This Town-- That World

Pay TV got another jolt with that two-minute k.o. of one Floyd Patterson.

SUCH IGNORANCE!

I continue to be surprised at the ignorance of some educated people. For instance, when I remarked, not long ago, that it would do a certain idler good to be put at the business end of a dutchberry, a well-known figure in the field of education confessed he didn't know what a dutchberry is, or was. It's an exaggerated sort of pick. And don't tell me you don't know what a pick is unless it's a choice.

HOW COME?

Some of these vestiges of oldtime speech creep up in my conversation with my youngsters, and they invariably get that questioning look. And then I fall to wondering about the origin or origins of such expressions. For instance, only today, when my attention was called to a man whose spraddling, rolling gait was a fair imitation of Li' Abner's, I remarked, "Looks like he's straddling a corn balk."

This, of course, was Greek to the youngster. So I explained that a corn balk is the space between two rows of corn. And then fell to wondering why its so-called. Consulting Webster's, I found that a definition of "balk" (marked, Rare) is "ridge." Yep, it's good, old Anglo-Saxon "balka," meaning ridge.

I wouldn't be at all surprised if there aren't a few left around whose education hasn't acquainted them with an understanding of what a "frow" is, or even a "gritter."

Anyway, "grittin' time" is just about past.

SUNSHINE AND SHADOW

If you don't like the gloomy weather we've been having, remember it's just a hint of worse to come. But before that will be Indian Summer, the turning of the leaves, the World Series and a lot of nice things. And, even in mid-winter, there's the snow and Christmas and the sheer joy of being alive (if we are).

Folks have been particularly nice to me this week. Probably figured I need encouragement. Well, it's good to know your friends. Also your enemies.

A Michigan subscriber writes he's particularly interested in the weather reports from Floyd county. I'll try to mention the weather, occasionally, but after last week's forecast which failed so dismally I'll stick to factual reporting rather than doing the crystal ball act. ## $25,000 BONDS ASKED OF MAGOFFIN-CO. MEN

TWO JAILED WHEN MEADE ESCAPES CAR

Former County Official Alleges Auto Was Seized; Death Threats Related

Bonds totalling $25,000 were asked Monday for the release of two Magoffin county men charged with the kidnapping and armed robbery of A. B. Meade, of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, malt beverage administrator and former Floyd county clerk and sheriff.

The two—James Gordon May, 18, of Lakeville, and Jackie Lee Salyers, 24, of Solyersville—were jailed here late Friday afternoon after they had commandeered Mr. Meade's auto, robbed him and threatened his life.

After he had heard Meade recount the details of his harrowing experience and after the defendants had declined to cross-examine their accuser or to testify in their own behalf, Trial Commissioner Harold J. Stumbo set their bonds and declared, "This is the most disgraceful thing I ever heard of."

Bonds demanded for the two are: $10,000 for kidnapping, $10,000 for armed robbery and $5,000 to keep the peace. The two were remanded to jail.

Declining to cross-examine Meade, May said, "Every word he told is the truth except about the knife." May claimed he had the knife in his pocket. "You had it laid right here," Meade retorted, putting his hand to the side of his neck.

"I made up my mind they were not going to take me through Prestonsburg," the former Floyd official declared. He said he contemplated snatching the steering wheel from May's grasp and cutting the car into another vehicle or other obstacle.

The opportunity came on the West Prestonsburg bridge. A girl was walking on the bridge as the car descended the grade into the intersection at the Prestonsburg end of the span. Meade called for help, and the girl in turn notified Sheriff Henry Hale as he drove past.

At the intersection, as May turned left to get onto U. S. 23 and drive on downriver, Meade said, he took a chance with the knife at his throat, turned the ignition key. (See Story on N. 3, Page 2)

Auto Theft, Two Breaks Reported in the County

Theft of a Prestonsburg man's automobile and breaks into a school lunchroom and a service station have been reported within the week.

The car of Claybourne Stephens, stolen here, was found wrecked at Louisiana, Ten dollars in silver, cigarettes, candy and other items were taken Monday night from the Paul Tackett Service Station on Mud Creek, and during the weekend the Harold school lunchroom was looted of foodstuffs.

All three cases are being investigated.

COURT RULES FOR WOMAN

Mrs. Cravens Awarded Damages from Doctor, Prestonsburg Hospital

Federal Judge Mac Swinford ruled last Friday in U. S. district court at Pikeville that Mrs. Anna Ruth Cravens, 26, is entitled to compensatory damages in the amount of $8,000 from Dr. John G. Archer and $2,500 from the Prestonsburg General hospital of which he is part-owner.

Mrs. Cravens, a former Floyd resident now living in Indiana, alleged carelessness and negligent care on the part of the defendants. She sued for $405,000 compensatory damages and $400,000 punitive damages.

"Expert" testimony was heard during the five-day trial of the case from doctors and nurses, some of whom are nationally known, and these expressed widely divergent views.

Mrs. Cravens accused Dr. Archer of neglecting her while she was a patient in the hospital in December, 1960. This, she charged, resulted in the loss of the child she was carrying. That loss, in turn, she asserted, necessitated removal of reproductive organs, which permanently impaired her physically.

The defendants denied any negligence on their part or on the part of the hospital staff. The death of the child she was carrying, they said, occurred after she left the hospital. Her condition, they added, did not result from fault or negligence on the part of the defendants or the hospital staff.

Judge Swinford said it was "difficult to understand why she (Mrs. Cravens) was not shown more concern by the nurses and the doctors." He noted that she had a record of two miscarriages and a child born by Caesarian operation.

'Little Joe' Bachman, Well-Known Minister, Killed in Auto Crash

The Rev. Joseph R. Bachman, Jr., who was known as "Little Joe" to congregations of Floyd Churches of Christ where he had preached, was killed in an auto accident Monday morning at Tazewell, Virginia, about 50 miles from his home in Cambria, Virginia.

The minister was en route to the Dover (Mason county) Christian Church to hold a revival when his car and that of Mrs. Tom Canipe, 61, of Tazewell, collided. He was driving alone at the time of the tragedy.

His father is a former pastor of Macedonia Christian Church, near Lexington. Besides his parents, he leaves his widow, three children and one sister. His funeral was conducted today (Thursday) from the Antioch Church of Christ, Keffer, Kentucky, and burial was made there.

Rev. Joseph R. Bachman, Jr., well-known minister, killed in auto crash.

Revival by Rev. Bolding Set At Baptist Church

A week of revival will begin at Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church here at the evening service Sunday, with the Rev. Haskell Bolding, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Corbin, the evangelist.

The Rev. Bolding is an outstanding gospel preacher and the public is invited to hear him during the series of services which will conclude with the Sunday morning service, October 7. Before going to Corbin he was pastor of the First Baptist Church at LaFollette, Tennessee, and the Oakland Street Baptist Church, Knoxville, Tennessee. He is a graduate of Carson-Newman University and the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville.

Choral and congregational singing will be led by Ray Jenkins, of Louisville, former director of music at First Baptist Church, Barbourville, and before his enrollment at Southern Baptist Seminary for further training associated with the Kentucky Baptist Music Department.

AUTO AGENCY OPENS HERE

David du Pont To Head Bruce Walters Car Firm; Lease Lake Dr. Building

David du Pont, of Pikeville, assumed the management here this week of Prestonsburg's newest automobile agency. The firm, Bruce Walters Ford, Inc., will occupy the former Valley Motor Car building on South Lake Drive. Mr. du Pont has moved here from Pikeville and will reside in the Ralph Archer home on Arnold avenue.

The new agency has leased the facilities of the Valley Motor Car Company. E. H. Williams, who had owned the firm since 1958, plans to move to Florida where he contemplates re-entering the automobile business.

Mr. du Pont, in a statement this week said:

"We have invested here because we believe Prestonsburg and Floyd county have a wonderful future. My family and I want to be a part of that future."

Workmen were busy this week readying the Ford agency for the new business.

PICK ARCHER KMA PREXY

Prestonsburg Physician Honored At Louisville; Citizenship Duty Noted

Dr. George P. Archer, of Prestonsburg, was unanimously elected president of the Kentucky State Medical Association by the Association's house of delegates meeting in Louisville last Wednesday.

The honor came to Dr. Archer, although he was not at the meeting. His name was placed in nomination and his election came in what was described as one of the most tranquil sessions in recent years.

The 47-year-old Archer was named by the Kentucky Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1949 as the Outstanding Young Kentuckian of the Year, and last year he was elected Mayor of Prestonsburg. The son of the late Dr. E. E. Archer, a native of Prestonsburg, he is chairman and was a principal organizer of the Kentucky Education and Medicine Political Action Committee (KEMPAC). In 1960 he received the Kentucky State Medical Association's Service Award.

Following his election as head of the Medical Association, Dr. Archer said he recognized political activity, even to the extent of running for office, as the duty of a citizen, which includes doctors. He also said that one of the leading medical problems in Kentucky and the (See Story No. 5, Page 4)

TEACHER WINS MISHAP SUIT

Johnson County Jury Awards Woman $20,000 From Floyd-Co. Man

Judgment for $20,000 was awarded a Johnson county schoolteacher Saturday, August 15, against a Train resident. It was the second highest judgment ever given in the Johnson circuit court.

The suit, filed by Mrs. Bertie Music, alleges she was injured in a head-on collision with a car driven by Bernard Perkins near Hager Hill in October, 1961. Testimony was introduced that the Floyd county man was under the influence of alcohol and driving at an excessive rate of speed.

Chalmers Blevins, Paintsville taxi cab operator, was also a defendant in the action, his car having been involved to some extent in the collision, but the jury found a verdict in his favor.

Attorneys for Mrs. Music were R. E. Harrington and W. B. Hazelrigg. Representing Perkins was Attorney Burnis Martin, of Prestonsburg. Attorneys J. K. Wells and G. C. Perry represented Blevins.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS TO MEET

There will be a meeting of the Floyd County Young Democrats Club, on Sunday, September 30 at 2:30 p.m., at Democratic headquarters, in the Town Center building, it is announced.

"This is an important meeting for all those planning to attend the young Democrats club convention, to be held in Louisville, October 5-6," a spokesman said.

ALCOHOLISM GROUP PLANS

Organizational Meeting Scheduled for Region; Doctors Set Attendance

An organizational meeting for the purpose of forming a regional committee on alcoholism will be held in the auditorium of the Floyd county health building here, Thursday, September 27, at 7:30 p.m.

City-county administrators, education, church, industry and community leaders, physicians, health and welfare groups from Floyd, Pike, Letcher, Knott, Martin, Magoffin and Lawrence counties have been asked to attend. Dr. Richard B. Holt, assistant commissioner of health, and acting director of the Division of Alcoholism, and John S. Dawes, administrative director of the Division of Alcoholism, are expected to attend.

Frank H. Layne, alcoholism control representative here, urged all citizens to attend the meeting.

TRUCK MINES CLOSED, 3 PICKETS ARRESTED

The flareup that resulted following an order to void welfare cards of miners working for operators delinquent in royalty payments has closed six tipples in Floyd county serving an estimated 250 small mines. Ten tipples in Pike county are reported closed.

The United Mine Workers' District 30 office at Pikeville denies it authorized the picketing of the mines. A group of miners, variously estimated from 300 to 1,000 persons, assemble at Martin each morning to work out each day's picketing program.

Financial support is being borne through contributions made by business firms and a few local political candidates.

Other help was being afforded workers involved in the trouble. The Martin branch food stamp issuance office Tuesday began issuing stamps to workers from the Left and Right Beaver Creek sections (Magisterial districts 2 and 3), and will begin issuing stamps to those from Districts 1 and 4 next Monday, it was said.

Meanwhile, approximately 600 idle mineworkers have filed applications at the State Economic Security office here for unemployment benefits. Payment of benefits will, however, await approval by the Division of Unemployment Compensation, State Department of Economic Security, Frankfort.

Three of the pickets were arrested Friday in Pike county on charges of assault filed by two men who said they were beaten at a coal processing plant. Lee Howell, of East McDowell, Milt Hunt, of Betsy Layne, and Lonnie Jones, Jr., of McDowell, executed bonds. Warrants were issued for four other Floyd men and a woman. The arrests were the result of trouble at a coal processing plant at Esco, Pike county.

Events featuring the efforts of the pickets to close Floyd and Pike county trucking operations follow:

1. Coal washing plants on Robinson Creek, Pike county, were closed by the pickets Tuesday of last week. Jim Johnson, of the Johnson Mining Company, said that about 200 pickets appeared and, after issuing threats, ordered operations to cease. Johnson said the men were identified as members of local unions from Wheelwright and David, this county.

2. Efforts to close a Paintsville preparation plant Thursday of last week evidently resulted in failure, for after the pickets left the White Ash Coal Company resumed operations. Continuing south in about 85 cars, the pickets visited three processors in Pike county, none of which closed operations.

3. Following the arrest of the three Floyd county men in Pike county, Friday, the pickets closed a mine owned by Lester Osborne in the Shelby Creek area, and dumped coal from the tipple, according to State Police Lt. Billy Lykins.

4. Approximately 100 pickets showed up Monday of this week at the Castle Brothers tipple at Thealka, a few miles from the spot where an unidentified man was wounded by a night watchman.

Police said the watchman opened fire Sunday night when he surprised two men at Castle's mine at Tutor Key. One of the intruders definitely was hit by the shotgun blast, police said.

The pickets demanded that Castle shut down the operation on grounds that it is polluting. They left after dark, and nearly a

Lodge, Highway Cited As Deserved by Area; Structure Among Best

The new $775,000 lodge at Jenny Wiley State Park—a reality in "The Land of Nowhere"—was dedicated Saturday by Governor Bert T. Combs to the memory of the late Congressman A. J. May, of Prestonsburg.

"Something in the Land of Nowhere" was the underlying theme of the Governor's dedicatory address as he jibed at Ex-Governor Chandler's phrase used in opposing the Mountain Parkway.

That "Something" is a lodge, the peer of the finest in any Kentucky state park, and the parks system of this state is described as the finest in the land. Included with the lodge are park improvements costing upwards of $2,000,000—36 living units at the lodge, 10 new vacation cottages, a nine-hole golf course, a lakeside scenic highway from the lodge to Dewey Dam, some six miles away, and lesser improvements.

The new lodge was officially named May Lodge.

Dedicating the structure as "a symbol of the future," Governor Combs said:

"My thoughts turn to the man who, almost alone, is responsible for this beautiful mountain lake. Andrew Jackson (Jack) May fought almost alone for this lake. He was criticized for it, he lost friends and votes. But he never gave up. He was a man of great dedication and great courage, and he had an almost fanatical faith in the future of Eastern Kentucky."

An estimated 3,000 persons, including a number of state officials, attended the dedication exercises.

Arriving at the Jenny Wiley Charters sang the rollicking mountain tune, "Sourwood Mountain." Gov. Combs soon afterward was introduced to the large gathering by Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark as a "good, old one-gallus hillbilly Governor who has done great things."

"If," he said, "this good, old one-gallus hillbilly had sat on his back porch and looked at his bees 24 hours a day, I still would have been proud of him. For he is the first of us to have the gumption to get to Frankfort."

Clark described the Governor as "a roadbuilder without equal without near rival in the field of education, and as a parkbuilder—here is the testimony to his ability. . . I am confident the historians of Kentucky will not rank this man the 54th Governor. History will rank him as the greatest Governor this state ever had."

Governor Combs soberly remarked at the outset of his address, "You, the people of Eastern Kentucky, don't owe me anything. I owe you everything, and I always will." Then, in rare form, he turned to his theme.

"To all of you, may I welcome you here to 'The Land of Nowhere.' We are here to dedicate what I (See Story No. 1, Page 6)

PERSONALS

Wrenched the wheel sharply to the left, jammed his foot onto the brake and seized May's forearm with both hands.

This action and Meade's calls for help resulted in the arrival, soon afterward, of Coroner James J. Carter, W. R. Callihan and, moments later, Sheriff Hale and Woodrow Salyers, Prestonsburg policeman.

Testifying at the county court hearing Monday morning, Meade gave these details of his experience.

May and Salyers were at the intersection of Ky. 114 leading to Prestonsburg and Ky. 7 leading to Reynolds as he was driving from Frankfort to Prestonsburg late Friday afternoon, and the two tumbled a ride. May got in the rear seat, Salyers seated himself beside Meade. The trip toward Prestonsburg was uneventful till Meade had driven about halfway down Middle Creek. There Salyers began rolling a cigarette. He asked May for a match, was told he had none, whereupon Meade told him to use the car lighter but to be careful about fire.

At that juncture, Meade testified, May laid the blade of a knife across his neck and said, "If you don't want to die, pull off the road." When the car came to a stop, May left the rear of the auto, came forward and took the wheel, in the meantime giving his companion the knife which Salyers held to Meade's neck.

Soon afterward, as May drove down Middle Creek, he asked Meade how much money he had. Told that he had about $10, May said, according to Meade's testimony, "You'd better have more if you don't want to die."

Then came the question, "What kind of a watch have you got?" Both pocketbook and watch were taken from Meade. Then came an inquiry about his ring and the demand that he surrender it. Meade expressed doubt that he could get it off his finger. "Get it off!" he quoted May as saying, a few moments later. Told that it was not, May warned, "You'd better get it off or we'll cut it off."

As the drive continued and tension mounted with every threat Meade said he begged the two to take his car, money, watch, anything he had and spare him. He pointed out to the two, he said, that he had been sick and only a short time out of a hospital and that they should not treat him so. "If you don't want to die, keep your mouth shut," was the reply, he said.

As the drive continued, the inquiries about the ring continued, and finally, Meade said, he was told he had 20 minutes in which to get it off his finger. He said he re-monstrated as May began speeding and was again threatened with death.

Near the home of James Greene, outside West Prestonsburg, May asked Salyers to give him back the knife and he would let him out of the car to go to a store for cigarettes. From that point on, May drove and held the knife on Meade, and this fact gave the former Floyd official an opportunity to act as he did when the car reached the street intersection at the Prestonsburg end of the bridge, it was said.

The Meade car came to a stop on the lawn of Ray Howard. As Carter and Callihan approached the auto the watch was tossed onto the grass, where it later was found.

Once outside the car, Meade swung on May, landing squarely on May's jaw. Mr. Meade's wallet was found in the glove compartment of the auto, and a subsequent search of the two prisoners failed to reveal the whereabouts of the $10 bill taken from it. Next morning, Jailer Lawrence Hale said, May gave to another prisoner a $10 bill to be taken downstairs and exchanged for smaller bills. Jailer Hale said he sent the $10 bill to Meade, then searched May's cell for the "change" he had sent him for the bill. He said four half-dollars were in May's pocket, but that the six $1 bills were hidden in the bunk of another prisoner.

The fact that the $10 bill was moist when it reached Jailer Hale's hands lent evidence to the statement made by a prisoner at the jail that one of the two accused men had it in his mouth while being searched.

Salyers attempted suicide Friday night, Jailer Hale said. He fashioned a noose from his belt, but elasticity of the belt permitted it to stretch under his weight enough for his feet to touch the floor.

Visibly shaken by the ordeal, Mr. Meade that night and the following morning supplied authorities with information. He remained here for the Monday morning hearing, returning to Frankfort Monday afternoon.

The impact of courtesy never hurt anyone. Drive courteously.

Junior Woman's Club Launches Aid Drive

The Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club announced this week that it has launched a drive to collect clothing to meet the needs of underprivileged school-age children. Asking contributions of used clothing, club members said they will pick up such apparel wherever available.

Plan of the club is to form a clothing bank. "We can operate a clothing bank without funds," one member pointed out, "but money is necessary to buy items such as underwear, stockings and the like which aren't easily available, second-hand." The club has called on individuals and organizations to join in helping these children.

"We feel that by providing clothing for the needy children," said a club member, "they will learn that the community cares about them, for it wants them to be in school. To clothe a large family adequately is more than some parents can manage. The clothing bank is a dignified way of helping children who otherwise will be ill-clothed."

Those having clothing to contribute should call any of the following, who will pick up the clothing immediately: Mrs. Hade Durbin, Mrs. Clifford Latta, Mrs. Winston Ford, Jr., Mrs. Phillip Salisbury, Mrs. David Hereford, Mrs. Jack Hyden.

HONEST BALLOT COUNTING URGED BY DIGEST ARTICLE

Every vote counts, and it is the urgent business of every voter to make certain that his ballot is counted honestly, says Irwin Ross in the October Reader's Digest, citing the thin margin which decided the 1906 Presidential election as proof of each ballot's importance.

A shift of only two states which President Kennedy took by narrow margins—Illinois and Texas—would have caused his defeat, writes Ross in an article, "Caution: Vote Thieves at Work!" "It was precisely in Chicago and Texas," Ross writes, "that alarming evidence appeared of 'irregularities.'"

The greatest help to the vote chiseler, Ross says, is public apathy, especially in large cities where a single party dominates the machinery of government. The ultimate answer to vote fraud is honest competitive politics; but a vigorous two-party system cannot be set up in every precinct overnight. In the meantime, non-partisan citizen groups can press for election law reform and police the polls.

The Committee of 70 in Philadelphia—a group of business and professional people—has performed services like this for 58 years. Every Presidential year, it recruits 700 to 800 lawyers and students, trains them in the rudiments of ward politics, election laws and vote-theft techniques. Then it stations them around the town, concentrating in areas where one party has all the power. Just their presence acts as a restraint on errant election officials.

What can the individual citizen do? Ross suggests he (1) help build the precinct organization of his party, or if he prefers political independence, (2) join a group such as the Committee of 70.

The double-ring ceremony was performed Sunday, August 26, at 2:30 in the afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church, the Rev. T. W. Chisholm, officiating.

Mrs. Wm. Miles Rowe, sister-in-law of the bride, presented a pre-nuptial program of music. Her selections were, "Because," "O. Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. E. R. Burke at the organ.

Before an altar of palms and white ladiola, flanked by branched cathedral candelabra, the bride was given in marriage by her brother, William Miles Rowe. She wore a white floor-length gown of bombazine taffeta and French imported hand-embroidered lace. The fitted bodice of lace was topped with a scalloped sabrina neckline, touched with sequins and pearls; tiny self-covered buttons were down the back to the waistline; the sleeves were long and tapered, ending in calla points over the hand. The very full skirt of bombazine worn over hoops was made with an overskirt edged in wide bands of scalloped lace and appliques of the lace on the bombazine. The skirt, accented by self bow, was caught up in front and back, showing underneath a separate skirt that ended in a sweep train. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was fastened to a lace shell, touched with tiny seed pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of shasta daisies and roses.

Mrs. Ruth Rowe Dingus, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a short-length green tulle dress over green taffeta. She wore a cap head-dress with flaring veil of dress material attached to a jeweled band. She carried a shower bouquet of pink and green asters. Miss Barbara Rowe, her sister, wore an identical dress of yellow and carried a bouquet of green and pink asters. Mr. Bennie Ellis, brother of the groom, served as best man. Mr. Jesse Ward Rowe, brother of the bride, was an attendant.

Mrs. Rowe, mother of the bride, wore an embroidered long knit dress of oyster white with orange-colored hat and corsage of orange-colored asters. Mrs. Ellis, mother of the groom, wore a blue print dress, a black veiled hat with velvet bows and a carnation corsage of white.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlours. The table, covered with an embroidered grass linen cloth, was centered with a low arrangement of white mums and greenery. Flanked by crystal candlesticks holding white candles. The tiered bridal cake was cut and served from the table, accompanied by mints, nuts and punch.

Reed Tells His Impressions Of Russia At Club Meeting

Wayland, Ky., Sept. 24 (Spl.)—“Communism makes all people under it poor,” said B. F. Reed, guest-speaker this week at the first program meeting of the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club at the clubhouse at Wayland.

Mr. Reed, who traveled in Russia, Poland, Hungary, East and West Germany, Belgium, and France last year, found that the standard of living behind the iron curtain cannot compare with ours. While people are numerous, food is scarce and housing inadequate.

“In Moscow the streets are wide and clean—they are swept by women. Their subways are good, perhaps the most outstanding symbol of progress in the city, but the one factory we were permitted to visit was shabby by American standards,” explained Mr. Reed.

Continuing, Mr. Reed created a word picture of Moscow as a city where churches are few and atheism is taught in all the schools; where children become the property of the state when they start to school and can be weeded out as the government sees fit; where people are allowed to say and do only what is good for the government; where people work but can never accumulate any wealth; where the departments stores are large, thousands passing through the largest each day, but no one seems to buy, though store officials claim credit is easy and unlimited.

In conclusion, Mr. Reed emphasized that when people leave their homes and everything they have to try to reach freedom, we can be certain their government is not a good government.

Mr. Reed is secretary-treasurer of Turner Elkhorn Mining Co., Drift, chairman of the Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission, a director of Kentucky Coal Association, Lexington, the Big Sandy-Elkhorn Coal Operators' Association, Pikeville, and The First Guaranty Bank, Martin, and is well known throughout Eastern Kentucky.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. N. D. Howard, who was in charge of the program on the subject of “International Relations.”

Prior to the program, devotions were conducted by Mrs. Hazel Vinson, followed by a business session, during which Mrs. Glenn Pack, Communications chairman, reported that 15 students had been benefitted by the Student Loan Fund since it was started. This is the largest number so helped in the Seventh District.

The new president, Mrs. S. M. Martin, passed out the club year books and called attention to the following department heads: Fine Arts, Mrs. C. D. Francis; Moral & Spiritual Values, Mrs. Richard Vinson; Education, Mrs. L. B. Price; International Relations, Mrs. N. D. Howard; Civil Defense, Mrs. Bert Stapleton; Health, Mrs. Delbert Sloan; Flowers, Mrs. Ellen Hornsby; Publicity, Mrs. Otto Martin; Kentucky, Mrs. Milton Trusty; Home Life, Mrs. Eugene Mullins; Community Improvement, Mrs. Fred Hall; Self Improvement, Mrs. J. C. Wells.

At the conclusion of the program the hostesses, Mrs. Ellen Hornsby and Mrs. Delbert Sloan, served refreshments to the following guests and members: Mr. Reed and William Hoffman, who accompanied him, and Mesdames Richard Vinson, Charles Hornsby, L. B. Price, Glenn Pack, W. T. Hatcher, Mervil Dixon, Bert Stapleton, J. E. Miller, William Terry, Adam Bukovich, S. C. Berkeley, J. T. Spillman, Eugene Mullins, N. D. Howard, J. C. Wells, Felix Coburn, Arnold Cooley, Margaret Sherman, S. M. Martin and Otto Martin.

nation is the urgent need to bolster the thinning ranks of general practitioners. The need is particularly pressing in rural areas of Eastern Kentucky, he pointed out.

“We need specialists, too,” Dr. Archer said, “but the great immediate need is for general practitioners—family doctors—in the rural areas. It's a harder life but they will certainly be doing more for mankind.”

He will take office next fall. His uncle and partner in the Prestonsburg General hospital here, Dr. John G. Archer, is a former president of the General Practitioners of Kentucky.

Water Resource Projects Urged by Carl Perkins; Appropriation Is Asked

The Bureau of the Budget was asked this week to recommend $38,575,000 to continue work on Seventh Congressional district water resource projects by Congressman Carl D. Perkins (D. Ky.)

Perkins, who appeared before the Bureau with other members of the Kentucky Congressional delegation, urged that at least $3,000,000 be provided to continue construction on Grayson Reservoir, $20,000,000 for Fishtrap Reservoir, $500,000 for the construction of Cave Run Reservoir, $14,100,000 for the John W. Flannagan and North Fork of Pound Reservoirs in the upper Big Sandy River, and $750,000 to initiate the advanced engineering and design on the upper Kentucky River reservoirs.

In addition, Perkins urged $75,000 preconstruction engineering and construction money for Kinnicknick Creek in Lewis county and $150,000 for the Big Sandy River. The requests were made of the Bureau of the Budget which is preparing the President's 1964 fiscal year budget for submission to the 88th Congress when it convenes in January, 1963.

Perkins said that it is difficult at this time to develop precise figures as to the needs of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, or the next fiscal year but he urged the Bureau to “approve such funds which will assure the greatest possible construction speed, consistent with sound engineering requirements.”

The Congress has yet to take final action on monies for Seventh district projects for the fiscal year ending next July 1. However, the Public Works Appropriation Bill as it passed the House of Representatives last August 16 contains $6,700,000 for construction on Fishtrap Reservoir; $371,000 to complete the advanced engineering and design on the Grayson Reservoir with the possibility of an additional $179,000 to initiate construction; $23,000 for completion of the Kinnicknick Creek Study; $75,000 for advanced engineering and design on Cane Run Reservoir; $3,200,000 for the John W. Flannagan Reservoir and $500,000 for construction of the North Fork of Pound Reservoir, and $59,200 for the Big Sandy River.

In addition, Perkins plea for projects within the Seventh district emphasized the importance of navigation improvements on the Ohio River to the economy of the 7th Congressional District.

Keathley Says ADA Is Issue

"The ADA, Americans for Democratic Action, is becoming an issue in the current Senatorial campaign," it was charged by Lawrence Keathley, chairman of the campaign for re-election of Senator Thurston E. Morton in Floyd county.

"ADA was founded in 1947 by Wilson W. Wyatt, who is currently running for the Senate from Kentucky against Senator Morton." "Among the aims of ADA," Keathley said, "are loans and grants to communist countries, recognition of Red China, admission of Red China to the United Nations, abolition of the loyalty oath, price and wage controls, regimentation of agriculture and other socialistic doctrines not acceptable to the people of Floyd county and Kentuckians generally."

An example of ADA aims, the campaign manager said, is the Freeman farm program, defeated by Democratic majorities in the House, which would give the Secretary of Agriculture "power to take the farmers off the farm and to impose jail sentences on farmers for failure to comply with regulations."

"Programs of the ADA would greatly increase federal taxes and result in more deficit spending at the national level," Keathley said. "The following was pointed out as a recent ADA policy statement: 'The current spending programs of the federal government, and the proposals for the next fiscal year, are clearly inadequate to our need... the level of federal spending must be raised by several billions of dollars a year if we are to realize the gains which are well within our grasp.'"

"These people care nothing about the future of the country or its welfare. All they care about is a spending spree at the people's expense," Keathley said. (Pol. adv.)

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 20 (Spl.)—A total of $1,280,000 in federal funds has been awarded the state under provisions of the Manpower Development and Training Act of 1962.

Announcement of the award was made by Earle V. Powell, commissioner of economic security, and E. P. Hilton, director of the Department of Education's Bureau of Vocational Education.

The Department of Economic Security received $880,000 from the U. S. Department of Labor; the Department of Education received $400,000 from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The two state departments will jointly administer the program. Economic Security is responsible for recruitment, selection and job placement. The Department of Education is responsible for conducting the vocational classes.

A team of vocational education specialists from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare met in Frankfort with representatives of the two state agencies to assist in preparing classes that may be taught under the program.

Thirty-five vocational training classes, to be taught in area vocational schools, have been proposed by Kentucky. Federal approval is needed before any of the classes can be taught. Hilton says he is hopeful some of the classes can begin within the next few weeks.

Powell says he expects the Manpower program to surpass the Area Redevelopment Act training program, both in the number of classes taught and number of persons enrolled. Twenty-five classes are currently being conducted under the ARA program.

Powell said that under the Manpower training program an unemployed person can receive up to 52 weeks' training and draw weekly subsistence payments averaging $30. ARA classes, limited to 16 weeks, are aimed at persons living in economically depressed areas. Manpower program is aimed at workers who possess obsolete work skills, and persons who have no work skills.

Students for the classes will be selected by state employment offices. Priority will be given to heads of households who have worked at least three years and are currently unemployed, Powell said.

Others eligible for training under the Manpower program are youths from 19 to 21 who are unemployed. They will be eligible for weekly subsistence payments of $20.

Youths 16 to 19 who are unemployed are eligible for free tuition. Workers in farm families with less than $1,200 net family income are considered unemployed under provisions of the Manpower Act, Powell said.

Powell said the program has four phases. They are:

1. Local state employment offices will determine what work skills are needed in adjacent areas, the state, and nation.
2. The local office will then provide a program for testing and selection for occupational training persons who are unemployed and others who cannot reasonably be expected to find full-time employment without training. These persons will be referred to the Bureau of Vocational Education.

3. The Bureau of Vocational Education will supervise the establishment and curriculum of courses in area vocational schools that will provide the training specified in the referrals.

4. The employment office will then place workers in jobs after they have completed training.

EXTENSION NOTES

REFREEZING THAWED FOODS

Hereafter you have been cautioned against refreezing foods once they were thawed. Now, we have the following statement coming from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, supported by research, which will be most interesting to owners of home freezers:

When a frozen food thaws in your home—by accident or otherwise—it is not always necessary to discard it. If the temperature of the food has not risen above ordinary refrigerator temperatures (40 degrees F), then you may consider refreezing it, provided it has acceptable color, texture and color.

The process of refreezing in itself introduces no hazard. If the partially thawed food is safe to eat, it is safe to refreeze. Here are facts about refreezing from research by USDA's Agricultural Research Service and other agencies:

A rise in food's temperature up to thawing impairs color, flavor and texture, and the refreezing period causes further loss in quality. If the total time involved is short enough, there may be enough quality left to justify refreezing.

No health hazard is involved if the temperature of the food has not risen above ordinary refrigerator temperatures (about 40 degrees F). Food poisoning bacteria have never been found to grow at temperatures below 38 degrees F., and they grow very slowly between 38 degrees and 45 degrees F. Other bacteria can grow slowly at these or even lower temperatures; they cause off-odors and off-flavors that spoil foods but do not cause food poisoning.

When I heard the news that a guy named Snodgrass had caught a big bass at Dewey Lake, I hoped it would be George. But it was his son, Harry. Why can't we old duffers have some of the luck? The big one measured 23 inches and weighed in at 6½ pounds. Who used the landing net? My friend George—as expertly as I do when the other fellow has all the luck.

hope, will serve as a substitute for the 'back-to-nature' facilities originally planned for this park."

The crowd cheered as he added: "I hope this will do until we can get something better... Even though we live in the Land of Nowhere, we and our children are entitled to facilities as good as those enjoyed anywhere in Kentucky or anywhere in America."

Those who toured the lobby of the picturesque structure, its heavily carpeted dining room, the living units and inspected the appointments of all these were convinced it all represented the finest—and all of it set in a spot of superb scenic beauty.

Gov. Combs said tourists will be able to reach the park next spring by way of the Mountain Parkway (originally known as the East Kentucky Turnpike). He also told of plans for construction near the lodge of an amphitheatre for the showing of an outdoor drama based on the life of Jenny Wiley, pioneer heroine.

He hit back at opponents who have criticized his Administration for selling revenue bonds to build a road that "runs into the side of a mountain."

"It has been said," he pointed out, "that we shouldn't spend any money till we've got it in the bag. But I disagree. I think I would have been derelict in my duty, had Wilson Wyatt and I not worked to have these, now—if we hadn't embarked on a program of highways, parks and schools—which we're paying for as we use them, not sitting around and talking about them and hoping for them."

Referring to Ex-Governor Chandler's charge that Combs has mortgaged the state's future income with his revenue bonds, Governor Combs told the story of Chicken Little. "Finally," he related, "Chicken Little, Ducky Lucky and Goosey Looney ran to Foxie Loxie and told him the sky was falling and they must hurry to tell the king. But Foxie Loxie suggested they take him to see the piece of sky that had fallen. And they discovered that all it was was an acorn which had fallen from a tree beside a swimming pool in Versailles."

"The people of Eastern Kentucky," Combs declared, "are entitled to a modern four-lane highway. As long as I am in Frankfort, and as long as the man who thinks as I do is there, East Kentucky will get its part of what Kentucky has to offer—not more than others, but what it deserves."

Floyd county high school bands had a part in the music program, with the McDowell band remaining to render the parting "My Old Kentucky Home." The Jenny Wiley Chanters, in costume, sang to the organ accompaniment of Edith F. James, a group of songs, dedicating one, "Beautiful Home," to Governor Combs.

Marvin Music, master of ceremonies, pointed out that Dewey Lake has already saved $3,052,000 in flood damages to the Big Sandy valley. County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill introduced the honored guests.

Henry Ward, commissioner of highways and chairman of the State Park Board, was introduced as "the father of parks." He expressed "the appreciation of the people of Kentucky for the services of Marvin Music as a member of the Park Board." Referring to the Combs program, he said, "It took a lot of plain, ordinary guts to launch the program undertaken in the vast East Kentucky highway. I am proud to have had a part in this program."

Lieut. Gov. Wyatt, campaigning for the U. S. Senate seat now held by Thurston B. Morton, arrived late, as did Congressman Carl D. Perkins, a candidate for re-election. Speaking briefly, Wyatt said, "This is not only a landmark—it also is the threshold to the future."

Besides Ward, Wyatt and Perkins, honor guests introduced by County Attorney Sturgill included Herndon Evans, editor of The Lexington Leader and member of the Kentucky Parks Board; John E. Pearce, Courier-Journal editorial writer and former Parks Board member; Dr. George P. Archer, mayor of Prestonsburg; Mayor Ralph Preston, of Paintsville; Dr. Hambley, mayor of Pikeville; Circuit Judge Edward P. Hill, County Judge Henry Stumbo, Edward T. (Ned) Breathitt, an announced Democratic candidate for Governor; Robert Matthews, commissioner of finance; Tom Nelson, George Lyons and Mr. Temple, of the Division of Parks; Major Raymond Clarke, Jr., of the U. S. Corps of Engineers; Miss Cattie Lou Miller, commissioner of the Department of Public Information; Jack Hatcher, the architect who designed the lodge; Ervin Akers, member of the contracting firm which built it; Mrs. Frances Mills, Mrs. Henry Ward, Mrs. E. T. (Ned) Breathitt, "Miss Kentucky" (Miss Nanci Bowling), Commonwealth's Attorney Hollie Conley, State Senator Burnis Martin, State Representative Allen Slope, County Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson.

Miss Bowling, the 1962 Miss Kentucky, was the last to speak, and she said: "Somebody expressed regret that I did not win the Miss America contest. I told them, 'If I had won I would not have been here today—and I wouldn't have missed this for anything.'"

Caney Alumni To Hear Congressman Perkins At Homecoming, Oct. 14

Congressman Carl D. Perkins, best-known Caney alumnus, will speak at the annual homecoming at Alice Lloyd College, Pippa Passes, October 14 at 2 p.m., it was announced by alumni president, Woodrow Allen.

A program committee for the homecoming was named and other arrangements were made by the alumni directors meeting September 16 in the Caney Alumni Dormitory at Alice Lloyd College.

William R. Hughes, Harriett Johnson and Elizabeth Sloane, alumni secretaries, are in charge of coordinating preparations for a Founder's Day program honoring Mrs. Alice Lloyd and the accomplishments of her life in Eastern Kentucky.

Mementos and brief statements by her former students will be in order. Some film and other representations of her work are available.

It was felt that there are many who wished to attend her funeral, September 4, but were unable to do so because of lack of publicity. They will understand Mrs. Lloyd's wishes in this respect and will come now to honor an idea and an accomplishment rather than the sacrificing person who served.

Valley Motor Owner Leases Facilities; Leaves Florida Move

E. H. Williams owner of the Valley Motor Car Company here since 1958, will move to Florida in a few weeks where he plans to re-enter the automobile business. He recently leased the facilities of his building on South Lake Drive to Bruce Walters, Ford, Inc., of Pikeville.

Mr. Williams, who has been associated with the business here since 1944, plans to leave for Florida January 1.

Noting the many friends he had in Prestonsburg and Floyd county, he voiced regret at leaving. "I regret leaving Prestonsburg very much," Mr. Williams said, "because of the great number of friendships formed here in the last two decades. I will maintain an office here for awhile and take the opportunity in the immediate future to personally express to every one I can my gratitude for those many friends."

Williams, a native of Flat Gap, Johnson county, served for several years as a schoolteacher there.

SAMUEL MAGGARD LED CARAVAN OF PIONEERS TOWARD POUND GAP

BY HENRY P. SCALF

The caravan of 15 wagons snaked its way out of Shenandoah county, Virginia, and crept slowly southwestward toward Pound Gap, the pass in the Cumberlands through which the migrating families could enter Kentucky. It was the year of 1801.

Samuel Magert, as the name was written prior to 1822, had been thinking of the Blue Grass region of Kentucky for years and the stories of the section drifting back to Virginia had sharpened his desire to migrate there. Studying the crude maps of the day and talking to returning travelers, he concluded that the best way to reach the Blue Grass was through Pound Gap, down the Big Sandy River, and overland through the present counties of Magoffin, Morgan and Montgomery. Organization of a caravan of Virginia families to move westward in 1801 was not difficult for the lure of Kentucky was great.

Prosperous in his Virginia home, he could not bring himself to leave much of his personal possessions. He loaded furniture, farming tools, chickens, hogs and sheep on his wagons, tying the faithful cows to the rear of the ox-drawn vehicles. One of the wagons was filled with bedding and made comfortable for his wife and children.

They transported cooking utensils and a table from which they prepared meals. He was determined to leave nothing in Virginia that would make him comfortable in Kentucky.

Samuel was born in 1774 in Virginia. His background is obscure but he is thought to have been a grandson of David Magert, Sr. who had come from Northern Germany to Virginia. Samuel married Rebecca Robinson, an Irish woman who had come to America about 1794 with her brother Thomas and sisters Catherine and Easter.

Family historians think there were three children in the caravan—John B., Susan and Rudolph. These, according to census records, were born in Virginia. Henry, it is said, was born in North Carolina, probably while the Maggards were on their way to Kentucky. Just what the family was doing in North Carolina, we do not know. Samuel Magert may have swung too far south and his wife was delivered in that state.

Tradition preserves for us some of the details of the journey. Roads were practically non-existent and Samuel, aided by his wife, chopped at the obstructions. Finally, after weeks of wearisome travel, the family arrived at the foot of Pound Mountain. Samuel made a reconnaissance of the towering pass, decided that the road up the mountain was impassable. He swung south toward Flat Gap, came over on the head of Poor Fork of the Cumberland River. Here two of his wagons broke down and he stopped for extensive repairs.

He went hunting a few evenings to provide meat for the family and the more he saw of the country, the better he liked it. He and his wife decided that the Blue Grass couldn't match the fertility of this tributary of the Cumberland or compare with it in game. They decided to settle right where they repaired the wagons.

The original caravan of wagons had begun to split up many days ago. Some had turned back, others had suddenly decided to abandon the intention of going to Kentucky and turned south to North Carolina. Samuel Maggard may have temporarily been inclined to settle in North Carolina and this may account for his presence in that state when his son Henry was born there. We only know that by the time Maggard reached the foot of Pound Mountain he and his wife and children were alone in the western woods.

He spent several days marking out a vast acreage of land, much of it bottom. Victor N. Phillips, in his MAGGARD FAMILY HISTORY, says that the lines "ran from what is today known as Sam's Ridge to far Upper Cumberland. He built a huge log house on what was later known as the Joe Day and later as the Wilson Creech farm."

Samuel and Rebecca Robinson Maggard were the parents of 12 sons and daughters. Each is discussed here.

(1) John B. Maggard was born in Virginia, October 10, 1796, married Sarah Adams, August 12, 1818. His wife, born June 8, 1802, was a daughter of Moses and Mary Garland Adams, who had brought her from North Carolina to the Kentucky River in 1805 when the Adamsons founded a settlement near the present Mayking.

John B. built a house in the Cumberland River valley but moved in 1847 to Cutshin Creek, in what is now Leslie county. He was a famous gunsmith, marked the products of his hand and skill with the initials, J. B. M. A few of these guns exist today. His wife died April 23, 1870, but he survived until May 13, 1882. Sons and daughters were Polly, Henry, Isaac, Moses, Samuel, Dr. Jesse, Rebecca, John A., Sarah, Gilbert, Reuben and Nancy.

(2) Susan Maggard born in Virginia, May 2, 1798, married Henry Bach (Back), born February 6, 1785. They settled on Rockhouse Creek, Letcher county. Here he lived by hunting and farming except for a period of service in the War of 1812. Susan died October 16, 1855, he lived until May 23, 1871. Both are buried on Rockhouse Creek.

Sons and daughters were Henry, Lewis, Johnny, James, Sam, David, Martha, Susan, Polly, Elizabeth, Rebecca and Sally.

(3) Rudolph Maggard was born in Virginia in 1800. His wife was Anna Roberts born 1804, in North Carolina. They carved a homestead out of the wilderness near Flat Gap on the head of Cumberland River.

Sons and daughters were Jim "Hodley," David, Johnny, Sampson, Rudolph, Henry and Elizabeth. Many of this family migrated to Missouri.

(4) Henry Maggard, born in North Carolina in 1801, married Rebecca Parker, born 1803, in Virginia. He erected a log cabin near the present Oven Fork Church in Letcher county.

Henry Maggard was killed by bushwhackers during the Civil War near his home, thrown in a patch of high weeds where his body lay until vultures indicated the location of the body. His son, John, was also killed by bushwhackers on Cowan Creek.

Sons and daughters were John, James, Billy, Margaret, Rebecca, Cynthia, Rachie and Sukie.

(5) David Maggard was born in 1803, it is believed, in Virginia. He was nicknamed "Long Dave." He married Susan Harrison, born 1803, daughter of Col. John Harrison. Genealogists say she was a second cousin of President William Henry Harrison.

FOUR SCHOOL TEAMS REMAIN UNDEFEATED

Dr. G. C. Collins
DENTIST

Teams of four high schools—Hazard, Elkhorn City, Paintsville and Morgan County—remain the only undefeated football eleven in Eastern Kentucky, with the first month of the season completed. Hazard's 18-5 triumph over Whitesburg virtually assured the Bull Dogs the championship of Eastern Kentucky Mountain league and the Class AA, District 11, Region 4 title.

Walt Green's Perry countians pace the loop with a 4-0 mark as compared to runner-up Elkhorn City's 3-0 record.

The Paintsville Tigers moved into a first place tie in the Class A, Region 3 race by downing Raceland, 34-0, for its fourth consecutive victory.

Jack Hall's Elkhorn City Cougars, the local's biggest surprise, romped over M. C. Napier, 35-0, last weekend to mark up its fourth successive victory, as did Morgan County in annexing a 14-7 win from Mt. Sterling Dubois.

In other games Jenkins downed Prestonsburg, 14-6, and Wheelwright fell to Fleming-Neon, Pikeville and Belfry were idle.

The area's leading scorers, Hazard's Butch Green, Delano Thomas, of Whitesburg, and Paintsville's Johnny Porter, all scored at least one touchdown. Green paced Hazard by Whitesburg with two six-pointers while Thomas countered with the Yellow Jackets' lone tally. Porter plunged for one counter in the Raceland win and kicked four extra points.

David Adkins and Ben McFall scored two touchdowns each as Elkhorn City belted M. C. Napier. Adkins picked up the first touchdown on a two-yard plunge. McFall scored the next on a 27-yard run. Then Adkins scored on a seven-yard scamper and McFall followed with a 40-yard jaunt. Don Phipps collected the final TD on a 19-yard pass from Bob Brooks.

Friday afternoon, Jack Hall will be facing the boys he coached last season when Elkhorn City plays host to Fleming-Neon in a homecoming tilt for the Pike county school.

Big plans are under way for this new season—tournaments, etc., and they should be lots of fun. Besides local tournaments, the Kentucky State Woman's Tournament in Lexington, at Eastland Lanes, November 3-4, 10-11, is coming up, and applications must be in pretty soon now. We have just received information and entry blanks on this, and will try to distribute them to the lanes this week—so you can get your entries in. I think a state tournament will be lots of fun. Pick up your blanks at the lanes of your choice.

Crown Lanes announces free bowling instruction for all women daily at 9 o'clock and invite you to join their Coffee and Donut Social on Tuesday mornings.

Lake Lanes' Pin Princess was Ruth Carol Hunt. Besides the fine bowling reported above, she got 188. Lake Lanes invites you to join their Coffee and Donut league 3-member teams at 9:30 on Tuesday morning. They are sending one woman to the BPAA All-Star tournament semi-finals in Louisville. This will be an all-expense-paid entry fee paid trip for some lucky bowler. Qualifying rounds will be played at Lake Lanes. The exact date on this isn't set yet—but will be announced next week.

HIGHWAY TOLL 582
Frankfort, Ky.—The state highway death toll for the year reached 582 Tuesday, state police reported, 79 higher than at this time in 1961. The bridge over the Ohio River between Jeffersonville, Indiana, and Louisville is named in memory of the founder of the West, General George Rogers Clark.

THE FEMININE SIDE OF BOWLING NEWS

By IMA BOWLER

League play is beginning to settle down, and I think that the prediction I made that our averages would begin going up this fall is being borne out by the following highs at both lanes:

High bowler of the week at Crown Lanes was Eleanor Lyons with a 233 and Gladys Hughes with a 188.

High bowler of the week at Lake Lanes was Mary Zemo with a 215. And Mrs. Alka Jean Grey rolled the highest series ever bowled by a woman at Lake Lanes with a 212, 214, 192—618 series.

Several of the sanctions have been coming in, and many of you have already got your membership cards back. We will try to get them all back as soon as we possibly can. Many of you have paid your dues, and may wonder why you haven't got your card back, but at this time all sanctions which have been received have been checked, and all membership cards returned; so, if you don't have your card yet, it is because the secretary hasn't yet been able to turn in the sanction. Also, please remember that all leagues should turn in their rules and officers to the association. This is for your own protection, and they should be submitted immediately.

In those leagues which voted to bond their secretary, they may either send the application and the money to Columbus or you may submit it with the sanction, so that we can send it in for you. The address for submitting it direct to Columbus is: WIBC INSURANCE PLAN, 1225 Dublin Road, Columbus 12, Ohio.

The new yellow rule books are the only rules we follow now, and since the old ones are no longer in effect, we should take them up, or see to it that everyone who needs one can get one.

FISH & WILDLIFE
 by MINOR CLARK, Commissioner
 Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources

Something "old" yet "new" has been added to Kentucky's hunting this year. The "old" is the use of muzzle-loading rifles and shotguns and crossbows and long-bows, and the "new" is a season which has been set on a specified section of Cumberland National Forest for the use of these weapons in the taking of deer, grouse and squirrels. This season was designated in cooperation with the Cumberland National Forest Service.

For the first time in many years the devotees of this type hunting will have a large section on which to hunt three species of wildlife without molestation from other hunters, and it is our prediction that a great number of weapons fanciers will engage in this almost lost art of hunting.

In setting up the seasons the Department did not anticipate that great harvests of game would be made through this type hunting, although one may be surprised, but it was sure that a lot of people would enjoy this sport which, of course, dates back to pioneer days. According to the regulations deer may be hunted with longbows and crossbows during the regular archery season which is the month of October on this designated area. Muzzle-loading rifles and shotguns may be used to take squirrels during the regular squirrel seasons which are August 23 through October 31, and November 15 through December 7; the gun deer season coincides with the statewide season, November 7-10; and these guns may be used to hunt grouse from December 1 through January 29. The statewide bag and possession limits apply on this area, which is located in Bath and Menfee counties and comprises about 7,000 acres.

There are rigid rules and regulations covering the "primitive" weapons season and those who wish to participate may obtain this information by writing to the Game Management Division of the Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources, Frankfort, Kentucky.

And about that area: It is plainly marked and is described as follows: Being that portion of Cumberland National Forest located in Bath and Menfee counties and described as follows—a parcel containing 7,000 acres located four miles south of U. S. Highway 60 on State Route 826 between Salt Lick and Farmers, bounded on the east by Licking River and the U. S. Forestry boundary line, on the south and west by Leatherwood Creek and on the northwest by Trough Lick Branch and U. S. Forestry Service boundary to the junction of Licking River. The entire boundary is posted with yellow "Primitive Weapons Hunting Area" signs. Good hunting to all you "primitives."

Martin-Burke Wedding To Be Solemnized, Oct. 13

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Martin, of Wayland, announce the engagement of their daughter, Julia Lloyd (Jan), to Mr. William Clay Burke, of Columbus, Indiana, formerly of Whitesburg.

Miss Martin is a graduate of Wayland high school and the Mayo State Vocational School of Nursing. For the past nine months she has been doing practice nursing at the Methodist hospital, Pikeville, where she will complete her training October 9.

Mr. Burke is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett C. Fields, of Whitesburg, and is a graduate of Whitesburg high school and Mayo State Vocational School. He is presently employed in Columbus, Indiana, as a draftsman for Arvin Industries.

The wedding will take place October 13, at 1 p.m., in the Wayland Methodist Church, with a reception following in the church recreation room. Rev. John Utel will officiate. All friends and relatives of the couple are welcome.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple will leave for Columbus, Indiana, where they will reside.

COAL INTERVENTION UPHELD

The Federal Power Commission has affirmed the right of coal interests to participate in a gas pipeline rate case against the challenge of the Independent Natural Gas Association of America. INGAA had sought to intervene in a case involving the United Gas Company and Atlantic Seaboard Corporation, both of which propose rate tilts, for the sole purpose of opposing coal intervention. The FPC denied the petition but allowed INGAA to appear in the case as amicus curiae for the limited purpose of advising the Commission on whether coal intervention is in the public interest. The FPC ruling against INGAA may lead to a court test.

Twelve States Require Hunters Safety Testing,

Twelve states so far have made their woodlands safer by requiring young applicants for hunting licenses to pass gun-safety courses.

The typical program costs about 50 cents per pupil, and states adopting them have been rewarded by a drop of up to 53 percent in accident rates.

So write John and June Robbins in an October Reader's Digest report on hunting accidents, which kill 600 to 800 Americans annually and injure 3,500 more. The 16-to-19 age group accounts for 46 percent of all accidents and supplies 39 percent of all victims; hence the programs in New York, California, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Montana, Massachusetts, Connecticut, South Dakota, Minnesota, Washington, Utah and Oregon, are aimed primarily at youthful hunters. Two years ago, New York extended its program to cover all ages after scoring a 50 percent cut in accidents by training just the youngsters. South Dakota reduced its volume of juvenile hunting accidents by 53 percent in just three years with the safety courses.

They consist of four hour-long lessons in safe gun-handling, a session of range firing, field trip and written and physical examinations. Applicants with bad eyesight or poor coordination, the show-offs, lazy or emotionally unstable do not pass. The article, "Shot While Hunting . . ." lists some of the vital do's and don'ts taught in the courses and concludes: "The states learned long ago that they couldn't turn everyone loose in an automobile without driver instruction. But 38 states still turn boys and men loose with deadly weapons without a minute of instruction. It's no wonder that each fall an Indiana farmer finds it necessary to paint O-O-W on the sides of each animal in his herd of Holsteins."

Prestonsburg's Black Cats, minus regular halfback Paul Fuester and fullback Terry Kinzer will play host to the Pikeville Panthers, Friday night at 8. Fuester, the team's leading scorer with four touchdowns, suffered a twisted knee in the Jenkins game and will be out for two weeks. Kinzer has missed the last two games.

Graydon Stone, 165-pound senior guard, was named Player-of-the-Week in the Jenkins game. The weekly award is sponsored by the Francis Stores and goes to the outstanding player in each week's game.

The Jenny Wiley State Park golf course was opened to the public for the first time last week-end. Several players took advantage of the opportunity to be the first to play on the course. The fees for the remainder of the season will be $2 on week-ends and $1.50 during the week.

Meade Memorial edged Prestonsburg, 41-18, in the first cross-country meet of the season, Monday afternoon. Jackie Blevins, James Colvin and I. Butcher all bettered the record at the Meade Memorial course as they sped the distance in 9:13, 9:25 and 9:25. Wayne DeBoard was fourth, and first for the Black Cats, with a time of 9:27.

The Eastern Kentucky regional cross-country meet will be held on the Paintsville Country Club golf course Saturday, October 27.

The 1962 city tax bills for City of Prestonsburg are now in my hands for collection. Through error the tax notice mailed to the taxpayers stated there would be a discount allowed upon city taxes until January 1, 1963, and the six percent interest would not attach to the bills until the first day of April, 1963.

The City Council has by resolution authorized me to continue to give the discount until the first day of November, 1962, this year, but at that time six percent interest must be added to all bills then in my hands, and, by law, I am required to advertise all bills remaining in my hands unpaid as of the first day of November and the same must be sold at public auction to the highest bidder on first day of December, 1962, on the front steps of the Municipal building, Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

You are requested to pay your 1962 taxes to Mr. Shirley Lewis at the Municipal building across from the Bank Josephine, in Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

TOURISM GROUP ADVISED HOW TO SECURE TRAVEL BUSINESS

BY NEVILLE SHACKELFORD

Quicksand, Ky.—In an effort to get some realistic answers to questions on tourism, a "Tourism Colony" was held at Robinson Substation here last week with Mrs. Carolyn Schrock, basis of living specialist, Eastern Kentucky Resource Development Project, as sponsor.

Attended by about 35 civic leaders from Eastern and Southeastern Kentucky, the conference featured several travel authorities, including Paul W. Grubbs, director, Kentucky Travel Council; Malcolm Mason, Kentucky Utilities Company; Rufus Thomas, Kentucky Power Company; and Clare Gunn, extension specialist in travel and recreation, Michigan State University.

Paul Grubbs outlined the extent and portent of tourism in Eastern Kentucky as a whole, stating the travel industry this year was the greatest in history and would bring in approximately 193 million out-of-state dollars.

Within the next decade, he continued, this figure should increase to around a billion dollars. Then he outlined some ways Eastern Kentucky communities might secure a fair share of this enormous amount of money tourists will spend inside the state.

First, he advised the setting up of travel organizations in each community. Then an inventory should be made of attractions in the area; of accommodations available for tourists when they come in, and forms of entertainment within the area.

"After becoming aware of what you have," he said, "go out and sell it." Clare Gunn, who for the past several days had been touring Eastern and Southeastern Kentucky, listed some of the assets this section has as a recreation area.

One of the most encouraging things, he said, was the obvious concern on the part of community leaders in securing some of this travel business. Secondly, he went on to say, the area has a very favorable tourism climate. Then he said aside from the scenery, almost every community has a unique, distinctive, and significant history which is a good selling point. People are always interested in places where history has been made and will go see these places if they know about them.

Le Havre, France—King Olav V, of Norway arrived here aboard the yacht Norge Tuesday to begin an official visit to France.

New York—More United States babies are born in August than any other month. September is next. February is the year's low month.

Commenting on some of the disadvantages, Gunn listed poor highways or lack of highways at all to be one hindrance to tourism. Other detriments included a failure to relate natural assets to other things and the lack of recognition of the variety of tourist demand.

In general agreement with Grubbs and the others, Gunn stated that to get a toehold in this travel business, local people must first become interested, not just a part, but all people in the community. They must then provide acceptable tourist facilities, make an inventory of the tourist product which they have to sell, and then sell it through promotional campaigns.

These authorities also placed much emphasis upon the value of hospitality clinics to instruct persons in the art of meeting and serving the traveling public. It was brought out that one discourteous waitress, service station attendant or over-zealous law enforcement officer with a parking ticket can do more harm in a day than a group of promoters can undo in a year.

Tourism is a big business and a highly competitive business. No community, these experts agreed, is going to get a fair share with slipshod methods. Beautiful scenery is not enough. There must also be other attractions and not the least of these is a sincere show of hospitality. There must be no tricks to separate the traveler from his dollar.

Malcolm Mason also urged the group not to just sell the area, but the whole state. He suggested this be done on an "Explore Kentucky" concept.

There is no doubt but that tourism can bolster the economy of Eastern Kentucky. The area, the experts agreed, holds great potential for tourism but it will not come on a large or economically significant scale unless sought after diligently. Right now Grubbs listed the Mountain Parkway as one of the greatest tourist assets in the mountains. He urged all concerned to make the most of it.

HOMEMAKERS CLUB MEETS

The Harold Homemakers Club met September 18 at the Vogel-Day Methodist Church basement, with the president, Mrs. Norman Sturgill, presiding. The meeting was opened with Bible reading by Mrs. Bill Stumbo. The lesson for the day was "Getting Along With others," presented by project leaders, Mrs. Gordon Sturgill and Mrs. Bill Stumbo. A luncheon was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Norman Sturgill and Mrs. Gordon Sturgill.

New business was the selecting of hostesses for the coming year and electing new officers, who are: president, Mrs. Fred Gearheart; vice-president and membership chairman, Mrs. Gordon Sturgill; secretary, Mrs. Kenneth Burroughs; treasurer, Mrs. A. K. Robinette; publicity and telephone committee, Mrs. Fred Hale; landscaping, Mrs. Norman Sturgill; reading and citizenship chairman, Mrs. John M. Stumbo; recreation chairman, Mrs. Bill Stumbo.

Members present: Mrs. Edgar Sturgill, Mrs. Minnie Hatcher, Mrs. Norman Sturgill, Mrs. Fred Gearheart, Mrs. Kenneth Burroughs, Mrs. A. K. Robinette, Mrs. Bill Stumbo and Mrs. Gordon Sturgill. Also present was county home demonstration agent Frances Pitts. Visiting this meeting was Mrs. John Paul Porter, of Boldman.

The club would like to express their appreciation to Mrs. Norman Sturgill for the wonderful work she has done for the club since it was organized February 6, 1958, during this time Mrs. Sturgill has been president and has missed only one meeting. The club has grown from 12 to 26 members.

These excellently staff all teaching areas, in conjunction with the return of all spring term faculty members except one assistant.

Three of these are graduates of Caney Junior College, with degrees also from the University of Kentucky. They are:

Royal Donn Martin, of Maytown, a Caney Junior College graduate of 1954. Completing his M. A. at the University of Kentucky in 1957, he first taught in Caney Junior College that year and for several terms thereafter. Following teaching experience in the high schools of Michigan and Ohio, he returned to Caney in June of 1962 to head the Biology and Health departments. With him in residence at Caney are his wife, the former Dolie Terrill, and her sister, Faye Terrill, of Knott county.

Bennie Lee Moore, of Garrett, with his wife and daughter, Beverly, joined Caney Junior College in June, 1962, in the fields of Economics and Mathematics. A graduate of Caney Junior College in 1954, Mr. Moore completed the M. A. in mathematics at the University of Kentucky in 1961, and taught one year at Maytown high school. His wife is Lippie Martin Moore, also of Floyd county.

Barrett Smith, of Hindman, is a Caney Junior College graduate of 1960, and assisted in mathematics and chemistry courses in the college last year. With the B. S. in the University of Kentucky and two years of experience in Hindman high school, he is working toward the M. A. at the University of Kentucky under a Caney Fellowship and will rejoin the Caney faculty as routine instructor in 1964.

The college is fortunate in the return of Dr. Merton Jones, Caney teacher in 1958, who holds the Ph.D. in physics and chemistry, and has served as associate professor at Adams State College, in Colorado. Other teaching posts included the University of Arizona and Arizona State College. Dr. Jones is retired at age 62, is alone, and comes to Caney to broaden physics and advanced chemistry into the Caney Junior College curriculum.

A new home is being built for his and another faculty member's use below the Science building on the Caney campus. He joins Ellis Roy Reynolds, of Pippa Passes, on the physical sciences staff.

Dr. Caskey Settle, retired at 62 from New Mexico Highlands University, joins the Caney Junior College faculty in September after a year as visiting professor at the University of Idaho.

Dr. Settle will introduce a physical fitness and recreation program, long felt by Director William Hayes to be needed at Caney Junior College. Holding the Ed.D. degree at Columbia University, Dr. Settle is widely recognized as an authority in this field.

Joining Caney Junior College faculty through personal friendship and interest is George S. McDermott of Hartford, Connecticut. Holding the M. A. from Hartford Seminary Foundation, Mr. McDermott will teach philosophy and psychology, besides assisting in a broadened counseling and guidance program.

His further development in this area is expected to relieve much of the overwork which attends the duties of registrar and dean of men, William R. Hughes. Mr. McDermott is blind.

Rejoining Caney's faculty is Miss Alice Bliss, 1959-1960 instructor in English. An outstandingly effective teacher, she has accepted reappointment after two years' experience at Cumberland College (Kentucky) and in Illinois. She holds the M. A.

Abner Grender and family come this year from Franklin, Minnesota, to live and teach at Caney. Mr. Grender will teach music appreciation and theory, conduct choral groups and direct musical productions. He has the M. A. from the University of Wisconsin, and has successful experience in Clifton Junior College, in Texas, and in Redwood Falls, Minnesota.

Their son, Arneemann, will attend Caney Junior College as a freshman. Marie will be a senior

SENATOR MORTON'S POSITION ON MEDICAL CARE FOR THE AGED...

A better plan that really offers MEDICINE and CARE!

THE MORTON MEDICAL ASSISTANCE PLAN IS NOT COMPULSORY AND IS NOT AN AUTOMATIC TAX INCREASE ON THE WORKING PEOPLE OF AMERICA

It Provides:

- ★ ALL Health needs . . . not just a few.
- ★ CHOICE of coverage best suited to your needs.
- ★ Coverage for short-term sickness AND prolonged illness.
- ★ Financing by those with BEST ABILITY TO PAY.
- ★ VOLUNTARY participation with responsibility shared by individual, state and federal government.

THE MORTON PLAN IS A TRUE MEDICAL AND CARE PROGRAM IT!

whereas, Medicare, a highly publicized political program, is filled with false hope, rigid qualifications, and complete disregard of the individual's needs, rights and ability to pay. Medicare would immediately place an enormous additional Social Security tax on the payrolls of Americans who are working to support and educate their families against already heavily mounting tax burdens.

Senator Morton has constantly worked for a sound medical and care program for the aged since he first introduced such a program in the House in 1949.

WE DELIVER

INCREASED BENEFITS SEEN IN NEW PUBLIC WORKS LAW

Kentucky could conceivably get $40 million or more for projects under the $900 million Federal public works program just enacted by Congress, Gov. Bert Combs has reported.

"We intend to take advantage of every possible feature of the program," Combs declared after talking with John Whisman, a special assistant, who is in Washington exploring benefits available to Kentucky. "We already had planned our own program in anticipation of federal help, such as that provided in the public works legislation. It will enable Kentucky to take a long step toward developing the basic facilities necessary to acquire new industry and provide more jobs for Kentuckians."

Although Congress has not yet appropriated the money for the program, Lt. Gov. Wilson Wyatt talked with members of Kentucky's congressional delegation and said he felt certain the full appropriation would be forthcoming. Wyatt has spear-headed the state's economic development program.

Gene L. Butcher, state director of forestry, compiled a list of $1,226,000 worth of forestry projects which he planned to submit to the U. S. Forest Service. All would be financed under the new public works program.

The program permits the federal government to help the states develop a wide variety of improvements, including water and sewage plants, court houses, hospitals, airports, highways, reforestation and possibly small lakes.

For some of the projects, such as waterways and reforestation, the federal government will provide all the funds. For others, it will provide 50 to 75-percent of the funds.

The states must put up the remainder. Governor Combs was informed by Whisman that many Kentucky counties, with high unemployment and low income, would qualify for 75 percent grants.

(10) Moses Maggard youngest son of Samuel Maggard, was born in 1819, married Charlotte Creech. He died prior to 1900 and is buried in the Maggard cemetery on the head of Cumberland.

Sons and daughters were John, Rebecca, Sally, Eley, David, Elizabeth, Moses and Charlotte.

(11) Rebecca Maggard (1820-1904), lived longer than any of the sons or daughters of the pioneer Samuel, the only one to see the Twentieth Century. She married Abel Boggs (1812-1872), settled on Troublesome Creek, Knott county.

Sons and daughters were Silas, Jesse, Henry, Betty and Susan.

(12) Elizabeth Maggard, youngest child of the Samuel Maggard family, was born February 1, 1823, married Gilbert Creech, lived near Whitesburg, Kentucky. He was charged with bushwhacking by persons of Confederate sympathies, tried by a court martial on Leatherwood Creek and shot on the spot.

Sons and daughters were John, Zay, Sally, Nancy, Mary, Charlotte, Clote, Rebecca.

The Bach family, into which the Maggards married, originated in America with Johann Bach, born about 1835 in Germany. He died in Virginia but his widow, Elizabeth Huffman Bach, and children migrated to the Cumberland River, settled near the Maggards. In 1828 the widow Bach walked on two planes to pick out her burial place and was the first person interred on the spot. This was the beginning of the Maggard cemetery.

The Maggards, who had come to America long before the Revolution, were like thousands of other eastern families, fascinated by expanding America. They moved to Arkansas, Missouri and other states of the middle West and in the later decades of the nineteenth century, on to the Far West.

Typical of this urge to go west was William Maggard, grandson of John B. Maggard. Having grown to adulthood in the home of his parents, Henry and Polly Stamper Maggard, in the cabin home near the present Ison, Letcher county, he learned and loved the old, old ballads of his people.

One day he came to the house and sitting on a bed in "the big room" began to sing, finally ending with an ancient ballad that his people called a "lonesome tune." Having finished, he got up, walked out of the room and down the road.

Many years later he wrote his relatives from Lacona, Oregon, where he had married and was rearing a family. In the years that had intervened since John and David Magert had landed at Jamestown, Virginia, several decades before the Revolution, the Maggards had spanned a continent.
