

This Town . . . That World

With all this ditching and other work in preparation for the surfacing of Prestonsburg streets, plus what has been done in the sewer department during the summer work, plus some real dry weather, Prestonsburg is getting a taste of the same kind of dust our friends out on unsurfaced roads have had as a steady diet for months, even years.

SYMPTOMS Rarin' to go? Can't sit down, can't stop, feel like a million? Beware. According to these TV commercials you may have iron-rich blood.

WELL, WHO WAS? Heard the story of the thirsty bum who took his dog into a bar and wheedled an agreement out of the bartender that the barkeep would serve him a free drink if his dog could talk as he declared the dog could? Agreement made, the toper turned to his dog and pronounced a question: "Whats on top of the house?" "Woof!" said the dog. The expectant one turned to the bar, but was told the dog had failed. He argued that Rover had a slight lisp, but this too failed.

Being another chance, he again asked the dog a question. "Who was the greatest baseball player in the world?" "Woof!" said the dog — and promptly the barkeep kicked both dog and master onto the sidewalk outside. The dog picked himself up, turned soulful eyes to his master and asked a question of his own: "Dimaggio?"

PASSING STRANGE That yarn is as ridiculous as the one about the English pub. There is a custom, they say, in merrie England which has the customer upon entering one of these places never failing to pass the time of day with the man at the bar. "Good evening, sir," is the greeting upon entering, and upon leaving it's the same words all over again. Well, there was this occasion when a stranger wandered in, drank considerable during the evening, then finally arose, walked up the wall, across the ceiling, fly-like, and down the other wall and on out the door.

"I say," cried a spectator. "A jolly strange fellow, that! 'E forgot to say, 'Good evening!'!"

Good, ol' Third has been in such a fix of late that the best and safest place to walk was in the middle of the street. It was closed to traffic, and we strolled, all alone, down the avenue, feeling like Cooper in "High Noon." (See Story No. 2, Page 8)

SCHOOL POPULATION DECREASES IN FLOYD

Floyd county's school population shows a loss this year of 332 pupils from last year's total, according to enrollment figures compiled at the office of Superintendent of Schools Charles F. Clark. The enrollment last school year totaled 11,976. Last week, when registration at all schools was completed, it was 11,644. Yet this county's school population is No. 5 from the top in the state. Superintendent Clark has an idea that Floyd county has passed its school enrollment peak. "Families have moved away, and families are getting smaller," he commented. Of the 70 schools listed (grade and high schools are listed sep-

SALISBURY INDICTED ON 3 MURDER COUNTS

FIRST BILLS VOTED NAME DRIFT MAN

Prosecutor To Ask Early Trial Here In Triple Slaying

Three indictments were voted by the grand jury Tuesday, first day of its session, and each accused Roy Salisbury, of Drift, of willful murder in the shotgun slaying, near Drift last April 23, of Roy R. Denny, his wife, Mollie Denny, and Thomas S. Combs. Each of the three bills recited that "On or about the 23rd day of April, 1964, in Floyd county, Kentucky, the above named defendant committed the offense of willful murder by shooting and killing one (name of victim) with malice aforethought, and premeditation against the peace and dignity of the Commonwealth of Kentucky." Witnesses listed on the indictment are Canterbury Osborne, Darlene Martin, Tom Salisbury, Ray Salisbury and Marie Cook. All are relatives of the defendant except Osborne and Mrs. Cook. Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo said Wednesday that he will ask the court today (Thursday) to set the case for trial as early as possible. He expects the trial to be held late this month. Salisbury, who was returned here last Friday from Western State hospital, Lakeland, Kentucky, where he was under observation several weeks, is held in jail without bond. It was said the hospital psychiatrist declared Salisbury ready to stand trial. Stumbo said he has issued subpoenas for others to come here and tell what they know of the triple slaying. The three victims were killed while Combs, an engineer, was surveying a property line between the Denny and Salisbury families and while permanent boundary markers were being set. Each of the three had been shot at close range.

X-RAY UNIT SLATED HERE

Health Officer Urges Cooks, Foodhandlers To Have X-Ray Tests

A mobile X-ray unit will be here Wednesday, September 16, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. It is announced by the Floyd County Health Department. The unit will be located at the Health Center building, it is said. "The unit was not scheduled to be in the county this month but through the efforts of the health department a special date and time of operation was obtained," Dr. Russell Hall, health officer, said. "This date was requested and obtained primarily for the purpose of X-raying all school personnel especially all teachers in the county. All school cooks and foodhandlers who have not had an X-ray in the last year must have one regardless of whether their skin test had a negative or positive reaction. Those people who have had an X-ray in the past and received a letter asking them to come in and have a large X-ray made should bring this letter to the unit and give it to the technician and he will make a large picture of their chest. All cooks and waitresses are urged to take advantage of this opportunity to get their X-ray," Dr. Hall concluded.

City Council Acts To Continue Work According To Plan

The City Council, in special session early Tuesday evening, voted to continue sidewalk construction on South Central avenue (Third street), as earlier planned. A narrower sidewalk and elimination of curbing on the west side of the street was decided upon in order to widen the street by approximately two feet. Work on the sidewalk was halted temporarily when J. M. Parsley, a property-owner, protested that narrowing of the sidewalk would have a damaging effect on his property.

TWO ADDED TO FACULTY

College Classes Open Thursday of Last Week; 260 Students Enrolled

The new Prestonsburg Community College started classes Thursday morning, last week with a "full house" of 260 students. Every classroom is filled during the major part of the day, and what was simply an empty building has been transformed into a beehive of educational activity. The Community College added two new faculty members to its list last week. They are Dr. Doris A. Berry, who was at the University of Indiana in Bloomington, Indiana, and who joined the faculty as a member of the Business Education department and also as a part-time counselor for girls, and Miss Susan McCarty as a member of the History department. Dr. Berry received her B.S. from Indiana State College, Terre Haute, Indiana, her M.S. from Indiana State College, and her Ed.D. from Indiana University. Miss McCarty received her A.B. and M.A. degrees in history from the University of Indiana and has been teaching in Florida during the previous academic year. She will join the staff next Monday. Matthew Young was added to the faculty as a part-time employee in the field of Business Administration. Mr. Young will teach two Accounting classes and one Education class during the regular day schedule. Monday and Tuesday, September 7 and 8, the Community College registered 60 students in seven classes in the night program for the fall term. "The college administration is very well pleased with the total enrollment and we feel that our students are going to be a credit to the Eastern Kentucky communities which they represent." MEADE, LOW BIDDER HERE

On Convalescent Home; 68-Bed Home Planned By Four Businessmen

Low bidder on construction of the nursing and convalescent home proposed to be built on College Lane here is Astor Meade, Prestonsburg contractor, who asked $237,900 for the job. Meade said this week he will be ready to begin work almost immediately if he is awarded the contract. Possibility of adding 12 rooms to the 30-room plan on which bids were asked is being explored this week, delaying awarding of the contract on the original plan. Meade and his partner, W. R. Kendrick, only two weeks ago completed the Prestonsburg Community College structure, and they expect to finish work on the Floyd County Library building on Arnold avenue within a month. Mr. Kendrick is not, however, connected with Meade in the nursing and convalescent home project.

The nursing home will be built by Dr. J. D. Adams, H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., George Lee Shannon and Tom G. Dingus. It will embrace an area of 15,000 square feet and will be built on a 160x240-foot lot lying between the fire station and the Prestonsburg grade school. It will, if built to the original plan, contain 10 single-bed rooms and 20 two-bed rooms. The addition which is being studied would add 12 rooms to accommodate 18 more beds, or a total of 68.

College Staff To Be Guests at Reception

The churches of Prestonsburg will hold a reception for the faculty, staff, board of advisers and their families of the Prestonsburg Community College at the First Methodist Church, Arnold avenue, Sunday, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. It is announced by Rev. Adrian J. Roberts, pastor. The public is invited.

Entries will be received from 7 to 9 p.m. on Saturday, and from 8 to 10 a.m. on Sunday. To be judged, all entries must be in place by 10 a.m. The show will be open to the public from 12 to 5 p.m. on Saturday. A chicken-and-dumpling dinner will be served in the school lunchroom at 12 noon. A music program and the presentation of awards will be in the auditorium at 2 p.m.

ROBE WORN, CONLEY SETS A PRECEDENT

Liquor Traffic Hit In Grand Jury Talk At Opening Session

The Floyd circuit court convened Tuesday morning in the new two-story courtroom of the new courthouse for the first time, and the occasion saw Circuit Judge Hollie Conley establish a precedent for all judges who henceforth will preside there. The judge appeared in the black robe symbolic of the judicial office, explaining that he did so at the request not only of the Floyd County Bar Association but also in compliance with a suggestion made to the judiciary of the nation by the American Bar Association. "I wear this robe, not because I feel that I am any better than anybody else, but simply because it is a symbol of office," he explained.

FINES, JAIL TERMS GIVEN

Officer Bays Wine From Hueysville Man; Other Arrests Listed

Beech Handshoe, who was charged with possessing intoxicating beverages and with selling intoxicants after he had been arrested at Hueysville, entered pleas of guilty to both charges in quarterly court Tuesday, was fined $20 and sentenced to jail for 30 days on each count. It was at first claimed, officials said, that Handshoe was ill and kept wine and beer at his place of business for his own personal medicinal use. But he made the mistake of selling a bottle to State Trooper E. B. Allen. Those jailed here within the week and charges filed against them: Silas Muncey, reckless use of a deadly weapon, arrested by Deputy Sheriff Marion Martin; Joe E. Napier, operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcoholic beverage, jailed by State Trooper Don H. Goble; Bill Wallen, drunk driving and no operator's license; Jackson Pinks, contributing to delinquency of a juvenile and reckless driving, booked by Constable Kenneth Roberts and Deputy Sheriff Marion Martin; Charley G. Akers, drunk driving, arrested by Trooper E. B. Allen; Mickey L. Jarvis, drunk driving and no operator's license, arrested by Deputy Sheriff Sam Hale and State Trooper Allen; Beecher Ousley, resisting arrest, booked by Sheriff Henry Hale.

FLOYD JURY IS SOUGHT

For Fourth Hearing Of Deputy Sheriffs On Slaying Charge

When the case of Deputy Sheriffs Troy Mullins and Marion Martin is called for trial here next Wednesday, an attempt will be made to empanel a trial jury composed of Floyd countians. A special venire of 75 names was drawn from the jury drum Wednesday by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley. Judge Coleman Wright, of Shelbyville, has been designated to preside as special judge in the trial of the case, and it was at his request that Judge Conley drew names of prospective jurors in open court. Tom James, of Prestonsburg, was named special bailiff to summon the veniremen. If the trial is held next week as scheduled, it will be the fourth for the two officers, who are charged with the slaying of Ex-Magistrate John May. The first resulted in a hung jury, the second in a conviction which was later voided by Appellate Court opinion, and the third was a mistrial as Special Judge James Stephenson, of Pikeville, became ill during the hearing of the case.

Two Separate Fires Raze Grefhel Sawmill, Destroy Horse, Barn

The Little Paint barn was owned by Bert Colvin, of Prestonsburg, and the stallion lost in the fire, a Tennessee Walker, was owned by Colvin. Dr. James Holbrook and C. J. McNally, approximately 950 bales of hay also were lost. Causes of the fires were not reported. Mitchell had no insurance, it was said, and only the horse lost in the Little Paint blaze was insured.

Marker Dedication Set In Honor of Soldier; Two Speakers Slated

A historical highway marker on Ky. 80 near Elkhorn City will be unveiled Friday, Sept. 11, at 11 a.m., to commemorate the site of the unknown Confederate soldier. Lon B. Rogers, chairman of the Breaks Interstate Park Commission, Pikeville, issued an invitation to the general public to attend the ceremony.

The grave has heretofore been marked with a planted rose and a wooden marker. Legend has it that the unknown soldier, returning to his southern home, was assassinated by unknown assailants. Three persons of the locality interred the body.

W. A. Wentworth, chairman of the state marker program, and Col. George Chinn, director of the Kentucky Historical Society, will speak, Rogers announces.

Park officials will conduct a tour of the park area following the dedication ceremony.

Miss Denise Maureen Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blaine R. Hall, of Prestonsburg, was united in marriage to Mr. Carl Richard Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Clark, Bethlehem, Pa., on August 29, at 8 o'clock in a candlelight service at Irene Memorial Baptist Church here.

Gold standards of greenery with ferns and emerald and white mums against a background of greenery flanked a huge white cross of white pompons. Gold-branched cathedral candelabra afforded light for the double-ring ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. W. D. Jagers, pastor of the church, and Colonel Joseph Cosby, president of Hargrave Military Academy, Chatham, Va. Baskets of white mums flanked the altar and a gilded kneeling bench, lighted by arched candelabra of floor height, was placed on a carpet of white satin and used for the bridal prayer. Church decorations in the windows and pews consisted of large bouquets of white mums tied with satin ribbons. Tall candles in wrought-iron candlesticks afforded light for the ceremony and for seating attendants.

Pre-nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Joe Buchanan, organist. Mrs. Maurice Minix, III, of Lexington, sang "Because" and "O, Promise Me." Carl Dixon sang the Wedding Prayer during the ceremonial kneeling prayer.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of candlelight white peau de soie, with elbow-length sleeves and scooped neckline. The front panel of the bell-shaped gown was appliqued with embroidered Alconon lace and seed pearls. In the back were buttons to the waist with a large ivory rose. Streamers fell over the flowing chapel train. Her veil, a mantilla of illusion and Alconon lace of the same color as the gown, with pearl accent, fell to the waist. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gardenias. Her only jewelry was a diamond necklace, a gift of the groom.

Mrs. William Allen, of Lexington, matron of honor, wore a floor-length sheath of peacock blue chiffon over peau de soie with a cowl neckline and full-length, soft, flowing train attached by a fashion bow to the low cut "V" neckline at the back. She wore a matching headpiece, a circlet of tiny ivy leaves interspersed with pearlized buds, with a silk illusion circlet veil, and carried a cascade bouquet of light blue carnations, interspersed with roses and white satin streamers.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Robert Allen, Miss Sharon Allen, Mrs. Richard Leslie and Mrs. Sandra Yeisley, sister of the groom, wore identical gowns and headpieces and carried bouquets matching that of the matron of honor. Flower girls, little misses Marsha Kaye Stumbo and Laurie Yeisley, niece of the groom, wore floor-length gowns of light blue peau de soie, with flowing sashes of peacock blue. They carried flower baskets filled with pink sweetheart roses and pink rose petals.

Gregory Carpenter, of Detroit, Mich., cousin of the bride, was ring-bearer, presenting the gold wedding rings from a white satin pillow with matching tassels.

John Ballantine, Calhoun, Ky., served as best man. Ushers were Wayne Wrona, Mt. Carmel, Pa., Charles Horrocks, Blooming Glen, Pa., William Helton, of Hazard, and Jack Hamm, Bangor, Pa., a cousin of the groom.

The bride's mother wore a pale-pink sheath dress of silk with a pink Alconon lace overblouse and matching accessories, with a corsage of off-white cymbidium with pink centers. Mrs. Clark, mother of the groom, chose a light-green sheath lace dress with matching accessories and corsage of cymbidium with green centers.

At the reception held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hall, the bridal table was covered with a white lace cloth, centered with a four-tiered decorated wedding cake encircled with white gardenias. Miss Martha Ann Burchett poured punch, Mrs. Tom Ellis served cake, and Miss Shirley Harmon registered the guests. During the reception, a presentation of organ music was given by Mrs. Chalmers H. Frazier. Others assisting Mrs. Hall were Mrs. Olga May Latta, Mrs. W. W. Burchett, Mrs. J. B. Clarke, Mrs. Woodrow Green-wald, Mrs. Bert Colvin and Miss Juanita Akers.

Mrs. Clark chose as her going-away costume, a suit of beige raw silk with bone accessories, wearing a corsage of her favorite flowers, yellow roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark left immediately following the reception. For a wedding trip through the Great Smokies and to Asheville, N. C. Upon their return they will be at home at the Warren Dale Apartment, Georgetown, Ky., on the Georgetown College campus. Mrs. Clark is a graduate of Georgetown College. Mr. Clark is entering upon his senior year there this month.

Two Women Discuss Travels In Europe At Woman's Club Here

The Prestonsburg Woman's Club had a record number of members and guests at its first meeting of the Fall season to hear Miss Jane Mayo Fitzpatrick and Miss Lois Combs tell of their recent European travels.

Miss Fitzpatrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Fitzpatrick, told of her seven-country tour with a group of American debutantes, particularly through Italy, France, Spain and England. High points of her experiences were the American debutante ball in Madrid, where she was presented to Spanish society, and the Queen's garden party in London.

Miss Combs, daughter of former Governor and Mrs. Bert T. Combs, gave a description of her experiences as a member of an experiment in international living group in Switzerland. There she divided her time between living with a Swiss family and traveling with other experimenters. Of special interest was her hiking trip which included some mountain climbing in the Swiss Alps. Each girl had brought mementoes of her trip which she shared with the clubmembers.

During the business session, presided over by Mrs. Clyde Burchett, president, announcement was made of a tea for prospective members and college faculty wives to be given by the club at the home of Mrs. Edward B. Leslie on Sept. 30. Mrs. Burchett also announced that the KFWC Fall board meeting will be held Sept. 21-23 at Jenny Wiley State Park. Plans of local committees are well under way for entertaining clubwomen from all over Kentucky, she said.

In attendance were 35 guests and about 50 clubmembers.

been made a part of Title I of the so-called Anti-Poverty Bill, the Department of Agriculture indicated that within 30 days after appropriations were available camps would be in operation which could accommodate as many as 7,200 enrollees. Secretary of Agriculture Freeman has indicated to Perkins that work in the Cumberland National Forest counties of the Seventh District alone would provide work for a 500-man camp for 10 years.

The purpose of the Youth Conservation Corps program is to provide an opportunity for young men between the ages of 16 and 22, who are out of school and unemployed, to obtain healthy outdoor work of great benefit to the public and at the same time receive the supplementary training which will enable them to find employment upon leaving the Corps.

Monthly compensation will be paid to Corps members under the terms of the law which was signed by the President on August 20. Corps members may provide allotments for monthly payments to a member of his family which in turn can be supplemented in an equal amount by the federal government. In addition to income, housing, clothing, meals, medical care and other facilities will be furnished without cost to the enrollees during the period of their Corps membership.

Perkins said that specific provisions had been written into the law to make certain that public assistance payments to a family could not be reduced because a member of that family was enrolled in the Conservation Corps.

He pointed out that the only thing now delaying formal establishment of the camp in the Seventh Congressional district is the appropriation of the funds authorized by the Economic Opportunity Act. An Appropriation bill to provide the funds is in the process of being formulated by the House Appropriations Subcommittee to implement the new law and is expected to clear the Congress before adjournment, which now has been delayed until some time the first part of October.

An Invitation to the Public

Long an advocate of a new courthouse for Floyd county, The Times joins in inviting the people of the county to visit the new structure Saturday, attend its dedication and see for themselves what has been achieved toward a permanent and modern seat of county government.

We are convinced that the people of the county have received their "money's worth" in good, sound building. And when we consider the outright federal grant received, the profit made by selling the old courthouse site for urban renewal purposes and the remaining part of the county's cost being financed without one cent of additional expense to the taxpayers—when these facts are considered, it should be apparent to all that they have in this improvement received full value and more.

The old courthouse served its purpose. But, as in the case of its predecessors, time exacted its inevitable toll. It could have lasted longer; or, it could have collapsed at any moment. And even if there had been absolute assurance that the old building would have stood a given number of years longer, it would have been sheer economic folly for the fiscal court to wait till that time and let the offer of federal aid pass, leaving all the cost to the people of the county.

Some opposed the construction of the new courthouse. The record does not say, but we are certain there were those who opposed the supplanting of the old log courthouse with one of brick. The old courthouse would stand and would safely serve the county and its people, some averred. Succeeding grand juries declared it unsafe. Perhaps it would have stood several years longer; we shudder to think of the tragedy that would have been on the county's conscience if it had not.

In the face of known opposition county officials and the fiscal court took a courageous stand. We congratulate them for their foresight and their courage.

We congratulate Floyd county as a whole upon its resplendently new and modern courthouse.

We repeat the invitation: Visit it Saturday, inspect it closely, note its appointments and the provisions made for safekeeping of valuable records; note well its fireproof construction and general arrangement and construction for the sake of safety. Teachers have been especially invited to bring their pupils here for the day for tours of the building, and they should accept the invitation.

This new courthouse, fourth to be built in Eastern Kentucky counties within the last few years, is something worth having and preserving. And it's something worth seeing—outside and in.

Watson-Hale Vows Solemnized At Martin Church, August 22

Miss Marena Elaine Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Watson, of Martin, and Mr. Herschel Ray Hale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hale, of Risner, were united in marriage, the afternoon of August 22 at 2 o'clock at the Free Will Baptist Church at Martin.

The Rev. J. A. Dickerson performed the double-ring ceremony. Nuptial music was furnished by Miss Alicia Crisp, organist, and Mr. Sherrill Frazier, vocalist, who sang "I Love You Truly" and "O, Promise Me."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of off-white slipper satin. The sleeveless gown featured a fitted bodice with low-cut round neckline. The skirt was bell-shaped, and the over jacket was of chanelly lace with high, rounded neckline and long sleeves which tapered to points over the wrists. The points of the sleeve and the hemline of the jacket were outlined in seed pearls. Her chapel-length train fastened at her waist with a tailored bow. Her bouffant veil of nylon tulle, falling in tiers from a crown of lace and satin, also was outlined with seed pearls. She carried a white orchid and white carnations over ivy with streamers and pearls over her lace-covered prayer book.

Miss Linda Sue Watson was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of lilac, embroidered in a deep lavender, with scooped neckline and fashioned with the bell-shaped skirt, with a belt fastening in front with a tailored bow. Her short, circular veil of nylon tulle was attached to a large, tailored bow of imported silk organza.

The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Katherine Allen, Miss Elizabeth Ann Allen, Miss Drana Music and Miss Yvonne Dingus, all of Martin. The gowns and veils were identical to that of the maid of honor, except each was of deep lavender iridescent imported silk organza. The maid of honor and bridesmaids carried bouquets of white carnations with lavender touches and streamers.

Clarence Hale was his brother's best man. Ushers were James Anthony Osborne, Larry Burchell Hall, Beecher Hale and Donald Marshall.

Anna Margaret Watson, sister of the bride, and Ramona Gayle Bentley, cousin of the bride, were flower girls. Their gowns were matched to the maid of honor's. Jeffrey Lee Fraley, also a cousin of the bride, was ring-bearer.

The mother of the bride wore a muted gold sheath dress of shantung with matching embroidered accessories and a corsage of yellow rosebuds.

The mother of the groom wore a soft beige sheath dress with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow rosebuds.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, immediately following the wedding. The young couple are at home at Ohio City, Ohio.

FINANCING OF WORK IS TOLD BY OFFICIAL

Floyd county's new courthouse, which will be dedicated Saturday morning, has been erected at a cost of about $600,000 — but the county share of the cost is, roughly, only one-third that amount.

Cost of the huge building project was reviewed this week by County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill as the new structure was being readied to receive visitors at the dedication ceremonies.

The total cost of the project, which was financed by federal grant through the Accelerated Public Works Program and the Communities Facilities Administration and by revenue bonds issued by the county as its matching funds, was $599,700.

The federal grant of 58% of the cost supplied $299,730 of this total cost. Floyd county's matching funds amounted to $332,322.23, less $26,072.50 which was paid as a fee to the fiscal agent and first-year interest redemption as required by the order authorizing sale of the bonds.

The county will be paid $116,250 for the old courthouse site which will be converted to an urban renewal project, this to be placed in the bond redemption account and applied toward payment of bonds issued. Effect of this will be to save the county approximately $4,500 a year for the term of the bond issue.

Because Floyd county had no bonded indebtedness, it was pointed out, it was able to sell its bonds on the open market at the very good average rate of 3.73% interest.

The bonds will be retired without the levying of new taxes.

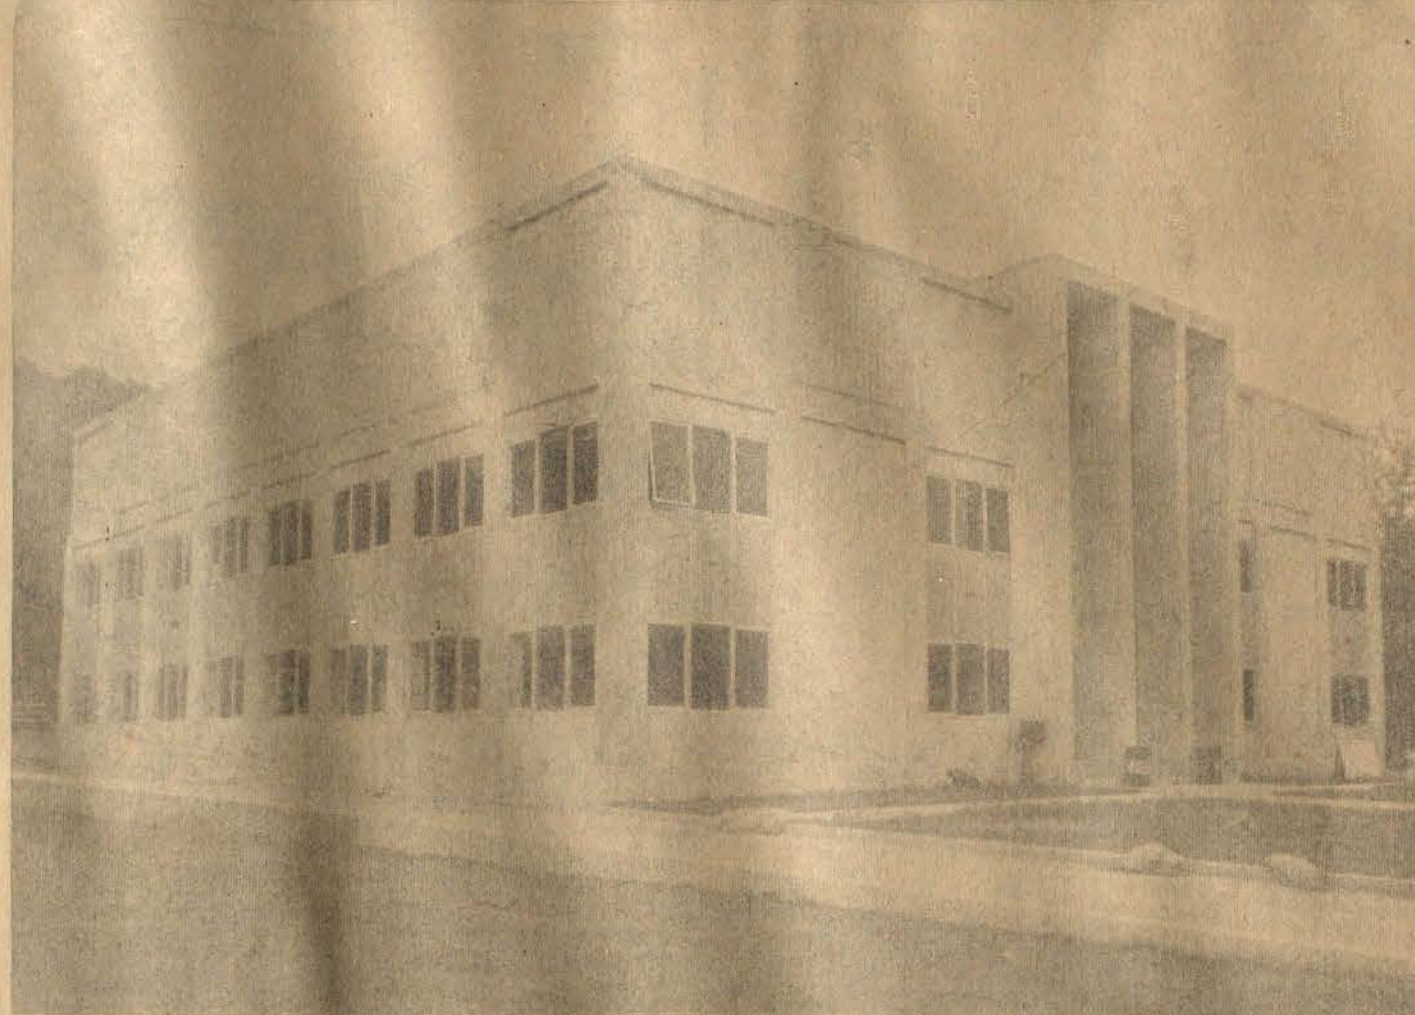

"We have this new courthouse without any additional cost to taxpayers, which means that the bonds will be paid out of our regular income," County Judge Stumbo commented recently. "We are proud of that fact, but it means we will have to do some belt-tightening and that we may not be able to do some other things we would like to see done."

County Attorney Sturgill listed the construction summary, dated December 20, 1963, as follows (subject to approved change orders for construction):

- Land and right-of-way for courthouse site, $37,900; actual construction, $522,500; architect and engineer services, $31,350; capitalized interest, $1,000; legal and administrative cost, $6,000; project contingency, $1,650.

No federal funds were used for site acquisition, new office equipment and fixtures, since the federal government restricts use of its funds only to actual construction work.

(See Story No. 1, Page 6)

DEDICATION WILL BE AT 11 a.m. SATURDAY

Principal speakers at the dedication of Floyd county's new courthouse at 11 a.m. Saturday will be Congressman Carl D. Perkins and Former Governor Bert T. Combs.

Governor Edward T. Breathitt, who was invited to appear on the program, may not find it possible to be here, it was said Monday.

Congressman Perkins was of invaluable assistance to county officials in procuring the federal grant which defrays a heavy part of the courthouse cost. Ex-Governor Combs has been instrumental in bringing to the county a whole flock of public improvements, and it was in the old courthouse here that he began the public career that led to the governorship.

County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill will preside as master of ceremonies. The welcome to the public will be given by County Judge Henry Stumbo on behalf of Floyd county and by Mayor George P. Archer for the city of Prestonsburg. Judge Stumbo will introduce guests, county officials and others and Congressman Perkins, Ex-Governor Combs will be introduced by County Attorney Sturgill.

The official dedication and flag-raising will be conducted by Boy Scouts of America. The Rev. Robert Martin, of Martin, will give the invocation, and the Rev. William D. Jaggers, of Prestonsburg, the benediction.

Floyd county's citizens and other guests at the dedication will be given the opportunity to tour the new $600,000 structure and visit the various officials in their offices.

The invitation to residents of the county to attend the dedication has included teachers and their pupils. County Judge Stumbo has expressed a special desire to have school children present for the occasion and to have them tour the building.

Officials are hoping that completion of the air-conditioning system will be effected by the dedication date. Except for this, the only work remaining to be done is on the third floor where the jail and jailer's quarters are being prepared for early occupancy, possibly within the next two weeks.

And while all this is going on at the new courthouse workmen continued on the job of leveling the old court structure, across the street from the new. The old courthouse site will become an urban renewal project.

LOG COURTHOUSE, FLOYD'S FIRST, WAS LEVELLED BY FIRE IN 1808

BY HENRY P. SCALF

Wreckers are now attacking the old and empty 73-year-old Floyd county courthouse and will reduce it to rubble. Since 1801 it has been the scene of countless dramas and has held the hope and despair of a host of litigants.

The history of the old courthouse ends and that of a new one begins. Many distinguished men passed through the corridors of the old structure to plead causes before juries and judges. Many distinguished sons of Kentucky will appear in the new one, indulge in forensic oratory or patiently and quietly plead new causes.

The new courthouse is the fifth to serve the county, the first burning early on the morning of April 16, 1808. It was a log building, as were all the buildings in Prestonsburg then. The justices met two days later in the house of William James Mayo and transacted business. The record of their proceedings is the oldest extant official record in the county. All of the earliest books, containing many priceless historical entries, were destroyed when the first courthouse went up in flames.

The first courthouse stood where the old First National Bank building, now the Municipal building, is located. John Graham sold the lot to the county for $1. The old well, which served the occupants of the first courthouse and the many visitors and litigants, is beneath the building. It was filled up, a century ago.

We know scarcely anything about how that first courthouse looked, know only that it was constructed of logs. Records of litigation, much of it land patent caveats, were written on the first, now burned, records.

The first court of Floyd county was held at the home of James Brown, Sheriff, midway between Preston's Station and the present Auxier on the east side of Big Sandy. The site and date were fixed by the General Assembly in an act approved by the Governor, December 13, 1799: "The justices . . . shall meet at the house of James Brown in the said county on the first court day after the said division shall take place . . . Since the act was effective "from and after the first day of June, next" (1800), this first court was held "The first Monday" in July, 1800.

The court was charged by the Legislature to "fix on a place for holding courts in said county; then the court shall proceed to erect the public buildings in such place and until such buildings are completed shall appoint such place for holding courts as they may think proper . . ." There was never any doubt that Preston's Station would be the site of the new county seat, the first court at the home of James Brown being designated as a mere matter of legislative convenience. Preston's Station, although having only a population of six persons in 1800, had been laid out as a town site, May 3, 1797, by John Graham under the "direction of Major Andrew Hood, Mathias Harman and Solomon Stratton, agents for the Adventures of Sandy under Col. John Preston's Grant."

Just where the succeeding courts were held after the initial meeting in the Brown home we do not know, because the records were later destroyed by fire. But it was not long until the Mayos began to take a prominent part in the affairs of the new county. Since this family was highly literate, it may be assumed that some of the courts were held in their homes, and the records, we do know, were inscribed by them for years. In either late 1807 or early 1808 the construction of a courthouse was started by Thomas Evans on the public square, near where the present Municipal Building stands. A public well was dug in the courtyard and it is now covered by the front part of the present city building, which indicates that the courthouse stood slightly farther back from the street than the present houses on First avenue.

The log courthouse Evans constructed was ready for occupancy, he thought, in April, 1808, and the justices were asked to inspect and accept it. They indicated they were not ready for acceptance, the reason not shown on the meager records. Perhaps some minor construction remained to be completed. Most of the records, though, were already stored in it. A few days after Evans requested inspection of the building it burned. The date is fixed as April 16, 1808. Only a few minor records of no great historical value escaped destruction and these were in the home of William James Mayo. Since the building had not been officially accepted by the justices, Thomas Evans, except for the mercy of the court, stood to lose the entire cost of erection.

There was no courthouse in which Judge William P. Fleming, aided by the assistant judges John Graham and Alexander Lackey, could hold circuit court for the April term of 1808. An old order book is enlightening: "Floyd Circuit Court, April Term, 1808. At a circuit court held for the circuit and county of Floyd at the home of William James Mayo in the town of Prestonsburg (the courthouse being lately destroyed by fire) on Monday, the 19th day of April, 1808."

This court transacted little business except to admit David Brown to the practice of law and to instruct the grand jury. "Abraham Beavers, foreman, Jacob Slusher, Richard Priest, James Ratliff, Richard Ratliff, John Murphy, Richard Damron, Tandy Stratton, John Branham, John Hatcher, James P. Harris, Harris Wilson, Alexander Young, Thomas Brown, James Young, and Robert Brown, were sworn and empanelled a Grand Jury of inquest for the body of the circuit who after having received a charge from William P. Fleming, Gent., returned to consult on their presentments, and after some time returned into court and having made no presentments, were discharged." It is almost inconceivable, and certainly to the great credit of early Floyd, that a grand jury, empanelled from diverse sections, could find no "presentments" against anyone in an area from Blackwater Creek in the present Morgan county to Pound Gap, and from the North Fork of the Kentucky River to the Tug.

Thomas Evans appeared before the county justices, October 25, 1808, with a petition, asking redress from his loss by fire. The petitioner "humbly sheweth that he once undertook to build a courthouse . . . and that he had the same nearly ready for delivery . . . when the same was accidentally destroyed by fire in which destruction your petitioner became loser in a very enormous sum for a poor man to lose . . . Should your Worshipful Court declare of record the loss . . . should fall on your petitioner an acquiescence on the part of your petitioner will ensue. Yet your petitioner prays that the hardship on him might be duly weighed by the court together with that of the county at large and on due consideration to determine whether an innocent sufferer shall be mulcted in the whole of such damages as ensue by the unforeseen and unavoidable act of God or perhaps malevolence. In the meantime you will consider that your petitioner is yet willing to build a courthouse."

There is no record that the justices afforded Evans any relief but he was given a contract to build a new courthouse and required to do so, under bond, within one year. The new building was also to be of hewn logs, eighteen by twenty-four feet, one and a half stories, cracks "chinked" with stone, good shingles, two good floors and two jury rooms. The lower floor was to be constructed entirely for the use of the courts, with justices' seats, clerk's table, lawyers' bar, and as a final requirement of elegance for the day and time, windows were to be installed with the necessary glass.

This second courthouse, which Evans contracted to build, was unfinished for years, although

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, Floyd county, Kentucky, has completed the construction of a new courthouse that is one of the finest in Kentucky and,

WHEREAS, the courthouse was built at no extra cost to the taxpayers of Floyd county, an achievement of which we are all proud and,

WHEREAS, the new building will be formally dedicated to the use of Floyd county, Saturday, September 12, 1964, now therefore,

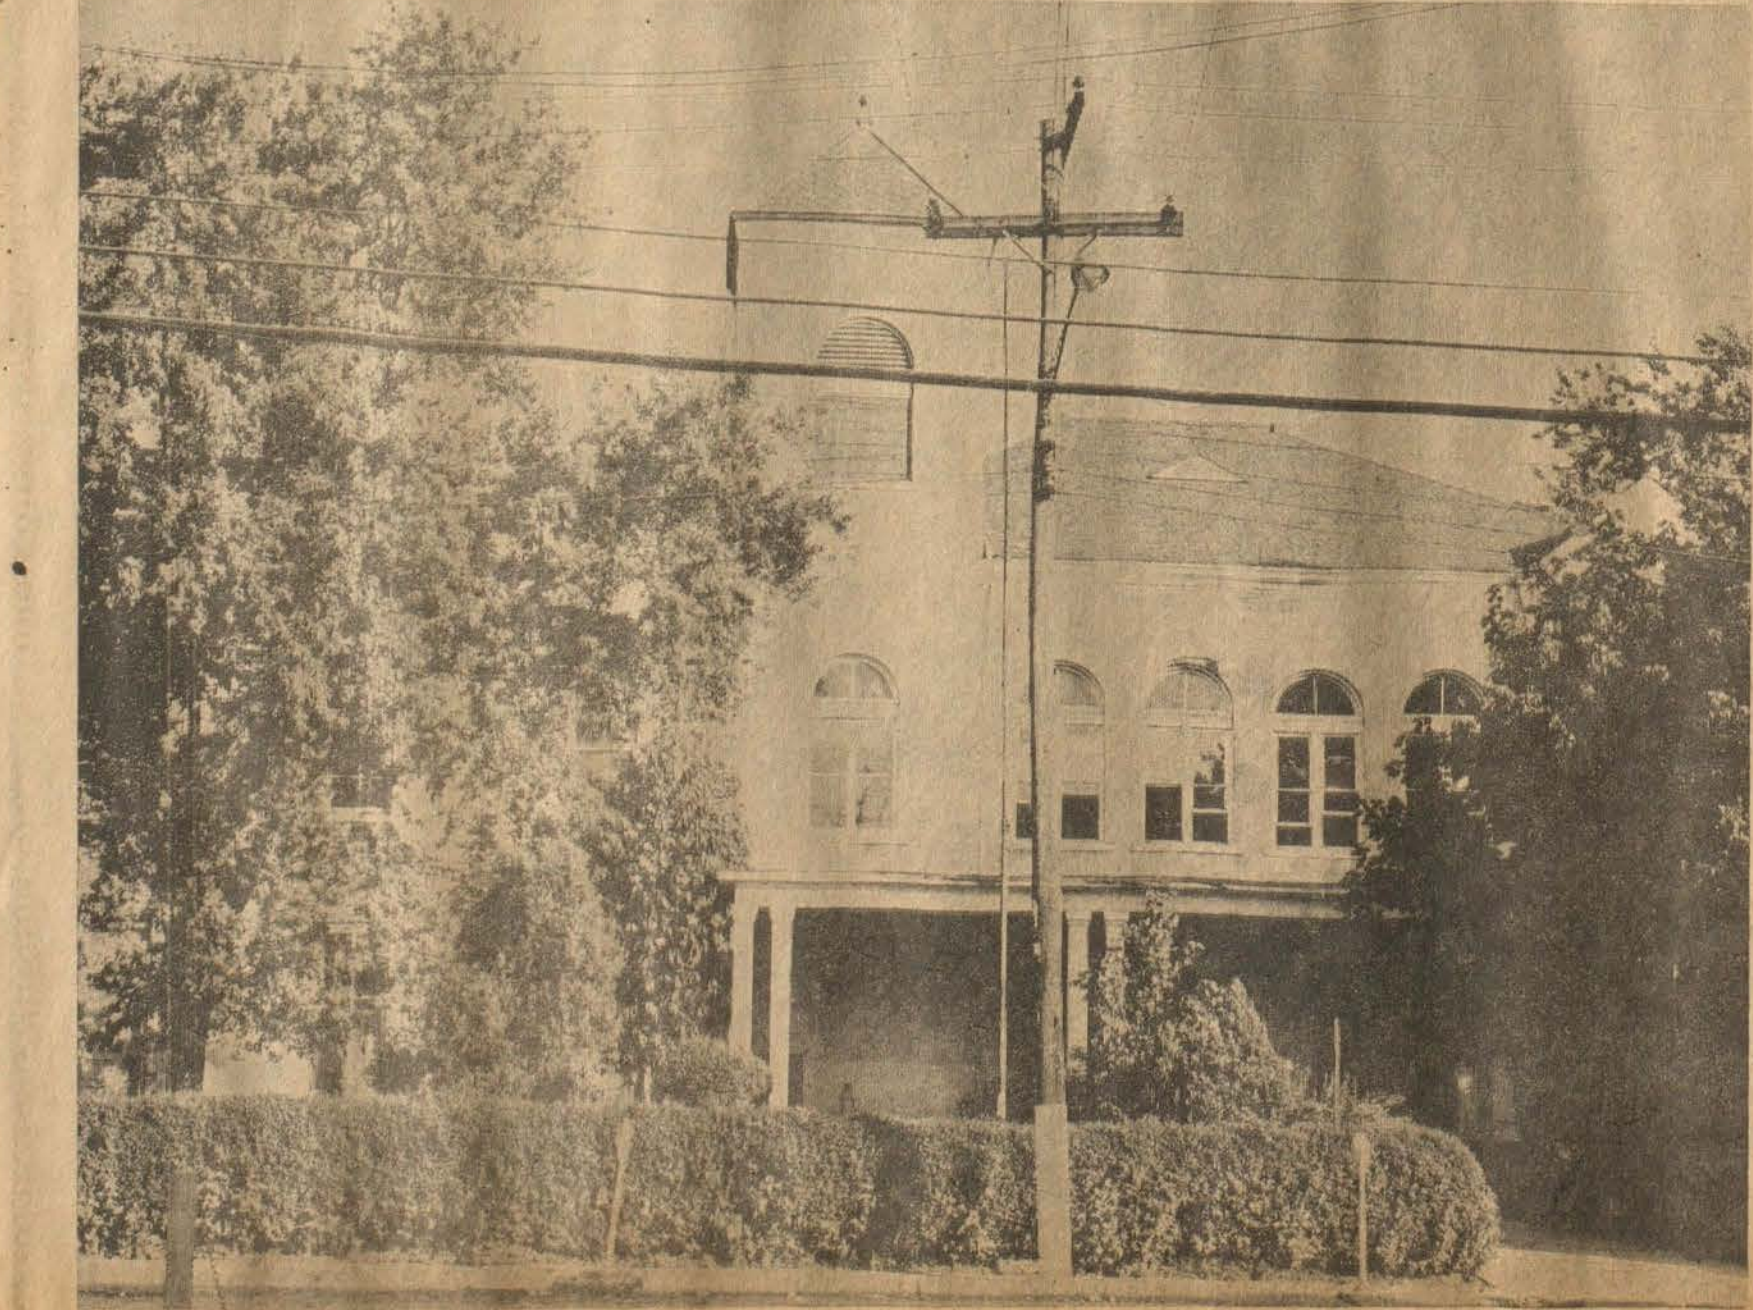

I, Henry Stumbo, Judge of Floyd county, Kentucky, do hereby proclaim Saturday, September 12, 1964, as and request all citizens of the county to observe said day in commemoration of this outstanding accomplishment.

In witness hereof I have affixed my hand and seal as County Judge of Floyd county, Kentucky, this September 10, 1964.

Sights and Sounds of the Old . . .

NEW BUILDING WILL WITNESS ITS OWN

What does the future hold for the new Floyd county courthouse? If the days ahead for it may be measured by the history of the old court structure, a wealth of drama and even an aura of sentiment will surround it.

The old was the scene of some of the most dramatic criminal trials to be held in Eastern Kentucky, a region to which such drama is no stranger. Here the Floyd county bar became known as one of the ablest in Kentucky. Inside those walls at least two men were shot to death—one, at the conclusion of a murder trial.

Election nights and all their tensions while candidates and their adherents were banjo-string-tight under the suspense—and many were "tight" from frequent consultation of the bottle.

Days of waiting while the "long count" of paper ballots was under way . . . the exultation of victory for some, the bitterness of defeat for others . . . And, sometimes, election contests, missing ballot boxes, grand jury investigations . . . political hi-jinks.

Then there was the other side of the picture. Here young couples came for their marriage licenses. Many were wed, without leaving the now-crumbling walls of the old building. Young or middle-aged or elderly, all left, happily wearing rose-colored lasses—and some were soon to return to rue their bargain via divorce action.

Here some of the Commonwealth's great orators appeared during political campaigns . . . Ousley Stanley, Ed Morrow II, as some say, sound waves never die, somewhere there are whispers of John "Bluehead" Harris' Rebel yell and Noah Harris' "Stick with the party, boys!"

Religious services sometimes took the place of more mundane affairs, and here there were those who decided to follow a new path through faith . . . The hallway and porch were sometimes packed . . . teacher-hiring days of other years, court crowds, and, more recently, food stamp recipients . . . And those exponents of easy living, those who gathered to enjoy rest on a porch bench or a spot on the shaded lawn, to whittle and chew and leisurely while away the hours in conversation with friends.

Now, the stream of human traffic turns to newer and more modern halls, and over the years new traditions will rise as new scenes and new situations are created . . . And, if time lasts long enough, there will be those who will, one day, sigh for the passing of another old courthouse, which is the new one of today.

Jarrell Home Razed
By Fire Last Week

The five-room home of Clyde Jarrell, Cow Creek, was razed by fire Wednesday afternoon of last week. Nothing was saved with the exception of a few clothes and a television set. Jarrell, who was away at the time of the fire, said that his wife and another woman were in the kitchen when the fire was discovered. They are of the opinion that it originated in the attic. Approximately $9,000 damages were suffered, Jarrell estimated.

CONGRATULATIONS, FLOYD COUNTY

The new Floyd county courthouse, one of the finest in Kentucky, belongs to you, the people. It will serve the needs of our county for many future decades. The Floyd County Fiscal Court is proud of the new structure as are you and all of us. We are proud, too, that we were able to build it without any extra cost to the taxpayers.

The building has been under consideration a long, long time and it required detailed planning in finance. It could not have been built for many more years except for the grant made by the federal government. Many persons participated in the project and are to be commended for their civic leadership.

The courthouse is dedicated to you, the people, and to your service, as are the elected officials who have offices in it.

The members of the Fiscal Court, Trial Commissioner Glenn Burchett and our office personnel extend a warm invitation to you and your families to visit and inspect the new courthouse, Saturday, September 12.

Sincerely,

The Floyd County Court Clerk's office is one of the most important in the county, for here your records of legal instruments are stored. In the old courthouse they could have and probably would have been destroyed by fire. Here in the new courthouse their security has been immeasurably increased.

The people of this county can be justly proud of their new courthouse for it is one of the state's finest.

WE CONGRATULATE FLOYD COUNTY ON ITS NEW COURTHOUSE...

Floyd county is to be congratulated, because:

1. It has a courthouse which was built with the greatest of care and with the finest materials. We know these things, because we built it and have just completed long months of the most painstaking work.
2. A new courthouse was badly needed, as has been attested to by succeeding grand juries after inspection of the old.
3. The new courthouse, for all its cost, was built at no increase in taxes to the people of Floyd county. The Floyd fiscal court and county officials wisely took advantage of federal aid and did not delay until the time when such help could be had was past.

MCCOY FORTUNE

An interesting bit of historical trivia, contributed by Quentin R. Howard, principal of Johns Creek high school, Pike county, is a clipping from the Williamson (W. Va.) Daily News, July 21, this year. It is titled, "Heirs Revising McCoy Fortune."

We reprint the article: "Several heirs of Mary Anne (McCoy) Warren, a sister of three McCoy brothers who went to California in the early days of the 'gold rush' and later left a $20 million fortune, came to Mingo county from their Ohio homes recently and were united with 'lost relatives.'"

"This reunion marked a happy occasion for the Ohioans, who have been searching for the McCoy fortune that created such a stir in this country in 1906 and 1907. So far the Ohio descendants have verified the fact that Ezekiel, Walter and William McCoy left Pike county, Kentucky, in the 'gold rush' days and later, unmarried, they died intestate and with the fortune waiting to be claimed by about 300 heirs. Just what happened to the fortune, or if it still exists, is one of the objects of the Ohio family's search for information."

"It was not until recently that the Ohio branch of the Mingo family learned of the Mingo county relatives. Their visit with Mr. and Mrs. James Varney, of Route 1, Pigeon Creek, proved most enjoyable and they left the Tug Valley area in high hopes of tracing family relationships in connection with the search for the amassed fortune of the McCoy brothers."

"As Mrs. Robert L. Warren, of West Portsmouth, Ohio, explained during the visit, "We are looking for more positive evidence of any type concerning the estate. Since the McCoy brothers left the big estate in California, this has been a part of the family's 'Story Lore' for so many years, we are hoping to find many things of interest in the Mingo area and to bring this story of our research out into the public once again."

"Mrs. Warren said that, up to now, the family had kept the matter rather quiet but, having found some 'lost relatives,' they are thrilled anew because it was the first time the Ohio branch of the family had ever learned of the Mingo branch. The relationship, she added, dates back to 1844 when Mary Anne McCoy wed the Rev. Andrew Jackson Warren, Sr."

"Mrs. Warren entered the family by marriage to Robert L. Warren. The two made the recent trip to Mingo county along with Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Hurley and Mr. and Mrs. Asa Layne, all of Scioto county, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Belleville, of Lawrence county, Ohio. "They identified Mrs. James Varney, of Pigeon Creek, as a daughter of James Dempsey, now 85 years of age, of Williamson, who is a nephew of old Ranold McCoy and a son of Nancy McCoy. Nancy McCoy was a daughter of Daniel McCoy, who was a brother of Walter, William and Ezekiel McCoy — the trio which amassed the large fortune."

"The Ohioans said they established the fact that they had relatives in Mingo county with the help of Williamson Postmaster Wallace J. Varney, who was sent a 1907 newspaper clipping concerning the McCoy fortune. "Mrs. Warren said she and others of the Ohio branch of the McCoy family have for several years, written dozens of letters of inquiry to public officials in California and elsewhere in efforts to track down information about the immense fortune which Walter, William and Ezekiel McCoy reportedly left. "Our letters were answered courteously but afforded little information and we have so far been unable to establish the relationship of Mary Anne McCoy Warren with the three California brothers."

"That is why we are appealing to residents in Mingo and Pike counties to contact me or others of the family in Ohio if they know of the estate or have documents, legal papers, etc., which might prove invaluable in aiding us in our search. Mrs. Warren stated, Her address is 227 Summit St., West Portsmouth, Ohio."

"According to newspaper stories in 1906, Walter, William and Ezekiel McCoy had died intestate some time before and left an immense fortune. In that year, it was reported that lawyers were buying many claims from some of the established 300 heirs. The McCoy estate was described as 'one of the greatest estates of the Golden West.'"

"High interest in the year 1906 was being manifested among heirs in Eastern Kentucky and West Virginia where the three McCoy's had lived before their trek west. It was stated in the newspapers that practically all of the heirs were members of the famous Kentucky family of McCoy's. Tales of fortunes quickly made in the California '49 gold rush had led Ezekiel, Will and Walter McCoy to sell their timber and take up their rifles as they headed for the gold field.

"From all information, the three McCoy brothers never married and upon their death left 19 million dollars in money and several large estates near Los Angeles in addition to ownership of large shipping interests."

"The famous 'Old Ranold' McCoy and his brother, 'Big Jim' and their sisters, Mrs. Zan Dempsey and a Mrs. Farley were said in 1906 to have been the nearest relatives of the men who made the vast fortune."

"This story of the fabulous McCoy brothers has so fascinated Mrs. Warren and her husband, and other descendants of Mary Anne McCoy Warren, that they are eager to continue their search now, not only because of the reported unclaimed fortune, but in the hope they will discover other relatives."

FLANARY, COLE, MONTGOMERY FAMILIES

An inquiry from Mrs. L. W. Ledgerwood, Jr., 5325 East 30th St., Tulsa 14, Oklahoma, to Mrs. Robert Martin, of Martin, and vice-president of the Floyd County Historical Society, is an inquiry on three Eastern Kentucky families.

It is excerpted here: "I am particularly interested in the Montgomery, Cole and Flanary families." Mrs. Ledgerwood writes, "I have written to the county clerks in both Morgan and Floyd counties but the information I have received is insufficient."

"She outlines the families' background and asks for additional data."

"1. Alexander Montgomery settled on Licking River, probably about 1798. He was from Russell county, Virginia. He died, age 86 years, in Morgan county."

"2. John Montgomery, probably son of Alexander, with wife Sarah Flanary, daughter of Silas and Violet Flanary, of Montgomery county, Virginia, seem to have settled in Floyd county. A 1927 volume of the Kentucky Historical Society Register lists marriages of Montgomery children who seem to be theirs, in Floyd county in the 1830's and 1840's.

"3. Sanders Montgomery, whom family tradition says was a sister of John Montgomery.

"4. Edith Montgomery, family tradition says was sister of John Montgomery, married John Cole.

"5. Isabel Montgomery. A family record lists her as a grandmother.

"6. John Cole. Said to have been killed by Indians soon after settling in Kentucky.

"7. William H. or Harrison Cole. My great-grandmother says this was her grandfather's name.

"8. James Cole, reported to be son of Harrison Cole, born in Virginia ca. 1812, married in Kentucky ca. 1833 to his cousin, Edith Jane Montgomery. First child was Miles Cole, born 1835 in Kentucky before the family moved to Arkansas.

"9. Edith Jane Montgomery, daughter of John Montgomery and Sarah Flanary Montgomery, married her cousin, James Cole ca. 1833. Moved to Arkansas."

Pasture for Sows Should Be Prepared Now, Advice Offered

Now is the best time to prepare fall and winter pasture for brood sows.

Balbo rye is the small grain that has proven to be most satisfactory, and should be seeded by September 15. Seed at rate of four bushels per acre for pasture. This will provide a heavy sod, and if allowed to get five to six inches high before animals are turned on, will carry six to 10 sows per acre.

Testing at University of Kentucky shows that a good pasture can reduce feed cost for sows by 50 percent. Not only is feed cost reduced, but sows also farrow larger litters of pigs, with better livability, than sows fed under dry lot conditions.

Plow your field now where strawberries are to be set next spring. Every year farmers have a difficult time getting the ground dry enough early in the spring to prepare for setting strawberries. This can easily be avoided by plowing in the fall.

Soil insecticides should also be applied in the fall after plowing.

FLOYD COUNTY

The first official act taken by the Floyd Fiscal Court when I took office less than three years ago was to pass an order to take all steps necessary to build a new courthouse. There were many who said it would never happen. But it has happened.

This new courthouse has been built without any extra cost to our taxpayers. Not a single tax bill will be raised because this courthouse is here.

This project represents the great progress Floyd county is making. It clearly shows that by hard work, cooperation and having faith in our county's future, we can look ahead to more progress and better days.

We owe to our great friend, Former Governor Bert T. Combs, Congressman Carl D. Perkins, B. F. Reed, H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., Burl Spurlock and the Floyd County Public Courthouse Corporation a debt of gratitude. These helped tremendously.

I am proud to have had a part in this project but I am more proud of our Floyd County officials who cooperated so well to make this project successful. They have all done a good job.

This courthouse belongs to the people of Floyd County. Help us to keep it clean so we can always be proud of it.

Sincerely,

when nearly complete it was occupied and used. Circuit court was held at the house of Joseph James and (Butler?) Jerome, June term, 1808, and at the house of John Turman, in Prestonsburg, Thursday, June 29, 1809, but the record reveals that court was held in the courthouse in Prestonsburg, September 25, 1809.

Evans didn't have the courthouse completed in May, 1814, for at a term of court then the following was entered on the official records: "A report of the situation of Floyd courthouse by William James Mayo and Daniel May is received in consideration whereof the court indulges Thomas Evans, the undertaker, until next court to complete it except glass, locks, bolts and hinges." Evans failed to comply by the November term, 1814, and the court ordered the "repairs," or completion as it should have been, cried off "agreeable to the report of Mayo and May made the 5th day of October, 1813, and repairs were to be finished by the February court next." The same day, Jonathan Mayo was directed to sue Evans and his sureties. The building was finally completed by Henry B. Mayo and accepted by the Floyd county court, in May, 1815. It had been under way nearly six years.

Since all the deed records had burned in April, 1808, it was necessary to resort to the provisions of an act of the legislature which relieved a comparable situation in Fayette county in 1803. There the courthouse had burned and the General Assembly had passed an act "for the relief of persons who may have been or may be, injured by the destruction of the records of any Court." This act enabled the clerk of the Floyd county court to rehabilitate the records and many of the first instruments inscribed upon the oldest deed book now extant refer to the 1803 act as the authority for recording again.

The second courthouse within a few years was found to be insufficient for the county's needs, and on November 17, 1818, the justices "Ordered that Peter Amy, Peter Akers, Richard R. Lee, John Moore and Mason Williams be appointed commissioners to draft a plan for a new brick courthouse and to fix on the place on the public square whereon it shall be erected." William James Mayo, Henry B. Mayo, and Richard R. Lee were appointed superintendents of construction and ordered to advertise for bidders in Floyd, Montgomery and Fleming counties. The court specified that the building be completed by the April term in 1820. The old building was ordered sold in February, 1819, but a reservation was made that certain parts be exempted and improvised for use until the new one was completed. Samuel May, brother-in-law of Thomas Evans, was given the building contract.

The courthouse constructed by Samuel May, originally contemplated to be 34 x 24 feet was afterwards changed to be 30 feet "square." Construction of brick manufactured at or near the scene, it was two stories, had part of the floor of brick also. Seven windows, each with 24 "lights" were on the lower floor, and four windows of 15 "lights" were in the upper floor. "Valued Venetian shutters" were hung outside these windows and painted green. The Magistrates directed the roof to be painted red, the outside doors, mahogany, with liberal designations of "yellow ochre" and white paint to be applied at certain other places. They demanded "the best materials to be had in this section of the country." The April term, 1820, was set as the date when it must be completed. Harry Stratton signed the November, 1818, court order that outlined the specifications. May didn't quite meet the deadline of April, 1820, and the court indulged him, as they had indulged Evans on the former building. However, by September, 1821, it was finished except for the clerk's table, and Peter Amyx and Thomas Johns accepted it for the court.

This courthouse served Floyd county for 70 years, although it was necessary to expend considerable sums for repairs through the decades. School was permitted in it in 1867, and in the following year Joseph M. Davidson and John Harkins were appointed to let out and superintend repairs. These were completed in 1870. Final repairs on the aged structure were made in 1884.

Discussion of a need for an entirely new building at another location began in the late 1890's and resulted in the acquisition of land from James M. Lackey, October 4, 1898, "lying on the south side of the middle cross street . . . containing one acre of land equal on each of its four sides and fronting on said street."

A stipulation in the deed for the new courthouse site provided "that it is a part of the consideration moving the execution of this deed that the new courthouse for Floyd county is to be erected upon this land, work to begin at once and prosecuted fast as possible until completed."

The stipulation Lackey had inserted in the deed being agreeable, work was initiated in 1899. Brick was "burned" nearby, and local materials wherever possible were procured. The building was completed and occupied in 1891. Final arrangements by the county fathers to provide the best in convenience for the general public attending to business at the new seat of justice was an order in 1890 to erect horse racks nearby.

The horse racks, being convenient for equestrian citizens, began to attract traders and others until the site, especially on the first days of court, became a "jockey ground," a term for the site of horse races and horse trading. Circuit Judge J. S. Patton, exasperated at the indecorum of the traders immediately in front of the courthouse, asked the grand jury to indict the offenders, charging that some of them were officious enough "to ride right up to the Pearly Gate itself and banter Saint Peter for a horse-swap." Patton's insistence on protection from the David Harums who were riding up to the courthouse steps resulted in the erection of a wooden fence in front of the building by the county in 1893. The traders, respecting the acid tongue and, what was more potent, the power of the circuit court, retreated to the steamboat landing at the foot of Court Street, maintaining a rendezvous there for a quarter of a century.

The 1890-1964 courthouse went through a few alterations and many repairs were effected in its three-quarter century history. An annex was built in the 1930's to serve the growing need of the official and administrative offices.

But the years exacted their toll. Twice the building was threatened by fire; the roof became a patchwork which yielded more and more to buffeting by rain and storm; the foundations sagged, floors slanted, walls cracked. Succeeding grand juries, recognizing the condition of the building and the threat of its collapse, recommended that a new structure take its place.

And so the fourth Floyd county courthouse joins its three predecessors, giving way to the fifth—a new, modern structure which, if there are enough years ahead, will also, some day, go the way of everything that is perishable.

WHITE FLOWER POTS

If you have clay flower pots that have turned white, toss them away. The whiteness is unused fertilizer and you can't remove it, according to USDA horticulturists. Putting a fresh plant into a white clay pot is like putting it into salty water—so always use fresh clay pots.

It was pointed out that, pursuant to the county's grant approval and contract with the federal government, complete audits of the entire project will be made by both the county and the federal government, and the county has already employed an auditor for this work. Upon final audit and U. S. approval, the last 10% of the grant money will be disbursed.

In addition to the $116,250 to be paid for the old courthouse site, the county, by acquiring another site for the new structure, was spared the cost of razing the old building and clearing the lot. Had the old site been used, the cost of renting space for county offices while construction was under way would have also been added to the county's expense.

Other club members receiving blue ribbons on their projects were Kenneth Gayheart, lawn improvement; Rhoda Gayheart, sewing; Joe Ousley, corn and swine; Delbert Martin, garden; Debbie Sammons, housekeeping; Fonzo Akers, strawberry.

FOUR PARKS TO BE OPEN

Jenny Wiley Among 3 Which Will Not Close During Coming Winter

Jenny Wiley State Park here will be one of four of Kentucky's resort-type parks which will be kept open all winter. Parks Commissioner Robert D. Bell announced last Thursday.

The other three are Kentucky Dam Village at Gilbertsville, Cumberland Falls near Corbin and General Butler at Carrollton. Jenny Wiley and Kentucky Dam Village remained open last winter. General Butler and Cumberland Falls closed January 2 as an economy move.

Other state parks are scheduled for closing November 2.

Of the four parks to remain open Bell said: "Based on past experience, these four parks have the greatest off-season demand, give us a good geographical distribution and are ideal as sites for the winter training schools which will be conducted this year for key personnel from all parks."

Kenlake near Murray, Rough River between Leitchfield and Hardinsburg, Pennyrile near Dawson Springs, Lake Cumberland near Jamestown, Natural Bridge at Shade, Carter Caves near Olive Hill, Buckhorn near Hazard, and Pine Mountain near Pineville, will close November 2.

This is the same length of season as last year for Carter Caves, Pine Mountain, Pennyrile and Natural Bridge. It is a shorter season than last for Kenlake, Rough River, and Lake Cumberland which were open until January 2. The Buckhorn Lodge is new this year.

Although the November 2 closing date is now planned, the season could be extended in any park which receives sufficient demand for accommodations, Bell said.

Fall reservations are heaviest at Jenny Wiley, Kentucky Dam Village, General Butler and Lake Cumberland where almost all week-end space is booked in September and October. Pennyrile has only about five percent bookings and rooms are available all week-ends. Other resort parks have some week-end space available.

All housekeeping cottages will be closed November 2, except those at Cumberland Falls, which will be closed October 16, and about five at Kentucky Dam Village, which will be open through the winter. The old dining room at Kentucky Dam Village and the old lodge at Natural Bridge will close September 8.

Bell's announcement included plans for these other facilities:

Tent and trailer camping areas—Close November 2.

Boat docks—open all winter. Food operations at docks—close November 2.

Golf courses—Open all winter. Pro shops, except at Kentucky Dam Village—close November 2.

Swimming pools, beaches, bathhouses—close September 8. Resort-type lodge pools—open as long as weather permits.

Palmouth Lake, Lake Malona, Columbus-Belmont Battleground, Big Bone Lick, and Cherokee—Close September 8, except picnic areas open through good weather.

Columbus-Belmont museum—Open by appointment only after Labor Day.

Boonesborough—Close entirely September 8 for added construction.

Greenbo Lake and General Burnside Island—Close November 2.

Audubon Museum—After December 1, open week-ends and by appointment on week-days.

Bell said several fall week-end promotions are being planned. One will be a "square dance vacation" October 19 through 24 at Cumberland Falls.

Last winter's January 2 closings by Bell were to curb a deficit which reached $1.5 million. The Legislature later made a deficiency appropriation of that amount.

Lexington, Ky.—Fed cattle prices probably will decline during this fall and winter, the UK Cooperative Extension Service agricultural economics department said this week in its bi-weekly business outlook letter.

TO THE PEOPLE OF FLOYD COUNTY ON THEIR NEW COURTHOUSE

I join with fellow Floyd county citizens in congratulation on the construction of one of Kentucky's finest courthouses. The new building is a matter of deep pride to me as it must be to you.

The old courthouse served the needs of Floyd county for three-quarters of a century. I am proud of my tenure as an official in the old building as many of our past officials must be. However, we are justly proud of the new structure and trust that it will serve for many years to come.

Sincerely,
