MARTIN BONDHOLDERS SEEK RECEIVERSHIP

PARKING AREA DANGER SEEN BY LITIGANTS

Plaintiffs Hold Bonds
On Urban Renewal Work;
Suit Charges Omissions

Receivership for some of the functions of the city government of Martin was asked in a suit filed in circuit court here Tuesday by holders of bonds issued to finance the city's share of urban renewal expenses.

The suit was lodged by D. P. Newell, the First Guaranty Bank and Lawrence Keathley, purchasers of $71,000 worth of 5% water and parking facilities revenue bonds on which an interest payment due October 1 is in default.

Named as defendants were the City of Martin, the Board of Water Commissioners of the city (Ray Allen and Lawrence Keathley, commissioners), Haskel Frye, Sr., Mayor of the city, and the First National Bank.

The plaintiffs allege that the on-street and off-street parking facilities at Martin are in danger of being lost or materially injured and that the Water Commission has failed to maintain and revise water rates and make charges sufficient to pay the interest on the bonds and to create a sinking fund for payment of the annual bond principal installment. It is also contended they have not by such rates, as provided by the ordinance enacted February 1, 1960, provided for the operation and maintenance of the project and for the maintenance of an adequate depreciation account.

The action points out that Mr. Newell holds $40,000 worth of the bonds; The First Guaranty Bank, $8,000, and Mr. Keathley, $23,000.

Another paragraph of the suit points out that Section 83.050, Kentucky Revised Statutes, and Section 5 of the city's ordinance require any monies derived from the sale of the bonds and not expended on the project to be applied on payment of interest and principal of the bonds. The plaintiffs claim that the defendants, Haskel Frye, Sr., and the First National Bank, hold $26,137.02 from the bond sale which has not been expended on the project.

The plaintiffs ask:

1. That a receiver be appointed to administer the on-street and off-street parking at Martin, with the power to charge and collect rents, royalties, fees, rates and charges, and to receive monies from the water system to provide for the payment of the bonds, coupons and other charges.

2. That the city and Water Commission be mandamus to increase the water rates forthwith in sufficient amount to net enough additional revenue to pay the interest on the bonds and to create a sinking fund.

3. That Frye and the First National Bank be required to account for and pay over to the plaintiffs $26,137.02 which, the plaintiffs claim, has not been expended on the municipal parking system.

The urban renewal project at Martin, first initiated in the Big Sandy valley, included slum clearance and an off-street parking area.

This Town-- That World

THE AMERICAN WAY

The only criticism I personally have to make of the President's statement on Cuba was the way he pronounced the word: "Cuber." That's a lame effort at levity on a day full of gloom. We are not unthinking enough to miss the gravity of the present situation, nor are we foolish enough to try to chase the ghosts away by whistling past the graveyard. Neither are we given to sounding alarms.

Yet we are convinced that it will hurt nobody to look on things and see them as they are to the extent of his ability to see. The United States stands committed to a course of action. It has decided not to sit idly by with a gun pointed down its throat. President Kennedy has taken the final step from which there can be no retreat.

And, as much as every sane human being abhors war and particularly the horrors of nuclear war, who wants to retreat? Despite all our sins of omission and commission, we who call ourselves Americans have a sense of honor and we hold to the firm belief that our cause, in spite of our individual failings, is just.

So it is that Americans will, come what may, "quit themselves like men."

NATURAL REACTION

Tom Dingus was sitting in a Louisa restaurant, Tuesday noon, reading from Argosy an article about the German 88. As so many others had done, he had spent a good portion of the preceding night, thinking on the seriousness of the world situation and the threat presented by Russia. Just when he was most engrossed in the article, a woman inside the restaurant screamed. Into the building tore a small car which had been hit by a tractor-trailer and rammed through the wall.

As the bricks and glass flew and pandemonium set in, the Prestonsburg man jumped to his feet. Know what his first thought was? "Those damned Russians!" —that, he says, was it.

TEMPTATION

I do not believe in lying. Not even lying by a fisherman to another liar. But I was tempted, the other day, to call a certain Lafollette, Tennessee sporting goods dealer to his store by telling him I wanted to buy a big order, then, face to face, inform him I was merely evening the score for those whoopers he told us about how great the fishing was over at Norris Lake.

FIRM NAMED LOW BIDDER

On Middle Creek School; Fiscal Court Authorizes Bond Issue To Finance

Tom O. McGuire and Clyde Van-Hoese, partners of the firm of McGuire and VanHoese, have been named successful bidders on the Middle Creek elementary school building. The construction firm offered a bid of $366,000. Meade and Kendrick were only a few thousand dollars higher in that partnership's bid.

The Floyd County Board of Education met recently with the Fiscal Court, which has to authorize the sale of the bonds to finance the project. As soon as the bonds are sold the contracting firm will be notified by the board that construction can be started.

The new elementary school, comprising approximately 20 rooms, will eliminate all the rural schools on Middle Creek with the exception of David, Board Chairman Ray Howard says. This includes the Katy Friend and West Prestonsburg schools. It will serve approximately 600 students, he added.

It is envisioned that if weather conditions are not inclement, work will be started soon on the building and completion should take 18 or 20 months. This would enable the new school to open for classes in September, 1964.

Bids for construction of the Garth vocational school will be opened at the next regular meeting of the Board of Education, it is said.

Opening of the Middle Creek elementary school will eliminate the last vestige of concentration of rural schools in the county, it is pointed out.

MINE WORK INTENT TOLD

Reed Tells Meeting Of Plans To Resume Truck Mine Operation

Action that led to the reopening of the closed truck mines in this county was initiated Monday evening at Martin when approximately 1,000 coal operators, businessmen and miners heard B. F. Reed, industry spokesman, announce the creation of a hospitalization fund to replace the U.M.W.A. Welfare Fund and the intention to mine coal at Garth Hollow on Left Beaver Creek.

Reed and George E. Evans, Jr., Wayland operator, reviewed the depressed truck mining industry, the loss to Eastern Kentucky due to the closing of the small operations and the intransigent attitude of the heads of District 30 in regard to the royalty of 40 cents per ton that the operators say they cannot profitably pay.

"We have no quarrel with the large mines, strip miners, unions or their officers," Evans said. "The United Mine Workers is a fine organization but the question here today is the future of an industry. That industry is important to Floyd county."

Reed, in his opening remarks, read from a prepared statement from which he departed to speak extemporaneously, said that "it is necessary to take a look at things."

In August, he said, Turner Elk-horn Mining Company, paid the operators $445,000 for coal. Add to this, Reed said, the amounts paid by other buyers of truck coal and the figure would be approximately $1 million, of which he viewed one-half as wages to miners.

He said that he and other operators had discussed the question of the revoked welfare cards with the heads of District 30. "But," he added, "we met with evasion. They would say, 'We will let you know.' We know now they don't intend to give those cards back."

"We've been accused of making big profits but in Floyd we work small seams," the Drift operator said. "The earnings of the men in the small mines compare favorably with any other job the men could get in Floyd county."

He proposed to prove that the tippie operator wasn't making big profits by offering to lease a tippie without rental to any person who would operate it and not cut the price of coal bought.

Reed was highly critical of the picketing of the mines. He added that the power industry is becoming alarmed about the coal supply in the area, and he reverted to his attempt to negotiate the truck mine industry's trouble with the U.M.W.A.

"District 30 heads tell us the small mine problem can be worked out but everytime we try we are right back where we started," he told the crowd which was attentive and marked by no heckling or disturbance.

He announced that beginning Tuesday morning he intended to open one mine at Garth Hollow and haul the coal to Buck's Branch. He said he was assured the Sheriff and State Police would be there, and he requested people to come to Garth. He voiced his belief that half of those who had been following the picket lines would like to work.

"We hope nobody will bother us," (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

Prayer Service For Veterans, Other Groups, Is Pastor Plan

The Rev. Thomas W. Chisholm announced Tuesday that Veterans' Day, November 11, will be observed here as a prayer service for local veterans' groups, patriotic organizations and the public.

Rev. Chisholm originally planned to hold the service in the First Presbyterian Church, of which he is pastor, but the place of meeting was changed when Tom James, of the American Legion, announced that permission has been received to meet in the high school field house. James said the Legion and other organizations will lend full cooperation.

Learning of President Kennedy's action in the Cuban situation, the Rev. Chisholm, who served as an Army Air Force chaplain in World War II, wrote the Air Force chaplain Tuesday, offering his services. "The President should have taken action earlier," he said.

ATTEND POLIO CLINICS, HEALTH DOCTOR URGES

Dr. Russell L. Hall, health doctor, Floyd County Health Department, expressed deep concern this week as he considered factors which might cause parents not to have their children take advantage, Sunday afternoon, of the Sabin oral vaccine as immunization against polio.

"This is so important to the public health and to the youngsters," he said. "I wish there was some way somebody could prevail on everybody concerned with this mingling trouble to lay aside their differences, if only for Sunday afternoon, so that nobody will hesitate about taking his children to the clinic nearest him and getting this vaccine."

Twenty-five thousand doses of Type I Sabin vaccine are ready for this first mass onslaught in the county on infantile paralysis. An equal amount of Type II is at hand for the second dosage, four to six weeks later.

"This is our big chance," Dr. Hall said. "The fathers and mothers of this county could make it a big afternoon in the lives of their children."

(The Sabin oral vaccine is dropped onto sugar cubes and in this pleasant form is taken by mouth.)

Seven clinics have been set up by the Floyd County Medical Society to operate simultaneously from 1 to 4 p.m., Sunday. These clinics will be at the Prestonsburg high school lunchroom, the David school gymnasium, the Garrett grade school and the Harold, Martin, McDowell and Wheelwright lunchrooms.

Elsewhere in this edition of The Times is being published a form which parents should fill out and sign, then either take it to the clinic or send it by the eldest of their children attending the clinic.

School buses will be operated Sunday afternoon to transport school children to the clinics.

TRUMAN ASKS DEMO VICTORY

Former President Speaks At Pikeville, Saturday To Large Regional Crowd

An estimated 5,000 Big Sandians last Saturday heard Ex-President Harry S. Truman in typical give-'em-hell-Harry style blister Republicans and call on the voters to elect Democrats Wilson W. Wyatt to the Senate and Carl D. Perkins to the House of Representatives.

The former President spoke at the Pikeville high school football field, beneath Indian Summer skies, later flew to Murray to resume his campaigning for the Democratic ticket.

"If," he told his Pikeville audience, "you don't give him (Wyatt) the biggest majority ever, I hope you get what's coming to you!"

The doctory Truman started by saying, "I guess I have made more people mad than anybody." Then he said it was his duty to go to the polls and give the Senate seat now filled by Morton back to a Democrat.

He also said, "When it is time for the other one to run"—Republican Senator John Sherman Cooper—do the same thing over again.

Turning to Wyatt, and then to his audience, Truman shook a fist and shouted, "You've got a man here who will make you a good Senator and God knows you need one."

Politicians are necessary to government, he said, and presidents are not assessed at their real value until after they have been dead 20 or 30 years—"and I am going to live 10 more years. I am 78 now."

Truman was kind to some newspapermen—"the working press such as you fellows," he pointed a finger—but he doesn't like editors who take their blue pencils and sometimes change "what you write."

"I don't give a damn what they say about me," the peppery Truman twinkled, "just so long as it is not true."

Governor Bert Combs introduced the former President in Pikeville as "not only a big man but, also, a little man who can talk to you and whom you can talk to."

Truman replied that Combs "is a great Governor, one of the greatest in the country. I wish we had one like him."

Pike County Democratic Chairman Fred B. Redwine was master of ceremonies. State Representative Gether Irick asked the invocation. (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

WORKS PLAN UNDER STUDY

New Floyd Courthouse Now Being Considered, Congressman Announces

It was announced in Washington Wednesday by Congressman Carl D. Perkins that the U. S. Department of Commerce had under consideration plans to allocate accelerated public works funds to assist in the construction of a new courthouse in Prestonsburg involving $95,000, recreational facility construction in the Prestonsburg-Pointsville area involving $20,000, the construction of a municipal building in the city of Hazard involving $329,519, and $75,000 for the construction of recreational facilities in the Buckhorn Reservoir area.

The Housing and Home Finance Agency had advanced $7,215 to Floyd county to complete the planning of the municipal building. The expansion of the recreational facilities in the Dewey Lake area and in the Buckhorn area are expected to be carried out by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Perkins said that in addition to (See Story No. 4, Page 6)

TRUCK-MINE, TIPPLE OPERATION RESUMED

Floyd-Co. Recipients Get $77,525 In Aid, Commissioner Announces

Floyd county's public assistance recipients received $77,525 in aid last month through the State Department of Economic Security, Commissioner Earle V. Powell has announced.

The needy aged received a total of $36,665 in September, families receiving aid to dependent children $29,783, the needy blind $2,666 and the totally and permanently disabled $8,411.

Powell reported that payments will increase in all categories this month. The increases are being made possible by added state and federal funds that will put about $4 million more into the public assistance program in Kentucky each year.

Statewide payments in September totaled nearly $5.2 million and went to more than 143,000 needy Kentuckians.

GARTH MINE IS REOPENED UNDER GUARD

Pickets Hurl Epithets At Truck Drivers; Auto Dynamited At McDowell

In an atmosphere of deep tension one truck-mine and, one tippie serving truck mines resumed operation Tuesday morning, breaking the solid shutdown in effect in this county since picketing of the workings began.

Work at the auger operation on Garth Hollow Tuesday drew a crowd estimated by Sheriff Henry C. Hale at 600, including pickets, mine guards and officers. The crowd was larger Tuesday morning, with the pickets being joined by members of U.M.W.A. locals at Wheelwright and David.

Five trucks operated Tuesday, hauling coal from the Garth mine to the tippie at Buck's Branch, near Martin. The tippie was not picketed, it was said.

With state police and Sheriff's deputies at the scene with the announced purpose only of keeping the peace, remonstrances to operation of the mine were restricted mainly to jibes of "Scab" and "Yellow Dog," hurled by pickets. One man was arrested on a breach of the peace charge but was released under bond.

Tuesday morning, a rock was thrown into a truck and another picket was arrested. During the preceding night the auto of Ishmael Hamilton, a general tippie worker, was dynamited on Frazier's Creek near McDowell. State Detective Chester D. Potter was making investigation of the blast Wednesday, but nobody has been accused of the offense.

State Police Lt. William Lykins said he had 30 troopers at or in the vicinity of the Garth Hollow operation. He emphasized the point that "we are here to keep the peace—nothing else." Sheriff Hale served notice of temporary injunction on Lee Howell, of McDowell, a leader of the pickets. Hale said, "I am taking no sides, I am simply doing what the law requires me to do."

The main gathering was at the entrance of a private road leading to the mine, approximately half a mile distant. There the remarks ran from jokes to curses and threats. A woman, mother of eight, sobbed, "We've been starving seven years and I guess we'll keep on starving." She said her husband has worked only four of the last 18 months, "and when he did work he didn't make nothing."

One picket displayed a pay sheet. After deductions for work supplies, store charges, taxes, and union dues the total to be paid the employee was, "None."

Pickets talked over their experiences in the mines, joked with state policemen and pointed out two armed guards sitting on a nearby hillside.

"See those fellows up there behind that tree?" the pickets would say. "You can see they got guns and we don't have any."

"That ain't fair, is it?" The pickets asked Lykins to let them approach the mine operation. He refused.

On similar grounds Lykins ignored requests for his men to disarm the guards at the mine operations.

One picket, forewarned that he must obey the law, pledged that he would catch the operators one at a time later.

"If I'm all by myself," he reasoned, "you can't call that 'banding together,' can you?" He was referring to the injunction which enjoins the pickets from interfering with mine operations.

At the tippie, an operation where coal is graded to be loaded on railroad cars, it was a normal work day except for slack business, the handy shotguns, and a nearby police cruiser.

The picketing began after the United Mine Workers Union of America withdrew from members some 250 welfare cards in this area, on the grounds small operators had not made their pledged royalty payments.

The U.M.W.A., however, said it has nothing to do with the picketing or a walkout staged Monday night at the Inland Steel Corporation mine at Wheelwright.

A number of the Wheelwright miners were on the picket line Tuesday. C. E. Beane, U.M.W. District 30 president, has said his officers are trying to get the men to return to work at Wheelwright.

FEDERAL "RED-TAPE" MAY DELAY SEWER JOB

A sewerage system and sewage treatment plant for Prestonsburg rank high on the list of applications filed for federal public works aid, but the anti-pollution effort here, as elsewhere in Kentucky, may be slowed by federal "red-tape."

This was the view taken locally after it was pointed out by Dave Sebree, attorney for the State Water Pollution Control Commission, that of the $10,000,000 the commission had expended Kentucky cities to receive under the public works act only $2,000,000 has been allocated for the entire southeastern part of the nation, with only $300,000 earmarked for Kentucky.

"I am not pessimistic about the prospects, but we are anxious about the delay of adequate funds," Sebree told Harris S. Howard, Prestonsburg attorney, who is representing Prestonsburg in its efforts to finance sewer and sewage treatment plant construction. Howard telephoned him after reading a daily newspaper news-story telling of the small sum allocated to date to Kentucky.

The State Water Pollution Control Commission is trying to learn from federal officials why the appropriation is so small and if the state will get enough money by January 1 to cover the proposed projects.

Applications filed by Kentucky cities on such projects ask a total of $20,000,000.

Prestonsburg filed for 50% federal assistance. It was learned this week that this county may not expect more than 58% federal assistance under the public works act, because its unemployment rate did not for three of the last four years equal three times the national rate.

Mrs. R. V. May, chairman of the Floyd County Library Board, was told this Monday when she flew to Atlanta to file with the Community Facilities Administration an application for help toward construction of a library building here.

Because of the reduced federal aid, Mrs. May called a special meeting of the Library Board, Wednesday morning, and at that meeting it was decided to alter plans for the proposed structure to the extent that the overall cost will not be as great as originally planned.

7th DISTRICT CLUBS MEET

Two Floyd County Clubs Rated High in Contest At Woman's Club Meet

The annual Seventh district convention of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs was held October 16 at "The Heritage House," clubhouse of the Pikeville Woman's Club. There were approximately 90 in attendance.

Features of the morning session were a trombone solo titled, "Eulogy to Mippy, II," given by George Lowe, a music student at Pikeville College; invocation by the Rev. Joseph Garshaw; a short talk by Dr. A. A. Page, president, Pikeville College, on the subject, "The Monroe Doctrine and Cuba;" and an address by Mrs. Adron Doran, president, K.F.W.C. At 12:30 luncheon was served in the clubhouse dining room.

In his discussion Mr. Page pointed out that in spite of the fact that for generations Americans have felt that we should have Cuba, under the terms of the Monroe Doctrine we have agreed not to interfere in the affairs of any nation, and further we are to recognize the government in power. Dr. Page called attention to the fact that in 1960 representatives of nations in the Western hemisphere got together and reaffirmed their belief that we should work together as Western nations. They also agreed that it is the right of any nation to protect itself from a common enemy. Concluding, Dr. Page stressed that we should be intelligent and unemotional when we approach the problem of Cuba.

Mrs. Doran emphasized in her address the administration theme, "Expanding Horizons Through Quality Service." She stressed, "We cannot be satisfied with what our contemporaries did; we must move on. We have an obligation to leave more than we have lived up to." The afternoon session was highlighted by the club reports given in the form of three-minute skits. Jenkins Women's Club won first prize; Lackey-Garrett-Wayland received second place; and the third prize went to Prestonsburg. It was also announced by the Seventh District Governor that Lackey-Garrett-Wayland received a citation for its fine arts report. The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland club also was cited as being one of the 100 per cent clubs.

WHY I'M FOR MORTON

In 1942 I went to the Pacific Theatre of War, where I was to spend the next 31 months in Guadalcanal, New Guinea, Saipan and Iwo Jima. I experienced, as did other Floyd county boys the privations and hardships of war. I can never forget the associations I had, the acquaintances I made or the faces I saw during those terrible years. And one of them was none other than the Hon. Thruston Morton. On one occasion when our food was gone and our ammo exhausted, Morton came to our rescue with a Mine Sweeper.

His opponent says he was born with a silver spoon in his mouth. But I tell you when the call to duty came he answered, and for 51 months he gave a good account of himself. I assume he could have landed a soft job in Washington as his opponent did, and dodged the draft. But he didn't.

With the clouds of war hanging so threateningly over our country today I appeal to all VETERANS, to all FATHERS, and to all MOTHERS to vote for this man Morton. He sought no special favors, he was willing to make the supreme sacrifice when our country was at the Crossroads a generation ago.

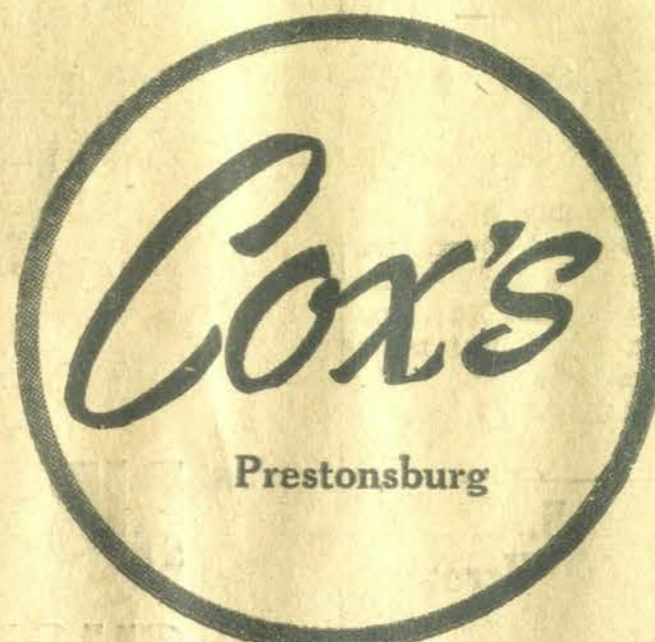

Lest we forget—Vote the Man—Vote Morton.

WILLARD BURCHETT

A recipient of four Bronze Stars, Presented by Gen. Douglas McArthur, A Citation from Franklin D. Roosevelt, And a Democrat for Morton purchase by the union's welfare fund of the West Kentucky Coal Company and of stock in the National Bank of Washington, which has financed some large coal operations through loans and bond purchases.

Kramer said, "Yes, we bought this company (West Kentucky Coal) as a good investment, but we never did one thing to control the policies of the company — either the wage policies, the pricing policies, or any of the company's operating policies."

West Kentucky Coal was one of the companies alleged in the suit to be co-conspirators with the U.M.W. The others were Consolidated Coal Company, Peabody Coal Company, Nashville Coal Company, and Island Creek Coal Company.

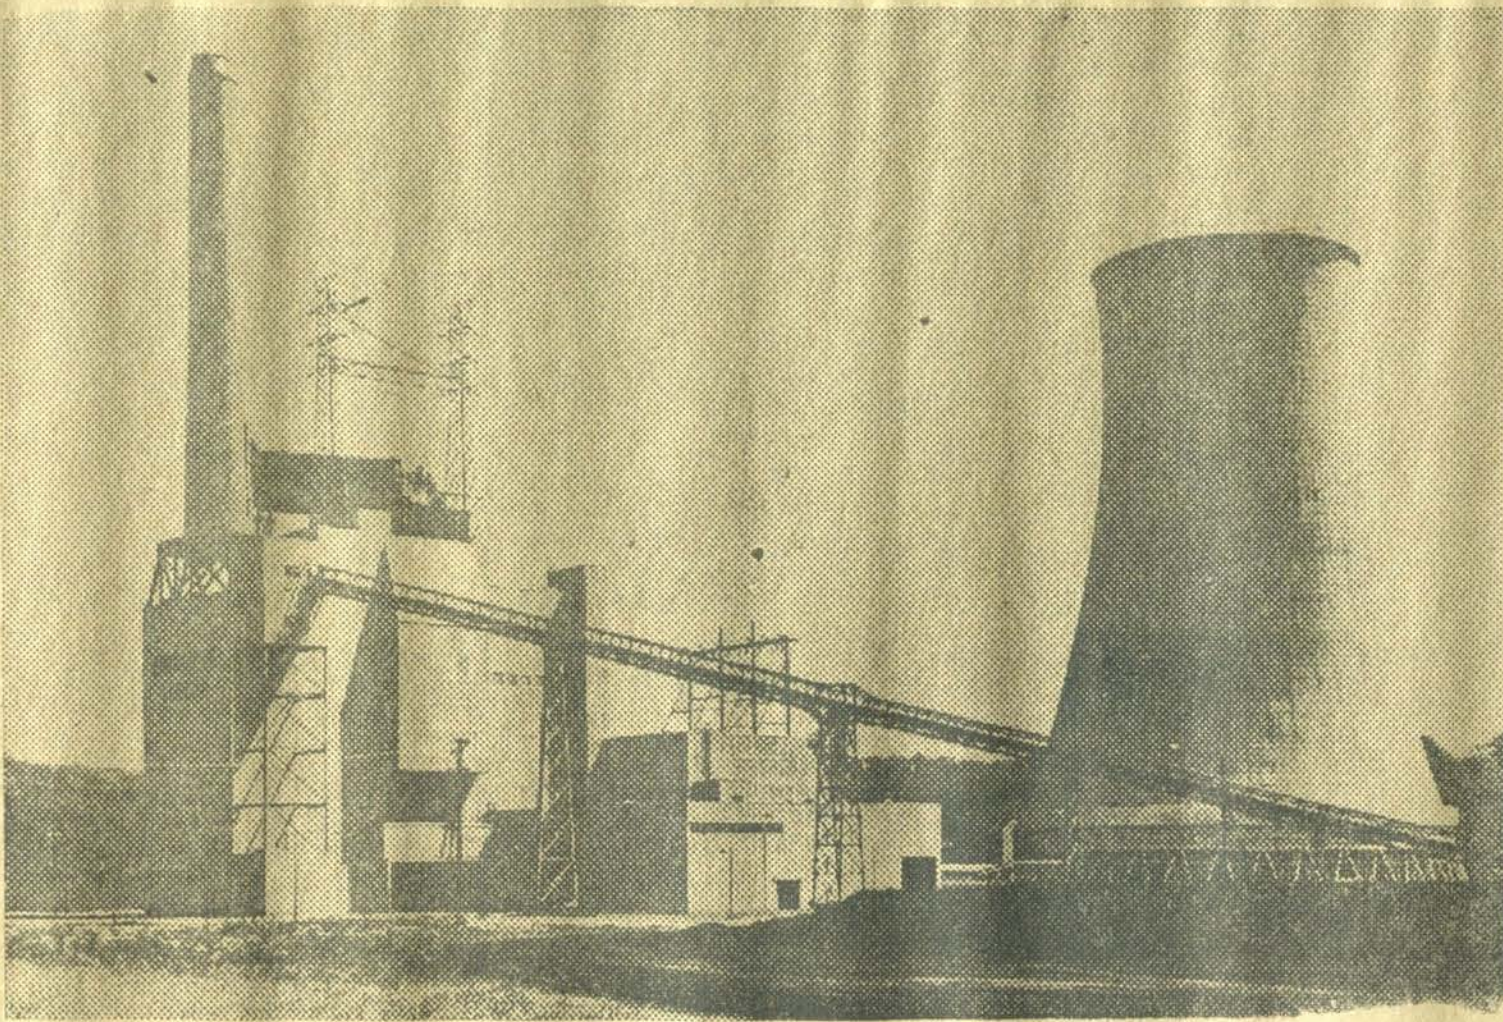

A separate suit consolidated with the Phillips Company's refusal to pay the 40-cent-a-ton royalty to the U.M.W. welfare fund.

Phillips' attorney, J. A. Rowntree, Knoxville, argued the contract which includes the 40-cents-a-ton royalty provision was invalid because it was signed by Phillips, under threats of strike and violence.

Rowntree said the contract had been signed at a time when the U.M.W. did not represent any employees of the company, and that the employees of the company were forced at a later time to join the U.M.W. as a result of threats and violence.

The U.M.W.'s answer to these charges was that Phillips earlier had based their claim for exemption from the welfare fund royalties on the charge that the welfare fund trustees were a part of the alleged conspiracy.

DEDICATION OF POWER PLANT SCHEDULED

KENTUCKY POWER COMPANY'S Big Sandy Plant with its giant cooling tower is nearing completion. The 265,000-kilowatt plant will be dedicated on Nov. 8 and will be open for public inspection on Nov. 10 and 11.

Dedication of Kentucky Power Company's Big Sandy Plant will be held November 8, followed by a public open house on November 10-11. Announcement of the events to mark the completion of the $39-million power plant near Louisa was made by F. M. Baker, vice-president and general manager of Kentucky Power.

Governor Bert Combs, who took part in the plant's groundbreaking ceremony in August, 1960, will again be a principal speaker at the dedication. Another key address will be given by Donald C. Cook, president of the American Electric Power System, of which Kentucky Power is a part. Mr. Cook, who attended the groundbreaking as an AEP vice-president, has since become president of the six-company system that serves parts of seven states.

Mr. Baker said, "We are inviting our customers to visit during the open house on November 10-11 when they will see how electricity is made at Big Sandy Plant, which will provide 265,000 kilowatts of power for progress in Eastern Kentucky." He emphasized the plant's contribution to the area's economy by its use each year of about 750,000 tons of coal from Eastern Kentucky.

"By visiting the plant during the Open House, the public will see that 'electricity is coal... coal by wire,'" he said.

Hours for the open house will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, November 10, and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday, November 11. Tour highlights in the plant will include the generator, the 155-foot boiler, the control room and chemical lab.

Visitors will also see the giant cooling tower, the only one of its kind in the Western Hemisphere. The 320-foot hyperbolic-shaped tower, different from other cooling towers in the nation in that it uses a natural draft of air instead of mechanically forced air, will keep a constant supply of water flowing through the plant's condensers.

Also to be seen from the plant are the V-shape transmission towers which were installed by helicopter in February, marking the first time in the nation that towers of this type were installed by helicopter.

How to tell the difference between a Full Service Bank and all those other "banks"

(AND WHY IT WILL PAY YOU TO KNOW)

BANK

In spite of their similarity from the sidewalk, there is a difference between financial institutions. Knowing this, and doing something about it, can save you cash money. It can even hasten your future financial independence.

What's the difference?

Some financial institutions take in savings and make real estate loans. Others make mostly personal and auto loans. But a Full Service commercial bank such as ours can accept—by law—both checking and savings accounts, as well as make loans for practically any purpose.

Why concentrate?

Most successful people keep both their checking and savings accounts in a Full Service bank. They borrow from a Full Service bank. By paying the loan back on time, they enhance their credit standing.

More important, they build their reputation for the time when they need a credit reference or a sizeable loan.

It's all up to you.

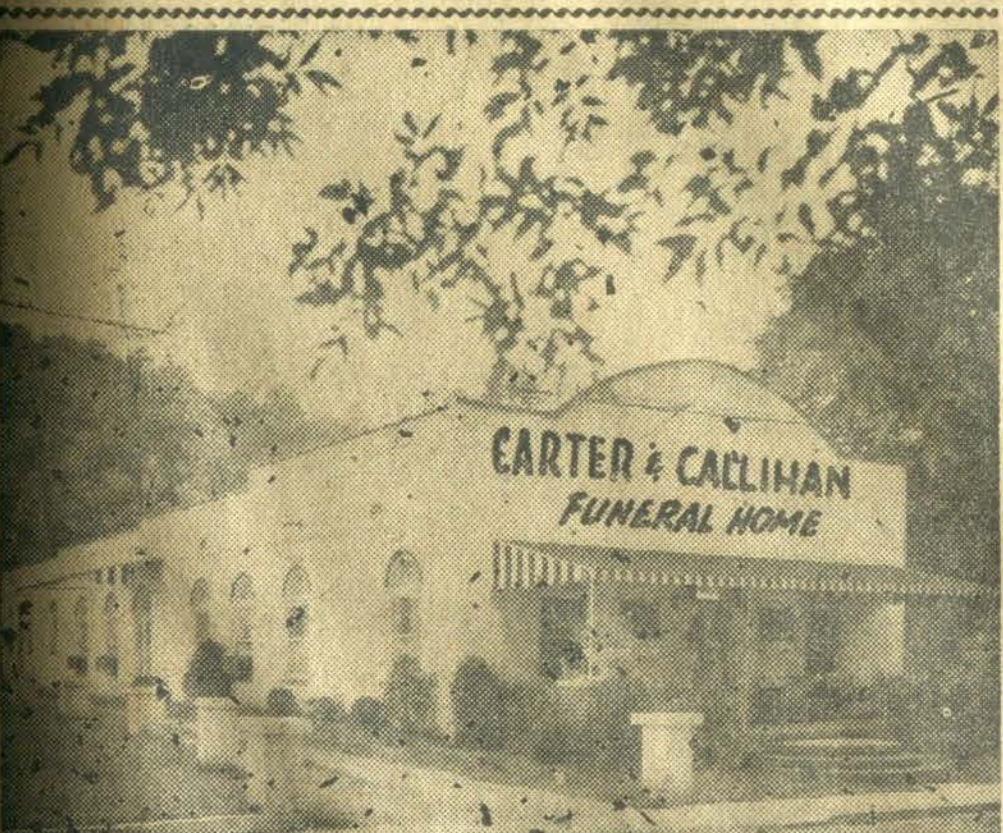

Let your checking and savings accounts be your introduction to the partnership benefits we can offer you as a Full Service commercial bank. There is a difference between a commercial bank and all those other "banks." It will profit you to put that difference to work for you.

these specific projects the Department of Commerce had under consideration other projects involving the U. S. Forest Service, the Soil Conservation Service, the Federal Aviation Agency, the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads and the Housing and Home Finance Agency to provide construction funds for the various public works programs to be carried out by those agencies in the Seventh Congressional district such as roads, public buildings, sewer and water facilities, and conservation and recreational facilities.

The Soil Conservation Service has submitted to the Department of Commerce plans to put to work immediately the unemployed in several types of land improvement and water control projects, including re-vegetation, tree planting, permanent grass cover, strip mine spoil bank control, small water impoundments, channel improvement and the development of upland areas for wildlife habitats.

The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads has requested the Kentucky Department of Highways for road projects that could be initiated promptly in the state that would require an immediate increase in employment. In requesting the data the Bureau has assigned priority to projects that could be put under construction by December 31 of this year and also projects which could be started after January 1 which would result in on-site employment before June 30, 1963.

Perkins, who appealed last week to the federal agencies to initiate public works projects at once in the counties of the Seventh district, pointed out that the area was currently suffering unemployment rates ranging from about 15% to as high as 30%.

The public works bill became law on September 14, 1962. The President assigned the responsibilities of overall administration of the program to the Department of Commerce within which is located the Area Redevelopment Administration. Just before adjournment on October 13, the Congress took final action on the public works appropriation bill for fiscal year 1963 which provided funds to start the program.

He said Wyatt opposed the loyalty program proposed a few years ago. He jabbed at Wyatt's claim of credit for the industrial development of Boyd county.

"The plants are there because of Greenup Dam, which the Eisenhower administration sponsored," he said.

Morton said that Kentucky is the greatest water resource state and that the development of those resources was initiated by the Republicans.

"When my opponent criticizes my votes in the Senate he criticizes the Jeffersonian Democrats," the Republican nominee told the approximately 200 persons on the courthouse steps and in the yard. He appealed to the voters to "keep the team (Morton and Cooper) in business at Washington."

"Cooper and I have seen Kentucky go forward under federal aegis," he went on. "They don't ask me at Frankfort to cut ribbons on the highways but they ask me to get 90 percent of the money for the roads."

Previous to his introduction of Senator Cooper, Morton launched into an attack on the Kennedy administration's foreign policy, said that our action in declining air cover for the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba created "an image of indecisiveness. The Russians consider the Bay of Pigs a defeat for the United States."

Cooper followed the Morton lead of swinging wide at the Democratic administration in part, concentrated his appeal on the theme that the state and nation needs Morton and added that if he is returned to the Senate it may mean that some day he will be President.

"The Democrats want a rubber stamp Congress," he said. "I don't want that nor do you. Send a man to Washington to help me. We have voted together on hundreds of issues. I don't have to tell you that Morton is a man of honor and integrity."

Lawrence Keathley, Floyd county Republican campaign chairman, presided at the meeting. He introduced Former U. S. Marshal Curtis Clark, who in turn introduced Parker.

VETERAN TEACHER, BUSINESSMAN REMINISCES OF LONG CAREER

BY PAUL GEARHEART

An old man with cotton colored hair and mustache to match sat rocking his four-year-old grandson. As they pendulated leisurely in the warm sunshine of the late spring of 1886, the elder fascinated the youngster with glowing tales, many of which were spiced with politics.

"You see here, sonny," Daddy (Sammy) Meade would bubble, "Let's name this hand Press Taulbee," as he pointed to the lad's right arm and "We'll call the left hand Bill Hurst." Placing a small stone in the child's right hand, the grandfather would shout, "Now let's see how far Press Taulbee can throw the rock?" Since the youngster was naturally right handed, the stone sailed over the nearby fence and on to the edge of Toler's Creek. Restraining his encouragement somewhat, the old gentleman placed a second pebble in the lad's left hand. "O. K., see what Bill Hurst can do?" The feeble effort of the left arm cast the stone scarcely to the fence only a few yards away.

"See there," the old gent roared with laughter, "I told you Hurst couldn't hold Taulbee a light." This seemingly insignificant scene exemplified Daddy Meade's sentiments in the Congressional race of the mid 1880's, which pitted Democrat

W. Preston Taulbee, of Salyersville, against William Hurst, the Republican candidate.

In the mind of the youthful George Madison (Matt) Hale, the illustration burned an imprint. It would be the weight which tilted the scale when Matt grew to manhood and chose his political alignment. It ensured continuity of the Democratic ideals of Sammy Meade, who, during the War Between the States, was arrested, interrogated at a Union encampment in the Stillhouse Hollow, near the Pike-Floyd county line, and released.

G. M. (Matt) Hale, well known resident of the Mouth of Mud area of Floyd county, will celebrate his 80th birthday, November 28. He was born in a log cabin on the Newground Branch, (now Meade Branch) of Toler Creek.

A quiet, reserved, conservative man, Matt has long been a close observer of current events and prides himself with vivid memories of a period of great transition. Peering through steel-rimmed spectacles, his pale blue eyes cast a reminiscent gaze as the stories unfold.

"I remember when the local political rallies were called Flag Raising Day," he begins. "I recall one such event about 1892. In those days the Republican party was dominant in our area, but the Democrats could always perpetrate the most fanfare and attract the biggest crowd."

From his vantage point high on a hill above the former site of the Harold depot, Hale could see the jubilant legion across the river as it approached. Far to his right he could see the head of the column break off and enter the lane which approached the river crossing. The slowly moving throng of wagons, horses and people stretched far to the observer's left and down river for a mile.

When the crowd had crossed the river and assembled near the homes of Frank Morrell and Kenas Hatcher, both staunch Democrats, the speakers took the stand in support of the party's candidates. The climax of the celebration was the raising of the flag on a pole which seemed to Matt, to be 100 feet high. Each major party claimed to have placed its banner atop the highest pole at its own such annual event. This distinction, each predicted, would assure it victory.

July 4, 1898, the sixteen-year-old farm boy from Toler attended an Independence Day celebration which was held under the shade of several giant hickory nut trees which stood in a bottom within a few hundred feet of Grime's Shoal, where the public road crossed Big Sandy, one-fourth mile upstream from the confluence of Big Mud Creek and the river.

A traveling road show had moved in to supplement the festivities. "Kill three Spaniards and win a prize," one barker cried. Moving closer, young Matt Hale saw rag dolls, dressed as Spanish soldiers lined up in rows. The object was to throw a baseball and knock three dolls off their perch, thus defeating the Spaniards in effigy and win a reward for good measure.

The thrilling news of Teddy Roosevelt's charge up San Juan Hill had reached the valley and was spontaneous fuel for the carnival atmosphere which prevailed. They would not learn, until later, that the Battle of San Juan had ended only the evening before.

Seventy years after the old Laynesville postoffice had been established, Hale mailed his first letter there, April 18, 1899. The correspondence was addressed to Professor William Byington, who was in charge of a normal training school at Prestonsburg. The education received there, he hoped, would prepare him for a career as teacher.

The young man requested admittance to the training school on condition that payment for his tuition and board would not become due until he had finished his training and secured a job. The forthcoming reply accepted the terms.

As the aspiring teacher would later write, "I made my initial entry into Prestonsburg on June 6, 1900. I came out of the Mud country with corn shucks in my hair, dressed in a suit of odd pieces and wearing shoes of ancient vintage."

Only four months of the normal school term had been completed when tragedy struck. A smallpox epidemic forced the school to close its doors.

The following May, he entered the county examination which determined whether the entrant was capable of teaching in the public school system. His first attempt was rewarded with a second class certificate. Not fully satisfied with his accomplishment, he re-entered the tests which were held the following month. His second score entitled him to a first class certificate.

Prior to the beginning of the local school term of 1901, a group of people gathered at the schoolhouse near the mouth of the Left Fork of Toler Creek. Those present included Willie Roberts, veteran schoolmaster, Jess Salisbury and Jack Hale, who comprised the trio of trustees for the local school district. Among others attending were John Roberts and Matt Hale, both of whom were young schoolteachers vying for the coveted job of teaching the Left Fork school.

The interest of each of the contenders was represented on the triumvirate by his father. Salisbury cast his lot with the elder Roberts and hired John, but not without concession.

"Next year the job is yours for time about is fair play," Willie Roberts consoled. G. M. Hale who Roberts consoled G. M. Hale who one year later, almost to the day, the same group reassembled at the identical spot to employ a teacher for the ensuing year.

Notwithstanding the fact that his son, John, sought and needed the employment and rejecting Salisbury's offer to support the younger Roberts a second time, Willie Roberts had not forgotten his commitment of 12 months before.

Today, 61 years later this incident stands out in the mind of the recipient of the simple but noble deed. Hale reflects, "Willie Roberts was a man of character beyond reproach, his integrity without question."

On the first day of school, 88 students enrolled for classes. The freshman instructor taught a variety of subjects, including the three R's, to grades one through eight. He received $35.00 per month for the five months term. Following the profession for the next 18 years, he taught in many Floyd county communities.

In November, 1906, the somewhat seasoned schoolmaster was visiting the county superintendent's office to pick up some school supplies. After a brief exchange of greetings, county superintendent Henry Patton astounded his visitor with a flattering proposition. "Matt, (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

makes STATEMENT

Because there are some stories making the rounds that Bill Wells favors this person or that person as superintendent, or favors certain changes in the administrative setup in the Floyd County School System, I feel it necessary to make the following statement:

I shall, as a member of the board of education of Floyd county district No. 1, promote harmony and cooperation because it is only through this manner that our schools will move forward. I feel that Charles Clark has been a fine superintendent and that our school system has made great progress during his two years in office. If Mr. Clark has a cooperative, open-minded board in the future, I am certain that greater progress will result in better education for our school age population. In the interest of harmony and greater progress, may I also urge my friends, relatives and persons interested in better schools to support Dr. J. H. ALLEN in District No. 2.

TIPS FOR THIN AMERICANS

Lexington, Ky.—We hear a lot about the "fat American," but there still are many people around who would like to gain weight. These may be teenagers—boys who feel they're too gangly and girls who want a few curves, or they may be hurried businessmen who skip meals and don't get enough rest. Often, too, they are housewives who find it hard to keep up with their children and still maintain their weight.

earlier this year, the Kentucky Legislature established a new college at Richmond in Madison county. Its name is Eastern Kentucky Normal College. I have the privilege of selecting four people from this county to attend the new school. The tuition is free, and the opportunity is yours. What do you say?

Ellis Conley, Albert and Malcolm Stone, all of Abbott Creek, along with Hale left for Richmond shortly after the first of January, 1967. They were Floyd county's representatives in the first class of what is now Eastern State College.

Even though tuition, room and meals were furnished by the state, each student needed a little money for clothes, books, toilet articles and other necessities. Such funds were not easily attainable by the mountain schoolteacher. This deficiency coupled with the lure of the hills in springtime spawned a case of chronic nostalgia. Shortly before the term was over, Hale resigned his scholarship and returned home.

During his days as a teacher Hale had become acquainted with a fellow schoolmaster known as Professor W. R. Thomas. Thomas was well versed in the history of the settlement and development of the Cumberland Mountain area. He was also interested in the Western regions known as the Oklahoma Territory. Thomas described the rolling, fertile lands which could be obtained by anyone who would "file a claim."

In the early spring of 1908, Hale took his young bride and accompanied Thomas and his large family to seek a new life in Oklahoma. Dozens of people from Eastern Kentucky had migrated to the new land.

Mr. Hale bought a train ticket to Okla. in Southeastern Oklahoma. He rented a 40-acre tract on which he planted cotton and corn. Visions of a bountiful harvest enthused the young pioneer with relentless energy.

When the crops were scarcely half-grown an uncommonly wet season seemed to nurture the weeds more than the plants. The silver lining in the frontier clouds began to turn grey. Faced with failure and despair, Hale returned home after six months in the hinterland. Upon his return he re-entered the school teaching profession and in 1915 went into the grocery and dry goods business.

During the following three decades he owned and operated general stores at Drift, Paintsville and Ashland. "I've dealt with lots of people," Hale notes, "and I've noticed the fellow who looks you straight in the eye is most apt to be honest and more likely to be telling the truth."

He retired in 1945. Shortly after retirement he built a replica of his birthplace in his backyard at Harcl. The twelve by twenty foot one-room log cabin is filled with relics and antiques which are reminiscent of another generation.

Supported by nails in a log rafter is the barrel of a cap and ball rifle. It is the remains of a gun with which Hale's great-grandfather killed deer before the gold rush of 1849. The elderly gent beams as

100 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Civil War in Kentucky

By JOE JORDAN
(Kentucky Civil War Commission)

A Confederate force under Gen. Braxton Bragg, designated the Army of the Mississippi, 100 years ago this week was toiling slowly southward through the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, on its way back to Tennessee. During the previous week it had suffered heavy losses in the Battle of Perryville, but had inflicted even heavier losses on Union Major Gen. D. C. Buell's Army of the Ohio. Buell had expected Bragg to renew the battle the next day, but instead the Confederate commander ordered a withdrawal.

Many Southern observers, including some high-ranking Confederate Army officers, shared the opinion expressed by a Richmond, Va., newspaper, that Bragg's invasion of Kentucky had been "a brilliant blunder and a magnificent failure."

The Confederate States capital was no more disappointed by Bragg's decision not to renew the fight with Buell than Washington was by Buell's failure to seek a decisive engagement with his retreating foe. Buell sent some units in half-hearted pursuit of the Rebels, but they contented themselves with harassing the rear guard of the slow-moving column. The Northern and Southern commanders seemed equally willing to let each other alone.

By orders from Washington, Buell was relieved of command and court-martialed, but Bragg, who was regarded as a favorite of Confederate States President Jefferson Davis, remained in command, "further demonstrating his ineptitude" in various other campaigns and battles until February of 1864.

Col. John Hunt Morgan and his cavalry were in the extreme rear guard of Lt. Gen. Edmund he points to a cornstalk attached to another rafter. It measures 15 feet, four inches long, and was taken from the Hale garden a couple of years ago.

Perched on the mantle above the pioneer-style hearth is a small, silent, wood-encased clock which is believed to be several years older than its present owner. It was once the property of the late E. S. Robnetta, a relative of the family.

Decorating the interior wall is a striking landscape scene, painted by Hale's son, E. W. A neatly framed Kentucky Colonel's commission is suspended from the opposite wall. Among his papers are note-books kept by his father when the elder Hale was road overseer. A prize possession is an autograph book containing 140 signatures of members of the first class of what is now Eastern State College.

Mr. Hale spends a great deal of time in his cabin where he reads, writes, relaxes and reminisces. He has kept a diary consistently for the last 20 years. A member of the Church of Christ for half a century he reads the Bible almost daily. He has served as elder and Sunday School teacher for more than 40 years.

THE DANGER OF A.D.A. AND WILSON W. WYATT

What is A. D. A.?

A. D. A.—so-called Americans for Democratic Action—is a national left-wing organization, not connected with either the Democratic or Republican party. Though not admittedly a secret organization, no membership list can be obtained from its national headquarters in Washington.

Wilson W. Wyatt, a candidate for U. S. Senator, is one of the principal founders of A. D. A. He broke away from the Democratic Party in 1947 in order to help organize A. D. A. and become its first chairman.

Why A. D. A. Threatens our Way of Life

Being neither Democratic or Republican, A. D. A. comes near to being socialist in its ideas. If A. D. A. could swing enough power, there is no doubt that our country would be headed straight in the direction of socialism. A. D. A. also favors soft policies and soft acts toward powerful Soviet Russia and Red China.

Here are some examples of A. D. A. thinking:

A. D. A. FAVORS WAGE CONTROL—the right to tell every working man how much he can earn.

A. D. A. FAVORS PRICE CONTROL—the right to tell every businessman how much he can charge for the products he makes.

A. D. A. FAVORS ABOLITION OF THE LOYALTY OATH.

A. D. A. FAVORS RECOGNITION BY THE UNITED STATES AND THE UNITED NATIONS OF RED CHINA—the same position taken by Soviet Russia.

A. D. A. FAVORS LOANS AND GRANTS BY THE U. S. TO COMMUNIST COUNTRIES.

What's At Stake in the November 6 Election?

Wilson Wyatt, founder of A. D. A. is campaigning for election against Senator Thruston B. Morton. Mr. Wyatt's connection with A. D. A. is the SINGLE MOST IMPORTANT ISSUE IN THE ELECTION.

If you want to continue our American Way of Life and keep America safe and strong, speak your mind on this issue at the general election on November 6.

Kentucky taxpayers can afford the best on their new Interstate highways—modern CONCRETE

EDUCATION LEADERS ENDORSE CLARK PROGRAM

We, the undersigned school principals and administrators, are in complete agreement on the following statement:

(a) We feel that the Floyd County School System has had more than enough fussing and fighting, so we say, let's go forward in harmony to make ours the best school system in Eastern Kentucky.

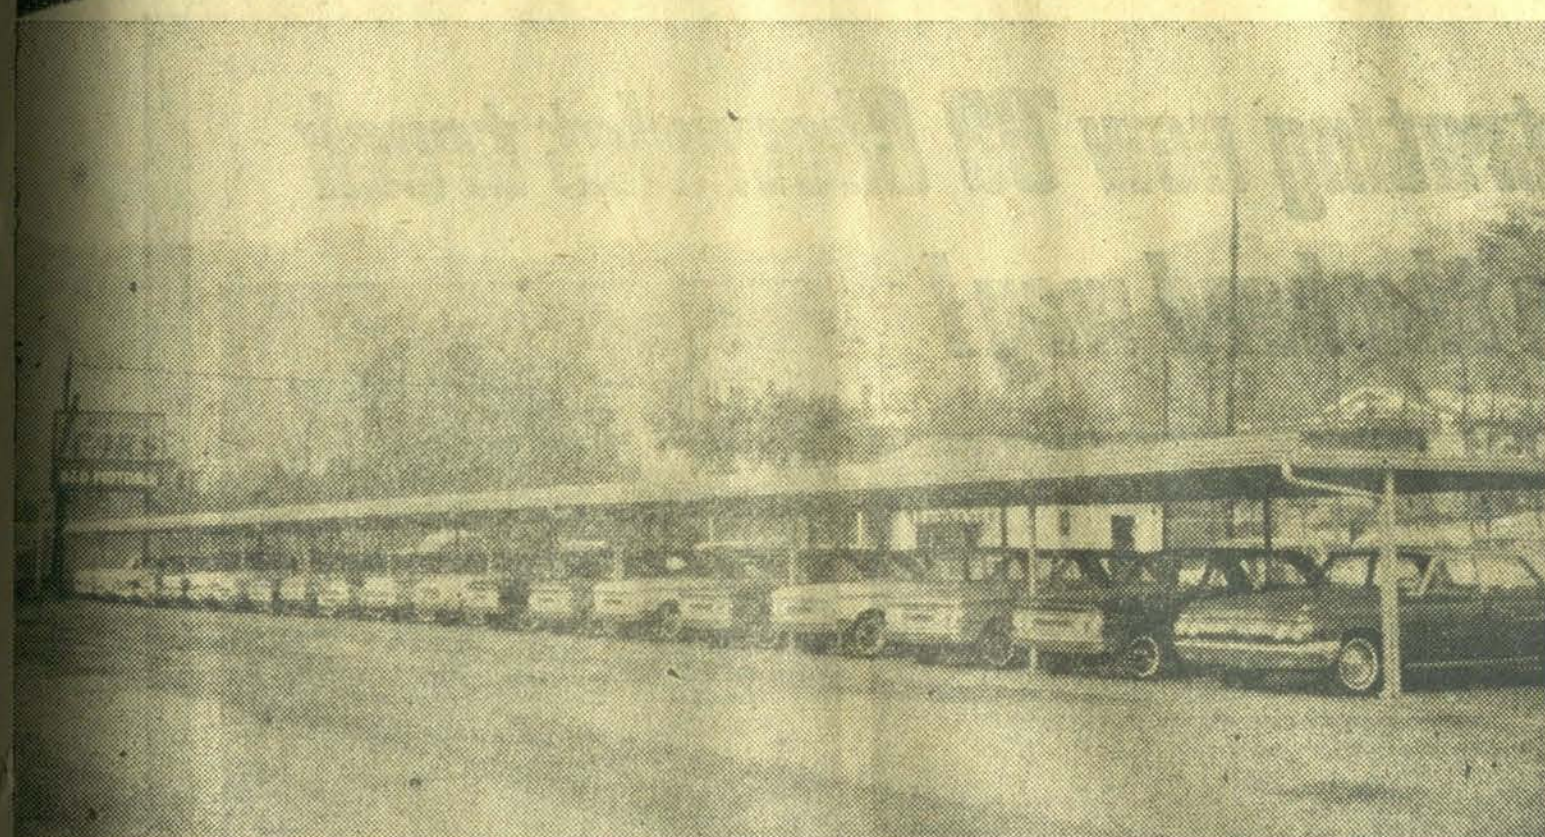

(b) A great deal of progress has been made in the last two years, although Superintendent Clark has had to work hard to even hold the school system together.

PROGRESS MADE RECENTLY:

1. The highest teacher salaries paid in history, and paid on time.
2. Eight new contract runs to transport children who have heretofore had to walk great distances, as well as adding five additional school buses to our fleet.
3. The rural school lunch program which will start again next month, and which insures for each child a good lunch whether he has the money to pay for it or not.
4. A good start has been made on an ambitious building program. Additional class rooms have been constructed at Betsy Layne, Martin, M. Dowell and Prestonsburg. Let's go forward to finish the new building program as outlined by the State Department of Education: Mud Creek Elementary, Middle Creek Elementary, Vocational School at Garth, Wheelwright Elementary, and others as money is available.
5. Floyd county was selected as a pilot county for an adult education program. The board education accepted the program on the recommendation of Superintendent Clark.
6. Two traveling teachers employed to instruct physically handicapped children in their homes.
7. The Board of Education and Superintendent Clark have worked very closely with the various colleges to encourage extension classes for our high school graduates and teachers.

Superintendent Clark has kept his eyes open to every opportunity to improve the Floyd County School System, and we believe he is determined to continue to do so, no matter what the odds. We know that Clark is a sober, dedicated and honest school man who deserves a chance to finish the next two years of his contract with a board willing to cooperate. It makes sense to us to elect board members who are willing to work together for the sake of our children, and for that reason, we, having looked over the board candidates, urge all Floyd countians to support and vote for Bill Wells, District No. 1, and for Dr. J. H. Allen, District No. 2. We are sure they are willing to support all the progress which has been made and that they feel, as we do, when we say, we need less "fussing and more schooling."

SPORTS CHATTER

By GORDON MOORE

Prestonsburg's Little League Eagles whipped Louisa, 27-13, last Saturday and this Saturday at 2 p.m. the Browns will meet the same group of Louisa All-Stars on the high school athletic field. In the second game of the doubleheader, the Cardinals and Colts of the local league will clash in their second meeting this season.

The Black Cats will close out their home football season this Friday night in a homecoming game with undefeated Coal Grove (Ohio). A homecoming queen will be crowned at halftime by Judy Smith, reigning queen.

The Eastern Kentucky regional high school cross-country meet, scheduled for the Paintsville Country Club golf course, Saturday at 11 a.m. is expected to lure a record number of entrants.

In the past three seasons, the sport has grown from two teams to 16 in this area. Meade Memorial and Flat Gap, two Johnson county schools, and Johns Creek high in Pike county have dominated the majority of the regional races, and Meade is the favorite to cop this season's title. They have won four meets, including the 94-runner Prestonsburg invitational.

Pairings for the 19th annual Floyd county pre-season basketball tournament in Prestonsburg, November 28 through December 1, have been announced.

In the opening game on November 28, host Prestonsburg will vie with Betsy Layne, and in the second game of the evening Wayland is pitted against McDowell.

Thursday's two-game session has Garrett clashing with Wheelwright in the 7 p.m. game, and Maytown will battle arch-rival Martin in the finale of the first round.

The semi-finals will be played on November 30 and the finals at 8:30 p.m. on December 1, preceded by a consolation game at 7 p.m.

WHITESBURG-ELKHORN CITY TO PLAY FOR SECOND SPOT

Whitesburg and Elkhorn City will battle for the second place trophy in the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference, Friday night in the Pike county community. Hazard won its fifth consecutive crown in area high school football by defeating Fleming-Neon, 25-13.

Jack Hall's Cougars are 4-1 in league play after whipping Pikeville, 6-0, last Friday. Whitesburg is 3-1-2 inside the league and 6-1-2 overall. Thus Friday's victor is assured the runner-up spot.

On the strength of two touchdowns by hard-running halfback Delano Thomas and one by Jerry Coots, Whitesburg copped its sixth victory by dropping Prestonsburg, 19-7.

Belfry's all-state candidate Floyd Hatfield ran for two touchdowns.

3 Training Programs Approved for Kentucky

Three vocational training programs to be conducted under the Federal Manpower Development and Training Act of 1962 have been approved for Kentucky by the U. S. Department of Labor and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Wendell P. Butler, state superintendent of public instruction, said the courses approved will be taught at the Northern Kentucky Area Vocational School and at Somerset Area Vocational School. On September 11 Kentucky was awarded $1,280,000 in federal funds to finance the manpower program.

The three programs just approved will cost an estimated $148,498. Of this, $33,473 will be used by the Department of Education to furnish course supplies and pay instructional salaries. The remaining $115,025 is for training allowances and subsistence payments for students, which will be channeled into the classes through the Department of Economic Security.

Butler said the three courses approved are expected to begin early in November. They are:

Stenographer — a 26-week course for upgrading the skills of persons who possess the rudiments of stenographic skills. Two classes, each limited to 18 students, will be taught at the Northern Area Vocational School, Covington.

Auto mechanics—a 44-week course designed to train persons for entry into the auto mechanics field. Two classes, each limited to 18 students, will be taught at the Northern Kentucky Area Vocational School.

Carpenter, finished construction—a 52-week course designed to train persons for entry into the construction field. The class will be limited to 18 students and will be conducted at Somerset Area Vocational School.

THE FEMININE SIDE OF BOWLING NEWS

By IMA BOWLER

Gals, this week I didn't call the lanes to find out who high bowlers were, since there is so much we haven't done, and it seemed to me we ought to get that straightened out. These things are advertised on the radio and paper, anyway, so let's by-pass this, this week, and I will continue it next week.

The majority of the leagues have turned their sanctions in, and all of you should have got your membership cards back by now. If there are any errors, or you haven't received them, get in touch with your secretary and let's get them straightened out.

Most of the leagues are pretty well organized, and are now bowling, but in all lanes there are still a few openings, so if you are interested in bowling in a league you simply call the lanes. You don't have to join as a member of any certain team. There are lots of teams which aren't complete, and they need you, so don't hold back. They will welcome you.

A word about those Deadmen scores, gals. The purpose of having a pacer bowl with a team is not simply to fill in the space but to help pay the dead man score. Each team who bowls is required to pay the whole amount, even for the deadman, each week, and you need to remember this. You wouldn't want a prize you hadn't helped pay for—so be sure you are paying your fair share each week.

Also, league funds are the property of the league. If you have been elected by your league to handle your league funds, and can't be there, don't let the money get out of sight. Be sure there is someone to take care of it for you. Our managers have enough worries without trying to keep our funds straight too, and they hate to turn us down, but if you have this job don't put it off on them. Either be there and collect yourself, or have a league member help you.

The WIBC national woman's tournament will be in Memphis, Tennessee next April. They are hoping we will participate. We have entry blanks now.

League presidents should now have a form for reporting their monthly verification of league funds. This is a matter of protection for you, so don't let this slip past you. The Association needs to know where you have your account and it should be checked and signed each month in the bank. This is certainly worth the trouble, for your own sake.

The Association will soon have for sale WIBC pins. Watch for them.

THE TOWN OF JACKSON HALF A CENTURY AGO

The town of Jackson, county seat of Breathitt county, was founded in 1839, the year the county was created. Jerry South, who lived near the site, was highly instrumental in the formation of the new county and is called the Father of Breathitt.

The first resident of the town was John Hargis, of Pikeville, who bought some of the first lots, erected four or five log houses and a hotel. He was named the county's first clerk. Thomas Sewell, of Harlan, came to the new town, built on the land of Simon Cockerell, and erected the first store.

Shown here is the town approximately 50 years ago.

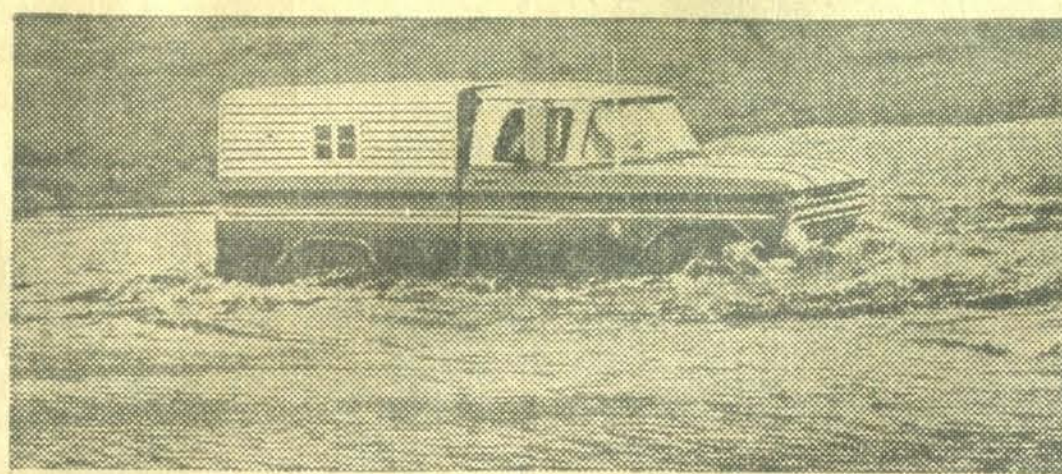

The First National Bank presents these pictures in recognition of our historic heritage.

Demonstrating new '63 Chevrolet truck features the hard way!

When we came to a river we got wet. This river bed was paved with rocks the size of melons. What a test for new light- and heavy-duty suspension systems this was!

Conventional light-duty units have coil-spring independent front suspension—easier on truck, load and driver.

Users of new conventional medium- and heavy-duty units who have to operate in close quarters are going to like the narrower front ends (up to 7 inches).

New engines, suspensions, frames and narrower front ends show their stuff on Mexico's tough Baja Run!

With months of proving-ground tests under their belts, why did new Chevrolet trucks take on the rugged Baja (bah'hah) Peninsula?

This is the toughest line of trucks Chevrolet has ever built. Sending them over the most punishing terrain in North America (a road totally unlike the fine highways on the Mexican mainland) was double proof of this fact. Frames, engines, suspension systems were subjected to stresses far greater than trucks normally encounter. You can be sure that trucks that can handle this kind of beating can handle any kind of work.

RAPID FREEZING
Rapid freezing of steaks makes them lighter, brighter and more uniformly tender, reports USDA. An impartial test panel in Oklahoma recently rated frozen steaks better than hot-frozen ones — in flavor, tenderness, and overall satisfaction.

A pleasant breakfast can help prevent accidents. The man who leaves the breakfast table well-fed and happy will use better judgment in everything he does. But the man who goes to work hungry and grumpy doesn't have much patience; he often takes foolish chances that can end in an injury.

VOTE THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET

NOV. 6th, 1962

Kentucky needs a Democratic Senator to work with President John F. Kennedy to get things done for Kentucky.

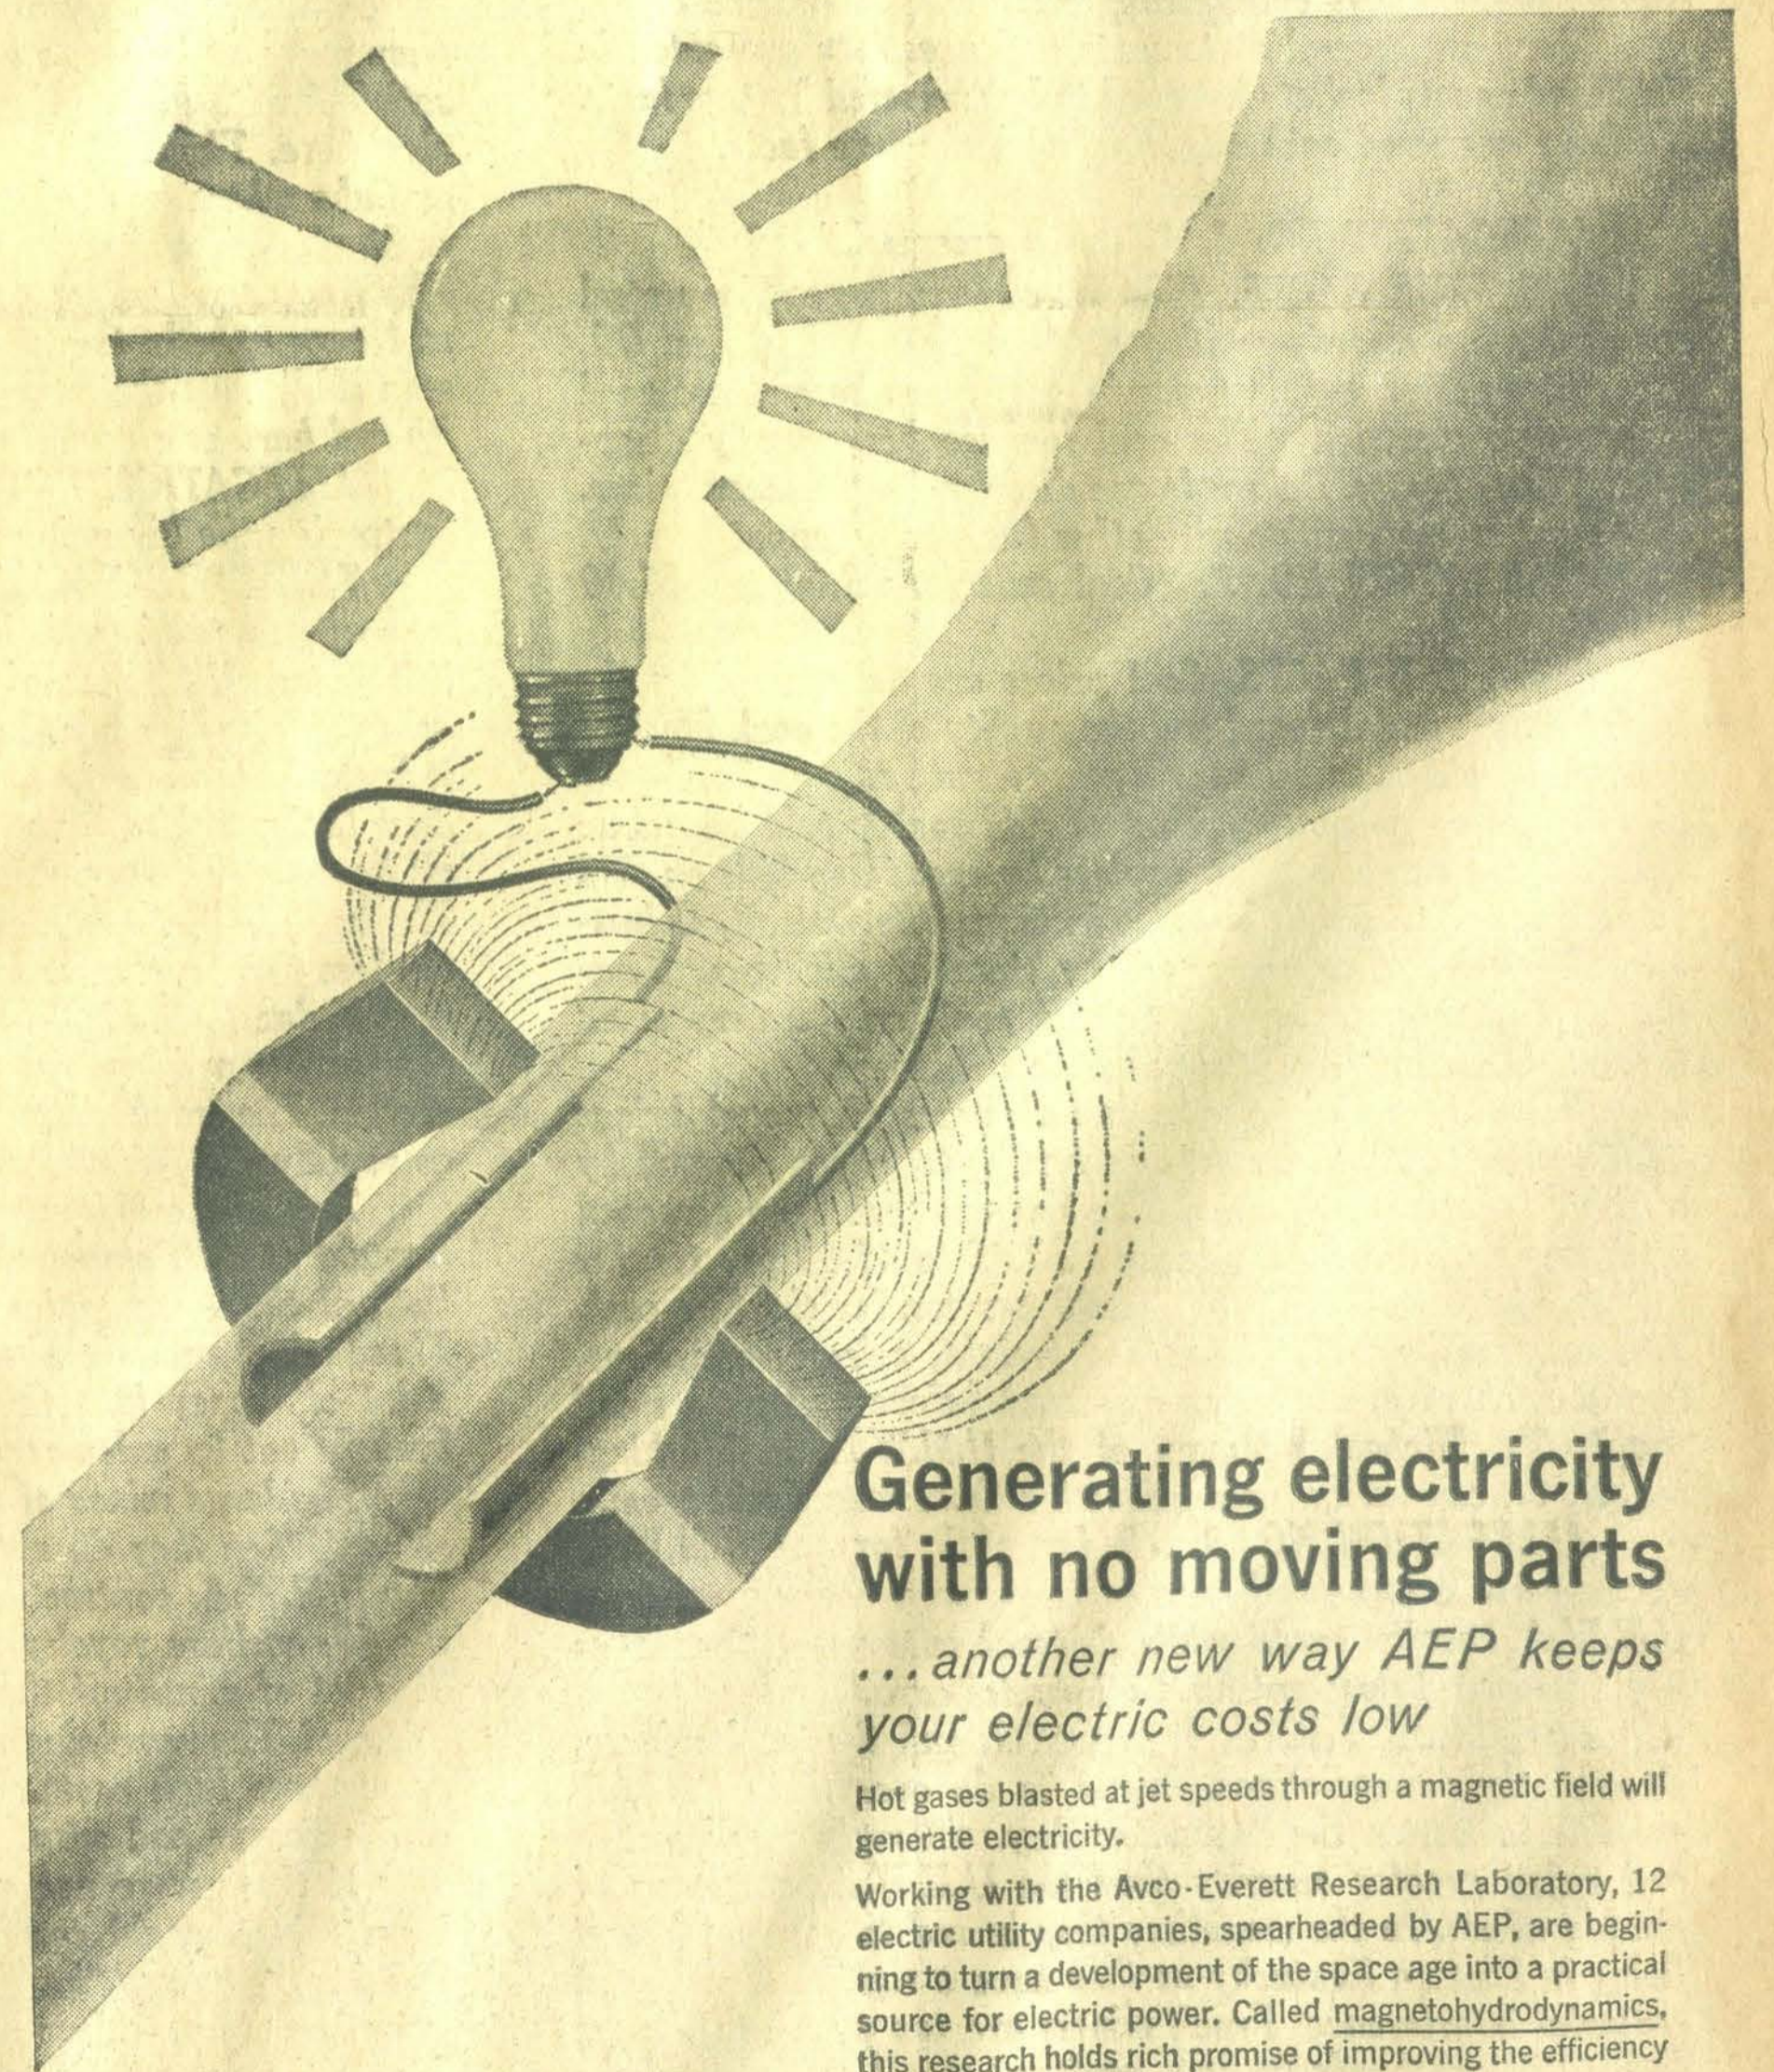

Kentuckians on November 6 will have an opportunity to send such a man to Washington, Wilson W. Wyatt, a Senator FOR Kentucky. His record as lieutenant-governor merits your vote. Moreover, he knows the problems of this county and will help find the solutions. You can depend on him to vote in Washington the same way he talks in Kentucky. You can depend on him to cast his vote for Kentucky, not for Ohio, or Indiana or Illinois or California—but FOR Kentucky.

Tell your friends and neighbors of his work. Point to Kentucky's progress under the direction of Wilson W. Wyatt. Tell them of his dedication to Kentucky. Join them and thousands of others throughout the state in voting for Wilson W. Wyatt for the United States Senate.

Your date with destiny is November 6. The man is Wilson W. Wyatt, a Senator FOR Kentucky.

Generating electricity with no moving parts

...another new way AEP keeps your electric costs low

Hot gases blasted at jet speeds through a magnetic field will generate electricity.

Working with the Avco-Everett Research Laboratory, 12 electric utility companies, spearheaded by AEP, are beginning to turn a development of the space age into a practical source for electric power. Called magnetohydrodynamics, this research holds rich promise of improving the efficiency of today's best power plants by 40%.

Doing things in new ways to improve service and efficiency is one big reason why the average unit price of electricity, for customers of Kentucky Power Company, has not gone up during twenty years of inflation.

Your service is better, your rates are lower because Kentucky Power Company is a part of the American Electric Power System. Supplying more electricity than any other investor-owned utility, AEP aids the economic growth of 2,350 communities in seven states. Through integrated operations, progressive engineering, research and coordinated management, the six member companies of AEP bring you low-cost power with greatest dependability.

THE TRUTH ABOUT TRUCK MINES

A leaflet entitled "Facts The Unorganized Miner Should Know" is being circulated throughout Eastern Kentucky. We assume that this leaflet was prepared by or on behalf of the Floyd county pickets. We welcome it and respect their right to express themselves and to try and convince others of the correctness of their position. Free and open discussion of all matters that concern our people is an exercise of our constitutional right known as "Freedom of Speech."

This is our reply to that leaflet. It is offered respectfully without any attempt to call names or insult anyone who does not agree with us. It represents our honest opinion and understanding of the facts. It is written on behalf of the thousands of men who make their living in the non-union truck mines of Eastern Kentucky. Many of these men have joined the truck mine associations which have organized in practically every county in Eastern Kentucky. Most of them have belonged to the U.M.W.A. and many of them took an active part in organizing the coal fields on behalf of the U.M.W.A. No one need explain to them what coal mining or the U.M.W.A. is all about.

There are several statements and questions presented in the Floyd county leaflet that need to be answered by true facts. We have answered each allegation with the true facts.

ALLEGATION NO. 1. "Coal is essential."

THE TRUE FACTS. This is no longer true. Many steel companies are already making steel in electric furnaces. Oil, gas, water power and now atomic power can be and are used to generate electricity. The coal furnace has already disappeared from homes. Railroads use diesel powered locomotives. Coal must be competitive with other fuels or it cannot be sold.

ALLEGATION NO. 2. "Coal sells for $8.00 to $15.00 a ton."

THE TRUE FACTS. Coal prices are determined by the law of supply and demand and the quality of the coal. Most of our coal is sold to utilities for a price from $2.50 to $3.60 per ton, depending on quality. Most of this coal is sold on public bids. Anyone can check these prices by examining bids on coal being shipped to public utilities in cities like Detroit, Columbus, Cleveland, Cincinnati, or the state of Michigan. Since the steel companies mine their own coal, only a very small tonnage of coking coal is sold by local shippers.

When the writer of the leaflet states that coal brings $8.00 to $15.00 per ton, he is referring to prices charged by coal yards in northern cities. The fine coal has been screened from this coal. Our mines receive $3.85 to $5.00 per ton for this screened coal and about $3.00 per ton for the fine coal. The coal yard must add railroad freight, sales commissions, handling charges, taxes and overhead before making a small profit. Mr. Michael Widman, of the U.M.W.A. in Washington, D. C., can verify these prices for those who doubt them.

ALLEGATION NO. 3. "It is unfair for the U.M.W.A. employee of a large rail mine to make more money and have U.M.W.A. hospital cards, while his truck miner neighbor makes less money and does not have a hospital card."

THE TRUE FACTS. It is not fair and the truck miners, through their associations, intend to do everything humanly possible to hasten the day when they will make more money and enjoy greater security than the U.M.W.A. employee of the big mines. In the meantime they intend to earn an honest living in Eastern Kentucky as they have a right to do without unlawful interference. Truck miners are too proud to live on handouts. Truck miners have replaced the U.M.W.A. welfare card with equally good and reasonably priced private insurance hospital cards which no one can arbitrarily take away from them.

ALLEGATION NO. 4. "It is unfair that the truck mine operator makes a lot of money, drives a Cadillac and owns a brick home while his employee makes nothing."

THE TRUE FACTS. We were unaware that all truck mine operators drive Cadillacs and own brick homes. The Internal Revenue Service reported that the coal mining companies of the country earned less than ten million dollars in total net profits on the 400 million tons of coal mined in this country in 1961. This means that a net profit of 2½c was made on each ton of coal mined in 1961. This means that many mining companies lost a lot of money in 1961.

Under our free enterprise system it is no crime to buy any kind of a car or home you can afford. Any truck miner who drives a Cadillac or owns a brick home can be proud of it because he earned it by hard, honest work rather than loafing and living on handouts.

If there is anyone who works for nothing in a truck mine, he should report that fact to the Wage and Hour Division of the U. S. Labor Department. We have laws that set a minimum wage and anyone can enforce it. If a truck miner is not satisfied with his earnings, he is free to quit his job and go elsewhere. Thank God, we do not live in Communist Russia or Cuba where a man is shot for wanting to work for a living as he pleases, and make the best living he can honestly make. The American System does not guarantee that every citizen will earn exactly the same but it does guarantee that every man shall have the same opportunity to go as far as his ability and hard work will take him.

ALLEGATION NO. 5. "Truck mines are responsible for destroying the big union mine, by reducing coal prices."

THE TRUE FACTS. On this point the writer of the leaflet contradicts himself. In the first paragraph on the leaflet it is stated that "a ton of non-union coal sells for just as much as a ton of union mined coal does." In the fourth paragraph it is stated the "Large coal companies have been forced to reduce their working force and yet produce more tons per man, all because the truck mine coal is sold at reduced price . . ." The truth is that truck mine coal sells for about one dollar a ton less than coal mined by big companies. This price difference is due to the preparation plants, sales organizations, big productions and large coal reserves owned by the big mine operation. The truck miners are overcoming these disadvantages as rapidly as time and money make it possible.

Two of the biggest sources of cut rate coal are the West Kentucky Coal Company and the Clinchfield Coal Corporation. Both of these companies were financed by U.M.W.A. money. These mines produce big tonnages with a few miners but pay a lot of money into the U.M.W.A. treasury. This fact was brought out by union records obtained by a federal court.

The large mines of Eastern Kentucky are owned by outsiders. When they do not earn a good profit they are closed. The U.M.W.A. contracts of 1950 and later years along with the 40c welfare royalty and high labor costs priced the coal of a lot of mines off the market. Oil and gas have replaced this coal. The remaining mines have had to mechanize to overcome these high costs. Wartime demand for coal, scattered coal acreages and surplus labor brought about truck mining.

If there were not a single truck mine in existence, the large mines would continue to replace men with machines. The big mines and the U.M.W.A. have co-operated in replacing men with machines in the mines. Nothing will change this fact. You cannot turn back the clock.

ALLEGATION NO. 6. "County and state officials have sold out to the truck miner by issuing unlawful injunctions against the U.M.W.A."

THE TRUE FACTS. It is a serious matter to accuse a public official of accepting a bribe. If this is true the writer of the leaflet should present his evidence to a grand jury. If it is false the leaflet writer is making a libelous statement.

No injunction has been issued against the U.M.W.A. The Floyd county pickets were enjoined against threatening bodily injury, doing bodily injury, trespassing, destroying property and committing other crimes. The U.M.W.A. has repeatedly stated that this group is not affiliated with the U.M.W.A. in any way. County and state officials have been very lenient in enforcing the law. They have leaned over backwards to enforce the laws impartially.

ALLEGATION NO. 7. "Truck mines exist in order to avoid complying with the Federal Mine Safety Laws."

THE TRUE FACTS. A mine must have more than 14 employees in order to come under the Federal Law. This requirement has not been changed because Congress has been shown by actual figures that there are fewer accidents in truck mines per man hour of exposure than in the large mine. The number of employees in a truck mine is limited by the size of the average truck mine and not to avoid the Federal Law.

Our Kentucky Department of Mines is the best mine safety agency in the country. No agency can do a better job of enforcing safety rules in Kentucky coal mines.

ALLEGATION NO. 8. "This is a fight between the rich and the poor."

THE TRUE FACTS. In America we believe that all men are created equal. We do not believe there is any rich class and poor class or high class and low class. A man may have poor beginnings but if he is willing and able, he and his children can improve their standard of living. The efforts of Communist Russia and Cuba to create class hatred and strife is one reason Americans are fighting communism.

In presenting our answers we have stuck to the facts. There are other facts which the thinking people in Eastern Kentucky know to be true. These are as follows:

1. Except for the steel company mines, the large rail mine is a thing of the past in our area.

2. The few remaining large mines employ about 3,000 people and this number is becoming smaller.

3. The truck mines employ over 25,000 people and this number is growing rapidly. More than 75% of this number were former members of the U.M.W.A. who have been displaced on account of worked out territory or by giant coal mining machines, which have been financed mostly by the U. M.W.A. Welfare Fund.

4. Coal must compete with other fuels. When the price becomes too high, markets are lost to oil and gas and miners are unemployed.

5. Labor disturbances in the coal industry give our area a bad reputation and makes it impossible to attract other industry.

6. All of us should work together to improve truck mining rather than destroy it.

7. Truck mining is the sole economy to Eastern Kentucky and if truck mining should cease there could be nothing at which our men could work, and more want and misery undoubtedly would follow.

8. The profits from the big mine owned by outside interests do not stay in Eastern Kentucky but practically every cent of truck mine money stays at home and is spent at home.

The truck miners bear no ill will toward the Floyd county pickets or anyone else. We wish only to live and work in peace. In the words of the Great Peacemaker, "Blessed are the peace makers: for they shall be called the children of God."
