

PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

SPEAKING OF AND FOR FLOYD COUNTY

THURSDAY, MAY 28, 1964

This Town . . . That World

Linotype trouble Tuesday Press trouble Wednesday. I have seen too many Thursdays to worry overmuch about the next day.

A POOR RECORD

Fewer than 5,000 voters of the upwards of 20,000 registered as voters in this county went to the polls Tuesday. Must we be fired up with a knock-down-and-drag-out political campaign filled with name-calling and oiled with the long green before we will go out and do our simple duty as free Americans? If other sections of Kentucky hadn't done as badly, we would be in a mood to criticize.

TRUE EDUCATION

Here's a question for these commencement days: What does the word, "education," mean? You'd never guess (unless you have read it as I did) John Ruskin's definition. Here 'tis: "Education does not mean teaching people to know what they do not know; it means teaching them to behave as they do not behave."

A BURNED-UP TROUBADOR

Well, I thought I had already walked the extra mile or so for him, but when my youngest son outlasted me and talked me into returning for him to a Huntington, West Virginia music store a guitar with a cracked neck, I learned that all that had gone before was a lark.

To start with, I park in a lot on Fourth Avenue and then learn that my destination is down a block to Third and then about three blocks farther east. I eye the case and wonder if the folks I meet will think Machine Gun Kelly has hit town or if it will be some smart-aleck from the old hometown to give me the eye and wonder aloud where the haybarn is. I have as much affinity for a guitar, anyway, as for a sidewinder, and I'm feeling plumb conspicuous as I tick my head down and sink down the avenue with this thing dangling from my hand. I keep thinking of that character who, years ago, up our way walked our country road with such long strides he almost squatted backward as he stepped forward, and

HYDEN HELD WINNER OF G.O.P. CONVENTION

The chairmanship of the Republican party in this county was won Saturday by J. L. (Jack)

LIGHT VOTE NAMES PARTIES' NOMINEES

PERKINS, HILL ARE CHOICES IN PRIMARY

Vanhoose Wins G.O.P. Congress Nomination; Election Lacks Interest

Congressman Carl D. Perkins won the Democratic nomination for the Seventh district Congressional post with the greatest ease Tuesday, and at the same time Former Circuit Judge Edward P. Hill, of Prestonsburg, was emerging a decisive winner in a six-candidate race for the Democratic nomination for Appellate Judge from the Seventh district.

Congressman Perkins will be opposed in November by Walter Clay Vanhoose, of Johnson county, who won a three-man race for the Republican Congressional nomination.

Judge Hill will be opposed by the incumbent, Appellate Judge Robert B. Bird.

These results followed what may have been the dulllest campaign and the quietest primary election in Floyd political history. The voters stayed away from the polls in droves, and this appeared to be the story over the state.

Only 4,523 Democratic votes were cast in this county, and the Republican total was a slim 356. This, roughly, was a third of a normal vote.

In all the Congressional races over the state Congressman Perkins was the leading vote-getter. With the vote not fully reported as of Wednesday morning, he had a total of 26,253 vote to 3,882 for his lone opponent, Ann B. Hall, of Byrro.

Judge Hill polled 12,511 votes over the district to 5,804 for Fred B. Redwine, Pikeville attorney, his nearest opponent, with 634 of 632 precincts reported. Cassie Patrick Allen, of Prestonsburg, the only woman seeking the Court of Appeals post, had a 2,023-vote total in those precincts.

Congressman Perkins swept every Floyd county voting precinct while Judge Hill led in all but two—in Jack Allen which Cassie Allen carried over him, 62-34, and in Melvin where Redwine led Hill, 67 to 60.

CEMETERY CLEARANCE WORK 'OUTSTANDING'

Memorial Day this year will have triple significance for the people of Floyd county.

1. In getting ready for the May 30 observance, a month's work has been given to 193 unemployed fathers of dependent children.

2. This work consisted of clearing, cleaning and general straightening up of as many as possible of the county's public community cemeteries.

3. Former residents of the

6 CHURCHES JOIN HANDS

To Stage Parade Here Promoting Bible Study Slated To Begin June 1

Six Prestonsburg churches will stage a cooperative parade at 10 a.m. Saturday to herald the opening Monday, June 1, of their vacation Bible schools which will continue through June 12.

Cooperating churches are the First Methodist, Community Methodist, Church of God, Irene Cole Memorial Baptist, Church of Christ and First Presbyterian. Lancer Baptist Chapel will hold its school later.

Children will not be permitted to march afoot or to ride bicycles or in open trucks. The parade is expected to be headed by a city fire truck, with decorated cars representing the various churches following.

The line of march: Starting at the grade school to Court street, east on Court to Highland to South Lake Drive, following South Lake Drive to the Kentucky Motel, thence to Riverside, from there to Davis, then to Patrick street, on to Arnold avenue, then north on Arnold to the high school; east from the school to Central and south on Central and Highland to the place of beginning.

Litigation Is Result Of Highway Accident In Which Two Killed

The churches suggest that boys and girls attend the school sponsored by their church and invites those who do not attend any church or Sunday School to enroll at any vacation Bible school of their choice.

Wanda L. Gregory, mother of the late Harry James Gregory, and administratrix of his estate, seeks in a circuit court suit filed here Monday to recover from Elmer Peters, Kenneth Peters and Jo Pack $70,000 damages allegedly growing out of the wreck in which young Gregory was killed.

Mrs. Gregory claims that the Buick auto which was involved in a collision with that of Miss Pack last December was the property of Elmer Peters and that he had entrusted the car to his son, Kenneth, a minor. Gregory, a passenger in the Peters car, it is claimed, negligence and reckless operation of their autos is alleged against both the Peters boy and Miss Pack.

The wreck took place on a curve in the vicinity of the Prestonsburg-Paintsville airport on new U. S. 23. The 16-year-old Gregory was killed, as also was Miss Barbara Wells, 30, of Williamsport, a passenger in Miss Pack's auto. Miss Pack was seriously injured.

In addition to the $70,000 damages to the estate of Gregory, recovery of $895 funeral expenses is sought.

PIKE TRIAL POSTPONED

Improper Summoning Of Jurors From Floyd Cited by Stephenson

Because jurors from this county were improperly summoned to sit in the trial of the case, the second trial of Woodrow Runyon, Sr. was postponed in the Pike circuit court last week. The case was reset for Sept. 21.

Runyon, former supervisor of school buses for the Pike County Board of Education, is accused of mis-spending $18,000 of school funds.

Circuit Judge James B. Stephenson dismissed the panel summoned from Floyd county on motion of defense counsel Jean Auxier.

He upheld Auxier's contention that the rules of criminal procedure were violated when the Pike sheriff failed to summon each prospective juror personally. That task was delegated to Floyd Sheriff Henry C. Hale.

BERRY PLANT OPERATING

2,700 Crates Arrive Monday, Owner Says; Quality Up This Year

The Prestonsburg strawberry processing plant, which began operation here three years ago, had received 2,700 crates by Tuesday evening, it was said by Carl Abbott, plant owner. The biggest day was Monday when 848 crates were received.

"The quality is real good this year," Abbott said. "The market is steady. I'm paying 15 cents per pound which is much better than last year and I still need more berries. There is practically an unlimited market."

Immunization Clinic Slated at Weeksbury

A pre-school immunization clinic will be held at the Weeksbury postoffice from 12 noon to 2 p.m., Thursday, June 4.

State law requires all children entering the first grade to have their immunization up-to-date, it is noted.

"If your child will be entering school this fall then you should start its immunizations now so that they will be completed by the time school starts," a spokesman for the clinic said.

Mrs. Cynthia M. Porter, Age 95, Dies Last Week After Four-Day Illness

Mrs. Cynthia May Porter, revere Prestonsburg woman, died Wednesday of last week at 9:30 p.m. at her home on Third street at the age of 95. She had been seriously ill only four days, although she had been confined to her home in recent months.

Mrs. Porter was the widow of J. M. Porter, who died in 1940, and was the last of the family of William J. and Cynthia Power May. She spent her entire life in Prestonsburg and vicinity.

She had been a member of the First Methodist Church since 1900 and at the time of her death was the oldest member of that congregation.

Surviving are one son, J. G. Porter, of Prestonsburg, a daughter, Mrs. Charles Elliott, Huntington, West Virginia, four grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. One daughter, Douglas Porter Preston, preceded her in death in 1922.

COURT ACTS TO RAISE FUNDS TO FINISH JOB

Although the first and second floors of the new courthouse will be completed within the next 10 days, the structure may not be occupied by county offices before mid-summer, it was indicated this week.

Occupancy likely will await delivery and installation of a chilling mechanism for air-conditioning and new office furniture. Delivery on the former is not expected before mid-July.

Bids on the furniture will be opened at a court meeting June 5.

Cost of the chilling mechanism is approximately $23,000, and this item was, because of financial limitations, omitted from the building contract. Some of the proceeds of the sale authorized Wednesday by the fiscal court of the vocational school property on North Lake Drive here will be used to finance complete air-conditioning facilities.

The vocational building itself, no longer in use since the Garth Vocational School is accommodating the county school system, will be moved to the Prestonsburg grade school for conversion to a physical education building. The court will sell the lot on which the building now stands at public auction June 29 at 11 a.m.

Other financial difficulties have been financed by the court on construction of the courthouse.

SENIORS DAY CROWD TOLD ADVANTAGES

Dr. Oswald, Others Confer with Students; 13 Give Scholarships

Every opportunity will be given the 1964 crop of high school graduates to take advantage of the facilities of the Prestonsburg Community College when it opens in September, and so student applications will be taken beyond the previously announced deadline.

So, in effect, said Dr. John W. Oswald, president of the University of Kentucky, in an address here Saturday at the new college structure before a Seniors Day gathering of high school seniors, their parents, educators and friends of the college.

Seniors Day was sponsored by the new Prestonsburg Chamber of Commerce to acquaint graduating high school seniors with the new college and with University of Kentucky leaders who will have a part in its development and direction.

Others who spoke briefly included Dr. Edward Godbey, acting director of the college; Dr. R. D. Johnson, dean of extended services at the University of Kentucky, and C. R. Hager, assistant dean.

Prospective students were afforded the opportunity to meet representatives of the various departments of the University and to discuss with them the curriculum and other advantages offered by the new college here.

College entrance tests will be given here, June 20 and elsewhere at later dates, but it was explained that travel expenses would be less if students take their tests here. The deadline for filing application for the test here is June 7.

It was explained that this test is mainly for the purpose of placing students in fields of study in which they show an aptitude. It is the same test required for entrance in all state colleges.

New Club Officers Installed Saturday

Wayland, Ky. — "There are three keys to open the door to success," Mrs. R. V. May, first vice-president of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, pointed out, speaking last Saturday at the annual installation breakfast of the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club at Wayland.

Continuing, Mrs. May listed the keys: 1. Awareness of the needs of the community; 2. Faith in God, in ourselves, and in others; 3. Courage. "It is not enough to know what needs to be done, and not enough to believe that it can be done, but we also have to have the courage to do it," she explained.

Prior to Mrs. May's talk, Mrs. Richard Vinson conducted a devotional period, stressing that "Christ is the answer to the world's needs."

Following the breakfast, Mrs. May installed officers for the coming club year: president, Mrs. J. C. Wells; vice-president, Mrs. Earl Castle; secretary, Mrs. Otto Martin; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. T. Spillman; treasurer, Mrs. Glenn Pack.

The new president then presented the outgoing president, Mrs. S. M. Martin, with a past president's pin.

Mrs. Wells displayed two oil paintings by Mack Webb Martin, one of which represented the club in the student division at the state convention of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs.

It was announced by the new president that the Citizenship Awards, given each year by the club to a senior at both Wayland and Garrett high schools, would go this year to Linda Gibson, Wayland, and be divided between Earlene Patton and Ronnie Moore at Garrett.

Similar cemetery renovation on a smaller scale has taken place in other counties of the nine selected as a pilot area in the project to provide work under the Federal plan of Aid to Unemployed Fathers With Dependent Children program.

Now that the plan has proved a success, Yager noted, plans are to extend to July 1 to 30 additional counties in the depressed areas of Eastern Kentucky. The pilot-area counties, besides Floyd, were Perry, Pike, Knott, Leslie, Letcher, Breathitt, Bell, and Harlan.

Floyd county recipients of the grants were assigned as nearly as possible to work in cemeteries serving their particular communities. This influenced the men to take personal pride in what they accomplished.

Yager said that he was struck by the fact that many women turned out to watch their husbands and fathers at work. He asked one of them why they were so interested in what was being done. The reply from one, apparently expressing the thought of all, was:

"The people up here in Eastern Kentucky never forget their kinfolk."

SUBMARINE SERVICE

The nuclear submarine service, like the other highly specialized technical programs of the armed forces, requires a well-rounded high school education. Certain subjects such as mathematics, physics, and chemistry are highly desirable but so are English, social studies, health, safety and physical education.

E. O. Petrie, safety coordinator of the Huntington Alloy Products Division, International Nickel Company, Huntington, West Virginia, will be the featured speaker at the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company Foremen's Club meeting scheduled here Friday. He will speak at the Prestonsburg high school cafeteria at 6:30 p.m., it is announced.

Mr. Petrie, who attended Morris Harvey College and Marshall University, began his career with International Nickel in 1942 as first-aid attendant. He was advanced to safety regulations director in 1944 and served as night plant superintendent. In 1953 he was promoted to employment services assistant. He was made safety coordinator, his present position, in 1957.

He is a member of the American Society of Safety Engineers and holds other civic and professional positions.

but these are of a temporary nature. The trouble lies, it was explained, in the failure of the Community Facilities Administration to provide 50% of the construction grant money, as agreed. Community Facilities, however, has promised that the grant money will be paid shortly, possibly within the next 10 days or two weeks, and the agency suggested Wednesday that the fiscal court borrow on temporary loan $102,000 to carry on construction work, pending arrival of the federal funds. This the court voted to do at its Wednesday meeting.

Equipment ordered for the jail on the third floor of the new courthouse has been delayed till July 1 because of slow delivery of steel by the mill. Six weeks will be required to install this equipment, but this work would not interfere with occupancy of the two lower floors by officials and for court purposes.

As interior work is being completed by Akers & Akers, contractors, and by their sub-contractors, they were preparing for the sodding of the courthouse lawn, paving along either side of the new structure and work to provide a parking area at the rear.

Benches now in use in the county and circuit courtrooms will be refinished and installed in the new courtrooms. The fiscal court voted Wednesday to advertise for bids on this work. The court also voted to employ W. J. May to help prepare the 1964-65 budget and to name the street in front of the church built by the Rev. Bob Martin "Church Street."

who went his merry way, sawing on a fiddle. I see myself merged with his ungainly self. But I make it to the store without incident, although I am certain two teen-agers looked back after they had passed. My ears aren't so old I can't hear a combination of snort and snigger, and they (the ears) were all lit up by the time I reached the haven of four walls and a closed door.

There I make the exchange of instruments, screw up my courage and once again breast the tide of human traffic. I am just getting the guitar and its case swinging right when I spy, parked in a car a few feet ahead, a total stranger who has a glint in his eye that doesn't exactly appeal to me. And, would you know? — as I draw abreast, this character sings out, "Say, how's about playin' us a tune, mister?"

Whereat ye wandering minstrel stops, stoops, look into the car and asks as gently as I can, "Do I look like I could?"

But I don't wait for an answer. I scurry away, humming, off-key as is my wont, that sad, sad lay, "I Am A Man of Constant Sorrow" — and arrive home, fit to be tied.

The college structure, described as an outstanding example of modern construction, will be completed in July. It was said this week. Surfacing of access routes and parking areas was being completed this week. Most of the rooms are lighted by plastic "skydomes," and the outside walls are of Kalwall, a plastic which lets in light but keeps out heat. The building is completely air-conditioned.

Thirteen $250 scholarships have been subscribed for deserving students at the college here, it was announced Wednesday morning by W. J. Reynolds, of Allen, chairman of the Scholarship fund drive. Individuals and firms making these scholarship investments are:

MRS. EDITH JAMES TO GET ANNUAL BURL IVES AWARD

Covington, Ky., May 27 (Spl.)—Mrs. Edith F. James, of Prestonsburg, will receive one of the National Folk Festival's annual Burl Ives awards at the festival's 27th annual enactment in Covington next month.

Mrs. James is scheduled to appear on the festival program Friday, June 5, and on Sunday afternoon, June 7. At the Sunday performance she will accept her award, as will Kentuckian Jean Ritchie and four other folklorists who are being recognized for outstanding contributions to the folk arts.

In returning to Covington, Mrs. James will recall her days as a student across the river at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. While studying there, she first heard the tones of the Gregorian Chant, and related them to the old-mode music of congregations in Floyd county.

Since then, her research has convinced other music scholars that Gregorian Chant was indeed preserved in near original form in her native county. Much of her research material, including recordings of the old chants, are now housed in the Library of Congress.

For a number of years, when the National Folk Festival was staged annually in Washington, D. C., Mrs. James and the Plain Song Chanters, men of Floyd county, appeared on the program. Most often they sang the old memorial songs recalling the anniversary of a death.

An accomplished musician, singer and teacher, Mrs. James has sung with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra and with the Cincinnati Conservatory Opera company. She has also kept alive the Primitive Baptist footwashing songs with their cumulative verses, along with a number of secular ballads of Anglo-Saxon origin.

At Covington, she and her niece, Mrs. Elizabeth L. Stephens, will sing both spirituals and ballads, done in the genuine traditional style.

Mrs. James, wife of Tom James, spent her girlhood at the old Garfield Place in Prestonsburg, now the home of Mrs. Stephens. Here the old Christmas customs, the 12-day celebration of frolics and games, have been kept alive among the family and old friends each year. The home is also the location of "The Proud Heritage," a pageant depicting Prestonsburg's involvement in the Civil War when Col. James A. Garfield, later President of the United States, set up quarters in the residence.

Mrs. James has been music consultant for the pageant, written by Henry P. Scaif, and her sister, Mrs. Winnie F. Johns, has provided costumes.

Mrs. Johns' contributions to the folk festival in Covington will be an exhibit of mountain crafts, especially hand-woven articles. They will join other displays from around the country.

Heritage U. S. A. is the same theme of this year's National Folk Festival, which was also staged in Covington last year. Others on the program will include:

FOLK SONG FESTIVAL SCHEDULED AT PARK

Two large folk festivals will be held in Kentucky in June. Quite different in character, they still have in common the honoring of American folk heritages.

The 27th annual National Folk Festival will be held at Covington, Kentucky, June 5, 6 and 7 under the aegis of Miss Gertrude Knott, a co-founder of the festival. In 1963 more than 25,000 people attended the three-day event. This year it's being held at the Latonia racetrack. Some 1,000 performers and artists will take part in the program.

Jean Thomas, Kentucky's Traipsin' Woman, will hold her annual American Folk Song Festival in the amphitheatre at Jenny Wiley State Park, near here, June 14. For 33 consecutive years the festival has been held at her Wee House in the Woods at Ashland. Actually it's an enlarged version of the old "singin' gatharin'" that Miss Thomas encountered when she was a court stenographer 50 years ago. Scores of native Eastern Kentuckians will perform on dulcimers, gourd-banjos and other folk instruments.

Opportunity Is At Home

Over the years this newspaper has on many occasions congratulated high school seniors of the county upon their completion of work preparatory to entering college. This year, we hail not only their achievement but also the special opportunity that is offered them.

This opportunity, hitherto unavailable to many, is that of attending college here at home for two of those four important years. The Prestonsburg Community College has been built to meet the needs of deserving young women and men whose minds are as keen and receptive and capable of high development as any, anywhere, but whose merit has been shadowed, even blighted, by the lack of funds necessary to finance their education at distant institutions of higher learning.

The college here offers to most who live in a radius of thirty or forty miles of Prestonsburg an opportunity to commute to and from school by automobile. For these the costly items of board and lodging will not exist. For those who will find it necessary to establish residence here, Prestonsburg will offer pleasant surroundings in the valley's fastest-developing community, and these students will find here an intangible something known as friendliness on the part of the people that has made the place home to hundreds who have come here over the years to visit or work.

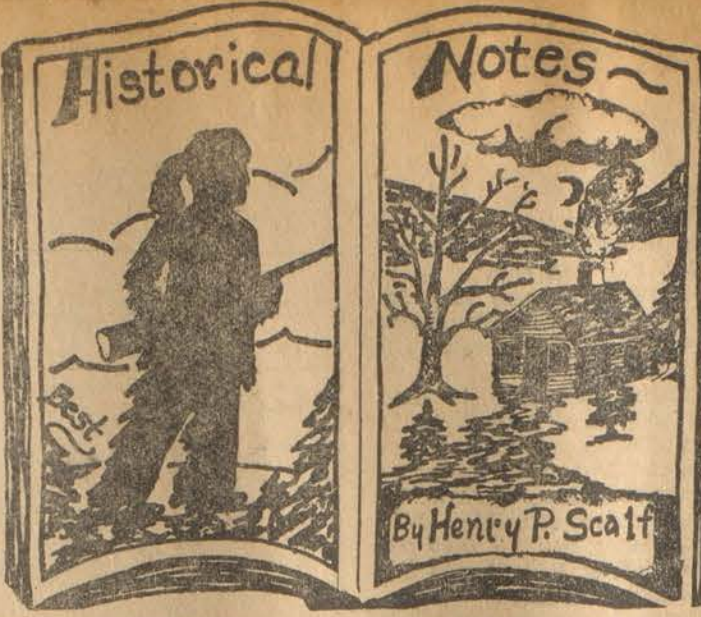

In the Prestonsburg Community College the earnest student will find a curriculum designed by, and instructors selected and employed by, the University of Kentucky. The net result for the student who desires to learn will be two years of college education which will be equal to the same period of study at the University of Kentucky itself and which will enable the student to go on for the final two years of college work at any four-year institution of his or her choice.

Dr. John W. Oswald, president of UK, is deeply interested in the community college here and wherever such a college has been established. He has seen the great worth of such a system of higher education in the state of California, and so it is that he looks ahead with enthusiasm to the development of Kentucky's system of colleges that are designed to reach the people.

Two years hence, the Prestonsburg Community College will be having its own commencement exercises as it sends those who will enroll here in September on to other colleges to receive their degrees. We have an idea that, as they look backward, a few years farther on, they will be proud to have been the first in a college which, resplendently new and modern, they saw on its way to generations of service in the field of education.

Because of this facility of which most of us have dreamed and for which many worked and gave, we congratulate, even a bit more heartily than usual, those of this and surrounding counties who are being graduated from high school this year.

Knock at the door of any institution of learning, and you are at Opportunity's threshold. And now opportunity is here, at our very doors.

SIZEMORE FAMILY

A letter from James A. Sizemore, 219 Cisco Street, Ridgecrest, California, asks for information on the Sizemore family of Eastern Kentucky. Mr. Sizemore also comments in an interesting fashion on the Sizemores of the western states.

"I have met four sets of Sizemores since moving to Ridgecrest, California, and none have any recent ties with the other yet we are all akin I am sure. We met Theodore and Stella Sizemore, in Trona, California, and their children could double for my brother's sons. Theodore and Stella were originally from Clay county, Kentucky. We met a Mrs. Mary Sizemore Hunt, of Frona, (no relative of Theodore), and her sister, Jose, of Corona, California (named for Jose Sizemore, of Clay county). I managed to get a picture of Jose Sizemore. Robert Sizemore, Commander, U.S.N.R., is a scientist here at our Test Center at China Lake. . . . his father died when Bob was very young. He was originally from Kentucky. . . . The Sizemores of Frona recently moved back to Gabena, Kansas, which is Sizemore country."

"I have a walking stick once used by Golden Hawk Sizemore. He couldn't have been much over five feet, nine inches. . . . Golden Hawk lived near or in Perry or Knott county, Kentucky."

"The Bureau of Indian Affairs gave me some information regarding the Sizemores who tried to register as Cherokees but 2,000 applications were rejected as inadequate. These applications were in behalf of 5,000 individuals. This is from records concerning the 1909 enrollment of the Eastern Cherokee Nation. The document is known as the Guion Miller Report. I have four pages from the General Index of the Court of Claims containing the name and claim number and state of origin. The Sizemores ranged all over the United States . . . Kentucky, Alabama, Kansas, Georgia, West Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Oklahoma in particular. Some Sizemores live on the Cherokee Reservation in Oklahoma."

"The Sizemores name their children mostly Biblical names. . . . James, Joel, Andrew, John, Isaac and Hiram. One was named oddly, N. Euckey Ross. The girls are Mary, Martha and Naomi. The name is not English according to correspondence from London and Her Majesty's Service, the General Register. Sizemore is not recorded at the Bureau of Archives nor is it among 100,000 names that are recorded by the genealogists, York Insigma Company. The closest variation is Seymour, traced to Ann Seymour, wife of Henry VIII."

"I had an interesting letter from T. C. Sizemore, once sheriff of Clay county, Kentucky. He publishes the Leslie County News, Hyden, Kentucky. I wish some of my Kentucky cousins would write to me because we are driving through Kentucky this summer (June or July). I would like to see as many Sizemores as I can."

WESTERN SETTLERS
Neville Shackelford, Beautyville correspondent of the Lexington Leader, wrote March 12, of the hardships of Eastern Kentuckians who settled in Nebraska and Oklahoma.

We quote his article as it appeared in The Leader:
Part of an old letter written some time in the 1860's and coming into our hand the other day, brought to mind tales of Western homesteading recounted by old timers of our more youthful days who "took up" lands in what are now the states of Nebraska and Oklahoma.

In this old, yellowed two-page excerpt from a letter, an erstwhile Powell countian named Bill Spencer, told of being captured by a band of Indians while en route West. Seems he had strayed away from a wagon train and had been nabbed by the Indians who took away his rifle, but failed to confiscate a pistol hidden in his pocket.

The Indians, leaving one of their number to guard the prisoner, went on to investigate the wagon train. After they had gone, the prisoner sneaked out the pistol and in terse explanation, wrote he "left him where he fell."

Shortly after the Civil War dozens of Eastern Kentuckians, following the advice of Horace Greeley, went West in search of free lands and fortune. Many found what they sought, attaining not only lands and fortune, but fame as governors, senators, school superintendents, and in various professions, including the profession of outlawry. Many others, however, found nothing but hard luck as our grandfather did, and came back with nothing but an interminable list of tales.

Under the Homestead Act, which went into effect with the Emancipation Proclamation on January 1, 1863, about 2 million American families carved new farms out of nearly 300 million acres of free land.

The first homesteaders settled on the windswept, tornado-harried plains of Kansas and Nebraska. Without logs or stones, they cut slabs of sod and laid them like bricks to form houses. These pioneers weathered freezing blizzards by burning hay, buffalo chips and even corn. Then came spring, floods and hail, summer and scorching grasshoppers and prairie fires. As the late Preston Kash, of Lee county once said, grasshoppers ate everything but the bills and when it rained, it rained not water, but prairie dogs, snakes, fire and destruction.

By the 1890's when the greatest part of the good land had already been claimed, this, and not the hardships involved, accounted for so many of them returning. We recall hearing the late J. W. Snowden of St. Helens tell that when he went West about this time the mere staking of a claim was no longer safe. To be safe, he said, a man had to build a house, sit in the doorway with a loaded shotgun and threaten any person who happened to pass by.

The last large land area thrown open to homesteaders was in 1893. This was the famous 200-mile-long Cherokee Strip on the northern border of Oklahoma. Several Eastern Kentuckians were present for this occasion which included men on foot, on horseback, in wagons and on bicycles.

Whether he was there, or whether he was merely repeating what he had heard, we do not know, but according to Brad Owens of Wolfe county, who has long since homesteaded in another world, this opening of the Cherokee Strip was something to be remembered. It began at noon on September 16, 1893.

All morning long, according to his story, a company of U. S. cavalrymen had been holding back the restless and impatient crowd. Then on the stroke of 12 o'clock, the cavalrymen raised their rifles, fired and scurried out of the way. The line of over 1 million rough and ready, land-hungry men broke in a roaring thunder of snorting horseflesh and crashing vehicles, that whizzed across the prairie like the personification of calamity. Long before sundown, virtually all the Cherokee Strip had been claimed.

Ah, those were the days, and it is recalled that in recounting tales of this Western adventure the old timers would shake their heads and lament the good times gone forever, although at the time they were fighting droughts and rattlesnakes, they didn't think they were so good.

100 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Civil War in Kentucky

By JOE JORDAN
(Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week, two Kentucky political parties conducted their respective state conventions simultaneously in Louisville. The larger group, whose members called themselves "Union Democrats" selected delegates to the Democratic Party's national convention at Chicago and instructed them to vote for Maj. Gen. George B. McClellan for the Democratic presidential nomination. The smaller group, "Unconditional Union" men, favored the re-election of President Lincoln, and selected delegates to the Baltimore convention of the Union (Republican) Party.

As suggested by use of the word "Union" in the names of both parties, both were for preservation of the Union. Since Kentucky was under a military government imposed by the Union Army, no party would have been permitted to have a convention that was not in favor of preserving the Union. The Union Democrats were against secession, but they were also against the abolition of slavery; they charged that the President, after saying in his inaugural address in 1861 that he had no intention to interfere with slavery in the states in which it then existed, had gone over to the Abolitionists. They were also against what they regarded as oppressive acts of the military governor of the Commonwealth, and they opposed the enlistment of Negroes in the Union Army. The Unconditional Union men, on the other hand, endorsed the record of the Lincoln Administration.

go along with the change. On the day after the two conventions, it said:

"The Republican convention of yesterday was even a greater failure than we expected it would be. A gentleman who looked in at the height of the proceedings informs us that about 150 persons were present, among whom he counted not less than fifty of the worst rebels he knows. The convention was as despicable in size as it was reckless and wicked in purpose."

"Concerning the Union Democratic meeting, the Journal said: "The convention was one of the largest and most respectable that ever met in the Commonwealth. Its proceedings from beginning to end were marked by perfect harmony and by patriotic enthusiasm. It was an inspiring success, Kentucky as we know, is still herself!" Lt. Gov. Richard T. Jacob, Col. Frank Wolford, James Guthrie, Richard H. Benson, Gen. John B. Huston and A. H. Ward had made speeches that were, the Journal said, "worthy of the occasion, which is exalted praise."

All the Appellate Court candidates, except Redwine, appeared on both the Democratic and Republican ballots. Judge Hill led the voting on the Republican ticket over Judge Bird by 191 votes to 58. Bird failed of getting a vote as a candidate on the Democratic ballot.

On the Republican ballot, district-wide, Bird had 4,605 votes to 2,742 for Hill. All incumbents won Congressional nominations. In the strongly Republican Fifth district (old Eleventh) Congressman Eugene Siler did not seek reelection, and Dr. Tim Lee Carter won the G.O.P. nomination in a field of 15 candidates.

The usual stir of excitement and anticipation was missing here as election returns came in from the county's 38 precincts. By 7 p.m. the machine totals had been officially tabulated, and the handful of persons who had stayed around for the windup was ready to go home.

The Floyd totals:

For Congress:
Democrats — Ann B. Hall 858, Carl D. Perkins 3665; Republicans — Tom Layne 104, Walter Clay Vanhoose 135, David Aronberg 67.

For Judge of the Court of Appeals:

Railway Relocation Job To Employ 2,000, Says Firm's Vice-President

Relocation of 19 miles of Chesapeake & Ohio Railway track will provide jobs for 2,000 men for 1½ years in the Pike county area, it is said.

C. & O. vice-president M. I. Dunn told the Senate appropriations subcommittee last week that the carrier was ready to go ahead with the work as soon as the Army Corps of Engineers made a lump-sum payment of $11 million.

The engineers contracted in December to make the payment for C. & O. relocation of its lines, clearing the way for the Fishtrap flood-control dam project on the Big Sandy River. The matter had been in negotiation five years.

"We are prepared to let five contracts for simultaneous construction of a major portion of the line within 30 days after payment is received," Dunn told the senators.

The Interstate Commerce Commission March 31 approved the relocation of the C. & O. line and "We are acquiring right-of-way for the new line now," Dunn said.

The relocation will require "a substantial capital expenditure by C. & O.," in addition to the payment received from the Corps of Engineers, Dunn said.

Dunn has agreed to relocate the 19 miles of line, from Millard to Dunlap, outside the projected area. He said the new line "will permit the opening of coal mines in a heretofore virgin area and provide a permanent boost to the economy of this depressed region."

Senators John Sherman Cooper and Thurston B. Morton, Kentucky Republicans, asked the committee to provide all possible additional funds to keep the project construction on schedule and enable the engineers to meet their obligation to the railroad.

COMBS, WHISMAN LAUDED AT E-KY. DEVELOPMENT DAY

Frankfort, Ky., May 25 — A spirit of progress resulting from cooperative efforts and programs on the federal, state and community levels was proclaimed by a day-long schedule of events that drew a crowd of thousands of persons to Irvine and Ravenna for Eastern Kentucky Development Day.

Undersecretary of Commerce Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., keynoted the May 20 program at the Estill County Fairgrounds by predicting that federal aid programs for Eastern Kentucky and the Appalachian region will win approval from Congress and be put into effect this year.

Governor Edward T. Breathitt and former Governor Bert T. Combs, who headed a large group of state and area officials and leaders taking part in the program, expressed the conviction that Eastern Kentucky is entering an era of great economic improvement.

Breathitt introduced Roosevelt as "One of Eastern Kentucky's best friends in Washington who has by his dedication and skill helped formulate programs to aid this area."

Roosevelt, who is chairman of the President's Appalachian Regional Commission, told delegations from a 44-county area that "We are bringing back to Kentucky what you have proposed in your own program. Under Governor Breathitt this program will continue to be aided and supplemented by the Appalachian recovery program."

Former Governor Combs and John D. Whisman, administrator of the Kentucky Area Program Office and executive secretary of the Appalachian Regional Commission, won praise from Roosevelt for their work in behalf of their native Eastern Kentucky area.

Both Combs and Whisman received plaques honoring their efforts in behalf of Eastern Kentucky residents. Whisman also was presented with a certificate of appreciation by Roosevelt in behalf of the Eastern Kentucky Regional Development Commission.

State officials present for the ceremonies included Highway Commissioner Henry Ward, Commissioner of Commerce Katherine Peden, Commissioner of Parks Robert Bell and Commissioner of Public Safety Glenn Lovern.

Howard Colyer, president of the Kentucky River Foothills Area Development Council, served as master of ceremonies for the program which included music by the Lee County High School Band, folk singing, square dancing and a fish fry.

Displays and exhibits at the fairgrounds and the National Guard Center at Ravenna featured Eastern Kentucky improvements projects and products made under the state arts and crafts program. The historic Louisville & Nashville Railroad locomotive, the "General," ran between Irvine and Ravenna for sight-seeing trips.

Officials said that due to its success, Eastern Kentucky Development Day may become an annual event. Hazard Mayor Willie Dawahare said his city would like to serve as the site for the event next year.

Notables To Accompany Governor at Exhibition; Actors Plan Attendance

Governor and Mrs. Edward T. Breathitt will be surrounded by Bluegrass notables during Kentucky ceremonies at the New York World's Fair June 1.

Joining him will be Rosemary Clooney, Irene Dunne, Victor Mature, Florence Henderson, Tom Ewell, Jonah Jones, Billy Vaughan and John Jacob Niles.

Also in the official party will be former Governor Bert T. Combs and Mrs. Combs, former Governor Lawrence Wetherby and Mrs. Wetherby, former Governor Earle Clements and Mrs. Clements, Senator Thruston Morton, Congressman Frank Stubblefield, and many other Kentucky leaders in business industry and other fields.

Also in the group will be author and critic John Mason Brown, University of Kentucky basketball coach Adolph Rupp, Boston Celtics star Frank Ramsey, and former baseball star Harold "Pee Wee" Reese.

Rounding out the official party will be members of the Kentucky Jug Band and part of the cast of "The Stephen Foster Story," an outdoor drama staged each summer at My Old Kentucky Home State Park at Bardstow.

JENNY WILEY STATE PARK VISITED ON 1,000-MILE TOUR

Frankfort, May 25 (Spl).—State Park, Jamestown, for a day of relaxation, fishing and boating.

The travel counselors were also taken to Lincoln Homestead State Park, Springfield, and My Old Kentucky Home State Park at Bardstown before traveling the new Western Kentucky Parkway for a stay at Rough River State Park, near Falls of Rough. Mammoth Cave was next on the schedule, and the week-long tour ended at Louisville.

Their enthusiasm over Kentucky's scenic beauty will likely bring many times their own number back to the Bluegrass State. They are tour planners for auto clubs in 11 states, and they are depended upon to advise club members what to see and where to see it.

They were guests of the second annual Travel Counselors Tour of Kentucky, a showcase of tourist facilities aimed at giving the auto clubbers a first hand look at what Kentucky has to offer recreation-minded travelers.

Co-sponsors of the May 10-16 tour were the state departments of Parks and Public Information and the Louisville and Bluegrass automobile clubs. The tour planners represented auto clubs in Michigan, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, the District of Columbia, Wisconsin, Tennessee, Pennsylvania, Texas, Kentucky, and New York.

Frankfort, May 25 (Spl).—Housekeeping cottages and guest rooms in lodges are still available during the coming summer months at 11 of the 13 vacation-type state parks.

State Parks Commissioner Robert D. Bell has reported that only at Kentucky Dam Village State Park, near Gilbertsville, and Lake Cumberland State Park, near Jamestown, are cottages booked to capacity, June through August. Even at these parks, a few rooms are available at the lodges.

Jenny Wiley State Park, near Prestonsburg, also is almost completely booked for the summer," Bell said. "Only a very few openings remain for any month in cottages or lodge rooms."

Louis Hempel of the Parks Department's division of Operations, said that "reservations in all the vacation-type parks are well ahead of this time last year."

Hempel listed these accommodations available beginning in June and by parks:

Kentucky Lake (near Hardin)—lodge rooms and some cottages in June, both rooms and cottages in July and August. September and October entirely open now.

Kentucky Dam Village (near Gilbertsville)—Village Inn lodge rooms only on Sundays in June and some rooms in old lodge. All cottages reserved, June through August. September and October open except for some conventions.

Pennyrite Forest (near Dawson Springs)—some cottages and plenty of new lodge rooms available June through August. Both cottages and lodge rooms in September.

Rough River (Falls of Rough)—some cottages and lodge rooms, June through August. Both cottages and lodge rooms available in September and October.

General Butler (near Carrollton)—several cottages and a few rooms still open for June and July, many rooms and cottages in August. All accommodations available in September and October.

Jenny Wiley (near Prestonsburg)—almost completely booked for three summer months in all accommodations. All accommodations open in September and October, except during convention dates.

Lake Cumberland (near Jamestown)—all cottages booked through August, a few rooms in old lodge, even fewer in new lodge available. All accommodations open in September and October.

Cumberland Falls (near Corbin)—cottages and lodge rooms still open for three summer months. All accommodations available in September and October, except convention dates.

Pine Mountain (near Pineville)—cottages and lodge rooms available through summer months. Accommodations of all kinds open in September and October.

Carter Caves (near Olive Hill)—cottages and plenty of lodge rooms still open through August. All accommodations available in September.

Natural Bridge (near Slade)—cottages, rooms in old and new lodges open June through August. New lodge scheduled to open May 30.

Audubon (near Henderson)—cottages available in June and July but booked completely in August.

Buckhorn Lake (near Hazard)—new lodge scheduled to open in mid-July.

Kentucky's 34 state parks and shrines last year attracted a record 11,077,477 visitors. With many new facilities opening this year, Commissioner Bell confidently expects that 1963 record to be topped.

Newest unit in the state parks system is at Boonesborough, in Clark and Madison counties, where beach facilities are to be opened this summer.

A Pictorial Review of East Kentucky

(No. 284 in a Series)

Confederate Raids and Invasions and a Federal Retreat, in Kentucky.

Gen. John Hunt Morgan Marker

An historical marker, commemorating Gen. John Hunt Morgan's raids in Kentucky, was dedicated here, May 9, by the Greenville Davidson Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy. It was erected at the approach to the new four-lane Mountain Parkway bridge.

Morgan, following his defeat at Cynthiana in 1864, retreated to Virginia along the old state road and passed through Prestonsburg, June 18, 1864. He arrived at Abingdon, Va., two days later, where he began to reorganize his shattered troops. He was killed a few weeks later at Greenville, Tennessee.

The First National Bank presents these pictures of the Eastern Kentucky area in recognition of our historical heritage.

Mustang leads the stampede the big Ford started. This has been the hottest sales year in Ford Division history. We have a winner in the Super Torque Ford, a car so well built, so predictably tough, that competition-modified Fords took eleven of the last twelve NASCAR 500-mile races. Ford sales are up 17% this year. We have a luxury car that's taken off like a skyrocket: Thunderbird, with sales up 68%. Falcon is selling almost as many cars as Valiant and Chevy II combined. Fairlane continues to be a favorite in its own field. Now comes Mustang . . . turning the trend to Ford into a downright stampede. Mustang, by any measure of sales or excitement, is the most successful new car ever introduced in America—ever. When you see a stampede, it makes sense to find out what started it. That's something only your Ford Dealer can tell you about.

DISTRICT CHAMPIONS
The Prestonsburg Black Cats won their first district baseball championship since 1958 in dethroning regional champion McDowell, 1-0, in the finals of the Floyd county baseball tournament last Thursday.

Thus Coach Bobby Wells' and Bert Dixon's club advanced to the regional tournament in Ashland where they met the Paintsville Tigers yesterday afternoon.

Prestonsburg high, a charter member of the 10-team Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference, has withdrawn its membership, effective with the 1964-'65 school year.

Speculation is that a new conference, with a major emphasis on track, will be formulated and involve eight Big Sandy valley schools.

Glen Combs, son of Morton Combs, Carr Creek high coach and principal, joins Maytown's Bob Tallent as the other Eastern Kentucky player in the annual Kentucky-Indiana summertime basketball series.

The first game is set for Louisville's Freedom Hall on Saturday, June 20, and the second game is carded a week later for the Butler University fieldhouse in Indianapolis.

Boy Scout Camporee Held At The Breaks; 44 Units Represented

The 1964 Boy Scout Camporee was held May 15-17 in the Interstate-Breaks Park. Approximately 800 Scouts attended.

Forty-four units were represented — among them, Prestonsburg, Auxier, Betsy Layne, Garrett, Maytown, Paintsville and Wheelwright.

Good weather, thorough planning, efficient organization, and a beautiful and appropriate setting contributed to the success of the Camporee.

Saturday was a busy schedule for Scouts and leaders. Competition was keen among the units for high-point ratings. Before retiring, the traditional campfire ceremonies were held. Indian dancers performed their well-known dances.

Protestant services were conducted on Potter's Flat Sunday morning, and Dr. B. H. Jarman, president of Pikeville College, addressed the gathering.

Morton Combs is head coach for the Bluegrassers and will be assisted by Joe Reibel, of St. Xavier in Louisville.

Phil Greer, Jenkins high jumper, and Charles Walker, Hazard distance runner, were the only area trackmen to qualify for the finals in the state high school track meet. Walker had the best qualifying time of any runner in the 800-yard run, but was last in the finals. Greer finished as the state's fourth best high jumper.

Black Cat jumper Johnnie Herald, who has cleared 5 feet, 11 inches to beat Greer in the regional finals, failed on five feet, eight inches.

P'BURG TEAM IN REGIONAL

Cats Defeat McDowell In Title Contest, 1-0; Burchett, Setser Shine

Prestonsburg high school won a place in the regional baseball tournament by winning the district (Floyd county) championship last Wednesday afternoon over McDowell, the defending champions, 1-0, at Drift.

Randall Burchett held McDowell to two hits, and McDowell's twirlers, Stumbo and Tuttle, allowed the new champs only four. In the two district tourney games Burchett was the winning pitcher, holding the opposition scoreless in 9½ innings. He relieved M. H. Wells in the game which Prestonsburg won over Wheelwright, 5-4.

The Cats batted only .195 in the two games but the opposition was held to a .125 average. Freddie Setser led the team with five hits in six times at bat.

Betsy Layne High School Senior Wins State Bowling Tournament, Expense-Paid Washington Trip

Bobby Curtis Akers, 17-year-old Betsy Layne high school senior, last Saturday won the Kentucky state high school seniors' bowling tournament at Louisville and with the title won for himself, his parents, two brothers and a sister an all-expense-paid trip to Washington, D. C. in July to compete for $10,500 worth of scholarship awards.

Young Akers and a school friend, Don Newsome, entered the contest at the last minute after learning that any C-average-or-better student could accompany the Wayland high school girls team to the state tournament. The Wayland girls won their way to the state meet by placing second in the regional tourney held at West Liberty. The Betsy Layne student began bowling in the Floyd County High School League at Lake Lanes here, last February. Prior to that, he had bowled possibly half a dozen games.

At Louisville he won the singles title with a six-game total of 1,046. He will be accompanied to the national meet in Washington by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Akers, of Dana, his brothers, Eddie and Dwight, his sister, Phyllis, and by Estel Lee Carter, manager of Lake Lanes.

James Allen Elected Young Democrats Head; Meet Held At Martin

The Floyd County Young Democrats Club elected James Allen, of Risner, president at the group's May 16 meeting at the Martin high school auditorium. Allen succeeds Glenn Anderson, Jr.

Approximately 75 members of the young people's organization were present, it is said.

Charlotte Mullins, of David, was named vice-president, and Dickie Fitzpatrick, West Prestonsburg, was picked as secretary. Thomas Hereford, III, Prestonsburg, was elected treasurer.

Democrat Control Fight Envisioned at Meeting Slated at Louisville

Frankfort, Ky.—Two young Democrat factions are warming up for an expected fight for organizational control at the state convention in Louisville, June 26 and 27.

A group backing Tom D. Isaac, Frankfort, for president bannaged dinners to raise local funds at Russellville and Bowling Green. Edward F. Prichard, Jr., Frankfort attorney and a Constitution Revision Assembly delegate, was the main speaker.

Isaac, who is administrative assistant to the commissioner of public safety, announced the opening of a headquarters office in downtown Frankfort for the faction, known as Young Kentuckians for a Democratic Kentucky.

The Y.K.D.K. program includes rewriting the Young Democrats state constitution to lower the age limit from 40 to 35 and to tighten convention voting rules.

In a news release, Isaac said Young Democrats will have a stronger organization "if the old, scarred-up political bosses will let the Young Democrats fight their own battles." He declined to identify the "bosses."

The other announced candidate for president, Richard Moorman, Leitchfield attorney, will speak Monday night at Owensboro at a joint meeting of the four Young Democrat clubs in Daviess county.

Moorman said Clifford Smith, Jr., Frankfort, who had been considered a likely candidate, is now supporting him. Smith, a law student, could not be reached for comment.

Moorman, State President Barkley Sturgill, of Prestonsburg, and other officers met last Wednesday with Governor Edward T. Breathitt to plan the state convention, United States Senators Edward "Ted" Kennedy (D., Mass.) and Birch Bayh (D., Ind.) will be the speakers.

Breathitt said he will not endorse any candidate and the convention is "wide open" as far as he's concerned. The Governor previously said he intends to put a stop to proxy voting at this year's convention. In the past, some Y.D. candidates with plentiful funds have organized and voted "dummy" clubs.

United Fuel Gas Company's annual drilling program to develop natural gas reserves in two states of the Appalachian area will cost United Fuel and affiliated companies $2,816,000 this year. West Virginia's share of the program will be $2,092,270 and Kentucky's $723,800.

James S. Phillips, president, said the companies plan to drill a total of 50 wells in areas of known gas production. Up to the present time, United Fuel has already completed one productive well and has several more in the process of drilling.

The companies' drilling program is being conducted in the following counties: Kentucky — Pike and Martin counties; West Virginia — Braxton, Raleigh, Mercer, Kanawha, Mingo, Hardy, McDowell, Wayne, Clay and Boone counties. The exact locations of most of the wells have not yet been determined.

In addition to the drilling program, the company will lay approximately 40 miles of field lines to gather the gas produced by the wells. Most of the lines will be either four or six inches in diameter. The cost will be approximately $927,000.

United Fuel has drilled annually in the Appalachian area since its beginning in 1933. Until 1944 United Fuel obtained all of its gas from the Appalachian area. While the volume of Appalachian

Weddington Again Earns Insurance Firm Honor

Joe D. Weddington again has earned membership in the Million Dollar Round Table, the life insurance industry's 3,500-member elite international organization of million-dollar-a-year sales producers.

Membership in the select association is limited to members of the National Association of Life Underwriters, or its foreign counterpart, who sell at least one million dollars of new life insurance each year according to MDRT standards, or life members who have earned the honor by fulfilling current and previous requirements.

Weddington, with Coastal States, has been in the life insurance profession for 11 years and first became a member of the Round Table in 1959.
