This Town-- That World

Well, if you're having to eat crow after this election, I know where you'll have to take a boat to get there.

After taking a look at the vast expanse of mud, etc., left where "beautiful Dewey Lake" was, one of our fellow-citizens decided a new name for the lake is in order. Beer-Can Basin.

TRIA-LA!
With the lake winding snake of red in the old stream-bed and with the temperature way down, I'm a bit more carefree than usual. No more worrying of the quarter is, or the full, or what of the zodiac, or about the signs of scientific stuff. Those fish can strike or work. I don't care. I'm through till--well, later, anyhow.

THE EXPERTS PREDICT
A Mr. Watson Wyatt and I seem to share the somewhat doubtful honor of being the poorest political prophets outside a butterfly net. He said he would win by 75,000. I wasn't badly fooled on this one, but I'm the guy who got scared about Bert C. Robson's chances against John M. Morton.

It isn't often that you get the experts to set down their predictions for future reference, unless there's a matter of money on the board, but last week 10 of these made bold to give with forecasts. The notes at hand do not say if they read the tea leaves or studied the entrails of a freshly killed fowl with the moon shining over their left shoulders, but here's what they predicted:

Wyatt To Win
Charles Clark, 18,000; Joe Stanley, 40,000; Alex Spradlin, 29,000; Lloyd Stumbo, 30,000; Henry P. Scalp, 30,000.

Morton To Win
Dr. Edward Leslie, 40,000; Joe I. Dray, 25,000; Wayne Ratliff, 8,000; Byron Nunamy, 20,000; Bill Darby, 12,000.

That list doesn't include the one or two who assured me that Carl Perkins was in deeper trouble than Wyatt.

OPERATION DRAWDOWN AT DEWEY COMPLETED

LOSS OF BASS HEAVIEST YET, REPORT HEARD

Fish Succumb To Lack Of Oxygen In Channel; Fishermen Net Is Large

Operation Dewey Drawdown was completed at 11:30 Monday night, and the next day was devoted by several Floyd countians to netting scores of bass which apparently were dying for lack of oxygen in the reddish, muddy water remaining in the channel of Johns Creek.

The loss of big bass was heavy, perhaps as heavy as had ever resulted from the application of rotenone to the lake.

One biologist of the Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources, however, expressed the opinion that the loss would not have been so heavy if boaters could have been prevented from netting and landing the fish which came to the surface of the water.

"I am pretty sure most of the bass would have lived if they had been left alone," he added.

One stringer upwards of 30 bass ranging from a pound to eight pounds was sported. Another was hauled away in a truck. One man reported seeing literally a boat full of big bass.

Heaviest loss of bass apparently occurred between Stratton Branch and a point short distance above Brandy Keel Cove. Farther downstream, in a deeper water, no surfacing fish were sighted.

The water in the area where the loss of fish occurred is reddish. One observer expressed the belief that the discoloration resulted from some mineral, probably copperas, in the water and that the heavy concentration of mineral in the lowered water caused the fish to rise to the top, seeking oxygen. Another said he believes aters stirred up the mud from the bottom of the streambed and that this was responsible for the situation.

(A tributary of the lake, in its upper reaches is known as Copperas Creek.)

The drawdown brought the level of the lake down 25 feet to elevation 625 feet. It was planned and executed in an effort to rid the lake of silt.

GUARDS, MEN SWAP SHOTS

Nobody Hurt in Exchange Of Shots Tuesday Night At Mine Near McDowell

A truck-mine operator said Wednesday that between 75 and 100 shots were exchanged by mine guards and unseen men on a neighboring hillside at the mouth of Bill Hall Branch, near McDowell, Tuesday night.

The mine operator, Ed Hunt, said three deputy sheriffs at the scene were pinned down for a time by the firing. Nobody was hit. A report from another source claimed some of the guards had been firing shots into the air and that this may have precipitated the exchange.

Otherwise, no outbreaks were reported. A few small mines are operating but work is far from normal. No organized picketing was reported.

COURTHOUSE SITE BOUGHT

Davidson Lot Bought By Court for $37,800; Committee In Atlanta

Floyd county last Saturday acquired title to a potential new courthouse site when the fiscal court purchased from Mrs. Anna L. Davidson and Mrs. Ruth D. Sowards their property fronting on Third avenue, adjacent to the post-office.

The lot, which fronts 126 feet on Third avenue and extends back 328 feet toward Highland, was bought for $37,800.

During its negotiations for the property the court was told by private interests they would pay that amount for the property if new courthouse construction fails to materialize.

County Judge Henry Stumbo and County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill were authorized by the court to represent it in applying for federal public works aid on the project. They and Architect George Lee Shannon were in Atlanta, Wednesday, with plans for the courthouse structure to apply for public works funds.

The courthouse job, the courthouse square urban renewal project and the central business district urban renewal project have already gained Atlanta approval, it was said this week. Final approval in Washington is necessary, however.

It is anticipated that, if the courthouse square urban renewal undertaking is authorized, the county will be paid from urban renewal funds approximately $100,000 for the old courthouse site and building. Federal aid will amount to not less than 50% of the cost.

SETS MEETINGS AT SCHOOL

The Prestonsburg grade school Parent-Teacher Association will meet this evening (Thursday) at 7:30 o'clock at the grade school auditorium, it is announced by Mrs. Lee Shannon, president. Parents and teachers are urged to attend.

WYATT GETS 7,699 VOTES IN FLOYD-CO.

Carl Perkins Draws 7,741 Votes In County; Heavy Balloting, Surprise

Kentucky re-elected Tuesday to the U. S. Senate Thruston B. Morton, Louisville Republican, by a majority of approximately 40,000, but Floyd county turned in the state's biggest majority polled for his Democratic opponent, Lieut.-Gov. Wilson W. Wyatt, also of Louisville.

Floyd gave Wyatt 7,699 votes to 3,337 for Morton. Wyatt led in every Floyd county precinct except Abbott Creek, which Morton carried by 15 votes.

At the same time this county was giving Congressman Carl D. Perkins, victor over two opponents in the Seventh district Congressional race, an even more solid majority. Perkins received 7,741 votes to 2,924 for S. Alex Parker, Jr., Republican, and 107 for Dr. Rex Henrickson, independent.

The 11,036 votes in this county represented surprisingly heavy balloting in this off-year election which had apparently failed through the campaign to arouse the interest of voters. The voting, conducted by machine, was quiet throughout the county.

A divided Democratic party and a spirited Republican campaign won for Senator Morton, who polled majorities in every Congressional district except the rockribbed Democratic First and Seventh.

Over the nation the Democratic party had its greatest off-year election success since 1934. It gained, apparently, four Senate seats and is holding its own in House races.

The Republicans made inroads in the once-solid South, adding one House seat to its Kentucky delegation as M. G. Snyder defeated Congressman Frank W. Burke in the Third (Louisville and Jefferson county) district, and possibly 11 others in southern states.

National figures fell, right and left, in the voting. No. 1 on the list of notables relegated to the political boneway is Former Vice President Richard Nixon, who lost the California gubernatorial race to Gov. "Pat" Brown by a quarter of a million votes. Other prominent Republicans who lost in the balloting to Democrats were Senator Homer Capehart, of Indiana, Senator Alexander Wiley, of Wisconsin, and Congressman Walter Judd, 1960 G.O.P. keynoter, in Minnesota.

On the Republican side of the victory ledger are George Romney, elected governor of Michigan; Wilbur J. Brantley, elected governor of North Carolina; and others.

CITY TO GET NEEDED SEWER SYSTEM FUNDS

A total of $542,150 in federal grants has assured construction of Prestonsburg's modernized sewer system and sewage disposal plant.

Official notification that two of the grants have been authorized was received last week. The third grant is known to have been approved.

As a consequence, despite the fact that overall cost of the project has jumped from $880,000 to $1,140,000, the cost to the city will be $102,150 less, H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr. said.

The grants are as follows: Public Works, through the U. S. Public Health Service, $163,350; through Public Law 660, $228,000; Public Works Acceleration Act grant, $150,800.

These grants will leave $597,850 to be borrowed by the city from the Community Facilities Administration. Bonds will be issued for this amount and will be retired mainly through increased water bills.

The project is expected to be re-advertised soon after final confirmation of the third grant is received, and work will be started soon thereafter.

Engineering on another project for which Public Works funds will be sought has been completed by Alan Reed, Prestonsburg engineer. This covers ungraded sections of Prestonsburg, including drainage. The total cost is estimated at $712,350.

These and other improvements were discussed at last week's meeting of the City Council.

Councilman E. H. Tackett resigned at the meeting, and Winston Ford, Jr., was appointed by Mayor George P. Archer in his stead. Mr. Tackett resigned because he has accepted state employment.

At the same meeting an auxiliary police force of 10 men was authorized to assist in any civil emergency. Jesse Lee Wright, of West Prestonsburg, will be captain of the organization, personnel of which is yet to be named. Although the unit is not associated with Civil Defense it could function in any crisis or emergency.

Thomas Lemaster was named Civil Defense director for the city of Prestonsburg.

The Council employed J. Mark Adams to audit financial records of the city, immediately after January 1.

It was announced that collection of taxes will be in accordance with an ordinance already on the books. This ordinance provides for a 2% discount on all taxes paid before January 1. A penalty will be added and taxes declared delinquent which are unpaid as of April 1.

DYER IS LOW BIDDER ON GARTH STRUCTURE

Romeyn C. Dyer, Allen contractor, was the low bidder on construction of the Garth Vocational School, it was announced this week by County Superintendent Charles F. Clark. The bids were opened by the Board of Education at its monthly meeting Saturday evening.

Dyer offered a bid of $167,450.56, only a few hundred dollars lower than the bid of $167,850.00 submitted by the partnership firm of Astor Meade and W. R. Kendrick. Akers & Akers' bid on the project was $183,300.00.

Superintendent Clark said that the official letting will be made after November 18 when the Board of Education and the fiscal court meet and the latter authorizes the sale of bonds to finance the construction.

The new vocational building will be of brick and concrete block, with large glass areas and has been designed so that the structure can be enlarged if need arises.

The shop area will have no permanent partitions. Portable partitions will allow adaptation to day-by-day needs. The top floor of the two-story building, designed by George Lee Shannon, Prestonsburg architect, will be used for the storage of foods needing refrigeration for the school lunchroom program. These USDA perishable foods will be kept at sub-zero temperatures and moved by the school personnel as needed.

The Board, with all members attending except Ross Cooley, voted to pay a reward of $100 to Allene Hamilton and Avenelle Hall for information leading to the recovery of materials stolen from the Harold elementary school. The theft was made by three juveniles several weeks ago.

Other actions of the Board follow:

1. Approved the textbook selections made by the Textbook committee for the use of the schools next year.

2. Employed Mrs. Margie Long to teach at Wayland grade school and hired Mary Ann Picklesimer as teacher of Rough and Tough school to replace Evelyn Warrick who was transferred to Lower Bull Creek school. Madeline Clark and Jeanette Ferrell were employed as substitute teachers.

3. Mrs. Vivian Berkeley was transferred from Wayland elementary school to a position in the Garrett high school library, and Lonnie Slone was transferred from Upper Jack's Creek to the Beaver school. Wilbur Jamerson was named a substitute bus driver.

4. The Board voted to accept the resignations of Betty Ann Martin as Garrett high school librarian and of Janice S. Bradley as teacher of the lower Bull Creek school.

COMBS CALLS CD MEETING

Fallout Protection To Be Topic Friday At Capital Contab

Frankfort, Nov. 5 (Spl).—To speed preparation of fallout protection for every Kentuckian, Gov. Bert Combs has called a special meeting here Nov. 9 of mayors and county judges to discuss civil defense.

State Adjutant Gen. Arthur Y. Lloyd, civil defense administrator, will conduct the meeting. Although Combs said he does not believe the international crisis is any more alarming than a few days ago, he pointed out, "Our object is to have Kentucky in the best possible state of readiness for any emergency."

Combs called the meeting after receiving a telegram from New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller following a briefing at Washington of the Governors Conference Committee on Civil Defense. The committee was briefed by President Kennedy and high defense and intelligence officials.

The discussion in the House of Representatives chamber at 1 p.m. will concern family and public fallout shelters, making and stocking of public shelters, Federal aid for shelter construction, storage in strategic areas of food supplies, and use of the National Guard for civil defense purposes.

McGuire Enemies Win In Carter-Co. Races For Board of Education

Grayson, Ky., Nov. 6—Two opponents of former Carter County School Superintendent Heman H. McGuire were elected Tuesday to the County Board of Education, complete unofficial returns showed. Charles R. Hatchett, board chairman, got 1,350 votes in the Division 2 race to 600 for Charles Burton, Jr.

In Division 5, Roy E. Hammond polled 1,062 votes to 742 for Millard Barker.

Hammond fills the seat vacated by Miss Nell James, who did not seek reelection. Hatchett was appointed to the board, along with three others, by the State Board of Education last fall. This action followed charges of alleged mishandling of school funds.

Both Burton and Barker were supported by McGuire.

Hammond is a leader of the Carter County Citizens League for Good Government, Inc., which has sued to recover more than $100,000 in school funds allegedly misspent. The action is still in litigation.

McGuire, long a controversial figure, was superintendent for 25 years before being replaced last summer by Ernest Robinson.

The Killing Letter of the Law

We subscribe to the doctrine of separation of church and state, but we do not feel that our enthusiasm for that tenet of religious liberty should be permitted to create a phobia.

Apparently, the American people are permitting the letter of the law to become a killing influence on the spirit of the nation. Those who oppose the Christian religion have seized upon this basic doctrine, not to preserve individual liberty but to use it as a weapon against teaching in the schools of the faith on which this nation was founded.

The time may soon come when not only a schoolroom prayer is declared unconstitutional but when also the President of the United States, certainly a part of the state, will be denied the right to use the Bible or refer to God in taking the oath of office.

We genuflect to the enemy of the Christian religion; doing so, we fail to bend the knee to the Creator.

A teacher in a state college or university may not under the law tell your sons and daughters that God lives and rules. But the same law will permit that teacher, or any teacher, to tell them that God is a myth.

Indeed the whole area of education is becoming subservient to the materialism which has infected and infested the country. Young women and men are taught and educated to the nth degree in the sciences and the arts. Science, in the face of a threatening foe, threatens to become a god. But these same youngsters are taught little or nothing about that far greater science—how to live with their fellows in harmony and peace.

If you think you are free of materialistic thinking, think back on the advice you gave an inquiring youngster about his life's vocation. Did you suggest medicine or engineering or some other worthwhile profession, then throw in the further advice that "there's a lot of money" in such a life?

If you did, you failed to consider such vital matters as service to mankind, the fullness of life in a worthwhile work, and the happiness to be found in such a life.

We have come a long way from the days and from the spirit of the Founding Fathers whose early colleges were founded primarily for religious teaching; from the reading textbook whose every story had a moral; from the teacher, too, who taught morality and spoke of God and His mercy without fear of finding herself in court.

It is important to keep separate church and state, but it is more important to close the gap which separates the nation from God.

Far more families wear clothes dried by ELECTRIC DRYERS than any other kind.....

Because FLAMELESS ELECTRIC DRYERS saved dollars... not pennies!

Flameless electric dryers are the overwhelming choice of modern housewives—and cost-conscious husbands. Electric dryers are cleaner than other kinds. More modern. Comfortably safe. So gentle to your clothes. Best of all, they save dollars, not pennies, because...

1. The original cost is as much as $50 less than the price of other kinds of dryers. This saving alone would pay all operating costs for years.
2. Installation and maintenance cost less. There's only one connection; fewer working parts.
3. You save when you dry. Gentle electric drying action prolongs the life of expensive clothes.

FREE HOME TRIAL Ask your modern electric appliance dealer to install a flameless electric dryer in your home for a free trial. Then you be the judge! Call your dealer today!

At the last meeting of this committee it was suggested that the sale of the property at Third Avenue and Westminster streets should be pushed.

Floyd Residents' Kin Found Dead at Home Last Week in Pike

Rubie Collins, 80, of Gulnare, was found dead in bed Wednesday morning of last week. It is said that Mr. Collins, a retired farmer who was living alone, had been dead 18 hours when found. Death was attributed to a head ailment from which he had suffered for several years.

He was a son of William and Mary Blackburn Collins of the Johns Creek section. He was never married.

Surviving brothers are Henry Endicott, and Garfield Collins, of Collins and Ras Collins, both of Gulnare.

Funeral rites were conducted at 1 p.m. Friday from the home, the Rev. E. Walter Collins officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery under the direction of Call Funeral Home.

Diabetes Detection Set By State Medical Group; Diabetes Week Declared

Every man, woman and child in Kentucky was urged this week by Dr. Robert S. Tillett, Louisville, chairman of the Kentucky State Medical Association's Diabetes Committee, to take advantage of the free diabetes tests offered by physicians, hospitals, and laboratories during National Diabetes Week, which begins Sunday.

The importance of early detection of diabetes was stressed by Governor Bert T. Combs, who has proclaimed the period from November 11-17 as Diabetes Week in Kentucky.

"An estimated 1,000,000 persons in the country and 15,000 in Kentucky alone have undiagnosed diabetes," said Dr. Tillett, "and it is to find these people and to give them an opportunity to take advantage of available control measures that the KSMA has sponsored the Drive annually since 1951."

He emphasized the importance of being tested for diabetes each year, since early detection can greatly simplify the problems of control of the disease. "The unfortunate victims of the disease are those that are unaware they have it," he said, "because when caught early, very often the only precautions needed to insure a long life are control of weight and diet."

Four-Day Spain Trip Awarded To Howards In Appliance Contest

Six Big Sandians, four of whom are residents of Prestonsburg, leave today (Thursday) on an all-expense-paid trip of a week to Spain as guests of the Norge division of the Borg-Warner Corporation.

The guests are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Howard and Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Howard, of the Ray Howard Furniture Stores here, and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Maggard, of Paintsville.

The overseas trip via jet plane was won by the three couples in a sales contest staged by the Norge division from May 1 to August 31. Purchase of $9,000 worth of appliances during the contest won a trip for one person, which means that the Prestonsburg firm bought a minimum of $35,000 worth of appliances during the contest.

The contest winners, accompanied by Charles Baughman, sales manager of the Charleston office of Norge, will leave Charleston by plane for Pittsburgh, and from there will fly Thursday night to Madrid, Spain. Their four-day stay in Spain will include a bullfight and tours of the city and other parts of Spain, including Toledo and Escadrille. From Spain they will go to Lisbon, Portugal to spend the last two days of their overseas stay, returning home November 15.

Veterans, Others Slate Parade Here Saturday; Invitation Is Issued

The Floyd county veterans club will parade here Saturday in observance of Veterans' Day. It was announced this week. All clubs of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion and the AMVETS, have been asked to participate.

Participating in the parade, which will begin at the grade school at 10 a.m., will be many Boy and Girl Scout troops, it was said, by Harold Baldrige, commander of the V.F.W. post here.

"We want to request all veterans in the county to appear in uniform if possible," Tom James, commander of American Legion Post No. 129, said. "However, if you do not have a uniform, be sure to come anyway."

Proper rest, sleep and nutrition are important health practices in preventing tuberculosis.

There are an estimated 100,000 unknown active cases of tuberculosis in the United States.

BELT HAZARD

The Prestonsburg Little League All-Stars whipped the Hazard All-Stars, 7-6, on the Bull Dogs' field Saturday afternoon. Thus the locals gained revenge for the 40-0 shellacking they suffered at the close of last season.

The Little Cats scored early in the second quarter on a seven-yard end sweep by Willie Shepherd, and Gene Hicks plunged over for the extra point.

Hazard took the ensuing kick-off and marched 66 yards for the touchdown, but the try for the all-important extra point was four yards short.

The second half was a defensive battle with neither team making a serious threat. Heading the local eleven were Jody Vance, Wimpy Clark, Gene Hicks, Willie Shepherd and Bennett Leslie.

With 27 eighth-graders in the Little League program this season, next season's freshman team should be a good one, if the players will come out for the high school teams.

The 1962-'63 basketball season is under way, and Pete Grigsby's McDowell Dare Devils have copped their first two games, whipping Cordia, 76-47, and arch-rival Martin, 65-53.

Wayland high has a big twin bill scheduled for this Friday night as Fairlee Woods' Breathitt County Bob Cats, last year's state tournament semi-finalists, meet Martin in the first game and the host Wasps meet Betsy Layne in the other game.

Wheelwright's defending 58th district champions open their season at home Saturday night against the Warfield Red Devils, and defending 15th regional champ Virgie is host to Phelps, Friday night, in its opening game.

On the football scene Friday night, Paintsville is host to Mt. Sterling in a game that will decide the Class A, Region Three championship. The Tigers are unbeaten in 10 starts and expect a stern test this Friday.

At Hazard the Bull Dogs are in a rematch with Corbin for the Class AA, Region Four title. Last season these two teams met in Corbin and Hazard won, 18-6, but this time Ledger Howard's Red Hounds are the favorites.

Undeclared Paintsville Troupes Prestonsburg Friday Night by 40 to 0

The Porter boys, John and Bob, passed and ran for five touchdowns as host Paintsville trounced Prestonsburg, 40-0, at Paintsville last Friday night.

The winners scored three times in the second quarter with John Porter, the fullback, going over from two yards out. Quarterback Bob Porter picked up the second tally of the period on a two-yard keeper and halfback D. B. Kazee finished the first-half scoring with a dazzling 68-yard sprint.

In the third period, Bob Porter threw the first of his two touchdown aeriels to James Tackett with the play covering 52 yards.

Bob Porter heaved his second six-pointer of the half to Jim Allen in the fourth period. The play was good for 63 yards.

Late in the contest, John Porter once again plunged over from the two. He also added four extra points.

Celsus Meek, damtender, said the drawdown had rid the lake of a great number of shad. He said the stilling basin, below the dam, was literally packed with shad. Few bass were seen passing through the dam to the stream below.

Four representatives of the Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources — Eugene Whitney, James Carter, William Broughton and William Sales — were at the lake Tuesday. They set 10 trammel and gill nets as an additional means of removing small crappie and rough fish. A crew from the Department will be at the lake for five months, removing undesirable species from the impoundment and recording the kind and size of fish taken. Their work will end March 31, and the next day gates of the dam will be closed to impound the water again.

MAPS, HISTORY, PEOPLE LOVE OF AREA NATIVE

By HENRY P. SCALE

Kentucky is the best-mapped state in the nation and the vast aggregation of maps at the Department of Commerce, Frankfort, is cartographic evidence of the undisputed claim.

Presiding over this huge collection of maps and responsible for their distribution to users throughout the state and country is the librarian, Mrs. Carrie Allan, an Eastern Kentuckian with a deep interest in her native section's industry and history.

Robert O. Maxson, chief of the Map Use Research Section, U. S. Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, wrote in a report three years ago that "the outstanding nature of the library is largely attributable to the capabilities and enthusiasm of the librarian, Mrs. Carrie Allan." Hundreds of map users, which includes a wide and diverse section of state and national industry and professional people, agree with Maxson.

Mrs. Allan, an accomplished speaker and in demand at meetings of professional groups, notes that the Kentucky maps often serve uses other than industrial and professional. The following story was told by her at a dinner meeting of the Kentucky Oil and Gas Association.

A man came into the map library one day, portraying obvious signs of distress. He said he had been deer hunting, couldn't tell his wife where he had been or how he got there.

Mrs. Allan put him through a geographical and geological interrogation and finally he remembered a sign which read, "Beaver Mines." That rang a bell in the librarian's mind. She telephoned the supervisor of the Cumberland National Forest, who located the place and named the topographic map on which it appeared. The man left with a copy of the map.

Two weeks later he returned to voice his appreciation. "Lady, you saved my marriage with a map as the old woman was about to leave me," he said. Which proves that you can never tell what use a map may serve.

The Commonwealth Chronicle, published at Frankfort, says that Mrs. Allan is a woman with answers to any questions on the geography of Kentucky.

"She has been with Maps and Minerals Division practically from its beginning in 1950 and has grown up with the business," the paper said in an issue last year. "She has at her fingertips some 217,000 maps and related publications."

The topographic maps are the result of five years' work and an investment of $6 million but they are available at 35 cents each.

"Where else can you get a $10,000 item for that?" she asks. "It costs $10,000 to put a topographic map on the market and yet the Department of Commerce charges only 35 cents for a copy."

It requires a total of 763 topographic maps to cover the entire state, Mrs. Allan says. If you were to put all of these together it would be 40 feet wide and as high as a nine story building.

"We've dreamed about putting it all together but there is obviously a space problem," she told Charlotte Bumgarten, a feature writer for the Owensboro (Ky.) Messenger and Inquirer, who did a story on her and the library. "Division officials toiled with the idea of mounting the king-size cartographic spread at the State Fair and Exposition Center at Louisville four years ago but dropped it on learning the cost would be around $20,000."

Don't get the impression that only topographic maps may be found in the nearly 500 drawers and filing cabinets of the library. There are state highway, hydrologic, base, land form, coal, transportation, retail market, forest and political maps for the use of the public and for distribution at a nominal cost. There are charts for persons interested in aeronautical industry and others for persons interested in the navigation of the state's 1,700 streams. It is the finest cartographic collection in the nation.

Mrs. Allan wants to talk about maps and the multitude of uses to which they are put, not about herself and her career, but you learn that she is a native of Mt. Sterling with close genealogical ties to the Big Sandy region. She is a graduate of Ursuline College, Louisville, and a staunch member of the First Methodist church there.

On a recent visit to Prestonsburg, she was asked if her late husband, W. Kidd Allan, was a relative of the Floyd county Allens. No, he was not, but she was part Richie, McGuire, Stratton and Leslie. Her maternal people are Eastern Kentuckians.

She is a daughter of the late William O. Adamson and Mrs. Florence Richie Adamson, now 36 years old and a recent visitor to Prestonsburg and Pikeville.

Mrs. Adanson's parents were Thomas J. Richie and Elizabeth McGuire Fichie. Thomas Richie, a native of Scott county, Virginia, married Elizabeth in Floyd county in 1869. They resided on Johns Creek.

Parents of Elizabeth Richie were William J. McGuire and Mary (Poly) Stratton, a daughter of Hiram Stratton and Hannah Leslie Stratton. The McGuires and Leslies were pioneer founders of Floyd county.

Hiram Stratton, whom research shows to have been a son of Solomon Stratton, who soldiered with Gen. George Rogers Clark and assisted in the laying out of Prestonsburg in 1796, is one of those legendary figures of the region's past. His name, inscribed on official records as performing marriages in Floyd county a century and half ago, evokes little biographical knowledge. He went to the Illinois country with Col. Jonathan Mayo and others in 1816. Hiram returned and, contracting illness, probably typhoid, died the next year. His burial site is unknown but is probably in the Johns Creek area.

Elizabeth McGuire Richie was a sister of the late Solomon McGuire, Jois Creek resident, and of John McGuire, Confederate soldier who was killed and buried in the Jason cemetery near the present square. The legendary account of John P. McGuire's death is treasured tradition of the family.

EMMA JOHNSON STEPHENS

Emma Johnson Stephens, born January 6, 1886, deceased November 23, 1950, at the age of 74 years, 10 months and 22 days.

I have lost my life companion
A life linked with my own
And every day I miss her more
As I go through life alone.
The shock was, oh, so severe
To part with one I loved so dear.
I never knew a heart could ache
With such a bitter pain
Longing for a vanished face
To hear her voice once again.
If all the world was mine to give
I would give it all and more
To see the face I love so dear
Come smiling through the door.

VICTORY over fuel system icing

A HEADLINE TEN MILES HIGH: Here in planes of the Air Force Strategic Air Command, news is made by a remarkable additive that guards against in-flight fuel system icing in jet aircraft. This anti-icing additive is an exclusive development of Phillips Petroleum Company.

In your car Phillips 66 also provides anti-icing protection with a specially developed additive.

Flying miles high in the stratosphere, where temperatures can drop to 70° below zero, SAC bombers rely on a Phillips Anti-Icing additive to guard against in-flight fuel system freeze-ups.

Of special importance to you, the motorist, is the fact that your car can run better in winter weather thanks to Phillips cold weather fuel formulations.

Phillips knows exactly what it takes to blend gasoline for easy starting and freedom from stalling in cold weather. Fill up with Sixty-Six Gasoline or Flite-Fuel and get the benefit of Phillips Anti-Icing protection all through the cold months. Drive in where you see the Phillips 66 Shield.

Have more fun going... Go Phillips 66

It's a pleasure to please you!

120 FLOYD STUDENTS ATTEND MOREHEAD STATE COLLEGE

Morehead, Ky., Oct. 29 (Spl.) — One hundred twenty students from Floyd county are enrolled for the fall term at Morehead State College which has a record 2,990 in attendance. This is an increase of 13% over the 1961 fall enrollment of 2,854.

The figure does not include 314 students enrolled at the college's Breckinridge Training School, the 99 students enrolled in the off-campus center at Prestonsburg, students enrolled in other off-campus centers, or the more than 800 persons enrolled in the extension program by mail.

Dr. Doran pointed out that the full-time student enrollment has increased by 10 percent while the part-time enrollment has decreased by 19 percent.

"The fact that the part-time enrollment has declined indicates the higher training level which the in-service teachers have been motivated to attain because of the increased appropriations to salaries in Kentucky," said Dr. Doran.

He added, "Many of the in-service teachers who formerly enrolled in night and Saturday classes from this region have now attained a level of training and rank by attending summer sessions which make it unnecessary to enroll for night classes this fall."

Students enrolled from Floyd county are: Connie Adkins, Gerald Adkins, Gary Akers, Kenneth Akers, Noah Akers, Elizabeth Allen, Milford Ray Allen, Robert Allen, Sarah Allen, Sonia Bee Allen, Weicie Allen, Everette Baldrige, Cheryl E. Public Higher Education Benefits from Taxation On Increase, Combs Says

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 26 (Spl.) — Kentucky is leading all the states in the percentage increase of state tax funds allotted to public higher education, Gov. Bert Combs has reported.

Over the two-year period 1960-61 through 1962-63, the state's appropriation has jumped from a little less than $19.7 million to almost $29.6 million, an increase of more than 50 percent.

The figures were revealed in a nationwide study recently completed by the University of Michigan. States coming closest to Kentucky's gains, Hawaii and Rhode Island, each showed an increase of 46 percent.

Naturally, we're pleased with this statistic," Combs stated. "It is significant that these increases have been made possible almost entirely by the sales tax."

Since 1960, when the sales tax went into effect, Kentucky's annual allotment to public higher education has leaped from about $14.9 million to the present $29.6 million — an increase of nearly 100 percent.

"After scores of years of being grounded," the Governor said, "Kentucky is finally getting the thrust needed to get its educational program into orbit."

The total nationwide allotment by the states for the fiscal year 1962-63 is about $1.8 billion. This is approximately $355 million greater than the 1960-61 total and represents a gain of about 24.5 percent over the two-year period, the study shows.

WINTERIZE WATER TANKS

Watering tanks and cups for livestock should be winterized. If tanks and cups are outside, put a heater in the watering tank. For watering cups, wrap the pipe coming from the ground with heating tape and insulation, even though the cup itself has a built-in heating element.

Lexington, Ky. — Take advantage of mild fall weather to winterize farm water systems, says Kermit Mills, UK Ag Extension Service engineer. A little work now will save hours of labor in "miserable" weather next spring.

A record crop of cranberries is being harvested, so you can find plenty of cranberries on the market for holiday and everyday meals. Stocks of frozen orange juice concentrate are much larger than a year ago and you will continue to see low prices on this item.

THE WONDERFUL EYES OF ANIMALS

A horse has the largest eyes of any animal. His big eyes increase the distance between the lens and the retina, throwing a larger image on the view-screen. To a horse, a man appears three times the size he looks to another man. Perhaps that's why the horse, much stronger and more powerful than a man, yet obeys him and becomes his faithful servant. A horse's eyes have a diameter of almost two inches.

The eyes of the western pronghorn are almost as large as those of a horse, with a diameter of over 1 1/2 inches. This animal's eyes are set wide apart and have a far-seeing, spherical vision. The pronghorn on clear days, can see a moving object more than three miles away!

This pronghorn, sometimes called "pronghorn antelope," has a signal corps that would put Uncle Sam's army to shame. The pronghorns have a large patch of long, white hair on their rumps for use as signals. When one sees danger, it raises these long, white bristles and flashes them as danger signals. The white hairs catch the reflection of the sun like flags waving and send the signal, which other pronghorn can see for three miles or more. Then they all begin signaling with their white rump patches, until the whole herd is warned of the approaching danger.

Eagles and hawks have telescopic vision. The eagle's eye is the most perfect long-distance telescope ever designed. An eagle soaring half a mile in the sky, can see a mouse moving on the ground below. A hawk perched in the top of a tree can see a grasshopper moving in the weeds over a quarter of a mile away. This is because its telescopic lens brings the objects close up. Persons with keen vision are sometimes said to have "eagle eyes," or "eyes like a hawk." Nature gave these birds their marvelous vision as a means of survival, and for securing their food.

The cottontail rabbit has its eyes placed on the sides of its head, which give it wonderful vision to left and right and overhead in the air. A rabbit cannot see the grass or weeds it eats under its nose, but it can see any moving object above, in the air, and far to right or left. That is because hawks and owls often attack it from the air and it needs good vision to escape its enemies.

Diving birds have a "third eyelid," called the nictitating membrane, which they draw over their eyes when diving after fish or other prey. It not only protects their eyes and keeps out water and sand, it also has a magnifying lens that help the divers to capture their prey, by bringing it into proper focus in the water.

The archer-fish, found in South American streams and the Java seas, not only has wonderful eyes, it also has a knowledge of trigonometry, which it uses to capture flies and other insects. Every boy who has played around water and has poked a stick into a deep pool, knows the stick seems to bend after it passes into the water. This is because of the refraction of the light rays as they pass through the water. An object seen down in the water is really not where it appears to be. When a man tries to shoot a fish in the water, he is more than likely to miss it, because he aims where the fish appears to be, not where it really is!

The archer-fish can look up out of the water and spot a bug or a fly on a weed-stem four feet away. Naturally the light rays bend at the surface of the water. But this fish knows how to figure out the angle of reflection, and can squirt a jet-stream straight at an insect four feet away and knock it off the plant and into the water, so it can capture the insect. It has to be able to judge the angle of refraction in order to hit the insect accurately. The archer-fish is a species of perch and grows about six inches long.

The compound eyes of insects are the most marvelous mechanisms of nature and are far superior to a man's eyes. The compound eyes of the dragonfly have over 60,000 small eyes, and these enable the insect to see in every direction at the same time, without turning its head—something a man cannot do. "The eyes are the windows of the soul." How true, for the eyes tell us much about the character and life habits of men and animals.

A Pictorial Review of East Kentucky

(No. 214 in a Series)

JUDGE JOHN M. BURNS

Judge John M. Burns of the old Sixteenth Judicial District of Eastern Kentucky, came from a family that had long and prominent associations with the profession of law. He was born in 1825 in Boyd county, a son of Roland T. Burns.

Burns was admitted to the bar in 1851, served as County Attorney of Letcher county but moved to Prestonsburg in 1853 and built a home on the present North Arnold Avenue, known today as The Garfield Place. He was a law partner with John M. Elliott, Prestonsburg attorney. Burns represented this area in the Kentucky House of Representatives and also in the Kentucky Senate. He moved to Catlettsburg in 1864, served as Boyd County School Commissioner and was elected Circuit Judge in 1886 of the old Sixteenth Judicial District composed of several Eastern Kentucky counties of which Floyd was one. He married Keziah (Kizzie) Clay, of a prominent Eastern Kentucky family.

The First National Bank presents these pictures of our past in recognition of our historic heritage.

100 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Civil War in Kentucky

By JOE JORDAN
(Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week an unseasonably heavy snow fell all over Kentucky, measuring nowhere less than four inches and in some places twelve inches. It was heaviest in the Eastern Kentucky mountains, where the Confederate army that had fought at Perryville was still toiling slowly toward Tennessee. What had held it up, besides the rough terrain and lack of roads, was a tremendous train of wagons heavily loaded with supplies collected in the rich Blue Grass region, which had not been so thoroughly combed by the foraging parties of both armies as Tennessee had.

The withdrawing Confederate soldiers were for the most part thinly shod, and they suffered intensely in the premature wintry weather. There was much sickness; many died of fatigue and exposure after passing unscathed through the perils of the bloody battle of Perryville.

Although Federal pursuit and harassment of the slowly retreating Confederates had not been at all vigorous or determined, on October 22 the First and Twentieth Kentucky (Union) Infantry regiments did overtake a portion of Lt. Gen. Edmund Kirby Smith's forces near the Goose Creek salt works in Clay county, killing several and capturing ninety men and about 150 head of cattle they were driving.

The extent to which the leisurely retreating Confederate column was strung out may be seen in the fact that as late as October 25 and 26, respectively seventeen and eighteen days after the Battle of Perryville, there was skirmishing as far north as Big Hill, Madison county, and Paint Lick, Garrard county, between Col. Edward Moody McCook's Union cavalry brigade and Confederate cavalry units of the rear guard of Gen. Kirby Smith's army. McCook's men captured Smith's telegraph operators and their equipment.

At the end of last week's installment of this series, we had Col. John Hunt Morgan and about 1,800 of his Confederate cavalrymen going into camp at Shyrock's Ferry on the Kentucky River, between Versailles and Lawrenceburg, in a territory occupied by large bodies of enemy troops. Brig. Gen. Ebenezer Dumont, commander of a Union division, had learned about Morgan's passing through Versailles and had sent cavalry on his trail while with an immensely superior force of infantry he marched from Frankfort toward Lawrenceburg to occupy that town and block Morgan's escape.

The commander of the Union cavalry, arriving in the vicinity of Shyrock's Ferry at 1 a.m. could not resist lobbing two or three artillery shells into Morgan's camp. They did no harm, but alerted the sleeping Rebels, who hastily saddled and rode the four miles to Lawrenceburg, turning off toward Bardstown and clearing the Anderson county seat only half an hour before Dumont's infantry marched in on the road from Frankfort, too late to spring the trap.

Most visitors who tour Kentucky are residents of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio who have chosen their vacation spots chiefly as the result of talking with others who have visited the state.

That information is reported in a recent publication of the University of Kentucky Bureau of Business Research, entitled "Kentucky Tourist Preferences."

There is an especially heavy flow of tourist traffic on major north-south routes, the report states, because of the many visitors who come from the north, and because most of the state's outdoor recreation areas are located south of state population centers.

For the sightseer, the UK publication points out, the best possible promotional effort is that of making certain that each visitor goes home happy. For the "repeaters," including many hunters and fishermen who return frequently to favorite places for their sports, the report urges that a greater effort be made to provide low-cost food and lodging, and facilities to accommodate hunting, fishing and overnight or week-end parties, including campers.

The report also emphasizes the growing popularity of the short outing, which appears to be centered around water recreation activities. In addition to fishing and swimming, pleasure boating has increased spectacularly.

Another conclusion is that family parties are increasing. They appear to emphasize a desire to save money and a chance to "rough it," making camping sites increasingly popular.

THANKSGIVING FOODS

Lexington, Ky.—Turkey and cranberries — traditional Thanksgiving fare — are among the good food buys this month. Other November plentiful foods, listed by Mrs. Letta Jasper, UK Extension specialist in consumer marketing, include pork, frozen orange juice concentrate, apples, grapes, citrus fruits, pears, potatoes, Maine sardines and vegetable shortening.

VA BENEFITS

In Washington, John S. Gleason, Jr., Administrator of Veterans Affairs, reported that some 12,000 peacetime veterans incur injuries each year and may be eligible for the new benefits. Mr. Gleason pointed out that he estimated 2,000 Kentucky veterans may already be eligible on the basis of VA's estimate of 100,000 such veterans in the nation. Kentucky has about two percent of the country's veterans population.

TURKEY IS PLENTIFUL

There'll be plenty of turkey for Thanksgiving this year, but not as much as a year ago. Turkey growers have reduced production 15 percent from last year, according to USDA's Statistical Reporting Service. But last year's crop was by far the largest in history — and this year's production of almost 92 million turkeys is second largest.

Make Jam from Plentiful Grapes and Cranberries

By FRANCIS H. PITTS
Floyd County Home Agent

With plentiful supplies of grapes and cranberries coming to your local market, why not make up a batch of grape-cranberry jam?

First, you'll need three cups of Concord grape juice; this will take about three pounds of fresh grapes. Sort and wash the grapes and remove them from the stems. Crush the grapes, add water, cover and bring to a boil on high heat. Reduce the heat and simmer for 10 minutes. Extract juice in a damp jelly bag. To prevent formation of tartrate crystals in the jam, let juice stand in a cool place overnight. Then strain through two thicknesses of damp cheesecloth to remove crystals that have formed.

If you want to use frozen concentrated grape juice for the jam, you'll need two six-ounce cans of the frozen juice and one and one-half cups water. Be sure to dilute the concentrated juice with the water before using.

To make the jam, combine the grape juice, two cups whole raw cranberries (about one-half pound), and one teaspoon finely grated orange rind in a kettle. Add one package powdered pectin and stir well. Place on high heat. Stirring constantly, bring the mixture quickly to a full boil with bubbles over the entire surface.

Add seven cups sugar, continue stirring, and heat again to a full bubbling boil. Boil hard for one minute, stirring constantly.

Remove from heat. Skim and stir alternately for five minutes. Ladle jam into hot jelly glasses and seal immediately with hot paraffin. Or, pour jam into hot canning jars, put lids in place, and seal immediately. The mixture should fill about 10 six-ounce jelly glasses.
