USDA Urges Recipients To Separate Foods

The U. S. Department of Agriculture urges food stamp program participants to separate eligible foods from ineligible foods when paying for the food at grocery store check-out counters.

This will help authorized grocers serve their food stamp customers faster and better, says USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, which this week distributed posters to local food stores that emphasize separating eligible foods from the ineligible.

"Our purpose is to continually promote awareness of the foods which are eligible for food coupon purchases," said Carl R. Horn, representative of the Agricultural Marketing Service's Food Distribution Division supervising the food stamp program in Floyd, Knott and Perry counties. "The food stamp program has been operating successfully in this area for some time—from nearly a year in Perry county to more than two and a half years in Floyd county. The excellent cooperation of the participating grocers and food coupon recipients in the program is largely responsible for this success."

Some other rules which Horn said should be followed at the grocer's check-out counter include identifying the customer, seeing that each coupon book is signed, and that each coupon is attached in the coupon book except for the 50-cent coupons which are used for change.

Grocers are not authorized to give change in cash for items purchased with food stamp coupons. Due bills may be issued, but not for more than 49 cents.

BAR EXAM FEBRUARY 20

Frankfort, Ky.—The next Kentucky bar examination will be February 20 through 22 at the University of Louisville Law School.

Vocational Training Applicants Told To Beware Of Guy Robinson

Applicants for vocational training under the federal program in Martin and surrounding counties were being warned this week not to pay any fees to a man giving his name as Guy Robinson. Seldon Clark, Martin county superintendent of schools, notified Glenn Anderson, head of the Department of Economic Security here, Wednesday of Robinson's activities in Martin county.

Clark said Robinson represented that he was from Central

Training Agency, presumably a federal agency, and that he was affiliated with the Kentucky Employment Service. He gave his address as Box 205, Buena Vista Station, Miami, Florida.

Robinson approached a woman on Turkey Creek, Martin county, and informed her the fee for vocational training would be $293 and that an initial fee of $20 was required, which she paid, Clark said.

Ill Autoist Crashes Into Parked Automobile

Joe T. Harris, of Lancer, who was stricken ill here Tuesday at 11 a.m. while driving into town, was taken to the Prestonsburg General hospital but removed that afternoon to the Methodist hospital, Pikeville. He is suffering from internal bleeding, it is said, and is seriously ill.

Mr. Harris became ill while approaching the Quick-Coin laundry on Lake-Drive and started to turn off when he blacked out. He crashed into the parked automobile of Mrs. Barkley Sturgill, who was inside the laundry at the time.

Alice Lloyd Alumni To Meet February 6 At Grade School Here

Garrett, Ky., Jan. 27 (Spl.) — The Floyd County Chapter of Alice Lloyd College Alumni will meet Thursday night, February 6 at 7 p.m. in the Prestonsburg grade school lunchroom. William Hayes, director of Alice Lloyd College, will address the group. The color movie, "Miracle at Caney Creek," also will be shown. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Last month, the group met at Allen in the grade school. The attendance was less than usual because of bad weather and postponement to an alternate date. The Alice Lloyd College choir entertained the membership.

This group meets every first Thursday at 7 p.m. in some school in the county. Those who would like to have them meet in their community in the near future should contact John Calvin Martin, president, at Allen, or Boone Hall, vice-president, at Wheelwright. Any person who wishes to write articles on Caney for publication is requested to call or write Shelby Draughn at Garrett. He would especially welcome articles on what Caney has meant to you and your life.

SPECIAL DELIVERY

There is something about a "special delivery" letter that says, "This is important." It has had unusual handling all the way. Someone has paid an additional fee to see that you get the letter ahead of the regular delivery.

An invitation to attend church regularly should be considered in the same way. It comes from people who care about you personally.

Christians have found that attendance at the worship services of the church gives them a sense of security and peace that can be found in no other way.

Won't you accept this special invitation to attend church each week?

See You In Church Sunday!

Club To Sponsor Civil Defense Classes

Wayland, Ky.—Robert Griffith, Garrett merchant who is in charge of the recently organized Civil Defense unit in that community, explained last Monday to the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club how Wayland might become a part of the Civil Defense program.

Mr. Griffith gave briefly a background summary of the organization and stressed that its main purpose is to protect citizens against floods and other types of disasters, as well as to teach preparedness in case of nuclear attack.

It was announced by Griffith that within a month it is hoped the communities of Wayland, Estill, Lackey, Garrett, Hueysville and Langley will have an amphibious duck and some communications equipment. He also reported that a member of the United States Weather Bureau will be here soon to set up weather stations at the five points.

Mrs. J. C. Wells, who is in charge of the program on "Community Improvement," introduced Mr. Griffith, who in turn introduced Curt Moore and Adrian Bentley, Garrett teachers, who spoke briefly on the Civil Defense classes to be held in the various communities in this area.

It was decided by the club to sponsor a weekly three-hour class to be held each Monday evening from 6:30 to 9:30 at the clubhouse for the next four weeks. These classes will be open to the public from 16 years of age up. The classes will be conducted by a certified teacher in Civil Defense and by means of films narrated by well known movie personalities.

Prior to the program, Mrs. Richard Vinson conducted a devotional period on "Spiritual Improvement." Mrs. Vinson emphasized that "When the peace of God is in our hearts, there is no way of keeping others from seeing it."

During a business meeting following the program, Mrs. Charles Scott, of Garrett, was appointed Heart Fund chairman for the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland area. Plans were made for further collections for the National Foundation, with a breakfast to be held soon. Suggestions were also offered for means of providing recreation for the youth of the communities to be decided on at a later meeting.

At the conclusion of the meeting a dessert course was served to the guests, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Griffith, Curt Moore, Adrian Bentley, and Mrs. Buford Rollins, and fifteen clubmembers. Hostesses were Mrs. Richard Vinson, Mrs. J. T. Spillman, and Mrs. L. B. Price.

Woodrow Allen, principal of Prestonsburg high school, has been requested by Fire Chief Henry Gray to keep open all exits at the fieldhouse here from the time when fans are first admitted until the building is evacuated at the end of play.

He said in a letter to Allen that inspection had showed that all doors were kept unlocked after the crowd had fully assembled but that, earlier on an evening of a game, most of the exits are locked.

"When the ticket office is opened for sale of tickets in the future," he wrote, "it must be with the understanding that all exits will be opened at the same time. While this might be a hardship on the officials in charge to have to have ticket takers on all doors, I feel that it is of vital importance that this plan be used. After all, if we can prevent just one tragedy by exerting a little extra effort, it will be well worth the time spent and a little inconvenience to a few people."

WE'RE SORRY
The Times erred last week in the announcement of the appearance at the First Methodist Church here of the Noblemen Quartet, incorrectly listing the time as 7:30 p.m. instead of 5 p.m. As a consequence, a number of persons arrived at the church long after the program had ended.

(Continued from Page 1) Such a time was a recent afternoon when I watched a golfer named Arnold Palmer hit his ball too lustily, with the result that it wound up in the waters of the nearby Pacific Ocean. There he was, with a million duffers watching him take an ignoble 9 on this par-3 hole. Scenes such as this do us snake-killers a lot of good. Mr. Palmer should be grateful, too, for the TV cameras. If there hadn't been one trained on him, he more than likely would have lost his temper, expressed his true feelings and thrown a club or two in after the ball.

If he does not and, failing to get a reduction, appeals to circuit court, the appraisal firm will have available its representatives as witnesses without further charge to the city. It is estimated that the equalization work will leave 50% of property taxed unaffected.

Cases dismissed, marked, "lack of prosecution," were: Walker Stone, child desertion; Turner and Barbara Lafferty and Vernon Clay, grand larceny; Tony Isaac, rape; Johnny and Beulah Leckron, destroying private property; Pervis and Raymond Martin, willfully causing an explosion on the property of another; Melvin Jacobs, selling mortgaged property; Oakie Lee Thompson, child desertion; Noah Martin, conversion. The charge of using abusive language also was dismissed against Taubee McGuire.

FARM RECORDS The University of Kentucky has printed a new Farm Record Book. This book is set up to give the farmers a place to keep records for social security, income tax, and most important for a business analysis. The books are available at the Extension office at a cost of 50 cents each. If there should be as many as 15 farmers wanting to have training in farm record keeping, a specialist from the University of Kentucky will come to the county to meet with the group to help set up their record system, and assist in analysing the farm business. This is a good opportunity to get started keeping records. Anyone interested should call the Extension office.

She has received a "Certificate of Merit and Achievement" of the Senior Championship team, 1963-'64 at Allentown, New Jersey. One of Beverly's classmates, Miss Joan Johnson, won the title of "Miss Jacksonville, V.F.W. 1964." Beverly plans to return to Prestonsburg high school and graduate with her classmates.

(Continued from Page 1) The Constitution bill provides for a plan whereby an assembly of 38 delegates and all former living governors could draft an up-to-date model Constitution before the 1964 General Assembly ends its regular session March 20. One delegate would be named from each of the state's 38 senatorial districts by a committee consisting of the governor, the lieutenant governor, the speaker of the House of Representatives and the chief justice of the Court of Appeals. House Bill 39 would change the name of the Constitution Review Commission to the Constitution Review Assembly and make it an arm of the Legislative Research Commission. The Constitution Assembly would be empowered to hold hearings, hear witnesses and draft any revisions needed of the 1890-1891 Constitution, including a completely new document if determined advisable. Breathitt is expected to convene the constitutional delegates in the old State Capitol as soon as the bill is finally approved and ask them to remain in session until they have completed their work. The "model" constitution produced by the delegate-assembly ultimately would be laid before the voters for approval or rejection, according to plan. H. B. 39 does not touch on how this would be achieved. Numerous other bills were introduced last week in both houses. Majority leader Mitchell B. Denham, Maysville, sponsored a House Bill whereby food used in the official residences of the governor and lieutenant governor would be purchased in the future by the Department of Finance. Breathitt pledged in his campaign for governor last fall to stop the long-standing practice of using prison food at the Executive Mansion. The Denham bill also calls for elimination of the use of prison labor at the executive mansions of the governor and lieutenant governor. Trustees will continue to be used, it was said, for work around the grounds. Companion bills introduced both in the Senate and the House would provide for the appointment of a legislative committee consisting of three senators and three representatives empowered to review state finances continually. Elderly and physically-handicapped people might be encouraged to vote under a House Bill which would set aside 100 paper ballots in each precinct with a voting machine for use if the machine couldn't be used or some voters could not use it. Another House Bill would require all public school students over 16 to take courses of instruction in driver training and automobile safety. The classes would continue for two hours a week for at least eight weeks.

Appoint Breckinridge To Fund-Raising Group For Kennedy Library

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 27 (Sp.).—John B. Breckinridge, whose term as Kentucky attorney general ended in January, will head a fund-raising committee to aid construction of the proposed John F. Kennedy Memorial Community Library in West Liberty. Announcement of Breckinridge's acceptance was made by Mrs. Garnett Bale, Elizabethtown, president of the Friends of Kentucky Libraries, which is sponsoring the project.

Breckinridge, who now practices law in Lexington, said a goal of $20,000 has been set to defray construction costs of the library. "There could be no better tribute to our late president, so well known as a lover of literature and defender of the arts, than this memorial," he said.

The Morgan county library is now housed in a quonset hut, half of which is occupied by classrooms of a nearby school. Kennedy was scheduled to visit West Liberty and Morgan county last December during a tour of Eastern Kentucky.

Miss Margaret Willis, state librarian, also recommended locating the library in Morgan county "because West Liberty and the entire county have worked hard and effectively to better library and Bookmobile service there." The county retains a professionally trained librarian and operates a Bookmobile, she said, and has participated in the Eastern Kentucky Library Region since 1957.

Morgan county has agreed to provide $10,000 toward the library project, Miss Willis said, and the County Board of Education has made available a building site, valued at $15,000. Contributions to the memorial fund may be mailed to the Friends of Kentucky Libraries, P. O. Box 537, Frankfort, Kentucky.

UK Office To Seek More Student Jobs

The University of Kentucky Board of Trustees has authorized an expanded employment program for UK students who need part-time jobs while they are in school. UK President John W. Oswald said the program is aimed at providing 500 campus job openings for students; a "greatly expanded" number of part-time jobs off campus; a faculty aide arrangement for about 50 superior students who would assist faculty members in their work, and numerous casual jobs for students who need minimum financial assistance or who have limited time for work.

Now that everybody's standing, let's all go to the Buick Sports Car Rally.

Really.

It would be a shame to waste this chance to drive one of Buick's lively sport models, wouldn't it? Especially considering your Buick dealer's so close, and the price is so nice. That's what the Sports Car Rally is all about. And they're all luxurious enough to make you wonder why anybody'd settle for a two-seater. A finely tuned production 340 hp Wildcat with a skilled driver scored the highest miles per gallon in the economy test of Class 1—high performance V-8's—at the Pure Oil Performance Trials at Daytona Beach, Florida. Cluster flies are a little larger and more sluggish than houseflies. The larvae or maggots of cluster flies develop as parasites in the bodies of earthworms. Adult flies emerge in late summer and often congregate on the sunny sides of houses as egl weather approaches. Later, they may enter attics through openings around the houses and overwinter there.

Flanery, Floyd Native, Organized First Army Air Force Jazz Band

The man who organized the Army Air Corps' first jazz band and taught himself to play whatever instrument was necessary during the first fledgling months of the group was a Floyd county native who saw little of his native heath following a lifetime career in the government service.

Henry Clarence Flanery, nephew of the late Congressman John W. Langley, went to Washington in 1911 to work in the Interior Department. His first interest, outside his work for the government, was not modern, popular music. He became a star pitcher for the department's baseball team and in one game he pitched an 11-inning, scoreless game in which he struck out 23 batters and allowed only one hit—that with two men out in the last inning.

His opposing pitcher was Daniel W. Bell, later acting director of the budget and Undersecretary of the Treasury.

That same year, in the Washington city championship game, Flanery hit a game-winning grand-slam home run after the previous batter, "Red" Downey, who was to later play for the Boston Red Sox, was intentionally walked to fill the bases.

Came World War I and the service beckoned to Flanery and while stationed with the 201st Aero Squadron at Orly Field, Paris, France, he found his immediate associates wanted to hear some good, old American jazz. He got a group together and formed the Army Air Force's first jazz band.

Flanery had to play different instruments at times but he usually strummed a guitar. He had learned to play one back here in Prestonsburg.

The war ended and Flanery continued his government service career. In 1934 he became head of the Treasury Department's Alcohol Permit Section, the agency that blossomed into the Federal Alcohol Control Administration. He took another step up the ladder in 1940, and retired in 1955 as chief of the Procedures Branch, General Services Administration.

Long before Flanery retired, he turned his versatile energies in diverse directions. He took up bowling and fishing, became a member of active organizations with facetious names like the Hot Stove League and Dry Land Fishing Club. All through the years he never neglected his fraternal and religious associations and work. He became a 32nd degree Mason, Scottish Rite, and devoutly attended the Metropolitan Methodist Church in Washington.

JONES ON OKINAWA Fort Buckner, Okinawa—Army 2nd Lt. William H. Jones, III, 22, whose father lives at Prestonsburg, Kentucky, was assigned to the 9th Logistical Command on Okinawa early in January.

Lieutenant Jones, a signal officer in the command's 379th Signal Battalion, entered the Army last September.

A member of Phi Sigma Alpha and Phi Delta Theta fraternities, the lieutenant, was graduated from Dupont Manual high school, Louisville, in 1958, and received his bachelor of arts degree from the University of Kentucky in 1963. His mother, Mrs. Rita P. Jones, lives at Louisville, Kentucky.

Flanery died December 14. He was buried in Arlington National cemetery.

Surviving, besides his wife, the former Ray Williams, is one brother, William H. Flanery, who went to Washington with him half a century ago.

THE CHURCH BUILT UPON A ROCK

BY J. D. PAYNE, Martin, Ky.

Moses says that Rock was Jesus Christ, the Son of God. Daniel told Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, of his dream in which he saw a stone, cut without hands, which came down the mountain and destroyed his idols and ground them into powder. This stone filled the whole earth and reached to the heavens, and this stone was Christ.

Peter says in Acts 4:11 to the Jews that the stone which you set at naught has become the head of the corner, speaking of Christ.

In Deuteronomy 32:4 Moses says that Christ was that Rock. In Matthew 16:18 Jesus said to Peter, Upon this rock I will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. That rock was Christ. He built His church upon Himself, the Son of God.

Daniel (Daniel 2:44) told the king that God would set up a kingdom that would consume all other kingdoms and would stand forever. In Matthew 16:19 is the record of Jesus giving to Peter the keys to this kingdom. Two keys—no more and no less than two keys.

And on the day of Pentecost Peter used one of these keys and unlocked this kingdom, and the believing Jews went in at Cornelius' home. In Acts 10 Peter used the second key and turned the believing Gentiles into the same spiritual kingdom. And when we are born again we are in that great kingdom and in the church that Jesus built upon a Rock, which was upon Himself.

W. Lee Roberts, Distinguished East Kentuckian

W. Lee Roberts, one of Floyd county's most popular men, was born at Honaker, Kentucky, a son of Henderson and Ann Haywood Roberts. He was a cousin of Judge Green Haywood, Floyd native and Chief Justice of the World Court at The Hague, The Netherlands.

Roberts served a term as Floyd County Attorney and became a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney but died in 1916 of a heart attack the evening preceding the election. The voters, the next day, not knowing of his death, gave him a large majority.

It was Roberts who accompanied A. O. Stanley, candidate for Governor, on the now famous mule ride through Beaver Creek to Hindman. The trip is credited with turning the tide for Stanley over Judge Edwin P. Morrow by a mere 473 votes.

The First National Bank salutes the memory of W. Lee Roberts.

We have today many people in the Church who have been born again, and we have some in the Church and some men in the pulpit who do not know the first letter about the Holy Spirit. They are thieves.

In John 10:1 Jesus said they that climb up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber, but they who go in by Him shall be saved.

I write this sermon with all respect to all churches and all people and declare unto you that we have one way only to prepare ourselves for a better world—and that is by and with the Holy Spirit given to us by our one and only Saviour, Jesus Christ, our Lord.

Rev. 56:17 tells of the end of time when men will cry for the rocks to fall upon them and hide them from the God's face and from the face of the Lamb, when the great day of His wrath has come.

And who shall be able to stand? Turn to Rev. 20 and read from the 11th through the 15th verse and you will know them who will be able to stand in that great day.

Forestry Award Won By Indiana Farmer; Improvements Noted

A farmer who was recognized for improving his woodlands four years ago has captured the top prize in the 1963 Tom Wallace Farm Forestry Awards.

Alois Tretter will receive $500 as grand award winner for carrying out the most complete and effective forestry program on his 267-acre stand of trees near Ferdinand, Indiana. Tretter won the first improvement prize in the contest in 1959 for making the greatest improvement on his woodland during the contest year.

Farm foresters from Kentucky and Southern Indiana split the four top awards in the eighth annual contest sponsored by The Courier-Journal, The Louisville Times and WHAS, Inc.

Second prize of $200 will go to Edward D. Holbrook, Sr., of White Oak, in Morgan county, Kentucky.

Dr. Clarence Atkins, Rushville, Indiana, will be awarded the first improvement prize of $200 for making the greatest improvement on his woodland during the contest year.

Second improvement award of $100 will go to Dr. Clyde J. Nichols, Clarkson, Kentucky.

The four winners and their families will be guests of honor at the annual Farm Awards Luncheon in Louisville on February 29 where they will receive their awards and meet winners of three other farm incentive contests sponsored by the newspapers and radio-television station.

Holbrook, winner of the second prize, has owned and operated his 391 acres of woodland for 26 years. He started his management plan in 1955. Seven years ago he retired after a teaching career of 31 years. He is a former secretary-treasurer of the Eastern Kentucky Farm Loan Association, the Land Bank Commission and the Production Credit Administration. He attended Morehead State College, Kentucky Wesleyan College and the University of Kentucky. He is married and has 13 children.

Among the county certificate winners was Steve Clark, of Wheelwright.

ACHIEVEMENTS

Some marketing research achievements during 1963 were: improved cartons to carry lemons across country in better condition, use of polystyrene foam to cushion watermelons against breakage, methods to double the market life of blueberries, a wire-basket container to cut costs on short-haul shipments of ice-packed chickens, and new wholesale market facilities for some cities.

FIRST BREATHITT SETTLEMENT FOUNDED BY NOBLES, NEACES

BY HENRY P. SCALF

The little pioneer band of five men and three women, riding and leading pack-laden horses, moved a few miles each day along an almost impassable mountain trail. There were days when they had to cut a path through heavy thickets or make long detours to find a place to ford streams.

Wherever possible, they followed old Indian or animal trails. At other times they marked out by their passage a new way through the rugged terrain. It was early fall and they had need to hurry if they were to reach the Kentucky River and find homes before winter descended on the mountains.

The entire group was composed of the Noble and Neace families. For a year they had been probing the mountains from the eastern side, seeking a way into the land of Breathitt, then unnamed. They knew from reports of hunters, explorers and Revolutionary War spies that great bottoms were to be found on the Kentucky River where wild game abounded. In that day, when the soil and forest yielded a self-sufficiency, they could ask no more of a country.

We do not know the date, but it was sometime between the end of the Revolution and the creation of Kentucky as a state. Tradition affirms it was in 1780, but there probably is an error in the date. The year before, it is said, they had attempted to enter the Kentucky River section but had been forced to spend the winter and summer on the eastern slopes of the Appalachians.

These first settlers of Breathitt county, Kentucky, were Nathan Noble and his wife, Virginia Neace Noble; William Noble and wife; Enoch Noble, a brother to Nathan; Austin Neace and his wife, Malinda Allen Neace; and Henry Neace. They were bound with ties of blood, marriages and a common determination.

Continuing to penetrate the mountains, these pioneers from Southwest Virginia moved in a northwesterly direction to the watershed of the Licking River and Quicksand Creek. They were travelling blind, knowing only the general direction of their destination. There were other and easier ways into the region but they did not know it. Other pioneers would find them in the years ahead.

In late October they reached the mouth of Buckhorn Creek and established a camp. William Noble decided that there was where he wanted to live. They took shelter in an overhanging rockhouse. Women busied themselves with setting up a temporary home, and the men hunted.

A week or two later, Nathan Noble announced that he and the others were leaving the William Noble rockhouse, planning to go farther downstream. Packing their household goods and other necessities on horses, they traveled down Troublesome Creek to the mouth of Beaver Dam, went up it to the head, crossed over the mountain to Caney Creek and made camp.

Early the next morning they broke camp, resumed their journey to find a suitable place to build a home. Going up Caney, and onto other tributaries of Troublesome, they came after laborious travelling to the mouth of Cockrell's Fork of Lost Creek. It was now mid-November and signs of winter were on every hand. Nathan's wife was carrying her first unborn child, and they decided they would go no farther.

The rockhouse was a friend to every mountain pioneer. In them he camped on the trail and in them he lived until the first cabin could be built. Nathan and his associates located in one large enough to house them all comfortably.

Nathan was not a hunter but the other men in the group were. While they hunted he felled trees and began the construction of a cabin. Enoch Noble and Austin Neace would often defer their hunting excursions and help on the cabin. Before many days had passed the logs were all raised, the boards riven for the roof and put in place with long poles across them, and a rude chimney was built.

Spring came and the three men began a cooperative effort to clear land, burn brush and logs and plant crops. By the first of June, 1782, according to the traditional date, they had a few acres cleared and planted in corn, beans and garden truck. A fence built of split rails enclosed the field to keep out poaching deer and bear. The hounds, they had brought from Southwest Virginia, kept raccoons and other animals away.

Late in the summer, the wife of Austin Neace gave birth to her first child. The child William Neace's wife had carried unborn into the wilderness was born shortly after she and her husband settled on Buckhorn but it died soon thereafter.

Nathan and Virginia Neace Noble were not satisfied, however, with the site of their home at the mouth of Cockrell's Fork and they started the construction of another three miles away where Lost Creek entered Troublesome Creek. Here the bottoms were larger and the land was more fertile. By the time the first Breathitt county crop was harvested, Nathan Noble had finished his second cabin. Winter found the entire group safely housed, with the first harvest and plenty of meat insuring food for the long, cold months.

Enoch Noble was always a hunter, happy only when he was deep in the forest, although he assisted the others at clearing land, building fences or cabins. He kept the settlement in game, and the furs he brought home were welcomed by the women who made gloves and hats from them. The family grew and the cabin became crowded. Nathan built his brother Enoch a cabin about half a mile downstream. Here the hunter came and went as he pleased, a dedicated devotee of the forest in a primeval land that abounded with game.

Separated from the Clinch River settlements in Virginia by an almost trackless forest and rampaging mountain streams, they found a self-sufficiency in their own brawny arms and will to live and survive. The men made most of the tools they needed from wood of the forest, and the women utilized every resource to create comfort in the home. There were many things they could get only on the Clinch, and members of the settlement travelled back and forth, bringing to the Noble Settlement such necessary items as salt kettles, adzes, churns, pails, cloth, needles, and dozens of other articles. For these things they bartered ginseng and furs.

For years the Noble-Neace settlements prospered, and on their journeys back to the Clinch River they carried the story of the fine bottoms on the Kentucky River, of their boundless fertility, of the game in the forest and fish in the streams. Jake Neace, brother of Austin Neace, and Samuel Allen, brother of Austin's wife, migrated to the new settlement soon after it was founded.

A few years after the Noble and Neace cabins were built in Breathitt county the Samuel Haddix family of Clinch River moved to the mouth of Troublesome Creek. Here we are on 'secure historical ground in regard to dates. The year was 1792, the year Kentucky became a state. Migrating to Troublesome Creek with Samuel Haddix were Alex McQuinn, a trapper, and Herman Hurst, a German shoemaker. Both found quick use for their skills in the primitive settlements.

Three years after Samuel Haddix settled at the mouth of Troublesome Creek, in the year 1795, Harrison Combs and his ten-year-old son, Matthew, of Russell county, Virginia, went on a hunting and exploring trip into the wilds of the Kentucky River. Hunting, wandering, exploring and "spying out the land," they discovered what is known as Big Bottom, a half-mile above the present Hazard.

That Harrison Combs intended to move to the North Fork of Kentucky is evidenced by the seeds and tools he brought. He and the young son built a rude lean-to and went to work clearing the land around it. When two acres were free of trees and brush they planted it in corn, beans and peach tree seed. Catching a young bear, they kept it in the cabin. It became a great pet.

Came a day when the corn and beans were weeded and they made preparations to return to Russell county for the other members of the family. What to do with the young bear was a problem. They couldn't take it with them, neither could they pen it up, for it would starve. A suggestion from Matthew that it be turned loose was vetoed at once. The animal would hang around the cabin and eat the growing beans and corn. They killed and ate him as the final solution.

When Harrison Combs and his son arrived back in Russell county quick preparations were made to move to their new home. All of their household goods they brought to Kentucky were packed on two horses. The family walked, driving two cows, the first ones to be brought to the area.

The peach seed planted by Harrison and Matthew grew to large trees in a few years and yielded bountiful harvests. Finding that the household utilization of peaches would not consume even an approximation of the crops, Harrison decided to make peach brandy.

He had no still or facilities for making one, so he sent his sons, Matthew and Henry, east to Washington county, Virginia, to procure one. They hauled it westward until they were at the eastern slope of Black Mountain. Since it could not be transported any farther by this means, they cut a long pole, tied the still to it with hickory switches and carried it over Black Mountain and down to Big Bottom. It did serve.

New Biblical Drama Slated February 1 At Southern College

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 21 (Spl.)—The premiere of playwright Orin Corey's new Biblical drama, "Romans by St. Paul," will be held at 8 p.m., February 1, at Kentucky Southern College in Louisville instead of at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary as first announced.

Corey's stage version of "The Book of Job," which has won national and international recognition, was first staged at Georgetown College in 1958 when the playwright was a faculty member there. This summer the drama will begin its sixth annual season at Pine Mountain State Park near Pineville.

Because of the close association of "The Book of Job" with Kentucky, Corey, now chairman of the Department of Speech and Drama at Centenary College, Shreveport, Louisiana, wanted to unveil "Romans by St. Paul" in the Bluegrass state.

The February 1 performance in Louisville will be sponsored by Kentucky Southern College and the Lyceum program of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. Following the Louisville premiere, the new Biblical drama will be presented February 3 at Georgetown College as part of that institution's concert series.

"Romans," following the tradition Corey set in "The Book of Job," is a highly stylized Biblical choral drama using spectacular make-up effects. Several in the cast of 10 players appeared in "Job."

SEVEN GAME WEEK-END

The upcoming week-end will see a fairly light basketball schedule in the county as only seven games are scheduled. Saturday's Wheelwright-Wayland game in Wheelwright looms as the leading encounter.

John Campbell's Garrett Black Devils, now the 15th region's top-rated team and seventh in the state-wide rankings, invade Martin, Friday night, in quest of its 16th victory.

Wheelwright, by virtue of its loss to St. Xavier in the quarter-finals of the Louisville Invitational tournament last week, dropped to 15th place in the ratings.

Don Wallen's club gave an excellent account of the toughness of the region's basketball prowess as they bounced Louisville Manual 67-60 in the tournament's first round, then pushed a taller, experienced St. Xavier five before bowing, 72-66.

One thing to be said for the officiating in the L.I.T.—it's fair for both clubs, as anything goes, both under the baskets and outside; however, the losing Trojans lacked the manpower to cope with the Louisville team.

The Lexington Dumber-Louisville Central game was the roughest game we have witnessed in twenty years of viewing the game. On two different occasions seven players were on the floor at one time without a foul being called.

Bill Cook, Trojan forward, who scored 45 points in two games, was named to the all-tournament team and attracted the comments of several college coaches on his fine outside shooting.

The 1963-64 Kentucky High School basketball yearbook hit the newsstands in Louisville last Saturday. It appears to be a fine publication and is relatively inexpensive at 75 cents per copy. They may be obtained through the mails by forwarding 75 cents to Kentucky High School Basketball Yearbook, P. O. Box 235, Pleasure Ridge Park, Kentucky.

TALLENT AIDS ECONOMY
Maytown high school's talented Bob Tallent, who excels equally well playing on the basketball or baseball team, is aiding the economy in depressed Eastern Kentucky.

No less than twenty college coaches have come into the area to watch the agile red-head play or practice and this past Thursday afternoon both Duke and South Carolina had coaches on hand to view a practice session.

If he continues his present scoring pace over the remainder of the season, several more are expected to attend the action in the Floyd county gym.

Maytown's principal, Ed Stewart and an uncle of Bob, said this week, "If the mail gets any heavier, I'm going to hire another secretary to keep up with the correspondence concerning Bob's scoring feats."

In 12 games and playing with a team that has won only four times he has tossed in 534 points for a nifty 41.5 per game average. He also leads the team in rebounding and assists and is an A student.

Three districts in the 15th region have already hired officials for the upcoming district tournaments, but have not made it public since this is not protocol with the Kentucky High School Athletic Association, although this has been done for the past twenty years.

The Paintsville-Wheelwright game attracted more paid admissions than any other single game in the Tiger's cage history. Virtually every Eastern Kentucky school loses money on its football teams but makes up the deficit on its basketball units.

Porter's Foul Shots Holds Paintsville Lead Over Wheelwright Team

Paintsville, Ky.—Bob Porter's two foul shots with 28 seconds remaining preserved a slim Paintsville lead and resulted in the elimination of Wheelwright as an unbeaten team, 61-58, Tuesday night of last week.

Paintsville's victory, its 15th and 16 outings, halted Wheelwright's winning streak at 16, but the outcome was not assured until the final buzzer.

The Tigers had battled back in the fourth quarter to wrestle a 59-58 lead from the Trojans and were still in trouble until Porter was fouled to stop Paintsville's ball control strategy.

COMEBACK NEEDED
Wheelwright took a 19-12 margin in the first quarter and both teams scored 18 in the second. The Tigers pulled within four, 49-45, after outscoring Wheelwright 15-12 in the third period but it required a 16-9 margin in the final eight minutes for Paintsville to pull out the triumph.

James Tackett led the Tigers with 18 points and Porter had 17. Mike Schmitt added 14. Dan Hall had 15 and Bill Cook and Jim Rollins 13 each. The starting lineups played the entire game.

Wheelwright (58)—Rollins 13, Blair 8, Hall 15, Cook 13, Logan 9.

Paintsville (61)—Schmitt 14, Porter 17, Allen 9, Tackett 18, Sublett 3.

W'wright Tips Manual In L.I.T. Tournament

Louisville, Ky.—Wheelwright established its aim early in the game with Manual. The Trojans sank eight of 16 first-period shots to take a 16-9 lead over the Crimsons. And the 15th Region power never looked back in racking up its 17th win in 18 starts.

Manual, not content to let the game go so easily, lightened things in the late stages.

Wheelwright held a 23-18 edge midway in the second period. The Warriors then hit eight straight points on alternate baskets by Danny Hall and Jim Rollins to go ahead 31-18. Wheelwright had a 33-20 intermission lead.

The Trojans' biggest lead was 15 points, 35-20 after Bill Cook connected on a tip in at 7:50 of the third period.

Wheelwright (67)—Cook 21, Hall 21, Blair 2, Rollins 15, Logan 6, Osborne 2.

Manual (60)—Baugh 2, Bunnell 21, Taylor 9, W. Turner 9, C. Turner 13.

Wheelwright 16 17 17 17—67
Manual 9 11 22 18—60

After three quarters, Manual was behind 50-42 but Lou Tsiropoulos' Crimson spurred to within four points at 62-58 in the last period. However, poised Wheelwright maintained its lead and handed Manual loss No. 7 against 5 wins.

Three players shared scoring honors with 21 points each—Manual's Jim Bunnell and Wheelwright's Cook and Hall.

St. Xavier (72)—Albers 17, Carby 13, Glass 1, Kaufman 18, Lankswert 2, Hagan 21.

Wheelwright (66)—Cook 24, Blair 2, Rollins 19, D. Hall 5, Logan 4, Doug Hall, Osborne 12.

KENTUCKY FISH VARIETY GREATEST, ANNOUNCED

Frankfort, Ky., (Spl.)—A fisherman has more chances to catch a greater variety of fish in Kentucky than in any other state. That is the opinion of the Fishery boys of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources and that view is shared also by a host of Kentucky men and women whose favorite pastime is catching fish.

Reasons back of this assertion are many, not the least of which is the fact that Kentucky has eight major lakes constructed by the U. S. Corps of Engineers and TVA as well as private industry. These are the old standbys—Dale Hollow, Cumberland, Kentucky, Herrington, Dewey, Rough River, Buckhorn and Nolichucky. A building and ready for fishing almost immediately, although the final completion dates have not yet been reached, are gigantic Barkley alongside Kentucky Lake where a good amount of water will be impounded by early spring; Barren No. 2 and Fishtrap. These lakes offer specialties in fishing, but nonetheless they contain about every species of fish native to Kentucky.

Then, to augment this vast acreage of water, there are the state-owned lakes scattered throughout Kentucky, stocked and managed by the Department, and many of which are havens for vast throngs of local fishermen. The abundant water is further augmented by a new program under which Accelerated Public Works funds are matched by state agencies and under the direction of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, new lakes are being constructed. To date, under this new program, two new lakes have been completed and six more are underway.

Then there's the Chain of Lakes Program under which highway fills are utilized to impound waters, and this program already has created many acres of new fishing waters. Not to be overlooked, to be sure, are the approximately 13,000 miles of running water within the confines of the Commonwealth where variety fishing is furnished and the 50,000 farm ponds which are meccas for local and farm family fishing right in the back doors of many Kentuckians.

Add to these facts the story of the abundant supply of many varieties of fish; the accessibility of the favorite fishing spots and the fine job of management carried out by the Division of Fisheries and it can readily be understood why Kentucky offers the finest variety fishing of any state in the southeastern United States.

In the past few years many miles of water suitable for trout have been discovered and these small streams have been stocked with the rainbows. Year-round fishing is offered in these waters.

And now for the fishes:

Kentucky is known as the bass capital of the world. There's the largemouth and smallmouth; the yellow bass and the white bass and the Kentucky bass. They're available in just about every lake and stream in Kentucky.

Add to these the crappie crop; the bluegill and shellcracker; the freshwater drum and the catfish; the buffalo and the redbone and the experimentally stocked rockfish, a salt-water white bass that gives promise of adapting itself to Kentucky waters, and you have a well rounded family of fish the like of which no other state may boast.

And there's fishing of every type in Kentucky. You may cast the artificial lures; you may jig fish with nightcrawlers; the garden worm is an excellent bait; minnows take great strings of almost all species of fish. There are favorite times of the year for the use of these various baits, but a fisherman need not be idle a single day in Kentucky if he is after fish.

Even in muddy water he'll catch black bass in the late winter and early spring. All species go wild in the spring, summer and fall and then when the water freezes over, a great segment of Kentucky fishermen are taking fish, by fishing through a hole in the ice.

Fishing is a 365 day a year pastime in Kentucky.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 27 (Spl.)—Any service which may involve health personnel in disasters of any type is to be covered in a series of training programs planned by the State Department of Health.

Dr. Russell E. Teague, state health commissioner, said the training programs are scheduled for these five cities, spread throughout the state, so that health personnel from all 120 counties may conveniently attend one of the programs:

Paintsville, February 3-4; Hazard, February 6-7; Bowling Green, February 24-25; Louisville, February 27-28; and Paris, March 2-3.

Forest D. Stokes, director of health mobilization in the State Health Department, will be in charge of the meetings.

Stokes said the sessions are to be attended by sanitarians, county health officers, administrative assistants and by water-plant operators.

"We also will have on the programs Civil Defense directors from the counties where the courses are held," Stokes added.

The first-day agenda—on Civil Defense and health mobilization—will include chemical, biological, and radiological warfare orientation; psychological factors; environmental health problems in shelters; waste, ventilation and bugs; food and the basics of monitoring for radiation leaks.

The second-day agenda—on emergency procurement, treatment and distribution of water—will include all three phases of this problem; food supply and sanitation; emergency waste disposal; and emergency bug control.

Question-and-answer periods will further explore the problems involved, and participants will receive a manual of all topics discussed.

The appointment of Mrs. Charles Scott, of Wayland, as chairman for the Garrett, Lackey and Wayland communities in the forthcoming 1964 Heart Fund Drive has been announced by the state campaign chairman, Jesse Stuart, of Greenup. The drive begins on February 1.

Mr. Stuart, himself a recovered heart attack victim, pointed out he has come to know, first-hand, of the "almost miraculous progress" science has made against heart and blood vessel diseases, and of how the Kentucky Heart Association "by its effective use of Heart Fund dollars in the State's communities, hospitals and medical research laboratories has vitally furthered this progress." He announced that the annual door-to-door Heart Sunday solicitation would be conducted this year on February 23.

Heart Fund Chairman For Tri-Town Section

The appointment of Mrs. Charles Scott, of Wayland, as chairman for the Garrett, Lackey and Wayland communities in the forthcoming 1964 Heart Fund Drive has been announced by the state campaign chairman, Jesse Stuart, of Greenup. The drive begins on February 1.

The campaign in the areas in charge of Mrs. Scott has the sponsorship of the Garrett-Lackey-Wayland Woman's Club, the announcement noted.

Mrs. Harris S. Howard, 47 Arnold Ave., Prestonsburg, is the Floyd county and Prestonsburg area chairman for the drive.

Mr. Stuart, himself a recovered heart attack victim, pointed out he has come to know, first-hand, of the "almost miraculous progress" science has made against heart and blood vessel diseases, and of how the Kentucky Heart Association "by its effective use of Heart Fund dollars in the State's communities, hospitals and medical research laboratories has vitally furthered this progress." He announced that the annual door-to-door Heart Sunday solicitation would be conducted this year on February 23.

Schofield Barracks, Hawaii—Army Pfc. Franklin D. Amburgy, whose wife, Phyllis, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Amburgy, live at Wheelwright, Ky., and other members of the 25th Infantry Division are participating in Exercise HIGH TOP I, an Army-Navy-Air Force field training maneuver on the island of Hawaii.

The exercise, scheduled to end Feb. 8, began when the soldiers were transported by air and sea from the island of Oahu to the island of Hawaii where they will engage in live fire simulated combat maneuvers.

Amburgy is assigned as a cannoner in Battery A, 7th Battalion of the division's 11th Artillery, regularly stationed at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii.

The 20-year-old soldier entered the Army in August 1962, completed basic training at Fort Knox, Ky., and arrived overseas the following December.

He attended Wheelwright high school.

PILOT PROGRAM
 Lexington, Ky. — Kentucky is one of 37 states to enter a pilot program aimed at converting croplands to other income-producing purposes. The U. S. Department of Agriculture said last week that, in the nation, more than 129,000 acres of such land are under the pilot program and that more than 2,300 farmers are involved.

Cleanest Town Awards Captured by London, Lost Creek, Announced

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 27 (SpL)—Two Kentucky towns, London and Lost Creek, captured awards as two of the top entries in the 1963 National Cleanest Town Achievement Award Contest, State Conservation Commissioner J. O. Matlock has announced.

The Achievement Awards, gained during preliminary judging, will be presented at a reception in Washington, D. C., on February 4. Representatives of the two towns and of the Conservation Department's "Cleaner, Greener Land" program will be on hand to receive them.

Judged in their respective population categories, both towns have worked closely with the state program to improve the looks of their areas, Matlock said.

Lost Creek, in Breathitt county, won the award in the under-5,000-population category for its "outstanding youth program" sponsored by the Marie Roberts School P. T. A. and the Clean-Up Committee.

R. W. Hackendahl, director of the National Clean-Up, Paint-Up, Fix-Up Bureau, which sponsors the annual contest, said "the judges were highly impressed with the area's collection of historical items and the value of the display to the community."

The national award in the 5,000-10,000-population class, was presented to London for that city's beautification and blight prevention program.

Hackendahl said the judges listed highlights of the London program as "the restoration project of a 100-year-old home in the city; the clean-up of the courthouse by members of the Future Homemakers of America and the extensive beautification and planting program undertaken by Garden Club members."

Lexington, Ky.—What's the best tobacco variety for your farm? The one that does the best job for you, says G. W. Stokes, U. K. Ag Experiment Station plant pathologist. That's not an oversimplification, he says, but solid advice.

NO PATTERN IN JOB LOSS

Governor Says Friends Among Losers of Jobs; Some Layoffs Seasonal

Acknowledging that a number of his friends have lost their state jobs, Gov. Edward T. Breathitt says there is no overall pattern to the current wave of dismissals.

"This is purely a fiscal matter," he said. "Of course, I hope for consideration for my friends, but I won't pressure my commissioners to hire them unless they're needed."

Breathitt said there are no percentage figures and no fixed goal. Some departments need to cut down on workers and others should expand, he said.

"I had no choice," Breathitt said. "I made a promise to the people and I have to keep it."

He said that in the spirit of the merit system, there have been no political firings. Many dismissals have been from jobs not covered by the merit system.

Breathitt even shies away from the term "firings." He said "These are merely reductions in personnel."

A spot check indicates that the paring of state employees has been going on sporadically or on a mass basis since about the time Breathitt took office early last month. Some of it is coincidental.

For example, Highway Commissioner Henry Ward reports about 1,000 of his employees have been let go in the last two months. But the bulk of the layoffs is seasonal and presumably would have occurred under any regime with the onset of winter.

"What I'm doing is a continuing process," Ward said. "My goal is to fill the essential jobs and dispose of the non-essential."

He said there is no political tinge whatever.

"The truth of the matter is that the dismissals have created some political repercussions by eliminating supporters of Breathitt," he said.

(In some cases, it has been noted in Eastern Kentucky, some Combs-Breathitt supporters have been replaced by Chandler backers.)

There have been rumblings from fervent backers of both Breathitt and former Gov. Bert Combs. Their feeling is that if a payroll slash is necessary, it can be accomplished by attrition alone.

The Parks Department situation also has been described as seasonal. About 400 employees are being laid off because most parks have been closed for the winter.

(At Jenny Wiley State Park the staff has been reduced to a "skeleton crew." Most parks have been closed.)

In other agencies the dismissals are comparatively fragmentary—a few in commerce, a few in public information, a few in public safety and dozens in revenue.

The impact, if any, won't show up until spring, when the Personnel Department finishes its winter payroll compilations.

The tally for November was 20,048. This was 500 fewer than in October but almost 1,200 above November, 1962.

A further decrease is expected when December's figures become available. But the final outcome of the current economy move cannot be known for months.

The dismissal of a state employee is in itself only part of the story or statistic. Does he or she get another job? At more money or less money? Not until the cycle is completed do the scattered reports add up to anything with meaning.

The plight of the "political" employee—whose post is not protected by the merit system—draws the most comment and rumor.

"Many have been left to fend for themselves and others get rehired right away," one administration official said. "It's hard to pin it down."

Apparently the only department which really could use plenty of additional help is economic security.

With increasing attention on the depressed Appalachian region and a continuing flow of federal funds, it is actively seeking social workers for Eastern Kentucky.

However, the "political" employee who has been earning $700 a month hesitates, even if qualified, to hire on at half that salary as a social worker.

When you choose electric heat, you lower the average cost of every other use you make of electricity!

Why so many of the new homes in this area are heated by economical electricity

... and why so many older homes around here are being converted to electric heat, too!

Electric heating qualifies you for a very low "wholesale" rate, not just for your heating costs, but it also lowers the average cost per unit of all the electricity you use.

Electric heating gives you individual-room control of temperatures; and of course, electric heat is flameless, free from fuel film, clean, wonderfully convenient.

The more electricity you put to use, the less it costs you per unit!

Free booklet gives details

We have prepared a special booklet for those who would like to know more about Total Electric living. It shows what steps you should take to get low "wholesale" rates. There's a checklist to help you discover how close you may already be to Total Electric living. You'll read what other homeowners say about their Total Electric homes.

This booklet is called Sooner Than You Think. For your free copy, phone us... stop in at any of our offices... or send the coupon.

How our advanced engineering helps lower your electric rates

Mammoth new turbine-generator units like this one produce electric power at a lower cost per kilowatt hour. Modern equipment and advanced engineering techniques are major reasons why your cost of electricity keeps dropping!

Our rates were never so low. This chart shows how the average cost per kilowatt hour of electricity has been lowered 18% in the past 10 years, while cost of living has risen 14%... and we're dedicated to continue this trend.

KENTUCKY POWER COMPANY is a part of the American Electric Power System. This system produces more electricity than any other investor-owned utility in the United States. It serves over 2300 communities in 7 states—Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee. Through coordinated management and operations, progressive engineering and research, the six member companies of AEP bring you low-cost power with greatest dependability.
