

PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

SPEAKING OF AND FOR FLOYD COUNTY

THURSDAY, JANUARY 23, 1964

This Town . . . That World

This, thanks to John M. Yost, of Pikeville: Atop a bookcase in the late President Kennedy's office was a small plaque. It read, simply, "O God, Thy sea is so great and my boat is so small."

CURRENTLY SPEAKING
This matter of cigarette smoking has taken the minds of most from such trivial items as income taxes, Christmas bills and kindred worries. I have gone a full week now and haven't been asked about my fishing, haven't heard golf mentioned, and it seems that some have changed their salutation from "Nice morning," or "Terrible weather, isn't it?" or "Can't you hear my bones aching?" and so on to "What brand of pipe tobacco are you using?"

AREA HELP IS SLATED

Additional $1 Million Being Made Available; Home Repairs Slated

An additional $1 million has been made available to Eastern Kentucky by the Department of Agriculture under the winter relief program, Governor Edward T. Breathitt announced Friday. Breathitt said the federal grant will permit additional mountain families to make home repairs this winter. It will be made available to them in grants of $1,000 or less. The money brings to $4 million the amount the federal government has provided the region's needy aged and disabled to finance repairs on their homes. Breathitt estimated the government has spent more than $20 million in the mountains under the winter relief program. He announced the latest grant after a two-hour conference with Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz and officials of several federal agencies.

COURTROOM DECORUM RULES ARE INVOKED

New rules to preserve order and dignity in the courtroom have been invoked by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley, and the system apparently is working. Nobody is being permitted to enter the courtroom or to leave it while a witness is testifying. When a new witness is called, and before questioning begins, spectators are advised that they may at that time leave and that if they do not they must remain seated until that witness completes his testimony. Moreover, conversation is limited to attorneys, witnesses, members of the jury and the judge, and all inside the room are seated. Pointing out that he is not seeking to invoke undue authority but is simply trying to op-

ENGINEERS APPROVE TWO FLOYD PROJECTS

BEAVER AREA JOBS O.K.'d AT $73,000

Johns Creek Job Cost At $16,000; County Cooperation Is Assured

Two Floyd county stream snagging and clearing projects have been approved by the U. S. Corps of Engineers for completion at a cost of $73,000, Congressman Carl D. Perkins said last week. One of the projects, extending from the C. & O. railway bridge at Wayland downstream to the old Ky. 7 highway bridge at Bosco, a distance of 6.8 miles, will entail the expenditure of $55,000. The second is known as the Langley project, extending a distance of 2.1 miles from the Ky. 80 bridge at Langley to the bridge crossing Beaver Creek to the compressor station at Warco. A Pike county project of two miles from about 500 feet above the mouth of Bent Branch at Meta to the U. S. 119 highway bridge, which crosses Johns Creek was approved at a cost of $16,000. A 4.5-mile project on the Little Sandy river, beginning at Hitchens, was approved but Carter county officials have not given the Corps of Engineers assurance of the county's cooperation. Both Floyd and Pike fiscal courts have given such assurance. County cooperation includes the procuring of rights-of-way and future maintenance of the projects. The work to be done was described by Col. Harrington W. Cochran, chief of the Huntington district office, Corps of Engineers, in these terms: "In general, the entire area below the top of banks including the stream bed, as well as an area approximately 10 feet back from the top of banks or to the stream edge of paralleling roads, (See Story No. 1, Page 6)

Home Repair Program Scheduled in County; Applications Received

One phase of the winter relief program for Eastern Kentucky seemed to be getting under way this week with the Farm and Home Administration, Paintsville, taking applications for grants to finance sub-standard homes. Fifty homes in each area county will be approved for repairs with grants not to exceed $1,000, it is said. Only old and disabled persons owning their home or paying on it and with a property qualification will receive help under this program. Applications were taken Thursday of last week at the Harold grade school for grants and a representative of the FHA will be here today (Thursday) to take additional applications.

He was a son of Robert and Martha Williams Hall, His wife, Rebecca Clark Hall, preceded him in death. Surviving sons and daughters are Earle Hall, I. N. Keathley Is Recognized For Draft Board Work; Registrants Are Advised

Lawrence Keathley, of Martin, a member of Local Board No. 25 here, has received a 15-year certificate and lapel button for voluntary service with the Selective Service System. It was presented by Mrs. Kaye A. Rowland, clerk, on behalf of Lt. Colonel Everette S. Stephenson, state director of Selective Service, Frankfort. Colonel Stephenson expressed the System's appreciation for the highly commendable service given by Mr. Keathley throughout the years. It is emphasized that each boy becoming eighteen years of age and living in Floyd county should visit the local board and register within five days after reaching his 18th birthday. The clerk at that time will advise him of his obligation under the present Selective Service law.

Spanish Miner's Estate Subject Of Litigation In Floyd Court; Brother, Friend Claim $20,000

Who is the rightful owner of the $20,000 life savings left by Joaquin Selles Vaello, native of Spain, who died last May 5 at Weeksbury? His brother, Don Francisco Selles Vaello, in Spain has laid claim to it. A typewritten memorandum on the ledger sheet recording Vaello's account at the First National Bank of Pikeville reads, "In case of death payable to Jose Rodriguez." Rodriguez, who says he resided for about 12 years with the decedent at Weeksbury, claims the money on the basis of that statement. Edgel Blackburn, administrator of Vaello's estate, has refused to make any disposition of the funds until the Floyd circuit court directs him to the person legally

New wardrobes and foot lockers for residents of Frankfort State Hospital and School will be made at the school with a $1,000 donation from the Kentucky Sheriffs Association. Presenting the $1,000 check to Mrs. J. O. Matlick, coordinator of volunteer activities at the hospital, are (from left) Jefferson County Sheriff William E. Cranfill and Floyd County Sheriff Henry Hale, president of the association. Cranfill headed a committee which visited the 938-resident hospital to determine ways the Sheriffs Association could aid the institution. The sheriffs also agreed to open collection stations for clothing at all county sheriffs' offices. Clothing for both adults and children is needed at the hospital.

COMMUNITY COLLEGE PLAN RECOMMENDED

Trustees of the University of Kentucky last Friday adopted the plan suggested by Dr. John W. Oswald, president of the University, which will split U. K. and its community colleges into two separate but interrelated systems. The action is intended, it was explained, to permit the community colleges, such as the college to open in Prestonsburg, to expand and grow as an effective means of offering higher education to more Kentuckians at lower cost. Dr. Oswald, apparently following a plan developed when he decentralized the University of California centers, recommended the new setup to the trustees. Included in a policy statement adopted by the committee was a policy for expansion obviously designed to make the location of centers a matter to be decided by the University rather than by the General Assembly and to avoid disagreements similar to one which arose between U.K. and Bethel College when the University decided to build a college at Hopkinsville. Under the policy, no new community college will be established until: 1. A complete survey has been made of the community's needs and the existing capacity it has to meet them. 2. Adequate financial support of a permanent nature has been assured. 3. The community has demonstrated a desire and a need for the college. 4. Consideration has been given to educational opportunities at other institutions in the area. 5. Adequate building, parking and growth space are provided. 6. It has been established that it will be in easy commuting distance of its students. "No new community colleges should be established until the present study by the University of Kentucky on future needs is completed," the policy statement said.

NURSE SUES FOR $24,500

Damage Suit Result Of Auto-Bus Mishap; Negligence Is Alleged

Damages totalling $24,500 are asked in a suit filed in circuit court last Friday by Mrs. Vina Nuckles, a nurse, against Donald Ray Pelphrey and Carroll L. Pelphrey, individually, and the D & D Food Market, Inc. The suit is the outgrowth of a collision of a car driven by Donald Ray Pelphrey and an Allen Bros. Bus Company bus at Lancer, early last June. The auto driven by Pelphrey, it is claimed, was owned by Carroll L. Pelphrey. Reckless and negligent operation of the car resulted in the wreck, it is claimed. Mrs. Nuckles, a nurse, claims she has lost seven months' work and salaries of $3,500; that her earning power has been damaged at least $10,000, that her injuries and pain have caused damage of $10,000, and that hospital bills amount to $1,000. The suit is the third legal action growing out of the Lancer collision. First of all, Allen Brothers last Dec. 12 sued the Pelphreys and the food company for $2,800 damages to their bus. In his counterclaim to that suit Donald Ray Pelphrey, who suffered a broken jaw and other injuries, asked $25,000 damages of the bus company.

AREA FLOOD CONTROL FUNDS ARE BUDGETED

$18,400,000 ALLOCATED FOR 3 DAMS

Flannagan Completion Is Near; River Study Asked by President

President Johnson included in the trimmed-down budget which he sent to the Congress Tuesday a total of $18.4 million for flood control reservoirs which are designed to protect the Big Sandy valley. Largest single item in the budget for the valley was $10.4 million for continued construction of Fishtrap dam, biggest of the Big Sandy undertakings. Other items in the budget earmarked $5 million for the John W. Flannagan dam and $3 million for the North Fork of Pound dam. Congressman Carl D. Perkins commented: "I had requested a much greater amount for Fishtrap, but due to the fact that the Corps of Engineers received only $9.5 million after January 1, 1964, they did not think they could utilize any more during the next fiscal year. I will keep in contact with the Corps of Engineers and do my best to get this amount increased in an amended budget."

INTOXICANTS CONFISCATED

Gunnells Is Arrested Near Shamrock Club; Break-Ins On Increase

Harve R. Gunnells, of Emma, was jailed here Tuesday night and booked by Deputy Sheriffs Sam Hale and Lonnie Herald on a charge of transporting intoxicating liquors in dry territory after the officers had confiscated a case of whiskey and a case of gin, lacking one half-pint, from his auto on the Dewey Lake road. The night's activities also resulted in warrants being issued for Marvin Goodman, of Dwayne, charging him with breaking and entering, destroying private property and breach of the peace. Goodman allegedly went to the lake area with Gunnells, earlier in the evening, and to have, after some difference with Gunnells, smashed the windshield and windows of Walter H. Mullins' car which closely resembled that of Gunnells. Deputy Sheriff Hale said Gunnells was driving onto the main lake road from the Shamrock Club when he was halted as a drunken driver. The subsequent search uncovered the liquor supply. An outbreak of lootings was reported by the Sheriff's office this week. An effort to reach State Detective Chester D. Potter, who is leading the investigation of the breaks, was unsuccessful. Starting with last Thursday night, it was reported, three places at Betsy Layne were broken into; Sunday night, 10 cases of dynamite caps worth approximately $400 were stolen from the T. C. Young Construction Company, road construction contractor on the Middle Creek road; a car battery was stolen from a Middle Creek man's garage. During the week-end, a (See Story No. 4, Page 6)

Medic-Alert Bracelet Promotion In Kentucky Endorsed by Federation

The Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs' officially endorsed a charitable, non-profit organization established to protect people with hidden medical problems at the KFWC's mid-winter board meeting in Lexington, Wednesday. Mrs. Adron Doran, president of the KFWC, urged the more than 14,000 members of the Federation to investigate the protection bracelets and necklaces provided by the Medic-Alert Foundation International, Turlock, California. The bracelets have warning to physicians and passersby of the victim's problem engraved on the back. A part of the safety program of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the use of medic-alert bracelets in Kentucky will be promoted by the KFWC on the local level with aid of the state organization. Mrs. Doran said local women's clubs in the state plan to work (See Story No. 6, Page 3)

Council Marks Time On Parking Problem; To Mark Third Street

The Prestonsburg City Council is marking time on the traffic problem until a study of traffic flow can be made by an expert, it is said. A meeting of the Council Tuesday evening resulted in no action on the problem except to order the west side of Third street to be properly marked to prohibit parking. City Police have been busy for two weeks giving tickets to those parking on that side as it was marked in one place as a fire lane. However, since so many complaints were made, the Council discontinued the ticketing. The traffic expert was here sometime ago to discuss whether the city wanted a study made. He will return soon to make one, it is said.

APARTMENT BUILDING PLAN OF FIRM HERE

Construction of an apartment building which will cost an estimated $115,000 will be begun on Trimble Street here around March 1, it was announced this week by the Prestonsburg Building Supply Company. Completion of the structure is expected by September 1, prior to opening of the Prestonsburg Community College, and it is anticipated that the 25 apartments will be 80% occupied, the first year, by members of the college faculty, students and local apartment-seekers. The two-story brick structure, to be 300 feet in length by 30 feet deep, will contain 10 one-bedroom apartments and 15 of two bedrooms. Also included will be a recreation room and a utility room with complete laundry facilities. The building will be completely air-conditioned and will have forced-air heat. The building will be modeled after the Adams Apartments in Louisville and the Magnolia Apartments in Atlanta and will be the finest in Eastern Kentucky, it was said by Gordon Moore, a member of the firm. It will be erected on a lot 320 by 700 feet. The structure will be known as Grandview Apartments. Apartments will be rented, furnished or unfurnished, at rates ranging from $65 to $85 a month. The Prestonsburg Building Supply Company, owner of the

Presbyterian Church Elects Officers

The annual meeting of the First Presbyterian Church of Prestonsburg was held Sunday afternoon, January 19. Reports from the various church officers and organizations were given, and the following officers were elected: Elders (elected for a three-year term), Earl Flower and Rainley White, and Edmund R. Burke, Sr., to fill an unexpired term; deacons, Frank Heinze and Marvin E. Music; financial secretary, Alma Collins; church treasurer was Louberta Hunt. Rainley White and James E. Goble were elected to serve as delegates to the Upper Big Sandy Presbyterian Parish.

One woman called to register a gripe in true suffragette style. Said her husband sat around the house, puffing on his pipe, the while leaving her to chew her nails. Picking up the crumbs he had left behind, she had tried to roll her own but couldn't keep the tobacco from falling out the end. "Don't ever tell me anybody can be a movie cowboy after this," said she. "It requires real talent to roll a cigarette with both hands, not to mention turning the trick with one hand while astraddle Old Paint as he tears off across the lone prairie!"

It's amusin', too, to listen to the arguments the boys dig up. They point out, countering the scientists' claim that tobacco tar applied to a rat's shaven back will produce cancer, that egg white so applied will have the same effect. And that sugar will cause diabetes. And that bath-tubs are dangerous. Also your weight. And so on. The fact that you don't smoke egg white or sugar is ignored, however.

I still contend that we hillbillies may have something here, if we'll only get a laboratory test run on the stuff first and get our product in the clear. I refer to the weed called "life everlasting" which grows on poor points and the dried leaves of which boys used to smoke furiously and with tongue-burning success. If we can get together on this matter, we'll swap places with the affluent Blue Grass and all its burley. We've got something no other product can touch for a trade-name. Just think—"Life Everlasting!"

Oh, well, my dog just now has approached the editorial chair and stuck up a tentative paw with the idea of climbing aboard. Know what chased him away? I stuck my pipe under his nose.

Friend of mine who parks his car outside his office, and finds the parking area littered with beer cans, expresses the wish that purveyors of same around here would get their brew in shorter cans. "These cans are so long I can't miss 'em," he complains.

"The Marvels of Natural Gas" and "The Underground Story of Natural Gas" are the subjects of a program to be given January 30 at 6:30 p.m. here by Miss Linda Wright, information representative for Columbia Gas Company of Kentucky and United Fuel Gas Company at a meeting of the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company's Foreman's Club. The program will be presented at the Wise Restaurant.

Miss Wright will describe how the new petrochemical science makes natural gas products an everyday occurrence in our way of life.

A native of Beckley, West Virginia, Miss Wright expects to address about 7,000 persons this year in her travels through West Virginia, Virginia and Kentucky. She handles speaking assignments for six natural gas companies that make up the Charleston Group Companies of the Columbia Gas System, with headquarters in Charleston, West Virginia.

She is an Episcopalian, a graduate of West Virginia University and a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. She has been with the gas company since 1959.

Eastern State Plans Extension Classes Here

Eastern Kentucky State College, Richmond, will have representatives here Saturday at the high school building at 9 a.m. to organize extension classes, it is announced. The college is now finishing instruction here in Economic History and Carl N. Woods, who is teaching that class will offer another course in it.

Accompanying Mr. Woods here will be Henry Pryse who will offer a course in Mental Health 480. Other courses will also be offered if there is a demand.

Substantial increases in federal school aid are proposed. The manpower training program would be doubled in size.

New funds are requested for community mental health centers, medical school grants, and medical scholarships.

Summer work programs are planned for unemployed youngsters.

In terms of dollars, however, existing federal programs will make the biggest impact on the state economy this year.

Precise estimates of federal spending in Kentucky are not available because of a lag in the collection of statistics. But these rough estimates can be made on the basis of data for previous years and on incomplete data from the new budget:

- River development—$63 million.
- Agricultural subsidies and services—$90 million.
- Social Security payments—$220 million.
- Military purchases—$50 million.
- Federal military and civilian payroll—$330 million.

"Approximately one member in every family has a hidden medical problem and over three million people in the United States are in need of some identification that will give information for proper treatment in an emergency," Mrs. Doran said.

"This illustrates the tremendous need for a safe and dependable method for immediate detection of hidden medical problems," she said.

K. F. Leslie Mill On Johns Creek In 1902

The first custom mills in Eastern Kentucky were water-powered but as settlement increased and development slowly crept into the hills the water mills added crude machinery to saw lumber.

Shown here is the old water-powered mill of K. F. Leslie, on Johns Creek, Pike county, Ky., in 1902. It was in existence for many years and served a wide area with meal and flour preparation and raw lumber.

Why Rest On the Way To Fraud and Scandal?

No less than nine bills which would relax controls on absentee voting have been endorsed by the Election Committee of the Legislative Research Commission.

An exclamation point or so belongs at the end of that sentence. One wonders why all the concern for those absentees, especially in view of the fact that the law, until its change in 1962, was as leaky as a sieve and permitted voting irregularities by just anybody who wanted to be irregular.

There is one hopeful note to add. The proposals will be submitted to Governor Breathitt and the Legislative Research Commission before sponsors of one bill or nine to change the law are sought.

We trust that the Governor will take care of the matter. And we believe he will, for this Election Committee would define an absentee voter as any qualified voter who expects to be away from his precinct on election day, and therein lies the means of more election fraud and scandal.

The law as it now stands limits absentee voting to members of U. S. services and fulltime students. And that's where it should stand.

"Looking Backward, Forward, or Around"

For a man who, when this article has appeared, has celebrated his Golden Wedding Day and his seventy-fifth birthday, to lament the passing of the good old days would be forgivable. It certainly would be expected. With no Pollyanna view of life, I must say that I like the last third of my life much better than the first two-thirds, so far as my contemporaries are concerned. What was advocated by a few lone souls at Fidelity when I could first remember is now every-day practice among most people of respectability. There is within the reach of the average person now what used to be reserved for a small percentage of the highly favored: education, travel, competence, tolerance, respectability itself. The old-fashioned aristocrat is not so prominent today as he once was, and that is excellent in my book. And yet there has been no letdown because the few self-styled great are today not so well known. Our leadership has often had to come from families that the old-timers regarded as second families—"The stone that the builder rejected has become the head of the corner."

Certainly the memory of older times grows golden in the haze of advancing years, but I must once more say that my lamenting the passing institutions I have so often dwelt upon, though sincere, as memories should be, is in no sense a feeling that time has not brought anything to take the place of the things we knew and loved a half century and more ago. Of course, I love the memory of the old family nag, but I have driven my 1924 T-Model and its modest successors to many nooks and corners of America and have widened my store of places that I love or could soon learn to love. Of course, I recall the trundle bed and the excitement that kept me from sleeping too soundly on Christmas Eve, for I so wanted to catch Santa Claus himself; but I am not ashamed of the bed I now occupy, even though it has not acquired enough years and memories to make it worthy of a poem or an essay. Of course, I love to remember how I used to climb trees and wade in the brook and drive home the cows and administer to the needs of my pets on the farm; but, though my legs are much older than they used to be, I can still get around and can thus see strange new worlds that still thrill me as did the adventure of going to the back of the field to bring home my pet lamb when a thunderstorm was brewing. People who see only the past, who for ever look over their shoulders toward some Lost Eden, make me wonder whether they regard themselves as failures in the greatest art of all, the fine art of living in one's own time, of accepting its bumps as well as its pats on the head, of seeing philosophically the events in an average life as great in themselves and greater in their showing man's ability to adjust to an ever-changing order of events and still keep the faith.

Not all that I have experienced has been pleasant. I even doubt whether one should try to evaluate anything wholly on the pleasure it may give. A much bigger idea is satisfaction, which usually takes a long time to develop and become apparent in one's life. We have lost some significant features of our older lives—like neighborliness, self-sufficiency, acquaintance with everybody in our cosmos; but we have gained in knowing more kinds of people, in having seen more distant landscapes, in having traveled all over the world in books and projected our minds into realms that we in our earlier days could not conceive of. Personally, I cannot help wondering daily at the world that my hobby of ornithology opened for me. Even though I knew a good many species of birds from my earliest childhood and often gave them my own names, I have, for more than a half century, added year by year new species, new observations, new and often unforeseen changes in bird populations, and, best of all, new fellow ornithologists, who have not been ashamed to sling a pair of binoculars around their necks and set out like some devoted pilgrims to a shrine that is everywhere.

HORN(E) FAMILY

Mrs. Cecil McCormick, 504 W. 5th Street, Bicknell, Indiana, writes about the Horn or Horne family of Southwest Virginia and Indiana.

Frederick Horn is listed in the 1820 Floyd County Census. It is not known whether he was the pioneer Horn near Prestonsburg or was a son, William Elsey Connelly mentions the Horn family as among the first permanent settlers at Harman's Station about 1791.

Mrs. McCormick doesn't mention Frederick Horn but the family of which she writes was undoubtedly connected with the Eastern Kentucky family.

Our Indiana correspondent writes: "My husband and I have searched records in various court-houses of Southwest Virginia, especially in Wythe and Washington counties where Horns appeared as early as 1774. But we have never found any evidence that great-grandfather, John Horn, lived in either county though a descendant of the Wythe county Horns said years ago she was related to my grandfather, Ellis Clifford Horn, and we know that he (my grandfather) visited in her father's home in Wythe county back in the 1890's. We haven't been able to find any family histories for either the Wythe or Washington county Horn(e) but I understand that most of them are of English descent."

"My great-grandfather, John Horn, or some of his family must have been in trouble sometime in Virginia as he never spoke of his parents or brothers or sisters—if he had any—to his children. Though we know definitely from courthouse records and legal papers that he and his wife were living in Knox county, Indiana, by 1836, neither the 1840 Census nor the 1850 Census of Indiana give his name. Also we have run across other things which seem to indicate he didn't intend for anyone to be able to trace him back to Virginia.

"Consequently, I especially want parentage and birthplace of John Horn, born May 12, 1815, somewhere in Southwest Virginia. John Horn's oldest grandson said he could remember his grandfather telling about standing in the doorway of his boyhood home in the mountains of Virginia and looking into the adjoining states of Kentucky and Tennessee.

"In October, 1835, John Horn eloped with Christiana Vaught, born June 15, 1812, of Cedar Springs, Wythe county, Virginia, and they were married on October 25, 1835, in Independence, Grayson county, Virginia, by the Rev. Jonathan Thomas. For some reason the Vaughts objected to Christiana marrying John, Christiana's parents were George and Christiana Philippi Vaught. George Vaught is listed in the muster rolls of Revolutionary soldiers from Montgomery county, Va., as a member of Capt. William Love's Company, April 5, 1781.

"Immediately after John Horn and Christiana Vaught were married they came to Knox county, Indiana, in a covered wagon. Traveling with them were Christiana's sister and husband—Allan G. and Elizabeth Vaught Nelson and their two small daughters. I understand a Philippi man and wife were with the group. En route the travelers stopped near Somerset, Pulaski county, Kentucky, to visit Christiana and Elizabeth's two brothers—Andrew Vaught and John Vaught, as well as a sister, Mary Vaught Carson, wife of Wisley (sic) Carson, all of whom had moved from Wythe county, Virginia, to Kentucky a few years earlier.

"John and Christiana Horn arrived in Knox county, Indiana, or before January, 1836. At first the couple stayed with John T. Boyd and family who had come from Wythe county in 1832. Soon, however, John Horn had a farm of his own near what is now Bicknell, Indiana, and he also taught school for a number of years. Evidently he had a good education for his day. He seemed to have a good head for business and accumulated quite a bit of land and money.

"Being a fox hunter of the old school, he had brought to Indiana several dogs from his mountain home in Virginia. He always had extra good saddle horses.

"Christiana Horn died near Bicknell, Indiana, December 9, 1881, and John Horn died March 10, 1884.

"John and Christiana Vaught Horn had four children: "(1) Louisa J. Horn (1843-1930) first married Isiah Martin Ruble. After his death she married Joseph J. Clemons.

"(2) James Emory Horn (1846-1928) married Susan E. Collins. They had 16 children.

"(3) Ellis Clifford Horn (1849-1908) married Mary Elizabeth Mason. He had nine children. They were my grandparents.

"(4) John T. Horn (1853-1859). Mrs. McCormick says she has no other information on John Horn before he came to Indiana.

If anyone has any information on the Horn family she would appreciate correspondence and would exchange information.

West German Visitor Sees Hope For East Kentucky

BY NEVILLE SHACKLEFORD

Among the more interesting and attractive visitors to Eastern Kentucky recently was Miss Maria Frotzheim, a representative of the Norddeutscher Rundfunk (North German Radio and TV), Hamburg, Germany.

In scope and operation, Miss Frotzheim's organization roughly corresponds with the great radio and television systems of this country, and she has been in the United States for the past two years doing research which may result in NDR doing a documentary film for German television production on a particular phase of economic life in the United States.

Although seemingly well-versed on the situation in the state, Miss Frotzheim has not worked or traveled extensively in Kentucky, and when asked to give some of her first impressions of the area, she remarked that in some respects it reminded her of her own country—a land separated, not by walls as in Berlin, but by other barriers scarcely less difficult to surmount or break down. Her previous knowledge and information of the existing circumstances has led her to form the opinion that all this will change. She stated there are too many people in Kentucky and elsewhere that do not want an East and West Kentucky, but a whole Kentucky with one and all sharing on a more equal basis and becoming members of an affluent, rather than a depressed, society.

Miss Frotzheim's impressions of depressed Eastern Kentucky seemed remarkably correct when she likened it to a "vast complex" built up over the years of exploitation and neglect, and then for a time largely forgotten. After a short visit through the region and a hasty look at the situation, she visualized the situation being remedied as was the economy and life restored in her own country after the war.

New roads already built, under construction, and planned; new dams for flood control; new schools and training centers; new industries, and new parks, she said, were visible signs of action which points to resurging progress and a revitalized people.

She said her travels in other parts of the United States indicated Eastern Kentucky was very much in the public eye and that its people are no longer forgotten. While admitting the situation is far from ideal, it is still far from being impossible. There are too many valuable resources left to be developed to make recovery impossible.

COLLEGE OF COMMERCE

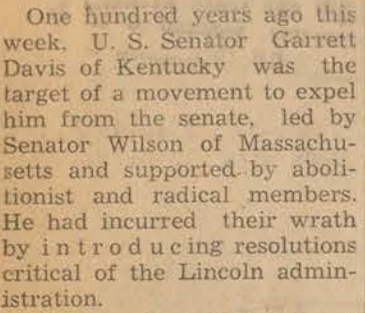

The University of Kentucky College of Commerce was officially established by the Board of Trustees in the spring of 1925. Before that time, economics and business education courses were under the administration of the Arts and Sciences College.

Floyd Federal Elects Officers for New Term; Dr. Allen Is Re-elected

Dr. C. L. Allen, Martin physician and surgeon, was elected president of the Floyd Federal Savings and Loan Association here at the institution's annual meeting of stockholders, Wednesday of last week. Frank E. Harmon was named executive vice-president and secretary.

The meeting was held at the offices of the financial institution here.

M. E. Dearing, of Wayland, was named vice-president and Richard E. Harmon became treasurer. Elected to fill the unexpired term of the late J. M. Turner as director was Byron Nunnery who has been associated with the association since its founding.

Bert T. Combs, Dr. Allen and Frank Harmon were re-elected to three-year terms as directors.

Vice-President Harmon, in reviewing the growth of the institution since it was organized in 1937, expressed optimism as to the future and pointed to the increase of nearly $1 million in assets last year. This increase is indicative of the confidence the public has in the association's service, he added.

PICKLED FRUITS
For the first time, specialists are recommending heat processing of all home-canned pickled fruits and vegetables after they are packed in jars. Food specialists with USDA's Agricultural Research Service have found that pickled products packed in jars and heated in a boiling-water bath have higher quality and longer storage life at room temperatures than those made by open-kettle canning.

Williams-Bates Vows Said

Miss Mary Frances Williams, daughter of Mrs. Ida Williams, of Printer, Ky., became the bride of Mr. Larry Douglas Bates, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bates, of McDowell, Ky., in a candlelight ceremony performed, December 21, at the First Baptist Church of Martin, Ky. The Rev. S. Lee Sloat, Sr., was the officiating minister.

The church was decorated with an arch covered with white gladioli, and two large candelabra containing white candles were placed at either side of the arch.

Miss Pam Eads, of Lexington, Ky., was the vocalist, and Mrs. Milton Ryan, of Martin, was the organist.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Troy P. Allen, of Printer, Ky., the bride wore a full-length gown of white delustered satin, with a bateau neckline, and scalloped, re-embroidered Chantilly lace down the front. The "A"-shaped skirt swept into an "A" chapel train. Her veil consisted of a pearl tiara crown, which held an elbow-length veil. She carried a bouquet of a white orchid centered on a white lace-covered prayer book, with ribbon and baby pearl streamers attached.

Mrs. Jane Pack, of Printer, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a full-length, bell-shaped gown of green velvet, with matching veil. The bridesmaids were Sandra M. Braddock, Carla Sanders and Doris McCules, all of Lexington, Ky. They wore full-length gowns of red velvet, with matching veils. Both the matron of honor and the bridesmaids carried white bunny fur muffs, centered with poinsettias and holly with red streamers attached.

Freddy Meece, of Prestonsburg, served as best man. Ushers were D. E. Salisbury, of Albany, Ky., William Brad-

Others attending the meeting included Mrs. Katherine Peden, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Commerce, and Congressman Carl Perkins, Hindman, William H. Natcher, Bowling Green, Frank Stubblefield, Murray, and an aide for Congressman Eugene Siler, Williamsburg.

Discussed in general terms were ways the state and federal governments can cooperate more closely on Eastern Kentucky's economic and education problems. Breathitt told Wirtz:

"I think that when our budget is announced you'll feel we're more than willing to do our share."

But, he added, the state must have federal help to provide roads, water control, and educational opportunities in the mountain coalfields.

Breathitt and Perkins asked Wirtz and Ivan Nestingen, undersecretary of health, education and welfare, for an extensive program throughout Eastern Kentucky to provide basic educational and occupational training for illiterates.

Afterward, Governor Breathitt visited with Mrs. Lyndon Johnson at the White House. He was the guest of honor Friday night for a dinner-dance sponsored by the Kentucky Society of Washington.

Why should you bank at

THE Citizens BANK OF PIKEVILLE ?

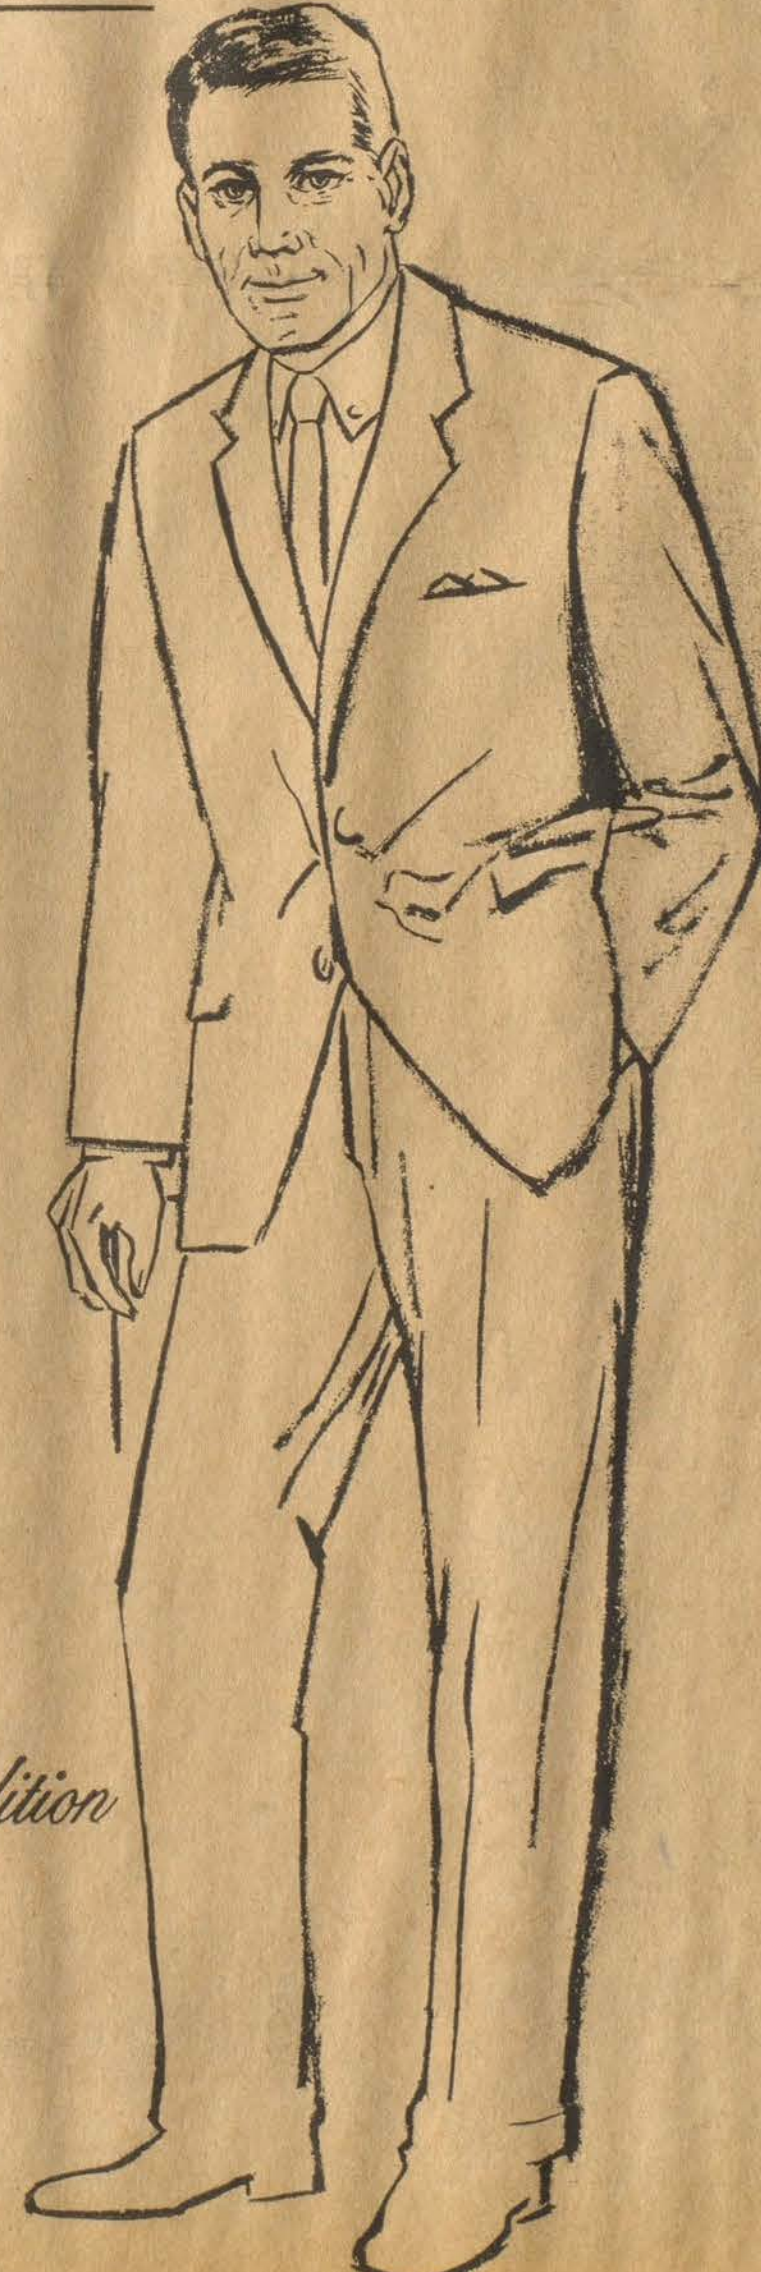

This is a fair question, as all banks provide essentially the same services. As our Statement of Condition indicates, more and more individuals and businesses in Pikeville, Eastern Kentucky, and Southwest Virginia are choosing to bank with The Citizens Bank of Pikeville. Why?

There are very sound reasons—dedicated, friendly, experienced, and efficient officers and staff—three convenient locations—loans for any worthwhile purpose—modern, attractive equipment and facilities—plus many more. But, you say, other banks can give the same reasons. You are right, they can.

However, the exclusive satisfaction in banking at the Citizens Bank of Pikeville is an intangible value you can recognize only by experience, an experience difficult to explain. Thousands know from experience how pleasant and helpful it is to bank at The Friendly Bank. You can ask any of them, but the simplest and surest way to prove this for yourself is to start now to bank regularly at The Citizens Bank of Pikeville.

TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

Western Kentucky Teachers' College, Bowling Green, Ky.

PASSING INSTITUTIONS—HOUSE AND HOME
MEALS.—We old-timers ate three square meals a day: breakfast, dinner, supper. Lunch was something between meals, maybe a grown-up version of Some'n'deat.

TIME.—The day—the 24-hour day—had three parts: morning, till dinner-time or noon; evening, till sundown; and night, from sundown to stimp. Day was obvious by where the light fell on the planks at the back kitchen door.

LAMP-LIGHTING TIME.—When night came on, lamps had to be lit. We all had matches then, but there were the left-over lamp-lighters—rolled pieces of paper kept in a vase on the mantel—always handy when there was fire in the fireplace. The lighting of the lamps was a sort of daily ritual, in many ways as sacred as winding the old Seth Thomas clock just before bedtime.

FRONT ROOM.—The combination parlor-guest room was called the front room, no matter where it actually was in the whole house. Often it had its own door to the outside world. In it were the best furniture, the best rag carpet, the family album, the family Bible, the best lace curtains, and, in later old days, the only heating stove. Old guests of importance were entertained in the front room, as it was called. The visiting preacher, some especially great relatives, and such fine people slept in the big bed, washed their hands and faces in the wash-bowl, and dried said faces and hands on guest towels (not the half-a-mealsack towels that the mere men of the household used).

FAMILY ALBUM.—Probably the most valuable adjunct of the miscellaneous junk piled on the center table in the front room. It contained tintype pictures of everybody, family groups, and miscellaneous pictures of relatives, friends and beaux. The boy of the family appeared, minus most of his clothes, in a picture made in the washbowl from the parlor or one just like it that the traveling photographer had in his tent in the broomage field. Nearly everybody in the pictures looked turned to bone or stone or ice, because of the contraptions that held their heads steady while the time-exposure camera did its work.

OPEN FIREPLACE.—Formerly open fireplaces appeared in all rooms, but up-and-coming people replaced the fireplace with sheet-metal heaters in the front room or other guest rooms, if such there were. Small boys built dream castles in the coals of the open fireplace; corn was popped over these same coals; yarns were spun by set—fill—bed-time visitors before it; and small boys, again, got so scared at some of the wild animals of the stories that they drew up their feet and sat on them to be sure no animal bit them off.

SMOKEHOUSE.—Close to the kitchen, usually, stood the treasure-house of the farm family, the smokehouse. Meat, properly salted and cured; smoked sausage; lard in cans or earthenware jars; soap grease; sauerkraut; canned fruits—what didn't the smokehouse contain?

PICTURES.—No house was so bleak that no picture appeared. In summer a firescreen covered the hearth and fireplace; this screen was a wooden frame covered with heavy canvas and usually papered with wallpaper to match that of the room; on the screen was sure to be some reproduction of some famous painting, even in remotest Fidelity. Our firescreen had, directly in its center, Rosa Bonheur's "Horse Fair." On the walls appeared pictures, all the way from photographs with rustic frames to big enlarged pictures of members of the family or of Pa and Ma, at least, Calendars, after they had outlived their usefulness in keeping humanity straight about time, lived on for their pictures. I once visited in a home where nine consecutive years were represented by the calendars on the walls; in fact, the house was so small and the calendars so large that the room was virtually papered with calendars. And most of them were downright pretty, too, not daring or suggestive.

PASSING INSTITUTIONS—THE COMMUNITY
In spite of our living nearer together, so far as our houses are concerned, than we used to, we lack much of the community spirit that was common when everybody knew everybody else. We had, usually, some four or five places where we could see lots of people; the country store, postoffice, church, schoolhouse, funerals, picnics. At Fidelity we had all five of these, plus the annual candidate speakings.

COUNTRY STORE.—Sugar and coffee, needed to round out a full meal on the farm, merely supplemented what we had already raised in our own gardens and fields and orchards. If the store also contained a postoffice, as one of ours did at Fidelity, then we could see a lot of people who had come for the mail and to learn the news. We could always sell any surplus eggs and meat and hides at the store and get a due bill to convert into purchases later.

WHEELWRIGHT

STUDENTS FORM PANEL

The Wheelwright Woman's Club met in the clubroom, January 13. The program for the evening, sponsored by the Citizenship committee, was a panel discussion on "What Is Good Citizenship?" Members of the panel were senior high school students, Kathleen and Elaine Gillis, Donald Cooper and Stephen Benedict. The moderator was Mrs. H. M. Wilkinson, Jr., teacher of English at Wheelwright high school.

During the business session, plans for an inter-club meeting, to be held in April, were discussed. It also was decided to sponsor the annual Bowling Day on Sunday, February 2. Proceeds from the bowling will be donated to the March of Dimes, Cerebral Palsy and Cancer funds.

The hostesses for the evening were Mrs. G. W. Lockin and Mrs. Daniel Autore.

Did you ever notice what a wide choice of food is available at your local supermarket? Statisticians from the U. S. Department of Agriculture recently went out and counted the abundance available in a typical American community. They found that the homemaker had her choice of 85 different kinds and cuts of meat in a single store. That's only counting beef, pork, lamb, veal and poultry. Had cold cuts and seafood been included the count would have been considerably higher.

ENTERTAINERS.—Rarely did we have entertainers from the outside. And we hardly needed any, for we had excellent readers, who could do orations and poems and even dialogues; we had fiddlers and banjo-pickers; we had ballad-singers and yam-spinners. Ex-Civil War soldiers were always around, to bring to us the thrill of being under fire and, even more, to tell us about the great practical jokes played by young boys away on what to us seemed only like a fairly dangerous Sunday School picnic.

SWIMMING.—In our part of the world, even up until my time to go away to school, in 1906, swimming was for men and boys only. Beechy Fork Creek and Blood River had some good washing holes, as we called them. The whole Saturday-afternoon cessation from dirty farm work was known as going in a washing.

BARBERING.—No barber as such ever ran a shop at Fidelity in my youth. Local boys shingled hair with about the same skill that they sheared the manes and tails of the mules. If any money ever changed hands, I cannot now remember seeing it.

SHIVERERS.—Married couples, especially if they had been popular as young people, were given a charivari or shiverer, in which all the noise possible was found: ringing of bells, beating on pans, shooting firecrackers and even guns, and yelling like Indians. Usually some cake and pickle was handed out to the serenaders, too. (The singular verb is used here because the food was considered as one.)

PARTIES.—Dancing as such was frowned upon, but it was not regarded as wicked to play singing games if no fiddle or banjo was around. We could also play Sociable and get a chance to talk to girl after girl at the party. We used to regard Snap as a very exciting game, and a game of Cat and Mouse was just about the acme of social entertainment.

FLOYD FEDERAL SAVINGS & LOAN ASSOC.

ASSETS INCREASE TO $4,643,506.21

MANAGER HARMON REPORTS NET GAIN OF $904,257.66 AS OF DEC. 31, 1963; LENDING VOLUME UP TO $3,998,158.53

Floyd Federal Savings and Loan Association today reported an increase in total assets to $4,643,506.21 as of December 31, 1963.

Frank E. Harmon, Secretary-Treasurer of Floyd Federal Savings and Loan, said that this figure represents a 25.6% increase over total assets reported one year ago, and he attributed the institution's rapid growth to continued recognition of the people in this area of the value of this institution in meeting the needs of savers and borrowers.

According to the institution's 1963 Annual Report, net savings gains recorded during the past year total $904,257.66, increasing total savings to an all-time high of $4,118,193.34.

Floyd Federal Savings and Loan also paid a record total dividend to savers of $156,528.43 during 1963, based on a regular dividend rate of 4 1/4%.

Total mortgage lending volume at Floyd

Mr. Harmon commented that the strong savings inflow and substantially increased home lending volume at his institution was indicative of the consistently growing demand for savings and loan services in this community and elsewhere in the nation.

"The savings and loan system provides the most efficient employment of real savings toward the investment in long-term real estate lending, particularly in the area of private single-family homes," he said. "We feel that savings and loan institutions have now achieved a critically important place in our total economy and that their influence will continue to expand in the foreseeable future."

100 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK
The Civil War in Kentucky
By JOE JORDAN
(Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week the Lexington Observer and Reporter printed an account of a "meeting of the citizens of Fayette county to devise means to avoid the draft called for January 5, 1864." During the Civil War "draft-dodger" was not the term of contempt it would become later, a man called for the draft who had the money could pay $300 for a substitute to go in his place, and a great many men escaped military service in that way.

"The courthouse was filled to overflowing," the Lexington newspaper said of the meeting to devise means of avoiding the draft. After considerable discussion, the group adopted a resolution calling upon Fayette county's representatives in the legislature to obtain passage of a bill "to tax the citizens of Fayette county a sufficient amount to pay a bounty of $300" for each volunteer needed to fill the county's quota.

President Lincoln had called for 300,000 volunteers for the Union Army. Kentucky had been given a quota of 12,701, and this had been split into county quotas. With reference to the January 5 draft, the proclamation had said, "Should the enlistments not amount to the required number by that day, a draft will be enforced to make up the deficit." It was this prospective deficit that the Fayette county citizens were concerned about — and so were men of military age in other counties.

A volunteer who was enlisting for the sake of the bounty — plus whatever patriotic motives he might have for going to war — could choose his regiment. Commanders of existing Kentucky regiments of the Union Army saw opportunities thus to fill vacancies in their ranks, and some of them were quick to advertise for such volunteers and to point to the advantages. For one thing, if a man fooled around long enough, he might get drafted, and in that case he would not get a bounty.

"The pay of a private is $13 a month, besides being well clothed and fed, the first month's pay in advance," said one such advertisement in the Louisville Journal. "If he be a good soldier, he may be pretty sure of soon being a sergeant or a corporal, of whom there are over 130 in every regiment."
A $60 installment of the bounty was paid at the time of enlistment. That, plus the first month's pay of $13 and a "premium" of $2, made $75 in cash that the recruit received immediately. The

Garrett Area Men Become C-D Members

Garrett, Ky., Jan. 13 (Spl.)—The newly formed Civil Defense unit at Garrett met January 7 and officially became a unit of the Division of Civil Defense of Kentucky. Twenty-two members received their membership cards after having taken the oath administered by their director, Robert Griffith, Elmer N. Beckett, Jr., Maysville, director of Civil Defense, again spoke to the group on organization and operation of the local unit.

The group organized a course of instruction on Civil Defense. Classes will begin January 14 at 7 p.m. in the Garrett high school. The classes will meet every Tuesday thereafter for three hours until 12 full hours of instruction have been received by everyone taking the course. Adrian Bentley and Curtis Moore, both teachers in the Garrett high school, will teach the classes. A diploma will be given to each person who attends all of the classes. Everyone is invited and urged to take the course, regardless of where they live or whether they are members of the unit. Women, especially wives of members, are urged to take the course. Bentley and Moore are currently conducting the course for Garrett high school students at night. They report large enrollment and keen interest.

Mr. Beckett assured the unit that it would soon receive government surplus equipment and materials. He urged the group to organize radiological monitoring, weather reporting, warning and emergency stations at points above Wayland, Mousie, Rock Fork, Salt Lick and Maytown. Committees were named to contact persons in these areas to find someone to perform such a task. He pointed out that early warnings of unusually heavy rainfall on Jones Fork and the head of Beaver to the unit could possibly save the areas below several thousands of dollars in damages.

Coet Messer, local department store owner, offered to secure white coveralls for the members at his cost. Any member wishing to purchase these for his own use should contact Mr. Messer. Eugene Mullins, local variety store owner, is planning to outfit his auxiliary police in surplus uniforms. He needs members for his section. George Everidge, local postal clerk, is in need of members of his firefighting group.

The Garrett Civil Defense unit meets the first Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m., in the science room of Garrett high school. The next regular meeting will be Tuesday, February 4. Everyone is invited and urged to attend these meetings.

CANTRELL AT DISASTER

Bainbridge, Md.—Terry D. Cantrell, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mrs. Geneva Leedy, of Lackey, Ky., a member of Radioman Class "A" School at the Naval Training Center, Bainbridge, Md., assisted disaster crews at the crash scene of Pan American Flight 214 near Elkton, Md., Dec. 8.

The Maryland State Highway Patrol contacted the training center late that Sunday night, informing Navy officials of the need for personnel. Fifteen minutes later, the first busload of Navy men was bound for Elkton, some 20 miles away, to assist in maintaining the cordon surrounding the disaster area.

Working in 70-man shifts, the students remained at the scene all that night and the following day. Although all passengers and crewmen aboard the plane were killed, many hours of search were required and performed by the Navy volunteers.

"New" Tobacco Variety Not New At All

Lexington, Ky.—When a "new" variety of Kentucky burley tobacco is certified and released to growers, it isn't really new at all—it's been around at least five years. During this time, the variety has undergone extensive testing to make sure it will be acceptable to burley growers and to the six major tobacco companies, cooperating in the tests, according to Ira Massie, UK Extension tobacco specialist.

Wheelwright High Wins Over Lexington Team

Wheelwright, Ky.—Bill Cook, a 6-1 senior, launched unbeaten Wheelwright to a fast start en route to a 92-71 victory over Lexington Lafayette here Saturday night.

Cook scored 10 straight points at the beginning to give the Trojans a 10-2 lead and they took it from there to build a 30-16 first quarter lead that was never seriously threatened.

It was the 16th straight win for the Trojans. Lafayette is now 7-9 on the season.
Jim Rollins, who pulled down 16 rebounds, led all scoring with 27 points in pacing Wheelwright. Cook followed with 26 points and Danny Hall with 24.

Paintsville, Martin Tangle Is Scheduled

Paintsville and Martin tangled Saturday night in the finals of the twelfth annual Paintsville Invitational. In Friday's semi-finals Jim Allen's scoring spree paced Paintsville to a 73-69 victory over Inez and Martin turned back Warfield 71-62.

Don Hale led Martin with 23 points as the Purple Flash took a six-point edge at half time, 37-31. That proved to be enough to withstand a mild Warfield rally in the third period which cut three points off Martin's edge but the Flashes had it in the stretch when they outscored the losers 19-13 in the final quarter.

SPORTS AFIELD

By TED KESTING

Sportsmen have a unique opportunity to help create better boating laws. You as a sportsman should become familiar with the laws that have worked and those that have flopped in areas similar to your own, and then figure what modifications might be possible before a new prescription is written for your home waters.

Boating laws at the local level need changing most, says Willard Crandall, Boats Editor of Sports Afield. The National Boating Act is generally accepted as good. So are quite a fair number of state laws, particularly those patterned to follow and fit in with the national act.

The authors of local ordinances are certainly not all politicians primarily after the boatman's dollar. Often, they are men with little boating experience. They are inclined—perhaps more often than we recognize—to consider sportsmen the best source of expert, unprejudiced thoughts on regulation of boating. To some extent, this is also true of state legislators.

Certainly, if we sportsmen familiarize ourselves with what constitutes good boating laws, we'll be ready for any chance to promote our viewpoint.

Enactment of the present group of boating laws started about eight or ten years ago. Small boats, particularly outboards, at that time began increasing rapidly—in numbers, speed and size. Naturally, there arose a demand for laws to regulate traffic, to promote safety under fast-changing conditions. Joining in the cry in large numbers were the status quo-ers, men who suddenly saw the quiet waters they had learned to like teeming with increasing activity.

Some anglers—not as many as sometimes claimed—joined this last group, with the laudable intention of preserving fishing grounds. Unfortunately, at that time there was no experience with laws designed for greatly increased boat traffic, nor were there any comprehensive accident statistics. The result was that many localities, and some states, went overboard.

Today, the results of wide experience with varying boating laws are available to all, and so are excellent compilations of accident statistics prepared by the U. S. Coast Guard and by others. It's time for sober second thought, for reappraisal of all boating laws, both good and bad.

SPORTS CHATTER

Wheelwright's Thursday night appearance in the wide-lit-publicized Louisville invitational tournament will be the second for a Floyd county team. Wayland, under the guidance of "Copper John" Campbell, was the county's first entrant in the early '50's. Inez was the first 15th region club to cop the big city title and that was back in 1954, before they went on to land the state tournament title.

The Garrett Black Devils remained in seventh place among the state's elite teams in Tuesday's ratings. Wheelwright held down 12th place. McDowell, Wayland and Betsy Layne trailed in that order.

The Wheelwright-Prestonsburg game, originally scheduled for this Friday night, was postponed to permit the Trojans to play in Louisville. Prestonsburg travels to Betsy Layne, Thursday night, for a makeup game, and on Saturday night the Blackcats meet the Martin Purple Flash in a single game at 8 p.m.

Next Tuesday, a double bill will be reeled off as Martin tangles with Inez at 7 p.m. and Prestonsburg vies with Wayland in the second game.

The 58th district, comprising eight schools in Floyd county, is considered the best basketball district of the four that comprise the 15th region, and the figures will bear this out. Many fans also consider Floyd county to be one of the "toughest" basketball districts in the state.

Inside the county, the teams have won 32 and lost 32 games between themselves, but outside the county they have amassed a 42 won record against only 8 losses.

Undeclared Wheelwright heads the pack with eight wins inside the county and seven outside. Against out-of-county opposition the records compiled read: Garrett, 5-0; McDowell, 7-1; Wayland, 6-1; Prestonsburg, 6-2; Martin, 5-2; Betsy Layne, 4-2; and Maytown, 2-0.

This season's district tournament, like last year's, is expected to be a wide-open affair with Garrett, Wheelwright, Wayland, McDowell, Prestonsburg and Betsy Layne tabbed to be the strongest, but Martin and Maytown on any given night could knock off any of the others.

Bob Tallent Nets 51 In Maytown High Win

Senior Bob Tallent bucketed 29 points in the last quarter and 51 overall Friday night to lead Maytown's Wild Cats to a 105-92 victory over the Betsy Layne Bob Cats.

Tallent, who is averaging 41 points a game, helped Maytown break open the game in the fourth quarter when the Wild Cats scored 37 points.

C. Boyd tossed in 31 to lead Betsy Layne.
Betsy Layne (92)—Hall 21, King 13, Woods 8, Boyd 31, Adkins 17, Hardwick 4, Williams 1.
Maytown (105)—Tallent 51, Spencer 11, Lowe 25, Patton 4, Gable 10, Webb 2.

Prestonsburg Topped By Blaine Wildcats

Blaine's twice-beaten Wild Cats had to go into overtime Friday night before downing the pesky Prestonsburg Black Cats 78-73, in overtime, for their 15th basketball victory of the season.

Prestonsburg, now 6-4 on the year, clawed from behind to tie the game in regulation time, 67-67, on a free throw by Lonnie Pentz and Jim Setser's field goal.

But Williams netted five of his 14 points in the overtime period to give Blaine the victory.

Fredie Setser took game scoring honors for Prestonsburg with 26 points. Young, with 20 points, and Kalee with 19, led the balanced Blaine attack, which featured all five starters in double figures.

Blaine (78)—Hamilton 10, Williams 14, Young 20, West 15, Kalee 19.
Prestonsburg (73)—F. Setser 13, J. Setser 23, Hamilton 11, M. E. Wells 4, Penix 17.

Tigers Win Tourney By Thumping Martin, Last Year's Winner

Paintsville, Ky.—Paintsville, getting a big performance from the front-line threesome, won its own invitational tournament here Saturday for the third time in its 12-year history by thumping Martin 96-73.

Mike Schmitt, Bobby Porter and Jim Allen did most of the heavy work for the Tigers, who were running their season record to 14-1. Schmitt wound up as the game's top scorer with 26 points. Allen added 22 and Porter 20.

Dave Mayo, with 19 points, and John Mayo, with 15, paced the losing Purple Flashes, who were dropping their 10th game in 19 outings.

The outcome was hardly in doubt after the opening period in which the Tigers climbed into a 21-14 lead and cracked the whip the rest of the way. Paintsville led 51-35 at intermission.

Martin, which won the tournament last year, was also bidding for its third PIT crown. Orville Stepp, who scored 49 points in Inez's victory over Oil Springs in the opening game of the eight-team tournament last Wednesday, was named the tournament's most valuable player.

MANPOWER DEVELOPMENT ACT

Congress recently passed the Manpower Development Act which should be of considerable value to Floyd county. There have been 39 different occupational training projects under consideration, in which 3,300 people from 44 Eastern Kentucky counties will receive training. Those receiving training will receive a subsistence allowance. The program will be under the direction of the Department of Economic Security, and the teaching will be under the area vocational schools.

The Department of Economic Security has been able to find employment for 85% of the graduates from similar training courses. This is an outstanding record.

Anyone wishing further information should contact the Department of Economic Security in Prestonsburg.

FARM RECORDS

For those farmers who farm to make a profit, one tool that is often neglected is a farm account book. This book is just essential as a plow. Too often farm records are not sufficient for the farmers to determine if he made a profit or not.

S. Q. Allen, U. K. Extension Service economist, says, "Records help farmers determine success of the year's business and the amount of income tax and social security tax, and pinpoint the ills of the business. Once the ills or weak points are found, records will help determine why these exist. However, records do not prescribe the cure for business ills, they merely point them

A new farm record book will be available at the Extension office later in the month at a nominal fee. Every farm should use some type of record book. Otherwise he may be farming only for the exercise and not know it.

SET TREES

In a few short weeks, land owners will be setting tree seedlings. There have been several thousand acres set in trees during the last few years. However, there remains many more thousand acres of barren hill sides that should be covered by tree cover. Both the land owner and the county will benefit from the tree program. Land values increase, water run off decreases which cuts down on flooding and increases ground water supply. Landowners can realize a cash income in the future. Soil erosion is checked and the trees add to the natural beauty of the county.

If you have not decided to set trees this year, now is a good time to make your plans.

22,000 Persons Tested For Diabetes In State; Suspicious Cases Found

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 20 (Sp.)—With tabulations completed by 86 of the county health departments which participated in Diabetes Week in Kentucky last November, records show that over 22,000 persons were tested, and 143 suspicious cases were found. By comparison, 19,569 persons took the test through county health departments during Diabetes Week in 1962, and 157 suspicious cases were discovered from these tests, according to Edwin Cameron, M.D., director of Chronic Disease Control, Kentucky State Department of Health. "While not all county health departments participated in this diabetes screening program, the increase in the number of persons who took the test in 1963 indicates that Kentuckians are becoming more aware of the dangers of diabetes," Dr. Cameron said.

Public health nurses cooperated with the Kentucky State Medical Association's Diabetes Week last November by making urine tests of adults whom they saw on home or office visits. In a number of counties, children, with their parents' permission, were tested at school. Those persons whose tests were positive were referred to their physicians for definite diagnosis.

"Diabetes is the eighth leading cause of death in Kentucky and in the United States," Dr. Cameron said. "It is estimated that four percent of persons over 40 have diabetes and, of these, half the cases are not known and therefore untreated. Diabetes, when undetected and untreated can be fatal, but by carefully following the physician's directions, a diabetic now can live a reasonably normal and happy life."

New Girl Scout Group Take Lexington Office; Meeting Held Tuesday

The newly-created Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council has moved into new offices at 1400 Forbes Road here at Lexington.

Organized two months ago, the council is composed of 364 troops with a total of 7,390 members. It takes in 49 Kentucky counties, plus Lee county, Virginia; Mingo county, West Virginia, and Caiborne county, Tennessee.

Before the Wilderness Road group was formed, eight separate Girl Scout councils served these areas. Three of these—the Lexington, Central Kentucky, and Sandy Valley councils—had professional staffs and were instrumental in organizing the new group.

Mrs. Edward Hill, second vice-president, and Mrs. Fred Francis, member-at-large, attended the first board meeting held at the IBM plant, Lexington, Tuesday.

Under the new division, Floyd, Johnson and Magoffin counties are Neighborhood No. 7. Mrs. James Camicia, Prestonsburg, is neighborhood chairman, and Council representatives from this neighborhood are Mrs. Hal Kawaja, Paintsville, and Mrs. Minor Pace, Wheelwright.

When a farmer decides to try a newly-certified tobacco variety, he can be sure it has been tested many times to insure as good results as possible. Massie points out. Plant breeders may test more than 400 different breeding lines a year, but few of these ever reach the farmer as new varieties. Most fail some phase of the highly-selective testing given potential new varieties.

Planning family spending concerns all members of the family and the plans should be made together. Each person should know how much money is available, what expenses must be met, how much money is being saved and why, and what items the spending money for each individual is expected to cover. Everyone in the family will be more satisfied with the plan if he or she has helped make it.

Miss Jones, Pfc. Goble Wedding Is Solemnized

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones, Sr., Junction City, Kansas, announce the marriage of their daughter, Dixie Miranda Jones, to Pfc. Paul H. Goble, son of Mrs. Goldie Goble, Prestonsburg. The wedding was solemnized November 30 at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Bobbie Miller, Junction City.

The bride was attired in a street-length dress of soft, pale blue mohair designed with short sleeves and high rounded neckline. She wore a single strand of pearls and white carnation corsage with black accessories.

Mrs. Miller served as matron of honor for her sister. She wore a medium blue sheath dress with three-quarter length sleeves and cowl neckline. Her corsage was created of white carnations.

Mr. Miller was the groom's best man.

The Millers honored the couple with a reception in their home after the ceremony. A two-tier wedding cake was served, which was trimmed with red roses and topped by a lace heart that had a bridal couple standing in the center. The serving table, covered with a blue linen cloth overlaid with white lace, was decorated with a blue streamer caught by blue net bows at the corner and dropping in half circles on both sides and front. Silver bells hanging from matching streamers were attached to the bows.

Pfc. Goble served 15 months in Korea and six months in Germany. He is currently stationed at Fort Riley, Kansas.

Baptists To Honor Church Laymen

Middletown, Ky.—Twelve hundred Baptist churches in Kentucky are expected to observe Baptist Men's Day on Sunday, January 26. This annual event is sponsored by the Kentucky Baptist Brotherhood, a laymen's organization for Baptist men.

The purpose is to focus attention on the contribution to church life made by Baptist laymen. "Laymen make many unique contributions to their churches," said Forrest R. Sawyer, secretary of the Kentucky Baptist Brotherhood. "They serve as church officers, fill leadership posts in Sunday School and Training Union, teach missions to boys through the Royal Ambassadors and exemplify the spirit of Christ in business, civic, and political life."

ROUND BALL JINX

Mental attitude, any coach will tell you, is a necessary ingredient for a winning athletic team. A team that gets emotionally keyed can usually be counted on to put up a whole of a scrap. And, abundant talent isn't enough in this day of specialized sports. A team has to be brought into the right frame of mind to produce a number of victories.

The mental aspect of sports, however, can also work in reverse. Kentucky's Wildcats are faced with just such a situation where emotions can be a detriment, a so-called "jinx" in sports.

Kentucky faces Georgia Tech Saturday, with Tech being the team that handed the Cats their first loss this season after the Wildcats had run off 10 straight victories and had attained the number one national ranking. Tech also stopped Kentucky's twelve-year home-court winning streak in 1955, and has been proving troublesome ever since. The Tech team has won six of the last nine meetings with Kentucky, and the last three in a row. These losses must be running through the minds of Kentucky's coaches and players as the 10th meeting with Georgia Tech approaches. Many times the Wildcats have become jittery for this game, turning in a poor performance. Their loss to Tech this season was Kentucky's worst effort.

In 1955, when Georgia Tech shocked the basketball world by upsetting Kentucky in Lexington, Coach Whack Hyder was voted the Southeastern Conference "Coach of the Year," even though he failed to post a break-even record that year. Coach Hyder has made Kentucky the "Big" one on his schedule ever since. It's no accident, and it's not all mental. No team is scouted more often or more thoroughly than Kentucky is by Georgia Tech. Tech's Byron Gilbreath was in attendance at Kentucky's games so often before the two teams met three weeks ago in Atlanta that he was unmercifully kidded about being a member of the Kentucky traveling squad. But it paid off in an upset win for Tech. Of course, the mental aspect of the rivalry finds Coach Hyder quoted in the papers that Kentucky always "presses" when it plays his team. They often have. But his careful preparation of words have, as records show, been rough on the Wildcats. And, this Saturday, the Cats will again meet Georgia Tech, as Kentucky tries to break a "round ball jinx."

Obesity Concept False, Results In Diseases; High Death Rate Noted

BY DR. RUSSELL L. HALL
Floyd County Health Officer

The old concept of a fat person being a hale, hearty, healthy, jolly fellow has some grave overtones. Actually, overweight can seriously endanger health and life. Obesity present for months or years is associated with a higher death rate and shorter life expectancy.

For example, persons 45 to 50 years old with only 10 pounds of excessive weight have a death rate 8% higher than the average; 20 pounds raises it to 18%; 30 pounds to 28%, and 50 pounds to 56% higher death rate!!! Stated another way: a person 50 pounds overweight will, on the average, live less than half as long as a person his same age whose weight is normal.

Obese (fat) persons die from heart and kidney diseases about 60% more frequently than those of normal weight. Overweight can also lead to higher death rates from diabetes, pneumonia, liver disease and other afflictions.

The dangers of overweight are not limited to middle age. Practically all the disorders mentioned here can occur at any age. Heart attacks are more common among young people than is generally realized. In young women, the chances of complications during pregnancy and childbirth are considerably increased by overweight.

While the main cause of overweight is taking in more calories than the body can consume, there are many indirect causes. This is why you should see your doctor if you are overweight; trying to prescribe your own diet to reduce is dangerous. Let your doctor prescribe for you. And when that excess baggage is gone, you will not only feel better, you will look better and live longer.

Telephone Talk
By ROY L. ATHERTON
Your Telephone Manager

BACK IN THE GOOD OLD DAYS, you had to crank both cars and telephones to get them working. And when the car finally started after much effort, you bounced down the street. The same way with the telephone—after much effort you got your party, but you had to yell at each other to be heard. Cars and telephones have both come a long way since their beginnings. Example—in 1920 it cost over $6.00 to make a station-to-station call to a city 1,000 miles away. The average Long Distance call took about 14 minutes to put through. Today, you can call 1,000 miles in a matter of seconds and all for less than $1.00. How's that for progress?
