored man to its last resting place. A few words were said, and the body was committed. Then those who were penitence or had not enough to buy the next drink turned to the matter of getting a marker for the grave of this man who was their friend. There was not enough to finance a slab of marble. There was the matter of a fitting epitaph for this kind-hearted man who saw human needs and answered them. The rabble was almost as devoid of ideas as it was of money.

But the old Negro who had driven the wagon bearing the pine box coffin out to the cemetery solved it all. He was gone a few minutes, then reappeared, bearing with him a faded, wooden sign. It was the old sign which read: "Dr. Jones—His Office Upstairs."

SHAKESPEARE SLANDERED

A part of our household passed up the more or less inspiring sight of a hero riding off into the sunset, the other night, to see the TV version of "Macbeth." Asked later if he enjoyed it, one member of our group replied, "It was all right, but I couldn't understand all that slang!"

PAGING MR. TROUT

Val Strahan called, the other day, trying to put me into competition with Allan Trout, the Courier-Journal's noted specialist on such matters. Wanted to know he said, what is the meaning of the expression, "a horse quart."

My barnyard scientists have all gone fishing, and this has me up the well-known stump. (Come to think of it, where did that expression originate?) So I conjecture:

A horse quart (or, as they said up our way, a hoss quart) is enough hard liquor to kill a horse. Or could it mean a quart bottle shaped for use in drenching a horse? I did think I would bring up the matter of a quarter horse, but let's skip it.

Since I am challenged, and cannot pick up the gauntlet, I counter with one of my own to ease the pressure. Why do folks say, "That costs so much it would break a man up?" Why doesn't it break a poor man down?

Never mind—let Trout give the answer.

AUDITOR URGES STATE WATCH BIG SPENDING

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 13 — State control of major expenditures by the 211 schools districts, plus annual state audits, were recommended Friday to the Commission on Public Education by State Auditor Joe Schneider.

His plan to tighten financial administration of public-school funds contained 20 points of suggested fiscal reform, all of which would require new laws by the 1962 Legislature.

The strong state control he urged, Schneider said, was based on the fact that the state puts up nearly 70 per cent of the money for public schools.

Attorney General John B. Breckinridge and Wendell P. Butler, superintendent of public instruction, also gave the commission their views on what is needed in the way of school reform.

The commission will hold another closed session October 21 at Louisville. At this one it will solicit views of reform from the board of directors of Kentucky Education Association in the K. E. A. Building on the campus of the University of Louisville.

These discussions center around the vast array of recommendations already made in reports by Booz, Allen & Hamilton, a Chicago consulting firm, and by the curriculum committee of 12 Kentucky educators headed by U. of L. Professor Carl Abner.

Still to come are a report on the foundation program by associated Consultants in Education, Meridian, Miss., and a series of statewide public hearings before the commission makes its own report of suggested reforms to Governor Combs.

The Governor, in turn, will advocate a program of reform to the 1962 legislature. This sequence was triggered by the 1960 session which, after its own investigation of the school system, ordered the sweeping inquiry costing $162,000.

Remarks of Breckinridge to the commission centered around his basic beliefs that:

1. The public should have a more effective voice in control of public education, achieved best, perhaps, by a stronger State Board of Education.

2. The superintendent of public instruction should be appointed, rather than elected in a political race. The Attorney General noted that, as a member of the House in 1956, he introduced the constitutional amendment to achieve that end, only to see it defeated at the November election of 1957.

3. The Attorney General should be empowered to sue in Franklin circuit court to recover misused school funds, rather than in the county where the offense occurred.

4. The State Board of Education should be given strong disciplinary authority over local boards of education, superintendents and teaching staffs.

Remarks of Butler to the board center around his basic beliefs that:

1. On the whole, both reports already submitted contain good recommendations. But many of them already have been achieved, others are in process of attainment, others have been tried and failed, and others are lying passive for want of money to activate them.

2. Change for the mere sake of change is pure waste. Rather, the substantial segment of public education that is good should be retained. Reform should be centered on the areas that need it.

3. Public education in Kentucky is not as good as the professional educators say it is, or as bad as its critics claim. Open minds are the greatest need in the borderline between these extreme views. There is as much danger in sugar-coating unpleasant reality as there is in ignoring reform where it is needed.

4. Certainly, state control over education should be administered by educators.

Schneider emphasized that his plan of fiscal reform, while rooted to the situation in Carter county, reflects what he and his staff deem to be of statewide application and advantage.

However, he added: "Let us not forget that the criteria for improvement rest in the proper administration and enforcement of laws as much as in the laws passed."

"We have some good laws on the books now. However, the best school laws in the United States would be no better than the administration and enforcement of them."

His 20-point plan follows:

1. The State Auditor should be empowered to audit each district annually, at the estimated cost of $250,000, or a fourth of a per cent of the money Kentucky puts into the school system.

2. With approval of the State Auditor, a district could let this examination be done by outside accountants under private contract.

3. All purchases of more than $1,000, including contracts for personal service, should be sent to the Department of Finance at Frankfort for bidding and awarding.

4. All gasoline, oil, etc., should be bought from a dealer who is under a master contract with the Department of Finance.

5. All insurance should be administered by the Department of Finance, and contracts awarded to the lowest bidders.

6. All capital improvements to school plants exceeding $1,000 should be approved jointly by the Department of Education and the Department of Finance, with the latter empowered to award contracts after obtaining lowest bids.

7. A study in depth should be undertaken to discover ways to overcome excessive markups in property bought by school districts.

8. No school board should be allowed to pay out money for anything until a majority of the members have approved the claims for payment.

9. Every school district should be forced to employ a qualified finance officer.

Cure for Buck Fever May Never Be Found, Sportsmen Are Warned

With all the accomplishments of medical science, there is yet to be discovered a cure for buck fever. This is a rather common ailment among sportsmen who embark upon big game hunting for the first time, or, on occasion, among the hunters who are seasoned veterans. For some reason the hot flashes, nervous jitters and cold chills that combine to form buck fever never appear at home or the office, but always in the wilderness just at the precise time a cool head and steady hand are in demand.

When the first deer you've ever seen in the wild strolls around a point or emerges from the underbrush you're a likely victim for buck fever. As you slowly raise the gun to your shoulder the icy chill that came over you when the deer was first spotted subsides and a warm glow fills your bones. Then, as zero hour approaches, the time when man, deer and gun come nose to nose, then comes the shakes. The internal vibrating machine is activated. The head on the gun barrel is as big as a cannon ball, the deer suddenly shrinks to miniature and the background is a blur. This is buck fever.

During the month of October when bow and arrow hunters are in the field and through the four-day gun season, November 8-11, many outdoorsmen will diagnose his sudden illness as buck fever. The Kentucky deer herds are ample and can provide many cases of this well-known fever. Over 11,500 sportsmen are expected to deer hunt this season and a great percentage of them should experience this sudden illness called buck fever but all will survive, since it is not fatal, although they will never be able to describe the sensation when the hot flashes, cold chills, nervous jitters and deer appear at the same instant.

Forty-one Kentucky counties are listed as possible buck fever epidemic areas this year with the addition of four new counties, according to the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. Knowing the deer hunting regulations before you take to the field will aid greatly in preventing any other sudden illness, such as court costs or accidental hunting deaths.

'62 CORVAIR MONZA

NEW FACE, SAME SPORTING HEART

We might as well tell you straight off: Corvair's the car for the driving enthusiast. Think that lets you out? Maybe not.

Until you've driven one, you really can't say for sure, because Corvair's kind of driving is like no other in the land. The air-cooled rear engine sees to that. You swing around curves flat as you please. You whip through the sticky spots other cars should keep out of in the first place. (Especially this year, now that you can get Positraction as an extra-cost option.) You stop smoothly, levelly with Corvair's beautifully balanced, bigger brakes.

Corvair's found other new ways to please you this year. A forced-air heater and defroster are standard equipment on all coupes, sedans and both Monza and 700 Station Wagons. So are dual sunshades and front-door armrests and some other goodies. You'll note some new styling, inside and out. Nice. And safety-belt installation is easier, too, and cheaper.

So you can see we haven't really done much to Corvair this year. Why on earth should we? If this car, just as she is, can't make a driving enthusiast out of you, better take a cab.

And here's America's only thoroughbred sports car, the '62 CORVETTE. We warn you: If you drive a Corvette after your first sampling of a Corvair, you may well end up a two-car man. And who could blame you?

Separate Property Tax On Each Motor Vehicle Not Additional Tax

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 23 (Spl.) — The separate property tax bill sent out by county tax commissioners on each motor vehicle owned in Kentucky is not a bill for a new or additional tax, William S. Riley, chief of the Revenue Department's legal section, has pointed out.

The separate bills were sent because of a new law requiring proof that the ad valorem (property) tax has been paid on a motor vehicle before it can be licensed.
"There is no new tax on motor vehicles, nor does the new law impose double taxation," Riley said. "The ad valorem tax on motor vehicles has long been part of Kentucky's property taxes, and the registration fee has also been in existence a long time—there is no new taxation under this law."

The separate motor vehicle tax bills were sent out despite the fact that the Court of Appeals is yet to decide on the validity of the new law. It was declared unconstitutional by Franklin circuit court. The Revenue Department appealed this decision.

The separate tax bills are on each motor vehicle registered in the owner's name as of last March 1. This is now the assessment date for motor vehicles instead of January 1. The amount shown on the bill is due during November. It is overdue if not paid by December 1. A 2 per cent discount is allowed for payment before November 1. An overdue bill is subject to a 6 per cent penalty, plus a $1.50 fee for filing and releasing a lien.

The purpose of the law is to ensure that all owners of motor vehicles pay the property tax due on their vehicles, Riley said. He pointed out that it is only fair to those who do not attempt to evade the tax that all vehicle owners should pay.

Antarctic Seas Rich In Flora

Washington, D. C.—The icy seas surrounding Antarctica spawn so much flora that they abound with a large population of fish, birds, seals and whales, some of which consume more than a ton of food a day, the National Geographic Society says.
Plant life in antarctic waters is so thick that visibility in the water is only one third that of the warm central Pacific.

Diagnostic Heart Clinic For Medically Indigent Scheduled At Pikeville

A one-day consultative and diagnostic heart clinic for medically indigent children will be held in the Pike County Health Department at Pikeville, Friday, November 3. The clinic will serve patients from Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Maclin and Pike counties.

Guest consultants at the clinic will be Dr. Joseph A. Little, of Louisville, and Dr. John H. Githens, of Lexington.

Co-sponsored by the Kentucky Heart Association and the State and County Health Departments, the clinic provides a diagnostic service for the patient, along with recommendations for treatment and management of the case. It also provides an opportunity for the referring physician to consult with the clinician regarding his patient.

Necessary expenses of the clinic are being underwritten by the Kentucky Heart Association as a Heart Fund service. Clinic personnel, as well as space and equipment, will be provided by the Pike County Health Department and the State Health Department.
Only those patients who have been referred by a physician and have a written referral will be admitted to the clinic.

HISTORY OF REGULAR BAPTISTS

A new regional history of the Regular Baptist churches of the tri-state area has just been published. It is the work of Rufus Perrigan, Haysi, Virginia.

The new book traces the origins of the several Baptist Associations and covered by the volume is the history of New Salem, Union, Indian Bottom, Mud River, Sardis, Friendship, Kyova, Philadelphia, Thornton Union and Northern New Salem Associations.

New Salem Association was the second organized in Eastern Kentucky and covered a wide area. It was organized in 1825 and the most recent, Northern New Salem Association, was set up in 1957.

The first association was constituted by churches in Floyd, Letcher, Perry and Pike counties. It was composed of eight churches dismissed from Burning Springs Association.

The New Salem Association was founded at Big Mud Creek, New Salem church, founded in 1812, was originally in the Burning Springs Association. The records of the Big Mud church from 1812 to 1870 have been lost.

One of the earliest Baptist churches of our area is the Stone Coal Regular Baptist church at Garrett. It was founded about 1808 by John Morris, Sr., W. M. Huff, Sam Coburn, Simeon Justice and John Hays, Jr. Originally the church must have belonged to the South Licking Association. The oldest minute book is dated 1834.

Quoting Perrigan:

"This old church has always met on the second Saturday and Sunday of each month. . . . It is the mother. . . of most of the churches of the Old Regular Baptist in Floyd and the surrounding counties. They met for years in a log house which was destroyed by fire then they built on the J. C. B. Hays farm. This house was used until 1913. This was taken over by the C. & O. railway for a small sum or nothing. The church was then moved to Rock Fork Creek and built on Brother Brison Howard's farm and it was there until Brother Howard died. It then bought the present site from the Floyd County Board of Education for the sum of $1,300. This was the first church house this old church had a deed for."

It had a division over predestination in 1896 that last until 1913. The present moderator is the aged and respected M. M. Chaffins.

Many venerable churchmen have served Stone Coal Church since its founding. Elder John Morris was moderator from 1808 to 1849. Others have been H. Dickerson, Stephen Nolan, Thomas Gilbert, Nathan Kelly, William Mullins, Samuel Maggard, William C. Cook, D. P. Allen and R. R. Hicks. Elder Chaffins became moderator in 1913.

Typical of the history of the Regular Baptist churches of the Eastern Kentucky area is that of Indian Bottom church organized in 1810, then Floyd county, now Letcher county. Church work in the area began with Jacob Ebersole or Eversole, a Baptist minister, who settled in Perry county in 1789. He was a German and spoke with a heavy accent. He lived to be 100 years old. Following Ebersole, Richard Smith, a Baptist minister came to Perry county in 1790 and after establishing a home-stead, began to preach. He lived in what later became Breathitt county.

In 1807, Elections Thompson, Simeon Justice and William Salisbury forwarded the church work in the region. Justice and Salisbury were from Floyd county, the former a native, as was Thompson, of North Carolina, and Salisbury originally from Connecticut. The three constituted Indian Bottom church in 1810.

The three Baptist pioneers were from the North District Association. Members of the Indian Bottom church were from the families of Webb, Caudill, Adams, Kelly, Craft, Taulbee and Whitaker.

THE MIDAS GAS COMPANY

Under the heading, "Natural Gas Deal Pending," in the Louisville Evening Post, January 1, 1919, there was a story that recalls the negotiations for the procurement of a large gas supply from the area by the City of Louisville.

The new story is datelined Prestonsburg and follows:

Prestonsburg, Ky., Jan. 19 — It is reported here that interests identified with the Midas Gas Company have entered into negotiations with officials of the Louisville Gas & Electric Company to sell 20,000,000 feet of gas daily to that company. The exact status of the matter has not been made

HOUSE WAS NEVER MOVED YET STOOD IN FOUR COUNTIES

Near the mouth of Breeding's Creek on Carr's Fork in Knott county stands an old house built by Thomas and Adelpia Carter Johnson in the first decade of the nineteenth century. It was built in Floyd county, cut to Perry county, later put in Letcher when that county was formed and finally was placed in Knott county in 1884.

It became a noted hostelry on the road between Hindman, Hazard and Whitesburg before and after the Civil War and noted Baptist ministers, Revs. Simeon Justice, William Salisbury and Elections Thompson, stopped there. Justice afterward married Thomas Johnson's widow and lived in the house for years. Fielding Johnson, first county attorney of Knott county, was born in the old home.

Patrick Johnson, owner of recent years, is shown standing in front of the home in which he and his people resided for a century and a half.

The First National Bank presents these pictures of the region's past in recognition of a rich historic heritage.

10. The treasurer and finance officer should be bonded for $25,000 each, except in districts that get more than $1,000,000 in state funds. There the bonds should be $100,000 each.

11. Principals should be required to channel all purchases through the finance officer.

12. Bids, invoices, canceled checks and supporting documents should be preserved in the superintendent's office for five years, and ledgers of original entry should be kept indefinitely. After five years, bids, invoices, etc., could be destroyed only upon authority of the State Auditor.

14. No school bus should be allowed to operate unless it has been inspected and approved by the Department of Public Safety. Inspection reports should be filed permanently at Frankfort.

15. No district should be permitted to spend more than 60 per cent of its budget in the first six months of the fiscal year. This is designed to prevent overspending the second six months.

16. Property of a school board should not be permitted to be owned jointly with an individual, partnership or corporation.

17. No district should be allowed to sell property except to the high bidder. Such sales should be for cash, rather than personal notes.

18. No district should be permitted to install and pay for any public utility in other than a school building.

19. The State Auditor should be empowered to stop payments to vendors engaged in questionable transactions with school boards. It should be the auditor's duty to identify questionable vendors to all districts, forbidding the districts to do business with them until the auditor lifts the ban.

20. State suits to recover school funds misplaced, misused or embezzled should be brought in Franklin circuit court, rather than the county where the offense occurred.

The auditor added three recommendations not related directly to fiscal management:

1. All five members of a local board should be elected at the same election, rather than two at one election and three at the election two years later.

2. All actions of a school board should be recorded in the minutes.

3. Educational qualifications of school board members should be raised from the eighth to the 12th grade.

Child Welfare Office Is Temporarily Moved; District Includes Floyd

Frankfort, Oct. 23 (Spl.)—The District 10 office of the Kentucky Department of Child Welfare has been moved temporarily from Pikeville to Hazard, Child Welfare Commissioner Richard J. Clendenen announced last week.

Price Back was named acting supervisor of the district. He had been assistant supervisor of District 10, the Hazard, Hindman and Jackson offices.

Clendenen said the move was made because Miss Vera Wright, who had supervised the Tenth district from Pikeville, has resigned the post to be married.

Future correspondence for the district, including queries about adoptions, foster care and other protective services offered by the State Child Welfare Department, should be sent to Back at P. O. Box 21, Hazard, he said.

District 10 includes Floyd, Breathitt, Harlan, Johnson, Knott, Leslie, Letcher, Magoffin, Martin, Perry and Pike counties. There are nine local child welfare workers in the district.

HISTORICAL NOTES

public, but it is understood that some of the officials of the Midas Company were in Louisville recently conferring over the details of the transaction.

Negotiations for the gas supply of this company are said to have begun last summer, but that owing to the fact that the Louisville Gas & Electric Company had a contract with the Penngrade Oil & Gas Company for the sale of its gas production, aggregating 10,000,000 feet daily, to the Louisville Gas & Electric Company, the negotiations with the Midas Company were permitted to lag. However, it is said that the Louisville Gas & Electric Company recently became convinced that the Penngrade Company could not fulfill its contract to construct a pipe line, and that it has now taken up in earnest negotiations with the Midas Company, with a view to securing a supply of gas to take the place of that from West Virginia, which is said to be declining in volume.

The Midas field, which comprises 16,000 acres in Floyd county, adjacent to the scattered holdings of the Penngrade Company, lies in one block. The field was opened about six years ago and there are now twelve producing wells, having a daily flow of upwards of 20,000,000 feet of gas. This field is within twenty-five miles of Inez, Ky., the point at which the lines of the Louisville Gas & Electric Company from its Kermit station in West Virginia cross the state line into Kentucky.

Interests identified with the Midas Company have made arrangements with a large New York banking house to build the pipe line and erect the necessary pumping stations and compressors, and connect the line with the West Virginia line of the Louisville Gas & Electric Company.

Shortly after the war came on and there was a very strong demand for carbon. The Midas Company found it more profitable to convert its gas into carbon than to attempt to pipe it. However, since the war demand for carbon ceased the price was declined to the point where it is no longer profitable to use the gas for the manufacture of carbon, and the officers of the Midas Company are seeking an outlet.

The Midas field is said to be capable of almost unlimited development, and the supply of gas could be increased almost to any proportion to meet any increase in the demand.

The pipe line, it is said, could be laid during a few months next summer and the compressors and pumps could be installed during the same time, so that Louisville can be assured of an ample supply of gas for next winter and for the winters to come, if the negotiations with the Midas Company are concluded without delay.

TAXES AND AXES AND YOU.. The TAXPAYER ARE the VICTIM

VOTE FOR THE PEOPLE'S PARTY

November 7, 1961

HARRY SANDIGE FOR MAYOR

We, the undersigned, solicit your vote and support in our race for Mayor and City Council in the coming election.

We can OFFER YOU A MAYOR WHO WILL SERVE OUT HIS TERM, AND A CITY COUNCIL THAT WILL REPRESENT ALL THE PEOPLE.

ALL MEMBERS OF OUR TICKET ARE ALL SMALL OR AVERAGE INCOME PEOPLE WHO CANNOT AFFORD TO PAY INCREASED TAXES. CAN YOU AFFORD AN INCREASE? The City's indebtedness two years ago was equal to what it is now. WE DIDN'T RAISE YOUR TAXES THEN. CAN YOU AFFORD THE INCREASED TAXES NECESSARY TO INCREASE THE BUDGET THAT THE OPPOSITION PROMISES TO DO?

We all want improvements for our town and people but does the OPPOSITION WANT IMPROVEMENTS OR A HIGH CLASS WONDERLAND WITH A BIG, BIG PRICE TAG? REMEMBER, YOU, THE TAXPAYER, PAY THE BILLS. WOULD YOU BE CONSIDERED IF YOU HAPPEN TO INTERFERE WITH A DESIRABLE LOCATION FOR SOME VENTURE SPONSORED BY THE OPPOSITION? DO YOU WANT TO PAY FOR THE BIG VENTURES? WHO WILL BENEFIT FROM THESE VENTURES?

WE WILL CONTINUE OUR EFFORTS TO SECURE ALL BENEFITS AVAILABLE FROM AREA DEVELOPMENT IN THE FORM OF FEDERAL AID FOR MUCH NEEDED IMPROVEMENTS IN OUR TOWN. THIS MATTER WAS MET WITH COMPLETE DISREGARD BY YOUR PRESENT MAYOR. HIS REFUSAL TO SIGN A RESOLUTION REQUESTING AID FOR OUR TOWN IN MAY, 1961 IS A MATTER OF PUBLIC RECORD. WHY WAS THIS A BAD THING FOR OUR TOWN THEN?

IF YOU WANT A PORTION OF YOUR INCOME TAX DOLLARS TO BE RETURNED TO YOU IN THE FORM OF FEDERAL AID IN NEEDED IMPROVEMENTS,

THEN VOTE FOR THE PEOPLE'S PARTY.

The Mare Creek grade school presented a pie social, October 14. The room was filled almost to capacity as Mart Spradlin auctioned the pies. There was a pretty girl contest, and when the bidding was all done the winner was Eloise Spradlin, of Mare Creek, and the runner-up was Margaret Spradlin, a student at Betsy Layne high school. In third place was Doris Ann Lewis, a student at Mare Creek.

There was also a lot of interest in the ugly man contest as both men and women entered the bidding and when it was all over the winner was the man who auctioned the pies, who was selected by a vote of two to one. In second place was Bobby Boyd, of Mare Creek.

In the cake walk at the end of the program, 38 participants marched around the room until the music stopped. The winner of the cake was Peggy Carol Collins, of Mare Creek.

To The Voters of Magisterial Dist. No. 4, Floyd County:

I, Eddie Akers, candidate for Magistrate of District 4, appeal to you as voters for help to make our district a safer and better place in which to live. My record is open to the public for investigation.

- My platform is as follows:
1. To perform the duties of the office without assistance;
 2. Devote full time to the office for 4 years;
 3. Visit the communities to see the needs of the people;
 4. Stand up for District 4 and see that the people get their share of their tax dollar to be spent on building roads.
 5. Employ safer and more qualified men to operate your county road machinery and see that it is kept on the public roads where it belongs. By doing this all the people will get more and better roads.
 6. The road machinery will not be used on private driveways where it is apt to be turned over or damaged by unqualified operators.

Where has your tax been spent? How many of you people have given free right-of-way over your land to get what little "dab" of road you have while certain ones, political tie-ins, got their price? Also, how many of you have given free right-of-way but still have no roads?

Remember.—Give me your vote November 7, 1961, and I will do my very utmost to give you what I have stated in my platform.

Your friend,
EDDIE AKERS

Governor Pictured In Ice Cream

Gov. Bert T. Combs smiles when surprised at Pikeville College during the 16th Governor's Tour, sponsored by the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce. Combs' portrait—on ice cream—was the dessert for the more than 350 persons who filled the college cafeteria. The unique treat, prepared by Foremost Dairies, is reportedly the first time for a "picture in ice cream" to be produced in Kentucky. Combs, traveling with 82 members of the State Chamber of Commerce, was touring Eastern Kentucky on a three-day itinerary. The group, which also included State Chamber of Commerce President Smith D. Broadbent, Jr., had stopped briefly at Prestonsburg before arriving at Pikeville to spend the evening.

SOIL CONSERVATION ESSAY CONTEST SUBJECT IS TOLD

Topic of the 1961 Soil Conservation Essay Contest is, "Water—Its Effect on My Community's Future."

This was announced by Barry Bingham, president of The Courier-Journal, The Louisville Times and WHAS, Inc.; Dr. Wendell P. Butler, state superintendent of public instruction, and Sam Clay, president of the Kentucky Association of Soil Conservation Districts.

Sponsored by newspapers and radio-television stations in cooperation with the Department of Education and the conservation association, this 18th annual contest offers $3,250 in U. S. Savings Bonds to grade and high school students in Kentucky.

State awards of $100, $75 and $50 bonds will go to the top three winners, and a $25 bond will be awarded to the writer of the best essay in each of the state's 121 soil conservation districts.

In addition to the bond awards, the top three winners along with their parents and teacher will receive all-expense paid trips to attend the 24th annual Farm Awards Luncheon in Louisville next February.

A certificate of merit will go to the winner and runner-up in each county, as well as to the writer of the best essay in each school.

Last year 44,188 students entered the essay contest through their schools. School superintendents and principals throughout the state have been sent complete details about this year's contest.

Reference materials are being made available through the Division of Soil and Water Resources at Frankfort.

Winter driving weather is ahead, warns the Kentucky Department of Public Safety. Now is a good time to check windshield wipers to make sure that they will be able to stand up under the rough treatment that icy days mean for them.

100 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Civil War in Kentucky

By JOE JORDAN
(Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week, Kentuckians who had not already joined one army or the other were leaving their homes and heading for Union or Confederate camps to enter the service. They often assembled in groups and traveled together; since both sides had troops in Kentucky, the volunteers risked being intercepted and captured by the enemy before they could reach a friendly camp.

According to the Mt. Sterling Whig, that was the fate of 30 Union men who had got together in Montgomery county and were preparing to go to Estill Springs to join a Federal regiment of which Col. Sid Barnes was the commanding officer. They were captured by a company of 100 mounted men, believed to have come from a Confederate camp at Prestonsburg. The newspaper did not know what had become of the would-be volunteers, but it speculated they probably were being held at the Prestonsburg camp.

The Louisville Journal published a report from Carrollton that in the adjacent county of Owen 100 men who intended to join the Confederate Army were planning to set out for Cumberland Gap. It purported to tell where they would cross the Kentucky River, at a place eight or nine miles upstream from Frankfort, and said they would be traveling mostly through secessionist territory. The Journal, a Unionist paper, added to the news story its own comment, "Their designs should be circumvented."

The U. S. War Department published an order that no more passes should be issued to civilians, permitting them to go through the Union lines into Confederate territory. "The new order of the War Department leaves no alternative," the Louisville Journal said. "The prohibition is absolute, and until this rebellion is crushed and peace is restored, there can be no connection with the seceding states on matters of business, pleasure, carriage or affection. . . . There can be no marriages, christenings or burials, the attending parties on which do not recognize a common political creed and acknowledge a common government fealty."
